Text of President Coolidge's Message to the 68th Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Following is the text of President Coolidge's message to the 68th congress, delivered before a joint session of the house and senate here today:

Since the close of the last congress the nation has lost President Harding. The world knew his kindness and his humanity, his greatness and his character. He has left his mark upon history. He has made justice more certain and peace more secure. The surpassing tributes paid to his memory as he was borne across the continent to rest at last at home revealed the place he held in the hearts of the American people. But this is not the occasion for extended reference to the man or his work. In this presence, among those who knew and loved him, that is unnecessary. But we who were associated with him could not refrain to mention the functions of our office without pausing for a moment, and in his memory re-consecrating ourselves to the service of our country. He is gone. We realize that it is unnecessary to repeat the example of his example, to take up the burdens which he was permitted to shoulder for us. We will support the wise principles of government which he represented.

Foreign Affairs.

For us peace reigns everywhere. We desire to perpetuate it always by granting full justice to others and requiring of others full justice to ourselves.

Our country has one cardinal principle to maintain in its foreign policy. It is an American principle. It is that we will not attend to our own affairs, conserve our own strength, and protect the interests of our own citizens; but we recognize thoroughly our obligation to help others, reserving to the decision of our own judgment when and where the basic fact of humanity is the common bond of humanity. We know the inescapable law of reciprocity.

Our foreign policy has definitely refused to adopt and ratify the covenant of the League of Nations. We have not ratified it, assuming the responsibilities which its members have assumed. I am not proposing any change in this policy; neither do I propose to withdraw from it. As we are concerned, it is closed. The league exists as a foreign agency. We hope it will be helpful. But the United States see no reason to limit its own freedom and independence of action by joining it. We shall do nothing to recognize its basic fact of humanity in international affairs and govern ourselves accordingly.

World Court.

Our foreign policy has always been guided by two principles. The one is the avoidance of permanent political alliances which would sacrifice our proper independence. The other is the peaceful settlement of controversies between nations. The Hague Tribunal, and have long sought the creation of a permanent World Court of Justice. I am in full accord with both of these policies. I favor the establishment of such a court in the interest of the whole world. The league, and has long been an American policy.

The proposal that the senate is a proposal that the senate give its support to the permanent court of international justice, which is a new and somewhat different plan. This is not a partisan question. It should not assume an artificial importance. The court is merely a convenient instrument of adjustment to which we could not be brought. It should be discussed with entire candor, not by a political party, but by a judicial method, without prejudice and without party spirit. Friendship has no place in our foreign relations. As I wish to see a court established, and as the proposal presents the only practical means on which many nations have ever agreed, though they not meet every desire, I therefore commend it to the favorable consideration of the senate, with the proposed reservations clearly indicating our refusal to adhere to the League of Nations.

Russia.

Our diplomatic relations, lately so largely interrupted, are now being resumed. But Russia presents notable difficulties. We have every desire to see that great people, who are our traditional friends, restored to their position among the nations of the earth. We have relieved their pitiable destitution with an enormous charity. Our government offers no objection to the carrying on of commerce by our citizens with the people of Russia. Our government does not propose, however, to enter into relations with another regime which refuses to recognize the sanctity of international obligations. I do not propose to make merchandise of any American principles. These rights and principles must go wherever the sanctions of our government go.

But while the favor of America is not for sale, I am willing to make very large concessions for the purpose of rescuing the people of Russia. Already encouraging evidences of returning to the ancient ways of society can be detected. But more are needed. Whenever there appears any disposition to compensate our citizens who were despoiled, and to recognize that debt contracted with our government, not by the war, but by the newly formed republic of Russia; whenever the active spirit of enmity to our institution is abated; whenever there appears workable hope for repentance; our country ought to be the first to go to the economic and moral rescue of Russia. We have every desire to see the time when we may again be able to give every home a better chance.

Debts.

The current debt and interest due to foreign governments, exclusive of the British debt of $4,600,000,000, is about $7,200,000,000. I do not see any objection to adjusting in accordance with the principle of the British debt. Our government has an obligation to maintain the principle of the British debt. It is our duty to like moral obligations which international faith and honor require should be discharged. We are not to wish to assume any claim against Germany for the expense of the army of occupation of the Rhine. The British debt is a mixed claim. A commission have before them about 12,600 claims of American citizens, aggregating about $123,000,000. These claims have already been reduced by a recent decision, but there are still about $3,200,000,000. Our thousands of citizens with credits due them of hundreds of millions of dollars have no reason to regret the action of our government. These are very substantial interests, which it is the duty of our government to protect as far as possible. That course I propose to pursue.

It is for these reasons that we have a direct interest in the economic recovery of Europe. They are enlarged by our desire for the stability of civilization and the welfare of humanity. That we are making sacrifices to that end cannot be denied. Our deferred interest alone amounts to a million every day. I have earnestly urged to aid with our advice and counsel. We have reiterated our desire to see France paid and Germany revived. We have earnestly sought to meet the differences and restore peace. I shall persevere in well-doing, not by force, but by reason.

Foreign Papers.

Under the law the papers pertaining to foreign relations to be printed and transmitted as a part of this message. Other volumes of these papers will follow.

Public Improvements.

The foreign service of our government needs to be reorganized and improved.

Fiscal Condition.

Our main problems are domestic problems. Financial stability is the first requisite of sound government. We can not escape the effect of world conditions. We can not avoid the inevitable results of the economic disorders which have reached all nations. But we shall diminish their harm to us in proportion as we continue to restore our government finances to a secure and equitable position. This we can and must do. Upon that firm foundation rests the only hope of progress and prosperity. From that source must come relief for the people.

This is being accomplished by the drastic but orderly retrenchment which is bringing our expenses within our means. The origin of this has been the budget system. The result has involved real sacrifice by department heads, but it has been made without flinching. This system is a law of the congress. It represents your will. It must be maintained, and ought to be strengthened by the example of your observance. Without a budget system there can be no fixed responsibility and no constructive scientific economy.

This great concentration of effort has brought the expenditure of the administration and congress down to the level of the self-supporting government department. Down to three billion dollars. It is possible, in consequence, to make a large reduction in the taxes of the people, which is the sole object of all curtailment. This is treated at greater length in the budget message, and a proposed plan has been presented in detail in a statement by the secretary of the treasury which has my unqualified approval. I especially commend a decrease in earned incomes, and further abolition of admission, message, and nuisance taxes. The amusement and educational taxes ought not to be taxed. Diminishing charges against moderate incomes from investment will afford immense relief, while a revision of the surtaxes will not only provide additional money for capital investment, thus stimulating industry and employing more labor, but will not greatly reduce the revenue from that source and may in the future actually increase it.

Being opposed to war taxes in time of peace, I am not in favor of excess-profits taxes. A very great service could be rendered through immediate enactment of legislation relieving the people of some of the burden of taxation. To reduce war taxes is to give every home a better chance.

For seven years the people have borne with uncomplaining courage the tremendous burden of national and local taxation. These must both be reduced accordingly. High taxes reach everywhere and burden everybody. They bear most heavily upon the poor. They diminish industry and commerce. They make agriculture unprofitable and increase the rates on transportation. They are a charge on every necessary article of life. Of all services which the congress can render to the country, I have no hesitation in declaring this one to be paramount. To neglect it to postpone it, to obstruct it by unsound proposals, is to become unworthy of public confidence and untrue to public trust. The country wants this measure to have the right of way over all others.

Another reform which is urgent in our fiscal system is the abolition of the right to issue tax certificates. The existing system not only permits a large amount of the wealth of the nation to be diverted to the benefit of a few individuals, but just burden but acts as a continual stimulant to municipal extravagance. This should be prohibited by constitutional amendment. All the wealth of the nation ought to contribute its fair share to the expenses of the nation.

Tariff Law.

The present tariff law has accomplished its two main objects. It has secured an abundant revenue and been productive of an abundant prosperity. Under it the country has had a very large export and import trade. A constant adjustment of the tariff by the congress is disturbing and harmful. The present law contains an elastic provision authorizing the president to increase or decrease present schedules in excess of 50 per centum to meet the difference in production at home and abroad. This does not, in my mind, warrant a revision of the tariff law, but it does mean, and should be admitted, that whenever the required investigation shows that inequities of sufficient magnitude exist in any schedule, the power to change them should and will be applied.

Shipping Law.

The entire well-being of our country is dependent upon transportation by sea and land. Our government during the war acquired a large merchant fleet which should be transferred, as soon as possible, to private ownership and operation under conditions which would secure two results: First, and of prime importance, adequate means for national defense; second, adequate service to American commerce. In all shipping conditions are such that our fleet can be disposed of advantageously under these conditions. It will be operated as economically as possible under such plans as may be devised from time to time by the shipping board. We must have a merchant marine which meets these requirements, and we shall have to pay the cost of its service.

