

THE LARGEST CIRCULATION IN FORT WORTH

HADLEY WINS BIG VICTORY

H. H. Rogers Forced to Admit Existence of Oil Trust

CASE HARDFOUGHT

Missourian Now Believed to Have Enough Evidence to Oust Company

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, March 24.—Cornered by the decision of the court, Henry H. Rogers, the executive head of the Standard Oil trust, which Attorney General Hadley stigmatized as the meanest possible combination on earth, inasmuch as it thrives on the necessities of the very poor, today admitted that the corporation was a trust within the meaning of the law.

This admission was made before Commissioner Sanborne, appointed by the state of Missouri to oust the Republic Oil Company, the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, which are doing business in that state, presumably as independent concerns.

It means that Mr. Hadley can now return to his home state with evidence upon which the courts must find the trust guilty as charged and inflict the penalties which are either ratification of all the oil trust's property in the state of Missouri, forcible ejections from the state or a heavy fine, to be repeated every time the offense is committed.

It was the first time in all the long years of litigation that the powerful aggregation known as the Standard Oil trust admitted that it was a combination in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Hadley Jubilant "In obtaining that admission I have accomplished all I came here for," said Attorney General Hadley jubilantly tonight.

The admission was not given willingly. The highly-paid counsel from five different states who had been forced here by the Standard Oil Company magnates to defend them dodged, twisted and tried every movement known to the shrewdest lawyers and the sharpest practitioners before they reluctantly surrendered.

First, they stopped Mr. Rogers when he was about to reply to the question embodying the admission by saying they would prefer to see the admission in writing. Then they wrote the admission in such an ambiguous way that it could be construed any way. Mr. Hadley was too sharp and detected the trick and insisted that if there was to be any written admission it certainly would have to be in such form that it could be comprehended and also would have to be specific and comprehensive.

The Standard Oil attorneys consulted for at least fifteen minutes more and puzzled their brains apparently like school boys over a figure eight. Then in triumph they presented another product of their joint talent, in which two innocent looking holes were left for the trust to slip through. Mr. Hadley spotted the omission. Then by the aid of a few suggestions from the attorney general, they were enabled to return in a few minutes the statements which Mr. Hadley and his representative, Henry Woolman, described as a copper-riveted statement embodying all that had been endeavoring to drag from the unwilling witnesses of the trust for the last twelve months or more.

John D. Not Needed With the convicting testimony from the mouths of Mr. Rogers, the presence on the witness stand of John D. Rockefeller is not so necessary to Mr. Hadley's case. In the light of developments since Mr. Hadley began taking testimony in this city, however, he is still anxious to have the founder of the oil trust before him under oath.

For that purpose today almost the entire army of subpoena servers who have been employed in New York in behalf of the state of Missouri were detailed to wait outside the home of Mr. Rockefeller's home, No. 4 West Fifty-fourth street, and that of his son, No. 13 West Fifty-fourth street, which houses are connected by a subterranean passage.

Into No. 13, that fateful number, Mr. Rockefeller was seen to glide last night by a reporter of the Hearst News Service, who promptly informed Mr. Hadley of the fact. The latter, although he had said facetiously during the day that he would grant a grant safe convey to Mr. Rockefeller to visit his newly-born grandson if the oil king had requested it, did not seem pleased at the attention of the millionaire to defy him and promptly notified the subpoena servers. As soon as they could be gotten together they flocked to the house, which has been closely watched ever since, so that unless the oil magnate escapes back to the fastnesses of his Lakewood before dawn today or unless he has some other exit he is probably a prisoner within one of the two houses. Mr. Hadley desires to prove now by Rockefeller, Rogers and the holder of the papers of the Standard Oil Company, copies of which he has obtained, that the trust not only controls the stock of the three branch concerns doing business in Missouri, but practically directs and manages the business of them from No. 25 Broadway.

Wm. G. Rockefeller on Stand Apart from the confession made by Rogers, in compliance with his bargain with Mr. Hadley that if the court ruled against the Republic Oil Company he would answer questions over which he had previously balked, nothing of any importance was elicited in the hearing today.

Wm. G. Rockefeller on Stand William G. Rockefeller, the only witness examined, notwithstanding the fact that Thomas W. Lawson of Boston had predicted this young man will be the next head of the oil trust, no mention of any ability to testify such a position was displayed by him today. The attorneys for the Standard Oil Company apparently knew nothing at all of the business of the trust from which he draws the pay of an assistant treasurer, that they did not interfere with his giving testimony, and even agreed to permit his testimony to be taken in short-

LEGISLATURE WILL MEET

At Noon Monday Special Session Is to Convene

CHAPLAIN WANTED

Successor to Dr. Tucker Necessary to Be Chosen by House. Message to Be Brief

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, March 24.—The Twenty-ninth legislature will convene Monday at 12 o'clock noon for the purpose of correcting section 120 of the purpose of the members of both branches of the legislature have arrived, and all indications point to a lively session.

The program for the special session may thus be outlined: Speaker Searcy will rap for order promptly at the noon hour and prayer will be offered, very likely by one of the local ministers, who are then the house will proceed to organize. The same will apply in the senate, except that the members of the upper-branch will be presided over by Lieutenant Governor George D. Neal.

To Elect Chaplain

In the house it will be necessary to elect a chaplain to succeed Dr. Tucker, deceased, the blind chaplain, and so to fill any other vacancies which may be occasioned, although so far none have been occasioned as far as is known. After the organization has been perfected in both branches committees will be appointed to notify the governor that the legislature is ready for business, and the governor will then submit his message, which will be comparatively brief. After the reading of the message a contest will likely follow between the two branches as to which will first introduce a message and per diem bill. When these measures will be introduced a lively discussion will ensue and the question of carrying without compensation. Some political capital will be made by certain members, but the wind up will be that both branches will pass these very important measures, after which will come the contest on the election law. Amendments looking to the correction of the election law will be proposed by different members, and also some will seek to amend the act so as to provide for a blanket primary system. This action will be supported by the South Texas members and favored by certain of the North Texas members, and then the final bill will come up for a vote. The result cannot at this time be accurately forecasted.

LAW MAKERS WANT MONEY

Compensation Likely to Be Required at Special Session

MANY OPINIONS

Vigorous, Various, Versatile Minds of Solons Vexed by Proposed Primary

AUSTIN, Texas, March 24.—With tonight's arrivals it is estimated that there are probably fifty members of both branches of the legislature in the city, and the great bulk of members are expected to reach here by tomorrow afternoon. Those here are gathered around the hotel corridors, discussing the situation, and from present indications the legislators are anxious to get through with the work at hand and adjourn, as now it seems to be generally admitted that Governor Lanham will not submit anything additional, except that which he has already indicated, that is, the correction of section 120 of the general election law.

Even in that event, many members say that the session will consume a week or ten days. From the views obtained by many of the members tonight, it is not likely that the law-makers will serve without compensation, unless the session is confined to three or four days. That the governor does not intend to submit any additional matters for the consideration of the legislature at this special session was the fact that he turned down several members this afternoon who implored him to submit some special measure in which he is interested.

The governor was never overly in favor of calling this special session, and when he did decide to call it, it is apparent that it would be merely to correct the defective section.

Notwithstanding the fact that the legislature is practically confined to the correction of the election law, it is learned tonight that an effort will be made to revise the law, the ultimate purpose being to change the law so as to provide for a blanket primary system, but this will be strenuously opposed by those opposed to any change in the law except that indicated by the governor.

It was learned tonight from a well-known member, in fact, none other than Representative Curtis Hancock, who is an advocate of the blanket primary, that there are seventy-five members of the house who are in favor of a blanket primary, thus it is evident that such an amendment would pass if brought before the house.

On the other hand, it may be stated with a certain degree of certainty that the senate will not pass an amendment to the law providing for a blanket primary. It appears the senators are directly opposed to this plan and will oppose it to the bitter end.

During the last regular session of the legislature an effort was made to inject a blanket primary system in the Terrell election law and at that time it failed, but since that time, it is apparent a large number of the members of the house have changed their views on the subject.

Governor Inexorable

AUSTIN, Texas, March 24.—Representative Love today had a conference with the governor regarding the submission of his new bill, which he has framed since the decision of the court of civil appeals, providing for taxing railroads on a straight occupation. The governor not only did not encourage Mr. Love, but the latter said later that the governor declined to submit the matter at the special session. Requests by others for the submission of additional matters met with the same fate.

Piles Cured Quickly at Home

Without Pain, Cutting or Surgery. Instant Relief.

We Prove It. Sample Package Free.

Seven people out of ten are said to have Piles. Not one man in a million need have them and we are proving it every day at our own expense. We send a sample package of the wonderful Pyramid Pile Cure to any person absolutely free.

We don't do this as a matter of amusement or philanthropy, but because it is to our interest to do so. We know that the sufferer from Piles, tormented and driven almost crazy by this wretched trouble, will find such immediate relief that he will go at once to his druggist and buy a box and get well.

We know that we have got the greatest remedy in the world for piles, and we are ready and willing to stand or fall by the verdict of those who make the trial. We have been doing this for some years now and we never yet have had occasion to regret it.

And the remedy at the drug store is just as good as the sample we send out. As, for instance, here is a man who got such immediate relief from the sample that he bought a box. Was it just as good? Undoubtedly, since it cured him after all sorts and kinds of things had failed. And it wasn't one of those simple cases of a few years' standing—it had existed fifty years.

Here is a sample of the kind of letters we get every day and we don't have to ask them:

"Friend, I write to tell what good your Pyramid Pile Cure has done for me. I used your sample, and it did me so much good I went and got two boxes, and I used one and I am another man altogether. I have no pain, no piles, and I have been troubled with them for over fifty years, and could find no relief till now, thanks to your timely cure. Use my name if it will do you any good. Isaac Smith, Wharton, N. Y."

Pyramid Pile Cure is for sale at every druggist's at 50 cents a box or, if you would like to try a sample first, you will receive one by return mail by sending your name and address to the Pyramid Drug Company, 1798 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich.

SAME POSTMASTER SAW THE INCREASE

Cleburne Office Today Uses Forty People

CLEBURNE, Texas, March 24.—Postmaster Carl A. Dickson of Cleburne is one of the southern federal office holders whose popularity entitles him to a third term, and his many friends in Cleburne will congratulate him on the fact that this honor has come to him. Mr. Dickson first entered the postoffice here May 1, 1898. At that time there were 250 clerks in the office, with himself, to take care of the business. Today there are exactly forty people on his payroll. When Mr. Dickson took charge there were no city carriers and no rural carriers. Now there are five city carriers and six to distribute letters and papers on the rural routes. To say the least, Cleburne's postoffice as a business enterprise has become one of the most pronounced successes of the country, a credit to Mr. Dickson and an honor to the city.

FOOD HELPS

In Management of a R. R.
Speaking of food a railroad man says: "My work puts me out in all kinds of weather, subject to irregular hours for meals and compelled to eat all kinds of food.

"For 7 years I was constantly troubled with indigestion, caused by eating heavy, fatty, starchy, greasy, poorly cooked food, such as is most accessible to men in my business. Generally each meal or lunch was followed by distressing pains and burning sensations in my stomach, which destroyed my sleep and almost unfitted me for work. My brain was so muddled and foggy that it was hard for me to discharge my duties properly.

"This lasted till about a year ago, when my attention was called to Grape-Nuts food by a newspaper ad. I decided to try it. Since then I have used Grape-Nuts at nearly every meal and sometimes between meals. We railroad men have little chance to prepare our food in our cabooses and I find Grape-Nuts mighty handy for it is ready cooked.

"To make a long story short, Grape-Nuts has made a new man of me. I have no more burning distress in my stomach, nor any other symptom of indigestion. I can digest anything so long as I eat Grape-Nuts, and my brain works as clearly and accurately as an engineer's watch, and my old nervous troubles have disappeared entirely." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

MEMORIES REFRESHED

Witnesses Talk Straight After Short Spell of Incarceration at Waco. Special to The Telegram. WACO, Texas, March 24—Judge Sam S. Scott sent two witnesses to jail for failing to answer questions propounded them by the grand jury. The witnesses did not refuse to answer certain questions, but could not remember points that were desired by the body. The court decided that the witnesses were unwilling, and ordered them sent to jail with the hope that their memories would be refreshed. The result was that they did not remain in the bowels of the bastille a great while, and indicated that they would be willing to answer all questions propounded, to the best of their knowledge. They were then taken before the grand jury, and it is said answered all questions that were asked.

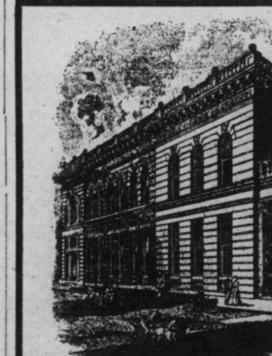

BIG REAL ESTATE TRADES

Clark & McGowan, real estate agents in the Wheat building, Main street, have sold the following property in the last four days: S. N. Lloyd's residence on Pennsylvania avenue; price $5,000; to S. M. Wheat. Thomas M. Huff's residence in Alston avenue; price $6,500; to J. C. Gither. C. T. Winfrey's place on Wheeler street; price $2,750; to S. N. Lloyd. De R. E. L. Miller's residence in Washington avenue; price $4,000; to J. D. Quirk. The total of these deals aggregate $18,250. This shows residence property as well as business property is active in Fort Worth. Clark & McGowan also have three other deals closed, but papers are not yet passed that will swell the amount to about $20,000. State Labor Inspector Thomas J. Scally, in his annual report to the commissioner of labor and statistics, states that in Kentucky 10,133 women are employed at an average daily compensation of 87 1/2 cents. The average compensation for men is $1.63 1/2. He says women who belong to labor unions are receiving nearer the wages paid men.

COOL BURGLAR SECURES $200

Averts Suspicion When Caught in the Act

The residence of W. H. Packham, 1224 Sixth avenue, was entered by a burglar some time after midnight Friday night and about $200 stolen from his trouser's pockets. Mr. Packham reported that he retired about midnight, and was awakened some time afterward by some one moving about in the room; thinking that it was his son he spoke to the individual, who muttered some reply and went out of the room. Saturday morning as the negro woman who does the family washing, was on her way to the Packham home, she picked up the trousers on the sidewalk some distance below the house. It was not until the arrival of the negro woman at the house, that the robbery was discovered. The matter was reported to the police, but as there was no clue there has been no arrests made in connection with the affair. It is said that there was another attempt made to enter a house in the neighborhood of the Packham residence; at this place it is said that the burglars cut away the screen, but that they were discovered and frightened away before effecting an entrance. Street car men of Albany, N. Y., have received an increase in wages from 20 cents an hour to 22 cents.

BEAUMONT MAN SHOT TO DEATH

T. D. Overton Killed in Midnight Difficulty

By Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Texas, March 24.—Shortly after midnight, T. D. Overton, aged 25, was shot and killed at the Beaumont rice mill by A. Mold, night watchman, aged 60.

Mold alleges that Overton had grossly insulted him, and that he then went to his room in the mill building and procured a revolver. When Overton reappeared with his pistol, Mold opened fire, hitting Overton three times.

Overton's home was in Virginia. At the inquest today the testimony of John T. Spencer, the only eye witness, was taken. It developed that Overton was starting at Edward Mold, the night watchman, with a pistol, when the latter shot him. The officers found a pistol clamped in the hand of the dead man. The killing occurred over a trivial matter. Mold is in jail. The dead body will be shipped to Richmond for interment.

The money was alleged to have been paid over to the cafe in preparation of a big banquet for local physicians last night. When a search of the pantry was made it was found no supplies had been purchased and that Steinhauser had gone. The banquet was postponed and the arrest of Steinhauser at San Antonio followed.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It is in Preserving Health and Beauty

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. It cures the complexion, it whitens the teeth, and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no poisonous harm can result from their continued use, but on the contrary, great benefit.

CONDITIONING CAMP

Adjutant General Preparing for Coming of Texas National Guard

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 24.—Adjutant General John A. Hulen has started the conditioning camp for the members of the Texas National Guard this summer. He is hard at work on the proposition and is taking it in time, so that the office forces will not be so rushed during the last week before the great event.

He visits Camp Mabry two or three times a week, and is getting ready to put in a water works system for the camp. This will insure an abundance of water. The sanitary condition of the camp will also be better than heretofore, so that when the troops arrive in camp they will have everything possible for their convenience.

Another thing about the camp is that the soldiers will be paid this time.

TEMPLE FANS HAPPY

Baseball Enthusiasts Elated Over Victory Achieved by Team

Special to The Telegram.

TEMPLE, Texas, March 24.—The local fans are highly elated today over the victory achieved by the Temple team of the Texas Baseball League in the first game of the series with the Cleburne team, played at the latter place yesterday, the game being won by Temple. The series will determine the ownership of the celebrated Cotton Belt Cup. Temple is not a Cotton Belt town, but that is not her fault. It is willing enough to be one. The present Cleburne team played in Temple last year and was the idol of the fans all during the season, but affections have been transferred to the new club organized by Manager Edens, and nothing will satisfy Temple baseball enthusiasts but a complete victory over the one-time favorites.

TO IMPROVE COLLEGE

Baylor-Baptist Female School to Have $40,000 Wing Added

TEMPLE, Texas, March 24.—Extensive improvements are contemplated for Baylor Baptist College, which is located at Belton. Forty thousand dollars is to be expended at once upon the construction of a new wing to the building, which will be used for a recitation room and chapel. Of the amount necessary to complete the work the Baptist educational committee has agreed to furnish $30,000, provided the remaining $10,000 is supplied by the friends of the institution. It is thought that there will be very little trouble experienced in raising the required amount.

It Makes Pure Blood

We are often asked, Why does Hood's Sarsaparilla effect such wonderful cures of cases that seemed beyond the reach of medicine?

An examination of our well-known formula, from which Hood's Sarsaparilla is and always has been carefully and scientifically prepared, confirms the fact that it contains those well-known and valuable medicinal ingredients, which, when intelligently combined and properly administered, are sure to bring about good results.

It is the properly balanced proportion, combination and process in combining those ingredients known to have specific action upon the blood, stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, which make Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar to itself and enable it to produce results unequalled by any similar medicine.

These ingredients are: for the blood, Sarsaparilla, Sillington, Yellow Dock; for the liver, Mandrake, Dandelion; for the kidneys, Uva Ursi, Juniper Berries, Pipsissewa; for the stomach, Gentian, Wild Cherry Bark, Bitter Orange Peel; for the bowels, Senna, Mandrake, Dandelion.

Item for "Special Facilities," Not Recommended by Department

Yet It Goes

Special to The Telegram.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—About $3,000,000 has been added to the sum appropriated for railway mail pay, in the bill which will soon be reported to the house by the committee on post-offices and post roads.

This will make the total $43,000,000 for this one item.

Representative Charles H. Groves says this $3,000,000 is about 20 per cent graft.

He claims that a comparison with

The chairman thinks that the great postal abuse is in second class mail. He says that the government is muddled $27,000,000 a year by this abuse. He doesn't say how much abuse there is in the $42,000,000 railway mail pay. But he declares the committee will go to the bottom of the second class matter.

It is learned that the bill which Mr. Overstreet's committee has framed up will contain a provision for weighing and examining second class mail matter during a period of six months. This, it is understood, is for the purpose of laying the foundation for radical legislation at next winter's session of congress. An increase of the postage on second class matter is contemplated.

