A SUMMARY OF WORLD, NATIONAL AND STATE NEWS

BIRMINGHAM IS POUNDED
By Associated Press
Birmingham, great industrial pillar of Britain, suffered its heaviest Nazi air assault of the war last night (20th) and early today as hundreds of bombers sought to knock out as they did neighboring Coventry last week.

Birmingham is a city of more than 1,000,000, the site of a huge metal and automotive energy as it was in the World War.

U. S. AID GREECE?
Washington, Nov. 19 (AP)—In response to an urgent appeal from Greece, the United States tonight took under consideration the question of supplying planes and other war materials to that hard-fighting Balkan country.

HOUSE WON'T QUIT
Washington, Nov. 19 (AP)—The house refused to end this session of congress today, voicing by a 191 to 148 vote a feeling that so long as the foreign crisis continues congress should stay on the job.

By its action it upset the plans of the Democratic leaders, who brought up the adjournment resolution. The leaders were thus pre-

"Nuts and Berries" They Brought Us Both

The berries, or what ever you call them, came we believe from Mrs. Fred Dyer, out Spring Hill way, and they're something new to us. It's another beautiful (when first pulled) Coryell County product, We, or Mrs. Dyer, don't know the name, but we'll leave it in our window, so you can see it.

From Dr. C. R. Bailey, we has the "nuts", pecans. These are "grafted" pecans, meaning the buds, or whatever they graft, are grafted on native trees, and the result is what you'll see in the window. "Doc" had some native ones about half this size. One "grafter" "Doc" said, grafted $1,000 worth of grafting and reaped a crop of some $2,700 this year off that bunch of trees. It's one kind of "grafter" that pays.

We Done It On Purpose! It Wasn't Messed Up

That "half-tone" front and back of the second section of the News Tuesday, was no accident. We did it on purpose!

This is what is called a half-tone or "Ben-Day" process, and each of these papers were run thru the press twice. If the "slug" used could have been cast in one piece, the "lines, or breaks" in the half-tone would not have been there. A similar process is used in dailies usually on their society pages.

This explanation is because some of the "cash customers", (and they all are) phoned in, or said we "messed up" part of their paper.

War Reaches This County: Four Boys Leave Tuesday

Of course, the actual war is not here yet, but the effects have already reached down and touched Coryell County. Four Coryell County boys have left here under the Selective Service lay for training periods of one year.

Besides these boys, there have been a number of other volunteers leave Coryell county, and celebrating, or rather, honoring all these who left this week, and those yet to go, and already gone, a ceremony was held on the courthouse lawn Tuesday morning, with President Robert W. Brown, of the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce as the master of ceremonies.

Following a brief band concert by D. W. Diserens, and his Gatesville High School Band, Judge Brown made a few remarks explaining the occasion, and then introduced Tom Rucker of Ogleby, a member of the Local Draft Board.

Mr. Rucker then introduced the boys to the assembly, which amounted to nearly 500 people.

They were: J. C. Bunnell, Fritz Jacobs, Buster Brown Evans, and Bill Wallace. Other who had already volunteered and left during the week were J. R. Saunders, Truman Blanton, Gail Sasse, Wayland Holt, Lowell Holt, J. C. Byrom, Charles Baker, and Horace Blanton, who joined the Cavalry of the National Guard, and will start their training at Mineral Wells. Where the first four boys will be sent is not known.

Dan McClellan, representing the Knox Curtis Post of the American Legion, also lauded the young men leaving, and said that the Legion, citizenry and the entire United States had the utmost confidence in the youth of the land, in handling any military affairs of the nation whether there was a crisis or not. Mr. McClellan also stated that the concern of these selected men was the concern of every citizen in the county, and we are to keep the "home fires burning".

Following Mr. McClellan's brief talk, Reverend Edward S. Bayless, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, speaking on behalf of the churches of the county, said there was a place for religion in any army or military establishment, and that the churches would be with the boys, wherever.

Following a brief flag-raising ceremony, the meeting was announced adjourned by Mr. Brown, before which, however he gave instructions as to both civilian and service men's courtesies to the flag.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 19 (AP)—A tumultuous session of CIO's annual convention whipped into a cheering frenzy during a bitter attack by John L. THE BAPTIST COLUMN

(Through the courtesy of this paper, we are reproducing an address of interest to all who are concerned that the sacred condition: 'Separation of Church and State' be perpetuated in our land and especially to all Baptists).

The following address was delivered in the Hall of Religion at the World's Fair, New York, October 5, 1940.

SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

By Dr. M. E. Dodd, Shreveport, La. Pastor First Baptist Church.

Both church and state are of divine origin. "I will build my church," said Jesus Christ. "The powers that be are ordained of God," said the Apostle Paul. The sphere of activity, authority and responsibility of each are fixed by the divine will. It was never intended for either church or state to lord it over the other. Their functions are definite and distinct. The church was ordained to serve man's spiritual and eternal needs. The state was ordained to serve man's secular and temporal needs. A free church in a free state is an axiomatic ideal.

Freedom has been the quest of the human heart from the beginning. Man has pursued the goddess of liberty over mountains, hills and plains, sometimes as a distant vision, sometimes as a nearby reality and occasionally as a real experience.

But man has ever sought to dominate other men. At one time he seizes the power of the church to dominate the state. At another time he seizes the power of the state to dominate the church. The struggle for freedom has been age long, terrific and at times cruel.

