Explosion of Chemicals

The fire was a dangerous one to the firemen, as explosions of chemicals and falling walls, combined with the intense heat and the live wires, made death lurk almost everywhere. Fifteen minutes after the fire started the first explosion of chemicals was heard, and this was followed five minutes later by another. These explosions were loud enough to be heard all over the center of the city. Two minutes after the second explosion the walls at the southeast corner of the building, where the explosions had taken place, began to totter, and within a few seconds dropped with a crash to the ground. A moment later a large portion of the west wall fell. An extension ladder was pushed up to the front of the building, and this manner of fighting the fire was tried until it was seen that the stream would do no good and that the apparatus was in danger of being destroyed by a falling wall. The huge affair was moved slowly away, only to be out of the danger line as the front wall of the building crashed to the ground.

The signal telling the end of the fire was turned in at 2:40 a. m., although the firemen remained at the ruins pouring on water until long after daylight.

New Building.

The building, which is a total loss, was erected by the Wadsworth-Cameron Drug Company in 1904, at the time the company moved to Fort Worth from Weatherford. The building was valued at $25,000, and the stock of goods at $135,000. Insurance carried on the building was $8,000. and on the stock $90,000. Fixtures were also insured for $3,000.

The building was a three-story brick structure with basement, fronting fifty feet on West Fifteenth street, and running back 100 feet to the railroad yards.

Will Rebuild

The company was chartered in 1896, and has a capital stock of $100,000. Thomas M. Wadsworth is president of the company, Joseph L. Daniel vice president. Matthew C. Cameron

HOUSE PASSES SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 29 .--SENATE BILL Terrell Election Law Correction Goes to Engrossment NO DEBATE HAD $35,000 Appropriated to Pay Mileage and Per Diem for Special Session

> Special to The Telegram AUSTIN, Texas, March 29 .- An effort was made in a hurry today to have injected in the senate election bill an amendment providing for a direct, pure and simple blanket primary, but it was voted down by a vote of 71 to 41. Thus the house placed itself on record as being opposed to direct primary at this time.

> This does not, however, affect the nendment adopted yesterday, which as all essentials of the blanket primary, details of which were given in yesterday's dispatches. The house was afraid to adopt direct primary amendment for fear that the senate would never consent to it and, with the amendment adopted yesterday, its advocates think the senate may concur to it, but it is not believed that such will be the case, and it is now said that a free conference will have to be appointed.

The direct blanket primary amendment offered today was by Representative Barcus of Waco, and provides for purely nomination of candidates for state and district offices.

Representative Kennedy offered an amendment to the election bill that the state executive committee of any political party may prescribe a test of participation in the state and district primaries, this being tabled by a vote of 100 to 13.

The previous question was then ordered on the bill and the amendment by a vote of 64 to 52, was adopted. This cuts off all debate and, now, nothing remains but to vote on the bill, but before this could be done, the hour had

Divorced Wife Asks Part of Damages

Whether a divorced wife is entitled to a half interest in a claim for unliquidated damages existing before divorce and reduced to possession by her divorced husband after divorce having been granted, is an interesting question that is now on trial before Judge Irby Dunklin in the Forty-eighth court. The style of the suit is Mary L. Collins vs. Morgan Bryan, guardian, et al., and in the petition the following statement of the cause of action is given:

Mary L. Collins, the plaintiff, was formerly the wife of G. H. Dashell. Dasheel was injured in a wreck on the Texas and Pacific railroad and brought suit in his own name against the company for $25,000 damages.

Before the damage case was tried," however, the wife instituted suit for divorce against Dasheel and a divorce was granted her. She afterward mar-ried her present husband, Mr. Collins. After the marriage of the divorced wife with Collins, Dashell was tried in the county court of Tarrant county for lunacy and adjudged insane. Morgan Bryan was appointed his guardian and as such prosecuted the damage suit against the railroad and got a judgment for approximately $8,000. The case was appealed and the verdict of the lower court was affirmed. Morgan Bryan, guardian, collected the judgment in favor of G. H. Dashell and out of it paid the attorneys in the case, leaving in his hands $4,000 belonging to his wards, G. H. Dasheel estate, and in the suit now on trial the divorced wife joined by second husband claims one-half of the $4,000, which was only a case in action during the time she was Dasheel's wife.

