CZAR TO BE PEACE MAKER

Russia Fears War Between France and Germany

TROUBLE PECULIAR Kaiser Is Said to Be Anxious to Avoid Resort to Arms, but Remains Obstinate

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 27.—Russia is using all her influence at Berlin to prevent a rupture between France and Germany.

On account of the close relations existing between the countries of Berlin and St. Petersburg it is believed in France that Russia will have more influence with Emperor William than any other power.

Russia is much concerned about the situation, as a war between France and Germany would greatly embarrass her. Not only is the Russian government so engrossed with the interior situation as not to be in a position to offer aid to her allies, but war would end the possibility of contracting another loan in Paris, of which Russia is now in urgent need.

Premier Witte has now become the distinct advocate of an Anglo-Russian understanding, and it is understood that negotiations have been or are about to be reopened in London to determine the status of this agreement, and, if they are successful, a new grouping of powers will undoubtedly check Germany's ambition.

The main obstacle to such an understanding is the dispute regarding the respective influence of Russia and Great Britain in Persia, as the Russians are loath to abandon their plan for reaching the Persian gulf.

Berlin Serious BELLIN, Feb. 27.—It is believed here, from advices that have been received from the Russian capital, coupled with the known state of affairs that exist with reference to the Moroccan conference at Algiers, Spain, that the czar will submit his good offices to the Kaiser in the endeavor to avoid a conflict to end in an appeal to arms between Germany and France as a result of the attitude of both governments at the Algiers meeting.

The Kaiser, while posing as a lover of peace and an advocate of the Hague tribunal, has, as has been reported in recent dispatches, expressed recently a faith in his army to perform deeds similar to those of thirty years ago. The German people are peculiar and the Kaiser is no exception. It is the general opinion in diplomatic circles here that Emperor William would be glad that all differences between his country and the government of Paris be settled amicably, but the stubborn disposition of the Teuton is such that he will go to war as quickly and fight as valiantly as any of his near neighbors, especially the French.

On the surface there is little indication as to the grave events that appear to be shaping themselves in such a way that the entire destiny of the continent is likely to be changed. The undercurrent of feeling is that trouble is not to be avoided, although the possible attitude of the czar and his known influence here is likely also to put the matter in an entirely new light in the near future.

HEARTS AND MASKS

By Harold MacGrath Copyright 1905, Bobbs-Merrill Co.

(Continued from Monday.) I bowed and passed out into Sixth avenue, rather getting that I had not the pleasure of the charming young person's acquaintance.

CHAPTER II. After half an hour's wandering about I stumbled across a curio shop, a well-lit, dusty, musty curio shop, with stuffed peacocks hanging from the ceiling...

"The ten of hearts!" he exclaimed in amazement. "I laughed easily. 'The ten of hearts!' he repeated. 'Yes, four hearts on one side and four on the other, and two in the middle, which make ten in all'—rallying in my tones...

"There are several reasons"—briefly. "I have seen a man's hand plumed to that card; therefore it is gruesome. 'Some card-sharper'."

The little city had been overrun with burglars, and it behooved the authorities to protect its citizens, and, such being the case, they hired a detective to discover, if possible, the perpetrators of the many petty burglaries, supposed to be local talent.

Catarrhal Gastritis

"For two years I was in a very bad condition. I was treated by a number of eminent physicians for chronic catarrhal gastritis and dilatation of the stomach, and obtained no relief. I grew gradually worse, my breathing was so difficult at times that I thought I would die. My heart was in very bad condition from poor circulation and pressure of the dilated stomach. I decided it was only a matter of a very short time with me. I was advised to try Dr. Miles' Nerve and Heart Cure, and before I had finished taking one bottle of the medicine I felt like a new being. I took eight bottles of the medicine, and am entirely cured, for a matter of about $8.00 in the face of two hundreds spent in the two years before without relief." A. D. SLACK, Master Mechanic of the I. & G. N. R. R. San Antonio, Texas.

