City Fire Survey Reveals Few Hazards Questionnaires Sent Out Thru School

Gatesville has very few, 53 reported, fire hazards, according to a recent Home Inspection survey conducted by the city, with the assistance of the schools at the request of the State Fire Insurance Commission. Seven out blanks given to them by the authorities, according to Pleas A. Walker, Fire Marshall.

Tabulation of the reports of hazards shows the following:
Rubbish in attic or closets...10
Kerosene used to start fires...3
Chimneys and flues not cleaned 7
Damaged flues 4
Gasoline in house 8
Matches close to fire 7
Fire not protected by screens 3
oil mops, etc. in closets 4
Electric light cords not in good condition 3
Gas connections not tested ... 4

Total 53
Questionnaires sent out brought in many answers from the citizens, but the main idea of the whole survey is to impress on citizens locally, the dangers overlooked every day in our homes which could be easily removed, lessening the fire hazard in the homes.

17 YEAR OLD BOY RESCUES BROTHER

On Friday, October 23, as Virgil Parsons and his younger brother, Royce, were returning home on horseback from the bus line, they found the Cow House River high enough to compel their horse to swim. Nevertheless, they attempted to cross the river where it divides the H. J. Herrington estate and the Thise Valley.

When they were in the midst of the roaring stream, some drift wood hit the horse, and threw the small boy off the horse into the water. Virgil fought his fear for self-protection, and plunged into the water after Royce, thus risking his own life to save his brother. The struggle was difficult, but at last Virgil caught Royce's hand and drew him up to the surface of the water. He could not swim against the current, but by some chance the two were carried on down the stream some forty or fifty yards, where they were able to get out safe and sound.

Virgil is to be commended on the spirit he took, his quick thinking, a calm head, risking his life for a brother, and for the rescuing of Royce.

CASA MANANA AND RACES HOLD FORTH AT FT. WORTH

Texans still have a few days in which to witness both the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial and Arlington Downs races at the same time. The Frontier Centennial closes November 4 while the Arlington Downs Races continue from now until November 28.

New acts have been inserted in the Fall edition of the Casa Manana Revue at the Ft. Worth Centennial show and those who have seen the revised edition say this sensational show is even better now than the summer edition. With the recent closing of Jumbo and the Last Frontier wild west show, Casa Manana and the West Texas building remain as the feature attractions of the Fort Worth Centennial. Over 600,000 people have visited the free Will Rogers Memorial Exhibit which is located in the West Texas Building at Fort Worth.

More than $200,000.00 in purses will be distributed at Arlington Downs to owners of the Nation's best thoroughbreds, & races will be run each day except Sunday, with the $15,000. Waggoner Memorial Handicap race scheduled for November 14. Located mid-way between Fort Worth and Dallas, Arlington Downs makes it possible for visitors to attend the races and see both the Fort Worth and Dallas Centennial Expositions in one trip.

An "electric eye" has been invented to detect the smallest deviations in the thread of silk stockings.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

nting with the camera offers many a thrill. This trophy was "shot" against the light of a clouded sun on supersensitive film.

ANY experienced sportsman who can't be accused of being "ties" have been giving attention to hunting and fishing photography. They are trying to get on, for permanent record and last-enjoyment, flashes of outdoor na that stamp themselves on r memories but which never can adequately pictured in words.

These sportsmen realize that, unone is a dramatic story teller, reenting how the buck deer leaped windfall or how the big trout iped and took the lure that got ght in the alder, does not always t over"; but, to be able to show 's friends an actual picture of h a happening, ah! that is not y convincing but a much greater isfaction. Moreover, camera using rtsmen are taking as much pride their picture trophies as in ring actually shot the game or ght the fish, and rightly so, after covering that to capture wild life h a camera requires as much ll, alertness, and quick thinking with rod or gun.

The advent of the vest pocket and niaure-type cameras, together h modern fast film, is principally possible for adding this new zest the sport of hunting and fishing; eed, for actually creating a new oor sport, because many now t equipped with a camera only. the first place, these cameras are t, small and convenient to carry, e of them weighing scarcely re than a couple of loaded shot- shells. Secondly, the miniature e is available with ultra fast ee and shutter speeds, so that jumping fish or the running antl may be "stopped" on the film hout much chance of showing e. And it is especially these action shots of wild game in native haunts and lairs that the sportsman camerist delights in bringing home. It is almost like "bringing 'em back alive."