The house committee on postoffices and post roads is made up as follows: Republicans—Jesse Overstreet, chairman, of Indiana; John J. Gardner of New Jersey, N. D. Sperry of Connecticut, Thomas Hedge of Iowa, Joseph C. Sibley of Pennsylvania, Howard M. Smith of Illinois, Herman P. Goebel of Ohio, Halvor Steenerson of Minnesota, William H. Stafford of Wisconsin, Archibald B. Darragh of Michigan, Victor Murdock of Kansas, John W. Dwight of New York.

CHAIRMAN OF THE POSTOFFICE COMMITTEE, WHICH AGAIN ALLOWS THE RAILROADS OVER $43,000,000 FOR CARRYING THE MAILS.

the cost of carrying express packages will prove this. Former Senator William E. Chandler, who served two years as a member of an expert commission to determine the cost of carrying the mails, agrees that this charge is excessive, but thinks that it is hardly as high as 20 per cent.

Senator Chandler incurred the enmity of the railroads in his state by making a report unfavorable to the railroads on this subject, and was defeated for re-election to the senate in consequence.

Members of congress are in deadly fear of the railroads when it comes to mail compensation, and so far as can be learned every member of the committee on postoffices and post roads voted for the bill.

The postoffice appropriation bill also contains the yearly bonus to the United States and the Atchison roads of $167,175, of which the Atchison road gets $25,000, while J. Pierpont Morgan's system gets the rest. This appropriation is known as the "special facilities" appropriation. It is recommended by Postmaster General Cortelyou, nor by Second Assistant Shallenberger, who has charge of the railway mail pay. It never has been recommended by the department.

Chairman James Overstreet, who is pretty nearly the whole thing on the postoffice committee, hasn't much of a defense for putting this special facilities item in the bill. Here it is: "It has been there for years. The department did not recommend it because it has never recommended special facilities appropriations."

"The railroads claim they could not give fast mails without the subsidy," Overstreet, however, promised to air the item on the floor of the house.

CURED CONSUMPTION Mrs. B. W. Evans, Clearwater, Kan., writes, My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said he had quick consumption. It was a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago, and since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal.

A Good Many Are Exclusive With Us

The Details of Dress Furnishings, Shoes, Hats

We want you to put our goods to the test—to judge them by the highest standards—to expect more of them than you would of any other goods—and then you'll come nearer the full realization of how much superior they are to what's usually seen. The price range tells you but a little part of the story. It's the value range that counts, and that's beyond expression in type and ink, but it's recognized at a glance when you see the goods.

In the Furnishings you see novelties priced lower than the everyday goods you have all become too familiar with.

In the Hat lines we want you to particularly see the "Kaw" Silk Fiber Hat, in derby and soft styles, at $3.00.

In the Shoes we claim to give you more worth and comfort for the money. Nettleton's, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.00. Bostonians, $3.50 and $4.00. The new Oxfords are ready. The man who trusts himself to be well dressed as we can dress him here, dresses well.

PRICE MADE COL. OF COTTON BULLS

Little Rock Board of Trade Issues "Commission"

Special to The Telegram.

Little Rock, March 24.—Theodore H. Price has been made colonel in Arkansas on condition that he advance cotton 2 cents a pound from the market. The board of trade of Little Rock, Arkansas, has issued a public meeting Sunday afternoon, March 25, at 3 o'clock, in obedience to the proclamation of Governor Lanham, in order to pay fitting tribute to the memory of the late Governor J. S. Hogg.

Price was a rabid bear on cotton when the commission was issued. He assumed leadership of the bulls on the following day and has got the speculators all over the world excited about the big campaign in cotton. May cotton has advanced 90 points, that almost half of Price's promise has been made good.

Price and his friends are buying May and selling July with all others, while another group of cotton traders is selling May and buying July. Thus a large short interest exists in both options and Wall street is expecting fireworks. Options advanced from 9 to 12 points net today. Port receipts were about 16,000, against 28,121 a year ago. In Liverpool spot cotton rose 4 and options closed steady there, net 2 to 4 points higher.

TO ASK FOR BIDS Trinity and Brazos Valley Railway Preparing to Ask Authority

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 24.—The Trinity and Brazos Valley railway will soon file an application with the railroad commission for authority to issue bonds on twenty-six miles of its completed road. Yesterday afternoon Col. R. H. Baker of the road, and E. B. Burns, chief engineer; M. Sweeney, vice president and general manager; S. M. Hudson, secretary, and Judge Lewis Andrews, general attorney of the company, visited the railroad commission regarding the valuation to be placed on the twenty-six miles of completed road. They submitted to Chief Engineer Thompson the data and other information regarding the valuation, and as soon as the road has been valued, then the company will be positioned to know how many bonds may be issued. The application will be filed as soon as this has been ascertained.

A woman's clothes are always a woman's chiefest problem. She craves originality—she hates mediocrity. The house that can give her originality and exclusiveness takes her favor by storm. The managers of this department have made it a set unalterable rule to avoid all that savors of the ordinary. The reputation won for showing exclusive garments of a class superior is the result of a planned campaign—not a chance result. We have aimed to be different. We dwell on originality and exclusiveness because it's something we have and others haven't; it's the vital point of successfully catering to a woman's wants. Ample illustrations of the Burton-Peel garments are here to be seen at a glance; not alone the highest priced goods, but even the more reasonably priced ones, all bear out our claim to exclusiveness.

The Tailored Suits, the Visiting and the Reception Gowns; they're all so beautiful you wonder how they've all been conceived so differently. But think how many brains have developed the ideas; the foreign artist thousands of miles away sends to America his ideas. The quick and skilled American artists are alert to improve the foreigner's gown and today they vie with the best imported made.

The Shirt Waist Suit, the Eton, Pony, Box and Blouse Suits show more of a tendency to brightness; yet with the white and gray checked and plain fabrics, are pictures of neatness and grace. The Silk and Wash Waists—newness hasn't passed them by—note the lovely radium finished silk fabrics elaborately trimmed with the daintiest of lace—the lingerie hand-made creations of batiste, linen and cambric, decorated in the real hand-made laces and embroideries. We invite you to call and see our lines. Come often, for there is something new each day.

"What Women Will Do"

Harry Jackson's new play will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee and night, March 23. It is the melodramatic success of the season. The play is not a dramatization, but the story is suggested by Charles Dickens' great novel, "David Copperfield." To write a play from any of Dickens' works is a much more difficult matter than one would imagine, but Mr. Jackson, by taking the principal characters and incidents, and introducing some ideas of his own, has constructed a play that has been received enthusiastically wherever presented this season. The Holden wish to see impersonate this character. The story of this masterpiece of the elder Dumas is well known in every city and family where the gems of literature are studied and enjoyed. The story of the simple sailor 'lad thrown into prison in order to further the selfish ambition of an unscrupulous politician; his remarkable escape from the Chateau d'Iff by the aid of the dying Abbe Faria; his recovery of the lost treasure of the Island of Monte Christo; his meeting with his persecutors after an interval of eighteen years at the Inn of the Pont du Gard; his brilliant appearance as the Count de Monte Christo at the Hotel de Moreau; the duel with Danglars in the forest of Fontainebleau and his final restoration to his rights, and the affectionate meeting with his son; all these are scenes that no theater-goer ever beheld without willingly submitting to the intensely dramatic effects. When this eminent romantic actor presents "Monte Christo" at the opera house March 23, it will be the last time he will be seen in the famous old piece in this city, for the present is Mr. O'Neill's farewell season to "Monte Christo."

"Side Tracked"

A household word is "Side Tracked," because it never disappoints an audi-

Brothers have always been great factors in the dramatic field, a number of their attractions playing the Stair & Haylin circuit this year. They consider "What Women Will Do" the best piece of theatrical property before the public today, and have spared no expense in making the production. The scenic effects are perfect in every detail and the company the strongest presenting popular priced drama. Press and public have been unanimous in declaring the above attraction a perfect success.

"Monte Christo" With James O'Neill James O'Neill has played the part of Edmund Dantes in "Monte Christo" almost 5,000 times from New York to San Francisco and back again. It will be at Greenwall's opera house Thursday matinee and night, March 23. It is a world's record. During that period he has achieved a reputation that is as enviable as it is well deserved. Time and again Mr. O'Neill has desired to throw the mantle of the Count de Monte Christo from his shoulders, but each time the public has insisted that he put it on again. The play-goers seem to recognize the fact that there is no other romantic actor in America today whom they ence. At Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee and night, March 21. As an extra attraction Mr. and Mrs. Jule Walters appear in a skit entitled "A Chinese Concession" in the third act of "Side Tracked."

You not only laugh, but yell with delight, when you see "Side Tracked." Imagine an automobile (full size touring car) taken out of a clothes basket (ordinary size), three people ride in it, electric lights light up, wheels revolve. You can see this in "Side Tracked." Three pigs are driven on the stage, automobile runs into them, causing explosion and a very ludicrous wreck. The throne room used in the vaudeville skit, "A Chinese Concession," is an exact copy from Peking, China. With its buddhas, prayer machine, wife of a weird and unearthly character. The arranger of "La Boheme," Puccini's great opera, has made use of this funeral tone-color in the finale following the pathetic death-scene of the opera, and, ordering his horn players to remove their flists, makes the unearthly instruments fairly sound a death-knell. The effect produced on a sensitive listener is impressive in the extreme.

appearance by our friends, the missing link. Arthur Rigby ranks as the leading black-face comedian on the Keith and Proctor and the Orpheum and Kohl Caste circuits. This will be his first appearance in the south. Lizzie Wilson stands unrivaled as the funniest woman in vaudeville. George Melville, the ridiculous clown, will appear jointly with Mamie Conway, a comedienne of great talent. W. H. Mack and Ida H. Elliott present a comedy sketch that will prove pleasing.

Count De Butz and Brother. This act has been a sensation wherever it has appeared in the large cities, not only because of the remarkable riding done by the count and his brother, but by reason of the uproar of merriment always provoked by the count himself. The most hazardous tricks with the wheel are performed so carelessly and yet with such ease and confidence that the spectator is not put on his mettle for the safety of the rider. Throughout the whole breathless race around the stage the atmosphere is charged with hilarious laughter. Intense satisfaction is obtained by the audience from the complete absence of failure to accomplish any of the wonderful features of the performance.

Singer's Monkey Actors Eighteen minutes of monkey business might be a slang way of expressing what these astonishing animals do in their one-act novelty, entitled "A Chinese Laundry." The suggestion for this play came out of Harry Lehr's famous society party at Newport, when the honored guest at the table was a trained apt with the most accomplished table manners. Professor Singer relies entirely upon the intelligence on his actors in training them for the stage, and decries brutality.

Arthur Rigby Mr. Rigby is known on the big vaudeville circuits of the country as a leading monologist in black-face comedy. He has been a famous minstrel in the best organizations of later years. His humor is of the broader sort in comparison of the petty jokes used by many other black-faced comedians. Present day foibles and follies claim his witty attention.

Lizzie Wilson Miss Wilson is easily the funniest woman in vaudeville. She tells her comical stories in an inimitable way and sings her German dialect songs with a surprisingly melodious voice. Miss Wilson is full of wholesome fun and keeps the spectators in a rare good humor during the entire time that she is on the stage. One of the songs which make a great hit is almost a lodge hymn with the Elks throughout the United States. "Schmitzelbank" is the name of this song.

Miss Wilson is a sister of A. H. Wilson, the German dialect and singing comedian, who appeared here this season in his new play, "The German Gypsy."

Melville and Conway George Melville is the comical clown who has entered upon the stage of the modern kind of theatricals, accompanied by Miss Mamie Conway, a talented comedienne. Melville still clings to his clown make-up as an effectual aid in producing the laughs that he invokes. These players are presenting an absurd piece of broad comedy called "An Amateur Mesmerist." It affords Melville the opportunity of introducing himself as a chalk-face performer of irresistible force.

Mack and Elliott W. H. Mack and Ida Elliott present a comedy sketch that will please the patrons of the Majestic. It is in keeping with the entire bill, which is intended to be essentially a comedy program from beginning to end. Mr. Mack and Miss Elliott are among the best entertainers in the whole field of modern theatricals, and will contribute their full share to the bill.

"Raffles, the Amateur Cracksmen" made famous by the novel and more lately in dramatic form by Kyrie Bellevue, will be the subject of the motion pictures. The whole drama is enacted with the sound effects, lending the thrill of reality to the subject. The illustrated songs will be a feature of the bill.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

John R. Fulkerson, a land and mine dealer of El Paso is here looking after business interests. He states that the real estate market in El Paso is very active and the property values are constantly enhancing. Mr. Fulkerson also states that there is a great deal of building in progress and that the city is growing faster than any town in the West.

John Jones, the colored train porter, a mention of whose death was made in the Telegram Thursday, probably dates his service back further than any man in the railroad service. He entered the service under compulsion, though he remained in it the remainder of his life through choice. A crowd of old timers were discussing John's career in the office of Colonel Wilson, formerly live stock agent of the Chicago & Alton, when a Telegram reporter dropped in Friday morning and it developed through an interchange of reminiscences that John first began railroading while a slave and that his wages were first drawn by his owner in the days of slavery.

John worked on the California & Western Pacific for the John C. Fremont outfit in the days when oxen were substituted for locomotives while the latter were undergoing repairs and he has continued in the harness ever since until the day of his death.

SELLS-FLOTO SHOWS

This Attraction to Be in Fort Worth on April 9

Alan Rogers, the famous Southern critic, says:

"When a man gets too old to take a day off when the circus comes to town it is time for him to get busy with his will, or else have the doctor to see it all, and that is the charm of the Sells-Floto show.

From first to last, every act is snappy and up-to-date, and you can't miss a bit of it unless you shut your eyes.

But the great hit of the long program is "The Girl in Red," the little lady who does the bareback act. Her name is a mystery, gentle reader, but she looks as if it might be Mary or some other old-fashioned name. She is just a fresh, unspotted little girl, the neatest, daintiest little girl that ever wore fluff skirts or jumped through a hoop.

The old-timers on the front rows sat up and gazed with pure admiration when she came into the ring. In fact, one enthusiast expressed his feelings by sitting up so straight he fell over backwards. There are so many good features in the Sells-Floto program it is entirely worthy a visit when it comes here, Monday, April 9.

But for some trouble and sorrow we should never know half the good there is in the circus you want is about us.—Dickens.

KENTUCKIAN HAS PRAISE FOR SHOW

Col. Polk Prince Agreeably Surprised by Exhibit

"The exhibition of fat and blooded stock at the Fort Worth Live Stock Show is the best I ever saw," said Colonel Polk Prince of Todd county, Kentucky, Saturday evening after the fat stock exhibition was over.

"I have attended similar institutions elsewhere and I have never seen a better collection of blooded beef stock and hogs than you have here. I have been agreeably surprised and I am glad I came all the way from Kentucky to learn what Texas is doing in the way of improving its cattle and hogs."

Colonel Prince is a breeder of Berkshire hogs and short-horn cattle and is one of the most successful men in the business in southern Kentucky. He has one of the finest stock farms near Guthrie, right on the Tennessee-Kentucky line, that there is in that section.

"This fat stock show," he said, "is the biggest thing for the live stock interests you have in Texas, and your people may prepare themselves to see its outgrowth in present proportions from this time on. It will do more to increase the price of Texas beef cattle than anything else."

The show pavilion, however, is not large enough; the association should have a pavilion especially for show purposes, so that people who attend would be able to see the stock of a certain breed that is being judged at one time. That would add interest to the show and it would serve to increase interest in the business of raising better animals.

"In my opinion your show does not continue long enough; instead of three days there should be six and of those six there should be sales on four. People who take enough interest in stock raising to go to a stock show never get tired of looking at good cattle, good hogs or good sheep, and I believe if the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show was six instead of three days it would not be too much for the people."

"If your live stock show is as properly conducted in the future as it has been it will not be long until the management will have to cut loose from the stock yards in the matter of pens and stalls, and build for themselves, and that is as it should be. The show if kept up will be worth millions to the live stock industry of Texas, and it should be, for Texas is today furnishing nearly one-seventh of all the beef consumed in the United States, and it has the territory to increase that to one-third of all the beef consumed by our home people.

Waldie Reduces Own Figure to 109 1-2

At the matinee races given by the Fort Worth Driving Club at their park Saturday afternoon, the track record was broken by Waldie, a horse owned by John Duke. This was in the third race, the free-for-all trot, in which there were four entries, but two were scratched before the start, leaving only Waldie and Gypsy Queen. In this race Waldie won both heats, the first in 1:11 and the last in 1:09 1/2, lowering the track record half a second. This was his own record of the last meet. Before this race was finally started the drivers had jockeyed so long that Starter Mills removed Driver Williams and John Bostwick took his place.

The first race was won by Bicarbonate, the horse getting two firsts and a second in four races, the time was 1:20 1/2. Edwa was second and Dick C. third.

The second race was won by Jack Muhl, a horse owned by C. F. Long and driven by himself. The time was 1:12 1/2.

The third race was the free-for-all trot, won by Waldie, in 1:09 1/2.

The fourth race was won by Barondita, M. A. Spoons owner, in 1:20 1/2. This race was to have been two heats, but it took an extra heat because each of the two horses starting won a heat in turn of the first two. Barondita was finishing ten lengths ahead, but when within that far of the wire he broke badly and lost the race.

The starter was Charles F. Mills of Dallas, who also acted as one of the time keepers. The judges were W. W. Sloan Jr., J. F. Summers, J. F. Maddox, J. H. Maddox also acted as timer.

EATEN OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME

How a Confirmed Dyspeptic Developed an Appetite Like a Corn-Husker's and Cleaned Out Everything in Sight.

The wife of a leading druggist of Des Moines tells how her brother was changed from a dyspeptic without appetite to a prodigious eater.

"My brother, who is a lawyer in Chicago, came to visit me and I hardly knew him on his arrival he was so thin and run down. I had not seen him for years and was much alarmed at his appearance. He told me not to worry as he had been in this condition for years as a result of chronic dyspepsia. I asked him what he had done for it, and he said he had done everything—taken every remedy he had ever heard of and consulted doctors without number, none of whom helped him. I asked him if he ever took Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and he said he hadn't and what was more he hadn't. He had sworn off taking medicine of any kind.

"I had my husband bring home a box from the store and I actually made him take one or two of the tablets after he had eaten. They made him feel so much better that he offered no further objection. He had not taken the one box before he was greatly improved and three or four boxes cured him of dyspepsia and gave him a wonderful appetite. He came near eating us out of house and home. My, but it did me good to see him eat. He gained fifteen pounds in a few days. He returned home, and he writes me that he has not been troubled with dyspepsia since."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of their work of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it. On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and carry out Nature's plan for the sustenance and maintenance of the body.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by thus relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. One box will frequently effect a perfect cure.

REPUBLICAN BEES BUZZING LOUDLY

Presidential Timber Is Now Being Surveyed

PRESIDENT TO FIGURE

Roosevelt's Influence Will Have a Lot to Do With the Final Choice of the Convention

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23.—The personal influence of President Roosevelt will be a large factor in the choice of the next republican candidate for President. He has made it clear that he does not propose to dictate to the party, but he claims the privilege of any party leader, of having a personal choice. Who this choice will be is known only to Mr. Roosevelt.