DOCTOR SAYS

Finds Grape-Nuts Food Invaluable in His Practice. A physician first headed himself with food. Then he healed others, and tells his story in a straightforward, business-like way. "I was unable to assimilate comfortably any ordinary or prepared breakfast foods. Nearly everything I ate was brought on heavy headaches, a bad taste in the mouth and a dullness of mind that was not only unpleasant, but interfered with active mental work. Since beginning the use of Grape-Nuts food some months ago, however, these troubles have vanished and breakfast is relished and enjoyed as it ought to be. "I find, too, that a small quantity of Grape-Nuts and cream eaten just before starting out to visit patients at night prevents the feeling of depression that used to result from this extra exertion and loss of sleep. "My wife suffered for several months from recurring attacks of indigestion with fermentation—she would be miserable for days at a time and almost unable to take any food. She was unable to eat anything but Grape-Nuts with cream every 3 or 4 hours. The food proved at once acceptable to her stomach and she gradually returned to her usual health. "I have found Grape-Nuts an excellent food for indigestion, typhoid and pneumonia, and always recommend its use by such. It is admirably suited to the case of those who are indigestible, but because of the great amount of nourishment it contains. Its use is rapidly increasing, and its name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

STATE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

There are many reasons why the next state Democratic convention should come to Fort Worth, and those reasons are as well known to the members of the state executive committee as they are to the people of Fort Worth.

Fort Worth is very nearly in the center of the state, and the convention held here would render it more convenient to the citizens of Texas than if it were held in any other Texas city.

The Democrat from El Paso can meet the Democrat from Texarkana and both feel they are meeting on middle ground. The Panhandle Democrat can shake hands with the South Texas Democrat in Fort Worth, each feeling that no injustice has been done either in choosing the place they must assemble in which to name the next state Democratic ticket.

Fort Worth is the railway center of the state and the Southwest. Every trunk line that permeates the state is represented in this city and in the matter of accessibility there is no question that we have the edge on any other convention center in the state.

Railways entering Fort Worth are making an effort to relieve existing freight congestion, and while they are at it, they should make a special effort to improve on the delivery of cattle at the stockyards. There is much complaint among shippers, and it is militating to a considerable extent against the Fort Worth market.

San Angelo will send a body of representative business men here soon to test the qualities of the Fort Worth market, and they should be received in that manner so characteristic of Fort Worth in all her dealings. We must begin to cultivate much closer relations with the people in all our trade territory.

The conclusions of the Armstrong committee, engaged in investigating insurance matters in New York, have been made public, and the keynote of the report is that publicity is the panacea for many of the evils complained of. There is no doubt but that the publicity already attained has not been without beneficial results.

More factories is what we need in Fort Worth, and a big cotton factory would give a wonderful stimulus to smaller enterprises of various kinds. If Marble Falls, a village located down on the Colorado river, can induce a $300,000 cotton factory to seek that place as a location, Fort Worth ought to experience no difficulty in getting one to cost twice as much.

According to report, the attorney general's department at Austin, has declared that Sarah Bernhardt need not play in a tent in Texas unless she choose to do so. And the question that naturally arises is why discriminate in favor of Mme. Bernhardt? If other player folk are being debarred from accommodation in this state, why not make it a common cause?

Commissioner Garfield says that no information gleaned from the packers was turned over to the department of justice, but admits that a lot of information location, and our Democratic friends will commit grave error unless they take advantage of these suggestions. Fort Worth respectfully insists that her claims be given due and proper consideration.

PROVIDING HOME INSURANCE

There has been so much complaint in Texas concerning insurance matters and such a disposition manifest to in some manner rebuke the old line companies, it is believed the organization of a strong home company with headquarters right here in Fort Worth, will prove a popular movement from the very beginning.

It is true the old line companies have shown a very decided inclination to reform since the Armstrong investigating committee began camping so closely on their trails. There has been disengagement on the part of some of the big magnates, a trimming of official salaries and other expenses, but the impression still lingers in the minds of the public generally that these big eastern concerns have been woefully mismanaged in the past, the funds of the policy holders squandered in reckless fashion in debauching state legislatures and in contributions to campaign expenses in national elections, and there is much popular resentment experienced on this account.

It has been demonstrated from reliable figures heretofore published in these columns that Texas has been a great loser from patronizing these eastern insurance companies. Millions of dollars have been paid out in excess of what has been paid in, in both life and fire insurance, and all this excess money has gone for the upbuilding and enrichment of communities whose only interest in Texas lies in what can be gained from the state in a business capacity.

