John Barr Sentenced to 99 Years in District Court on Mayhugh Case

John Barr, Coryell County farmer, indicted for the murder of John Mayhugh January 3, 1933, was found guilty by a jury in Fifty-fourth District Court in Waco Wednesday night and his punishment fixed at 99 years in the penitentiary. The jury was reported shortly before 9 o'clock, the case having been submitted late in the afternoon.

Argument began at mid-afternoon, after brief testimony during the morning and some hours spent in preparing the charge to the jury.

The case was taken to Waco from Gatesville after three trials had failed to result in any definite conclusion, two sentences being reversed, and a third jury failing to agree.

The state maintained that Barr hit Mayhugh with an oak-wagon standard in an argument over right-of-way through Mayhugh's land. Barr maintained that Mayhugh lost his balance and fell from the seat of his wagon, fracturing his skull.

Barr testified that as he stood by Mayhugh's wagon January 3, 1933, "kidding" him about a hole Mayhugh had dug in the road to prevent Barr driving through Mayhugh's pasture, that Mayhugh jumped from the wagon seat, lost his footing, fell into the back of the wagon, and rolled off to the ground. The defendant said he had just asked Mayhugh what he dug the hole for. "Are you looking for money or sinking a well?" he said he asked.

Buddy Taylor, a state witness had testified that he saw Barr take the wagon standard and hit Mayhugh twice with it. Trigger Upchurch, testifying for the defense, said Taylor had told a different story immediately after the killing, the version then corresponding to that given by Barr and Barr's son, Everett, who was 15 when he saw the fatal affair.

APRIL NORTHERS NOT UNCOMMON

Records of 20 Aprils in this vicinity show two freezes before this year and 10 months when the mercury fell below 40. The average April temperature is between 65 and 70, counting days when the mercury climbs to 96 as it did in 1925, or 92 this year, according to Dr. Stanley Block, Waco meteorologist.

GATESVILLE BEAUTICIAN WINS AWARD IN DALLAS SHOW

Harry Benson, co-operator of Bensons' Beauty Shop, won the International Prize in Permanent Waving for 1936, in the Great Southwestern International Beauty Trade Show and Exhibition in Dallas, which was held this week.

Mr. Benson is distinguished due to the fact that he was the only prize winner from a small town. Judgement was the length of time taken, and the work done to the subject's hair. Beauty operators from all over the southwest, some 5,000 of them were present, according to reports.

LIONS VISIT WACO LIONS DEN WITH CELEBS IN PALM GROVE

Gatesville Lions joined others from Waco, Cleburne, Clifton, Ennis, Hillsboro, Hubbard, Marline, Mart, Temple, Waxahachie and Witney in the District 2X meeting in Waco Wednesday night.

Included in the festivities was the regular reports from the different clubs, welcoming address from Lion Pfaeffle, Waco. W. L. Blane, group secretary, was toastmaster and introduced Garland R. Farmer, of Henderson, who gave a report on the District as a whole, inviting all Lions to the convention at Mexia, May 13, 14, when Secretary-General Melvin Jones of Chicago will be present.

Entertainment was presented by Elmer Wheatly School of dancing and included a tap routine by a chorus, song and dance number, a rhythm tap, a high kick number and a stair-dance. Dancing followed the program.

Those who attended from Gatesville were Judge and Mrs. Floyd Zeigler, Mr. and Mrs. George Painter, Mr. and Mrs. Olin Sydow, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Holt, Mr. and Mrs. John Morgan, Bill Ament and Miss Katharine Carroll.

Guy Powell, County Agent, has a letter from County Agent E. R. Lawrence of Bosque County, inviting farmers and stockmen to Cranfills Gap Wool and Mohair Association Rm and Billy Sale, Saturday, April the 25.

One feature of the sale will be a discussion of Trench Silos by Mr. Eudaly at 2:30 p. m. the 25th. County Agent Powell urges all who possibly can to attend this sale.

TRUSSELL PROVES JOKESTER AS WELL AS SINGER AT LIONS' LUNCH

Singer Joe Trussell, leading the gospel singing at the revival at the First Baptist Church here, bowling over approximately 25 Lions at their regular Wednesday luncheon with his singing.

Mr. Trussell interspersing his songs with jokes and quips, sang "On the Road to Mandelley," and one sacred number.

Other visitors were Rev. C. A. Morton, Miss Ola Mae Parks and Dr. M. W. Lowrey.

Baptist Revival Will Continue Next Week; Trussell Sings Also

The revival meeting now in progress at the First Baptist Church of this city is growing in interest and crowds, according to the pastor, Rev. C. A. Morton.

Morning services are held from 10 to 11, and are largely attended. Each evening at 7:00 gospel singer Joe Trussell speaks to the Christian Workers.

Night services begin at 7:30 in the evening, at which time the great crowds enjoy an old time gospel song service. The pastor is speaking each night from John 3:16.

As a special number, Joe Trussell will sing "The Holy City."

So far, (Thursday morning) the meeting has resulted in 10 additions by Baptism and letter.

CONGRESSMAN MARTIN DIES SPEAKS FOR PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Today, April 24, from 6:30 to 6:45, Congressman Martin Dies speaks thru the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company, thru KPRC, WAOI and WFAA in behalf of the re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Congressman Dies will say in part: "The President deserves the praise of everyone for remaining at his post of duty and not running around the country delivering graduation and picnic speeches, dodging and ducking controversial subjects, hand-shaking and back-slapping, and seeking to build up political fences. There may be doubts as to where some candidates get their money to finance campaigns. We may have serious doubts as to the honesty of a candidate who never made anything but a living and who is able to make several expensive campaigns. We may even be morally certain that selfish interests are financing his campaign—but not so with Franklin D. Roosevelt. We know where every dollar came from to finance his campaign. No one can deny that the President's program is in every respect free from the influence or dictation of big business or self-seeking interests."

QUEEN'S QUEER QUIPS QUANDARIZE QUERULOUS QUIDNUNC

Mrs. Joe Zack, Serbian lady traveling with some fifteen or more of her friends and relatives, is alleged to have stolen $10.00 from H. B. West of near Leon Junction, and gave Sheriff Joe White and his deputies a merry chase to Crawford, where they were overtaken and brought back to Gatesville. She was charged with "theft from the person," and was being tried in Justice Court Thursday afternoon.

The party of "gypsies" claimed their home in Nashville, and had been to Del Rio to see a famous radio doctor.

HIGH SCHOOL REPRESENTED AT CELEBRATION IN GEORGETOWN

Miss Fred Byrom and Mr. Neal Chapman of Gatesville represented Gatesville High School at Georgetown at the Centennial Celebration and Pirate Pageant, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Southwestern University on Saturday, April 18.

