ELEVATOR HOLDS TWO PRISONERS
 Federal Building Car Stops Between Floors

Mrs. E. C. Van Dusen and J. Bailie Finks, deputy clerks of the Federal court, were imprisoned on the floor of the Federal building elevator after they had started for dinner Friday. W. O. Thomas, deputy United States marshal, intended to take the same elevator, but returned for his overcoat and thereby saved almost an hour's waiting. The elevator stopped just six feet after it had started.

The remainder of the government force gave all kinds of advice as they passed by, but the elevator was not released until some one managed to tinker with the machinery in the base of the elevator. Since then, however, Deputy Clerks Van Dusen and Finks have walked in preference to using the elevator.

ELEVATOR STOPPED
 Federal Building Employees Must Walk Upstairs

The elevator in the Federal building, upon which the sum of $4,070 was spent but recently, has ceased to run. The reason for the discontinuing of the service was given in a letter by Postmaster Burroughs received Friday afternoon from the department of appropriations, stating that the fund for the pay of assistant custodians and janitors for 1916 had become insufficient and that therefore the elevator service would have to be discontinued. There is little chance that the service will be resumed again until July 1, when the fund for the fiscal year beginning on that date will again be available.

The money which was spent on the elevator a short time ago came from the special appropriation, which was made for the purpose of placing new safety devices on the elevator. In point of safety the elevator in the Federal building, according to Postmaster Burroughs, is the equal of any in the country. There are several safety devices on the elevator and it is very unlikely that all would fail at one time.

From now on the employees of the Federal court, the United States railway mail service, the weather bureau and the immigration bureau, besides all visitors, who are in the Federal building, to get to their destination unless the elevator can be run on a voluntary subscription plan. Most of the employees, however, are desirous of paying something like 5 cents a ride to keep the elevator running.

CHESS MATCH PLAYED
 Local Experts Hold Contest by Telephone Friday

A telephone consultation match of chess was played in Fort Worth Friday night and Saturday morning for the black, played by S. M. Furman, Ed Kneeland, A. C. Flora, E. L. Terry and E. E. Williams, who were located in the offices of Ed Kneeland in the Fort Worth National Bank building.

The losing team was composed of Will Monning, Bath, J. M. Fennell, Warren and C. F. Spencer. Its board was located in a residence in the Eighth ward.

The game lasted for three hours and a half and was concluded upon the resignation of the white team on the forty-fifth move. The game was very even until almost the close, when the black team obtained an advantage by pinning the only remaining piece, a knight, of the white team in the corner. The game ended with black in possession of two pawns and a knight, while white had but one pawn.

The next meet of the club has not been arranged, but will be held in the near future if the good weather continues.

BANK CLEARINGS GROW
 Second Highest Week of Year Shown by Figures

The bank clearings for the week ending Saturday for the city of Fort Worth were $1,682,911.16, against $1,416,329.12 for the corresponding week of 1919, an increase of 18.50 per cent, or 28.5 per cent.

The clearings for this week are the second largest for any week in 1920.

According to the Bradstreet report for the week ending Thursday the clearings for Fort Worth were $6,330,640, an increase of 33.7 per cent over the corresponding week of 1919. Fort Worth ranks as sixteenth in the total clearings this week, among all the cities of the country.

 Blood Stains on Wall Indicate That Yegmen Were Injured in Attack on Vault

After breaking into a carpenter's tool box to obtain a working number of splices, chisels, wrenches and crow-bars, crackmen Friday night broke into the office room of the G. W. Owens Lumber Company at the corner of Vine and El Paso streets and succeeded in effecting entrance into the right front door of a triple burglar-proof safe, only to find that apparent efforts of an hour or more were fruitless as far as the safe was concerned. Blood stains on the walls caught Sheriff Honea to think the men were injured while at work.

There was nothing to have rewarded the diligent labors of the burglars had they succeeded in blowing open each of the three sets of doors to the vault, which was just put into the office Friday at noon, nor did the work of the men, in which it was evident they must have made considerable noise, attract any attention from passersby, of whom there are more or less at all hours.

REVERSES CASE

A. B. Moore Appeal Is Sustained

In the court of civil appeals for the Second supreme judicial district Saturday morning the court handed down a lengthy opinion in the case of A. B. Moore vs. Northern Texas Traction Company, reversing the decision of the Forty-eighth district court and remanding the case back to the court to be tried again.

In this case Mr. Moore sued the Traction Company for damages sustained by alleged injury to his wife.

The following proceedings were had in the court of civil appeals for the Second supreme judicial district Saturday:

Motions overruled - San Jacinto Oil Company vs. Smith, from Comanche county; Page et al. vs. Moss, from Eastland county; Moore vs. Pierson, from Knox county; Furrar vs. Cauble, from Howard county.

Reversed and remanded - Texas and Pacific Railway Company vs. Brashers et al., from Ector county; Moore vs. Northern Texas Traction Company, from Tarrant county; Brown vs. Terry, from Tarrant county; White vs. King, from Clay county.

Affirmed - Western Union Telegraph Company vs. Smith, from Comanche county; Page et al. vs. Moss, from Eastland county; Moore vs. Pierson, from Knox county; Furrar vs. Cauble, from Howard county.

6,000 DOLLIES
GET NEW HOSE

Big Rush at Burton-Peel's for Bursen Seamless Brand

How many dollies are there in Fort Worth?