Don't suppose, however, that he is able to obtain such pictures with the ease that he snaps the gang around the campfire, or Bill and Joe in the duck stand, or the quiet scenery of lake, mountain or wood. Just as he becomes thoroughly familiar with the operation of his gun and fishing tackle, and practices target shooting and fly casting, so he thoroughly understands his camera and practices using it. He must always be ready for the unforeseen opportunity and acquire dexterity in adjusting focus, stop openings and shutter speeds to the conditions of the moment. Here is the advice of one successful camera hunter:

"Always keep the camera loaded and make a practice of leaving the shutter set at 1/50 second at f.8. This will come nearer being right more times than any other combination for the hurried snapshot. Watch the light conditions as the day wears on and make adjustments accordingly. When the big moment comes, as it will eventually—when the buck comes crashing out into the open and gallops by you, not a hundred feet away—when the big trout has struck and has begun his fight on your pal's line—keep cool, brother, and think quick. You should probably change to 1/200 at f.4.5 (two motions), but, if you don't keep cool, likely as not you will slide the diaphragm pointer in the other direction and get the shutter for "time." Back fever is as fatal to your chances with a camera as it is with a gun."

A WORD TO THE BAPTISTS

It has been the custom of Coryell County Baptist for several years to pack a railroad carload of supplies for Buckner Orphans Home at this season of the year. This good custom is to be kept again this year.

The railroads have discontinued the free service of transporting our offering to the Home but Mr. Ed Melbern of Gatesville and Mr. Frank Lam of Oglesby have graciously and unselfishly offered to truck our gifts to the Home free of charge. I extend a challenge to the Baptists of the county that they match this splendid offer with a worthy offering.

It is a proven fact that a house to house solicit is the most effective manner of securing a worthy offering. Thus I call upon every church to appoint and cooperate with a committee whose duty it shall be to solicit every Baptist home in the community for gifts of cash, clothing, food stuff, canned goods or any other usable commodity. As the committee solicits it should also gather the offering and see that it is taken to Melbern's Mill at Gatesville on or before November 16.

People of other faiths have been splendid to assist in this offering each year and we deeply appreciate this help. It is not our policy to call upon other than our own people but voluntary contributions from our friends will be graciously accepted and appreciated.

The monthly Worker's Meeting will convene with the Gatesville church on Monday November 16, and we are expecting a worthy representation at that meeting from each of the 30 member churches.

I am confident that 5000 Coryell county Baptists will respond worthily to this annual appeal to support our words, the 700 children in Buckner Orphan's Home. They have nothing except what Baptist give.

Signed: Brooks Sasse, Moderator Leon River Baptist Association.

WALLY WILL BE GIVEN A TITLE FIT FOR QUEEN

London, Nov. 9—King Edward will marry Mrs. Wally Simpson in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace, and the ceremony, which will take place several weeks after the monarch's coronation, next May, will be performed by one of the chaplains to the king, it was disclosed today.

Before the marriage takes place, a high authority declared, Mrs. Simpson will be made a peeress in her own right and after the marriage she will take one of the kings ducal titles, becoming the Duchess of Lancaster or the Duchess of Cornwall, probably the former, according to a plan contemplated by the king at present.

The plan and its details the subject to possible modification which may arise from the numerous problems involved in the romance, it was stated, however.

RED CROSS AID TO MORE THAN 500,000 DISASTER VICTIMS

Large Urban Areas Devastated As Elements Hit 20 States East of Mississippi

"The number of disaster victims assisted by the Red Cross during the fiscal year ended June 30 was more than four times the number aided in the previous twelve month period," Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman, said in commenting on highlights of the annual report just issued. "Over 131,000 families were given food, clothing, shelter and medical care, and thousands of homes were rebuilt or repaired by the Red Cross to enable them to carry on."

Pointing to the many-sided problems created by the wide variety of types of disasters which occurred during the year, Admiral Grayson said, "The Red Cross sent hundreds of trained workers into 39 states to meet the many exigencies of catastrophes which included earthquake, epidemic, explosion, fire, hurricane, ice lock, landslide, refugee relief, shipwreck, tornado and typhoon. The Red Cross took charge at the scenes of 105 domestic disasters of major severity."

The report emphasized the marked value of Government-Red Cross cooperation when disaster strikes, giving as example the flight of Army bombing planes which dropped Red Cross food to marooned refugees at Renovo, Pennsylvania, during the Spring floods. More than 10,000 persons were rescued from the second floors of homes in Wilkes-Barre and Kingston through Coast Guard-Red Cross cooperation at the height of these same floods.

"Government agencies and relief groups were of invaluable assistance to Red Cross relief forces at all times," Admiral Grayson stated.

The complete resources of Red Cross leadership, training and disaster experience were brought into play by the Spring floods and tornadoes which took so heavy a toll of life and property in eastern and southern states this year, the annual report reveals. The Red Cross aided 77,000 families in 14 flooded states east of the Mississippi and 6,000 families in 6 tornado hit states south of the Mason-Dixon line in this one operation.

"Never before have as many metropolitan centers borne the brunt of attack by wind and water within a single year, challenging Red Cross preparedness and efficiency by so wide a variety of pressing human problems," Chairman Grayson said.

