Highway Hearing on 36 and 7 In Austin; Delegates from 3 Counties

Delegations leave here this morning at 7:00 o'clock for Austin to present the case of Highways 7 and 36 before the Texas Highway Commission at Austin.

Included in those who will go from here are County Judge Floyd Zeigler, Andy Andersen, Lewis Holmes, Sheriff Joe White, W. E. Lasseter, Commissioner Ed Preston, Pat Holt, Joyce Ryan, Robert W. Brown, Jeff Bates, W. Mat Jones, all of Gatesville, Evant Brooks and Dave Carter of Evant, and a number of others whose names we could not get.

Hamilton and Mills counties are also sending delegations who will work with this county on both 36 and 7.

More interest is being taken in the highway situation here on account of the actual construction of Highway 7 east, and extra effort is being made to continue this highway to Brownwood west.

Wednesday, according to the Temple Daily Telegram, a delegation from Bell and Coryell urged the construction of 36 before the Highway Commission.

BALLOON LANDS IN PEARL MAN'S PASTURE AFTER TRIP FROM DALLAS

Coryell County had another visitor! An unknown stratospheric balloon landed in Ray Edmondson's pasture, four miles this side of Pearl. Although the main bag was smashed into ribbons, the main part of the supporting contraption was not damaged.

The man part, especially to Ray, was a tag attached to the balloon which read as follows: "This balloon started at the Texas Centennial in Dallas Gulf Day, July 18, 1936. Present this tag at nearest Gulf Station or mail to O. H. Carlisle, Gulf Bldg. Houston, Texas, for one quart of Gulf Pride oil Free."

Which in itself explains the landing of this strange Coryell County visitor. The balloon was found Tuesday, the 21st, which shows a "drifter" or "floater" can get along on the airways at no mean speed.

MRS. L. YOUNG WINS FIRST PLACE IN RAIL SLOGAN CONTEST

Mrs. L. Young of Gatesville won the $5.00 first prize in the CC-BD contest for the statement of "Why I appreciate the Railroads," the judging committee announced.

Mrs. Young's statement reads: "I appreciate the railroad because they insure safe transportation, they carry freight and mail at lowest cost, they reduce danger to the minimum, and they give courteous service."

This contest was a slogan contest recently conducted by the railroad during Railroad Week.

Joe Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Powell, who arrives from Europe today, will be one of the other featured artists on the Coryell County-Gatesville Day broadcast August 14, at the Texas Centennial Exposition.

CITY AUDITORIUM HAS SEATS AND NEW WHITE OUTER COVERING

The City Hall auditorium is really dressed up. Workmen have just completed installing the seats and also have put a new coat of white paint or plaster on the outside.

A proposal was made Wednesday to the Lion Club that they put on a show to help equip the stage with curtains, drops, wings, etc., and a committee was appointed to go into the matter.

TOM H. FLETCHER BURIED AT TURNERSVILLE LAST THURSDAY

Funeral services were held Thursday, July 30 at 4 o'clock for Tom H. Fletcher at the Turnersville Baptist Church. Rev. A. Loper conducted the services both at the church and at the cemetery.

Mr. Fletcher, who had been ill only a short time, passed away Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, at his home at Turnersville. He was 57 year old at the time of his demise.

His widow and three children and one brother, J. A. Fletcher, of this city survive him.

MRS. MARVIN WILLIAMSON ENJOYS BEING CLOTHING DEMONSTRATOR

Mrs. Marvin Williamson, winner of the recent clothing contest, began her work as clothing demonstrator in the Pidcock Home Demonstration Club with little enthusiasm. After she made several dresses from her foundation pattern and had read material on clothing she helped other women with their sewing problems.

Her interest grew. We have her own word in evidence, "I have kept my record book, listing every article bought for each member of my family. It was a pleasure, I found it interesting to note the articles purchased for each, their cost, also the total cost for each member and the total cost for the entire family. This has proven a benefit in keeping our regular farm record. Now we know just where our money goes."

She adds, "Although clothes do not make the man, the selection, care, and style of them helps to proclaim his character, then we may be glad to see ourselves as others see us."

Besides commendable clothing constructions, Mrs. Williamson has provided adequate sortage for her clothes.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Sherrill of Levelland, who have been vacationing and attending the A. and M. Short Course at College Station, were here the first part of this week visiting relatives and friends. Mr. Sherrill is the County Agent for Hockley County and formerly held that place in Coryell County. Mrs. Sherrill will be remembered as the former Miss Mary Lou Morris.

Flentge Apparent Winner: Official Count Not Yet In

Harry Flentge, local attorney entry in District Attorney's race has an apparent edge on Bill Allen, present incumbent, as shown in the results from Saturday's election.