While here he was at While in the city he again failed to make any reference to the movement favoring his candidacy 'for President, but discussed criticisms of his amendment to the Hepburn bill as made by S. H. Cowan, attorney for the Texas Cattle Raisers' association. In this connection he said: "Mr. Cowan is widely mistaken in saying that the amendment which I have offered refers 'the determin ton of what is a just and reasonable rate to the court.' I expressly require the nission to prescribe a rate which will afford a just compensation for the service, and only submit the question to the court upon an allegation that the commission has not proceeded according to the law .. "It is probably true that the railroads want a provision which authorizes them to appeal to the courts for the protection of their property rights, as would any other person in their situation, but it is difficult to understand how an intelligent man can complain at an amendment which accords them that right, when it is admitted by all that a bill which deprived them of it would be unconstitutional and void. "Mr. Cowan is probably the only man in the United States who believes that the Hepburn bill amply provides against judicial suspension of the commission rates by injunction. Indeed, republicans senators who are supporting that bill admit that it does not provide at all against judicial suspension of the commission rates by injunction, and have declared on the floor of the senate, as Mr. Cowan can easily learn by a reference to the debates, that congress has no power to prevent the courts from suspending the commission rates by preliminary injunc-

KILLS CATARRHAL GERMS

Breathe Hyomei a Few Times Daily and Be Cured-Goes Right to the

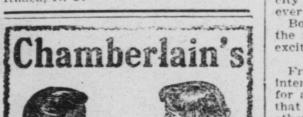

In treating catarrhal troubles, the first thing necessary is to kill all catarrhal germs that may be present in the nose, throat and lungs, thus freeing the system from the poison that they produce.

Stomach dosing cannot kill these germs. A direct local treatment is absolutely necessary, and for this purpose nothing else equals Hyomei.

Its base is the famous eucalyptus oil. This is combined with other healing, aromatic gums and balsams, making a germ-killing, health-giving treatment for catarrh, entirely unlike mything else known. When using Hyomei the air you breathe is like that on the mountains, high above sea level, where the pine forests fill the air with fragrant and healing balsams that give health and strength to those suffering from diseases of the respiratory or-

Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, Hyomei reaches every tissue of nose, throat and lungs, giving immediate relief, and effecting a permanent cure in the worst cases of catarrh. The complete outfit, consisting of an nhaler, medicine dropper and one bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1. Extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents. If you cannot obtain Hyomei of your dealer, it will be forwarded by mail, postage paid, on receipt of price. Mr. Hooker's first step towards a solution of the problem was to form a committee of the whole house during the first lunch interval after Miss Jackson had spoken to him. At this meeting he wrestled mildly and paternally with Mr. John Pride, pointing out to him the error of his ways from the practical and financial point of In the horse classes two classes of view. Mr. Pride's only answer was a single sentence in which he catalogued Miss Jackson's failings with creditable terseness and published his intention of making a fortune on the music hall stage. Mr. Hooker himself was of the same opinion, but he preferred to untie the knot rather than to cut it: therefore he took notice neither of his supporters' frowns nor of John Pride's reckless challenge, but simply beckoned to Miss Jackson, who, as was her deplorable habit, was hovering tearfully on their horizon. The young lady assumed a defiant bearing for the occasion, and with much dignity in her not unpleasing person, entered the meeting, and after returning the salutes of her judges, leaned gracefully against the harmonium. Mr. Pride flung himself on the sand and tootled ostentatiously on his despised flute, while Mr. Hooker proceeded with the business in hand.

"We're sorry about this, Miss Jack-son," began the leader. "There's no doubt, I suppose, about the promise? "Not much, there warn't!" replied the plaintiff. when land becomes too valuable to be devoted to grass it has to always pass under the domain of the plow. THE OUTLOOK FOR DEMOCRACY

Congressman Champ Clark of Missouri does not take a very pessimistic view of the outlook for demoeratic success in the future. He says the party will win a majority in the next house of representatives beyond the shadow of a doubt, and with such a majority, there will be investigations instituted at Washington that will result in thoroughly cleaning out all the departments. Then, he says, the democracy will pass a tariff bill and put that issue squarely up to the President and the senate, and there acquire a cleaver with which the way can be hewed to success in the general election that comes in 1908. And there are many republican leaders who are beginning to see things in the same light as the Missouri congressman. They are fearful that the time is ripe for a swing of the political pendulum in the direction of the democracy, from the fact that both national and years.