In its work of relief to disaster sufferers the Red Cross expended in excess of $5,200,000 for the year. The report points out that this figure does not include assistance given in 27 lesser disasters with a total of 2,000 persons aided, and adds that additional millions will be used to "clean up" Spring floods and tornadoes.

"Numerous local disaster situations occurring during the year were met by Red Cross chapter funds and manpower," Admiral Grayson said. "In each major relief operation undertaken the great army of Red Cross volunteers aided trained workers with the task of rehabilitating those without resources who had suffered losses.

"The Red Cross disaster relief service is one of many Red Cross activities supported by the American people through membership at the time of Roll Call, held each year from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving."

These nurses cooperated with doctors in examining 671,057 school and pre-school children, with 342,861 physical defects found and curative treatment arranged in 209,080 cases.

In 979 Red Cross chapters 1,733 graduate nurses taught Red Cross home hygiene and care of the sick, issuing certificates to 53,126 persons completing the courses. In addition, 1,777 Red Cross reserve nurses were called upon during the year for disaster and epidemic control work.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

November 9 to 15, 1936.

We celebrate Christmas because it gave us a great religion. We observe the Fourth of July because it gave us a free nation. We magnify the schools during one week each year because thru them we develop the finer values of our civilization. American Education Week is a permanent institution. The effort to make the observance of such a week worldwide should be encouraged. Religion, politics, and commerce may divide, but love of childhood expressed in education is a mighty force for unity.

What greater contribution could America make to the world than the ideal—a fair start in life for every boy and girl? In the name of this ideal, let every teacher make careful plans for American Education Week and aid in its full and fitting observance. Let the parents show their interest by visiting the schools Friday 13th.

ARMISTICE

Armistice Day is tomorrow! Eighteen years ago, was some celebration. Millions of armed men laid down their guns and stopped blasting at each other.

Armistice today is the time for a celebration (here at least) of nothing but a holiday, and a chance to get out of work and go some place to have a good time or see a football game.

Since it is Armistice Day, let's "figger". If you were born at least 20 years ago, or maybe 24, you don't know how folks really celebrated. How histries blew, even how small county papers got out extras. You simply can't understand the "joy" to a people unless you witnessed the world wide Armistice celebrations on November 11, 1918.

Now the horror of the war is forgotten. The talk is for the "next one". And, that's just what started the last one, "propaganda" coupled with some right good torpedo shots from submarines. Quit talking is our suggestion, and let's don't have another, is our suggestion.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Roll Call for the American Red Cross opens November 11 and continues thru Thanksgiving, November 26, this year.

Red Cross needs no introduction here, or for that matter anywhere else in the world. Its services include flood relief, public health, and every other need where there is human suffering.

During the past twelve months, the Red Cross has assisted in 105 disasters. Once each year the Red Cross comes to us for support. Formerly Gatesville and Coryell county had a central organization for the support of the Red Cross that was active, but like like some verbs they are "passive" now, and nothing is done about the annual Red Cross Roll Call.

Ask Wacoans or San Angeloans if the Red Cross helps—then help the Red Cross by sending in your membership.

FORMER JONESBORO MAN IS KILLED IN AUTO WRECK NEAR MIDLAND SAT.

Benton McAnelly, son of C. T. McAnelly of Jonesboro, was killed early Saturday morning when his car collided with a truck in the outskirts of Midland. Six people were in the car, including himself, and four were killed outright and the other two injured seriously. The truck driver was knocked from his cab, but not seriously injured. He was brought back to his home in DeLeon.

It is reported that the driver of the truck, which was loaded with oilfield casing, was looking to the rear to see if his load was slipping and cut across the road, being unable to swing clear of the car, hit him.

His remains were returned to Jonesboro in the hearse of the Kiker Undertaking Co. of Colorado. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Riper of Gatesville, and held in the home of his father Tuesday, with interment following in the Bullman Cemetery at 1:30 p. m. with Cunningham Post No. 122, of American Legion, having charge of services.

Deceased is survived by his wife and two step-children; his father, C. T. McAnelly—by one brother, Lee McAnelly of Bethlehem, Pa.; a sister, Mrs. H. W. Bickers of Dallas; a half brother and sister, and three aunts.—Hamilton County News.

Red Cross Potential Life Savers Number Nearly 2,000,000

First aid and life saving certificates issued by the American Red Cross since the start of the service 26 years ago now number 1,888,702. During the past year the Red Cross qualified 222,693 persons in first aid and taught water safety and rescue methods to 80,961.

This army of First Aiders and Life Savers is one of the great safety factors in the nation. They are trained to give immediate first aid at the scene of accident, thus saving many lives and preventing permanent injury. Red Cross training includes skill in treating for shock, splinting fractures, checking arterial bleeding, applying artificial respiration, towing drowning persons to safety, and in the safe handling of boat and canoe.

Membership in the American Red Cross last year showed an increase of 299,695. A total of 4,137,636 men and women enrolled, their dollars enabling the expanding Red Cross program of service to be carried forward at full strength. An increased membership is sought this year at Roll Call time, November 11 to 26, to meet the increasing demands upon the organization during 1937.

