

Flood Control Watershed Protection Should Concern All

By A. I. MILES
 Hamilton-Coryell SCS District
 Discussions of watersheds and flood control when we are experiencing a severe drought may seem untimely. However it is not wise to assume the attitude of the Old Timer who lived in a house with a very leaky roof. One day while it was raining a traveler asked the old timer why he didn't repair the roof. The old timer's reply was "I can't, it's raining."
 Traveler: "Why don't you repair it when it is not raining?"
 Old Timer: "That would be foolish. When it is not raining the roof doesn't leak."
 As this is being written it is not raining and consequently we have no floods. In fact we have had very little rain in the past two months, until last week. But the rain will come and we can expect damaging floods in this area where watersheds have not been protected by flood control programs. No one knows when this will occur or what the extent of the damage will be. We do know from past experience that the damage likely will be extensive. Primarily when we think of floods we think of damage sustained by farmers and ranchers washed out crops, drowned livestock, wrecked fences, etc. Damage does not stop with this group as wide spread as their losses may be. Floods result in great damage to public and private roads, bridges, public utilities, railroads, cities and towns. Loss of life frequently occurs and property damage runs into the millions of dollars. Therefore flood control and watershed protection should be of deep concern for every one. It is not likely we will ever be able to prevent floods, but it is feasible to control floods through proven flood control measures. The most effective way to control flooding is the construction of retention dams on the upper reaches of watersheds. A watershed is all of an area that drains into a stream. When high frequency rain occur, water is concentrated in low lands in excess of the capacity of stream channels and we have floods. The result is severe property damage and too often the loss of human life. It is rather a simple process to control flooding. It is entirely a mechanical operation, applying proven engineering practices in construction of up-stream reservoirs to catch, hold and release excess rainfall in such volume it can flow downstream and stay within stream channel banks. It is less simple under present procedures to get a watershed organized to a point where construction can get underway. First of all the people of a watershed must be concerned enough to initiate required procedures. The procedure provides for a showing of the physical feasibility of developing a sound watershed program. Economic necessity must be justified. It must be shown the land treatment in the watershed drainage area is such as to comply with established standards for sediment control, etc. Local sponsors' interest, willingness and resources must be shown to be adequate. All this requires a strong local organization with a sustained high degree of interest. Percentage-wise the cost to local people is very little compared with benefits to be derived from flood control effected by a well developed watershed program. The USDA, through the Soil Conservation Service, does all the engineering work and supplies funds for installation of required structures. Soil Conservation Districts are co-sponsors of small watershed projects. The Supervisors of the Hamilton-Coryell CD would like to see a small watershed group organized in each watershed in the district. Due to present lack of funds for surveys, etc., it may be some time before a watershed would become a reality. However, it is advisable for groups to form local organizations now in order to take prompt advantage of anything that might speed up small watershed development.

protects young eyes... makes studying easier

Good lighting is important to everyone, but particularly to school age children for home study. Proper light helps prevent eyestrain, aids concentration, makes home study more effective. For good light from a table lamp, make sure it is equipped with a 150-watt bulb and a diffusing bowl to prevent glare. Have enough other light in the room, too, to prevent harsh contrasts of brightness and shadow. Better light means better sight and better learning.

to say, all are so afternoon and the cotton was so pretty, and no dead cotton south of the bridge as in most fields, Monday at noon it was a running stream and no cotton to be seen on the south side, and part of the north field was also under water.

The Smith reunion was held at Hico last Sunday week. Relatives from here attending were Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Porterfield and Billy, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Edwards and family. The ladies' father, Lester Smith and other relatives from Houston were here to attend and visited in the homes of his daughters and families during the weekend. Mrs. Smith, who had been in Fort Worth to help care for another daughter who had recent surgery, met her husband here and accompanied him home. Mrs. Porterfield and Billy also returned home with them and visited with them until Thursday when Mr. Porterfield went down for them.

Mrs. Myrtle Enger of Brady spent Friday and Friday night in the home of her sister, the writer. She came down with a Mr. Finley, of Finley Memorial Yards at Brady. She had purchased a monument for her cemetery lot here. It was set up Friday morning and she remained here until his return from Jacksonville. He also set up a monument at the Coolidge cemetery near Mexia.

The writer and sister, Mrs. Enger attended the Dublin Fair Friday afternoon and on our return stopped in Hico for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Rufe Burnett. Mrs. Burnett was reared at Fairy and was a classmate of Mrs. Enger and this scribe. The Dublin Fair was a treat of sightseeing. They had gone all out to make their booths beautiful and attractive and had put out quiet a lot of time and effort in their project. The Dublin Home Demonstration Club had two booths and received first place in each of their divisions. We haven't been in any of the cotton fields here but from the samples shown in the Purves and Highland booths the have some good cotton up their way. Also many varieties of fruit and vegetables.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Duncan, who were recently married have decided to make their home here. He purchased the water well repair equipment from his father, Alga Duncan and will serve this and adjoining communities. As a boy and young man he assisted his father in this type of work and we feel sure he is qualified to serve you.