The totals in this race, so far as is known, now read as follows:

Coryell County:
Flentge 2843
Allen 1500

Hamilton County:
Flentge 871
Allen 2671

Comanche County:
Flentge 2540
Allen 2047

Totals:
Flentge 6254
Allen 6164

The reports from the chairmen of the election boards, ac-ording to reports, give Flentge the above figures in the other counties. An error in the report from Sugar Loaf of 20 votes, changes the appearance of the report here. Sugar Loaf reported on the short form election return: Flentge 48, Allen 41. The correct report shows the figures to be Flentge 48, Allen 21.

Hunter, 23 per cent.
Fischer, 14 per cent.
Sanderford, 8 per cent.
Brooks, 3 per cent.
"Finis" was written to the political career of Tom Hunter by his third defeat for governor. That Tom is a courageous soul few will dispute, for indeed it requires courage to make three races for governor, but he made his big race in 1934—and lost. Late figures from the Texas Election Bureau indicate his total vote this year will be about 230,000—a figure about between his 220,000 of 1932 and his 243,000 of 1934 (first primary totals).

The first primary of 1934 found Hunter second and about 50,000 votes behind Allred—243,000 to 298,000. In the second primary he lost to Allred by 50,000 votes—459,000 to 499,000.

F. W. Fischer of Tyler was a newcomer to the political scene but he frankly expected to be in the runoff with the Governor. His total of 133,000 votes at this writing must indeed be disappointing and is not commensurate with the amount of money expended by Fischer and his friends of East Texas.

In but one primary since Jas. E. Ferguson first ran for governor in 1914 has the Ferguson candidate failed to poll 200,000 votes or more until this year. Only in 1924, with nine candidates in the field, when Mrs. Ferguson was running the first time, did the Ferguson candidate fail of the 200,000 mark. Mrs. Ferguson received 146,000 in the first primary of that year but easily defeated Felix Robertson, the Klan candidate, by nearly 100,000 votes in the second primary.

In 1926 when Dan Moody defeated Mrs. Ferguson, and in 1930, when Ross Sterling won over her, the familiar cry of "the Fergusons are dead politically" resounded in the newspapers of the State and in 1934 the defeat of C. C. McDonald, the Ferguson supported candidate, in the first primary was said to wipe the name Ferguson off the political slate. But it did not, as Sanderford was entered this year. Never, however, has Ferguson and his candidate received such a setback as this year. Sanderford's final total will not reach 100,000—it is now 75,000 with the vote yet incomplete, and, as stated above, his vote was only eight per cent of the total cast. As James V. Allred wrote "finish" to Tom Hunter, so did he write the final chapter in the history of Fergusonism in this state, even though the former governor might enter candidates in the future gubernatorial races.

Not until Tuesday was the runoff opponent of Railroad Commissioner E. O. Thompson determined. Thompson ran far ahead of the field and at one time was only 18,000 short of a majority over his four opponents, but Carl Hardin of Stephenville and Frank Morris of Dallas were separated by only a few hundred votes in the early counts. Late returns from Dallas county put Morris definitely in second place. Unofficial and incomplete returns give Morris 153,000 and Hardin 146,245. Chairman Thompson has 407,000 at this writing.

The useless of entering the second primary by Morris is self-evident to all. Thompson is 254,000 votes ahead of the Dallas candidate and has over 100,000 votes more than the combined totals of Morris and Hardin.

It seems that Col. Thompson has won the approval of the electorate, so why should he be forced to fight for it the second time

July 25.

Hunter's plan of a State income tax on all incomes above $6,000, Sanderford's endorsement of a State sales tax of 3 per cent, and Fischer's advocacy of an increased tax on natural resources went down to overwhelming defeat.

With one or two exceptions the Texas Congressional delegation will be returned intact. Renominated in the first primary were Representatives Sam Rayburn, Morgan Sanders, Hattin Sumners, Luther Johnson, Nat Patton, J. J. Mansfield, J. P. Buchanan, Martin Dies, R. M. Kleberg, Milton West, Marvin Jones, George H. Mahon, Chas. L. South, and Maury Maverick. Maverick of San Antonio failed to win a majority but his runoff opponent withdrew. Wright Patman of Texarkana and Ewing Thomason of El Paso were without opposition. W. R. Poage was elected to succeed O. H. Cross of Waco, who voluntarily retired. Fritz G. Lanham of Ft. Worth, Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene, and W. D. McFarland of Graham have runoff opponents. In the Eighth District, left vacant by Joe H. Eagle, Mayor Oscar F. Holcombe of Houston and Albert Thomas are in the runoff.

JOHN E. MILLER THANKS VOTERS

To the people of Coryell County who saw fit to support me for Representative, I wish to thank you from the bottom of my heart. Lacking only a few votes going into the runoff, I feel that if I did not look so much like a kid I would have gotten more support where I was considered, but many felt that I was too young. For the courteous reception I received and all consideration I also thank the people of this count.

I heartily support A. G. Livingston, who is in the run-off. His home county supported him and I have found him to be a good man in spite of rumors, well qualified and thoroughly capable to render this District the kind of service we need in the Legislature.

Yours to serve,
JOHN E. MILLER.

ganization John W. Philp of the Republican National Committee, will speak at the Centennial the night of August 18, officially launching the G. O. P. campaign in this State for the national ticket of Landon and Knox.