Last year the Red Cross reached 10,000,000 homes with check lists of accident hazards in a nation-wide program to reduce the incidence of home and farm accidents. This year home accident fatalities were cut by several thousand according to statisticians. A similar campaign has been launched this year through Red Cross chapters.

SOCIAL REFORM PLEDGE VOICED FOR ROOSEVELT

Washington, Nov. 9—In a message to the third national conference on labor legislation, President Roosevelt said, today he believed "the country has this last week given a mandate in unmistakable terms to its legislators and executives" to adopt needed labor legislation.

The president said he believed the mandate had directed the legislators "to proceed along these lines until working people throughout the nation and in every station are assured decent working conditions, including safe and healthy places if work, adequate care and support when incapacitated by reason of accident, industrial disease, unemployment, or old age; reasonable short working hours, adequate annual incomes, proper housing and elimination of child labor."

The conference was urged by Mr. Roosevelt to "give serious consideration as to how these objectives may be achieved and that when you return to your states you will assume the leadership in your communities for putting the necessary legislation on the statute books.

"I assure you that the federal government is willing to do

RED CROSS HIGHWAY POSTS AID INJURED

1,000 Function At Key Points To Give Emergency Care To Traffic Hurt

Highway first aid stations, set up by the Red Cross to give emergency care to victims of traffic accidents, are saving lives, according to James L. Fieser, vice-chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"More than 1,000 of our emergency posts are already operating in 47 states and thousands of others will soon be established at key points along America's highways," Mr. Fieser stated.

The Red Cross highway posts are concentrated at danger spots in rural areas where medical aid is not readily available. The importance of this coverage of the open road, the Red Cross holds, is given sharper emphasis by the fact that there has been a 150 per cent increase in rural traffic fatalities during the past twelve years.

The project was initiated last year on a national scale as a practical approach to the highway accident problem. The Red Cross felt that it could best apply its strength by succoring those who continue to be injured pending a reduction in the highway accident rate through legislation and safety education.

"Our program brings first aid skill to the scene of accident in an effort to reduce the number of persons killed and maimed in automobile mishaps," Mr. Fieser said. "Our highway first aiders are not medical men in any sense, but it is their job to turn the injured over to the medical profession in the best shape possible."

The Red Cross highway posts are established at gasoline service stations, tourist homes, rural police and fire departments. The personnel of the posts are trained by the Red Cross in first aid, standard first aid equipment is installed at each station, and identifying signs for the benefit of motorists are erected beside the highway at both approaches to the station.

The attendants of these roadside units who qualify as first aiders volunteer their services through the Red Cross and may under no circumstances accept pay for caring for the injured.

To complement the highway first aid stations, the Red Cross has announced formation of mobile units. Several thousand trucks which regularly ply the highway in the course of routine work will be equipped with first aid kits. Drivers and crews will take courses in both standard and advanced first aid, and each truck will be identified as a Red Cross mobile unit. More than a hundred trucks are already operating.

"The highway police of eight states who have finished first aid training will join this army mobilized to cut accident fatalities and prevent complication of minor injuries through mishandling at the scene of accident," Mr. Fieser said.

"We receive reports from our first aid stations daily, telling of essential care given to traffic casualties on the spot and of lives actually saved."

This and many other Red Cross programs of equal value are supported by the people of America during the annual Roll Call for members. This year the Roll Call will be held from November 11 to 26.

Washington, Nov. 9—The District of Columbia court of appeals today upheld the right of the national labor relations board to conduct employee elections to determine how they shall be represented in collective bargaining with employers.

WORLD COMMENT

By JOE BURNS

THE ELECTION

Peace reigns over America. November 3 brought an armistice to the political warfare which has been raging intermittently over the forty-eight commonwealths since June. The nation can now settle back to four years of constructive work. Factionalism and passion are words to be forgotten.

Astonishing to other than Wilfred J. Fund, publisher of The Literary Digest, was the 523 to 8 electoral victory accorded President Roosevelt last Tuesday. Out of a multitude of polls, predictions and forecasts only one person accurately predicted in advance the result of the November 3 balloting. That gentleman was James Aloysius Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Only a few days before the election Farley predicted that the Roosevelt-Garner ticket would carry forty-six of the forty-eight states. The results verify his prediction.

Maine and Vermont, the only "regular" Republican states spared by the Democratic victories of the last six years, cast their electoral votes for Alfred M. Landon.

Predictions of a total of 44,000,000 votes were not far wrong. The tabulations so far show:

- Roosevelt 25,936,277
- Landon 15,839,609
- Lemke 748,573
- Thomas 99,865
- Browder 57,243.

Roosevelt's plurality is in excess of 10,000,000, topping by some 3,500,000 his 1932 plurality of 7,000,000 over Herbert Hoover.

