In celebration of American Education Week, which begins Monday, November 9, and continues thru November 15, schools of the county will have programs in line with the Educational theme of the week.

Beginning Monday morning at 9 a. m. the first program will be held in the local High School gym, with a special invitation being extended to parents, patrons and friends of the school.

Poluhni and His Company of Swiss Bell Ringers will be the "ringer" on the program, which promises to be one of music and mystery. On this program also will be Johnny Poluhni, Boy Magician and Telepathist. This aggregation is billed as "20 years Leading Entertainers on the Large Lyceum and Chataqua Programs," and should be a treat for music and mystery lovers.

STOUT FURNITURE COMPANY NOW OPEN HERE WITH MANY VALUES

Stout's Furniture Company, with F. M. Stout as manager, has just recently opened its doors on West Main Street in the location which was formerly Sout's Garage.

Although Mr. Stout's stock is not yet complete, considerable furniture has been received and is being received every day, to make this one of Gatesville's popular furniture stores.

Elliott Sadler, who has been visiting his father, H. P. Sadler, of this city for the past week returned to his home in Los Angeles, California, Tuesday night. Mr. Sadler is an employee of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of that city.

Mrs. A. L. Pennington has been confined to her bed on account of illness for the past two days.

Merchants Say "Uh-Huh" When Asked to Close 11th

Thru the efforts of the City Secretary, Eiland Lovejoy, merchants of Gatesville have decided almost unanimously to close their doors on Armistice Day, Wednesday, November 11, and celebrate with the rest of the lucky individuals who will go places and see things—at least those who don't stay home and rest.

On that date, which is Wednesday of next week, the Hornets take on the Hamilton High School football team on Hamilton's local gridiron, and there will be many other interesting places to go on that date.

Those who signed to close are: Guaranty Bank & Trust Co.,

A free trip to the great International Livestock Show at Chicago has just been won by Fred Koch Jr., 4-H Club member of the Plainview 4-H Club. This trip with all expenses paid, comes as a reward to Fred for his consistent effort in 4-H Club work. Fred's own story follows:

"My first club work was done in 1927. I used as my demonstration a Duroc barrow. I did not feed enough protein, which caused him to get down in his front legs. It was during this first year's work that I learned the value of a self-feeder. Had I used a self-feeder that year my pig would have done much better.

I did not have a project during the two succeeding years, due to the fact that I was discouraged and had no one to urge me on in 4-H Club work. In 1930 I fed two Duroc barrows. One for the spring show and one for the fall show. This year I used a self-feeder and plenty of protein in the feed. In the spring shows I won third place in the county and fifth place in the state show at Fort Worth. In the fall show I won first and second in the county.

"In 1931 I fed one Duroc barrow under the supervision of County Agent Snell. I did better with this pig than I had done with any of the others. It gained on an average of 2½ pounds per day. I took the barrow to the county fair and won first place. At the State fair at Dallas I won fifteenth place.

"The following year I fed another Duroc barrow. This barrow was shown at the State show but failed to win anything. I did not have any other projects until this year.

"This year I started feeding two Duroc barrows that I had on hand at the beginning of the year. I fed them until March 7, at which time we took them to the Houston show. I fed the barrow very similar to the ones I fed in previous years, using a ration of shelled corn, corn meal and protein, with oats as a grazing pasture. This year I had a new self-feeder that had some improvements over the older feeders I had used. I found that at all times, plenty of fresh drinking water should be placed before the hogs. From the time I began feeding the barrows up until show time they gained approximately 2½ pounds per day. At the show I won sixth and tenth places on barrows. The prize money was $6.00. I sold the barrows at the auction after the show at $10.00 per cwt.

"I did so well with these bar-

All Penalties Cut Off Delinquent Taxes if Paid by Jan. 31, 1937

Best news since Roosevelt's re election. That is, if you owe the city back taxes.

City Fathers in Council meeting assembled Tuesday night, voted to remit all penalties and interest on taxes due the City of Gatesville on the Delinquent Tax Roll, if these are paid by January 31, 1937, according to City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy.

Citizens are urged to check their taxes with the City Secretary and avail themselves of this opportunity to clear up without having to pay the interest and penalties on this property.

R. E. West is reported ill this week.

rows I decided to buy two more pigs and feed them for the fall shows. On June 15 I bought a registered Duroc gilt and a Poland China barrow from Texas A. and M. College. I fed these with a self-feeder, using corn and protein, with sudan for pasture. I found feeding a gilt a very different process from that of feeding a barrow. They have to be watched to keep from putting on too much weight, while that is the main object to be attained in feeding a barrow. On October 3rd we took the gilt to the Texas Centennial Exposition at Fort Worth, however, no prize was won on her. I am going to keep her for breeding purposes. The barrow will be shown in Waco beginning October 29. From there he will be taken to the Dallas Centennial Show beginning November 7. After the show the barrow will be sold."

Club work when entered into wholeheartedly, offers great opportunities to boys. The boys who won this trip will see and hear many things they might never have an opportunity to see and hear if they were paying their own way. Fred is one of 19 in Texas to win this trip. Coryell County is justly proud of his accomplishments and appreciates the efforts of his present leader, A. E. Whisenhunt, who is acting as leader of the Plainview 4-H Club.

November 19, burnt cork, grease paint, stage drops, wings, wing collars, fast stepping music, and all the other favorite earmarks of the colorful minstrel will be the dish for theatre goers hereabouts when Gatesville high school students will "pull" their minstrel, for the benefit of the high school annual which is to be published by the Senior Class of 1937.

The Program will include, "The Four Jacks," Jack O' Diamonds, Jack Straw; Jack O' Hearts, Jack Hestlow; Jack O' Clubs, Jack Hearne, and Jack O' Spades, Jack Reesing.

Bob Thomas is the Interlocutor. Solos will be by Jack Hearn, John Rufus Colgin, and C. W. Wallace. Belva McCoy will furnish the accompaniments. It is an old time black face minstrel, with the Modernistic Review.