Public Improvements.

The time has come to resume in a moderate way the opening of our intracoastal waterways; the control of flood waters of the Mississippi and of the Colorado River; the improvement of the waterways from the Great Lakes toward the Gulf of Mexico; and the development of the great power and navigation project of the St. Lawrence River, for which efforts are now being made to secure the necessary treaty with Canada. These projects cannot all be undertaken at once, but all should have the immediate consideration of the congress and be adopted as fast as plans can be made.

The necessary funds become available. This is not compatible with economy, for their nature does not require so much a public expenditure as a capital investment. It is the method, as evidenced by the marked increase in revenue from the Panama Canal. Upon these projects depend much future industrial and agricultural progress. They represent the protection of large areas from flood and the addition of a great amount of cheap power, and the deep freight by use of navigation, chief of which is the bringing of ocean-going ships to the Gulf States.

Another problem of allied character is the superpower development of the northeastern states, consisting of which is a great area, under the direction of the department of commerce by joint conference with the local authorities.

Railroads.

Criticism of the railroad law has been directed, first, to the section laying down the rules by which rates are fixed, and providing for payment to the government and use of excess earnings; second, to the method for the adjustment of wage scales; and third, to the authority permitting consolidations.

It has been erroneously assumed that the act undertakes to guarantee railroad earnings. The law requires that rates should be just and reasonable. That has always been the rule under which rates have been fixed. To make a rate that does not yield a fair return results in confiscation, and confiscatory rates are of course unconstitutional. Unless the government adheres to the rule of making a rate that will yield a fair return, it must abandon rate making altogether. The new and important feature of that part of the law is the restructure and redistribution of excess rates. The constitutionality of this method is now being argued before the supreme court. Their decision should be awaited before attempting further legislation on this subject. Further, the importance of the law will not be great if consolidation goes into effect.

The settlement of railroad labor disputes is a matter of grave public concern. The labor board was established to protect the public in the enjoyment of continuing service by attempting to insure justice between the companies and their employees. It has been a great help, but is not altogether satisfactory to the public, the employees or the companies. If a substantial agreement can be reached among the groups interested, there should be no hesitation in enacting such agreement into law. If it is not reached, the labor board may very well be left in the present to protect the public welfare.

The law for consolidation is not sufficiently effective to be expeditious. Additional legislation is needed giving authority for voluntary consolidations, both regional and route, and for the reorganization machinery to aid and stimulate such action, always subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This should authorize the commission to appoint committees for each proposed group, representing the public and the component roads, with power to negotiate with individual security holders for an exchange of their securities for those of the consolidation on such terms and conditions as the commission may prescribe for avoiding any confiscation and insuring fair values. Should this permissive consolidation prove ineffective after a limited period, the authority of the government will have to be directly invoked.

Consolidation appears to be the only feasible method for the maintenance of an adequate system of transportation with an opportunity to adjust freight rates as to meet such temporary conditions as now prevail in some regulatory sections. Competent authorities agree that an entire reorganization of the rate structure is necessary. This should be ordered at once by the congress.

Department of Justice.

As no revision of the laws of the United States in this regard since 1878, a commission or committee should be created to undertake this work. The judicial council should be two district judges of New York, one in the northern district of Georgia, and two more judges in the circuit court of appeals of the eighth circuit. Legislation should be considered for this purpose.

It is desirable to expedite the hearing and disposal of cases. A commission of federal judges and lawyers should be created to recommend legislation by which the procedure in the federal trial courts may be reorganized and simplified. Such rules to be submitted to the congress. The supreme court needs legislation revising and simplifying the laws governing review by that court, and enlarging the classes of cases of too little importance to subject to review. Such reforms would expedite the transaction of the business of the courts. The judicial system of justice is likely to fail if it is long delayed.

The national government has never given adequate attention to its prison problems. It ought to provide employment in such forms of manual work as are suitable for government, though not add to the public in competition with private business, for all prisoners who can be placed at work, and for which they should receive a reasonable compensation, available for their maintenance and other needs. Two independent reformatories are needed, one for the segregation of women, and another for the segregation of men serving their sentence. The administration of justice would be facilitated greatly by including in the bureau of investigation of the department of justice a division of criminal identification.

First Victor record by this fine organization, which is a feature of Louisville, Ky., this winter, at the Brown Hotel. There is plenty doing in this record.

Bonnie is not the lady of our youth, who lived over the ocean, but a lady, addressed, in the vocal refrain, in Scotch accents. "March of the Mannikins" is oddly Russian.

The fox trot records of Charles Dornberger and his men have won favor, and deservedly, so here is another one, with two excellent dances.

Two extraordinary full, rich and perfect fox trots from the Ziegfeld Follies, which feature, and feature big, our own Paul and his artist-orchestra.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S MESSAGE TO THE 68TH CONGRESS

(Continued from Page 3.) are some 12,000,000 colored people. Under our constitution their rights are just as sacred as those of any other citizen. It is both a public and private duty to protect those rights. The congress ought to exercise all its powers of prevention and punishment to prevent the crime of lynching, of which the negroes are by no means the sole sufferers, but for which they furnish a majority of the victims.

Already a considerable sum is appropriated to give the negro vocational training in agriculture. About half a million dollars is recommended for medical courses at Howard University to help contribute to the education of the colored people. The migration of large numbers into industrial centers, it has been proposed by the commission on created, composed of members from both races, to formulate a better policy for mutual understanding and confidence. Such an effort is to be commended. Everyone would rejoice in the accomplishment of the peace which would result from such a policy. It is well to recognize that these difficulties are to a large extent local problems which should be solved by the mutual forbearance and human kindness of each community. Such a method gives much promise of a real remedy than outside interference.

Civil Service. The maintenance and extension of the civil service is an extremely important matter. There are nearly 700,000 persons in the executive civil service and nearly 700,000 in the classified service. This method of selection of the employees of the United States is especially desirable for the postoffice department. The civil service commission has recommended that postmasters at first, second and third class offices be classified. Such action would be a real step toward the improvement of the term of office, would undoubtedly be an improvement. I also recommend that the civil force for prohibition enforcement be placed within the classified civil service without entering in the present membership. This would be a real step toward the improvement of the merit system.

Public Buildings. Many of the departments in Washington need better housing facilities. Some are so crowded that their work is impeded, others are so scattered that it is impossible to identify them. While I do not favor at this time a general public building law, I believe it is now necessary, in accordance with the plan sanctioned for a unified and orderly system for the development of this city, to begin the construction of those plans by authorizing the erection of three or four buildings most urgently needed by an annual appropriation of $1,000,000.

Regulatory Legislation. Cooperation with other maritime powers is necessary for complete protection of our coast waters against pollution. Plans for this are under way, but await certain experiments for refuse disposal. Means-time laws prohibit dumping of oil and refuse from vessels in our own territorial waters, would be most helpful and should be enacted and should be speedily enacted.

Laws should be passed regulating aviation. Revision is needed of the laws regulating radio interference. Legislation and regulations establishing load lines to provide safe loading of vessels leaving our ports are necessary and re-odification of our navigation laws is vital. Revision of procedure of the federal trade commission will give more constructive purpose to this department.

Insular Possessions. Conditions in the insular possessions on the whole have been good. Their business has been reviving. They are being administered according to law. That effort has the full support of the administration. Such recommendations as may come from their people or their governments should have the most considerate attention.

Education and Welfare. Our national government is not doing as much as it legitimately can do to promote the welfare of the people. Our enormous material wealth, our vast resources, our whole form of society, cannot be considered fully successful until their benefits reach the merit of every individual. This is a responsibility that the government should assume for the people the inevitable burdens of existence. There is no method by which we can either be relieved of the results of our own folly or be guaranteed a successful life. There is an inescapable personal responsibility for the development of character, of industry, of thrift and self-control. Those do not come from the government, but from the people themselves. But the government can and should always be expressive of steadfast determination to maintain conditions under which these virtues are most likely to develop and secure recognition and reward. This is the American principle.

It is in accordance with this principle that we have enacted laws for the protection of the public health and have adopted prohibition in narcotic drugs and intoxicating liquors. For purposes of national welfare we ought to provide, by constitutional amendment and appropriate legislation for a limitation of child labor and in cases under the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal government a minimum wage law for women, which would undoubtedly find sufficient power of enforcement in the influence of public opinion.

Having in mind that education is a social problem, and that it should always be pursued with the largest freedom of choice by students and parents, nevertheless, the federal government might well give the benefit of its counsel and encouragement more freely in this direction. If anyone doubts the need production and greater public production. The federal government probably has no procedure authority to regulate wages, prices or profits in coal at the mines or among dealers, but by ascertaining and publishing facts it can exercise great influence. The source of the difficulty in bituminous coal fields is the intermittent nature of the operation which causes great waste of both capital and labor. That part of the report dealing with this problem has much significance, and is suggestive of necessary remedies. By amending the coal laws, by encouraging greater unity of ownership, and possibly by a separate department and a place in the cabinet. The humanitarian side of government should not be repressed, but should be cultivated.

