THE BRADDOCK-LOUIS FIGHT PICTURES TO BE AT PALACE

How a real champion relinquishes his throne, "on the floor," will be seen Thursday and Friday of this week when the Palace Theatre presents the official news reel of the Braddock-Louis heavyweight championship fight.

Better than a ring side seat at the actual battle this movie offers the sporting fan a chance to study the battle in detail. High lights of the match are given in slow motion so that the action may be followed clearly.

How Louf's superior youth and strength enabled him to wear down the cunning but out-classed champion is clearly demonstrated, with the climax in the "fatal" eighth round, when James J. Braddock went down for the count of 10 under the colored boy's killing right hand.

WESTERN AUTO SUPPLY HAS NEW IMPROVED TIRE FOR MARKET

The Western Auto Supply Associate store leads the tire industry with their new Davis Deluxe Safety-Grip tire, according to W. T. Hix, owner-manager of the Western Auto Associate Store here.

This new tire carries the longest and strongest guarantee ever written by any company, being guaranteed for 24 months on passenger cars, and 12 months on commercial cars. This guarantee is in itself, positive proof of quality, as it stands to reason, with such a definite guarantee these tires simply must deliver the goods.

This tire is the result of years of research by the world's leading engineers, scientists and chemist, in the rubber industry. The technical staff responsible for this new Davis Safety Grip Tire gives you positive assurance that the new tire is equal to the best tire on the market, regardless of the name or price and for less money, due to the 1000 stores operated by the Western Auto Supply Company.

In appearance, this new tire is the last word in modern tire design, black or white side-walls. It's modern, streamlined, and in addition will go out and give miles and miles of extra service. Soft as a sponge—Truly tomorrow's tire today, according to Mr. Hix.

COPIES OF "THE DALHART TEXAN" SHOWN BY ELLIE HAYES

We are indebted to Ellie Hayes for several copies of The Dalhart Texas, a daily except Sunday tabloid newspaper printed in that city, and managed by Ed Bishop who is related to Mr. Hayes.

The paper is somewhat smaller than the News in size, but larger, for the most part in the number of pages.

Special emphasis is given to pictures, features, and editorials, and Mr. Bishop's own column "Ed-aches" is cleverly written and very timely. This paper is the nearest we have seen to "The News," and "The Mirror," two tabloids of New York City.

Miss Gladys Marie Phillips has as her guest, Miss Jacquelyn Lauderdale of Saint Jo.

Tuesday you'll get your mail "on the square."

Wednesday, it'll be another story.

Wednesday morning at opening time, all your mail will be down at the New Federal Building on East Leon street, with Post Master J. Hurl McClellan and his aides looking at you from behind bars in the new local office of Jim Farley & Company.

Although all the new fixtures have not arrived, arrangements are being made to use some of the old equipment until the new arrives. Carrier's desks, cases and many other pieces of the new equipment have arrived, the "P. O. Boxes" have been installed, and Monday afternoon the "Rubes" will be putting the names on the filing cases. The "P. M." and assistant "P. M." were putting up tables, etc. so as to be all set on Wednesday morning.

An invocation in post office equipment is the "Swing" room, which makes the post office 1937, with the new swing music that is proving so popular. What the carriers will do in this swing room, we don't know, but there is a room so entitled.

Due to the fact that the Charman or the Fireman laborer (caretakers to us) haven't been officially notified, the building has accumulated considerable debris, and there'll be quite a bit of cleaning up before the location is in first class condition. Lighting in the building, especially, from the view of the utility companies, since there are more lights than any other building in the city size compared. Postmaster McClellan said he'd take care of the fact that a lot of these

CIO

From what we read of the CIO, and, for that matter, some of the other now, more or less notorious "labor unions," we want to vociferously applaud the action taken by the employees of the Dallas Ford Motor plant. We think they did a swell job handling CIO troubles.

