SUPT. ERCELL BROOKS WAS GUEST SPEAKER AT ROUNDTABLE CLUB

Superintendent Erceall W. Brooks of the local high school was guest speaker at the weekly meeting of the Roundtable Club Tuesday night in the new City Hall. Mr. Brooks was introduced to the group by Robert Stout, chairman of the program committee. Professional subjects, as being introduced into the state schools was the topic of his speech, followed by the regular roundtable discussion of the subject.

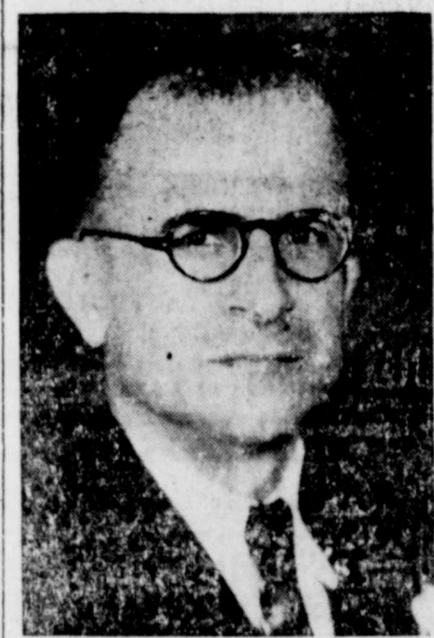

In the regular business session, Joe Little was elected to membership in the organization.

Pat Holt was also a visitor at the meeting.

MRS. CLAY McCLELLAN'S HOME PILFERED BY BURGLAR

Bacon, ham and butter gone! That's all that was missing yesterday when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clay McClellan at 307 Crescent road in Waco was burglarized. These articles were taken from the refrigerator, according to Mrs. McClellan, after the burglar broke into the house. Nothing else was missing.

Several other burglaries were reported in other homes in Waco.

JOE HANNA

Your Mail box has brought you a very valuable piece of paper, or will soon. Joe Hanna's Red Tag Sale circular! Four large sized pages chucked full of high quality merchandise on which prices have really be "chucked."

Meaning, Mr. Hanna has just mailed a very large number of circulars to citizens all over this trade territory, and invites the general public into partake of his astounding values which he is offering Coryell County public at this time.

Mr. Hanna in his statement says: "We bought heavily, anticipating a big fall business, but the weather has been against us, and our obligations are maturing every day. We must meet them—hence our sale. We must sacrifice merchandise to get money."

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Baldrige of Temple visited their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Baldrige and Mayor and Mrs. C. E. Gandy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Rogers visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Trammell at Hamilton Wednesday.

Gatesville and McGregor Boy Scouts Aid Getting Station Creek Monu'mt

R. C. Summers, district field man for the Boy Scouts of McGregor, and Frank E. Simmons of Oglesby were in Gatesville Wednesday in the interest of obtaining a monument which should have been erected on Station Creek, on the road to Neff Park, but which was omitted in the first allotment unintentionally.

This monument is to be erected at a place known as Fort Station, where Major Erath maintained a station for several days.

The McGregor Boy Scouts and the Gatesville Boy Scouts are working together, and anyone who could help them in any way should get in touch with J. M. Witcher here or Mr. Summers in McGregor.

PAINTER'S "BLACK" FRONT BEING PUT UP THIS WEEK

A big glass corporation, which sells both "paque" and opaque glass, is putting the finishing touches on the front of Painter's store after raising the show window floors to some 15 inches installing new glass and completely new wiring system.

Painter's front will be as a certain new model car is being advertised "the new front, completely new."

CORYELL COUNTY RURAL RECREATION CLUB TO MEET THURS. NNITE

According to Milton Thomson, secretary if the Coryell County Rural Recreation Club, there will be a meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening, Nov. 19, at the CCC Camp.

Various games and contests have been planned for the entertainment of those present and Mrs. Fred Rodway of Pideoke will preside at the meeting and discuss plans for the meeting next month.

Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Brittain visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave O'Neil of Mosheim Wednesday.

WANT TO SPLIT YOUR TAXES?

County taxes can be split! Until Dec. 1, taxes payable at the office of Dave Culberson, Tax Assessor-Collector may be paid, that is the first half of the property tax may be paid before December 1, and thus "ease the pain" that come with those "Tax Paying Blues" that are the familiar tune 'long in January.

Folks, Mr. Dave says "There's no penalty if you don't but, it's like going to a dentist and having the first half pulled, and then going back when you are well and getting the other half pulled. It's easier on both you and the dentist if you split the pot, and pay half before December 1, and the other later.

It's all up to the individual, and there's no penalty except the "agony" you suffer if you don't.

Art of Minstrelsy to Be Revived When School Shows Here Nov. 19

Karnival Kapers, featuring a Negro Minstrel, Coronation Ceremonies, House of Horrors, House of Magic, Country Store, Farmer's Delight, Fat Woman, and many other entertaining features, opens at 6:00 p. m. at the high school gym, on November 19, designated as "Nov-teenth." This carnival is under the auspices of the Annual Committee and the band, proceeds being split between these two organizations.

Duchess from schools of the county are to be included in the coronation along with the representatives to be chosen by the students of the high school, who at the present time are in a hot "political" campaign to elect their respective beauty to this distinctive honor, to represent the school as queen of the Coronation Ceremonies. So far, nothing has been mentioned about a king.

Newest nominees for the high school duchesses are Eloise Cook, Dramatic Club with her attendant M. H. Shepherd; Press Club, Helen Walley, attended by Jack Straw; Home Economics Club, Ruth Hamilton whose escort will be John Rufus Colgin; Choral Club, Nelle Goodall, accompanied by C. H. Wallace. The football squad's representative is Joe Baker with his partner, Frances McCoy. "The Fish" have named Marjorie Hall, escorted by Douglas Pollard.

Sponsors of the entertainment include Coach Fred Schwarz, Misses Mammie Sue Halbrook, Lois Scott, and Mrs. Francis Crist.

County School Day at Fair Also to Be Day To Celebrate Victory

November 23, Coryell county school's day at the Texas Centennial, will give the scholastics from the county a chance to see Vice President John N. Garner, who has been invited to serve as speaker of the day, which is to be Democratic Victory Day also.

