HIGHWAY 36 MEET NETS PERMANENT BODY

Retiring Judge Gives Highway Information On State Aid to 9 Cos.

Judge Robert W. Brown in a press release to local and Hamilton papers gives statistics from the State Highway Department showing the total expenditure, per capita expenditure and population of the nine counties in this section, which shows how little has been spent in these two counties, Coryell and Hamilton, when compared to that of the other adjoining counties.

Judge Brown has been an ardent supporter of good highways in this section and particularly in Coryell county, and even tho he has worked consistently, little actual construction has been made, and this is certainly no fault of his.

We present in full, Judge Brown's letter:

I have known for some time that Coryell County had not received a proportionate share of Highway work. However, such statements should not be made without ample authority to support them.

A few days ago I obtained from the Highway Department a statement of all funds for construction spent in the eight counties in Division No. 9 including active projects on June 1st, 1935.

This information discloses the following facts:

- Bell county, population 50,030; expenditure $1,429,495.32; per capita expenditure $28.57.
- Bosque, population 15,750; expenditure $278,926.67; per capita expenditure $17.70.
- Coryell county, population 19,999; expenditure $131,155.17; per capita expenditure $6.55.
- Falls county, population 38,771; expenditure $1,155,318.73; per capita expenditure $29.79.
- Hamilton county, population 15,523; expenditure $99,435.56; per capita expenditure $6.40.
- Hill county, population 43,036; expenditure $1,933,046.32; per capita expenditure $44.94.
- Limestone county, population 39,497; expenditure $2,122,251.70; per capita expenditure $53.73.
- McLennan county, population 98,692; expenditure $4,563,740.52; per capita expenditure $46.24.

Austin Doolittle Rodeo Opens at The Grove Today, Two O'clock

Billed—and is, the swellest little rodeo in Texas outside the Fort Worth Stock Show, Austin Doolittle, opens his western extravaganza this afternoon at 2:00 p. m., also at this same time tomorrow afternoon at The Grove, with skilled artists of the leather, calf roping and everything that goes to make a western show.

In talking to Mr. Doolittle, he says, "When the riders are ready and the gate is opened, I caution my riders to ride and not whoop and holler. People come to my show to see riding and not to hear a Comanche yell." The program will furnish thrills, and fun, and there is a "mystery" feature promised.

Stands are erected on each side of the arena, one side covered, and the other bleachers. Pens are built so as to have a continuous show for the patrons, and if the show compares at all with that of last year, patrons of this rodeo are positively assured of some real western atmosphere, by one who knows the game from A to Z. Personally, we'll see you at The Grove Friday P. M.

10 of 13 Counties Have Delegates Here at Representative Meeting

Delegates of 10 of the 13 counties located on the Proposed Highway 36, met in Gatesville yesterday and completed the permanent organization of the Association of Highway 36, electing Judge P. M. Price of Comanche as president, and Leland Aton of Hamilton as Secretary-Treasurer.

Other officers elected included H. G. Wombel of Caldwell, Vice-President, and G. C. King, Secretary of the Vice-president, thus linking up the whole highway and having officials at both ends of the line.

Before the election of officers the association in general assembly voted to elect one director from each county, giving the association 13 directors. Counties not represented were to elect their director by a service club or the local Chambers of Commerce. The counties represented elected their directors, and they voted to allot for defraying of expenses of the association $25.00 to $50.00 to each county, depending on how much of the proposed highway crossed the county. This motion was presented to the body and adopted.

Judge Robert Brown of Gatesville was elected as the director for Coryell county, with C. E. Alvis, Sr., as alternate.

Reports were made both by counties and by the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Temple as to the progress on the highway in the different counties, and Temple furnished a complete map of the highway from Abilene to Freeport. In several southern counties, the work has been completed, but most of the counties above Temple there is practically no pavement.

C. E. Toby of Freeport, Brazoria county made a very interesting talk, and told the association the way to get the job done was to go to work. Fifty-seven miles of pavement have been completed some years in Brazoria county.

