WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:
When Rudolf Rassendyll, Englishman, meets Rudolf, King of a Balkan country, on a fishing trip, they discover an amazing resemblance. The king is drugged on the eve of his coronation by agents of his brother, Michael, and the king's aide, Zapt, prevails on Rassendyll to impersonate him at the coronation. While Rassendyll races to Strelsau, Michael plans civil disorders which will enable him to seize the throne. Rupert of Hentzau, another conspirator, convinces Antoinette de Mauban, Michael's sweetheart, that Michael wants the throne so that he can marry Princess Flavia, the consort. Antoinette reacts jealously to the information.

Chapter Four

The great cathedral was literally crowded to the rafters with the dignitaries of state and church, the noblemen and noblewomen, the envoys of all nations, awaiting the arrival of the king for the coronation ceremony.
The arrival at the station, the official welcome and the trip to the cathedral went off without untoward incident. As the cardinal placed the crown on Rassendyll's head, and intoned "God save the king," the phrase was picked up and shouted by the throngs in the cathedral and in the street, to the accompaniment of trumpet blasts and the salute of cannon.

After the last of the officiating ecclesiastics and nobles of the realm had paid homage to the newly invested monarch, Princess Flavia advanced to the throne.
As she reached the throne, she dropped to one knee, and repeated her oath of fealty: "I, Flavia, do become thy vassal, swearing to serve thee in truth, with life and limb, until death findeth me, so help me, God."
Flavia was the loveliest vision Rassendyll had ever seen as she lifted her head and looked into his eyes.
"Do I kiss her," Rassendyll whispered to Zapt, who nodded assent. Rassendyll reached down with both hands, drew her to her feet, and rising himself, kissed her on both cheeks.
Michael, half beside himself with rage and chagrin, gazed upon the events like a man in a coma. He knew the newly crowned king was an imposter, but to make a move now would only expose his own plot against the real king.
He kept his peace as Rassendyll and Flavia left the cathedral arm in arm, entered the royal coach of stage, a huge, lumbering affair, drawn by eight cream-colored horses, and began the triumphal coronation procession through the streets of Strelsau, bowing frequently to the cheering onlookers.
As the swaying coach rumbled through the cobbled streets of the old town, Rassendyll stole a glance at the beautiful creature by his side. "I thought everything went off very well, didn't you? . . . for a coronation that is" . . . He was groping for words now. "Well, that is, I mean of course, a coronation should go well if the king puts in an appearance properly dressed, knowing his lines . . ."
"And sober?" arched Flavia.
Rassendyll winced. "That's a nasty one. Don't you think you might overlook my - uh - past behavior and unbend a little. After all, here we are on show in the state coach. Just like a wedding. Don't the people want to see how well we get on together?"

"Why should we deceive them?" asked Flavia, coolly.
This stopped Rassendyll. He decided to start all over.
"You know," he said, "I think the luckiest man in the world is the king of this country."
"Really," was Flavia's retort, "you have always seemed to prefer Paris and the Riviera to your own country."
"But now I'm the crowned and anointed king. New leaf, and all that. Among other failings, I've rather neglected you, haven't I?"
Flavia was icy now. "Two picture cards in three years."
That night guests gathered at the palace for the coronation reception.
Flavia and Rassendyll sat on a couch in the drawing room. The masquerader was now enjoying himself hugely.
"Tell me, Rudolf," she said, "what is the world outside really like? Is it as wicked and exciting as it seems in novels? What did you do on those long trips? I mean, when you weren't drinking?"
"I, or I," Rassendyll stalled, "I used to do fishing."
"Fishing!" cried Flavia, "you used to tell me you despised fishing."
A knock on the door and Fritz entered, a worried look on his face. He bowed to Rudolf. "His highness Duke Michael, is waiting to pay his respects, sire."