That Charles W. Fairbanks is not favored by President Roosevelt as the republican candidate in 1908 is known positively to be the case. President Roosevelt does not think the republican party could win with Fairbanks heading the ticket. The President feels very kindly toward Vice President Fairbanks, but he recognizes him of the same political school as himself. He believes that the next candidate will have to have a more popular name than Mr. Fairbanks if he is to win. He believes also that the candidate will have to be a man who stands for some of the things the people now seem to favor, such as regulation of the trusts.

It is the belief of many of the shrewdest party leaders in Washington that Joseph E. Cannon will be the most available candidate for the republicans to nominate in 1908. In fact, there has already started quite a campaign boom, so far as Cannon is concerned. Cannon would campaign well. The "Uncle Joe" personality is already quite familiar to the people, and the people seem to like it. Cannon's objection is that he is feeling that he is being over-urged against Cannon—is being over-urged. Or rather, Uncle Joe himself seems to be living it down. He appears so vigorous, so full of energy, and so unaffected by any of the physical limitations that attack even younger men, that the politicians are coming to agree that "that man is as good as dead," and that "Uncle Joe, by this test, is about 37."

Senator Joseph Benson Foraker is also an avowed candidate for the republican presidential nomination. His lightning rod is most decidedly up. He bases his hopes on the idea that the "conservative interest" will need a good man, and that he is a much better man—much brainer and stronger in moral courage and in ability to make a campaign than his only rival in the "conservative" field, namely, Vice President Fairbanks.

Some people think Foraker's course in railway rate legislation has made him unpopular with the people. Foraker himself thinks his course will eventually be popularly approved.

The boom of Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, has dwindled until it is hardly necessary to take it into account. His candidacy was premised on the fact of obtaining the nomination, but now it is being overshadowed by government ownership of railways and anti-graft.

It's a good guess that President Roosevelt's personal choice would be Elihu Root.

Postmaster General George B. Cortelyou can be played for a dark horse.

WAR UNENDING

Sultan's Troops Forever Fighting Rebels of Yaman in Arabia

CAIRO, March 24.—A war that is hardly ever heard of has been going on for several years in the mountainous corner of western Asia, known as the Yemen. The sultan's troops are waging an unending struggle with the Arabian rebels.

Sanaa, the capital, has suffered more than one siege, and the last one dragged on for five months. The wretched inhabitants died by hundreds of starvation, while rats sold at a dollar each and were their last resource for food.

At the end of the siege the Turkish general humanely relieved the sufferers and sent them to the coast. A ship load of refugees arrived in Suez and 150 corpses were landed, the remaining 500 crawling ashore more dead than alive.

PROTESTS VEHEMENT

British Appointment of German to Navy Shows English Feeling

LONDON, March 24.—The growing anti-German feeling in England is well illustrated by the storm that has been raised over the appointment of Prince Louis of Battenberg to be second sea lord of the admiralty.

Prince Louis, who commanded the cruiser squadron which won the North York, is personally well liked in the British navy, and is a capable officer, but his promotion has made his naval and military people at large bitter for two reasons.

One is that he has been jumped over the heads of many senior officers, and secondly that he is a German, with German servants.

The navy and the country are arguing that it seems rash to entrust vital important papers to German servants to be transmitted to a German prince who may be on his German estate. The idea of entrusting so much to a man of the nationality with whom Great Britain is at war, strikes the future to be involved in a war, strikes the naval office and the man in the street as being a very risky proceeding.

NEW SCHOOL TEACHERS

Men Elected by School Board to Succeed Women

At a special meeting of the school board held Friday night, E. B. Frost, a former teacher in the city schools here, and Cullen Bryant of the State University at Austin were elected teachers, succeeding Misses M. J. Malone and W. H. Hall, who recently resigned. Both resignations were of high school teachers. The new teachers will take up their work here April 2.

SMALLEST MAN'S FARM

35-Pounder Buys Quarter Section in Nebraska

Sitting in his little rocking chair in the lobby of a hotel in Major Gantz said to be the smallest man in the world, attracted a large crowd of visitors. He came from his home at Fairfield, Io., to visit his sister, Mrs. Snyder, living north of this place, and his brother, W. N. Gantz, on his farm near Clark.

The major is 40 years old, two feet high and weighs thirty pounds. He wears a No. 7 hat, but his legs are so small and weak that he cannot stand on them, and has to be moved around in a chair. He wears children's shoes. He has the facial features and the intelligence of a grown man, and with the money he has made by giving exhibitions, he has bought a quarter section of good land near Clark.

What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and, mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain for medicinal use is obtained from Calcium Sulphide and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Physicians are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver and excretory organs, cleanses and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flow-ers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and especially in all the more concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised to see the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them clear up and appear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary preparation, and sold by druggists, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin diseases as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called "blood purifiers" will find Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

FANS ARE GIVEN REAL BASEBALL

Cardinals and Panthers Battle
Ten Innings With 2-1 Score

DUPREE PROVES "FIND"

Holds Visitors Down to Six Hits and Strike Out Seven of the Visiting Team

Midsummer baseball was the order of the day at the ball park Saturday afternoon when the Panthers and the Colts of the St. Louis Cardinals battled ten innings, until finally the banner of victory rested on the St. Louis side and the crowd left for the cars.

Although St. Louis won the game, the honors of the contest were Dupree, who pitched a game that would credit for the middle of the season.
The Cardinals were almost unable to do anything with his delivery at all.

Not only did Dupree pitch a fine game but he scored the only run which Fort Worth made, coming in on Carlton's single to left after he had driven the ball to deep center for three sacks.

While Fort Worth only made four hits off of the delivery of Franz, they were all clean. Dupree was credited with a three-bagger, Cavender and Salm with two-baggers and Carlton with a single.

The new Panthers showed up well in the game. The infield was there at almost all times when necessary and the combination of Salm, Clayton, Boles and Carlton looked like a credit to Salm at first and Boles at short are well enough known not to need a description and their work Saturday augured well for Fort Worth's chances for the season.

CARDINALS BEAT DALLAS

Redebaugh Has Bad Inning, Giving St.
Louis the Game

DALLAS, Texas, March 24.—The baseball game this afternoon between Dallas and the St. Louis Cardinals was a good one, very fast game being played. The St. Louis team was on even terms with Dallas until the sixth inning, when Redebaugh, pitcher for Dallas, weakened and St. Louis scored three runs. They also took three in the ninth, winning the game by a score of 2 to 1.

There were about 600 people at the game, and the day was ideal; aside from the weakening of their pitcher, the Dallas team held their own throughout the game. Adams and Grady did battery work for St. Louis, center fielder Metz for Dallas.
Tackberry and Flatery were umpires.

Score by innings:
St. Louis.....0 0 0 0 3 0 0 3—6
Dallas.....0 2 0 0 0 0 0 1—3

Summary:
Dallas—Runs, 3; hits, 8; errors, 1.
St. Louis—Runs, 6; hits, 12; errors, 1.

RAPID WATER WINS FEATURE

Favorite at Fair Grounds Gets Place by Close Margin

NEW ORLEANS, March 24.—Rapid Water, who ran third in the last derby, won the mile and twenty yards handicap, feature of the eard at the Fair Grounds this afternoon, just managing to stall off the fast coming Little Scout, which nipped the place by a nose from Macey Jr.
Rapid Water was favorite at 9 to 10.
The Bennett entry of Little Scout and Blennworth was second choice at 4 to 1, with Macey Jr. at 9 to 1. Just after the star Rapid Water was put to the front and he had a lead of one length at the quarter, which he lengthened into two by the next quarter. Macey Jr., St. Valentine and Blennworth, who hunched just behind him, at the stretch they fought it out with Rapid Water all the time leading and Blennworth and Macey
Jr. even tried to belahating. Little Scout began eating up the second one straightened out and he just ran over everything in front of him right up to the finish, winning the race by a nose in the last jump. Macey Jr. out-ran Blennworth, though having but a nose advantage at last. Summaries:

Plans for Canvass
As announced in The Telegram the canvass will continue twelve working days, ending at 12 o'clock, Monday.
It will blow as each $1,000 is secured and a record of subscriptions will be kept on a bulletin board to be placed at Seventh and Houston streets.

Statement of Work
To the Citizens of Fort Worth:
The board of directors has issued the following statement of work and plans:
After the organization of the present board of directors on the 1st of January it was decided to begin a canvass of the city with the idea of securing the best possible results in the present year after paying the debts which were standing against the lot owned by the association.

The sale of the lot at Seventh and Taylor streets at a fair price and much work in soliciting subscriptions has resulted in clearing the association of the debt which is the main object of the structure, which when completed according to plans, will be worth about $50,000.

At a later meeting of the directors it was mentioned that the amount taken in subscriptions were entirely too small, the original subscriptions having been taken on a basis of $20,000 which would have been sufficient to complete the original plans to $12,000, which amount is now asked.

We believe, however, that when the people of the city understand the matter that they will not be satisfied with the original plans, as from a study of the plans we believe that while in course of construction a fifth story could be added, the walls being heavy enough to carry it, and in this way there would be a little cheaper at the same time. The amount now needed to complete the original plans to $12,000,
which amount is now asked.

Dallas in thirty days pledged $100,000 for a Y. M. C. A. building, since the city has pledged $240,000 for the same purpose in thirty days, and closing March 15 Kansas City in twenty-four days pledged $250,000. El Paso in a time canvass of thirty days, recently completed their fund of $61,000 and we now ask the citizens of Fort Worth to give us not the $12,000 to complete the original plans, but $25,000 to make a five-story structure, large enough to handle the crowds of young men who are waiting for special cars for the Bernhard performance at Dallas Monday night. Cars will leave Fort Worth about 6 o'clock in the evening and return after the performance.

Eaton-Hurbit Stationery, in the box, quire or pound, costs but little more than the cheap. The finest in the box is the standard bond, 15c per quire, and Louise by the pound only 25c. Try the Eaton-Hurbit, Conner's Book Store.

Have you weakness of any kind—stomach, back, or any organs of the body? Don't dose yourself with ordinary medicine. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Cure is the supreme curative power. 25 cents.
J. P. BRASHEAR.

We ask the railroad men of the city, who all know of the benefits of the "Time" canvass, to contribute at least $1,000 and we have assigned the railroad men a committee.
We ask the employed men who receive the most benefit from the work to contribute at least $1,000 and we have assigned them a committee.

We ask for volunteers in every shop, store, office and place of business,
who will canvass among the employed men, where they work, and report amounts at once to the association office.

Conditional Subscriptions
We solicit large subscriptions conditional on securing the $12,000 in the time stated these subscriptions not to apply on the $12,000, but to be additional, and we confidently expect such subscriptions and ask that they be reported to the office or sent to the newspapers.

We ask that business men generally report at the office, secure blank and names to be seen and help close this amount up quickly.

At the end of the twelve days the size of the building will be determined and will be either roofed at its present stage if $12,000 is not reached, or one or two stories additional erected according to the subscriptions at that time.

The laying of brick on the building has caused until the close of the canvass and then the structure will be vass and then the structure will be able. We have incurred no debt in the taking from the world's greatest composers. Robert, a curly-haired baby of 4, also performs on the piano, as does his tiny 2-year-old brother,
Clarence.

The prompt consideration and response by the people of Fort Worth will be most heartily appreciated by those who have in charge the work.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS AMERICAN MECCA

Frio County Famous for Fine Grass and Cattle

PRaise FOR PEARSALL

J. M. Campbell Says Country Is Per- fect for Stock and Farming—Not Many Farmers There

Southwest Texas is fast becoming the Mecca of people from all parts of the United States who are seeking for homes and a portion of God's earth that is fertile and productive and others who desire to obtain large tracts to hold for colonization. Along the line of the international railroad fifty-five miles from the city of San Antonio is the county of Frio, whose county town bears the name of Pearsall. This county was for years famous for its fine grass and fine cattle; in fact, it was the ideal cowman's country. It is still that in so far as the farmer has not invaded and appropriated the country, and there are many cowmen left who still pay attention to their flocks and send beef to market. The section east of Pearsall to beyond Big Foot is one of the best parts of the county and its suit- it is every way for stock farming. "That is my business," said J. M. Campbell, "and I live seven miles east of Pearsall, on the road to San Antonio. My property lays next to and adjoining the Keystone Cattle Company's ranch and contains 3,700 acres of good land. I am cultivating 800 acres and consider myself a stock farmer. Down our way corn has been plowed out and grass is advanced enough to fill the cattle. Rain has fallen in sufficient quantities to make a season and we do not suffer from want of water, as wells of good water can be found anywhere and the windmills are in sight all over the country. I have a few Durhams, crossed on Herefords, using only registered bulls, and the cross makes a first-class grade. I get my strain from the famous Holy Land stock of New Braunfels and they serve the purpose well. Stock is in fine condition and is not suffering at all. The weeds are finer than I ever saw them. With a little rain now the tall weeds would clear out soon. "A trip away only makes us love our country the more. We can grow any kind of stuff and our onion crops have become famous over the world. Lands are being divided and sold out in small tracts ranging from $10 per acre and no trouble to find a buyer. There are several large ranches yet in the county, but it is only a question of time before they will go the way of the rest. Now that we have a stable market for anything we can raise there will be more diversification than heretofore, for what we raise out of the county can be put into meat and sold at an advance. Of course, such a revolution as is now going on in methods takes the people a little by surprise, and as they are more or less conservative, they are slow to change, but that they will meet the situation promptly and make the most of it, all who know the people do not doubt.

It is in the midst of a fine country, good for all kinds of crops, but especially wheat, oats, corn, etc. It has always been a fine country for cattle and is still looked upon as the equal of any. E. A. Allington, a breeder of cattle and hogs, was asked for information for the good of the country and Fort Worth, and he replied: "I am a breeder of shorthorns, and I know that I have the best bred bull in Texas, by name, or in the south for that matter. His name is Alie's Prince. He took the championship in the quarantine division at the World's Fair in St. Louis three years in succession here and the same to San Antonio. He is 6 years old. One of his helpers took at St. Louis the grand championship for the best shorthorn cow of any age. His cattle run on my pasture of 4,900 acres. "I raise corn, wheat and oats and, of course, sorghum. Land has doubled in value in the last two years. Land that Waggoner paid $2.50 for several years ago, he is now selling off at $25 per acre, and the man who bought that 40,000 acres from him last month is now selling it for $25 per acre. I was born in Illinois, but came to Texas thirty-three years ago. We have a good section and our people are a good class of farmers, with plenty of wheat and other feed and raise good cattle. The show is great and will certainly grow."

CROPS REGULAR Not a Total Failure in Twenty-Four Years in Coleman County

Coleman county has a lot of people here to see the show and some mighty fine cattle, too. The people of this county seem to have a fellow feeling for each other and an admiration for the products of their county that compels them to stick together and help all they can to advertise their home. This is so anyway with the crowd that can be found around the pens of beautiful fat stuff that represented the county of Coleman at the Fat Stock Show. "We are all for Coleman," said W. B. Lewis, "and we all take an interest in what she has that can be used to advance her resources. It makes no difference whether we own a single atom of it or not. It is one for all and all for one with us. When anyone comes around we never hesitate to introduce him to whoever has something good, and keep at it until he has met all and extracted all the information we can give him. Myself, I was born in North Carolina and learned to stick in the old 'rossum' state. "It has been pretty dry with us; no big rains, only showers, but there has been a season in the ground. We are a little short on stock water, but our people are preparing for that in the future. The rain that is induced by the time will be to a great extent eliminated. Stock is in fairly good condition, most people always feeding through the winter. The big loss of feed stuff raised in the county, and this is a salvation for all stock when the grass is scarce. Farming is getting all right and we have not had a total failure in twenty-four years of crops. I have for sale 2,500 head of 2- and 3-year-old steers, located between Coleman and the Colorado river, which will be ready soon for market. I get your paper and like it."

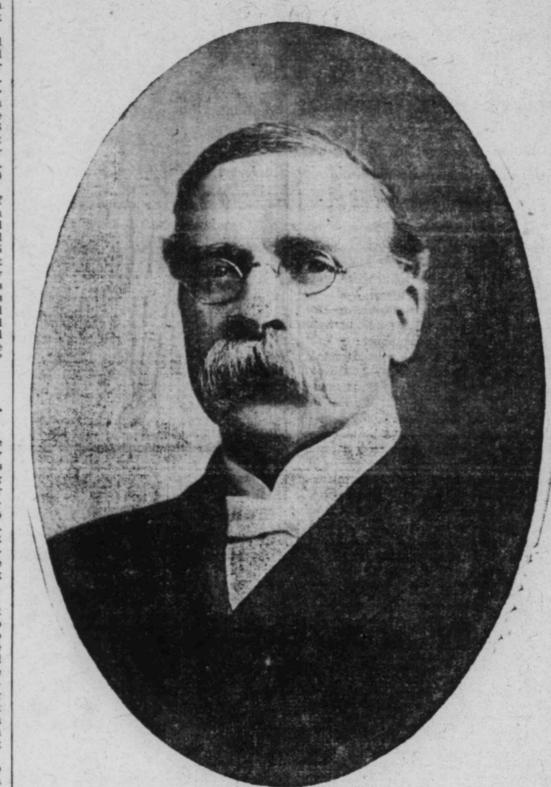

LAND SELLS READILY Taylor and Coleman County Property Finds Market

Down in the southeast corner of Taylor county and the northwest corner of Coleman county there is a section of country that is peculiarly adapted to the cattle business, having good grass and fine protection from the north and in addition plenty of water for stock. It is known as the "Red country." From this country came J. N. Ferguson, who has owned ranch property there for years. "I sold some six thousand acres of my land last year," he said, "but still retain a holding and have leased more. You know the country and what it is like and how good it is for cattle raising, so it is no use to me to extend praises of it. Grass is good and growing rapidly and cattle are doing nicely. There are a lot of the boys down there you know, like Brown, Chandler, Bumpas, Wallace, etc., but they are so tangled up with this fine stock and other attractions incident to the occasion that it is hard to locate them. I am satisfied that I heard one of them sing over at the convention yesterday: 'I am a poor old cow man a long way from home, but they all seem to have gotten over their homesickness since they reached Fort Worth, for they have been here so much that they look upon it as home. Our country has improved wonderfully in the last year and there is none can beat it or head it off in the race for prosperity. From a grass land it has become a fine stock raising country, and with pure water and the abundance of feed that it always raises the 'game seems to be made' as far as we are concerned. I live in Abilene still and think it is a little bit better than any other town of its size in Texas."

