MARVIN HARRIS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

FIRST CASUALTY OF YEAR FOR CORYELL COUNTY IS CRASH IN REAR OF TRUCK PARKED NEAR MCGREGOR.

McLennan County's sixth highway traffic victim and Coryell County's first for 1937, was Marvin Lee Harris, 24, of Levita, who was fatally injured as the car he was driving crashed into the rear of a truck parked on the left side of the road five miles east of McGregor at 2:30 a. m. Sunday morning. Monroe Herring of Levita also, riding with Harris, was seriously injured, and is suffering from severe shock, and Monday afternoon was reported resting well at a Waco sanitarium. His left arm was crushed, he was cut and bruised also.

Medical Aid Delayed

Two and a half hours elapsed from the time of the collision until an ambulance picked up the two victims. Harris already dead. Delay was caused by a second accident to the car driven by W. E. Seale of Oglesby, who was carrying the men to Waco. A wheel ran off his car. Another motorist passing was told of the situation and called an ambulance at 5 a. m.

Ross Jaye was arrested following the accident and charged with negligent homicide, according to last night's Waco Times-Herald. The injured men ran into the back end of his truck which was parked in the left center of the road, and no flares had been placed as is required by state law, it is reported. The truck driver said the truck was out of gasoline.

State Highway Patrolman W. R. Willingham, who investigated the accident, said that the car driven by Harris was evidently going at a high rate of speed, and was traveling in the middle of the highway.

Dr. W. S. Witte, who is treating Herring said Monday morning the young man suffered a serious concussion of the brain, in addition to breaking his left arm. He is expected to recover, however.

Funeral at 3:00 p. m. for Marvin L. Harris

Funeral services were held at Levita yesterday afternoon at 3:00 p. m., with Rev. C. A. Morton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Gatesville, conducting the rites. Interment was in the Levita cemetery.

Marvin was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom R. Harris of Levita, and was born November 1, 1912, at Levita. He is survived by his father, mother, brother Melvin, of Pampa, Texas, and two sisters Ardine of Levita and Mrs. Lois Rankin of Abilene.

Harris was a member of the First Baptist Church of Levita, was a graduate of Levita High school 1929, and since then has been associated with his father in business there.

Pall bearers were Bill Beachly, Bill Murray, Otha Moreland, Johnnie Edwards, Bailey Timmons and Stanley Miles.

PAINTER'S TAKES TITLE AT INDEPENDENT MEET

A team of all-stars from Coryell County, representing Painter's Dry Goods Store made a clean sweep of the lists at the annual independent basketball tournament held at the Cotton Palace in Waco last week end. A beautiful bronze trophy, the Tom Padgett Co. trophy, has been awarded them as champions of district 9.

Managed by Sam Weaver and coached by Rayburn Balch, the Painter team showed real class in defeating other teams of the district, some of which were featuring former stars of the Southwestern Conference.

Conducted on a round robin basis, the Coryell County boys were awarded the championship for the highest percentage, winning the final game from Travis in a high scoring thriller, 48 to 46.

Members of the team are Johnnie Edwards, Levita; Bob Weaver, Cullen Welch, Lorraine Weaver, Hayden Watson, Logan Drake, Jonesboro; Hazen Ward, Ames; Jack Thornton, Tom Ward, Ray Jones, Theo Whatley, Gatesville.

Tentative plans are being made for a game with Star here in the High School gym tomorrow night. This game will be for the purpose of raising money to send the team to the state tournament this week end at Fort Worth, where they will represent District 9. Star has an excellent team and the game should well be worth turning out for.

CCC ENROLLEES AT MOTHER NEFF PARK START GARDENS

The boys of Company 817, the CCC camp at Mother Neff State Park, will soon get a taste of scientific farming. A two-acre tract in second bottom land of the Leon River will be given over to the boys to plant in a variety of vegetables, under the leadership of Vocational Agriculture teacher, K. D. Willingham of McGregor.

The gardens will be an outgrowth of plans of Capt. E. A. Olson of Waco, commander of the sub-district No. 2, who is arranging to have each of the ten camps under him have some kind of an agricultural project in gardening. An accurate check will be kept on all cost and production, and efforts will be made to have something growing on every square foot of ground throughout the year.

