PARIS, Jan. 22.-France means business with Venezuela this time. The prohibition of the landing of M. Taigny in Laguayara after he had boarded a French steamship for mail, was the crowning indignity which brought the affair to a crisis. It is learned that it is the purpose of the government to take M. Taigny back to Laguayara with the squadron and demand that ample apology be made by the Castro government for the insults which have been heaped upon France through him. The French cable company must also be fully protected. In the event that these demands are not complied with, and it is not believed they will be, then a Venezuelan port may be seized and held until Castro comes to his senses or is deposed.

Answers Senate's Inquiry as to Army Officers Owning Lands

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 22.—Secretary Taft today sent to the senate statement in response to the resolution calling on him for information as to "whether any member of the Philippine commission or any officer of the army or navy of the United States, directly or indirectly, owned on Dec. 1, 1905, or now owns any land in the Philippine Islands or had at any time or now has any interest or right in such lands of any character; and, if so, what are such ownership interests or rights, where the land is situated, articularly with reference to the loation of proposed railroads in said islands, and who the said officials are. The secretary stated he brought the esolution to the attention of Governor General Wright and Commissioner Forbes, both of whom are now in Washington, and cabled to the members of the commission in Manila for statements, the replies from all being ransmitted. Mr. Taft then said, substantially, that when he was civil governor of the Philippines he investigated the reports that members of the commission were equiring lands and found the reports to be untrue. The newspaper publishing the charges made a retraction. The secretary said there had been at least three thousand army officers in the Philippines since the American occupation. He continues: "In view of the very burdensome character of an investigation necessary to discover whether among the three thousand persons there may be any one who has interest in lands in the Philippine Islands, I respectfully request further instruction of the senate with a view to possibly narrowing the scope of the inquiry in accordance with the information or report on which the resolution was presumably based so that after receive a yearly salary of $1,100 | a full answer may be made by me in a shorter time than four months.

The wind came from the northwest and before one hour had passed the temperature had fallen exactly 20 degrees, until it marked 45 degrees above zero. The total fall from 1 until 9 o'clock Sunday morning was 40 degrees. At 1 o'clock the thermometer marked 67 degrees and at 9 o'clock it was 27 degrees

The coldest part of the present storm was reached Monday morning at 5 o'clock when the thermometer stood at 22 degrees, five degrees above the low record of the winter.

High Wind Prevails

The cold Sunday, while not so terribly intense, was made to feel more so because of a northwest wind blowing at the average rate of 25 miles an hour all day long. The maximum wind of the day was 34 miles. The snow that has fallen has been hard to estimate, as it has been blown and drifted about. According to the official figures of the weather bureau recorded up until 7 o'clock Monday morning, the total fall had been but one-half of an inch. Yet in many places in the city there were drifts of almost a foot. Street car and telephone and telegraph service suffered throughout the day Sunday as it was impossible to keep everything moving with such a norther all around. Managers of the telephone and telegraph companies in this city reported this morning, however, that the lines had been kept moving in excellent style during the entire day and that no difficulties of any amount had been encountered. Street cars were delayed, however, and it was the motormen on the cars that suffered the most as the chilling wind blew even into the protected

West on the Texas and Pacific the snow, with high winds that cut like a knife, extended to Big Springs. Trouble with Trains Trouble was experienced Monday morning in getting trains in and out of Fort Worth on account of the weather. The light rain that preceded the freezing weather put just enough water in the interlocking switches and the water forming ice after the norther arrived gave the switchmen a hard time getting the switches to work. #### WANTS NEW COURT HOUSE Howard County Commissioners to Submit a Vote BIG SPRINGS, Texas, Jan. 22.-It is expected that early in February the commissioners of Howard county will submit a proposition to the voters of Howard county to issue bonds for the erection of a new court house in Big Springs. The present court house was built early in the eighties and, while still large enough; is unsafe for use, the county court room having been condemned as dangerous. It is planned to erect a new building at a probably cost of $20,000, the court house to include a jail. The county is in excellent financial condition and can readily find sale for its bonds, as its present indebtedness is only $12,500, and it has over $5,000 cash on hand. Taxable values in the county exceed $2,000,000.

While Howard county needs a new court house, its citizens are not so sure about the need for a jail, the cells of which are jokingly declared to be the only unoccupied rooms in the town of Big Springs. During his ten years' term, Judge Littler, has had in the neighborhood of a dozen criminal cases for trial. The criminal docket is now empty, unless for minor misdemeanor cases. There are probably 800 voters now in Howard county, and it is expected he proposition to build a new court house will carry easily. Poll tax payments are now slow, but a rush is anticipated within the next few days. The political situation in Texas is not arousing much interest in the county. Of the gubernatorial candidates, Judge C. K. Bell seems to be the most popular in Big Springs. The majority of the voters still seem enthusiastically loyal to Congressman W. R. Smith and an opponent to that representative, if one develops, would have hard work in this section, where Con-

Judge Littler is a believer that state politics would be Improved if less class legislation were enacted at Austin and more opportunity for the investments of capital-

"We need the money of capitalists in west Texas," he said, in discussing the situation, "and as long as the legislature passes laws restricting investments so that they will be unprofitable, we will not get it."

Judge Littler is in favor of the abolishment of the railroad commission entirely and the regulation of the railroads as well as other corporations by legislative acts. He believes that if the railroad commission was abolished, freight rates and the railroad question would adjust themselves by competition, and if not, that they could still be controlled by the legislature.