Preparation is being made to transport some 300 children from the county to the fair that day, but so far, definite plans have not been announced.

The partial plan is for the students to meet a train leaving Waco between 5 and 6 o'clock returning to Waco at 10 p. m. Buses will be used to transport them from their respective school to Waco.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brittain visited friends and relatives in Waco Wednesday.

Mrs. Ellsworth Hinsley is confined to her bed this week with the mumps.

Misses Thedra Mounce and Bernice Gamblin were Waco visitors last Friday.

WORLD COMMENT

 By JOE BURNS

Polls and Predictions

The faith of seventy-eight newspaper publishers in Dr. Geo. Gallup and his American Institute of Public Opinion was amply justified by the results of the presidential election. Titho "America Speaks" had accurately forecast the nomination of Governor Landon and the results of the Maine congressional race, the national election was regarded as the hurdle to be cleared before the polls could claim a position with other major straw polls of the country.

The rivalry between the America Speaks poll, which sought to determine the November 3 Winner by a scientific method of questioning a cross-section of the electorate as to their political preferences, and the Literary Digest poll, which determined its results by a mass sampling method, rivaled in a small form the intensity of the presidential battle itself.

The forecasts of the two polls, as readers of this column know, were contradictory. In the final report of America Speaks, President Roosevelt was given 54 per cent of the popular vote and a minimum of 315 electors. Governor Landon conceded only three states—Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire—for twelve electors. The Literary Digest gave Landon 60 per cent of the popular vote and Roosevelt 40 per cent. The pre-election returns of the Digest poll gave Landon 379 electoral votes from thirty-two states to 161 from sixteen states for President Roosevelt.

As the Institute of Public Opinion indicated, Landon ran strong in Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. He actually carried only the first two to win 8 votes in the electoral college. Returns early Wednesday morning following the Tuesday voting indicated a G.O.P. majority in New Hampshire, but later returns gave President Roosevelt the state by 3,000 votes.

In such debatable states as New York, Nebraska, Delaware, Minnesota, Colorado and Wisconsin Dr. Gallup and his statistics pointed to a Roosevelt lead of from three to seven per cent in the last pre-election poll.

Various conclusions may be drawn as to the reason for the inaccuracy of The Digest's poll. In three previous elections the victor had been named by The Digest in its poll, and in 1932 the poll results differed from the election result by less than one per cent. As alleged by Dr. Gallup, the ballots mailed out by the Digest probably did not reach the new voters and the vast under-privileged class that flocked to the polls to vote for Roosevelt on The Third. Other factors contributed to the false prediction, undoubtedly, including the complex factors which made the 1936 election so difficult to predict in advance of the voting.

Your writer in his final election prediction, forecasted a Roosevelt landslide but underestimated the strength of the President. But the President underestimated his own strength and his pre-election estimate of his electoral strength only 3 from our own.

At his first press conference following the election, the President produced the famous sealed envelope which contained his four progressive guesses as to the outcome of the election. In the envelope, ripped open by the President at the conference, was a sheet in his own handwriting which showed that on Jan. 30, 1936, the President guessed a Democratic electoral vote of 325.

The second notation was June 5, just before the Republican convention and the estimate had dropped to 315. The third estimate, dated Aug. 2, showed "Roosevelt, 340, Landon 191."

"Now, I must confess that only last Sunday, Nov. 1, I made the following notation, Roosevelt 360, Landon 171," the President said.

"I apologize. It was my well-known conservative tendency." Joe Burns' final prediction gave Roosevelt 363 and Landon 168, and the President's final guess was Roosevelt 360, Landon 171.

New Ways With CORN

THE day has passed for the intelligent housewife when a can of corn was just a can of corn. She knows enough now to look at the label, and select the style of corn best suited to the dish she has in mind. She knows that creamy style corn is scraped from the cob, making a milky mixture, and that this is good for soups and cooked dishes. She knows that whole grain corn is cut from the cob in individual kernels and prefers it for succotash or served plain as a vegetable. She may even know that roasting ears of corn are now vacuum packed, four to a can, and that this corn has extremely small cobs and large deep sweet kernels. All she has to do with the ears is to heat them from three to five minutes in boiling water.

Recent Recipes

The next thing for her to know is some good recipes for corn dishes. Here are two recent ones in which whole grain canned corn should be used. Both are quantity recipes.

Corn Salad: Marinate the contents of three 12-ounce cans whole kernel corn and one and a half cups grated or finely-chopped raw carrot in one cup French dressing for an hour or so in the refrigerator. Add one cup shredded ripe olives, and serve in a nest of lettuce. Serves twenty-four.

Corn Fritters: Chop contents of one 10 1/2-ounce can whole kernel yellow Bantam corn, or put through a food chopper. Add two well-beaten eggs and one-fourth cup milk. Then add two-thirds cup flour, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat or drippings in a skillet and brown on both sides. Good served with chicken. Makes sixteen.

BY-PRODUCT EROSION CONTROL

Seeps or wet areas occur thru-out the Gatesville Camp Area causing much difficulty in tilling crop land. Since the land affected is usually very productive, farmers are hesitant to tire such land from cultivation to other uses and in many instances location renders this procedure impracticable. Land owners in cooperation with the CW camp have returned some of this land from cultivation and sodded to Bermuda pasture because established pastures on like areas are giving efficient erosion control and returning and income to the farmer each year whereas such areas in cultivation, under existing methods of tillage, are not producing a crop each year.

Since some of this class of land was to remain cultivated, the question arises as to what treatment it should be given and should the treatment differ from land of like soil, slopes, and erosion classification, since the physical characters of the wet areas would materially interfere with crop rotations and the seeding and harvesting of strip crops. A study of conservation surveys indicate there was little if no difference in the erodability of seeps compared to adjacent lands and since no practical treatment could be devised for these more or less isolated areas it was decided to give them the same treatment as areas of like soil, slope, and erosion classification and observe results.

During the month of September this area received rainfall ranging from three or four times that of normal. A check-up inspection made by the Camp Staff and cooperating land owners indicate the following:

That these seeps or wet areas were affected by surface water

That a better distribution of surface water over the farm as a result of complete erosion control program reduced or eliminated the area formerly affected by the seeps.