Capt. John W. Oliver, commanding the Mother Neff camp, announced that every enrollee in the project would participate in some way, and that instruction would be given to all.

NOTES FROM COUNTY SUPT. OFFICE

Schools of the county should take their scholastic census in March. Supplies are in the County Superintendent's office and may, and should be, had at once.

Taking the census well is the beginning of successful terms for 1937-38. The census should be taken and then be checked carefully by the school teachers so that no child will be omitted this year.

HIWAY OFFICIALS EXPLAIN PURPOSE OF PLANNING SURVEY

Car owners of Coryell County now have a chance, according to J. T. Barton, Financial Manager of the Highway Planning Survey of the Texas Highway Department, to help in the planning of their own roads by furnishing confidential information to the Highway Planning Survey division.

This information is obtained on post cards that are being handed to automobile owners at the time they pay their 1937 registration fees at the office of the Tax Assessor-Collector of Coryell County.

The Planning Survey is collecting information on a state-wide basis which is to be used in planning the future construction and maintenance of roads and highways. It is the duty of local citizens to furnish the information which is requested and thus be sure that their county and section of the state receives proper recognition in this highway planning work.

CAR-MOTORCYCLE CRASH DOES NO INJURY TO PERSONS

At 10:15 Sunday night in the 1700 block on Main street, a motorcycle driven by Charlie Ray Hinsley, Company Clerk at the CCC Camp, who had as his passenger Hiram Schrimshire of Gatesville, crashed into the back end of a light delivery driven by Milburn Holden, who had J. W. Edwards with him.

The front wheel locked on the motorcycle which caused it to crash into the rear of the truck. Injuries were only slight bruises, Edwards suffering some shoulder bruises. The motorcycle was partially wrecked.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN'S CLUB WILL HAVE BANQUET

"Public Relations" is the subject of the program that will be presented at the meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club which will be in the form of a banquet held at 6:30 p. m. in the basement of the First Methodist church of this city tonight March 2.

Judge Floyd Zeigler will speak on "Public Relations" and Miss Ernestine Durham will speak on "Personality;" the Junior Orchestra under the direction of D. W. Diserens will play several selections and Jack Reesing, pianist, will play "Waltz in A Flat" by Chopin and accompany Miss Beulah Gamblin whistler. As a final number the entire group will sing "Till We Meet Again."

HOW IT SHOULD BE SHOWN IN PAINTER'S WINDOW

CCC, or rather Soil Conservation employees have placed a "before and after taking" display of soil conservation work, which will show quicker than can be told what the men in these camps, and the government in general, is trying to do.

The display looks like some of those prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, but as for that, we are not informed but it is worth your time to stop and look.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT ATTENDS CONVENTION

The winter meeting of the National Education Association, held in New Orleans this year, was attended last weekend by Ercell W. Brooks, Superintendent of the Gatesville Public Schools.

One of the major issues of the meeting was the urging of the superintendents to set up definite standards for admission to the profession and to their organization, the Department of Superintendency. Small section meetings of the superintendents were called for consideration of special problems in education such as public opinion, adult education, the curriculum, teachers, pupil, guidance, and many other phases of education.

Many noted educators from all over the United States were present and delivered addresses on the modern educational system.

A greeting from President Roosevelt and an encouraging discussion of crucial issues in education by John W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, were received with interest by large audiences.

210-400 — 210-481 ARE ONLY NO'S. GONE OUT NOW

He's having a hard time getting rid of his numbers! Only 81 have come in after those brand new 1937, black and gold state made plates so necessary when you pass a "bull," and he yells "Whars your number?"

Well, anyway, it's spring, and "number time," and Mr. Culberson has any number of numbers. However, there's no discount on early buying, or shopping early.

WELL, FOLK'S IT'S ANOTHER CITY RACE

So far, no hats have been flying in any rings as we know of, but by the first Saturday in April there ought to be some candidates who are "out for votes."

As we understand it, there are some Aldermen's places to be filled, and probably a City Treasurer.

