"BANG, BANG BOYS" START AS DOVE SEASON OPENS; NIMRODS OILING UP

La Paloma is in for it, beginning September 1, in these parts, since dove season will open then. Hunting is free, if you don't roam out of the county. If you do, the tax is $2.00 a head, which can be paid off at the office of the County Clerk.

Fishermen, using artificial bait, or "lures," must secure license also from the County Clerk, and go at $1.10.

Half as much "ice milk" as ice cream is sold in California, state statistics show.

That old bell on "college hill" begins tolling September 14. The toll will tell on the feelings of many Gatesville and nearby boys and girls who will grab the last bite, their books, pencils and other paraphernalia and "plod wearily on their schoolward way."

Pearl High School is no exception either, since their bell will carry the same plaintive moan, that school commencing activities on that date also.

In the Gatesville schools, the faculty is practically the same with very few new faces. Here they are, the old and the new:

Ercell W. Brooks, Superintendent; Earl Worley, principal and coach; Lonnie Briggs, typing; Mrs. J. P. Reesing, English and Latin; Maurice Ewing, assistant coach and teacher of economics and algebra; Glen McLaughlin, commercial law and science; W. E. Lasseter, agriculture; D. W. Disereens, band; Lois Scott, librarian; Louise Carl, mathematics; Ernestine Durham, English and history; Linnie Fore, English; Mrs. Ned Chapman, home economics.

In the elementary school are: E. D. Shelton, principal; Sidney Pruitt, assistant principal; Miss Maude Alice Painter, Aurora Yongue, Louise Hall, Ethel Routh, Gladys Grantham, Pearl Brown, Wilhelmina Casey, Lizzie Lockard, Katherine Gordon, Bess Holmes, and Edna Murray. In the colored school are T. T. Germany and wife.

Registration will begin on Saturday, September 12. A meeting of the teachers is called for September 11, at which time school matters will be ironed out.

One teacher is still to be elected to complete the high school faculty.

THREE GRASS FIRES THIS WEEK "SO FAR", WITH TIME YET

Three grass fires have consumed grass, firemen's time and gasoline this week, so far. They were: vacant lot in the rear of Rufe Brown's home; R. O. Poston's home; and yesterday, Verne Waddill's.

Practically no damage was done at either, with the exception of Poston's where a part of a porch and steps were burned.

"SLEEP UNDER 3-4 BLANKETS WEAR COATS IN DAYTIME" THE MORTONS SAY

Of a card receive here we got the "chill" of our lives and worked up a good case of "envy" what with the thermometer registering three or more figures, since they say, in a card from Prescott, Arizona, that they are wearing coats every day and sleep under three or four blankets every night.

Rev. C. A. Morton, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Gatesville has been in Prescott for the past two weeks holding a revival meeting in that city.

They also stated they were enjoying the scenery in and around Prescott, and that they hated to miss Coryell County-Gatesville Day at the Texas Centennial.

Gatesville's second new church of the year has its first service when the congregation of the Church of Christ meets Sunday morning, August 30, at 10 a. m., at corner of Tenth and Saunders streets.

The church, a wooden building, is 40 by 60 feet, outside dimensions, faces south on Saunders street, and has double doors at the main entrance and single doors on southeastern and southwestern entrances.

A main auditorium with a seating capacity of 250 is one of the interesting features of the building, is trimmed in ivory, with cream colored paper on the walls, carrying a mosaic pattern.

The pulpit is in the front center, with a platform under an arch. Immediately back of the pulpit is a well equipped baptistry with indirect lighting equipment.

In the entire church, there are 23 Florentine glass windows, and in the main auditorium there are four ceiling lights made of "hyperion" glass complete with crystal bowls. In the five Sunday School rooms, ceiling lights are used.

Officers and teachers in the church are E. D. Shelton teacher of the men and women's class; W. H. Hance teaches the young people, Mrs. Paul Alford the young married couples' class; Mrs. T. P. Ingram, the primary class; Mrs. W. E. Hayes the juniors, and Mrs. E. D. Shelton teaches the intermediate department.

Mr. Shelton will deliver the opening address in the church Sunday morning, and for the past several months has been active pastor.

ENTERTAINMENT TO OPEN O. AND C. CLAWSON'S NEW GIN AT FLAT

O. and C. Clawson's new gin will be dedicated, opened or entertain, with their formal opening Saturday night, August 29 at Flat. Mr. Clawson didn't state whether or not a bottle of champagne would be busted over the gin or not.