Other members of the cast including the Hunt Chorus, are: Eloise Cook, Mary Ann Post, Francis Brown, Annie Ruth Witt, Jane Thomson, Jean Pattillo, Mildred Gandy, Gladys Marie Phillips, Helen Walley, Bertha Lillian Stewart, Danny Crist, Foster Hinson, Edwin McDonald, and Duncan Kirkpatrick. Those in the Evening Chorus are Rosylen Anderson Anita Lowrey, Marjorie Flentge, Frances McCoy, Patsy Olsen, Nell Goodall, Dorothy Dillshaw, and Helon Chamlee.

Many other features of the minstrel will be announced as arrangements are completed.

WESTERN AUTO ASSOCIATE AND OTHER STORES SHOW REMARKABLE GROWTH

W. T. Hix, owner and manager of the local Western Auto Associate Store, calls attention to the remarkable growth of the Western Auto Supply Company and Associate Stores.

Twenty-seven years ago the company was founded with one small store. It was in 1909, the year Henry Ford brought out his first Model T car. From that small beginning, the company has grown to its present 170 stores in the principal cities of America. Sales, which in 1935 fell just short of $20,000,000 will surpass that amount by a large margin in 1936. Sales for the first nine months of this year show an increase of more than 22 per cent over the same months of 1935.

In years gone by Western Auto was considered a "man's store" but this year, the addition of lines appealing to feminine customers have changed that. According to Mr. Hix, the percentage of women customers is rapidly increasing.

In addition to the 170 stores, there are over 500 associate stores which makes it convenient for customers in most any town in the United States to trade with this company.

Mrs. J. B. Jones is visiting relatives in Belton this week.

ELECTION ANALYSIS

Crushing Go. Alfred M. Landon under an avalanche of popular and electoral votes, President Roosevelt led his New Deal and the Democratic party to the greatest election triumph in the last century of American history. Not since 1820, when President James Monroe was re-elected over John Quincy Adams with only one dissenting vote, has the nation voted so near to unanimity.

With almost half the total vote in, President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner are ahead in forty-six states with a total of 523 electoral votes. Governor Landon, the Republican nominee, is assured of only two states, Maine and Vermont, with a total of 8 electoral votes.

Early returns placed New Hampshire in the G. O. P. column by a narrow margin but Wednesday continued gains by the President put the state in the Roosevelt-Garner column.

The Republican nominees—Landon and Knox—lost their home states of Kansas and Illinois, respectively. Roosevelt won 2 to 1 in Illinois and is increasing a small lead in Kansas. The rock-ribbed G. O. P. stronghold of old—Pennsylvania, birthplace of Landon—swung into the Democratic column by a sizable plurality—the first time in 80 years that the state has gone Democratic.

New York, home State of President Roosevelt, swung heavily into the Democratic ranks in the earliest returns and the plurality for the President has been steadily increasing there. Texas rolled up a tremendous majority for the Roosevelt-Garner ticket. All the Southern States which had witnessed intensive activities on the part of disgruntled Democrats gave the Democratic candidates whooping majorities.

From former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, 1928 Democratic presidential candidate and ardent critic of the Roosevelt Administration, came these words, following the news of the Democratic landslide: "Let us all put our shoulder to the wheel and co-operate with the President."

Governor Landon has made no statement, but early Wednesday he sent a telegram to President Roosevelt, congratulating him on his victory. In his message, Governor Landon told the President: "The Nation has spoken and the people will abide by the verdict."

At this writing, it looks as if the Democratic plurality might reach 9,000,000, far surpassing the 7,000,000 lead of Roosevelt over Hoover in 1932 and the 6,000,000 plurality given Hoover over Smith in 1928.

No returns of any consequences have been made on the Congressional and gubernatorial races. The Associated Press does report 21 Democratic governors far in the lead and three with small majorities over Republican opponents. The indications are that the Democratic majorities in the Senate and House will surpass those of the last four years. Seventy Democrats were in the last Senate and 321 in the House. Two stalwart Republicans, Senator Borah of Idaho and Representative Bertrand Snell of New York, came thru over Democratic opponents.

SENATOR POAGE EXPLAINS NEW LAWS RECENTLY PASSED BY LEG.

Waco, Nov. 3. This is election day and I want to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation to all of the loyal Democrats over the 11th Congressional District, who have today expressed their confidence in me regardless of their position last July. After all, this is one of the great features of Democracy—a willingness to accept the will of the majority, and, while I will not forget or fail to appreciate the splendid compliment paid to me personally by those who supported me in the Primary election, I am also mindful that I will be the Representative that this District will have in the next House, and I feel keenly the great responsibility. I shall do my best to fairly represent all of the people of all of the District.

There may be those who will not approve of what the Called Session did, but no one can say that it did nothing as has been the complaint against so many sessions of the past. This thirty day session of the Legislature passed on every important measure that was brought before it, including the financing of the old age pension by new taxes, important changes in the pension set-up, authorization of interest bearing warrants, transfer of funds into the pension fund, the establishment of a State system of unemployment insurance and about forty-one other bills, including validating measures, local bills, etc., as well as a number of resolutions such as the one I introduced interpreting the pension law and the one authorizing the use of State Highway machinery in flood control work along the Brazos.

The unemployment insurance bill has as its primary object the meeting of the Federal requirements so that the employees of this State may get the benefits of the tax that must in any event be paid by the employers of the State. The Federal law levies a tax of 1 per cent in 1936, 2 per cent in 1937, and 3 per cent each year thereafter on all payrolls of eight or more engaged in most industries, except agriculture and public service. This tax goes into the general Federal revenue and is collectible regardless of whether or not Texas passes any kind of unemployment insurance act. However, if a State passes an unemployment insurance act that is approved by the Federal Social Security Board (and we expect the Texas Act to be so approved), and levies a tax to support it, the Federal Government will give credit on its tax for all sums paid the State up to 9-10 of the Federal tax. We have, therefore, fixed the Texas State tax at 9-10 of one per cent for 1936, 1.8 per cent for 1937, and 2.7 for each year thereafter. In this way the Texas law will not impose any additional burden on Texas industry and Texas workers will be given the benefit of this unemployment insurance. The tax works this way: If a Texas industry has a payroll of $1,000,000 for 1936, the Federal tax is $1,000. The State tax is $900, but the industry will pay only $1,000—not $1,900. The State tax is due and payable prior to January 15th, 1937. The taxpayer pays $900 to the State and gets a receipt. He then takes that receipt and $100 and satisfies his $1,000 tax obligation to the Federal Government. If Texas had no unemployment insurance, he would still have to pay the full $1,000 to the Federal Government.