Some ten thousand citizens of Williamson County gathered in Georgetown to attend the celebration. Guests visited different points of historical interest during the morning, and after lunch, they listened to a sing-song by one thousand school children of Williamson County. At 2:00 p. m. a number of high school seniors, representing fifty affiliated high schools of Texas arrived to participate in the Pirate Pageant, sponsored by the senior class of Southwestern University.

Governor James V. Allred and Lt. Col. S. M. Eckdahl were among the honor guests present. In the evening, a banquet was given for the high school seniors at the dining hall.

H. B. DAVIS BUYS VARIETY STORE IN LAMPASAS TUESDAY

Mr. H. B. Davis, owner of the Ben Franklin Variety Store in this city, bought the Briggs Variety Store in Lampasas Tuesday.

The store was closed Tuesday and Wednesday, while the buyer and seller took inventory of the stock, but the business opened Thursday morning under the management of Earl Ashley, who for the past two years has been manager of a similar store in Goldthwaite, also owned by Mr. Davis.

Mr. Davis has operated the local store for four years, and one in Goldthwaite for two years.

ONE-MAN-BAND, DALTON BRUCE, REPRESENTING TIRE FIRM

Dalton Bruce, better known as a "one-man-band," has been the principal entertainment here this week, incidentally advertising Star Tires and Motor Oil, in the interest of Hicks Rubber Company of Waco, and Marvin Fletcher, local dealer.

Bruce, besides imitating most of the famous dance bands of the "air waves," also has a fling for "black-face" acts, including Amos 'N Andy. Broadcasts have been both at the up-town stores and also at Marvin E. Fletcher's Store on North Luterloh.

Standard tests will be given for the second time April 30. Each school will have a full supply of forms, so teachers coming from other schools to give these will bring nothing with them.

The visiting teachers will conduct the examination and then take all papers home with them and grade the same. Results will then be turned to the County Superintendent's Office. Here home teachers

ADVISORY COMMITTEES TO BE ELECTED IN DIVISION TO ASSIST IN WORK.

The new farm program will be started in Coryell County on Tuesday, April 28. Those farmers residing in the Gatesville district will be given an opportunity to fill out work sheets Tuesday, April 28, at the court house. Other points in the county will fill out work sheets according to the following schedule:

WEDNESDAY: Turnersville, Harman, Oglesby, Copperas Cove, Flat and Purnela.

THURSDAY: White Hall, Pidcoke, Ewing, Coryell City, Maple, Leon Junction and Ireland.

FRIDAY: Jonesboro, Pearl, Plainview, Osage, Antelope, The Grove and Evant.

School districts making up each Agricultural district are as follows:

OGLESBY: Oglesby, Eagle Springs, Horse Creek, Whitley Creek, Coryell Creek, Osage, Coryell Valley, Coryell City and Fields.

GATESVILLE: Newland, Bigham, Leon, Mountain, Woodward, Spring Valley, Lincolnville, Enterprise, Hay Valley, Schley, Spring Hill, Ewing, Turnover, Plainview and Owl Creek.

PURNELA: Murrell, Levita, Oakton, Ireland, Purnela, Liberty, Evant, Cow House, Arnett, and Stringtown.

TURNERSVILLE: White Hall, Turnersville, Mt. Zion, Mosheim, and Jonesboro.

HARMAN: Pearl, Slater, Bee House, Peabody, Harman, Topsey, Littlefield, Belcher (Pidcoke).

COPPERAS COVE: Copperas Cove, Crossville, Antelope, Clear Creek, Maple, Harmony, Brown's Creek, Pao Alto, Brookhaven, and Taylor's Creek.

FLAT: Flat, Hubbard, Longview, The Grove, Flint Creek, Dunn, Mound, New Olive (Leon Junction), Davidson.

At each sign up place listed above producers will elect an advisory committee of three people. This committee will advise with their community committeemen regarding matters pertaining to work sheets. Each producer in each respective sign up place is urged to be on hand for the election at 10 o'clock on the respective dates in that community.

The county committee requests each producer to go to the sign up place nearest his farm and do not try to crowd in at any one particular place. Check the above list and see which agricultural district your school district is located in and go to a sign up place within that district.

The county committee suggests that Saturday, May 9, will be the final sign up day in Coryell County.

Gatesville district will sign up Tuesday. All other districts on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, according to schedule given above. Please read and follow.

Census reports are being corrected by mail. Please complete this work as soon as convenient. Trustees who have not qualified should do so as early as possible so that no delay will occur in handling school matters.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

Two years ago Texas witnessed the most vitriolic senatorial race in years when U. S. Representative Joe Bailey took up the cross laid down twenty years before by his father and entered the lists against Senator Tom Connally. Bailey surprised the entire state by running up a total of 353,580 votes against Connally's 563,294, permitting the junior senator a second term by only a 168,356 vote majority.

This year, Morris Sheppard, veteran of twenty-four years service in the Senate, meets another eager and aggressive Representative, Joe H. Eagle of Houston. Eagle was first elected to the Sixty-third Congress, then was defeated by Daniel Garrett, and succeeded Garrett upon his death in 1932.

Eagle favors a reduction of governmental expenses; an adequate national defense; a strict neutrality law; processing taxes in favor of farmers upon farm products they must sell, and is against national prohibition in any form. In his announcement, the Representative points out that Senator Sheppard introduced and favored adoption of the 18th amendment and voted against submitting its repeal. The Record, according to Eagle's statement, shows that Eagle voted on all ballots while he was a member of Congress for paying the bonus to the veterans; while Sheppard voted for it after Eagle became a candidate and during election year.

The record of candidates contesting Sheppard's seat in the Senate is not very encouraging for Eagle. In 1930, the last time he ran, the Senator won a plurality of 350,000 votes over his opponent, former Congressman Robert L. Henry.

Selection of Senator Frederick Steiwer of Oregon by the Republican National Committee as keynoter of the G. O. P. convention has brought varying responses from political leaders throughout the country.

Supporters of Alf Landon, Senator Borah, and Colonel Knox—leaders for the Republican nomination—have expressed their agreement with the choice of the committee.

From the Democratic side comes surprise and amazement that the Republicans would choose one who has consistently supported the Administration in the halls of Congress. The Republican attack will be centered upon the huge expenditures of the Roosevelt New Deal in the campaign now approaching, but the keynoter at the convention will be one who has voted for TVA, AAA, payment of the bonus, and for the Columbia River project in Oregon, entailing the expenditure of millions of dollars.