However, everyone is invited, and a free barbecue will be the gastronomical feature of the big opening.

This is a "brand new" gin, replacing the one that was destroyed early this year by fire.

California's 1936 Spring pig crop was 27 per cent larger than that of 1935.

GRASS AND DOGS

Even tho we've had a shower of some 2.53 inches in amount, that doesn't stop grass from burning—or dogs going mad.

This is dandy fire weather, and you've heard the fire siren on numerous occasions, and said, "It's just a grass fire." Next time it might be different—not to be a pessimist, or anything like that. However, do be careful about fires. Now, one little carelessly thrown match in the dry burned grass might burn up everything you own, and others too. If it does happen and you have a fire of any size, PHONE 444!

And about the dogs! So far, no mad ones have been reported, but if there is one in your neighborhood that has any resemblance of being had, for the protection of yourself and others, the safest thing is to PHONE 244, the City Hall or 175 the Sheriff, and get the dog disposed of.

It's very hot these days and maddogs and grass fires are results of this intense heat. Be careful of both!

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

The destruction of the Leftist Government's air fleet at Getafe Airdrome in Madrid by rebel bombers, the continued influx of German and Italian munitions and money into the Fascist coffers, and the action of President Manuel Azana in fleeing from the capital to the port of Valencia point to the imminent fall of Madrid to the Spanish Fascist forces within the next week.

What was probably the most important development of the five-week civil conflict was the destruction of eighteen of the Red's best machines by a squadron of White war bombers, giving the Rightists absolute supremacy in the air and removing the most difficult obstacle to their advance on Madrid.

More than a hundred German and Italian planes, with German and Italian pilots, are in the service of the rebels while a score of French pilots have enlisted under the red banner of the government. It is believed that the explanation of the willingness of Germany and Italy to declare an embargo on the export of arms to the Spanish belligerents lies in the fact that these Powers have already dispatched enough war materials to the rebels to insure their victory over the Government forces.

After sending several truckloads of baggage to Valencia, port on the eastern coast of Spain near the Balearic Islands, President Azana secretly left the capital for Valencia, where he presumably hoped to escape from the country. There he was apprehended, and detained by members of the local red militia and at latest reports was virtually a prisoner of the Valencia Government.

Note: In order that the reader may not become confused by the opposing factions in the press, let us say that the Government forces, which include the amalgamation of socialists, communists, liberals, and moderates are usually designated as Reds, Communists, Leftists, or Government forces. Those who are in revolt against the Government—nobles, fascists, army officers and capitalists—are called rebels, Fascists, Whites, monarchists, and Rightists.

World peace received two of its greatest setbacks since 1918 with the promulgation of the Japanese war and naval budgets and the extension of the term of compulsory military service from one to two years in Germany.

"Perfection of national defense" heads the list of seven major national policies for the 1937-1938 fiscal year in Japan, and "defense" received precedence over all other appropriations in the annual budget. Irrespective of the fact that army leaders are preparing for what they believe to be an imminent conflict with Soviet Russia over Siberia, the Navy increased its demands nearly 50 per cent over 1935 for the new budget, although the war with Russia will be fought almost entirely on mainland.

Recalling to anxious minds the action of Kaiser William in increasing Germany's huge standing army by 40,000 in 1913 was the extension of the term of compulsory military service and the military mobilization of Germany's youth by Hitler. The new act increases the standing army from 600,000 to 800,000—Europe's second largest—and brings the total of men under arms to 1,000,000.

The change means German males at 19 will start a minimum of two and one-half years of service for the State, counting the present six months required in the labor service before entry to the army, navy or air force.

Apprehension because of increased Soviet militarism and political activity outside of the U. S. S. R. (i. e. in Spain) brought about the action by Der Fuehrer, German officialdom explained.

Hitler, by a stroke of his pen has placed Europe one step nearer that cataclysm which all nations dread but has at the same time put Germany on the top of the European diplomatic and military ladder. Without a shadow of a doubt, the Reich is today the strongest military power in Europe, surpassing France, Britain, and Russia in the equipment, training, personnel, and ability of its troops.

Under the naval treaty with Britain, which permits Germany to have a navy 35 per cent as strong as the British, the German fleet has been growing by leaps and bounds until it has become a serious threat to Russia and France.