It is all a mistake that a life or fire insurance company to be successful must be located in some eastern financial or business center. We can build up just as good and stable companies right here in Texas as can be found any where else in the civilized world, and we are false to our own interests if we fail to do so.

Fort Worth is the railway center of the Southwest, the packing center of the Southwest, the liveliest and most progressive city in all Texas, and will with the proper effort soon become the great manufacturing center. There is no reason why we should not also be the insurance center, and The Telegram hopes to see the two big companies recently organized here take their place among the largest and most important insurance companies of the country.

Judge Bell is causing a whole lot of speculation among the politicians these days. The magnitude of his personal following is positively surprising.

Texas farmers are preparing to plant cotton this year, and when the Texas farmers plant cotton there is always an increase of several million bales in sight, according to the way our friends beyond the river do their figuring.

People are coming to Texas in perfect droves these days, over 5,000 entering the state at one time a few days ago. These people are looking for cheap homes, and are sensible enough to realize the era of cheap homes even in Texas will soon belong to the past.

Shreveport made short work of a negro charged with the usual crime, but that does not justify continued lynching in Texas. We are too prone to do this thing ourselves, and the state would be much better off if in all cases the law was permitted to take its course.

Attorney General Moody is blocking the efforts of Congressman Garner to have a new federal court district established in Southwest Texas. He says there is not sufficient business to justify a division of the district, and Garner will find it pretty hard to get over that feature of the situation.

Railways entering Fort Worth are making an effort to relieve existing freight congestion, and while they are at it, they should make a special effort to improve on the delivery of cattle at the stockyards. There is much complaint among shippers, and it is militating to a considerable extent against the Fort Worth market.

San Angelo will send a body of representative business men here soon to test the qualities of the Fort Worth market, and they should be received in that manner so characteristic of Fort Worth in all her dealings. We must begin to cultivate much closer relations with the people in all our trade territory.

Commissioner Garfield says that no information gleaned from the packers was turned over to the department of justice, but admits that a lot of information tion gleaned from other sources was passed under the table in that direction. In other words, Commissioner Garfield stuck to his agreement that there should be no beef trust so far as his report was concerned, and shifted evidence that there was where it would not trouble him again. The more facts that come to light concerning the Garfield investigation the more remarkable it seems.

Hoke Smith, J. H. Estill and Clark Howell are three Georgia newspaper men who aspire to be governor, and the dust they are kicking up in the goober grabbing state is both fast and furious. Out here in Texas there is no self-respecting newspaper man who would condescend to accept the office of governor. Our newspaper men are built on bigger and broader principles.

Perhaps when the investigation of the packers is concluded in the preliminaries of the beef trust trial, all of the cattlemen of the country will not have been forced entirely out of the cattle business. But they are growing very impatient over the slow manner in which the cause is suffered to drag its weary way. A little more ginger would be thoroughly appreciated by the cattlemen. They feel that too much opportunity is being afforded for the packers to wear the thing out before it gets down to actualities.

Now there is a report that opposition in Arizona to the idea of statehood with New Mexico is so strong that the scheme of joint statehood will probably be abandoned so far as those two territories are concerned, and only Oklahoma and Indian Territory will be permitted to come under the wire this time. There seems no just reason why Arizona and New Mexico should be forced into union that is so repugnant to the people of both territories, and that is certain to be ultimately severed in the event the present scheme should go through.

Fort Worth is receiving a great deal of advertising as a hog market these days, an account of the high prices that are being paid here, and the eyes of Texas farmers are being opened to the fact that they are losing a whole lot of money by not producing more hogs. Fort Worth is not paying out $1,000,000 per day for hogs, as has been stated in some of the country papers, but she is taking all that are brought here, and paying prices that look mighty good in comparison with those prevailing at Kansas City, Chicago and other market centers.

AMONG THE EXCHANGES

If mail addressed to the Waters-Pierce company is answered by the Standard Oil Company, why not write to the Waters-Pierce company to forward that subpoena to John D. Rockefeller?—San Antonio Gazette.

We confess for the life of us that we do not know, but you might try Attorney General Davidson, at Austin. He is well up on these things.

A railway line from Fort Worth to Godley and through that country wouldn't do Cleburne any good. If Godley gets another line it ought to be the line operated between Cleburne and Glen Rose.—Cleburne Review.

