COOPERATIVE LEADERSHIP SCHOOL OPENS AT M. E. CHURCH, 23

In the world today, what part does the Christain religion play. What part should it play?

These and similar questions will be discussed in the course for Young People to be offered in the Co-operative Leadership Training School October 23 thru October 28. With Rev. Leslie W. Seymour, pastor of the First Methodist Church as instructor, the class is entitled "The World Mission of the Christian Religion" promises to be of wide interest and unusual appeal to everyone. However, membership in the class will be limited to those under 24 years of age.

"Primarily, Christianity is a religion for individuals," says Mr. Seymour. "Its message of eternal life, and of a more 'abundant life' a life filled with joys and happiness not found outside the Christian faith—has an intensely personal appeal. Yet Christianity which stops here is incomplete. The great Founder of the faith has as His ideal of a society that should be governed by the principle of righteousness, justice, and brotherly love. These cannot come without the Christain faith in individual lives; but it must come as an expression of that faith in social action.

"The Christian religion has a vital part to play in the world today. The aim of this course is to show what this part is, and what we can do about it."

The Leadership School will offer two other courses besides this one: a general methods course in teaching, and a course in Bible Rec on Sunday afternoon, Oct., 23, it will run each nite thru Oct 28. Everyone who can is urged to take a course for credit, but those who will not do this are invited to be present for the lectures, choosing one of the three classes.

Misses Leah Dale Franks, Thelma, Truie Pearl, and Doris McGilvray, Rowena Blackwell and Mary Ruth Clark attended the circus in Waco Tuesday night.

John C. Linder made a business trip to Corsicana Monday and Tuesday.

Miss Mary Ann Post went to Austin yesterday to attend the wedding of Hugh Morrison. She will go to Georgetown and visit Miss Jane Thomson, her cousin, who is attending Southwestern University, before returning to her home in this city.

Mrs. Earl Hite of Waco spent Tuesday in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bird Hair, in this city.

PWA STREET, GUTTER AND GRAVELING JOB STARTS TODAY

WPA, curb and gutter, and also graveling of Gatesville streets starts today, according to City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy.

"Unit 1" according to Mr. Lovejoy, includes a part of South 7th, 14, and 16th between Main and Leon.

Following the completion of this unit, another will be started which will probably connect up some of the streets already graveled, and will probably include Fennimore, College, more of South 14th and perhaps, South 6th.

These are very good improvements and will be extended to as many streets as possible.

MISS KATHYRN WARD IS NOW WITH THE MESSENGER

Miss Kathryn Ward is substituting for Mrs. Francis Powell, society editor for the Gatesville Messenger, while Mrs. Powell is away on a vacation trip to Los Angeles, California.

Miss Ward moved here about a year ago from McGregor. She attended Gatesville High School last year and graduated here last spring.

Miss Gladys Milroy of Navasota visited her sister, Mrs. Guy Powell and family, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Painter were business visitors to Waco Tuesday.

Miss Margaret Tubbs of Coryell City attended the football game in Gatesville Friday night.

Miss Dora Kingsbury and Bill Ament went to Waco to see the monkeys perform Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Routh and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Powell will leave this week end for a trip to the valley and other points in south Texas.

Miss Maxine Lovejoy has been confined to her bed on account of illness this week.

Mrs. Francis Powell left Wednesday afternoon for a trip to Los Angeles, Calif., in company with Mrs. Grace Blackstock and son, Billy of Brownwood.

R. D. Hendrickson and family of Port Arthur will leave today for their home after having visited relatives in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wilson are the proud grandparents of a baby boy born to Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Jones on October 4. The young man has been named Bobbie Dene.

FIRST EXHIBIT IN YEARS SENT BY C. OF C. SATURDAY

Coryell County will be represented at the State Fair of Texas which begins Saturday October 8, and W. E. Lasseter is going Saturday with some 60 FFA boys to install the exhibit.

In cooperation with the Future Farmers of America, headed by W. E. Lasseter, the exhibit will feature varied industries of Coryell County, including corn, cotton, oats, poultry, livestock, forge crops pecans and the home pantry.