Quickly aware of the potentialities of the new German army, France is seeking ways and means of strengthening its own land forces. The French army numbers about 650,000, 200,000 of which must be kept in the colonies in time of war, leaving only 450,000 available for service on the continent.

World Comment—

Reversing the trend which gave Governor Landon a majority of the electoral votes in the two polls following his nomination at Cleveland, Sunday's Institute of Public Opinion poll on the presidential race put President Roosevelt in the lead, 274 to 257. A fortnight ago the President was given a popular vote majority of 52.4%, but Governor Landon lead in electoral votes 276 to 255.

The "America Speaks" polls on national sentiment, conducted by the American Institute of Public Opinion under the direction of Dr. George Gallup, are being closely watched by leaders of both national political parties. Although only 160,000-odd ballots are sent out on any one question which the Institute wishes to poll, they are distributed among a wide cross-section of the American voting public and the results are as accurate as it is possible for a straw poll to be.

The significance of the polls on the presidential race lies in the fact that Governor Landon is only a few electoral votes behind the chief executive with the campaign yet in its early stages, and that in the first two polls released after the Cleveland convention he led President Roosevelt. Whereas a year ago Republicans were pointing to 1940 as "the year" today they do not look beyond November, for Roosevelt is no longer unbeatable and the country is no longer wholeheartedly and overwhelmingly in approval of the New Deal measures. What has been apparent for some time and what the Institute polls have substantiated is that Franklin Roosevelt is in for the race of his life and that the country may see one of the closest presidential races in the history of the nation.

COUNTRY IN A PANIC! MULE AND HORSE SHORTAGE

Neglect to breed mares between 1925 and 1933 has left the United States with an excess of horses and mules over 10 years and not enough between 3 and 10 years of age. As a result, there will be a national shortage of about 175,000 horses and 325,000 mules when the 1937 work season opens up, according to information County Agricultural Agent Guy Powell has just received from Wayne Dinsmore, Secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America. "Wanted—Stud Horses and Jackasses" is the name of the new leaflet (No. 225) which gives complete information about the horses and mules in every state. Extra copies may be obtained, free, from the County Agent Guy Powell. It is a mighty interesting little leaflet, packed full of worth-while information for every farmer.

Dinsmore's figures show that Texas will have to import about 8,500 work horses and approximately 47,900 work mules from other states, for replacements alone before the 1937 work season starts; that is, colts raised in Texas in 1934 will fall short that number of equalling losses by death in 1936. This means that over $9,230,000 in cash will have to be paid out by Texas farmers, for work animals

Breeding is increasing, and it is estimated that will be about one million horse and mule colts foaled and raised this year, but death losses in 1936 will be around 1,200,000; so there will be much need for more good sires for some years to come.

SCREW WORM CONTROL

By W. E. Dove

Screw worm control depends upon a proper understanding of (1) how screw worm flies develop, (2) how true screw worms affect animals, (3) how to treat screw worm-infested wounds, and (4) how to prevent screw worm flies.

The true screw worm lives only upon the healthy flesh of animals and it is this maggot which causes most of the damage to livestock. Several kinds of maggots may be found in wounds.

fly. It is called the true screw worm because it is the most harmful species. It is usually the first one to lay its eggs upon the broken skin of an animal. This injury may be a cut, scratch, tick bite, or a wound of any kind. The true screw worm fly does not develop in decaying carcasses, but many people think so because large numbers of flies which look like the true screw worm fly can be found feeding and laying eggs on dead animals.

The true screw worm fly breeds only in living animals. From 10 to 400 eggs are laid on the wound and young maggots begin to appear in 11 to 21 hours. They immediately bore their way into the flesh and feed in clusters so as to form pockets in the wounds. More and more flies come to lay their eggs until finally there are large numbers of worms eating into the flesh. Unless the animal is found and the destructive maggots are killed, it may die in a very short time. If the maggots are not killed they become fully grown in 4 to 10 days and drop out of the wound to the ground, where they change into flies about 10 to 14 days later. The flies then mate and the females are ready to lay eggs in 6 to 10 days. The total cycle requires from 18 to 37 days, and usually average about 24 days.

How True Screw Worms Affect Animals

When screw worms are present in a wound, there is a bloody discharge and a characteristic odor. For all practical purposes, a bloody discharge is sufficient evidence to identify their presence. A hard swelling usually accompanies a screw worm infestation. Bloody frothing from the mouth sometimes indicates that the lips or gums of the animal are infested. Common blowfly maggots do not cause bleeding in wounds.