As the campaign progresses, Col. Frank Knox, the vice presidential nominee, will visit Texas and, according to Philp, a visit by nominee Landon is not out of the question.

In spite of the fact that John Garner is Democratic vice presidential candidate and Roosevelt's popularity still rides high here, Republicans will make every effort to turn out a huge for Landon and Knox and the Republican National Committee is prepared to send campaign money into the State if leaders indicate there is a possibility of placing Texas in the G. O. P. column in November.

The midwestern drought was slightly ameliorated by early week showers which brought cooler temperatures but Undersecretary of Agriculture Rexford G. Tugwell fears damage already incurred by the extreme temperatures will necessitate government aid to stricken farmers for a year or more.

"The serious thing worrying us," Tugwell said, "is emergency relief during the winter, next spring and probably longer for distitue farmers in the Dakota, Montana and Wyoming."

With estimates of drought damage as high as $1,000,000,000, 70,000 farmers have been given WPA jobs paying $15 a week. A year's moratorium has been declared on rehabilitation loans by the government, the Department of Agriculture is providing loans for shipping cattle from stricken territory and has $5,000,000 available with which to launch a cattle-buying program.

In 1934 Congress appropriated $500,000,000 for drought relief. About $100,000,000 was spent to purchase 8,000,000 cattle from the drought areas, of which 4,700,000 were slaughtered and processed, the meat being distributed to relief agencies.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

The bloodiest fighting ever witnessed on the Spanish peninsula rages on with unabated fury between the Communist Government forces and the Fascist rebels. Rebel chieftains Franco and Mola have made little headway toward the capture of Madrid and the establishment of a Fascist dictatorship while Madrid and Central Spain and most of the East and North coasts remain firmly in the grasp of the loyalist forces. Although claiming to be within fifty miles of Madrid, reliable reports indicate that the northern commander of the rebels, General Mola, had suffered heavy casualties in attacks upon the Government forces and that there had been many desertions from the rebel ranks.

The revolt has definitely evolved into a fight between the Leftists or Communists and the Rightists or Fascists who have constantly been in conflict since the establishment of the republic in 1931, following Alfonso's abdication. International News Service reports the establishment of a Communist dictatorship by the Madrid Government. All religious institutions and property was confiscated and government control of all industries established.

Meanwhile, the evacuation of several hundred American citizens caught between the conflicting forces in Madrid and other parts of the interior continues with U. S. Ambassador Claude G. Bowers directing the activities aboard his "floating embassy" on the roving coast guard cutter Cayuga.

Oklahoma's young and dynamic Representative, Josh Lee, smashed to victory over Gov. E. W. Marland for the Democratic senatorial nomination to succeed Senator Thomas P. Gore retired by Oklahomans after 19 years' service in the Senate.

A 100,000 vote majority was given the former college professor who resigned two years ago to run for Congress.

Lee made the race as an ardent New Dealer and promised to out New Deal Governor Marland if elected. His opponent in the November general election will be Republican Herbert K. Hyde.

Lee and Marland emerged from the Democratic primary ahead of Senator Gore and Gomer Smith, nation vice-president of the Townsend Plan. All except Gore promised undivided allegiance to President Roosevelt but Gore opposed and criticized many New Deal measures in Congress.

The career of loser Marland is scarcely less meteoric than that of victor Lee. Born in a small Oklahoma hamlet, Marland became an oil magnate and multimillionaire overnight only to lose his fortune in the industry which made him wealthy. Another oil fortune was reaped and lost and politics beckoned Marland, who made a successful race for Congress and in 1934 was victor over a field of five for Governor.

A campaign to rival in intensity that of 1928 when Hoover carried the heretofore solid Democratic State is planned by Texas Republicans.

Miss Simpson Is Bride Of George Dewald.

In an impressive candlelight ceremony in the parlor of the Polk Street Methodist Church, Amarillo, last Sunday morning at 8:30 o'clock Miss Robbie D. Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Simpson of that city, became the bride of George Dewald of Hillsboro, Dr. C. C. Grimes, pastor of the church, officiated in the presence of about two hundred friends and relatives of the young couple.

The nuptial vows were spoken before an improvised altar of ferns and baskets of summer flowers. White tapers burned in branched candelabra at either side of the altar and baskets of flowers were arranged on the piano.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Otis Truelove sang "At Dawn, ing" and "It Is Not Because Your Heart Is Mine." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. S. Simpson Jr., who also played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin for the processional, Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the recessional, and "Memories" by St. Clair softly during the ceremony.

Mrs. Miller Stinnett of this city and sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a becoming floor-length frock of pink satin, made with fitted coat and large puffed sleeves. She carried pink rosebuds and babybreath.

Little Miss Gene Stinnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miller Stinnett of this city and a niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She wore a long frock of blue and pink taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of pom-pom asters.

