Chamber of Commerce Mass Meeting at City Hall

NEWS ITEMS FROM COUNTY SPTS. OFFICE

By J. M. Witcher

All schools in Coryell County whose combined reports make the County Annual report are in. These reports are thought to be more nearly complete than any previous set. Teachers and principals deserve some credit for their promptness and accuracy in this work.

The County Superintendent's Annual reports should be sent to the state department during the next two weeks. Teachers seem to have done their part by getting well arranged reports in on time.

The state department has promised to publish regulations governing state aid during the next two years as soon as the Legislature adjourns and as soon thereafter as the Attorney General expresses his opinion about doubtful sections.

Planning for the coming school year's work is general and must be so that plans can be adjusted to general state law and state regulations.

The County Board will study the general school program for next year. The County Superintendent will do his part toward keeping in touch with any and all developments at Austin until the school program is known. One or two trips per week will be made if necessary.

Transfers which are made during July should be confined to high school pupils whose grade is not taught and pupils who are handicapped by bad roads as well as high water. There may be exceptions to this general rule. Each application will be considered on their own merits.

Many advantages were mentioned by the organizers that will come to members of the organization.

BETTER FARM CONDITIONS IN GV. AREA DUE TO STRIP CROPPING

Improved farm conditions in the Gatesville camp area are apparent in the "well dressed" appearance of the land, according to E. E. McAlister, technician.

Many fields for the first time last winter were clothed in green cover crops to protect the soil against winter rains.

These crops, turned under this spring, will add to the fertility of the soil and increase the yield of crops to follow.

With the approach of hot weather summer strip crops of sorghum and sudan are taking over their part of the job of erosion control and soil building as the definitely planned cropping system evolves into a systematic rotation. Mr. McAlister pointed out.

Broad strips are coming into style in the vegetative covering of the land as more and more farmers are adopting the practice of strip cropping and planting strips of close-growing crops between bands of clean-tilled land to increase the effectiveness of their rotation in protecting the soil against erosion.

Properly built terraces winding across cultivated fields; broad meadow strips, which conduct the surplus water out of the fields and provide the farmer with an additional crop of hay; well sodded outlet channels; young trees and permanent hay crops growing on the steeper slopes, all are adding to the attractiveness of the general appearance of the land as well as protecting the soil against erosion. Mr. McAlister said following an inspection trip over the area today.

REPORT OF ANNUAL MEETING
FIRST CHRIST OF CHURCH
SCIENTIST, BOSTON

Boston, Mass., June 7—Progress of Christian Science expressed in the organization and recognition of fifty-nine new churches and societies; in sales increases of 66 per cent for the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science; in an increasingly friendly public thought as reflected by legislative bodies when handling measures involving medical and religious freedom; and in much good healing work; featured reports today by churches and officers at the annual meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist.

The election of judge Clifford P. Smith of Newton, Mass., as Church president for the coming year, and Edward L. Ripley of Brookline as Treasurer, and W. Palmer of Marshfield as Clerk, was announced. The president is elected by the Christian Science Board of Directors to serve for one year. His duty is to be presiding officer at the Annual Meeting.

Clifford P. Smith, C. S. B., LL.B., became interested in Christian Science at Mason City, Iowa, in 1896, where he practiced law before becoming judge of the District Court of Iowa, the superior court of that state. He has been a member of the Mother Church since 1902, and was one of its executive members. He had class instruction from an authorized teacher in 1901. Primary instruction from The Christian Science Board of Education in 1903, and Normal instruction from this Board in 1910.

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, May 14.—Easily justifiable are the broad smiles of Texas business men when they see that over 41,240 out-of-state cars came across these borders during the nine months period from June, 1936 to March, 1937, according to official tabulations of the Highway Department.

One good reason for smiling is that the estimated mileage covered by those thousands of cars in Texas is over thirty-one million miles. This means that from the sale of gasoline $141,185.72 was taken in by dealers and a little matter of $43,441.76 went to the state in taxes.

To these figures must be added the revenue from tourists in the way of lodging, food, clothing, car repairs and their miscellaneous items of travel, none of which can be tabulated or even accurately estimated. Summer travelers who know what a small percentage of their vacation expenses is taken up by gasoline can realize how great a sum was probably spent within the state on these items.

There can be no doubt but that this influx of out-of-state trade was profitable both to the collective and individual interests of Texans. Oklahoma led the list of states who sent the greatest number of cars to Texas with nearly seven thousand visitors. California was second with over five thousand, and next in order were Louisiana, Illinois and Mississippi.