Animals very often become weak and thin because of screw worm attack and they stray away from the herd. Infested sheep and goats hide themselves in underbrush, trying to keep away from the flies. This habit makes it hard to find infested animals in time for early treatment.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER EXHIBIT AT TEXAS CEN. EXPOSITION

The International Harvester Company exhibit at the Texas Centennial Central Exposition occupies all of the west wing of the Transportation Building—an area comprising 10,810 square feet of floor space. This exhibit includes displays of historic and educational interest not only to users of farm machines, motor trucks, and industrial power equipment made by the International Harvester Company, but also to all men, women, and children interested in the social and economic progress of the past century.

A replica of the first reaper, built in 1831 by Cyrus Hall McCormick, is on display, as well as models of many of the machines that evolved from the reaper. A full-sized 16-foot McCormick-Deering harvester and thresher is displayed operating slowly so that visitors can see how each part functions. This mighty monarch of the harvest fields can cut, thresh, and clean the grain of 40 to 50 acres a day.

Much of the progress of the past century is a direct result of American ingenuity in perfecting not only the modern grain binder but also a successful method of making satisfactory, low-priced binder twine. Although large quantities of twine are used in the wheat sections of Texas, few wheat growers have had an opportunity to see how binder twine is made. Accordingly, throughout each day of the Exposition there are complete demonstrations of the spinning and balling of binder twine—using the same equipment and the same people who operate the machines in International Harvester twine mills. Also in continuous, slow-motion operation is the knotting mechanism of a modern binder—showing just how this ingenious invention of 55 years ago, still in extensive use, loops the twine around a sheaf of grain, ties the knot, and then cuts the twine when the knot is completed.

Of interest to the dairyman is a milk cooler, a new product of International Harvester, as well as a variety of cream separators and milking machines—several of them in operation and cut away to show their mechanism. An outstanding attraction, of interest to everyone, is the mechanical cow—an accurately reproduced Holstein that chews its cud, blinks its eyes, moves its head and ears, switches its tail, breathes, moos, and gives milk in a most realistic manner.

Various sizes and types of farm tractors are shown as well as machines of the quick-attachable type are used with these tractors. Throughout each day there are demonstrations of how many of these modern machines can be attached or detached from a tractor in from two to five minutes each. In continuous operation is a tractor-operated two row cultivator, demonstrating the ease with which the modern equipped cotton grower can cultivate 25 acres a day—cultivating close to growing crops without damaging them even though the rows may be quite crooked.

There also is an extensive display of stationary power units and wheel type and crawler-type tractors made by International Harvester for use in oil fields, lumbering, road building and maintenance, and for various other industrial purposes. In continuous operation is an International Diesel engine cut away to show how it starts on gasoline and the shifts automatically to operation on Diesel fuel.

An important part of the progress in transportation featured in this building is an extensive variety of motor trucks displayed in the International Harvester wing. These include four and six-wheel trucks with panel, stake, and oil tank bodies, as well as one of the latest types of school buses.

A complete description of the variety of displays in the International Harvester exhibit would reveal a great many other items of historic interest and educational value not only to farmers but also to city people. The careful fair goer will find that he can, profitably spend several hours in the west wing of the Transportation Building studying many International Harvester displays.

We are now prepared to give you immediate delivery. Don't Wait. Come in and see the new tractors and let us show you how you, too, can make more money by farming with a FARMALL.

Democrats Prepare For Strenuous Campaign: "Will Win In Texas 7-1"

Austin, August 27.—With the second Democratic primary concluded, plans for an intensive, state-wide campaign for Roosevelt and Garner were being rapidly shaped up this week, drives for campaign funds, drives for votes, and already there has been much response. Texans realizing the people of this state must help out in the National picture even if Roosevelt is assured of carrying Texas.

James Farley, Democratic National Committeeman, is expected to be in Texas in September for a round of conferences and will attend the Democratic convention in Fort Worth Sept. 3. The Young Democrats will hold a National conclave or conference in Fort Worth and Dallas immediately after the convention, while O. C. Christie, heading the Young Democratic drive, announces that three sound trucks will be used over the state and that his organization has set out to obtain $50,000 for Roosevelt and Garner's war chest.

In the meantime, due to certain remarks made by John D. M. Hamilton at Dallas, Texas confederate veterans have become aroused. Hamilton is Republican National chairman and in his Texas speech compared Roosevelt with Santa Anna, saying the Republicans are fighting Roosevelt as the early Texans did Santa Anna and the Mexican yoke.