More Intelligence, however, is not enough. Enlightenment must be accompanied by that moral power which is the product of the home and of religion. Real education and true welfare for the people rest in the hands of the government, which the government can approve and commend, but which the people themselves must create.

American institutions rest solely on good citizenship. They were created by people who had a background of self-government. For this purpose, it is necessary to continue a policy of restricted immigration. It is necessary to make such immigration of a selective nature, and to limit either on a prior census or upon the record of naturalization. Further method would insure the admission of those with the largest capacity and best intention of becoming citizens. I am convinced that our present economic and social conditions warrant a limitation of those to be admitted. We should find additional safety in a law requiring the immediate registration of all aliens. Those who do not want to be partners of the American spirit ought not to settle in America.

Veterans. No more important duty falls on the government of the United States than the adequate care of its veterans. Those suffering disabilities incurred in the service must have sufficient hospital relief and compensation. Their dependents must be cared for. The government should be prompt in paying the wages of all war veterans such care, whenever they are vacant beds, and that immediate steps be taken to enlarge and build new hospitals to serve all cases.

The American Legion will present to the congress a legislative program too extensive for detailed discussion here. It is a carefully prepared plan. While some of it I do not favor, with much of it I am in hearty accord, and I recommend that a most painstaking effort be made to provide remedies for any defects in the administration of the present laws which their experience has revealed. The attitude of the government toward these proposals should be one of generosity. But do not favor the granting of a bonus.

The cost of coal has become unreasonably high. It places a great burden on our industrial and domestic life. The public welfare requires a reduction in the price of fuel. With the enormous deposits in existence, failure of supply ought not to be tolerated. Those responsible for the conditions in this industry should undertake its reform and free it from any charge of profiteering.

The report of the coal commission will be before the congress. It comprises all the facts. It represents the mature deliberations and conclusions of the best talent and experience that ever made a national survey of the production and distribution of coal. It does not favor the government ownership or operation of coal mines. The need is for action under private ownership, which will secure greater continuity of prices, no resort to the public treasury will be of any permanent value in stabilizing agriculture. Simple and direct methods put into operation by the farmer himself are the only real sources for restoration. Indirectly the farmer must be relieved by a reduction of national and local taxation. He must be assisted by the reorganization of the freight rate structure which could reduce charges on his production. To make this fully effective there ought to be railroad consolidations. Cheaper fertilizers must be provided.

He must have organization. His customer with whom he exchanges products of the farm for those of industry is organized, labor is organized, and there is no way for agriculture to meet this unless it, too, is organized. The acreage of wheat is too large. Unless we can meet the world market at a profit, we must stop raising for export. Organization of the farmer would reduce acreage. Systems of cooperative marketing created by the farmers themselves, supervised by competent managers, with their own funds of assistance, but they can not wholly solve the problem. Our agricultural schools ought to have thorough courses in the theory of organization and cooperative marketing.

Diversification is necessary. Those farmers who raise their living on their land are not greatly in distress. Such loans are wisely needed to assist buying stock and other matters to start in this direction. A special committee of a temporary and emergency expedition. The remaining difficulty is the disposition of exportable wheat. I do not favor the permanent interference of the government in this problem. That probably will increase the trouble by increasing production. But it seems feasible to provide government assistance to export and authority should be given the War Finance Corporation to grant. In its discretion the most liberal terms of payment for fair and lasting expansion for the direct benefit of the farm.

Marine Shoals. The government is undertaking to develop a great water-power project known as Marine Shoals, on which it has expended many million dollars. The work is still going on subject to the right to re-take in time of war. I recommend that this property with a location for auxiliary steam plant and rights to export and authority should be returned to the treasury the largest price possible to secure. For the most part agriculture is successful, eleven staples having risen in value from about $3,300,000,000 two years ago to about $7,000,000,000 for the current year. But range cattle are still low in price and some sections of the west area, notably Minnesota, North Dakota, and on west, have many cases of actual distress. With his products not selling on a parity with the products of industry, every sound remedy that can be devised should be applied for the relief of the farmer. He represents a character, a type of citizenship, and a public necessity that must be preserved and afforded every facility for regaining prosperity.

The distress is most acute among those widely dependent upon one crop. Wheat acreage was greatly expanded and has not yet been sufficiently reduced. A large amount is raised for export, which has to meet the competition in the world market of large amounts raised on land much cheaper and much more productively. No complicated scheme of relief or plan for government fixing of the price would not be able profitably to meet the price at which these imports can be sold. To obtain a supply from this water-power would require long and costly experimentation to perfect a process for cheap production. Otherwise our surplus would fall completely. It seems desirable, therefore, in order to protect and promote the public welfare, to have adequate provisions that such experimentation be made and carried on to success. The great advantage of low-priced fertilizers must be secured for the direct benefit of the farmers and the indirect benefit of the public in time of peace, and of the government in time of war. If this main object be accomplished, the amount of money received for the property is not a primary or major consideration.

Such a solution will involve complicated negotiations, and there is no authority for that purpose. I therefore recommend that the congress appoint a small joint committee to consider offers, conduct negotiations, and report definite recommendations.

Reclamation. By reason of many contributing causes, occupants of our reclamation projects are in financial difficulties, which in some cases are acute. Relief should be granted by definite authority of law empowering the secretary of the interior in his discretion to suspend, readjust and reassess all charges against water users. This whole question is being considered by experts. You will have the advantage of the facts and conclusions which they may develop. This situation, involving a government investment of more than $125,000,000, and affecting more than 25,000 water users, is serious. While relief which is necessary should be granted, yet contracts with the government which can be met should be met. The established general policy of these projects should not be abandoned for any private control.

Highways and Forests. Highways and reforestation should continue to have the interest and support of the government. Everyone is anxious for good highways. I have made a liberal proposal in the budget for the continuing payment to the states by the federal government of its share for this necessary public improvement. No expenditure of public money contributes so much to the national wealth as for building good roads. Reforestation has an importance far above the attention it usually secures. A special committee of the senate is investigating this need, and I shall welcome a constructive policy based on their report.

It is 100 years since our country announced the Monroe doctrine. This principle has been ever since, and is now, one of the main foundations of our foreign relations. It must be maintained. But in maintaining it we must not be forgetting that a great change has taken place. We are no longer a weak nation, thinking mainly of defending ourselves from foreign aggression. We are great and powerful. Now, our duty is to protect ourselves. Added to that, our duty now is to help give stability to the world. We want that vision which lifts men and nations above themselves. These are virtues by reason of their own merit; they must not be ineffective.

The world has had enough of the curse of hatred and selfishness, of destruction and war. It has had enough of the wrongful use of material power. For the healing of the nations there must be good will and charity, confidence and peace. The time has come for a more practical use of moral power, and more reliance upon the principle that right makes its own might. Our authority among the nations must be represented by justice and mercy. It is necessary not only to have faith, but to have sacrifices for our faith. The spiritual forces of the world make all its final determination. It is with these voices that America should speak. Whenever they declare a righteous purpose there need be no doubt that they will be heard. America has taken her place in the world as a republic—free, independent, powerful and must be maintained. But in maintaining it we must not be forgetting that a great change has taken place. ## SOROSIS CHRISTMAS PARTY DECEMBER 19

The Sorosis Study Club decided to have its Christmas party the evening of December 19th, with a dinner to which the ladies will be invited, and afterward a movie party.

The club met in regular session Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Alfred Burnside on Park street, and after discussion of plans for the party enjoyed a parliamentary drill, led by Mrs. W. E. Buchanan. The hostesses later served a dainty salad plate to Mesdames Buchanan, Verne Harrell, Joe D. Harris, G. R. Hay, Mrs. R. E. Hubner, Stanley McGreggor, Burke Taylor, H. D. White, W. P. Lowrey, and Ernest Archambaud and Mrs. F. L. Copek.

The club meets this week with Mrs. McGreggor at 1612 Lucile.

WEDNESDAY STUDY CLUB HAS FEDERATION LESSON

The Wednesday Study Club discussed from their study of Osello Wednesday and enjoyed an interesting variation in their Federation program, under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Humphrey.

Mrs. Humphrey opened the program with sketches of the high lights of the recent state convention here, and later introduced Mrs. James C. Hemeny, who is an honorary member of the club, who was the principal speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. Hemeny gave a complete history of the state Federation and the administration and achievements of each president from the first until the present incumbent.