"Let him wait," said Rassendyll, affecting the petulant arrogant manner and tone of the real king.
After a wait just long enough to put him into a smouldering sulk, Michael was admitted. Rassendyll greeted him cordially.
"You know, brother," he told him, "this was a day I've always dreaded. Queer feeling something might go wrong. But with you in charge it was foolish to worry, wasn't it?"
"It's gratifying to find your majesty in such excellent spirits after the strain of the day," said Michael acidly.
"Thank you, Michael, never felt so fit. It's the excitement, I suppose, first time I've ever been crowned, you know." And Rassendyll laughed heartily.
After a few moments, Michael excused himself and Rassendyll returned his attention to Flavia.
Saying goodnight to Flavia, and making a rendezvous for the morrow, a rendezvous which Rassendyll knew could never be kept as his masquerade was over, he believed, he joined Zapt and Fritz.
The three left the palace by a secret passageway, mounted waiting horses and rode for the hunting lodge to rescue the real king and return him to Strelsau and the Princess Flavia.
Inky darkness and ominous silence hung over the royal hunting lodge as Col. Zapt, Fritz and Rassendyll turned their foam-flocked steeds into the courtyard, after a grueling ride from Strelsau.
"No lights," commented Zapt, "that's odd." A door left ajar increased the old soldier's anxiety as they hurried into the lodge by the front door. The place was as still as a tomb.
Lighting candles, the three began a tour of inspection, calling for the servant Josef as they moved from room to room.
The door to the wine cellar where they had left the unconscious King Rudolf, while Rassendyll substituted for him at the coronation, was locked. Zapt drew his service revolver and fired two shots through the rusty old lock and burst the door open.
Josef lay dead on the floor inside.
The king was gone.

1937—another better year for dairying.

Income of the nation's dairy farmers for 1937 is estimated at $1,470,000,000. This is $53,000,000 more than last year, and $181,000,000 over 1935 — $337,000,000 better than 1934.

For everyone in the dairy industry—this year and every year—increased income very largely depends upon new and wider markets for milk and milk products.

The end of 1937 marks another milestone in Borden's unbroken record of 80 years of merchandising dairy products—research, advertising and selling all forms of milk.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

"I resolve, by the magic of lighting, selection, and arrangement, to find the pictures hidden in common things."

LONG tradition demands that everyone resolve, at the beginning of a new year, to turn over a new leaf, perhaps several new leaves. If this is a good idea for ordinary people, it is a still better idea for us as photographers. Even the best of us make mistakes that we could avoid if we would only take a firm stand—and nothing can help so much as to work out a code and then stick to it.

Here, then, is a set of New Year's Resolutions for Snapshot Guild members. Check them over and see which ones apply to you. Add any others you think of. Then paste the whole list in your photographic notebook and abide by it in the twelve-month ahead:

This year I resolve—

1. To think always before I shoot.
2. To remember that a camera has no brain of its own, only an eye, and will only take pictures of the scenes and subjects I put in front of it.
3. To bear in mind that my pictures to be good must be interesting to other people as well as myself and that to be interesting a picture must have a central idea, a pleasing arrangement and lighting which is suited to the idea the picture is to express.

I further resolve—

4. To try to see the "hidden pictures" in everything and to ask myself, not "Is this a good picture subject?" but rather, "How can I, by the magic of lighting and arrangement, bring out the picture or pictures this subject contains?"
5. To experiment with lighting and pictorial arrangement so that my eye will become trained to see the pictures inherent in common things.
6. To study my mistakes and note down what I did that was wrong and remember not to make the same error twice. And I resolve that whenever I make an error, I will try to do the picture over the right way so that its lesson will be more pointed.

In other words—I resolve to make more and better pictures.

"You know," he said, "I think the luckiest man in the world is the king of this country."

"Really," was Flavia's retort, "you have always seemed to prefer Paris and the Riviera to your own country."

"But now I'm the crowned and anointed king. New leaf, and all that. Among other failings, I've rather neglected you, haven't I?"

Flavia was icy now. "Two picture cards in three years."

That night guests gathered at the palace for the coronation reception.

Flavia and Rassendyll sat on a couch in the drawing room. The masquerader was now enjoying himself hugely.

"Tell me, Rudolf," she said, "what is the world outside really like? Is it as wicked and exciting as it seems in novels? What did you do on those long trips? I mean, when you weren't drinking?"

"I, or I," Rassendyll stalled, "I used to do fishing."

"Fishing!" cried Flavia, "you used to tell me you despised fishing."

A knock on the door and Fritz entered, a worried look on his face. He bowed to Rudolf. "His highness

1937—another better year for dairying.

Income of the nation's dairy farmers for 1937 is estimated at $1,470,000,000. This is $53,000,000 more than last year, and $181,000,000 over 1935 — $337,000,000 better than 1934.

For everyone in the dairy industry—this year and every year—increased income very largely depends upon new and wider markets for milk and milk products.