The flower girls, Joan Simpson and Mary Beth Griggs, wore peach organza and carried baskets tied with blue ribbons.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and was beautifully attired in a gown of white silk net over white taffeta, and a finger tip veil of bridal illusion. Her dress was made along fitted lines with the long skirt forming a short train. She carried a lovely bouquet of white rosebuds.

Fred Dewald of Dallas, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Messrs. J. M. Simpson Jr. and David Harrison of Farewell were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 2114 Washington street, after which the couple left for a honeymoon trip to Denver. They will make their home at Hillsboro.

Mrs. Dewald is a graduate of Amarillo High School and West Texas State College, Canyon. She taught at Tulla for two years and in the Gatesville High School last year.

Mr. Dewald, a civil engineer, is associated with the Texas Highway Department with headquarters at Hillsboro. He is a graduate of Southwestern University and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dewald of Coparas Cove.

AND SUDDEN DEATH

with RANDOLPH SCOTT-FRANCES DRAKE
Novelized by Wallace West from the Paramount Picture of the same name.

SYNOPSIS

When she is arrested for the fourth time for speeding, Betty Winslow, madcap society girl, meets Lieut. Knox, handsome head of the Traffic Department and crusader for more traffic safety. They fall in love. Betty's younger brother, Jackie, is a speed demon with a penchant for driving while intoxicated. At a party, Jackie gets drunk and gets behind the wheel of his flashy roadster. Betty manages to trick him into letting her drive. En route, they are stopped by the Brake-Testing Squad. The brakes are tested and found to need adjusting.

CHAPTER VI

As they charged along the dark road Jackie began hunting in his pockets for a cigarette but couldn't find one. Betty passed him her pocketbook but there were no cigarettes to be found in it either. "Never mind—I can get along without one," said the youth, passing his hand over his face dizzily.

Dodie and she reached over and pressed the button of their own horn. "That girl must be doing around sixty-five."

"I'd put it closer to seventy-five," answered Knox grimly. "Why you could scarcely see the car, it was going so fast."

Jackie, meanwhile was finding that he had a hard time seeing the road ahead but he clung grimly to the wheel, determined not to show Betty that he was drunk. He screwed up his eyes and blinked hard in an effort to focus them.

"Want me to take it?" inquired his sister quietly.

"No!" he gritted, wishing that the road didn't have a tendency to divide into two roads. "I'm fine."

As he spoke they were approaching an intersection but he did not notice it until a school bus roared twisted that rescue seemed an almost impossible task. Suddenly the officer caught sight of a child which an ambulance interne was lifting out of the wreckage.

"Bobby Sanborn!" he gasped bending over.

"Hello, Lieutenant Knox," whispered the boy as he tried to smile.

"Are you badly hurt, Bobby?"

"Naw," answered the tiny fellow gamely as he tried to smile. "It's only my back—outside of that I don't feel anything—just sort of dumb all over."

Knox looked questioning from Bobby to the interne.

"Spinal fracture, I think," the latter answered the unspoken question.

"Okay Bobby," Knox was trying not to show his feelings. "Don't be

"All I know about it is just what I said before," she was explaining. "I slammed on the brakes and they didn't hold."

"But I want one too. There's a rumoinger stand up ahead. I'll get some there."

As she pulled up at the side of the road Archie Sloan's car shot by and Jackie greeted it with a loud squawking of the horn. Then, as Archie answered with a series of derisive toots, Winslow's jaw tightened and he slid over into the driver's seat.

"Hey! What are you doing behind that wheel," cried Betty when she returned with the cigarettes.

"Goin' to show you how an expert drives," he grinned slyly. Then, as she started to protest, "I'm okay now, Sis—Honest I am."

"All right, you big chiseller," she handed him a cigarette. "I hope you choke on this."

Jackie was far from being "okay" and his driving showed it. He took turns too wide, cutting away over on the left hand side, then swerving to the right, once just in time to miss another car coming in the opposite direction.

"Better watch it, Jackie!" warned his sister.

"What do you mean watch it?" He was outraged. "That guy thought he owned the road."

Meantime, in Archie's car, Dodie and Knox were fiddling with the radio. There was a succession of squawks and fragments of various programs as they turned the dial here and there. Finally one station came through clearly.

"This is Station KGLX," an announcer was saying. "The note of the chime will indicate exactly one second before ten o'clock."

As the chime sounded a prolonged and peremptory squawk from a Klaxon behind them caused Archie to swerve to the edge of the road.

"It's Betty and Jackie," exclaimed out of the side road directly in front of them.

"Jackie!" screamed Betty. "Look out!"

The boy slammed on his brakes. There was a grinding snap but the car did not slow down. Horrified and cold sober in an instant he twisted desperately at the wheel. Then, seeing it was no use, he threw up his arms to protect his eyes just before the car struck the crowded bus with a terrific crash.

"Jackie! Jackie!" screamed Betty. Her brother had slumped over the splintered wheel in a dead faint. At her touch he stirred and passed a hand over his face.

