LETOURNEAU SPEAKS OVER K.R.L.D. 1:15 TUESDAY AFTERNOON

R. G. LeTourneau, nationally known business man and Christian leader, will speak over station KRLD at 1:15 p. m. Tuesday, March 18.

Mr. LeTourneau is one of the greatest Christian business men of America, and will be featured on the Texas Baptist Laymen's Rally which will be held in the First Baptist Church, Dallas, March 17 and 18, and will speak on "Up From Bankruptcy" Tuesday evening at 8:40.

Fire! Fire! Fire—Bright & Early You'll Admire the Boys

That heading don't mean a thing, except, that Saturday of this week is the last day for you to give the Gatesville Fire Department 3c to 5c on every pound of Bright & Early or Admiration Coffee you buy.

You can get it vacuum packed, and it'll last until this time next year, that is, if you buy enough. And, why not?

These unpaid, unsung firemen answer your calls when you are in trouble.

They butter your bread, how about buttering their's, and, you might sweeten their coffee, too. You know you're going to drink it all year, anyway.

Don't forget, don't be shy, go buy!

W.P.A. TO ASSIST IN "GARDENING" WITH SCHOOLS OF COUNTY

Plans for WPA assistance in summer gardens in cooperation with participating schools are under way, the vegetables being used in the WPA lunch rooms.

Also, a county-wide or zone garden of 10 acres will be planted using WPA labor to cultivate and harvest, and the food will be canned for the next school term.

If this is done, a WPA canning center will be established and WPA will furnish labor and supervision of the garden and canning and the schools will secure an easement on the land, do the initial plowing, furnish fertilizer and irrigation, if needed, tools, and horse or mule, seeds and plants, and to transport the food from the garden to the school lunch units or canning center.

WPA will also finance can purchases allowing $5.50 per month per person employed for this item. Schools will furnish canning equipment, small tools, condiments and additional cans.

Other information can be had from Ozella V. Hargis, WPA Assistant Project Supervisor, School Lunch and Matron Service Projects, room 202 Court House, Gatesville.

Howard Franks is improving satisfactorily following a tonsilectomy he underwent Wednesday morning in this city.

Corp. Jack Hearn of Camp Bowie in Brownwood spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Bill Maxwell, and other relatives and friends.

Coryellites Place Stock "In Money" At Fort Worth

Lloyd Brown of Gatesville came home with the "beef" instead of the "bacon" from the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show, when his calf placed well up in the money with 200 or more entered in his calf's class in the show from all over the USA.

Brown & Bridges Rambouillet ram, also gave the boys a run for their money in the show.

Also, from Oglesby, the hogs exhibited by them brought home some more of the filthy lucre that rings and folds.

MANAGERS CALLED TO MEET SATURDAY TO ORGANIZE CORYELL COUNTY LEAGUE

All managers and persons interested in organizing the 1941 Coryell County Baseball league are requested to meet in the News office Saturday afternoon at 3:00 p. m.

Rules, a constitution, and regulations for the 1941 race will be discussed at the meeting.

Last season the Pidcoke Cokers won the championship by defeating the Blackfoot Indians at the State Training school diamond after a series of games which drew large crowds. The Pidcoke team also won the title the year before that, and in '38 the Jonesboro Eagles won the league championship.

Representatives from the following places are especially requested to be at the meeting: Jonesboro, Turnersville, Pearl, Copperas Cove, Pidcoke, Plainview, Flat, Ireland, Blackfoot, Mound, Topsey, White Hall and Moshim.

As yet there has been only one entry sent in. It came from manager Emmett Gotcher of the Copperas Cove team. Copperas Cove has never been in the league, but it is expected to be a strong contender for the title.

Interest has been high in the league during the past seasons and this year is expected to be no exception. So don't forget managers and baseball fans let's get behind the league and make it better than ever.

Junior Class B Basketball Winners Decided

The Coryell County Junior basketball tournament was held in the Ireland gymnasium last Friday and Saturday night. For the winners there were four trophies awarded.

