JOINT STATEHOOD BILL REPORTED FAVORABLY

Provides for States of Oklahoma and Arizona

SAYS CRITICS UNJUST

Report Explains "Foreign" Population of New Mexico Is of Native Birth

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.-Representative Hamilton of Michigan, chairman of the house committee on territories, today submitted a favorable report on the Hamilton joint statehood bill, which provides for the admission of oklahoma and Indian Territory as the state of Oklahoma and provides for joint statehood for New Mexico and Arizona, under the name of Arizona, The Bill in Detail

The report reviews the bill in detail, explaining that the capital of Arizona is to be Santa Fe, until 1915, and that the capital of Oklahoma is to be Guthrie for the same length of time, when the people can choose their cap-Ital sites with justice to all parts of the states. The report says: "This committee considers criticism is ill-formed, which finds fault with New Mexico because of its alleged foreign population. Out of a population of 1,905,310, New Mexico has only 13,-625 foreign born inhabitants, a smaller foreign born percentage than most states of the union.

"New Mexico was made a territory in 1850 and ever since that time t'people of that territory have been electing their own legislatures, making their own laws, conducting their own local government and contributing revenue to the federal treasury. "Were it not that two-fifths of its

of Spanish descent, has been heretofore erroneously referred to as foreign, The report concludes as follows:

Name Oklahoma "Inasmuch as congress intended by the organic act of the territory of Oklahoma, all of original Indian Territory, together with what is known as Beaver county should become one state, and inasmuch as the present erritory of Oklahoma has for some time been qualified for statehood, which has been deferred until Indian Territory should be ready to be joined therewith in statehood and, inasmuch as the conditions in Indian Territory imperatively demand some better form of government than that which now exists and, inasmuch as the Indian lands must be allowed in severalty before the time when statehood can go into effect, this committee's report is in favor of the jointure of the territory of Oklahoma and Indian Territory into one state; not, however, before March 4, 1907, such state to be known as the state of Ok-

Old Plant to Pump River Supply in Case of Danger From Fire

Fort Worth's water supply is shut off on account of the bursting of a 36inch valve on the main feed line just in front of the pump house of the new waterworks plant at 1 o'clock Tuesday-

As soon as the break occurred the new plant was shut down, the water supply being shut off. It cannot be turned on until the break has been repaired, which will not be before Wednesday. As many men as can work on the break have been at work on it since the accident and will continue through tonight or until it is completed. The city is now without water from its waterworks and it will be until the broken valve is repaired. Only low parts of the city will be able to secure water at all.

Fire Precautions In case of fire the old waterworks plant will be operated. Fires were put under the boilers immediately following the accident, everything being in readiness to pump river water in case of emergency. The stand pipe has also

TEXAS A GREAT STATE

Colorado Proves It by Wonderful Recovery From Collapse of Ten Years Ago

COLORADO, Texas, Jan. 23.-Colorado has emerged from its convalescence after the boom fever with a great appetite for new industries, new settlers, new homes and, in fact, everything that a growing town de-

It is perhaps a little unfair to refer to Colorado's attack of fever ten years after it happened, but the Colorado boom is still so fresh in the memory of Western Texas and its history is so much typical of early day enthusiasm that reference to it may serve as a valuable to reminder to other communities just starting on their career of greatness. Colorado's history has many picturesque features. Early in 1880, Dunn, Coleman & Company, merchants of Coleman City, Texas, determined to open a general store on the prairies of Mitchell county. The railroad was not yet through but it had been surveyed, the route through Mitchell county running about 20 miles south of its present line. A. W. Dunn, now living in Stonewall county, and J. E. Rogers, still a citizen of Colorado, came from Coleman to open the store. Lumber for the building was hauled in wagons from Roundrock in Williamson county, nearly 300 miles, and unloaded on the survey of the Texas and Pacific. After it had been loaded it was learned that the Texas and Pacific had adopted a route twenty miles to the north and the lumber had to be loaded again and hauled to the present site of Colorado. The store was opened Sept. 1, 1880, and it did a thriving business from the start. Pioneer settlers for hundreds of miles to the north, south, west and east came there to trade. Other stores opened, dwellings sprang up and the little town on the banks of the Colorado grew rapidly. When Mitchell county was organized in 1881, some of the early settlers wanted to name the town Mitchell, but Dunn, Rogers and some of the earlier comers had the majority, so the town was named Colorado after the river on the banks of which it stands.

The Pioneer Editor J. R. Dobbins, the pioneer editor of West Texas, brought the machinery for establishing a newspaper with him to Colorado almost with the first settlers. When the county was organized, his fellow citizens offered him the honor of county judge because of his progressiveness, but the county was still unsettled and the dispensation of justice was a job full of excitement, not to say risks. Dobbins declined and left for Mississippi, leaving his newspaper plant behind. Printed on Wrapping Paper Then W. P. Patterson, a cowman, decided it was a pity to see a printing establishment out of use, so he founded the Colorado Courant and published it successfully. The paper still lives, alhtough the name has been changed to the West Texas News. Patterson had a great time finding paper at the start, but not to be discouraged, he

The growth of Colorado continues unchecked until 1886. Then the boom collapsed. By that time Colorado was probably the best known town between Fort Worth and El Paso. It had a street car system with cars running three miles out into the surrounding country. Its buildings were large to meet the demands of its great trade and its homes represented a degree of luxury hitherto unknown on the western plains. Sherman has Colorado's street cars now. After the boom they weren't

But despite the collapse which came with the end of the boom period, Colorado was not the kind of town to stay on the ground after being pitched out of the saddle. When better times came the town began picking up again. In the past few years it has grown steadily and substantially.

cotton business at its five gins and is probably the leading shipping point for cotton in all West Texas. Its banks are in a prosperous condition and its merchants are doing more business than they have in years. The town has five churches and one of the best school systems in West Texas. New homes are being built and old ones are being enlarged or remodeled. The town has an electric light system and water is supplied by gravity from a standpipe furnishing ample fire protection. Two salt factories employing about fifty men are the leading industries beside the cotton gins. There is also a bottling works. Among the industries badly needed is a steam laundry. Colorado is a "dry" town and local sentiment seems to be in favor of continuing that condition.

From the success already attained in raising small fruit and vegetables in the vicinity of Colorado the town promises soon to be a leading distributing point for this character of A. W. GRANT.

By a Staff Correspondent. COLORADO, Texas, Jan. 23 .- The old-fashioned game of "freeze out" is a familiar one to early Texas settlers and its interesting peculiarities are foreibly suggested by the plans which are being made for the ice war imminent in West Texas the coming

The plans for building two twentyton plants at Big Springs have already been told in The Telegram. Now the Colorado Salt Company of Colorado announces that it proposes to erect a forty-ton plant and go after the whole West Texas ice trade.

The salt company has much in its favor when it comes to ice-plant building. It has an inexhaustible supply of brine which comes up from deep wells at a temperature of 56 degrees. Brine is an important requisite in making artificial ice, and its temperature must be reduced below 32 degrees before ice can be made. Rival ice companies to compete with the salt company's plant must not only manufacture their brine, but must reduce the temperature from a considerably higher point.

The salt company says it can make ice more cheaply than any plant in Texas, that it will not have to erect any new buildings, or employ any additional force aside from that used now in making salt.

WEST TEXAS HAS RACING RANCH

Place Near Sweetwater Devoted to Thoroughbreds

Staff Correspondence. SWEETWATER, Texas, Jan. 23 .-There are probably many Texans reading the racing results regularly in the daily papers as well as many more who do not keep up with what "the ponies" are doing, who do not know that in western Texas is a ranch large-By devoted to the raising of thoroughbreds which has already turned out at least one record-breaking runner. J. F. Newman, whose home is on the edge of Sweetwater and who, together with his son. H. S. Newman, has been in the business of raising and racing thoroughbred horses about six years, is probably the most sucessful breeder in the southwest.