EXHIBIT FROM BIG RANCH Coleman County Rancher Has Fine String at Fat Stock Show

J. E. Boorg-Scott, the big cow man of Coleman county, was an exhibitor and has a fine string to show the qualities of Coleman's stock. "I have fifteen miles north of Coleman City, and the ranch extends over into Callahan county. The range north from Cow Creek is good, having had rains, but south of there it is not good. Ours is a good cow country and as we raise all kinds of feed, besides cotton, we can make a good showing when we try. I have some 20,000 acres and run probably 2,500 cattle. Yes, I have some good stock and believe in crossing breeds. There is a thirteen-month-old calf that is one-quarter shorthorn and three-quarters Hereford, and weighs 1,000 pounds, and is from an imported bull. That other by his side is a full blooded Hereford of the same age and had the same care and only weighs 950. They are both good stuff as you can see, so I have come to the conclusion that the cross benefits as much as either, and looks are concerned. This is a good show and of course will be productive of great good to all the state, and I hope that it will be helped and encouraged by every stockman in this broad state. There are plenty of other good stuff in our country and there is some of it here on exhibition. If every county will do as well as Cole-

Dr. William Fielder Now Raising University Funds

Dr. William Fielder, president of Fort Worth University, is now engaged in a campaign for funds for improvements at the institution. Dr. Fielder is endeavoring to raise $15,000 here with the understanding that an equal amount is to be secured out of the city. A large part of the amount has already been secured.

Dr. Fielder came to Fort Worth directly from Minneapolis, Minn., where he had for a long time been closely connected with the church work at that section. Nearly all his life Dr. Fielder has been connected with religious work, having been both pastor and presiding elder.

Under the business management of Dr. Fielder the university has begun a strong campaign and there is every indication that the amount to be raised will soon be at hand and that at least extensive repairs and perhaps a new building will be on the campus by the time another school year opens. The plans for the new arrangement of things at the university have not yet been made, as all the energy has so far been expended in the efforts to secure the amount mentioned.

The trustees of the university are highly pleased with the success of Dr. Fielder and they are urging the movement to raise the funds for the new buildings. It is expected that Dr. Fielder will go north to secure assistance there before the end of the present school year and it is believed that the first amount of the funds will then be in hand so that the work of building and repairing can begin just as soon as the sessions of the institution close for the summer.

Man From Lockhart Who Settled Near Odessa, Well Pleased Odessa is "way out West," as the saying is, and which was looked upon in the past as part of the American desert, as it lay near the famous sandy lands of Monahan, but at this day and generation it has become known as one of the best cow countries in Texas and in addition has actually assumed the airs of an agricultural country.

It is said, however, that at times when the sports came to a quarter when he was the prairie dog and take to holes in the ground. However, this may be, there is no doubt but that they are all passing away and ready for fun and enjoying a joke even at their own expense.

Among the arrivals from that section who were here for the Fat Stock Show was J. A. Graham, who said: "I was born down in Lockhart, Texas, and moved out to the Odessa country thirteen or fourteen years ago when that country was almost uninhabited and neighbors were almost a curiosity. I have often ridden over the ground where Bristow now stands and there were no habitations in sight. Now that town is the county seat of Warren county and is famous for its crops of cotton and its irrigated farms. Alfalfa yields enormously and grapes are as luscious as those from California or Spain. That old sandy land that reminded one of the shores of the gulf are now recognized as fine for good beef and when watered by irrigation its agricultural possibilities are surprising.

"I am a cow man, however, and love the business, but I suppose the inevitable will come to us as to all other sections and stock farming be the principal avocation out there. I have thirty sections—19,200 acres of owned land and twenty sections of leased land, making a total of 32,000 acres in the ranch. Lands are getting higher but the ranches have not been cut up yet to any extent. Grass is just coming ahead with a rush and cattle are all right. We have had no rains but a shower or two, but we don't especially need it now. Weeds do not come with us, but west, out about Toyah and the Black Mountain country they have a weed that puts fat on the cattle fast. We sell our increase while calves, and consequently there is no stuff for market just now. There is a delivery in the future and are bought up by stockmen from the northwest and fed up. There are some good stuff here for the show, sure."

Welsh Singer to Be Heard at Broadway Presbyterian Church Mr. O. F. Pugh, the famous Welsh tenor, who has been associated with Rev. Dr. R. A. Walton, the evangelist, for the past three years, will sing at the Broadway Presbyterian church at 11 a. m. and Dr. Walton will preach. Mr. Pugh took the world's fair medal for the best tenor voice in competition with over thirty other famous singers. He has since taken six other medals in state and interstate musical contests. He is the editor of the song book being used in the Chapman campaign, now in progress in Dallas. A general strike was declared by the miners recently of Courieres, Dourges and Ostreourt, France, who have been very much excited since the death of 1,000 or more of their charges by the performance of an explosion in the mines. A demand for increased wages is the reason the miners advance for striking.

PACKERS READY TO BUILD HERE

Agent of Company Was Here Last Week

SUIT RESULT AWAITED

Declared Erection of Additional Plants Has Been Prevented by Fear of Damages on Pollution Charges

Following the outcome of the two suits which were won by the packing houses in the state and federal court last week, it is semi-officially announced other packing establishments will be erected here. Nelson Morris was in the city during the Fat Stock Show, and as soon as the suits were finished he made investigations concerning the location of another plant in Fort Worth.

Nelson Morris & Co. once before began to investigate the advantages of a packing house in Fort Worth, but ceased as soon as they discovered that there were suits pending concerning the alleged pollution of water by the packing houses. Negotiations at that time were broken off.

Not only has Nelson Morris & Co. been mentioned as coming here, but also Schwarzhild & Sulzberger and Cudahy have also been discussed. It is known that Schwarzhild & Sulzberger considered erection of a plant in this city some time ago, a son of Schwarzhild having stated that he understood that the company would build a plant in Fort Worth.

While looking after the report of the Nelson Morris packing houses Saturday afternoon, another statement was made to a reporter from The Telegram, in which another school year opens. The plan for the new arrangement of things at the university have not yet been made, as all the energy has so far been expended in the efforts to secure the amount mentioned.

It is said, however, that at times when the sports came to a quarter when he was the prairie dog and take to holes in the ground. However, this may be, there is no doubt but that they are all passing away and ready for fun and enjoying a joke even at their own expense.

CORBETT'S COMB OF THE FIGHTING GAME

other day defeated Payne Whitney for the racket championship of the world at Boston. Well, Fitz paid little attention to that, although he was somewhat disturbed over the failure to get Hamilton to again den the gloves with him. But the black cat incident still lingered in Fitz's mind. He was right. Three days afterward someone stole his wife's diamonds and made away with them. But all could be forgotten in face of the approaching interference of the authorities to the fight between him and Hall.

Both men rounded off their training, and on the morning the fight was to take place in a great open air arena in St. Paul, they went to the city only to see nothing but militiamen. The governor had notified the promoters that if it were the entire state militia would be called out to stop the fight. Every detail had been finished even to the weighing in, to say nothing of the work done on the arena.

The police had encouraged the fighters into believing there would be no interference, and they kept their word, but the state officials didn't. From that day on there were no more fights in Minnesota, but Fitz was glad of it. He said that any body of men who would let him train like he did, then get knocked out, have his wife's diamonds and then go broke deserved no respect.

But that series of incidents crowded in one week was the prize winner in Ed's career. Char-He Mitchell was the first fighter to knock John L. Sullivan flat on his back, Americans as a rule have never given the great English heavyweight credit for all the ability he possessed, but John L. did. The fight in which Sullivan was sent to the floor occurred at Madison Square Garden in New York in 1883, and there are still many old fight fans around the metropolis who will tell you about that encounter.

Sullivan was there in his upward career. He was looked upon as the greatest fighter in America and getting better. Mitchell was but a young and much lighter than John L. They entered the ring and Sullivan immediately declared himself. The Englishman knocked last a young fellow. It was in the second round that the Englishman landed on Sullivan's jaw and sent him to the floor.

Sullivan came back stronger as a lion and before the third round was over the official interfered in Mitchell's behalf.

COMEDY OF ERRORS

BY CHARLES WESTER. "Was there any mail today, Fritz?" "Yes, madame, two letters for this morning at 11.

"I do not know yet whether I will forgive you. I shall be at Schulte's this morning at 11.

"My husband remains in Mon Repos overnight, so please bring me the letters."

"Yes, madame." A plying smile on his lips, which the countess, however, does not notice, the servant brings in the letters on a silver tray and places it on the little table near the divan, where the young wife is resting comfortably among the soft pillows.

Countess St. Hilaire is dreaming—dreaming of the beautiful days on the seashore of the white marble castle on the Mediterranean coast, where she spent the first days as a bride; of her handsome young husband, whom she loves more than ever, but who, of late, has been neglecting her just a little for the joys of hunting.

She looks at the two letters and jumps to her feet. "From whom can that heliotrope colored letter be? Is it possible that Raoul is receiving letters from a woman without my knowledge? It is absurd, too. I know that perfume, too—iris."

She turns the letter in her hand and looks at the address—"Count Raoul de St. Hilaire"—there is no doubt that it is the handwriting of a woman. "No, no, no! I must be mistaken. I am mistaken. Raoul, I beg your pardon! Oh, if he only were here then I know he would read the letter to me. No, I will not open it."

She puts the letter down, determined not to think of it any more, but in five minutes she gives it up, runs to her desk and cuts the envelope open. "My Dearest: I suppose you care more for hunting and horses than for love. Why did you not come last night? How could you disappoint me so cruelly? Jean had been told to admit no one but you. In the little salon the cheer- ful samovar was steaming, and I was waiting for you, who did not come. Explain and apologize immediately, or I swear I shall marry the fat colonel who proposed to me again this morning.

I do not know yet whether I will forgive you. I shall be at Schulte's this morning at 11.

SPRING HATS BY HUNDREDS HERE

Golden Rule Millinery Store Has Much to Choose From

The prettiest girl in Fort Worth went to a spring millinery opening Saturday.

She tried on several hats. Each one suited her complexion (she was the prettiest girl) and anyone would have thought either hat perfectly suited her in every way, but she was hard to please and finally bought a hat which, probably by instinct, she knew was THE ONE.

The girl mentioned secured the desired headgear where prices run medium and quality excellent—the Golden Rule, corner Fourth and Houston streets, which store has for the first of its many attractions a floor woman and designer in the person of Mrs. Davis, who has had ten years' experience in the best places of London and New York.

After the departure of the prettiest girl, a reporter for The Telegram asked Mrs. Davis to describe a few of the hats seen by the customer, and Mrs. Davis said: "A minute description of millinery is impossible and unnecessary. It is hardly fair to a real creation to endeavor to tell in ordinary words what it really looks like. Of course, when one can show them and talk at the same time it is different.

"Now in that window is a high-back sailor, trimmed with a heavy wreath of velvet forget-me-nots. The bandeau is filled in with bows of ribbon. That is not saying much, but when the hat is seen at the same time it means a great deal. You see, there are so many kinds of sailors—there is the new sailor, the one with a high crown, trimmed with a high bow on the sides; this one nearest the front of the window is faced with blue forget-me-nots, caught back on the side with moss rosebuds."

Examination of the interior of the store, with a maze of millinery displayed in tasteful effect, together with the appropriate decorations arranged with pleasing grace, show to the casual observer the reason why the prettiest girl went to the Golden Rule for her spring hat. Varieties of style for all ages and sizes of the fair sex are on exhibition and the attendance during the opening week just closed has been greater than was expected.

Realizing the fact that feminine Fort Worth is very exacting in buying hats—especially spring ones—the management of the Golden Rule millinery store has placed for inspection by all comers as full a line of millinery as is to be seen anywhere in the southwest, and, to quote Mr. Hudgins, they are not fearful of close inspection and careful comparison with the stock of anybody."

THEY PRAISE HIS RECORD

Resolutions Prepared by Committee Unanimously Passed Supporting Him for Governor

What might be termed the official opening of the campaign of Judge C. K. Bell for governor took place at Fort Worth Saturday afternoon, in a mass meeting in the interest of his race being held by his friends in this city at the county court house.

The session, which was well attended by leading men of the city, was called to order by Judge R. F. Milam, who placed Colonel R. M. Wynne in nomination for chairman. The nomination was accepted by acclamation, Colonel Wynne responding in a tribute to the former attorney general and urging the importance of a committee to look after campaign statements, which, he declared, travel like the wind, and to see that the candidate be given the proper sort of active support in his home city and county.

Drew Fruit was made secretary of the meeting and upon suggestion of Judge W. P. McLean, the chairman was then authorized to appoint a committee as this committee Judge M. P. McLean, J. J. Jarvis, B. R. Webb, K. M. Van Zandt and Clarence Ousley.

The committee was organized and reported resolutions in every way advocating the candidacy and personality of Judge Bell.

Following the unanimous adoption of the resolutions a number of calls for speeches were heard.

M. A. Spoons was first to speak, paying a high tribute to Judge Bell in a brief sketch of his life from boyhood, when he declared he first knew him, through his early career, and then through his official life both in district, state, congressional and higher state positions.

In all he declared Judge Bell had shown his truthfulness, honesty and fearlessness. He closed with a warm personal tribute. He complimented Judge Bell on his straight campaign resolutions, as expressing the sense of the mass meeting regarding the candidacy of Judge Bell. Colonel Wynne responded as this committee Judge M. P. McLean, J. J. Jarvis, B. R. Webb, K. M. Van Zandt and Clarence Ousley.

The committee was organized and reported resolutions in every way advocating the candidacy and personality of Judge Bell. Following the unanimous adoption of the resolutions a number of calls for speeches were heard.

Square Deal Campaign

Judge Carter also introduced the "square deal" into the campaign, declaring that this and this alone could be expected under an administration by Judge Bell. He declared Judge Bell is not a candidate, using a single fact or issue declaring him too big a man for that. He then referred to the efforts of Judge Bell in securing the Federal court for Fort Worth and declared he had always stood by his home, referring to his indorsement of Colonel R. M. Wynne, and his marked urging the candidacy of Governor Sayers.

Resolutions Adopted

Resolutions presented by the committee and unanimously adopted were: The committee appointed by the chair to draft resolutions expressive of the sentiment of the citizens of Tarrant county concerning the candidacy of Charles K. Bell for the office of governor of this state, and to submit to the consideration of the electors of Texas his eminent qualifications and fitness for that exalted station, respectfully present the following resolutions, which they believe should be adopted. Resolved, first, That Judge Bell's long and distinguished public service, as district attorney, state senator and in the state legislature, member

Save Us From Our Friends

Editor Fort Worth Telegram: In their eagerness to serve, friends frequently commit errors of judgment that do the party they wish to serve irreparable injury. This fact is well illustrated by the articles from Washington in reference to Senator Malley appearing daily in your morning contemporary of this city. On reading them you find nothing substantial upon which to lay a finger, but they create an uneasy feeling that something is going to be divulged, dark and dangerous, for which the public must be prepared. Very likely it is but the vain imaginations of an overzealous friend. It is to be hoped the admirers of the senator won't be misled into the belief there must be some fire where there is so much smoke. RONDO.

of the congress of the United States and attorney general of Texas, the duties of all which important offices were discharged by him with signal ability and ability, and from each of which offices he voluntarily retired after receiving the grateful plaudits of the people whom he served, have brought to his aid an abundant experience and equipment for the arduous and responsible duties of chief magistrate of the state, possessed by few if any other of her citizens.

Resolved, second, That Judge Bell has as a public servant, not only discharged the essential qualities of private citizenship, his devotion to duty in the private walks of life, his absolute honesty and frankness in his dealings and his fellow-man, and his marked freedom from the arts of simulation and all shams, whether in public or private life, point to him as a man who can be safely trusted anywhere and at all times.

Resolved, third, That his high ideals of the essential qualities of private citizenship, his devotion to duty in the private walks of life, his absolute honesty and frankness in his dealings and his fellow-man, and his marked freedom from the arts of simulation and all shams, whether in public or private life, point to him as a man who can be safely trusted anywhere and at all times.

Resolved, fourth, That his services as district attorney and district judge and his distinguished record for fidelity and ability made by him in the administration of those important offices, give assurance of a faithful and intelligent execution of the laws if he shall be honored as chief executive of the state. His exceptionally able and efficient discharges of the duties of attorney general has invested him with ripe comprehension of the constitutional and legal rights of the people and government of the state in their relations to antagonistic forces which have grown up in recent years which have impeded the progress of the state and the right of governmental administration of the laws by his energetic action in that office, the people may well be assured, if he shall be chosen as their governor, of an intelligent and strong enforcement of all laws made for the maintenance of the just powers of government lodged in the people against encroachment by corporate greed and lawlessness.

Resolved, fifth, That like the most illustrious of our governors, the lamented James S. Hogg, and his brilliant and faithful successor, Charles A. Culberson, Judge Bell is prepared for the high and arduous duties of the state, largely by his services and experience as attorney general. And to those who in the past have said, or at present or in the future may say, that the office of attorney general is not a safe school in which to fit men for governors, we point to the grand administration of the two beloved and honored chief magistrates whom we have named, and both of whom were transferred by the people from the office of attorney general to that of governor, and ask to be shown what administrations of that office have given such splendid results, and such satisfaction to the great, unselfish, tolling tax paying citizenship of the state as did those two administrations.

Resolved, sixth, That Judge Bell's service as senator in the state legislature and his able advocacy and support in that body of some of the most important legislation now in the written law of the state, stamp him as a wise and faithful legislator, devoted to the best interests of the masses of his constituents, and the true progress of the state in moral, educational and material advancement. And his firm and active support all times, whether in office or as a private citizen, of the great measures enacted during the administration of Governor Hogg and under the guidance and powerful influence of that illustrious patriot and true friend of the people, mark him as a safe defender of those laws, who, if entrusted with their maintenance and execution, will prove himself a worthy successor of their author.

Resolved, seventh, That the life of Judge Bell and his conspicuous success in the struggle for an honorable place among his fellow-men, furnish a useful lesson to the youths of our state. Bereft of the care and help of his father at a tender age, with slender means, he became the sole support of the family, and as a mere boy by labor in the field he entered upon the heroic task of supporting the loved ones left to his care, and while engaged in that labor of love and duty, he struggled for and acquired the education which has served him so well in his subsequent career. Without aid except such as his own brave spirit and ceaseless energies brought him, he has achieved honorable success upon his own merits and affords a splendid example of what may be accomplished under our benign institutions by honest effort, brains and the cultivation and practice of a just, honorable and upright course in the relations of life.

Resolved, eighth, That we present to the people of Texas for the office of governor our fellow countryman with his clean record in private and public station and his proven capacity and fidelity to duty, illustrated by long and varied career in places of high trust, and confidently defy the most rigid scrutiny of his official conduct to find a single stain, blot or spot upon his escutcheon.

"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat. "I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions. "I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack.

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments. "We are recommending it to our friends."

Gen. A. M. Legg, writes from the Savings Bank Building, Washington, D. C., as follows: "I take pleasure in endorsing the many recommendations I have heard and read of Peru-na, because of having had knowledge of the truth of so many of them. "We always tell our sick and ailing friends of the remedies that we have learned, from experience, were good for us when ailing in the same way, and we do it as a duty we feel that we owe them.

When Other Remedies Failed Pe-ru-na Proved Efficacious. Hon. Geo. W. Hony, National Chaplain U. V. U., Ex-Chaplain 4th Wisconsin Cavalry, Ex-Treas. State of Wisconsin and Ex-Q. Master General State of Texas, G. A. R., writes from 1700 First street, N. E., Washington, D. Pe-ru-na, a Standard Treatment For Catarrhal Diseases. Mr. John C. Nelson, Dayton, Tenn., geologist and mining engineer, while a Captain in the Federal Army during the Civil War, contracted a case of rheumatism. This malady was constant and persistent, inducing the development of other ailments, which also became chronic. After taking a course of Peru-na, Capt. Nelson writes: "Having been painfully afflicted with chronic rheumatism and the adjunctive complications for many years, and after having received many general and special treatments with only temporary relief, I bear your scientific treatise on catarrhal diseases, which I closely followed, and am happy to report that my rheumatism and complicated ailments are subdued, and I feel young again at the age of 69 years.

