request me to release members of the senate from the promise, either express or implied, to only restore section 129 at this session, as it passed the legislature. In reply I beg to advise you that I have received no request from any member of either house except yourselves for such release. I convened this special session for the specific purpose mentioned in the call, and further explained in my message to the legislature that the call was made upon the initiative of those members of the legislature who appeared to desire a special session for the sole purpose of correcting said section 129 as to make it conform to the meaning and language in which it was finally passed. I frankly state to you that no suggestion was made to me in reference to any other matter than such correction by any members of the legislature, who asked or agreed to the special session until after the call was made. I would not have convened this special session had I believed that other matters than that embraced in the call and my message was to be considered. I do not feel authorized to release any gentleman from any promise either made to me or to his fellow members. I must therefore respectfully decline to comply with your request. I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant. (Signed) "S. W. T. LANHAM," Governor.

Debate in Senate Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, April 3.—In the senate today there was a lively debate over the discharge of the senate free conference committee on the election bill. Quite a change came over the minority, as today it was the majority that favored discharging the committee, but their object was to have another free conference committee appointed. The matter was brought up by Senator Harper, who moved that the committee be discharged. Hanger Opposes Discharge Senator Hanger opposed the motion, as he said it was out of order, as it was not necessary, as the committee recommended nothing. Further, it was the house to say if the committee shall be discharged. Senator McKamy, who is opposed to the blanket primary amendment, said he could see no use in discharging the committee. It would mean a request for the appointment of another. Senator Leoney said: "Why go on with this strife? Let's adjourn and go home, as there seems to be no hope of the house and senate getting together." After further debate the senate refused to discharge the committee by a vote of 16 to 10. The senators who voted against discharging the committee, contending that it was not necessary, are in favor of merely correcting the error in the election bill. Report of the investigation committee appointed to investigate the state officials came up for adoption. It was discussed at length and, pending a vote, the senate recessed. Blanket Primary Pending Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, April 3.—The house today received from its second amendment to the senate election bill by a vote of 85 to 16. This is what is known as the "Prairie Dog" amendment, and exempts any county issuing 1,000 poll tax receipts for holding primary amendment. At noon today Chairman Greenwood, of the house free conference committee, reported that the conference committee was unable to agree and gave the details of how the matter was discussed in the committee room. When house recessed for dinner, the question of taking up the blanket primary was still pending. It may safely be said that the house is not likely to recede from the blanket primary amendment, but will more than likely pass the house bill, with the blanket primary amendment, and send it to the senate. The senate sine die resolution, adopted by that body last night was sent over to the house, but there was objection to it being considered and it was laid on the table, subject to call. Motion was made to take it up tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, but that was voted down and the resolution will be considered late this afternoon. Representative Bartholomew offered a resolution that the house declare itself in favor of a majority rule, in accordance with teachings of Jefferson and that the candidate receiving a majority of votes should be declared the nominee. No action was taken on the resolution. MELWEE AT EL PASO District Deputy B. P. O. E. to Install New Officers A. M. McElwee, district deputy of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, having jurisdiction over North and West Texas, has gone to El Paso, to install the officers of the local lodge Tuesday evening. Elaborate arrangements have been made to entertain him when he gets there, as this will be his first official visit to El Paso. MINERS TO MEET Conference at Strawn Called for Tuesday Afternoon Special to The Telegram. STRAWN, Tex., April 3.—A meeting of the miners' committee representing the unions at Thurber, Strawn and Lyra will be held this afternoon, at which it is expected the position of miners in this district will be outlined in preparation for presentation to the mine-owners. An attempt will be made to arrange a conference tomorrow night at Strawn, though no indications that such a course is desired has been made by the operators. The fruits of heaven are not in the life unless its climate is in the heart.

Brother William Not Like John D.

WILLIAM A. ROCKEFELLER.

The personality of William A. Rockefeller, second son of the horse trader of Tioga county, New York, who is reported as a victim of cancer, has always been overshadowed by his brother John D. Yet he is the second richest man in the United States. He is a wonderfully big man in the world of finance. No two brothers could be less alike. William A. possesses a just moral courage. He has always been physically fit, optimistic and good natured in his independence. At 17, William, who was two years younger than John, left school and became bookkeeper for a miller. At 21 he was a partner in a rival concern. Then he went into the oil business with John. When Standard Oil became big, William went to New York as first vice president and eastern representative, and he has managed with singular success the speculative end of the colossal monopoly. Wall street thinks he knows more of the details of Standard Oil than John D. himself. William Rockefeller married Almira Godsell and their first son, William G. Rockefeller, married, Elsie Stillman, the daughter of James Stillman, president of the National City bank. In this way William Rockefeller became intimately associated with the most powerful moneyed interests in the world. His second daughter, Emma, married Dr. David Hunter McAlpine, Percy Avery Rockefeller, the third child, married Isabel G. Stillman, and the fourth child, Ethel Geraldine Rockefeller, now in her 26th year, is unmarried. The real head of the gigantic amalgamation of railroad and industrial interests effected in the United States in the last ten or fifteen years is William Rockefeller, who succeeded Cornelius Vanderbilt in that powerful connection. Thus the Vanderbilt and Rockefeller interests are allied, controlling one-fourth of the railroad mileage of the state. William is today director or trustee of no less than forty-one great corporations, whose combined capital represents more than a billion of dollars. The fad dearest to the heart of William Rockefeller has been the improvement of his Adirondack estate. He bought 25,000 acres of beautiful mountain country, and from time to time has increased it until today it embraces more than 50,000 acres. He has had bitter disputes and numerous lawsuits with the holders of small properties in the coal region. His scheme for possession. The only time he has ever placed himself under the protection of an armed guard was when he considered himself in danger of assassination after he had driven native trappers, guides and fishermen from his estate. His property is guarded to this day, and though the streams running through it have been stocked with fish at the expense of the state, his guards have orders to shoot down persistent trespassers. Like his brother William regularly attends the Baptist church.

IN THE COURTS

In the Seventeenth district court the case of W. H. Nance vs. the Frisco and Northern Texas Traction company went to the jury after trial Tuesday morning. In the Forty-eighth district court the case of Hartshorn Bros. vs. R. L. Carlock and the city of Fort Worth, alleged damages to property, was on trial. In the county court the case of Bowden Tims vs. Fred Jones is on trial. Nothing was done in either of the justice courts. The county commissioners will meet in special term next Monday, the 9th inst.

