YOU CAN'T SEE IT ALL HERE: THREE OTHER PAGES

In this issue of the News, you'll only see one page, the front page, of Painter's Parade of Values which opens this very ayem at that popular store.

Three more pages, along with this one, make up the tabloid size circular which you no doubt have either in your mail box or your home now.

This Parade of Values lasts for eight days, and as always with Painter's, when they say it's a special event at Painter's it's just that little thing, a special event. This time, it's their Parade of Values, and that's what you'll find. Better go see!

Chamber of C. Out for Abilene Bus Line

Among the many things your Chamber of Commerce works on which benefits everyone in Coryell County includes working on more efficient transportation systems for the county.

Only Wednesday, members of the highway committee made a trip to Cisco in an effort to get a bus route from Abilene via Hamilton, Comanche, etc. The hearing was before the Railroad Commission.

Other efforts being made by the body are: 1. To get a second coat of surfacing upon Highway 84. 2. To have the biggest and best Christmas parade that we have ever had, and this will be held December 6.

3. To have a Christmas light or decoration in every home in Gatesville, and enough Christmas cheer to make Gatesville 100 per cent Christmasey.

4. The Goodwill committee is forming a welcoming committee which will greet all newcomers and in some way, introduce them to the various businesses and services to be had in Gatesville.

5. To secure another State Park for Coryell county, and now the Texas State Parks Board is now investigating a site in the southern part of the county.

6. To help cure the industrial and agricultural ills of Gatesville and Coryell county with the idea of Gatesville helping the Rural sections and the rural sections helping Gatesville, all working together for a better Coryell County.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. B. W. WEST HELD WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Ben W. West, 49, who died Monday night, were held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the Methodist Church, conducted by the Rev. S. L. Culwell. Burial was made in the City Cemetery, Scott's in charge.

Mrs. West died instantly when the truck she was driving overturned about four miles from McGregor, pinning her beneath the machine. She was accompanied by her brother, A. B. Gage, who suffered minor cuts about the hands and face.

Miss Inez Gage was born at Coryell City and spent most of her life in Coryell County. She was married to Ben W. West at the Austin Avenue Methodist Church in Waco December 14, 1915. A short time later she moved with her husband to Gatesville, where she had lived for the past 25 years.

She was converted and joined the Methodist Church at Coryell City when a small child, and for a long period she was an active member of the local church. She was a lover of music and took a special interest in the Methodist choir for many years until illness in the family prevented her attending. Her husband preceded her in death about one year.

Mrs. West was a devoted wife, a tender loving, understanding mother. She loved the beautiful and finer things in life. For many years she gave herself cheerfully caring for members of the family who were in ill health, and patiently cared for her invalid husband in his last year with the tenderness and devotion of a true companion.

Surviving are: her mother, Mrs. G. W. S. Gage, of Gatesville; one daughter, Mrs. Jacqueline Chapman of Carlsbad, New Mexico; four sisters, Mrs. R. E. West Sr., of Gatesville, Mrs. Ray Pinson of Marysville, California, Mrs. Allen Weaver, and Mrs. David Sakuth both of Los Angeles, California, six brothers, A. B. Gage of Waco, Austin Gage of Sherman, W. W. Gage of Corsicana, George Gage of Jacksonville, Arthur Gage of Marysville, California, and Herbert Gage of Rusk.

OGLESBY TIGERS MEET COPPERAS COVE AT OGLESBY; FEATURE GAME OF YEAR

Baylor Guard

Lewis Self, Baylor's sophomore guard, will get his first big chance next Saturday when the Bears entertain the mighty Texas A. and M. Aggies in the week's outstanding Conference battle in Waco. The Dublin griddler played a great defensive game against Villanova last week and the Baylor coaches have moved him into the starting lineup. Self was in the Wildcat backfield all night and stopped every offensive threat the Pennsylvanians threw at him.

The two women were designated after the agricultural department in Washington requested the Texas extension service to send two home demonstration agents on the mission.

States in which they will work will include Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Wyoming, Idaho, Nevada, Montana, Utah, Washington, Oregon and California.

Texas home demonstration agents were first to start projects of making mattresses from the country's surplus cotton. Now plans are being made to start such mattress making campaigns all over the nation.