These figures were much higher than usual because of the Centennial, since 32,131 cars crossed the state line during

Photography, Time and Sentiment

"Backward, turn backward, O Time, in your flight!"

THIS is an address to camera-towning parents to remind them of a few facts relative to the sentimental value of photography and the passage of time. Self evident though they may be, these facts are too often forgotten.

The first is that in the case of parents the most treasured of all photographs are those of their children. When the children grow up, photographic records of how they looked as children become with the years more and more precious. Any doubt about that?

Fact number two is that parents who are camera owners have the means of obtaining pictures of their children at any time throughout those childhood years.

The third and most important is that since Time is not a motion picture reel that can be repeated or turned back to a given scene, too many parents let Time slip by without taking the pictures that will make the record of their children's constantly changing appearance.

Billie, aged ten, is quite a different looking person from the one he was at eight, six, four and two. If years are allowed to pass without pictures being taken of him, memories of how he looked at different ages survive only vaguely. Remember that mental pictures fade and perish but images on photographic paper endure. Moreover, Billie, too, will cherish those pictures, and so will his future wife and their children.

Here are some important facts, too, relative to the picture-taking. The most interesting and revealing pictures of children are informal ones, showing their natural manner of doing things, their unconscious attitudes and unpremeditated poses, taken unawares. These are the ones you like most to look at. Such pictures are easy to obtain outdoors when the children are at play intent upon the fun they are having. Now, at those times, it takes only a few moments to slip out of the house, camera in hand, and snap them. Don't let the children discover your purpose if you can help it, because they will most surely stop everything with a shout, "Wait a minute! Mummy's going to take our pictures" and start to pose.

The "pitchers" may not seem anything remarkable when a day or two later they come back from the photographer because they merely show the children just as you now see them every day. But wait a few years! Then they will be priceless! Don't neglect to get these snapshots from time to time, and particularly when birthdays come around, and don't forget to date the prints. Remember: it only takes a few minutes to step out with your camera and obtain these precious remembrances.

Deutschland Affair

The bombing of the German battleship Deutschland by Spanish government planes brought out several significant facts. The most important of these is one which could only be conclusively answered by such an incident as occurred in the Balearic port. This fact is that the Italian-German Fascist combine does not consider itself militarily and financially formidable enough to engage in a test of strength with the two democratic powers, Britain and France.

If Hitler and Mussolini had wanted an "incident" with which to touch off the European powder keg, the bombing of a German battleship by a government against which both powers are violently hostile would have served as such an incident. Not only out of this event did we learn that the Germans and the Italian want no war with Britain and France. We also learned that the Fascist states fear the democratic combine to such an extent that they dare not engage in an openly declared war against the government of Spain, against which they have been covertly waging war for eleven months.

The Fascist states replied to the Deutschland bombing by withdrawing from the non-intervention agreement. (they have since reentered the four power non-intervention agreement), to threaten the halt of Russian ships engaged in transporting munitions of war to the Spanish Government, and in the bombing of the isolated Spanish port of Almeria by Germany. None of these acts would serve as a basis for a declaration of war by either Britain, France, or Soviet Russia, and the Fascist knew it.

The other fact of importance gleaned was the difficulty of enforcing the American neutrality act. Two United States Senators—McKellar and Borah—upon hearing of the Deutschland bombing and the resulting German reprisals bombing of Almeria demanded that the neutrality act be instituted against the German Government. They maintained that Germany had engaged in an act upon the exportation of arms to the Nazi Government should be put in effect.

President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull thought differently, and no such step is likely to be taken until the turn of events in Europe becomes far more ominous than at present.

Obviously the bombing of Almeria by German battleships was an act of hostility. Yet the bombing of the Deutschland by Spanish aircraft was likewise an equally a warlike act. The fact that neither government has issued a declaration of war in adequate basis for refusing to invoke the neutrality act against either Germany or Spain. As pointed out before by this columnist, the ideal supporting American neutrality is not the protection of the European democracies, nor is its aim the downfall of the Fascist dictatorships, but solely the maintenance of this country's neutrality in future European conflicts. Senators McKellar and Borah are both anti-Fascists. Their concern in this incident was not with enforcing the neutrality act, but with depriving Germany of American munitions. Their conception of neutrality is keeping this country out of war while kicking the Fascists in the pants. America tried this policy once before—and wound up by sending 3,000,000 doughboys to France.