As it is under the law just passed, the $900 collected by the State goes into a special unemployment insurance fund from which the eligible employees (those on whose wages the tax has been paid) will be entitled to receive definite benefits in case of unavoidable unemployment. These payments or benefits will be in proportion to the wages of the individual—in other words, the plan is but a system of insurance, and the premiums are the taxes paid to the Federal Treasury, but the Federal Government will pay all costs of administration of the fund so that for practical purposes, this 10 per cent will be used for administrative purposes and all State money will be used for benefits to Texas citizens. While this Act is not of so much direct importance to the agricultural sections, as agricultural workers are not included, it is of tremendous importance to industrial workers, and it is not unlikely it will later be extended to all workers.

Missouri's 198,780 farms in 1935 had a total crop acreage of 13,043,009 with 13,799,706 additional acres in pasture.

A delicious three-course dinner was served the following guests: Misses Lois Walker, Louise Apel, Ruby Petty, Messrs. Schaub-Walker Wedding Sunday morning, Nov. 1 at nine o'clock, Miss Grace Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher Walker of Spring Hill, became the bride of Hilmer Schaub, son of Mrs. George Schaub of the Plainview community, in a ceremony conducted by Rev. M. M. Chunn at his home on East Leon street.

The bride wore an attractive frock of navy Tiara crepe made on long lines with a single chrysanthemum on the shoulder. She chose brown accessories.

Miss Lois Walker, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and wore a dress of ming green and carried brown accessories.

The groom had as best man, Roy S. Gaines, of Stephenville.

After attending services at the First Methodist church of this city the party returned to the home of the bride's parents where the wedding dinner was served. The rooms were beautifully decorated with marigolds and yellow chrysanthemums. The dining table was laid with a white linen cloth centered with a bouquet of marigolds, and a lovely wedding cake iced in white, graced one end of the table.

Others attending the wedding ceremony and bridal dinner were Miss Ruby Petty of Slater and George Schaub, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Schaub is a graduate of the local high school and the groom has attended the Plainview school and is at present farming near Spring Hill where they will make their home. Their many friends wish for them much happiness and success in their future together.

UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS WILL CELEBRATE BIRTH NOV. 10

On November 10, the Marine Corps will celebrate its birth, 161 years ago at the Old Tun Tavern on the Delaware waterfront in Philadelphia, when Major Samuel Nicholas mustered a few public spirited citizens in a secret meeting in the Masonic Lodge rooms of the tavern behind the dim lights of flickering candles. Less than 20 of them swore allegiance to defend their country, homes, and families against invaders. Ever since that night, the marines have been making and promoting tradition among young and old Americans. Since then, they have been "from the Halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli," in Japan, China, Korea, Abyssinia, Sumatra, Egypt, the Fiji Islands, the West Indies, the Philippines, Formosa, Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Panama, Nicaragua, and at other places all over the world too numerous to mention. Their record in France during the World War is known—the feats of bravery of its individuals, the performances of its organizations, are spread on the pages of history.

HOW I BECAME A RADIO STAR

by
CHARLES BUTTERWORTH

It's always made my blood boil to hear people say, "Butterworth... Charles Butterworth... you know... that absent-minded fellow." And yet as I look back over my career, what else but amnesia could have caused me to drift from the throes of law, through newspaper work, to the musical comedy stage, then to the screen and now to radio.

Believe me, my clients, when I say that I had always wanted to be a lawyer. You will admit the very thought of an English barrister with his rather attractive wig (which I later learned American solicitors never don) might appeal to any youthful imagination. And for some reason, so it was with me. I accepted law as a career. The Butterworth tradition held that the eldest son had always born the torch of his generation, but this time the whiskers of Old Man Time were due to be singed.

Picture me if you can, after admittance to the Indiana Bar—ready to hurl myself at the doors of justice. And now try to follow me still further. Almost overnight, Fate altered the course of a carefully planned career. In some manner just enough printer's ink had stained my hands, and I was lured into a New York newspaper office which catapulted me on my way towards the bright lights of Broadway, past rows of sardonic critics and up on the American stage of comedy and jest.

I wanted to be serious and write seriously, but my boss accepted all of my work as a joke. Things I said and did would dispatch him into gales of laughter. I got pretty discouraged. Then I was asked to make a speech at a Press Club function. I spent sleepless nights preparing it, but I flopped... at least what I said in all sincerity sent everyone into fits of laughter. Now I was really beginning to feel low. The morning brought good news, but not satisfaction. Some scout thought my serious address had been amusing to him. He finally talked me into signing a stage contract. And so I appeared in "Americana," "Flying Colors" and "Good Boy" and woke up one day in Hollywood.

My introduction to radio was provoked by more absent-mindedness. This time it was my old friend, Fred Astaire, who forgot that I was alleged to be a comedian, and engaged me as a talent scout for his Tuesday night series over NBC. But in truth the new assignment was second nature to me for I really discovered such stars as Greta Garbo and Carole Lombard. Say, I almost forgot—it was the Butterworth eye which uncovered Astaire himself.

This man is reading small type on grey paper in light inadequate for less exacting seeing tasks.

The new Light Meter measures light as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature.

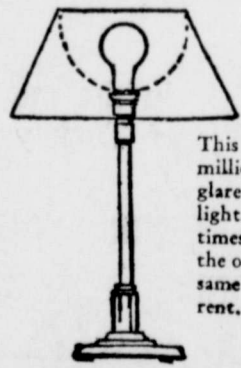

Adequate lighting sharpens the contrast between paper and type, making reading easy for this man.

The Light Meter Tells Why!