"Reason will accept your classification of catarrhal diseases as scientific and true, and the Peru-na remedies as a standard treatment for them. I thank you heartily for your skilled and logical advice."

THE FORT WORTH OF TOMORROW

At the luncheon given to the intimates of Mrs. John B. Sherwood of Chicago by Mrs. James Swaine Friday, March 16 at the Worth, a number of toasts were responded to, among them being one to "The City Beautiful," by Mrs. Drew Pruit. This toast was as follows: My predecessor's pride and pleasure in her subject, the "Fort Worth of Yesterday," was evident; and, without wishing to reflect on the object of her patriotic sentiments, I am yet in the humor to risk conclusions as to whether the realization of a good thing is comparable to the joy that comes through anticipation of a better.

And there they were, miles in length, thronged with happy busy people—streets a hundred feet in width, well paved, straight and clean! "The width of the lots in the residential section has likewise been enlarged by municipal regulation," observed my companion. "No resident lot may be less than a hundred feet in width."

Indisputable Evidence.

You have read our oft-repeated statement, "In use for over 30 years." It was in the early sixties that Dr. Fitcher first made use of the prescription now universally known as Castoria. With a record of over fifty, under five years of age, of every hundred deaths, it was the AMBITION OF EVERY PHYSICIAN to discover a remedy suitable for the ailments of infants and children that would decrease this distressing mortality. In Castoria that relief has been found.

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA? Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

Margaret Sangster Says:

Practically All People Live on the Fruits of Day Labor—Rent should Not Cost More Than One-Fifth of Annual Income—Mistaken Pride as to External Appearances Deprives Some People of the Real Joy of Living—Only Millionaires Can "Afford" to Dress as Poor as Poverty—Buy Clothes at End of a Session—Wife Wastes the Crying Sin of American Housekeeping.
BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER.
(Copyright, 1906, by Joseph B. Bowles.)
A young fellow just out of college met me one day and with a disgusted expression inquired whether I knew Mr. Blank, a poet whose verses were household words. I replied that I had that honor, adding that I appreciated very much the privilege of Mr. Blank's friendship. "Yesterday," said the lad, with a gloomy look on his handsome face, "I should have said the same thing, but I am disillusioned. Blank called at our house last evening and with a laugh told my father that he felt very happy. He had settled his coal bill with the price of a poem.
Think of that! Think of bringing poetry down to the level of coal bills and furnaces!"
"Mr. Blank is most fortunate," I said. "It is not every poet who can defray the cost of living by poetic dreams, nor is poetry often so remunerative that it can offset tons of coal."
We parted, the young fellow and I unable to agree with one another, but I fancy a few years later when he shall have become a sober, plodding, professional man, with a family to support, he will understand the situation better. By some honest means coal and groceries must be paid for, and the cost of living must be taken into account whether people earn their money by one form of day labor or another. From the President in the White House to the Italian workman in America, existing under the same decent and diligent on the fruits of our labor. A small contingent, not to be envied, loaf about Europe and digging a trench, we all live, as are decent and diligent on the fruits of our labor. A small contingent, not to be envied, loaf about Europe and digging a trench, we all live, as are decent and diligent on the fruits of our labor. A small contingent, not to be envied, loaf about Europe and digging a trench, we all live, as are decent and diligent on the fruits of our labor.
duers are directly interested in the cost of living.
The proposition resolves itself into several parts, the first of which is:
The Shelter of the Roof
We cannot be exposed to the elements. We must have a refuge from winds, rain, cold, storm and sun. Whether we live in a splendid brown-stone edifice or a tumble down, unstable cottage, or anywhere between these extremes, we must equally have protection from inclemency of the atmosphere, and asylum from friends and foes. The latter sentiment may need explanation, because everyone comprehends that enemies are better on the outside of the sheltering walls, while the former is not so generally understood. A good shelter, and the hermit life has a welcome for his friends. Yet there are days and nights when a home values seclusion, and the desire for the momentary solitude of the shelter, and the presence of friends. Four walls and a roof are the shell of the home, let it be very simple, or very stately. For this shelter, we pay either in rent, if we hire, or in taxes and the cost of constant repairs. If we own the estate. At the basis of family living in America, existing under the same duty of a householder is to rightly adjust this item of expense in its relation to other necessary items. The house itself should not annually cost for shelter more than a fifth of the annual income.
Often people pay an undue price for shelter because they are determined to live on a fashionable street, or in a neighborhood where houses are held at a fancy valuation. They deny themselves a great part of the joy of living and are defrauded of it through a mistaken pride as to the external appearance and internal arrangements of that which is after all the least important item in the bill. What we demand of a house is that it shall have excellent sanitary conditions and perfect drainage, that it shall be tight and compact, without a leaking roof, or a damp cellar, and that there commode the family.
These are the essentials. Other matters may take care of themselves.
The Item of Clothing
A man who goes daily to business must be comfortably clothed for his work, well shod and provided with outer garments that enable him to appear respectable among his associates. A good deal of success depends on the appearance a man makes when going to and from the place of his work. A man whose dress is obviously shabby and threadbare is discounted unless being a millionaire he can afford to look as poor as poverty.
In ordinary circumstances the man of the house must be well dressed, but ready made clothing of good quality even in our extravagant country may be purchased for cash at a fair price.

ARMOUR DEFENDS PACKERS' COMPLAINT

BY J. OGDEN ARMOUR.

(Copyrighted by Curtis Publishing Co.)
Published by Special Permission of Saturday Evening Post.

There are two or three features in the packer's system of distributing dressed meats which demand at least passing attention. In the first paper of this series I showed, in detail, how the development of the modern refrigerator car completely revolutionized the meat business of the world. In accomplishing this wonderful transformation of food conditions, the refrigerator car had a powerful and indispensable ally in the form of the packer's "branch houses," or distributing agencies, containing a reserve of fresh meats in the best of refrigeration, awaiting the call of the local retailers. Not only does the branch house relieve the local butcher of the burden of providing extensive refrigeration facilities of his own, but it also allows him to carry without danger of disappointment to his customers. Quite as important as either of these considerations is the fact that the local "branch" keeps at the demand of the retailer to just the right point. At call, the retailer is able to go out and get for his most select and discriminating customers the best cuts in the best of condition.

No feature of the packing and dressed meat business is more important than the branch houses. More important to the public as well as to the packer. Neither expense nor attention to minutest detail is spared to make these models of what branch houses should be, perfectly adapted to the purpose which they serve. They are built of the best materials that money can buy, and they are built on the best lines that ingenuity and experienced skill can contrive to secure cleanliness, in the up-to-date branch house building materials that are practically imperishable and impervious to outside influences, are employed wherever possible. The floors are of cement. Storage and cooling rooms are lined with glazed tile, spotlessly white and smooth as glass. No cranny or crevice is left in which dust might gather or a germ hide from the frequent cleanings. All in all, they are as neat, dirt-proof, faint-proof and germ-proof as a building can be made.

These branch houses complete the packer's chain that takes the animal from farm or range, converts it into meat and sets it down at the retail merchant's door. We would hear less criticism of the packers if consumers could follow a steer from pen to slaughter house, or a hog from pen to "quarters" and "cuts" and hung in the cooler, transferred thence to a clean, cold car, transported under lock and key to the farthest part of the country, and finally deposited in the branch house. That would bring home to the consumer, as nothing else can, the fact that no part of the people's food supply receives more careful handling than does the meat that comes from the large packing houses, and that the inspection of such a comprehensive inspection it would be a distinct benefit to packers if the general public would take pains to visit the branch houses. They are always open to visitors. If there is a branch house of Armour & Co. in your vicinity, you are cordially invited to call on yourself just how the hated packer takes care of your meat supply.

The number of these branch houses maintained by the packers is very great. Armour & Co. have about three hundred of them in the United States alone. From the vast number of requests received from all sections of the country, asking for the installation of branch houses, it is very clear that these branches are looked upon by the people as being of great value to both the retailer and the consumer. Our aim is to protect the retailer and assist him in building up a secure and permanent trade.

A Help to the Small Butcher
In addition to the branch houses, we have, in many sections of the country, established smoke houses. Pickled hams, etc., are sent green to these points and are there smoked under our own supervision, after which they are sent to the branch house. This enables the dealer to get freshly-smoked meats.

One part of the system by which the packer distributes fresh meats to the people, through the local dealers, has been subjected to much criticism—and most unjustly, too. I refer to the "route car" by which meat is distributed to those towns not large enough to maintain a branch house or a distributing agency, or even to enable the retailer to order his meats in carload lots. The accusation is that these cars are used to "peddle" meats and thus hurt the business of the local butchers. It is true that this is a peddling proposition. These cars are certainly of great advantage and benefit to the local butchers as well as the consumers, and were brought into existence to meet the present requirements of the community at large, and are not fairly to be considered as an advantage to the packer so much as an advantage to the people. If the community were sufficiently large, carload lots could be shipped to these various points to much greater advantage to the packer and at a considerably less expense. But the demand in the small place is as urgent as it is limited; the retailer and the consumer there must have fresh meats, but they cannot take them in large shipments; therefore the route car is indispensable to the people of the small towns. It is far more expensive to send in this way than to ship by the full carload. Every time one of these cars is cut out of a train and put on a siding the packer must pay from $3 to $5 in addition to all the other transportation charges—and a car makes many such stops in the course of covering the route of small towns.

The Advantages of the Route Car
The question might be asked: Why not ship by local freight? The dressed meat would not arrive in good condition. Another reason for not shipping by local freight is that no dependence can be placed upon the arrival of meat thus shipped at a certain destination at any specific time. In short, this way is too slow and too unreliable for the delivery of fresh meats and meat products.

The route salesman visits all the towns along his route and takes orders for shipments on a specific day, stipulating that the car shall arrive at each place at a certain day and hour—to be met by the wagons of the retailer. This method of delivery is carried out regularly once or twice each week, as occasion demands, insuring the consumer the delivery of fresh meats in the best condition. We do not sell to consumers, but reach them through the meat dealers in the various towns, and our method of delivery is the best of its kind. It enables them to get a fresh supply at very short notice, which could not be done without the route car.

Showing the practical working of this method of distribution let me relate an instance. Mr. Boyd, formerly one of our branch house managers at St. Louis, Mo., is now extensively engaged in the retail meat business at Adrian, Mich. From his wide experience in the branch house meat business, he certainly knows whether it is now to his advantage, as a retail butcher, to secure his meats from these route cars. Mr. Boyd is now getting the bulk of his beef products from the route car running through his town, although he does, occasionally, go to the local butcher, or slaughterer, for some of his meats—but this only when he finds what he considers a "bargain."

Government inspectors in another important feature of the packer's business. To the general public, the meat eating public, it ought to appeal as one of the most important features of any and all business in the whole country. It is the wall that stands between the meat eating public and the methods of the packer. This government inspection alone, if there were no other business or economic reasons, would be an all-sufficient reason for the packer to improve his methods of dressing meat business on a mammoth scale. It should, if understood, make the general public a partisan supporter of the large packers.

Strangely enough, in view of its vital importance, this government inspection has been the subject of almost all the misrepresentation, and ignorantly or maliciously false statements. The public has been told that meat animals and carcasses converted into meat by the packers are secretly made use of by the packers and sold to the public for food in the form of both dressed meats and canned meats. It is not true that the packer brand such statements as absolutely false as applied to the business of Armour & Company. I believe they are equally false as to all establishments in this country that are classed as packing houses. I repeat: In Armour & Company's business not one dressed animal or animal or carcass finds its way directly or indirectly from any source, into any food product or food ingredient.

Every meat animal and every carcass slaughtered in the United States, or in the stock yards at any of the markets of the United States, is carefully inspected by the United States government. His inspection is supplemented, in practically all cases, by state or city inspection, or both. The live animals are inspected on the hoof, and again when slaughtered. The inspection by the United States government is not compulsory on the packers in the strict legal sense of the term; it is more binding than if it were compulsory. It is business. Attempt to evade it would be, from the purely commercial viewpoint, suicidal. No packer can do an interstate export business without government inspection. Self-interest forces him to make use of it. Self-interest likewise demands that he shall not receive meats or by-products from any small packer, either for export or other use, unless that small packer's plant is also "official"—that is, under United States government inspection. This inspection is carried on under the direction of the bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture. The packer has nothing to say about the employment of the inspectors. They are assigned by the United States government. The government likewise is judge of their qualifications. It requires of them, first, that they shall have taken a full three-year course in veterinary medicine, and a course in meat inspection, and that they shall be recommended by the admission of physicians and surgeons to practice.

Then these educated veterinarians are selected by rigid civil-service examination. The inspectors are selected by the United States government inspectors. At regular intervals they are slaughtered (in Chicago under direction of the state officers) and consigned to other than food uses.

How the Consumer is Insured
All carcasses—cattle, calves, sheep, hogs—are again rigidly inspected after slaughter. The internal organs are affected by the various diseases to which meat animals are subject are examined. On the slightest sign of disease the carcass is rejected and so marked that it cannot escape observation. From the moment it is rejected, that carcass is in the custody of the United States government agents and is by them personally followed to the rendering tank. It is hacked into small pieces, thrown into the tank and covered only as grease or fertilizing material. This tankage product is in such form that it could not by any possibility be renovated to become a food for man or animal. The method is dishonest enough to attempt that. And if it were possible to evade inspection and use condemned carcasses or products, the packer's self-interest would again prevent it, because the packer would subject himself to speedy detection and exposure to the public, and the hundreds of employees who would be cognizant of his trickery.

This government inspection thus becomes an important adjunct of the packer's business. It insures the honesty upon the packer's product and so is to him a necessity. To the public it is a large advance for the sale of dressed meats.

MAKES ANSWER TO J. OGDEN ARMOUR

BY JOHN C. SCALLES.

Chairman Refrigerator Car Line Committee, National League of Commission Merchants.

In making answer to Mr. Armour's second article, it is necessary to quote from the opening lines of my first reply: "Let us begin by stating that the rise of the private car line, his appeal to the American people and a square deal to stand for what they are entitled to." Mr. Armour's history of the rise of the independent fruit car line and the missionary work incident thereto, investigation reveals that his history is wholly inaccurate and consequently wholly worthless. In my first reply I stated that "Mr. Armour had been misinformed as to the facts of the controversy." And now state that his history of the rise of the private car line, in so far as shipping fruit in refrigerators is concerned, is a thing the honorable food of our people—which should be relieved of every burden possible in passing from the producer to the consumer.

The Real Pioneers
"After every sort of objection on the part of the Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Northwestern Railroads," says Mr. Thomas, "we finally prevailed upon the Interstate Commerce Commission to test carrying California fruits under refrigeration. What were the conditions in the run from California? The same as from Florida, except for a greater distance—one which took from twelve to fifteen days with no chance properly to re-ice. Yet the growers so much they were doing this for nothing? Armour did not do their preliminary work, their missionary work, without an object, and he was not to be paid for it to themselves: 'A million dollars' will do it now. We can easily spare the million, because we not only will get it back, but we will have more with several millions in addition, but we can get every fruit section and every railroad running through them absolutely under our control.' They could then snap their fingers and say: 'Without us, how would you move your fruit?' Every one who is in any way connected with the fruit business knows how they are getting their money back now."

"Conditions in the railroads in this country are so much changed that what used to be a necessity in transportation is no longer. Where there used to be one railroad station there are now probably a hundred; where cars could not be re-iced in a week they can now be re-iced every few hours. Every railroad has these icing stations; every railroad has no have them."

I supplement to the foregoing: Railroads can and do ice cars as well as independent refrigerator lines, and nearly every one of the largest railroad lines in the country owns, operates and less its own refrigerator cars, including the Illinois Central, the Northwestern, the Milwaukee and St. Paul, the Wabash System, the Grand Trunk, the Wisconsin Central, the Burlington and Quincy and the Santa Fe.

Mr. Armour in his second article harps upon the same string as to the immense development of the fruit and vegetable industries brought about, as he maintains, by the refrigerator private car lines, although every one at all familiar with the subject and conditions knows that it has been refrigerator cars that have developed these industries to their present stupendous proportions; not private refrigerator cars, but refrigerator cars—it is immaterial whether under railway or private ownership. So far as is concerned all the talk about the private car line making it possible for every one to "enjoy fresh fruit, vegetables and meat," the people enjoy all those articles when iced by private refrigerator cars, and the large advance for the enjoyment over what they would pay if the same commodities were not subject to the inordinate profits in the icing which the private car line exacts. Two examples: To ship a car of grapes from a Michigan point to Boston, the Armour charge for icing in 1905 was $55. To ship a car of grapes from a New York grape belt to Chicago over one of the railway lines the charge was but $10 at the outside, and I have large numbers of bills for private freight bills in my possession where the charge for icing is but $5 per car. Take another instance: The Armour charge for icing a car of perishable fruits from Gibson, Tenn., to Chicago was $73, and in the case of a similar car shipped the same from Memphis, Tenn., to Chicago, a little farther distance than Gibson, the railway charge for icing was but $15. These are but two instances out of thousands. This is certainly affording the public the "enjoyment of fresh fruit, vegetables and meat" with a vengeance!

Icing As High As Freight
Mr. Armour attempts to set up a formidable argument in stating what is involved in the cost of purchasing and maintaining his equipment. Railroads have to purchase and maintain their equipment also, and in addition build and maintain their buildings and wharves. But, and this is the point, this plan it is only necessary to state that I have in my possession a large number of bills for private freight where the Armour icing charge is as much as the railway freight charge, and in many instances much more, and yet the railway furnishes everything: road, rails, locomotive, train crew, station houses, office buildings, clerical and manual labor at both termini, and even the very cars of the private car line in which the ice is put, because for the use of the car the railway pays the private car line three-quarters of a cent per mile, mileage both ways, loaded or empty.

In concluding this short reply I herewith embody a letter from E. G. Davies which will be found that it is some of the other contentions Mr. Armour puts forth:

"In reading J. Ogden Armour's article in the Saturday Evening Post, I am amazed at the vast amount of presumed knowledge that Mr. Armour has acquired in so short a space of time. It seems but as yesterday that Mr. Armour tested the Interstate Commerce Commission that he knew nothing whatever of the business of the Armour car lines and referred to the commission for information to Mr. Robbins, president of the company. Mr. Armour was no doubt perfectly sincere, he told the truth. The history of the fruit and vegetable development in the United States is not exactly the place one would look for a treatise on philanthropy, and the earnestness with which Mr. Armour pleads of inherited virtues of benevolent disposition reads like a bitter scream upon the means and methods that were adopted by the Armour car lines since they first engaged in the fruit-carrying business. If J. Ogden Armour's articles are read analytically it will be found that he has a peculiar style in answering his own arguments. The contention that has been raging around Mr. Armour is that his charges are extortionate and unjust. In his last article he labors to prove that a charge of $7.50 for icing service on one of his cars loaded with fruit at Los Angeles, Cal., and shipped to Boston, Mass., is a reasonable one. For the sake of argument, let us concede that it is. We must, however, take into consideration that the mileage that the car would earn would be about $50. This on a basis of three-quarters of a cent per mile for some what less than 3,500 miles each way. Let us follow this item up on the figures that Mr. Armour himself used in his article. He says that there were 30,000 car loads of oranges and lemons alone transported from California in the past year. If all the cars were shipped to Boston in the Armour cars the mileage alone would amount to no less than $1,500,000, or an amount sufficient to build the best refrigerator cars at the rate of 1,500 cars a year. Armour has 12,000 cars, and it would require less than three round trips per year to accomplish these immense revenue-producing results."