The neutrality act as now constituted emerged from a prolonged period of bitter conflict in Congress between the ones favoring mandatory neutrality and those espousing discretionary neutrality, the latter of which finally wore out. Mandatory neutrality provides that immediately upon the outbreak of war or the committing of a hostile act goes into effect. Under discretionary neutrality, it is left to the president to decide when neutrality provisions shall be instituted.

This writer contended during the controversy that the latter course was a perilous one to pursue. Invocation of neutrality provisions against an aggressor by the president would undoubtedly be construed as an provisions automatically went into effect, the action could not be interpreted as a hostile act. America must decide the course it will follow in future European controversies and conflicts. Unadulterated neutrality as provided in the neutrality act and as understood by the layman would continue no such utterances as those of Senators Borah and McKellar. This sort of neutrality would mean that American farmers, industrialists, financiers and commercial interests must undergo financial strain during any European conflict. Taxes would have to be raised to pay subsidies to those interests deprived of their customary European markets to keep them off the rocks.

Neutrality as interpreted by Senators Borah and McKellar and the like will find this country just where it was in 1917 with national humiliation of war its only alternatives. Germany's submarine warfare against American vessels was not instituted out of any feeling of hostility against the American people, but because of the food and fuel and guns which the American vessels were transporting to their foes. Such action constituted a hostile act in the viewpoint of the Germans and they acted accordingly. America can not remain neutral and at the same time aid the foes of Fascism or any other kind of "ism" in the next war.

The bombing of Germany's Deutschland resulted from the same line of reasoning as followed by the Germans in the period, from 1914-17. It is my opinion that the Spanish government was fully justified in the bombing incident. Recognized by the League of Nations and all responsible governments as the legal authority in Spain, the loyalist government has seen its soldiers and civilians killed by German shells, bombed by German planes, and slaughtered by German troops and Spanish rebels commanded by German officers. Americans or any other people would be in a similar case feel justified in engaging in reprisals.

With only three states recognizing the rebel General Franco as legal ruler of Spain, the Spanish government found itself shut off from all sources of supplies by the fleets of two openly hostile states and two ostensibly friendly states. If, from 1861 to 1865, several European states or several Latin American states had sought to keep volunteers out of the two contending American armies and to deprive those armies of supplies which they were buying from outside their territorial limits, both the government of Abraham Lincoln and the government of Jeff Davis would have considered such action a hostile gesture. Lincoln would undoubtedly have retaliated with his navy just as the Spaniards did.

Had it not been for German and Italian intervention in the Spanish civil war, no naval patrol to enforce non-intervention would have been necessary and there would have been no bombing of the Deutschland.

"POP'S DAY"

Sunday, June 20th, is Father's Day! Another day on the calendar which is becoming more and more popular throuth the United States.

Looks like at last Father, Dad, Daddy, Pop, Papa,
The Governor, The Old Man, Pater, The Old Gentleman, or however you might happen to call him, is winning out, just like women won "rights for women." However, in this case, we expect, in most instances, "the First," will come along about July, and with it the bill collectors too.
However this down trodden individual, who is fooled into thinking he is running his home, won't mind, because, he'll just say, "Well, now I do get one day in the year, whereas before this all started, I just didn't get." Or is it that bad.

Regardless, of anything, this is Father's Day, this 20th and you and we can tickle him by a little remembrance

Lets Talk about Clothes

Denton, June 14.—Shoes are on a rampage these days, and anyone who enjoys the game of "matching things up" is in for some fun with the new summer creations in footwear.

Since the brevity of dresses has given milady's foot a great deal more prominence than in recent years, blazing color has come back into its own in shoe materials. For the way black or blue sheers women will continue to wear this season nothing can be more up-to-date than the new riotous printed shoes.

These flippant numbers have soft colors printed in small patterns against neutral backgrounds of brown, navy or black.
Often they have pipings of patent leather or solid color gaberdine or ribbon. Most of these rather fluffy fashions have high heels and they are often toe and heelless.

For sport and street wear stylists plead for more discretion. To fill the needs of such occasions dark linen footwear is being created in the most distinctive and smart designs that have yet been shown. Black, brown and navy linens take inches off foot length, and make nice contrast with summer street clothes. Some have tiny bits of patent, ribbin or embroidery on them, but the untrimmed ones are the best buys for strictly street clothes.

Even some of the simplest pumps now have cut-out toes but one should be careful that they are really tailored before starting out in them with a sport outfit. As a general rule high heeled sandals are fairly dressy, and are about as appropriate with tailored clothes as canvas sneakers would be with an evening gown.

Louis King, who has been attending Abilene Christian College in Abilene, has returned to his home at King for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Percy Witt has been very ill for the past few days.
Her children, George Witt, of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald of Beaumont and Mrs.