Mr. Newman entered the business as a business proposition, believing that the climate of Nolan county was particularly adapted to the raising of thoroughbreds. He had about fifty sections of pasture for a paddock, if he needed that much, and was prepared to go into the business on a large enough scale to be profitable.

Business Profitable That he has been profitable has been shown by the fact that the winnings accredited to him and his son for the past season total $10,415. This sum was cleared up with only five horses in the field and much of the racing omparatively small. Thus far the fastest horse of the Newman string is Don Domo, which held the world's record for five furlongs until batten by McGee, the present holder. Don Domo has been an unusually profitable horse for his owners, who have refused large sums for him. Don Domo is now going on five years, and is at present racing on the Pacific coast. The Newman string was kept at the Chicago tracks last year until racing was shut down. Then it was taken to Kansas City and Dallas, being moved from the last named place to Los Angeles. The Newman horses are raced only on "regular" tracks, none of the colts having ever been entered on the so-called "outlaw"

Plans Widening

But although the Newmans have been unusually successful to date, they have been only laying the preliminaries for racing on a large scale. At present they have at Sweetwater twentyfive weanlings, all of which will be ready for the track in January, 1907. They have about thirty thoroughbred mares, but the number probably will soon be reduced. Three mares were The salt company is also understood | purchased last fall from S. B. Burnett Fort Worth and the dam of Father Ketcham, the most successful twoyear-old last season, has also been added to their stud. Prince of Plenty is the present head of the stud. The Newmans started with Rancocus.

Have Futurity Entry

The Newsmans have an entry for the Sheepshead Bay futurity next year. At present their five horses are at Asot. Besides Don Domo, the string includes Alamogorda, Miss Anxious and a couple of colts.

The Newman's jockey is Monte Preston, a Sweetwater boy, whose five-year contract with them expires in 1908. Their trainers have been secured from different stables. At Sweetwater they have a half-mile track on which J. F. Newman superintends the workouts Mr. Newman does not believe in the 'corn stalk" plan of raising thoroughbreds, i. e., bringing the colts up on rough feed until a few weeks before starting their training. All of the romising colts are carefully raised and their feed looked after from the time they are weaned The Newmans believe the climate and soil in the vicinity of Sweetwater are particularly suited to raising good colts. They have never had a colt suifer from bad feet, a good fortune which they attribute to the dry loamy soi! in the vicinity of Sweetwater. Their colts have also always shown good wind and staying powers, a quality which the Newmans believe is largely due to the dry air and moderate temperatures of the region in which their farm is located. So favorable has been the showing of the Newman horses on the northern tracks, a number of northern owners. have announced their intention of investigating the region and it is considered probable that within a few years, if favorable locations can be secured, several other breeding farms will be started in the Sweetwater section. Its nearness to El Paso and consequent advantage in moving horses to the Pacific coast tracks is ducement to breeders and trainers. A. W. GRANT.

RAILWAYS WAR FOR TERMINALS

, SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22 .- One of the most exciting railroad battles in the history of the west is being waged for possession of strategic water front privileges on the short of Oakland. The Western Pacific, which is the new was done in Canada, where purses are railroad with which the Goulds hope to secure facilities equal to those of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe. have begun the laying of tracks over reclaimed ground midway between the narrow and broad gauge ferry terminals of the Southern Pacific. A huge dredger, at work for some time, has ceased operations owing to a Federal injunction secured by the Southern Pacific and work is practically at a standstill, though armed guards patrol every foot of the Western Pacific territory and several shots have been fired at supposed invaders of these precincts. The county courts are choked with recently filed suits and counter-suits advancing the claims of both contestants and both have made application for the property in question to the United States government,

The Southern Pacific, in its Oakland yards, is busy constructing lines across the right of way desired by the Western Pacific and a clash of armed forces, which both companies maintain in large numbers, is expected at any moent. The Western Pacific has estaba "scratch line," christened "Camp Deadline," where two machine guns are kept ready to repel possible besiegers and the entire reclaimed frontage is patrolled by sentinels armed with murderous looking shot-

PACKERS PRESENT FORMIDABLE PLEA

Possible That Promise of Im-. munity May Be Proven

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 .- An outline of the attitude of the packers in their contention that they are immune from criminal prosecution was explained to the jury before Judge J. Otis Humphrey by Attorney John S. Miller, chief counsel for the Armour people. The statement of Mr. Miller was replete with surprises. In the statement Attorney Miller disclosed the fact that the acts, statements, investigation and conferences of Commissioner of Corporations James Garfield and his assistants in connection with the investigation of the packing industries for the purpose of making a report to the department of commerce and labor are not only relied upon to prove the right of immunity from prosecution, but that ontsiders not connected with either the government or the packers will be called as witnesses to support the contentions of the packers.

Contentions of Packers

Following are contentions which Attorney Miller announced the packers would prove: That the facts and evidence to which Commissioner Garfield was given access in the offices of the packers during the conduct of his inquiry were not given voluntarily by the packers but after he had served notice upon them that he would invoke the power vested within him under the law to compel them. That the packers did not go to him, but he went to the packers.

That when he started he knew nothing of the packing business or where to go and whom to examine in order to get the facts needed in his investigation. That the enormity of the packing business in its various branches compelled the securing of reliable facts from the packers and from no outside sources.

That Mr. Garfield came to the two Chicago bankers to get his introduction, and that during conferences in the presence of these bankers with the packers Mr. Garfield was told the packers feared the confidential information would be disclosed to men who might profit by it for political purposes or for political agitation. That they threatened to test his right to inquire into their private business in the courts.

That Commissioner Garfield promised that the information which he would secure from private books and papers in the offices of the packing concerns would be for the sole use of his department and that none of it would be furnished to the department of justice or to any one else except the President, who would keep inviolate the secret information.

That the indictment was returned upon the same subject matter upon which all evidence was furnished to Mr. Garfield, and, therefore, the packers furnishing the proofs are immune.

WHAT COUNTY OFFICES PAY

Princely Incomes of Past Not Possible

Early opening of the campaign for the different county offices would lead many of the uninitiated to believe that the eagerness with which the offices are sought is prompted by the fact that the places are simply mines of wealth that can be worked without any great effort. This is an error; none of the officers are the "snaps", some people imagine them to be; and no matter which one a man fills he will rave to work, and work hard for what

Sheriff's Office

The sheriff's office is looked upon, and no doubt is, the most desirable office in the county, and it pays the holder of it a better stipend than any other office in the gift of the people of Tarrant county. However, the sheriff does not get a dollar that he does not work, and work hard, for. There is no legal limit, it is true, to what a sheriff may receive under the law, but just how much he gets depends on his rustling and working qualities. The expenses connected with he sheriff's office are heavy The pay of a sheriff is better now than it formerly was. Under the old fee bill law his salary was $2,500 and one-fourth of the excess of fees. This was so inadequate in the opinion of the sheriff's association that it secured an amendment to the law that puts the sheriff on "easy street" comparatively. Under the old law the sheriff had to expend large sums in ne pursuit of criminals without any hope of ever getting a cent of it back. The state didn't pay such expenses and if a sheriff rustled he had to do it at his own cost. Now, however, the sheriff gets an addition to what he used to get, a revenue that justifies

Atlanta, Ga., Physician Addresses the People of Fort Worth on a Matter of Health

"To Whom It May Concern-Of late there has been a good deal of discussion in regard to advertised medicines, their value and power to cure. ### him in rustling. He gets $750 ex-officio salary from the county for serving the commissioners' court and he receives fees from the county court, paid by the county. Civil fees also help him out; and then the feeding of prisoners, especially in Tarrant county yields a very handsome profit yearly. While a sheriff has to work for what he gets, his reward is by no means insignificant.

County Attorney The county attorney is another hard worked man, but, while he does not get as much out of his office as the sheriff does, no man who is active and intelligent in that position has any particular cause to complain of hard times. He is allowed $2,500 and 25 per cent of the excess of fees, and is allowed a number of assistants, who are paid by the state out of the 75 per cent of the fees that do not go to the head of the department. A wide-awake county attorney, a man who keeps his weather eye open, may not become a millionaire while in that office, but he will be able to keep the wolf from his door without much trouble.

