TO FORECAST FOR A MONTH AHEAD

Chief of Weather Bureau Says It Will Be Done

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, March 31.—Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau at Washington, announced at the dinner of the Maritime Association that the weather bureau soon may issue forecasts for a whole month.

The weather bureau believes that for the first time in the history of meteorological science it has within it a grasp of the scientific basis of long-range weather forecasting—that is, forecasts of the character of the month to come.

The details are not yet complete, and the system will not be adopted for several months to come.

Mr. Moore said after the dinner that he had not intended to make this announcement at this time, but had planned to give it first to the public through the scientific publications.

Senate Likely to Adopt Only One House Amendment

DEBATE NOW RESUMED

Special Session Likely to Last Well Into Next Week According to Present Outlook

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 31.—Contest for the adoption of the blanket primary amendment to the senate bill, which amendment was attached in the house, was renewed this morning in the senate with renewed vigor.

Senator Chambers was the next speaker. He said that while he had been one of the 108 who had agreed to come here and correct the bill, he did not think that the contract was binding, and besides, he was going to vote as his constituents desire him to do.

Senator Hawkins was the next speaker. He favored the blanket primary amendment, also the amendment to exempt the smaller counties from holding primaries for county officers, as his people want it.

Senator Terrell also favored the blanket primary, but not the other amendment. He said he was of the opinion that the contract was not binding, and besides, he was going to vote as his constituents desire him to do.

Senator Martin also favored the blanket primary, because he said his people wanted it. He said he was here to represent his constituents, not to do anything that the governor or any one else wanted.

As several other speeches are to be made, it is not likely that the vote on the amendment will be taken until late this evening.

The caucus agreed upon a free conference committee of such men as Greenwood, Bresford, Love of Williamson, and others, who expect the senate to refuse to concur in the house amendments.

RECIPROCITY FOR CANADA HOPELESS

No Action by This Congress. To Protect Niagara Falls

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Convicted that reciprocity treaties with Great Britain for the establishment of closer trade relations between the United States and Canada are out of the question at this time, Secretary Root has determined to abandon the tariff question for the present, and is busying himself with other matters of vital interest to this country and Canada, and the hope of settling the points of difference which bid fair to be settled by the joint high commission called the Klondike gold strike caused negotiations to be broken off suddenly and engendered a feeling of hostility which did not subside until the mixed tribunal fixed the boundary between American and British mineral lands.

A canvass of the senate convinced Secretary Root that reciprocity was not to be considered at this session of congress. A score of mooted questions were under consideration when the Alaskan boundary dispute ended negotiations and focused the attention on the Alaskan question.

Secretary Root feels that the time has come for taking up the broken strands where the joint high commission left them, and it is believed that he and Governor Grey of Canada will soon make public some interesting plans for the settlement of international differences in address at the Pilgrims' dinner in New York tonight.

Preservation of Niagara Falls will perhaps meet the most interesting of the new international problems which have developed since 1888. Canada has shown a disposition to co-operate with this country to prevent the diversion of the water from the falls, and the report of the international waterway commission with respect to the basis for a treaty to protect the falls.

President Roosevelt has supplemented the efforts of the state department in this matter, and its early consideration may be expected.

FORT WORTH FAT STOCK SHOW

The people of all Texas and the Southwest are awakening to the importance and value of the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. The recent exhibition held in this city has produced an enthusiasm that is extending all over the country, and this promises to be a great advantage to the enterprise in the future.

The show of beef cattle at the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show was simply grand. Never before in this state were so many breeders of registered whitefaces and Shorthorns competing for ribbons and prize money brought together in the show ring.

position necessitated the putting up of that much cash by the business interests of the city, and as this has been the custom since the enterprise was inaugurated, it is time for a change, especially as the enterprise has grown to the proportions where it is capable of standing alone if conducted on business principles.