Probably a little later this week there's to be a buzz of beavers flying and the plunk of them landing in the ring.

WORLD COMMENT

The March of Labor

The forty-three day strike of General Motors Corporation employees heralded a general offensive on the labor front for better working conditions and union recognition.

Labor is on the march. Since 1935 when twelve member unions walked out of the national convention of the American Federation of Labor to form the Committee of Industrial Organization under the leadership of John L. Lewis, movements have been underway to organize steel, automobile and rubber workers into huge industrial unions.

The automobile strike was but the prelude to portentous movements by labor in the next four years. Conditions are particularly favorable to a labor resurgence, with a liberal, friendly chief executive in the White House, and with one of the most eager, aggressive leaders at the helm of one labor faction ever to rise in this nation.

But it is the fact that labor is today split that renders its efforts for better conditions all along the line less potent. John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, one of the richest member unions of the A. F. of L., dissatisfied with the Federation's failure to organize more than ten per cent of the thirty million gainfully employed workers in this country, and at the refusal of the Executive Council of the Federation to inaugurate a drive for the unionization of mass-production workers, today is outside the fold of the old Federation with his twelve unions—the largest and richest of the Federation—with a combined membership of about a million.

After the 1935 walkout at the Atlantic City Convention Lewis and his aides organized Organization (C. I. O.), to whose treasury was subscribed $500,000 by member unions for two purposes: to mold all steel workers into one huge union, and to fight for the re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In the first of these two objectives, little has been accomplished, but in the second C. I. O. vastly increased its prestige over the A. F. of L. by the landslide vote for Roosevelt. President William Green of the A. F. of L. gave only lukewarm support to the President's re-election campaign.

The aims of the C. I. O., John L. Lewis lists as follows:

1. The improvement of working and living standards of mass-production employees by the development of industrial unions coterminous with industry in extent of organization and equal in economic power with management.

2. The development of effective organization and strength by the labor groups . . . to the end that it may be used in cooperation with other unselfish groups of our people in establishing sound measures of industrial democracy, and humanitarian reforms which are traditionally and indissolubly associated with the ideals and aspirations of our self-governing republic.

The struggle between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. is commonly interpreted as being one conflict between craft unionism and industrial unionism the first of which includes only skilled and semi-skilled workers, and the last of which takes in workers of all classes.

But President William Green of the A. F. of L. emphatically denies that this is true. The real issue is this, he says: Shall the American Federation of Labor, the organized labor movement of America, follow democratic procedure? Shall the movement be governed by majority rule? Shall the will of the majority of the membership of organized labor be the supreme law of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Green pointed out that at the historic Atlantic City convention—"The supreme court of labor, the place where the laws of the A. F. of L. are evolved, where policies that the Executive Council is commanded to carry out are formulated and adopted"—the question of organizational policy was submitted. The committee chosen by the convention met and submitted its report to the convention where after the widest and most comprehensive discussion of the subject, the organization policy for the Federation was adopted by a vote of nearly 2 to 1.

Quoting Mr. Green again, "The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor commanded by the body that created it to carry into effect the decision of the majority of the delegates in attendance at the convention, is now faced with a new organization within the American Federation of Labor organized for the avowed purpose of carrying into effect the minority report of the Atlantic City convention."

But what of the organized efforts of the C. I. O. which culminated in the General Motors strike and which is threatening an explosion in the steel industry? In a subsequent article John Lewis' "March on Steel" will be discussed and the reasons for the failure of his drive in that industry outlined.

KNOW TEXAS

Did you know that if every individual in the State of Texas would try to draw one book out of the 56 public libraries, there would be four people to every book. Of the thirty-six cities in Texas above 10,000 in population seven do not have tax-supported public libraries, and 2,800 rural communities are without library facilities.

Considerable progress has been made in recent years in the building of libraries for the use of the general public and in educational institutions, but the State is still deficient as measured by the standards of many older commonwealths.