After Mrs. Hemeny's talk Mrs. O. E. Nichols led a lesson on parliamentary law. The members present included Mesdames T. E. Aldrey, Robert P. Poole, Bernard Martin, J. C. Bernay, C. M. Alexander, Bert Dean, T. R. Boone, N. B. Chennault, Sidney Cochran, W. W. Cook, Harvey Davis, B. L. Fain, L. W. Grayson, Stith Moore, Mark Moore, O. E. Nichols, W. W. Stevens, Mrs. W. H. M. Walker and Mrs. Lillian Fein.

MISS KAHN HOSTESS UNITY JR. MEMBERS

Miss Thelma Kahn was hostess to the Unity Junior members Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Raymond Myers led an interesting study of Ruderman's "Magda" and "The Joy of Living."

After her very able discussion of the author and sketches of the two plays, papers were read by Mrs. J. L. Jackson Jr., Mrs. Charles Francis, Mrs. Elizabeth White and Mrs. Harry White. A social half hour followed during which the members welcomed Mrs. Millie G. formerly Miss Lucile Spencer of this city, who is visiting her parents here. The hostess served a salad plate to Mesdames Millie G. Spencer, Honorable Elizabeth Erwin, Charles Francis, J. L. Jackson Jr., W. U. McCutchen, Alfred Miller, Raymond Myers, Eileen Stealy, Leslie Stringer, Harry White and Jack Speagle, and Miss Florence Rammons and Beryl Keil.

The club planned to have a Christmas party for the evening of December 19, when they will be entertained at the home of Mrs. G. Clint Wood.

"VALE OF CONTENT" IS STUDY PIERIA CLUB

Ruderman's "Vale of Content" was the study of the Pieria Club at their meeting with Mrs. H. O. Nichols Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. O. T. Corning directed the lesson and there was an interesting presentation of the character of the main characters of Wiedeman and Von Roeknitz by Mrs. Hoover, the sketch of Elizabeth by Mrs. Jackson, and the minor characters in the play by Mrs. Dunaway, with a discussion of the whole drama by the members.

Refreshments were served during a social half hour to Mesdames J. E. M. Halley, Allen Duncan, Kenneth Hubb, Earl Jameson, Edwin Hadd, H. O. Kevick, A. C. Parker, O. T. Corning, Frank Hoover and Mrs. Peasebaker, of Los Angeles, Cal., house guest and sister of Mrs. Newell.

WHEN THE PERFUMERS FLAVOR LIPSTICKS

TODAY'S RECIPES

Garnishes.
When you serve a salad or dessert do you think how attractive to look at you can make it as well as how good to eat?

And when you must use up left-over meats in croquettes or creamed on toast do you ever think that a tiny sprig of parsley dropped here and there on the platter lifts the dish several notches higher in the estimation of the family?

There are so many simple garnishes that are inexpensive and require no special tools that it seems a pity the average housewife overlooks the possibilities at her hand.

Cold roast or broiled meat, thinly sliced and arranged neatly on a platter in the shape of the mouth!

Just a sprinkling of paprika on a platter in the shape of the mouth!

Hard-boiled eggs are an effective garnish. They are cut in rings across the top or lengthwise. The white then makes petal-shaped sections and the yolk is used to form the center of the daisy. Can't you imagine a mound of dark green spinach with one of these points in the center, had a ring of flaxseed rice surrounding the base of the mound? Serve a rich white sauce or a smooth cheese sauce, a separate dish and the whole provides nourishment as well as beauty. This combination might be used as the main dish for luncheon or with the meat course for dinner.

More threads of canned pimento through a cabbage salad or any vegetable or meat salad masked with mayonnaise add much to the dish.

Head lettuce is high, but if the outside leaves are cut in "ribbons" and used as a salad garnish there is no waste to the head. These thin green ribbons are lovely worked into nests for individual salads or used to surround a large molded salad.

Left-Overs.
A left-over vegetable salad molded in jelly or simply mounded on a bed of lettuce shreds, masked with yellow mayonnaise and "trimmed" with threads of scarlet pimento, thin slices of olives, tiny diamonds of pickled beets can be evolved in the home kitchen.

With the vegetable cutters and pastry tubes now on the market all sorts of marvellous things are done. Mashed potato blossoms into roses with hearts of creamed carrots. Turnips are cut in spirals and filled in little moulds before the sauce is poured over them. Or potatoes cut with the same vegetable cutter are parboiled in salted water, drained and sautéed in bacon fat or butter to a delicious brown and served as a garnish for a steak.

Macaroni "cherries" are cut in quarters and used quite as effectively as a whole cherry for garnishing desserts.

Flowers as Fooding.
A bit of sparkling currant jelly dropped on each dish of everyday pudding sends wonders for the pudding. Shreds of candied orange peel can be used in the same way. Sections or slices of lemon sprinkled with minced parsley garnish the fish platter as well as furnishing the necessary piquant touch to the fish.

If you start garnishing your dishes you will find it fascinating work and be supplied at the many possibilities before you every day. The garnish habit grows and adds much to the interest of serving meals. It is an actual kitchen economy, often utilizing left-overs for the garniture and determining to a great degree the palatableness of an uninteresting dish by making it "look good enough to eat."

The Tangle

"Would it have been, John, an unpardonable sin if Ruth had come by that money in either of the ways you mention?" I asked sarcastically, for I was very angry by this time.

"Surely, even the most honorable of men must realize that Ruth Ellington could not conscientiously starve just because her blackguard husband had not only betrayed all his friends, but betrayed her as well. Suppose Ruth did have a little money that she had put away from the meager sums Harry Ellington had given her. It was here, was it not? Do you think she should have given it up to his creditors presumably to whitewash a reputation that was beyond repair? Would you, for instance, have taken anything rightfully belonging to you, the very money she depended upon to open a little business whereby she might make an honest living after her life had been shattered into bits by a dirty scoundrel?"

"Of course not, Leslie! I am just telling you what people are saying."

"Then what they say it to you, Jack, it is up to you to say to them just what I have been telling you."

"Everybody doesn't say that, Leslie. More people are saying that Walter Burke gave her the money."

"Well, let's look at that without prejudice. When Harry Ellington set his wife without a cent and she had no way to turn, and all you men who had befriended him declined to befriend the woman he had betrayed even worse than he had—"

"Hold on, Leslie, she never came to me for anything," interrupted Jack.

"Of course she didn't come to me for anything. And knowing her as I do, I know she probably did not go to Walter Burke for anything. But you must have known she was penniless. We will put the case a little differently. Suppose you're friend, Sydney Carton, had left Paula Perier without a cent, isn't it just possible that you might have felt you should do something for the poor girl?"

Jack, who was standing by the mantel, dropped heavily into a chair.

"My God, Leslie, what do you mean by that?"

"Just exactly what I say. Would you advise either Paula Perier or Ruth Ellington to starve rather than to take money from a friend just because the friend happened to be a man? Of course, John, I am only supposing cases, but I tell you honestly if I were in Ruth's place I would have kept everything I could out of the wreck and I would have taken from any one of the men I knew enough money to set me up in business. I think Ruth has been very brave in the matter and I am going to stand by her through thick and thin."

"Well, I never did like her."

"I can't help whether you like her or not, Jack, you have a great many friends that I don't like and you arranging to a man now that is making both you and me a great deal of trouble. I don't see how Sydney Carton thinks he is going to get out of this matter. You say he has gone out to Hollywood. Even if he marries that girl, with all the gossip

Fans Name Committee to Arrange for High School Championship Football Game to Be Played Here Saturday

Committee to take charge of advertising, publicity and the sale of tickets were appointed by Chairman Fred Cooper at the pep meeting of the football fans' committee at the chamber of commerce Thursday morning.

Bill Gray, Arthur Salmon, John Gould and George Mobley were named to handle advertising and publicity and they will place placards and other advertising matter in nearby towns. Plans are under way to have the game between the Wichita Falls and Texarkana high schools thoroughly advertised in Vernon, Law Park, Electra, Henrietta, Archer City, Seymour and Duval and Altus, Oklahoma. The game will begin at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds and seats are now on sale at Noble Frey's news stand, Central drug store and Epton's. According to reports, 250 tickets have already been sold by the three establishments.

Business men were asked to sell tickets and the following committees were named by Mr. Cooper: Morgan Building, White Tail, H. J. Sanderson; Staley building, J. J. Coffey and Best King; First National Bank building, Will Hunt and Stanley Gray; City National Bank building, Clint Wood and P. S. Richardson; Wagoner building, J. E. Shepherd and Dan Daniels; court house, Judge E. D. Martin; Elker club, C. D. Shamberger.

In a short talk Dr. J. W. Cantwell stated that he hoped it would not be necessary to ask school children to sell tickets and Walter Cline endorsed his plan, declaring that he would ask bartenders to handle the tickets. A. K. Frazier is in charge of the ticket sale and B. H. Rider is having the placards printed. Six street car banners have been painted and cards are being placed in downtown show windows.