That Italy is waging an unprovoked war of aggression against Ethiopia few will venture to contradict. The history of the methods employed by other European powers in subjugating the African peoples is one as bloody and inhumane as the warfare now being waged by Italy's mechanized war machine on Ethiopia's defenseless masses.

From the Cape to Cairo, Britain has left a river of bloody in the wake of the establishment of hegemony over millions of blacks. Egypt, while nominally independent, continues to be "advised" by a British high commissioner and is ruled under the hated constitution of 1922 in violation of the wishes of the people. Only British garrisons and warships at Alexandria prevent a violent outbreak by dissatisfied elements typified by the Wafd, nationalist organization.

ally independent, continues to be "advised" by a British high commissioner and is ruled under the hated constitution of 1922 in violation of the wishes of the people. Only British garrisons and warships at Alexandria prevent a violent outbreak by dissatisfied elements typified by the Wafd, nationalist organization.

George Gordon was massacred with his army at Klartoum in the Egyptian Sudan, but the followers of the mahdi were massacred by a superior British force sent from the homeland.

For three years, from 1899 to 1902, 250,000 British regulars waged war against the peaceful Dutch of the Transvaal in South Africa because British speculators wanted to develop the oil and gold deposits of the tiny country.

The League of Nations ignores the fact that French troops and the famed Legionnaires have been slaughtering Riffs in Morocco ever since France entered the country in 1911, and that Italy's Gen. Rudolfo Graziani, now commanding the Fascist armies in southern Ethiopia, won fame and fortune for himself by crushing all native resistance in Italian Libya by the use of airplanes, poison gas, and barbed-wire entanglements.

The tremendous drain on Spanish manpower and the national treasury occasioned by the prolonged war on the natives in Spanish Morocco following the establishment of the Spanish zone in 1912 was a contributing factor leading to the deposition of Alfonso.

Italy today is fighting for breathing space to prevent an explosion at home, where 42,000,000 people are crowded into an area about the size of Arizona. This does not justify warfare against Ethiopia's blacks, although Italy's enemies admit that Haile Selassie's subjects will benefit from Italian rule, being freed from such curses as slavery, torture, and revolution. The point we wish to bring out is that Britain and France, through the League, are imposing sanctions upon Italy for following the example which they set in the decades gone by.

BRYAN ARNOLD HAS TWO POEMS PUBLISHED IN WEST POINT PAPER

We have received copies of two poems, written by Bryan C. Arnold, formerly of Gatesville, and now in the West Point Military School, which were published in the school newspaper. Following are the poems:

FLOWERS IN WINTER
"This is the spot," I murmured,
"There where the snow piles thickest,

There we sat on the grass and Spoke of spring and love last year

Heard the river singing his choppy tune.
But now the trees are bare and A winter mask conceals the grass

Of yesterday; the river's song is locked
Like that in an organ's unpressed keys
And waits but summer's touch to play again."

"Where went the flowers?" I thought,
"Why have they too forsaken me?"

Then "Fool," I said, gazing
On the icy crust, "There are
The flowers, see their starry shapes

Edched in a frozen bed."
Oh! sweet truth,
That the flowers are never dead!

—B. C. A., '37.

SONNET TO SPRING

Now come the new washed dawns of airy gold
That wake the little birds from out their sleep,
Swelling the sky with saffron galleons bold.

Jeweling the dew with sparks it cannot keep.
'Tis now the time of flowers and virgin grass,
The awakening of bird and beast,

When men sing softly to some pretty lass,
Then quietly steal away to find a priest.

Season of change and of the pardoner,
Who unlocks the winter's heavy door,
And lets out life at every corner

To give it liberty to roam once more.
Ah, Spring! If you do thus to things we see,
May we not hope you've come to set us free?
—B. C. A., '37.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of expressing our sincere thanks for the beautiful floral offerings and kindness shown during the illness and death of our loved one. May God bless each and everyone of you is our prayer.

WE HAVE LETTER FROM A TRUE "DAWG LOVER"

"Love Me, Love My Dawg!" Speaking of pets. The greatest pet has been neglected by lots of people. That is a true Fox Hound. They have been kicked and discarded, so was our Savior. But there is still people that love Him, and there are still people that love their fox hound.

If you love your dawg, you can understand his language. The writer has a Fox Hound pup, 7 months old can do everything but talk, and acts as so his master understands. He knows my car and always meets me at the gate. Help me do everything even to gathering up eggs. Oh, yes, some will say they will all do that, but I have faith in my Savior and I have confidence in my dawg. If you want a pet you will never get tired of get you a fox hound, don't get nothing but the best. It won't be long until you will get a full pack. Then you will discard your victrola, for there is more melody in a pack of dogs after a fox than a box car full of victrolas. Try it for yourself. My dog is a musician and a dancer for he can (fox trot) a trot, a fox, and make music in a pack, and still he is common enough as to gather up eggs. Well what if you say he did eat them. I'm sure he would not eat any more than he wanted, and if you are afraid your fox hound will eat eggs, gather them up yourself. I did not teach my pup any fancy tricks like show dogs, he is too smart for that. Tricks are for silly dogs, he has to do something big, my dog does. No he's not for sale, but he sure is proud of me.

A dawg lover,
(Signed) Curley

Miss Sammie Beth Williams Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. Frank L. Williams entertained with a party Tuesday afternoon at her home on South 10th street, in honor of her daughter, Sammie Beth, who celebrated her fifth birthday. Misses Julia Ann Melbern and Ina Beth Ford assisted the hostess with games and serving.

Party rooms were decorated throughout with pink roses. The dining table was centered with a large bed of roses in which was placed a birthday cake decorated with pink and green candles in rosebud holders. Pink candles in silver holders burned on the buffet.

Following outdoor games, the guests entered the living room where gifts were opened. Later the guests passed to the dining room where little Miss Sammie Beth served the girls and Billy Carl Bradley served the boys.

Refreshment plates consisted of pink cream, pineapple sandwiches, white star sandwiches, pink punch and cake. Favors for girls were dolls and favors for boys were cars.

TRIO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS IN DINNER SUNDAY HERE

Honorees being J. M. Duckworth of Valley Mills, M. M. Carroll of Gatesville and Billy Frank Carroll, a birthday dinner was spread Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Stout.

The party was for Mr. Duckworth, father of Mrs. Jake Stout, who was 89 years of age Saturday. The other two's birthdays were recent and they joined in the festivities.

Mr. Duckworth was for 45 years a resident of this county living near Turnersville, and for the past several years has been living in Valley Mills with a son.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stout and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stout and children, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Carroll and son, and Mr. J. M. Duckworth.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. SALLIE DIRR

Mrs. Sallie Dirr, eighty-seven years old, died at her home in Ireland, Easter Sunday morning.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church at Ireland Monday morning, where she had been a long and devoted member. Rev. Frank Duff of Paris, Texas, a former pastor of that church, assisted Rev. Allen Dehart of Evant in conducting the services. The body was laid to rest in the Sycamore Cemetery near Levita, beside her husband, C. M. Dirr, who preceded her in death a few years.