Ernestine White, who has been visiting the latter couple in Beaumont for the past week, came over the week end to be with her.

NUTS AND DOLTS

Pity the poor pedestrian! There's a closed season on most game, but it's always open season on him. Most states set aside game preserves for the hunted, but where is he to take refuge? He has neither the fleetness of the rabbit nor the cunning of the fox; he is at the mercy of any who, with that deadly weapon known as a speeding automobile, choose to hunt him down. His ranks were depleted by more than 16,000 last year, according to Travelers Insurance Company statistics. Something must be done to protect him, else the race may become extinct.

School for more than 30 years. Mr. Saunders, who underwent a minor operation in a Waco hospital a few days ago, died Saturday night at 8:20 o'clock from an attack of pneumonia. Rev. Marcus M. Twenty Questions on Social Security

For the next twenty issues, the News, gives you twenty questions and answers on Social Security.

Social Security Question No. 3
Question: If an employer has less than eight employees must he file any reports under the Social Security Act?

Answer: All employers of one or more workers under the age of 65 in covered occupations are subject to the tax provisions of Title VIII of the Social Security Act. Their employers are required to obtain account numbers and will be entitled to Federal old-age benefits.

All employers of one or more, regardless of age, are also required to make one original report to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, Austin, Texas; although only those employers who employ eight or more, regardless of age, must make shortly reports and pay taxes on wages of their employee to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Employers of eight or more, in addition, are required to pay a tax, under Title IX of the act, to the Collector of Internal Revenue. Employers may credit against this tax their contribution to the State Unemployment fund, up to 90 per cent credited to employers of eight or more equals the amount of the contribution to the State Unemployment Compensation Commission.

SPORTS

Again we dust off our typewriter preparatory to pounding out the semi-weekly message to sport lovers of Coryell County. 'Tis indeed a pity that on such a warm afternoon one must continue to wrack his brains for some suitable subject to entertain the great throng of eagerly awaiting readers. On such an afternoon one could be bowling merrily along the open road to our sister city to the east, where the cooling delights of the dripping tap can be enjoyed (for a nominal sum). Or one could be lying by some babbling brook, catching fishes on his hook (if the "!" things will bite.) Or one could be doing any one of innumerable things, but still, writing this column has its recompenses. When letters pour in every week from all over the county telling what joy and sunshine is brought into the lives of countless of thousands of shut-ins, farmers, school teachers, bootleggers, store keepers, old maids, horse thieves, and well drillers, by these feeble efforts, then we must stop and reflect. Perhaps we are doing something worth while. Perhaps in future years our name will go down in the annals of literature along with Shakespeare, Anatole France, Mother Goose, and De Quincy. Someday, perhaps, in the solemn and hushed halls of some great museum, school children will gaze upon our bust while a guide reverently explains that "Here is a true likeness of The Chronicler of Coryell County." (Some dirty-faced urchin will probably remark in undertones, "Whatta bust!"). Until that day we live in breathe in happy expectation.

Texas gas wells in the Dallas-Fort Worth area supply most of the helium now used in the navy's dirigible airships.

Thrills and Chills in This Week's Sport Card

The rodeo has come and gone, and in its absence that strange summer malady, softball, is with us again.

On Monday evening last, the conflict started again. At what happened we can only guess, but the scores can be put down in black and white without any fear of contradiction. The C.C.C. Camp soaked the Merchants 10-5, and Doc's nosed the Firemen out 20-3, approximately. When questioned fur because the Shrinking Violet of the Sandwich Snappers, Mr. Truman Blanton, states that 'Lasses Anderson ran off with the score book and the final tally is still a problematical mystery. When questioned further as to the authenticity of those winning 17 points, Mr. Blanton assured us that there were all of 17 points and probably more. Be that as it may, we must take into account Mr. Blanton's youthful exuberance.

On Friday eve last a picked herd of willow-welders took their lives in hand and traveled to Hamilton, that city where the sun is supposed to rise if a better place than the eastern horizon is found, to engage the sporting element of that town in games of softball.

Mr. Blanton, our source of information, continued with the statement that all of the Gatesville stars shone brightly (himself the brightest of course).

In an extra inning a Hamilton team beat the local C.C.C. 9 to 8, when, with the score tied, and the fans chewing their nails viciously, Roy White, slugged Griffin's grooved pitch out of the park for the winning score. A sad mistake, that pitch.