MOUNTAIN AFIRE

Mount Signal Swept by Flames in Oklahoma Special to The Telegram. LAWTON, Okla., April 3.—A mass of surface blaze, four hundred feet wide and a thousand feet high, adorning the southwest side of Mount Signal, ten miles northwest of this city, was an interesting and inspiring spectacle never before witnessed by citizens of the section of the country. Mount Signal is a smooth-sided mountain, little more than a thousand feet high, with grass growing almost to the summit on the side. Saturday night this grass was fired in strips that appeared in the distance like long lines of red ribbon floating down from the summit of the mountain. The royal blue flames merged into one another and the entire surface became a huge blaze.

SENATOR LONG SPEAKS

Address on Rate Bill Made by Man From Kansas Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, April 3.—Mr. Long of Kansas made a set speech in the senate today on the court review amendment to the rate bill drawn up at the conference of senators with President Roosevelt. He read from the supreme court decisions, showing that the interstate commerce commission had the same right to regulate interstate rates that the state railway commissions had as to domestic rates.

Remanded to Jail

NEW YORK, April 3.—Thomas Wainwright, accused of robbing the home of Dr. Joshua Pinat in Minneapolis of property worth $100,000, was arraigned today and remanded to jail to await extradition papers. Wainwright admitted he was the man wanted. He said he had spent the money lavishly. He also told of addresses where much of the booty might be found, and told of a safety vault where $50,000 worth of stolen bonds were deposited. The man who has blisters to show does not need to talk about his burdens.

PENNSYLVANIA COSSACKS A NEW MILITARY FORCE

Special to The Telegram. (Copyright 1906, by Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n) WILKESBARRE, Penn., April 3.—In the event of a strike of coal miners the men will encounter a new military force in Pennsylvania—mounted bluecoats who are the agents of the state. The miners have dubbed them "Pennsylvania Cossacks." There are four troops of them, fifty men in each troop. Two of these troops are stationed in the hard coal region. The others, at the present time, are in the bituminous field at Greensburg and Pottsville. The mounted officers of the law are equipped with short pocket clubs and Colt's navy revolvers. In times of peace they are supposed to patrol the country within twenty miles of the barracks, but in times of strike they will be ordered to the scene. That John Mitchell is not wrong in charging that these men are really state strike breakers, as are the coal and iron police, was shown recently during a small strike at the Lebanon mines. Half of the troop located at Reading was hastily dispatched to the scene and a dozen arrests made. This action frightened the strikers and resulted in breaking their campaign. Each troop of "Cossacks" has been supplied with maps of the territory in which it is located and the map in hand, has marked upon it very plainly every colliery from Scranton to Nanticoke. The mounted police or constabulary is a picked body of men, and out of the 200 composing the force over 75 per cent have seen service in various parts of the regular army, while the remainder have served in the national guard. In the last strike the mine officials pressed into force a large number of strike breakers, under the guise of coal and iron police. President Mitchell at that time, charged that these men were hoodlums and toughs picked up in the slums of large eastern cities. While they were supposed to guard the mine property their chief business was to provoke violence, which they did successfully in many instances. Most of the far-heralded "rioting" of the last strike was induced by these men, the press agents for the operators sending broadcast over the country ex-

CROWDS AT CARNIVAL

W. O. W. Celebration at Mineral Wells Largely Attended MINERAL WELLS, Texas, April 3.—There were 5,000 people here attending the W. O. W. carnival. All places of business are decorated with bunting, and logs of wood with an old-time wooden wedges inserted, are in the show windows and in front of the stores. Yesterday the W. O. W. park on Lawn Place was dedicated and Miss Annie Richardson was declared queen of the carnival, she receiving the majority of votes. The Royal Italian band is furnishing music, assisted by the local band. This is the best music ever heard in Mineral Wells. Today is children's parade day and the schools of the town will be closed. A ball in honor of the Woodmen was given at the Hawthorn pavilion last night.

PROFESSOR TROOP LECTURES

Chicago University Professor Talks of the Author, Dickens A large crowd, including many of the teachers in city schools, heard Professor Charles Troop of the University of Chicago, lecture on Dickens at the Christian tabernacle Monday afternoon. The lecturer dealt largely with the humorous features of Dickens' works, praising the style in "Pickwick Papers," which he regarded as a masterpiece.

NEW RINK TO OPEN

Leaping the Gap to Be Seen at Fort Worth Floor Plans are now complete for the opening on the new Fort Worth skating rink on the corner of Third and Rusk streets, Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock. Announcements have been sent to about a thousand of the leading citizens of the city. A feature of the opening will be the leaping of the gap by D'Arrel, who will clear a gap of thirty-nine feet as announced. The incline for the leaping of the gap is now being erected at the rink. An inclined plane, rising gradually from a point four feet above the floor finds its highest point at the roof of the rink, and a second plane, sloping abruptly to the floor and separating from the other by a distance of thirty-nine feet, ends the apparatus except for a rope stretched across the end of the room to check the speed of the performer. D'Arrel goes down the first mentioned incline and leaps the gap onto the plane beyond. Work is being rushed in order to complete the floor in time for the formal opening.

The Opportunity of the Southwest

MEN WANTED

WHEN a manufacturer needs more men to increase his output he advertises. The increase in the output and consequent increase in wealth, of the Southwest depends on increasing the population.

Every man who settles in the Southwest increases the prosperity of that great empire, not only by the products of his brain and his muscle, but because he is a consumer in his own market. If he brings a family he consumes that much more.

Advertising—the right kind of advertising—will not only bring men and their families into the Southwest to live, but advertising will bring to the rest of the people in the United States a story of the resources and advantages of the Southwestern empire which will be interesting reading to both capital and labor.

The proper exploitation of these advantages is simply a matter of advertising them to the greatest number of people who might be interested.

And just as the ways and means of advertising different commodities and the manner of presenting their merits to the public are different, so different methods—special methods—should be applied to state, municipal or land advertising.

The Land and Municipal Department of the Lesan Company is under the direction of Mr. Frederic W. Taylor, Chief of Agriculture and Horticulture at the World's Fair in 1904. Mr. Taylor's great familiarity with the advantages and products of different parts of the United States, brings to this department a highly specialized knowledge and experience of the greatest value to any advertiser in the Southwest, whether city, corporation or individual.