Don't look in the directory. That usual infallible book is lacking in this bit of information. Neither do advertising circulars booming Fort Worth as the greatest city in the southwest contain even a hint of the accurate figures in this important particular. Strange that nobody should have even thought of getting these valuable statistics.

But the public need be dense no longer. A census is now in progress which promises to reveal, quickly and accurately, just how many dollies are in the homes of the city.

Bursen is doing it.

Bursen is a man who makes dollies, or hose if you prefer it that way. He lives in Rockford Ill., and has a big factory there. Now, why should a man in Illinois want to know how many dollies there are in Fort Worth, Texas?

Here's the secret. Bursen knows the value of advertising. A line of his women's hose, seamless, knit, and full fashioned, in black, tan and white, and at popular prices, from 15c to 35c, has just been put out at the Burton-Peel Dry Goods Company's store in Main street.

Burton-Peel and Bursen want the public to know about it. They advertised that every little girl who would bring her dolly to the store Saturday would receive a pair of Bursen's fashionable hose, in the proper size to fit dolly's fastidious feet, just for the asking.

In that way, plain enough to see, a sample pair of Bursen hose could be gotten into every home in Fort Worth where there is a dolly. And what home doesn't have room for an Alice, a Lettita, Priscilla or a Florence in china, wax, blaque or even plain rag?

The distribution of dollies' hose was advertised to begin at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

Long before the hour of opening processions of little girls carrying favorite dollies in their arms could be seen hurrying toward the store and when the doors opened, the rush began. As the day progressed the rush increased, until the two representatives of the Burton company who are here to supervise the work, had all they could do to keep up with the demand. Little girls and even boys crowded around the counter, presenting dollies and getting hose as quickly as their wants could be supplied.

By noon 3,000 pairs of hose had been given away and the rush was only fairly begun. It is estimated, from the present demand, over 6,000 pairs of hose will be given away before the distribution ceases.

In Dallas, the first place in Texas where the distribution was made, that number was given away the first day. That is the way Burton and Burton-Peel will find out how many dollies there are in Fort Worth, so that an unlighted public may be ignorant no longer.

The census of dollies has been taken all over the United States and Canada. Twelve young women are traveling all the time for the Burton company, engaged in the work of giving away the dollies.

The company has found it one of the most successful advertising plans ever tried and the children are more than delighted.

Moroccan Conference Likely to Break Up in Row

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Feb. 10.-Negotiations at Algerias have reached the decisive turn, and a dissolution of the Moroccan conference without an agreement on the principal subjects of discussion appears to be probable. The positions of France and Germany have been clearly disclosed. Each country is supported by several other powers, and each has generally to its own principle of settlement, namely: France for a strict recognition in Morocco, because of her geographical and historical relation to Morocco, and Germany for a strict application of the doctrine of equal treatment of all the countries in the future by Morocco.

Both the Paris and the Berlin governments saw that the controlling influence could be exercised in Morocco either through the command of the semi-military police, or by holding the Moroccan purse. France has indicated that she might give up the police administration, provided she be allowed a paramount position in the state bank organization, which would represent Morocco's foreign debts.

These issues are largely held in France, and they will control the sultan's future borrowings.

COUNTY COURT

In the county court Saturday morning the court handed down the following proceedings:

In the case of the Hunter-Phelan Savings and Trust company vs. Howard Payne et al., suit for debt, a verdict was rendered for all of the defendants, by information with them, a plea of guilty resulted in a fine of $20 and sixty days in jail.

H. Berstein and Dave Elnstein entered pleas of guilty to charges of theft and were each fined $1 and one day in jail.

Settling of criminal cases for trial before Judge R. F. Millan in Tarrant county court has been completed by County Attorney Jeff D. McLean and includes the cases of: Thursday, 28 cases Friday and 21 cases Saturday.

In the ordinary routine of the business in the county court, these 75 cases were disposed of by trial during the three days, the setting being announced for the purpose of giving due notice to attorneys whose clients wish immediate action and who will be ready.

UNUSUAL VERDICT

In Justice John L. Terrell's court late Friday afternoon an unusual verdict was rendered without a jury, in which the justice decided virtually as follows:

"Plaintiff gets nothing from defendant."

"Defendant gets nothing from plaintiff."

"Plaintiff pays cost of suit."

"General verdict of the court is to the opinion that neither litigant made out a case."

The style of the case was the Fort Worth Rosen Huntz Street Railway Company vs. the American Express Company, the petition of the plaintiff setting out that a runaway horse attached to a cart belonging to defendant company collided with a street car of the plaintiff company in the city of Fort Worth, Texas, on the 22nd day of November, 1919, for which alleged damage, the damages of $82.30 was asked by plaintiff.

To this petition the defendant company, by its answer, alleged contributory negligence and filed counter claim for $192 for damages to the wagon and death of one horse.

The defendant company filed notice of appeal to the Tarrant county court.

UNEMOTIONAL
 Should Be Sermons in Churches, Says Rabbi

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 10.-Emotionalism in religion was opposed by Dr. Emil G. Hirsch in his weekly lecture at Israel temple last night. He declared that Judaism is not a religion of emotion or sentiment, but of thought and study.

"The Jew is not sentimental," said Dr. Hirsch, "for he takes religion logically. Anyone can be an emotional pastor. It takes little effort to make people weep. In fact, in an emotional religion, it does not matter much whether any one is in the pulpit."