The totals four years ago were Roosevelt 22,813,786 and Hoover 15,759,266. Minor party candidates in that year polled 1,161,299, of which Norman Thomas, Socialist, received 831,951.

Lemke's total in the final compilation will not reach one million. Observers did not expect him to carry a single state in spite of the backing of such personages as Father Coughlin and Dr. Townsend, but it was generally conceded that he would pick up enough votes in the farm belt to poll 1,500,000 votes.

The election probably eliminated Dr. Townsend as a political factor. He endorsed the candidate of Lemke and as that gentleman's name was not entered on the California ballot, announced that he would vote for Landon. Landon lost California by 900,000. Father Coughlin's voice turned out to be impotent as a political factor, as almost nightly his august voice was heard over the airways in vitriolic criticism of President Roosevelt and his policies.

In Texas, President Roosevelt won by about 8 to 1. The final report of the Texas Election Bureau, last until the official count by State officials, gave Roosevelt 518,088, Landon 74,063, Lemke 1,796, and Thomas 637.

In 1932 Texas gave Roosevelt the largest plurality of any state—656,622.

As reported in this column Friday, five of the six constitutional amendments submitted to the voters of Texas carried. The amendment for full control of liquor by the State was defeated 210,579 to 172,742. The amendment providing for a revision of the pardoning system carried by the greatest majority—292,428 to 116,408.

Governor Allred led the President as to totals in the State. His majority over three opponents was 10 to 1. C. O. Harris of San Angelo, the G. O. P. gubernatorial nominee, polled 20,938.

All Democratic candidates of State offices and for Congress were elected by landslide votes.

President's greatest plurality this year came from New York. His lead over Governor Landon there was more than 1,175,000. The count was Roosevelt 3,158,741 and Landon 1,980,233. Only the Republican landslide of 1920 registered a plurality approaching that given Mr. Roosevelt. Then New York state gave Warren G. Harding 1,089,929 more votes than James M. Cox.

Other big 1936 Roosevelt pluralities were 900,000 in California, 750,000 in Illinois, 300,000 in Indiana, 400,000 in Missouri, 300,000 in New Jersey, 300,000 in Michigan, 650,000 in Ohio, 750,000 in Pennsylvania, and 300,000 in Wisconsin.

Herbert Hoover in 1932 won six states and 59 electoral votes. Of the four which switched this year to Roosevelt (from the Republican column, the Democratic plurality was 100,000 in Connecticut, 15,000 in Delaware, 3,000 in New Hampshire, and 750,000 in Pennsylvania.

The Democrats smashed thru the strong machines in New England while retaining their strong leads in the South, barrage for five months with anti-Roosevelt propaganda by Jeffersonian Democrats. Pennsylvania—sixty years Republican—made one of the most dramatic political reverses in the history of the nation.

Whereas before the election it was presumed the Republicans would gain from 50 to 100 House members from an expected swingback from the 1932 landslide defeat, the Democratic victory extended to congressional elections in every state.

The present House line-up includes 308 Democrats, 100 Republicans, 7 Progressives, 3 Farmer-Laborites, and 17 vacancies formerly filled by 13 Democrats and four Republicans; total membership 435, number constituting a majority, 218.

This year marks the fourth consecutive congressional year in which the Republican representatives in House and Senate has been reduced. Beginning in 1932, the Democrats captured control of House and Senate. John Garner became Speaker of the House as a result of 1930 Democratic victories, paving the way for his subsequent nomination and election as vice president.

The final party standing for the new House with add doubtful races now decided is as follows:

- Democrats 355
- Republicans 88
- Progressives 7
- Farm-Laborites 5

The Democrats are thus seen to have 117 above a majority. Incidentally, a Texan may for the second time within a decade preside over the House as speaker. Rep. Sam Rayburn of the Bonham district is being prominently mentioned as the next Speaker of the House to succeed William Bankhead of Alabama, the present speaker, who is in ailing health.

Victories were likewise chalked up by the Democrats in the senatorial races. At present there are 69 Democrats, 22 Republicans, 2 Farmer-Laborites, 1 Progressive, and 2 vacancies in the Senate.

The final party standing for the Tuesday balloting now gives the Democrats 75, Republicans

17, Farmer-Laborites 2, Progressives 1, and 1 Independent in the Senate.

The Republican Old Guard which ruled the Senate during the Hoover and preceding administrations has been virtually wiped out in the last four elections, those of 1930, 1932, 1934, (Continued on next page.)

SYNOPSIS

Carrie Snyder's house in small Crebillon, La., is the rendezvous of the town's gay blades. Carrie is thirtyish, big-hearted and pretty in a blousy way. Paul Darnley, unloved and misunderstood boy of eleven, makes Carrie's acquaintance and visits her from time to time for chats. Paul's father learns of this and whips the youngster unmercifully for visiting "that woman." An irate town council forces the innocent Carrie to leave Crebillon.