COLONEL PETERS GETS BUSY

There are a few people in the world who have been indulging in the belief that Colonel E. S. Peters, of Calvert, formerly vice president of the Southern Cotton Producers' association, had been put out of business by the lifting of his scalp lock by President Harvie Jordan. But they did not know the Calvert man. While a little disfigured, he is still in the ring, and he is sending out a lot of literature that is well calculated to make President Harvie Jordan spend some time in Texas.

The present condition of the cotton market is such as to stir the planting of a large crop of cotton with the consumption of over 12,000,000 bales, per annum and an average production of only 10,250,000 bales in the last ten years, with trade conditions the best and the cotton mills running full capacity, there is no danger of an over production of cotton this year.

The farmers in the states east of the river on account of the numerous cotton mills situated near them are well aware of the conditions and are taking advantage of same as a few reports will show. In Alabama the state commissioner of agriculture, R. R. Poole, says: "The sales of fertilizer tags are far in excess of any previous year."

"The sales of fertilizer tags are far in excess of any previous year." A message from Atlanta, Ga., says: "The Virginia-Carolina Chemical company are shipping 5,000 to 6,000 tons of fertilizer a week and all salesmen have been called in."

Greenville, S. C., wires: "Tax tags on fertilizer receipts this date is $132,000 against $22,000 for the whole of last season." With September, October and November contracts selling about 10,000 in New Orleans, there is no reason for not planting to take advantage of the prices.

If half what Mr. Harvie Jordan says is true as to what the farmers in the states east of the river are doing, and if the condition of the cotton spinning world is what Mr. Theodore H. Price says it is, there is no excuse for the farmers of the south not getting some of the benefit from these conditions.

I would recommend the use of improved cotton seed and the use of the fertilizers, that they pay well, has been the experience with them; also the best cultural methods. All lands are in the best of condition for planting and there is no reason why Texas should not stand first in amount produced per acre, as well as amount produced. Ten-cent cotton should do it.

Colonel Peters is using some nice stationery, and it is emblazoned with the notification that the gentleman is president of the Texas Cotton Producers' Protective association. All of which is evidence of the fact that Colonel Peters is neither a lame duck nor a dead cock in the pit. He has a position at the head of a cotton association with views diametrically opposed to those of President Harvie Jordan. He is satisfied with ten cent cotton, and advises the Texas farmers to plant heavily this year, just as, he asserts, they are doing east of the river.

Colonel Peters is a successful cotton man, and practices what he is engaged in preaching. It may be true that there is considerable animosity existing between President Peters and President Harvie Jordan, but when the Texas cotton crop is sized up this season it is going to be discovered the Peters advice has been more generally followed than that which emanates from his Georgia rival and antagonist.

There was much doubt expressed as to the result when that Missouri stripping went out after the Standard Oil trust, but he seems to have its scalp dangling complacently from his belt. And he did it in short order. Garfield has been dallying with the Standard Oil people for nearly a year, and has dug up nothing that affords any comparison with the results of the Missouri man's efforts. Perhaps if the President would put Hadley in Garfield's position there would soon be something more doing in Standard Oil circles.

Senator Hawkins is having the connection of some of the state officials at Austin with a banking institution in that city investigated, and it is a proper step. If Texas has any state officers who feel an inordinate desire to engage in the banking business they should be permitted to do so after they have amputated themselves from any connection with the state government.

The Panhandle Live Stock association will hold its seventh annual meeting in the city of Amarillo for three days, beginning April 17, and an interesting program is being arranged for the meeting. It is expected there will be a large attendance, and considerable trading will probably be done. The Panhandle association is composed of stockmen whose holdings are located above the line, and their stuff is eagerly sought for every season to go to Kansas and the southwest.

Fort Worth must keep up the lick in the matter of making extra efforts to obtain the next state democratic convention. There is no city in the state that can put forward more just and cogent reasons for the honor of entertaining the democracy, and the fight can be won if it is conducted in an uncompromising manner.

There is one fact brought to light in connection with the recent Fat Stock Show that should be carefully considered in the future. And that is it does not pay to make this great annual event the tail to some other kind of kite. The Fort Worth Fat Stock Show is an enterprise that is big enough to stand alone if necessary.