"HISTORY OF CORYELL COUNTY" RESERVATIONS COMING IN

Reservations for "The History of Coryell County," by Frank Simmons, Official Centennial Historian for Coryell County, and published exclusively by the News, are coming in rapidly.

With only 750 copies being printed, it looks like there will be a grand rush for the last few. Approximately 100 copies will be sent to important libraries of Universities over the United States, the Centennial Exposition, city libraries, and other points where Coryell County will be advertised.

Some of those who have reserved copies are E. F. Miller, County Judge Zeigler, Robt. W. Brown, Dr. O. G. Gilder, Davison Cooper, Mrs. A. G. Tipton, Aury Powell, Edgar Davis and many others. Some of these have reserved as many as five to ten copies.

GARLAND ADAIR ANNOUNCES FOR STATE TREASURER

Austin, April 23.—Garland Adair, 47, of Austin, Travis County, veteran Texas newspaper man and originator of the Texas Centennial Commemorative coins now being distributed in Texas banks for the Texas Memorial Museum, today announced his candidacy for the office of Treasurer of the State of Texas, subject to the action of the July democratic primary.

In a brief statement to the press, he says:

friends who have broached this subject to me, and after consulting citizens in practically every county in Texas, I have decided to make the race for the honorable office of State Treasurer, subject to the action of the July Democratic primary. Deeply appreciative of generous support already pledged, early in May I expect to carry my campaign to the voters of the state. I wish I might contact every citizen of Texas, but that is impossible. It will be necessary for me to rely upon my friends and upon all who are friendly to my candidacy to place the matter properly before Texas democrats. I shall make another statement at the beginning of my activities in May."

A campaign in his behalf was started in several Texas newspapers in the summer of 1935, the movement urging him to make the race originated among a group of his friends in 1934. Literature giving notice of his prospective candidacy appeared during March, in which it was stated that: "Friends throughout Texas have taken it upon themselves the matter of having Garland Adair make the race for State Treasurer." TWO MORE RACKETS

Here are two more rackets that are worked on people over the country, and you may be tried one of these any moment. If you have not, you may have to pay a high rate for insurance or for something else as a result of these which must be stamped out.

The Human Pincushion

Until a cuseword in his native language trapped him, the Human Pincushion outwitted the best medical and legal brains on both sides of the Atlantic. For years, under a number of various aliases, chiefly as Arturo Castella, he tricked unsuspecting citizens into paying heavy damages for his trick back. Authorities estimated that by the time he arrived in Sing Sing his loot had exceeded $50,000.

Before he came to the United States, Castella had been a field hospital attendant in the Italian army. He learned to use a subtle drug which, when introduced at the base of the spine, paralyzed the subject from the waist down for a limited time.

Castella stole the formula for the drug, and decided to use it to advantage in winning an easy living in the United States. His practice was to dope himself with the serum and then, just as it took effect, step in front of a moving automobile.

Inevitably, he was rushed to the hospital where routine tests appeared to reveal him as totally paralyzed. He was able to win quick damage settlements.

His victims—those who paid the damages—finally placed a celebrated Italian detective on his trail. They were aided by the relentless undercover work of the Index Bureau System maintained by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters. One day the detective talked to Castella as he lay presumably paralyzed on his hospital bed. The detective talked quietly for a time. Then, suddenly, he shouted an Italian profanity and yelled "Get out of that bed! You're caught." Castella leaped from the bed and rushed out of the hospital. He got five years in Sing Sing.

The House of Pain

When they caught Sam Danaro, known as the Duke, and his gang in Pittsburgh, one of the most sensational fake accident rings in the country was broken up. The Duke was the "master-mind" who plotted the accidents and directed the fraudulent damage suits of the men and women in his "mob".

The ring, using a great number of aliases, flooded Pittsburgh and its surrounding territory with fraudulent claims. For a while they seemed to have a good thing in their "oil business," as they called their racket, but even then the Index Bureau maintained by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, was on their trail. The end of that trail was the penitentiary for the Duke and his accomplices.

The Duke worked with great precision and care. At his headquarters the police found carefully kept records and files. Startling evidence of the realism he demanded in accidents which he arranged was discovered in the torture chamber in his headquarters. The gang members called it the "house of pain" and they dreaded it. There, before the "accidents" of which they were to be the "victims" took place, they had to report. They were made to beat each other with bare fists and sacks filled with oranges to create black and blue marks. Perforated strips of tin were found which had been used as crude graters to cause scratches and abrasions. Sand paper was another kind of grater used, and the torture instrument chest also contained knives and razor blades.

The Duke thought he was playing extremely safe, and his followers had faith that he would shield them from detection. But faking accidents isn't the good thing it might seem to be to crooks like the Duke. When the judge sentenced him to five years in the penitentiary, he had to admit, "You can't get away with it."

AMES MISSIONARY SOCIETY WILL SPONSOR PLAY AT HURST SPRINGS

The Ames Missionary Society is sponsoring a three-act comedy-drama, entitled "Big Brothers," at Hurst Springs, Wednesday night, April 29. The scenes of this play are laid on the living room of the Crewe home, and a very interesting story follows that is well portrayed by the chosen cast.

Music will be furnished by the Ames String Band. A small admission fee will be made.

Gville Grammar School

Culmination Program

The sixth grade presented a most interesting program as the culminating activity for the unit on Coryell County before a group of parents, teachers and friends in the Grammar School Auditorium, Wednesday evening at eight o'clock. The program included two songs, the words of which were written by a member of the class, several poems written by the students, reports on the famous people of Coryell County, the birds and flowers of Coryell County. A short play showing the life of the early settlers was also given.

Many interesting booklets and pieces of art were displayed around the room.

—Francis Reasing.

Assembly

The five X history class presented a short play in assembly last Thursday which had been prepared by a group of girls in connection with the study of the westward movement. The title of the play was "Across the Plains in 1846." Those who took part in the play were Betty Kate Murray, Yvonne Davis, Mary Jo Mulholland, Marie Meharg, Mary Ola Whitt, Mildred Grayson and Ernestine Ayres. Gene Stinnett and Lillie Lou Rogers were the directors.

Herbert Welborn played a violin solo. The last number on the program was a preview of the operetta.

—Billy Joe Hinson.