"Religion is to be valuable, however, should be unemotional. In our temple we should furnish a stimulant for the mind. This temple should be a house of learning, and people should come here to be trained and urged to reflection and thought. Everywhere in the pulpit the man should have something to say."

HULEN RETURNS
 Adjutant General Did Great Things in Washington for Texas

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 10.-Adjutant General Hulen returned this morning from Washington, where he has been four weeks on business connected with the National Guard, also in behalf of the Texas claim for $324,000 against the federal government for money expended in protection of the frontier by the battalion.

General Hulen declared that the chances are very favorable for Texas getting the claim approved.

One of the main objects of the trip of General Hulen, was to secure an attendance of 1,500 to 2,000 federal troops for the next state encampment to be held here July or August next, and in this he was eminently successful.

Congress provided for several camps of instruction to be held during the coming year, and Hulen says there is no doubt one of the encampments will be held in Austin in connection with the state encampment.

General Hulen announced that this insured one of the largest camps ever held in Texas. He declared the stories were erroneous, emanating from here, that he was working on behalf of Austin being selected as the permanent maneuver grounds of the militia in the southern states.

Can't Afford to Draw Longer on Private Income

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.-Opposition in congress to an improved consular service with permanent tenure of office, has caused the loss of the consular service of one of the most efficient and experienced officers, by the resignation, announced with regret by the department of state today, of Jas. W. Davidson, consul at Antung, Manchuria, who, after serving nine years, retires because of his inability longer to draw on his private income to maintain the consulate.

Salary Is Inadequate

In his letter of resignation, Mr. Davidson says: "The salary of my post as consul to Antung is insufficient, even with the increase which the new consular bill now pending in congress provides, to maintain any consulate in the orient with becoming dignity and efficiency in view of the necessity of competing with the consulates of other powers, which, owing to the importance of this government and to its growing field of commercial and political activity, have large sums expended upon them by their respective governments."

Mr. Davidson adds that the salary at each consulate he has served has been too small to conduct in a satisfactory way several offices he has held, and had he not received some private income obtained from literary work, it would have been impossible for him to have continued in the service this long.

Believes Owens Safe Blowers Have Been Caught

Chief Maddox of the police department stated Saturday afternoon that he had two men under arrest whom he believed were the men who attempted to wreck the safe of G. W. Owens Lumber company Friday night. He declined to give their names for publication and he has not filed the charge against them, but states that there are circumstances connecting the men with the crime that makes him feel certain that he has the right men.

In addition to the large number of arrests made here, there were also a number corralled at Dallas and Fort Worth officers were asked to come over and look at them.

Several Passengers Injured on Texas and Pacific

Texas and Pacific passenger train due at Fort Worth Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock was wrecked by a broken rail near Odessa, about 7 o'clock Saturday morning, several passengers being severely injured.

The wreck occurred at a point about two miles west of Odessa, while the train was running at a fair rate of speed. The engine and forward part of the train passed over the broken rail safely, but the rear end of the train was derailed and considerably broken up.

So far as learned there was no one killed, but several were seriously injured and many received bruises and cuts from broken glass and splinters.

There were five passenger coaches attached to the baggage, express and mail cars.

Passengers on the wrecked train took time to reach Fort Worth about 10 o'clock late, or at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

HULEN RETURNS
 Adjutant General Did Great Things in Washington for Texas

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 10.-Adjutant General Hulen returned this morning from Washington, where he has been four weeks on business connected with the National Guard, also in behalf of the Texas claim for $324,000 against the federal government for money expended in protection of the frontier by the battalion.

General Hulen declared that the chances are very favorable for Texas getting the claim approved.

One of the main objects of the trip of General Hulen, was to secure an attendance of 1,500 to 2,000 federal troops for the next state encampment to be held here July or August next, and in this he was eminently successful.

Congress provided for several camps of instruction to be held during the coming year, and Hulen says there is no doubt one of the encampments will be held in Austin in connection with the state encampment.

General Hulen announced that this insured one of the largest camps ever held in Texas. He declared the stories were erroneous, emanating from here, that he was working on behalf of Austin being selected as the permanent maneuver grounds of the militia in the southern states.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN HINTS BY MAY MANTON

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY THE NAIL IN THE COFFIN To While Away the Time They Wa-gered and Death Won (Copyright, 1906, by the Short Story Publishing Company.) In the autumn of 1891 I was ad-vised by my physician to pass a por-tion of the winter in the south. After much searching I decided upon Ashe-ville, N. C. When I reached Henry, which was at that time the railroad terminus, my hand was grasped heart-ily by my old friend, Dr. Mason, who had been advised of my coming, and whom I had not met for some years. "How long shall you remain here?" was his first question. "Only to dine, and then go on the stage to Asheville this afternoon," I re-plied. "Oh, come now; stay over one night and I promise you some rare sport after the moon rises." I agreed to spend the night in the quaint but comfortable old hostelry at Henry's. While at dinner I learned that my friend Mason was to hold the stakes for a most remarkable wager. It had been made between two young men who were staying in the vicinity. They were Ned French and Albert Turner, "rich men's sons," and had come to "the land of the sky" for a shooting trip. The wager was the outcome of a heated discussion on personal courage.