This displeased the old veterans, and despite their years, (all over 90), they came to state headquarters for the National campaign, supported by crutches and canes, but the fighting spirit still existed in their breasts, for they insisted on all Texas taking up the fight on Hamilton and Landon.

The veterans from the Confederate Home here were J. M. Prescott, 92; M. L. McCurdy, 94 and J. H. Kennedy, 92. All of them gave $1 in cash and a million dollars in fighting spirit.

"The least we can say about Hamilton is that he doesn't know anything about Texas history," McCurdy said. "Santa Anna oppressed and tyrannized the Texas farmers and ranchers until they had to revolt, while Roosevelt saved them during the depression. There is a great contrast, but Hamilton doesn't know it. Some one ought to send him a history of Texas."

"Roosevelt preserved states rights because he sent Texas and other states relief and other monies on which to live in our most trying times. We are ready for another fight, if need be, for Texas, and we don't like to see ourselves and Roosevelt misrepresented. If no one else takes the lead merely because they think this state will go Democratic anyway, then we will gladly take up the scrap where we left off back in the sixties. Everybody should contribute something to the Roosevelt-Garner campaign." Whereupon McCurdy, Prescott and Kennedy pressed dollar bills into the hand of Miss Amelia Mallory, secretary of the campaign committee.

There have been other notable events the past week down at Galveston Paul Page Jr., 4th assistant Postmaster General, made the principal address at the corner-stone laying of the new Federal building, in which speech he paid high tribute to

GREATEST TREASURE HUNT IN TEXAS HISTORY NOW GOING ON

Austin, Aug. 24.—The greatest treasure hunt in the history of Texas is underway.

From the Gulf to the Red River and from Louisiana to New Mexico the search is going on.

Back of this unique treasure hunt is the Mineral Resources Committee, a unit of the Texas Planning Board, which is seeking the location and character of every mineral deposit in the State.

Preliminary work discloses the fact that Texas is exceedingly rich in valuable minerals. Mineralogists in the employ of the Committee have located and classified most of these minerals but in Coryell County there are deposits of clays and lime which haven't been fully located.

Residents of Coryell County can render a great service to the State by sending full information on these deposits to Chas. W. Walker, The Texas Planning Board, Austin, Texas.

AUTO LICENSE PLATES

Over three million license plates will be made by Texas convicts for 1937, according to E. L. Stephenson, director of the plant.

Although this year's order for 3,046,400 plates is six hundred under the 1936 total. The plates for next year will have a black background with numerals or ivory enamel.

A crew of 80 convicts will be required to operate the presses and oven up to their daily average of 30,000 plates.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced open competitive examinations as follows:

Accounting and Auditing Assistant, $1,800 a year.

Administrative Officers, various grades, $3,800 to $5,600 a year, Senior Administrative Assistant, $3,200 a year, Social Security Board.

Full information may be obtained from E. C. Farmer, Secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post office of this city.

PANTRY CONTAINS DRIED FRUIT

Mrs. Jodie Culp, pantry demonstrator in the Home Demonstration club at Pideoke, employs the following method in drying peaches: Cut the peaches off the seed in quarters, after washing them and leaving the peeling on. Spread in the sun five days. She placed hers on the roof. Stir them occasionally so that all pieces may be exposed to the direct rays of the sun. Then place them in a cloth sack in a well ventilated place and shake them now and then.

Mrs. Culp dried a half bushel which she plans to stew, make pies, and use in school lunches, or preserve as she needs them. To preserve this amount would cost around a dollar for sugar alone and would mean more expense, labor, and material. As it is, she avoided this in drying them and will be able to serve the same peaches in a variety of ways.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

YOU'VE heard a lot about dogs that are smart. And one of the commonest stories is about a dog that is so smart he can tell whether a man is a crook or not. I don't know whether the story is ever true, but if it is we are missing a bet in not having some of these smart dogs on our juries. Anyhow there was a farmer in Ohio telling about his dog.

"Shep was the smartest dog I ever had," he says. "He could just naturally tell a robber or a tramp or a loafer every time. He never hurt regular folks, but crooks and holdup guys didn't have a chance around here, he was so smart."

"Well, you ought to of kept that dog," says his neighbor. "What happened to him?"