The Jonesboro ward school girls won the first trophy of the tournament. The Turnersville Ward boys won the second trophy of the meet, the third trophy went to the Ireland High school juniors who won it after defeating the Gatesville high school juniors. The score for the game was 33 to 11, and fans who witnessed the tournament say it was one of the best of the tournament.

Teams that entered in the meet were: Turnersville, Jonesboro, Oglesby, Pearl, Flat, Gatesville and Ireland. The tournament went off smoothly and everyone was satisfied with the way the Ireland folks put it over.

Hornets Start Track Season Early This Week

The Gatesville Track season has started under the direction of Coaches Madison Pruitt and Clinton White. Many promising boys are out and among the forty that are out the Coaches should be able to find several stars who will lead the Hornets into the County Meet.

Only a few stars from last season's team are back this year. Ray Ward will probably be the main cog in the Hornet machine. Ward, who won the high jumping last year, and who also placed high in broad jump and vaulting will hold down the same positions this season. Elmo King and Raymon Sexton are two other returning boys from last year's track team. But among the other group of new comers, Coach Pruitt hopes to find his starters for the county meet.

The choir will practice the Easter cantata Monday evening at 7:30.

Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock the Woman's Society of Christian Service meets at the church.

Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock the prayer meeting begins. At 7:45 Wednesday evening the choir begins the regular weekly rehearsal. All the singers are urged to attend these rehearsals.

The Methodist Revival will begin June 8th. Rev. Edgar Neal, former pastor of the Methodist Church here, will do the preaching for the revival.

A very decided increase in attendance at both Sunday School and morning preaching services was noticed at the Methodist Church last Sunday. Let us make it even more this next Sunday.

REV. YEARGAN PREACHES SUNDAY MORNIN GAT UNITY CHURCH

Rev. Charles B. Yeargan of Burnet will preach at the Unity Presbyterian Church Sunday morning, in an exchange of pulpits for the day. The pastor will return to preach at the evening hour of worship.

Mr. Yeargan, while a student in Austin Seminary, acted as student supply for both the Turnersville and the Gatesville churches during the time these churches were without a resident pastor.

Mr. Yeargan has recently accepted a call to the Second Presbyterian church, Beaumont, and will go to his new work early next month. He will probably remain Sunday to preach in the First Presbyterian Church, Gatesville at the Vesper hour, although definite word has not been received as to whether or not this arrangement will be possible.

Hours of worship in the Turnersville church are regular, as follows: Sunday School, 10:00 a. m.

Morning worship, 11 a. m. Sermon by the Rev. Mr. Yeargan.
Evening worship, 7:15. Sermon by Rev. Ed Bayless, pastor.

We appreciate the splendid audiences that come out to enjoy these services with us. Before Easter we plan to teach in all our churches the book of Revelation. This is the only book of the Bible that promises a blessing to those who read it, "Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand." Rev. 1:3.

"And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book." Rev. 22:19. Could there be a reason why we should not study such a book?

CHURCH SERVICES AT TOPSEY AND UNION

HOME DEMONSTRATION OUTLOOK

At the February County Home Demonstration Council meeting, in the Court House at Gatesville with the Chairman, Mrs. J. B. Kemp, and the Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. T. C. Music, presiding, plans for the year were presented by the various chairmen.

The group present represented six of the eleven Home Demonstration Clubs. They answered roll call with suggestions for the annual exhibit to be September 27, 1941. All expressed themselves as being in favor of continuing the Educational exhibits. These were shown for the first time last year, and appealed to those who worked with them as something very worthwhile.

The group welcomed delegates from Hubbard and Harmony, the newest Home Demonstration Clubs and all anticipated through the leadership of the Chairman, Secretary-treasurer, and through the finance, exhibit, yearbook, educational, recreation, sponsors, and reporters committees, a year of progress toward more convenient farm homes and better agriculture in Coryell County.

U. OF TEXAS CURTAIN CLUB
TO PRESENT "12TH NIGHT"

Austin, Texas— To prove to Texas school boys and girls that William Shakespeare is a master showman whose plays are riotous, exciting stage fare, the University of Texas Curtain Club is inviting them to a special matinee performance March 15 of "Twelfth Night."