Through the centuries self seeking, greedy, ambitious men have terrorized the people and tyrannized over them. But here and there fighters for freedom have lifted the torch and led in breaking the shackles.

In ancient times the fighters for freedom were found among the Jewish prophets. At one time it is the voice of a stern ethic like that of Amos; at another time the voice of a tender evangel like that of Isaiah.

When Jesus of Nazareth said: "Render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's," he uttered the most dynamic, the most tyranny destroying idea, the most revolutionary thought ever let loose upon the world. He pronounced the divine divorce of church and state forever. This idea of Jesus, that a definite line of demarkation exists between church and state, passed from one individual to another, from one section of the earth to another, until it blazed on every hilltop and valley of the Roman Empire. Little groups of men and women, who were followers of Christ formed in thousands of cities and villages. Gibbon, the historian, called them little democracies. We call them New Testament church. For a time they were held in contempt, then patronized, then persecuted. Reaching the center of the empire they were driven into caves and catacombs. Christ's idea of freedom of conscience, freedom of soul, freedom of worship continued to spread. It appealed to the human heart as fundamentally right. It captured imagination. Its adherents and advocates multiplied by the millions. Within one hundred years one third of the people of the Roman Empire became Christians.

Then came Constantine. He was a shrewd conscienceless conqueror and politician. He saw the power of the Christian's communion. Desiring the support of all parties, including these Christians, he made nominal profession of faith. Then he proposed and carried through a merger, a union between church and state. In this act, Constantine performed an unholy marriage ceremony which united in adulterous wedlock two incompatible parties, one secular and the other spiritual. This was contrary to the law of God and the interests of humanity. From the incestuous bed of this adulterous union has gone forth a brood which has cursed the world with sorrow, shame and suffering. It has caused blood to run in the streets of the world's cities. It has crushed human hearts and souls by the millions. It has bound the bodies of millions of every race in slavery. It has tortured body and spirit and brought vast hordes of humanity into abject poverty and superstition.

Louis Woodall Weds
Hamilton Girl In Church Ceremony

In a ceremony performed in the First Baptist Church of Hamilton Monday evening at 8 o'clock, Miss Geraldine Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Campbell of Hamilton, became the bride of Louis Woodall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Woodall of Gatesville. The Rev. Lynn Stewart, read the sacred rites before an altar of ferns and tall baskets of white chrysanthemums. At either side of the altar white cathedral tapers burned in candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful gown of ivory satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, which was outlined with seed pearls, and leg-of-mutton sleeves. At the side of the sleeves were tiny satin-covered buttons; the tiny buttons also extended down the back of her gown to the hips. The gored skirt of her princess gown, fashioned Queen Elizabeth style, extended into a long train. Her long veil of illusion was attached to a head-dress of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and step-hanotis.

Miss Charlene Chandler, maid-of-honor, and Mrs. Q. A. McIver, Miss Winifred Byrom, both of Gatesville, and Miss Loneta Doggett, bridesmaids, wore frocks styled alike. The jackets were of blue taffeta moire and the full skirts were of tulle. Their gold headdresses were styled like the bride's. Miss Chandler carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums and rosebuds, and the other attendants carried bouquets of large yellow chrysanthemums and small chrysanthemums.

Ushers were, Oattie Searcey, Dalton Cathey, Louie and Sammie Harelik.

Mrs. George Carlton, organist played a prelude of wedding music and accompanied Miss Charity Edison, who sang "At Dawning" and "Because". She also played the traditional wedding marches, and during the ceremony she played softly "Liebstraum".

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony. In the receiving line with the couple were Mrs. Ross Woodall, Mrs. Floyd Campbell, Misses Charlene Chandler, Loneta Doggett, Winifred Byrom, and Mrs. Q. A. McIver. The bride's table was centered with a bouquet of white chrysanthemums, placed on a reflector.

At one side was the two-tiered wedding cake, which was decorated with rosebuds. Miss Byrom, Miss Doggett, and Mrs. McIver served. Miss Chandler presided at the Bride's Book.

When the couple left during the evening for a short honeymoon trip, the bride was attired in a soldier blue suit with fur trim and black accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias. Upon their return, they will make their home in Hamilton.

Mrs. Woodall attended Mary-Hardin Baylor College in Belton and John Tarleton College in Stephenville. She has been employed in her father's insurance office in Hamilton for sometime.

Mr. Woodall was graduated from Gatesville High School and attended the Commercial Art and Business School in Dallas. At present he is manager of the Garner-Alvis Company office in Hamilton.

Among the out-of-town people who attended the wedding and reception were, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Woodall, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Alvis Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alvis, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wollard, Miss Kate Chambliss, Mrs. Walter Stewart, Mrs. Luke Walker, Pete McIver, Mrs. M. W. Lowrey, Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook, Mrs. J. O. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Howell, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Guggolz, all of Gatesville, and Mrs. O. P. Gresham and daughter of Temple.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THE worst story I heard today has to do with these chain stores that sell everything from a tooth-pick to a sewing machine. Once upon a time there used to be groceries in one store, meats in another and drugs in another, but now they seem to have combined them all in one store.

A little while ago a lady walked into one of these overgrown general stores and says, "I'd like to have a set of chains for my car, it's too slippery to drive without them."