POLITICS AT STATE CAPITAL

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 22 .- As has been generally predicted, considerable politics was injected into the lumber rate hearing last week, and according to statements made by some of those representing the Farmers' Union the end is not yet. It is now evident that this lumber rate question will be an issue in the coming campaign whichever way the commission decides the proposition. In the event that the commission refuses to grant the petition for lower rates, then an attempt will be made to have the farmers aligned against the commission in the efforts of two of its members who are candidates for office, and in the event that the commission grants the petithe railroads and other corporate interests arrayed against them. That is the situation, although it was repeatedly asserted that politics would cut no figure whatever in the decision of the on, and everyone knows that the commission will act and decide for what it thinks best and do its duty notwithstanding these so-called threats. At any rate, this lumber rate hearing as well as that differential cotton rate proposition, will cut a figure in the coming gubernatorial con-

While no formal announcement has been made, it is learned that beginning with May 1 the different candidates for governor and other officers will give out an itinerary of their speaking ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 22.-The case places and from that time until July of Midshipman Claude B. Mayo of Co-28, when the primaries are to be held, the campaign will be red hot, although, it is not believed in well-informed political circles that by the time July rolls around there will be four candidates in the race for governor. Before that time it is said this number will be reduced, possibly to two. Just who those two candidates will be has not sufficiently developed to make a guess, but within a short time now things will begin to clear up on the political horizon and those with a keen perception will be able to pick the > no one seems to doubt, and it is also said that personalities to a considerable extent will be indulged in, and in that event the ordinary citizen may make up his mind to hear the history of the different candidate for three or four generations.

It is now said that the campaign will also be full of reform propositions. and these reforms will not be confined entirely to those candidates for the legislature, but even the candidates for governor will have some reform plan which they will explain to the plain people when they go out on the stump. The propositions recently advanced by Hon. Monta J. Moore of Cameron may also cut some figure in the coming campaign. As to the candidates for the legislature, it is said that the new ones each have a batch of reform measures which they will propose when the next legislature convenes So t may be expected that the legislature itself will be quite lively when it is taken into consideration that not more than fifty of the old members will come back to Austin next year.

Another matter that the dear pollticians—and how truly great they are will have an opportunity of shying around is the proposition of how the farmers of Texas can organize a great big grand trust and fix the price of cotton away up yonder whether or no There is no question the fact, if he can get 15 cents for his cotton, he ought to have it. There is also no questioning but what if he forms a trust to get it that the worthy politician won't say a word. In order that he may relieve his pent-up feelings over seeing a big trust set up in business that he can't interfere with, the politician may turn like a mad snake and bite himself, while he flounders around and makes life a burden for corporations in general, but you can bet your sweet life that Mr. Farmer won't be disturbed, no matter what he does. Laws are made for everybody but everybody don't have to obey them unless they want to, especially when elections come every two years and the voting population of the fellows out in the country continues to bloom and blossom along lines that would make Teddy Roosevelt and a whole flock of storks get busy and smile all over themselves. The farmers are the people and they are going to have the highest priced cotton down here that you ever saw in your life and you may count on that as one of the certainties for the pres-negro help be not employed on the Judge N. B. Moore Trying to farms. Irresponsible whites are said to have posted the notices in order to Start Campaign for Planting > Judge N. B. Moore, secretary of the Factory Club, is attempting to start a campaign for tree planting for the beautification of the city. "The Factory Club is very deeply interested in the planting of shade trees on the residence streets," he said. "The building of sidewalks is now becoming an epidemic, the result of systematic agitation. The planting of shade trees should go hand in hand with this good work. "Citizens who contemplate planting should not do it in a haphazard way, but intelligently. It is but a waste of money, a disappointment and a failure to plant trees not adapted to the soil; such trees will not grow, or if they do, it is but a sickly growth for a time and they soon die. "Thousands of trees have been planted in the city that resulted in absolute failure. Either never grew or in a year or two perished. "The essentials to a good shade tree

"1. Preparation of the ground. "2. The selection of the tree.
"3. The planting.

"4. The care of it after it is planted. "Seventeen years of close observation in Fort Worth have seen the planting of thousands of trees, out of which but few survived. Readers may observe in every direction dead timber, sickly, worthless sticks or poles in front of residences. The added beauty, comfort and value to a home secured by having thrifty, symmetrical shade trees, with the lawn well cared for and an abundance of flowers cannot be overestimated.

"But what is the trouble that there is such a general failure to secure shade trees? To me, the greatest cause is in the kind of trees planted, and their condition when planted. Thousands are hawked about the streets for sale every planting season, and often out of it, which have been secured in the woods, virtually cut up, not taken up, and with but few roots. respondent, Mr. Grant, several times These are exposed to the weather, dry and sometimes frozen. #### Weather Map Delayed

The local weather bureau map was issued an hour and a half late Monday morning on account of the fact that the norther had made communication by telegraph so slow that the reports were not received from weather bureaus about the country in time.

Warm in East

The storm has embraced all of the region west of the Mississippi and is moving eastward. Temperatures are exceptionally high in the east, Buffalo reporting a temperature of 60 degrees at 7 o'clock Monday morning, and temperatures from the other eastern stations ranged equally high. In many of the eastern cities the high record for January was broken a number of degrees by the hot weather of Sunday. Telegraphic messages from Boston show that the unofficial maximum there Sunday was reached at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when the thermometer went up to 80 degrees. At Columbus. Ohio, the highest record for January since 1878 was reached and a baseball game was played during the day. At Pittsburg and Cleveland the previous January record was also broken. At Washington the weather bureau reported the "greatest midwinter warm spell since 1890."