These will be placed in the booth at the Agricultural building, formerly called the Foods Products Building.

In addition to the exhibit, the FFA Chapter here will enter a FFA band in the "Hillbilly" band contest, according to Mr. Lasseter.

The FFA Chapter will also have a project exhibit on display in the Agricultural Building, in the FFA division of the show.

Assisting in arranging the display will be, besides the FFA boys, Miss Sidney Gale Gibson, County H. D. Agent, and County Agent Guy Powell.

Since Saturday is FFA day, FFA boys will be there from all over the state, and two busses of 60 will attend from Gatesville.

This is something that should have been done both at the Texas Centennial and the exposition of last year. Exhibits of this nature carry the Coryell County message all over the state as well as the nation, since people are there from everywhere.

AT THE HALF, IT WAS TEMPLE 7, JR. HI 0: JRS. GOOD

With a surprise, (one of those hideout end plays) Central of Temple drew the first marker last night with a 15 yd. pass, McClaren to Hester, who ran 10 yds. for pay.

For the Jr. Hornets, Lasseter, Post, Anderson, Williams and McBroom were stand outs.

Starting for the Hornets, were: White, Ward, McBroom, Lasseter, Horne, Gribble, Sydow, Anderson, Oldham, Sexton and Post.

For Central: Coach Sinclair's line-up was: Walker, Weaver, Koc-tar, Teague, Evans, Casey, Ham, McClaren, Hester, Clark and Skel-ton.

VALLEY MILLS IS HORNET'S ASSIGNMENT FOR AFTERNOON

HUNDREDS OF FANS ARE EXPECTED TO MAKE TREK TO V. MILLS

Will the sun go down today, with the Hornet's resting with a percentage of 1000?

That's the big question that, undoubtedly is bothering Coach Earl Worley and every loyal Hornet supporter in these parts. We wouldn't know! If the Hornets set their heads, regardless of the predictions of various sports writers, we believe they'll bring back the bacon. They, most certainly, are the underdogs in this game, and have nothing to do but to strain themselves with heads-up, charging, wide-awake play, and,—they CAN do the job.

Here's the Valley Mills Eagle's statistics:

Name	Pos.	No.	Wt.
Everett	LE	34	170
Smith, D.	LT	86	155
Goldman	LG	90	176
Pollie, N.	C	91	156

Jelks, Ed.	Q	80	139
Nutt, B.	C	50	132
Peters, T.	RG	82	138
Warren, P.	LE		124

On a weight basis the teams are apparently approximately even,, the Eagles having only a 4 pound edge over the Hornets, averaging the eleven. VM has an edge in the line, especially, end and tackles, about an even break at center, and weaker (in poundage) in guards.

In the backfield, the Hornets have considerable edge, and it looks like "A" ball game. In experience, VM probably has more of an edge than at any other point.

The press and linotype must move, and, as the World Series goes on, we MUST get some copy. Football is certainly taking a back seat today as the Cubs and Yankees go to it.

Friday of this week, however will be a breathing spell, on base ball, the Hornet's take on their first big assignment, with Valley Mills Friday.

Incidentally, Friday is also a red letter day in Gatesville, Flat taking on Turnersville in the first of 6-Man football you are going to hear so much about, in the next few months and years.

Here's the schedule, we promised: Arkansas.

Oct. 8. Baylor, Fayetteville
Oct. 15, Texas, Little Rock.
Oct. 22, Santa Clara, Frisco.
Oct. 29, Aggies, College
Nov. 12, SMU, Dallas
Nov. 19, Miss, Memphis
Oct. 24, Tulsa, Tulsa

When you read this, you'll already have seen the Jr. Hi. Hornets, will already have made their debut before the Gatesville fans. They played Central of Temple while we were working last nite.. Looking at the series, the first inning and a half have been played and the Yanks are leading 2-0, but that don't mean anything.

Out Pearl way, today at 2:30, Ireland and Pearl tangle in their other half of the 6-man series, and the opener in that territory..

Week end schedule for SW con: Baylor-Ark.; Aggies-Santa Clara; Texas-Okla.; Rice-LSU; SMU-Marquette; TCU-Temple; that's all. Most of these are broadcast by your good friend, the Humble Oil & Refining Company. Tune in; hear then; write Humble how you enjoyed it,—and go the Humble way.

