"Cheesit, The Cops" Advice From City Hall

City Secretary Eiland Lovejoy released the following from his office Monday, and it is signed Chief of Police and City Council. Here's what it says:

"The City has entered into a program with the Safety Department of the State Highway Patrol and one day and night in Gatesville patrolling the streets checking cars and drivers, so take a friendly tip and be on the lookout as they are generous with their tickets. Check yourself on the following rules so that you will not be the guilty one—

- How is your driver's license?
- Do your headlights both burn?
- Does your tail light burn?
- Do you come to a complete stop on a red light or stop sign before making a right turn?
- Do you cut corners on a green light?
- Do you come out to the intersection on green light before making left turn?
- Do you speed up and run thru signal light while it is changing?
- Do you speed up and pass cars in the intersection?
- Do you signal to the driver behind you if you are going to stop or make a turn?
- Do you look for school children crossing the streets,—it is better to stop than to have an accident?
- Do you demand courteous driving from the other fellow, yet are discourteous yourself?
- Do not double park over ten minutes.
- There is no excuse for speeding and reckless driving.
- Your cooperation appreciated, Chief of Police and City Council."

U. S. D. C., B. of C. Gives Cotton Report

It took an alphabet to do it, but it's done! And the result, is the cotton report for Coryell county, by V. R. Lee, Commerce, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census, Washington, "Cotton Ginning Report."

And here it is: "Census report shows that 102 bales of cotton were ginned in Coryell County from the crop of 1940 prior to September first, as compared with 3,382 bales for the crop of 1939." This is the first report for the year, and it looks a bit discouraging, but, evidently, the crop is a bit late.

Kellam, State Youth Administrator for the National Youth Administration, has announced that provisions have been made for NYA personnel to spend one day a week in those counties where NYA officials are not located to counsel with unemployed young people, as well as to receive their applications for NYA employment.

Recent developments have caused the National Youth Administration to greatly increase in number boys assigned to the resident centers and shop projects.

J. Marion Dark, NYA Counselor, will be in Gatesville at County Courthouse on the first and third Tuesday of each month to advise with young men and women between the ages of 17 and 24 who are unemployed, out of school, and in need of the work experience and training being offered on NYA projects.

C. of C. Meets At 8:30 "A. M." Instead Of "P. M.", Friday

Somebody made a bust, and regardless of who it was, we're straightening it out.

The general meeting of the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce will be held Friday morning, 20th, in the City Hall at 8:30 a. m.

Just what is planned for the meeting is not exactly clear, but those endowed with the calling insist that all interested citizens of Gatesville be present at this meeting.

"It Can't Happen Here"; It Did, Four Times

Four times, during the last four years, we omitted a name, including, 1940.

This name was Miss Lois Grantham.

For the last four years, she has been a member of the Gatesville Public School faculty.

Now, it's "just one of those things". We were schoolmates—at least—we were in school the same time Miss Grantham was, and distinctly remember just how good a basket ball player she was.

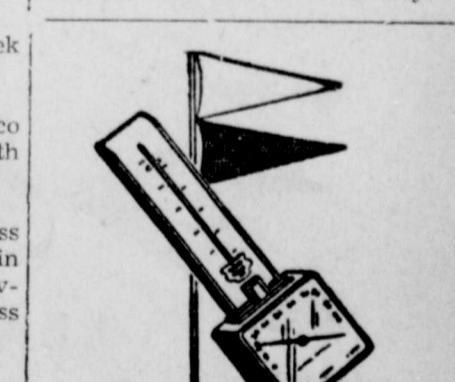

Therefore, until further notice, next time you see a list of teachers of the school, if Miss Grantham isn't there (and why should she be, after these four long years, you just put here there, because, well, the News must have left her name again. So it goes!

Now, we added flame to the fire, this year. We went one better.

We left out Miss Wilhelmina (Bill for short) Cayce's name. You might say, "misery loves company", and that's the flimsy excuse for this error.

It seems now, Miss Grantham could truly say about these columns, "It can't happen here".

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Blanchard of Denison and Mrs. Mae Arnold of Waco spent the past week end with Mr. and Mrs. V. V. Lively.