The end of 1937 marks another milestone in Borden's unbroken record of 80 years of merchandising dairy products—research, advertising and selling all forms of milk.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

"I resolve, by the magic of lighting, selection, and arrangement, to find the pictures hidden in common things."

LONG tradition demands that everyone resolve, at the beginning of a new year, to turn over a new leaf, perhaps several new leaves. If this is a good idea for ordinary people, it is a still better idea for us as photographers. Even the best of us make mistakes that we could avoid if we would only take a firm stand—and nothing can help so much as to work out a code and then stick to it.

Here, then, is a set of New Year's Resolutions for Snapshot Guild members. Check them over and see which ones apply to you. Add any others you think of. Then paste the whole list in your photographic notebook and abide by it in the twelve-month ahead:

This year I resolve—

1. To think always before I shoot.
2. To remember that a camera has no brain of its own, only an eye, and will only take pictures of the scenes and subjects I put in front of it.

interesting a picture must have a central idea, a pleasing arrangement and lighting which is suited to the idea the picture is to express.

I further resolve—

4. To try to see the "hidden pictures" in everything and to ask myself, not "Is this a good picture subject?" but rather, "How can I, by the magic of lighting and arrangement, bring out the picture or pictures this subject contains?"
5. To experiment with lighting and pictorial arrangement so that my eye will become trained to see the pictures inherent in common things.
6. To study my mistakes and note down what I did that was wrong and remember not to make the same error twice. And I resolve that whenever I make an error, I will try to do the picture over the right way so that its lesson will be more pointed.

In other words—I resolve to make more and better pictures.

County Population to Decline; Grand Jury Meets

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burnas

At last the true facts about the sinking of the American gunboat Panay in the Yangtze river have been ascertained. After three weeks of conflicting reports, statements and rumors about the unfortunate incident, Commander J. J. Hughes, commanding officer of the Panay, has transmitted his report to the Navy Department.

Hughes report supported the official belief that the Panay was first boarded by Japanese military officers, then deliberately sought out, attacked and sunk by Japanese bombing planes.

The report was the formal statement required by law of every naval commander who loses a ship.

It revealed that the attack was made at mid-day; that visibility was excellent; that the Panay was practically covered by huge American flags; that the ship was painted with distinctive markings.

Hughes' report made these points:

1. The Panay was identified as an American vessel by two large horizontal flags. Each measured about 18 feet in length and 14 feet in width and had been freshly repainted. In addition, the Panay had been flying her largest ensign at the staff both day and night. All ensigns were brightly illuminated all night.

2. Four hours before the Panay was bombed, she was boarded by a Japanese army officer and boarding party. Her nationality destination and mission was fully established.

3. When the attack was made the Panay was anchored in a broad reach of the river.

4. The bombing continued for about an hour, with the attacking planes diving to within 100 to 200 feet of the Panay, from which distance the American flags should have been clearly visible.

5. The planes attacked and machine-gunned the small boats to which the Panay's survivors, many of them wounded, escaped to shore.

6. A Japanese surface boat machine-gunned the sinking Panay, before a party of Japanese soldiers went on board.

This synopsis of Commander Hughes' report is included because it affords the first opportunity to reach a final and equitable settlement of the Panay affair.

AZALEA WHISENHUNT TAKES PART IN JTAC BROADCAST

Immediately before leaving for Gatesville to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Whisenhunt, Azalea Whisenhunt of John Tarleton took part on a broadcast presented on the regular College Hour program of WBAP.

Miss Whisenhunt sang with the Tarleton Chorus which, under the direction of R. Berton Coffin, sang the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah" and the old Christmas carol, "The First Noel".

Programs presented by John Tarleton College go on the air once each month from KTAT's Fort Worth studios, and once every five weeks from the Tarleton auditorium over WBAP. Next Tarleton broadcast will be Monday afternoon, January 17, at 5:15 o'clock, when compositions by Albert T. Luper, William P. Grant, and R. Berton Coffin, members of the Tarleton fine arts faculty, will be played by their composers over KTAT.

Miss Whisenhunt is a junior in the department of education at Tarleton. She will return to the campus for post-holiday classes on January 3.

The State Department, in its numerous notes of protest, dispatched to Tokyo, has been unable to submit the proper demands for redress due to the lack of authoritative information forthcoming from the war zone.