The second game was also a "thriller" and had the fans in hysterics until the last out was made. Up until the last inning the game was a scoreless tie with neither team able to tally a run. Back and forth, back and forth, the tide of battled surged. Strong men grew white-faced and women and children yawned. An then—but let Blanton, our stool pidgeon, continue the story; "I knowed (he said in his cruda jargon) that if we ever got uster that little ball and ever started connectin' it would be just too bad." (Too bad for the opposition we assumed.) "And then it started happenin'. We got the range and started socking the pill. Everybody was hittin'. Doc Ray got three hits, and two walks. Cliff Rankin knocked one clear to Hico. (Here we must discount Mr. Blanton's statement in as much as knocking a ball from Hamilton to Hico is a physical impossibility.) It wuz wonderful!" At this point we were forced to beat a hasty retreat, as Mr. Blanton, in his enthusiasm, had advanced from behind his counter and, waving his hands wildly in the air, was becoming a menace to innocent bystanders.

As nearly as we could gather the game finally ended 10 to 1. It must have been an awe-inspiring sight.

NEW SPEECH INSTITUTE HAS LARGE ENROLLMENT

Denton, June 14.—The newly-formed Speech Institute at Texas State College for Women, which is being held July 1 to July 10, opened with an enrollment of over thirty high school students and twenty-five debate coaches and play directors from the high schools of the state.

A new idea developed by the department of speech at the college, the institute is open to men and women, and if being offered for the benefit of high school directors of Interscholastic League Speech activities. The students, upon whom the teaching of play production and debate will be illustrated, were selected from high school speech classes all over Texas. College credit will be given for the course.

BUSY WORKER'S CLUB NEWS

Mrs. Nancy Lindaver was hostess to the club Wednesday afternoon, June 9. The afternoon was spent quilting. Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cake, and iced tea were served to eight members.

The next meeting will be held June 23, at the home of Mrs. James Manning.

FIRST DAYS OF ENROLLMENT AT T.S.C.W. MARKS HIGH TOTAL

Denton, June 14.—Enrollment of summer students at Texas State College for Women reached a total of 910 by the third day of the first six-weeks term. Late registration will be made for students arriving from colleges and high schools whose regular sessions are not yet completed.

Denton, June 14.—No matter whether one is sporting a filmy new creation straight from Paris or a cheap but cute frock from a little shop down town, she's not doing full justice to her appearance unless she takes care of those figure bulges and defects which defy the attractiveness of any outfit.

Painfully corseted daughters of another generation would gaze in astonishment at the cool and comfortable foundation garments offered on the market today. And since they have been made so flexible that none should mind wearing them, styles have been created that demand streamlines above all else.

High waisted dresses, clinging jerseys, draping chiftons and all the others require smoothness; and if milady, without benefit of girdle, will give herself a critical glance in a full length mirror, she will get that candid camera feeling.

Made of tropical cloth, cool nets, satin and elastic, and featherweight lastex, all without a single bone, these garments can be laundered frequently and easily. It's wise economy to buy two or three of them, thus lengthening the life of each.

The problem of smoothing out one's figure is usually one of redistribution, so care must be given to the selection of the type and style. A correctly fitted foundation garment will take away as much as three inches of unwanted girth in the right places. Measurements for fitting should be taken sitting down as well as standing up, since the body has a spread of three inches when in a sitting position.

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, June 14.—A strange combination of deserts, canyons and fertile valleys awaits the visitor who heads from Lubbock to the land "West of the Pecos." Possibly the most interesting route is across the line into New Mexico, where Carlsbad Caverns provide interest and beauty.

Swinging back into Texas by way of Guadalupe Peak and into El Paso, the traveler may catch his first view of old Mexico in the city of Juarez, with its ancient missions and motley population. Immediately south of El Paso the cultivated areas of the Rio Grande Valley appear, and in the midst of the oldest community in the state are the missions of Ysleta and Socorro.

Southeastward to the Davis mountains, rising a mile above sea level are famed for their scenic beauty, healthy climate and historical importance. Here also is Mount Locke, where the University of Texas is building the McDonald Observatory with the second largest telescope in America.

No good Texan can skip a detour into the Big Bend country down in the southern tip of this western section. The continually producing Shafter silver mine is located here, and farther on are the impressive Los Chisos (The Ghosts) mountains.

After a good look at the Santa Helena Canyon of the Rio Grande with its 1,000,000-foot walls, the visitor can well understand why the state is trying to acquire enough land in this territory for a state park. Two hundred and fifty thousand acres of the proposed 1,000,000 acre tract has already been acquired, and the Mexican government is planning to match the Texas acreage with land just across the border. The complete international park will include 2,000,000 acres.