"I'm sorry madam but we carry only groceries."

"Well," she says, kind of indignantly, "I thought this was a chain store!"

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THESE modern college girls ain't afraid of anybody. Especially, I understand, they ain't afraid of their teachers. Well there was a girl that wanted to get out of going to classes for a couple of weeks, and she went to the president of the little college she was going to, and says, "Say, I gotta get away for two weeks. I have a letter from my mother, and she says I have to go home and take care of her while she gets over the grip."

"Well," says the prexy, "I guess I got you there. I got later news. I got a letter right here in my desk from your mother, telling me to keep you in school at any cost." The girl was a little bit puzzled. "You're a better liar than I am, I reckon, and you win," she says. "I ain't got any mother, and haven't had any since I was two

FLAT YELLOWJACKETS TO MEET OGLESBY TIGERS IN 6-MAN CHAMPIONSHIP GAME

The Flat Yellowjackets and the Oglesby High School Tigers will next Wednesday afternoon, November 27 in a six-man duel which will decide the champions of Dist. 7. Definite arrangements have not been made, except for the date which is final.

Comparing records that of the Tigers seems a bit more impressive having rolled up a larger scoring record but both teams have only one defeat to mar their season's record. The Yellowjackets lost to the Copperas Cove Bulldogs in their last tough battle of the season and had they got over this hurdle they would have finished the season undefeated. Oglesby received its only defeat at the hands of the Flat crew who they will have to face in the final round.

This game will be played on a natural field, probably the Gatesville gridiron, and every football fan in Coryell county desiring to see the real "McCoy" when it comes to pigskin packing should not miss this game. The Tigers advantage in weight and experience makes them the favorites in this championship tilt but the Jackets are unpredictable and pay

Bulldogs Beaten By Pottsville

Last Friday afternoon at Pottsville the Copperas Cove Bulldogs met defeat at the hands of the Pottsville six-man aggregation and lost their opportunity to appear in the championship series with Oglesby and Flat, the other two contenders.

Pottsville's victory over the favored Bulldog pack came as a surprise to most six-man followers though the Hamilton county team has been steadily gaining ground since the opening of the season.

Francis Rutherford Is Member of Texas U. Softball Squad

Rutherford, freshman mechanical engineering student from Gatesville, played second base on the Campus Guild softball team, runners-up for the intramural softball championship at the University of Texas.

Campus Guild, winners of the MICA division championship in intramurals, were defeated by the Sigma Nu fraternity team by a score of 5-2.

Humble to Broadcast Two Conference Tilts

There are only two Southwest Conference games on Saturday's football schedule both to be broadcast beginning at 2:20 p. m. by the Humble Oil & Refining Company. Both the University of Texas and Texas A. & M. are idle Saturday preparing for their annual game on Thursday the 28th, and Arkansas roams far afield to play Fordham in New York.

Listeners however, will be able to follow both the Baylor-SMU game to be played in Waco and the Rice-TCU game to be played in Houston.

Jonesboro Eagles Opens Cage Season

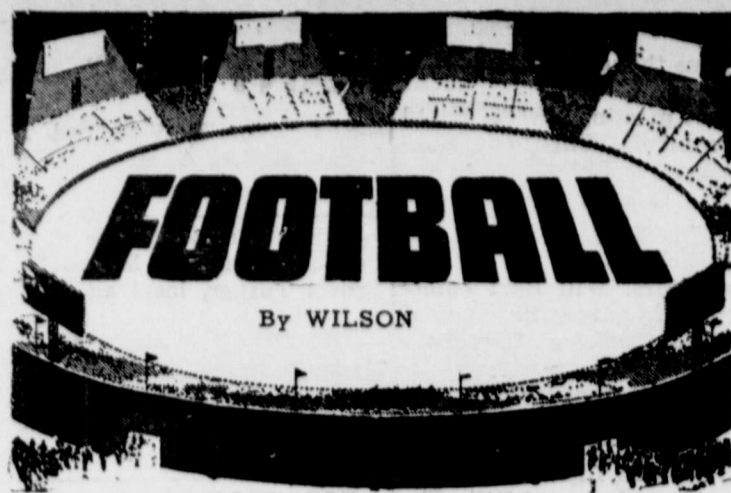

The Jonesboro Eagles, always one of the first local teams to start basketball activities have already opened their practice sessions according to Coach P. T. Lemmons.

The Eagles usually sport some of the best cage talent in the county both boys and girls, and are looking forward to a successful season. In their initial contest some time last week they defeated Carlton by a comfortable score, the game taking place in the Carlton gym.

Lometa-Turnersville Battle Wednesday

Wednesday, November 20, the Lometa six-man crew from Lampasas county tangled with the Turnersville Buffaloes on the Turnersville gridiron. No reports have been received at this time on the outcome of the game but the results will be carried in Tuesday's issue of the News.

The Flat team journeyed to Regan in Falls county, near Marlin, Wednesday for a return game with the Regan half-dozen. The outcome of this game will also be carried in a later issue of the News.

Only one more game of interest remains to be played in the District 7 six-man football race and that is the Flat-Oglesby tilt which has been definitely scheduled for next Wednesday, November 27.

These two teams represent the "cream of the six-man crop" and there's due to be a lot of action when the Tigers and the Yellowjackets square off for the grand finale.