Many farmers were enthusiastic over this added benefit of their erosion-control programs and are confident that seeps will interfere less with farming operations in the future. On one farm were twenty acres of oats that could not be harvested in the summer of 1935 due to "wet land." That farmer during the month of October, 1936 (following 11 inches of rainfall in September) prepared and planted this land to strip crops at the same time the remainder of the field was prepared and seeded. Another farmer states that he is conserving more moisture since establishing this erosion control program but has less "wet land." The owner of this farm states that his erosion-control program has improved this condition one hundred per cent.

M. E. YOUNG PEOPLE WILL PRESENT PROGRAM AT CHURCH TONIGHT

The Gatesville Methodist Young People will be host tonight at a meeting of the East Side Gatesville district union and will present the program at 7:30 p. m. in the main auditorium of the church.

The program will be as follows:

Leader: Miss Waldine Whar-tin director general.

Subject: Living for Jesus.

Organ Prelude, Miss Beulah Gamblin.

Hymn, "Are Ye Able?"

Reading by Miss Nettie Jane Thomson.

Prayer.

Talk, Miss Frances McCoy.

Vocal duet, Misses Nell Good-all and Belva McCoy.

Hymn, "Give of Your Best to the Master."

Organ Postlude.
Immediately following the program Miss Nellie Kinslow of Oglesby Union president, will conduct a business meeting after which Rev. D. L. Barnes of Turnersville will direct a recreational period in the banquet hall of the church. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the games.

SYNOPSIS

Carrie Snyder's house in small Crebillon, La., is the rendezvous of the town's gay blades. When Paul Darnley, misunderstood lad of eleven, visits her from time to time for chats, his father beats him unmercifully. An irate town council forces Carrie to leave Crebillon. Meanwhile, Paul runs away from home and seeks refuge with Nick, a tramp river fisherman. One night there is a train crash in the vicinity from which emerges Lady, a six-year-old waif, whom Paul takes to live with him and Nick. Carrie discovers the plight of the two children and brings both of them to New York with her.

CHAPTER III

WENT to Shreveport, which was an up-and-coming little city even then. Oil and gas wells were popping. There were plenty of new men and new money in Shreveport, and new money moves fast.

Besides, it was Phil Yonne's headquarters. For two years he'd tried day passed that I didn't think of him and wonder what life was doing to him. I was restless, and moving about pretty fast in those days—trying to get away from myself, perhaps.

It was when Paul was between eleven and twelve that his father died. I saw that, too, in the Courier, which said that an uncle, John Darnley, out in the country, had been appointed Paul's guardian and that the boy would go there to live.

That wouldn't be bad, I thought. Life on a farm would be good for the boy. But it wasn't at all, as I pieced the story together later. Living with his poor relations—Mrs John and the young Johns hating him because he was better bred and had happier days than they, and begrudging every mouthful of food he ate—was hell for him.

"Hurry, or I'll carry you back," he whispered.

She began to cry. "I won't go back. I don't want to be given away, and I won't go back to the Home. I'm running away."

Paul, fearful of discovery if he dragged her back to the train, hesitated. The last car was empty and uncoupled now. The trainmen were swinging their lanterns, and as he looked at her he heard the engine whistle and the bell ringing as the train started off.

So there was nothing to do but take her back with him to Nick's.

I was living in Chicago then, and it was nearly a month after this before I saw any of the news. Then Paul got into the Courier. This was the story: A New York magazine had been running a campaign about children in orphan asylums, to in-spent the entire morning making a trip over the land of farmers who are cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service land here. Phases of the complete erosion control program seen on the tour included contour land utilization, strip cropping, contour cultivation, sodded terrace outlets and meadow strips, pasture ridging and sodding, cover crops, terracing and gully work.

"I wish that every farmer in Texas would visit this or some other soil conservation demonstration," Senator Conally said following the tour. "On these areas one can see practical, economical and sound methods of conserving soil and moisture. The work is outstanding."

Other speakers on the noon program following the dinner served at the CCC camp included Captain W. F. Cox, Major John I. Hilldring of Tyler, Claud McDonald, president of the Mt. Pleasant chamber of commerce and Louis P. Merrill, regional conservator of the Soil Conservation Service, Ft. Worth.

In a brief talk Mr. Merrill pointed out that terracing was not enough for erosion control. "We must use all of our approved measures of control such as retiring steep land from cultivation, the proper adaptation for a well rounded and coordinated erosion control program

Such a program will materially reduce the volume of water entering the streams, thus reducing flood control hazards as well as controlling devastating erosion on our farm lands.

In addition to local business men a number of vocational agriculture teachers and county agents attended the field day.

Carrie had misgivings that Paul would remember her. But he did.

to argue me into moving there to live. I rented an apartment downtown and sent a moving van for my things in Crebillon.

Phil and I had a grand time for a week. He didn't razz me once about Paul. Phil was a swell guy. When he was leaving he said: "You've been hitting the liquor too hard this week. Better go easy."

"What's it to you?" I said. "All right," he said. "All right. It's your liver and your kidneys and your stomach. But I'm telling you: go easy."

"No advice from you," I said. "I'm free, white, and thirty-one. There's your hat."

He meant well, and I was proud he was worrying about me, and I shouldn't have let him go away sore. But he couldn't know how much I needed a binge. I kept it up for another week all by myself.

Months later, in the Crebillon Courier—I read it line by line every day—I saw in the obituary column the name of Mrs. Darnley.

I'd loved her. She'd been gentle with Paul and protected him when she could. And she was beautiful. I'd seen her on the streets once, long ago. So I sat there with the paper in my hand and cried. Maybe it was, somehow, pity for myself. I don't know. There'd been strange new thoughts in me ever since Paul had come in that first day wanting a drink of water.

For the next three years or so I had no news of him, though not a

He ran away—twice. The first time the authorities sent him back. The second time he did better. He hid away on Nick's houseboat and stayed out of sight in the daytime. Of nights, in gratitude to Nick for keeping him, and because Nick had barely enough to eat for himself, Paul would forage for food—a melon or can of fruit filched through a pantry window, a live chicken that had strayed from its coop, stole buns thrown out behind a grocery store.