Cold in West In contrast with the warm weather n the east was the zero weather reported throughout the western part of the country. The upper and middle Missouri valley reported temperatures ranging from 18 to 32 degrees below zero. The lowest weather bureau report for Sunday was at Huron, S. D., where the thermometer went down to 32 degrees below zero. Zero weather reported as far south as Santa Fe, N. M., and Omaha, Neb.

High wind velocities are reported from a large number of stations. The highest was at Oklahoma City, with a maximum velocity of fifty-six miles. CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 22.-Warm weather continues throughout the Ohio valley. The temperature this morning averaged 64 degrees. A cold wave gradually extending eastward is expected to reach here tonight. Excessive rains have fallen in Southeastern Missouri, Arkansas and Tennessee. #### THE BOY WHO DOES THINGS

We all know the boy who does things, and we tip our hat to him as the coming man in whose hands the affairs of state and nation will be safe for the future. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow. They are the ones to whom we must look to fill the places of the men of yesterday. And while there is much complaint of the average boy not measuring up as the world would have him measure up. we can see on every side of us boys who give promise of developing into just the kind of men the world needs every day are doing things-to those boys who are giving evidence of the traits of character so essential in the true and manly man. Such boys may be scarce, but enough of them are in evidence to prove that all the good boys really do not die early.

they are willing and able to fill a man's place in this busy old world. Wilson Kimble is the young man referred to. He is 22 years of age, was born and reared on a farm about forty miles west of this city, and was 18 years of age before he was able to enter any school. ocrats, however, are only interested in watching the school, he came to this city, penniless, but imbued It is none of our funeral. with the lofty ambition of acquiring some kind of education and fitting himself for the duties and resoonsibilities of life.

Wilson Kimble entered the university in this city at the age of 19, and applied himself to his studies so assiduously that he succeeded in taking the entire five years' term within three years. He has paid all his expenses by carrying newspapers and doing such other work as only willing hands can find to do. Next session he will enter the medical department and qualify himself for the medical profession. He has done these things entirely unaided, starting at the very bottom of the ladder, without even the rudiments of an education, and working and paying his way as he has climbed higher toward his ultimate goal.

Can any reasonable man doubt that Wilson Kimble will fail to make his way in the world, after the manly fight he has made in overcoming obstacles that would have seemed insurmountable to many other boys? Wilson Kimble will succeed for two reasons. One of these is that he is made out of the kind of material that always succeeds, and another is that he deserves to succeed. The boy who is able to do what Wilson Kimble has accomplished is already a man and qualified to do a man's part in the affairs of this world. and the self-made men who are made after this pattern never have to offer any form of apology for the character of the work they have done.

The boy who does things can always be depended upon. He may be a little scarce, but the world is only the worse off in consequence. And such boys make the very highest type of a glorious American citizen-

REPUBLICAN ROW IN PROSPECT

If any one doubts that Colonel Cecil Lyon of Sherman, is the republican dictator of Texas, all he has to do in order to remove those doubts is to casually study the returns that have come from Washington during the past few days. Every time the gentleman from Sherman has reached for the plum branch the fruit has fallen directly into the hands he had pro- News. vided for the purpose, and it is evident from the distribution made that he is both rewarding some old riends and at the same time settling some old scores. colonel Lyon has frankly announced prior to his great

ift distribution pilgrimage to Washington that he accends to make a clean sweep of all federal office holders in the southern and western districts of Texas, and it is said his determination in the premises is the outgrowth of the old fight between the Hawley, Green und Lyon forces that has been in progress for the Cast six years in the effort to control republican forces THE FORT WORTH TELEGRAM In Texas. While the past rows between republican factions in Texas have been very bitter, at the last republican state convention held in Texas Colonel Lyon succeeding in routing the enemy hip and thigh. He was elected state chairman and member of the national republican executive committee in Texas, an honor or combination of honors wholly without precedent in Texas. He also enjoys the distinction of being the close personal friend of President Roosevelt, and all these things combined have served to make him the real republican dictator of the state of Texas. And the manner in which he is handling the situation goes Sunday edition only, six months ...... 75c very strongly to prove that he thoroughly understands Sunday edition only, one year ......$1.50 his business. But while the doughty colonel is engaged in building up his political fences and strengthening the weak places, there are ominous evidence of a gathering storm. A late report from San Antonio says:

Letters received here from him say that among those whom he will not recommend for reappointment are Judge Henry Terrell, United States attorney at San Antonio; Judge Mark C. McLemore, United States attorney at Galveston; United States Marshal Brecht, San Antonio; Acting Postmaster Johnson, San Antonio; C. H. Maris, collector of customs, Brownsville; Pat Gibbons, postmaster, Paris; Herry Beck, postmaster at Hillsboro, and George B. Zimpelman, postmaster at

These officials, however, will not consent to be displaced by personal friends and supporters of Colonel Lyon without a hard fight and an organization is now at the office, Eighth and Throckmorton streets, Fort being effected which will wage a fight equally as bitter as the Hawley-Green-Lyon fight, and it may result in the eventual overthrow of Colonel Lyon's power, as some of the men who will be displaced are men of great power in the ranks of the party in this state.

> It is safe to say that the President will be besieged with friends of the present officials and his mail will be overcrowded with protests against the decapitation of the men who have been serving for the past four years. In case they are displaced the fight will be carried into the republican primaries this summer and a strong effort will be made to displace Colonel Lyon as state chairman and replace him by some other man who is opposed to his interests.