Ernest good, wholesome athletics, Dr. Cantwell declared that a permanent policy must be installed in the schools of the city and he urged the fans to support the work and work out plans for a permanent athletic policy.

"The country needs to be strong and boys should grow up into playing men," Dr. Cantwell declared.

Fans were urged to meet the fans at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon and welcome the Texarkana players and supporters to Wichita Falls.

On motion of Dan Daniels, a hearty vote of thanks was given Wichita Falls newspapers in appreciation of their splendid cooperation in giving publicity to the football game Saturday afternoon at the fair grounds.

You may not know it but men are particular about the brand name which appears on the merchandise they buy. Most men would rather have a 50¢ gift of a known, standard brand—carrying the label of a merchant who stands for good style and high-grade merchandise—than a much higher priced gift of unknown make and inferior quality.

Be sure your gift comes from a maker and retailer whose name stands for correct style and quality.

WISCONSIN MAN ADMITS BURNING BODY IN COTTAGE

WANTED TO MAKE IT APPEAR HE WAS VICTIM OF FLAMES.

EXPECTED WIFE TO GET $62,000 IN INSURANCE

Companies Have Been Contesting Claim in Courts For Past Four Years.

NAPA, Calif., Dec. 4. (AP)—Edward J. Sallstad, who was arrested here last night, admitted that he put a body in a cottage at Lake Nebagamon, Wis., and set fire to the building four years ago in an effort to make it appear that he had died in the fire, so his wife might collect $62,000 insurance money, according to District Attorney Thomas C. Anglin of Napa.

With Sallstad when he was arrested was Miss Dorothy Anderson, who was a business man in Eau Claire, Wis., before his supposed death and whom, according to Mr. Anglin, admitted accompanying him on his flight from Wisconsin. Miss Anderson was detained for further questioning.

Sallstad is being held in jail here on a charge of arson on request of the authorities at Superior, Wis. Sallstad and Miss Anderson were traveling in an expensive automobile and told officials here that they had been visiting various parts of the country, repairing typewriters. At first the young woman declared her name was Mary Brown and said she met Sallstad, who had used the name of Kingstone since the Lake Nebagamon fire, in Chicago, he said.

The district attorney said that after much questioning Sallstad admitted that he put the body of a man about his own size which he had stolen from his grave into the cottage. Then he said he set fire to the building and fled. Advice from Superior said that four cottages were burned in the fire that followed.

Anglin said that Sallstad told him that an Eau Claire phonograph company, of which he was president, faced financial difficulties and it was to solve these as well as to cover his flight with his stenographer with whom he was in love that he set fire to the cottage.

Sallstad expected his wife to collect $62,000 insurance which he carried and use the money to straighten out the company's affairs. Mrs. Sallstad, convinced that the man lying in the ashes of the cottage were those of her husband,

BISHOP ATKINS OF M. E. CHURCH SOUTH DIES IN ARKANSAS

DEATH FOLLOWS STROKE OF PARALYSIS MONDAY AT LITTLE ROCK.

BURIAL PROBABLY WILL BE AT KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Was Elected Bishop In 1908 and Served His Church in Europe 13 Years.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 6. (AP)—

Bishop James Atkins of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, died here last night following a stroke of paralysis Monday. The cause of death was not determined until today, but it was indicated that burial probably would be at Knoxville, Tenn., birth place of the old church man. Bishop Atkins died at 11 o'clock at the home of the Rev. James Thomas, where he had lain in a state of coma for two days. The end came peacefully and was not unexpected, the bishop's physicians having announced late Tuesday that he would not live. At his bedside were his wife and three children, while a number of ministers and intimate friends were gathered in the Thomas home.

Bishop Atkins became ill a week ago while presiding over the annual session of the Little Rock conference. He was forced to retire from the conference for several days, but presided at the closing session Sunday night. He had planned to remain here for several days to recuperate, but was stricken late Monday night and never rallied.

Bishop Atkins had long been recognized as one of the outstanding figures in Southern Methodism. He was instrumental in the founding of Southern Methodist University at Dallas and was active in the centenary movement. Bishop Atkins was born in Knoxville, Tenn., April 18, 1856, the son of Rev. James Atkins. He entered Emory and Henry College at Emory, Va., at the age of 16 and graduated with a master's degree from that institution six years later. He received his D.D. degree from Trinity College, and was ordained at the age of 22. He served his church in the capacity of pastor until 1879 when he accepted the presidency of the Asheville Female College. He remained at the head of that institution for 10 years, leaving it in 1889 to accept a call to the presidency of the same college at Asheville, N.C. After serving there

Capias Warrant For 'Ben Taylor' 'Usury' Charged

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 6. (AP)—Armed with a capias warrant issued by the prosecutor's office, county officers today were conducting a search for a mysterious "Ben Taylor," alleged to be the purchaser of notes from salary loan companies here charged with usury.

The warrant was obtained on information furnished by J. C. Lane, railroad switchman, who asserted that he borrowed $40 from two loan companies, paying interest of $11 a month between the latter part of 1921 and September 21, 1922.

A short time after he stopped payment, he asserted, his pay checks were held up and he was forced by "Taylor" to pay $10 a month. "Taylor," he said, had

READY TO CONTEST FOR NOMINATION IF KANSAS DEMOCRATS SO DESIRE

GREAT BEND, Kan., Dec. 6. (AP)—Jonathan M. Davis, dirt farmer governor of Kansas, is ready to contest for the Democratic nomination for the presidency if the call comes to him from Kansas Democrats.

Speaking at a seventh district Democratic rally here last night, the governor declared that while he did not "seek" the nomination, he would willingly abide by the wishes of his friends should they desire that he enter the larger field of running for president.

"Taylor," success in evading service of a warrant by the United States marshal in connection with a damage suit has caused some speculation as to his existing, according to Anthony P. Nugent, attorney for more than 200 persons who assert that they have been wronged by usurious loan concerns. "We have tried to find this Mr. Taylor," since the loan companies closed their doors following the filing of criminal suits by the prosecutor's office," he said.

George H. Hulsehart, assistant prosecutor, expressed the opinion that "Mr. Taylor" is a convenient purchaser introduced by the loan companies to enforce collection.

MYLES DISCUSSES PRINCIPLES AND IDEALS OF ROTARY

"I believe that the influence of Rotary will in the future become as wide in its scope that war will be abolished, that pain and suffering will be eliminated, that woman will be restored to the pedestal from which she has been so often dragged in recent years, and that this country will become a veritable Utopia." was the opinion expressed by Albert E. Myles, who spoke briefly to the Rotary club at the weekly luncheon on the principles and ideals of Rotary.

"I believe that it is destined to become the greatest influence for good that the world has ever known," Mr. Myles said after he had pointed out the principles and purposes of the organization.

He gave a brief history of the organization from the time when it was founded in Chicago, 25 years ago with four members, until the present day when it has a membership of over 100,000 and is an international organization.

"Rotary was conceived in the heart of a lonely, homesick man and was born in the minds of men who felt as he did and who longed for congenial fellowship. Primarily it was organized for a selfish purpose, but it has broadened until its scope reaches around the world," the speaker said.

He gave as the four purposes of Rotary: the betterment of the individual member, the betterment of his profession, the benefit to the entire community and the benefit to town, state, nation and the world at large.

Influence on Individual.

The speaker touched briefly on the influence which Rotary has on the individual member and told how it is possible for its principles and ideals to reach the lives of persons who come into contact with the membership. In this way he said that one of the dreams of the founders could be realized and the entire world influenced by the unselfish purposes and principles of the organization.

An amendment to the constitution waiving the six months residence requirement for Rotarians who are recommended from other clubs was adopted.

H. E. Shepherd furnished the musical program and led the club in singing "Swanee River," "Ham and Eggs" and "The Old Gray Mare."

President Cline appointed a committee to assist in the ticket sale for the Wichita-Texas football game Saturday.

By unanimous vote of the club it was decided to give the members of the two football clubs a banquet on Saturday night following the game. The banquet will be a complimentary affair by the Rotary club and will be given regardless of the outcome of the game. It was announced.

HEICHTAG ADOPTS TWO ARTICLES OF MEASURE

BERLIN, Dec. 6 (AP)—The reichstag today voted articles first and second of the government's "tax powers" bill separately, 232 to 78. Your Health
By Dr. Clifford C. Robinson

Urticaria.

Urticaria, or nettle rash, is a common disturbance from normal body conditions, which shows itself as a skin eruption in wheal formation. It is of rather wide range in cause, intensity and length of attack. It occurs in youth and in middle life, rarely in old age.