But it ought to be good for Fort Worth and the other people who obtain it. All the aspiring Texas cities and towns cannot become the railway center of the Southwest. Fort Worth has that proposition grabbed.

The sentiment in Texas in favor of factories is rapidly growing. Texas will be a manufacturing state. Publicity is all that is needed to get the matter before the people. Once the people of Texas get an insight into the importance of manufacturing enterprises, they will build them and operate them, thus saving money for Texas, and making money out of manufacturing enterprises.—Sherman Register.

More factories is what we need all over Texas. We must learn to produce at home all that we consume and make use of before we will have attained the real highway to permanent prosperity.

Garfield swears that he made no promises to the packers and the packers say that he did. Just exactly what he did, it seems impossible to say, but it would certainly seem as if the packers must be correct, judging by the results of the investigations at any rate, and, after all, that is a rather good way to judge of anything.—Terrell Transcript.

Garfield swears that he did not, and the packers swear that he did, and now that the swearing is all over, we know just about as much as when we started. The packers' cases will have to be tried on their merits before the world can judge very well as to the real situation.

Agitation for 2-cent fares on passenger trains is prevalent through the states of the middle west. It is hoped the germ will spread to Texas. Some years ago, when the law reducing the fare from 5 to 3 cents was enacted, the railroads wailed that they would be financially wrecked, and a similar wail would go up in the event a 2-cent law was inaugurated now. The railroads, however, could profit by the reduction, as would also the unfortunates public and non-official holders. It would only be necessary to abolish all free transportation.—Beaumont Journal.

The time has not yet come for 2-cent fares in Texas. Such procedure at this time would result in gross injustice to the railroads. We should be content to wait until population will justify such a measure.

Governor Folk says a political revival is going on all over the land and the people are beginning to awaken to a realization of the fact that the government of city, state or nation belongs to them and that they can take charge of it whenever they will. The governor is quite right. The political boss may strut and assume lordly airs under a mistaken idea that he is the whole thing, but when the people are so minded they quickly turn him down and in the assertion of their own supremacy make him seem very small indeed.—San Antonio Express.