"Whas' matter?" he demanded thickly. "Wha' happened." He blinked dazedly through the shattered windshield, then gasped in horror. The bus had crashed through the side rail of a little bridge and was hanging there, its front wheels in the ditch. A deadly silence hung over the scene which was emphasized by the sound of the bus motor which was still running. A second or two later the agonized scream of a child rang out from inside the bus.

"Quick!" commanded the girl. "Before anybody comes. Change places with me. You're drunk. They'll lynch you if they find you were driving."

When the Sloan car drove up to the scene of the accident a crowd had already assembled in that strange way which crowds do. Two attendants from a filling station nearby were carrying the injured children out of the bus. In the distance could be heard the sirens of approaching ambulances and police cars.

Knox and Archie Sloan joined in the work, but the bus was so badly afraid. They'll take good care of you."

"I'm not scared." The youngster essayed another grin. "Say, do me a favor, will you? Tell my dad I didn't cry."

"You bet I will, Bobby," answered his friend as he helped the interne place the broken little body on a stretcher, and carry it to the ambulance. Then he turned away abruptly and caught sight of a motorcycle cop nearby.

"Adams!" he called sharply. "Any children still to be taken care of?"

"No, sir. Got them all out now."

"Have Jones photograph the skid marks right away—and mark the exact positions of both vehicles as they were found."

"That's been done."

"Good—what about the people in the other car? I haven't had a chance to see who they are."

"Neither of them hurt," Adams reported. "McCarthy's over there now getting a statement."

The lieutenant forced his way through the crowd in the direction indicated, then stopped abruptly as he caught sight of Jackie's car in the ditch across the road.

Betty, who apparently had been too dazed to move from the driver's seat since the crash, was answering McCarthy's questions in a cold, dead voice.

"All I know about it is just what I said before," she was explaining as Knox came up. "I slammed on my brakes and they didn't hold."

"Betty!" gasped Knox, pushing his way forward. "What..."

For a moment she looked up at him in silence through tragic, tear-dimmed eyes. Then turned her face slowly away.

ATHLETIC FIELD READY FOR FINAL TOUCHES

The new athletic field is nearing the final stages of completion. The rock wall is about completed on all sides and officials received a letter the first of the week from the electric company stating that the lights were on the way. As the poles are already set the installation of the lights will complete the job, aside from the wire fence around the playing field which cannot be finished until the lights are mounted. Yes, sir, when the time for the first game rolls around, fans will be privileged to witness that game in as fine a stadium as can be found in this part of the state.

WACO BASE BALL TOURNAMENT TO CLOSE SUNDAY

The state semi-pro base ball tournament, being held in Waco, will come to a close Sunday, August 2. Fans who have not seen any of the games to date will be wise in doing so the next two days, especially the finals of Sunday. As stated before the games as a whole during the entire tournament have been of the best variety and lovers of the game will be well awarded for their trip to Waco for the last few games.

Soft ball

Monday night the Triple-C boys and the Merchants won their games from the Firemen and from Doc's, respectively.

The CCC team pinned the Firemen to the mat by a score of 8-7 after seeing an early lead whittled away in the final inning. Up to the seventh inning the Camp boys led 7-2, but in this frame the losers found their batting eyes and tied the score by scoring five runs. The pick and shovel wielders however scored the winning run in the first extra frame. Firemen were playing with a makeshift lineup due to the absence of several regulars and the numerous errors made by the subs helped the winners no little. However, the Camp lads hit Dr. Ray's offerings rather lustily in the early part of the game, which coupled with the miscues, accounted for 7 runs before the game was very old.

The Merchants put the skids under Doc's, 6-1. Doc's was playing without the services of Wiggins, first baseman and Jones, catcher. The absence of defensive point of view. However, the two absentees would have helped but little as the Merchants were playing too good a brand of ball to lose. K. Anderson held the losers to four hits and issued four bases on balls while striking out four. Blanton held the Merchants to 6 hits, three of them by B. G. Anderson, struck out 9 men and gave four free passes. Glaring errors accounted for about half of the winner's runs.

Monday's Schedule.

CCC Camp vs. Merchants	Firemen vs. Doc's
TEAM STANDINGS
	won	lost	per cent
Doc's	2	1	.666
CCC Camp	2	1	.666
Firemen	1	2	.333
Merchants	1	2	.333

What is "Quality" Milk?

It is clean milk of uniformly low bacterial content, free from dirt and pathogenic organisms. It is produced from healthy cows, free from tuberculosis, Bong's disease, mastitis, and all other maladies, and it is handled by healthy employees, using sanitary methods and clean and sterilized equipment and utensils. Finally such a safe milk must also be relatively high in nutritive values, with an ample content of butter fat and total solids, and an abundance of normal vitamins, the content of some of which in milk is definitely influenced by the ration fed to the cow.

TEXAS CENTENNIAL CELEBRATIONS

July 31 to August 31. Alpine, Centennial Celebration.
August 3-9. Galveston, Centennial Beach Carnival.