"We conceded, for the sake of argument, that $7.50 was a reasonable charge for the Armour icing service from Los Angeles to Boston—from a section of the country where ice is comparatively scarce. At all events, $7.50 for about 3,500 miles looks reasonable (whether it is so or not will be shown, if necessary, at another time). But what of the Armour charge from Humboldt, Tenn., to Chicago? Humboldt is ninety miles south of Cairo, Chicago is 865 miles north of Cairo. The Illinois Central railroad charges $10.25, average, for icing cars through an entire season from Cairo to Chicago. How much more would it be worth to furnish ice for the remaining ninety miles between Humboldt and Cairo? Suppose we say that it is worth $9.75, making a total charge of $20. That looks reasonable, $20 for 465 miles, but that is not Armour's charge. Eighty-four dollars is what Armour thinks a reasonable rate for ice from Humboldt, Tenn., to Chicago. The run is made in less than thirty hours."

The fourth year Porter Brothers

what could be called a re-icing station. The conditions then called for a car that could be loaded in Florida, take a freight train and be on the road for from seven to eight days without being re-iced (this is for strawberries).

The Tollate Rates
"Let us examine what Mr. Armour tells us about the 500 cars of tomatoes shipped from Humboldt, Tenn., last year. The Armour rate is 7 cents per crate; a car usually contains about 1,200 crates, amounting to $84 per car. The icing charge as I have already shown is $10.25 on shipments from Cairo to Chicago. The Illinois Central iced the cars at that price. The same Illinois Central iced these cars from Humboldt to Cairo. Armour has no icing station there and never did have. I have shown that in the charges that Armour makes for icing the Humboldt shipments there is $54 per car charged in excess of what would appear to be a reasonable rate. That amounts to no less than $32,000 per year tribute from one of our own citizens to the Armour's public spirited benevolence toward the fruit growers and consumers."

In corroboration of Mr. Davies' statement as to the mileage earnings of refrigerator cars, I quote as follows from page 16 of the third annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission:

"A forcible illustration of the results of car mileage to owners of refrigerator cars appeared by a statement made by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its report for 1905. The railroad company showing the mileage made and earnings of some such cars for nine months. During that period the mileage for private refrigerator cars was allowed made by the cars of three shippers from Chicago to an eastern point and over a single line of road was 7,425.06 and the earnings of the cars $73,945.97, being about the cost of 81 cars. The mileage allowed during most of this period was one cent per mile for private refrigerator cars. Refrigerator cars run on fast time and make four times the mileage of ordinary freight cars. The investment in cars and the amount of mileage allowed for their use show that the investment is very profitable. At a mileage rate of one cent a mile the profit on investment in many of these cars is very large, reaching, according to information acquired by the commission, as high as 50 per cent and even more annually."

Now, in view of the foregoing statement by the Interstate Commerce Commission as to the profit derived by private car lines in the matter of mileage alone, what shall be said when, at one of the late hearings of the commission, it was shown that the Armour car lines charged for icing cars from 100 to 400, and in many instances over 400, per cent above the cost of the ice? What is the tremendous profit added to the mileage-profit means can be best understood when we consider that the entire perishable products of the country are now shipped under refrigeration in distances approximately over 150 miles from their market.

Such a step by this icing of cars has been the means, through the operation of exclusive contracts between railroads and private refrigerator lines, of placing an onerous tax upon the one thing—the honorable food of our people—which should be relieved of every burden possible in passing from the producer to the consumer.

"In an article in the Saturday Evening Post of Jan. 6, J. Ogden Armour practically maintains that the Armour refrigerator line introduced refrigerator cars to growers for fruit transportation and was the pioneer in that business. So far as his meats are concerned, the writer will not dispute this, but Mr. Armour is still a young man and perhaps thinks he can maintain as much for fruits. Older men than he, however, know better, and would assert often works (on the public) as well as facts. I insist that F. A. Thomas & Son had built for them and had the same printed on the first ten cars built in this country exclusively for fruit transportation."

Mr. Thomas personally declares himself to have been the first to go into the fruit belt to solicit fruit for transportation in refrigerators as an independent line. He was one of the Armour agents (and missionaries) who told growers they would not freeze their fruit by putting it in load cars. He does not say that he ran the first refrigerator car for fruit. The Illinois Central railroad had run them for some years. Armour had no thought then of running cars for fruit transportation. At that time from Florida to Chicago there was not

Story of a Great Indian Fighter

Captain W. F. Drannan is of French descent. He was born in mid-west and left an orphan at the tender age of 4 years. When but 15 years old he left his foster parents and walked from Nashville, Tenn., to St. Louis, Mo., a distance of over 600 miles, where he met the noted and famous trapper and Indian fighter, Kit Carson. He immediately adopted Kit as his protector, and off to the plains they went to hunt game and trap for a livelihood.

Captain Drannan soon became an Indian fighter of fame, and while but a mere youth he captured, killed and scalped five Indian warriors. For this daring feat he was promoted by Captain Elliott to the high honor of chief of scouts, which title the captain defended with many laurels for 31 years.

He conducted and defended the first train of emigrants across the plains of the wild and woolly west to the gold fields of California and rescued the two Gordon girls from the redskins and killed their captors. He also captured Captain Jack, the noted Modoc chief, which was one of his most daring and thrilling feats.

Captain Drannan was commissioned by the managers of the St. Louis World's Fair to gather up the various tribes of Indians as he is perhaps more familiar with the customs of the wild Indians than any man now living.

He writes of the wonderful effects of Dr. Thurmond's Catarrh Cure as follows:

Dr. W. J. Thurmond, Dallas, Texas:
Dear Sir—I have been a sufferer from Catarrh since 1872. I contracted the disease during the Modoc war in that foggy climate of the Lovan beds.

I have tried almost all known remedies without any permanent relief. Your Catarrh Cure was recommended to me and I decided to try it, although I had no faith in it.

Up to the time I commenced using your remedy I had to use a handkerchief constantly during the night, many nights sleep being impossible. I have not used one bottle of your Catarrh Cure yet, and am not troubled at night at all, and but little in the daytime.

I think your Catarrh Cure is the greatest blessing and friend to the people suffering with this disease ever discovered, and I would recommend it to all sufferers from Catarrh in any form. Sincerely yours,
CAPTAIN W. F. DRANNAN,
Nashville, Tenn.

P. S.—You are at liberty to publish this letter in any way you wish. Yours, etc., W. F. Drannan.

Company made their connection with the Armour line. This connection was unduly favored by the very philanthropy on the Armour's part. If they loved the growers so much, if the writer recollects rightly, it was testified to in open kind by the Armour people paid a member of the Porter Brothers' firm several hundred thousand dollars. What for? To have Porter Brothers use their (Armour's) cars exclusively, for Porter Brothers were a ruling factor in California fruit trade at that time.

"The C. F. T. Co., by constantly increasing their equipment to nearly one thousand cars, were working in other parts of the country. This is about the time Armour began to fight for the business. Where the C. F. T. Co. had running contracts with the roads the word went to those roads from the Armour people: 'You will let our fruit cars run on your road, or we will not allow our beef cars on your line.' This we were told by railroad managers at that time. They would not go to the growers with this message: 'If you will use our cars we will cut the rates.' Edwin T. Earl, with his C. F. X. cars, did the same thing.

"This cutting of rates was done to such an extent that it often compelled the Thomas Company to work at a positive loss. That was the intention. It was known that the Thomas concern was not a strong company; that it could be swamped—and swamped it was: driven completely out of business.

"It was a different story with Earl. His line must also be gotten out of the way, but the Armour had to buy him out. With all their money, with all their rebates, with all their exclusive contracts, they could neither bluff nor drive him. They had to buy. It was not by the way that the Armour & Co. had also to buy out the Earl fruit cars, to keep Earl from building a new fruit car line with the money that Earl had paid him for his car equipment."

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE DAUGHTER OF THE PIONEER

True Story of Early American Life Told Without Frills BY CLARA P. WILLISTON.

It was a rude log tenement in the center of a clearing, bounded on all sides by a dense forest. Hugh Stanton had provided a home for his delicate wife and daughter. But it was the best he could do, poor man, for a series of losses had reduced him to straitened circumstances, when he emigrated to America.

When the moon rose they saw preparations for an attack on the little party of rescuers. The captives had almost given up hope for themselves and their friends, when Charles brought himself a power that he had frequently used to amuse his friends.

Household Hints Soak all evaporated fruits over night, but only in water to cover, too much makes them watery. All such fruits are the better for being first placed in cold water to cover for a couple of hours, then well scrubbed with one of the brushes that come for the purpose and cost 2 cents, before placing them in the water in which they are to remain all night.

Spinkle clothes with hot water and whisk broom. Mucilage and gauze may be made incombustible by using half the weight of whitening with the starch. Another plan is to dissolve half an ounce of alum or sal-ammoniac in water and add it to the water in which the material is to be rinsed. Wood may be made non-inflammable by soaking it in a solution of equal parts of glass and alum.

An ingenious woman made a cover for her polished mahogany table for use in card playing of a piece of felt four inches larger than the table top, running an elastic tape in the inch hem to hold the cloth securely under the table edges.

To keep moth and buffalo bugs from rugs and carpets sprinkle well with salt, then wipe with a cloth dampened with warm water having spirits of turpentine added in the proportion of a spoonful to every quart of water.

In hemming new table linen if the edge is slightly dampened with soapy water after the hem is turned the cloth when dry will be like soft linen to work on.

When wanted to use as a disinfectant carbolic acid will mix readily with water if the latter is boiling.

From the depths of the jungles inhabited by cannibals Bishop Augouard writes that "missionaries are transforming the ferocious Bandjos, ravening wolves, into lambs. The expression 'ravening wolves' is not used as a term of abuse, but the term expresses a startling truth."

BATHTUB CAUSES SOCIAL UPEHAVAL

To bathe or not to bathe, That is the question.

When the first bathtub came to Center, Neb., to be installed by the enterprising proprietor of the Saunders Hotel Annex barber shop, no one dreamed that a great social upheaval would result. Perhaps it would not have resulted, had the manager of the new bath not decided to have Ladies' Day. Even then the trouble might have been averted had he consulted Bradstreet instead of the Alphabet in making up the list that decided the order of precedence in which Center's fair daughters were to indulge in aquatic sport.

KING DISLIKES PERSONALITIES

Earl Granville Learns This at London Theater

MRS. KEPPEL FAT Nobleman Couldn't Recognize Stout Lady and Said Edward VII Frowns Blackly

Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by W. R. Hearst.) BY PAUL LAMBETH.

LONDON, March 24.—Earl Granville, the new lord-in-waiting to the king, is the hero of the latest story which is circulating through the clubs. He is a young man of thirty-four, who was once in the diplomatic service and was for a short time in waiting on the late queen, but he has never yet learned to be as discreet as other members of the court circle.

During a theatrical performance just before the king left London, Earl Granville, Captain Holford, the equestrian and the king, were in the royal box, and his majesty turned round and asked Lord Granville to tell him who he recognized in the theater.

Earl Granville replied: "Well, sir, there is Lady A and Mrs. B but I can't tell you, sir, what that fat woman is who is looking up here."

Captain Holford asked Earl Granville, but the latter prattled on. The king looked. It was the Hon. Mrs. George Keppel, who has certainly grown rather stout of late. His majesty frowned and showed his resentment for the rest of the evening. There is nothing he objects to more than personal remarks about his friends.

But Earl Granville only discovered his mistake the next morning. He is getting more discreet every day.

Duke Has Many Presents

The Duke of Manchester received a very large number of presents on his thirtieth birthday, including a set of pearl studs from his American duchess. The duke is becoming very dignified in his manner, and has acquired what is known as the "court shuffle," a nervous and busy walk which grows on people who spend part of their time walking backward before royalty.

As captain of the Yeoman of the Guard, the duke has a gorgeous uniform which suits him very well. As he will in this capacity be compelled to be present at all the important court functions, he and the duchess will be seen in town a great deal after the king's return.

The duke, however, is frankly bored by functions, and much prefers the country, as does the duchess. He is the only duke who is an out-and-out supporter of the liberal government.

To Ride in English Steeplechase

J. Owens, the American steeplechase rider, has been "up for a breather" twice on Phil May, the horse he is to ride in the Grand National, the great steeplechase of the year, on March 30. Phil May is owned by "Mr. Colton," the name assumed by the present of the New York Cotton Exchange, who has paid Owens a large sum on condition that he will ride no other animal until the big steeplechase.

These tactics were successful last year in the case of F. Mason, who received a large sum to "rest" over two weeks prior to riding the national. Owens has adopted a modified American "forward seat" and it is likely that if he wins the steeplechase he will follow in his style. Some sportsmen, however, say that the American style of steeplechase riding does not insure sufficient control over a stumbling horse.

Athens Wins Football Games

Representatives of the management of the Olympic games, which are to take place in Athens at the end of April, have arrived in London, and are making frantic attempts to get good English football teams to compete at the games.

So far they have been unsuccessful. The trouble appears to be that professional football is not so popular in England as it is in the United States. The few people who are interested in football would make a first-class team go anywhere.

It is hoped, however, that English athletes will be well represented. The railway and steamship companies are co-operating with the Greek management to make the journey as cheap as possible.

Queen Alexandra, who is in retirement at Sandringham, constantly co-responds with her brother, King George of Greece, on the subject. Her husband has shown her interest by writing privately to several London athletic associations, urging them to send worthy representatives.

"Tin Plate" Heirs in London

By some mysterious agency the coming of a rich American heiress is always known among the eligible and impetuous youth of London. And so when Miss Rhea Reid, the daughter of the "Tin Plate King," D. O. Reid, arrived at the Carlton hotel, every one was discussing the probability of the "Tin Plate King" being worth sixty million dollars.

Miss Reid, however, made no attempt to know anyone and confided to a friend that she had no hankering whatever after titles. She will be the titles when it gets back to London in about a month's time.

Her father, she says, is only anxious for her to marry the man of her choice. The few people who met her were fascinated with Miss Reid, who is tall and has a lovely complexion. The father and daughter are at present touring in Italy. They will come back through France, but Miss Reid intends to buy most of her gowns in London.

Mrs. Marsh Creates Sensation

Mrs. H. W. Marsh of New York has created a sensation whenever she has appeared at the big social functions. Her husband and her come have been the envy of diners-out.

Her sister, Mrs. Sydney Sharatt, was formerly on the stage as Miss Macdonald, and she and her Australian husband give weekly musical parties.

Mr. Marsh has just taken a summer lease of Medeham Abbey, the most beautiful house on the River Thames. Medeham Abbey itself is in ruins, but the house which bears its name is half new and half old, and is fitted with every luxury. It is the property of Colonel Dawson, one of the king's friends.

She made her professional debut in New York in November, 1859, and first appeared in this country in 1861 when she played Amina, in "La Sonnambula," at Convent Garden. In May, 1868, she married M. Louis Sebastien Henri De Roger de Caluzac, Marquis de Caux, from whom she was divorced in 1886; in 1886 she married Signor Nicolini, the tenor, who died in 1899 and in 1899 she married Baron Soderstrom. She now resides chiefly at Craig-nos Castle, Wales, where our photograph was taken the other day.

WILL ITALIANS TAKE TRIPOLIS?

Old Plan to Dispossess Turkey Now Revived

Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY PAUL VILLIERS.

PARIS, March 24.—After Morocco, Tripolis, with the Moroccan coast still unsettled, the discovery has caused considerable consternation in the diplomatic world that Italy had planned to take possession of Tripolis, which at present is controlled by Turkey.

Still, the plan is far from being a new idea. Several years ago one of Italy's most prominent generals was suddenly sent for by the minister of foreign affairs, who ordered him to submit a plan for the invasion of Tunis. The general asked to be given twenty-four hours' time, and the next afternoon reported that if given one army corps and seventy transports he would be able to drive the Turkish garrison out of Tripolis inside of two weeks.

Everything was made ready for the invasion, but the strictest secrecy was preserved, and very few people knew that only the absolute refusal of the Duke of Sanjour to sanction the plan prevented the outbreak of a European war.

Now it is said that King Victor Emmanuel is anxious to host the Italian flag over Tripolis, and that a secret agreement has been made with the French government, who promised not to interfere in return for the support this country has received from Italy at Algiers.

Mme. Fallieres Economical

An amusing story is being told here which goes to prove that Mme. Fallieres, wife of the president, is a typical Frenchwoman of the old school, in whose character economy and thrift are the strongest traits.

When the president moved his personal belongings into Palais Elysees a little over a month ago, he left his wife in charge of the moving.

Mme. Fallieres personally went to see several companies of moving vans with the idea of hiring the vans as cheaply as possible.

A woman, who has a small office in Petit Montrouge, put in the lowest bid—40 francs ($10) a load, a price which Mme. Fallieres considered too high.

The entrepreneur insisted that when she paid the wages of the drivers and the extra man, if left only a small profit for her.

"I will give you 45 francs ($9) a

Like the other Swedish princes he is very democratic in his manners and while studying art in Paris paid his own expenses from the sale of his pictures. He is at present in the southern part of France with his mother, the queen of Sweden, whom he greatly shocked the other day by introducing her to a young singer in this city whom he declared it is his intention to marry.

PLOT AGAINST KAISER KNOWN

Russian Refugees Blame Germans for Czar's Change

Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY MALCOLM CLARKE.

BERLIN, March 24.—Though it is not possible to get any positive information concerning the conspiracy which was so unexpectedly discovered by the Konigsberg police a few days ago, the fact that it has not been officially denied lends strength to the rumor that Russian refugees whose presence has been tolerated in Germany had laid a careful plan to murder the kaiser, because they consider him responsible for the czar's sudden change of attitude.

His police officers are known to have definitely made up his mind to grant a constitution, and all the pressure and influence of the grand dukes did not prevent him from issuing his famous manifesto of Oct. 30, in which he pledged his imperial word that he would henceforth sign no law which had not been approved by the duma.

Shortly afterward, in the beginning of November, Czar Nicholas received a lengthy communication, and since then the revolutionists assert he has steered his heart against the demands of the people.

His police officials and military commanders, as General Treppoff, were sent to this city to learn how the kaiser deals with unruly subjects, and when these men returned new rumors were laid down for the troops in case of riots.

The latest orders are that blank cartridges are to be fired in a warning not must the soldiers fire their first volley over the heads of the riotous mob. When they fire they must shoot to kill.

Also the liberty of the press has ceased to exist and the censor is as powerful as ever.

No one here believes that the kaiser is responsible for these things, although he probably did advise the czar against showing too great weakness, but rumor has it that among the refugees seized at Konigsberg were some which caused the greatest consternation in government circles and the emperor immediately sent back across the frontier seems to prove the truth of the general belief.