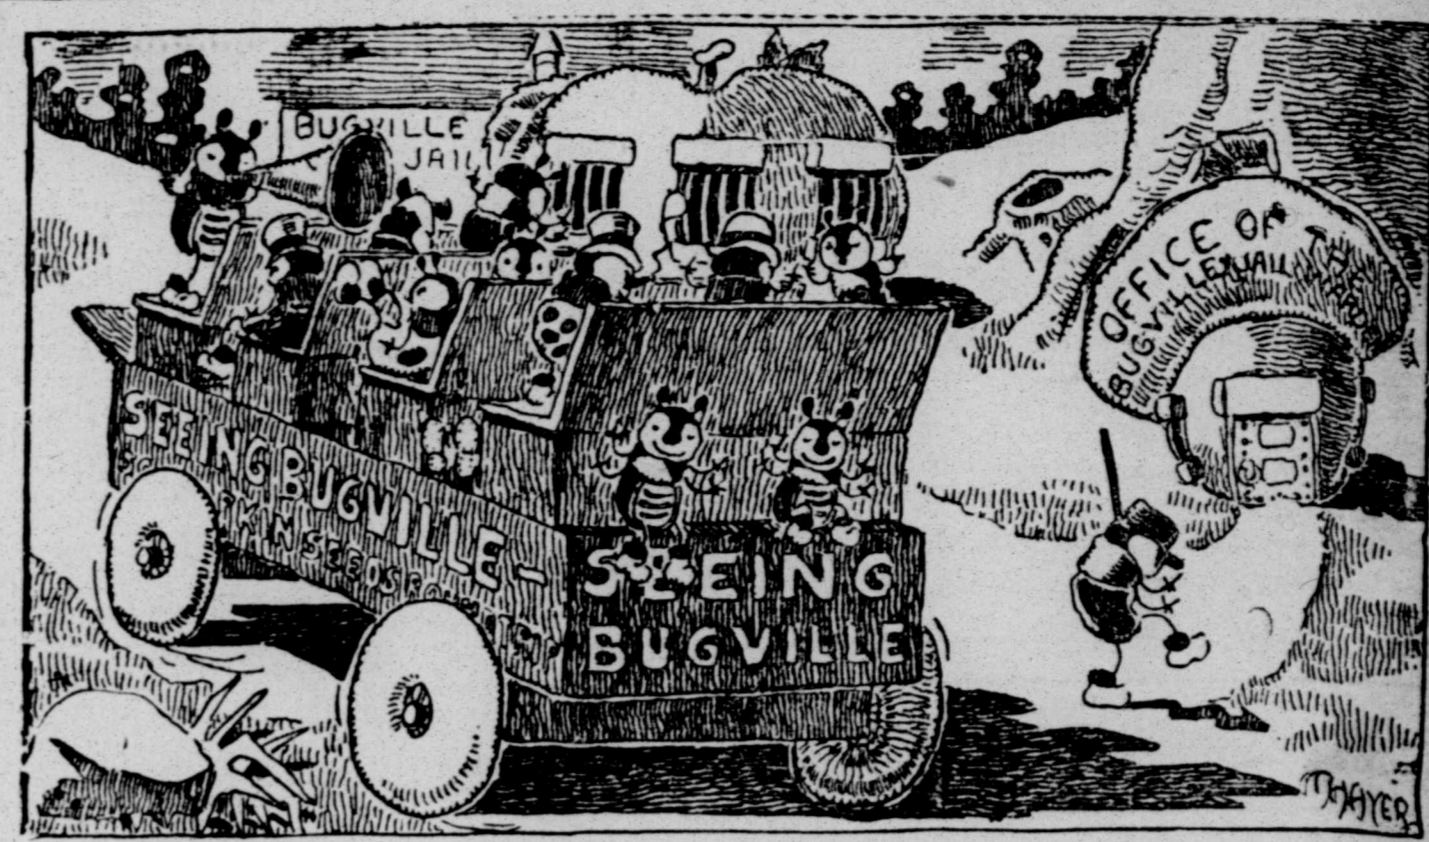

The trouble is the other fellow has so long been in control that he thinks he owns the entire shooting match. The people will have to swat the politicians an awful jolt before they can make up their minds to stand hitched.

How to compile your cotton statistics so as to favor high priced cotton is the aim and end of the president of the Cotton Growers' association and to further this he is at present bending all the energies of his nature. Fifteen cent cotton is more than that staple should bring or in healthy conditions of growth and market would bring, and the manipulations to force it to that figure are not warranted. Things are not what they seem any longer in this world.—San Antonio Light.

The man who forces an unnatural value in the price of cotton is engaged in just as reprehensible an act as the fellow who tries to force values down. It only depends upon the point from which we view the performance.

"No, Maude, dear; there is no reason why fast friends should travel a rapid pace."

MOONSHINE AND MUSINGS

Hard luck if we e'd see ourselves uz others see us. Nobody would have nerve enough 't try 't do anything. They're talking of trying prayer in Chicago to cure crime. "FLYING THE COOP"

ADVICE THAT'S FREE

In the way of a passing remark, I wish to suggest to the party who stole thirty gallons of kerosene oil Sunday night, that he should use it liberally while here for if he does not mend his ways he'll not likely have use for it after passing from this mundane sphere, as the temperature will, in all probability, be comfortably warm without the burning of any carbon oil.—Carrollton (O.) Republican.

If Sir Thomas Lipton really insists on having a race, why there's the dry dock Dewey.

A New York scientist gave an adulterated food dinner the other day, and the newspapers told about it in columns. And most of us have been eating one every day for years.

"We must make some sacrifice," said the senior partner, who was an old time financier. "We must make sacrifices or go to the wall."

The new man in the firm rubbed his chin gloomily for a minute or more, but his face brightened when the inspiration came. "Good!" he cried. "We will make sacrifices of our creditors!"

William Waldorf Astor's son has been made an officer in the British army. No wonder Japan suggested army reforms.

A Linton, Ind., man shot an actress who gazed the town from the stage. As it was learned later that she lived in Chicago it does look as though he had some provocation.

"That was a sound argument your lawyer made." "I guess it wasn't anything else. The jury gave a verdict of $10,000 against me."