A representative of the District Office of the Public Works Administration of Waco, explained how government aid could be secured thru that office with the use of relief labor.

Judge Robert Brown in his address of welcome extended the visitors a hearty welcome, and stated that they should feel at home in Gatesville now, and from here on out.

Responding, F. A. Thomson of Temple, stated that since this was formerly his home town, he became confused even tho living in Temple and very often referred to Gatesville as his home, and could deeply appreciate the welcome extended to the visitors.

We present herewith, part resolution unanimously passed by the association in an attempt to thwart the attempt of different interests to divert the road from Gatesville to Waco.

Resolution No. 1, Gatesville, Texas, July 25, 1935.

State of Texas, Austin, Texas. Greetings:

"It has come to our attention that an effort has been made to cancel Highway 36 from Gatesville to Temple, or the Bell county line.

"Due to the importance of this highway as a Southeast and Northwest connection serving the state of Texas and traversing a territory very badly in need of Highway outlets, we believe that this highway should be completed as soon as possible. Now be it resolved:

"That we the members of Highway 36 Association in session on this day at Gatesville, Texas, urge that the Highway Commission be requested not to abandon the purpose of completing this highway and that work be pushed just as fast as possible to a successful termination, and

"Be it further resolved that we express to the State Highway Department our appreciation for the progress made thus far on all sections of No. 36, and

"Be it further resolved that we offer to the State Highway Commission our full co-operation in pushing work on this highway.

Respectfully submitted."

DR. W. B. BAGBY OF BRAZIL SPEAKER AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Dr. W. B. Bagby, called the greatest statesman of Brazil, and former Coryell county boy, is to be the speaker at the First Baptist Church Sunday evening, according to Rev. C. A. Morton, pastor.

Dr. Bagby was born at Eagle Springs, in the southern part of the county, received his education at Baylor University at Waco, and for the past fifty years has been a Missionary in Brazil.

Brother Morton states that Dr. Bagby was the first Missionary to Brazil over fifty years ago when there were very few Baptist in Texas and over a million now. Dr. Bagby is on his farewell visit to the U. S. and is coming to his home-Coryell county and Gatesville for a farewell visit prior to his return to South America.

FEED 'EM AND SELL 'EM

Texans, with the enormous feed crop that seems inevitable this year should NOT be wondering what they are going to do with it. If it's thrown on the market, the market will become gorged, and the price will be nothing—Whereby, hangs a tail.

This "tail" should surely be on hogs, cattle, sheep and other animals grown on Texas farms, which can be fed with the surplus feed crops of this year, and the abundant pastures which we have.

For many years Texas has been sending about a million head of range-raised calves and yearlings to the corn belt every year to make a market for the corn belt farmers' feed and to put the fertility back on corn belt farms. Also, a million or more lambs went to the feed lots of those states. Beginning in 1928, a concerted effort was made by the Breeder-Feeder Association to encourage the feeding of as many of the Texas raised calves, yearlings and lambs as possible on Texas raised feeds. Since that time it has been definitely proved that Texas farmers can feed Texas cattle and lambs to as good finish on Texas grown feeds as they can be finished anywhere.

During the past two years, there has been practically no feed in this section, but now, after the barns are full, and some is sold for money, which most of us need so sorely, why not HOLD part of the surplus and stuff these farm animals for the markets, instead of letting the corn belt get the benefits of our cattle, lambs etc., and also add fertility to their lands, as well as holding up the price of their corn. We venture to say that the local farmers could stand some increase in prices of feed stuffs, as well as increased fertility of their lands, and too, for their fat cattle and sheep, reap the benefits of a BUMPER feed crop, even tho the price may be forced down by the surplus.

This reasoning is not at all local, but state wide, since Farm and Ranch, and F. P. Holland, Jr., president of the Breeder-Feeder Association, and H. H. Williamson, Director of the Extension Service, A. and M. College and representatives of a number of other organizations are urging this idea of utilizing the surplus, insofar as possible in the fattening of cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry.