Cattle are reported dying down in the Concho country in considerable numbers as the result of the recent cold rains. It is said the number of fallen hides brought into San Angelo at this time is considerably in excess of the normal.

Judge Terrell still insists that his election measure was mutilated by a scoundrel, and it is a matter that should be thoroughly sifted. If there is venality in the action complained of it should be brought to the surface and the guilty person adequately punished.

It is to be hoped that South Texas will no longer threaten to throw off all the cover under the impression that North Texas is trying to saddle the blanket primary on that section.

A short and uneventful session of the state legislature is going to be very disappointing to the politicians, but it begins to look as if they will be compelled to take that kind of medicine.

The legislature is compelled by law to remain in session for three days, but it will be dangerous to greatly exceed that limit.

The man who patronizes home industry in Fort Worth is doing his duty in the matter of promoting a greater and more prosperous city.

THE TEXAS PRESS

Our South Texas friends ought not to be so suspicious, North Texas has no desire to take any undue advantage of South Texas and would have absolutely nothing to gain by so doing.—Denison Herald.

Our South Texas friends are not so badly alarmed as they pretend. They are only seeking to find spooks in order to have something to rant over.

William Jennings Bryan daily grows in the estimation of the American people and if something unforeseen does not happen his call to the Presidency of the United States in 1908 will be practically unanimous.—Beaumont Journal.

Not unanimous. There will be a few Republicans left who will be opposed to his nomination.

Tom C. Brady, county judge of Fannin county, talks right out in meeting and among other charges gives some very interesting figures about the existence of a stationery trust in Texas. It is time the people knew something about the graft that exists among the big stationery houses of the state.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

If there is graft among the stationery houses in Texas the fact should be made known, and Judge Bradley is doing a good work. Texas has no need of the grafter in any line of business, and he should be dealt with accordingly.

The effect of the recent cold weather on cattle is best evidenced by the many fallen hides which are being brought to the dealers here. During this week many hides were brought in. The first cold snap had little effect on the cattle, but the second one seems to have caused a good many. The hides are bringing a good price, but the cattlemen are not entirely out on the change of weather. It is estimated that about three fourths of the hides are from old cows, which were unable to stand the cold weather.—San Angelo Standard.

This is the first report of mortality among Texas cattle this winter, and it is to be hoped conditions are not so serious as indicated. Spring is at hand now, and it will not require much time to get all the thin cattle well on their feet again.

"Industrial education" is a cry that is now being heard throughout the state, but none too soon. How to work and how to properly use and enjoy the fruits of one's work are two great problems that ought to be mastered by every inhabitant of Texas.—Stephenville Empire.

Industrial education is of much moment to the people of Texas, and the general interest now being manifested in that direction is a good omen for the future. Industrial education has been too long neglected in this state, but it is not yet too late to get off on the right foot and remedy the deficiency.

The legislature is called to cure the wound of section 120, but the eminent physicians evidently think the law needs a constitutional treatment first to strengthen it against the operation. There's nothing like keeping the patient in bed to run up the bill of charges. Any one man with sense enough to cast a vote could correct the error made in the Terrell law in an hour, but it's dollars to electioneering cards the whole state legislature is ten days on the job.—Cleburne Enterprise.

Some of the candidates for state office have tried very hard to make a killing at the expense of the special session of the state legislature, but the indications are they are going to lose out.

THE TELEGRAM AND THE TEXAS PRESS

There have been found seven important bills passed by the last legislature defective in great part by lack of proper steps to make them efficient for the purposes for which they were enacted. Verily, somebody was very careless or inefficient.—Athens Review.

The last legislature holds the record for carelessness and inefficiency. Its work in that respect should be a constant incentive to future sessions to be a whole lot more careful and conscientious in the discharge of duty.—Fort Worth Telegram.