CHAPTER II

I FELT guilty about keeping Phil waiting so long, but he was awfully sweet about it—told me he'd stretched out to rest for a moment, fallen asleep, and had a good nap.

"It was grand to see you and the boy together that way," he said, "but you shouldn't have let him stay. It will only make things worse for you, and they're pretty bad now, you know."

He meant that business of the town council talking about running me out of town. Ed Moresby, a straight guy who ran the local paper, the Courier, had tipped me off about it too. But I wasn't afraid. Those waves of civic righteousness had a way of dying down quickly, I'd noticed. Besides, I was living quietly, minding my own business, and I had friends.

The following afternoon Master Paul Darnley called again, bringing with him a large cigar box filled with the most amazing lot of junk, pieces of string, empty cartridges, fishhooks, a false mustache, a sling-shot, marbles, a rabbit's foot, two wizened buckeyes, and heaven knows what else. It appeared that his father had come upon the box and had thought lightly of the value of its contents. Would I keep it for a while for him? Would I! My God, I'd have paid money for the privilege; it might keep him coming for a good while yet, I hoped.

While I sat sewing he emptied the box onto the brick walk and sat to find that nothing was missing. He didn't say so, but some things don't have to be said.

He put the loot back in the box, except the two buckeyes. A buckeye, he said, was good for luck and for rheumatism if carried in the left hind pocket. He put one in his own pocket and gave me the other. The minute I felt a twinge of rheumatism, I promised, I'd sew a pocket on the proper spot to carry mine in. The buckeye was a thing of value, but I gathered that he thought it was coming to me.

Whether or not it was the buckeye, I did have a run of luck, for during the next few weeks I saw him often. Sometimes he helped me weed the garden or mow the lawn; sometimes I'd make lemonade and we'd just sit under the chinaberry tree and talk. I loved it.

Then suddenly he stopped coming. Days slipped into weeks, and still there was no sight of him. I had the treasure box, also a wounded young owl that he'd found flopping about in the woods and a contused tomcat that had been wounded in some feline fracas. So I didn't completely give up hope. But I was worried and afraid that he might be sick.

I questioned old black Lon, who said he hadn't seen him. Then I thought myself of Ellen Belle. I sent for her on the pretext of having a dress for her daughter Gracie—I used to give her things that were a bit worn or that I had tired of; they fit her without making over—and pumped her about Paul.

She was evasive at first, but finally I dragged out of her the fact that Paul's father had flogged him for seeing me—the news had got all over town, it seems—and then locked him up in his room. His mother, a lovely lady of fine Spanish family, Ellen Belle said, was worse of late—too ill now to defend her son against his father. The boy had always taken up with queer, and sometimes disreputable grown people, she added, like Lon Olds and that crazy Greek fisherman they called Nick who lived on a ramshackle houseboat down below the sawmill.

So that was it. For two days after that I sat stewing about what to do. On the third, about sundown, Paul appeared, limping slightly—I learned afterward that he had jumped out of his second-story bedroom window—but otherwise as usual, and saying nothing about the reason for his long absence. So I didn't say anything either. I'd had plenty of arguments with myself following that interview with Ellen Belle, and I knew now what I must do.

I brought from under the oak porch his owl box. I said that its wing was all right now, and that if we opened the door it would probably come out and fly away.

"Let's do it then, Miss Carrie," he said.

He opened the door and came and eased himself down into the other rocking chair, and we sat watching in the gathering darkness. Soon the owl stepped out, flapped its wings, jumped up on the well-curbing. It looked at us with big round eyes, then suddenly was up in the air and gone into the night.

Then I went inside and brought out the treasure box and laid it in his lap. He looked up at me quickly. It was too dark to see what was in his eyes. I was glad of that.

"Paul," I said, going on with the account of my stewardship, "the tomcat left us four days ago. He'd got fat again, and well, I expect he went back to his old places."

"Yes, he did, Miss Carrie. I saw him in the alley back of the restaurant on my way over. He looked fine. Thank you for keeping him."

I sat still. My hands were moist against each other and I kept swallowing. Then I stood up.

"Now you must go home, Paul," I said, "and you mustn't ever come here again. Never. That's best. Do you believe me, Paul—Do you?"

He didn't answer. I waited a little and then walked quickly into the house and closed the door. From a window I watched him sit staring after me for a moment before he got up and walked slowly out of the yard, the treasure box under his arm, while my heart cried out against this kindness that had to be so cruel.

Then I plunged into the business of packing up my things. Two days later Lon carried my suitcases out to the car.

"The boy," he said, "will be devil-in' the life out of me to know when you're comin' back, Miss Carrie."

