gatesville, Texas

Tuesday about 2:30 p.m., we walked in a Gatesville business—you know, it was 'quiet' in Gatesville that day.

Here's what we saw, while everybody else was worrying about money going out and none coming in, imagine this:—

The owner was sitting in a chair, his feet extended to a nearby desk, a newspaper was laved across his lap like he'd dropped it, the radio was howling, and an electric fan was blowing in his face. He was asleep.

Now, this man was 'making it'. He knew there wasn't any use staying awake and he did the sensible things our so-called ignorant Mexican neighbors do — he was taking an afternoon siesta. We heartily recommend (at this time of year) extended siestas 'AT HOME' from about 12 noon to 'coffee time' 3 p.m. At least, that would cut out one coffee time, and even add a happier. We commend this man, and his idea of business!

From the Waco Citizen-News we read with interest, this item from their columnist:

"We still have plenty of moochers most every day. At least a good portion of the people just don't want to work. Probably it comes easier by living off the other fellow. Haven't heard any more from the ones who resented their pictures in the paper for hand out of commodities at the courthouse. One advantage of these gifts of groceries is that it leaves this class of people their spending money with which to buy automobiles. This helps the used car salesman. So it is an ill wind that blows nobody good."

Gettin' local business, and creatin' good will is A.T. our job, but this week, this incident happened.

A former resident of Gatesville and a GHS graduate presented a check (we don't know for how much, we don't think much) at a local financial to be cashed. She showed, drivers license, Blue Cross card, and other identification, but still was refused. Why, of course, we don't know. Mind you, she works in a neighboring town public institution and lives in a small town near that town. She had ample (in our mind, and from what we know) identification, and was, we think rightfully upset at the financial institution which would not take care of this little courtesy. She DID go to another public place and with the same identification, was cordially received and the 'insignificant' service taken care of.

Of course, it's these little courtesies that build our town, and it's these little discourtesies that tear down our town.

We DO wonder why this would happen here! Certainly should not.

6 SSBs In Two Houses One Guard Clobbered: Charges Indefinite

Wednesday about 3 o'clock, some 5 or 6 SSBs at the Maximum Security Unit — California Hall — clobbered W. K. Trammel over the head with a guitar, cutting a gash on his head of about one inch. Bill Powell, another guard came to his rescue and was swung on with a chair, but was not injured, and subdued the rucus.

The Wednesday affaire stemmel reports are, from another difficulty the day before, featuring a guard and some of the inmates.

Trammel was treated at Coryell Memorial Hospital and released and the 6 boys were brought in to Sheriff Winfred Cummings' office for questioning, by District Attorney Truman Roberts and other officials. So far, no charges have been filed.

Two of the SSBs climbed the 12 or 15 ft. fence surrounding the Mximum Security Unit, but were retaken on state land. They were allowed out of their cells for exercise.

GRANDVILLE, MICH., STAR: "We don't miss water till the well runs dry," is a saying familiar to everyone and it certainly has a lot of truth in it, whether taken literally or figuratively . . .
"With our water supply, we have to worry before the well goes dry and make sure we have enough of it and the pumps to supply it for our daily needs . . . Likewise, with industry, we should appreciate its presence and make sure we don't lose it. When the well runs dry, it is too late. After an industry leaves a community it also is too late to do anything about it. . ."

Then comes the transfer to Wichita Falls and they found a house there.

Little Miss Katie Leonard of Hamilton visited the Wallace Parrishes this week.

Last Sunday visitors with the Ralph Perrymans were X Raby Alford and daughters, Belton, Nolan Baize, Gatesville; Haynes Baize Dallas; X Clovis Belvin, Kay and E. J. and Claude Griggs.

George Parrish decided to take his tractor and mower to the Live Oak Cemetery and mow all the vacant lots, the parking lot, driveways, etc. Somehow, a few others learned his plan and Mrs. J. B. Jones and Mrs. James Billingsley prepared a picnic lunch and served it. Gayle Calhoun and Marvin Wunningham took their power mowers, and others who helped were J. T. Neal, Hamilton, Clovis and E. J. Belvin and Clifford Onstott. The work was donated, and many others would have joined had they known.

Marvin Wunningham, one of the directors, made a worthwhile suggestion, that we hope the members will give careful consideration, before the next meeting of the association. It was that Liveoak, like many other cemeteries, level all graves so that the power mowers can do the work much easier and at less expense.

CHEWELAH, WASH., INDEPENDENT: "One of the homepun virtues of America has been to work and save. Even though a man knew he couldn't take it with him, he could hope to provide for his old age and for his wife and children after he was gone. But inflation has turned this virtue into a mockery. Americans who have worked hard and lived carefully find now that the value has been sapped from the hard-earned dollars they put aside. . .