Continued disclosures of insurance scandals, the discovery of the actual evidence that the big insurance companies have subsidized republican national committees by fat contributions, the uneasiness of organized labor, republican dissensions in and out of congress, republican failure to squarely meet the railway rate issue as a party, increasing discontent with the existing tariff and the growing impression all over the country that Washington is rotten to the core-these are a few of the things that are pointed out as driftwood.

Of great importance during a political crisis are sectional issues and local conditions. The practical politicians when these issues trend in one direction, deem them of the first importance as presaging the votes needed to turn the political tide. It is recognized as fact that the profit of local disturbances the country over is going to the democrats, and the big politicians on the other side of the fence are growing correspondingly restless and uneasy. Congressman Clark says:

Up in New England you find the "free hides" and "free raw material" agitation growing, rather than diminishing, in extent, a sentiment backed by manufacturing influences that are utterly disgusted with the failure of the present administration to meet their demands. In New York the republican organization is sorely divided and popular sentiment is stirred up against a party which allows men like Platt and Dc-

THE FORT WORTH TELEGRAM

Fort Worth authorities have made war on the cripples, rounding up twenty-two of them who solicit alms and then meet as a regular association and have a gay cld time. The authorities believe many of the mendicants have been dumped on Fort Worth. The cripples were all ordered to leave.-Sherman Democrat.

Fort Worth has long been made the dumping ground for every class of mendicant under the sun, and as a consequence the city has been almost overrun with these unfortunates. Our people are willing to take care of their own, however, and are only protesting against the influx coming in continually from other points.

The big life insurance companies have suffered severely in consequence of the revelations that have been made public as to the manner in which their affairs have been conducted. It will take some time for the people to regain their former confidence in these institutions.

A FEW SERIOUS REFLECTIONS

The Indicator has just completed Vol. 4. In other words, we have been turning out papers to a kind and forgiving public just four years.

Those years have been very pleasant ones. We have been treated well and we have enjoyed it first rate. Our income, of course, hasn't been particularly thrilling. The matter of big investments does not require any large office force in the financial department of The Indicator office. Every once in a while a dollar comes our way, of course, and we have never yet declined to receive any little courtesy of this kind.

In those four years many changes have taken place in The Indicator office. Dan, who was our right-hand man in the mechanical department, left our large and generous pay roll to make rolls and ginger snaps for a hungry public. And only a few weeks ago our feminine reliance at the type case changed her name and address to please some man.

Another girl, however, is presiding at the type case, and The Indicator moves on, uplifting humanity at a dollar a lift, cash in advance, butter and eggs, old iron or most any old thing that can be turned into funds

WASHINGTON, March 29 .- Time does not soothe the sorrow in the congressional breast over the abolition of passes, and this great issue of the day still continues to come up where two or three are gathered together. Some of them were talking about it, and It reminded one of them of an incident in the life of Mr. Bartholdt, the German congressman from St. Louis.

"Bartholdt," said he, "got up a bill in the interest of the brewers. Our consciences were in the usual acute condition over the evils of the demon rum, and we downed Bartholdt's proposition by the usual W. C. T. U. majority.

"Bartholdt sat and glowed while the next bill was on its passage. It was a bill giving some new privilegen to a railroad company. It went through pretty nearly unanimously, and then we adjourned. As we went out I found myself alongside Bartholdt, and I asked him what made him look so glum and sour.

"'Mein Gott!' he said, and it came straight from an overcharged heart. 'If the breweries could only issue passes!"

WHITHER GOES THE CATTLEMAN?