PLACE OF MEETING OF LEON RIVER BAPTIST ASSN. IS CHANGED; MODERATOR

Due to unavoidable hindrances the Flat Baptist Church will be unable to act as host to the annual session of the Leon River Association. Because of the fact that no one church would find it convenient to take care of the meeting, we have decided to ask each of the churches of the Association to help with the entertainment. Pecan Grove has gracefully offered the use of their grounds and other cooperation. A letter has been dispatched to each of the churches with an appeal for definite help. We will meet at Pecan Grove at the regular time, August 4 and 5, which is next Tuesday and Wednesday.

It is hoped that no church will fall down in this emergency but will cooperate in the Baptist spirit of taking care of such situations.

Dr. R. C. Campbell, state secretary; Mr. G. S. Hopkins, state Sunday School secretary; Bro. McHenry Seal, of the Central Texas Baptist Sanitarium, and other of our leaders will be in our sessions. A program of the meeting will be found elsewhere in this paper.

I know that our people are going to cooperate for they never have failed.

BROOKS SASSE, Mod.

SCOUTS ANNUAL OUTING COMES THIS WEEKEND ON COLORADO

Gatesville Boy Scouts, some 19 of them leave this week for the annual "long hike" on the Colorado, doing it by truck.

Under the direction of County Superintendent J. M. Witcher and Roger Miller, the boys will spend a short time at Cow's Crossing, about 25 miles west of Lampasas.

"FIRST COME—FIRST SERVED" AT BIG GARNER DAY BANQUET

Dallas, July 30. One of the biggest parties ever staged in Dallas will be held Wednesday night, August 5, in honor of Vice President John N. Garner. Centennial officials have declared. The banquet, to be held at the Baker Hotel, is a feature of the extensive Garner Day program planned by the Centennial Exposition.

As motor caravans were being organized in many cities to bring thousands of Texans to Dallas on that day, Centennial officials emphasized that the banquet will be a "first come—first served" affair and urged Texans to send checks or mail orders for tickets promptly to the Vice President's Reception Committee, Box 598, Dallas. Dinner is two dollars a plate.

WRECKS ON ELECTION NIGHT WERE MANY AS PEOPLE LEFT FOR HOME LATE

Doctors had a busy night on election night. At 12:30 a. m. near the B. E. McCoy service station Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Dossey and children and Mr. and Mrs. Sadler Hair and children were in a car wreck with an unknown driver of another car. Mrs. Dossey received a cut above the knee and her young baby received minor bruises.

Mrs. Hair received bruises on her right shoulder. Occupants of the other car were evidently uninjured.

In another accident Mrs. A. E. McGlothlin and daughter and a Mr. Hunt were injured slightly.

Two boys overturned in a car twice on the Jonesboro road Sunday afternoon, but received no injuries. Upon righting the car, they discovered that in the two turns they had picked up a 40 to 50 pound rock which they found in the back end of the sedan. They went to sleep driving, as did the others.

ENGINEER NEEDS FARMERS' AID IN CHECKING FLOODS IN RIVERS

Solution of the nation's flood problem lies in cooperative action by the agriculturist and the engineer to reduce excessive water runoff and soil losses from upstream agricultural lands while maintaining at the same time progressive construction of downstream engineering works such as dams and levees on the trunk rivers, H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service, declared.

In pointing out the effectiveness of agricultural methods in reducing high water levels, Bennett gave as an example the severe flood in June 1935, at Stillwater, Oklahoma. At that time two of three closely associated streams ran high over their banks and flood plains, while the third stream did not go over its normal banks. The rainfall was practically the same over the three watersheds, he said, and the streams drained the same class of land, all of which was being used for the same type of agriculture. The watershed of the stream which did not overflow its banks had been treated over 90 per cent of its area with erosion-control practices, while in the case of the other two watersheds, one had been treated over 15 per cent of its area, and the other had received no erosion control treatment of any kind.

Until a few months ago, Bennett said, flood control had been regarded as strictly an engineering problem. He praised the success of the engineering profession in harnessing the channelways of a number of major streams. He emphasized, however, that downstream fortifications offered no more than a partial attack on the problem.

"It is true that downstream fortifications such as levees, spillways and revetments meet the problem of flood waters at the point of greatest danger, where bulging rives leave their banks to devastate lands, crops and property," he said. "But what about the point of origin of flood waters and the accompanying loads of silt? I can't believe that we should wait until our rivers have become clogged with erosional debris, and subjected to increased torrents pouring in from soil-stripped, gullied uplands before we begin to cope with floods on a basis of complete watershed

TOM L. ROBINSON JR. MEMBER OF F. F. A. BAND

Tom L. Robinson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom L. Robinson of this city, because of his talent and ability to play the clarinet, won a position in the Future Farmers Band, which consists of sixty, chosen from several hundred boys who were at the state convention of Future Farmers at Stephenville last week, and who will tour Texas during the remainder of the summer months. They will be at Denton and Commerce and other north Texas towns this week.

On July 30, which is designated Farmers' Day at the Centennial at Dallas, this band will receive a free trip, all expenses paid. Next summer members of this band will receive a free trip to Kansas City and Chicago.