Commander Hughes substantiated the belief held in official quarters since the fatal bombing took place that the attack was deliberate and pre-designed, but whether it was ordered by the higher Japanese officialdom or was the reckless act of a few youthful aviators will never be known.

The Panay bombing constitutes one of the most serious foreign crises for this country since the war. There are, however, only two considerations which the American people should take into account.

These are: Shall the apologies of the Japanese government be accepted and the incident forgotten, or shall this country go to war in defense of its investments in China?

The answer should rest with the American public and peace is undoubtedly the answer that would come from them. But the actions of the State Department in his last three weeks have created beliefs that Secretary Hull and his coterie of advisors perhaps want war.

Commendation is due the American people and the American press for the conciliatory, level-headed attitude which they adopted following the first reports of the bombing. There have been no demands for reprisals against Japan, for a boycott of Japanese goods, nor have there been any public demonstrations of hostility toward the government and the people of Japan.

As evidenced by this attitude, the American have no quarrel with the Japanese people, who were utterly and completely blameless for the Panay bombing, and want no quarrel with them.

Those technically in authority

The boys will be hunting cover soon! And, it won't be from cold weather, unless it comes too. Grand Jury starts in session on January 10, one week from Monday, and they usually ask a lot of questions regarding, well, regarding too many things according to some opinions.

Sheriff Joe White and District Clerk, Carl McClendon have furnished the list of these gentlemen, from which the daring dozen will be chosen, and they are: J. W. Weaver, Turnersville, H. N. Johnson, Ireland, D. I. Glass, Gatesville, V. O. Wright, White Hall, Chas. Lilljeblad, Ames, C. H. McGee, The Grove, Herbert Gohlke, Coryell City, C. L. Elam, Pearl, Fred Rodway, Jr., Pidcoke, T. P. MRS. P. H. ZIEGLER IS PAINFULLY INJURED IN FALL

Mrs. P. H. Zeigler, mother of County Judge Floyd Zeigler was painfully injured Sunday night when she slipped and fell on the steps at Judge Zeigler's home.

Mrs. Zeigler's knee was wrenched, and the ligaments strained and in addition, she was bruised; no bones being broken, however.

Yesterday at noon she was reported to be resting nicely.

CONGRESSMAN BOB POAGE IS HOLIDAY VISITOR IN GATESVILLE

Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage was a visitor in Gatesville late Wednesday, stating that he was very busy during the holidays, and that it was almost imperative that he return to Washington for the 1938 opening of Congress which is just after the first of the year.

Mr. Poage, was only in Gatesville for a short time and left shortly after six o'clock for Waco.

CITY BRINGS CHRISTMAS TO 78 FAMILIES WITH WORK

The City of Gatesville, played Santa Claus to seventy-eight Gatesville families and their unemployed members, when a clean-up was ordered of the alleys, park streets, cemetery and mud holes in the city streets were graveled.

Pay ranging from 75c up to $4.50 was given the men who participated in this work.

Although, the work and pay principally, did not amount to much, it made it possible for these men and their families to have this much more for their holiday expenses.

Total cost of the work was put at $241.50

This is one time when the city was the "sport" of the season, and made many families happier than they might have been.

"THE YELLOW JACKET'S BUZZ" FLAT H. S. PAPER OUT

Our first glance came recently of "The Yellow Jacket's Buzz" mimeographed edition of the paper edited by the student body of Flat High School which is a very creditable Christmas Edition.

Superintendent C. T. Humphries and his staff of teachers extended their greetings to the patrons, members of the School Board, and students.

Mrs. Laura Rayford spent Christmas in the home of her daughter and son in law Mr. and Mrs. Woodland Meador at Stephenville.

Breathless Anticipation Features 1938 Stork Derby Donors

From both donors, and others who are each minute showing more and more interest in the News-Merchant's 1938 Stork Derby, which is increased by gifts and donations offered in today's News by merchants of the city.

For the first baby born after Midnight, December 31, 1937, which will be known as the 1938 Stork Derby Baby, Coryell County's No. 1 Baby, the parents, or friends of the family will bring to the News office, or mail, the baby's name, the doctor's report and birth certificate, and the TIME, (a. m. or p. m.) the baby was born, by not later than NOON, MONDAY, JANUARY 10, 1938.