BOTH of these men have normal eyesight. The seeing task is the same. The difference is the amount of light falling upon the papers. The Light Meter shows that the man at the left is straining his eyes under less than five footcandles of light... while the man at the right enjoys comfortable reading with better than 30 footcandles.

Now, thanks to the world's largest research laboratories, the lighting in your home can be measured as accurately as a thermometer measures temperature! Held under your reading lamp, the scientific new Light Meter tells instantly how much light you are getting and how much light you need for seeing without eyestrain.

We'll be glad to make a Light Meter check-up of the lighting in your home without cost or obligation to you. Just phone for an appointment today.

MT. CALM VS. HORNETS IN LAST NIGHT GAME

Changed Gatesville Line-Up to Try And Break Losing Streak

Tonight will see a re-vamped Hornet team on the field. But whether it will perform any differently from the original line-up or not is highly problematical. Such a change, however, is a smart move. It is a certainty that they could do no worse than they have done in the last three games, and any such change should be a welcome one.

Wicker will be retained at left end, but a newcomer will probably see service at the other terminal position. Gibreath, one of the rural aspirants to the club, will probably get the call tonight. A long, rangy lad, he should perform in a creditable manner, although his inexperience will handicap him.

Roy Adams, 160 pounds, and big "Fats" Williams will occupy the tackle posts. "Occupy" is used because that is probably all they will do. Both are large and rugged, but so far have little used their physical attributes. The Hornets could be strongest at their ends and tackles, but their strength so far has been approximately that of a glass of water.

Clovis King will retain his left guard position, and Joe Satterfield, having tried almost all the other positions, will experiment with playing right guard tonight. Satterfield should make a good guard. Although he is light, he is a good blocker and has plenty of speed, which is what the line needs, a fast, blocking guard.

Royce Davis at center completes the renovated Hornet line. Davis has been playing guard and center during the season, and on one or two occasions has played good ball. This changed line may start clicking tonight, and then again it may not.

Little Jackie Hearne will get a chance to show his wares tonight at the quarterback post. In the Clifton and West games when sent in with orders to "open up" he did so in a literally way. His passes, some accurate and, some inaccurate, clicked well enough to cause the enemy some bad moments. How he will act during the course of an entire game, when pressure calls for a steady head and quick thinking, is not known. He may call a smart game. It will be good training for him, as he has another year with the Hornets.

"Fuzzy" Voss has exchanged his tackle berth for that of fullback. A back becoming a linesman is not news, but a linesman making the backfield is news. The boy is rugged enough to smash an enemy line to pieces if he can become sufficiently enraged, but Voss has heretofore adopted an easy-going attitude that has not been in keeping with his physical equipment. A fullback should be somewhat a cross of the mythical "Minotaur" of ancient Crete, and brass monster, half man and half bull, who caused a shortage of the population around Athens during the Perseus' day, and a Mallet locomotive. The Minotaur for his man-eating proclivities and the locomotive for drive.

Baker and Brown will complete the backfield at the half-back posts. Both boys have been showing up well all season, each possessing a great deal of drive for little men. The fans who have been shouting for "more of Brown" will probably get their wish during tonight. During his spasmodic appearances on the gridiron he has brought the crowd to their feet several times with his "billygoat ramming" tactics, and the team will need all the yardage he can drive for tonight.

Today Mt. Calm has a slightly dubious record. They started out by being a "pushover" for their early season opponents, losing to Mart by a score of 52 to 0, and to other teams by nearly as bad scores.

The worm has turned, however. The McGregor Bulldogs, although they are one of the weakest teams in the conference, were slated to beat Mt. Calm by a comfortable margin. The final whistle of the game however found the Bulldogs trailing behind a close score of 7 to 6.

Last Friday night Mt. Calm staged what is dramatically called an "upset" when they tied the powerful Valley Mills Eagles. The paper figurers may now get busy. What will be the outcome of tonight's game? Gatesville barely beat Valley Mills 13 to 7, and instead of improving the Hornets have seemed to steadily grow worse.

All comparisons indicate that the game is little more than a tossup, with Mt. Calm perhaps having a slight edge due to the Hornet's drastic shakeup.

Tonight is the Hornet's last chance to perform under the lights. Now, if ever, is the time to win a game to create interest once more in the Armistice Day game with Hamilton and the Thanksgiving Day game with McGregor. Another loss at this time would be like giving a freezing man a drink of ice water.

Mt. Calm was inserted in the schedule as a "breather" between the West and Hamilton games, but now has assumed major proportions.

If the Hornets will play tonight as they did in the last night of the West game they have a good chance to defeat Mt. Calm.

If not, then they lose, and losing is monotonous.

Usually a losing team brings forth cries to high heaven from the "experts" that it is the coaches' fault. Such has not been the case in this particular instance. Worley and Schwarz are both smart coaches. It is true that in some instances a team's losing streak can be credited to the coach, but in this case it can be credited to the boys themselves.

To speak politely, the losses so far can be marked up to lack of aggressiveness on the team's part. Without a fighting heart no team can win, even though their material and coaching be of the best. It is a real tribute to the fans to say that no one has demanded the coaches' scalps or blamed them for a ragged season.

"WALKING ON AIR," ROMANTIC MELANGE, COMING TO REGAL SATURDAY

Something timely, different, and amusingly mad in romantic comedy will hit the screen of the Regal theatre Saturday nite at 10:30, continuing Sunday and Monday, with the opening of "Walking On Air," co-starring Gene Raymond and Ann Sothern and featuring Jessie Ralph and Henry Stephenson.

Taken from the widely-read Cosmopolitan Magazine story, "Count Pete" by Francis C. Cockrell, this latest Raymond-Sothern feature is parallel to their recent "Hooray for Love" only in that, although not a musical, it is spiced with hit music and gives them plenty of opportunity to sing while romping through unusual heart tangles. The melodies include "Cabin On the Hilltop," "My Heart Wants to Dance" and "Let's Make a Wish."