Fourth Grade

The fourth grade will present the culmination program for their unit on birds and trees this afternoon in the fourth grade room. The pupils have made the favors to be given out. A frieze showing the various birds and trees has been placed in one side of the room. In the sand table are bird houses and bird which the children have made of wood, and painted. Talks on the various birds and trees studied will be given by the pupils.

—Roy Hollingsworth.

SPORTS

Weather conditions the past few days have interrupted with most every sport available during this season of the year. Golf fans, however, seem not to mind the strong winds, as many have been out slugging the pill daily. Spring football training has not been affected to a great extent. Judging from the looks of the fellows, local coaches have been putting the lads thru the dew.

The County Base Ball League is progressing nicely. Games to be played Saturday are: Jonesboro vs. Mound at Mound; Turnersville vs. Osage at Osage; Pidcoke vs. State at State.

Games for Sunday are: Levita vs. Seattle at Seattle; Flat vs. Gatesville CCC at Gatesville; Pearl vs. Neff Park CCC at Pearl.

Below is the Teams Standing for each division. These stand for correction, and if any are found, notify us at once.

TENNESSEE PLANS WARM WELCOME FOR TEXAS PARTY ON TOUR

Nashville, Tenn., April 23.—Great public enthusiasm over the Texas Centennial observance and the exposition at Dallas is being expressed in this former home state of the Texas hero, Sam Houston, as plans are made for the reception of the Texas party which will tour the south, east, and mid-west on the Centennial Special Train later this month.

Both Memphis and Nashville, scheduled stops on the train tour which will publicize Texas and its Centennial celebration, are making plans for the entertainment of the trippers. In Memphis the Texas University Longhorn band will parade through the city streets, preceding a dinner at a Memphis hotel which will be followed by an elaborate radio broadcast over station WMC which will feature Governor Allred of Texas and the band.

In Nashville Governor McAlister and representatives of the chamber of commerce and civic organizations will meet the train and will join in a parade to radio station WSM where a gala reception and program will be broadcast.

The Texas Centennial train, sponsored by the Texas Press Association, the Commission of Control for Texas Centennial Celebrations, and the Centennial Central Exposition at Dallas, will leave Texas the night of April 26, traveling to 17 cities in 12 states.

CELEBRATION AT VICTORIA TO BE HELD IN OCTOBER

Victoria, Texas, April 23.—The Centennial year celebration planned to be staged at historic Victoria on April 15 has been postponed until sometime in October, according to announcement made by Leopold Morris, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the celebration.

Victoria, center of a wide-spread cattle production territory and city of historic interest, will present a field mass and pageant as its contribution to the state wide Centennial observance in October. The celebration was postponed so that more elaborate arrangements could be made.

In its celebration the City of Victoria will review its colorful history with a field mass and pageant, commemorating a mass held on the banks of the Guadalupe river here by Alonzo de Leon, early explorer, when he was searching for La Salle's settlement. Victoria county, of which this city is the county seat, was organized in 1837 and was named for Guadalupe Victoria, first president of the Republic of Mexico. One of the first railroads in Texas connected Victoria and Indianola on the coast and the first cattle shipped out of Texas by rail moved over that road. Packing houses were established in Victoria and flourished for a time. That was before the Civil war, however, when the population of the United States had not been swelled by the tide of immigration from Europe and the supply of beef exceeded the demand. As a consequence thousands of head of cattle were slaughtered for their hides.

Rats fed large amounts of calcium have been found to live longer than their companions.

10-Gallon Straw

There have been straw hats and straw hats but it took the Texas Centennial Exposition, $25,000,000 World's Fair opening in Dallas, June 6 to produce an authentic 10-gallon straw chapeau. Lucy Ann Snell demonstrates the hat, made at Laredo, Texas, of Texas straw.

MAY 11-18 HAS BEEN SET ASIDE AS WRITE A LETTER WEEK IN TEXAS

Dallas, Texas, April 23.—May 11-18 has been set aside as Write-a-Letter Week in Texas. Because of the increased interest on the part of school children and club members in informing residents of the other 47 states about Texas and the Centennial Celebrations, special material has been secured by the School and Club Division of the Texas Department of Information, Centennial Headquarters, Dallas, to insert in out-of-state mail.

"Every Texan, either native or by adoption, should avail himself of the opportunity to secure this material and send it out of the state during Write a Letter Week," Elithe Hamilton Beal, director of the division, commented. "And if the writer chooses, he may send one or more of the series of 35 special commemorative cachets."

The material which may be secured by writing the Dallas office includes a three-color pictorial folder on Texas, small stickers on the Texas Centennial Celebrations, six colored pictorial stamps, and a colored windshield sticker.

"Write-a-Letter Week will assist Texans in bringing to residents of other states the many interesting features of the Lone Star State as it goes on parade during the Centennial year," Mrs. Beal stated.

NATIONAL TOMATO SHOW IS PLANNED AT JACKSONVILLE

Jacksonville, Texas, April 23.—Jacksonville is completing preparations for the National Tomato show which will be given here May 31 through June 6 in celebration of national tomato week.

The celebration will open Centennial Exposition week in Texas, proceeding by six days the launching of the $25,000,000 Centennial exposition in Dallas. Events of a Centennial nature will be featured on the program.

Show officials, encouraged last year by entries made from as far away as Florida, are arranging to accommodate even more extensive exhibits this year. The event will have even greater recognition in the Court

LOCAL BEAUTY CULTURISTS ATTEND BEAUTY SHOW IN DALLAS

Five thousand beauty culturists from all parts of the Southwest at a convention at the Adolphus Hotel in Dallas, Texas have come to the conclusion that the art and science of beauty is one of the most important American services.

Mr. Harry Benson, and Mesdames Ethel Rutherford, Coward, Everetts and Davis of the Gatesville Beauty Shops, who attended the convention say that the present day science of keeping women young and attractive is doing more to keep a loose husband at home and at the fireside than all modern conveniences. Even the most modern kitchen conveniences, telephone and radio are second to beauty culturists services.

If America is to continue to grow and if American women are to be lovelier than ever she must believe that beauty is not always born, but it is always obtainable.

These beauty culturists say that the speech made about the ability of American women to appear youthful and keep their enthusiasm rests entirely in the hand of the present beautician. Joseph Byrne of New York believes that there is no such thing as an "ugly woman." The beauty field can only be compared to the magic wand. Mr. Byrne believes that within a ten year period the decrease in divorces in Reno will acknowledge the aid of the beauty profession in keeping more husbands and wives together. No woman need be unattractive, beauty is within her reach. All she has to do is reach out for it. The slogan of the convention is "Beauty is Not Born, it is Made."