There was a time when the office of county attorney in Fort Worth paid more than that of the attorney generai or the United States two times over; but that has been changed by the fee bill law and the county at torney here cannot get rich in four years from what the office yields, Still he is not a sufferer by any means.

County Clerk

The county clerk's office is another that yielded more profit than the best gusher that ever spouted on Spindle Top. There was hardly a limit to what county clerks in Fort Worth could make at one time. Their yearly income along in the eighties was big enough to cause envy to rankle in the breast of the secretary of state of the United States. Now the county clerk gets an annual salary of $2,500, is allowed a number of deputy clerks paid out of fees of the office and he gets besides the $2,500, 25 per cent of all the fees after paying the deputy clerks. This enables him to draw a comfortable, but by no means a princely salary. The office never goes begging for some one to fill it, and never will, notwithstanding the perquisites have been divided and subdivided several

District Clerk The district clerkship, while it is a good position for an active worker who knows how to get the most work of the deputies allowed him by law is not such a good producer as the county clerkship. The district clerk gets as much salary as the county clerk, it is true, but he does not have so many sources of revenue. Like the county clerk, he is allowed $2,500 per year, so many deputies paid out of the fees of office and 25 per cent of excess after paying the clerks. So far no man has been found to refuse the office on account of the amount of revenue it yields the man who fills it.

Constables

Twelve years ago the constable of precinct No. 1, Tarrant county, could | tion, but, leaning heavily on a cane, make out of his office a clear profit of he calmly followed a deputy sheriff 6,000 per year; but those flush days are gone by. The Fort Worth constable then made as much money out of his little precinct job as the government pays its congressmen and senators. The fee bill law put an end to this, however, and now the salary of the constable is fixed just as the others. If he is active, wide-awake and a good hustler, he can make $1,500, possibly $2,000, but there are no more $6,000 incomes.

Other Offices

What is true of the offices menioned is true of the other county positions. The collector, assessor and others, while they get enough to keep them comfortably and enable them to lay up something for the time when they will not hold office, have to work and work hard for what they get.

Sheriff Needs Space for Goods Recovered

rived here Tuesday morning, bringing requisition papers for Clarence Alexander, Gus Smith and Josie Smith, three negroes who were arrested here recently and held for investigation. Sheriff Murphy wants them in Guthrie to answer to a charge of burglary. He was here for them a few gays ago and they agreed to return with him without papers. On the following morning, however, when the time came to start for Guthrie the prisoners refused to go without papers. Mr. Murphy returned and procured the papers and is here again for the prisoners. Mr. Murphy states that he has a prisoner at Guthrie giving the name of Frank Williams, who was arrested for burglary and who has turned state's evidence, revealing the existence of a gang of nine burglars, three of whom the officers says he believes to be the prisoners arrested here by Detectives Ray and Allen. As has been mentioned in The Telegram, the prisoners, when arrested, had trunks full of valuable wearing apparel and were also dressed in expensive clothing.

Much Plunder Found Sheriff Murphy states that he has secured plunder there valued between $3,000 and $5,000, and that he has found it necessary to rent a room to store away the plunder. It consists of almost all kinds of valuable wearing apparel, smoking jackets, silk shirts, several hundred pairs of trousers, about fifty parasols and numerous other articles. Among the articles recovered were several boxes of trousers which had apparently been stolen from a box car on a train, as they had not been opened and priced by a retailer. Mr. Murphy states that only a comparatively small quantity of the plunder has yet been identified and that some pains have been taken to destroy marks which will lead to identification. Chief of Police Maddox may visit Guthrie and inspect the plunder, to see if any of it suits the description of articles reported lost in Fort Worth.

NERVOUSNESS DEVELOPS INTO DISTORTION OF FACE.

A Remarkable Cure Effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. What appears to be a slight nervous attack may be the forerunner of a severe disorder. No nervous sufferer should neglect the warning symptoms, but should see that the starved nerves are nourished before the injury to the delicate organism has gone to an extent that renders a cure a difficult matter. The nerves receive their nourishment through the blood, the same as every other part of the body, and the best nerve tonic and food is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The experience of Mr. Harry Bemis, of

"I had been feeling bad for a long time," said Mr. Bemis, "and in the early part of September, 1902, I was compelled to quit work on account of my ill health. My trouble was at first extreme nervousness, then my sight became affected and I consulted an oculist who said I was suffering from paralysis. He treated me for some time, but I got no benefit. I tried another doctor and again failed to obtain any relief. My nervousness increased. Slight noises would almost make me wild. My mouth was drawn so I could scarcely eat and one eye was affected so I could hardly see. I had very little use of my limbs in fact I was almost a complete wreck. "I am all right now and am at work That is because I followed my wife's adwith the most gratifying results and she persuaded me to try them when it's peared that the doctors were unable to help me. They acted very surely in my case; my face came back into shape and in time I was entirely well." The reason why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effect such remarkable cures is bewhich nourishes the nerves and gives strength to every organ of the body.

They have cured obstinate cases of new ralgia, nervous prostration, sciatica, 10bomnia, as well as of partial paralysis.

High Wind Blowing as Flames Swept Plains

LUZON, Texas, Jan. 23 .- A prairie fire broke out near the line of Garza and Crosby counties and did considerable damage before it was put out. Had it not been in the broken country much harm would have been done, as a high wind was blowing. Several tracts of land changed hands last week in Dickens and Motley counties. The prices were about $2.50 per acre, with value of improvements ad-ditional. The land will be used for small stock farms

The planting of alfalfa is being discussed considerably now in this section of Texas and in the northern part of the state it has been tested and declared a success. There are many places in this county where there is every reason to believe that alfalfa would do well, and if so scarcely anything would pay as well. It is to be hoped that some one will give it a trial.

Many new tanks are to be seen both on the plains and in the breaks counties. In Lynn, Dawson, Gaines and Terry counties the water question is a serious one, as most of the wells are weak and every drop must be saved. Many new settlers have located there recently and are fixing up watering outfits. In the breaks country last summer many tanks were washed away, and these are being replaced and frequently new dams erected at differ-

The O-O outfit of this county has just returned from Old Mexico, where they went to carry about 250 head of mares, stallions and jacks. They have a large ranch in Chihuahua, and these will be used in grading up their horses there. I am told that it was an exceptionally fine bunch.

Train service on the Orient road began this week to run about thirty-five miles north from Sweetwater, and construction work is being pushed rapidly further out on the line. While this road is not much nearer to us, yet it will be an advantage compelling other roads to build west or lose business from this region.

Special to The Telegram.
GAINESVILLE, Texas, Jan. 23.--Several days ago Mrs. J. C. Foster had her attention attracted to a peculiar leeling which for a short time became painful in the flesh of her breast, but it finally passed away and she thought no more about it. Today the same sensation returned, accompanied by sharp pain, which caused her to make an examination. She discovered small pointed substance protruding. rom the skin and called another lady and asked her to make and examinaion and see what it was. The lady dislovered it was a foreign substance and set about to remove it, which she did and found it to be a long cambric needle with the sharp point broken off. Just how long the needle had been there and how it ever got there is a problem of much concern. Mrs. Foster declares no accident during her life ever happened that could have left a needle especially in that part of her body.

NATIONAL BODY

Texarkana Officers Will Not Be Recognized

That the Texas Farmers' Union is in reality a national organization and that the charter will not be given to the so-called national officers named at Texarkana, at least until after the regular convention in August at which the matter will be taken up, is the declaration of C. W. Woodman, one of the active workers in the founding of the organization, and publisher of the official organ of the local county union.

The matter, he declares, has been investigated by lawyers, the decision being reached that the Texas officers are without power to turn over their charter, granted by the state, to the Texarkana officers.