It should be an incentive to voters to exercise more care in choosing representatives, selecting only such as are both capable and conscientious—men who will represent the will of their constituents rather than a clique of politicians interested in defeating that will.—Houston Post.

State Treasurer Robbins has sold out his interests in the Panhandle, and it is not expected that he will make his home in that section again upon the close of his present term of office. It is rumored the treasurer may engage in business at Austin.—Fort Worth Telegram.

The gentleman evidently figures that it will be cheaper to move his property from the Panhandle than it would be to take the little Robbins out of their nice warm nests under the eaves of the capitol building.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

The Telegram does not claim to be much of a prophet, but it is willing to risk the prediction that the present week will see more politicians than members of the state legislature in Austin.—Fort Worth Telegram.

That's not prophecy—it's a cinch. Every member of the legislature is a politician, but every politician is not a member of the legislature.—Sherman Register.

Monta J. Moore in his opening speech at Waco made a noise just like a real candidate for governor.—Fort Worth Telegram.

Possibly it is a forerunner of a real campaign such as everyone has been predicting.—Denison Herald.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS Even the living skeleton may long for a fat job. An invitation to have a drink seldom dampens a man's ardor.

The profession that is most over-crowded is that of officeholder. A man never boasts of his bad habits till he breaks himself of them.

The man with an exalted opinion of himself may be a poor judge of human nature. It is sometimes easier to admit that we are wrong than to admit that the other fellow is right.

"Do you think Hamlet was insane?" asked the Boston man. "He hasn't gone into vaudeville, has he?" demanded the New Yorker, lastly.—Philadelphia Record.

SHOULD BE IN THE CENTER Secretary Taft will, it is reported from Washington, succeed Justice Brown on the supreme bench, and he may in the near future become chief justice. Well, if he were chief justice there wouldn't be so much danger of tipping up at one end of the bench.—Chicago Record-Herald.

HOTEL BIBLES

The proprietor of a newly furnished uptown hotel has given an order to a publishing house for 200 Bibles. "I have been hearing a lot lately," he said, "about hotel guests going wrong because there were no Bibles in their rooms. Several years ago it was the practice of many hotels to include a Bible in the list of necessary furniture. Gradually the people who were back of the enterprise lost interest, and the books disappeared. It now seems that many persons, particularly commercial travelers, complain of missing them. Frequently, they read a chapter before going to bed just to drive away the blues, but now they never get a chance to look inside a Bible. That being the case, it shall not be said that any man stopping at my house is driven to perdition for the want of a Bible."—New York Sun.

THERE ARE LIMITS

So long as the newspapers merely alleged that members of congress franked pianos, beds, dining room furniture, and carriages through the mails, there was no protest, but when one said that a cow had been sent in that way the house committee on postoffices called the editor up to explain that there are limits.—New York Evening Post.

TALL TALES FROM THE TALL TIMBER

she got a judgment against Piper for $900. He gave her a note and mortgage for the debt and then disappeared. The mortgage proved to be of no value, and Piper did not return to the state for fifteen years.

By that time the widow had died and the note descended to one William Traver, who sued Piper on it on his return to the state, setting up that it was not outlawed because Piper had not been a resident in the interval. Piper fought the case and claimed that he had been in the state all the time, but Traver succeeded in proving that he had been in the penitentiary of Maryland fourteen years of the time and won his case.

The judgment was for $1,900. Piper was now an old and feeble man, and a grandson of his, Thomas Hobbs, came forward, assumed the debt and gave his note for it, he being a young man of good means. Before the note came due, however, he failed in business and left the state.

Twelve years later, Abner Blake, to whom Traver had sold the note, found Hobbs living in Ohio and sued him on the note. Hobbs settled by giving his note for $2,000 signed by one Peter Smith as surety, and Blake sold the note to Oscar True for full face value.