Arrangements are now underway to have the game played on a natural field, probably the Gatesville Football Stadium, but this is not an established fact as yet. Personally speaking, we think this is the ideal place for the game as it is centrally located and can better accommodate the fans.

J. W. Ramsey sends in the first all-district selection for District A which is as follows:
LE—Sloweron—Mart
LT—Shirley—McGregor
LG—White—Gatesville
C—Townley—Clifton
RG—Neely—Marlin
RT—Gribble—Gatesville
RE—Knapps—Itasca
FB—Stringfellow—Clifton
RH—Bray—Valley Mills
LH—Cook—McGregor
QB—Walker—Mart

For the best punter, Mr. Ramsey named Knapps of Itasca; Best Passer, Phipps of Marlin; Best Ball Carrier, Bray of Valley Mills; Best Open Field Runner, Walker of Mart; Best All-Around player, Knapps of Itasca.

Out Pearl way the school is honoring the Pearl Dragons with a football banquet on December 7th. This is an excellent way to show their appreciation to the team and we would like to see every six-man team in District seven honored in this way. Peck Tharp, the Dragon's genial Coach will probably act as Master of Ceremonies.

An incidentally since the six-man season is practically over with the exception of the championship game, we would like to have some All-district selection from the fans.

Tiny Love the buzzingest Yellowjacket on the Flat squad is reported to be definitely out of the Championship fray. Love suffered an injury in the Oglesby-Flat game several weeks ago and according to reports will be riding the bench when the two teams meet next week.

Bubo Barnett, 235 pound tackle will lead the way in the Baylor line Saturday when the Bears battle S. M. U. in their conference tussle in Waco.

Barnett saw plenty of service against Tulsa last week and the Bruin coaches were well pleased with the play the big sophomore tackle who stepped in to fill the places of the three injured tackles on the Baylor team.

Baylor Bears Ready For Mustangs Sat.

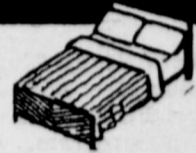

Inspired by the return of Big Jack Wilson to the fold the Baylor Bears have resumed their practice session with more pep and will attempt to upset the Mustangs of Southern Methodist University when the two teams meet in Waco Saturday afternoon.

Only once since the Bears and the Mustangs started playing football back in 1910, has an SMU team been able to turn back the Baylor aggregation in Waco. This happened two years ago and the Ponies will come to Waco Saturday with four straight wins over Coach Morley Jennings' Bruin Gridders who seem set on shooting the works with Wilson leading the way.

This Thanksgiving is a precocious holiday — a regular, daylight-saving festive day that refuses to await its accustomed date. But no matter how precocious or tardy the date, our Thanksgiving dinner must be right up to the minute — with new and tasty delicacies for homecoming relatives or visiting friends. I submit the following to those who crave the newest and best:

Creamed Limas and Asparagus Tips
2 cups cooked, dried Limas
2 cups canned asparagus tips
1 1/2 cups medium white sauce
1/2 cup grated cheese
Prepare white sauce in a double boiler. When cooked, add Limas, asparagus tips and cheese. Cook until thoroughly heated, about 15 minutes, then serve over toast points or in ramekins or patty shells.

A Flavorful Spaghetti Sauce
Have you often wished you were able to prepare a platter of spaghetti, macaroni or egg noodles, the Italian way? Here's the secret: The SAUCE is the thing!

Here, also, is a sauce-making recipe that has been an open secret for centuries among those Italian families that "know their macaroni." The prime essentials are — quality macaroni products, good ingredients and a little patience.

Brown 3 finely chopped onions in 1/2 cup of olive oil. Simmer. Add 1 or 2 cloves garlic, chopped fine. Let simmer.
Add 1 lb. ground lean sirloin. Let simmer.
Add 1 can tomatoes (strained) and 1 small can tomato paste. Simmer.
Add 1 small can mushrooms (1/4 pint, cut fine). Let all simmer. Cooking of sauce should take 1 1/4 hours in all. But the whole secret is — "LET IT SIMMER!"

Boil macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles until tender. Drain. (Never over-cook). Pour on sauce, sprinkle with grated Italian cheese and serve piping hot. Store surplus sauce in tight jar in refrigerator for later use.

Cream Cranberry Compote
1 package vanilla rennet powder
1 cup milk
1 cup light cream
1/2 cup cranberry sauce

Make rennet custard according to directions on package, using 1 cup milk and 1 cup cream instead of 1 pint of milk. Then chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve, put 1 tablespoon of cranberry sauce on each dish of rennet custard.

Spiced Pineapple Punch
2 oranges
Whole cloves
1 cup sugar
2 cups water
3 cups canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice
Juice of 1 lemon (2 tablespoons)
Grated nutmeg

Wash oranges and stick with cloves. Bring sugar and water to a boil and add oranges, cover and simmer until oranges are tender (about one-half hour). Remove oranges, strain liquid and add pineapple juice which has been heated but not boiled. Add lemon juice. Place punch in bowl and add oranges. Serve hot in small cups with a dash of grated nutmeg on top. Yield: 1 quart.

Magic Cranberry Pie
1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 cup cooked cranberries, drained
2 eggs, separated
2 tablespoons sugar
Baked pie shell (9-inch)

Blend sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, cranberry pulp and egg yolks. Pour into baked pie shell. Cover with meringue made by beating egg whites until stiff and adding sugar. Bake until brown in moderate oven (350° F.). Chill before serving.