French had bet $100 that Turner would not get into an open grave at midnight and drive a nail into the coffin of the departed saint or sinner; and Turner had unhesitatingly accepted the chal-lenge. Mason, as I said, was to be stakeholder, and I, as his friend, was permitted to be a witness. The time appointed for this weird proceeding was midnight, and the affair was to be kept strictly among ourselves. For a small amount of money, and a large amount of whisky and tobacco, four negroes, none of whom could be persuaded to undertake the work until that number had been secured, had agreed to open a grave in the forlorn, neglected little churchyard. In the evening we passed the time until the appointed hour by alternately playing billiards and cards and telling ghost stories. Throughout our weird tales Turner, however, listened un-moved, even adding a few himself. He was a big, handsome fellow of about 25, and had before the end of his first year at college gained the reputation of being a total stranger, under any and all circumstances, to that sensation known as fear. He was the beautifully clear and calm, and the whole village was wrapped in solemn silence when we noisily went out of the hotel on our strange errand. The negroes had gone ahead to do their share of the work. Influenced by his light-heartedness, we started off in high spirits. But after the first half mile of our walk we grew strangely depressed and silent. With every step the scene became more solemnly impressive and calcu-lated to work on the imagination. The brilliancy of the moonlight on the tall pines made the scattering gravestones on the hillside on our left stand out like miniature ghosts, and the rugged old Blue Ridge peaks in the distance looked hideously grim and threatening. As we turned off the main road and entered a narrow lane sounds of weird music floated through the twilight. By a common impulse we all halted in breathless expectancy. Gazing up the slope at the end of the lane we beheld in the partial moonlight the four darkies sitting about the newly-opened grave, chanting with weird solemnity but true jubilee rhythm: "Massa's in de co'f, co' ground." We stood entranced until the last wailing cadence had died away, then, shaking off the spell produced by the impressive scene and melody, proceed-ed to the grave. It was that of a man who had been dead about two years; but the coffin, so the negroes said, was in a good state of preservation. The dark pit yawned cold and dismal as one by one we gathered around it. Turner, wearing his shooting cap and a long, loose leather reaching to his feet, stood for a moment on the brink, his eyes measuring the depth with daredevil carelessness. Then, quickly stooping, he had nestled himself called for the hammer and nail. As his head disappeared, every eye followed him with tense excitement. Even the darkies, who, at our approach, had withdrawn to the background, could not restrain themselves, and now rushed forward with gleaming eyes and eagerly peered down into the grave. A moment later we heard one, two, three dull, muffled sounds as the nail made its way into the coffin. "He's won the bet," exclaimed half a dozen voices in excited chorus. And the loosening of the intense strain of the last half hour found expression in a tumult of cheers and laughter. The man in the grave, however, remained motionless and unresponsive to the commotion above. Then French, with one hand on the brink of the grave, lowered himself, and had no sooner seized Turner's arm than he shouted: "He's fainted! Quick, help me pull him out!" He had hardly spoken when Mason reached down from the opposite side of the grave, and as the two raised the man in their arms we distinctly heard a sharp sound like that of tearing cloth. They placed the limp figure on the grass and someone struck a match. As his flickering blaze lit up the rigid white face we all shrank back in hor-ror as Mason exclaimed: "He's dead!" The body had been lying on the coffin. Turner had sent it through the skirt of his long ulster, and on attempting to rise had felt himself held down by an unseen power. The sudden horror of the situation had paralyzed him with a fear that even he could not master. And before thought the reason could come to his assistance his heart had ceased to beat.

CHILD'S FRENCH DRESS 5276 What is known as the French, or the long waisted dress, suits little girls admirably well and is especially in demand for the fine laws, batistes and the like, which are always charming. This one is cut out slightly at the neck, so being unusually becoming as well as exceptionally comfortable, and is made with the fashionable elbow sleeves. The illustration shows the material as Persian lawn and fine em-broidery, but while washable materi-als are being shown on every side and are being made into all sorts of dainty frocks, there is still a long period of cold weather and the model will be found equally attractive for the soft cashmires and velvets that make such pretty, dressy frocks for the cold sea-son. The waist is made full and arranged over a smoothly fitted lining on which the V-shaped trimming is applied and the skirt, which falls in soft, full folds, is simply gathered at its upper edge and joined to the waist, the two being closed together at the back. The sleeves are full puffs that are ar-ranged on foundations that keep them perfectly in place and are finish-ed with deep frills. The quantity of materials required for the medium size (4 years) is 3 yards, 2 1/4 yards 3/8 or 2 yards 44 yards wide with 6 1/2 yards of em-broidery and 4 1/2 yards of banding to trim as illustrated. The pattern 5276 is cut in sizes for children of 2, 4 and 6 years of age.

Your Food must be properly digested and assimilated to be of any value to you, otherwise it is a source of harm instead of good. If not digested, it ferments and decays, causing "sour stomach," heart burn, nausea, headache, flatulence, bad breath and other discomforts. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure compels proper digestion of the food and sends the food nutriment through the blood into all parts of the body. The issues are thus built up and every organ is restored to health and strength and put in perfect condition. Disease is driven out to stay out—the cause is removed. I have prescribed Kodol quite often in my practice, and have found it a very efficient remedy for all stomach ailments. It has always given the best of results. J. T. MAY, M. D. Plantersville, Miss.

FORT WORTH AS AN EXAMPLE

Fort Worth has always been a name to conjure with.

When things are moving a little slow in other Texas cities and towns and some cherished project is just on the verge of falling to the earth, the derelicts are always cited to Fort Worth.

This city has furnished more genuine inspiration for town improvement, railway building and the general promotion of industrial enterprise than all other Texas cities combined.