"Yet inflation is not inevitable. It is caused by our own actions and can be cured by our own actions. A major cause of inflation is heavy government spending and debt—caused by our demands on government. We can remove this cause of inflation by stopping our demands for government handouts and by demanding government economy instead. . ."

Congressman Bob Poage's Newsletter

The House has accepted the "Conference Report" on the Foreign Aid Bill. I voted against the bill when it came before us for the reasons I explained in my letter of June 19th. The Conference Report did not, in my opinion, improve the bill. I voted against the report. The House has also accepted the Senate version of the T.V.A. financing bill. The Senate bill was possibly more restrictive than the House bill, but it was felt that the only sure way of getting action at this session was to accept the Senate bill rather than to send the measure to a Conference Committee. I had voted for the House bill and I now voted for the Senate Bill.

I feel that I should possibly explain the term "Conference Report," as it is of increasing importance at this stage of the session.

After one House passes a bill it must be passed in exactly the same form by the other House before it can go to the President. Generally, when the House passes a bill on a given subject, the Senate may pass a somewhat similar bill on the same general subject. If either House is willing to accept the action of the other without change, as we did in the case of the T.V.A. bill, that completes congressional action and the bill

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from HENRY A. HOLLE, M. D., Commissioner of Health, the Texas State Department of Health.

Summertime is barefoot time! Think back Mom and Dad to the summers when you dragged your feet through the dust let mud ooze up between your toes, or if you were a city dweller, maybe you splashed in the gutters after a light rain.

But along with this great childhood pleasure of going barefoot goes a danger of possibly contracting tetanus—but not necessarily! Lockjaw, or tetanus, cases jump in summertime because exposure in the form of cuts, or puncture wounds are more frequent in warm weather when people are out-of-doors.

The germs of lockjaw are commonly found in soil — especially manured soil. They enter through a break in the skin and emit a deadly toxin which cause jaw and neck muscles to constrict so severely that jaws involuntarily close, vice-like.

Slowly the muscle constriction spreads to other body muscles, until the victim is bent like a bow. Lockjaw germs are spore-formers, which means they can live for years outside an animal body. Its life processes lie dormant in a tiny sede-like pod, sifting about on the ground until finally, perhaps through a nail puncture, it gets back into live tissue.

The wound may heal over, but inside, protected as it is from the air, the spore may begin "revegetating" and emitting deadly toxin.

The primary source of the germs is the intestinal tract of all animals. They're passed onto the ground in animal dejects, easily available for re-entry into a human body when that body is cut or scratched or otherwise wounded.

Exposures to lockjaw are so common that it is mere common sense for everyone to maintain a high level of protection via immunization. Such shots should be given children early in life, at the discretion of your family physician and then maintain immunity with periodic boosters, especially following exposure.

NANTY-GLO, PA., JOURNAL:

"It is appropriate now that the people, government officials, union leaders and workers themselves honestly consider the potentialities that another wage-price spiral may create in our country. Russia's boast for half a century that America would spend itself into bankruptcy may be possible if our dollars keep falling in value to a point of inflation equal to that of the German marks following the end of World War I."

Responsibility for Government

"Let every soul be subject unto the higher power." — Romans 13:1

Every man, St. Paul is saying, should consider himself subject to the government. He tells the early Christians this because they were continually in trouble with Rome.

We in the United States are often in trouble with our government, and in most cases it is our own fault. We get excited about our candidate for public office, but once he is elected we forget him completely. This inevitably leads to bad government.

People, or countries, get the kind of government they deserve. Responsible people elect responsible officials and have responsible government as a result.

The deciding factor is always you, or me, the little voter. Your vote can remove bad government; your vote can make a good government.

... With EDWARD W. GREENFIELD

With the outbreak of the steel strike, President Eisenhower declared that he would not use the power of government to interfere because he believes in what he called "free bargaining." In keeping government out, he was proceeding on sound, Constitutional principle.

But what is this thing called "free bargaining"?

In building a home, you invite a contractor to sit down with you and discuss wages and costs. He asks for so much, you say you can pay so much, and you reach an agreement. If you don't offer what he thinks he must have, he regretfully says he can't work for you, and you look for somebody else.

That is completely free and legitimate bargaining.

But suppose he tells you that if you don't pay his price, he will not only refuse to build your house, he won't let anyone else build it, either!

You recognize at once that that is coercion, and you don't hesitate to call it what it is, a monopolistic shakedown!

Apply this simple illustration to the situation in steel, or any other like it. There is no difference in principle, yet THIS is what the President calls "free bargaining!" Can anyone explain how you "bargain" with a gun in your ribs?

The only place to pass on curves is in a beauty contest.