Returning from such an expedition one night along the railroad tracks—the shortest route back to Nick's boat—Paul saw a beam of white light showing around the curve. It wasn't moving. As he came nearer he heard a hubbub of voices, and saw that the last car was tilted sideways, off the track. He stopped on the edge of the embankment and watched. Crowds of townspeople were arriving.

He decided that he had better be moving and had started back when he heard a noise close behind him. Turning, he saw a tiny girl, dressed in a long bathrobe that she kept tripping over, running after him.

"Who are you?" he whispered sternly.

"I'm Lady," she whispered back.

"That's no name. You belong to the train, don't you? You'd better hurry back, or it'll pull out and leave you."

She didn't move.

duce its readers to adopt children. It had been a success—the circulation had gone up 25 per cent and its advertising in proportion—and the children were being delivered to the families who'd agreed to take them. In the trainload for the Southwest, which had been halted at Crebillon, was Lady. She was a spare—one of several extra children sent along to meet emergencies. Her absence wasn't discovered until the train reached Shreveport. In the meantime she had been seen with Paul, and the Crebillon authorities, with a great to-do, were searching the town for her. To date, the two had eluded them, the story said.

So there was Paul away down in Crebillon and deep in trouble. "He needs me," I said to myself, "and I'm going to him." I took a train that would get me into Crebillon at night, figuring that, with the aid of Lon Olds—he was still there, I knew from the Courier—I could find Paul and get out again before morning.

Lon was there all right and everything worked out according to schedule. I'd had misgivings about whether Paul would remember me—it was so long since he'd seen me. But he did, and Lady, a six-year-old warm, wild little neilion, accepted me at once as Paul's friend.

By eleven-thirty that night Carrie Snyder and her two children were moving west across a Louisiana prairie, bound for Shreveport and points north and east.

SENATOR TOM CONNALLY SPEAKS ON SOIL CONSERVATION

Mt. Pleasant, Tex.—"Business always has and always will depend on the economic prosperity of the farmer. Business can not live separated from agriculture, and the encouragement and cooperation of business leaders can be of unmeasurable benefit to agriculture," said Senator Tom Connally of Marlin in an address here today to one of the hundred business men and agricultural leaders of Titus county, following a field inspection tour of the Soil Conservation Service rect benefits that can accrue to project area.

"We saw here today the disour farm lands by the application of proper erosion control measures. We must come to realize in this nation that there are few good acres of land left to be cleared and that it is up to our present generation to conserve the good soil that we have left for upon such conservation will depend our future agricultural and business welfare," Senator Connally stated.

"We have been far too wasteful of our natural resources here in Texas. We have allowed millions of acres of productive lands to erode to such an extent that they have to be abandoned. The government can furnish this leadership and directing success of coserving our primary resource—the soil—now rests upon the people themselves. Our people must adopt and use the information that is available to them through Soil Conservation Service demonstrations such as we have here."

Senator Connally came along with business men and agricultural leaders of Titus county

MRS. ALICE SHIRLEY IS BURIED AT OGLESBY WEDNESDAY, NOV. 11

Mrs. Alice Shirley passed away at a Waco hospital Monday evening at 10 o'clock after an illness of several months. Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church at Oglesby by Rev. Mr. Ollie, pastor of the Carden Baptist Church. She was laid to rest in the Black Foot Cemetery.

At the time of her demise she was living near McGregor where the family has lived for the past two years, but she has lived the greater part of her life near Oglesby.

Mrs. Shirley was born and reared at Mound, and in August 1914 she was married to Joel Shirley. She is survived by her husband, three sons, Morie, F. A. and Ben, one daughter, Letabeth, six, brothers, and three sisters, Miss Margaret Lam, Mrs. Lafayette Lam besides a host of other relatives and friends.

As someone said about her going, "she has passed away to a Great Beyond, and the vacant place she leaves is filled with beautiful memories of her true Christian character." Her deeds of kindness, her loyalty and devotion as a wife and mother has inspired those around her and will linger long after she has passed away. She was a faithful church member and set an example for the guidance of others.

"GREEN PASTURES" COMING TO REGAL THEATER BEGINNING SAT.

Declared to be "America's Best Loved Play," a title earned by a continuous run of more than five years during which more than 2,000,000 people in 39 states witnessed it. "Green Pastures" has been filmed by Warner Bros. and will have its local premiere at the Regal Theater on Saturday night at 10:30, and running Sunday and Monday.

Directed by the author, Marc Connelly, who in 1932 won the coveted Pulitzer prize with the play "The Green Pastures" is said to be the most pretentious production ever attempted by Warner Bros., or any other studio. All the lavish that distinguished the studio's production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream and Captain Blood, and Anthony Adverse, has been supplied, and nothing has been left undone to give this inspiring play the majestic background it deserves.

There are 111 speaking parts in the screen version, besides the famous Hall Johnson Choir of 60 voices, and hundreds of extras. In all, there are 120 scenic settings, some of them of gigantic proportions. One of these is the famous "fish fry," in which 600 characters attend a picnic in a sunlit glade. There is a Southern community, with a full sized church, gambling halls and night clubs. Scenes of spectacular beauty are shown including barrie revels in ancient Babylon, in one of which four score of shapely dancers entertain the guests.

"Spectacles we could only talk about on the stage we now actually bring to the eyes of the audience," said Mr. Connelly who collaborated with Sheridan Gibney in writing the screen version of his play.

Exceptional music sets off this production. Twenty-five spirituals, two more than in the stage production, are sung in the film version by the Hall Johnson Choir who appear in the cast. Most of them are familiar and beloved old tunes, and a few are new.

Thirty of the characters in the original play have leading roles in the film. The leading part is taken by Rex Ingram whom author-director Connelly declares is one of the greatest actors in the world. He has the role made famous by Richard Berry Harrison who died during the run of the play.

Allen Saalburg, noted New York painter and scenic artist, was taken to Hollywood to design the sets and, to act as art director with Stanley Floescher. Hal Mohr, who won the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences award for photography of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," was chief cameraman.

The story is based on a book by Roark Bradford. It is highly humorous, yet tenderly reverent, and outlines the folklore, folk music and traditional beliefs and practices of primitive dwellers in the Deep South of the United States.