To those familiar with republican politics the action of Colonel Lyon will be perfectly logical, as all of the men who are to be replaced have opposed him at

United States Attorney Terrell is to be replaced by Attorney Charles Boynton of Waco. Judge Terrell has been pitted against Colonel Lyon in more than one political fight. Judge Terrell was always a strong supporter of ex-Congressman Hawley of Galveston and in the Hawley-Green-Lyon fight was the candidate of Hawley for state chairman against Green and Lyon. The convention was tied up and finally Judge Terrell withdrew from the race in favor of Lyon, insuring his election. This action was thought to have made Judge Terrell solid with Lyon, but it seems as if there has been some hitch.

United States Marshal Siebrecht, Postmaster Zimpelman at Austin and C. H. Maris of Brownsville are all Hawley men and their appointments were due to

It is probable that Postmaster Zimpelman will be replaced by T. L. Wren of Austin, formerly assistant postmaster, and that Captain Siebrecht will be replaced by Eugene Nolte of Seguin. At least these are the recommendations which will be made by Colonel Lyon. Acting Postmaster Johnson, Pat Gibbons of Paris and Harry Beck of Hillsboro were all stanch supporters of E. H. R. Green and therefore are scheduled to by J. J. Stevens and J. J. Dickerson, respectively.

Judge Mark C. McLemore was one of the most able of Hawley's lieutenants. He is to be replaced by Assistant United States Attorney McDaniels of Galveston, a Lyon supporter.

It is stated that United States Marshal Hansom of Houston, United States Collector of Customs Dowe at at Eagle Pass, Assistant Collector of Customs Ferguson at San Antonio and Internal Revenue Collector Flanagan at Austin are scheduled to remain, as are all original Lyon men.

Whether these facts are true or not, it is evident the Lyon ax has already begun to fall. One of its first blows was used to decapitate the postmaster here in in its business. We refer, of course, to those boys who | Fort Worth, and one of Colonel Lyon's warm adherents, who is a most excellent gentleman, has received the appointment. Original and dyed in the wool Lyon men are being rewarded all over the state, but this procedure means future trouble. The men who are being ousted are not without political influence in There is a young man employed as carrier by The Texas, and at the next state convention the man from clared it would be improper for these two distinguished street. The man had his hands in his pockets. The Telegram, on the west side, who is among the number | Sherman is going to have another very warm fight on who are measuring up and proving to the world that his hands. Whether a combination of sufficient magnitude can be formed to unhorse him is on of the problems of the future, but the indications are that the for him by 250,000 minority. Big Boss will realize that he has been participating in some kind of a very interesting engagement. Demeven for a single term. After one term in a country | fight over the distribution of the loaves and fishes.

> More sidewalks and better sidewalks must be the slogan in Fort Worth until more sidewalks and better sidewalks have become an accomplished reality.

> Perhaps those doughty statehood advocates will finally conclude not to impeach the President after all. They should remember the old axiom to the effect that the gods first incite to anger those whom they

The situation is growing very interesting about the national capital, and the fight within the ranks of the republican party threatens to become of serious importance. The Big Stick seems to be the main issue in the situation, and there is severe condemnation of the President among his party leaders. But Teddy holds the winning hand.

Having succeeded in licking the stuffing out of a state convict kept on the premises to polish his boots, Governor Vardaman wants all the porters employed about the Mississippi state capitol to be composed of convicts. If his idea was carried out, the warrier governor could go out every morning and work off his bellicose spirits on half a dozen convicts before settling anything to injure the beef trust, up to this good hour. down to the real work of the day.

Colonel Tom Campbell, the east Texas candidate for governor, does not desire that prohibition shall be mad an issue in the impending state campaign, and the east Texas man's head is very level. There is no reason why Texas democrats should fall out and scrap over an issue that can be readily settled under the guise of local option. There are other matters of vastly a voting privilege.-Merkel Mall. more moment to the people of Texas.

in the United States senate. The story of the career of Penrose is an unanswerable argument in favor of the election of senators by the direct vote of the people.

I have been among his neighbors. friends and foes, the stanch pillars of the commercial, social and political life of this great American city. I have heard from their lips the same sordid story indignantly repeated, but not without a poignant sense of regret at the downfall of a career which had promised splendid fruition.

Senator Penrose is a comparatively young man, the scion of one of the most esteemed and distinguished families of the Quaker City, but as a young lawyer he entered ward politics. He was soon carried to the legislature, where his public energies leaned irmly toward much-needed reform.

When ambition for power at any cost suddenly seized him, he aligned himself with the forces he had previously fought and which he knew to be antagonistic to good government. Rejected by Philadelphia

Later Penrose was slated by the Philadelphia gang for mayor. Miserable gossip concerning his private and public life spread from lip to lip. I have it from first hand authority that one gangster at this time said: "If Penrose is elected mayor we can put our arms into the corn crib to the What was called "an assault upon

Penrose went down before these bitter denunciations and was withdrawn

Nothing daunted his colossaf ambition, however. He nestled closer under Quay's great wing and at last came the reward-election to the senate by Quey's own legislature. Gang Headquarters

Senator Penrose has today as his closest and most intimate friends and associates "Issy" Durham, the deposed boss of Philadelphia; James P. Mc-Nichol the filtration contract grafter: David H. Lane, Dave Martin and other members of the political-business ring which for six years looted the city until the people revolted.

Throughout the recent campaign Penrose's office in the Arcade was gang headquarters.

As a state leader Penrose's failure has been almost complete, due, I am told, to his double-barreled arrogance and harsh treatment of the organization members. Even the legislature has turned Penrose down. His losses he takes with hard indifference. The Quay machine bequeathed to him is badly shattered.