Hobbs died insolvent and Smith ran away to Australia. He was good, and True sold the note to a man in Sydney, Abner Thoms, who sued Smith on it. The suit had to be tried on depositions from America and lasted six years. Thoms won it and then died. His heirs all lived in Norway and it took five years to settle up his estate. The judgment against Smith fell to one Karen Ord, but Smith had long since left Australia. After searching four years, Ord found Smith in Canada and sued him on the judgment. Smith made no defence and judgment was rendered against him and in favor of Ord for $4,000. Ord then died, leaving as his only heir a son 4 year old. Smith applied to be made guardian of the boy, and was so appointed. As such guardian, he fraudulently released the judgment of record, and later, made over all his property to a nephew, Edson Brock, and died.

When Ord's son came of age, in the year 1901, he brought suit to have the judgment reinstated and to recover the same out of the property turned over by Smith to Brock, with all interest. Brock had neglected to have Smith's estate probated and although he fought young Ord's suit for three years, he lost at last, and Ord recovered judgment against him for the entire debt, which, after more than a century of legal war, was paid over to Ord by Brock yesterday, the total amount being $9,300, which was paid down to Ord in gold.

HORSE SHOW TO BE HELD Event for May Is Voted by Directors

A meeting of the stockholders of the Fort Worth Driving Club was held at the Metropolitan Hotel Friday night, and it was decided that a committee of five members of the club and five women should be appointed by President Colvin for the purpose of arranging for a horse show to be held at the driving park during May. The horse show was also agreed at the meeting that initiation fee of the Driving Association should be increased to $50, and that when dues were paid in advance $2 should be remitted, making the dues $10 a year in advance and $12 otherwise.

HOW A CIRCUS HELPS BUSINESS It Takes Vast Amount of Meat to Feed the Animals—Big Money Left That it does local merchants some good to have a big circus like the Sells-Floto Shows to come to town is amply evidenced by the large contracts made by local dealers. It takes money to run a great show, and it takes a vast amount of material to feed the employees and animals. Circus people live well, and only the best of everything is used in the commissary department. That a big show leaves a liberal lump of money in a city at times is evident from the contracts made here. To a local coffee firm the mammoth order of 1,000 pounds of coffee was given. From an equally well known grocery house $200 worth of groceries was contracted. One hundred and fifty pairs of shoes were ordered from a local shoemaker. Will be added to the commissary wagon, three carcasses of beef came from a local butcher as well as 800 pounds of animal meat. Several hundred loaves of bread feed the hungry masses of the circus people daily, and these, too, come from local bakers. Seventy-five quarts of milk from Mrs. J. P. Pink, the only registered dairies in connection with the show, are also ordered. One of the busiest men in connection with the show is Peter J. Pink, the only registered commissary wagon business, who has charge of the feeding of the multitude as well as the purchasing for the hundreds of hungry mouths. The date for the big show is Monday, April 9.

DASHIEL DIVORCE IS HELD INVALID

More Complications in Suit to Collect Share of Damages

According to the decision of Judge Irby Dunklin of the Forty-eighth court in the case of Mary L. Collins vs. Morgan Bryan, guardian et al., just concluded, there are some Chicago divorcees that have no standing in his court. The story of this case, as told exclusively in The Telegram, while it was on trial, presented a very interesting question, as follows:

The plaintiff, Mary L. Collins, was the wife of George H. Dashiell of Fort Worth, and during the time she occupied in a wreck on the Texas and Pacific railroad. Afterwards he instituted suit for $25,000 damages in his own name against the railroad, and pending the trial the wife left her husband and went to Chicago, where, after residing a short time began divorce proceedings and a divorce was filed with the court.

Later, and before the trial of the damage suit, Dashiell was adjudged insane in the county court of Tarrant county, and Morgan Bryan was appointed guardian to manage his estate. The damage suit against the Texas and Pacific being a part of it, as guardian he prosecuted the suit and got judgment for $8,000, which was collected, half of it being paid to attorney.

The divorced wife, pending the trial of the damage suit, married Collins and when the money had been collected in the damage suit, she and her second husband filed suit to recover half of it, claiming the same by virtue of the wife's relation to Dashiell at the time the cause of action against the railroad company occurred.