We ask you, readers, to think this over, and by stuffing your farm animals, you may be able to further stuff your pockets with that good old "U. S. Silk" that exchanges for anything, and will take you places and buy you things.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

State papers are raising quite a furor about a graduate school. Seemingly, this does not effect us in one way or another. However, some of our students go to graduate schools, and like the dailys, we see no reason why they should go to the effete east, north or anywhere else for graduate work—if it could be had in Texas.

The University of Texas has a graduate school, and with the physical equipment and money this school has, we see no good reason why it should not have better recognition, except for the fact that habit, prestige and general educational ideas have made eastern and northern schools more selected and more in demand for graduate work. This "prestige" business has lots to do with where the graduate goes for graduate work. Also, faculties have a lot to do with it, but the faculties can be obtained with money, and the "prestige" must be built up by years of patronage, and some good advertising by research and by word of mouth.

Certainly, this is a commendable idea, and one which should be followed up—that of a Graduate School, at least somewhere in Texas that will compare favorably with those mentioned above.

AMENDMENT BILL PASSED.
SELASSIE CELEBRATES.
MEXICAN UPRISING.
PEARSON OUT.
NAVAL RATIO.

THE SENATE has finally passed the AAA amendment bill after whacking, cutting and replastering the bill for several weeks. The final vote was 64 to 15. Senator Connally voted for the bill; the way Senator Sheppard voted was not indicated officially.

The bill had two main purposes—to arm the Secretary of Agriculture with new weapons to push farm prices up to a parity with prices of other commodities, either by the processing tax method or through marketing and crop control agreements; and, secondly, to prepare for the time when the Supreme Court will pass on the validity of the AAA program.

In an effort to prevent an upset by an adverse Supreme Court ruling in the future, the amendment bill validated all processing taxes heretofore imposed and ratified them at their present levels. All suits against the Government for recovery of processing taxes paid in the past were outlawed, unless the processor proves he has not shouldered them off upon the consumer or producer.

ETHIOPIA'S EMPEROR, Haile Selassie I, celebrated his forty-fourth birthday this week, with a regal celebration attended by the entire diplomatic corps, with the exception of the Italian Ambassador, in his mountain-surrounded capital of Addis Ababa.

Perhaps Haile Selassie had reason to celebrate. From a thousand villages and mountainous retreats, sturdy warriors are flocking to Addis Ababa in expectation of an early war with the hated Italians.

The Italian minister to Ethiopia refused to attend the diplomatic reception but the emperor had a merry time of it after all.

In London, the Cabinet advised British missionaries in Ethiopia to leave the country. It was announced also that the Government would permit the exportation of arms to Ethiopia—good news to the Africans as all European countries have placed embargoes upon shipments to the African kingdom out of respect to Premier Mussolini.

A STATE-WIDE uprising in peasants in Tamaulipas province, Mexico, forced the resignation of Gov. Rafael Villarreal Tuesday and other State officials. The Government of President Lazaro Cardenas is said to be backing the revolt, ousting the Governor because of his pro-Calles sympathies. Calles was recently ousted as proxy-President and leader of the dominant National Revolutionary party by his former protege, Cardenas.

About 20,000 peasants allegedly surrounded Villarreal's palace and forced him to resign.

The control of Thomas Carrido Canubal, former Secretary of Agriculture, is expected to be broken over the State of Tamasco as a result of the revolt in the neighboring state. Canubal is also a friend of ex-

President Calles.

Following an investigation of his rule in the Virgin Islands as Governor, Gov. Paul M. Pearson was removed and replaced by Lieutenant-Governor L. M. Cramer of New York. Pearson was transferred to the housing administration in Washington and Federal Judge T. Webber Wilson, who was also charged in the Senate-conducted investigation with misconduct, was transferred to the Federal Board of Parole.