"Look at Fort Worth." That is the magical key that has unlocked many a strong box in every portion of Texas, and the Fort Worth spirit is today the inspiration for much of the improvement that is being manifested in every portion of the great Lone Star state. The Fort Worth spirit is doing much for the upbuilding and development of all Texas, and the knowledge of that fact should be sufficient to nerve us to renewed effort. The El Paso Herald says:

What made Fort Worth? She gives it all. It is the spirit that is the life of the city.

When any public enterprise needs financial assistance, Fort Worth comes down with the money, in a way that causes a yank sometimes to people hardly able to stand the drain, and yet with the knowledge that no investment is more certain than an investment in the future of a live city.

The first railroad came to Fort Worth in 1856. The town then contained about 3,000 people. Those people subscribed and paid more money as a bonus for that first railroad than the taxable values of the whole city amounted to.

When the Santa Fe came to Fort Worth, a few men in one day raised $75,000 cash bonus and placed bonds to buy the right of way and the depot site.

It is not philanthropy or generosity to give largely to the Y. M. C. A., to the Inter-American fair, to the parks, and to public works generally. It is horses sense, hard headed business. It pays, and pays more on the investment than any other venture.

Men should give in proportion to their ability, but they don't, and therefore some men have to give beyond their ability. And even they, cramped though they be for a while, discover that their returns are proportionately greater on a large investment in the town's future, than they are on a small investment.

Have faith in El Paso, cultivate a sense of ownership in the city, feel that money spent in El Paso is money invested for personal profit and use, and don't let the moss grow.

Truly, it is a matter of extreme gratification to realize that you are constantly serving as an inspiration. And the pride that Fort Worth feels in this realization will be pardoned at least by those who are admirers of her progressiveness. Fort Worth knows that the eyes of the entire southwest are upon her, and Fort Worth will be fully equal to the emergency. The glorious achievements of the past will soon fade into insignificance by comparison with the progress and development of the future. The sons of Fort Worth are worthy successors of the fathers, and the work begun back in the days when men were few and cash a great deal scarcer than at present, will be finished according to the plans of those who laid such a proper and appropriate foundation.

Fort Worth is not made, however.

We have just reached the point where we begin to do things, and many things yet remain to be accomplished. There is work ahead sufficient to engross all the spare time of every progressive son of Fort Worth, even though they give of that spare time abundantly. We are yet to go out and gather unto ourselves that degree of industrial development that will forever settle the matter of supremacy in Texas and the southwest. We have made the proper start in that direction, and we are headed for the desired goal. That we will make the landing is too patent to require argument, when it is known that results will depend largely upon our own efforts.

Fort Worth always does things. When this city goes after a proposition she invariably makes a landing, for Fort Worth is thoroughly imbued with the spirit of progressiveness. Fort Worth is a city of today. It is strictly up to now. And Fort Worth people have the proper spirit.

Fort Worth does give until it hurts. But she finds relief from every pang in the accomplishment of her every undertaking. The giving is as bread cast upon the waters, and in due time it comes back. Then we give some more. We go down deep into our pockets and we dig up coin of the realm on the slightest provocation. There is not one thing small or narrow about Fort Worth. Our people are typical large-hearted, big-brained citizens of the west.

When we want a thing we go after it. And this well known and firmly established Fort Worth principle will continue through all the years to come. There are many things we are yet to go after that will be added to us in the near future.

THE FINANCES OF THE STATE

"The state of Texas," said Governor Lanham at Fort Worth on Saturday, "is in better financial condition today than it has ever been. In all departments it is prosperous, and while the money is slow coming in because of slow payment of taxes, the end of February will see everything paid up and some money in the treasury. * * * The financial condition of the state is not as bad as some seem to think. It is true that collections have been slow coming in, but by the end of February there will be much money on hand and all obligations will be met. There has been an increase of $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 in valuations since the last tax year, and there are quite a number of new sources of revenue which are not affected by the suits now pending, and the appropriation bill of the last legislature was very reasonable. Therefore the state is in better condition today than it has ever been."

February is the final month for the collection of state and county taxes, and those taxpayers who give up the useful with such a show of evident reluctance are compelled to come to time this month. With the raking in of all the available taxes the strong box of the state will receive something of a plethora of coin for a short time until the hole in the treasury has had time to again adjust itself comfortably to the cash surplus. The increase in the ad valorem rate has been sufficient to add materially to the revenue, and when the state gets through with its efforts to whip the recalcitrant corporate interests into line that are now trying every possible expedient to avoid the payment of increased taxes provided under new revenue laws, then we will at least know where we are and can prepare to act with some degree of intelligence.

The Telegram has insisted from the beginning that there was no warrant for either an increase in taxation or a deficit in the state treasury. Texas is a state of magnificent resources and sufficient taxable values to afford all the revenue required to conduct the affairs of government on an honest and economical basis. When the state is suffering for at present is an equalization of the principles of taxation so that the burden of government may rest equally upon all interests. There is a way to do this and at the same time afford contentment to all interests, and the finances of the state will never rest upon a stable and satisfactory basis until this much to be desired event is safely accomplished.