They simply beat up and manhandled three "organizers" and sent them away in a Taxi. Sometimes, that's the very best, and only treatment some people need, and, for that matter, are asking for.

We have always leaned toward labor organization, because we have done little labor,—but, we've also had a little experience on the other side too.

Labor unions we have had experience with were not exactly to our liking, and were more communistic, than unionistic. Be that as it may, labor troubles in the United States today, don't seem to be troubles, but more agitated by promoters, schemers and racketeers than by real honest-to-God labor leaders.

Capital and labor SHOULD work together, but experience seems to have taught that cats and dogs don't and neither will capital and labor, it seems.

SOCIAL SECURITY

First, we like both words, social, and security. And, we like the combination. Furthermore, we like the idea of providing for our employees, or helping them provide for their future.

But, there, a stinger, as there is to most everything that is "legislated." Where do we come in!

This is not our "gripe" alone, since we have heard expressions from a number of other establishments regarding this point.

No provision has been made for the business of the business man, that, say, through the next 20 to 30 years, helps provide for the retirement and Social Security of its employees.

For example: We operate a business for 25 years. We go broke, or new inventions put us out of business. During these 25 years, no provision has been made for any retirement for us, and for all this 25 years, we have helped retire and socially secure, say 150 different employees, who have worked for various lengths of time during this period. We furnish the employment, take all the risks, pay half of the compensation, and get nothing.

It don't add up! We just don't come in for anything except that we'd better make good, and last. Of course, there's nothing certain about!

Uncle Jim Says

"Contour furrows help keep land in place, hold rainfall, and reduce damage from blowing."

The practice of terracing Texas farms, once confined largely to East Texas and designed primarily to hold soil in place, has spread rapidly to the west, north, and northwest sections of the state. The reason for terracing and contouring in the less humid areas of the state. The reason for terracing and contouring in the less humid areas of the State is not so much to hold the soil as to hold the rainfall.

Wheat farmers of the northwest are reporting exceptional yields through the use of contouring practices, while fields are not treated to hold rainfall are far behind in their per acre yield.

In the Texas Panhandle 1,738,762 acres were treated in the spring of 1936 to control wind erosion. Over the state as a whole, more than 13 million acres were treated in 1936.

Contouring and terracing have spread from cultivated land to pastures and to ranges. At the Spur Experiment Station, it was found that contouring tripled the yield of grasses.

The value of these soil and water conservation practices to the State as a whole and to individual farmers and ranchmen cannot be disputed. Under the Agricultural Conservation Program, farmers and ranchmen receive grants for terracing and contouring which carry part of the cost of construction work.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

A LADY gave her husband's year-before-last coat to the woman that scrubbed for her. She told her it was a perfectly good coat, but a little out of date, and that maybe the scrub-lady's husband wouldn't mind wearing it this winter. She handed it to the woman on a coat-hanger made out of wood. That night she bragged to her husband about being charitable "I even gave her the coat-hanger so her man can keep kind of tidy," she said.

But when the woman that gave away the coat asked her scrub-lady some time later about how it fit and everything, the scrub-lady said, "Well it's all right now, but my man just had to take the wooden part out of the shoulders. He says them things ain't for a man that stoops at his work, and it nigh killed him the first day he wore it."

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

With the next Texas senatorial race scheduled for 1940, the political plum at which aspiring politicians will aim in the 1938 primaries is the governorship, presumably to be vacated by Governor Allred. There are four politically potent personages to be considered in speculating as to the final lineup. Two of these—Attorney General William McCraw of Dallas and Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo—have been unofficially in the race since the reelection of Jimmie Allred in the first primary last year. McCraw will next year complete his record as Attorney General and Thompson will round out six years service on the State Railroad commission.