Thus end an investigation that threatened to end all civil rule in the Virgin Islands. If further disclosures has been made, it was expected that the islands would be returned to the control of the navy.

GREAT BRITAIN is definitely abandoning the 5-5-3 naval ratio reached in conjunction with the United States, Japan, France and Italy at Washington in 1933, preferring to achieve naval limitation by bilateral agreements, such as the recent 100-35 naval ratio agreement reached with Germany.

Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, 1st Lord of the Admiralty, told the British parliament: "The new system will be based on a series of naval programs which by agreement will accommodate the various naval strengths in such a way as to provide adequate navies and eliminate the offensive type if possible."

This means that the Japanese will be free to build to the sky if they do not wish to conclude agreements with the U. S. and Britain. "We had to give up the idea of ratios for the future," Eyres-Monsell said, "because some countries felt it was a wounding of their national pride to accept permanent inferiority to other countries." This means the British are abandoning the naval limitation treaty for the sole purpose of placating the Japanese, hoping that, if a naval race results, it will be between Uncle Sam and the Rising Sun with John Bull a casual observer.

Life at West Point

By CADET BRYAN ARNOLD

ENTRANCE DAY AT WEST POINT

"Halt, Mr. Dumbguard! Drop that suitcase! Pick it up! Drop it! Now, who are you and where are you from?"

"My name is Johnson from Virginia."

"Oh! No, Mr. Doowilly, you are new Cadet Johnson from now on, and say 'Sir' when you speak to an upper classman. Understand?"

In a manner such as the foregoing every candidate for West Point is received into the institution which for the next four years is to be his home. For over a hundred years the "plebes," as the new cadets are called, have been subjected on their entrance to the most rigid discipline administered by the upper classmen. The first thing, after the conservation above, that a plebe learns is the art of standing up straight. A Third-Classman, or "Yearling," usually has to demonstrate the process to the new cadet at first; but after the first lesson a plebe knows what to do when he hears the gruff command, "Move those shoulders back! Pull your chin in! Stretch up from the waist! Stand up hard, Mr. Ducrot!"

Hardly has the lesson in "bracing" been learned before some upper classman demands, "Have you made three trips to the Cadet Store and a trip to the Barber Shop?"

"No, Sir!"

"Well, speed out to the Cadet Store now. Run! Step out, Mister! Speed!"

Thus the plebe tears out across the area of barracks to the Cadet Store to draw his first issue of clothes and equipment. Two more trips are necessary before the new plebes are ready to start arranging their rooms. Each one must also get a hair cut before he can start his cadet training in earnest.

These errands complete the plebes fall in to draw a gray shirt and pair of gray trousers. This suit is their first uniform and is the one they will wear most of the time during their first two months' training.

Within an hour after their entrance the plebes find themselves in the area of barracks learning how to drill. In a surprisingly short time they can do the facings and the squad movements. After what seems an eternity dinner arrives. Their first meal as cadets! Disappointment, however, is the lot of those who expect a restful meal, for at the tables the plebes must maintain a rigid posture and observe punctiliously the table customs imposed on Fourth Classmen. For instance, they are forbidden to talk, they cannot gaze away from the table, they must see that the upper classman is served first and they must not eat if the upper classman who is seated at their table, orders them not to.

After dinner, the plebes run back to their room and begin to mark their name on their clothes with indelible ink. Every article must have a name on it. In the middle of this work a bell rings, and the plebes are brought down stairs by a yearling's bellowing, "You plebes start turning out!" Then follows another drill period. Drilling and work on equipment continue until 5:30 p. m. when the plebes, wearing their gray shirts and trousers and one white glove on the left hand and carrying the right glove in the left hand, are formed to take the oath of allegiance. The rest of the Corps, clad in white, forms in parade line across the "plains". Today they will get their first glimpse of the new plebes! Then, in column of squads, the plebes, many of them for the first time in their lives, march out and form a hollow square in front of the Corps. With right hand uplifted, they then promise to obey their superior officers and pledge allegiance to the Constitution of the United States. The oath completed, they march back to barracks and leave the remainder of the Corps to finish the parade.