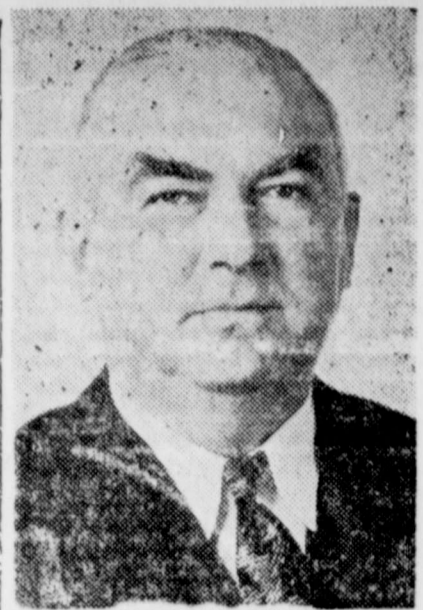

Music that catches the Elizabethan flavor at its best moment, costuming that is elaborate and recapture the romantic gaiety of ically accurate—all are aimed to recapture the romantic gaiety of the Shakespearean comedy so that people who know Shakespeare only through the printed word may see his characters in their proper setting: the stage.

Singers, dancers, fencers, will act on Hogg Memorial Auditorium stage remodeled to resemble an Elizabethan stage, so that the style as well as the spirit of the period may be maintained. A specially written musical score will be performed by an orchestra from the University Department of Music.

Guides will be furnished by Alpha Phi Omega, service organization on the campus, to direct the school children who are expected from towns over the state within a hundred miles radius of Austin.

HAPPINESS IN EVERY CUP

SIDE GLANCES ON TEXAS HISTORY
By Charles O. Hucker
University of Texas Library

OF ZEBULON PIKE, WHO SAW TEXAS, TOO

Three events of national significance which occurred early in the Nineteenth Century brought Texas to the attention of the people of the United States for the first time and established the roots of their interest in the territory—that interest which soon was to bring about its settlement, later its liberation, and at last its annexation to their own Union.

The first of these events was the Louisiana Purchase of 1803, which caused a border dispute between the United States and Spain which was not settled until 1819. The second was the exposure of Aaron Burr's plan to set up an independent republic in the Southwest resulting in his trial for treason in 1807. And the third was the exploring activity of Capt. Zebulon M. Pike of the United States Army.

Many Texans who have traveled into the West have seen Pike's Peak in the Colorado Rockies, and most Texans know something of the discovery of it. But records in the University of Texas Library reveal that Pike also traveled across Texas and was the first man to give Americans first-hand information about its soil, climate, wild life, people and government.

PIKE'S ADVENTURES

In 1805-6 young Pike had led an expedition into the Northwest in an attempt to trace the Missouri River to its source, and in July, 1806, led out another along the Arkansas River. He reached what is now Colorado, discovered the peak which has been named for him, got lost among the Rockies in the dead of winter, wandered southward into New Mexico, was picked up by Spanish soldiers and at Santa Fe was politely informed that he and his men were to be held in protective custody as trespassers on Spanish soil.

From Santa Fe the party of less than twenty was taken to Chihuahua, a provincial capital, where Pike was thoroughly investigated and questioned. A number of his papers were taken from him. Then at last, in the early summer of 1807, he was dispatched homeward, across country to Louisiana, still under Spanish escort.

On June 2 Pike crossed the Rio Grande ("Rio del Norte") near the present city of Laredo. On June 7 he reached "St. Antonio", capital of the province of Texas; on the 24th he passed through Nacogdoches; crossed the Sabine River on the twenty-ninth and on July 1 arrived in Natchitoches, La., safe within the undisputed boundaries of the United States again.

HIS INFLUENCE

Three years later he published a book of his experiences, "Exploratory Travels Through the Western Territories of North America", which was in the main a diary but included a copious appendix of "geographical, statistical and general observations" on the lands he had seen. It was very popular.