They have attended a post graduate course of lectures telling them of the newest improved ideas to beautify women, blend their faces with three shades of powder and to wave every head of hair for more youthful lines. They have been instructed under two great artists, Ivan of Fifth Avenue, New York, and Alec Alexander of New York.

FARM DEBT ADJUSTMENT FOR CORYELL COUNTY SAVES HOMES

Seven farmers were enabled to save their homes from foreclosure due to assistance given by the farm debt adjustment committeemen for Coryell County, during March. Farms owned by these men totaled 2,321 acres of land, and delinquent taxes paid through the adjustment of the indebtedness totaled $741. C. E. Gandy is chairman of the committee, and members are C. H. McGilvray and George Fritz.

Farm debt adjustment committeemen and E. A. Tweedy, district supervisor for this area, serve in an advisory capacity only, in helping farmers and their creditors work out an equitable adjustment of finances so that the farmer will not lose his home. The supervisors have had long experience in rural finance and it is through their knowledge of legal procedure and lending agencies that many of these adjustments can be made. Neither the supervisors nor the committeemen have any legal status, so adjustments must come only through agreement of both parties. Adjustments may be affected through an extension of time, a composition of several small debts into one large loan on better terms, a lowering of interest rates, and in some instances an adjustment of the principal.

CORYELL COUNTY HOME OWNERS RECEIVE LOANS

San Antonio, April 23.—Home owners in Coryell County have received loans, for refinancing purposes, from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, amounting to $15,036, as of January 2, 1936, according to an announcement made by H. P. Drought, State Director of the National Emergency Council for Texas. This total represents 10 individual loans to home owners.

After "punching" cattle together in 1873, J. B. Gillett, rancher at Marfa, Texas, and Sam B. Denson, now living in Washington, D. C., met again for the first time at San Antonio, Texas, this year.

Radio Studios Started at Texas Exposition

This is an architect's sketch of the Gulf Oil radio studios, being built at the Texas Centennial Exposition, the $25,000,000 World's Fair opening in Dallas June 6. Here all programs from the grounds will originate for chain and local broadcasts. Glass-front studio line the court of the U-shaped building so visitors may watch the broadcast. The largest public address system of history also operates from here.

The History of Coryell County

By FRANK E. SIMMONS

Authorized by County Commissioners, as Official History for Texas Centennial Celebration.

COPPERAS COVE, CITY OF FIVE HILLS

Copperas Cove is located in the southern extremity of the county on State Highway 53, and on the Santa Fe Railway extending from Temple to Brownwood.

According to Mr. Jesse Clements, who was born seventy-eight years ago at Old Peary, near where Moody is now located, the basin in which the town is situated, has been known as Copperas Cove from the earliest coming of white people. The location is a large natural basin surrounded by five prominent hills with a gap outlet between each two of them. Five outlets, and five hills—the city of five hills.

When stock raising was the only industry, this basin was the spring roundup ground for a large territory. Here, separating and branding were worked out. Southwest of the present townsite, a large spring of copperas water flowed out of a cave in the hillside. This was the camp ground for the cow outfits, and the spring gave the name for the basin, and later the town.

In 1871, Jesse M. Clements bought a vast track of land here, and drove a herd of cattle from Smith County to stock it. Others who soon settled here were Joe Bullock in the early 1870's. Brown Gilmore came in 1878 and H. K. Clem in 1878.

On Mr. Clement's first settling, he fenced a farm of 160 acres with stone. He built a home of rawhide lumber, which was sawed at a mill on the Lampasas River.

The first post office was in the farm home of a Mr. Ogletree, who lived two miles south of the present townsite. The place was known in 1880 as Ogletree. In 1881 the postoffice was moved to the present townsite, and took the name it now bears. In 1880 the Grange Store, a farmers cooperative, was established near the present school site on the then Lampasas and Belton road. This was a stage line relay station.

The Santa Fe Railway entered the town in 1882. Mr. J. M. Clements gave land for the townsite, school grounds, and the land for the Methodist Church property in 1883. Mr. Clements stipulated that the railway company parcel out the business and resident lots alternately to the company and the public. The Methodist established the first church in 1883. The Baptist first held services in the school house. Sam Fulsom and Prof. Gibson were early school teachers.

W. E. Bennett established the first newspaper in the 1880's. In 1885, O. N. Guthrie built a flour mill, which has long since closed.

J. M. Clements established the first general store in Copperas Cove. Jim Bolden established in business in the year 1881.

E. R. Goodson and wife located at Copperas Cove in 1882. They owned the first hotel, and also a lumber yard. Mr. Goodson's activities were many. He built the first cotton gin, one 60-saw stand and was powered by a traction steam engine. Mr. Goodson once represented the District in the State Legislature. T. A. Whitsett was a merchant for many years.

Dr. Arnold located here in 1878 and a short time afterward came Dr. Evans.

The religious spirit of the Copperas Cove people is represented by four church organizations, each with a large membership. The Baptist worship in a large stone edifice. The Methodist have a substantial brick building on stone foundation. The German Methodist and Christian Church each own their own church edifices.

The business structures of the town are above the average for small towns. Most of them are constructed of native stone of a good quality, and some have brick fronts. A list of the leading businesses of the town will include the following: Dr. Lee Bivens, physician; Jim Bell, druggist; Jesse Bell, grocer; Norman and Schneider, general merchandise; B. S. Hubby, druggist; Wendland, grain and feed; Jesse Clements, insurance; and several other smaller firms.

The local newspaper, the Crony, is in its fourteenth year, and is owned and published by Mrs. Elizabeth Smylie.

The public school has an enrollment of about 250 pupils and a faculty of eight teachers. A music studio and teacher is a part of the school system. The school has partial state affiliation, which will probably be completed this year. Two buses bring pupils in from outlying districts.

Furnishing a pioneer color of the early days as well as historical interest, we quote herewith part of a letter written by the father of Jesse Clements in 1860 to a friend living in Louisiana: "Sept. 13, 1860; a five inch snow in winter of 1859-60. Peach trees five years old frozen; snow lay on ground five weeks, followed by intense drouth. Wheat and corn $2.00 per bushel, but plentiful. Bread grains enough to supply immediate needs. In six months 85 persons (black and white) have been hung as horse thieves and abolitionists. On trip to Waco Mill passed one man hanging to tree, and at mill mob was flogging another."

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM COMING TO REGAL THEATRE

Gatesville will see the much discussed Max Reinhardt production "A Midsummer Night's Dream," according to L. B. Brown, manager of the Regal Theatre, who has just completed arrangements for the presentation of the Warner Bros. film masterpiece.

Heralded as the greatest motion picture filmed, and produced on an unprecedented scale of elaborateness, Shakespeare's comedy masterpiece will be shown here as a special attraction with all seats reserved.