Any inquiries will receive prompt attention.

NO WHISTLE IN LAST CANVASS

Confidence, However, That the $12,000 Will Be Raised

While no whistle was blown Tuesday at the regular time to indicate that another thousand had been passed in the canvass for the addition to the Y. M. C. A. building, Secretary Jones states that prospects are bright for the completion of the canvass for $12,000, and that the whistle announcing the eighth thousand would probably blow before the day closed.

Another committee has now reached the top of the thermometer column. B. B. Paddock and W. E. Paddock completing the canvass for $1,000 on Monday. This makes the fifth committee that has passed the mark set. The first subscribers to the special traveling men's committee came in by mail Tuesday morning. Over 175 letters were sent out by Secretary Jones to traveling men, soliciting subscriptions. No column will be assigned to this committee, but the total of the amount will be posted on the bulletin board.

Work on the young business men's committee is now progressing favorably. A list from the Nash Hardware Company was handed in Monday night and lists are now being circulated among the Wells-Fargo and T. R. James & Co. employees. The list circulated among the railroad men now shows a total of $650, but it is understood that subscription lists which are still outstanding have enough to complete the $1,000.

TAXES DISCUSSED

Large Attendance at First Open Hearing of State Board

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 3.—There was quite a large attendance yesterday on the first open hearing of the state tax board, which began hearing evidence offered by the legal representatives of the railroads and other representatives of these corporations relative to the assessing of the intangible assets of these corporations. It is likely that the hearing will occupy several days, as it appears to be the intention of the railroads to discuss the question fully before the board.

Among those present at the hearing are: Judge H. M. Garwood, general attorney of the Southern Pacific; Judge N. A. Stedman, general attorney of the International and Great Northern; Judge T. J. Freeman, general attorney of the Santa Antonio and Aransas Pass; Judge J. W. Terry, general attorney of the Santa Fe; Judge N. H. Lassiter, general attorney of the Rock Island; Judge M. A. Spooner, general attorney of the Texas and Denver City; W. G. Van Vleet, general manager of the Atlantic division of the Southern Pacific, and others.

County Attorney Neal and Constable Will Johnson, of Taylor, have organized a court of inquiry and Editor Hawkins will be summoned tomorrow.

The Law and Order League met here today and offered $25 reward for any information leading to the conviction of violators of the local option law. The league paid one reward today.

BELFAST OWNS CARS

Street Railway in Irish City Turned Over to Municipality

Municipal street railways at Belfast, Ireland, were put in full operation on Dec. 5, 1905, according to a report from United States Consul Knabenshue of Belfast. The city was the last one of any magnitude in the United Kingdom, the consul states, to change from horse to electric traction and private to public ownership. The franchise did not expire until 1907, but through negotiations between the company and the city, and by the aid of a parliamentary act in 1904, the property of the company was acquired by the city. The streets total 100 miles of double track, or, with turnout, a track mileage of seventy-five miles.—Engineering News.

SCOTT'S SECURES TWO PROPERTIES

Main Street Real Estate Transferred Today

MANY TRANSFERS MADE

Purchases Aggregate $58,000 Being Secured From Morgan Jones and J. F. Zurn of This City

Winfield Scott added seventy-five feet to his already large holdings in Main street Monday, when he purchased two pieces of property on the lower end of street. His holdings in Main, Houston and Rusk street now amount to about 1,100 feet all told, of which the larger part is in Main street. Two hundred feet of this property is in Rusk street, being part of the Metropolitan hotel, with Main street frontage also.

One purchase was made Monday from Morgan Jones of ground on the west side of Main street between Sixteenth and Front streets. The property purchased from Morgan Jones is on Main street and is occupied by a two-story brick building, now occupied by Crozier's jewelry store and McConnell's news store. The lot runs about 85 feet. The deal was made through Lygon, Dickinson & Co., the property selling for $40,000. The deal is one of the largest for cash consideration that has been made in this city for some time, equaling the price paid by H. E. Crowds of Dallas when he purchased the Page property at Eleventh and Main streets.

The other sale made Monday was that by J. F. Zurn, alderman from the Eighth ward to Mr. Scott also. The property is located on Main street, between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, immediately joining the new building erected by George Reynolds. Mr. Zurn and Mr. Scott were about to begin the erection of a new building on the lot, there with a frontage of 100 feet. Mr. Zurn owning the inside twenty-five feet, but his sale of Monday will give the entire building to Winfield Scott. Three-story buildings to be erected within the past few months, as the Reynolds building has just been completed. Terms of the sale were announced, but it is understood that the price paid was in the neighborhood of $18,000.

Justice John L. Terrell went to the place where the body was found and after viewing it and the surroundings had it brought to the L. P. Robertson undertaking establishment where it is held for the family of the deceased. The dead man was fully identified not only by the ring on his finger but by a tattoo mark on one arm, by his clothes and by people who knew him intimately. He had been living in Fort Worth for a number of years, having been for three years in the employ of the McCord-Collins company prior to accepting employment with the L. P. Robertson. With this company he worked as a checker of shipments on the dock. He came to Fort Worth from Hillsboro, where he has a father, Hollie Brown, and other relatives.

RAILROAD RUMBLING

Between Palestine and Athens, Texas, there is a busy force of surveyors marking out a line for a railroad. Where they will go for their pay checks is, however, a mystery, as the line has been gratuitously tendered in north and south Texas papers to many systems in turn only to meet with rebuffs.

A process of elimination finally left the project fastened upon the Frisco and the Vice president and General Superintendent Drake, who is in charge, though not completely severing it, by the statement that if the Paris-Houston line is a Frisco proposition, he is not aware of the matter. In response to direct query, however, Mr. Drake declined to say that the line is not a Frisco interest, merely reiterating his former statement.

MAN'S DEATH STILL MYSTERY

Coroner Unable to Get Evidence in Brown Case

NECK WAS DISLOCATED

Condition Seems to Indicate Natural Causes Rather Than Foul Play

Although the mystery in the death of W. E. Brown of Roster Heights, is still unsolved, an autopsy performed yesterday morning seems to clear away some of the suggestions of foul play which were offered when Brown's body was found underneath the Fort Worth and Denver trestle, just east of Samuels avenue.