Of Texas, Pike had much to say. He estimated its population as 7,000; described "St. Antonio" and Nacogdoches, its only towns; admitted he knew nothing of its history; spoke, of its climate as "one of the most delightful in the world"; remarked that its government and laws were almost "perfectly military" and described its most prominent citizens.

"Taken generally," he summed up, "it is one of the richest, most prolific, and best watered countries in North America, for the residence of man, and the production of the necessaries of life."

At last, then, Americans could say that they knew something about Texas, and it was an enticing picture that they saw. Without it, the colonization that followed in a dozen years might not have been so well supported in the United States as it was. But Zebulon Pike fell in the War of 1812 and never knew what was to happen in the rich new land whose possibilities he had broadcast to his people.

... take chances with cut-price insurance

Buying insurance of doubtful security in order to save premium cost is like an aviator buying a defective parachute because it's cheap. If he's going to need it at all, only the best is good enough. If he isn't going to need it, why bother to carry it at all?

Last year the Hornettes lost to the team that went on to win the tournament, Wayside. That team was not entered in the meet this year as their coach, Coach Roberts, moved to another school and when the prospects he thought he had were not there he made it that way by moving his outstanding stars from Wayside. Due to the transfer rule the players were declared ineligible, but will be eligible next season.

Gatesville was the third largest school represented in the meet according to the towns ranking. Ennis was first and Silsbee second. Sidney was the smallest place represented with a population of 122, however Trent, a west Texas town with 412 people, was the smallest school, represented with only 80 students in high school.

All managers and people interested in the organization of the 1941 Coryell County baseball league are requested to meet in the News office at 3:00 Saturday afternoon to adopt a constitution and regulations for the coming baseball season.

For now since basketball season is over baseball will start making its unofficial appearance. Last year in the county league the Pidcoke Cokers captured the championship by defeating Blackfoot at the State Training School diamond. They had won the title in '39 and in '38 the Jonesboro Eagles came through with flying colors to win it. ganize a team that could be a top contender in the league. Pidcoke and Jonesboro, the teams which have won the league during the past three seasons are smaller towns than some others I know of. Interest has been high in the county league during the past seasons and this year is expected to be no exception.

Only one of the Texans entered in the National Golden Gloves Tournament being held in Chicago has reached the finals. The boxer is Richard Menchaca, defending bantamweight champion.

Coffee and Cheese for Good Cheer

RIENDS to the very end, coffee and cheese are inseparable as the favorite finish of any meal. Like salt to meat or clams to chowder, coffee brings out the best virtues of its boon companion for a combination of flavors of proven popularity. You might not succeed in making your own cheese, but you can make better coffee—if you follow the simple coffee-making rules given elsewhere on this page.

For a Better Cup of Coffee
Always use the correct quantity of coffee. Two level tablespoons or one heaping tablespoon for each measuring cup suits the average taste.

Make fresh coffee every time you serve it. Coffee that has been reheated loses its flavor and aroma.

Rinse your coffee pot with scalding water before you make fresh coffee.

Keep your coffee-making equipment clean as you would cups, plates or saucers.

Do not boil your coffee. Boiling affects the natural flavor of the beverage.

Use the correct grind for the method you use in making coffee, whether it be drip, percolator, "vacuum-type" or old fashioned coffee pot method.

This is the fifth year that I have observed the House consider the annual Agricultural Appropriation Bill. From the standpoint of actual income in our section this is doubtless the most important bill that comes before the Congress each year. The House has spent most of the week debating it and finally passed the bill yesterday afternoon. The bill does assure the farmers of the country as much in the way of government payments as we have secured in the past, and to that extent the farmers gained a victory as it had appeared quite likely that we would be unable to hold even what we had heretofore received. A group of those of us who are sincerely interested in agriculture met last week and decided that the best defense of our farm appropriation was a strong offense. We therefore made our plans not to simply try to hold what we had but to ask for full parity payments. In the past we have never been able to get the House to include any parity payments in the bill, and have always had to rely on the Senate to insert this item. Of course, the Senate is more liberal with agriculture than the House because the Senators all represent entire States, and therefore have substantial agricultural interests whereas about one-half of the members of the House come from City districts and represent no farmer.