Back in barracks, they begin to shine their shoes and brush their clothes for supper formation. After supper the plebes sign before a notary public an engagement to serve in the Army of the United States for four years after graduation unless sooner discharged by proper authority. This formality completed, the plebes go back to their rooms and continue to work on their equipment. Finally, comes Taps at 9:30. As the peaceful tones of the bugle die away, the plebes thank whatever Gods may be that the first day is finished.

News Fashion Suggestion

Simplified clothes characterized by wearability, interesting fabrics and colors are given an important place in summer fashions. Suits, one and two-piece dresses in plain or printed fabrics, and ensemble are destined to get in their best work within the next few weeks. Anything goes, providing color and line adhere to the crisp, fresh qualities so evident in summer 1935 fashions.

The suit vogue goes on apace, and sheers, taffetas, very light-weight tweeds, novelty cottons and linens are exploited. Variations of the shirtwaist type of dress continue to be the favored choice for spectator sports, resort and town wear. The skirt with fullness at front, and the gored skirt are given importance. The twelve-gored skirt is a smart choice for active sportswear. Dresses generally are simple.

Coach Earle Worley will leave this week end for Dallas where he will be in attendance at the State Coaching Association. This young organization with Coach P. E. Shotwell of Longview, formerly of Breckenridge, as President is progressing rapidly, being composed mostly of young high school coaches.

Worley will be in Dallas all next week and will be under some very outstanding instructors such as Tad Wieman, line coach at Princeton, Cox of Tulane, Littlefield of the University of Texas, Roy Henderson of Austin and others.

The school will climax Saturday night, August 3, when two all-star football teams play. The men were picked from senior high school students from over the state. Wieman will coach one team and Cox will instruct the other. The players will be used all next week to demonstrate with.

In a chat with Worley we gathered that he was much in favor of the school, which will be of some help to him as well as many other coaches from over the state.

Canned Foods Met All Tests

Proved Lifesavers on Voyage Around the World

HOW the crew of the "Seth Parker" fared on an exclusive diet of canned foods for more than seven weeks, and ate them all around the world to Samoa, has been vividly told by Captain Constantin Flink, the ship's navigating officer. The "Seth Parker" is the famous four-master which sailed last year under the command of Phillips Lord who created the radio character after which it was named.

The ship's voyage took it through the furnace heat of the equator and the freezing cold of the North Atlantic in mid-winter, but the canned foods it carried stood up through all changes of temperature and proved lifesavers throughout the trip.

Seven Weeks Without Fresh Food

"We expected," said Flink, who has been on sailing ships for over thirty years, "to sail the seven hundred miles from Panama to the Galapagos Islands in about a week, but like the Ancient Mariner, we were becalmed in the doldrums, and it was well into the ninth week before we reached the islands. After the first two weeks out of Panama all of our fresh food was exhausted, and we had to rely exclusively on our canned supplies.

"Fortunately we had brought along some canned loganberry juice and canned tomato juice. There was never a sign among our crew of that dread scourge of the seas, scurvy, which was so prevalent in the old days of sailing vessels that British ships were called 'lime juicers' because they were required by law to serve lime juice to the crew to ward off this disease.

"But even if we had not had the loganberry and tomato juice, we would not have feared scurvy, as we had a plentiful supply of canned spinach, beans, carrots, peas and other vegetables which are equally good preventatives. We also had such meats as canned corned beef and frankfurters, and such fish as canned clam chowder and codfish cakes. These latter foods were luxuries because you can't catch fish at sea, you know, except once in a long while a stray dolphin.

And Then Mostly Canned Foods

"At the Galapagos Islands we caught a big haul—two tons—of fresh fish, but we couldn't get much there in the way of green vegetables or fresh fruit. We got a large supply of wild lemons, but that was all in the way of fruit, and for fresh meat we killed two wild bulls.