"Oh, he was all right till he bit a stock salesman that was courting my daughter, and then we had to kill him."

Six Texas Flags? Here Are Ten More.

Many believe that Texas had only six flags flown over her borders in the four centuries of her history, but in reality there were battle flags from seventeen different states flown during the Texas Revolution. Jan Fortune, author of Cavalcade of Texas, has gotten together all these historic banners for use in the Cavalcade at the Texas Centennial Exposition. These include flags from Ohio, Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina, Alabama, and some half dozen flags fashioned by Texas men and women patriots. Ten of the flags are shown above held by actors on the Cavalcade.

HOUSE FURNISHER

SYNOPSIS

Jeff Hawkins and Wahoo Jones, hold-up men, are in Texas seeking their pal, Polka Dot McGee from whom they became separated while fleeing from a posse. Hawkins and Jones join the Texas Rangers, believing that as law enforcement officers they may easily gain inside information on payrolls, gold shipments, etc. In their first assignment—seeking a band of rustlers—Hawkins and Jones find their lost pal, McGee, who is head of the cattle-stealing band. The three friends have a hilarious reunion.

CHAPTER III

THAT night, at the adobe home of Maria Valesquez, the three friends caroused long and loudly. Lamplight threw the little room into fantastic shadows, silhouetting the four people on the white-washed walls, as they gathered about the rough wooden table and attacked the jug of wine and the huge platter of food which Maria had prepared for them.

As they ate and drank and joshed each other, Marie, Sam McGee's light o' love, watched and served them affectionately. She was a buxom, sensuous wench with beautiful large eyes and a soft, alluring voice.

"Boys, ain't she everything I said she was?" inquired Sam as he caught the girl around the waist and pulled her to his knees. "An' you're crazy mad 'bout your little Sammy! Ain't you, darlin'?"

"How can you loff threes mans when you only see him once every six months?"

gesticulated Maria as she tore herself away, laughing. "He come at night, he go in the morning, he come in the morning, he go at night. That is no kine of mans to loff!"

"Why don't you break his legs?" grinned Jeff as he swallowed a glass of aguardiente.

"Oh, Senores, thees thing I cannot do to my Sammy," sighed Maria, spreading her pretty hands sadly. "I would not spoil him a leetle bit."

"Listen," interrupted Sam as he turned to the other men. "We can get a thousand head together in no time. This state is lousy with cattle." He hesitated as he saw them shuffle their feet in embarrassment. "What's the matter—ain't a three way split fair?"

"You tell him," Jeff said sheepishly to Wahoo.

"Wal, sir, it was like this," the other began bravely. Then, in a still, small voice he wound up: "We jest couldn't help it—blow me down if we could! Look a-her, Sam—we was broke. . . ."

He choked on a chicken leg and was unable to continue.

"An' hungry," Jeff took up the tale. "All because we had been huntin' for you. . . . Sammy, you're gazin' at two of the finest Rangers in Texas!"

"Not TEXAS Rangers!" Sam was dumbfounded.

"Two of the best," Wahoo chimed in.

His sides splitting with laughter, Sam tumbled from his chair and rolled on the dirt floor, while the others looked on in astonishment.

"But we'll quit . . . any time you say the word, Sam!" pleaded Wahoo when his friend seemed unable to stop laughing. "We'll quit right now!"

"Quit . . . an' I'll shoot your teeth out," answered the other with unexpected decision as he rose from the floor and dusted himself off. "I got it, Cornstalk," he continued, pounding Jeff on the back.

"I'm away ahead of you," beamed his friend. "We'll give you protection plus."

"Why, certainly! You give me the information . . . an' I do it!"

"Not a chance for a slip up," was the reply. "It'll be like spearin' fish in a barrel!"

"When a stage carries gold," Sam amplified impetuously. "You'll . . ."

"Sure! An' when a big cattleman . . ." yelped Wahoo.

ing around it at a gallop pausing from time to time to fire into the doors and windows.

By the well a white woman, in gingham dress and sunbonnet, was sprawled on the ground in an attitude of death. A white man appeared at the door from time to time, firing at the Indians and then retreating inside as his fire was returned.

"Here we go," shouted Jeff above the sound of the yelling as he leaped down the face of the mesa.

"I'm right behind you," answered Wahoo as he grasped his friend and followed at a stumbling run.