I can not however under stand the attitude of a large number of Representatives from farming districts who will vote for every kind of appropriation, until we come to an appropriation for agriculture but there are a great number of such members. I can find no fault with the members who believe that the nation simply can not afford to make any substantial expenditures except for defense, but I just can't feel right when a member from a farm district votes for every appropriation except for the farmer. For instance, a few weeks ago we voted an additional $375,000,000.00 to the WPA to help carry them on for the next four months. Practically every member voted for that appropriation. Today we have just had up and passed with less than three hours debate a bill to pay approximately $200,000,000.00 of deficiencies incurred by various departments. All of these items are of course over and above the regular appropriations, but there was practically no opposition. Yet when it was proposed to add $212,000,000.00 to the fund to be used to pay farmers parity, dozens of the very members who voted for these other expenditures took the floor to state that the nation could not afford any additional money for the farmers.

I can not believe that the nation will ever enjoy an economic recovery until the farmers' buying power is increased to something like the buying power of other classes. I, therefore, was one of those who urged an appropriation large enough to pay full parity on the crop grown on the allotted acres. This amendment failed. We then tried to get enough to pay about 85% of the parity, but this amendment also failed. I spoke and voted for both amendments. I feel that even though we did not get all that I think we were entitled to, that the vigorous effort that was made to increase the parity payments at least enabled us to hold the full amount that we have received in the past, and this is, of course, a very important victory. I have this afternoon talked with Senator Russell of Georgia, who is on the Senate committee, and who tells me that he thinks that they will be able to get some increase in the parity appropriation in the Senate.

In other respects I feel that agricultural interests were very well treated by this bill. A number of items that were formerly cared for by direct appropriations have been shifted to the RFC to be financed by loans rather than by appropriations. This is particularly true of the Rural Electrification loans involving $100,000,000.00, the Rural Rehabilitation loans and the Farm Tenant loans. These very helpful agencies will be able to continue their work as will the Surplus Marketing Administration, which conducts the Food Stamp and Cotton stamp programs. I think that these last mentioned programs are very fine and helpful, but it seems to me that the money necessary to carry them on should be charged to Relief rather than to Agriculture as only a relatively small part of the money finally gets back to the farmers. Most of it goes to the relief clients and even the distributors get more out of most commodities than do the farmers.

We were able to secure an additional five million for the Soil Conservation Service, which I felt was of vital importance to the continuation of the fine soil conservation program, which we have under way—particularly in Texas. Without this money it would have been impossible to put our newly organized soil conservation districts into operation. With this money we should make great progress thruout Central Texas in the matter of saving our soil.

"AMERICAN PRESS"
NAME OF NEW CARGO SHIP

Named as a tribute to a free and vigorous American Press, the United States Lines motorship, "American Press" was launched with elaborate ceremonies, March 11 at the Western Pipe & Steel Company in South San Francisco.

Christened by Camilla Chandler, 15 year old daughter of Norman Chandler, chairman of the Newspaper Publishers Committee and president of the Los Angeles Press will be launched with "American Press" will join its sister ships, "American Leader", "American Manufacturer", "American Builder" and a fifth ship not yet named, in the American Pioneer lines service to the orient.

Kenneth D. Dawson, vice president in charge of Pacific coast operations for the United States Lines explained the naming of the new C-1 cargo ship. "To maintain a democracy," he said, "It is imperative that its citizens be informed. We have seen democracies and human freedom disappear in Europe only after the sources of information in a free press were destroyed. It is fundamentally because of its uncensored newspapers that the American public can remain free, protected against tyranny and injustice. It is therefore with pride that we have given the name of the "American Press" to our new motorship."

Dawson mentioned the splendid job of newspapers in keeping the United States informed of the progress of the American Merchant Marine as a vital part of national defense.

When completed the "American Press" will carry 59 officers and crew with accommodations for eight passengers. With a 417 ft. 9 in. length overall and a shaft horsepower of 4,000, the ship will speed at 14 knots fully loaded. Of electric welded construction throughout, the motorship has a total dead weight tonnage of 8,975. Maximum cruising radius is 20,800 nautical miles.