Socialists Weakening

If any proof of the decadence of the power of the socialistic party was needed it was given last Sunday when the 104 socialistic mass meetings which had been called to celebrate the bloody days in March, 1848, proved such a miserable fiasco.

The day passed without the slightest disturbance and in spite of the electric light the leaders to make a showing of their strength the workmen stayed away from the meetings, which were attended only by the curious crowds which are always ready to gather anywhere to listen to speeches and music.

There is still strong opposition to the government on many points, but it is not the kind of opposition which the late Prince Bismarck thought it best to meet with iron hand. The opposition parties may now, like those in England, be characterized as "His Majesty's loyal opposition."

Kaiser to Visit Spain

To counteract the growing French influence in Spain the kaiser intends to visit King Alfonso at Madrid in April.

There is little reason to expect that he will win any diplomatic victories in Spain, where the people dislike him as much as King Alfonso is said to do, although great preparations are even now being made for the visit.

The kaiser will spend a considerable part of the spring and summer months abroad.

For a long time he will stay in southern Europe no one knows, any more than it is known whether he will visit his sister at Athens during the Olympic games, but he will, in all events, visit King Victor Emmanuel and Pope Pius at Rome, and will pass several weeks in Norway, paying a short visit to King Haakon and traveling the rest of the time on board his yacht.

It is said here that the kaiser's plan to transform his yacht, the Hohenzollern, into a hospital ship has greatly pleased several American millionaires, who were willing to pay any price for the vessel which the king now discards to build a swifter and more luxurious yacht.

Women Petition Czar

Czar Nicholas the other day received a most remarkable document, which shows how deeply rooted in the dissatisfaction with the present regime. It is a petition from the peasant women of the village of Nikolajka, in the government of Wareusch, in which

PARIS, March 24.—A noble and highly interesting figure is that of Baron De Courcel, former French ambassador to Berlin, and who was recently sent as envoy extraordinary to represent France at the funeral of the late King Christian of Denmark.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 23.—Although in the midst of the terrors of a great revolution, the Russian people still find time to erect monuments in memory of the great men. The photograph shows the statue of Glinka, the Grand Duke Constantine, Glinka, who is known all over the world as the composer of the opera, "The Life for the Czar," was born at Smolensk in 1803 and died in Berlin in 1857. His body remained for some years in the German capital, but was later taken back to his native country and buried in the cemetery of the Alexandria Nevsky monastery.

Copenhagen the French government had in view the killing of two birds with one stone. It was planned that while attending the funeral services of the late king of Denmark M. De Courcel would have a chance to chat with the German emperor, whom, of course, he would meet at the ceremony.

This conversation took place quite as intended, and then by a chain of fortuitous circumstances Baron De Courcel on his homeward way was taken ill in Berlin. Not seriously, but enough to be confined to the house.

Diplomatic etiquette ordained that Prince von Buelow, the German ambassador, should call to inquire after the distinguished visitor's health. This again gave M. De Courcel the opportunity of holding a conversation with an influential member of the German government.

So, without the intervention of any special mission or ultimatum or any such official flummery, the representative of the French government was able to get into direct communication with the heads of the German empire, and by means of a few well chosen phrases visited William II's bellicose pride and smooth the way to an amicable conclusion of the Algieras conference.

Banker's Son a Poet

A sensational social debut took place a few days ago. It was that of the young son of a prominent financier, M. Henri Germain, the celebrated manager of the great banking establishment known as the Credit Yonnais.

Young M. Germain made his appearance in society, not as the successor of this business-like father, but as a follower of the muses. He is, in a word, a dreamer, a poet, what in our busy day we term a decadent. Real life is perpetually treating us to these striking contrasts, which go to show that the old saying, "like father, like son," is not to be relied upon.

Among the other notabilities present were Count and Countess Mathias de Noailles, Count and Countess Jean de Castellane, Paul Bourget (the novelist), in fact, the cream of the Parisian society, element in fashionable Parisian society.

Perhaps you do not know that Pierre Louys is one of the greatest modern French authors. "Aphrodite" is one who has written "Aphrodite" is not only a scholar and a poet, a weaver of literary spells and a story teller of utmost perfection, but one who has made incursions into the realms of letters and thought.

The last book which he has published is French authors "are placed in the path of the gods." It is entitled "Aphrodite" and is a book of this work Pierre Louys advocates a genetic campaign in favor of freedom in love and marriage. In other words he obtained too many expenses to be able to marry. The result of this is that marriages are few, and hearts decreasing.

"Behold M. Louys in the light of an advocate of legitimate unions. This is not exactly what we should have expected of him; or, to be more just, it is a hitherto unsuspected phase of his character which we are pleased to encounter.

Saddle Horse for Alfonso

Your correspondent learns from the most reliable source that President Estrada Palma intends to present to King Alfonso of Spain, on the occasion of his coming wedding, a magnificent Cuban-bred saddle horse from one of the famous stock farms of Camagney. Considering King Alfonso's fondness for horse riding, the gift is considered a most suitable one.

Tie for Championship

The baseball championship race is nearing its end after one of the most successful seasons in the history of the game in Cuba.

The Almendares team, which, under the name of "All Cubans," played last summer in the United States with great success, and the very strong, hard-hitting organization, are tied for first honors, while the former champions, "Habana," are a poor third.

OUR LAY SERMON
It has been well said that the girl without a brother is to be pitied; but after all, not half so much as the boy without a sister.

The girl without a brother is never certain of getting all the pleasures of life unless she is unusually attractive, and she is liable to become a little bit too self-important, from the fact she has no brother to tell her of her faults and follies.

It makes the average girl very angry for her brother to remark with a direct bluntness such as she can expect from no other source, "Well, if I were you, I would not walk down the street with that frock on." It hurts her vanity, but it is not without its good and wholesome effect. She is a little bit more particular the next time she dresses for the street, and has profited by the rebuke given by her own brother instead of feeling conscious of an implied rebuke in the actions of some other girl's brother.

The girl with a brother also receives the benefits of suggestions as to the young man that brother is not satisfied to have his sister go with. That brother is very nearly on the ground floor and in better condition to judge in matters of the kind than he often has credit for. He knows the habits and associations of other young men, and when he sees his sister in company with a man he feels is not a fit associate for her he invariably says so. Very often the suggestion is resented as undue interference, but the majority of girls would find it to their advantage to pay a little more attention to these suggestions.

The girl with a brother generally grows up with more constitution and stamina than the girl who has no brother. She early acquires the habit of disgusting him by following him around, and raises many disturbances in consequence, but the girl is all the better for it. She gets good red rich blood in her veins and makes a stronger and superior woman. She is not a hothouse flower or some kind of rare orchid that has to be shielded from every little draught of cold air that is felt in her vicinity.

And the mothers of men need all the strength and stamina they can acquire before they assume the real burdens of life.

The boy who grows up without the softening influence of a sister's love and presence misses one of the greatest boons that could possibly come into his life.

There is a softness—a gentleness from association in this respect that comes from no other source, and when it is denied a boy in his youth he goes through life minus a very important essential. Boys are naturally inclined to be rough and full of rowdiness. Raise two boys together and their characteristics in this respect become most highly developed. But when the growing boy is subjected to the tender influence of a sister as an associate she can be depended on to tone down that rowdy spirit and infuse a gentleness and tenderness that will only serve to make him a truer and better man.

The boy sees a little dead bird by the path, and kicks it away with an expression of disgust. The sister comes along, sees the little inanimate body and tenderly gathers it up. She suggests that it is one of God's creatures and should have Christian burial. The boy laughs at the idea, but the girl insists. Finally he gives in and scoops out a shallow hole in which the dead bird is laid. The girl sheds a few sincere tears over the little thing and it is covered from sight. And the boy never forgets. He may not bury the next little dead bird he finds in his path, but it is morally certain he will not kick it from his path.

And so it is in all the affairs of life. The gentle and tender influence of a sister's presence must have its effect largely in molding the character of the boy who is blessed with such an associate. And when the battle of life has been fought and the boy is called upon to pass over and render an accounting for the time he was permitted to spend on this earth, he will rise up and thank God that there was permitted to come into his life the blessing of a sister's love.

These may seem little things, but the little things are those which really count in this life. We may go through life with our eyes closed to the small things, but we are only missing the greatest and best through our inability to see and appreciate. Comprehension in many instances comes only after it is too late. Life would be but the sweeter if we could only see and clearly understand.

MORE WORK FOR SPECIAL SESSION

The action of Governor Lanham in so long delaying the call for the special session of the state legislature which convenes in Austin Monday morning has been the inspiration for much adverse criticism, the public generally not being aware of the fact that the executive was inspired by desire to have the higher courts pass upon the legality of certain tax measures passed by the last legislature and attacked by the railways in a most aggressive manner. The decision of the court of civil appeals in knocking out the Love gross receipts tax bill was one of the contingencies in the mind of the governor in delaying action in calling the legislators together as long as possible, for if he had known for a certainty this decision would be rendered by the court the matter would have no doubt been included in the call for the special session. Under the constitution, however, the governor has the right to still submit matters for special legislation, and it is quite probable this matter will be brought up speedily after the members come together. In commenting on the Love bill decision, the Austin Statesman says:

It is predicted by many that the governor will submit this tax measure for consideration of the legislature when it convenes here next week. It is said that the legislature could take the opinion of the court in these cases and then see where the fatal defects exist and correct them and pass another gross receipts law. However, it is announced that the state will ask for a rehearing, and if it is overruled then the case will be taken to the supreme court, all of which procedure, if carried out, will likely delay final action too long for the legislature to wait for it. Therefore, if action is had on the matter at all at this special session, the governor will have to take his case on conditions as they now present themselves and turn the legislature loose on taxation measures irrespective of what may happen to this particular case on appeal. It would seem, however, that he would be wholly safe in anticipating the final death of the Love bill in the light of the decision that has been administered in such liberal doses up to date.

The Telegram is very strongly impressed at this time with two probabilities that almost amount to solemn facts. One of these is that the contingencies that have arisen will necessitate the prolongation of the impending special session to the constitutional limit of thirty days, by virtue of the amount of legislation that is going to be necessary. And the new combination of circumstances removes all probabilities of a free session. The gallant 198 who agreed to serve without compensation in the matter of correcting the Terrell election law, cannot be expected to extend their liberality to cover the gamut of all legislative necessities, and this means the state will be called upon to pay the legislative freight as usual.

THE CANDIDACY OF JUDGE BELL

The Houston Chronicle, one of the leading afternoon papers of the Southwest, and any thing else but a political organ, speaks very kindly of the candidacy of Judge C. K. Bell, of this city, for governor. In a recent issue it paid the Fort Worth man the following very high but merited compliment:

Judge C. K. Bell, former attorney general, did more to enforce anti-trust laws of this state and collected more fines for violations of these laws than any man who ever held the office. He is not making campaign speeches, abusing all corporate interests in the state, but his record shows that he enforced the laws while in office, no matter whether private parties or corporations suffered thereby.

The justice of the Houston papers tribute to Judge Bell attracted the attention of E. C. Dickinson, a leading attorney of Rusk, one of the Texas Presidential electors in 1888, and a man who has been very prominent in Texas politics for the past twenty years. Judge Dickinson in endorsing the editorial referred to, pays additional high tribute to Judge Bell, from which the following is an extract:

As was said of Judge Alton B. Parker can be as appropriately said of Judge C. K. Bell, the fact that he has been able to command such a following and that the searchlight which his political foes have turned upon his life and his public and private record has not revealed even one act or word upon which the most reckless partisan could base an accusation or even a criticism testifies not only to his high character, but gives assurance that the standards of public men has risen in a marked degree. A candidate generally reflects approximately, if not accurately, the character and intellectual and moral standards of his constituents, and when a man who for more than twenty years has been in some kind of official station known to human government, and his political enemies arrayed in fierce partisan antagonism are ready to drive a shaft into any gap in the armor, yet none can be found, but friend and foe alike render tribute to his high character. The fact is creditable to the candidate and to the nation.

The writer has known Judge Bell for over twenty years in private and in public life. In 1884 he was elected senator of the Twenty-third senatorial district; in 1888 was elected judge of the Twenty-ninth judicial district; in 1892 and 1894 he was elected to congress. He voluntarily retired after serving four years in each of the foregoing positions. In 1891 he was appointed attorney general of the state of Texas, and in 1892 was elected to that office, which he held for four years. In all these positions Judge Bell distinguished himself, and especially as attorney general, where a broader field for usefulness was open before him, and where his ripe learning in the law, keen logic, his quick perception, his lucidity of statement and thoroughness of investigation won him high standing among the legal giants with whom he was associated in the courts of this state and of the United States.

Judge Bell has a host of friends throughout the state who will be pleased with this tribute from East Texas—a section of the state that has a favorite son in the race, and a gentleman who will probably be the second man in the race.

BIG PACKERS CONVICT JAMES R. GARFIELD

The expected has happened, and the predictions that have been so freely made with reference to the denouement of the beef trust cases have been amply verified.

The packers have convicted Garfield. That is rather a peculiar result of the big case over which there has been so much noise made, but that is the net result of the federal government's efforts to bring the men to justice who have been preying upon both the producing and consuming elements of the country, so far as the meat industry is concerned.

The government appears to have done the best it could under the circumstances, but it was handicapped by too much Garfield. That very astute young man was commissioned to investigate the alleged beef trust, and the net result of his investigations was a celebrated report in which he in effect declared there was no beef trust. It is true the government was not satisfied with the Garfield findings, but had further investigations conducted by a federal grand jury. Evidence which Commissioner Garfield discovered but did not need in his whitewashing operations was passed under the table to the department of justice, engaged in the prosecution of the effort to bring the packers to time. Indictments were returned, and the packers only laughed.

They had been promised immunity from punishment by Garfield in return for the information given upon which the indictments were largely predicated. Under the law this agreement on the part of Commissioner Garfield has to be respected.

The federal judge before whom the cases have been argued for several weeks has dismissed all the indictments against the packers individually. The reasons he gives are worthy of serious consideration. Judge Humphrey says:

It is contended that the defendants in this case were volunteers because they haggled with Garfield at times, debated, resisted, gave less than he asked and withheld some things. The record does show that, but the fact remains that every approach was made by the government. Garfield made his demands and it does not, to my mind, destroy the character of the compulsion under which they acted; that the defendants after having considered the law and after having decided that they had no legal right to resist, still decided to give in, less than he originally demanded. Garfield came to the defendants and held up before them the powers of his office. They did not go to him and volunteer anything. Now, since the defendants volunteered nothing, but gave only what was demanded by an officer who had the right to make the demand and gave in good faith under a sense of legal compulsion, I am of the opinion that they are entitled to immunity.

Commissioner Garfield swears he did not promise the packers immunity from punishment, but they swear just as positively that he did. The matter was thoroughly threshed out before the court, and from the evidence adduced the court declares he promised the claimed immunity.

Garfield is the only man yet convicted. Will the President permit this man who has deliberately thwarted the ends of what so many people believe to be justice to remain in his present responsible position? If so, it must bring additional discredit upon the Roosevelt administration, which the people believe has tried to do its full duty in the premises. As Garfield is the only man convicted he must reap the benefit of his conviction by paying the penalty.

The good of the public service demands the summary retirement of James R. Garfield.

The railways of the country are becoming seriously alarmed over the spread of public sentiment in the direction of 2-cent fares, and are organizing to strenuously combat the proposition. The loss of one-third of the present passenger revenue would be a serious matter to many of the railway systems of the country, and would have to be made up in some other direction. When an institution is compelled to earn certain fixed charges and there is no other resource but to get those fixed charges out of the pockets of the public, there will always be a way found to attain the desired result.

Governor Lanham says that four days is long enough for members of the legislature to remain in Austin, and there are a whole lot of people who believe the governor has named what should constitute the outside limit. There is no reason on earth why the special session should be transformed into a big political pow-wow, such as some of the politicians are bent on making it.

Judge Alton B. Parker says he did not state at Birmingham or elsewhere that President Roosevelt would be a candidate for a third term, and neither has he made any effort to boom George B. McClelland for the democratic nomination. All of which goes to prove that some newspaper reporter over in the state of Alabama is gifted with a very fertile imagination.

The manner in which the thirty-six hour law is being handled in congress at this time would seem to indicate that the measure is not having the expected smooth sailing. The stockmen may yet find themselves outwitted unless they keep a close watch on the indicator.

The sympathy of the people of all Texas goes out to Senator Bailey in the death of his father. While the elder Bailey was not known to any extent in Texas, yet the love that is felt here for the son is sufficient to cause a marked expression of sympathy in the hour of his affliction.

The committee that has been investigating the affairs of the Confederate Army at Austin will report they have found nothing deserving of censure, and this will be something of a disappointment to those who have been so steadily insisting that there was something rotten in Denmark.

There was but little trading done among the cattlemen at the Dallas convention, and the reason therefor is obvious. There is not much stuff left in Texas to trade on this spring, and what there is left will be held at something more than bargain counter prices.

Already there is considerable complaint of coal shortage throughout the country, and people are still congratulating themselves that the crisis in coal mining circles was postponed until the lapse of winter.

It is now claimed that the Williams intangible assets bill will be seriously affected by the adverse court decision in the Love tax measure, but it may prove another case of the wish being father to the thought.

With five candidates for governor in the field, it is now clearly apparent why there is agitation of the proposition of making five states out of Texas. It is in the interest of the hungry politicians.

The Telegram does not claim to be much of a prophet, but it is willing to risk the prediction that the present week will see more politicians than members of the state legislature in Austin.

South Texas still avers that the blanket primary is cover for sinister political designs.

TAKING THE 'LID' OFF IN REUBENVILLE IN EIGHT CHAPTERS—CHAPTER 3

THE TEXAS PRESS

Says the Houston Chronicle: "The Fort Worth Telegram was green on the inside in honor of St. Patrick." And yet at the same time, it was read all over, strange as it may sound. Diagrams in this joke furnished on application.—Terrell Transcript.

And The Telegram never has to use crimson ink in order to be read, like some of its esteemed contemporaries.

The race for governor of Texas isn't even interesting. Months ago it appeared that we were to have a campaign with red fire, thunder and lightning, and all the accessories that go to make up a lurid political display. We were promised such issues as we never had before in a campaign, and the whole business up to date seems to have settled down to two questions: "Are you a prohibitionist?" "Are you an anti-prohibitionist?"—Sherman Register.

The gubernatorial campaign is a little tame in Texas at this time, but it will ginger up a little later on. The people will have ample opportunity to choose between men and measures.

The blanket primary seems to have the call over the state just now, and the candidates are taking notice. The blanket primary means one thing—that the candidate who gets a plurality of the vote cast in the entire state will get the office, regardless of the counties go. The selection will be really the selection of the majority or plurality of the citizens of the state.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

The greatest objection urged to the blanket primary system is from South Texas, which alleges the movement originated in North Texas for the express purpose of reducing that section to a state of political penance.

There are always plenty of men ready to save the country if there is anything like a good salary attached to the place.—Denton Herald.

The salary attached to official position is too often the incentive to political ambition. What the country needs is a little more patriotism and a little less desire for pelf.

There are a lot of men carrying pistols who imagine they have a right to do so by virtue of commissions—that special deputy sheriffs, constables and police. They are mistaken; the law gives them the right to carry pistols only while actually engaged in performing the duty of a peace officer.—San Antonio Gazette.