LOOKIN' OVER THIS WORLD

By Anon E. Muss

Did you ever try writing something that would interest a large number of people of various occupations and of many different opinions. Anyway from where I sit it bears all of the earmarks of being a rather difficult task. This is the problem that faces me now and I think I am sorry I brought it up.

Recently a very able columnist stopped production for this paper and it leaves somebody a hard job to fill the shoes of this writer. His writing dealt with world problems chiefly relative to international, national and state politics, and various diplomatic situations arising from this broad field of activity. Our new writer is not well enough versed in these matters to continue writing articles in the authoritative manner to which you have become accustomed, however subjects of this nature will be touched upon from time to time, but you will recognize that they are more the opinion of one person than the accurate facts that you have been reading in the past.

You may not agree with the statements that are made in this column but at any rate it is the hope of the writer that they will be thought provoking and possibly a source of argument (not in this paper but by mouth) and any one that can approach a subject in a manner that will provoke honest differences of opinion has created something that is likely to be interesting to a large number of people. These articles will not necessarily represent the sentiments and opinions of the publishers but are solely those of the writer. So with these things in mind let's get down to business.

Right at present it seems that the topic that everyone is most anxious to talk about is the European war scare. It looks like they have about completed the settlement of things over there—but have they? This diplomatic affair has been discussed from almost every conceivable angle, yet, the one which seems most interesting has been touched upon but rarely.

The drama that is being enacted upon the vast theatrical stage that is Europe boasts of two great leading men. They are Neville Chamberlain and Adolph Hitler.

Let's approach the subject like the movie magazines do and see if we can find out just what kind of people these men are and what can be expected from them now, and possibly in the months that are to follow.

Neville Chamberlain is a genteel mild mannered person of the type which might be spoken of as "typically British". He is a soft spoken man who weights the meaning of his words carefully; conservative almost to the extreme. His tones are soothing and kindly; designed to create an air of calm in the face of impending disaster, never approaching the status of the rabble rouser, never breaking over the bonds of propriety as dictated by age old British custom. Inwardly he cringes from violence and bloodshed in any form and feels that there are few issues great enough to justify bloodshed for their settlement. Truly he is a man of peace. The mind of Neville Chamberlain runs smoothly thru well developed channels of reason and he arrives at his conclusions on the basis of carefully weighed facts taken from both sides of the question which confronts him. He is a believer in the principles of democracy but he is of the opinion that it can exist side by side with the totalitarian type of government. The timid nature of Chamberlain makes him shrink from personal contacts that are of a violent or blustery type and makes him susceptible to the bullying tactics of a man of a different type.

And, who is that man of a different type; well, lets look at Adolph Hitler.

In marked contrast to the mild mannered Chamberlain, Hitler is a stormy, harsh, overbearing sort of person. According to those who are in a position to know him best, he seems to fall into a class known to the psychiatrist as the Manic-Depressive psychosis group, manifesting at times delusions of grandeur and other various visionary ideas. This in plain English means that he is apparently the victim of a mixed type of insanity and in all probability in private life in this country could not remain long from behind the bars of an asylum. He is subject to periods of pronounced depression during which time he declines to associate with even his closest assistants, and is at these times the possessor of a very nasty disposition. Likewise, at other times he is possessed with an almost maniacal desire for action, at these times he is driven by an insatiable inner desire for aggression and conquest and it is during these intervals that we see him taking his bold steps of domination in Europe, sweeping all resistance before him in his torrent of progressive energy. It is at these times that he arouses his followers to a frenzy for war, sweeping them from their rational senses in a stirring show of mass hysteria. His speeches begin quite slowly but build upward swelling in volume until he works himself to the frenzy that he transmits to his listeners, carry by them to whatever decision he wants them to reach.

