A terrible death from being burned alive was narrowly escaped by eleven miners in a burning mine near Radstock, England, last June.

The men were on the night shift, and were resting in the early morning, when smoke began to pour in through the fresh air inlet. They tried to escape, but found that the smoke was too thick. Then they built a "bashing," or barrier, to cut off the smoke and keep the air in the mine as fresh as possible. Soon, however, the smoke began to come in

REBUILDING OF DAM

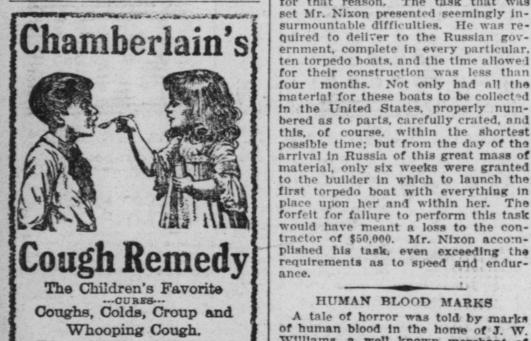

Questions to Be Submitted to Vote of Austin People

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, April 5 .- The committee on the rebuilding of the dam, composed of councilmen, citizens and water and light commissioners, has decided to submit the question to a vote of the people, regardless of race or color, property-holder or pauper. An election to vote increased school tax is to be held on April 26 and the mayor is to appoint two citizens for each ward as judges for the dam question, which is to be submitted at the same time.

The trouble at his time is a diversity of opinion as to the cost. Only one proposition has been made the city and some are inclined to think it too high and others say it is reasonable. General L. M. Oppenheimer of the water and light commission says it is "outrageously high."

Lilyn Powell, soprano and famous exponent of Irish ballads, will appear at Greenwall's opera house on the night of April 25, accompanied by Dezso Nemes, the Hungarian violinist, and Melitta Nemes, pianist. The public cannot afford to miss hearing this Irish songstress.

With his left hand he brought the blue light to within a foot of my eyes and whispering to me to gaze at it fixedly, he threw a cloth of sky blue color over my head and the lamp. I continued to stare at the blue light, wondering what was about to happen. I was perfectly conscious and could hear the ticking of the doctor's watch near my ear. Gradually a soothing feeling stole over me and my tooth stopped paining me. I passed into a semi-somnolent state. but was not unconscious. Dr. Redard after three minutes hastily threw the cloth off my head, the lamp sprang back into its place and I found an in-

Dr. Redard then gave me some par-ticulars concerning his wonderful discovery. Remarking the effect of primtive colors on inorganic and organic bodies, he found that red produced agitation, excitement and nervousness; yellow produced sadness and melancholia, whereas blue produced a feeling of peace and drowsiness. Redard then put the blue light to a practical test and operated upon scores f patients, only 20 per cent of whom felt any pain during an operation. The advantage the blue light has over other known anesthetics is that the patient feels no after effects whatever from its application. MODERN BUSINESS ROMANCE

Brilliant Achievement of an American in Russia

The brilliant manner in which an American solved a Russian naval problem of a truly appalling nature is the subject of an article in the current Harper's Weekly by Henry Townsend, who describes Lewis Nixon's recent achievement in building for the Russian government ten torpedo boats in fifteen weeks. The story is one of those romances of business with which, as Mr. Townsend remarks, the world

WASHINGTON, April 5 .- The most notable feature of the wonderful commercial developments now apparent in the United States is the growth of the Pacific coast cities as channels of foreign trade.

During the last year the exports from the Pacific ports have almost doubled-$108,121,575 worth of merchandise. During 1904 they exported only $65,722,816. Enough is known to make it certain that this ratio of growth is not only being maintained. but increased. Imports have kept pace in the same proportion.

Adoption of By-laws Is Postponed Until Next Meeting

Meeting in the city hall Wednesday afternoon a number of those interested in the hotel and restaurant business in Fort Worth organized the Hotel Restaurant Proprietors' association of Fort Worth. While it is true there are about from 100 to 150 of those interested in these lines of business in the city and all who have been approached on the subject profess a hearty sympathy with the purposes of the association, only about nincteen were present to sign the roll. But as some of the signers represented firms and others sent assurances of sympathy with the subject of the meeting and promise of future support the gathering may be described as one representing the important business in Fort Worth. The primary objects of the organization are beneficial and so-

Want Cheaper Supplies

One of the greatest benefits hoped for is such an arrangement or agreement as will enable the members of the association to buy at wholesale rates when the amount of the purchases justify such concession. Another is mutual aid and advice as to the business, economies, etc. The social feature speaks for itself.