The feature six-man contest of the season will be unreeled on the Oglesby gridiron Friday afternoon of this week when the camp of the Oglesby Tigers will be invaded by the strong Copperas Cove aggregation. Both teams, along with the Flat Yellowjackets, are standing at the top of the percentage column and one or the other is due for a tumble Friday.

In McKelvain, Terry and Griffin, the Tigers have one of the best scoring combinations in the league, as they have weight, speed, and energy to burn. Copperas Cove will depend upon Fabian and Miller, assisted by Adams to carry the mail for the Cove lads, and a victory on either side would not be surprising.

The Copperas Cove school and community, as a whole, are active supporters of the Copperas Cove football team and are expected to follow them to Oglesby for the game Friday. Oglesby is another community that is becoming football conscious and with a winning team in their midsts, the Tigers are not likely to want for active support from the Oglesby section. Pep squads from both sections will be present for the game.

If you live in Coryell county and have never seen two real six-man teams in action, you can't go wrong by going to Oglesby Friday afternoon.

The caucasus, now in Russia, was a place of myth to the ancient Greeks. They believed it the spot where Prometheus met his torture and the region where the Argonauts sought the golden fleece.

PEARL DRAGONS TO CLASH WITH FLAT YELLOWJACKETS AT FLAT, FRIDAY

The Flat Yellowjackets, still riding high as one of undefeated six-man teams in the Coryell County League, will play hosts to Coach Peck Tharp's Pearl Dragons on their home field Friday afternoon of this week.

The Dragons thus far this season have had trouble with most of their opponents and have only annexed one victory out of three starts, while the Jackets are still undefeated. Both teams report slight injuries to one or more regulars but hope to be in top shape for Friday's game.

Mosley and Fetner, holdovers from last year's Dragon squad are expected to deal the Jackets the most misery and with a little co-operation from their mates they are likely to make the Jackets hustle a little harder than usual if are to maintain their position among the ranks of the undefeated. Taylor, Love and Williams are forming the Jackets touchdown combination this season and judgment from past performances they'll be hard to stop.

According to information received from Flat, plans are being made to make this game one of the feature attractions of the year and one of the largest crowds ever to witness a six-man contest in that vicinity is expected. A public address system will probably be installed and those present will receive a play-by-play description of the game.

Ireland-Pottsville Scheduled to Play At Ireland Friday

The Ireland half dozen that came close to upsetting the Flat Yellowjackets last Friday, are due to run into trouble on their own gridiron this week when they meet the classy Pottsville crew. Pottsville ranks fourth in the six-man race and have pushed across some very decisive victories over some of the weaker teams in the county, while according to our records, Ireland has no actual conference wins to their credit.

These team, located comparatively close to each other, are due to be real rivals in the future and are sure to be strongly supported by their respective communities in Friday's game.

Betrothal of Miss Franks Announced

Miss Leah Dale Franks' engagement and approaching marriage to Joe Ricketts was announced Friday evening at a 6 o'clock dinner given in her honor by her mother, Mrs. Edgar Franks, in their home on College street.

A pink and white color scheme prevailed in all decorations and other appointments. The lace-laid dining table was centered with a bouquet of beautiful roses, and at either end white tapers burned in crystal candelabra. The silver tea service was placed at the back of the centerpiece. On the buffet was an arrangement of roses and queen's wreath, and vases of roses centered each of the tables.

Serving were Mrs. Johnnie Bradford and Mrs. E. W. Jones Jr., sisters of the bride-elect, and Misses Lois Coleman, Ann Jacobs, and Dorothea Frazier. The menu consisted of fruit juice, creamed chicken in pastry shells, congealed cranberry salad, hot rolls, olives, asparagus green beans, hot tea, and individual pecan pies.

Announcement of the wedding was made on miniature extra editions of The Gatesville Messenger, for which Miss Franks is Society Editor. On the inside were printed these words "Leah Dale and Joe, November 10". These were placed on each plate.

After the dinner, the guests registered in the Bride's Book.

Attractive cards marked the places for the following: Misses Winifred Byrom, Mamie Sue Halbrook, Fay Byrom, Ruth Ricketts, Dorothy Culberson, Frankie Mae Blair, and Mesdames Q. A. McCarver, Louis Neuman, Charles Powell and Kirby Perryman of Lubbock, and the honoree.