TOM CARLTON'S BROTHER, R. N. CARLTON BURIED IN STEPHENVILLE

Funeral services were conducted Friday afternoon from the First Baptist church of Stephenville for R. N. Carlton, vice-president of the firm of G. M. Carlton Bros. and Company, who passed away at the family home in Stephenville Thursday shortly before 12 o'clock. Rev. S. B. Culpepper officiated at both services, and burial followed at West End cemetery.

Surviving are his wife and two children, Frank Carlton and Mrs. C. O. McMillan both of Stephenville and the following brothers, Tom Carlton, of this city; G. M. Carlton of Hamilton; Rufus Carlton of Walnut Springs; James R. Carlton, Dallas and Dr. Ben Carlton of Freeport.

Mr. Carlton moved to Stephenville in 1907, when the Carlton firm entered the mercantile field and he immediately became identified with every forward movement in the community. At the time of his demise he was a director in the Chamber of Commerce and Retail Merchants Association, chairman of the board of directors of the Stephenville State Bank and a member of many prominent activities. He had been a member of the First Baptist church since he first lived in Stephenville.

As a tribute to one of the beloved figures of the city and county Mayor Clark issued a proclamation late Thursday afternoon requesting every business house in Stephenville to close its doors for the funeral service. This proclamation was agreed to almost one hundred per cent and one of the largest concourses of friends and business associates ever assembled for any funeral was present for the last rites, thus giving evidence of the love and esteem in which he was held.

Being a brother of one of our citizens and also being well known in this city, his many friends in Gatesville and Coryell County offer their heartfelt sympathy to his family and surviving brothers in their bereavement.

WARNING No. 984567204

On every side you're warned, "Drive Carefully," do this and do that in traffic, when you are driving your car.

This week-end, another Coryell County life has been snuffed out: That, in itself is a warning to others, but didn't save that life—a young life.

If we suggested that you be careful of your driving etc., it would be repetition, but if you would take it, we'd gladly give it because, well, we might impress it well enough on one person to save one life, and that'd be worth all the "Warnings" we have, or for that matter, ever will give.

WE HAVE IT—JUST THE THING YOU HAVE BEEN LOOKING FOR

A high quality feed at a very moderate cost. We are introducing to the poultry raisers of Coryell County one of the best feeds on today's market, namely MID-TEX poultry feeds.

We are especially interested in the farmers of this county raising strong, vigorous chicks that will develop into hens of high egg production. For our territory to establish a state-wide reputation for high quality chickens and eggs, means a year round demand for our products and consequently a higher price to you.

If you are getting only 30 to 50% egg production, then you need our help. We want you to feel free to call at our place of business and ask one of our experienced men to cull your flock. This will be done without cost to you.

SPORTS

Basketball

The final week of the 1937 basketball season in Coryell County ended with a brilliant finish and some of the best games ever played in the high school gym.

Beginning night with the boy's friendly county-wide tournament and continuing through until Saturday night the tournament was a success, with the Irene girls' "wonder" team probably the main interest.

Pearl drew a bye on Wednesday night, leaving the field to Gatesville, Copperas Cove, Jonesboro and Turnersville. The Hornets playing some "ringers," members of the before-mid-term team, successfully took the measure of the Copperas Cove boys 19 to 11, and Jonesboro turned Turnersville back 20 to 8.

Friday night saw the beginning of the two night stand team, a symphony of grace and pulchritude combined with an efficient and smooth working machine.

The Hornet's girl's team beaten by only three points, 29 to 26, looked good in defeat and almost as impressive as did the victors. Five girls playing together for four years make a combination that is hard to beat and the Gatesville girls showed their ability by holding the score as close as it was.

The contest was neck and neck up until close to the end when Irene put on a last minute spurt to draw ahead three points and retain their lead until the final whistle.

On the same night Gatesville took an easy one from the Pearl Dragons, 28 to 5. Moore King, White, Gilbreath, and Turner, playing together again for the first time in a good while loped through the contest in easy style, with very little effort.

Saturday night saw the culmination of the entire tournament with the Irene vs. County All-Stars game the major attraction. The Coryell County girls playing together for the first time had no chance against the experienced team work and ball handling of the Irene Club, but put up a good account of themselves nonetheless. Irene came off in the lead 39 to 22.