It is expected the Fort Worth organization will be copied throughout the state until the organization of a state association will be warranted. F. W. Mason was elected president at the meeting of Wednesday: B. W. Moyer, treasurer, and R. L. Chandler, secretary.

By-laws were submitted, but it was ordered that they be laid and read at two subsequent meetings prior to coming up for final action that all of those interested may become perfectly familiar with their provisions before voting on the adoption of the by-laws. A large accession to the membership of the association is expected by or at the next meeting, which will be held Wednesday afternoon next at 2:30 o'clock at 6021/2 Main street. In view of the fact that the oy-laws are not adopted the officers refuse to make any statement about their scope or the subjects treated therein. The officers are sanguine of the success of the local organization and believe the movement will spread over the entire state.

CHAPTER I

The Rage of Neptune Bow-wow, bow-wow, bow-wow.

From the farthest corner of the Collseum Hall the trembling echoes mimicked the angry roar of the huge St. Bernard who tugged vainly at his heavy chain. Frightened at the frantic struggles of the enraged animal the visitors to the Denver Dog Show surged backward, glad to escape from so dangerous a neighborhood.

Hurrying forward, the superintendent called to his assistant:

"What's the trouble there, Vincent?" "Indeed, sir, I don't know," was the reply, and then in explanation, added: "The dog was quiet enough, sir, until that tell lady over there, the one with the yellow hair, came along. I don't believe she saw the dog at all, but he sprang at her like mad. I'm sure I don't know what ails the brute, for he has appeared gentle enough until now."

The commotion attracted me, and like others I pressed my way into the throng that had now gathered to satisfy their curiosity. As I listened to the conversation I continued to linger near the kennel, admiring the dog. He was one of the finest of his breed, and quickly assumed such an air of intelligent friendliness and docility that there really seemed no shadow of evil lurking in the calm eyes with which he now surveyed the people about him.

"Neptune, property of H. S. Clay-more, San Francisco," stood out in bold relief on the engraved collar about his neck. Upon inquiry I learned that the owner was not in attendance, but owing to the extraordinary prizes offered that season by the kennel club, had sent the dog in charge of a trusted employe, hoping to capture the purse.

A few more questions, which were answered without hesitancy, and I withdrew. Sauntering toward one of the exits I soon found the way somewhat blockaded by others who apparently had arrived at the same decision as myself and the jam became so great that we could move but slowly toward the street. When nearly to the walk I noticed the lady whose presence thoroughly assured. Just where she came from no one was informed, but the general impression was that one of the larger eastern cities had been her former home. In this there appeared nothing mysterious, and I felt annoyed that I had allowed the matter to arouse the desire 1 felt to pry into it. The day passed quickly away and only once or twice did the affair recur to my mind and probably would have been entirely forgotten but for an incident that occurred late in the afternoon, when I saw Mrs. Wheaton's carriage turn the corner and come in my direction.

As she passed I noticed that she was intently watching the people on the opposite side of the street, among whom was a man who raised his hat in response to her bow of recognition, as the carriage passed him. As he did so I was astonished to see him make one of the secret signals just then in vogue among a certain clan of high-class crooks, and when Mrs. Wheaton responded to it I had extreme difficulty in concealing my astonishment. My professional habits, however, came to my aid and I stepped briskly forward. Crossing the street at the corner I followed the man for the purpose of ascertaining who and what he was.

In appearance he differed little from other well-dressed business men who, en route home, thronged the street at that hour. From the number who greeted him it was evident that he enjoyed a wide acquaintance among the well-to-do residents of the city.

Without stopping for prolonged conversation with anyone he soon led me away from the business section and finally entered a fashionable family hotel near the capitol, where, through the open door. I saw him approach the desk and receive some article from the clerk, evidently a room key, as he immediately disappeared in the elevator as if on the way to his room. Not wishing to attract attention I passed on and as I strolled down the street my mind was bewildered with ideas now clamoring for adjustment. Could this man be a crook? His appearance did not indicate it. Yet how was it that he was so familiar with a

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Elliott-Malone Wedding The prettiest affair of the week was the wedding of Miss Mary Olive Malone to Card Garnett Elliott at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Broadway Presbyterian church.