Penrose has denied connection with the looting and wrecking of the Enterprise National Bank of Allegheny. In the state campaign Homer L Castle charged Penrose with a part in a general scheme of borrowing funds from banks that held state deposits at a low rate of interest. In Congress

His senatorial record shows him to be the author of no general measures and few important demands for federal assistance in the upbuilding of his important constituency. Many pensions are to his credit. He has been interested in obtaining naval appropriations, which no doubt are of interest to the Cramps of Philadelphia. The Congressional Record shows one bill by Penrose: "For the relief of the

. . . . THE GRAND OLD MAN

Rev. Edward Lloyd Jones of Manchester, England, Auditor Askew of the railroad commission, says late is credited with having originated the phrase "the grand old man" as applied to Mr. Gladstone. During the Irish agitation it became necessary that detectives should follow Mr. Gladstone for the purpose of protection, and as the liberal leader lived at Hawarden, in Flintshire, that county, then governed by quarter sessions, was asked to pay the bill. The magistrates, been demolished by recent experience. nearly all Tories in those day, objected. Whereupon Mr. Lloyd Jones, who was then a minister at Rhyl, promptly called an indignation meeting. He asked a lawyer who was present to state whether, if the life of a common tramp was in peril, it was not the duty of the county to protect him. The lawyer said that it undoubtedly was. "Then," shouted Mr. Jones, "if it is the duty of this county to protect the beggar at our doors, are we going to allow the precious life of that grand old man at Hawarden to go unprotected?" That meeting settled the quarter sessions' object cions and the

The New York Sun thinks that there is an uncommonly complicated situation for us in Dominican affairs. If the President were to withdraw the treaty it would compel the withdrawal of our war vessels from the island and the abandonment of the custom house to the first fellow that could seize it. If the senate should reject the treaty this would look like a rebuke to the President, and would plunge the island into chaos. It adds:

Approval would virtually commit the country to & new international policy so serious in its possibilities that many people refuse to approve it or hesitate in indorsing or condemning it. The definite establishment of the United States as the official receiver and liquidator of all the contractual obligations of bankrupt Latin American republics is too big a job to be lightly undertaken. Nor is there the least assurance that approval of the treaty would guarantee peace and order in Santo Domingo. That pleasant theory has

Mr. Lutz says that cattlemen up north had told him that cattle could not be bought from Texas stockmen now for shipment to pastures and for feeding purposes; that prices were too high. He was informed that the cause for this was the fact that Texas had a market of its own, and could sell all her cattle at home.

In a letter protesting against proposed running of a train out of Gainesville, when the regular train drops half an hour behind schedule, W. C. Nixon, vice president and general manager, makes some interesting statements admitting a percentage of trains late, that is hardly conceivable. A portion of the communication dealing with "stub" or extra train; made up to take place of regula? trains for behind time is:

"Since Oct. 1 train No. 5, or a stub of that train, has arrived at Galveston late fifty-one times, and on fortyseven times has arrived at Galveston more than thirty minutes late, and of the trains arriving late seven of them were stub trains started from Gainesville, which were unable to make the time on account of the large amount of baggage and slow movement of holiday passengers.

five stub trains, most of them from Gainesville, and, commencing with Dec. 21, we started a stub train out of either Purcell or Gainesville each day up to Jan. 7. These trains have not been run on time on account of heavy passenger train business and also an unusual congestion of freight, which has overtaxed our facilities and delayed trains in spite of everything the management of this road could do to prevent it. Some of these stub trains have been run as far as Somerville and there waited for the second section to overtake them. In cases where this was done it was only where there would be four or five remaining on the stub trains for points south of Somerville, and the management considered that it would not be warranted or expected to go to the expense of running an extra train a distance of 111 miles for five passengers, some of whom probably would not go as far as Galveston.

Eight Hours Late Another part of the letters says: "Now to get at the cause of the complaint against our road, as recited in a letter from Mr. Colquitt to our general passenger agent, Mr. Keenan: In the middle of December we commenced to get a very heavy freight business from our connection, which is the Atchison Railway Company, and business got so heavy between Purcell, I. The consequence was that on making the change, which was on the 20th, at midnight, the wires went down. No. 5 of the 21st was reported 1 hour and 50 minutes late from the

Atchison, with a second section following much later. We had previously arranged, on account of expecting holiday travel, to start a stub No. 5 out of Purcell independent of the Atchison connection. This was to take care of the local business. The engine and erew and train were all ready to leave Purcell on time, but on account of the trouble with the wires they were delayed 35 minutes, leaving that station, and delayed between Purcell and Cleburne 5 hours and 5 minutes, arriving at Cleburne at 2:05 p. m., just 10 minutes ahead of the first section of No. 5, which arrived from the Atchison 1 hour and 50 minutes late. These two trains were put together at Cleburne and were delayed from various causes (most of which were handling passengers, express and baggage and doing regular work) until train arrived at Galveston 8 hours and 55 minutes late. This delay was unfortunate, and if we had known some things which we found out afterward we probably could have handled the train in better shape; but all the way through the train seemed to have a fearful handicap, and I agree with the gentleman who made the complaint about his trip from Cameron to Houston that he had cause to complain, but I am not able and was not able at the time to prevent the delay which he Cutting Mail Time There is a prospect for FortWorth to receive at 9 p. m. mail that leaves St. Louis at 2 a. m. of the same day. The Frisco is now operating a fast mail out of St. Louis, leaving that city at 2 a. m., and the Missouri, Kansas and Texas officials are at work on a schedule that will, if perfected, enable the Katy to take up the St. Louis mail from the Frisco at Vinita in time to deliver it in Fort Worth at 9 o'clock on the night of the same day it leaves St. Louis, a run of just nineteen hours. This arrangement, if made, will be of much value to the business interests of this part of Texas.