"Our present plan is to hold the premiere on Tuesday, April 28," declared Mr. Brown, "and to present it for one day only."

"This is the first time in a number of years any screen production has been 'road showed,'" Mr. Brown continued, "Gatesville is one of the few cities that will have the privilege of seeing this production this year, as the general release date is many months in the future."

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is the first motion picture ever to be made by Prof. Reinhardt, the genius who staged the mighty theatrical "The Miracle," and it was only after many months of persuasion that Warner Bros. were able to prevail upon him to film the "Dream," which he produced so successfully in Hollywood and San Francisco.

Once committed to the task,

James Cagney with Joe E. Brown, become the screen's weirdest and funniest pair of film lovers when they appear in the screen production, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to be presented at the Regal Theatre, Tuesday, April 28.

Reinhardt proceeded to surround himself with specialists who are the recognized leaders of their profession.

To stage the ballet he brought to this country Bronislawa Nijinska, whom he considers the outstanding Maitre de Ballet in Europe. She is the sister of the famous Nijinske, greatest of all dancers.

For ballerina he would have no one but Nina Theilade, protege and successor of Pavlowa, and premiere danseuse of many of Europe's foremost ballets.

To adapt the music of Mendelssohn, who originally wrote the score of the stage production, Reinhardt insisted upon Erich Wolfgang Korngold, one of Vienna's most famous composers, who was brought to this country for the task.

As his assistant, in charge of the technical details, he selected William Dieterle, one of Warner Bros. ace directors who had been trained by Reinhardt himself, and who had been his assistant in Europe for many years.

Mary McCall, Jr. and Charles Kenyon, two of America's most scholarly scenarists, prepared the screen version. No attempts were made to change the original Shakespearian text, nor were any liberties taken with the recognized authentic text other than to shorten a few of the over-long speeches. The facilities of Warner Bros.' studios made it possible for Reinhardt to actually show many of the scenes that Shakespeare left to the imagination and to his own powers of description.

Then Reinhardt turned to the casting and, in this too, he was given an absolutely free hand by Warner Bros.' executives. Despite the fact that Warner Bros.' roster of stars is the most complete in the history of motion pictures, Reinhardt was given carte blanche to employ any players available and it was only after repeated tests that he chose for the key roles, James Cagney, Joe E. Brown, Dick Powell, Jean Muir, Victor Jory, Verree Teasdale, Hugh Herbert, Anita Louise, Frank McHugh, Ross Alexander, Ian Hunter, Mickey Rooney, Olivia de Havilland, Hobart Cavanaugh and Grant Mitchell.

The scenes of the forest are heralded as being the most elaborate ever filmed and the ballets are said to have surpassed even the hopes of the producers.

Chapter Eleven

In the dungeon cell, below sea level, there was no light except a feeble beam which came through the small, barred window in the door.

Dr. Mudd was lying face down on the dirt floor. Buck, the colored guard, stirred restlessly in the corner. Both men were breathing heavily in the poisoned air.

The Negro spoke faintly, "Marse Sam?"

With an effort the doctor raised his head.

"How long's it been, Marse Sam?"

"Three days, I think, maybe four."

Again there was a silence. Exhausted from his small labors, Mudd had dropped to the floor again. Without food or drink for more days than he could remember, he was growing rapidly weaker.

After a moment came the plaintive monotone of the Negro:

"We haven't even heard no bugle calls—ain't seen nobody—no food, no nothin'. Seem lak everybody jest gone off and lef us. Reckon do any good to holler again?"

"I've hollered till my voice is gone," whispered Mudd.

"What do you spose happen?"

"I don't know. Maybe you're right—maybe they have gone and left us—to die, maybe. Doesn't matter, does it?" Despite himself, his despair became audible.

The colored man sighed. "Naw, suh, Ah reckon not . . . Feel to me lak I'm gwine die anyway."

Suddenly in an agony of fury, the doctor pulled himself up and stumbled to the door. Pounding his fists on it, he forced a cracked shout from his dry throat.

Both men listened, as they had listened so many times before. But no sound came from above. Dead silence reigned in their tomb.

Suppressing a groan Mudd fell to scouping up the gutter drainage again and throwing the muddy water over his friend.

Suddenly he paused and listened.

There was the sound of a key turning.

As the heavy, barred door, swung inward, the wiry figure of the Commandant was revealed in the half light. For a moment he did not see them.

There was the sound of a match being struck. Another voice said, "I see him, sir. Dr. Mudd . . . Dr. Mudd!"

Silently Dr. Mudd stepped forward, like a tall gray ghost. Only his eyes were alive in his pale, bearded face.

"I'm here on a curious mission," said the Commandant diffidently. "I need your help."

"My help?" dazedly.

In a few words the Commandant explained the plight of the island.

"And what's this to me?" Dr. Mudd asked.

"That's what you must decide for yourself," the Commandant answered quietly. "All I can do is to tell you that I'm . . . with grim anger . . . 'I'm helpless! My colored boys are holed up like rats, panic-stricken. There's a thousand yellow jack cases jammed in that cheese-box of a hospital, as good as dead already if I can't get a man to do something for them."

"And what about the good Doctor MacIntyre?" Mudd asked harshly.

"He's down . . . bad," answered the Commandant gravely. And then as the other man did not move or speak, he continued, "You're quite right. Everything you're thinking is true. And you couldn't possibly be in a better position to tell me and my men to go straight to hell. Nobody would understand better than I would. In your place I would do it myself."

"And still," he added as Mudd continued silent, "in spite of that, in spite of the fact that I can't even promise you any reward—that I can offer you nothing but exposure to death and—" smiling faintly—"possibly a better cell if you live . . . in spite of it all, I ask you: Will you help me?"

His face gray and tired, the Commandant waited, full expecting a refusal. But Dr. Mudd had already made up his mind.

Smiling ironically, he said in his hoarse, cracked voice, "One night, four years ago, sir, I was a doctor. I'm still a doctor."

It took an instant for the Commandant to interpret this. Then, in relief that he made no attempt to hide, he whipped a key from his pocket and unlocked the bracelets that shackled the doctor's hands.

"Thank you," he said simply. "Thank you, doctor."

He stepped aside for Mudd to precede him out of the cell, but the doctor had gone over to where Buckley lay half unconscious on the damp earth.

"Buck," he said softly.

"Yas, suh."

"We're going up in the open."

Dr. Mudd, freshly shaven and clothed, stood beside the Commandant staring into the parade ground outside the prison.

"When they heard Doctor MacIntyre was dying they all quit," the Commandant was saying bitterly. "They are all in the mess hall now . . . barricaded . . . guards and all."