Football's here, but so far, there isn't anything but fundamentals being taught GHS footballers, but, that's plenty.

If they get the fundamentals that are being given them by Coach Pruitt they're going to surprise somebody before the final curtain is rung down on the 1940 season.

Already, some of the boys we'll just about tangle with have already played, and in some instances, they've been scouted by local scouts.

Valley Mills took on Cranfills Gap last week, and came out with the long end of the count, 21 to 6. Mart took on Hillsboro at Mart, or visa versa, and Mart dropped this one, at a close count.

Itasca, looks too good, taking

Hubbard 54 to 0. Probably the Hornet's first tussle will be with the Methodist Home, and it'll be a tussle. They closed out Goldthwaite 12 to 0.

Lookin' 'em over yesterday, we were informed that a tentative line up looks like this: Backs; Davis, Walker, Crow, Sexton. Linement, Anderson, Gribble, Carruth, Sydow, Odom, Bone and Journey.

Nobody in this line up, however, seems to have any cinch, and the "pretty part" of the practice hasn't started yet. There'll be lots to tell, later.

QUIET PLACE TO STUDY HELPS SCHOOL CHILDREN

Schools will be opening all over the county within the next few weeks. Your children will have to settle down and study. That's not too easy a task when Dad wants to hear a special war news broadcast, Mother wants to hear this week's installment of a particularly interesting drama or Big Brother must find out how today's baseball's games affect the major league's standings.

A child is easily distracted, and interesting or unusual sounds indoors or out, adult conversations, whistling radiators, and kitchen noises are almost certain to keep an active young mind from complete concentration.

The solution to this problem is a study room. Attic space can be made over for this purpose at low cost. Consult any of the contracting firms for information about prices and easy payments terms.

USLAST CHANCE TO BUILD BEFORE WINTER WEATHER

September is an important leaf on the calendar of any family considering a home of their own. In most cases, it is almost impossible to erect a home in which to live the following winter unless the work is started on it immediately.

Figure out approximately how much you can afford to spend on your home (authoritative economists have placed one week's income as normal for one month's lodging). Then choose a reliable builder or contractor.

Pay him a visit immediately. He can help you plan just the type of home you want and need. Thru his long term payment plans you are enabled to take as long as twenty years to pay for your home, and you pay for it just like rent!

You need only a small down payment. All other costs, including interest charges, are included in your monthly payments. Often those monthly payments are less than the rent you pay now.

But act now. Have your home started so that you can enjoy it throughout the winter. Prompt action means that you will be ready to live in a completely liveable home, designed to your own desires and all your own, before snow falls.

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

MEN because they are men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is all love and kindness for three weeks of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth.

And make up your mind men never will understand. There are certain things a woman has to put up with and be a good sport.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood into womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and go "smiling through." Over a million women have written in reporting benefit. Why not give this world-famous medicine a chance to help YOU?

LET'S KEEP IT UP!

On the front page of this newspaper is an item about the City starting another, we'll call it "Safety Drive", which it is.

Now we're all for it, We've run safety campaigns in these pages, ourselves.

These rules ARE necessary where there are PEOPLE. The more people, the more necessary.

The officer's job is not to "jump on you", he's just a "lineman" who's trying to keep YOU, and ME too, from getting "out of line". He's trying to fix it so YOU can get what you want to get done quicker and done without inconveniencing, the least amount, anyone else.

Too, there's the safety angle. Lots of things and people move in traffic, and traffic has to be "geared". If one "tooth" is out of line, the machine balks. You are that "tooth" and MUST stay in line.

Continuity, too, will help in this traffic matter. Just a scare (the fact that two highway patrolmen are to be here) won't get anything done. It's GOT o be continued, to get any benefits. If it isn't, we've wasted the patrolmen's time, the City Council's, the Chief of Police, in fact, everybody's.

Let's keep it up!

NAGGING BACKACHE

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action—Don't Neglect It!

Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, whiplash, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after effects are disturbing to the kidneys and oftentimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.
After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful waste, there is poisoning of the whole system.

Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

SHOPPING FOR CHILDREN'S BACK-TO-SCHOOL NEEDS IS FUN IF YOU KNOW HOW!
TRY THIS EASY WAY!

BACK TO SCHOOL

Someone should devise a system where Mary, who is in third grade, would go to school now and John, who is in fifth grade, would go two weeks later. Then shopping to get them ready for school would be a pleasure! You mothers could take your time, save your tempers and find real "buys!"

But since no one will devise such a system we've done the next best thing and prepared this supplement for you. Read all its pages! It tells you WHAT your children need for school, WHERE you can buy it and HOW much it costs. It makes shopping quick, easy and FUN! Save it. . . use it!

A WALTER WANGER production • Directed by JOHN FORD

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

The stagecoach from Tonto,
Ariz., to Lordsburg, N. M., rolls along on its journey despite the fact that Apache chief Geronimo is engaged in one of his wars against the frontier whites that made him a constant menace
during the Eighteen-Eighties. Among the stagecoach passengers are Dallas, a dance hall girl; Mrs. Mallory, an officer's wife who has just become a mother; drunken old Doc Boone;
Hatfield, a gambler; Peacock,
a whiskey drummer, and Ringo,
a personable young fugitive from jail who has been picked up by U. S. Marshal Curly Wilcox, the coach's guard. After an overnight stop at Apache Wells the passengers see the Apache's smoke signals, presag-ing an attack, and began a mad
dash for the safety of Lordsburg.

floor, and the baby howled in lusty
protest against it all.

Then a shot crashed into Buck's arm and sent the reins flying from his right hand. The lead horses were running free—in danger of running off the road and smashing
the coach against rocks or trees
at any moment.

While Curly frantically pumped bullets at the surrounding Apaches, Ringo crawled to the front, leaped down astride one of the rear horses, and worked his way forward, leaping to the back of one of the second pair of horses and then on to one of the leaders.
Crouching low on its back, he guided it by its bridle with one hand, while he still clutched his rifle with the other.

Again an Apache bullet found its mark—and this time Hatfield dropped his pistol and crumpled up in his seat, never to move again. And now, as the ammunition of the beleaguered whites
was running pitifully low, the savages began closing in on all sides.

Lucy Mallory suddenly sat bolt upright on the floor of the coach and leaned toward the window.
"Listen—do you hear it? Do you hear it?" she cried frantically.
"It's the bugle—they're blowing
the charge!"

Now it came again, faintly but unmistakably—the stirring sound

Chapter Six

Curly's rifle was already booming from the top of the coach,
aimed at the dim figures on horseback that were now scrambling down the canyon walls and heading toward the coach. And if Buck had made his horses gallop

The Apaches were closing in.

before, he fairly made them fly
now. As the coach bumped and careened crazily along, Doc Boone yanked the arrow out of Pea-cock's shoulder and made a tourniquet of handkerchiefs commandeered from Hatfield and Gatewood.

Another arrow sped into the coach and impaled itself in the wall just above Hatfield's head.

"Get down, Mrs. Mallory—way down!" he yelled. "Keep her down, Dallas." Looking back toward the canyon, he could see the Apaches on their ponies drawing nearer, some of them armed with bows and arrows, some with rifles,
some with lances and buffalo hide shields. Hatfield drew his revolver, fired through the window, and saw an Apache brave tumble from his horse. Gatewood, stopping to bark an angry plea for more speed at Buck, followed suit. And Boone, having completed his surgical duties, drew an old Civil War horse
pistol as big as a young cannon,
and began blazing away through
the other window.

But Ringo, squatting on the floor of the stage, was unarmed, for Curly had cached his rifle in the boot up by the driver's box. After taking a quick inventory of his chances, Ringo, clinging to the coach window, swung himself perilously up to the roof, found his rifle, and lay prone near Curly, firing with deadly effect at the oncoming Indians.