Campbell Russell of Hereford, I. T., has just visited headquarters of the Texas organizatition, whose charter powers really give it national jurisdiction, in an effort to reach an agreement. Texas officers, however, declared they could only turn over their charter powers to the people by whom they were given. Formation of a national organization at Texarkana, it is declared, was not included in the call. Statehood Fight

An effort to inject the territory statehood fight into the Indiahoma Farmers' Union is also reported by Mr. Woodman. It is claimed that the effort, however, will not prove effectual as charters issued recently as a part of this movement will not be recognized. It is declared a commission to organize local organizations was secured from the Indiahoma authorities, a large number being formed in this way. These, it is asserted, are sought to be used in opposing statehood.

MEAT FAMINE IN

Tariff on American Meats

Consul H. W. Harris of Mannheim, furnishes a report of a recent meeting of the chamber of commerce for the Pfalz, an important trade body, at whch the question of meat supply in Germany was discussed.

As is known, during the past months the prices of meat have greatly increased until today for many families they are prohibitive. This will require a prompt remedy. To the memorials | tis. which have already been presented The storm, which has about spent from numerous places to the proper itself, has been one of the worst ever | authorities, the reply has been in part that it was a matter only of higher prices for meat, and not a meat famine. That is, however, only a war of words. Every housekeeper is having the experience that it is really a quesof famine that finds its expression at the same time in higher prices.

Moreover, it is not a question of a merely local evil. On the Contrary, the complaints are heard all over Germany, from which it is plain enough to that the condition is not brought about artificially by the dealers or butchers. Indeed the butchers are the class which especially suffer under the present con-

> The Prussian minister of agriculture declared in August that the meat famine would be over in six weeks. This probably has not been fulfilled in the slightest degree. On the other hand, the famine remains as yet undiminished and the end is nowhere in view. The supply in most of the markets is small and confined mainly to small animals. The entire present situation clearly discloses the untruth of the agrarian declaration that Germany is in a position to fully provide for her needs. If this view were correct the present famine could not exist. This famine appears rather as the result of our present vicious legislation, which has prevented the importation of American meat. Our working classes cannot do without meat if they are to continue able to compete with foreign lands. With the present policy of fair words it cannot be done. A practical and effective remedy must be found. In this respect the proposals recently made to the minister of commerce and industry in a petition from the chamber of commerce of Berlin are worthy of consideration, and are as follows:

"1. The removal of the prohibition against admitting cattle while retaining such control as may be required on sanitary grounds and the setting aside of the unnecessary difficulties which now exist to the admission of cattle, at certain permitted points. "2. The removal of the prohibition against the importation of fresh meats and the abolishing of the restrictive regulations for the inspection of meats intended for import. These proposals are in no sense too far-reaching, and it is to be hoped that the chamber will have influence with the proper authorities to set aside the meat famine in the manner

A cable from Munich, Bavaria, says:

"The importation of beef cattle from Denmark shows a large decrease for the third quarter of this year. In the first quarter 31,953 head were imported, in the second 37,545 head, and in the third only 27,025 head. The cattle from Denmark consist mostly of cows, and the importation is permitted to enter the German empire only upon the condition that the animals shall be slaughtered for beef and not employed for domestic or agricultural purposes. Arrangements have been made for importing dressed meat from England. This beef will be imported in shipments of about 1,000 sides weekly, the importation to be of sides of American cattle which have been slaughtered in Birkenhead and Deptford, and shipped from one or the other of those points to German

THE TEXAS ANTI-TRUST LAW

The report comes from Austin that the attorney general's department is about to begin the work of making investigations to determine whether or not there are trusts actually engaged in doing business in this state, and this is welcome news to that large portions of all Texas. number of citizens who are thoroughly imbued with the belief that trusts are perniciously active in Texas. The Telegram believes if we have trusts of any kind operating in Texas they should be summarily brought within the pale and control of the law, and the sooner this is done the better it will be for all interests. It is believed that there are a number of combinations working in this state in restraint of trade. At least, allegations are being continually made in that direction both by the press and people of the state. The state has provided an adequate remedy for all the conditions complained of, and it is clearly up to the officers of the law to apply the remedy if they New York advices.

SENATOR HOPKINS' CAREER A CLIMB INTO RING FAVOR

This article, in the series on ♦ United States senators, shows the ❖ connections and interests of Al- & & bert J. Hopkins of Illinois in an & endeavor to answer the question & whether he represents the people * or special interests.

BY MARLIN E. PEW.

Special Correspondence. AURORA, Ill., Jan. 20,-In Albert J. Hopkins of this town, United States senator, is afforded an excellent example of progression in the commercial-legislative ring that controls law making at Washington.

While a member of the house from the 49th to the 57th congress Hopkins did nothing that would annoy the bosses. He was a patient plodder and "safe" man. Aldrich and the more aggressive lords in the interests of the financial powers had little fault to find with Hopkins when he joined them in the senate

In Chicago and in Hopkins' quiet little home town it is conceded that this confidence has not been misusually been found on Aldrich's side, either in spirit or in action. He advocated legislation which would give private corporations contracts to make armor plate for the government when it was proposed that the government make armor plate for itself. As a member of the house ways and means committee, Hopkins stood firmly on the sugar trust side when the Porto Rican bill showed its head. He was for the trust in the Cuban reciprocity matter. He paid especial attention, supposedly in friendship for the Illinois Steel Company, to tariff regula-

Allied With Walsh We will possibly be able to get the best focus on the real Hopkins with Chicago as the vantage point. There he is a lawyer, his firm being Hopkins, Peffers & Hopkins, apparently thoroughly intrenched with a corporin-law, while the senator's son, James, is the other member of the firm. Adjoining Hopkins' offices are the offices of the Illinois Surety Company, of which he is vice president. In Chiago it does an extensive business, furnishing surety bonds for public of-

In widely distributed advertisements of this concern "Hon. Albert J. Hopkins, United States senator," is boldly named a director of the company. Its treasurer and director is Fred M. Blount, who was vice president of the Chicago National Bank, one of John R. Walsh's financial houses which recently went into liquidation after state and national bank inspectors had discovered a juggling of assets. Among other directors are John R. Walsh, himself; Elbert H. A Few Pick-Ups Less than a year ago Hopkins was attorney in the Chicago drainage canal condemnation proceedings. He worked, it is alleged, only 24 days. His fee amounted to about $24,000. Chicago was indignant and a movement, I am told, is on among taxpayers to bring an action to recover.

After the senator's son, James, had been admitted to the bar only a year, he was appointed, through his father's influence, United States master of chancery in Chicago. The Chicago bar protested without result. James occupied sumptuous offices and the fee position is said to be worth about

When Hopkins was a member of the house the present bankruptcy law was enacted. Upon his return home, the position of bankruptcy referee was placed calmly in the hands of his own law firm. His then partner, Frank Thatcher, to whom thus fell the juicy plum, was the son of a well-to-do father and the son-in-law of a millionaire. The office was a very profitable one for several years. Then the position was passed into the hands of another member of Hopkins' law firm, Fred A. Dolph. The bankruptcy business was practically all gone through with by the time Dolph looked for broader fields, and then Hopkins generously allowed the refereeship to go to an outside lawyer, J. S. Sears, with whom, however, he was in political alliance.