For this lucky Mamma and Papa, and their youngster, or youngsters,—or more, the following merchants are offering nice prizes: Gatesville Drygoods Store, First National Bank, Gamblin's Dairy, Mrs. J. B. Graves, Florist, Painters, Morton Scott, House Furnisher, Thomson Grocery Co. and the Coryell County News.

No doubt, in Tuesday's paper we will be able to carry other offerings that will be presented to this 1938 No. 1 Boy or Girl and it's (or their) parents.

If some baby's parent's does not know about the Stork Derby, tell them, they're entitled to the prizes the same as those who do know about the offerings.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Coward of Port Arthur are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Coward.

SEE THAT NOTICE ON THE BOTTOM OF THIS PAGE? IT'S FOR YOU

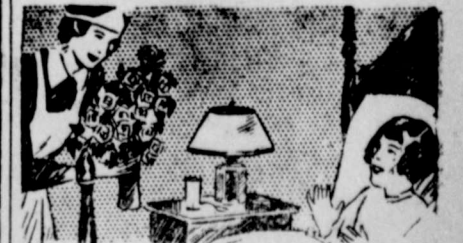

That is, Mr. and Mrs. Subscriber, look at that little tag with your name on it, on your paper. Those little figures are with your name on it, on your it says 12-37, 1-38 2 38 when your paper expires. If it says 12-37, 1-38, 2-38 and so on that means the first month, the second month or the third month in 1938 is when your paper is out. And, that means with the last issue of the month.

If you live in Gatesville, and don't have a "tag" on your paper, phone the News office 69, and we'll tell you if you have lost your receipt.

January 15, is the deadline for four-bits. After the 15th it's $1.00 a year in the county and $1.50 outside.

We want you to know this for your own benefit.

COTTON STATISTICAN GIVES DOPE ON COTTON

W. R. Goodson, Special Agent of the Bureau of Census for the department of Commerce announces that in Coryell County there were 16,023 bales of cotton ginned in Coryell County prior to December 13, as compared with 19,090 to the same

The report before, showed this year well ahead of last, and therefore, the biggest ginnings last year were along the period from November 15, and December 15th.

This leaves the county 3,077 bales short of the 1937 final total.

World's Greatest and Smallest Meet In New York's Radio City Music Hall

SMALLEST vacuum cleaner ever made is this tiny model-perfect instrument being examined in their dressing room by Jane Sproule, left, and Pauline Kaye, of the forty-two pretty girls who make up America's only permanent corps de ballet. They perform daily on the stage of Rockefeller Center's Radio City Music Hall in New York City, largest stage and theater in the world, before audiences that total 125,000 to 175,000 weekly.

Some idea of the minute nature of the vacuum cleaner may be had by comparing it with the lipstick and pencil photographed alongside it, yet it is as perfect in every detail as any vacuum cleaner of those with which millions of American housewives daily freshen their floor coverings, upholstery and draperies.

The vacuum cleaner is a reproduction, exact in all respects, of a typical American home aid. It was made by an unidentified French craftsman, however, and was bought in Paris by Jules Charbneau, owner of a world-famed collection of miniature reproductions recently shown at the Music Hall.

WASHINGTON PARADE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Of the hundred and sixty odd years which constitute our life as a nation comparatively few have been noted in the history books as memorable. The years of the war, of course, and the years of elections are there but it takes a Louisiana purchase or a Missouri compromise to drag the others into the limelight. 1937 will undoubtedly be as unnoticed by future generations as are many years our forefathers must have thought famous. And yet 1937 has a distinction all its own—the first year in our history when one political party seemed to have overwhelming mandate from the electors and two sessions of congress overwhelmingly dominated by that party failed to accomplish a single measure of importance.

To the casual observer, according to his political persuasion and section of the country that may have seemed merely annoying or amusing. To those wary students of mass trends it is alarming.

For a short time at the commencement of the first Roosevelt term the legislatures in Washington were careful to do exactly as they were told by their electorate but as prosperity appeared the old political expediency reappeared with it. The same thing occurred on a lesser scale before.

But this time the legislation which was throttled and the measures which did not pass were—no matter how unpopular in certain sections and certain minority groups—the desire of two great masses of voters—the farmers and the workers.

The repercussion will come in 1938.

In the last few weeks our own country has provided more fireworks in international affairs than Hitler and Mussolini put together. You'd have to be a member of the sauve and Dissembling diplomatic circle—or else a Japanese—to comprehend what an astonishing and unrepresented thing it was for President to request that the Mikado be informed of his being deeply 'shocked and concerned' by the Panay incident. In all the history of Nippon the son of Heaven has never before been asked to notice earthly affairs—even the 'indiscriminate bombing of vessels'.