ORGANIZATION OF CAMP FIRE GIRLS COMPLETED; ALL-DAY HIKE ENJOYED

Talahi Camp Fire group met in the auditorium of the Gatesville Elementary School on Thursday of last week to complete organization. The following officers were elected to serve during the winter: Dorothy Jo Hodson, president; Dorothy Lee Hord, vice-president; Janet Sadler, secretary; Harvie Jean Hamilton, treasurer; Ernestine Bauman, scribe.

After the election the girls began their work toward the rank of Trail Seeker by starting personal notebooks. The song, "Mammy Moon", was taught the group by the guardian.

Plans were discussed for an outdoor meeting and a Hallowe'en party in the near future.

The entire membership was present. The group was happy to welcome Betty Pat Sherwood as a new member.

The Talahi Camp Fire girls enjoyed an all-day nature hike to Cox's Spring last week through the courtesy of the E. C. Bauman Truck Lines. Camp craft honors in fire-building and out-door cooking were earned, as well as fulfilling one of the requirements for the rank of the Trail Seeker.

At Sundown a brief meeting was held at which the guardian heard reports of interesting things in nature seen by the group during the day. Songs were sung, including a new cheer.

The group made plans to sell tickets for the book review of "Mr. Skeffington", to be reviewed by Mrs. W. A. Appell of Waco, in the district courtroom on October 24 at 7:30. The Business and Professional Women's Club, which is sponsoring the review, also sponsors the Camp Fire Girls.

All members of the Talahi Camp were present except Betty Pat Sherwood.

NORTH WEST MOUNTED POLICE

SERIALIZED BY JAY LANCER FROM

 TECHNICOLOR PARAMOUNT PICTURE CO. STARRING

GARY COOPER · MADELEINE CARROLL

CHAPTER I

SERGEANT JAMES BRET and Constable Ronald Logan rode down the mean main street of Batoche as only members of the Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police should ride down a street. Their horses carefully groomed, their uniforms and weapons immaculate; on their heads the fur busbies were at a stiff, jaunty, military angle and their backs, within their brilliant scarlet tunics, were stiff as ramrods.

They looked neither to the right nor to the left, but they missed nothing. They could afford to miss nothing, for tension lay over Batoche, tension caused by ominous trouble that growled and muttered throughout the Northwest and which threatened the Mounties, threatened the entire white population of northwestern Canada.

Even now, as they rode, the streets were filled with milling had no need to know the whites, for as yet the whites had not come. So for two centuries they had prospered, living easy, untamed lives in their vast country, but inevitably the whites pushed westward and with the whites came things the Metis did not understand: the white man's law and his ways of government and ethics. They resented the white encroachment on their trapping preserves; they resented the openhanded generosity accorded the Indians, while they—neither white nor Indian—received nothing.

Hence, fifteen years before that day Jim Bret and Ronnie Logan rode down the Batoche street, they had rebelled. It had been abortive and Louis Riel, their leader—strange man, an idealist sprung from a half-savage race—had fled south into exile in the United States. But now, the Mounties heard, Louis Riel was on his way back to Batoche, capital of the Metis. With him was Corbeau, Jacques Corbeau, murderer and whisky runner, who also was Louvette, the halfbreed girl Wild as any forest animal, she was, and lovely as a running doe. Fierce blue eyes, heritage from some French ancestor, looked out from her dark face and up at the young Mountie with admiration. For his part, Ronnie Logan looked down with tenderness and passion, but he said from the side of his mouth, hoping that Jim would not notice: "Not now. Tonight. Fort Carlton." Her eyes gleamed at his promise; she grinned implicitly and disappeared in the crowds. But Jim Bret said:

"I told you to leave that klootch alone. She's poison!"

"But Jim, I—"

Ronnie did not finish. Jim Bret was staring at the figure of a halfbreed who stood on the porch of the trading post, arms akimbo, watching them approach. He watched with defiance and purpose, a picturesque figure, shaggy of head, keen of eye, his sturdy body clad in fringed buckskins. In his hand he held a sheaf of papers.

This was Dan Duroc, the great halfbreed trapper.

"The old wolf," muttered Jim, admiring in spite of himself. Then to Ronnie: "Go to the hospital and see your sister." He smiled, because he knew Ronnie Logan was smiling. Jim Bret was very much in love with April Logan.

"Wait for me there." Ronnie rode off, as Jim urged his horse steadily to the trading post. He stopped there, looked down at Dan Duroc.