A miscellaneous wedding shower honoring Mr. and Mrs. Duncan will be held at the Fairy School homemaking room this Saturday evening, Sept. 13 at 8 o'clock. Invitations have been mailed out, but if by oversight anyone has been overlooked they are invited to attend. All are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Richardson and Jerry, and her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Adams of Hamilton spent Sunday in Austin visiting in the home of their niece and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Latham and family.

The writer attended singing Sunday afternoon at Lund Valley Baptist Church and on our return to Hamilton we visited a short while with Mrs. Selma Manning and in the Irvin Anglin home with Mr. A. H. Sumerford.

While in Dublin last Friday our sister Mrs. Enger and I visited at a rest home with J. B. Jaggers. We found him sitting up in his wheel chair with the Hico paper and stated he had just finished reading the Fairy newsletter. He formerly resided in this community. We also visited with Mrs. Ed Allison, now of Dublin, before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers, Jimmie and Janice visited awhile Sunday afternoon in the home of his mother, Mrs. N. S. Sellers of Hamilton and were also viewing the sights of the Leon River north of Hamilton on Highway 281

A lumber company from Hamilton are building a dwelling on the Marvin Porterfield lot in Fairy. The Porterfields recently lost their home and contents by fire. The foundation work was started on Thursday of last week. Contractors are from Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gardner and two little daughters of Arlington spent the weekend with his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Gardner.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Berry of San Antonio spent the weekend in the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sills. Mrs. Berry is the former Miss Velma (Bob) Sills.

Other relatives visiting in the Sills home during the week end to be with the Berrys were their sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Don Beck of Stephenville, the Sills daughter and husband, Mr.

and Mrs. Jack Halle of Fort Worth and a son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Sills and J. C. of Fairy. Mrs. Sills' mother, Mrs. Julia Brunson of Hico also visited in the Sills home on Sunday.

Our sincere thanks to Mrs. Oris Morrison of Stephenville for a donation of $5 for a year's care of her lot at the Fairy Cemetery. Also thanks to Alga Duncan for a $2 donation, which we were due him for labor and he in turn gave it to the cemetery. There will be some work to do at the cemetery since the heavy rain. Some of the mounds were partially washed out and some fills to make at graves and lots. We are glad we had the cemetery in good condition when the rain came as those small weeds would be much harder to get now. However a new crop will come up and there will soon be more work to do. Thanks to all who contributed.

CHATTER

By HELEN OGLE

I don't know why the first cool weather of our fall season has to whiz thru our area so fast, but nevertheless we did enjoy the preceding rains. And judging from all the chatter this week, I think most everyone discovered that they were living and working Gold Medallion style. 'Twas kinda hot during August, or maybe electricity costs more than month.

After receiving a postcard from a New Mexico reading, "Lost Irene in the Caverns! What now?" I was glad to see the staff on duty at Wilson Cleaners and learn that they had a wonderful vacation.

The H. H. Ramage home has been filled with visitors the past few weeks and Ma said that her sister, Lodie, counted heads one day and found too many so just packed up and returned to Dallas.

And Mrs. Wood says there is only one way to get the job done, and that's call in a classified ad—then let me goof on the phone number. The items sold overnight.

The cool weather and school bells had Teen Sutton and sog Mike hurrying Monday morning.

I learned this week that the change in the shoe department in Eurdens didn't just happen overnight, but came about over several hard working hours during a past holiday.

Mrs. Purley Sharp of Caritori says she still doesn't feel smart, but just plain lucky after winning a pig at the Dublin Fair. Seems that she guessed the weight as 80 pounds and 10 ounces, and the animal weighed 80 pounds and 9 ounces.

Nice to hear from Irene Frank who says "I am always glad to read the Hico News even though I am deeply rooted here in Alvord. I've been here nine years so it seems like home."

Research Helps Hard of Hearing

Our labs and Research Departments are working around the clock to find better ways to help the hard of hearing. Our Audiologists are studying and researching on the latest ways to help the hard of hearing. Our newspapers, radio and television are doing all they can to inform the public about this serious problem.

Mr. Treadway. They will buy an Aid like buying a loaf of bread, or buy one some one else has cast off, or order one through the mail. There is nothing wrong with buying your Aid like this. If you will bring the Aid in and have a complete test made of your hearing, loss and have the Aid fitted to you. It's very inexpensive and could prevent you from doing serious damage to the hearing nerve, plus giving you better hearing. If you wear a Hearing Aid and still don't hear, it stands to reason something is wrong. Find out what wrong is, and have it corrected.

Mr. Treadway, who is an Audiologist (not a hearing aid salesman) will hold his regular Hearing Clinic at the C & C Motel in Hico Tuesday, September 18th from 10 a. m. to 1 p. m. If you have a hearing problem of any kind come in and have a test made. Don't be one of the put it offers. The longer you wait the more damage you do to your hearing. If you have a Hearing Aid and can't hear, bring it in and we will see if we can adjust it to you. If you have been told you suffer from Nerve Deafness we would like to see you. With the new Instrument (not a hearing aid) we have been able to help lots of these cases. If you wear one of the body type Aids we can now take the button and big earmold out of the ear. If you are ashamed of the button and big earmold sticking out of your ear come in and see how we make you hear without it. The total cost including adjusting your Aid is just $10.00.