The rostrum was elaborately decorated with potted palms, Easter and calla lilles. Misses Frances Connor, Willie Lewis, Mary Belle Griffin and Ethel Thomas gowned in short white mouseline frocks with wreaths of locust blossoms and carrying Easter lilies, and Robert Noble, Henry Dingee, George Connor and John C. Ryan were the ushers and seated the guests. Miss Mat Lester Senter of Dallas played a violin solo, Schubert's "Serenade," and Mrs. Ducker sang "Were My Song With Wings Provided," by Hahn. The bridal party entered the church to the strain of Lohengrin's wedding march and departed by Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Prigmore. First came the four girls, Misses Frances Connor, Willie Lewis, Mary Belle Grffin and Ethel Thomas, next the two maids, Miss Mary Harrison, followed by Miss Virgile Paddock. Both were gowned in white wash chiffon with insets of "Val." lace, and carried arm bouquets of Easter lilies. Last came the bride, in a gown of silk mulle, made Princesse, with a lace bolero and medallions of scrolls of Valenciennes lace. The long veil was held in place with sprays of orange blossoms and she carried a quaint old fashioned round bouquet of bride's roses and ferns. She came in on the arm of her brother, Louis Malone, and they were met at the altar by the groom and the best man, Guy Richardson Pitner, who entered by a side aisle. Rev. J. B. French performed the service, while Miss Senter played "Traeumerie" soft and low on the violin

Little Rosalind and Hunter Gardner, dressed all in white, were the ribbon bearers.

One noticeable feature was the number of high school children in the wedding party. The gallery of the church was filled with them. All were there by the special invitation of Miss Malone and all came, showing how dearly loved she was in the hearts of her pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott will spend

Breakfast Jacket 5301

The becoming breakfast jacket always finds a place and this one has much to commend it. The backs are sufficiently fitted to do away with any disagreeable sense of a negligee and the fronts are loose enough to mean perfect comfort and relaxation. There is a becoming big collar at the neck and the sleeves can be either in the fashionable three-quarter or full length as may be liked. In this instance the material is a pretty batiste trimmed with embroidered banding and little frills of white linen lawn, but there are. so many appropriate ones that the list is almost too long to be given in full. Many washable materials, lawn and similar fabrics, are well liked, whild China and India silks are exceedingly fashionable for garments of the sort. and albatross, henrietta and veiling are greatly irritated the dog, was secret code used by that fraternity but a few steps in advance, and the query, "Who is she?" presented itself to my mind. As we gained the flagstones a coachman in livery, driving a magnificent span of grays, signaled his companion and a nimble footman held the door while the lady entered a smart turnout.

"Mrs. Wheaton's new carriage is lovely, isn't it?" said a lady to her companion, as the equipage moved away, thus answering the question I had been thinking of.

Why this was a matter of interest to me I could not decide, but for some reason I could not entirely forget it and found myself involuntarily puzzling my brain as to the real meaning of the incident I had witnessed. So strongly did it impress me that it became annoying, for although it seemed but a trivial matter, it tenaciously forced itself upon my mind for solu-

Ordinarily this would not have mattered, but here I was trying to make the most of the first real vacation that the detective agency to which I was attached, had allowed me, and I had promised myself that for two whole months, at least, my mind should be freed of everything that pertained to usiness or appeared in any way mysterious. Yet, here I was studying over this thing, wondering why it was that a dog should so suddenly turn vicious toward a person whom it was quite probable he had never before seen.

After a restless night, in which my dreams were a confused mixture of strange dogs and gray horses, I found the questions of the previous day still unsolved and so persistent that I sought the assistance of the hotel clerk, hoping that he might satisfy my untimely curiosity.

"Who is Mrs. Wheaton?" I asked. In answer I learned that the lady was a prominent society leader who occupied one of the magnificent houses in the fashionable residence district. She had resided in Denver but a short time, but her social position seemed Possibly, like myself, he was a detective, but if so, what was the occasion for Mrs. Wheaton's connection with his work; or was it possible that she was an adventuress and he her ac> complice? The signal given her was an insistent demand for a meeting, and she had signified that she would comply and meet him at some place previously agreed upon. The code itself was new. In fact our agency had but recently unearthed its existence and from sources upon which we could rely, learned that only a limited number of persons were initiated into its mysteries. The freedom with which it was now being used would indicate the confidence these people had in that fact. Surely, if nothing out of the ordinary was on foot they would use other and more common methods to arrange a meeting. Then, among the jumble of other suggestions forced upon me, the incident at the bench show was recalled and like an electric flash, the question, "Did the instinct of the dog detect a criminal?" startled me into a new line of conjecture. If the dog was nto at fault, then these two were not alone, but were part of a gang infesting Denver, for crooks of their caliber rarely operated alone.

The old-time assertion that Intelligent dogs possess the faculty of detecting dishonest persons impressed me more than ever before, as the incidents, one after the other, passed in review. Then came the query as to what might be considered sufficiently large "game" in Denver to attract the cupidity of a band of crooks of this class and warrant the outlay of capital required to carry out the enterprise.