The story draws sophisticated humor and good-natured horseplay out of an adventurous young college graduate's madcap solution of the unemployment problem. The hilarity starts when Raymond hires himself out to Miss Sothern, a wilful and uncontrollable Beverly Hills heiress, to help her overcome her father's objections to a fortune-hunter with whom she fancies herself in love. The complications set in when Raymond falls in love with his employer after doing much too well at his job, which is to pose as an insufferably arrogant foreign nobleman and to insult her father and aunt to thoroughly that they will consider the favored suitor a rare catch by comparison.

Considerable comedy is added to the swift-paced and unexpected happenings when Henry Stephenson, playing Miss Sothern's father, engages one of Raymond's college pals to manhandle anyone attempting to romance with his headstrong daughter. Gordon Jones, ex-Pacific Coast football star, portrays the burly bodyguard who doesn't penetrate Raymond's disguise until he has done some of his best body-guarding.

CARNIVAL TO BE GIVEN AT DAVIDSON SCHOOL ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Everyone is invited to attend and enjoy plenty of good entertainment. No admission charges are to be made.

Big Aluminum Foundries Busy

Tapping a 30-ton reverberatory furnace at the Bohn Aluminum foundry in Detroit.

THIS is rapidly becoming an Aluminum Age. Streamlined railroad trains, automobiles, trucks, bicycles, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, Diesel engines and a tremendous array of important machines, devices and utensils are employing the light metal. As a result the big foundries turning out Bohnalite and other important aluminum alloys are working overtime to keep up with the demand.

Engineering and industry wants combined lightness, strength and durability. The story of aluminum as made today in these advanced foundries resembles the early history of steel. Like the older meterial it can be made in every type of form from the finest wire to forgings of tremendous strength and castings of mammoth size. Weighing only one-third as much as iron it can be made as strong as mild steel. So many industries are finding this material to be of value that almost daily new uses are discovered. Not only does it eliminate dead-weight but is valuable from the standpoint that it is easily workable in many forms and has extremely high heat conductivity. Your vacuum cleaner, lawn mower, bicycle or kitchen utensil is just as apt to be made of aluminum as are many of the important parts of your automobile.

ENTERTAINMENT AT FLAT PROMISES NOT TO BE "FLA"

"Carnival" is the heading for the entertainment to be held tonight, Friday night, at Flat high school, and is followed a cosle second by the stage play, "The Womanless Wedding," a comedy-drama in enough acts to make your sides hurt from laughter.

Other entertainment features include side shows, chili, sandwich, coffee and candy booths, plus the small admission charge which will be charged for entrance into the 'carnival grounds.' Under auspices of the school, the profits are to be used in buying playground equipment, according to Mr. Humphries, superintendent.

Possibly every student in GHS realizes what school spirit is and how important and essential it is in school activities. Spirit is enthusiasm, energy, and inspiration. All these qualities are vital in our school life. We have spirit it all phases of school activities, but at the present, spirit is needed in our football situation. The Hornets have lost three games by large margins and these are enough to dampen the spirit of almost anyone, but it is at times like this that spirit must be dominating. Our standing in our district now is .250 per cent, which means that the district crown is as far away as it was last year, but we have three games to play. Although winning is the uppermost thought in the minds of the school and students, it isn't always everything. When we lose a game, let's lose it like gentlemen and there will be no disgrace attached to it. The greatest thing we can salvage from a defeat is the respect of the opposing team and of the opposing eleven's fans. Show them that we are with our team and our coaches. Spirit is loyalty.

Campus Lowdown

Here's hoping the Hornets will calm the Mount Calm eleven tonight. That bell in the elementary building was strangely silent last Friday, (the ringing of it would have been sweet music). Skeet McLarty is squiring the McCoy femme (the brunette) these days; wonder if he will start 'seein' Nellie Home' when Nell Routh returns from her eastern jaunt. Miss Durham asked oe of her dumber studes for a sentence with the word 'debris' in it and this is the answer: 'De breez was blowing through the trees.' In the minstrel, Hedy Wallace croons to Anita, (the lucky stiff). Red Phillips received that post script from Weatherford. Overheard at Joe Satterfield's dance Saturday nite—"I'd marry you if I wasn't drunk" to which the skirt retorted, "For heaven's sake, sober up." Prof. McLaughlin has a record entitled Breeze Blow My Baby Back to Me. Danny Crist is an amateur photographer. Orchid's to Odell Moore's editorial. Miss Forelikes to discuss politics. Theme song of an absent-minded professor—Did I Remember. After hearing one of Mr. McLaughlin's jokes, we feel like changing his name to McLaffing. Danny Crist thinks the word infinite means something that's kept in a cradle. Alvis Ingram is exchanging his black gold uniform for the white ducks of a gob. The way the office boys strut is amusing—they are trying to impress the freshmen mostly. Our weekly simile: As arid as an essay. At the senior gettogether someone was telling about fortifying themselves against a Negro mob, and Bob Thomas wanted to know if their arms consisted of niggershooters. Cookie Cook thinks Coach Earle Worley is oneswell guy—and so do three hundred and fifty other studes. Spanish-version of Me and the Moon—"I'm Afraid of the Don." Dunking is ancient—one of Chaucer's characters dipped his bread into a cup wine every morning.

Sport Flashes from GHS

By Jack Straw

Who's Who in the Hornets Camp.

Last week we started a column in the paper known as Sport Flashes from GHS. This column will appear in the paper every week until school closes. The purpose of this one is to let the people of Gatesville know about everything that is happening in school that is in the line of sports. Last week we reviewed the games that the Hornets have played thus far. This week we will tell the readers of this column, if there are any, about the boys that play for Gatesville.

At end there are Foy Wicker and Joe Satterfield. These may not be the starting ends at each game, but there are the most recent starters. Some other candidates for end will be mentioned later on, as will the other men that are not mentioned this week. Foy Wicker hails from Mound and played on the Hornet team last year, while Joe Satterfield, ineligible last year, and started out in the backfield this year. He has been shifted to end lately because of his blocking ability. At guard we have Cotton Davis and Clovis King. Davis is from Gatesville and this is his second year as regular guard, while King comes from Plainview and last year played center. At tackle there is Bester Williams and also Harry Voss. This is Williams first year as a regular and he comes from Pidoke. Voss did not play last year, but has won himself a regular position because of his ability. At center there is C. H. Wallace who is captain this year, and his first year at center. In the backfield there is John R. Colgin at quarterback. He hails from Gatesville and played halfback last season. At the halfback posts we have J. C. Byrom and Joe Baker. J. C. played at the halfback position last season, but Joe Baker was hurt early in the season and was not able to play last year. Last but not least is Douglas White at fullback. He comes from Arnett and was ineligible last year.