The stage horses, running their hearts out, sped on wildly
along the road, scarcely more than a trail. The fleet Apache ponies continued to gain on them. Now they were drawing alongside on both sides of the coach, shooting their bows and arrows and their rusty old rifles.
Shots splintered the paneled sides
of the coach, arrows whizzed
through the windows; now and again an Apache would come riding in close, taking deliberate aim for a kill; but each time the quick marksmanship of Curly or Buck
on top, or of Hatfield, Gatewood or Boone with their pistols, would send the savage flying from his horse.

"Got ya, Johnny Reb!" whooped Boone gleefully each time he brought down an Indian. Hatfield kept firing gamely, while the coach
filled with powder smoke, Dallas and Lucy crouched low on the

of the charge blown at the full gallop. All the stagecoach passengers, heedless of the danger,
craned their necks in the direction of Lordsburg—and far off, but growing rapidly nearer, they beheld a troop of cavalry riding like mad to their aid.

"Glory! Glory!" yelled Doc Boone, banging away with his horse pistol. And a few minutes later the Apaches were streaking back toward their canyon.

It was late evening when the stagecoach trotted leisurely into Lordsburg and pulled up before the main hotel. Mrs. Mallory was carried out of the coach and taken to her husband, whose wound, it turned out, was not so serious as had at first been thought. Mr.
Gatewood descended from the coach and into the waiting arms of the sheriff who had a warrant for his arrest for embezzling the funds of his Tonto bank. Mr. Peacock, treated for his wound by Doc Boone with his own samples, reeled
merrily out of the conveyance;
and Buck went to seek treatment
for his wounded arm.

But Ringo still had important work to do—and no amount of tearful pleading by Dallas could deter him from doing it. Bidding her wait for him, he took his rifle and set out to find the three Plummer boys.

In their favorite saloon the Plummers received word that Ringo was coming toward them;
and after a couple of drinks to fortify themselves, they set out,
three abreast, to meet him. Ringo, rounding the corner of a dark street, found himself facing the murderers of his father and brother,
with some fifty yards separating them. His gun banged twice while he dove for the ground.
Then several more shots crashed
through the lonely frontier night;
shots that made the waiting Dallas, convinced that she would never see her sweetheart alive again,
feel as if her heart was turning to ice within her.

But he did come back—silent
but with arms outstretched to take her and hold her close to him. And then Curly came driving up in a buckboard, and commanded them to get in—to make for the Mexican border, free to begin their new life together!

BRACKETED

MR. WILLKIE'S CAMPAIGN

On Monday Wendell L. Willkie launches his first speaking tour through the Middle West and to the Pacific Coast. Presumably, he will make several major addresses which will elaborate upon the outline of his views presented in the Elwood acceptance speech on August 17.

The reaction to Mr. Willkie's first tour and to the subsequent ones slated for October will provide the best indication of the national trend in the presidential race, much better, in fact, than can now be obtained from the Gallup polls.

From the Gallup figures and by the admissions of astute political leaders and observers, we know that the Republican candidate is less formidably today than he was two months ago or even six weeks ago. His support has been waning, slowly but perceptibly.

Whether this is indicative of a trend which will continue until November, or whether the vibrant personality of Mr. Willkie can reverse it, we shall not know conclusively until November 5.

But this fact does constitute a problem for the GOP high command. It is surprising that Mr. Willkie's advisers did not during August recognize the effect which his self-imposed silence would have upon the campaign. Mayhap it is true that the Indianan is running his campaign in his own way and that his managers and advisers could not, rather than would not, reverse this policy.

Mr. Willkie's popularity is attributable to a number of circumstances, but one of these is not silence. During the Philadelphia convention he visited practically every state delegation, learned the names of the delegates and of their bosses, whom he has since ignored.

If Mr. Willkie is working upon the assumption that he can win the campaign by speaking alone, however, he is working upon one of the fundamental fallacies of politics. Certainly the public reaction which greets his appearances during the remainder of September and during October will swing thousands of votes either to the GOP banner or to Mr. Roosevelt.

But in 1928 Alfred E. Smith spoke to more people than any other presidential candidate with the possible exception of Bryan, and Smith was defeated.

To win, Mr. Willkie must have the enthusiastic support of the Republican organization, from the most potent member of Congress to the lowest ward-heeler. I purposely emphasize the word "enthusiastic" for the attitude which many staunch Republicans have adopted toward their candidate closely resembles the opinion of Mr. Roosevelt shared by many of the Democratic regulars.