"Anyway, I'm glad there is no danger of anything but a soft coal strike." "Well, you'll find that a soft coal strike's hard enough."

QUAKER REFLECTIONS

A flow of language is naturally fluent. It's the other fellow who always gets licked. Lots of people are sure they are right, but don't go ahead.

It is better to be happy than rich, but lots of us are neither. Even the girl who wears button shoes can be straight-laced.

Perhaps it's the February groundhog that makes the March hare mad. When a man boasts that he is clothed in his own righteousness it is often a misfit.

If the fellow who knows it all only had sense enough to keep it to himself he wouldn't be such a bore. Tommy—"Pop, what are inalienable rights?" Tommy's Pop—"Inalienable rights, my son, are the rights that land the solar plexus blow."—Philadelphia Record.

FIGHTING FOR PEACE

Civil war breaks out again in Morocco while the powers are devoting their time to discussing how it can be kept at peace. One cause of the rebellion is said to be native opposition to foreign interference.—New York World.

VERSES THAT RING

TO AN OLD LOVER There is silvery frost on your hair, old boy. There are lines on your forehead, too; But your clear eyes speak of the peace and joy That dwell in the heart of you. For the passing of youth you have no regret. No sighs for the summer gloam And the lovers' moon. They are with you yet In the light of the lamp at home.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Atlanta Journal has decided views about our presence in the Algeiras conference, concluding the presentation of which it says:

We can not consistently tell Europe that Europe has no business meddling in the international affairs of the western hemisphere, unless we abstain from meddling in the political affairs of the old world. The powers of Europe are very glad to see us represented at Algeiras, because it weakens any further attitude we may assume in South and Central America. If we have, as the London correspondent says we have, arrived at a policy both France and Germany can accept, we have been extremely useful to them, in their little row as a go-between; and we have done nothing calculated to earn us the gratitude of the Moors themselves. Consequently, if Mr. White's proposal is adopted, we may expect to hear a chorus of praise concerning the President as a peacemaker from the inspired European papers that take their tips from the continental chancelleries.

The Springfield Republican, after a column editorial on the same subject, which it calls "our changing foreign policy," says:

Indeed, it is beginning to appear that Europe could pursue no policy better calculated to break down that part of American foreign policy known under the name of Monroe doctrine than this one of welcoming our government to participation in the settlement of European questions. The ultimate effect of the policy embodied in our presence at Algeiras upon American claims to an isolated supremacy in the western hemisphere certainly merits serious consideration. It seems quite impossible that a change in our attitude toward European questions can fall ultimately to work a corresponding change in our attitude toward American questions. Our position may become morally impossible, sooner or later, if we persist in barring the great powers of Europe and Asia from participation in the international affairs of the new world, while we proceed to make ourselves influential in the international affairs of the old world. The founders of the Monroe doctrine clearly understood this.

In a recent issue of his paper, Truth, Henry Labouchere has the following to say—which, like all his sayings, is interesting; whether true or not is a question. Labouchere is a sort of Touchstone whose philosophy can not be accepted straight:

We are controlled now, not by men, but by forces, and the chief of those which are altering institutions and characteristics in the old world is the system of civilization that has developed in the new. The astonishing liberal majority of 1906 has been "made in America." The Americanization of England is the most important circumstance of the time in this country, and, of course, it is ignored by us, for it is the habit of the English mind to look forward. Our "society" is almost completely Americanized, and most of our business is conducted now on the American system. Our newspapers are rapidly being altered to resemble those that are published in the United States. The English women are adopting the characteristics of their American sisters; our manners and customs are being Americanized; and the general election of 1906 has, in less than a month, altogether altered the composition of the house of commons on the patterns of the house of representatives at Washington.