If this be the true picture of the two men that have largely decided the immediate fate of Europe, it is surprising that Hitler has succeeded in gaining his every demand in his diplomatic conferences with Mr. Chamberlain? Chamberlain realized the problem he was up against could not be solved peaceably because he was not dealing with a man who could be sufficiently touched by the possibility of extreme sacrifice of human life. He knew that the only way to a peaceful solution was to give Hitler what he asked for; there was no way to deal rationally with this man of extraordinary mental traits because the arguments that would touch a man of sounder reason failed to influence the purpose of one who feels himself pre-ordained to be the ruler of all Europe. This, I believe is the method Chamberlain used

L. E. BURT LIKES HIS S. C. SERVICE

L. E. Burt says he is well pleased with the soil and water conservation program being put into effect on his farm near Gatesville. "For the past several years," Mr. Burt says, "the farm has been an eye sore due to conditions affected by erosion. Several acres of my farm," Mr. Burt relates, "about fifteen years ago that were good productive acres have now become sub-marginal due to loss of topsoil. Gullies that were not present fifteen years ago are showing up on my farm that cannot be crossed with implements in the course of cultivation." He states he has no control of outside water which was greatly affecting these conditions.

The plan on this farm consists of retirement of sub-marginal acre are to be fenced and sodded to permanent pasture to insure control of erosion and coordinate them with better farm management program. On the cultivated areas, terracing, strip cropping, terrace outlets, waterway protection and contour cultivation practices are being put into effect.

Selling the Surplus

Cotton and wheat are bringing disappointing returns. Both are sold as raw products, for both require factory processing before they can be consumed. The farmer has not choice (outside the small amounts of cotton he can use for mattresses and quilts, and whatever wheat he uses for seed or feed) but to sell them in raw form at the market. He does have a choice in the matter of selling feed grains and forage.

Feed grains and forage do not all have to go to a distant and costly factory for processing into form for human consumption. Livestock and poultry are the machines, the farm is the factory. At present prices a bushel of corn in a hog's hide will bring more than double what it brings on the market.

With a surplus of feed on hand the farmer is interested in selling it to the best possible advantage. The type of feed the proportion of grain and roughage, and the pastures available, determine the sort of livestock best adapted to the circumstances. If there is a high percentage of grazing on pastures or crop residues cattle or sheep are indicated. The same is true if the feed crop consists largely of grain sorghums which carry a large portion of good roughage. You want to sell the whole crop, not merely the grain part of it.

Dairy cattle will usually pay most for green grazing and silage, with the concentrates necessary to balance the ration. Beef cattle and sheep come next in the utilization of silage and pasture, and unless the grain supply is sufficient to fatten them out for market, stock cows and ewes are better for the purpose than feeder calves or lambs.

When grain predominates in the feed supply hogs and poultry offer the best outlet. Roughly speaking five pounds to six pounds of grain (whole and in mash form) will produce a dozen eggs, or a pound of turkey. Four grains (depending on the protein supplement used and feeding practices) will make a pound of pork on foot. Ten bushels of corn for which Texas farmers were being paid 25 to 33 cents at harvest time, with proper management would become 100 pounds of pork worth twice to three times the cash grain price.

A certain small north Texas blackland community has shipped more than forty carloads of shelled corn, bringing the growers less than $250 per car, or about $10,000. Turned into pork under good feeding methods each carload of corn would have made 7,000 pound of pork worth at the time $560 or better on the Fort Worth market.

Half the potential returns to both the individual farmers and to the community as a whole were lost by selling a raw product instead of a finished product, and the community is $10,000 poorer than it could have been had it raised hogs to eat the corn. Last summer at oat harvest the same thing happened and thousands of farmers in hundreds of Southwestern communities regularly throw away a part of their year's work by quitting too soon. We quit too soon whenever we stop short of manufacturing feed into its logical product before offering it for sale. As shelled corn the farmers in the community above mentioned probably got no more than $10 to $15 per acre gross for their labor and rent of the land. In the form of livestock and its products they might as well grossed two or three times as much, with good pay for the extra labor of feeding and caring for the animals.

A common mistake in buying livestock for feeding it to buy scrubs which lack feeding quality and capacity. The other extreme is to pay highly for high class animals. The amateur feeder should leave the fancy stuff to experienced men but should avoid starting at the other extreme because scrubs are cheap.