The autopsy disclosed that Brown's neck had been dislocated and that his left lung was full of blood. It is suggested that neither of these conditions would be likely to follow an attack, and would be more probable after an accident. Pending further evidence, no verdict has been returned by Justice Terrell.

At the place where the body was found the trestle is not over twelve feet high, hardly enough to kill a man who fell from it unless he struck on his head in such a way as to break his neck, and there is no evidence that this was the case.

The body was found by Fort Worth and Denver section men at 7 o'clock Monday morning. There were but few marks on the body. His pockets were turned inside out and there was nothing in them. The person who was found plain gold ring on the little finger of the left hand. On the inside of the ring the name of W. E. Brown was engraved. At his home it was reported Monday he had out a small sum of money, with him Sunday and no jewelry.

No Coroner's Verdict

Justice John L. Terrell went to the place where the body was found and after viewing it and the surroundings had it brought to the L. P. Robertson undertaking establishment where it is held for the family of the deceased.

The dead man was fully identified not only by the ring on his finger but by a tattoo mark on one arm, by his clothes and by people who knew him intimately. He had been living in Fort Worth for a number of years, having been for three years in the employ of the McCord-Collins company prior to accepting employment with the L. P. Robertson. With this company he worked as a checker of shipments on the dock. He came to Fort Worth from Hillsboro, where he has a father, Hollie Brown, and other relatives.

Last Seen Here

He was in the city until shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday night, a number of friends saw him on Main street at that time. They do not know when he left the city for North Fort Worth. While in the city he spent some money. Mr. Brown was seen by a number of people in the city Sunday night, but he was not intoxicated, a theory suggested to explain a fall from the trestle.

An Old and Well-Trusted Remedy

BAD DOLLARS IN CIRCULATION

One Found in Church Collection

Bank tellers in Fort Worth have been on the alert all day scrutinizing every dollar that has come into the windows looking for a new counterfeit that has just appeared, first report of the dollar having probably come from this city. The counterfeit is an exceedingly dangerous one, as it resembles the real dollar very closely. The counterfeit, of which there were discovered Monday, is dated 1890 and is given the small "0" of the New Orleans mint.

Both dollars were discovered by Sam Triplett, at the First National bank, when presented to him for deposit. The first came from a mercantile house in this city and was discovered by Mr. Triplett as soon as he felt the coin. After a second one appeared, this time in the money deposited from a church collection. They were almost identical in appearance, being new.

No way could be discovered of tracing the counterfeiters. They were both pronounced so by Mr. Triplett and later in the day turned over to a government expert who is in the city and he also pronounced them counterfeit, also stating that he had not heard of the new dollar before. Information will be given to the government secret service immediately.

Inquiry at the other banks in the city Tuesday failed to locate any more of the counterfeit dollars, although every 1890 dollar was receiving more than the usual scrutiny.

One Side Bad

The face of the new counterfeit is almost perfect while the reverse is not so. The most noticeable defect is not complete in the form of the lettering and the milling. The letters seemed to have been pressed in and do not show the stamping of the letters as the government coin does. The letters, when compared with a government dollar, appear less distinct. About the edge of the coin there is a straight line all around the milling not found in good coins. The reverse of the coin also seems to have been pressed in so that the coin when held against the light has an indented appearance. The counterfeiters while appearing to be made of silver all the way through instead of having a silver plating, are a little thicker than the ordinary dollar.

WEATHER OFFICE TO REMAIN HERE

Chief of Bureau Refuses to Indorse Request for Removal

Frequently, within the past few months, there have been rumors, some of which have appeared in print, that the department of agriculture contemplated moving the office of the weather bureau now in Fort Worth to some other city, usually Dallas, according to the reports.

The telegram at different times has called attention to the fact that one of the most important parts of the weather bureau's work is the preservation of records in the cities where its branch offices are located, and that because of this policy it is seldom that any office is removed.

The Fort Worth office is one of the most important west of New Orleans in view of the large territory which it supplies with weather information. To definitely settle the rumors regarding a change in the office here, the managing editor of The Telegram wrote to Professor Willis L. Moore, chief of the United States weather bureau at Washington, asking regarding the possibility of the Fort Worth office's removal.

The following reply was received Tuesday morning:

Dear Sir—In answer to your letter of the 28th instant, permit me to say that we have been requested to establish a weather bureau station at Dallas, Texas, but, as we do not desire to close the station at Fort Worth, and as it is impracticable to maintain two stations as close to each other as Dallas and Fort Worth, the matter has not received my favorable indorsement. Very truly yours,

WILLIS L. MOORE,
Chief U. S. Weather Bureau.

Fire at Rosen Heights

A fire was discovered Monday night at the residence of W. Parker, who has just moved into his new home at 2315 Chestnut avenue. The origin of the fire is unknown. It was discovered about 2 o'clock by Mr. and Mrs. Parker who were awakened by their room being filled with smoke.

The alarm was given as quickly as the fire was discovered, a bucket brigade was organized and succeeded in saving the houses of J. Pollock and S. O. Lovejoy which stood on either side of the burning one.

The Parker residence was a new four-room house that had just been completed. The family having moved in Monday. The loss on building and furniture is about $1,500, partly covered by insurance.

Railroad Men Interested in Local Man's Invention

Railroad men familiar with locomotive construction are interested in the invention of W. J. Inman of Fort Worth, who has just secured a patent through A. L. Jackson for his locomotive valve gear. The patent was issued March 27.

It is said that Mr. Inman's invention is of great value wherever steam-driving power is used and the inventor has already been offered a large sum for his rights. Mr. Inman has constructed an expensive model of his invention, which he has explained to a number of interested persons who have called at his home.

HAD HEART PAINS

THE VITAL ORGAN ATTACKED BY RHEUMATISM.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the Best Remedy for This Critical Trouble.