Others attending the convention were W. E. Lasseter, Clyde Boyd of Jonesboro, and Douglas White of Arnette.

No authentic records are available of the origin of the office of poet laureate of England. According to one historian, there was a King's poet during the reign of Henry III (1216-1272), who was paid 100 shillings a year.

France governed the territory embracing the state of Michigan from the time of its discovery in 1610 until 1763, when it was ceded to Great Britain. The area did not come into the possession of the United States until July 11, 1796.

Ten cadets were present when the United States Military academy was opened at West Point, in New York, July 4, 1802. West Point, in New York state, has been a military post since Jan. 20, 1778.

The three most important outlets for using the lead that is produced are storage batteries, paint pigments and electric cable coverings.

"I am convinced," he said, "that from now on we should, and will, tackle the problem at its source—in upland fields, pastures and on other sloping parts of watershed, where flood waters begin to accumulate and where silt loads are picked up."

The agriculturist, Bennett stated, does not have a program alternative or conflicting with that of the engineer. He stressed the need for continuation of downstream construction and described agricultural upstream control as "an enlargement upon the existing program of the engineer."

"We must start our attack on the flood problem at the point of cause and carry it through, step by step, to the point of effect," Bennett said. "Flood control must begin at the crests of the ridges and extend down across to the streams, and then to the great trunk rivers that empty into the sea. All of the time, of course, our downstream operations must be vigorously prosecuted."

TERRACES PROTECTS FIELD FROM EXCESSIVE RAINS IN CONCHO COUNTY

The moisture conservation value of the complete coordinated erosion program of the Soil Conservation Service, as applied to the land of cooperating farmers in the upper Concho River project area was given a thorough check recently when a rain varying from two to three inches fell recently in the vicinity of the Grape Creek School.

On Mrs. Lou Blair's farm, operated by David Baker, water was observed to stand one foot deep just above the terraces. In fifteen hours time all of this water was absorbed by the soil. A small amount of run off occurred below the last terraces and from a small pasture area. The total run off from the land protected by complete coordinated erosion control measures was negligible. Yet, a drain through the pasture on this farm run 12 to 18 inches of water over a 15-foot spread two hours after the rain stopped. Since the rain covered only a small local area, the large volume of water passing through the drain came from less than a mile's distance and from a drainage of from three to five hundred acres of land unprotected by soil and water conservation measures.

C. A. Rechenstien, Soil Surveyor, made the following report on moisture conditions two days after the rain on treated and untreated areas: The strip cropped, contour cultivated and terraced fields on the Blair farm had stored all the rainfall with 22 inches average penetration. An adjoining field with straight rows had moisture penetration of less than ten inches where the rows were on the contour as compared to a minimum penetration of 18 inches and the field protected by terraces and contour cultivation.

A contour cultivated field on the Dilly farm, planted to cane, had a moisture penetration to 20 inches which indicated very little loss of water. In the same field with rows on the contour, and the major crop cotton with a strip of cane to every forty rows of cotton, the penetration of moisture was 16 inches as compared to 13 inches where rows were on the contour but no cane strips were used.

A high intensity rain, if water is uncontrolled, takes a heavy toll of soil. Conservations of straight rows which were not on the contour revealed not only a loss of moisture but a heavy loss of soil. Small rivulets between the rows were 2 to 6 inches deep in appreciable numbers and loss of soil on one field would be considered excessive.

C. P. MOUNCE THANKS THE PEOPLE OF CORYELL CO.

To the voters of Coryell Co.: I desire to express my appreciation to you for the support you gave my candidacy for re-election to the County Clerk's office at the Primary Saturday, whereby I received a majority vote and the nomination for the November election, and should I be selected in that election to serve you, again I pledge you anew my very best efforts to so discharge the duties and responsibilities of that important office that none will have reason to regret having so honored me.

I desire to express to my opponent my thanks for the honorable manner in which our campaign was conducted and beg to assure him that there remains no unpleasant memories on my part of the campaign just closed, and I assure to him and his supporters the same courteous treatment in the discharge of my official duties. I have heretofore extended them and I trust I may have their cooperation and friendship in the future as I have enjoyed in the past.

Again thanking you and assuring you I shall put forth every effort to serve you to the best of my ability and extending to one and all my grateful thanks for the many favors you have shown me in the past I am,

"SHOW BOAT" SWEEPS THE EMOTIONS LIKE RUSHING MISSISSIPPI TIDE

This review of "Show Boat" showing Saturday night at 10:30, Sunday and Monday at the Regal Theatre, should be set to music keyed to the tempo of the Universal picture. But there is no local Jerome Kern of Oscar Hammerstein to perform that rhythmic feat.

The account should be tinged with drama to match the story of "Show Boat." But there is no Edna Berber here to give wings to words. There should be moonlight; springtime romance. And there is. That element is supplied by Irene Dunne and Allan Jones on the Regal screen.