These include Silver Green, Richmond Grey, Jewel Blue, Baronet Blue, Pine Green, Newport Tan, Maroon, Gunmetal, Black, Quaker Grey and Hollywood Tan. P. C. (PETE) MARTIN PIONEER OF PECAN GROVE DIED SATURDAY, MARCH 1

Mr. P. C. Martin, 71, died at his home at Pecan Grove Saturday morning, March 1st, at 8:30 o'clock. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Pecan Grove church with Rev. M. E. Fairchild of Menard, Texas, officiating, with the pastor, Rev. Mr. Rexrode assisting. Interment was made in the Davidson cemetery with Lee's in charge. Six brothers acted as pallbearers.

Besides the widow, Mr. Martin is survived by five sons: Othar, Bryon, Joe, P. C., Jr., Bruns, and a daughter, Mrs. Paul Edmondson of Hamilton. There are also eight brothers: F. L., of Hamlin; F. M., of Dallas; S. W., of Hamilton; G. C. and P. H. of Gatesville; B. A. and J. R. of Pecan Grove and M. B. Martin of McGregor; four sisters: Mrs. A. T. Jones, Mrs. E. A. Perry and Mrs. Johnnie Johnson, all of Hamilton, and Mrs. G. W. Lee, Sr., of McGregor.

Mr. Martin was truly a pioneer of the Pecan Grove community, having lived in that immediate section all of his life. As an attest to his friendship and the esteem in which he was held, was evidence of the fact that one of the largest crowds ever to attend a funeral in Coryell county was present Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Martin had been suffering from a heart ailment for the past year and a half, but was only confined to his bed for a few days preceding his death.—The McGregor Mirror.

NEWS

FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1941

Notes of a New Yorker:

Newspapermen know how United Press feels about the following fact . . . It reminds its staffers that news may break any place—and it warns them not to be indifferent to any locale for scoops . . . It stems from 1917, when the late Bob Bender (who became UP's vice president) was in the White House washroom, and in came Joe Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson . . . Tumulty was so upset he couldn't steady himself, which made Bender nervous . . . "What the devil's the matter with you, anyway?" shouted the newspaperman.

"Y-y-y-you'd b-b-b-be n-n-n-nervous, too," chattered Tumulty, "if you h-h-h-had j-j-j-just seen a Declaration of War!" Bender, still disarranged, sped out of the place and down to the UP offices with the notable scoop.

There is danger that Hitler can take America, but there is more danger in those so-called Americans who would give it to him.

The newspapers, as you probably have heard, always write the obituaries of well-known citizens long before they die and then file them away until they are summoned to the Pearly Gates. One New York newspaper has this opening line on Father Divine, the colored question mark, to wit: "Father Divine, the man who claimed he would live forever, didn't."

One of Broadway's ham actors was recently booked into one of those intimate night clubs . . . On his opening night he warned the manager that he needed absolute quiet while he performed . . . The manager complied by instructing his staff to obey this request . . . After the first performance the manager went backstage to inquire if everything was okay.

"No," shouted the ham, "all through my act there was a terrific disturbance. It went puck brrrrrrr thwackk! Have that stopped!"

"Look," squelched the manager, "when that puck brrrrrrr thwackk stops—you will be fired. That's the cash register!"

Cholly Adler, the Tavern-keeper, relays the one about the day Goering stormed into an aircraft factory, ordered a dozen planes, and demanded they be ready in three days . . . "That is impossible!" shrieked the foreman . . . "It must be so," barked Goering, and strode away . . . Nazi efficiency came crashing through, and three days later, when a crew arrived at the factory, the planes were ready as ordered . . . The pilots got in and soared over the channel to bomb the British . . . Reaching London, the first pilot pulled his bomb release—and out dropped four of the factory's night shift!