"Hello, Dan," he said. Their eyes held.

"Hello, Jim," said Duroc. "I got somethings for you." He handed the Mounted Sergeant the sheaf of papers. "They our demand, what halfbreed want government to do. We give you twenty-four hour."

"What then?" "Then, if you don't do like we want, we fight. The Metis, the Indians."

"The Indians won't follow Riel." "They follow—" Duroc's eyes blazed—"Corbeau, no?"

Jim's eyes hardened. "You're a great old wolf, Dan; Corbeau's a killer. I'd hate to see you hang with a coyote."

"Twenty-four hour!" snarled Duroc. "We get answer?" "You'll get it," said Jim dryly, "if the wires stay up."

"Dey stay up—" Duroc grinned—"twenty-four hour!"

Jim turned his horse, his graven face betraying none of the uneasiness that pervaded him. This, then, was the ultimatum they had dreaded. What now? What if no answer came?

He rode toward the hospital, but as if his uneasiness were telepathic, as if the crowd sensed the dramatics of the moment, they surged around him. The numbers grew, muttering ominously, until his horse could no longer make headway and one of them grabbed the bridle.

"Take your hand off that bridle!" snapped Jim.

The breed complied, but raised his rifle, pointed it at the Sergeant.

crowds—mobs, almost—of the halfbreeds, the famous Metis. And the halfbreeds bore rifles, many of them new, bore revolvers and knives. They looked at the two Mounties with sullen hatred. Ronnie, the younger, stirred uneasily, his hand hovering near his revolver.

"Steady," said Jim Bret. "Keep your eyes open and your holster closed."

Well might they be steady. If the tension broke violently, Canada would be plunged into civil war!

He pondered that. The reasons for it were to be found only by going back to the beginning of white penetration into the North American continent. The French, then, had come to Canada, had spread out over its vast wilderness, seeking its untapped wealth. Hardy, shrewd, they had, although not numerous, established their influence over the Northwest, intermarrying freely with the Indian tribes, and from this union had sprung a new race, the halfbreeds, or Metis, who, growing in numbers, had established their control in the Northwest. Knowing the Indians thoroughly because of their own Indian blood, they had been able to control the Indians; they had been a fugitive for fifteen years. Dan Duroc, the famous Metis trapper, had gone into Montana to fetch them and they formed a dangerous combination. For the Metis would follow Riel and as for Corbeau, his influence among the Indians was notorious. If Corbeau succeeded, ten thousand Cree and Blackfeet braves would rise and ravage Canada with fire and knife and rope, and blood would run freely in the northern valleys. And to oppose them, if it came to that, there were in all that vast Northwest only fifty Mounties!

Steady, then, they must be, steady and vigilant. Even now, some miles to the south, Constables Fenton and Grove watched the high road from the United States; here in Batoche, Jim Bret and Ronnie Logan had ridden in from Fort Carlton—the Mountie post twenty miles to the east—to look over the situation.

The crowd watched them with beady, furtive eyes, two against many, yet the crowd parted to let them pass. Those red coats were symbols of the might and majesty of the British Empire.

Ronnie, riding stiffly, felt a tug at his stirrup. He looked down. It

"SQUADS, EAST, MARCH!" "PULL IN THAT FOOTLOCKER!" — STILL THEY GO BY

Yes, that's what many of these boys and men—they're all over 21—will no doubt be hearing before long. They are the "numbers" boys in this "government" lottery (of all things).

At each large paragraph, we are now giving the first number, which is the first man's. There are 24 names in each paragraph, so you can figure your number out. It would take 10 pages to present all the numbers, and they are not at all necessary.

'CONSCRIPT' DOCTORS
National Guardsmen and the new draft army are going to have plenty of medical and dental service. Army plans call for a corps of 12,000 doctors and 2,287 dentists by July 1, 1941, who will be summoned from the Medical and Dental Reserve as the expansion of the army progresses.

At present the army has 1,196 physicians on active duty and expects to add another 2,700 from the mobilized National Guard. The remaining 8,400 will be secured from the Reserve Corps, the draft and volunteers. Dental vacancies will be filled the same way.

The 7,000 nurses needed for the Nursing Corps will be obtained chiefly through Red Cross registers. The nurses have warrant officer status and receive $80 a month, plus board, room and laundry. They cannot marry while in the service.

Animal medicine also will not be neglected, with 1,143 veterinarians to be added to horse-drawn units.