RODGERS INJURED IN SCRIMMAGE

Injured during scrimmage with his own team Friday afternoon Coach John O. Rodgers is recuperating at a hospital in Temple. He is expected to return to Copperas Cove the latter part of this week.

Rodgers is said to have sustained an injured kidney during the play. He was removed to a hospital Saturday afternoon.

Choral Club

The Choral Club has been working very diligently this week on a song entitled "Night-fall," which will be sung at the coronation ceremony to be held in the near future. This club under the direction of Miss Halbrook has been doing very nice work, since there are so many students in the club. Gatesville High is proud of its Choral Club and hopes that after steadfast drilling it will be able to win honors in the district this year.

Pep Squad Stunt

Last Friday night was the last night stunt that the pep squad girls will put on. As usual, the stunt was performed during the half of the game in the middle of the football field. The word hornet was formed and also the letter G. The lights were turned out and sparklers were lit. The girls then stepped back and the lighted sparklers outlined the letters. The stunt was very pretty and well done.

Poluhni Program

In keeping with American Education Week, which is November 9 to 15, a very educational program was given last Monday morning at 9:00 a. m. in the high school gym. This program was rendered by Mr. Poluhni, assisted by his wife and son. The spectators were first entertained by several selections of Swiss bell ringing and other music which appealed greatly to the audience. Poluhni mystified everyone with his many tricks of magic. Another important feature on his program was his ability as telepathist.

According to Supt. Brooks, the high school made $26.50 off this program. This amount will be given to the High School Band to assist them in their efforts to purchase new uniforms. To further carry out the spirit of Education Week, all parents and others interested are invited to visit the schools Friday and see what is happening in the educational world.

The Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club met Monday, November 9, and had a short business meeting. The club's secretary and treasurer, Pauline Turner, is leaving our school and the club elected Bertha Lillian Stewart for their new secretary and treasurer.

Because everyone is so busy with the carnival, and most of the money will go to that, the club decided to drop the magazine agency until later.

There was a very interesting program given on Armistice Day. The Significance of Armistice Day by Doris Johnson; poem: In Memoriam by Eunice Fisher; So They're Talking War Again, by Ruby Brown; poem: In Flanders Field by Louise Mayes; song: America. After this program Mrs. Chapman read a short article entitled "I Choose the Unknown Soldier," (by Sergt. Edward F. Younger.)

The club will meet again on Monday, Nov. 16.

Queens

The four classes met last Friday morning and each class chose a queen. The queens chose their kings and managers. Marjorie Hall was elected to represent the Freshmen, and chose Douglas Pollard as her king. The Sophomores elected Mildred Gandy as their queen and she chose Joe Reese Robinson as king. Rosylene Anderson was elected Junior queen, and Jack Hearne as her king and, Burl Davis as her manager. The Seniors elected Patsy Olsen for their queen and she chose Jack Hestlow as her king.

The queens having the most votes will be presented at the Carnival which will be held on November 19.

Campus Lowdown

Author Unknown

The carnival is keeping everyone on the run these days. All of the queen nominees are about the same height. Wonder who the bust is of, on the boys side? * G. T. Moore was seen squiring Rosylene Anderson last Friday night. * James Weaver went to Fort Worth with Anita Lowrey last Saturday, much to the sorrow of Jack Straw and Jack Hearn. * Since Nookie Routh is back, will the McCoy lass hold her present rating with Seth McLarty? * Margaret Ann Morton wants to take the Temple paper because Blondy Post delivers it. * Are Jane Thomson's smiles making an impression on Mr. Wallace? * The great Poluhni could find impairments in writing he had never seen, but he couldn't even find the smallest defect in his radio! * Fuzz Voss seems to really be interested in Helon Chamlee. * J. R. Saunders (Hornet Enemy no. 1) is going to be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the press club—he has been promised ample protection. * The way Jimmy McLean ducked when the gun was pointed at him still brings a chuckle. * Maxine Dolins and Bob Ables were once that way—it all ended when Maxine started having dates. * Wonder who Jack Hearne is crooning "When Did You Leave Heaven" to—could it be his old Flame? * It's a snap to pass plane geometry—you just have to know how to angle around. * Theme song at a tacky party—"The Way You Look Tonight" * This stuff is getting lousier and lousier and we're getting drowsier and drowsier, ho-hum.

Editorial

Do you know the answer? If you do, you're better than most of them. Who is to be crowned queen at the carnival coming soon? You're given four guesses on that one.

Are the Hornets going to step on McGregor's head? They'll do that, we are sure and are hoping for a victory. Somebody's mind is turning back to last year's game with McGregor.

Of course, there are many more questions that everybody would like for somebody, magician or otherwise, to answer. Guessing is guessing, but winning is also winning. It is wonderful to taste victory, but it is also wonderful to see some person or organization taste defeat and get up grinning. They might not have known the answer, but they could take it.

Nicknames

Who knows why they call Johnnie Post "Friday?" I suppose they call him "Cub" Post because he's such a bear (I wouldn't know). Maxine Dolins, one of those freshmen, is called "Pug." Could it be her nose? Wilm Wilson is "Flunky." There are three "Doc's" in the school—"Doc" Hamilton, "Doc" Smith, and "Doc" Durham, and last but not least, they call Geraldine Schloeman "Mae West." She wants to know if we think they look alike. All the girls want to know what "Gooch" McDonald called "Fuzzy" Voss and "Bluebeard" Satterfield last Monday.

Personals

Doris Polk and Nelle Goodall visited in Clifton over the week end.

Jack Hearne and Joe Ned Brown were Oglesby visitors last Sunday.

Leon Mann visited in Belton over the week end.

Jo Nell Mayberry is among the new members to enroll in the Junior class. She was a student of this school last year but attended the first eight weeks of this year in Waco.

Earnestine Sheltin was absent from school part of last week due to illness.

Centennial visitors last week end included Nancy Satterfield, Geraldine Schloeman and John Dayton Schloeman.

Fay Jones spent last week end in McGregor.

Jane Thomson Anita Lowrey spent last Saturday and Sunday in Fort Worth.