Two new aspects have been injected into the 1938 campaign for governor. Austin political prognosticators have repeated the assertion that Governor Allred will be a candidate against Senator Tom Connally in 1940 if in the meantime does not receive an appointment to the Federal bench. In pursuance of this aim, it is said that the governor will seek the governorship for a third term in next year's primary elections. Such an eventuality, totally without precedent in the annals of Texas politics, unsubstantiated but nevertheless circulating among will-informed circles, causes considerable unrest among the followers of candidates Thompson and McCraw.

Probably no man knows what the plans of the governor are for 1938. Probably no man knows better than Jimmie Allred what an uphill fight it would be to run for a third term in Texas. It is known that Governor Allred preferred running against Senator Morris Sheppard rather than for a second term in 1936, but was dissuaded of this desire by Vice-President Garner, personal friend of Senator Sheppard.

Garner is likewise a friend of Senator Connally and according to the best reports, wants the Marlin representative to remain in the Senate. If out of Garner's recent conversations will emerge a federal appointment for the Governor, Tom Connally's 1940 campaign will go without effective opposition.

Another factor serving to offset the assured line-up of McCraw versus Thompson is the potentiality of Mrs. Mirian A. Ferguson again running for the governorship. "Farmer Jim" Ferguson has refused to deny assertions that his wife, who served as chief executive from 1924 to 1926 and from 1932 to 1934, will carry the Ferguson mantle in 1938.

An unknown quantity was injected into the gubernatorial race the first week in June when Marvin P. McCoy, Houston attorney and former leader of the Legislature from Fannin and Lamar counties announced his candidacy.

Further proof that the final lineup and outcome rest with Governor Allred is the course which Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul will pursue next year. Woodul has signified his intention to run for Attorney General, intending to use this office as a stepping stone to the governorship as did Moody, Allred and others. Should Allred resign before the expiration of his term to accept an appointment as Federal district judge, as rumored, Woodul would automatically become governor. In such an event, he could hardly descend from this pedestal of political importance to run for the relatively obscure post of attorney general. The logical course to follow would be to run for governor, his prestige in the race being enhanced by several months tenure as the State's chief executive.

Slates of candidates related by ties of friendship or common allegiance to a cause are not common in Texas, but there is a distinct possibility that next year will witness their emergence on the political horizon. A slate which would include Ernest Thompson for governor and Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, for lieutenant governor, receiving the backing of the Allred machine and the blessing of the national administration, is the current topic of conversation in political circles all over the state.

If ex-governor Jim Ferguson enters his wife for the governorship, he will at least have a friend and admirer in the contest for lieutenant governor. Coke Stevenson of Junction, who served two years as speaker of the House of Representatives in Austin, is definitely a candidate to succeed Walter Woodul. East Texas will have a candidate for this office in the person of State Senator Will Pace of Tyler, and West Texas will present Wilbourne Collier of Eastland as a contender.

The Attorney General's race will run true to form in rivaling in intensity that for governor if, all the potential candidates enter the melee. As stated above, Walter Woodul of Houston will be in the contest provided he does not become governor in the interim. Gerald Mann, former Secretary of State under Governor Allred, is considering making the race. Three other possibilities for the office are District Judge Ralph W. Yarborough of Austin and Everett L. Looney, both assistant attorney generals under Allred, and Scott Gains present first assistant attorney general.

The other state office around which fireworks generally center is that of railroad commissioner. Chairman C. V. Terrell of the commission will be up for reelection.

POST OFFICE MOVES—

lights were "off" most of the time.

A dandy hardwood floor, which could be used for a grand opening dance, if they'd just move a lot of paraphernalia. Folks, Uncle Sam didn't miss a thing when he was building this new building. Store rooms are in the basement, a P. O. Inspector's office, storage rooms, and boiler room. Doors to the ground floor from the back are fixed so they can't be skinned or ruffed. Tile is used in the lobby, which is complete now, except for the notoriously bad "post office pens," and the Post Master's office has the "cutest" dark blue rug on the floor and one of those great big "executive" looking desks, with accessory furniture to match.