After Dinner Coffee
Clear, flavorsome coffee is essential for Thanksgiving dinner. It's a good idea to serve decaffeinated coffee, so that everyone can take extra cups without worrying over sleeping problems. Use 1 1/2 heaping tablespoons decaffeinated coffee, regular grind, for each cup (1/2 pint) of water. If using decaffeinated coffee, drip grind, measure well-rounded tablespoon instead of heaping tablespoon. If made by pot or percolator methods, decaffeinated coffee needs a slightly longer brewing time to bring out all the rich, fragrant flavor.

LAST RITES FOR R. R. ROE HELD NOVEMBER 7 AT CORYELL CHURCH

Funeral services for Rufus Richard Roe were held at Coryell Church, Thursday, November 7, at 2 p. m. with the Rev. A. Loper conducting. Burial was made in the Osage Cemetery, Lee's of McGregor in charge.

Rufus Richard Roe was born June 6, 1858 in Alabama. He came to Texas when he was about 8 years old. In 1869 he came to Coryell County, residing here all the time since with the exception of a few years he lived in New Mexico.

Mr. Roe had lived a very active life until about two weeks before his death, Tuesday, November 5. It can be truly said of Mr. Roe that his friends could be counted by his acquaintances and those whom he came in contact with. He had been a Christian for many years and at the time of his death, he was the oldest active member of Coryell Church.

September 26, 1886 he was married to Miss Della Mercial, who preceded him in death eight years ago on August 26, 1932. To this union were born ten children, all of whom survive him except one daughter, who died in infancy. The nine children, who were all present, are: J. W. and Henry Roe, and Mrs. C. A. Vandiver of Oglesby; R. Q. Roe and Mrs. Fred Boyd of Gatesville; Mrs. J. W. Clark and Mrs. Lee Mosely of Waco; A. L. Roe of McGregor and Sumner Roe of Crawford.

August 21, 1936 he was married to Mrs. Mollie Pieper, who survives him along with the nine children, 32 grandchildren, and 4 great grandchildren. All of the grandchildren were present except three: Mrs. Jack Love, Beville, Mrs. Carl Nelson, Seminary Hill and Ernest Vandiver, St. Louis, Mo.

Pallbearers were eight grandsons: Ralph, Fred, Edward and Calvin Roe; Wayne and Clyde Boyd; J. W. Clark Jr. and George Vandiver. Flowers girls were the granddaughters: Nita, Antha, Hazel, Orpah and Doris Roe; Velma Sansom, Norma Jean Clark, Johnnie Boyd, Wynell Mosely, and Peggy Vandiver.

Out-of-county people attending the last rites were: Mr. and Mrs. Loy Sansom, Doris Roe, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Roe and baby of Dallas; Mr. C. A. Graft and Kermit and Mrs. Dwight Foster, Custer, Oklahoma; Mr. and Mrs. John Vanderee, Miss Lydie Roe, Mr. Dump Roe, Bill and Nellie Roe of Cleburne.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR COPPERAS COVE YOUTH HELD AT BELTON

Funeral services for Bobby D. Armon, 12-year-old inmate of the Nazarene orphanage, who was accidentally killed Saturday, were held at the Grace Methodist church Sunday at 1:30 p. m. Burial was made at Belton.

He was slain by the accidental discharge of a .22 rifle in the hands of Harold Adcock, his playmate. The boys were cleaning their rifles when the accident happened.

Bobby had recently been admitted to the orphanage. His father lives at Belton. Playmates, who were driven to Belton by Copperas Cove merchants, acted as pallbearers.

1,000 PLANES A MONTH

WASHINGTON.—The figure which defense commission experts have fixed privately for new factories for that new plane production program is $2,000,000,000. This is the program recently announced by William S. Knudsen.

Present plane deliveries to the army, navy and to the British are around 1,000 fighting ships per month. The army's production goal—3,000 planes a month by 1942, with a comparable increase in engine output—obviously means an enormous expansion of manufacturing facilities.

Some of the companies already are erecting new plants, in addition to previous enlargements. Curtis-Wright and Glenn Martin have new facilities under way; Bell Aircraft is adding 400,000 square feet of space near Buffalo; Boeing at Seattle received $7,368,000 for a new plant, and Vultee $4,294,000 for the same purpose.

But all this is only a drop in the bucket if 50,000 planes per year are actually to be turned out. Production facilities will have to be tripled, if more than 4,000 planes, engines and armament for them are to come off the assembly lines each month.

PROBLEM TOWNS

The defense commission is getting its noisiest headaches from the demand of inland communities for defense industries. Hardly a day passes without a bombardment of demands that plants be located in certain localities. To this din has now been added a barrage of new demands by towns that have already been favored.

These defense boom towns, overrun with thousands of new residents, are confronted with serious housing sanitation, police and other problems and are hounding the commission for help. In some places the problem is so serious that the commission is considering recommending to congress a public works program which would give them the projects outright—that is, 100 per cent free.

An example of such a boom town is Charlestown, Ind., site of what may become the world's largest powder plant. A sleepy hamlet of 500, overnight Charlestown was transformed into a seething city of 5,000, with perhaps 15,000 in prospect by January as the new powder plant expands.