If you would like to come to our new office in Temple, Mr. Treadway is there every Thursday and Friday.

IT HAPPENED HERE OR NEAR—

A Look At Interesting Town Names In U.S.A

By E. E. DAWSON

The names of the towns, villages and cities of the United States are interesting from numerous standpoints. How did they get their names? Do sectional characteristics reveal themselves in the cognomens given the great number of places listed in the Rand McNally Road Atlas? If you were to start out and find a town with a name that specially appealed to you, how would you determine which was the right name? You can think of a lot of questions one might ask. So let's have a look at our place names as shown in this atlas.

Now "Liberty" is a favorite term with us Americans. Just suppose we wanted to live in a place of that name. As you look up that name you find that the following states have a Liberty: Arizona, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, South Carolina, and finally Texas. There are fourteen Liberties that you may choose from. As for me I'll take Liberty in Texas, for I have been there and know something of it. And I would have to learn about the other 13 Liberties. So the Liberty we boast about in these United States has certainly infiltrated the minds and purposes of our citizens of all areas.

Dallas is a favorite Texas city with a lot of us Texans. Are there other "Dallas" about the country? Yes: there are ten places of that name in the States. They range in population from 244 in Dallas, South Dakota, to a million plus in Dallas, Texas. The next largest Dallas is in Oregon with a population of 5,000. So again I'll take Dallas over on the Trinity River which is fussing a good deal right now about keeping and enlarging Love Field. In that controversy I would vote for a regional air field that would furnish adequate facilities for both Dallas and Fort Worth and this area of Texas.

Two of the heroes of our country are Washington and Lincoln. Naturally many places are named for the two men who have meant so much to our nation. The question that arose in my mind was "Which of these famous men have had the greater number of places named for him?" So I counted them and 20 states have each a Washington, and that is not counting Washington, D.C. which after all does count. Then I counted the Lincolns and found that there are 15 Lincolns in our land. Whether or not they were all named for Abraham Lincoln there is no way of telling, though it stands to reason that some of them could have been named for pioneer families in the states where the places are. But it is reasonable to suppose that most of them took their names from the Great Liberator.

One of the things noticeable about these places named Lincoln is the particular states in which they are found. Now there in a Lincoln, Alabama, a southern state that fought valiantly to defeat the liberation of the slaves that Lincoln fought for. All the others are in Northern States or Western.

Here are the states where they are found: California, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Massachusetts, Maine, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, and North Dakota. One would expect some of the states that supported Lincoln with such fervor would name some of its towns Lincoln, but here are the facts: they did not. North Carolina ought to be with Lincoln, Alabama.

Daniel Boone was one of our pioneer heroes. Naturally we expected to find him remembered by towns named for him. There are eight Boonevilles in the country. They are found in Arkansas, California, Indiana, Kentucky, Mississippi, Missouri, New York and North Carolina. Then there is Boonton in New Jersey. I thought I would find one in Tennessee, West Virginia, and Virginia. But I did not. Yet he was a hero in those parts.

I was curious to know if any other state could boast of a Hico. Yes. I found one, but they did not know how to spell it and so it is thus listed: "Hiko," and it is in Nebraska. Oh, well, those midwesterners did not enjoy facilities for education that we Texans have had. So you might well expect them to misspell it!

There are some funny names to be found over the country. For example "Bumble Bee, Arizona." In the same state one finds "Happy Jack." And over in Nevada they have "Duckwater." And again in Nevada is "Love-lock" which sounds like there must have been some sweethearts there once on a time. And how is that for Oklahoma "Bowlegs." In one of the Western States not long ago I ran across the name of a place pretty queer: "Lame Leg." In an older-day map once I ran across a place in Arizona named "Washer Woman."

I kept seeing a TV commercial that always had "Bonnevill" shown in it. Where is that place, I asked, and could not answer. Finally I found the only place in the United States named "Bonnevill" and it is in Wyoming. I wonder if the commercial was first started in that place. The name is French, if I am not mistaken, and when that part of the United States in which Wyoming is now, French influence was once strong. So then is when it must have got the name.

And what do you think of "Lock, Oklahoma." Wonder if it is the folks there who are loosed, or the stock. If you wanted to find a town whose name might indicate sophistication and much learning, what about "Library, Pennsylvania?" We have a lot of libraries in Texas but no town of that name; the state of William Penn is the only one in the United States.

Here is an interesting fact about places. Thirty-one states have places named "Lake," a few of them adding a syllable to the word "Lake" but most of them is "Lake" naming a lake on which it is situated. Texas does not have such a name; it is one of the 19 that do not have a "Lake" place name. Florida has more than a dozen lake names.

And one more thing: Are you so fond of Christmas that you would like to see it last all year? Well, three states offer you that opportunity: Arizona, Florida and Illinois. As for me I'm content with Christmas on December 25, once a year!