PROGRAM NOTED IN LOCAL SCS WORK

October 3—More than 121 farms embracing 25,164 acres, located in the Gatesville camp demonstration area of the Soil Conservation Service in Coryell, Bosque and McLennan counties are being operated in accordance with a coordinated soil and water conservation plan Mr. Ernest E. McAlister, Camp Technician, announced today.

Mr. McAlister issued his annual progress report today following the close of another year's operation on July 1. The Gatesville camp was established August, 1935.

Since the establishment of the camp more than 828 acres of land have been retired from cultivation to pasture. The retired land was either too badly eroded to be profitably used for cultivation, located on slopes too steep for safe cultivation or was made up of soils too easily eroded to be left exposed to the erosive action of rainfall.

Contour tillage is being used on 12,892 acres. Strip crops, bands of close-growing, fibrous-rooted crops planted on the contour, across the slope between intervals of clean-tilled crops control erosion and provide feed crops on 228 acres. These strips are used in conjunction with terraces which protect 4211 acres. 243 miles of terraces have been built by the 121 farmers. 5460 yards of outlet channels have been built and sodded to grass to provide a safe outlet for terrace waters.

Pasture area on cooperating farms has been increased from 10,108 acres to 11,853 acres since the inception of the soil conservation program. Meadows to utilize idle land such as natural draws,

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Pepe le Moko, continental jewel thief, is eluding the Algiers police by hiding in the mysterious Casbah, or native quarter, where his friends keep him safe from harm. But Pepe chafes for liberty, and his longing for his beloved Paris is intensified when he meets and falls in love with the exquisite Gaby, a Parisian tourist. Pepe's interest in Gaby enrages his native sweetheart, Ines; but it gives an idea to the foxy inspector Slimane, Casbah detective, whose one aim is to lure Pepe out of the Casbah where the police can seize him. When Pepe's favorite friend, Pierrot, is killed by the police, Pepe rages all the more at his captivity, and Slimane taunts him with his inability to escape from the Casbah. Crying out that he can be free if he wants to, Pepe rushes out of the quarter, and into the open town, daring capture and death.

Chapter Five

Inspector Louvain answered his jangling phone, listened intently with no comment but a few grunts of comprehension, then hung up. "Inspector Slimane," he announced to the waiting detectives in the

You know what you are to me? Paris! The whole town — a spring morning in Paris! You're so lovely!"

She raised her mouth to his kiss; a kiss that lasted a long time. But not too long for either of them.

She sprang up — "I must go. It's late."

"Suppose you don't come tomorrow?"

"Suppose I don't. Can't you ever get away from the Casbah?"

"No. I'm caught here like a bear in a hole. But if you don't come back I might do anything... come down to the hotel and get you."

"I'll come, Pepe. Tomorrow."

"Tomorrow?" He repeated the word like a pleading child, searching her eyes, afraid she might not have meant it.

"Tomorrow. And I never break my promise."

Pepe was his old self now. Now he could sing once more, as he had been wont to do. He wandered through the Casbah streets, singing a gay Parisian ditty, waving to the shopkeepers and housewives, the Casbah people all of whom were his friends. Not a care in the world — she was coming back tomorrow.

Slimane fell into step alongside him, smiling his innocent, happy, apologetic smile.

"You've seen her again?"

"Suddenly I wake up — that's you!"

room. "He says Pepe le Moko is coming out. Get going." Without a word, four men rose and filed out.

Pepe, rushing wildly through the streets of the Casbah, came to the gate that led to the main town of Algiers. He paused a moment, looking down at the town, now realizing fully what his desperate outburst might mean. Then, drawing a deep breath, he stepped outside the gate.

But running behind him came Ines who, never far from Pepe, had seen him start on his mad journey and had raced desperately after him. She caught up with him now, and threw her arms about him, holding him back.

"Pepe! Don't go! Please, please don't go. I didn't want to tell you this, but she's up there now — at your house — waiting for you!"

Pepe turned back. Without a word he walked slowly back to his house with Ines. He looked through all the rooms, but no one was there.