Naturally this boom brought thousands of workers, speculators, camp followers and others to Charlestown. Housing soon became non-existent, prices skyrocketed, and one enterprising realtor even started to subdivide an ancient cemetery into town lots.

The town has no sewer system, the tiny municipally-owned water plant is totally inadequate, and the community treasury is so broke that it can't even pay the salary of a town marshal, although a government payroll of more than $75,000 is now cashed every week at the town's bank. The boom has spread to Jeffersonville, 12 miles away, and to New Albany, 18 miles distant, where housing can't be had for love or money.

In this dilemma the town fathers turned to Uncle Sam, to the WPA, the U. S. Housing authority, the Federal Housing administration, even the White House, and finally to Frank Bane, director of the state and local division of the defense commission.

At the President's orders, a plan has been worked out under which the defense commission, the state of Indiana and the town will set up a joint planning body to transform Charlestown into a community capable of meeting its problems.

INAUGURATION STANDS

The presidential inauguration is nearly three months off but already white-overalled carpenters are busy erecting stands and seats on Capitol Plaza. Reason for this unusual haste is—the defense program.

"If we waited much longer," explains David Lynn, veteran Capitol architect, "we wouldn't be able to get any lumber. The erection of the great camps for the selective service trainees has caused a shortage in the lumber market. The government is buying up all the good lumber it can get for the cantonments."

The lumber shortage also will affect the seating capacity. There will be room for only 12,500 spectators—2,000 less than in 1937. Congress appropriated the same amount of money as four years ago, but with increased material and lumber costs the $35,000 isn't going as far.

DIPLOMATIC PARADOX

One of the most paradoxical facts of international diplomacy is the fact that Soviet Russia, intrinsically the weakest of the great European states, holds the European balance of power and in actuality the fate of England and Germany in its hands.

The Molotoff talks just concluded in Berlin are evidence of the concern which Hitler and his associates feel for the present and future policies of the Soviet Union. Undoubtedly the impelling motive for the visit of Soviet Premier Molotoff was the readiness of Hitler to make considerable concessions to the Stalinists.

What MM. Molotoff and Hitler discussed and what proposals the German made to the Russian we do not know, as only terse, ambiguous communiques were released by Berlin officialdom. Unofficially, but from reasonably reliable quarters, we learned that Der Fuehrer sought to dissuade the Russian from pursuance of the age-old Russian dream of domination of the Balkans and control of the Dardanelles.

Hitler's reasoning ran that Russia should seek a warm water outlet that would be free of all possible control by other powers. This meant control of the coastal regions of Persia, Iraq and possibly India. Even if in control of the Dardanelles, Russia would not be assured of a continuous free outlet for the flow of its exports, as Britain could blockade the sea at Gibraltar and Suez.

So ran Hitler's argument to M. Molotoff, we are told. How did the Russian respond? What did he tell his chieftain the recluse, Stalin, upon his return to Moscow?

In those questions perhaps it held the fate of Europe for hundreds of years. For Russia, by aligning itself definitely with either the English or the Germans, could wreck much of the defensive structure of either antagonist and probably fatally destroy its strategical position.

The internal weakness of Russia, in evidence before the outbreak of the present holocaust over a year ago, does not obviate the importance of Russia's diplomatic and military position.

Although incapable of sustaining large-scale warfare for a prolonged period, the impetus of a Russian attack on the German strongholds in East Prussia, Poland and Rumania might result in the destruction of Hitlerism. The impact of the ragged horde of Czar Nicholas II in 1914 was almost too much for the imperial legions of Kaiser Wilhelm to withstand.

Conversely, a combined German-Italian-Russian assault upon strategical British Empire positions likely would result in the breakdown of the Empire ties which are providing Britain with imperative supplies of raw materials.

What will Stalin do?

Allegedly the British have submitted counter-proposals to the German advances to Russia. British Ambassador to Moscow Sir Stafford Cripps has reported that these were received coolly by the Kremlin.

Offhand, it might be assumed that this fact coupled with the Molotoff visit to Berlin would in-dicade that the Russians are prepared to swing into the balance in favor of the Germans and their allies, Japan and Italy.

But it should be remembered that Russia has no vital interests which clash with those of Britain, whereas her historical ambitions in Europe are in conflict with those of Germany and Italy, and in Asia are antithetical to those of the ebullient Nipponese.

Stalin may not be prepared to abandon his non-belligerency in favor of either side, but this does not mean that he fails to realize the close affinity of British and Russian interests. Most probably he feels that the hostile antagonists for the present are evenly balanced in strength and that it will be to his advantage to await further developments.

Our guess is that Russia eventually will be aligned with the British, provided the Germans fail to win sufficient decisive victories to project the unwilling Russians into the conflict in order to share in the totalitarian spoils.

— ONE MAN'S OPINION —

At Itasca, Hill county, Texas, there is a succesful cotton goods manufacturing plant. You might say it has turned failure into success. It is a perfect illustration of what can be done with many establishments throughout the country where the men interested in the business have a will to succeed. Several years ago this cotton mill at Itasca was making the regular run of cloth generally made at southern cotton mills. The market for such goods played out. Instead of throwing up their hands and saying it can't be done, they started thinking about ways and means of keeping the mill going full time and giving employment to happy, satisfied people, who would spend their money in Itasca and help the town. As a result this mills is now making new and different kinds of cotton goods needed in practically every home in the world. They advertise their products, and their merchandising plan has been very successful. Itasca is a better town today than it would have been had the owners of this cotton mill closed the doors, nailed up the windows, and set out on other ventures. Where there is a will there is a way. And this applies to every man, woman and child from the newsboy on up to the bank president.