Cladys Marie Phillips visited in Temple last Sunday.

George Donaldson and Edwin McDonald visited in Waco Sunday.

Eloise Cook spent last week end in Waco.

Hornets Calm Mt. Calm

Last week the Hornets took Mt. Calm team into camp 6-0. In this game, there was more slugging than could be seen in a third grade boxing match. The Hornets had a team that was 36 points better than the Mt. Calm bunch in midfield, but when the goal line was in sight, they would dog down. If the Mt. Calm team had someone who could catch a ball, there might have been a different story. The outstanding men in the Hornets' backfield were Joe Baker and Harry Voss. Baker, with his end runs and Voss with great drives, were always threats to the Mt. Calm goal line. Joe Satterfield, who has played at nearly all the positions on the Hornets' team, showed up at guard and did a good job at playing that position. Joe Baker made the only touchdown when he went over tackle behind perfect blocking. The Hornets should have beaten the Mt. Calm team

GATESVILLE GRAMMAR SCHOOL

National Education Week

Our school has observed this week, November 2 to 13, as National Education Week. Pamphlets have been sent to the parents of each child explaining the meaning and importance of the occasion. Every parent is cordially invited to visit our school today, November 13.

Last Thursday the 2nd grade, under the direction of Miss Cayce, presented a program in assembly on National Education work. The program included poems, talks, songs, and a short play. Every member of the class was on the program.

Last Friday the five-X class under the direction of Miss Routh presented a program on the same theme to the upper grades. Bobby Paxton was the announcer, and Helen Johnson gave the introduction. In a short play Buddy Powell was the education king, and members of the class represented his court. Everyone enjoyed the program thoroughly.—Kathryn Summers and Gene Stinnett.

Carnival

Interest ran high in our school Tuesday when the fifth, sixth and seventh grades selected contestants for our representatives for the queen's coronation at the carnival to be held in the high school gymnasium Thursday evening, November 19. Mary Jane Stone is the representative for the seventh grade, Dorothy Chamlee for the sixth, and Maxine Lovejoy for the fifth grade. Each grade also selected a business manager to carry on the contest. The business managers for the fifth, sixth and seventh grades respectively are Tom Lasseter, Fred Post, and Ben Owen Crow. Voting has already started and will continue for a week.

Our school will also be responsible for some of the side-shows.

Magician Appears

The pupils in our school were allowed to attend a program presented in the high school gymnasium Monday morning at 9:00 o'clock by Mr. and Mrs. Poluhni and son. The program which included the playing of Swiss bells and organ chimes, magic stunts, and tricks of telepathy, was interesting to every student who attended. A small admission fee was charged, and part of the proceeds went to the school.—Mary Margaret Holmes.

First Grade

The pupils in Miss Lockard's room enjoyed a Halloween party the last Friday in October. They presented a program in assembly yesterday on the theme of American Education Week. Every pupil in the rooms appeared on the program. The class has just started their third reader.

Miss Holmes' class is now studying the Pilgrims and the Indians. The sandtable is decorated with Indian wigwams and Pilgrims.—Harry Straw.

Assembly Program

An Armistice program was presented by the pupils of Mrs. Crist in assembly last Tuesday. Ralph Bailey represented a wounded soldier whose mind had wandered to the days of the war. Suzanne Sadler and Bill Lasseter sang "School Days." Mary Jane Stone represented the mother and Frances Reesing the Red Cross nurse. Other numbers included a reading by Adeline Powell and songs by Duncan Kirkpatrick and Kenneth Wallace. All of the students joined in singing America, the Beautiful, as the concluding number.—Billy Joe Hinson.

Book Week

Members of the Library Club are sponsoring the observance of National Book Week in our school from November 16 to 20. Posters are being made, and an exhibition will be arranged in the library. Members of the club are preparing a program on Book Week to be presented in assembly Wednesday.

BUFFALO GRASS HARD TO PROPAGATE

Fort Worth.—Buffalo grass is one of the most desirable grasses in the Great Plains Region, including Texas, for pasturage and for soil and water conservation, according to C. B. Webster, regional nurseryman of the Soil Conservation service here. The seed of this species is difficult to obtain, not only because of the scarcity of the female plants that bear the seed, but also because no machine has yet been devised that will successfully harvest the seed.

Only two satisfactory methods are known at present for increasing the area covered by this grass, and for putting it in locations where it is desired. One method is to collect the seed by hand and plant it in the desired location, and the other method is to move sod to the desired location. The collection of seed by hand is very expensive, but must be done if the amount of this grass in the Great Plains Region is to be increased.

Where it is possible to obtain sod of the species, it is impossible to get sod that is composed principally of female plants. Buffalo grass in Central West Texas is found, naturally, in small spots or small blocks with either male and female plants in a mixture, or quite frequently with only male plants present. Where female plants are present, the seed are apparently produced most abundantly in depressions, such as shallow lake beds that dry up in the summer.

Mr. Webster states that every farmer and rancher in West Texas should be interested in increasing areas of Buffalo grass sod carrying a high percentage of the seed producing plants because of the volume of this percentage and for soil and water conservation.

The Nursery Division of the soil conservation service is attempting to locate all known areas of sod of this type and suggest that landowners knowing of any such locations report the areas to the nearest soil conservation service project or to their local county agent.

WHITE HALL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Nichols spent Saturday nite here with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Painter.

Miss Flora Rogers returned home Saturday after spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Logan.

Mr. and Mrs. Hershel Everett of Oglesby visited in the D. L. McCallister home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Oad Painter and children of Gatesville spent Sunday afternoon in this community visiting relatives.

Several of this community enjoyed a supper at the home of Jessie Miller at Mt. Zion recently.

Bob McCallister has been working the past week in Gatesville.

PEARL 4-H CLUB REPORT

"Begin work on your clothing inventor soon," said Miss Sidney Gale Gibson, Coryell County Home Demonstration Agent, at a meeting with the Pearl 4-H Club girls in the Pearl High School building Monday, Nov. 2, at 12:00 o'clock.

At this meeting Miss Gibson discussed with the 4-H Club girls the preparation of your clothing inventory. Miss Gibson said that each club member was to prepare an inventory of their clothing.