The man who seeks appointment as deputy in order to acquire the right of bearing an arsenal upon his person, will please take notice: The law does not intend that special privileges shall be extended to any man.

The Terrell election law needs pruning and put in such shape that an average man can read and understand it. There are by far too many things in it that require a decision from the attorney general's office which decision may be right and may be wrong.—Denton Herald.

What Texas needs is simple laws of plain and intelligible verbiage. The Terrell law is one of the most ponderous instruments of legality that was ever permitted to cumber the statute books of this state.

There have been found seven important bills passed by the last legislature defective in great part by lack of proper steps to make them efficient for the purposes for which they were enacted. Verily, somebody was very careless or inefficient.—Athens Review.

The last legislature holds the record for carelessness and inefficiency. Its work in that respect should be a constant incentive to future sessions to be a whole lot more careful and conscientious in the discharge of duty.

A wise Austin father told his daughter the other day that to keep herself healthy and cheeks rosy was to help her mother with housework. It is better than dancing all night.—Austin Tribune.

But it will be hard to convince the girl of that fact. She is too strongly wedded to the idea that health and roses are to be found in tripping the light fantastic.

Fort Worth Methodists have made a contract for a church building to cost $100,000.—Sherman Democrat.

Fort Worth Methodists are progressive people. They are determined the Lord shall have some showing in the general reign of prosperity, and are to be greatly commended for their determination.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS

The things that are killed by ridicule deserve to die. A fellow never knows he is in love till the girl tells him.

The fellow who stops kicking may be merely getting used to it.

The minister, as well as the judge, often gives a man a life sentence.

Some girls seem to think that every man is a man after her own heart.

A growing boy never needs a watch to tell him when it is dinner time.

When a woman says "I don't care" is when actions speak louder than words.—Philadelphia Record.

VERBET THAT RING

"SCATTER SUNSHINE"
Why not today crown victor's brow
With laurel wreath and bay?
Not wait till Death's cold, clammy clasp,
Has borne him far away!

Let's speak the sweet and soothing word
While he is by to hear,
Not waiting till he's dead and gone;
Then decorate his bier.

Post-mortem praise doth ill repay
The tug and stress and strife
Attendant on this pilgrimage
Which you and I call life.

When bitter disappointment comes,
Where we expected joy,
A word of cheer, or just a smile
Is like the "Ship ahoy!"—

To storm-tossed mariner at sea,
Who, drifting on the wreck,
Sees through the fog a sail loom up,
And line flung from her deck.

So don't forget the kindly words
Or sunshine of your smiles,
They make thy brother's burden light
And shorten weary miles. —ANON.

MOONSHINE & MUSTINGS BY SID BARTON

AN IMPOSSIBILITY
Did you ever try to drive a hog through the same hole in the fence where he broke out of the yard? It can't be did. Everybody knows how angelic my temper is, and of patience and fortitude my stock is overflowing (likewise my vocabulary of adjectives), but I'll be darned if I can drive a hog that won't be driven, unless I chop him up with an ax and throw him through the hole in chunks. One can't be a Methodist and drive hogs.—Route 4 correspondence, Garner (la.) Democrat.

It is reported that Charles M. Schwab has taken up his residence in Nevada, and is to be elected United States senator. Well, there ought to be some return for living in Nevada.

"You say he has a fine ear for music? Why, he's deaf."

"Sure, and lives in a flat. I repeat, he has a fine ear for music."

"I like Mrs. Chumpley, but she's such a dreadful bore," began Mrs. Speakout.

"Don't be too hard on her," said Mrs. Talking. "She's a fine woman."

"I know she is, but she's so tiresome. I was over there this afternoon, and she didn't do a thing but talk about her little Willie all the time."

"He's no smarter than our Henry."

"Not a bit. She bored me to death telling all the bright things Willie had said. But I just let her know Willie wasn't the only bright boy in the world. I told her just as many stories about Harry as she told about Willie."

"I can't say that I like this herself," said the English tourist. "Everybody here is as good as everybody else, don't you know. Over here I'm as good as the president. It's not so in England."

"Perhaps," suggested his American friend, "that's because you're better known over there."

"Why don't you deliver your sermons in plain English, doctor?"

"What! And have everybody understand me?"

"I'm happy in the thought that no woman ever will be able to run my son," said the proud mother.

"He's very independent, is he?"

"Not so very; but he's too lazy to be run."

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Smoking wouldn't be half as much fun to a boy if his parents made him do it.

The nicest thing of all about a woman is the way she doesn't care how little brains you have if you are hers.

When a young woman acts as if she didn't know what a beau is it is a sign she has several.

STOCKS

List Dull and Neglected—Reading Only Issues which is at All Active

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, March 24.—The only semblance of activity in today's session of the stock exchange was centered around Reading, and fluctuations in that issue covered a range of only 1 point, while so far as the balance of the list was concerned, the market was extremely dull and narrow, and even a favorable bank statement could not influence any activity. There was no development in the labor situation nor the Moroccan affair. The market closed dull with prices showing only fractional changes, the largest being in Reading, which showed a net loss of 1 1/2 points. Total sales, 207,000 shares.

Wheat Prices Weaken Under Profit-Taking—Corn and Oats Also Lower

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, March 24.—Wheat prices suffered from liquidation today, closing at a net loss of 3/4 to 3/8. The opening was easy with price 3/4 to 3/8 lower. Commission houses bought on the decline, and on this fact and the relative strength in Minneapolis, the local crowd took the bull side, holding the market strong until near the close, when realizing became general and prices eased off. Local receipts were two cars.

Corn

Corn was dull and listless until the last half hour, when several local professionals worked against the market and prices broke sharply. Final figures were at a net loss of 3/8 to 3/4. Local receipts, 230 cars.

Oats

Oats were steady, under a light trade. Prices finally eased off in sympathy with wheat and corn, and closing figures were unchanged to 3/8 lower. Local receipts, 129 cars.

Provisions

Provisions suffered severely from realization on the day deliveries by local operators and scattered selling by local bears. Packers were the best buyers. At the close pork was off 1/2 to 1/4. Lard showed a loss of 1/4 to 1/2. Hides were 1/4 to 1/2 lower.

Very Bullish Week-End Statistics Causes Further Advance in Prices. Spots Also Higher

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, March 24.—The extremely bullish character of the week-end and last Monday's advance, which resulted in some new conversions to the bull ranks and further gains in prices during the brief session today. Liverpool again showed a disposition to lead the upward movement, by closing with prices several points better than expected, and with this as a precedent, the local market opened firm with prices 5 to 9 points higher, this being about as due in response to the foreign advance.

A REAL THRILLER IS THIS STUNT

Mme. La Tour Goes Through Air in Automobile

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, March 24.—As a stirring sign of spring comes "Tody" Hamilton, the invincible, incomparable, immitable, indescribable juggler of circus adjectives.

When the circus begins to peek at daylight and the elephants yawn, two men in the circus business get busy. One is the man who paints the band has failed to dry up the peanut taste, entered the office of the king of pranks agents in this city and with garrulous temerity propounded this question: "What'll she be like this season?"

Today, at work upon a nine-sheet poster, he jotted a period after the words "frenzied frolic with fate," and ejaculated.

"What will it be like, did you ask? Sensation will crowd sensation. Every act awe-inspiring. There'll be the tremendous feat of a woman looping the gap in an automobile, where wonder itself is lost in wonder, and all speculation ceases as to what further extent mortals may taunt death with impunity. A fascinating, fearful, flitting frolic with fate, the incarnation of ingenuity, intrepidity and invention. A dreadful dash, bang, full-tilt-drive, headlong, lopsided, lurching, leap, furious head-over-heels plunge in an auto.

OLD WORLD NOW GROWING BETTER

Not So Many Gallows Seen as in Past Age

Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)

LONDON, March 24.—"Is the world a better place than it used to be?" is a question we constantly ask ourselves. I would unhesitatingly answer, "Yes, it is a far better place and the ideals of men and women are far higher."

Not long ago I was reading a memoir written in the seventeenth century by an English gentleman who had the opportunity of traveling over the continent and recorded his impressions. The writing was simple, in many places illiterate, but the expression was perfectly genuine. What struck me most was the curious manner, in which, directly he reached a town, his mind gravitated toward certain points, notably the gallows, and again and again you will find recorded that the first visit he paid in any foreign city was to the place of execution. In Venice he was especially interested by the fact that a man was broken on the wheel on the Piazza St. Mark, and that outside Venice provision was made for executing five persons at one time.

In some German town through which he passed, he says, "I noted a goodly gallows well set up." The idea of there being anything terrible or inhuman in this morbid interest in the destruction of human life never appeared to have occurred to him. Again, we have to reflect that in those days you could not pass through the streets of London without seeing gangs of men and women being led forth to die for crimes varying from stealing a few yards of calico to a horse, a leg of mutton or a bank note. Death was the universal penalty. Were men more cruel? It has been said that human life was held more cheaply, because there was a more definite and defined belief in an after existence, and that consequently it seemed less terrible to curtail this one; and yet I do not think that in the sceptical eighteenth century this could have been the case. Undoubtedly it may have accounted for the cruelties of the inquisition, for the inquisitors held the place of the modern surgeon. They operated on the bodies in order to save souls, but our scientific men operate in order to save life, but unquestionably cruelty in its ordinary form, neglect of human life, the absolute ignoring of the responsibility of man to man, emphasized the past, and we must admit that in the present, with all its faults, there is a truer ideal of the value of every existence and the right of every man and woman to live well. If this is so, much as we may deplore the sorrow and the misery and the sins that surround us, we cannot but believe that our nation will go from strength to strength, and that in the end this sentiment will strengthen until the basic teaching of Christianity becomes a dominant principle that "every man's weal is each man's care."

Parliament Discusses Children This growing sentiment is more emphasized by the fact that our house of commons yesterday occupied itself for many hours in discussing the case of the abandoned child, Mr. Disraeli truly said that "the youth of the country are the trustees of posterity," and consequently the question must be of undeniable importance. At the same time, there are many who believe that to feed the child is to take from the parents their undoubted responsibility, and that in so doing the state arrogates to itself the obvious duty which belongs to parental life. We are told that if we feed one class of children

An Old and Well-tried Remedy

Down a terrible decline she plunges in the most appalling aerial automobile somersaulting act, thrilling, terrifying, tremendous, tantalizing triumph of all time. This dire disaster and death-decoying deed is the most devilishly ingenious mechanical device for cheating the fates of their prey ever created by the fertile brain of man. A fearless, rash and reckless exploit, automobile and occupant making a complete revolution in the air. Think of it! Awe-inspiring, awe-inspiring, awe-inspiring every dangerous feat of record, a wild, whirlring midair gambol with fate, expectant death meeting disappointment and chagrin.

"Keep your seat. That's not all. Hold, man! Witness the glory of the pagan church of the princess has taken place. It was of a strictly private character, attended with no pomp, ceremony or publicity. I hear nothing but good of the king of Spain. I am told that her call to high ideals, charmingly romantic, bright, happy, with all the enthusiasm which belongs to his age, and entirely unspoiled, and that in all ways Princess Ena is a lucky girl.

The Spanish court with its sixteenth century etiquette and medieval customs will be raised into new life by the laughter-loving, young, smiling woman, and it will be curious to see how the Spanish woman will view her invasion.

King Pleased With Story A charming foreigner has given rise to a story about which there has been much comment and many a hearty laugh. The king, so goes the story, asked the lady to be his partner at bridge.

"But, sir," said she, "I really don't know how to play." The king would take no denial however, and she became rather embarrassed. "I assure you, sir," she said, "I could not think of playing. I don't know the difference between a king and a knave."

There was an awkward silence, and then she realized what she had said and was covered with confusion. The king, however, laughed it off, and now tells the story with gusto.

RAIN STORM AT GAINESVILLE

Special to The Telegram. GAINESVILLE, Texas, March 24.—A heavy rain storm, accompanied by vivid lightning, struck this city at 1:40 o'clock this morning and in a few minutes the streets were flooded. The storm did not last long, but rest lighted up the city for a few minutes. The sky was very bright and for a few minutes kept the sky as light as day.

Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, the druggist is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicine, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. His claims to the confidence of the world do not rest solely upon the maker's say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. The invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Among these are Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M. D., of Cleveland, Ohio; Dr. Bartlow of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa., and scores of others.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prostrates, nervousness, irregular periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician, of large experience in the cure of women's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidently takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for women's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret, and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. 31 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 31 stamps. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

READY-MADE HOMES ARE ALWAYS IN DEMAND

People of democratic tastes, who like to "live in a house," but not in a lonesome one—solve the problem easily and to their profit by renting furnished rooms to pleasant people. Isn't it better to live in a good house, with a few lodgers who pay your entire rent for you and a little toward your household expenses, than to live in a small apartment, alone, with expenses that grow harder and harder to meet?

If you advertise Persistently you may, at a nominal cost, keep these "Ready-made Homes" always tenanted by the right kind of people, and the somewhat bitter problem of how to make both ends meet will give you less concern.

When you set aside a few rooms in your house as "Ready-made homes" and begin to advertise them you will be surprised to find how many of the "nice sort" of folks live in furnished rooms—and you will be surprised to find out how easy a matter it is to wipe out the terrors of your own "rent day."

LAND SPECULATION AIDS WALL STREET

Buying of Homes Unties Long Bank Accounts

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The wild speculation in real estate which has seized the investing public even in the remotest corners of the United States seems sure to become a great help to the stock market.

Thousands of persons who have kept their money in the savings banks or who have owned little homes and who would as soon think of betting on horse races as of speculating in stocks, have been seized with the craze to buy land. In the majority of cases the persons who are selling lands at the enormously inflated values now current have wide experience in business.

All business men know, or at least they act as if they believe it to be true that the stock market is no more dangerous than any other kind of speculation. The millions of cash which the small public is drawing from the savings banks and putting into real estate is coming into the hands of persons who are willing to risk it in stocks. Thus the higher real estate goes and the more determined the small investors are to keep away from the stock market, the more money flows toward Wall street.

Arguments and warnings are of no avail to change this condition. It is happening in obedience to an economic law that no human power can divert from having its full effect. Political laws may be evaded or defied but the laws of finance are above courts and legislators. Manipulation in the stock market is foolish unless it happens to be done in harmony with these higher laws. The high priests of Wall street have attained their sensational power by reason of their ability to detect in advance of the general public the great swing of values. Those who have studied this subject most carefully in recent weeks believe that higher prices are ahead for the stock market for the reason here given.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Foreign markets were irregular. Berlin was stagnant and Paris inactive and heavy although rates are unchanged. London was dull but steady. Americans in that center scored general fractional declines.

Is the usual favorable opinion on the superb laundry work turned out at the Fort Worth Steam Laundry. The best of linen and other materials are easily ruined by careless and indifferent laundering. PRESIDENT IN DEAD EARNEST
 His "No" to Nomination Will Not Be Altered
PARTISANS ARE PUZZLED
 Republicans Are Unable to Decide on Candidate and Issue for the Campaign of 1908

Special Cable to The Telegram.
 WASHINGTON, March 24.—President Roosevelt will not be a candidate for a third term.
 He will not accept the nomination for a third term.
 He will decline to run.
 He will refuse to take the office if an effort is made to force the third term nomination upon him.
 This is official. There is no possible contingency which will change his determination.
 This renewed third-term talk has its origin in two sources: It comes from republicans who are worried about the prospects of the republican party, and who would like to see party success assured by having Roosevelt to head the ticket; and it comes from democrats who are worried for fear that Roosevelt will change his mind and dash the dawning hopes of a democrat- ical victory by consenting to run again.

 The republican party leaders are genuinely worried over the prospect. They know—although they hesitate to own it—that Theo. Roosevelt has been the whole of the republican party ever chance. It includes the nation that trusts need to be curbed, that machines are corrupt and need to be smashed, that Wall street has too much influence on politics, that "special interests" have become too hogish, that the senate is too insolent, that graft is too pervasive, that the rich are too rich and the poor too poor. It is the sentiment of the man in the street that he is "against" almost everything that politics and politicians have to stand for.

 The politicians know that Roosevelt, while not being a radical, is nearest to the people, and if not him for President in 1908, who then?
 Although the congressional elections are the next thing in order of time, they are taking a second place to the presidential boom in point of interest. In spite of the fact that the national conventions are yet two years off, the presidential gossip is becoming daily more absorbing.
 Agents have been here from New York to look over the ground, and it is apparent that the financial interests are taking time by the forelock and arranging to finance some candidate. I know personally of at least two conferences of this sort which have been held in Washington within the past two weeks.

NEW TEXAS MAP
 Railroad Commission Will Soon Have Ready Largest Ever Issued
 Special to The Telegram.
 AUSTIN, Texas, March 24.—The railroad commission will soon have completed and ready for distribution a new map of the state of Texas, and it will not only be the largest, but it will be the most complete ever issued by that body. Engineer Thompson of the commission has been at work on the new map for some time, and he stated yesterday that it will be finished in about two months.
 The new map will be one-third larger than any ever issued by the commission, and the scale will be eighteen miles to the inch, while the largest heretofore issued by the commission is twenty-five miles to the inch. This last one was issued in 1905, and it proved to be in such great demand that over 3,000 were distributed, and there are now applications pending with the commission for 600 more.
 In the maps issued by the railroad commission particular attention is paid to the railroads of the state, and this is one of the reasons which makes the commission's maps in such great demand.
 This will be about the tenth map of Texas made by the railroad commission since its organization, and each time they have been larger than the previous one, but the one now under way will be the largest ever issued by that body.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 24.— The most popular man in Indiana will soon be wearing the garb of a convict in the state penitentiary. David E. Sherrick, former auditor of state, is now in the custody of the sheriff, pending his removal to the penitentiary.
 In 1904 Sherrick received a plurality of $4,000, several hundred larger than given Roosevelt for president, and 10,000 larger than the plurality given J. Frank Hanly for governor. It was the largest plurality ever given a candidate for state office in Indiana.
 Everywhere in Indiana Sherrick was known as "Dave." He was a good fellow in every sense of the word. He had a way of winning friends and keeping them.
 The downfall of Sherrick is the result of politics. When he first sought office he was a prosperous lawyer and insurance agent at Noblesville. The nomination for auditor of state cost him nearly as much as two years' salary—$14,000, $4,000 being the annual salary. He went into office a poor man.

 In 1904 Sherrick assisted in the campaign of J. Frank Hanly for governor. He loaned $750 to assist in lining up delegates in the republican state convention. Hanly was elected. In September, 1905, Governor Hanly learned that Sherrick had loaned and invested $120,000 of the state's money and was unable to make his quarterly settlement with the state. Governor Hanly demanded Sherrick's immediate resignation, which was given. At the same time Governor Hanly paid his note for $750, which money had been taken from the state's funds.
 Sherrick was indicted and his trial set for March 5. Before he was placed on trial his friends, headed by former Governor W. T. Durbin, had paid off every cent of Sherrick's indebtedness to the state. This fact failed to impress the jury, which returned a verdict of guilty, and now, unless a new trial is granted, Sherrick must serve from two to twenty-two years in the penitentiary. Sherrick held that it has been the custom of state auditors to invest state funds.