"Tell him, Lon," I said, "tell him it might be a long time."

and 1936. In 1930 the defeat of Senators Deneen of Illinois, Goff of West Virginia, Gillett of Massachusetts, Phillips of Colorado and Robinson of Kentucky gave the first indication of a turn against national Republican leadership. The slaughter came in 1932. Then Democrats replaced Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader; Smoot of Utah, Moses of New Hampshire, Glenn of Illinois, Bingham of Connecticut, Allen of Kansas, and Shortage of California.

In 1934 Fess of Ohio, Goldsborough of Maryland, Hatfield of West Virginia, Kean of New Jersey, Roca of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Indiana and Walcott of Connecticut were beaten or dropped out.

Tuesday's election completed the job. Down went

Rhode Island, Hastings of Delaware, Barbour of New Jersey, Carey of Wyoming, and Dickinson of Iowa. Senator Keyes of New Hampshire did not run.

Five Republicans were re-elected or elected to the Senate last Tuesday. Two—Borah of Idaho and McNary of Oregon—were old timers. Kansas, voting against its native son for the presidency, returned Republican Senator Capper for another six years. New Hampshire sent its governor, H. Styles Bridges, to the upper house and Massachusetts turned down James Corley for Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

Completing the Republican rout, Democrats elected 26 governors to the Republicans four, Farmer-Laborites, 1, Progressives one and Independent 1.

Baker and Hornets Luck Out on Mt. Calm 6-0

Stumbling, halting, and occasionally throwing up their hands in despair, the Gatesville High Hornets, eked out a bare 6 to 0 victory over Mt. Calm last Friday night in the New Stockyard Stadium.

Rated as one of the weakest teams in the conference, Mt. Calm put enough resistance to hold the weak attack of the Hornets in check and allow them only one marker.

The Hornets showing some of their early season form, started out like a house afire. Taking the initial kickoff on their own 25 yard stripe they drove steadily down the field to the Mt.

Calm 45. On the third down Baker missed a bad pass from center and the visitors recovered the ball in midfield.

Mt. Calm failed to gain and was forced to punt. Graves got off a nice kick to the Gatesville 15 and for two downs the locals were powerless. On the third down, under perfect blocking, Baker got off a beautiful run to the Mt. Calm 45 where the safety man stopped his advance.

From there with Baker and Voss carrying the ball, The Hornets drove steadily down the field to the one inch line with Baker finally going across right tackle for the Hornets lone score.

The rest of the game was a disappointment after the Hornets nice start. Mt. Calm should have scored in the second quarter when J. Dunn slung a perfect pass into the receiver's hands only to have the ball fumbled and dropped. The path to the goal line was open if the pass had been complete.

Gatesville's smart signal calling was exhibited in the last of the second quarter when Colgin called a pass on his own 35. Luck was with the Hornets and the pass was not intercepted. If it had been, the score would probably been tied or the Hornets defeated 7 to 6.

The second half was a listless dull exhibition with the Hornets losing their goal line punch. "Red" Fore and Joe Baker got off some nice runs, without aid from their interference, but penalties set the locals back every time they came within scoring distance.

Fore ripped off a nice 15 yard run and a penalty on Mt. Calm put the ball on the visitor's 30 yard marker. The Hornets were held however, and Baker was forced to punt over the goal line, giving the ball to Mt. Calm on their own twenty.

The visitors pulled a fake punt play, so old that it had whiskers, that completely fooled the Hornets and was good for twenty yards. Taking the ball a few plays later on the Mt. Calm 30, Hearne passed to Fore who stepped off a nice run to the ten yard line, only to have the play called back and the penalty assessed the Hornets.

Gatesville missed their third scoring chance in the final period when they fizzled out on the six yard line. Starting out with Hearne's interception of a pass in mid-field which he returned to the 28, the Hornets drove steadily down the field where Brown made a first down on the Mt. Calm six yard line. A five yard penalty for the Hornet set the locals back, but on the next play Baker skidded to the five yard stripe. Taking too much time for signals caused another five yard penalty for the Hornets, and Mt. Calm finally took the ball on their own eight yard line after Hearne's pass had failed.

The game ended soon after, with the Hornets slowly advancing again toward the goal line.

Baker and Brown were the only two Hornet men who played up to par. Mt. Calm should have been defeated by at least three touchdowns, but confusion and listless playing by the locals kept the score low. The Hornet interference is a pitiful thing in the so-called running attack. If he had been unhampered by his frontal men, Baker would probably have accounted for more yardage than he did.

Block is an unknown science in the Hornet squad. Few were the Mt. Calm men who were taken completely out of the play. Only once did a sweeper play work to satisfaction when in the first quarter Baker advanced to mid-field from his own 25.

The Hornets would do well to profit by their mistakes for their remaining two games. Gatesville stands a good chance to defeat McGregor, but Hamilton will probably take them by a large score. Mart took the measure of McGregor 65 to 0, so the Hornets figure better on paper than do the Bulldogs, but anything can happen.

Hamilton vs. Hornets Tomorrow

Tomorrow the Hornets travel to Hamilton for the Traditional Armistice Day game with the Hamilton Bulldogs.