MONUMENT HERE TO CONFEDERATES

Plan for Erection of Shaft Proposed

At the regular meeting of R. E. Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, Sunday a movement was put under way that will likely culminate in the erection in Fort Worth of a monument to the Confederate soldier. The plan was suggested by Commander E. W. Taylor after listening to an address by General K. M. Van Zandt, who recently attended the unveiling services at Marshall, and the movement was indorsed by every member of the camp present. The meeting was well attended, con-The meeting was well attended, considering the condition of the weather, and the program was full of interest. The finance committee reported favorably on the report of the quartermaster and it was approved and ordered filed. Major General K. M. Van Zandt was invited by Commander Taylor to tell those present of his trip to Marshall on the occasion of the unveiling of the monument erected there by the Daughters of the Confederacy to the Confederate soldier, and responding General Van Zandt said that his trip to Marshall, the home of his boyhood. was one of the most pleasant of his life; that while there he met many old comrades who had been through the war with him, and saw the beautiful monument that the Daughters of the Confederacy erected and dedicated to the Confederate soldier. It was an imposing shaft, he declared nineteen feet in height, surmounted by the figure of a Confederate soldier standing at parade rest. General Van Zandt said that he took his company of ninety-three men into the war from Marshall and that of the original roster there were still eighteen

He said that Harrison county. of which Marshall is the county seat, was one of the most patriotic counties in Texas, and with a voting population of 1,173 when the war broke out, sent 1.140 soldiers to the Confederate army. He also told of giving to W. P. Lane chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, the organization that erected the monument, a remnant of the flag of this company that had been in his possession ever since the surrender of Fort Donaldson. When the surrender took place General Van Zandt, then a captain, refused to surrender the flag of his company, and tore it in small pieces, giving to each of his men a piece, which all of them retained. "It did me much good to be at the Marshall meeting," said General Var Zandt, "and I never enjoyed myself anywhere more than I did there. I was no general, no major, at that gathering of old soldiers and the wives, sons and daughters of old soldiers, but just plain Klebe-even the old negroes would come and shake my hand and to them I was still "Mars Klebe.

When General Van Zandt concluded Commander Taylor sprung the Confederate monument matter and called attention to the fact that R. E. Lee camp was, if not the largest, among the largest camps in the country, and said if Marshall, Dallas, San Antonio and other cities could erect monuments to the Confederate soldier there was no good reason why Fort Worth with its R. E. Lee camp should not do likewise. 'We can do it, and we ought to do t," he said. "I agree with you and indorse the idea," said General Van Zandt. The way to do this, in my opinion, however, is to turn the matter over to the Daughters of the Confederacy. Let them take hold of the proposition, and if they say that they will erect the monument they will do it.

Committee Named

Adjutant William McConnell moved that the commander appoint a committee of three to confer with the Daughters of the Confederacy and formulate plans looking to the erection of the monument. The motion was seconded by several and adopted unanimously. The commander appointed the following committee: K M. Van Zandt, chairman, Amos Quayle and Dan Parker.

A committee consisting of W. T. Shaw, chairman; M. J. Pankey and E. P. Lingenfelder was appointed to formulate rules for the safeguarding of the books of the camp library. Reunion iscussed

Tom Cross addressed the camp on the reunion to be held at Confederate ark and told of people he had talked to who were coming to it; that he believed the reunions there were productive of great good and that the next one was going to be better and bigger than the last one.

J. E. Gaskell gave a reminiscence of the first Vicksburg campaign and M. J. Pankey spoke of the camp's first commander, the late Captain W. G.

country. Jeffries handed down his title to Marvin Hart after the battle in Nevada in which the Louisville man knocked out Jack Root. The people looked on and smiled. Hart had made a good showing, but to declare him the rightful holder of the world's championship honors sounded rather coarse. However, at that time he had as much right to the title as any of the fighters. Since then O'Brien has knocked out Fitzsimmons who, it was conceded, was so far beyond his best days that if O'Brien did win he would not have as good claim as Hart. Public opinion has changed some

Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine were, to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until today Lydia E. A general alarm was sent in for ambulances, firemen and policemen. In the meantime the greatest confusion reigned. Men and women ran about the streets calling for missing ones. Large crowds gathered and the work of rescue was promptly started. Dead and injured were quickly taken to hos pitals and near-by houses. The fire was only trifling, the flames being extinguished before the firemen arrived.

watched him restore the pistol to his pocket. In one second he had aged ten years. He was now an old man, haggard faced and trembling. I strode to the bell and pressed the button. I had won the battle. I stalked over to the other door and threw it wide. "Get out of this!" I grated. "Get out of this and gohang yourself if you want to cheat the hangman. You've had your fun, and now by heaven! I'll have my pound of flesh!"

He raised to me the face of a panicstricken craven. "For Christ's sake!" he cried, and even pleaded with his hands. He was beaten, indeed. "Well, then!" I said, "the money!"

With feverish hands he tore from his coat a small bundle of notes and forced them upon me. "Count them, count them!" he mum-

"Go!" I ordered sternly. "But, but-your oath!"

"I'll keep !t-go!" He uttered a hollow groan, and rushed out of the room. I looked at the notes. They were brand new, and ten in number. Each represented £1,000. Hearing footfalls, I concealed them, and a second later there came to me the waiter who had conducted Sir Charles to my apartment.