The independent and Democratic clubs organized in behalf of Mr. Willkie undoubtedly will corral many thousands of votes. But the sum total of the votes which these groups will deliver will be minuscule compared to the potential Republican vote which can be delivered if the politicians go to work.

That is the problem which Mr. Willkie confronts at the beginning of his speaking tour. It is a problem of his own making. He has consistently snubbed and disregarded the advice of the astute politicians of his party, the individuals who delivered 17,000,000 votes to the weakest Republican candidate in the history of that venerable party.

In 1932 and in 1930 Mr. Roosevelt welcomed the support of independents, progressives and independent Republicans. However, he relied upon the regular Democratic machine, greased and oiled by audacious Jim Farley, to insure his election.

If Mr. Willkie works upon the premise that Oren Root, Russell Davenport and a few other amateurs can put him in the presidency, he will find in early November that he is another has-run. Joe Martin is one member of the Republican Party who knows politics from A to Z and back again. If given a free hand and the proper backing by his candidate, Mr. Martin can set in motion machinery that will make of Mr. Willkie the most formidable candidate that party has presented since Theodore Roosevelt.

Mr. Willkie must choose his strategy and his men.

Those who were on the sick list are now on the convalescent list, except Mr. W. C. Coward. He is not any better at this writing.

Those who visited in the W. C. Coward home this week were, Mr.

Yongue and daughter of Gatesville, Mr. Paul Russell of Stephenville, Dock Rogers of Levita, Mrs. Allie Miss Wanda Coward of Ft. Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Choat.

Mrs. Addie Mae Vannoy and daughter, Olene, of Arnett, also Mrs. Bill Taylor of Gatesville were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Herring Tuesday.

Mrs. Otha Moreland, Mrs. Myrtle Baker and Mrs. Roscoe Coward were visitors in the Jim Herring home Wednesday.

Miss Wanda Coward of Fort Worth visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Coward, from Friday until Sunday afternoon. Wanda visited her friend, Miss Ruth Pruitt, Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Webb Choat are very busy gathering corn now. They say the year get two loads if it isn't too cold, one in the morning and another in the afternoon, if it isn't too hot.

On account of the cool weather we have recently had Mrs. Sallie Murrell says she needs to bring in fire wood.

Miss Mildred McDonald is attending JTAC at Stephenville and is well pleased with the school, also her roommate.

Misses Pearl and Ruby Rivers visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whisenhunt Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Little visited relatives at Stephenville last week, and Mrs. Little's mother accompanied them home.

velvets, are the pompadours, and pillboxes in the season's newest colors. In the felts can be seen the forever-smart snap brims and the sailors. Of all the new styles and colors in hats featured this fall, every young lady and young girl is assured a perfect fit suitable to her personality.

Three-piece wardrobe suits, original Hollywood creations by Just-most clever things in costume jewelry is the one made of vari-colored safety pins, which really open, and are attached to a double celluloid chain. Another necklace with its wooden leaves and acorns, attached to a leather strand, is attractive, and can be purchased in the pin style in the same motif. Other necklaces come in the cameo style, pearls, and glass bubbles. Rhinestone clips and bracelets, which highlight evening dresses, are shown in this department also.

The Debutante, a society fabric, of du pont spun rayon and wool, is the new material being shown at PAINTER'S. It is 54 inches wide and comes in solid colors figured in stripe and plaid designs, in colors of soldier blue, dusty rose, teal, wine and green. In the washables are the fabrics containing Crown

Spun rayon, and they're tested. These are in plaids and solids; the plaids look like woollens at a distance, and make lovely wash dresses.

In the Miss Virginia frocks, shown exclusively at JOE HANNA'S are the new suits of the light-weight covert cloth. The full-length coat can be worn with or without the matching dress. It is fitted with the large patch pockets and the dress is shirt waist with a bias tucked front; both have leather buttons. These suits come in Indian earth and tan. Besides the suits one can find adorable dresses at this store by the same stylist.