While Mr. W. S. Geisel, of No. 124 East Coates street, Moberly, Mo., was steadily working at his trade in a foundry at that place, he became the victim of an attack of rheumatism, and his experience is that of thousands who are compelled to work in similar surroundings. He describes his situation as follows:

"I had been at work for a long time in a foundry where I was exposed to dampness. When my feet began to burn and to swell, then my knees and my shoulder joints began to be affected by the same way. Finally I could not walk without great difficulty and suffering and had to stop work altogether. My appetite was feeble and I grew very pale and weak. I began to have pains about my heart and it fluttered a great deal. I became greatly alarmed about my condition. My mother knew about the virtues of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as they had given her back her health when she was nearly wasting to death, and when she found that they were good for rheumatism too, she began to give them to me about a month after I was attacked. That was in the early part of March, 1903, and by June they had driven away the pains and swelling and had restored my appetite and color. Then I felt strong enough to take up a line of outdoor work and now, in October, I regard myself as entirely well and I am about to go into a foundry again at St. Louis."

Rheumatism is one of the most obstinate diseases to treat after it has once gained a good foothold. The power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has been tested in extreme cases and no one should despair of a cure if he has not tried this sovereign remedy. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so efficacious, because they begin at once to change the character of the blood, in which the disease is seated. They also cure other diseases springing from impure blood or disordered nerves, such as scrofula, locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis and all forms of weakness in male or female. They may be had at all druggists or directly from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schuylkill, N. Y.

STANDING UP FOR WEST TEXAS

Under this head the Fort Worth Telegram clips an extended conversation between The Telegram and the Times and adds:

The Telegram would not detract one iota from the prestige and standing of old Red River county as an agricultural community, but The Telegram has sufficient interest in west Texas to stand up in defense of that section when it is being traduced by any other section of the state. Those hardy and enterprising western people deserve better treatment and that fact is becoming recognized throughout the state. West Texas has disadvantages enough without suffering from misrepresentation.

The people of west Texas like those of Red River county, pick cotton in the fall. But the trouble is that a man can cultivate so much more of west Texas soil than he can in east Texas, that the matter of harvesting his crop becomes a serious matter. It is for this reason alone the people of west Texas are still busy picking cotton.

The Times has never entertained the least fear of The Telegram or any other paper detracting "one iota" from the prestige and standing of old Red River county since the famous long staple cotton produced in this immediate vicinity has made both the county and Clarksville famous among the leading markets of the world. Last year the prices of this cotton reached as high as eighteen cents per pound and with a new supply of seed the farmers of good old Red River will this year even surpass any former effort. Last year a very short crop was gathered in this county on account of the excessive rains of the spring and summer, an occurrence never before known in this section, but the Times is pleased to state that present conditions were never better and it stands ready to notify The Telegram that "old Red River county" will gather a half bale to the acre, and of the good kind, too, during the fall of 1906.

While last season was truly an exception in this county the same may be said of the western section of the state. For many years that country had made little or nothing and one good crop seems to have turned the attention of the professional mover to that direction. A very small percentage of the land owners have left Red River, Lamar, Fannin and other counties, and it might be truthfully added that a majority who have gone are among those who have not lived in these counties a very great length of time. The effects of these removals have, naturally, been apparent here, but not to the extent generally imagined in other sections of the state, as is daily proven by the man who attempts to purchase lands in either of the counties of this immediate section of the state.

Some of these have imagined that lands might be had almost for the asking and are surprised to learn that conditions here are really as good as they were twelve months ago. The banks show handsome deposits and the books of the county show within eighty dollars of as much ready cash on hand, while only a few score less tax receipts have been issued this year. The places of those who have moved out have been filled until the public schools of this city are now showing a greater enrollment than at this time last year.

The Telegram contends that a man can cultivate more soil in that section of the state than in Red River county, and The Telegram is correct in this. Any man can make a good living on twenty-five acres of the black waxy soil of good old Red River county. The land is so rich that it is never necessary to control a whole section in order to make enough to live upon. The soil of that section does nicely when it produces what is planted upon it—and it has never done that satisfactorily until this year—and has another advantage over that of Red River county in that it may be used in the manufacture of brick—when properly fertilized—but of course The Telegram knows what character of soil is best suited to sand bar and brick culture.

But, seriously, Texas is quite large enough for all of us and the Times trusts that The Telegram's folks may reap another full grown harvest of the fleecy staple peculiar to that district, while its own neighbors get busy with a big crop of the "long staple" variety which has made old Red River county famous, and which, the Times hereby guarantees, will make her a little "famouser" this year.—Clarksville Times.

ONE OF THE THINGS DEARER THAN MANY MILLIONS IS THE NEW BORN BABE

In a thousand editorials the Rockefeller baby has been discussed as the heir of millions. And the American people's virtuous contempt for wealth has been expressed in a thousand sneers for an innocent baby that happens to have been born rich.

This thought of a baby only in connection with its wealth is a stab in the mother-heart wherever it beats—an insult to the highest, sweetest, strongest passion known to humanity.

A babe's but a babe throughout the world. This one came as naked as the rest of us came. Its hands were as empty as were our own. It yearned first for the mother as did we. For the human instincts are the first and the last.

We noisily chatter over the fact that this baby is to be the chief heir of the richest man in the world. But what can money mean to this or any other babe? Are its eyes any brighter, is its smile any sweeter, or the touch of its lips upon its mother's breast any tender, because of the fortune that awaits it?

To it the clink of coins is but a sound, the tints of bills and bonds are but a flare of color, and all the fortunes in the world mean less to it than the clasp and kiss of love.

The pure soul fresh from the heart of God is too wise to be dazzled by the glittering bauble of wealth, which later we sink to worship. The babe's mind and heart and soul, like the soft, strong tendrils of the vine, cling only to the stanch passion and impulses and emotions that endure.

The little mite of humanity possesses possibilities that cannot be calculated. The tiny hands that clasp and cling to everything within their reach have the beginnings of immeasurable power for good or ill.

The infant mind is virgin soil for whatever seeds modern civilization may sow in it; and according to the planting the fruit will be bitter or sweet, yielding sustenance to the common human impulse or being poisonous to it.

The now tender, tractable heart will some day beat strong with love or hate.

These are truths which every mother-heart turns to as swiftly and unerringly as the compass-needle turns to the lodestone.

For there are things dearer than money, and a newborn babe is one of them.

YOUR BOY'S HANDICAP

Be careful how you pamper your boy. There's a man inside of him if you can get it out. But manhood is made by putting flesh and blood and soul against sharp corners. It is a cruel process but the only one.