Hamilton has been pointing for this game since the start of the season. To defeat Gatesville is one of the major aims in a Hamiltonian's life. When a child is born, the neighbors crowd around and eye him speculatively. "Do you think he will grow up to be rough and tough enough to break some Hornet's leg" they ask. To induce children to drink milk mothers tell them it will make them big enough to twist some Gatesville's player's neck. In grammar school is taught reading and writing and eye gouging. In high school the students graduate to geometry and kneeling. To graduate, one must prove that he has knocked some Gatesville man cold. Otherwise you are counted a sissy.

Hamilton plays a rough and tough style of football that will probably prove too much for Gatesville. The score will be somewhere around 32 to 0, Hamilton.

ADVANCE REPORT ON HOME DEMONSTRATION FOOD PRESERVATION

To date eight Coryell County Home Demonstration Clubs have reported food preservation done during 1936, showing a total of 13,169 quarts, and 18,431 pounds dried, cured and stored food. Home Demonstration Clubs reporting are: Ireland Coryell City, Coryell Church, Mountain, Pecan Grove, Topsey, Whitson, and Hood Springs.

This advance report is compiled at the request of Miss Mildred Horton, State Home Demonstration Agent and vice-director of the Extension Service. A state wide preview of the food preservation done during 1936 by home demonstration club members will appear in the December issue of the Extension Service News.

The totals according to the 8 Home Demonstration Clubs reporting in this county follow:

Number quarts of canned fruit and vegetables are 8692; Number quarts of preserves and jellies are 1456; Number quarts of vegetables brined and pickled are 1730; Number quarts of meat canned are 1291; Number of pounds of dried, cured and stored vegetables are 3148; No. pounds of dried, cured and stored fruits are 83; Number of pounds of dried, cured and of stored meats are 15,200.

The reports to date are exceptionally good, but we would like to have the remainder of the Home Demonstration Clubs report for we are sure that their reports will be equally as good as the ones already received.

RECOMMENDED PLACE FOR MILK CONTAINERS

"Here is where we sun the milk things," explained Mrs. L. M. Terry cooper in the Topsey Home Demonstration Club. It is a unique arrangement that she has for this purpose. A shelf outside her kitchen window is screened with wire screening around the sides forming a screen alcove opening into the kitchen.

Milk buckets placed in here are exposed to the essential sanitary action of sunlight and are protected from insects.

HOMINY CANNED AT TOPSEY

Mrs. W. V. McBride, Mrs. Howard Simpson, and Mrs. J. W. Irvine of the Topsey Home Demonstration Club have canned 110 containers of hominy made from field corn.

The Extension Service recommends the following method for canning hominy: Select a sweet white corn with flat grain. Shell wash thoroughly and soak in lukewarm water for one hour. Dissolve 2 tablespoons lye in one gallon of boiling water (use enamel kettle or bucket). Add the soaked corn and boil for thirty minutes, or long enough to loosen the hulls. Remove from the fire and rinse thoroughly. Rub to loosen hulls and kernels near the germ, or use a barrel churn for five or ten minutes for this purpose. Let stand in fresh water for two or three hours changing water six or seven times to make sure all lye is removed. Cover with fresh water and boil until tender. Pack hot into pint jars or No. 2 enamel or plain tin cans. Add 1/2 teaspoonful of salt to each can. Process for 50 minutes under 15 pressure or 250 degrees F.

The odor of brown gravy accompanies the arrival of cold operator in the Harmon Home weather as Mrs. Gossett, co-Demonstration Club, cans beef. She can de 122 No. 2 cans which she filed with roasts, steak, stew, chilli, and soup stock.

Lets Talk about Clothes

Denton, Nov. 9. Nothing equals a button for a flippant bit of amusement on an otherwise plain dress. Button have taken all honors for originality, and even zipper conscious shoppers waver and use them in excess. They rate top position for a combine of practical purposes and decoration.

Wood buttons in every conceivable shape and color are especially good on your knitted outfits and sports clothes. There are wood buttons of letters in tiny discs of colored flat wood.

Even miniature fir trees find themselves carved from dark and light colored brown wood to decorate milady's frock. Girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA) are especially fond of the amusing animal heads, including the head of a mountain goat and others just as funny and as easy to use on knits and bright colored wool dresses.

Bow knot buttons in metals, flowers in metal, and leaves fashioned in either gold or silver studded with rubies, coral or emeralds, are other bright ideas for dark winter wools, velvets, or silks. Nearly all the buttons in the best collections are easily matched with belt buckles and clips, to satisfy the ensemble addicts.

The very latest buttons, in keeping with the splendor of coronation year, show crown buttons of silver or gold metal. They will add much to your sheer wools, metallics, or satins. The filigree buttons in round, square and odd shapes, are particularly new and effective for dull silk crepes and afternoon velvets.