To those familiar with Japanese affairs it seems as if this one word may do more to curb the Military party in Tokio than the threat of the fleets. The Militarists have been put in a position where their actions have provoked a message to their emperor—a message which he cannot as yet ignore—and this embarrassment to him has not only cost him a certain loss of prestige in the orient but has given the 'civilian' party in Japan a point of attack on the militarists which may, even at this late hour, cause a marked modification of Japan's policy of aggression.

ROSE BOWL

Out in faraway Pasadena, the California and Alabama teams clash in the historic Rose Bowl, with California decidedly the favorite. The Bears have many outstanding players—Chapman, Meek, Herwig, Schwartz, Dolman, Stockton, Bottari—all stars. Their line, led by such stalwarts as Stockton, Dolman, and Schwartz, is fast-charging and aggressive. Herwig is a sensational line backer. John Meek, 225-pound quarterback, is a smart field general an unusually fine blocker and a strong defensive man. Chapman can do everything well, while Bottari is the offensive sparkplug—an elusive ball carrier who is also a fine passer. California has a strong running game and a fair passing attack. Its offense as a whole is good for two touchdowns against any team in the nation.

The question—Can Alabama score three touchdowns? Our answer—no. Alabama's running game will be completely powerless against the Bruins with Meek Herwig, Chapman, Dolman and others looking after the defense. A strong pass attack is what is needed to take the Bears. It will take a Alabama team of the 1934 type with a Howell and a Hutson to defeat the Pacific Coast champions and Alabama does not have a team of that type.

Our guess, CALIFORNIA, 13 ALABAMA, 0.

COTTON BOWL

One of the hot spots of bowl day is the Colorado invasion of Texas. Part of this is due to the somewhat unknown quality of Colorado's all-around strength matched against a top-flight squad. The main part is due to one Whizzer White, who has caught attention from coast to coast.

No one has to worry about the strength of the Rice outfit. Any team that can emerge from the Southwest scramble wearing the crown has to be good. In Ernie Lain, the Owls have one of the outstanding football players of the year.

Colorado's entire offense is built around the Whizzer, whose main fort is a powerful stiff-arm that smacks a would be tackler with a great deal of effect. The Colorado blocking is not so hot, but with that deadly stiff-arm, White does not need extra good help.

Colorado's offense is as follows: They operate three-fourths of the time from a short punt formation with an unbalanced line to the right. Most of the plays go to the right. White packs the ball on 85 per cent of the running plays, and he does all the passing and kicking from that formation.

Colorado's greatest problem confronts them in their type of defense. The defense they have used all season employs a five man line, with the right end dropping back five yards to give a 5-3-2-1. Moore is a center and is the Colorado defense within himself, making 75 percent of the tackles. With him out of there the Buffalo line leaks like a sieve. Against Rice a five man line would be suicide, for Lain and his running mate, Ollie Gordill, would rip holes through the weak side tackle. A six man line would be almost as bad for Cordill, with Lain throwing those deadly blocks of his, could circle the weak end with ease. Rice would ruin a team using an even man line with its passing game.

Colorado does not have the benefit of having played a tough schedule as has Rice, and in all-around team play, Rice appears to have the edge.

Colorado could win but White and Moore would both have to play the full sixty minutes.

Our guess, RICE, 14, COLORADO 7.

SUGAR BOWL

Down in New Orleans the Louisiana State Tigers will clash with the Santa Clara team. These two teams met last year, and chiefly because LSU was not ready for the game, the Broncs came through with a 21-14 victory over the Tigers.

But this year Buck Shaw's team from the dispirited Tiger Boncos will meet a far different Squad of last year which revolted against the prolonged training and had to take the 21-14 count on the chin. Everybody on Bernie Moore's squad is thirsting to avenge the loss of last year, and with the running and passing of Young Bussey of Houston and the slippery Pinky Rohm leading the way, the Bayou City lads will probably defeat the Broncs handily.

Our guess, LOUISIANA STATE 20, SANTA CLARA, 6.

ORANGE BOWL

In the Orange Bowl at Miami the Auburn Plainsmen and the Michigan State Spartans will meet head-on in a toss-up contest. Your guess is as good as ours, and we give the Auburn boys a slight edge.