It is natural for a parent to try to shield his child from the hardships the parent went through. And so the boy sleeps late and finds fault with his breakfast and talks loud to his mother. The home is padded for him. His schooling costs him nothing. There is money in his pockets that he never earned. Everything is done for him instead of by him. And an estate is accumulating for his use.

All this is fatherly.

You are simply taking away the boy's chance to make a man of himself. Sometime, somehow, he must grow strong by striving. He will never learn to swim without breasting the swift current.

You can save him suffering. But character is perfected by suffering. Unless he meets and masters difficulties he will always be a flabby weakling. And you may leave him money but he will not know how to use it or save it. He will lack fiber. You cheated him of the chance to get it. He will lack sympathy for the striving, tough with those who climb upward. Because you shielded him.

Life will give no man his own. He must climb up and take it.

Hard lines for your boy? Yes, for us all. Self-reliance is at the base of all that is good and strong.

Don't pamper your boy. Let him use himself to make himself. The greatest handicap to the child of the well-to-do is that he has too much done for him. Give your boy a chance. Let him make a man of himself by himself and for himself.

John Alexander Dowle has been removed from the position he has so long occupied as the official head of Zion, and even his wife has forsaken him, alleging the "Apostle" to be insane. Dowle is in Mexico, and is preparing to make a big fight for the retention of his power, but it appears the opposition has the upper hand.

The men who are investing money in Fort Worth real estate today are the ones who will reap an abundant harvest in the future. Fort Worth is growing rapidly and will soon eclipse every other Texas city. No better investments can be found in Texas than Fort Worth realty at prevailing prices.

At any rate, enough people voted in Fort Worth today to insure the election of a mayor, and that is a consummation to be devoutly thankful for. The people of this city are not taking the proper interest in political matters, and one of these days they will suffer from their indifference unless there is an awakening.

Candidates for governor have been very persistent in their attentions at Austin during the past week, and instead of a special session called for the purpose of correcting the Terrell election law, there seems to have been a very ardent desire to transform the assemblage into a gubernatorial boom convention.

Now that the Fat Stock Show has been successfully held, there is more time to devote to the matter of obtaining the next state democratic convention, and the citizenship of Fort Worth should be up and doing.

The railways are bringing many people to Texas these days, and a great work is being accomplished in the growth and development of the state. This work is not confined to any exclusive portion of the state, but all Texas is reaping a proportionate benefit.

Senator Bailey brushed aside Judge Cowan's objections to the senate rate bill in the twinkling of an eye. Judge Cowan is an able lawyer, he has made an exhaustive study of rates and rate making, but it is all of now. He has been whisked aside by the Achilles of the senate.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Senator Bailey huffed and he puffed and he thought he blew Cowan's house down. But he didn't. The Cowan contentions are based on something, that will require more than an exhibition of ill temper to overcome.

The last dispatches from Austin are quite encouraging, and the men who are making the fight for the blanket primary will, whatever the result, have the satisfaction of knowing that they acted in good faith with the people who elected them. They can see that their sole obligation is to the people of Texas and not to Governor Lanham or to Judge Bell. They owe nothing to the governor or to the candidate, but they owe everything to the people of Texas.—Houston Post.

But they do not owe it to the other candidates for governor to override the call made for the special session and seek to illegally fasten something upon the law that can only be placed there at a regular session.

The Fort Worth Telegram insists that Texas will never succeed in solving the cotton problem until she has provided the proper and necessary manufacturing facilities—more cotton mills.—Brenham Banner.

The Telegram believes it is a waste of effort to talk reduction of acreage when the farmers are all bent on planting more cotton. The only sensible thing to do under such circumstances is to provide a better outlet for the product.

Concerning Senator Culberson's amendment to prohibit railroad companies from making contributions to political campaign funds the New York World says: "The amendment ought to receive a unanimous vote in both houses. It is the first and a most important step toward a general corrupt practices act to protect the purity of federal elections.—San Antonio Express.

Senator Culberson can usually be depended upon to score in the proper manner. His rate bill and the amendments he has offered to the pending measure have been recognized by the people of the entire country as the product of a master mind.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, April 3.—In the landslide that befell Alton B. Parker two years ago the district represented for so many years by J. R. Williams of Illinois went Republican, and Pleasant T. Chapman defeated that Democratic warhorse. Since then the people of the district, who had grown accustomed to seeing Williams' name in the papers every few days, have been waiting eagerly and vainly to see Chapman's.

Mr. Dickson of Illinois, also a Republican, called Chapman over to him. He had a bunch of Illinois papers that had just come in.

"Here, Chapman," said he, "is a suggestion in one of my home papers that might interest you."

Chapman took it and read: "The Democrats of the Twenty-fourth district should take immediate steps to fill the vacancy caused by the election of Pleasant T. Chapman to the house of representatives."

"What's that?" said Chapman. "I don't understand. Fill the vacancy caused by the—oh, yes, yes, I see."

In his speech in the house Adam Bede was talking about the administration and its measures.

"I like the President," he said. "I like him because he is engaged in a great work and in a great way. I like him because he permitted a member of this house to break into his private family life without sounding the alarm. I like him because when he got ready to give his daughter away he gave her to a real American, in every way worthy of the gift, and not to some demagogue prince, who would be unappreciative of our institutions. I like him because when he gave her away he gave her to a member of the house of action and correction at this end of the capitol, and not of the house of detention at the other."

During the debate in the house Mr. Burton of Ohio, dilating upon the treasures in the congressional library, remarked that on its shelves were works of Thomas Jefferson which contained not only his bookmarks, but his thumbmarks.

"Does the gentleman take any pleasure," retorted Mr. Hepburn, "in ascertaining the fact that Thomas Jefferson was not as cleanly in his habits as he ought to have been? Does that improve the public mind?"

"Is Attorney General Moody in?"

"I'll see," said the colored attendant. He went in and took a look and then came back and reported: "He's in, Sah, but he's takin' a sleep."

"Can't you wake him up?"

The messenger was scandalized. "Why, boss," he said, "it's agin de constitution to wake him up when he's takin' a nap."

One trouble with Fort Worth is that we have some people who stay at home so much they are not in position to judge of the progress this city is making. FISHING FOR GEESE

WHEATLEY, Minn., March 31.—Justice of the Peace Gottlieb Braubart, of Wheatley, decided today in favor of the defendant, Sherman Vicar, a suit that has been pending in his court for a long time.