Whisenhunt of Gatesville did some long distance goal shooting that marked severe tallies for the locals, while Apel starred at her guard position.

In the last game of the night the Gatesville boys took a fast one from Jonesboro, 17 to 10, with More and King outstanding.

Painter's Wins District Title
The district-independent basketball tournament held at Waco this week end was won by Painter's Dry Good Store team, taking the final game from Travis 48 to 46.

The tournament was conducted on a round robin basis with the Painter quintet coming off with the highest percentage. Ward and Weaver were the high scorers for the Gatesville outfit, but Edwards and Thornton were the outstanding players on the court.

PRICES RECEIVED & PRICES PAID BY FARMERS

Legend: The Texas farmer is not so much interested in how many dollars he receives for his products as he is in how much he can buy with these dollars. When, as in 1932, farm income and the purchasing power of the farm dollar both declined to disastrous lows, agriculture, industry, and labor entered the depths of the depression together.

Broadway LIMITED

by W. A. S.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Little "ol' N' Yawk" is enjoying the greatest influx of winter visitors in years . . . spring-like weather, a rise in price of farm products plus reduced travel rates account for the unexpected (but welcome) volume of out-of-towners . . . Nevertheless, it is disturbing hibernation of our Broadway tour conductors. . . . During the lean winter months these "birds of prey" are accustomed to sleep more, earn little and eat less . . . Babe Ruth still seems to be the most popular gent in this town. . . . At the annual "feed and speech" contest of the Baseball Writers Ass'n, the old Babe (43 and fat) walked away with the laurels. . . . Ruth made a fair speech, but the affection in which the ex-king of swat is held was shown by the speeches of those who followed him. . . . Postmaster General Farley, ex-Mayor and play-boy Jimmy Walker and other luminaries referred to Ruth as the outstanding sport figure of all times. . . . In the foyer of a night spot on 52nd Street, Marlene Dietrich does a "trucken" a la Bill Robinson. . . . Seeing a crowd of autograph hunters waiting outside she shouts: "I'm in the mood for anything"—sends her companion out to get the autograph books and signs them all. . . . The International Casino management is considering copying the custom of most night clubs in Japan. . . . Programs in the land of Nippon carry the name, address and telephone number of every girl in the chorus—just in case you wish to call and tell one how much you enjoyed her dancing! . . . I've finally run across an honest man! . . . Rudy Vallee, when he instructs his secretary to tell someone on the phone that he is not in—steps three feet out of the room while she repeats the message! . . . Backstage at the Alvin Theatre Jimmy Durante tells me he is "all burned up" over letters he receives from a certain unknown female admirer. . . . "She never signs her letters" shouts Schnozzle "just puts an X at the bottom. Now, what I'm wondering is: Is she signing off with a kiss or is that the only way she knows to sign her name?"

Your reporter who has an enormous amount of innocence to lose couldn't supply the answer. . . . Odd how some remark that tickled the funny bone will remain dormant a long time and then suddenly pop up to bring back a smile. . . . Maurice Chevalier's new flicker on Broadway (the first since he left these shores) brings back to mind a remark he once passed. . . . The smiling Frenchman, a great book collector, never learned to say "no" to any friend wishing to borrow a volume. . . . Said Maurice "I have to visit my friends occasionally, just to look over my library!" . . . In the lobby of Madison Square Garden champion John Henry Lewis is studying a photo of near-champ Joe Louis. . . . As he walks away, the dark boy just shakes his head and smiles! . . . and so do we. . . . The Broadway Parade.

Lets Talk about Clothes

Denton, Mar. 1.—A more versatile Spring showing of new clothes couldn't have been ordered! Even the most exacting clothes collector will be satisfied, while the appreciative shoppers are jubilant over the newest ideas. If you're weary of suits, baik at giddy boleros, sniff at swaggers, you still have all kinds of cape ensembles and redingotes to praise.

While these time-tried get-togethers bloom a fresh each spring, this time girl at Texas State Cillege for Women (CIA) believe you'll cheer convincingly for the clever details, the new streamlines, the unbeatable slenderness, and the lavish color treatments.