Our guess, AUBURN 10, MICHIGAN STATE 6.

SUN BOWL

In the Sun Bowl Texas Tech's Red Raiders will have their hands full with the Mountaineers of West Virginia. If the Texans can play the kind of inspired football they turned in against Duquesne, they will not find the West Virginians too troublesome. The Pittsburgh Panthers, national champs, defeated the Mountaineers 20-0, while the Dukes held the Panthers to a 6-0 score. The Red Raiders defeated the Dukes, 13-0, and never did Tech allow Duquesne to penetrate their 40-yard line. Because of those comparative scores, the Matadors rank as definite favorites.

Our Guess, TEXAS TECH 6, WEST VIRGINIA 0.

IRELAND HIGH GIVES JANUARY B. BALL SCHEDULE

Superintendent S. V. Dickenson of Ireland High School has favored us with the following basket ball report schedule for January, as follows:

January 4, Pearl boys and girls at Ireland; January 7, Jonesboro Boys and Girls at Ireland; January 5, Hamilton boys and girls at Ireland; January 11, Turnersville Boys and girls at Ireland; January 12, Ireland at Gatesville; January 19, Carlton at Ireland (boys) and January 26, Ireland at Carlton, (boys).

In the high school girls round-robin play-off for the county title, Ireland plays the following games at home:

January 18, Ireland vs. Turnersville; January 25, Ireland vs. Pearl; January 28, Ireland vs. Jonesboro; February, Ireland vs. Flat.

Home for the holidays is the practical entire TWC basket ball team, which includes Jack Thornton, Johnny Edwards, Cullen Walsh and Hazen Ward who were on Painters commercial team that gained plenty of publicity at this time last year. These boys out of 7 starts have brought home the bacon 7 times.

Wednesday's local basket ball results added up as follows: Gatesville Hornet "B" Squal, 19; CCC Boys 18; CCC Boys 15, Pearl 13; Gatesville Hornets 21 Pearl All Stars 9; which closed the festivities for the night.

In the Pin and Duck sport, the "high" for the issue are 3-pin C. Bauman, 215; 5-pin Evan J. Smith 311; Ducks, O. C. Barton 109.

Its New Years "Day" instead of "Eve" that the "Bowl" games come off, and we have to thank County Surveyor L. S. Secrest for calling this to our attention. To us, lackadassically, New Year, and everything pertaining to it is the last day of the year or the night the "noise" is raised instead of the actual News Year's Day.

U. S. TRADE

AT ONE of its nine South American ports the Grace Line's "Santa Lucia" unloads an American automobile. Our total trade with Latin America in 1936 was about $959,100,000; our imports increased 9.5 per cent; our exports went up 14.2 per cent, largest since 1930. With Germany, England, France, Italy and Japan seeking greater shares of this lucrative trade, commercial eyes in the United States look southward for future mutual trade prosperity.

Working in farm shop laboratory four hours each during the first semester he made: two Ariate ropes, one ranger belt two dress belts, concrete sub-irrigation tile a wrist band and he sharpened some tools.

After visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scott of Gatesville during the holidays Scott will return to Tarleton Monday for resumption of classes. He is parliamentarian for the Tarleton Collegiate chapter of F. F. A., and is a Tarleton honor roll student.

JONESBORO BAPTIST W. M. S.

The last two meetings of the W. M. S. have been very interesting and good ones. The first being in the home of Mrs. Gene made and good deeds were planned. A Christmas for Christ being the main aim. The second meeting was in the home of Mrs. W. A. Wallace where all of these plans were carried out in an inspiring way. Gifts were exchanged among the members and a large box sent to a shut-in and needy family. The Christmas Lettles Moon offering was taken. The W. M. S. gave an entertainment in the home of Mrs. Marvin Watson for all the home coming Sunday School students. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. R. A. Russell, January 4.

FROM THE COUNTY SUPT'S OFFICE

Interscholastic League

A recent report from the Interscholastic League Headquarters, mentioned about twenty out of the forty seven schools in Coryell County as League Members for the school year 1937-38. Several schools have joined since above report. We hope that there will not be a school this year that intends to be a member that will be too late in applying. January the 15th is the closing date. Now is time to mail the applications.