The club girls are to begin work on their aprons soon. Several suggestions were made on the kind of material to be used and the pattern.

There were fourteen members present for this meeting and three absent. After a business session, the club adjourned to meet Monday, November 16.

Hornets Lose to the Hamilton Bulldogs 15 to 0

Gatesville Lads Go Down Before Slugging Bulldogs on Fumbles

With Blansit, Cathey and Burris leading the way, the Hamilton Bulldogs emerged victors in the annual Gatesville-Hamilton Armistice Day class on the Hamilton gridiron, by a score of 15-0.

"Jumping Joe" Baker, Hornet halfback showed nice form in Gatesville's running attack, and Badger Hinesly, Gatesville's Sammy Baugh, opened up in the second quarter with a passing attack that almost ran the Bulldogs to a point of distraction. Hamilton had a fair pass defense, but regardless of that fact, Badger, with coolness to spare, threw some nice ones to Gilbreath and Byrom for several first downs.

Taking everything into consideration, Gatesville played on even terms with Hamilton, but sluffed-off the game on fumbles. Time after time, it looked as if Gatesville was headed for a touchdown, when some Hornet fumbled and practically every-time was recovered by a Hamilton man.

Wallace and "Man Mountain" Williams took honors in the Gatesville line. Williams for the first time this year, used his 195 pounds to advantage in spilling the Bulldogs time and time again.

Gatesville kicked to Hamilton at the beginning, and for the whole first quarter, neither team gained much yardage.

In the second quarter, on a steady drive, Hamilton pushed down to the Hornet 12 yard line, and a pass from Burris to Cathey, over the goal line, netted the Hamilton bulldogs their first marker. Burris tried for the extra point by kicking but failed, leaving the score 6-0.

In the same quarter, Joe Baker got off a nice 30 yard return on a put by Blansit of the Bulldogs after receiving it on his own ten yard marker. After failing to make a first down Baker kicked a nice one which roled out on Hamilton's 20. Hamilton failed to gain in three downs, and on the fourth kicked but the kick was blocked and Byrom caught the ball on Hamilton's 25. On the first down Badger Hinesly passed to Gilbreath, Hornet end, for fifteen yards, Followed by another five yard pass. At this time "Red Cap" Fore replaced Byrom at halfback. A pass from Hinesly to Fore was incomplete, followed by another incomplete pass to Gilbreath. On the fourth down, Badger was rushed by the entire Hamilton line, and the pass fell to the ground incomplete.

Hamilton took the ball on their own 10 and Burris, Hamilton fullback picked up fifteen yards on the first play, and the half ended 6-0, Hamilton.

Hamilton kicked to Gatesville at the opening of the second half, and Byrom took the ball on his own ten yard line and returned it to the 35. On the second down, Hinesly passed to Byrom for 12 yards. On the last down, Joe Baker kicked to the Hamilton 25 yard marker, and tackle was made by Joe Satterfield, Hornet guard.

On their first down, Beach of the Bulldogs, got off a quick kick which soared over Joe Baker, Hornet safety man, who took it on his own 7 yard line and returned it to his own 12. White, Hornet fullback, picked up four yards through center of the line. Hamilton was penalized at this time, for kicking a Hornet man in the face, and Gatesville now had the ball for first down on the Hornet 35 yard line. Baker fumbled the next play and the ball was recovered by Hamilton. Blansit kicked to Colgin, who took the ball on his own 5 yard line. Colgin, who had replaced Baker, looked ratty on that return. Hinesley's kick was blocked, and a Hamilton man covered the ball in the endzone for a safety, making the score 8-0. With Baker out of the game, Badger was forced to do the punting, and was so slow that a baby could have blocked his punts.

Later in the third quarter, Hamilton on Gatesville's 35 yd. line tried for a place kick, but the kick was low. Hearne replaced Colgin and Burl Davis came in for Satterfield. Hearne picked up five yards on a shovel pass and fumbled, on his own 28., the ball being recovered by a Bulldog.

On running plays, Hamilton advanced the ball to the Hornet 3 yard line. The third quarter ended with Hamilton in possession of the ball, still on the Hornet 3 yard marker. Burris, big Hamilton fullback plunged over with yards to spare, making the score 14-0, and Blansit kicked the goal, making the score 15-0, Hamilton.

Gatesville's fighting lads then opened up a passing attack with Hinesly slinging. A substitution for Gatesville put Jones in at end, who replaced Wicker. After several attempts for first downs by both teams, Badger finally completed a pass from his own 20 to 40 yard line to Jones, only to have the play called back because of an offside. On failing to make a first down, Gatesville punted to their own 37, with Cathey receiving it. He was stopped dead in his tracks by Wallace and Jones of the Hornets. Hamilton punted over Gatesville's goal line and Gatesville took the ball on their own 20. On failing to complete three passes, Hinesly kicked to Hamilton's 47 yard line, and "Man Mountain" Williams made the tackle on the spot. The game ended soon afterwards with Hamilton still in possession of the ball on Gatesville's 48 yard line.

Hamilton took the game on breaks. Both teams played on practically even terms, but Gatesville's fumbles lost the game.

With three losses in the season, Gatesville fans showed that they were still backing the Hornets, who at the first of the season looked like championship calibre.

Coaches Worley and Schwarz have until Nov. 26 to prepare the lads for the McGregor Bulldogs. McGregor has suffered a loss to Mart by a 65-0 score. to Bruceville, Eddy and Mt. Calm while Gatesville took Bruceville and Mt. Calm and were defeated by Mart 25-0. As it looks on paper, Gatesville is several touchdowns better than McGregor, but with the honor of each school at stake, due to rivalry of several years between the schools, anything can happen. It should be a real battle, with Gatesville coming out on the large end of a 12-0 score.

IS IT "FLAT SOUR?"

If there is any question about the condition of the canned food upon opening the container do not taste the contents before heating. A "flat sour" can is one in which "flat sour" organisms are present and cause a sour taste. Unlike "swells" the ends of such cans are flat. An imperfect seal or unfit raw material may be the cause of the condition known as "flat sour". In any case, dispose of questionable products by burying them.