The army is strict about its medical and dental qualifications accepting only graduates of Class A colleges. Under a bill introduced by Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, the army would be required to give commissions to graduates of Class B schools, but this is being opposed vigorously.

There are only two such schools in the U. S.: The Middlesex college at Middlesex, Mass., and the Chicago Medical school. Their graduates can practice only in Massachusetts and Illinois and the army refuses to admit them as physicians. It applies the same rule to chiropractors, osteopaths, naturopaths, neuropaths, and podiatrists.

The over-all medical ratio of the army is: For every 20,000 men a 1,000-bed hospital; with each 1,000-bed unit manned by 73 doctors, 120 nurses and 500 non-commissioned officers.

BALKAN MESS

Diplomatic dispatches from the Balkans indicate that Russia is not having a very good time in her dealings with the Axis.

The Russians are worried over the troops rushed by Hitler and Mussolini across her southern border in Rumania. The Axis has taken over the Rumanian military system completely and even plans to conscript Rumanian troops.

This came as a surprise to Moscow, which asked Berlin about it. This was the answer:

1. Nazi troops are needed in Rumania, first to protect the oil fields, since oil is all-important to Germany.

2. Italian and German troops may want to invade Turkey later in the year, and they want 80,000 men who could be rushed immediately from Rumania to Istanbul and the Straits.

The Nazis also explained that they were not taking any chances with Stalin's troops, because after Hitler had agreed to Russia having Besarabia, Russia also seized Bukovina without even consulting anyone. Therefore, the Germans say they will station their own troops near the Russian boundary to see that this does not happen again.

The Nazis also explained that the Bulgarian and Hungarian armies still were itching for more territory, so Nazi troops have come in to protect the sovereignty of these small Balkan countries.

ARMY UNIFORMS

Young men who want to be officers in the new army are finding that the greatest obstacle is the cost of getting dressed. The army does not provide uniforms for its officers, and the cost at a tailor shop is enough to send them back home as conscientious objectors.

For an officer called in from Reserve, here is the list of minimum requirements. It does not include the "special evening dress," which would add another $105 to the total.

Olive drab blouse (coat) with "pink" slacks	$ 60.00
Overcoat	58.00
Garrison cap	8.50
Campaign cap	3.00
Sam Browne belt	10.50
Puttees	10.50
Field boots	18.50
Six shirts at $3.00	18.00
Breeches	25.00

Total$212.00
This does not include a $16 saber, which has now been made optional. And it includes only one suit of blouse-and-slacks, whereas three or four actually are required.

The Quartermaster corps of the army estimates that $250 would be required to purchase a "modest outlay" for a young officer.

RATS AND WAR

Rats in America are getting a break as a result of the war in Europe. For the war has interfered with shipment of red squill from the Mediterranean area, and red squill is the most effective rat poison ever discovered.

It is a bulb, like an onion. You buy it in powdered or liquid form, and mix it with raw meat. Rats go for it, but they only go once. Department of agriculture recommends red squill, but supplies are being interrupted by war.

4 CORNERS CLUB

Mrs. York Stacy was hostess to the 4 Corners Club last Thursday afternoon. After a short business meeting, the afternoon was turned over to our demonstrator, Miss Gibson, who demonstrated how to cook and serve the club with jellied meat loaf, pear relish and fried peaches in butter. She also gave us a short lecture on the different cuts of meat and how to cook ham the quickest way.

At a late hour Mrs. Stacy served a delicious plate lunch to 7 members, Miss Gibson and 5 visitors. The club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Bob Latimer October 31.—Reporter, Mrs. J. L. Bland.

But It's True

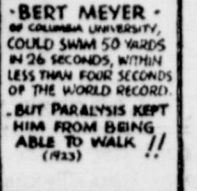

WHEN A GLACIER FORTHED ONE WALL OF A MOUNTAIN—AFTER THE EROSION OF MOUNT KATMAI, ALASKA IN 1912, A GLACIER BLOWN IN HALF FORTHED ONE WALL FOR SEVERAL YEARS BEFORE HEALING

THE WOMAN WHO WATCHED A MAN EXECUTED FOR KILLING HER !!!