Fence off the state of Connecticut from the Thames river to the New York line, make the capitol at Hartford the manor house, then place the front gate at New Haven, and you will have an estate of about the dimensions of the King ranch, in Hidalgo, Star and Nueces counties. One million acres and hundreds of thousands of cattle owned by one woman! Ranches containing from 100,000 to 500,000 acres are so numerous as to be almost commonplace.

But it is the breaking up of these vast holdings which is responsible for the sensational development now attracting the attention of all America. One optimistic Texan told me that the cattlemen had tired of silence and longed for company. May be they have. It is the jingle of gold, though, which has stirred them. From five to thirty acres of grass, according to the productiveness of the soil, are required to fatten one steer. So long as that steer's selling price pays, above all expenses, 6 per cent on the market value of the land, there is money in raising it. When the land increases In value, however, there is more money in selling the ranch. The steer is falling behind, and that is why Texas, from San Antonio, Houston and Galveston on the north to Brownsville on the south, is booming as it never did before. Mere outposts of a few years ago are the growth of the Fort Worth market. Perhaps so. flourishing young cities now; more towns are springing up, and there are great plantations where the rattle of the mower and the song of the plowman have supplanted the crack of the cowboy's lash and the soughing of the wind in the chaparral. Whither goes | future. the cattleman? To western Texas and the territories, and eventually into Mexico .- Review of Reviews for

The cattleman is not going into New Mexico to any alarming extent, and in west Texas he is no longer occupying the position he once filled. From every portion of the range country he is coming to our cities | Pierce company, a concern admitted to Texas on sworn and towns, investing his wealth in legitimate business enterprises and planting his dollars in valuable real estate. February.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars of money made out in the west Texas range country have been invested in Fort Worth real estate during the past three years. All the larger cattlemen who feel they have made their pile and who are looking for a place to settle down and enjoy life have turned to Fort Worth and are making their homes here. There is hardly a week that passes without the investment of some good bovine money in this city, and these former men of the range are also making themselves felt in Fort Worth business circles. They are interested in our banks, our commission houses and numerous other enterprises, and are showing the same ability in their new surrounding that was ever manifested in the old. And they are making honored and useful citizens. Indeed, if the range country has any more to spare this in our business.

The cattle business of Texas is undergoing a won-

The Ohio republican organization is in no better shape now than it was last fall when Governor Pattison carried the state.

But Standard Oll had not made that admission when Mr. Balley delivered the speech referred to. And to be perfectly fair to Senator Bailey we doubt if he knew of the Standard's ownership when he made that hurried return trip to Texas at the suggestion of David Francis to assist his friend, H. Schoolboy at Sixty

A man who is at least sixty years of age, and probably somewhat over that. has just commenced going to school in the first primary class in the Hefferon district, Campden township. His story is a very strange one. About fifty years ago, although the date cannot be definitely ascertained, he is known to have been an inmate of the county poorhouse, but no facts are now remembered by any one as to how he came to be placed there. Forty-five years ago the poor house was destroyed by fire, and in consequence of a law that was passed that same year this man, a boy then about fifteen years of age, must have been turned over to the authorities of Campden township, for there is a recital in the county books of the disposal made of the poor, and this shows that "one boy" was turned over to Campden, and it is supposed that this man was that boy. The first definite date in regard to him appears fifteen years later, at which time, as appears from the township records, "the boy Billy that has then sold the diamonds to a dealer in New York for $7,000. This prohibits the use of the title "Buster Brown" over or in any pictures by Richard F. Outcault or. any one else which may appear in the American and Journal. The contentions of the Herald, which were completely sustained by Judge La Combe, were that the American should be restrained from the infringement of the trade mark "Buter Brown," which is the uncontested property of the Herald. No claim made concerned any style of illustration, and the claim of the Herald was confined to the use of the words, 'Buster Brown." The decision of the court is based on the established fact that the Herald was the first to adopt and use. the words "Buster Brown" as a trade mark. Whether or not the original draftsman who made the "Buster Brown" pictures continued to make them is decided to be immaterial. "What Women Will Do," a melodrama with an English atmosphere, was the attraction which drew a fair sized audience to Greenwall's last night. There was a good deal of realism in the production which called for frequent applause in the upper sections of the house, and as a melodrama of the type its title signifies the production was satisfactory.