Joseph Clark Baldwin, who has been mentioned for the vacancy caused by the passing of Kenneth Simpson, has a four-year-old unmarried son who attends private school. The other day he was asked to recite the Pledge of Allegiance . . . All the political talk he heard at home apparently confused him. He convulsed his teacher by starting: "I pledge allegiance to the flag and to the Republicans for which it stands!"

Jimmy Dorsey tells about the Hollywood producer who was trying to theft a big box-office personality from a rival studio. He dangled a contract in front of the actor and asked: "Well, is it Yes?" The actor shook his head . . . "Then," persisted the producer, "is it No?" . . . The actor still shook his head. "Well," plaintively continued the producer, "at least won't you reconsider and give me a definite maybe?"

A delegation of Japanese recently visited the Curtiss-Wright aviation plant in Paterson, N. J. . . . An inspection tour, it was called . . . They were loaded with cameras, of course . . . Guided and supervised by courteous personnel, they were allowed to snap pictures of certain parts and motors to their hearts' content . . . Now don't get excited—it was all right . . . This was the catch . . . Before leaving the plant all had to pass through a tiny room in single file . . . In that room, unknown to them, was a battery of X-ray machines, bombarding away . . . Those rays, in case you didn't know, rendered useless the films the Japanazis had exposed . . . None of the pictures "turned out," and no relations or niceties were strained.

Broadway Alien: When he shakes your hand he wants to know what's in your heart, not up your sleeve . . . He continues tipping his hat to ladies long after he's lost his curly strands . . . When he borrows a dollar, he has the headache, not the lender . . . If he trips at your house, he consults his doctor, not his lawyer . . . He always has a reason for what he does—not an alibi . . . The only thing he ever got on the cuff was a spot of gravy . . . He thinks his father was a lucky guy in meeting his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. English returned to their home here last Thursday. They had been at the bedside of their son, Joe Hal English, who had been in a hospital in Brenham. Joe Hal was moved from Brenham to the hospital at A. and M. College, and last reports were that he was improving rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Wollard and Jack Wollard visited W. W. Rankin in Caldwell Sunday.

THE STORY TO DATE
To Queen Elizabeth, Spain represented a constant menace. She knew that King Philip was building an Armada, yet she dared not sanction the raids of her freebooters on the Spanish merchantmen. Among the Queen's young subjects is Michael Ingolby who has returned from Spanish captivity to his sweetheart, Cynthia, lady-in-waiting to the Queen. Michael thwarts an attempt on the life of Her Majesty.

Chapter Three

Elizabeth's faithful retainers were frightened by the unsuccessful attempt on the life of the Queen. This one was the work of a demented but harmless wretch. But it served to prove how vulnerable the Queen's life was, and those close to Elizabeth knew that the court was infected by conspirators in the pay of King Phillip. What if these resolute traitors should strike? Michael betrayed the anxiety of the others when he impulsively turned on the Spanish ambassador

Within the day it was all arranged. Michael would go to Phillip as Hilary Vane. The mission was fraught with peril, but if he returned with the information they sought, he would be greatly rewarded.

Only Cynthia protested. "Michael, Michael," she cried, "We have a right to be happy!"

But Michael, eyeing the fireplace, spoke thoughtfully. "The last time I watched a fire fall to pieces was the day my father . . . Elena and I . . ." He spoke the last words chokingly in his hands. But Cynthia was desperate. "If you are killed, Michael, there will be so many years without you. I shall grow old. Fifty years without you, fifty springs, summers winters . . ."

She clung pitifully to him. The Queen, stirred and deeply moved, watched the leave-taking of the young lovers. Michael slowly averted his face from Cynthia's gaze, tenderly pulled himself away from her, and walked from the chamber. Elizabeth, unable to find words of consolation, moved forward quietly. "Mistress, where go you?" she asked in a low voice.

"I do but seek some quiet place to weep," spoke Cynthia.

"Michael," she cried, "we have a right to be happy!"

at court one day, shouting "In Spain it is common talk that England is full of traitors whom you have sworn to service!" But the boy had no facts, was discredited by the laughing Spanish ambassador.