ON MARCH 8, 1911, IN LONDON, THOMAS THOMAS WAS PUT TO DEATH FOR BUTCHERING JANE HUNT, AND THROWING HER BODY IN THE THAMES. JANE HAD NOT BEEN KILLED. SHE HAD STAGED THE "MURDER," LEAVING BLOOD-SPIRITIZED CLOTHES ON THE BANK. AFTER WATCHING HER HUSBAND'S HEAD PUT TO DEATH, SHE THREW HERSELF ON HIS BODY. SHE WAS ARRESTED AT ONCE AND PUT TO DEATH FOR THE KILLING OF THOMAS THOMAS.

BERT MEYER - OF COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY, COULD SWIM 50 YARDS IN 26 SECONDS, WITHIN LESS THAN FOUR SECONDS OF THE WORLD RECORD. BUT PARALYSIS KEPT HIM FROM BEING ABLE TO WALK !! (1933)

Mr. Thomas, 55, married and the father of six children, got to thinking that Jane was pretty nice. He told her he was going to leave his wife and marry her. But he changed his mind and that aroused Miss Kent's wrath. She decided to kill him. Later she changed her mind, framed things so it looked as if she had been put to death. After witnessing Thomas' death, however, she felt sorry. And so, all in all, she set the stage for one of the world's most peculiar crimes.

NATURE OF THE CAMPAIGN

To date this campaign has been blessedly devoid of scurrilous personal abuse, whispering tactics and similar techniques designed to inflame the partisans of either camp. Until the present, at least, Mr. Roosevelt has maintained his outward appearance of calm confidence in the outcome of the election and has devoted himself to the affairs of state and "non-political" defense tours.

To his eternal credit, Mr. Willkie has concentrated his attack against the new deal upon its basic program and policies. Patently, Mr. Willkie's supporters are far more partisan and vitriolic than he in the broadsides launched against the President, his advisors and the record of his two administrations.

In the interim between this writing and the election on November 5, tactics may be resorted to by either or both sides that will create a dangerous schism among the peoples at a time when national unity on fundamentals is imperative.

If the direction of the two campaigns were solely in the hands of the two candidates, this would not happen, we may rest assured. Probably Mr. Roosevelt would not have countenanced the shameful statement released by Democratic National Headquarters charging lack of patriotism to the Willkie family. This, indeed, probably will be recorded as the most shameful incident of the entire campaign.

The burdens of the presidential office, for Mr. Roosevelt and the intensive speaking tour in which Mr. Willkie is engaged, render it impossible for either of them personally to direct campaign strategy. From this fact may ensue rough and tumble tactics characteristic of the 1928, 1932, and 1936 campaigns.

More important than the election of Mr. Willkie or of Mr. Roosevelt is the temper of the American people after this election. Neither of these gentlemen alone can preserve the integrity and institutions of the United States or destroy them without the collaboration of a majority of the American people.

If our national defense policy is to be successfully executed with a minimum of delay and with maximum results, if a sane, pro-American foreign policy is to be adopted and executed, if our internal economy is to be geared to our defense efforts in such a way as to preserve our capitalistic economy, the people of this republic must unite behind the November victor.

Never before in the history of the United States, with the exception of the Revolutionary War period and the administration of President Washington, has there been a greater need for national unity. If Mr. Roosevelt wins this election, it is essential that he placate the conservative Democrats and win the co-operation of the Republican minority. These two groups must reciprocate with a spirit of patriotic collaboration.

If Mr. Willkie wins, he must obtain the support of the President and of his administrative officials in the interim between his election and the time when his own appointees will be sufficiently acquainted with the duties of office to execute them competently.

No single man is capable of shouldering alone the burden of the presidency during the next 4 years. He must have the united support of the people on basic, essential issues such as national defense and foreign policy and on such domestic issues as are related to the defense and foreign programs.

Once again in our history the Washingtonian principle of non-partisanship in government must be adopted after the people have spoken in November.

The tenor of this campaign, as decided by the candidates themselves and by their lieutenants, will determine whether this can be done.

CLOSES

Sunday Night DON'T MISS IT!

The final days of the fair will be gayer, livelier and more daring—if you haven't attended, make plans to do so right now—if you have attended, come back for these final hilarious nights.

There's Fun Galore

The brilliantly lighted midway offers thrills, entertainment and curiosities for everyone — there is music, dancing, gayety—girl shows — minstrels — mystery and amazement. The Goodman Wonder Shows on the midway have never before shown in Texas.