"But we've got to get somebody to help," said Mudd. "Have I any authority?"

"You give the orders and I'll take the responsibility," the Commandant replied grimly.

Followed by a reluctant orderly Dr. Mudd started to walk slowly across the parade ground toward the mess hall. A rifle leveled from a window spat at them.

"Put that gun down, nigger," said the doctor sharply.

Still approaching across the parade ground, he said steadily, "I'm not asking you to come out; I'm just telling you you're going to get hanged . . . every last one of you!"

The rifle wavered. Several black faces crowded to the window, staring out at the white man and glancing worriedly at each other.

"At ain't no Yankee jes' tawkin'—'at's a Southe'n man. He means it!" one of them muttered through chattering teeth.

"Us doan wan to go neah dem yellah fevah men," one of the black men quavered.

"You aren't going near those yellow fever men," said the doctor quickly. "I need water boys, workers. If you boys help me I promise to save you from hanging."

Obviously they were impressed. There was the sound of voices raised in argument. Suddenly the door opened, one man came out, another, and finally with a rush, all the soldiers were in the yard.

In the hospital Mudd went from cot to cot, paying no attention to the feeble cheers which greeted him. By the side of one cot, however, he came to an abrupt stop. The sick man was Sergeant Rankin, who, from the day the doctor entered "Shark Island," had done everything in his power to torture him.

Despite his anguish the sick man raised himself on an elbow and glared at Mudd. "Get away, you Judas," he muttered thickly.

With the unemotional, analytical gaze of the physician, Mudd thoughtfully examined his one-time tormenter.

To the orderly he said, "We'll take 'em in order. This one first."

Suddenly a terrific gust of wind blew through the paneless window. Frightened the orderly caught Mudd's arm. "What about the wind? With those windows out . . . and it looks like a hurricane outside."

"Let it blow!" Mudd answered smiling grimly. "Let it rain. It's cooling, isn't it? And fresh and clean. And," slapping at a mosquito, "if it does nothing else it'll blow these blasted things away!"

Several nights later as Mudd sat wearily by the cot of Buck, the Commandant wearing a raincoat, approached him.

"How does it look now?"

"All right, I suppose. No new cases today and their temperatures are down."

"No deaths today, either?"

"But wait until tomorrow and the next day and the next!" bitterly.

"What do you mean?"

Irritably, his nerves at the breaking point, Mudd cried, "How long do you think these supplies are going to last? Where's the medicine coming from now? Out of the air?"

"Steady now," murmured the Commandant.

"And how long do you think I'm going to last—forever?"

"You must get some sleep," said the Commandant placatingly. "You've had five days of this and you're exhausted."

Staggering to his feet Dr. Mudd pointed wildly out of the window.

"And right out there, not a mile off shore, there's a ship full of supplies, and a half dozen doctors . . . not country doctors brought up on bellyaches and babies . . . but real city doctors. And the whole United States Government of America can't make that boat come help us!"

The whole United States Government can't make the ship come to the aid of the stricken prison island, but Dr. Mudd can and does. Don't miss the powerful concluding chapter of this unusual story.

NEW OLIVE SCHOOL

The high school students will present "The Gay Pretenders," a three-act comedy, Friday, April 24, at 8:00 o'clock. A small admission fee will be made.

We are all proud of the cup we won at the County Meet.

Lawrence Spencer won 2nd in the Senior boys declamation at Waco.

Work will start this week on the auditorium. We all hope it will be completed in time for the closing exercises.

This week ends the 7 month of school and examinations will be given the last days of the week.

We will have school Saturday, beginning at 8 o'clock.

There are 5 weeks of school left. School will close May 22 this year.

3rd, 4th, 5th Grades

James Edwards is a new third grader. Doris Gilbreath, Billie Ruth Cummings and Vera Barr have been leading their class in third grade spelling.

Melvin Maxwell was accidentally wounded in the arm last week when the gun he was hunting with was discharged.

The third grade has been studying continents and has made Texas Booklets lately. All grades are working on a Texas unit now.

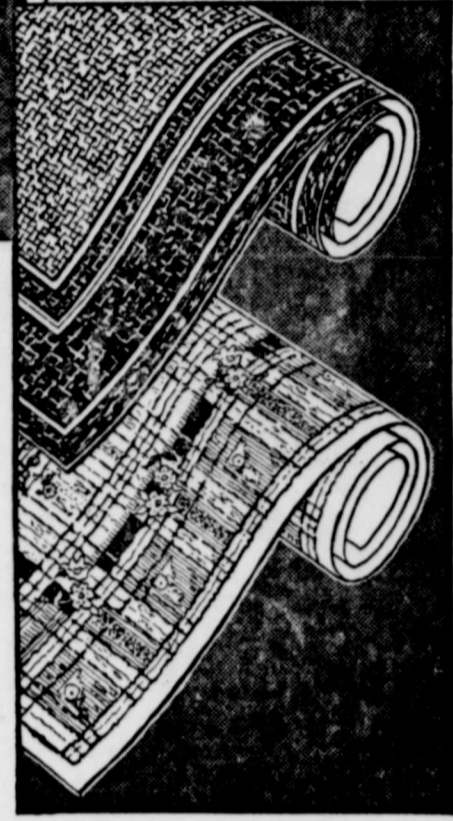

Marvin Evans has returned after having the mumps. Several have had measles.

These grades are planning a "Tom Thumb Circus" for the close of school, which is May the 22nd.

The fifth grade is working on a South America unit.

I'm through scrubbing floors for keeps!

Let Me Tell You Why

SCRUBBING is no job for a lady—and it's so unnecessary, too! I just put new Quaker Rugs over the old floors. All they need is a daily dusting and an occasional waxing with Armstrong's Linogloss self-polishing wax. And are they beauties! You really must come and see them.

The teachers and pupils of the Ireland High School are to be congratulated for the splendid work that is being done and with the co-operation of the patrons and trustees, the success of the school has been made possible by standardizing and affiliating the school, all in one year with a nice number of credits added, making a fine record in every respect.

May the future continue to grow brighter with the passing years.

The idea of a cooking appliance able to turn out a savory dinner without the aid of an expert cook has intrigued engineers for many years. But not until today's modern gas range has success crowned their work.

In all divisions of cookery—top burner, broiling, and oven—the modern gas range introduces new and higher standards of cooking performance. With its accurate control of cooking heat, its insulated oven, its simmer burners any one can prepare a dinner done to a queen's taste.

So see these new ranges. There's a model to fit your family needs. And once you learn how easy one is to use, how economical to operate, how easy to buy . . . you'll see the wisdom of modernizing with a new gas range.