I gave him a florin, and said: "I want a man, big-my own size-just like me-to carry a box. You are too small. Send me a man like I want at once, but he must belong to your hotel. I can trust no strangers!"

I put on my hat, and as soon as he had disappeared, I followed him. A gentleman stood by the elevator door, as though waiting for it to ascend. I passed him and began to descend the stairs. He immediately rang the bell three times. Was that a signal, I wondered. I returned very quickly, but he still stood there and he did not seem to be aware of my existence. But he rang the bell once. I again began to descend the stairs. Again the bell rang three times. I came to the lower floor, and there another gentleman was standing before the elevator door. I passed him and he rang the bell twice. "How curious!" thought I, "my room is on the third floor of the hotel. There the bell was thrice rang; but on the second floor only twice, and most remarkable coincidence of In, the elevator does not trouble to appear!" I had left the second floor-I returned to it! The waiting gentleman rang once! I was satisfied. "Sir Charles Venner," said I, "has put at least three detectives on my trail!" I marched straight up to the elevator door and rang the bell myself-one long continued ring. It appeared at once. "Ze third floor!" I muttered to the attendant. "Ich haf forgotten zomeding!" A moment later I was back in my room with the door shut. I began to undress, and when the knock that I expected sounded, I stood in my socks and underclothes alone.

"Come in!" I cried. A burly waiter entered. He wore a short black beard at the sight of which Sir Charles Venner let his hand fall, I rejoiced. "Shut the door!" said I. He obeyed. "Mein friendt!" said I, looking at him very keenly, "do you vish to earn a sovereign?"

out in my delight. He looked so very like a man disguised. "Now, mein friend, you can go!" "Where to, sir?" he inquired.

I gave him a handful of silver. "You take a cab," I began, "and you drive to ze Marble arch, zere you get out, und you take a bus to Cricklewood, you mind dat?" "Yes, sir."

"Vell; ven you come to ze Cricklewood terminus you find a man zere vaiting for you-a big Cherman gentleman, like me. You say to him: 'Doctor!' und he vill give you a small box! You bring that box back to me quick, und take care not to lose itfor it is worth much geld—zat is money. You know now what you do? Hein?" He assured me that he understood and would follow my instructions to the letter, whereupon I dismissed him to his fate.

In another moment I had changed my fang teeth for a more fashionable set and ten minutes later I slipped out of the passage, locking my door behind me, as smart a dude as ever stepped from a bandbox.

I walked with mincing steps and I screwed up my features till they looked as vacuous and expressionless as possible. I found on turning the corner that a gentleman, whose figure I recognized, was standing before the ele-vator door. For a second I went cold. "Had my decoy then failed of its purpose?" I asked myself. In a fever of auxiety I began to descend the stairs. straining my ears to listen. No signal bell rang-but I heard swift footfalls in the passage. In a flash I under-Two of my three shadowers had followed the waiter, but the third had remained behind to watch my door and discover my escape. Moreover, he would know for certain whom he must thenceforth follow, for he had given me a sharp look as I passed him.

Instead of hurrying, however, I walked more leisurely than before. I felt confident I would elude him as soon as I pleased. As it transpired we reached the ground floor almost together, for he descended in the elevator. I took a good look at him and marched to the street door. Beckoning to a porter, I directed him in mealy tones to fetch me a hansom. One stood already by the curb, but instinct told me that it belonged to my spy. The porter blew his whistle, and a second hansom soon appeared. I threw the porter half a crown and sprang aboard. "Streeter's, Bond street," I cried, and we were off. My mission was to dispose of my bank notes; for well I knew that their numbers would be noted.

Rheumatism is usually worse in Winter because of the cold and dampness and other changed conditions of the climate. The occasional twinges of the disease that are felt during the warmer weather are changed to piercing pains, the muscles become inflamed and swollen, the nerves get sore and excited, the bones ache, and Rheumatism, the terror of winter, takes possession of the system. Then the sufferer turns to the liniment bottle, the woolen clothes, the favorite plaster or some home remedy, in an effort to get relief. But Rheumatism is not a trouble that can be rubbed away or drawn out with a plaster; these things relieve the pain and reduce the inflammation, but do not reach the real cause of the trouble, and at the next exposure another attack comes on. Rheumatism is caused by a sour, acid condition of the blood. The refuse matter and bodily impurities which should be carried off through the channels of nature have been left in the system because of indigestion, weak Kidneys, torpid Liver and a general sluggish condition of the system. These impurities sour and form uric acid, which is absorbed by the blood and distributed to the different muscles, joints, nerves and bones, causing the painful symetoms of Rheumatism. S. S. S. goes to the root of the trouble and cures Rheumatism by cleansing the blood. It neutralizes the acids and filters them out of the circulation and sends a stream of pure, rich blood to all parts of the body. Then the pains cease, the inflammation subsides, the PURELY VEGETABLE. nerves are quieted, every symptom of the disease passes away, and the cure is permanent. S. S. St. Paul continued to advance, opening at Saturday's closing figures and selling at 191% before the end of the first hour, which was a net gain of 1% points from Saturday's finals. Anaconda opened 2 points lower, worked up 5 points and then eased off to the opening figures. Amalgamated Copper was also weak, selling off over a point in the first hour of trading. Sales to noon were 770,000 shares. Around midday the general list firmed up and for a time the market was quite active. Reading touched another new high level at 163, this point being reached in the last hour of trading. The closing price was ½ point from the best at a net gain of 4% points. St. Paul also added to its early gain and reached 192%, but at this price there was considerable profit-taking, which brought on a reaction, with the result that the day's gain was wiped out before the close. The less important shares weer also bought freely and exhibited strength. Chesapeake and Ohio advanced 11/2 during the day and closed near the best, while Norfolk and Western sold at a net gain of 2 points. There was rather free liquidation in the final trading and the

COTTON

Market Extremely Dull-Prices Decline a Few Points-Closing Tone Steady

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 .- Early operations in the cotton market were generally in the shape of liquidation for the purpose of evening up over the approaching census report.