Eleven more players will be given next week.

Pep Squad

The Pep Squad is planning a stunt for the Mount Calm game tonight and according to Miss Durham the weather will have to be very bad to keep them from it. The pep squad as well as the team have struck it pretty hard in weather conditions this year. The girls have been able to put on only two stunts this season. These were at the Bruceville-Eddy and the Clifton games. Both were carefully planned and carried out well.

The pep squad has learned a new song and a new yell. The song is:

Hit that tackle,
 Hit that guard,
 Hit that halfback,
 Hit him hard.
 Grab that ball and go to town,
 Carry that pigskin 'round and 'round;
 Make a goal, woa ho ho,
 Make a goal,
 Make a goal, woa ho ho,
 Make a goal.

Wave that banner,
 Beat that drum,
 Have some fun,
 Give a yell and make it loud.
 We want to have some noise from the crowd,
 Make it loud, woa ho ho,
 Make it loud;
 Make it loud, woa ho ho,
 Make it loud.
 The yell is:
 T-T-T-E-A-M
 F-F-F-I-T-E
 T-E-A-M F-I-T-E
 Team Fight!

Chapel

Following the opening song, He Leadeth Me, the student body of the high school enjoyed a very interesting talk by Rev. C. A. Morton of the First Baptist church. He discussed the difficulties of life and our power to overcome them, using as his leading example the inspirational life of Helen Keller. After hearing this talk the student body is anxious to have Rev. Mr. Morton to speak to them again.

FFA at Fair

The FFA chapter to Gatesville attended the Brazos Valley Free Fair Saturday, October 31.

This fair was held at Waco on the Cotton Palace grounds. The group was carried in two of our local school busses.

Saturday has been set aside for the FFA and 4-H club students. It was a success, for approximately 1,000 FFA and 4-H club members were present. There were a number of exhibits of various kinds of products and livestock.

The Gatesville chapter has been very busy the last few weeks collecting an exhibit. The chapter showed twenty different (Continued on page 7) caused this!

"Colds" are dangerous! Leading doctors tell us that fifty per cent of all disabling diseases START with a "common cold." Thus the COLD GERM becomes America's Public Health Enemy Number One.

Any sudden change in temperature as you go from a warm room into a cold one disturbs the heat-regulating apparatus of the body and makes it susceptible to cold germ attacks. Even the brief time that it takes to answer the telephone in an unheated hall is sufficient. Fight against "colds." They create a condition of depressed physical vitality which is favorable to infection and aid the progress of serious organic diseases that frequently result in death.

If your home is inadequately heated... if you "huddle" in one room during winter, sudden temperature changes are unavoidable. Your family goes from an over-heated room where the temperature has climbed as much as ten degrees past the point necessary for comfort, into a cold hall or adjoining room; then shivering and chilled, they return to the heated room. This happens many times a day. Each time it happens they have made themselves susceptible to highly communicable winter diseases.

Fight colds this winter with proper ventilation and adequate heat IN EVERY ROOM IN THE HOME.

LONE STAR GAS SYSTEM

The common cold germ is a constant threat to your well-being during the winter season. If you do catch cold—don't gamble; consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

LITTLE HOWIE

Howard Forman was an innocent seven-months old babe when a delivery truck out of control mounted a sidewalk, hit the perambulator in which his mother was wheeling him, and knocked the mother down. Mrs. Fordman sued the store which owned the truck and received a substantial settlement for her injuries. The matter, apparently, was closed.

Five years later little Howie's parents brought suit for $50,000. Howie's brain, they alleged, had been injured in the accident, and he had been rendered mute.

The suit was contested and at the trial seven doctors— eminent specialists in neurology, psychiatry, brain treatment, etc.—testified that the boy was unable to speak.

The defense had one ace in the hole—a street sweeper on the street where the Fordmans lived. He testified that the boy had conversed with him many times.

It was suggested that little Howie and two of his playmates be brought into the judge's chambers and allowed to play there. This was done. After a little while one of the other boys pinched Howie, and Howie yelled. The bailiff came running in.

"Here," he said, "we don't stand for pinching in this court. Howie who pinched you?"

"That big slob," said Howie, the boy who couldn't talk. When he perceived that the judge and counsel were were listening he became a clam again, but it was too late.

The judge made a speech to the jury which ended:

"This sort of thing has been attempted so often in our city that it has become a stench in the nostrils of all decent men. The court feels that it cannot allow this brazen and audacious attempt go unchallenged. The case is dismissed. I commit this woman in default of bail in the sum of $10,000 and direct the District Attorney to proceed against her."

CHAPTER I

IT ALL started back there in Crebillon, Louisiana, just after the big war. I had a white cottage out on the edge of town, with a high fence around it so that from the outside nobody could see my garden unless they were coming down the high road from the graveyard, and I reckon when they came down that cemetery road they weren't in the mood to pay attention to Carrie Snyder.

But whenever Mr. Yonne came he liked to see me out among the flowers in my pink sunbonnet with my yellow gloves on and a rake or hoe or green watering-pot in my hand.

"Hello, Carrie," Phil said. "I didn't bring the boy. Evidently he's one human being in the good graces of old Lon, and I reckon Lon lets him ride up with him sometimes to make the trains. When the taxi stopped out there he got off Lon's seat, said he wanted a drink of water, and came on in. Lon said no, he could get a drink of water when they got down to the hotel. But he came on in just the same.

"I'll draw him up a fresh bucket," I said. "You can go in and shake up something for yourself. You'll find all the necessaries on the dining-room table. There's ice in the box."

I drew up a bucket of water, the but he felt that somehow it was forbidden. My neck and face were getting hot.