Capes are not the uninteresting overwhelming things they sound. They are skimpy, slenderizing, and very smart. Square cut shoulder lines, straight effects, perky outlines, shorter lengths, and vividly colored linings, all contrive to make them individual. Capes with long sleeved dresses afford the imaginative owner the opportunity to go out with the dress under a fitted jacket, and the cape to swing over gaily printed dresses for another good change.

This season capes reach the waistline or snap smartly around the hipline, and sometimes are longer but most important they are made of less material and keep you slim.

The redigotes are spectacularly suggestful. The skirts wrap smoothly and flare just enough at the hemline. The best finds are cut in one piece at the back and separate at the sides and print or silk of the dress under the outfit. Some tie in position, some swing free, and some are just plain frauds, redigotes to the casual onlooker, but really a clever one piece outfit cut to simulate the becoming lines of a redingote.

More than a thousand pairs of nesting pelicans spent the mating season on islands off Titusville, Fla.

SYNOPSIS

Wild Bill Hickok, and Calamity Jane, his sweetheart, are taken prisoners by the warring Indians under Chief Yellow Hand. When Hickok refuses to divulge the route which an ammunition train going to the relief of General Carrington is taking, he is ordered to be burned at the stake. Jane saves him by burning the secret. Later, the ammunition train with Buffalo Bill Cody as scout, is ambushed. A bloody battle ensues with Wild Bill, who has rejoined his comrades, in the thick of the fighting. Calamity rides to General Custer for help and the latter's troops come to the rescue. A week after the battle, Hickok kills three soldiers in Hays City for making undue references to Calamity. The soldiers were renegades in the pay of John Lattimer, who is running guns to the Indians. But Hickok is forced to flee and seek refuge in Cody's cabin.

CHAPTER VIII

"Now, Lou, take it easy," said her husband. "I wasn't there, but here's the way I piece it together."

Wild Bill here did something he don't usually do—he spouted off his mouth a lot before that crowd; told 'em what he was going to do. Folks tell me Jack McCall sneaked away about that time. I figure Jack run to Lattimer's store and warned him."

"I reckon maybe he did," agreed Wild Bill. "Anyway, when I went in his store, he said he wasn't armed. I told him to get his hands on some shootin' irons and come out on the street. Then I went out to wait for him."

Cody intervened:

"Then the next thing Bill knew, three soldiers had picked a fight with him. So Bill finished 'em and got himself shot in the arm."

Mrs. Cody sighed, with relief, and with some amazement. There was a time when she could not have condoned a killing.

"I bet Lattimer put them up to it." "Try to prove that to the Army," said Wild Bill. "But I ain't through. I'll get Lattimer if it takes—"

"Now, Mr. Hickok," abjured Louisa Cody, "don't talk about killing anybody else." Darkness had come. She went about the lighting of the lamps, at last to turn, with a finger to her lips. "There's someone at the door."

It was Calamity Jane, who entered quietly, tossing her deerskin saddlebags beside the leanto of the cabin.

"Did they hurt you much?" she asked hurriedly of Bill. Without waiting for an answer, she knelt beside him. "I've brought a horse for you, Bill. Custer thinks you murdered those men. He's ordered you brought in. Dead or alive."

Louisa gasped. "But he was only defending his own life."

"Thanks, ma'am," said Wild Bill. "But I can't prove it."

"You will when you find Lattimer," added Cody bitterly. "Drag it out of him."

"Lattimer's gone," cut in Calamity Jane. "Pulled out with his wagon train."

"Where for?" There was a gleam in Wild Bill's eyes.

"I don't know. Maybe up north. Into the Black Hills country, where that big gold find's been made. Everybody's floodin' in. That's where those soldiers were headin' for—aimed to desert and go up there and dig gold. Lattimer prob'ly dug up some for 'em right here, if they'd kill you."

straightness in Louisa Cody's shoulders now. Once she had recoiled from this woman, now she admired her, wished well for her and for the wounded man she worshipped. As for Calamity Jane—

Outside the little cabin, in the darkness, Calamity looked upward to the shadowy figure which had, slowly and painfully, mounted her horse.