"It really wasn't until we reached the Marquesas about a month later that we could get a plentiful supply of fresh foods, so for nearly three months the chief part of our diet consisted of canned foods. And we all kept healthy and liked it. We had some things which are not usually canned put up in tins to preserve them at sea through all the varying temperatures. Stewed wheat, for instance. And we had powdered milk and malted milk as well as evaporated milk.

"As a matter of fact, we subsisted largely on canned foods during the entire voyage."

VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE AND RELATED SUBJECTS

By W. E. LASSETER
Instructor in Vocational Agriculture, G. H. S.

DUTIES OF V. A. TEACHER

Do you know what a vocational agriculture teacher must do in order to "get the job done" in the community he works? Must a vocational agriculture teacher do more than merely teach in the classroom? Is the day's work over when the bell rings at four o'clock in the afternoon? Just what does a vocational agriculture teacher do anyways?

Space will not permit us to mention all the things that a teacher of vocational agriculture must, or should do, in order to get the job done in his community. Teaching classes in the all-day school in the high school is only a part of the teacher's program. In addition to the all-day classes in the high school, each teacher of vocational agriculture in Texas is expected to conduct at least three evening school classes for adult farmers, or two evening school classes and one part-time for boys between the ages of 18 and 25 years who are not in school. These classes are usually held at night and run for periods of 12 to 15 weeks. Then the teacher is expected to visit the evening school members frequently to assist them in adopting improved practices taught in the evening schools.

The teacher of vocational agriculture must assist those charged with the responsibility of putting over the AAA and other governmental programs by teaching evening school lessons on the program, holding other educational programs, and rendering any other service possible.

It is the duty of the vocational teacher to lead the boys in his classes to adopt supervised practice program based on those home farm enterprises in which improved practices should be adopted. In order to do this and to assist the boys in carrying out their programs, the teacher must visit them frequently. This of course must be done after regular school hours.

As part of a community betterment program, the vocational agriculture teacher must sponsor a soil and water conservation program through terracing, strip cropping, crop rotation and other means applicable to the community. He must also sponsor livestock and poultry work in his community by introducing purebred livestock and standard bred poultry; doing herd improvement testing under the dairy breed association plan; and by culling out low producers and poor individuals.

Seed improvement is a part of the agricultural program of the community. The agriculture teacher sponsors this program by having his pupils produce a home supply of good seed; by teaching selection of varieties to evening school and all-day classes; by assisting in securing good seed for the community; and in other ways.

It is the job of the vocational agriculture teacher to do this work in such a manner that the vocational agriculture department will become a permanent fixture in his school system. The agriculture teacher is expected to put across an effective program in Vocational Agriculture. It is the instructor's job to place agriculture on a high plane in the community and to give practical information that will meet the local needs.

It is not a part of the vocational agriculture teacher's job to tell a farmer he must do this or he must do that. It is not a part of his job to revolutionize the farming system of a community. It is not a part of his job to promote radical changes not in keeping with sound farming practices. It is his job to supply information that will enable one to reach a sound decision based upon reliable information.

It is hoped by the writer to who read this article. We would like to visit your place. We would like to know about your farm problems, and we will consider it a privilege to assist you in any way that we can. Our phone number is 307.

Proposed Constitutional Amendments

Concise Explanation Given out by Secretary of State, Gerald C. Mann.

SUBMISSION OF AMENDMENTS AT SPECIAL SESSIONS OF LEGISLATURE

At present the Legislature can submit proposed changes in the Constitution only at regular sessions—held every 2 years.

Proposal Number four on the ballot for the August 24th election would revise the Constitution to permit the submission of amendments at special session. It is pointed out that in emergency cases, particularly on relief matters, that it might be necessary for Texas voters to vote on an emergency measure at a time, when the regular session of the Legislature is quite far distant in the future.

The original purpose of the provision which makes submission possible only at regular sessions was to make the fundamental law hard to amend and change. Two schools of thought are at variance here. The one believing that the Constitution should be easy to change—particularly in emergency cases, and the other that every safeguard should be placed around it to make it difficult to change.