Fanny Hopkins, the senator's daughter, acted as his secretary at Washington when he was a member of the house. She told many of her girl friends in Aurora that from her salary she had been enabled to build a cabin at the Half Way House on

AMUSEMENTS

In "A Pair of Pinks," West and Vokes present a funny, tuneful, pleasing comic opera. As is usual in plays of this cast, the plot is a negligible quantity, and the play depends on the appearance of its chorus and the humor of its stars. There are three girls in the chorus who are pretty, and two who have good voices. "'Nuff sed." Of the stars, Margaret Daly Vokes received most applause, and deserved Mrs. Vokes is a comedienne of high order. Her fun-making is good and laughable. Her voice, however, is not of grand opera timbre. West and Vokes themselves are good, as they always are, for a laugh and a chuckle. One blessed thing about this particular aggregation is they eschew some jokes which have seen more than a quarter century of service. That joke, though, in which water is poured in a tin bucket concaled in a high hat. is inexcusable. Compared with the jests which ordinarily do service on the comic opera stage, their humor is new. A theater party of Elks occupied a section in the front of the house, and contributed their applause to the general entertainment. By their request, "Dreaming in the Trenches" was sung by Frank Wagner, whose excellent bass voice was shown to great advantage All told, the show is well worth see-

In this age of wonder and invention, no art has taken more rapid strides than that of motion photography. The masterful progress of this science is perhaps the greatest educator to which the twentieth century has given birth. Think, for instance of beholding the English army plodding up the Thibetian mountains to the sacred. mysterious and forbidden city of L'Hassa. Think of the thousands of monks in their annual devil festivities. A play in which true love pursues the stormiest and most adventurous of courses is Paul Gilmore's new spectacular comedy-romance, "Captain Debonnaire," which will occupy the boards of Greenwall's Opera House Thursday and Friday night, matinee Friday, Jan. 25 and 26. The beautious heroine and the handsome hero pass through many exciting and dangerous episodes before those who oppose them are overcome and they have prospect of a life of uninterrupted bliss.

Kyrle Bellew

Kyrle Bellew's famous play, "Raffles he Amateur Cracksman." the only drama to remain in New York 200 nights season before last, which comes to Greenwall's Opera House Saturday matinee and night, Jan. 27, is more than an intensely interesting and highly exciting stage performance-it is also a fascinating study in criminology. "Raffles" is something entirely novel in stage presentation.

The Majestic Every butcher that may have been present in the audience turned red at the Majestic theater last night when one of the big lions fed by Martha Florrine chewed ineffectually upon a strip of red steak. His companion, however, cut the Gordian knot, gulping the tid bit at a swallow. This exhibition in which lions and leopards are displayed in a cage erected in full view of the audience made a decided impression. A dainty little woman, smaller than the least of her jungle collection, mastered the growling and fighting animals in a marvelous way, driving them with a whip alone to various clever tricks and formations. Myles McCarthy in a "Race Tout's Dream," furnished the top liner in what is probably the best bill yet shown on the Majestic circuit. Montague Fugitives Traced to Fort Worth

J. C. Bryant, sheriff of Montague county, arrived Monday afternoon bringing a photograph of the man shot during the attempted bank robbery at that place Sunday night. The photograph was at once identified as that of Patsy Flanigan, who was in Fort Worth about two weeks ago. He had only been in Fort Worth about two hours when Detective Al Ray took him in charge and escorted him to the office of Chief Maddox. After a course of questions regarding what he intended to do here, Mr. Maddox told him to get out on the first train. Flanigan took the Texas and Pacific east that afternoor It is the opinion in police circles that the safe blowers escaped. Flanigan had a police record as a sneak thief and pickpocket, but had never been known as a safe blower, and this, together with the fact that he is said to have been holding the lantern for the others, leads to the belief that he was simply aiding the professional safe blowers. Flanigan was a bright talker and formerly lived in Chicago.

Others Escape

The police officers in Fort Worth were on the lookout Monday night for suspicious characters who might have some connection with the Montague affair, but their efforts were unrewarded, and there is a strong belief that the robbers managed to get through here Monday morning without being captured. Two hatless men entered a saloon on South Main street shortly before the departure of the Rock Island train and bought drinks and departed. The matter was reported to Captain Blanton, who is in charge at night, and he had the officers institute a search for the men, as the robbers had left their hats, but the Rock Island train had already departed when he received the information, and the men had ample time to make their escape.

Sheriff Bryant tells an intresting story of the attempted robbery, first reported in The Telegram of Monday: After leaving the bank the two robbers took a horse and buggy belonging to Dr. Sherill of Montague, which they had stolen prior to entering the bank, and drove to Bowie, where they took the Rock Island train for Fort Worth. They were without their hats. which are now in the hands of officers. One of the hats is a derby and the other a Stetson. Both of 71% size. The dead man was well dressed, but he had on a pair of blue overalls over his trousers. His pistol, with two loaded cartridges and three empty shells, was found near his right hand, showing that he had taken part in the battle at the bank.

All of the officers are loud in their praise of County Tax Collector Bralley, whose nerve frustrated the robbery. Mr. Bralley sleeps in the building, and was awakened between 2 and 3 o'clock Monday morning by the smell of powder. He armed himself with his sixshooter and proceeded single-handed to attack the three robbers. He crept down the hall in his stocking feet with his sixshooter in his hand and peered through the door and screen into the room where he saw the three men in the act of looting the cash box. One man was holding a dark lantern so that the bulls eye caused the light to fall on the safe door. The other two were kneeling down at work.

Battle Begins Mr. Bralley, who was only about six feet away, opened fire, aiming at the man who was holding the lantern. This robber uttered an exclamation of pain and the light went out. The robbers then returned the fire and a fierce fusillade ensued. The robbers were apparently so surprised that they did not know exactly where to shoot. They were evidently bent also upon making their escape. Mr. Bralley protected himself behind a desk and emptied his pistol. The robbers fired about twelve shots. The bullets were imbedded in the walls of the little room around where Mr. Bralley stood, but he escaped unhurt.

Mr. Bralley did not retreat until his gun was empty, and then having only an empty gun with which to fight three armed robbers, he returned to his room and shut himself in. Sheriff Bryant, who had been aroused by the fusillade of shots, arrived on the scene in about ten minutes. He hastily examined the room where the fight occurred, finding one of the robbers stretched upon the floor just outside of the door of the office. The other two men had fled, leaving their hats, all their tools, a quart of nitroglycerin and a basket of lunch which they had placed on a table near the safe. The safe had been blown open but the cash box had not been reached when Collector Bralley interrupted the work. The dead robber had no papers on his person by which he could be identified. but he had a gold watch and $26 in

Sheriff Bryant and Deputy R. T. Anderson of Nocona and Deputy Walker Hargrove of Bowle arrived here Monday night to assist in the search for the missing robbers.

Fort Worth Omitted From Building Review

PERMIT NEGLECT

INJURY TO CITY

Another example of the value of keeping building permits up to date is found in the fact that the Construction News will shortly issue a report of the value of the permits in the various cities. This report will show that the value of the permits for 1905 was 40 per cent higher than that of 1904. Fort Worth will not be included in the list of cities as the building permits for the year 1905 were not high enough to place her among the larger cities. This is due solely to the fact that the permits have not been filed in this city according to law and the value of the permits filed is so ridicuously low for the actual building in the city that hardly any increase has been shown. If the real value of the building the city for the year 1905 were known builders declare the rank of this city would be far above figures the actual population call for in view of the building going on in other cities. This list which will soon be issued shows that in the twenty-six cities taken the value of the constructions made in 1905 was $528,186,412, against $375,571,130 for 1904, a gain of $152,-615,282, or 40 per cent.

Chicago had a gain of 32 per cent over 1904, New York 60, Philadelphia and St. Louis-and this the year after the world's fair-a gain of 65 per cent. An interesting part of the record is the growth and development of the cities not so large, such as Indianapolis 78 per cent, Columbus, O., 95, Louisville 95, Denver 58, Detroit Kansas City 57, Washington 61, New Orleans 53. Cincinnati 52. St. Paul 52, Cleveland 48, Brooklyn 44, Minneapolis 32, and San Francisco 31. The decreases __fortunately, number only four-Atlanta 17, Seattle 13, Pittsburg 6 and Memphis 3 per cent. It is pretty hard to account for this falling off, other than that Pittsburg has shown unusual activity in former years, Memphis was affected by the vellow fever scare, while there seems car employes in this city the service of the street cars would be bettered fifty per cent with the present equipment if the streets of the city were paved. In the weather such as the city had Monday the streets are liable to become springy, making derailments possible at any moment. Mud that covers the rails is also a source of constant apprehension to the motorman, depriving him of the control of his car despite his efforts to bring it to a stop at crossing. The car will slide along the batter of mud, which acts as oil to the wheels, though they have ceased turning and not until the momentum is lost will it stop, making possible collisions with vehicles on other cars, that would easily be eliminated by paved streets.