Judge Dunklin, in deciding the case against Mary L. Collins, held that the divorce secured in the Illinois court was invalid for the reason that the court there had no jurisdiction of the suit, inasmuch as it appeared that the suit for a divorce was filed within a week after Mrs. Dashiell went there to reside. The court further held that the marriage between the plaintiff, Mary L. Collins, and G. H. Dashiell still exists, and that the property involved is still community property with the husband's right to manage and control it still in force. Notice of a motion for a new trial has been given and the case will be appealed.

NO ADVANCE IN PRICE OF COAL Steady With Quotations January 1 Coal dealers about Fort Worth report that the price of coal has made no advance since the beginning of the year. Prices in some classes of coal, however, are about 50 cents a ton higher than they were a year ago. Coal dealers here report that the supply of McAlister lump coal is good, as almost all have secured an extra supply of that kind of coal. Good lump coal sells here for $8 per ton. The supply of pit coal, which sells at $6 per ton at the present time, is limited and few of the dealers have a large supply on hand. Slack and peat coal which sells from $2.50 per ton up is practically sold out here and very little remains in the hands of Fort Worth dealers. Anthracite coal also remains at about the same prices as those of a year ago. Good Pennsylvania anthracite sells at $13 to $13.50 per ton, while furnace coal from Arkansas, which is semi-anthracite, costs about $9 a ton.

Favorable Developments in Labor Situation Reflected by Better Prices for General List
NEW YORK, March 31.—Stocks exhibited a remarkably good tone throughout the brief session today and values made more progress than is usually the case in a week-end session.

Wheat Prices Dominated by Bears

CHICAGO, March 31.—Bears dominated the wheat pit and succeeded in forcing prices off 1/4 cent during the session.
The decline should probably be attributed as much to the lack of interest on the part of the trade as to bearish pressure, for there was not any time any aggressive movements from either contingent, the bulk of the transactions being in the nature of liquidation by longs.

Corn

The corn market was characterized by extreme weakness which prevailed, scattered profit taking being about the only noticeable activity. Closing prices showed a net loss of 1/4 cent. Local receipts, 127 cars.

NEW YORK COTTON

Lack of Interest Prevailed. Trading Light—Final Feature. Show Small Loss
NEW YORK, March 31.—Lack of interest upon the part of the trade as a whole was the chief characteristic of today's cotton market. Although the week-end statistics were even better than anticipated and Liverpool advances were also encouraging, the market opened very quiet with prices unchanged for July and 2 points higher for May.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, March 31.—The usual Saturday dullness pervaded the atmosphere of the Cotton Exchange today and was somewhat intensified by conflicting advices regarding the situation, the most important feature of the news from a bullish standpoint being an official statement to the effect that spinners' takings for the week aggregated 255,000 bales instead of 213,000 bales, as reported last night.

NEW YORK STOCK

Saturday's Review and Sales. The cotton market was a typical Saturday market, neither doing much, but some liquidation on the theory that the weather will be fair enough to shift some prices. Trading was light and professional entirely. Liverpool was slightly better than due, but American markets opened practically unchanged. The weather map was not good, though better than yesterday's. Texas was cold, but with enough to shift some prices.

TROOPS MAY GATHER HERE

The United States war department at Washington, in view of the mobilization of troops in Texas, is seeking certain information as to the cost of maintaining troops at different points and has made inquiries of Captain Brack Carter of the Penitentiary to that end. Following is a letter received by him Saturday morning:
"Sir: The commissary general, United States army, in a recent letter directed me to prepare all the information obtainable that I can relative to the subsistence of the militia within the geographical limits of the military department of Texas. Accordingly I have the honor to request that you inform this office at the earliest date practicable or convenient to you, what is the general charge prevailing in your city for meals, and what you consider a reasonable charge per meal for a body of troops, your company for instance. It is assumed, of course, that in case of a mobilization of the troops of your city you will be the company rendezvous.