"Where is she?" demanded Pepe. Then Ines quietly confessed to him that she had lied. Gaby had not come back to the Casbah, but Ines, desperately wanting to hold Pepe back from risking his life, and knowing that he would not have done it for her sake, had asked him to do it for the sake of the other girl.

To her surprise, Pepe was not angry. He saw his folly, admitted it, comforted and caressed Ines. And Ines, for the moment, was happy again.

But Gaby came back to see Pepe. And now, in the quiet of his ancient Casbah house, Pepe was pouring out his heart to her, sitting beside her as she lay back on a divan.

"You're beautiful — that's easy to say. Maybe somebody told you — but what I'm telling you is different. For me, you're more than that — for two years I've been lost — like walking in my sleep. Suddenly I wake up — that's you..."

"Wouldn't you like to know?" Oh, if you don't want to confide in me —" murmured Slimane, who knew perfectly well.

Pepe laughed merrily. "The trouble with you, inspector, is that you inspect too much. Now don't breathe a word of what I've just told you — it's just between ourselves."

Pepe turned into a cafe. Slimane thoughtfully looked at his watch, and went down toward the town.

Inspector Slimane had on his best smile, for he was paying a call on M. Etienne Giroux, Gaby's fiancé, at the hotel.

"My mission," he explained, "is a rather delicate one...but necessary. I merely wish to suggest that your fiancée is a little too fond of the shall we say, the local color — of the Casbah."

Giroux blinked at him — stupidly at first, then with the beginnings of comprehension. "The Casbah," continued Slimane, is hardly the place for a woman alone. She attracts too much attention — excites too much desire. We naturally wish to protect her from any embarrassment. So please —"

Giroux now understood perfectly. He turned to the door of Gaby's adjoining apartment and knocked. Gaby emerged, dressed for the street. Where was she going? She shrugged. Out for a walk — somewhere.

There was a brief, bitter argument. Giroux forbade her to go to the Casbah, under the threat of breaking off their engagement. Contemptuously, she started for the door. Then Slimane intervened, touching her arm.

"Your fiancé was trying to spare you. He didn't want to tell you the truth. An attempt was made to capture Pepe le Moko this afternoon. In a sense, it was successful. He was taken...but not alive." She steeled herself against the wall, staring straight before her

This Week In Oglesby

Cotton

This week report, by Combest, shows that approximately 1550 bales of cotton have been ginned in Oglesby. Of this number more than fifty bales have gone into the Government loan.

Sand

Samples of sand from the famous sand deposit that lies under the farms owned by Messrs. Garland Anderson, Grundy Ross, Reuben Ross, Fred Walters, and C. E. Green, were forwarded to Mr. Rockenback, industrial agent for SSW Ry at St. Louis. These samples will be delivered to a glass manufacturing company, who are interested in this sand deposit.

Lime

Former members of the Universal Gypsum & Lime Co. who formerly operated the Lime City Plant, were here looking the field over with a view to re-opening the lime industry at that place.

Tom Rucker stumbling around in the store with a sore foot, and R. L. Sullens going around with a rag over his mouth to close up the vent made by having his teeth pulled.

Elmer HcAuley and Raymond Bankhead weekendend at Valley Mills.

Miss Fern Itef of Navasota was a guest of the Bob Penningtons.

Daltons Garage was a contributor to the Waco Iron Lung fund.

V. L. Edwards sailing around in his recently purchased air-ship. V. L. had training during the World War. He takes off, lands, and skims thru the air in a pretty good manner.

Last Thursday morning Rev. Carrol Chadwick spoke to the student body of the Crawford school on the subject "The Elements of a Happy Life". That hundred dollar grin of Chadwick's ought to deliver a fine talk on that subject.

Mrs. A. A. Foster and family, and her father, Uncle Jess Kirby of Winters were here, guests of the J. M. Dixons.

The big road, coming into town from Highway 84, has a fine surface of crushed stone clear into where it intersects old No. 7, right in the heart of Oglesby. We have been unofficially informed that his tap will receive its final topping of asphalt next week.