Vicar was arrested on complaint of the game warden for hunting wild geese out of season and put up the defense that the court was without jurisdiction, owing to the peculiar manner in which the geese were taken, for Vicar did not deny that he has captured quite a number of the wild fowls and at a time when it was forbidden by statute to hunt them.

His plan was as follows:

At the time the geese were making their annual migration, and when large flocks of them were very often seen in the sky, both by day and by night, Vicar prepared a small balloon, which he allowed to rise to a great height, probably more than a mile, safely secured to the earth by a fine, strong, silken cord. The balloon went up so far above them as to be beyond their notice and to cause no danger of their being frightened out of their usual course of flight by its appearance.

Fastened by a slender thread to the balloon cord, at about the height of the usual flight of geese, was another cord, the upper end of which swung out a hundred feet or more from the place where it was fastened, and the lower end of which reached the earth and was held by Mr. Vicar. There was a fine, strong hook, some think like a fish hook, fastened to the upper end of the cord and baited with a small minnow. When Vicar saw a flock of wild geese approaching through the air, he would run along the ground with the cords in his hand so as to bring the baited hook as nearly as possible in their line of flight, and, if he were successful in the attempt, and succeeded in getting the dangling minnow within not over fifty feet of the birds, one of them was pretty sure to leave his companions, dart through the air, seize the little fish and thus impale itself on the hook, whereupon Vicar would fasten the balloon cord to a tree, and by means of the other cord reel in the geese which had, at the very first pull on the line, broken the small thread that attached it to the balloon cord.

It was very difficult to do, for, except by long practice and a sort of natural gift, it was practically impossible to correctly gauge the line of flight of the geese, or to get the bait anywhere within frange of them, and unless it was quite close they would pay no attention to it.

But Vicar had the knack perfectly and made big catches of the geese while they were flying by. The game warden struggled hard to secure his conviction, but the justice agreed with the defendant in his position that the height at which the birds were caught took the act entirely outside of the purview of the statute and beyond the jurisdiction of the court, and Vicar was discharged and the warden required to pay the costs.

TERRELL PRAISES SCHOOL LAND ACT

Land Commissioner Furnishes Actual Statistics

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, April 3.—Land Commissioner Terrell yesterday afternoon made public the following letter, addressed to the governor, which explains itself.

Letter to Governor

AUSTIN, Texas, April 2.—His Excellency, S. W. T. Lanham, Governor of Texas, Austin, Dear Sir: In our conversation on Monday, the 27th inst., you would like to know something of the operation of the present land law approved by you April 15, 1895, and under which sales began on Sept. 1, 1895. I now submit a brief statement covering the first six months, to-wit: From Sept. 1, 1895, to Feb. 28, 1896.

1. By reference to the official reports of commissioners of the general land office, the Hon. A. J. Baker, of August 31, 1895, page 31, the Hon. Chas. Rogan, of August 31, 1895, page 23, and my own report of August 31, 1894, page 6, it will be seen there were sold during the ten years 18,955,259 acres or an average of 947,764 acres for each six months during that period 1,966,619 Acres Sold

2. Within the first six months under the present law I have sold (exclusive of mineral sections, timber and other erroneous awards) 1,565,619 acres. There are now pending applications, which were filed during these six months, but which have not yet been awaiting designation of home tracts or other legal cause, which will, when accepted, make the total sales, during this period, amount to 2,900,000 acres, or twice as much as has heretofore been sold in the same period of time.

3. Of course the sale of land with draws it from lease and to that extent reduces the receipts from lease rental; however, this present falling off in the former appears to be due to the fact that it comes out of the new sales at the advanced price, be more than made up in interest. In addition to this, the sales of the school lands, which are of great value, which will be another fruitful source of revenue not only to the state and counties, but also to the cities.

CONFERENCE TO MEET

Waxahachie Methodist District Meeting at Itasca April 24

ITALY, Texas, April 3.—Rev. James Campbell, presiding elder of the Waxahachie district of Methodist Episcopal church, South, will preside over the deliberations of the district conference, which will be held at Itasca, April 24 to 27.

Much Land Previously Sold

"Practically all of these lands in the Panhandle and eastern counties of the state, as well as by far the greater portion of the more valuable of such lands in the west, north of the Texas and Pacific railroad, had been sold prior to my incumbency. I have had to do the best I could with the less valuable or refuse, so to speak."

ANOTHER DELAY IN PATRICK CASE

Witnesses From Texas to Be Heard Wednesday

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, April 3.—Hearing in Albert T. Patrick's application for a new trial on the charge of killing William Marsh Rice, the Texas millionaire, was resumed today, after postponement of several days.

Patrick, who is in the death house at Sing Sing prison, was to have been executed last month, but was reprieved in order to allow time for the completion of the present hearing.

Today Assistant Attorney Garvin asked for a further two weeks' delay in order to prepare medical testimony. It was announced last week that witnesses from Texas, who are here waiting for the trial, had begun embalmment tests on two human bodies to learn whether an embalming fluid, symptoms of chloroform poisoning similar to those of the murdered Texan's body, that such effects would be produced.

GREEN BUGS ARE AGAIN REPORTED

Young Wheat Exhibited in Gainesville Shows It

Special to The Telegram. GAINESVILLE, Texas, April 3.—Despite the fact that President J. Z. Keel of the State Grain Dealers' Association, who lives in this city, positively denied in The Telegram a few days ago that there were green bugs in Cooke county, they are in evidence just the same.

The Telegram was the first paper of a state circulation to publish the news of the appearance of these bugs, and the article was sent in by its special correspondent from this city. The news was obtained from a reliable source, and was written for no other purpose than as a matter of news, which, in his judgment, of such concern to this part of the state.

Easy Sailing for Bears—Hammer Old Crop Options—Distasteful Positions Receive Outside Support

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, April 3.—Bears had full sway in the old-crop position today and succeeded in lowering the value of the May option substantially. Although the crowd sold May liberally, they received plenty of help from tired longs, who turned loose while the bull leaders made but little attempt to stall the decline and consequently made easy sailing for the advocates of lower prices and helped to shake out many speculators.

CAVES IN HOGS

Tuesday's Review and Sales. NORTH FORT WORTH, April 3.—Receipts of cattle at the Fort Worth market today were short those of Monday by some 400 head, the run totaling 2,100.