"I guess this is goodbye, Bill," she said slowly as she tied on the saddlebags.

Hickok did not answer directly. "What's going to become of you, Clam?"

"Oh, I'll move on. Somewhere around Deadwood, I guess. It's a big country."

"Somewhere around Deadwood, eh?" asked Wild Bill Hickok. Then with a sudden softness which believed the man: "Yeh, it's a big country, Clam. Maybe our trails'll cross."

Then he was gone, a vague figure in the night. But Calamity Jane remained there, staring after him.

In a month later that two men faced each other over a campfire, deep in the Black Hills. Both were gaunt from many an arduous day on the trail. Both were footweary, their boots were scuffed and scuffed.

"What became of your hoss, Bill?" asked William Cody.

"Injuns got mine. What happened to yours?"

"Same here. Say, good thing I found you this mornin'—I'm out of grub."

"So'm I, Cody. 'Cept for some bacon. Cook it up."

"All right. Been lookin' for you a long time, Bill. Custer sent me."

There was a long pause. Then:

"How's Louisa, Cody?"

"Oh, fine. Gone back to St. Louis to be with her mother, when—"

"Uh-huh. Hope it's a boy—like you, Cody. An' she's a fine woman. Fixed up my arm fine. Which reminds me. Why'd Custer send you after me?"

Cody prepared to fry the bacon.

"That's easy, Bill. He says I'm the only man you wouldn't kill."

"Then the orders still stand, Cody? Bring in Hickok, dead or alive?"

"Dead or alive, Bill. And I ain't goin' to bring you in dead."

Again there was a long pause.

"Then," said Wild Bill Hickok "you ain't goin' to bring me in."

Cody regarded him.

"Come on, Bill," Calamity Jane begged. "They'll be searching this house soon. You've got to get out—to get going, away from here."

"Well, I'm glad Hickok tried to kill them first!" Cody looked at his wife in amazement. "Well, I don't care. Will, they had no right to try to murder Mr. Hickok."

It was the first touch of humor that had come into this st.icken company. Cody chuckled. Calamity Jane rocked with laughter. A grin creased the pain-ridden features of Wild Bill Hickok.

"Thanks, ma'am," he said again. Then came sudden silence. Once more someone was at the door. Quickly Wild Bill was hidden in the leanto. It was well. This was a courier from General Custer with orders for Cody. He must report at once. At last, the soldier departed. Calamity Jane moved swiftly.

"Come on, Bill," she begged. "They'll be searching this house soon. You've got to get out—to get going, away from here."

She forced him to the door. Cody and Louisa watching them, saying a silent goodby. There was prideful visory board of the Greater Texas Committee and Governor James V. Allred is honorary chairman.

Winners of the 48 free trips to the exposition will come to Dallas at times when special events of international interest are scheduled, Frank L. McNeny, director general of the exposition announced today. Some of the unusual events on the exposition's program are the Pan American olympics to be directed by George P. Marshall, nationally famous Washington sportsman and interational automobile and airplane racer. Mr. McNeny said that dates for the school contest winners' visits to the world's fair at Dallas will be announced as soon as the program is completed.

The splendid reponse which the expositions plans are receiving in Mexico and South American countries that the school children of Texas will have a wonderful opportunity for both education and entertainment at the exposition next summer," said Mr. McNeny.

The contest is divided into 24 supervisory districts of the state Department of Education. In this way, the contestants will compete by districts and the individual pupil will have greater opportunity to win one of the 384 valuable prizes. The contest is open to sixth and seventh grade pupils of the white public schools who may compete in the elementary division; and to the high school pupils of the white public schools who will enter the high school division.

First prize in each of these two divisions in each of the 24 districts of the state will be an expense-paid trip to the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition. Second prize in each district will be $10 cash, and six $2 cash prizes will be given also. Pupils may enter the contest by asking their school principals to write to the Greater Texas Committee, 1101 Commerce St. Dallas, Texas, for copies of the contest book, "The Tale of A City" and Two Expositions." These books will be sent without cost to every school principal in the quantity he requisitions.