SENSATIONAL POLITICAL DEVELOPMENTS

There is a big political sensation scheduled to be pulled off in Texas during the present week, and it involves the return of Cyclone Davis and 7,000 prohibitionists to the ranks of the Texas Democracy, and it will put a new phase on the prohibition question that has been menacing the present state campaign. The Dallas Times-Herald says:

Hon. J. H. Davis, known as "Cyclone" Davis and about 7,000 prohibitionists have decided to cast their lot and unite their political fortunes with the Democratic party. Official announcement of their withdrawal from the prohibition party will be given to the newspapers before the close of the present week. It is said that Rev. J. B. Cranfill, once a candidate for vice president on the prohibition ticket, and for many years a straight-out prohibitionist is one of the leaders of the seceders—or rather the men who have decided to bolt to the Democratic party. The prohibition leaders have been caucusing since early in December and "Cyclone" Davis and his followers, numbering 7,000, it is said, are ready to make the jump. Five thousand prohibitionists refused to enter the Democratic camp and will go it alone. The Davis prohibitionists and local optionists will make their fight for the extermination of the liquor traffic as Democrats within the Democratic pale. "Cyclone" and his followers have burned the bridges and are new-born Democrats now. This stormy petrel of Texas politics, "Jim" Davis, or "Weeping Jim," as they call him in East Texas, has been prominent in Texas politics for a quarter of a century. He was a Populist leader, voted for Bryan and Stevenson in 1900 and in 1903, foreseeing the domination of the Democratic party by the Cleveland-Belmont wing, and the inevitable nomination of Alton B. Parker, he cast his lot with the Texas prohibitionists and has been their active campaigner and organizer. One hundred and eight thousand former Populists are Democrats now. The Farmers' union is a power and "Cyclone" is confident that W. J. Bryan will head the national ticket in 1905. This year and in the campaign of 1908 he has made arrangements to fight for his principles as a Democrat.

Cyclone Davis was seen and interviewed while in Dallas Monday, but would not give out any definite statement for publication, beyond the fact that there would be something doing in the way of politics, and sensational politics, too, before the close of the present week. This declaration is accepted as confirmation of the impending secession of Davis and 7,000 of his followers, and the defection will be seriously felt in prohibition circles.

Davis has been fighting the Democratic party very hard for a number of years, but there will be no objection urged to his again aligning himself with the party. As long as the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sninner may return, and Cyclone will be given the hand of Democratic fellowship if his latest repentance and conversion is sincere.

The Dallas fair people have been luckier than the directors of the Aransas Pass road in securing the services of a president. It was nip and tuck for a time, but Dallas finally landed.

Texas is enjoying a veritable land boom. From every nook and corner of the state comes the same story of a rapid appreciation accompanied by a very healthy demand. Old Texas is growing.

The government now claims that the big packers have falsified the Garfield assertions as to immunity and other things, and is going after the men under indictment with a confidence that seems to be indicative of belief in its ability to thoroughly establish its allegations.

"At any rate, Commissioner Garfield has declared that when he goes after trust information he knows where and how to find it.

The Artesian Bottling company, with headquarters in Waco, is a new business institution in Fort Worth. And Fort Worth has a glad hand for every business enterprise that savors of industrial development.

Austin boarding house keepers are looking forward to the convening of an extra session of the state legislature with feverish anxiety. Times are only good in the capital city when the solons are in session.

Monta J. Moore's campaign for governor of Texas was as brief as it was refreshing. Having declared unequivocally that there is a lumber trust in Texas, Candidate Moore's next step was to immediately take to the brush.

The lines competing for the new government fast mail contract to Texas declare they can safely reduce the present running time by at least two hours. Perhaps so, but Texas does not desire a faster mail service that will involve the probable sacrifice of human life.

New Orleans is already at work on her spring house cleaning, and if the work is honestly and efficiently done it ought to prevent a recurrence of last season's yellow fever horrors. One of the most effective methods of fighting a yellow fever epidemic is to forestall its coming.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

Grandview! There is beauty in the name—Grandview Tribune. Fort Worth! There is progressiveness in the very suggestion.

The Fort Worth packing houses are calling for more hogs and the Texas farmers should supply the biggest portion of this demand.—Hot Point Post-Signal.

Fort Worth is ready to take and pay a good price for every four-footed hog that can be produced in Texas. The other kind are not wanted.

Lon Barkley will be the next postmaster of Fort Worth. Lon is a cracker-jack fellow. Shake, old boy.—Vernon Hornet.

The Telegram is glad to note of the appreciation in which Fort Worth citizens are held, by their republicans or democrats.

We confess that in the matter of poll tax payments Houston was defeated by Fort Worth, Dallas and San Antonio, but if Humble, Sour Lake or Harlingen get gay we will challenge them to a showdown.—Houston Post.

There is nothing like striking your proper level. South Texas is too slow to mingle with the north Texas procession.

It is stated that the republican party in Texas will split wide open during the coming campaign. This is an alarming condition of affairs to contemplate. Think of Cecil Lyon splitting himself from one end to the other.—Alvarado Bulletin.

Not much danger of Cecil's splitting. He is unanimously in control of the republican party and pie counter in Texas.

Texas produced 27,000,000 pounds of sugar from its cane crop last year. It is claimed that this is only enough to last the state about two months, and that more sweetness should be produced on Texas farm lands in order to supply the demand.—Houston Chronicle.

That 27,000,000 pounds of sugar does not represent all the sweetness produced in Texas last year. The estimate should also include the winsome Texas lasses.