A piece of paving twenty-five feet in width has just been finished in front of Reeves' Pharmacy, the first piece that has been put in on Jennings avenue. The brick paving that was put in there extends from the curbing to the car track and a crossing has been put in across the street to the Majestic theater and also across Twelfth street to the school building. Almost before this piece of paving was finished another was started in the next block and the street in front of the Cameron Lumber company is now being paved with brick up to the approach of the viaduct. A Story of an Exciting Dash for a Fortuneby an Actor-Adventurer

Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

SYNOPSIS Agar Hume, a young, impoverished ctor, takes employment as valet to Sir William Dagmar, who is member of a secret society of consumptives. Serving a banquet at one of the reguar monthly meetings of the club, Brown, as Sir William has decided to call his valet, tells his master, in answer to a question, that he cannot understand French. The conversation being in French, Brown learns that the society sustains a hospital where, later, disguised as Sir William, he sees a wonderful surgical operated performed in which the blood of an ape is substituted for that of a man. The operation being the nineteenth and a failure. one of the members of the society present kills himself. Venner makes an unsuccessful attempt to trap Brown in blackmailing him by the threat to reveal the facts connected with the death of the last patient and, when Venner has paid him. Brown being disguised as an old German, changes his disguise, but is followed by a private detective as he leaves the hotel where he met Venner.

I bought two maknificent necklaces, and a long string of splendid brilliants under his very nose, paying therefor my £10,000, and receiving £200 in change. I then purchased a little brooch for 20 guineas. As we left the shop I nodded kindly to my shadower and advised him in an underbreath to be careful. He made no reply, but he gritted his teeth. I drove to the Alhambra Music hall and purchased a stall. I then proceeded to Verrey's restaurant and ordered a first rate diener. My spy took a seat at my table without asking my permission, and we gazed at each other steadily while we discussed the meal. When I could eat no more, I bought from my waiter a sheet of note paper, an envelope, and a lead pencil. I then smoked a cigar, and when 8 struck, I drove to the theater. My shadower secured a seat three rows behind me. I studied the program, and discovcred that the second succeeding item was to be a song and dance performed by a lady ramed Pearl Glynn. I had never heard of her, but I know her lass as well as any man that lives. Taking out my pencil and paper, I scratched the following epistle: "Dear Miss Glynn-A humble adorer begs you to accept the inclosed, and to grant him a moment's interview, before your

Just before the stage door closed behind me, and upon him. I turned and kissed my hand to him in taken of appreciation. I knew well what he would do. Finding he could not pass the door, he other street. I stopped dead and addressed the usher. "My man,' said I, "I have changed my mind. I'll go back." He shrugged his shoulders. "Just as you like, sir," he replied. In fact, we immediately returned to the auditorium, and two minutes later I had traversed the promenade, descended the stairs, and was running like a hare across Leicester square.

Alone, alone! A cab took me to Burton street, and 9 o'clock had barely struck when I was once again plain Brown, Sir William Dagmar's discreet and faithful I have never been intoxicated in my life, but it is often wise to assume a virtue, though you have it not. It seemed good to me to be drunk just then. As I mounted the steps I reeled. It cost me 80 seconds of painful effort to find the keyhole. The door opened suddenly and I staggered forward into Sir Charles Venner's arms. I had expected him to confront me; nevertheless, it shocked me to find my expectations realized, and to be convinced how tenaciously he had clung to his first suspicions. I picked myself up and stood before him, a swaying, binking, maudlin figure. With much circumstance and drunken gravity I explained to him that I had buried my mother, and that to steady my nerves I had taken afterwards a single glass of wine, which must have been drugged. Sir Charles pretended to believe my story. He assisted me to bed. then declared that he would prepare me a reviving draught, and taking a tumbler from my dressing table, he dissolved with water a couple of tiny white pillules, which mixtures he persuaded me to drink. I knew his purpose of course. He wished to search me. But I was in no wise alarmed or unwilling, for I had left everything I possessed at Burton street. I swallowed the draught, and even drained the glass. Within five minutes I was sleeping like the dead whereupon Sir Chas, Venner searche began to dress, but ere I came to my collar I paused and reflected. In my room at Burton street I had almost £ 500 in cash, as well as jewels for which I had last night paid £9,-860. I possessed, moreover, a credit balance at my bank of exactly £142, I considered, therefore, that it would be absurd for me to continue playing the lackey to my master for a beggarly £8 per month when a sufficient capital was ready to my hands, with which, and one or two smiles of the dancing girl, which particularly suits | fackle gaddess, I could make myself to quit Sir Wiffiam Dagmar's service as soon as possible. Such a course would certainly awaken and fortily Sir Charles Venner's suspicions, but what cared I for that. He could prove nothing against me, and, besides, I would be utterly beyond his reach. It was my idea to go to France: there realize upon my jewels, and with the proceeds speculate upon the bourse. My only regret in departing was contained in this fact. Although I had met with marvelous success in exploring the secret of my master's ghastly society of consumptives, I had by no means plumbed all its depths. The mystery of the monthly dicing by the members for the £7,000 check was still unexplained, and I could not think of it without tasting something of the torture that afflicted Tantalus. I proceeded noiselessly down stairs, resolved to enjoy a last breakfast at my master's expense, and thereafter bid the place a long farewell. Having arrived upon the ground floor, I pushed open the pantry door and en-

"Ah!" she murmured, "you thought I was Nurse Hargreaves? My name is Le Mar! Nurse Hargreaves has gone to another case.' She was just as beautiful, nay, rather more beautiful than ever, in spite of her deep melancholy and the dark sleepless hollows that undercast her eyes. TUESDAY, JAN

Sensational Advance in C. F. I .- Balance of List Suffer From Profit Taking

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Jan. 23 .- There were no developments over night of sufficient importance to exert any influence on the trade, and interest during the early trading was centered around the stocks which were prominent in yesterday's session. As usual, for the past few days, Reading furnished the feature, with an initial gain of 11/2 points, to 164, which was followed by a recession to 2% points below yesterday's closing figures. The pronounced manipulation of this issue is not calculated to inspire confidence on the part of the outside publie and trading was almost entirely for the account of professionals.

Aside from the movement of Read ing, the market was quiet, with the trend of prices toward a lower level. London cables reported an irregular market for Americans.

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Jan. 23 .- Today's market was an irregular affair, and the day's transactions included a large volume of realizing, which was especially noticeable in the stocks which have played a prominent part in the proceedings of the past few days.

Reading, as usual, furnished the feature, with an initial gain of 142 points. but the volume of the upward movement was checked temporarily at least by liberal profit taking which set in immediately after the call and forced prices down to a net loss of 2% points from yesterday's finals. On the decline there was renewed buying by the pool, and a partial reaction was effected. St. Paul also suffered from profit taking, but evinced strong recuperative powers, and final figures showed only a fractional loss. Amalgamated Copper was subjected to a severe bearish attack, and at one time sold off to a net loss of 2% points. There was a revival of activity in Colorado Fuel and fron during the afternoon trading, and that issue, which has already attained considerable prominence by reason of its movements in the recent past, even eclipsed its former record by a sensational advance of 7% points, carrying the stock to 79%. The general close was irregu-

Governor's Son Now Working on Comic Opera

A message was received Tuesday by The Telegram from Austin stating that Frank Lanham, son of Governor Lanham, left the Paul Gilmore company at city. Mr. Lanham has a large number of friends here who had expected to see him and they will be disappointed at his withdrawal from the company. Frank and Fritz Lanham were colaborers on the words of the opera, "The Baker of Bunz," which will be given by the students of the University of Texas. The music for the opera was written by Edmund Ludwig. It is the intention of the students to produce the opera during the last part give productions of it in Houston and San Antonio besides Austin. This is the first opera produced by the Lanham brothers and those who have seen the manuscript say that it will surely be a success.