In an acute attack, the coming or outbreak of the wheals on the surface of the skin is sudden, producing rather intense itching. They may appear on any part of the body. They come and go rapidly in acute attacks, sometimes with little or no pain. Oftentimes these wheals are only the size of a mere inflammatory papule, sometimes they are as large as a 25-cent piece and in other cases even larger. They are more or less oval in shape, they are "from intense red to wax white."

Sometimes, owing to peculiarities of the patient's skin, the wheals will show a waxy center with a narrow red periphery.

These acute attacks oftentimes result from some disturbance in the gastro-intestinal system and are somewhat transient in character. The symptoms are a slight rise in body temperature, pulse increase, accompanied by nausea and vomiting. The tongue is furred, the breath foul and there is more or less prostration.

This attack is sometimes the result of a run-down condition and from worry or strain. In children the cause is over-eating or taking the wrong kind of food.

In people who are nervous and sensitive, urticaria may be brought on by the most trivial causes.

Treatment of urticaria may be the giving of a brisk cathartic, such as magnesium sulphate. Fast a day or two. Local treatment to allay the itching may be a sponge bath of bicarbonate of soda. In chronic urticaria the sufferer must undergo careful treatment by a physician.

Fruits are good food for such cases and pure water is a good drink. Thorough elimination must be maintained.

Preventing Headaches.

People who suffer by headaches remedy at onset, and keep it up year after year are surely on the wrong track in the pursuit of health. Trying to cure a headache without giving any attention to its cause, is like trying to put out a fire by shutting off the water supply.

The chief causes of headache come within a well defined limit. The so-called nervous headache or hysterical attacks, lead all other causes, real or imaginary.

Probably headache from digestive troubles might come second, inasmuch as all the parts and organs of the human body could furnish.

To give yourself a vacation from other gases that attack the nasal membranes, will cause a dull throbbing daily habit and then, as a result, many persons, especially those who refuse to take any exercise, causes headache. To prevent this class of attacks, take a bath every day and institute a regime of exercises that will make the blood tingle.

Headaches common to women, who claim pelvic disease or female trouble as a cause, usually result from incorrect posture. Learn to sit, stand, sit and walk correctly and many of your headaches will vanish like mist before the morning sun.

As for health habits that can't be accomplished here, the "rescue" course.

The greatest preventive to that daily headache is to know your own condition thoroughly. If you strain your eyes by overwork at night or in poor light during the day, a headache is liable to come your way.

BRITISH VOTERS SELECT MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT

LONDON, Dec. 4 (AP)—The electors of 419 constituencies in Great Britain and north Ireland returned 564 members of parliament, casting their votes today to decide the country's policy.

Should either of the three parties seeking the suffrage of the people obtain a substantial majority at the polls the ministry formed thereby is expected to hold office for a full term; but if the majority is small, a short life and not a particularly happy one will probably be the lot of the new administration.

When the last campaign speech had been concluded last night and the last canvass made the electoral experts still had to admit themselves baffled in any attempt to forecast the outcome of the voting.

Popular opinion seems that, barring a landslide on one of the parties—a contingency which none of the experts predict—the conservatives are likely to lose several seats and the laborites to gain several, while the prospects of the liberals are nebulous.

As regards individual contests Prime Minister Baldwin, who had a majority of 642 in Bowdley last election, is considered safe. Mr. Lloyd George is expected easily to retain his Carnarvon seat against his conservative opponent.

No one seems to doubt that Lady Astor will retain her seat in Plymouth.

Weather Unsettled.

The weather has been cloudy and unsettled here the past few days, with occasional sprinkling of rain. The amount of moisture is sufficient to delay the work of soil pulling and cotton picking.

New Residences.

W. McClure and family are now moving into the neat five room bungalow on the corner of 10th and 12th streets, which they have just had erected on his farm two miles northwest of Charlie. It is a modern residence on one of his farms one mile west of Charlie.

Lawson Bound.

Several of the citizens of this vicinity are leaving for Lamona, where they expect to make their homes. It is thought that opportunities for buying farm homes may be greater there than here. Among those leaving are Leonard Kendrick and family, and Ward and family.

G. P. Edwards has lately installed a radio in his home. This is the third home in Charlie to be equipped with a radio, which proves that some of the Charlie folks love entertainment.

GRAND MASONIC LODGE OF TEXAS ELECTS OFFICERS

WACO, Texas, Dec. 4. (AP)—The Grand Masonic Lodge of Texas will conclude its 51st annual communication this afternoon with the installation of new officers. Officers for the coming year were elected at the meeting Wednesday night as follows:

One A. Brandt, Houston, grand master; Quinn Williams, Decatur, deputy grand master; Judge Ed H. Bryan, Midland, grand senior warden; H. C. Talbot, Houston, grand treasurer; W. B. Pearson, Waco, grand secretary; Judge M. A. Childers, San Antonio, grand junior warden; M. C. Vanden, Hillboro, member-at-large.

All the officers with the exception of the grand junior warden were elected by acclamation from the station below.

Mike H. Thomas, retiring grand master, was elected to the vacancy on the Masonic home and school board. He takes the place on the board made vacant by the retirement of Judge John L. Terrell, who is ill and asked that his name be not presented for reelection. Elmer Renfro, of Fort Worth, was reelected treasurer of the board.

The grand lodge ratified the proposal to raise a fund of $1,000,000 for the Masonic home and school at Fort Worth. The campaign will be under the direction of retiring Grand Master Thomas.

Charles L. Alderman of Dallas was elected by the Grand Royal Arch Chapter to fill the vacancy on the board for aged Masons at Arlington, succeeding the late William James, who served the board until his death a year ago.

Exact Startling Disclosures Case Of Philip E. Fox

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 4. (AP)—Defense and prosecution attorneys in the case of Philip E. Fox, former head of the publicity department of the Ku Klux Klan, who is scheduled to go on trial December 13 on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of W. S. Coburn, his attorney, today were rounding out details of their respective sides of the case in preparation of the trial.

Both sides announced yesterday they were ready for the trial.

Advance indications were that many phases of the case developed in the investigation which remain unannounced would enter into the testimony. Beyond the promise that trial would bring forth startling disclosure investigators were silent.

Identity of a woman who was supposed to have been with Fox on the afternoon of Monday, November 5, shortly before he walked into Coburn's office and shot him to death has never been hinted. According to agents from the prosecutor's office, she possessed information which would uncover the motive for the shooting which has never been clearly established. Fox has made no statement other than his first which immediately followed the shooting. He was quoted as saying that Coburn had in his possession documents which, if made public would "ruin" Fox.

Further bits of information gleaned from investigators indicated that the setting had led to Texas where Fox for a number of years was connected with a newspaper.

Testimony of experts regarding the alleged insanity of Fox which the defense has intimated will be its chief plea in his behalf is expected to play a considerable part in the trial.

MINISTERS TO DEBATE RELIGIOUS "MODERNISM" AND "FUNDAMENTALISM"

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—Leading protagonists of religious "modernism" and "fundamentalism" will discuss the issue of their respective movements soon when the Rev. Charles F. Potter, pastor of the West Side Unitarian Church, meets Dr. John Birch Stratton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, in public debate. Dr. Stratton last night accepted the challenge of the Rev. Potter, who said the Baptist clergyman too long had gone unopposed and unchecked in his career of open challenge to modernism.

Asserting that speakers at the Baptist fundamentalist meetings had misrepresented facts in their attacks on the modernists, the Rev. Potter proposed the following subjects for debate:

1. That the Bible is the infallible word of God.
2. That an evolutionist can be a Christian.
3. That the miraculous virgin birth of Jesus is an essential Christian doctrine.

Agreeing to uphold the affirmative in the debate on the first and third subjects and the negative on the second, Dr. Stratton accepted the proposal and added two of his own version:

"That Jesus Christ will return in bodily presence to this earth and establish the reign of universal peace and righteousness."

"That Jesus Christ is the divine son of God."

He suggested that the second proposal of the Rev. Potter be changed to read: "That the earth and man came by creation of a living God and not by evolution."

Pimples Cause Despondency

Girls and boys too, who are subject to disfiguring skin blemishes imagine all sorts of weird things which even cause many to go to extremes in their pitiful predicament. The worst fault it leads to is using just anything which promises them relief from their condition, which often makes their trouble worse. Never put anything on your skin which has never been proven by the test of time and public opinion to be right. In this connection the phenomenal success of the Ointment which is labeled with the Black and White trade mark of highest quality at low, popular prices, offers sufferers from skin diseases the one reliable and dependable means of relief and restoration of their skin to that clear, smooth and lovely condition it was in their youth.

Black and White Ointment is scientifically prepared in glass and tin packages. The 5c size contains three times as much as the 2c size. All dealers—adv.