"Yes," I rushed on, "and I know who you are. You're Paul Darnley and your father keeps the hardware store in the Petipas Block. And your mother isn't so well. I know your mother's cook, Ellen Belle."

"Gee, you know all about me, don't you? Your eyes are so blue, Miss Carrie," he went on. "My mother's are gray. And your hair is such a color, like yellow corn-silk, only it's kind of frizzy. We had a hen once and its feathers were all frizzy."

"Where is the hen now, Paul?" "Ellen Belle stewed her with

"Hello, Carrie," Phil said. "I didn't bring the boy. When the taxi stopped out there he got off Lon's seat, said he wanted a drink of water and came on in."

He would always wire in advance when he was coming. "Cannonball tomorrow," he'd wire the day before, so when I heard it whistle down below the sawmill on Bayou Dubac that July afternoon I was pretty nearly ready for him and the makings of his pet Sazeracs were on the dining-room table.

Whenever Lon Olds was bringing one of my out-of-town friends down from the station he would blow his horn twice on the all up back of my garden. Hearing him blow now, I put on my gloves, picked up the rake, and got out among the flowers.

I saw Phil Yonne come from behind the arbor. I saw him turn and heard him talking to someone. Then Paul came into view. Phil gave that big laugh of his. He took off his Panama and waved it at me.

"Come out of that garden, Maude Sunbonnet," he called, "and look after your friends."

He was a bossy person, but he had a right to be. He was United States Marshal for that district.

I stepped slowly out of the flowers into the narrow red-brick walk, and moved into the shade by the well under the chinaberry tree. Paul was standing by the well looking gravely at me. Not timidly or suspiciously or accusingly—he was just taking me in, judging me quickly by those unknown standards that independent little boys use. Independent little boys, the freest creatures in God's world.

rusty old-fashioned windlass squealing like a stuck pig. Paul looked up at it. "I bet," he said, "if you put axle grease on it—"

"Yes," I said, "and if the axle grease got hot and dropped down into the well . . ."

"Oh, sure, I see."

I took the old brown gourd off its nail on the side of the well-curbing and filling it with water offered it to Paul.

"You first, Miss Carrie," he said. "I didn't want any water, but I could no more refuse those clear brown eyes than I could have—well, I just couldn't. So I lifted my head and drank and drank."

"You drink like a horse," Paul said gravely.

I wanted to laugh, so I choked and sputtered and threw the rest of the water out on the red-brick pavement around the well.

"I mean," he went on quickly, "I could see the water going down your throat in big bunches, only your throat is so white and smooth and nice, not like a horse's."

"Well, that makes everything all right," I said.

He regarded me thoughtfully for a moment. Then he said, "I know who you are—you're Miss Carrie."

It was as if he'd said: "The Miss Carrie, the bad woman of Cemetery Road. Men downtown wink and smile at one another when you pass by."

That was why he was studying me so gravely. He wanted to like me, dumplings and black pepper, and we ate her up. She tasted good, but she was kind of tough."

"Yes, Paul, those blue-eyed, short-haired birds are likely to be kind of tough." I burst out laughing. He began laughing, too, at first a little uncertainly, then as loudly as I. He didn't know what the joke was all about, but he accepted it on faith and jumped into it. Then, just as we were calming down, the sound of the whistle down the bayou at the sawmill came floating forlornly through the woods. I stood up.

"Six o'clock, Paul," I said as if I wished it wasn't.

"Yessum," he said. "Well, I reckon I better be going, Miss Carrie." Slowly he lifted himself out of the chair and pulled the thin cloth cap down over his left eye.

"Thank you, Miss Carrie, for the drink of water—and everything."

"That's all right, Paul." I wanted to say more, much more, but I held it back. It wasn't my way to say to men, "When are you coming again, dearie?"

He stood giving me that grave, appraising, puzzled look of his. Then his face suddenly cleared. "Shucks," he said, "shucks, you're not bad."

When I heard the side gate close I ran around to the front and watched him go down the path toward town, while tears rose in my eyes over my first love, I being thirty-one and he all of seven. Then I went into the house to find Phil.

Wesley Bible Class Gives Party Thurs. Nite

At the home of Mrs. J. E. Franks on East Main street the Ladies Wesley Bible Class of the First Methodist Church of this city enjoyed a Hallowe'en party Thursday evening.

Mexican sunflowers, jack o' lanterns, pumpkins and black cats were used throughout the rooms for decorations and the guests were entertained in various games and contests by Mrs. W. L. Rivers.

At the refreshment hour orange ade and cookies were served approximately, 35 guests. Mrs. T. R. Mears poured the punch assisted by Misses Charlotte and Ruth Rivers.

Mrs. William Wiegand Entertains Friday Night.

Complimenting her daughter, Grace, Mrs. William Wiegand, 405 South 10th street, entertained a group of the honoree's playmates of the 5 X division, Friday evening with a Hallowe'en party.

Hallowe'en motif was carried out in the decorations and refreshments. Mrs. B. K. Cooper, dressed in witch costume, directed various games and contests and foretold the futures of the guests.

Ice cream, goblin cookies, half moon sandwiches, were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. D. R. Boone, and Hallowe'en fortunes were given for favors.

The guests were as follows: Betty Jane Jones, Helon Johnson, Anita Jo Hancock, Mildred Kirkpatrick, Netty Jae Franks, Peggy Strickland, Eloise Thomas, Betty Jo Cantrell, Suzanne Sadler, Charlie Bob Morris, Jonella Richardson, Tom Post Thomson, Clara Sue Davidson, Kenneth, Wallace, Emmely Ament, Sam Powell Jr., James Ried Powell, Joe Boone, Jimmy Dick Thomas, and Charles Francis Caruth.

B. T. U. Has Hallowe'en Party.

The Young People's Union of the Baptist Church were entertained in the home of Miss Leah Dale Franks, Thursday evening. At the door the members were met by a gruesome person, who called herself the "ghost of 1929". She led them into the dimly lighted living room which was decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en motif.