THE DRIFT OF POLITICS

QUESTION OF STOKES' ELIGIBILITY

Stokes' term as governor will not expire until January, 1908. The senator is to be elected in January, 1907, and he will take his seat March 4, 1907. The constitution contains this clause, which some contend would bar Stokes out of the fight:

No member of congress, or person holding an office under the United States or this state, shall exercise the office of governor, and in case the governor, or person administering the government, shall accept any office under the United States or this state, his office of governor shall thereupon be vacant. Nor shall he be elected by the legislature to any office under the government of this state or of the United States, during the term for which he shall have been elected governor.

The case of Lyman Trumbull, elected to the United States senate by the legislature of Illinois, in 1855, presented almost the same legal and constitutional conditions as are involved in the question of the constitutionality of Stokes' right to enter the senatorial lists. The language of the Illinois act is even more strict than that of the New Jersey constitution's reference to the governor's election to other office. In Trumbull's case he had resigned from the bench before his election to the senate, but there were still seven years remaining of the term for which a rigid enforcement of the state constitution prevented or excluded him from election to other office. He was seated, notwithstanding, by a vote of 35 to 8. In the case of Charles J. Faulkner, of West Virginia, whose election to the senate in 1887 was contested on about the same grounds, that he held a state judicial office at the time of his election, there was a long trial and debate, which concluded in Senator Faulkner's being seated, the committee in that case reporting that in their judgment the disqualifying provision of the state constitution, which, so far as judges are concerned, is similar to New Jersey's provision concerning the governor, did not apply or invalidate his election, because "no state can prescribe any qualification to the office of United States senator in addition to those declared in the constitution of the United States."

FIGHTING ALABAMA'S VENERABLE SENATORS

The scheme to enforce the retirement of United States Senators Morgan and Pettus, of Alabama, at the end of their present terms, is born of the Democratic politicians of the state, who are tired of waiting to step into dead men's shoes. General Morgan will be 82 years of age in June next, and General Pettus will be 85 years in July. The hungry politicians who are basking in the sunshine of Alabama declare that both Morgan and Pettus have outlived their usefulness, that younger men should have their places, and there should be rotation in office. In order to oust the venerable senators the Democratic machine of Alabama recently adopted a new plan for primary elections. They could not reach these men in any other way, so firm is their hold not only on the people of the state, but of the entire South. The primaries will be held August 27 next, at which time a governor, legislature, state

STRIKE?

VERSES THAT RING

THE WORLD IS GROWING BETTER

The world is growing better every day, I care not what the pessimist may say, Of every brother weak, We may some kind word speak, And help to make him stronger for the fray.

The world is growing better every day, The world is growing better every day, We meet the good and bad upon our way, In each one there's a nook Of good we oft overlook, And we fall to speak of them what we should say.

The world is growing better every day, I've learned there's much of good in all life's way, If we but rightly act, I've learned, it is a fact, That many ills of living we can stay.

Would we have the world still better in our day? Unmistakably I think this is the way, To strengthen any soul, Or to make the spirit whole, There is need we speak and act just as we pray. —Charles McCrebbin.

BIG SALARIES OF THE DAY

Recent disclosures have brought to the front the question. Is any man worth a salary of $100,000 a year? One hundred thousand dollars is a fortune. To the man working for an ordinary salary it might well seem impossible for any one to earn it by personal services during one year. Even some successful business men believe that there should be a limit. But, after all, is it not merely a question of demand and supply? As a rule, men are not paid more than they are worth. Governors of the big salaries usually get full value in return whether the recipients work two hours a day or eighteen. But this rule does not apply to salaries voted by rings of cliques in control of other people's money—as in the case of the big life insurance companies.—Cleveland Leader.

PITIFUL

Isn't it pitiable to see a man approaching old age with a large part of his higher brain cells out of business, with all that is best crushed out of his life, strangled, starved, blighted, dead from neglect, trying to enjoy things which, though they meant much to him in his young days, are now meaningless and dead?—Success Magazine.

ABILENE AND NORTHERN, RECENTLY CHARTERED, NAMES E. S. HUGHES, PRESIDENT; D. T. BOMAR, SECRETARY

OFFICERS ELECTED

Special to The Telegram. ABILENE, Texas, Feb. 10.—At a meeting of the directors and stockholders of the Abilene and Northern railroad held here Thursday the following officers were elected: Ed S. Hughes, president; William G. Swenson, vice president; D. T. Bomar, secretary and treasurer.

Passenger Officials Back

P. A. Auer, general passenger agent of the Rock Island, and C. W. Strain, general passenger agent of the Frisco, have returned from Waco, where they went to attend a regular monthly meeting of the General Passenger Agents Association. One of the matters discussed at the meeting was the question of rates to the Confederate veterans' reunion to be held at New Orleans. It was decided that a rate of 1 cent a mile should be applied, plus 25 cents from all points in Texas and Indian Territory. Tickets will be on sale April 22 and 24.

No Change in Quarters

DALLAS, Texas, Feb. 10.—Joseph Hellen, the newly appointed general passenger agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, where he will take office on Friday evening, having come up from Waco, where he had been acting as general passenger agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, where he will take office on Friday evening, having come up from Waco, where he had been acting as general passenger agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas.

Excursion Arranged

The city passenger agents of Fort Worth held a meeting Saturday morning and arranged for an excursion to Galveston on March 26. There were other matters discussed, but nothing further regarding the topic under discussion was given out. One of the matters, however, was the matter of regulating the amount of baggage to be allowed by theatrical companies and advance agents. The committee which has been working upon the matter has not made its final report.