Leicester, believing that he was doing the Queen service, gave orders to have Hilary Vane, a foppish young gentleman followed. Leicester was convinced that Vane served to carry Phillip's orders to his servellings in England.

Then one day, Michael in the palace was being mildly reproved by old Burchley for his impatience, when Cynthia entered breathlessly. "The Queen is asking for you, you are to come quickly," she said.

When Burchley wheeled into the Queen's chambers, he discovered Her Majesty in a towering rage, screaming at Leicester who was pale, apologetic. "You give orders! You give orders," she shouted. "By God, my Lord, if you think to rule here you will soon know better."

"Burchley," she cried as she saw the old man, "Vane is dead."

Burchley recoiled. He had given orders that Vane should be untouched. Convinced of his guilt, the councilor had planned with the Queen to permit the traitor to go to Phillip. When he returned, they would seize him with all his damning information. But Leicester, over-eager, scatter-brained, had countermanded the orders. Vane had thrown himself into the channel and drowned with all his information and letters.

While the Queen railed at the expostulating Leicester, Burchley thought. He knew a youth who was not a traitor, who could speak Spanish, who would serve his Queen boldly and well. Michael, Michael Ingolby!

"Weep here, then," said the Queen and stretched out her arms.

A moment later Michael was bidding farewell to old Burchley, getting his last instructions.

"Here," spoke Burchley, "is the money—and the license to travel." "The licence not granted to Hilary Vane," blurted out Leicester who was impatiently striding up and down the room.

"He was on his way to Phillip when he died," Michael spoke thoughtfully.

"And took his secrets with him," answered Burchley.

"Secrets?" said Michael.

Leicester interrupted. "We know of a plot against the Queen, but not the plotters' names."

"Does Phillip know them," asked Michael.

"None but Phillip!" retorted Leicester with a vigorous nod of his head.

Michael paused for a moment, then spoke quietly. "I will get those names?"

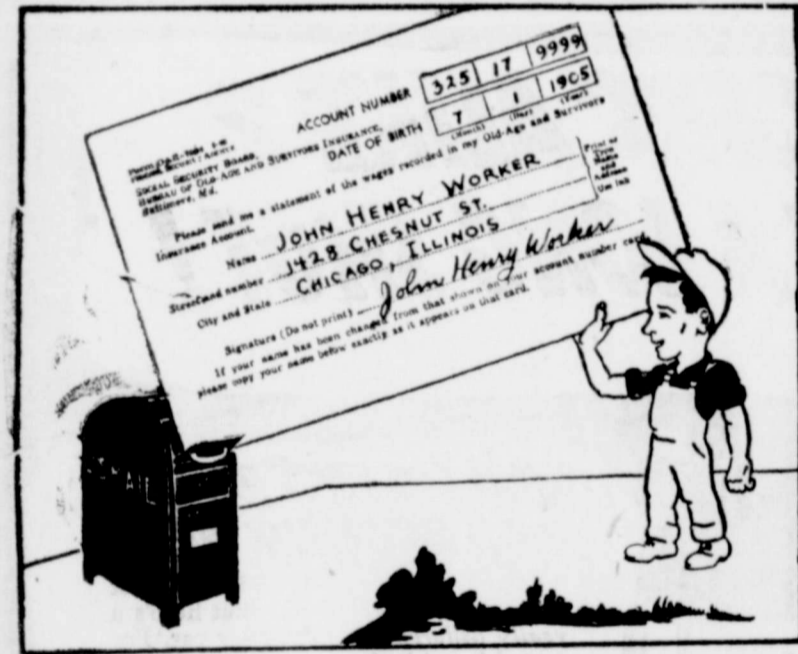

"How?" breathed Burchley. "I do not know, my lords," answered Michael. "But I know that if I do not get those names for you I will never see England again."

Michael shook the hands of both his old friends firmly, then walked from the room. When he was gone, Burchley sat in tense silence for a moment. Then he walked to a window where he might see Michael pass. As he watched the stalwart figure of the young man disappear down the pathway, the old man wiped a tear from the corner of his eye.

"May God guide him and protect him," he spoke.

"Amen!" whispered Leicester.