But in this connection the New York Sun recalls that Chamberlain, who now dominates what is left of the unionist party, has been described as an American politician, and Winston Churchill, who stands out, conspicuously among the liberals, is the grandson of Lawrence Jerome, of New York.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

A man gets old awful fast after his children begin to give him advice. The comfortable things about women's brains is they hardly ever show. No woman ever considers herself fat as long as there is another one fatter. A man ought to be fair enough to trust his wife if he needs trusting himself. The trouble with the goat is you can't make people believe it is only rheumatism.—New York Press.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

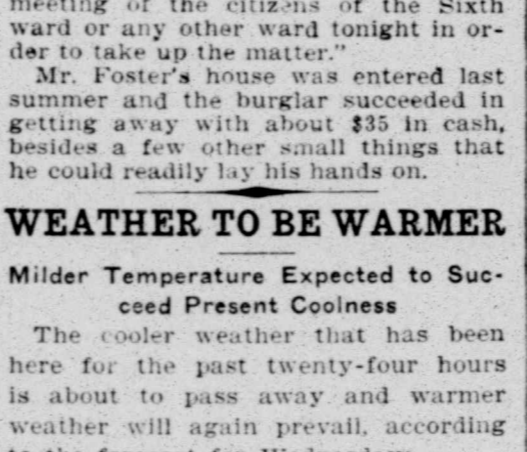

Have Neglected to Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The One Remedy Particularly Suggested for the Most Common Female Ills.

To women who suffer Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are worth their weight in gold. At special periods a woman needs medicine to regulate her blood-supply or her life will be a round of pain and suffering. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are absolutely the finest medicine that ever a woman took. They actually make new blood. They are good for men too—when they are good in a special way for women.

"It was three years ago last spring that my health failed me," says Mrs. Arthur Conklin, of No. 5 Coldwater street, Battle Creek, Mich. "I suffered from leucorrhoea and other troubles that, I presume, were caused by the weakness it produced. I had sinking spells, nervous headaches, was weak and exhausted all the time and looked like a walking skeleton. My back and limbs would ache almost continually and there were days when I was absolutely helpless from sick headache. I tried one doctor after another but cannot say that they helped me at all. My liver was sluggish and I was troubled with constipation. One day a physician who has since retired from practice met my husband on the street and inquired about my health. He advised my husband to get some of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for me, said they were a good medicine, better for my trouble than he could put up. I felt better after taking the first box but took six boxes and was entirely cured. As soon as the leucorrhoea was cured the headaches and other pains stopped. I am entirely cured but I intend to continue to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a spring tonic. Mrs. Conklin permits the publication of her statement in the hope and belief that it will help suffering women to find their remedy for their ailments. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. They don't act on the bowels. They strike straight at the common root of disease. But, of course, you must get the genuine pills. Substitutes and imitations never cured anybody. The genuine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent post paid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Calling of Loans Causes a Sharp Slump in Values—Metropolitan Leads Decline

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—This was another dull day on the Stock Exchange, with the trading again confined to the professional crowd and the volume of business very light. London cables reported a firm market for Americans and at the start the local market reflected the foreign advance, but after an early display of strength in several of the leading issues prices gradually eased off in sympathy with a sensational slump in Metropolitan, that is under yesterday's final trading this day. The decline was not attributed to any special bearish pressure, but the stock had been neglected for some time and the selling today was for the purpose of liquidation by tired holders. The market was only a few exceptions was affected by the decline in this issue and the general trend of values was toward a lower level throughout the day, but the closing was not in full swing until the latter part of the session, when the calling of loans by banks and trust companies caused a rapid throwing over of holdings and the trading was more active during the last hour than at any time during the day, and in most instances the low point was reached at that time. The close was weak, with all issues showing substantial declines. The foreign houses were fairly heavy sellers of the general list, particularly of Steel common, Colorado Fuel and Iron, and moved contrary to the other stocks for a time, but weakened later. The buying of it was generally in small lots, but it was thought that some of the orders came from the same source. London bought moderately during the early session and private advices stated that there was an improvement in sentiment at European centers on reports that better progress was being made at the conference of the powers at Algiers. The Gould stocks attracted considerable attention. It is said that Washburn preferred has been accumulated for some time, but the announcement of the company's re-fund plan.

ITCH-RINGWORM

E. T. Lucas, Winco, Ky., writes, April 25, 1902: "For 10 or 12 years I had been afflicted with itchy ringworm and permanently. The itching was most unbearable; I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies which I could hear of, besides a number of doctors. I wish to state that one single application of Bullard's Snow Liniment cured me completely and permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions for ring worm and it cured completely." $25.00 and $1.00. Sold by Covey & Martin.