BILLY GIRLS

There is a silly girl more popular than the intelligent girl

There is a popularly accepted belief that a frivolous girl is more attractive to men than a girl inclined to discuss the Einstein theory

The appeal of the so-called silly type of femininity is mainly to the silly type of man

The law slips a cog frequently, when the leading actor wants to gratify personal vanity by comparison

Such is the psychology of the intelligent man attracted to the "nobody home" type of feminine beauty

There is significance in the vote both as indicating the strength of McAdoo and the weakness of Ford

The strength of McAdoo is conceded even by his opponents

There are likely to be a number of "favorite sons" in the convention who will receive the votes of their state delegations as long as it is believed there is any chance for their nomination

At least 25,000 bogus physicians and surgeons are practicing medicine in the United States

A man can't talk with his mouth full of hairpins

Very few of these European statesmen signing an another war got shot at during the last war

AN ADDRESS THAT WILL BE HEARD OVER THE GLOBE

As this is written the announcement comes that the message of President Coolidge to congress will be broadcasted by the Dallas News and the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in cooperation with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company

Before this is read the message will have been delivered and there is no doubt that the feat will be successful

Not only will the president be heard by the people of the United States but it is not improbable that his voice will reach every continent on the globe and be heard by persons on board ships in the middle of the farthest seas

The radio is another one of those discoveries that are annihilating time and distance and bringing the people of all the world into closer relationship

"Newberrysm" Forms Chief Ground For Attack On Senator Mayfield By Attorneys for George E. B. Peddy

By COLE E. MORGAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Representatives of the Peddy and Mayfield factions, from Texas, are in Washington today preparing for the Newberry battle of the present congress.

As soon as the senate is organized the fight will start over the nomination of Senator-elect Earle H. Mayfield as successor to former Senator Charles A. Culberson, whom he defeated in the Texas Democratic primary of 1922.

Luther Nickels of Dallas, law partner of former Senator Joseph C. Bailey, will present the evidence in support of the contest of George E. B. Peddy of Houston, fusion candidate, defeated by Mayfield in the general election in November, 1922.

It is now on the ground with evidence ready to submit to the senate as the senate designates a committee to hear proof. He will be joined here tomorrow or Friday by Scott Woodward of Fort Worth, Texas political leader.

W. A. Hanger of Fort Worth, is present as counsel for Mayfield to the charge of the Peddy faction. He is assisted by F. W. Brumman of Kansas City. Mayfield has been in Washington more than a week, preparing his defense.

Contest Filed February 22. The formal notice of contest was filed February 22. The first move in the contest was the nomination of a senator to offer a resolution to refer the contest to a committee. It is undecided whether it will be done by a Democrat or Republican. Two or three strong men in each party are under consideration.

It is expected that the contest will go to the standing committee of privileges and elections, of which Senator Spencer of Missouri will be chairman, succeeding the late Senator Williamson of Vermont. Three members are to be named for this committee before it can function. They will succeed Senator Williamson, former Senator Pomphrey of Ohio, and Senator Walsh of Kansas, who expects to give this post for another committee assignment.

The pending Peddy vs. Mayfield contest will add interest to the committee before it can function. Holdover members of the committee in addition to Senator Pomphrey are Senator Wadsworth of New York; Watson, Indiana; Edge, New Jersey; Ernst, Kentucky; Hart, Michigan; and Bursum, New Mexico, on the Republican side, and Reed, Missouri; King, Utah, and Stewart, Arizona, Democrats.

Special Committee. It is possible, however, that the senate will designate a special committee to hear the contest. The first move of the defense will be an effort to defeat passage of the resolution for a committee reference. It is believed there will be sufficient votes of Democrats and Republicans to insure passage of the resolution.

Law of the Newberry case, where a Republican was under fire, and the Democrats demanded his removal, the Republicans can hardly afford to acquiesce in a demand that the senate probe the election of Mayfield, a Democrat. The Democrats of the same time will have difficulty in reconciling a refusal to stir the Mayfield case when they were so insistent in demanding a probe of Newberry's election.

Charge Illegal Expenditures. "Newberrysm" forms the chief ground of Peddy's attack on Mayfield. Nickels said today he would be able to prove illegal campaign expenditures by Mayfield and his supporters much larger than the $17,000 it was proved was expended to elect Newberry in Michigan.

It will be contended that funds of the Ku Klux Klan, running well into five figures, were used by that organization in Mayfield's behalf in pursuit of a conspiracy to control politics in Texas. The attack on the Klan will be based on the contention that as a corporation it is a violation of the Texas law prohibiting any corporation using its assets for political purposes; that it is a foreign corporation chartered in another state, thus depriving it of a voice in Texas affairs and that it made a secret effort to influence the use of its funds in the election.

The conspiracy allegation will be based on the contention that election officials under Klan domination printed Mayfield's name on the official ballots and refused to print Peddy's name. This court decision will be cited to support the claim that the printing of one name and the leaving off of another constitutes an unfair election. It will be contended also that Peddy and the voters supporting him were deprived of their rights under the federal constitution.

Corrupt Practices Act. Violation of the Texas corrupt practices act in excessive campaign expenditures will be alleged in support of the contention that Mayfield's name should not have been placed on the ballots. It will be charged that the name was printed in the face of two injunctions granted by the district courts of Jimenez and Navarro counties. Violation of practically every provision of the Texas election law will be charged. The specifications will include failure to count several thousand votes actually cast for Peddy; actual counting for Mayfield of ballots not cast for him; failure to provide separate election booths and guard rails to prevent fraud; failure to keep a check on the number of ballots delivered to precinct election officers and errors of several thousand votes in the addition of county returns.

Mayfield was credited with 56,249 votes and Peddy with 48,744. It is claimed that the total for senator is approximately 105,000 less than in other states made and that Mayfield ran nearly 100,000 behind the other Democratic nominees.

Mayfield has been a figure in Texas politics for many years. Before his election as senator he served 10 years as state railroad commissioner and previously had served in the state senate. His home is at Austin.

Peddy is a new figure in politics. He was service overseas in the world war. At present he is a special attorney for the government in the oil fraud prosecution at Houston.

The woman stated that this episode occurred in Oklahoma. That after she discovered her situation she left the man and had not seen him since. This occurred several years ago, she testified.

She told the court that she was out in company with the man from whom she sought a decree of divorce and that he produced a bottle, the contents of which tasted like beer. She said she partook and that it was only a short time until she lost consciousness.

The next morning, upon awakening, she said she was startled to find her surroundings strange. She cried out aloud, she said, inquiring where she was.

She testified that the man in the room said, "Why, you're all right. You're my wife."

To substantiate his statement, she said, he produced a marriage license and told her that they had been married the night before.

Shipping Board Submits Report Of Activities During Past Year And Recommendations are Made

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Presidential tariffs or a subsidy remain the only methods of insuring maintenance of an American merchant marine, the shipping board declared today in its annual report to congress.

Elimination of discriminatory legislation as a means of indirect aid, the board held, "would seem to leave as the sole way out the assumption by the government of the excess cost of operation."

"This in turn can be accomplished by either of two methods," continued the report. "First by subventions to American vessels while engaged in carrying cargoes to and from the United States sufficient to enable them to compete with foreign ships, or second, by the complete assumption by the taxpayers of the entire cost of operation, the resulting loss being the country's contribution toward a national merchant marine."

"From the standpoint of efficiency and economy there can be no choice. Private operation, personal responsibility, and individual initiative would require a relatively slight assistance to be placed upon a competitive basis with foreign shipowners. On the other hand, operation by the government, with its system of checks and balances has obvious and serious disadvantages."

Four Handicaps. The report listed these four handicaps as operating to the disadvantage of American shipowners: The high standard of living in the United States, with consequent effect on labor costs, which would make an American built ship represent an investment 25 per cent greater than a similar vessel constructed on the Clyde.

High wage scales on American ships amounting on an ordinary cargo steamer to approximately $18,000 a year more than the wages on a similar foreign ship.

The difficulty of raising capital in the United States for strictly maritime enterprises, as contrasted with certain foreign countries where this field is a popular one for investors.

The advantages held by foreign lines through long careers in the business.

"Some of these handicaps may disappear in time," the report continued. "The most serious, however, are those due to restrictions which are imposed upon our ships by our laws for the general good of the country as a whole. For example our laws require that only citizens of the United States shall be licensed officers. Because of this they receive and are not begrudged a wage nearly twice that which foreign officers enjoy."

"We cannot avail at the wisdom of such requirements," but the unwisdom of expediting private capital to meet for the national welfare a greater change than would be imposed under a foreign flag is shown by the pre-war situation.

"Obviously if the country is to impose financial burdens upon its shipping, it must in order to obtain such shipping, be willing to bear from the national treasury the higher costs which such impositions bring."