Music and romance and drama, fused together by magic that weaves an enchanting spell. This briefly describes "Show Boat," which will sweep across your emotions like the rushing tide of the Mississippi.

What memories the Kern-Hammerstein songs bring back. What thrills in the love story of Magnolia and Ravenal, portrayed by Irene Dunne and Allan Jones. There is the convincing throb of life in the narrative, peopled with 3,500 players on the screen.

There is the rhythm of the ages in Paul Robeson's songs, "Old Man River" and "Ah Still Suits Me." Behind his splendid robust baritone there are pulsing waves of harmony, swelling from 200 resonant voices that rise and fall and beat like tree branches vibrating in the wind. Or like ship's sails billowing full, thrusting against a swift-running sea.

There's Helen Morgan, the Julie who captured audiences when she sang "Bill" and "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" on the stage. She gives her screen role the same appealing charm.

Charles Winninger, the show boat Captain, possesses a warm human friendliness that seems to reach out and cheer up the whole world. His wife, Parthy, portrayed by Helen Westley, is a sharply etched characterization of a lady with a talent for uttering words that burst like fire and brimstone.

There is the smart dancing of Queenie Smith and Sammy White, emphasized by a chorus of 48 beauties who probably learned to dance as soon as they could walk. Sunnie O'Dea offers a winsome performance.

By no wit must be clear that "Show Boat" is a big picture, packed with excellent entertainment. It's a whale of a picture. In fact, if you care for a pun, it's a James Whale of a picture. That capable gentleman directed it.

BEN MORRISON THANKS THE VOTERS

To the voters of Coryell Co.: While I was overwhelmingly defeated in my race for County Treasurer, I wish to thank the people who showed me so many favors in so many ways, especially those who cast their ballot for me. No candidate for public office ever had a following of nobler men and women than those who supported me and no one could possibly appreciate them any more than I do.

BEN MORRISON,
(Political Adv.)

J. MANLEY HEAD HAS WORD OF THANKS TO VOTERS

To the voters of the Twenty-first Senatorial District:

With only a few votes yet to be counted in the district the returns show that I am some fifteen hundred votes ahead of my nearest opponent in my race for State Senator. I want you to know that I am eternally grateful for this tremendous support that has been given me and will certainly try to merit the confidence which has been expressed by the voters. I lead the ticket in four of the five counties in spite of last minute attacks which involved a tremendous expenditure of money. Again I can only say I am grateful and invite your support in the second primary.

Sincerely yours,
J. MANLEY HEAD,
Candidate for State Senator.

At conclusion of the games, a delicious salad plate was served to the following: Mesdames R. B. Cross, D. R. Boone, D. D. McCoy, E. L. Stewart, Bob Saunders, C. W. McConnaughey, George Painter, Angus Voss, Robert W. Brown, Clay Stinnett, R. W. Ward, and B. K. Cooper.

Williams-Meharg Wedding

The marriage of Miss Virginia Meharg of White Hall to Mr. Everett Williams of Copperas Cove was solemnized at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. J. M. McLean, pastor of the Gatesville Presbyterian Church, reading the ceremony before an improvised altar of ferns and gladioli.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Sybil Leonard gave a violin solo "At Dawning," accompanied at the piano by Miss Juarea Tubbs of Waco, who also played the wedding march.

The bride wore a pale pink organdie with blue accessories and a corsage of pink rose buds and babybreath. The groom wore a business suit of gray.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held in the dining room. The table, which was laid with a lace cloth over pink, centered with a circular mirror which reflected in its surface a crystal bowl of summer garden flowers, held at one end a lovely tiered wedding cake and the punch service at the other end. Miss Frances Holmes presided over the punch bowl and was assisted in serving by Mrs. W. L. Reesor and Mrs. L. C. Meharg.

The couple left immediately for a honeymoon trip to Dallas and Fort Worth, where they will also attend the Centennial and Frontier celebrations. They will be at home at Copperas Cove August 10.

Mrs. Williams, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Meharg of the White Hall community, graduated from Gatesville High school in 1930 and completed her piano training from Miss Orpa Mayo the same year. She attended Texas Tech at Lubbock and the Teachers State College at Denton, and has taught in the White Hall and Osage schools for the past four years.

Mr. Williams, also a graduate from Gatesville High, received his degree from Baylor University in 1929 and has taught at White Hall, Star and Copperas Cove.

Plans were made to start the quilt that is to be entered in the fair. At the next meeting which will be held July 31 at the home of Mrs. Homer Clemons all members are urged to be present and answer the roll call with "how I make jelly." MRS. HAZEL McDONALD THANKS VOTERS OF CORYELL COUNTY

I take this method of thanking each and every person who supported me in the race for County Treasurer and I am soliciting your vote in the election to come in August.

I have been too severely handicapped for funds to make a thorough canvass of the County and I am sure I have missed making the acquaintance of many of you, but will appreciate your vote and influence and if elected will strive diligently to give you an honest, competent and faithful County Treasurer.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Hazel McDonald.