Come over Wednesday morning, and take a look;—if you haven't.

SHIP OF STATE

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "History in the making" is a term which frequently is loosely applied to events of an inconsequential nature. Not so, however, as to the coronation in London—which remains the chief topic of conversation in the few Capitol salons still functioning. Washingtonians are subject to a recurrent, vernal urge to "go abroad" and the early call this year seemingly becomes more compelling and alluring with the promise of a "double header." The Paris International Exposition is also opening in May—and Paris is only ninety minutes away from London by air. To our way of thinking, the coronation is an excellent reason for a trip—to Paris.

Ma belle France has an ace up her sleeve, and will play it when the coronation fever shows signs of abating in London. The city fathers are expected to revert to their old ways of putting up the shutters at midnight—an old English custom—and then, there will be a surge to Paris for a real celebration. Paris refuses to play Cinderella for anyone. Many of our friends have already signified their appreciation by booking rooms at various Parisian hosteleries. For as the old saying goes: "All good Americans go to Paris when they die," but most of us prefer not to take any chances, but rather to be there while alive and kicking.

preferably this summer. We witnessed a strange sight at the Gridiron Club's annual spring dinner, where President Roosevelt and Chief Justice Hughes were seated at the main table.

A little before the fateful hour of twelve when Mr. Hughes was about to become 75 and eligible (by 5 years) for retirement, the Gridiron Glee Club sidled in and several hundred guests joined in singing "Happy birthday! Happy birthday Chief Justice, etc., etc." The venerable Justice smiled and bowed, and his happy countenance showed real pleasure as the President leaned over and congratulated him on his birth anniversary.

Mr. Roosevelt would have given much at the time for the privilege of asking just one question. But even the President of the United States could not get the answer to that question until release time came in Court on Monday.

It must have been thrilling at 75 to hold so palpably all America's attention. For under his belt Mr. Hughes had the knowledge of one of the most important news stories of a decade—he already knew what the Wagner Act decision would be.

It is worth noting at this time that Frances Perkins has done a remarkable job in rehabilitating the Department of Labor. When the lady took hold of things in 1933 the Department was infested with the cheapest sort of politics. Miss Perkins and her assistants have restored its morale and efficiency. The Employment Service, a farce during previous administrations, is now considered quite a factor in placing men in jobs. The Immigration Service, once a perfect set-up for red-baiting and deportation rackets is now administering its purposely hard laws with humanity and common sense, while at the same time protecting American labor.

To our way of thinking the President could do worse than consider his Secretary of Labor for a nomination as associate justice of the Supreme Court, when, as and if Congress gives the authority he now seeks. We can't think of anyone who possesses a broader knowledge of the field of sociology and labor economics.

Gray foxes are good at tree climbing.

MERCHANTS SMOTHER FIRE-BOYS IN HEAVILY HIT GAMES

The Merchants unleashed their heaviest barrage of the season when they scored eight runs in the first inning to romp off with a 14 to eight decision over the Fireboys. While Rookie Loyd Ivy was turning back chief Rogers' crew effectively, pitching brilliant ball in the last two pinches, the Merchants were making a 17-hit target of the Fireboys veteran portsider, Doc Ray. Ivy did not yield a safety in the last two innings.

The Merchants' 14-run offensive was featured by several extra-base blows, Bradford having a home run and two triples to his credit. Rankin and Ray hit homers for the Firemen.

It was the Merchants' second victory of the season.

DOC'S DEFEAT CAMP BOYS TO CINCH LEAGUE TITLE

Scoring steadily behind the effective pitching of Truman Blanton, the league-leading Doc's Sandwich club defeated the C. C. Camp by the score of 10 to 5. The Sandwich boys scored at will against the camps pitcher, Lee Brown. Ward McDowell, who started for Doc's was lifted in the second inning after yielding two runs. This victory cinched first place for Doc's in the first half of the league schedule.