Continuance Described. Failure of the government aid bill introduced by the board to pass the last congress made it necessary, the report said, for the board to make "other plans." It then described the conferences which led to the decision to consolidate the present 28 routes into 13 and to offer these at public sale. While no purchases have yet been consummated, it was said that several "soem further negotiations which it is hoped will lead to the sale of some important routes."

Practical completion of the surplus property disposal program was recorded. Of the shipping plants, only the Skinner and Eddy property and that at Hog Island remain on the books, the latter representing a land only as the structures have been sold. Of 39 housing developments, two remain because of "unsettled legal and financial matters" connected with them.

As a result of the firmly continued policy of retirement, the board's payroll was reduced in the past fiscal year by 1,612 employees and by $12,212,000, representing 31.7 per cent in numbers and 24.8 per cent in dollars from the preceding year.

Under the head of "recommended legislation," the board summarized the government aid bill which failed of passage and added that "the above enumerations cover the chief slides of an indirect nature, all of which would be beneficial to the American merchant marine." It did not indicate whether it would favor a revised attempt to obtain enactment of the bill. Minor amendments to existing legislation were endorsed, including changes in the laws governing ship mortgages, marine risks and marine insurance.

Labor Policy. The labor policy of the board was stated to comprise "close cooperation with the private shipowner" and "collective bargaining wherever possible." There have been no labor disturbances of major importance in the shipping business during the year just ended, the report said.

Specific instances of foreign discrimination are being investigated by the board with a view to correcting them or enforcing retaliatory measures, it was said. Among those listed in the report were the alleged practice of Australian shippers of giving preferential treatment to cargoes shipped by Canadian ports and the operation of a South African conference agreement which prevents shippers in that country from utilizing American tonnage.

Re-orientation of the navigation laws, authorized by congress in 1920, is proceeding satisfactorily, the report said, the board having obtained the cooperation in this work of the several other government departments interested in shipping.

The appended report of the Emergency Fleet Corporation gave in detail statistics covering physical operation of the fleet. Cargo and passenger vessels remained increased during the past fiscal year, this report said, with 264 in service on June 30, 1923. The changing department reported charter of 1,000,000 and cargo steamers for 330 trips representing 3,275,000 deadweight tons, although "aside from coal and oil movements, the rising freight rates for the year were below actual operating costs."

Since during the year brought 22,124,826, the ships disposed of including 145 steel vessels of 174,000 tons and 227 wooden ships of 855,000 tons. The minimum price schedule adopted by the board was announced as: for the steel cargo tonnage $39 per ton, for tankers $45 per ton and for lake-built craft $12.50 to $20.50, according to capacity.

COYOTE SEATS FOR GAME FRIDAY AT NOON

Coyness Leaving Coyote Squad And Regulars Will Start Game Saturday Is Opinion of Coaches

DUDEY HARVEY AND DUDDY TANNER ON WAY TO BIG MEET

President R. G. Harvey and Manager Duddy Tanner of the Wichita Falls Baseball Association departed Wednesday night for Chicago where they will attend the annual meeting of major and minor leagues. While in the Windy City Harvey will meet with the managers of the big leagues as well as the minor leagues. Harvey will have his home out for Harvey.

With continual afternoon workouts behind closed gates the Coyotes are gradually getting in readiness for the four-district championship football game to be played with Texas at the Fair Park Saturday afternoon. Reserved seat tickets have been going good the two days they have been on sale, and those in charge of the sales report that the entire reserved section of the grandstand will be full.

Four of the regular Coyote squadmen, Coffey, Deems, West, and Moore, have been suffering from injuries received in recent games and practices, but it is thought that these will not keep the players out of the Wichita-Texas contest. According to Coach McCallum, these four regulars were unable to run signals with the first string squad at the seventh street ball park Wednesday afternoon, and hot applications were used Wednesday night to rest the soreness. Special treatments were applied Thursday morning and there seemed no doubt that the boys would be in shape to start the game Saturday.

Only light workouts have formed the routine of the afternoon's practice for the past few days. Forward passing and kicking occupies a portion of the time in the afternoon, but secret signal practice forms the most important part of the day. By constantly working on plays and formations the Coyotes are getting their bag of tricks ready for use if need be. Heretofore few of the formations and plays have been disclosed, yet who can tell what will happen next in a football game? Coaches McCallum and Moore took their charges to Call Field for the daily practice Thursday afternoon when they worked out on the Fair Park field. The field there is in excellent condition and with a good wetting down before the game will be in fine shape for the melee Saturday afternoon. According to the Coyote men, the squad will hold its final workout at Fair Park Friday afternoon.

City Basketball League to Open Here Dec. 15th

The four team city basketball league opens December 15 for its first official game. It was decided at a meeting of the league Wednesday night. Leander Hill, Knight of Columbus, American Legion and the Iowa Park high school have signed up for the year and the schedule is being arranged. Four strong court attractions are in the race this year. In the opening of the basketball league with seven teams, all but four have been eliminated and league officials expect a close race for league honors. The league will work out in its own way.

Perhaps no one is a better judge of a football player than a coach. That is his business, sizing up the weakness and strength of the players. In order to get the best possible selection for an All-Western conference team I requested the "Big Ten" coaches to send me their first team selections with the understanding that their names were not in any way to appear in connection with the result. The desire was to get a composite selection from the men who know.

SUCCESS OF COBB AND SPEAKER AS MANAGERS INSPIRES COLLINS

With the ambition to try it, the appointment of Chance to lead the Sox is considered by many as a direct slap at Collins. It is a well known fact that Collins was much disappointed last spring when the trade with New York failed to go through. He was one of the White Sox wanted by New York in exchange for Ward and Meusel. Ward's great work at second this year has killed off the probability of Collins getting a chance with the Yankees. He has always wanted to play in the big city.

Collins, who suffered an injury to his knee last season that handicapped his play considerably late in the year, has several times expressed the desire to manage a major league club before passing out of the big show. The fact that in recent years such stars as Speaker, Cobb and Slaughter have taken a fling at the managerial game no doubt fired Collins with the ambition to try it.

ASSOCIATION WILL PICK CHAMPIONS AT DALLAS MEET

DALLAS, Dec. 6.—Interest in the meeting of southwestern conference representatives here today centered upon a possible award of the 1935 football championship. There was no indication as to what action the conference officials would take on the claims of Southern Methodist University and the University of Texas. The code under which the conference operates states that championship in football shall be awarded on a percentage basis.

A new association of athletic directors of the conference formed here yesterday with Dr. R. N. Blackwell as president, agreed to work out a code of ethics in handling inter-collegiate competition and to attempt to coordinate the schedule in basketball and baseball to give a real conference championship. The recommendations were to be presented at the conference meeting today.

TEXARKANA, Texas, Dec. 6.—Coach Lee Jones of the Texarkana Tigers, is grooming his backfield charges in view of the championship game with the Wichita Falls Coyotes in Wichita Falls Saturday. Coach Jones is keeping them on the field until it is almost impossible to see the ball, and they are responding wonderfully to his master coaching.

The Tigers leave Texarkana Thursday night by special Pullman via Fort Worth, reaching Wichita Falls Friday, giving them time for a light workout Friday afternoon. balanced team, the heaviest man tipping the scales at 198 pounds, while Webb, the midsize quarterback, weighs in at 125. Another man, Gibbons, is also a lightweight, weighing 138 pounds. Inheris, lanky at-tyer, bears the brunt of the punting and passing, and in Allday, is found a reliable safety man. Roberts, Allday, Webb, and Gibbons, the Tiger attack backs, are considered in east Texas as a running combination that can't be beat, and these four men, the Tigers hope to send the Coyotes yelping back to their den.

Many Famous Fighters Trained in Little Old Pennsylvania Town.

By DAMON RUNTON
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1932.)

LEIPERVILLE, Pa., Dec. 6.—Many famous fighters past and present, have trained in this little old town. Singly with the stroke of the Baldwin Locomotive Works. They pitched their quarters in the tavern owned by Jim Dougherty, "the baron of Leiperville," a long, rambling, gray stone building on the Chester pike, doing their court work along the country lanes and the highways that border the marshes of Darby creek.

Two heavyweight champions, Jack Johnson and Jack Dempsey, prepared themselves in Leiperville for different battles. Peter Jackson, the great Australian black; Joe Goddard, the old "Barney" champion; Peter Maher, the Irish heavyweight, and Joe Gann, "the old master," greatest of the lightweights, lived and worked in the same house where now only the second George Godfrey, giant young negro boxer remains.

There is a reminder of the pugilistic past in this old house, however, in the person of Bobby Dubs, who is Godfrey's trainer. Ten years ago, Dubs was ranked in the same house as the leading lightweights of his time.

Dubs is now an old, old man—just how old nobody knows. He never fights in the bare knuckle days of the prize-fighting.

But for all his years Dubs is