If the proposed amendment is adopted the legislature in any special session can submit proposed amendment to the voters—provided such amendments are submitted by the Governor for the Legislature's consideration. If the amendment is rejected the present system will obtain; that is, constitutional amendments can be submitted to the people only at the regular sessions of the legislature.

The 44th Legislature submitted thirteen amendments to the voters—seven in August of this year and six in November of 1936. These were all submitted during the regular session. Under the proposed change the 44th might yet submit additional amendments for the voters' consideration.

---AND SUDDEN DEATH

Something to bring home to you—YES YOU—the danger of "vicious" driving. Here are a few excerpts from Reader's Digest, printed with their permission, giving you untold scenes from told accidents, such as the headlines are proclaiming. Statistics won't get the job done, but let's hope these are gruesome enough to have some effect.—THE EDITORS.

Publicizing the total of motor injuries—almost 1,000,000 last year, with 36,000 deaths—never gets to first base in jarring the motorist into a realization of the appalling risks of motoring, declares F. C. Furnas.

He then proceeds to translate dry statistics into what he terms "a reality of blood and agony," as follows:

Figures exclude the pain and horror of savage mutilation—which means they leave out the point. They need to be brought closer home. A passing look at a bad smash or the news that a fellow you had lunch with last week is in a hospital with a broken back will make any driver but a born fool slow down at least temporarily. But what is needed is a vivid and sustained realization that every time you step on the throttle, death gets in beside you, hopefully waiting for his chance. That single horrible accident you may have witnessed is no isolated horror. That sort of thing happens every hour of the day, everywhere in the United States. If you really felt that, perhaps the stickful of type in Monday's paper recording that a total of 29 local citizens were killed in week-end crashes would rate something more than a perfunctory tut-tut as you turn back to the sports page.

An enterprising judge now and again sentences reckless drivers to tour the accident end of a city morgue. But even a mangled body on a slab, waxily portraying the consequences of bad motoring judgment, isn't a patch on the scene of the accident itself. No artist working on a safety poster would dare depict that in full detail.

That picture would have to include motion-picture and sound effects, too—the flopping, pointless efforts of the injured to stand up; the queer, grunting noises; the steady, panting groaning of a human being with pain creeping up on him as the shock wears off. It should portray the slack expression on the face of a man, drugged with shock, staring at the Z-twist in his broken leg, the insane crumpled effect of a child's body after its bones are crushed inward, a realistic portrait of an hysterical woman with her screaming mouth opening a hole in the bloody drip that fills her eyes and runs off her chin. Minor details would include the raw ends of bones protruding through flesh in compound fractures, and the dark red, oozing surfaces where clothes and skin were flayed off at once.

Those are all standard, every-day sequels to the modern passion for going places in a hurry and taking a chance or two by the way.

Water proof wall paper that can be washed with soap and water is reported by interior decorators to be boosting sales of this material. Advantages of a washable wall covering are obvious for the bathroom, kitchen and playroom. But motion picture theatres have discovered its value for lobbies, hallways and rest rooms; while churches also find it suitable—especially for their social parlors. Use of this type of wall paper is not confined, however, to places where washability is a prime consideration. It is available in many attractive patterns, and its long life makes its purchase an economical investment for general uses in the home, theatre, church and elsewhere. Call or visit Cameron Lumber Co. for all kinds of wall paper.

"FESTIVAL WEEK" STARTS AUG. 1ST. AT PALACE THEATER

The Palace announces "Festival Week," starting August 1st through 9th.

Festival Week opens with George Raft starring in "The Glass Key," a story by Doshell Hamanett who wrote "The Thin Man," voted one of the 10 best pictures of 1934-35.

For the second attraction, "Mrs. Wiggs of The Cabbage Patch" is being featured for Saturday only. This is a return engagement.