There are live-wire, aggressive merchants and businessmen in most every town that will sell you anything you need as cheap as you can buy it anywhere. Don't wear out your tires, and waste you time and gasoline running off to the city. Trade at home. Remember, friends, what helps your town helps you.—Crazy Water Company.

The past cold weather was death to more than one fat hog in our community. Almost everyone butchered some.

Those moving out and into our community are the following: Frank Bensing and family to Temple to take charge of the Lucky Hotel; Mr. Aldridge of Antelope to Mr. Bensing's home, George

Other people moving are: Mrs. Ashabrawner to the Robert Reynolds farm, Weldon McBride to the Ed Hillard home, Bill Gault and family to north of Lampasas, Mr. Taylor to the Delano farm. We welcome those who have moved into our community.

Mrs. Stella Mae Manning was hostess Thursday afternoon to members of the 4 Corners Club. Each member answered roll call by stating what she had been doing the past week. All had been working hard.

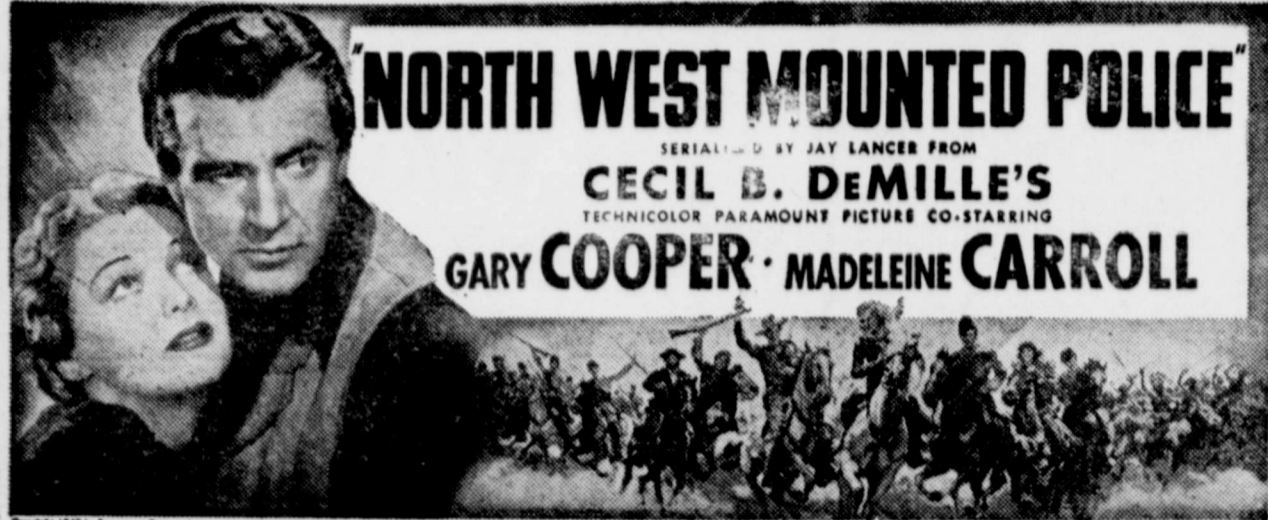

After a short business meeting, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Betrace Horner, Vice-President, Mrs. Nettie Hoover, Secretary, Mrs. Stella Mae Manning, Treasurer and Social Leader, Mrs.

Sallie Beverly, Poultry Demonstrator, Mrs. Corine Latimer, Council Delegate, Mrs. Jewell Stacy, Reporter, Mrs. Hattie Bland. After the election of officers, names were drawn for the Christmas party which will be with Mrs. Hattie Bland December 12, Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Manning, assisted by Mrs. Stacy, served the club a delicious dessert, cake and hot chocolate. At a late hour, after thanking Mrs. Manning for such a delightful afternoon, the club adjourned to meet with Mrs. Sallie Beverly November 28, at which time each member will give a short talk in regard to Thanksgiving. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter, Mrs. J. L. Bland.

CHAPTER EIGHT SYNOPSIS

The Canadian North West in 1885 is facing a civil war with the Metis, a nation of half-breeds incited to rebellion by Jacques Corbeau, a notorious criminal when Dusty Rivers, Texas Ranger, comes to this wild country to arrest Corbeau who is wanted for a murder in Texas. He accompanies the North West Mounted Police under Sergeant Bret on an expedition to capture Corbeau but the latter cunningly deploys them into an ambush when his daughter, Louette, entices Constable Logan, brother of April Logan, a frontier nurse with whom Bret is in love, away from his post as trail scout. The survivors retire to Fort Carlton and are besieged by the Metis. Bret and Dusty plan to burn the post and escape via the river.

CHAPTER IX

THE Fort was ablaze in the background, the firelight throwing weird shadows in the trees. In the distance they could hear the shouting of the halfbreeds, shouts of triumph, as they saw what they believed was the end of Mounted Police authority in Saskatchewan.

It had been difficult, but Tod McDuff, sound old woodsman, had led the party through. He had known a devious way and they had he said.