Cows were in very small supply, though some scattering head were of such exceptionally good quality that they sold at $4.00.

Calves came only in mixed lads. Trading was active on the few in sight and the market was steady.

Hogs were in good supply. Betterment of quality caused the good top end of the supply to sell at $6.35, an advance of a nickel in the price, though generally fat cornfed hogs sold no better than in the past.

Receipts of hogs at the market today were 1,500 head, a decrease of 200 from Monday.

STREET SPRINKLING CONTRACT TO BE LET

Council Provides for Laying Dust During Summer

A MARKET HOUSE

Vote to Borrow $35,000 Passed Under Suspension of Rules. Two New Ordinances

The sprinkling wagons soon will wind their way along the street. And folks who now kick at the dust can growl at muddy feet.

Because it would make too heavy a drain on the treasury to establish and maintain a municipal sprinkling plant, the city council at its regular meeting Monday night authorized the completion of a contract with the Fort Worth Sprinkling Company to continue its work of sprinkling the streets. According to the recommendation of the special committee to which the sprinkling question was referred, which recommendation was adopted, together with the committee's report, the contract is to be made for one year. Under the old six-year contract, which expired March 1, last, the city paid from $3,800 to $4,000 a year for its share of the sprinkling, depending on the number of miles of street sprinkled. The sprinkling company also collected from property owners.

Here is what a municipal sprinkling plant would cost, according to the report of the special committee:

To establish—
Fifteen wagons	$4,500
Fifteen teams and harness	5,250
Stables	2,500
Total	$12,250
To maintain each month—
Fifteen drivers	$750
Food and repairs	200
Hoistler	35
Inspector	60
Total monthly	$1,045

To Borrow for Market House
The council also Monday night, under suspension of the rules, voted to borrow $35,000 on open account for the erection of a market house. The vote on the proposition was as follows: Ayes—Ward, Waggoner, Parker, Lehane, Zurn and Moreland. No—Henderson.

New Ordinances

Two new ordinances were adopted under a suspension of the rules at Monday night's session, the last regular council meeting under the Powell administration.

One makes it an offense punishable by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $100 to cut trenches in streets within the territory bounded on the north by Belknap street, on the south by Fifteenth, on the west by Throckmorton and on the east by Calhoun without securing a permit from the city engineer. Persons desiring to dig trenches, according to the ordinance, must file a check with the city engineer and this will not be returned until the engineer has inspected the work and found that the refilling has been done properly. If the refilling has not been done properly the city engineer can have it done and charge the cost against the deposit check.

The other ordinance adopted was one providing that all persons before placing curbing in front of their property must get grade and alignment from the city engineer. The fine for violation is not less than $10 nor more than $100.

Sewer Building Progress

City Engineer Hawley reported that fifteen miles of sewer have been laid on the south side and three miles on the tunnel under the Texas and Pacific, which will be completed this week, is ready for connection. The request south side property owners to make connection with the new sewer was mentioned in the report with the suggestion that it be granted, with the proviso that the city engineer pay for the cost of materials and pay a monthly sum to the city. The suggestion met with some opposition and on motion of Alderman Lehane, was tabled.

Questions of Expenditure

Bids for the erection of the new eighth ward fire hall were read. The committee on public buildings, the mayor and the city engineer were empowered to close the contract with the lowest bidder. The lowest bid for the erection of the building was $6,000. The lowest bid for the plumbing was $3,261.

Streets Must Be Repaired

A petition from Alderman Parker, asking that the Arlington Heights Tractor company be notified to put Jones street in good repair within ten days, was granted.

Roller Skating Draws Many Well Known People

Formal opening of the Ellis Hall roller skating rink took place Monday night from 9:30 until 12 o'clock, and the rink was crowded with a large number of those to whom invitations had been issued. The floor in this rink is one of the best in the city, and almost every one who came to the opening stayed until it was time for all to leave. The music playing from the stand arranged in the middle of the room, played popular music, almost without intermission, from the beginning of the evening until the end. The popularity of the evening and the rink was shown when the sign calling for "cookies" was posted, when the number of skaters on the floor was hardly diminished, as there were almost as many ladies present as men. Those who were there last night are among the best known people of the city.

NEGRO INTRUDER SHOT TO DEATH

Jess Jones Instantly Killed at Home of Prof. Preuitt

HAD KNIFE IN HIS HAND

Family Had Been Annoyed Twice Before by Attempt of Someone to Enter Residence

Death was the punishment instantly meted out to Jess Jones, a negro intruder in the residence of Professor F. P. Preuitt, at Polytechnic Heights about midnight Monday night. Professor Preuitt is under a murder charge, released on a $100 bond after waiving examination before Justice Terrell.

Was Opposite Bed

A short time later he heard the pad of the soft footfall of a shoeless man. Soon a burly man entered and as he was opposite the bed the professor fired the shot.

In the Legal Department

City Attorney Orlick reported that he had investigated the claim of Mrs. L. Croft for $100. From street against the city and believed that the action for damages will not lie, on account of the possibility of the city's proving contributory negligence.

Other Matters

The bid of E. D. Farmer offering $6,300 for lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 in premises 300 addition, was read. It was referred to the public grounds committee. Another bid for the same lots had been read at the previous meeting of the council. The committee was authorized to accept the highest bid.

Not First Intruder

Last September a man now believed to be Jones, entered the sleeping room of Miss Preuitt, about 18 years of age, and she was awakened by the man bending over her bedside. She screamed and the man fled. About a week ago, by climbing the porch, the same man who had left his shoes outside, attempted to enter the house was made. As stated this gave the warning which resulted Monday night in the death of Jones.

Not First Intruder

Last September a man now believed to be Jones, entered the sleeping room of Miss Preuitt, about 18 years of age, and she was awakened by the man bending over her bedside. She screamed and the man fled. About a week ago, by climbing the porch, the same man who had left his shoes outside, attempted to enter the house was made. As stated this gave the warning which resulted Monday night in the death of Jones.

Local Union Admits Two Societies

Fully 100 enthusiastic Christian Endeavor workers were present Monday night at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor union meeting held at the Broadway Presbyterian church. There were nine societies present and each made brief reports of the work done during the last month. This meeting was the monthly one held by the union of all the Christian Endeavor societies of the city.