Strip Cropping In Grand Prairie Region of Texas

The Grand Prairie Region of Texas with its variety of sources of farm income and noted for its diversified agriculture offers excellent opportunity for the control of erosion on crop land by applying the economical practice of contour strip cropping combined with contour tillage.

Terracing in combination with strip cropping, should be done where necessary but probably no more than half of the total cultivated acreage requires terracing. Where terracing is necessary to reduce the length of slope or to assist in the control of gullying, terrace lines should be run and strips (30 or 40 feet wide) of erosion resistant crops such as oats, wheat sorghum, millet, Sudan, or Hubam should be planted along the terrace lines to afford protection from erosion until permanent vegetated waterways can be established for terrace outlet protection. Gullies between terrace line should also be plowed in and stripped. When the permanent vegetated waterways become well sodded, terraces should be constructed where needed and the method of strip cropping and contour tillage most adaptable used with the terracing. This procedure has the added advantage of giving the farmer a trial and error method of determining the amount of his crop land on which erosion can be controlled with strip cropping and contour tillage alone thus reducing the amount of terracing, the expensive part of erosion control program, to be the minimum requirements.

The experience of the Gatesville Soil Conservation Camp with contour strip cropping in the Grand Prairie Region indicates that an adaptable method of strip cropping can be worked out for most farms that will not interfere with crop rotations, the variety nor the acreage of crops normally produced. These crops consist mostly of cotton, corn, oats, millet, wheat and sorghum. Cotton, corn, oats, wheat and millet are grown primarily for cash profits, however feed crops, especially the sorghums, are grown and fed to livestock on the farm since the cattle, sheep, goats, and poultry are raised on many of the farms throughout the region. The fact that cash crops and feed crops commonly grown can also be used for strip crops is the decided advantage.

On the heavy soils, which are the predominant soils in the Gatesville Camp area, maximum horizontal distances between erosion control strips and minimum strip widths are recommended according to the per cent of slope as follows:

Two to five per cent slope requires eighty feet of row crops and forty feet of erosion control crops;

Less than 2 per cent slope require 120 feet of row crops and 40 feet of erosion control crops.

By moving the erosion control strips down the slope, the usual rotation of cotton, oats, corn or cotton and oats can be followed.

Since the per cent of the different crops normally produced varies with the individual farm variations from the above standards of strip cropping have been worked out but these consist mostly of increasing the farm as large an area in one crop as possible.

A system of strip cropping with one half of the cultivated land occupied by erosion control strip is gaining popularity. This is accomplished on the terraced part of a field by seeding alternate terrace intervals in small grain beginning above the flow line of the next terrace in order that each terrace interval may have strip crop protection. Corn, cotton or other row crops are planted in the interval that is not stripped. On land not terraced, this system can be established by running contour lines every eighty, one hundred, or one hundred twenty feet, depending on the soil, slope and erosion classification, and alternate intervals designated as erosion control strips. If the land is comparatively smooth, parallel strips (using the above named distances) can be measured from a base contour line and point rows eliminated.

A two year rotation is established by seeding small grain in the row crop intervals after the row crops have been harvested. The following year a volunteer crop of small grain stubble utilized as green manure crop. By using this method of strip cropping the small grain stubble may be plowed and yet have strip crop protection throughout the year. Observations this year indicate that plowed under stubble will serve as an erosion control strip until the volunteer grain becomes established.

Mr. Worley: (referring to picture of castle in history book) A thousand years old and still standing; you can take it from me, they don't build such ancient castles nowadays.

Miss Durham: Are you laughing at me?

Class: No.

Miss D.: Well, what else is there in the room to laugh at?

Helon: Did I ever show you the place where I hurt my hip?

Fuzzy: N-n-no!

Helon: Well, get in, we'll drive over there.

Carnival

By Eloise Cook

"It's carnival night at G.H.S. Laughter, lights, fun, kings, queens, and what have you, make up this gay affair which is to be staged Thursday night, November 19 at the high school. This affair is given for the benefit of the annual of 1936-37. Everyone is invited, even grandpa. That saying "You ain't heard nothin' yet!" is true to life. There is to be crowned a queen, thru her escort, the king in this big occasion, not saying anything about a negro minstrel directed by Mrs. Frances Crist, dramatic teacher. Let us all come as one big happy family, leave our troubles at home, station a smile on our faces and come on everyone, lets go to the carnival.

The Annual

Last week the different classes met and decided whether or not they would support the Senior class in publishing an annual. In the senior class meeting Mrs. Reising explained the cost, the work, and the different things which would have to be done in order to publish the annual. After thinking it all over for a few minutes the class voted for the annual and elected Jack Hestilow editor-in-chief. In order to get the annual two hundred subscriptions must be obtained, furnishing the necessary down payment. There should be that many subscribers in the high school alone. The senior class is working hard to get this annual and it will be well worth having. The price is one dollar down and another dollar when you receive your copy. The money from the subscriptions alone will not be enough, but since the Senior class must furnish the necessary money, every little bit helps.

DON'T GAMBLE
•• WITH A COLD

The common cold germ is a constant threat to your well-being during the winter season. If you do catch cold—don't gamble; consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.

COMMON colds are dangerous! Don't gamble with them. You will lose more often than you will win. Even if you are lucky and recover from a cold within a few days without loss of time or money, YOU STILL LOSE. Any illness to a member of the family is definitely false economy because colds create a condition of depressed physical vitality.

This is the age of preventive medicine and medical science has followed the formula that "it is better to keep well than to get well." Therefore, don't gamble. Strike at the root of common colds by eliminating conditions that contribute to "catching cold."

If the temperature of any room is insufficient for comfort it is INADEQUATE FOR HEALTH. Members of the family go from a heated room into a cold hall or adjoining unheated room; then shivering and chilled, they return to the heated room. This is one almost certain way to catch cold.

Protect your family against sudden changes of temperature. Give them the benefit of healthful, pure, warm air throughout the home. If you have been heating only one or two rooms, don't go through another winter without complete health protection. If you prefer individual unvented room heaters of the open flame type, be sure to use one in each room and provide adequate ventilation from slightly opened windows. Keep connecting doors open from one room to another so that a natural circulation of healthful, warm air prevails throughout the home.

Heat your entire house and provide adequate ventilation of pure air . . . for your health's sake!