Frank Lanham left the company at Austin. Everywhere that the show was seen in this state it is reported that he made a great hit. He took the part of Lieutenant Carrennes, one of the more important roles in the play. At Houston society turned out in large numbers to see him, and he was compelled to answer three curtain calls after the first act.

Longs Unload-Wheat Prices Decline Sharply-Corn and Oats Weak. Provisions Are Lower

Special to The Telegram CHICAGO, Jan. 23.-Liberal unloading of long wheat had a weakening effect on the market today and prices reacted from yesterday's advance, closing near the lowest at a net loss The desire to take profits was engendered by the bearishness of the weekly statistics, the visible supply having increased 1,941,000 bushels in the past week. Another influence was the fact that Liverpool did not respond to our strength of yesterday. The market was only fairly active and the trading was for the account of local professionals who bought yesterday.

Local receipts were 30 cars of wheat, 4 were contract grade. Corn was affected by the weakness in wheat and the lighter demand from cash houses. Closing prices were at a net loss of %c.

Local receipts 407 cars, 26 of these were contract grade. The visible supply statement shows an increase for the past week of 462,-000 bushels. Oats were quiet with the trend of prices toward a lower level. The close showed prices a shade lower. Local receipts 252 cars, of which 9 were contract grade. The visible supply has increased 363,000 bushels in the past week. Provisions met with liquidation and some local selling pressure, effecting a decline in prices. Estimated receipts of grain for tomorrow are as follows: Wheat 19 cars, corn 124 cars, oats 166 cars.

1995 and 9,485,482 for 1994.

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Jan. 23-The dominating influence in today's market was the census bureau report, which was issued at 2 p. m.

Before that time there was nothing of any importance transpired, opening figures being unchanged to 2. points higher and early in the day prices were inclined to weakness, although there was little active trading aside from some selling immediately following the call. Prices were selling about 5 to 7 points under the opening figures at 2 p. m.

The report showed 9,998,811 bales ginned to Jan. 16, and was construed as bearish, pandemonium immediately reigned on the floor and the bears hammered the market good and hard, offering large lots of cotton at greatly diminished prices, in connection with this longs were eager to unload and prices ran off quickly 35 to 36 points, closing at the lowest of the day. Spots lost 35 points, closing at 11.90c for the middling grade.

Tuesday's Receipts Calves ..... 200

Tuesday's Review and Sales Receipts of cattle today were moderate again, not over fifty-five cars coming in before noon, the supply aggregating 2,000 head, including two loads of calves. Steers

The supply of beef steers was noth. ing as large as on Monday, not over five loads being on offer, and none of them choice. Two loads of fairly good steers sold to packers early, and the market on these was called steady, the figures being $3.75@3.80. The others were of a lighter class. The general steer market closed steady. Sales today:

STOCK YARD NOTES The best steers on Monday's market were marketed by W. Miller of DeWitt county. They averaged 1,307 puonds and sold at $4.25. M. H. Young of Bastrop had a good cattle shipment on the market yesterday. He sold forty-three steers averaging 1,181 at $3.85; eighteen steers of 1,062 pounds average, at $3.60; two heavy oxen at $3, and a bull of 1,490 pounds a $2.50. The Fort Worth stock vards received last week 12,169 head of cattle, 1,666 head of calves, 22,208 hogs, 1,345 sheep and 476 horses and mules. Of these, packers bought 7.426 cattle, 3.483 calves, 22,328 hogs and 1,120 sheep. Others than packers purchased 1,762 cattle, 395 calves, 543 hogs, 308 sheep and 428 horses and mules.

the top load of hogs on the early market. He sold sixty-nine head of 266 950 00 | pounds average at $5.55. Nineteen loads of hogs made up the forenoon market. The bulk of the run 110 00 was made up of well-conditioned hogs from the territories. TRADE NOTES

> Under the improved conditions in the west the loss of sheep s minimized to between three and six per cent. Some of the loss is attributed to poisonous weeds, but in the mapority of cases we believe such deaths are due to bloat trouble unrelated to the action of any direct poison.

Despite several large cont crops, work horses are a scarcer article than ever. The whole country is clamoring for them. City demand is insistent, and the country is aroused to the necessity of getting in early.

A sheep may be a full blood or pure blood, and yet be so deficient in form or fleece as to be unfit for :

If the sows are being well fed before the pigs are weaned, they will gain rapidly on the same feed, and be ready to breed again as oon as they have gained a little flesh. Discrimination should be exercised in culling the ewe flock, and none should be wintered but those which are very liable to be good, prolific breeders, and which have a dense, heavy fleece all over and under the Let range cattlemen get together and decide that the scrub bull must go. He has no proper place in the

OIL STRIVE AGAIN

Agreement Not Ratified by Union and Workmen Go Out Again

HOUSTON, Texas, Jan. 23.-Workmen who returned to their duties in the Humble oil field yesterday afternoon, when an agreement was reached between President Cullinan of the Texas Company and the grievance committee of the union, were again called out on a strike last night, after a meeting of the union, which refused to ratify the agreement. The situation today is the same as yesterday before the agreement was effected and business is at a standstill. A further conference is to be held in the hope of reaching a settlement. The operators declare they will resume operations and, if successful, this is likely to bring about a strike in all the oil fields where the union is now thoroughly organized. NO BETTER SERVICE

Yoakum Coming

Advices have been received here that Chairman B. F. Yoakum of the Frisco and Rock Island board is at present in New Orleans looking over the terminals in course of construction in that city, and that President A. J. Davidson of the Frisco system is also there. It is thought here that the party will go from New Orleans to South Texas and thence to San Antonio, where Mr. Yoakum is expected to be present when the adjourned meeting of the Sap directory is held.

Notes and Personals

C. W. Strain, general passenger agent of the Frisco, will return next Wednesday from points in Kansas. B. L. Winchell, Jr., a son of President Winchell of the Rock Island, was with the party of Rock Island officials here Tuesday morning. Mr. Winchell, Jr., is a civil engineer, but is not an official of the company.

G. H. Lee, general passenger agent of the Choctaw division of the Rock Island, arrived here Tuesday morning and joined the party of Rock Island officials, who left for Dallas on a special at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. General Superintendent Cotter of the E. Dawson of Kingfisher, Okla., had Denver left Tuesday morning for a trip over the line. J. E. Hutt, superintendent of the eating house system on the Fort Worth

$50,000 FIRE AT LAWTON, OKLA.

Six Business Houses Burn-No Water Had

Special to The Telegram. LAWTON, O. T., Jan. 23 .- An entire business block of Waurika, sav, one building occupied by the Waurika telegraph office, was destroyed by fire at 9 o'clock this morning. The loss is nearly $50,000 as follows:

Milton hotel, two buildings, $2,000; partially covered by insurance. Milner's hotel, loss $2,000; insurance

One small building, loss $300; no insurance. Berry hotel, two buildings, loss $4,-000; partially covered by insurance. These losses represent building values alone. Nothing of the contents was saved from any of them.

The fire originated in the second story of the Berry hotel from a defective flue. The town had no water power and little effort could be made to save the block from destruction.