This stock Ford V-8, equipped with technical apparatus to determine economy and general performance, is part of the Texaco National Road Test fleet currently engaged in a 25,000-mile drive through the 48 states. A similarly equipped Lincoln Zephyr and another Ford are in the fleet which will spend four months on the road, encountering all sorts of weather and highway conditions just as they are met by motorists everywhere.

FORD CARS IN ECONOMY TEST RUN

Two Ford V-8 cars, one powered with an 85 horsepower engine, the other with the new 60 horsepower Ford V-8 engine arrived (passed through) here today enroute on a 25,000-mile Texaco national All States' Capitals tour.

The two Ford cars in the test fleet were greeted by Walter Stewart and Kit Bridges, of the Coryell Motor Company. Local Ford dealers, who have been watching closely the performance of the cars thus far in the three and one-half month's tour.

In the course of the test, the Ford V-8 units are being put through their paces over every available type of highway and under all driving conditions, ranging from the torrid heat of Death Valley to atmospheric conditions encountered while climbing Pike's Peak. Speed runs will be conditioned on the salt flats in Utah.

The route will reach into every state and will pass through every state capital. In addition the tour will visit most of the national parks and other places of interest to motorists. The tour started at Detroit May 15 and will wind up at Detroit Sept. 18 after 103 days of driving.

The Ford V-8 cars taking part in the tour are strictly stock models. They are fitted, however with auxiliary gasoline tanks to permit a cruising range of 500 miles without refueling. Each car carries a driver and observer. The latter keeps constant check of speed, mileage, driving and atmospheric conditions as well as car and engine performance are recorded by instruments mounted on a panel in the tonneau.

ANTI-SPY BILL KILLED

Springfield, Ill., June 24.—The labor anti-spy bill was killed by the Illinois house of representatives today on motion of the sponsor, Representative Edward Hunter, democrat, Rockford. The bill would have prohibited employers from receiving reports from their agents on union activities.

A few minutes later the house passed another bill by Hunter to regulate detective agencies. The measure establishes qualifications of detectives and requires a $1000 bond.

KNOW TEXAS

Denton, June 28.—Most cosmopolitan of all Texas cities is San Antonio, with its rich blend of the old and new, and its mixed populations of Spanish, German and other nationalities. Numerous fiestas and patriotic celebrations have helped to win for it the name, "Playground of Texas."

North of the city are the cluster of German towns that have always been a delight to tourists. Freshly scrubbed News Braunfels, the famous old town founded by an immigrant German prince is situated on the banks of the Comal river. Camping spots around these springs can hardly be surpassed in beauty and comfort.

Kerrville is also a favorite retreat for those who crave the outdoor life, and many kinds of commercial camps are located near there. After passing thru another old German town, Fredericksburg, the traveler is ready to enter Austin.

High spots of Austin which the tourist cannot afford to miss is the State Capitol, the great university, various historical points and the ice-cold springs. Turning north again, one finds a good highway to Waco, where fishermen head to Lake Waco, picnickers take in Cameron Park and scholars go to Baylor University.

From this central section the way is clear to Dallas and Fort Worth, which are embarking on their second year as summer entertainment centers. At Dallas Panamanian hold forth in the form of the Greater Texas and Pan-American Exposition, and at Fort Worth Billy Rose is managing a "bigger and better" Frontier Fiesta.

Extension of television transmitting hours will be started in London next fall by the British Broadcasting company.

Specialists say flea beetles do heavy damage to tobacco during the period just after the plants have been set out in the field.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

GATESVILLE, TEXAS, TUESDAY, JUNE 29, 1937

SCOUTS WILL ATTEND NAT. JAMBOREE IN WASH., D. C. JUNE 30

This is the day that group of Boy Scouts from the Heart O'Texas Council will begin their long awaited trek to the Nation's Capitol, there to take part in opening the first national jamboree of the Boy Scouts of America on the evening of June 30th, together with 25,000 other young Americans from all parts of our land.