A thief never lacks "motive" providing valuables are within his reach; but in a case of this kind-if it were a case-the stake must be of sufficient magnitude to warrant the cost in cush and the risk of personal liberty. (To be continued.)

Household Hints To remove scorch get some chlorine water, and dip a linen rag in it and rub the spot well. Another way is to extract the juice from two large onions and mix with ittwo ounces of Fuller's earth, half an ounce of white soap, cut in pieces, and half a pint of vinegar. Boil this compound well, and when cool spread on the scorched linen, leaving it to dry. Then wash the linen. If necessary, repeat the process.

Remove ink spots from fabrics by dipping them in melted tallow and then washing the grease out with soap and water. Common sand soap will take ink spots from a carpet in short Serge or cloth may be thoroughly cleaned by rubbing with water in which about twenty young laurel leaves have been steeped for three hours. Boiling water should be poured over the leaves.

A brilliant polish may be given to brass door fixtures, ornaments, etc., by washing them in alum and lye. Make a solution by boiling an ounce of alum in a pint of lye and wash the article in it.

Sterling P. Clark, who has been on a trip to Baylor and Throckmorton counties looking over the situation of the range and cattle, said:

THE FORT WORTH TELEGRAM

"I looked over the situation carefully and believe that I can safely say that up where I have been stock conditions are in very good shape indeed and the prospects are that the cattle will soon be getting in good order. Lots of them, while not fat, are in good fleshy shape and as the grass is coming on swiftly, there is no reason why they should not improve right along. There is lots of feed on hand and this will carry them until the new crop comes in. I saw fields of cotton that looked as if they had never been picked and the fields were perfectly wihte.

"Bob Harrel has recently purchased 9.000 acres of good land on Elm just above Fort Belknap or old Fort Belknap, as it is now called, and it is a famous tract of land. This is located in Throckmorton county, five miles from the county seat. The Elm has a bountiful supply of water, that never goes dry. There are plenty of shallow wells that with windmills furnish an abundant supply of water.

"Now that there is almost a certainty of a railroad through the county a great many farmers are moving in and buying up the fine lands. Lands just as good as those that were purchased by Harrel are selling for $19 per acre right along and the demand is increasing. Two surveys for a rafiroad have been made recently and there is every probability that in a short time a road will be running through the county. There are large bodies of fine lands in this county that have lain Idle as far as the farmer is concerned, that will be rapidly taken up when the country is developed by a road.

The downing of the politicians in this blanket primary matter is something for general congratulation. Not from the defeat of the blanket primary idea, but from the defeat of the wily gentlemen who sought to accomplish something not warranted by law or precedent. Things would have come to a pretty pass in Texas when the executive, calling a legislature together for a specific purpose, must perforce sit down and watch the body take the bit in its own teeth and legislate upon subjects foreign to that embraced within the official call. If the present legislature had been permitted to do this future sessions would have been guided by the precedent thus established, and there would be no end to the chaos and confusion thus engendered.

The people of Texas should learn a further valuable lesson from their experience with the members of this legislature. They should keenly realize the necessity of hereafter only electing the very best available material to membership in the legislative body. So long as menof third rate ability are sent to Austin, just so long will similar conditions prevail. The remedy lies in the ballot box, and it is there the people of this state must apply for relief. The special session of the present legislature was no better than previous sessions of the tive body, and the time is at hand to make the proper selections.

SHOULD CALL A HALT

The investigation of certain state officials at Austin, on account of their connection with an Austin bank and trust company, resulted in complete vindication of the officials so far as anything illegal is concerned, but the facts brought to light serve to demonstrate that there are some things going on down at the capital city that should be summarily checked. No officer of this state should be permitted to become interested in any corporation of this kind during his term of office, and the investigation made at the instance of Senator Hawkins, has not been barren of results by any means, as it has served to direct public attention to the state of affairs existing. Senator Hawkins made a minority report in connection with that investigation that is worth careful study. Among other things, he says in that minority report:

The Capital Bank and Trust company of Austin is now engaged in buying and selling stocks and bonds of all classes and descriptions and can trade for and buy state bonds and warrants at liberty. The treasurer of this state and comptroller are directors of said corporation. Will any one say that they are not concerned in the business of said bank?

Article 96 P. C. makes it a penitentiary offense to reisapply public money and within the term misapplication of public money as defined by section 3, article .97 P. C. we find the following embraced.