Liverpool reported prices unchanged at the hour of the local opening. On the first call here active months were unchanged to one point higher. In the initial trading prices eased off about 3 points from the opening figures. Business was restricted owing to the prevalence of bad wire conditions throughout the south and west and the disposition manifested by the local crowd to await tomorrow's developments, as a result the session was the dullest for a long time. Although there was no especial weight brought to bear on the market, prices declined of their own volition, reaching the lowest in the last hour and closing at a net loss of 3 to 4 points. Spots were quiet and unchanged at 12.25c for the middling grade. The range of futures is as follows: Open. High. Low. Close. January .....11.54 11.58 11.54 11.56 March ......11.77 11.77 11.72 11.72

Monday's Receipts Calves .....

Monday's Review and Sales Monday opened the week with light receipts of cattle, around 1,900 head, and beef steers were prominent in the supply. The demand on good steers was broader than at the close of last week, and as pretty good quality was shown, the market improved to the extent of a dime, top fed steers selling up to $4.25, the bulk of good beeves

The cow supply was better in quality than at the close of last week, and a very liberal number of good cows and helfers came on the market. Packers were in the field for good cows, and so were local butchers and outsiders, making a strong demand for this class of killers. Selling began around $2.80 for the best cows, with the bulk between $2.50 and $2.70. Sales

SECURED 7 MILLION ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR SHERIFF

Japanese Capitalist Brings Back Great Sums for Island's Development By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Jan. 22.-Shizuo Kondo, a Japanese capitalist, arrived here today from London on his way to Japan. The Chronicle says Kondo secured $7,000,000 paid up capital in England, which is to be invested in mills and machinery under the management of an Anglo-Japanese corporation.

After effecting a combination of steel and iron works in Japan the manufacture of celluloid and silk will be taken up and other industries will be taken up as the capital of the international corporation permits. The intention is to do actual manufacturing in that country, where it can be done most heaply, so that the ramification of the company's business is likely to be

Moroccan Conference Has Not Developed Any Trouble

ALGECIRAS, Spain. Jan. 22.-The nternational conference on the Morocan reforms reassembled at the town hall here this morning. The presidin officer, the duke of Almudovar, re-d messages from the Spanish senate . d chamber of deputies expressing a 1 be for a successful issue of the converence. The Marquis Visconti Venota, head of the Italian mission, replying in the name of the delegates, made a significant reference to the international character of the agreement to be concluded here. This was interpreted as referring to the Franco-German difficulty over the question of the international control of Morocco.

The members of the church have by private subscription raised the money to pay Mr. Eldridge, who will be with them for as term of twenty lessons. Under his able leadership those who attend the Church of Christ are now singing songs as they used to be sung; everybody sings and the spirit of song prevails. The song services are becoming popular and many people outside the church are taking interest in them. At each service there are many songs at Christ church, besides practice nearly every evening and Sunday afternoon. In speaking of the movement one of the members said: "We believe in praising the Lord with our voices and in doing this we do not like to use instruments. We are glad to have visitors at any time and have them join us in our songs. This was the way of our forefathers and we like to cling to this good old way of wor-

CAR SERVICE CHANGED Evening Run to Handley to Be Made

at 5:30 o'clock

The Northern Texas Traction Company has decided to make a slight change in the leaving time of the local Handley car. This change has been made in response to numerous petitions received from the patrons of the interurban line who live at Handley and intermediate points, requesting the company to run a 5:30 p. m. car out of Fort Worth each night for Hand-Beginning Thursday, Jan. 25, the Handley car leaving Fort Worth at 5 p. m. will be discontinued and a car for Handley leaving Fort Worth at 5:30 p. m. will be put on. There will also be a Handley car leaving Fort Worth at 6 p. m. The company will

COUNTY FAIR TO BE HELD IN FALL

Races and Agricultural Exhibit Proposed

Directors of the Fort Worth Driving Club will have a meeting within a short time in order to take up the matter of a Tarrant county fair as forecast in The Telegram some time ago. It is the intention of the members of the driving club to have the first of the annual fairs during the fall of 1906 if possible, and work on the matter will for exhibits in culinary, sewing and other lines. Agricultural matters will be given a special prominent. In fact, the fair will be more for the farmers than anyone else, as a large part of the display will be devoted to their in terests.

The fair will be held adjoining th Driving Club park and a race me will be held every afternoon while the fair is in progress. It has not been determined as yet whether the directors of the driving club will apply for a meet in connection with the state cirsuit or not, although it seems that the club wishes to arouse more public interest in racing before going to that

To Invite State Circuit The state circuit will undoubtedly b invited to this city some time in the near future. The new driving park has already gotten up more interest in racing than this city has ever had before, but members declare it will take a little time yet before the citizens will be found to be sufficiently interested to turn out for a state circuit meet, with its fast horses. At present the meet will probably be continued to lecal horses and those that owners can be induced to send in from the country around about. The secretary of the club will probably send personal invitations to prominent Dallas horsemen to attend the meeting.