HAS A POLICE RECORD Patsy Flannigan Killed at Montague

a Bad Man Patsy Flannigan, who was killed Sunday night at Montague, Texas, has prison, New York. His photograph appears in "The Detective," the official journal of the police and sheriffs' of the United States. When the photograph was submitted it was in conat Trenton, N. J., on Oct. 11, 1905, as a dan gerous and suspicious character. ding to this he could have only been in the south about three months. "The Detective" did not contain a record of his career, further than that he had formerly lived in Yonkers, N. Y., where he was last sentenced to the penitentiary. When Flannigan was here two weeks ago, the detectives took occasion to see whether he had others with him, but when he was ordered to leave he went to the depot alone and took the eastbound Texas and Pacific train. The fact, however, that Flannigan is originally from New York has given rise to the surmise that he may have connected up with some of his former associates in the east and that his companions in Montague may ### have come from New York. STEVENS AT HOUSTON

Tuesday morning contractors began work on the first of twenty-five new houses to be built on Rosen Heights. The work is being done for J. H. Poulter, who recently came here from Nacogdoches.

The houses in course of construction are nice, roomy cottages, and are to be finished as quickly as the contractor can push the work. The new houses are being built near the amusement park on Rosen Heights, and all will be near the car line. There are a number of other houses being built on the heights, but no one locality will be so quickly built up. It is reported that this is the first opening of a building boom that is expected to reach great proportions during the spring. These new houses, together with the other improvements, will add at least $25,000 to the improvements of Rosen

CLERKS READY ANOTHER STREET WANTS PAVING

Residents of Adams Express Willingness

Street paving is now being agitated in Adams street from Railroad avenue called to have the street paved or to have a petition circulated for the purpose of getting the property owners to Alderman Maddox, who lives at the corner of Adams street and Daggett avenue, stated Monday night that he was heartily in favor of the paving of Adams street, and that he was willing to do all that he could to further it and would sign the petition. "I will do whatever I can to get the city council to pave the cross streets, if it is possible to get them paved. I would like very much to see Adams street paved, as it is a residence street that should be payed.

W. B. Harrison, president of the State National bank, is another of the residents of Adams street who has been urging the matter of paving the street and he never misses an opportunity to speak of the matter. Adams street for the seven blocks mentioned is one of the prettiest residence streets in Fort Worth, with its beautiful shade trees and houses. A number of the residents of the street were called up Monday night over the telephone and asked whether they would be willing to sign a petition to have the street paved provided that it could be done reasonably. The matter as to whether it should be with brick or asphalt was left to be decided later, if the matter was found to be in such a shape that plans could be made. Not one of the residents called up offered any objections to the plans, but all stated that they would sign such petition if it be gotten up. Among those who stated that they are in favor of the plan are W.-B. Harrison, E. P. Maddox, Ben O. Smith, E. W. Tempel, A. C. Walker, D. T. Bomar, J. J. Reimers, E. H. Carter, J. W. Spencer, A. A. Hunt and George Diehl.

MONUMENT PLAN MEETS APPROVAL

Daughters Erected Fine Shaft at San Antonio

"General Van Zandt was correct when he said the best way to secure Worth to the Confederate soldier is to turn the matter over to the Daughters of the Confederacy," said Walter Stevens of San Antonio Monday.

"San Antonio has the most imposing monument to the Confederate soldier in Texas, erected by the ladies of Bernard Bee Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy. The monument stape in Travis park, and is admired to the growing of visitors whe come to San Antonio every winter from all over the United States. The inscription on the granite column, "Lest we forget," has made this monument famous all over the country, and besides the heroic figure of the Confederate soldier, lifesize, that surmounts the shaft, is one of the most striking objects in the city This granite shaft is not only a monument to the Confederate soldier, but a monument to the noble women to whose untiring efforts is due its erection; it is a monument, too, to the city of San Antonio, and the liberal-hearted people there who contributed to the cost of it. "If the Fort Worth Daughters take up the matter of building a monumen in Fort Worth to their soldier dead, it is almost assured that they will build it, and there is no city in the South that should not have such a testimonial to the brave men who died for a principle they believed to be right. These monuments are educational and instill patriotism in the hearts of the younger

A BOY HUNTER SHOT IN BACK

Painful Injury From Charge of Birdshot

Will Burwick, 15 years of age, who lives in South Main street, was peppered with birdshot all over his back while out hunting rabbits Monday in the brush along Chambers creek. Young Burwick was accompanied by another lad named Henry Hines, the two separating when they entered the thicket, making a drive through it about thirty yards distant from each

Hines found a cottontail that ray directly toward Burwick and Hines, not being able to see him, blazed away at the rabbit but unfortunately a dozen or more of the small shot with which his gun was loaded found lodgment about skin deep in Burwick's back. Both boys hastened back to the city where the shot were picked out of the boy's back. It is not thought the lad will suffer seriously from his injury.

TO WEIGH MAIL

About 200 Men to Be Added to the Force

Plans are now being made at headquarters of the railway mail service in this city for the regular weighing of mails in the division. The weighing of mails is done every fourth year in the different divisions of the railway mail service. The country is divided into four contract districts, one of which has its mails weighed every year. The object of the weighing of the mails is to enable the rates for carrying the mails on the different railroads to be established. After it is once established the rate holds good for the next four years. The rate that a railroad reiceives for the mail carried on its trains depends in almost all instances upon the amount of mail that is han-

The mail for the Fort Worth contract division, which includes the Eighth and Eleventh and part of the Fourth and Seventh regular divisions, will be begun within the first four months of the year, and will continue until ordered stopped by the government, probably in the neighborhood of 105 days. During this time the mail taken on and put off at every station on the line of a train will be weighed each day

Extra Men Employed In order to do this work the division will have to employ about 175 extra weighers, who will attend the trains ed weigh the mail as it is taken on put off. Reports will be made out after each trip, giving the amount of the mail at each station, and these will be sent to the offices here, where there will be a force of about ten men ready to verify the results and enter them upon the books. The adding in this office will be done with three adding machines. The men employed for the work will be appointed from the list of certified men who have passed the examinations for railway mail service positions, and who have not yet been appointed to regular work. In case there will not be enough of these men, others will be appointed. Most of the men appointed for this work will receive the sum of $3 per day for their work, the same pay as a substitute postal clerk. In some cases, however, where the work that the men will have to do is small, the amount will not be as large.

Many Blanks Required There is now almost a room full of blanks that have been made ready for the weighing in the federal building. These cards have to be furnished by the railroads on which the weighing is to take place, and they are instructed to send about 400 cards for each and every train on the line, with a separate space for each station and two columns, one for the amount of mail received at each station, and the other for the amount that is put off a each station. Three copies have to b made of each trip, one kept as th train goes, and two made from it to be sent to the offices here.

These blanks have beer coming in ry day from the railroads until they re stacked all over the room. As fast s possible they are tied into bundles ready for the postal clerks. Besides the blanks, enough envelopes have to be sent to the clerks to transmit the reports through the mail to the offices

Weighing In Offices

Reports will not only be made of the railroad trains carrying mail, but large number of postoffices will have to weigh mail in case of small routes where the mail is already put in pouches for the trains. The total number of trains that will send their reports to the office in Fort Worth will be about 400, making 126,000 cards that have to be sent out from this city. A different form is to be used by the postmasters, and there will be about 1,000 of these received every day, making 105,000 more blanks. Thus the total number of reports that will have to be handled here will be in the neighborhood of 231,000 or about 2,200 for every day that the weighing will continue. On Monday the work of the men in the office here will be almost doubled on account of the Sunday mail held over. Instructions Awaited

Instructions for the exact manner in which the weighing will take place have not been received here yet, but it is considered that there will be little leviation from the way that matters were handled four years ago. The report blanks are furnished by the railroad and the envelopes by the government. The government pays weighers and has entire charge of the work. The scales for the weighing are furnished by the railroads. All mails must be actually weighed at every station, no estimate being permitted. The word "mail" is taken to include the pouches and canvas bags in which the mails are sent and received: also all empty pouches, empty canvas bags, locks, postoffice supplies, registered boxes, registered pouches and registered letters, as well as ordinary Where weighers are employed to do the work they will be under the charge of the clerks, and clerks will be responsible for the weighing of the mail on their charges. Weighers will not be permitted to distribute anly mail matter or attend to any other duties except their own. New contracts will be made for this division on July 1 for the next four years, and the weighing must be over