COTTON

Market Controlled by Scalpers—Fluctuations Narrow—Close Steady. Prices Show Slight Gain

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The cotton market was quiet today. The holiday speculation here and the trading was principally among the room crowd, while fluctuations were confined to a narrow range. However, the undertone was at all times good and there was no aggressive effort to depress prices. On the first call prices were 1 to 3 points higher in response to the rather favorable character of the early cables. Scalpers bought during the initial trading and the gain was increased to a matter of 2 to 6 points from the opening figures. At this level there was profit taking and the market eased off again to the opening figures where there was a renewal of buying, sending prices up again. The trading was of this order throughout the day, with scalpers buying on recessions and selling freely on the hard spots. The close was quiet and steady, with prices showing the best of the day, showing a net gain of 2 to 8 points. Spots were quiet at an advance of 5 points to 10 1/2c for the middling grade. Sales, 500 bales.

Future sales ranged as follows: February 10.25 10.25 10.44 10.24-25. March 10.43 10.43 10.42 10.24-25. May 10.62 10.62 10.47 10.43-44. August 10.57 10.61 10.57 10.60-61. October 10.20 10.23 10.19 10.20-21.

BULL AS GIFT

King Edward Shows His Friendship for Paderewski. Special to The Telegram. LONDON, Feb. 27.—From King Edward's farm at Sandringham has been shipped to Paderewski's Polish estate a superb young Hereford bull, which had captured several prizes at the recent London cattle show. It was a gift from his majesty to the famous pianist.

In the course of the last few years the king has made several gifts of prize live stock to the musician, some of which have gone to the model farm at Sandringham, which has established a reputation in the world of breeding purposes.

All the world knows that the king is a first-class farmer, but few are aware that the non-litiated pianist is also an expert agriculturist. The king is a great admirer of Paderewski's performance, but he is much more interested in Paderewski's farming than he is in his musical genius. It is his bucolic tastes which link him together in the bonds of friendship. When Paderewski comes to England he always visits the king's farm at Sandringham. It is not unusual for the pianist to bring with him a number of his musical instruments, which they discuss, but cattle and crops.

WOULD CARRY GUN

Tacoma, Wash., Woman Gives Four Unique Reasons for Request. Special to The Telegram. TACOMA, Wash., Feb. 27.—A woman who lives in Tacoma wants to carry a revolver. She asked Chief Maloney to grant her permission, and upon his refusal she sent him the following petition, which the chief has promised to submit to the council: "Reasons for petitioning the police, council and mayor to carry a revolver for self-protection: "First—In case of street car accidents I am liable at any time to walk in the dark. "Second—I cannot finish my work in daylight, two days in the week. "Third—I am not a member of any order, church, company or club, and don't wish to be held responsible for the mistakes of others. From their actions they thought I possessed a gun, which was their mistake. "Fourth—From what I read, the police are unable to prevent holdups, and I am not a drinking woman, and I am not misusing money, as I intend to use my earnings for improvements."

Trade Notes

Horses will rest much better during the night if cleaned up well in the evening. Match your farm horses perfectly in size and after that in color, style, etc. If you have any doubt about a colt being well enough bred to keep for a stallion, do not give him the benefit of the doubt but geld him. Sound feet are the basis for a good horse. You cannot keep them in such a condition if you permit him to stand in a filthy stable.

Special to The Telegram. OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Feb. 27.—John Burroughs, a former Texan, was the star witness today for the state of Missouri in the taking of evidence here for the use of Attorney General Hadley in his ouster proceedings against the Standard, Republic and Waters-Pierce oil companies. Burroughs testified that he had been employed by the Waters-Pierce company for twenty-four years, his salary being paid partly by the Waters-Pierce company and partly by the Chesapeake-Carlyle company. After 1883, he said, the Chesapeake-Carlyle part of the salary was paid by the Standard Oil Company. He said he was employed at St. Louis, Sulphur Springs, Texas, Mexico City and Oklahoma City, coming to the last named place twelve years ago. Once, he testified, an anti-trust company was started here and he said he received instructions from Denison, Texas, headquarters of the Waters-Pierce company, to put the price down until the competitor could make no profit. He was also ordered to spot all competition oil, get car numbers, destination and amount. The Denison office, he said, also instructed him to open mail addressed to the Standard Oil Company. Burroughs' letter of resignation two years ago was placed in evidence.