The rescuers reached the valley floor and darted for shelter behind a huge boulder. From there they opened a withering fire at the circling Indians. From this vantage point they could see inside the barn where a boy of eight years was firing daringly and desperately at the Indians with an old squirrel rifle.

The unexpected reinforcements proved too much for the courage of the paint-streaked braves. Five of them wheeled their ponies and raced down the valley. The others were sprawled about the premises, dead.

As the firing ceased the man inside the ranch house stumbled out toward the well where his wife lay. It was evident he was badly wounded.

Before he had covered half the distance he too fell forward and lay quiet.

"I shot two of 'em, Paw!" shouted the boy as he too rushed from his shelter. Then, as he saw his parents lying in huddled heaps, he broke into an agonized wail: "Maw! Maw! Oh, Paw! Paw! Don't die!" Blinded with tears, the child staggered directly into Jeff's path.

"You musn't cry, boy," said the Ranger huskily. "Yore a brave little feller . . . brave." He wiped the tears from his eyes with his sleeve.

Several hours later Jeff spoke a few words of the burial ceremony over the graves of the boy's parents. "Where's your nearest kinfolks, son?" he asked as he turned away from the mounds of earth.

"Thar they be. Got no others." The boy's eyes were dry, but lines of his mouth were drawn down at the corners.

"What'll we do with him?" Wahoo asked helplessly.

"I'm goin' with you Rangers," interjected the youngster. "I'm goin' to shoot all the Indians I kin ever lay eyes on!"

"Aw—we can't be traipsin' around the country with a sawed-off, snivelin' little feller like you," Wahoo simulated harshness to cover up the tears which were streaming down his lean face.

"I ain't sniveling," was the defiant answer. "An' I ain't sawed off."

"We'll take you along with us a little ways, but first chance we get we're going to unload you," temporized Jeff.

"Thanks, Rangers," answered the kid simply as he gave a hand to each of his new friends.

The three pals are reunited

"An' don't forget railroad payrolls . . ." interrupted Jeff.

"Don't tell me, I know!" Sam danced around the table. "You Rangers have the inside on everything . . . you're in a position to get dates, amounts, if and how they're protected. . . ."

"Why, we ain't even scratched the surface yet," cried Wahoo as he reached for another hunk of spring chicken with which Maria had just refilled the big platter. "They say crime don't pay," he added as he sank his teeth into the succulent meat. "But I dunno . . . it tastes purty juicy to me!"

"This is what I'll say," Wahoo was explaining to Jeff as the two rode back toward the Ranger camp the next day. "Major, I'll say, 'we ain't seen hide nor hair of them rustlers. Why, thunderin' blazes, we ain't even seen a cow!'" He paused and looked at his companion dubiously. "You think that'll go over?"

"He'll be apologizin' to both of us. . . ." Further talk was interrupted by the sound of rifle fire—and the much fainter sound of Indian war cries.

"It's down the flat!" shouted Jeff. They plunged spurs into their horses and galloped off in the direction from which the sounds had come.

Ten minutes later they dismounted and from behind an outcropping of boulders surveyed the scene unfolding in a little valley beneath them. There a small crude ranch house, a corral, a barn and a few outbuildings were surrounded by a band of eight Indians who were rid-

Summer Health Hints For Children

By SHIRLEY W. WYNNE M.D., Dr. P.H. Former Health Commissioner New York, N. Y.

MOTHERS today recognize the vital importance of cleanliness in health, and frequently inquire how often they should bathe their babies during the Summer.

Babies should be given a full bath with a pure, mild, white soap and water, night and morning. They should be bathed whenever their diapers are changed and on hot days should be given quick sponge baths frequently. Of course they should be dried thoroughly, but gently. Remember, their skin is tender and will not stand vigorous rubbing. That is why a pure, mild, white soap is so important. They should be powdered lightly with talcum, but be careful that the baby's mouth and nose are protected, to prevent him from inhaling the powder.

Older children should be permitted to bathe as frequently as they wish, provided they do not bathe immediately after eating, and do not become chilled. They should, of course, have at least one bath with warm water and soap each day.

Since children play out of doors almost exclusively in warm weather and wear little clothing, a bath after playing, with a generous lather of soap, is indicated.

Of course, children, like grown-ups, should wash their hands thoroughly before they eat, when they leave the lavatory, and before retiring.

Cleanliness is the greatest defender of health against illness and communicable diseases; and cleanliness is within the reach of all. Soap is cheap and water is plentiful. The will to be clean is all that we have to supply.