Joe Burns

Several of our Oglesby readers have expressed regret at losing the interesting "World Comment" by the able writer Joe Burns, who is none other than Brack Curry, who was reared in Gatesville. This writer, and Brack, begun contributing to the Coryell County News when the paper was in its swaddling clothes. Its kinda like breaking up the family to have Brack quit us. A lot of success to you Brack in your journalistic efforts.

Prof and Mrs. C. L. Canady of the Crawford schools and Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Compton of the Crawford Sun were guests in the Frank Simmons home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Herschel Draper and baby were visiting friends and relatives her Sunday. "Rainbow" Bob Simmons and family of Waco were out to the Sing-Song and to furnish bread for the singers Sunday. R. D. Edmonds was a Gatesville visitor Monday.

Football

Oglesby's first game of football will be played this afternoon, Oglesby Bulldogs vs. South Bosque. Boost the battling Bulldogs.

Sing Song Sunday

It was great big affair. Too big to go into for personal mention for everybody, for we might forget a lot of names that ought to be mentioned. Anyway more than three hundred singers from six counties were present. And they brought song books and baskets of good eats. There was good old gospel singing the day long, to say nothing of the eating. People from McLennan, Bell, Bosque, Hamilton, Milam and of course Coryell counties. If the big Sing-Song was not a success we'd love to see a successful one. The committee for arrangements knew what to do to put the meeting over in the right way. We hope they will all come back and sing some more.

Walter Thompson was a Sunday visitor to Waco to see his brother Milton who has been sick for quite a long time.

TOPSEY H-D CLUB

The Topsey Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday, Sept. 28 at the home of Mrs. Terry with fifteen members and two visitors present. The visitors were Mrs. Nowlin and Mrs. Sid Harmon. The ladies embroidered names in friendship quilt blocks.

The business meeting was held and refreshments were served.

The club will meet at the home of Miss Eva Durham Wednesday October 11.

A German expedition is visiting Greenland to study plant and animal life and to make extensive geographical and meteorological investigations.

The mouth of the Congo river was discovered in 1482.

Lost six years after an attack of typhoid fever, the hearing of a banker of Simla, India, was recovered during a half-hour airplane trip at Delhi.

A legacy of $125 to each lay chairman and $25 to each choir-boy "who shall be present at both choral services at St. Andrews Church, Newcastle-on-Tyne, on the Sunday after my funeral" was left by Harold Oswald of Newcastle, England.

LOOKIN' OVER WORLD—itulate to Hitler's demands, because it was the only way of preventing a major war and of saving the lives of millions of men.

Europe now has peace, but will it last? If our impressions of Herr Hitler are correct his lust for more power will be only temporarily satisfied by his most recent conquest; his appetite for territorial expansion only temporarily appeased, and later even larger portions of European territory will be necessary to satisfy his growing greed.

WE'RE Now Selling MANSFIELD Tires!

TIRES FOR EVERY SERVICE

The extra mileage that Mansfield Tire users have received during the past twenty-five years has been responsible for the fact that the Company has grown steadily until it is now one of the six largest producers in the tire industry. Mansfield distributors dot the continent from coast to coast.

Mansfield Mudders

Designed and built to do just what their name implies — take you through the mud, slush, snow on any type of road, on their wide angled, heavy cleated treads.

Mansfield Cushion Balloons

Today's cars — built for small diameter wheels and low air-pressure — need special tires for high speed service. Mansfield Cushion Balloons bring out all the sparkling performance built into modern cars.

There's a Mansfield Tire built to give extra mileage and extra safety on any make car or truck you drive — on any kind of work, in any season of the year, over all kinds of roads. That's the reason we are stocking them, yes, and selling them to your friends and neighbors who already have had the opportunity to see the extra safety, economy and performance of Mansfield Tires.

THREE WAYS SAFER

Mansfield Tires are three ways safer because they are built three ways differently from other tires. For instance, Cord-Lock construction puts 31% more full weight cord fabric into the sidewalls, reinforcing the tire against flexing strains. The high tensile, steel piano wire beads are seven times as strong as actually needed. Mansfield treads are made of tougher Duro-mix rubber, today still more resistant to high speed wear and pavement "burn" from fast starts and quick stops. Every Mansfield Tire gives you more mileage than you pay for.