Games were directed by Floy Cooper and M. E. Singleton, assisted by Emma Lera Gregory. After a very enjoyable time of interesting games climaxed by a hair-raising ghost story told in the dark room by M. E. and Doyle Singleton, those present were served, Ritz cracker sandwiches made into faces, hot chocolate and Hallowe'en lollipops. There were also a number of individual exhibits which scored high, as follows: Douglas White, third on cotton club and Future Farmer crops; William McDonald, third on Ren Dent corn; Harry Voss, first on fine wool lambs; George Williams, third on lambs.

A free dinner was served Saturday which was enjoyed by everyone. This fair has proved to be one of the best in this part of the southwest.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics club met Monday, November 2. As it was the first Monday of the month, the club dues were paid. Mrs. Olsen, who takes subscriptions for magazines, made the club an offer in which each member is to solicit subscription and the club will receive all the profits for the club treasury. The offer was accepted by the vote of the club.

The following program was given: "Wise Choice of Books for Girls," by Pauline Turner. "Wise Choice of Friends," by Lillian Smith, and "Wise Choice of Music," by Nell Kelso.

The report was made that the Gatesville Future Homemakers have been affiliated with both the state and the national H. E. Clubs for the year '36-37.

The Press Club

On Monday, November 6, Mr. Mat Jones, editor and publisher of the Coryell County News, addressed members of the Press Club. Mr. Jones explained the five "W's" of a report. He also explained several interesting things about advertising and showed us advertisements which appealed to the different instincts of human beings. Mr. Jones extended an invitation to those who are interested in press work to work with him in the summer for the experience one might gain.

We are looking forward to having Mr. Jones back again, as his talk was greatly enjoyed.

Personals

Doris Johnson spent the week end visiting in Coryell City.

Among the visitors to West Friday to witness the Gatesville-West football game were: Eloise Cook, Annie Ruth Witt, Jane Thomson, Helon Chamlee, Mary Ann Post, Dorothy Dillshaw, Belva McCoy, Frances Brown, Rosylene Anderson, Ruth Hamilton, Bayne Blankenship, Kenneth Anderson and John Frank Post.

Nell Youth is visiting in New York City and other places of interest. She has been gone for several weeks but will return in the near future.

Mrs. Ned Chapman, Misses Louise Carll and Edna Murray were week end visitors in Waco. Mrs. Reesing was ill the first of the week.

Gatesville-Mt. Calm Game

After taking a licking from the West Trojans last week by the score of 26-0, the Hornets will engage the team from Mt. Calm today. Incidentally the Hornets have been struck out the last three times at bat and they should be looking for a home run against Mt. Calm. While the Hornets have been getting beat, the Mt. Calm team beat McGregor 7 to 6 and last week they played a scoreless tie against Valley Mills. The Minnesota team's winning streak was snapped last week by Northwestern. Perhaps the tradition will move this far south and let the Hornets snap their losing streak.

While interviewing some of the guests of the Tea-Dance at West, which Mr. J. R. Saunders most humbly wrote up, we found out that it was a pretty good game.

We pick the Hornets and hope they will break their losing streak by pulling in a 13-7 decision.

Girls Basketball

Interclass games are being played each week in the gym by the girls who are out for basketball. Only two games have been played so far. In the first game the Seniors won 15-9 and in the second the underclassmen won 11-3. Elfreda Apel, Azalea Whisenhunt, and Blanche Clements are outstanding players for the seniors. And we have Utense Sellers, Sarah Hinson, Treva Davis and Mary Evelyn Eubanks are a few of the players for the underclassmen. The third game will be played Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the high school gym. Everyone is invited to attend.

West-Gatesville Game

Using power plays on a muddy field, the Trojans of West HI routed the Hornets, who went down to their third straight defeat, 26 to 0.

West scored three touchdowns in the first half to take a large lead before the game had hardly started. Both of the first two touchdowns were made by passing down to the ten or fifteen yard line and from there using power plays to reach pay dirt.

The third touchdown came early in the second quarter, when Henry Beseda flashingly galloped 77 yards for another West marker.

The Hornets came back fighting the second half and outplayed the Trojans thoroughly. They came near scoring two times only to have penalties late in the fourth quarter when again passed, their way deep down into Hornet territory and plunged it over.

Beseda and Gambol were the shining lights of the West back field. The latter's kicking, passing and hard running being the main features of the Trojan's attack. Arthur, a guard stood out in the line on both offense and defense.

Roy Adams, Hornet tackle, who did not get into the game until the second half, was a raging demon tearing the opposing line to shreds and blocking very effectively.

Home Economics Dept.

One, forgetting for a moment that he had stepped into the Home Economic Department (a special feature of the gymnasium) might exclaim over the home-like appearance of the living room, bath and kitchen.

Modernistic in every respect, it gives the girls an example for their future homes. The very up to the minute gas ranges in the kitchen are the kind we might find in any local home. The spotless kitchen tables, the dainty curtains over the windows, and the large coffee urn all add to the intriguing aspect of every girl to own a home if their own.

The living room with a cozy fire in the fire place, soft chairs, and music from the radio, make one forget there was ever such a thing as school.

The sewing room is quite as busy a place. It has twelve lockers in it. The girls learn to be expert dressmakers, furnish and decorate their homes and be excellent cooks.

Future Formers

The Gatesville chapter of the Future Farmers of A. met last Thursday morning, November 5 in the gym and had their regular meeting.

The first business to come up was the runoff of the chapter Sweetheart contest. The general election was held last Thursday, and the two nominees for the runoff were Anita Lowrey and Belva McCoy.

Other minor business was taken up and disposed of. The meeting adjourned with the regular closing ceremony.

Trains, Buses, Autos Carry Texas Children to Exposition

Happy and carefree, school kids by the thousands are forming a modern cavalcade to the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas these autumn days. They come by train at half cent a mile, they come by bus and in private autos. They get in for half price, they see the shows for half price and they view free attractions that educators have declared are worth weeks spent in school. One hundred thousand children have visited the exposition since the invasion began. None has been hurt, none has lost a piece of luggage, all have been comfortably housed. Officials expect half a million before the exposition closes November 29.