The long and exciting days of anticipation have drawn to a close—days and nights filled with hectic planning, decisions upon routes of travel, types of equipment to be built which will be truly typical of our homes, displays and demonstrations to be prepared which will tell the visiting world at Washington of the troops' historical and geological locations.

Located within the shadow of Washington's monument, the camp will be divided into 20 "villages" of 1,250 scouts each—with post office, food depots, medical staff, switchboard and newspaper. Ten miles of telephone line operates through a fifteen trunk switchboard will connect the encampment with the outside world and provide communications within the Jamboree grounds. Eight miles of water mains will bring in a million gallons of water a day, while 20,000 feet of sewage disposal lines will carry away shower and kitchen waste. The jamboree grounds will occupy more than 350 acres of land on both sides of the Potomac.

Scouts from this council will leave Waco on the Texas special today at 1:35 p. m. under the leadership of Scoutmaster Fred W. Williams of Coolidge and J. E. Alexander of Temple and will travel Washington-ward by way of the MK&T to St. Louis and the B&O from St. Louis to Washington.

MAGAZINE STORY TELLS OF TEXAS OPPORTUNITIES

Texas' tremendous industrial expansion during the past three decades, and the almost unlimited industrial opportunities afforded by its natural resources, is the subject of the article, "Texas—High Wide and Handsome," by Arthur Coleman, in the current issue of Holland's, "The Magazine of the South."

Pointing out of extreme diversity of the Lone Star State's industrial scene—the differing regions of East Texas, West Texas, the Gulf Coast, the High Plains, the Blackland Belt and the Rio Grande Valley—Coleman declares that since 1900 the state has, industrially been "going to town." In population it has less than, agriculture more than, doubled, but meanwhile industry has reached the point where it employs more than twice as many wage earners, pays them nearly five times as much in wages, and turns out products worth more than nine times as many dollars as in 1900." From 1933 to 1935, he says, manufacturing output in Texas increased 57 per cent.

But this, the story goes on, is but a slight prelude to what Texas can have by developing its natural resources. Numerous examples are offered to show how Texans have developed and can develop its natural resources with Texas talent and capital. Coleman cites a long list of products made by smaller Texas industries, wisely located, utilizing in raw or processed form the native materials of the state, and established and operated by people living in the state—products ranging "from nosedrops to carburetors, and from soft drinks to Venetian blinds for automobiles." He emphasizes that most of these were started with small capital.

Among the fields offering the greatest industrial possibilities, Coleman stresses furniture making, fruit and vegetable canning, leather goods, textiles and wearing apparel, manufacture of soaps and other cosmetics, processing the fish and oysters of the Gulf Coast, production of cheese and canned and powdered milk, and industrial utilization of minerals.

Plastics made from petroleum, Coleman points out, are not now produced in Texas. The state has an estimated eight billion tons of coal, large reserves of limonite and hematite iron, and sixty thousand square miles of lignite (half of the national supply). And in addition to these, Texas has forty different minerals in quantities unlimited for industrial use, besides numerous others in limited for industrial use, besides numerous others in limited but adequate amounts. Others he classes as "unknown but worth investigating" under which comes potash.

The story is the eighth in a series Coleman has written for Holland's on industrial opportunity in the South. There will be fifteen in the completed series.

From 1927 to 1936 Kansas' dairy products were worth $12,800,650 more than the animals that produced them according to the State board of agriculture.