Dusty took his place beside Tod McDuff and the little fleet moved slowly down the river in the darkness. Jim Bret raised his hand in silent farewell, then turned to his troop, the members of which watched him with admiration and friendship. The hand dropped, but it was now a gesture of command. "Forward!" he said.

The horses splashed out into the river, following Jim Bret, gained the other side, plunged into the woods, headed northward . . .

Meanwhile the halfbreeds ran wild. With the burning of the Fort and the supposed annihilation of the Mounted Police in the vicinity, they swooped through the countryside, looting and burning, driving the white settlers before them, scattering the families, taking prisoners, killing those who resisted.

"The Metis nation has burst its chains!" proclaimed Louis Riel in Batoche. "The British feel our might!"

"Medicine gun speak like thunder," said Big Bear, excitement in his voice. "Medicine gun bill like Great Spirit."

made it and now they stood by the river's edge, where the most seriously wounded had been put into the bateau, the others, able to travel, but not to fight, in the canoes, those with the most trivial injuries manning the paddles.

Jim Bret and the seven who would make the journey to Big Bear's camp, sat their horses stiffly and Jim Bret watched Dusty and Tod lift April into the bateau. Tod took his place at the sweeps, waiting for Dusty, who strode to where Jim Bret sat his horse.

"Colonel Irvine," said the Sergeant, "is following the river. You should meet him before long. When you do, tell him where I have gone. Tell him that, if I succeed, only mopping up of the breeds will be necessary, but that if I fail—" He shook his head. "At least he has more than a thousand militia. It should prove sufficient." He looked at April, sitting in the bateau, then back at Dusty. "You—you will take care of her?"

"I'll take care of her," said Dusty, his voice strangely hoarse. He gripped Jim Bret's hand. "Good luck, soldier. I never knew a better man."

Jim Bret's head drooped to his chest; then he raised it, nodded his thanks. "Good luck, cowboy,"

But Corbeau was wiser. He knew that the reinforcements would come. Hence, he must convince Big Bear. With Big Bear as an ally, the sonorous phrases of Louis Riel would probably come true and when they did, he, Corbeau, would be rich. He would control the liquor, would control the merchandise that flowed into the Metis nation.

But he went alone to the camp of Big Bear. Not yet would the Indians countenance the presence of many halfbreeds in their midst; not yet would they follow Riel alone. Corbeau must do the job, must send the savages whooping on the warpath to wipe out the other white settlements before Colonel Irvine and the militia could come up. If that happened, the united forces of the Indians and the Metis would face the soldiers with considerable chance of success.

Corbeau, glutton with massacre, jubilant at the triumph at Beardy's Basin and the success of his gun, rode arrogantly into the camp of Big Bear. Behind him he led a horse which drew a cart, in which were piled high the coats of the Mounties slain in the battle at Beardy's.

There were thousands of warriors now, for Big Bear had gathered the Crees in readiness. Three days had passed since Corbeau and Jim Bret had stood before Big Bear and two guns had set. The third would soon set. Big Bear, therefore, had gathered his people and their war chiefs. Before his lodge Big Bear waited in dignity as Corbeau rode up.

"I keep my promise," said Corbeau in the Cree tongue. He dismounted, went to the cart and began to throw the tunics of the dead Mounties before the chief. "Here are the redcoats!" he shouted. "They are redder because of the blood of those who wore them!"

The Indians began to murmur; somewhere a drum began to beat. The murmuring grew, until it became a sort of chant, pregnant with menace and ferocity.

"This!" Corbeau held up one of the tunics. "This belonged to the boastful one who said he would put me in chains!"

The chanting grew, the tempo of the drum increasing.

"Medicine gun speak like thunder!" said Big Bear, excitement in his voice. "Medicine gun kill like Great Spirit!"

"Keep your promise, Big Bear!" shouted Corbeau. "Keep it as I have kept mine, as the gun has kept its promise!" He paused, flinging another tunic at the feet of the chief.

"War!"

Big Bear hesitated for only another moment. Then, his face alive with savage purpose, he stooped, scooped up a handful of earth and threw it from him.

"War!" he thundered.

War! The cry went up from thousands of throats. The warriors came, leaping high into the air, thrusting their lances into the coats, holding them aloft. From everywhere the chant grew, became a torrent of terrible sound, rising and falling to the savage beating of many drums. And then the war-whoops went up, long, fearsome shrieks that thrilled the blood, set it coursing.

Corbeau, standing there, cried out in triumph. This was the ultimate; this was his final success. He saw himself riding to undreamed power on the crest of that savagery, saw himself supreme in the Northwest.

The war dance, the wild scene grew, but abruptly it began to subside. A hush, strange, eerie, seemed to spread rapidly over the camp, as the Indians, pausing in their gyrations, listened.

And Corbeau listened, too, as did Big Bear and the warchiefs. They listened in amazement and unbelief, Corbeau standing rigidly.

For from over the hill just beyond the camp came a familiar sound. It was the sound of a bugle, the notes standing out sharply in the sudden silence of the camp. They were rollicking notes and they played a stirring British march and presently following the sound, an appeared on the crest of the hill.

It was a thin red line of men, seven of them, and in front of them rode another man. A thin red line, but it moved inexorably down the hill toward the camp, toward Big Bear's lodge.

Jim Bret had come.