State Aid

State aid applications are due in Austin before January the 15. A. M. Tate set Monday, Tuesday and possible Wednesday for next week as the time to make his last visit to Coryell county before turning in the State Aid Applications. He stated over the telephone that he must have Teacher Transcripts of their credits before he could allow additional salary. Principals should call at the County Superintendent's office and check all records needed by the State. Some have sent in the proper information but have not signed their service records. The County Superintendents of Texas are called to a State Aid meeting at Austin on Thursday and Friday of next week. Supt. J. M. Witcher plans to attend this meeting. The general outlines of the year's work are presented at these meetings and many details which might be confusing are discussed and understood. Programs are compared and progress in the wisest way is planned.

Mrs. H. K. Bruton of Wichita Falls, J. C. Powell of Greenville and Miss Olive Powell of San Antonio were Christmas guests of their mother, Mrs. N. F. Powell and their sisters of this city. Miss Powell remained over through this week.

New York, N. Y.—Next time you read about stem smash hits taking in ten to twenty thousand a week remember the wow of 1937 that had a box office of $1.20 on opening night—and closing night—and in case you didn't guess it—they were the same night. National board of review picked 'Night must Fall' as the best picture of the year but thinks 'The Good Earth' had the most popular appeal. And this column's nomination for the Academy Award—Spencer Tracy in 'Captains Courageous'—and for the best job in the ten years the little Gold God has been passed around—Victor Maclagen as 'The Informer' in 1935—Niftiest nightingale at this etching—Corinna Mura at the Versailles . . . The Park Avenue debs of this winter season are moanin' because the current Glamor gal for sophisticated males is a woman who confesses to forty—Wally Windsor—The city cinemas have dusted off the magic lantern slides 'Ladies will please remove their hats' because of the silly sombrero fad. . . Barbara Hutton Mdivani Haughwitz—'From hayrake to Hamlet in four generations'—has more relatives than Roosevelt—ranging from the wife of a millionaire to a ticket chopper on a Cortland street el station—At least he was, back when they chopped tickets—When the French casino folded Martita farewell who warbled the bird imitations for the number where the chorines wore a feather—padded me—two feathers—got a job with the Metropolitan opera imitating a bird—Broadway plays some funny jokes—Some of them rather heartless but this little incident has a happy ending—it's about Leonard Ralph—the expert pianist of popular music who gave up a fine future in department store merchandise in Detroit to come east and try his luck—well he's made a success—he's signed up with the NBC but not as a piano player of popular music—he plays Beethoven on the organ—the theme song for a cereal company.—Here and there—Jimmy Cagney dawn-breakfasting at Reubens—Joan Crawford doing an 'Eliza' on the ice of 46 street with the autograph hounds in pursuit—and Franchot Tone slipping in to the side door of her hotel to join her thereby stopping those rumors of a bustup—John Barrymore and Elane homing in to grand central station for Xmas—Al (father Malachy) Shean gazing wistfully at 42 street 'Double feature for a dime movie'—and maybe you didn't know that the Church where the the actors are baptised and bridaled and buried is St. Malachy's on 49 street and every day somebody wanders in and asks to see the 'miracle'—wild-est whoopie on New Year's Eve will be the all night Greenwich village Ball—That famous general who now writes a column telling how the country ought to be run, once tried his hand at fiction and you can still buy his books—at seventeen and a half cents apiece—and a salute to the special matinee 'brother Rat' for men and women who had lost their sight—the program was done in Braille—and just to remind you—1938 begins on a Saturday and ends on a Saturday and any year with 53 paydays ought to be a happy one for you all!—The Broadway Parade.

World Comment—

in Japan have made every reasonable concession and apology which could be expected. Following the attack, the Japanese government through its Ambassador at Washington, Hiroshi Saito, formally expressed its regrets. Minister Hirota expressed his personal regrets and those of his government.

Taking an unprecedented action the ministers of the Army and navy tendered their personal apologies. Press reports from Tokyo told of Japanese citizens making personal apologies to American citizens on the streets. In every possible civil and military Japan sought to make amends.

In addition to the apologies, the Japanese made no attempt to conceal their guilt or the circumstances surrounding the bombing. They admitted their flyers were at fault, ordered the recall of two high military authorities at the scene of the bombing, and likewise stated that the Panay had been machine-gunned before it was sunk. The latter statement, confirmed by Commander Hughes, was likewise admitted by the Japanese foreign office, although denied by the military authorities in China.