GUARD YOUR SECURITIES INVESTMENTS

The results of numerous national surveys show that more than eighteen million people in the United States are owners of corporate stocks, debentures, municipal kinds or other forms of securities. We are, in fact, the greatest nation of investors on the face of the earth. Placed upon various estimates, it is safe to say that more than one million people in the State of Texas come within the category of securities investor. One need not look very far to see some of the results brought about by this tremendous pooling of capital. The system has proved not only a means of making money by investing money, but it has brought about the employment of hundreds of thousands of laborers and skilled workers, and has made of America the world's greatest industrial country. This growth of corporate enterprise and joint use of capital has created an economic system that effects the daily lives of each and all of us. If the bed you slept in last night was made of one of America's large furniture factories, several thousand people furnished the capital to manufacture it. If you had bacon for breakfast this morning that came from one of several large meat-packing companies, thousands of other stockholders received benefits from your investment. Very likely, the telephone you use is owned by more than three hundred and fifty thousand people. If your wife's scissors, your razor, the hoe in your garden or the wire in the fence around your farm is made of steel, manufactured by a certain American steel corporation, you made a purchase from a company owned by more than two hundred thousand people. Your radio, your automobile, your electric refrigerator the pavement on your roads and streets, the books you read and things you enjoy were made of capital, practically all of which is evidenced by some form of securities. Thus, our daily needs come from the furnishing of billions of dollars by millions of people who make money hiring out their capital.

The issuance and sale of securities has brought about the most technical phase of our business life. Back of our stock certificate, for instance, in a large utility corporation, there are facts and figures that might well baffle the mind of any but an expert on utility financing. Not one stockholder in a hundred knows these facts and figures. The average investor puts his money into the security upon representations made by others or through blind faith. The greater part of such financing is fair and honest, but the very nature of this plan of financing, the vastness of its boundaries and the bewildering ramifications that lead here and there has made it possible for men without conscience to cheat and defraud the investing public out of billions of dollars. Some estimates place the losses annually—losses suffered thru actual fraud.

It is the purpose of the securities laws to protect the investor against the machinations and unholly schemes of the promoter and salesman. These laws, at the same time, offer encouragement to those who advise capital honestly and who manage corporate enterprises faithfully. Some form of a securities act has been passed by forty-seven of the forty-eight states of the Union. The federal government has passed regulatory acts involving the issuance and sale of securities to protect the investors of the whole country. Texas should be proud of the Act its Legislature has passed and has upheld since enactment.

In a forthcoming article, your Commissioner will point out the main features of the Texas Securities act and will demonstrate to the readers of this paper how it works to protect the investors against the racketeers.

It is unlawful in Texas for unlicensed dealers and salesmen to sell stocks, bonds, oil and gas leases and other classes of securities. The investor should help the State of Texas protect him against fraud by refusing to deal with unlicensed salesmen and dealers. Each licensed salesman and dealer carries with him an identification with the seal of the State of Texas and the signature of the securities commissioner thereon.

ALEXANDER KORDA Presents

Marlene DIETRICH
Robert DONAT in
Knights without Armor

SYNOPSIS

Condemned to death by Reds in the early days of the Russian Revolution, Countess Alexandra Adiraxine is rescued by A. J. Fothergill, a mysterious Englishman who calls himself Peter Ouranov. Deeply smitten with her exotic loveliness, he conveys her safely to a town held by White troops, but the Reds attack, seize the town, and jail her. Peter fraternizes with the Red troops, gets himself appointed Commissar of Jails, and frees Alexandra. Together they escape into the nearby woods, where Peter conceals Alexandra under a pile of leaves when the pursuing soldiers close in on them.

Chapter Four

Scarcely had Peter finished covering his lovely fellow fugitive with leaves and twigs, smoothed over the place to make it appear like a part of the general forest shrubbery, and straightened up, when a burly Russian came crashing through the underbrush toward him.

the mournful hooting of owls and an occasional eerie bird call added to the feeling of terror that gradually crept over her. At last, half frozen, cramped and stiff, almost hysterical with doubt and fear, she heard a crackling sound coming toward her. Then louder crashes of breaking underbrush; then a familiar voice softly calling "Where are you? Don't be afraid—tell me where you are!"

Wild with joy, she threw off her covering, jumped up, and threw herself into the arms of Peter whose dim figure loomed near her in the moonlight.