The third attraction co-stars Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery in "No More Ladies." If you saw "Forsaking All Others," you may know what to expect of the pair.

For one day only, "Naughty Marietta" is to be shown in response to so many requests. Jeanett MacDonald and Nelson Eddy are co-starred in this great picture which won the "Blue Ribbon" award for the best picture of the month in which it was released.

The final attraction of Festival Week will be "Our Little Girl" with the most popular and lovable child star ever to grace the motion picture screen—the incomparable Shirley Temple.

Mr. Cunyus believes this to be the most outstanding program ever to be presented in nine days, and says he will gladly guarantee every picture in this group to delight all theater-goers.

Educational Program on Feed Conservation and Utilization Under Way

College Station—In direct contrast with last year's food and feed shortage, a record feed crop will be harvested this season throughout Texas that will give an eighteen months' supply if conserved. H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas Extension Service, predicted last week.

In view of unusual food and feed crops this year, Williamson announced a ninety-day state-wide educational program to emphasize to Texas farmers the importance and methods of harvesting, storing and utilizing this season's food and feed crop.

In announcing the eight point feed conservation and utilization program, Williamson said that, along with the Extension forces, the Texas Experiment Station, the A. and M. College teaching staff, various farm and commercial organizations, newspapers and farm magazines will all cooperate in this movement to prevent wastage of the extra food and feed crops.

The eight points as outlined by the Extension director are as follows: to dig trench silos or build up ground silos for storage of feed; to repair barns, bins, and storage places for the harvested grains, orchard and field crops for home consumption; to use the best practical means of protecting stored grain and field crops from weevil and rat damage; to stack hay in the best known methods to prevent deterioration; to increase the number of milk cows, hogs and poultry for home use; to offer for slaughter only well fed and finished animals; to finish all Texas cattle and other livestock for market on Texas grown feed; and to feed work stock and breeding animals well during the winter months.

Six Thousand Dollars Received on County New Cotton Contracts

The county agent received for distribution yesterday five thousand nine hundred seventy eight dollars and forty cents, in four hundred thirty three checks, which represents about four hundred new contracts of which there are a total of five hundred fifty seven for this year.

These new contracts were only sent to College Station three weeks ago, therefore it is thought that this is a very good record in time in receiving these checks. Only about one hundred checks remain out for the first 1935 rental payment for old cotton contracts and about one hundred seventy five checks on the new contracts.

Cotton Measuring

Committeemen are about one third through measuring cotton. Many farmers are away from home when the committeemen call thus making a second trip necessary and a delay in certification of Compliance, thereby delaying the second rental check. It is suggested that farmers be alert to help the committeemen measure cotton and rented acres and try to be at home if he can ascertain when the committeemen are in his immediate neighborhood.

Extra Large Feed Crop Saved

It is thought that in contrast to the shortage of feed last year and an abundant supply this year that much feed might be wasted. With shortage of barns it is suggested that the use of trench silos might be a very economical method by which to save such an enormous feed crop. It has been definitely demonstrated that trench silos are successful in keeping corn, hegari, etc. in a good state of preservation and that the feed will not only be saved for as long as three or four years if need be but will be in a more digestible and palatable stage after being put in a trench silo under proper conditions.

The cost of digging these silos is very negligible when the worth of the feed is considered. The trench silo should be placed in a well drained hill side, should be seven or eight feet wide at the top and five to six feet wide at the bottom and as long as the farmer wishes according to the amount of silage. It is not necessary that an ensilage cutter be used if the loose stalks of corn or cane are placed uniformly and packed with plenty of water and all of the butts in the same direction. Some of the men who have successfully used trench silo in Coryell county are W. T. Peryman, B. B. Jones on the Kendrick farm, W. J. Neutzler of Arnett, C. L. Thetford of Purmela, M. C. Bigham of Browns' Creek and J. R. Dickie of near Gatesville. These men will be glad to discuss the trench silo with anyone interested and the county agent will be glad to secure any further information the farmers may desire.