AMUSEMENTS

"The Player Maid" Florence Davis, supported by Elliott Dexter, will appear in "The Player Maid" at Greenwall's Opera House tonight at 8:15 o'clock. The advance agent says: "The play itself has a well-defined plot, but an exceptionally funny one. Lucid scenes follow each other in rapid succession—so fast in fact that one has not stopped laughing at a funny incident when something else occurs that causes a roar far greater than the preceding one. It is said that in the second act of "The Player Maid" where Miss Davis tears up furniture, breaks a vase, etc., in her attempt to horrify the staid London nobility, she has given to the stage one of the funniest scenes in the history of the drama. To laugh is to live—to frown is to die. All the world enjoys a good hearty laugh, and that is the natural result from a visit to "The Player Maid." As an artist, Miss Davis has few equals and unlike many others, she never stoops to horseplay or buffoonery. Her knowledge of stage technique enables her to get real unadulterated fun out of the situations. Fun that sparkles and goes with a vim and snap and such opportunities she has to display her talents. Miss Louise Malloy, who wrote "The Player Maid," has been most lavish in the matter of funny material, both in lines and situations. Bristling with wit, telling a coherent story, expensively produced and enacted by the present company, "The Player Maid" should have a long and prosperous life, in fact become a staple in theatricals. "Miss Davis is ably assisted by Elliott Dexter and a capable company. Much can be said of Mr. Dexter. His office to say that he is an artist who wins the approval of the audience the moment he steps upon the stage and never loses it during the performance and forty-five minutes of fun he is in some way or another the cause of merriment. The comedy is in four acts, with scenes laid in and around the Drury Lane Theater, London, in the days of David Garrick."

Alice Nielsen's Reappearance

One of America's most popular young singers, Alice Nielsen, is soon to make her reappearance in this city after an absence of four years. The former star of the Bostonians and later of the "Fortune Teller" and the "Singing Girl," Victor Herbert's melodious works, has graduated, so to speak, and comes back to this country a full-fledged grand opera artist, and chooses to work, has graduated, so to speak, and comes back to this country a full-fledged grand opera artist, and chooses to work, has graduated, so to speak, and comes back to this country a full-fledged grand opera artist, and chooses to work.

"Robin Hood"

Much interest has been aroused in the coming presentation of the Aborn company's revival of the famous comic opera, "Robin Hood," to be seen and heard at Greenwall's Opera House Saturday matinee and night, Feb. 17, on account of the favorable criticisms it has received in all the larger cities of the south. The latest newspaper to add its indorsement to this attraction is the Galveston News, from which the following is an extract: "Lovers of comic opera found much to compliment and very little to criticize in the production of 'Robin Hood' at the Grand last night. # COLD WEATHER STAYS IN NORTH

Range of 94 Degrees on Saturday Map

Some of the coldest weather of the winter is now being experienced through the upper Mississippi and Missouri valleys and over part of the Great Lakes region. The coldest temperature reported on the Saturday morning weather map is at White River, Canada, where the thermometer went down to 22 degrees below zero. Huron, S. D., is the coldest city in this country, with 22 degrees below zero. The cold region is almost in the same locality it works, has graduated, so to speak, and comes back to this country a full-fledged grand opera artist, and chooses to work, has graduated, so to speak, and comes back to this country a full-fledged grand opera artist, and chooses to work.

While the northern part of the country is reporting such cold weather the temperatures in Texas have remained about the same. The maximum temperature in the country on the map for Saturday morning was reported from Phoenix, Ariz., and San Diego, Cal., where the temperature was 62 degrees, making a range of 84 degrees from White river to Phoenix. The minimum temperatures at the Texas weather bureau stations on the Saturday morning are as follows: Abilene, 24 degrees; Amarillo, 14; Corpus Christi, 28; El Paso, 35; Fort Worth, 32; Galveston, 33; Houston, 32, and San Antonio, 34.

Other officers will also participate.

TEXAS MAN IN "PLAYER MAID"

Elliott Dexter of Houston Has Leading Masculine Role

In "The Player Maid," a delightful comedy drama which gives its last performance at Greenwall's tonight, a Texas man, Elliott Dexter, formerly of Houston, has the leading masculine role. Dexter is very popular in Houston and has a number of friends in Fort Worth. Fort Worth audiences may remember him as leading man for Tim Mearns in "The Man From Missouri." Miss Florence Davis, who is starring in "The Player Maid," is a grand niece of Jefferson Davis. She has won favorable comment all through the east and south by her pleasing work. Wherever "The Player Maid" has appeared in Texas this season, it has received flattering notices, special praise being given to the mounting and scenic effects. The action of the play is laid in the time of David Garrick.

FRUIT AT THE BREAKFAST TABLE

Nature Provides Its Own Remedies, Which, if Used Judiciously, Insure Perfect Health at All Times

Aside from the pleasure of eating seasonal fruits before beginning the first meal of the day, this custom has undoubtedly arisen from the well known fact that nearly all fruits and more particularly plums and PRUNES contain natural laxative principles which act directly on the stomach and bowels.

Constipation, that dread and troublesome complaint which is undoubtedly the basic cause of indigestion, biliousness, etc., so prevalent among our people today, and which if neglected, surely leads to more complicated and serious organic diseases, can surely be prevented, and when not too far advanced, can be absolutely cured by the judicious use of the modern laxative and cathartic California Prune Wafers.

They are not a patent medicine in the ordinary sense, but a natural product compounded from fresh California Prunes, which every intelligent person knows is truly nature's laxative.