"Darling—darling—" she sobbed inarticulately.

"Did you think I wouldn't come back to you?"

For answer, she put her face up to his. He bent down and kissed her, drawing his arms tighter and tighter about her, as if he would merge their two beings into one.

The next morning they awoke almost with the sun. Firing was audible in the distance, and the forest at last was clear of the soldiers, who had given up their search and gone to take part in the battle. Peter improved on the

"Did you think I wouldn't come back to you?" he asked.

Not waiting to be questioned, Peter spoke up quickly, trying to make his voice sound offhand.

"Found anything yet?"

The soldier, eyeing his strange garb, ignored the question.

"What are you doing here?" he demanded. "You are not Company Four."

"No . . ." Peter groped for something convincing to say.

"Then you must be Company Eleven," the man went on.

"Yes—yes—" Peter seized the chance eagerly. "I'm not much of a forester—I lost my way—because I lost my whistle."

Casually, as if dismissing the matter, he took out his flask of brandy and prepared to take a drink. The soldier immediately forgot his suspicions and became absorbed in the business at hand.

"You're not going to drink alone, brother?"

"Only an ox drinks alone, brother," answered Peter cheerily. "Come, we will search together. You do my whistling for me, and I'll let you help me with my drinking."

The best of friends, they proceeded to clump through the forest, stopping now and then for a sustaining nip, until they came upon a squad of soldiers who had pitched camp in a clearing and were preparing their dinner.

Stephanov, the soldier who had taken Peter and the brandy flask under his wing, vouched for his new comrade, and the fugitive was accepted as one of them.

After the meal which they all shared, Peter tried to get back to the waiting Alexandra on the excuse of proceeding on his search alone, but the affectionate Stephanov insisted on accompanying him.

It was not until after dark when the searchers made camp in the woods, that he was able to steal away.

Meanwhile Alexandra lay in her hiding place, almost afraid to breathe, wondering what was happening to her companion. The hours dragged wearily by; the dim rays of light that penetrated her covering were blotted out by night;

FARMERS FIND IMPROVED PASTURES PAY THEIR PROFITS

Pasture improvement work, which is demanding the attention of many farmers over the State, is resulting in more profit on many farms, county agricultural agents report.

Joe Smith of the Alum Creek section of Bastrop county gathered 30 sacks of bur clover seed with which he will improve his hog pasture. Six other pastures demonstrators have gathered bur clover seed to spread on dairy pastures, an altogether 164 bushels in sacks and 3 wagon loads of loose burs have been scattered over the pastures in the county.

A four acre field on the farm of Charlie Denny of the Beatie community in Comanche county was planted in biennial sweet white clover, and yielded six tons of hay, which he will use to supplement his 20 acre pasture. The pasture is on the site of a worn out field which he has planted to Bermuda grass and clover. Denny states that his improved pasture furnishes five times as much grazing as nearby pastures of the same size.

A 35-acre blackland pasture on the N. N. Newman farm near Little Elm in Denton county has already "cleared more profit," in Newman's words, than a similar number of acres devoted to row crops. The pasture consists of buffalo, little blue stem, rescue, and wild barley, and Newman plans to introduce black medic this fall. The 35 acres furnished grazing for 7 cattle, 1 horse, 74 sheep, and 78 lamb.

In Ellis county, 56 farmers recently visited the Anderson ranch, where 300 acres have been taken out of cultivation and seeded to Bermuda, dallis, rescue, bur clover, and black medic.

The Koala bear of Australia is not really a bear, but a tailless marsupial, carrying its young in an external pouch.

School children of Darlington England, must learn the highway code before being allowed to cycle to school.

Though English has been taught in the public schools of Guam for 37 years, the natives still converse in their native Chamorro.

Rocks composing the earth's crust are grouped by the geologists into three main classes—igneous, sedimentary, and metamorphic.