"The deposit by an officer of the government of public money in his hands at any other place than the treasury of the state, when the treasury is accessible and open for business, or permitting the same to remain on deposit at such forbidden place after the

THE POLITICIANS ARE DOWNED

The state legislature has adjourned after spending twice much time at Austin as was necessary, and after unsuccessfully trying to override the executive of the state and legislate on matters not embouned in the official call which was respinsible for the assemblage of the lawmakers at Austin. The legislation enacted was confined to the correction of section 120 of the Terrell election law only after a stubborn and persistent fight by members who were acting under the orders of some of the very astute politicians of the state, who thought they saw opportunity to make a little hay while the legislative sun was shining. They brought on a fight and they kept it up from day to day in the hope of getting in their work and thereby afford their particular favorites some real or fancied advantage. The blanket primary was made the issue in a very sharp contest, when there was not the least occasion in the world for the injection of such an issue into the situation.

It was only the firmness with which the senate end of the legislature held down the situation that prevented the blanket primary people from winning the fight. The senate stood firm, notwithstanding the action of some of its members in imploring the governor to release them from all pledges in the matter of the election law. The reply of the governor to this remarkable document showed a spirit of firmness and determination that no doubt had much to do with the final result, as well as showing the inspiration of the call for the special session. The governor said:

Dear Sirs: I have received your letter of this date in which you request me to release members of the senate from the promise, either expressed or implied, to only restore section 120 at this session, as it passed the legislature. In reply, I beg to advise you that I have received no request ffrom any member of either house except yourselves for such release. I convened this special session for the specific purpose mentioned in the call and as further explained in my message to the legislature, the call was made upon the initiative of those members of the legislature who appeared to desire a special session for the sole purpose of so correcting said section 120 as to make it conform to the meaning and language in which it was finally passed. I frankly state to you that no suggestion was made to me in reference to any other matter than such correction by any members of the legislature who asked or agreed to the special session, until after the call was made. I would not have convened this special session had I believed that other matters than that embraced in the call and my message were to be considered. I do not feel authorized to release any gentleman from any promise either made to me or to his fellow members. I must therefore respectfully decline to comply with your request. I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

S. W. T. LANHAM, Governor.

This letter from the governor served to bring the Judge Terrell may not have been able to locate members of both branches of the legislature to their "the scoundrel" who mutilated his election law, but he senses and they proceeded to get busy by passing the has had the satisfaction of seeing those gaping wounds measure designed to correct the errors in section 120, all securely bound up. It was a long hard fight, but and then adjourned. The blanket primary issue was right finally won out. dropped like a hot potato and the boys went marching home, not, however, until they had fortified themselves It will be readily noticed that the special session by drawing their mileage and per diem. treasury is open." By the admissions of the comptroller he deposits every dollar of the state's money which comes into his office in the Capital Bank and Trust company, and allows this money to remain on an average of about thirty days. This money goes to the available loan fund of said bank and the comptroller is expected to profit thereby in proportion to the loans made, and his stock in said institution,

The fact that he is not required to report exceptiet stated times to the treasurer is no excuse and loes not authorize him to keep the state funds in the meantime in a place prohibited by law.

Section 6, of article 4 of the constitution prohibits the government of this state from holding any corporate office during the time of his service as governor and this provision of the constitution should be amended so as to apply to each state officer or in any event to those charged with the duty of collecting, retaining and investing the state's finances.

Article 123 P. C. prohibits officers and clerks of the land department and surveyors from being concerned in the purchase of state school lands and we think a law should be passed which would prohibit state officers, like the comptroller and treasurer and their employes ffrom becoming officers and stock holders in a banking institution engaged in buying, selling and collecting state bonds, warrants, sheriffs' accounts, ft? In these days of "frenzied finance" no one can tell what a day will bring forth and under such circumstances our political, as well as personal prayer should be: "Lead us not into temptation but deliver us from evil."

The Telegram respectfully submits that the state . of Texas is paying the gentlemen concerned in this banking and trust company salaries sufficient to enable them to get on in the world without engaging in the banking business on the side. It respectfully submits the comptroller has no legal or moral right to deposit state funds in this bank to be loaned even for a period of thirty days in order that this officer may profit from the transaction even to the extent of five cents. It is a situation that is intolerable from what it may lead to in the future, and the best interests of the people of Texas clearly demand it be immediately suppressed.

The protests of the Texas delegation in congress against turning over quarantine matters to the federal government were without avail. And one of these days the people of the different states will view with much regret the surrendering of one single principle to the national government. There are many dangers to be apprehended from that source.

The new insurance law just enacted in New York makes a clean sweep in the directory of the three big companies, and new directors will have to be chosen. This will necessitate further action on the part of Texas policy holders in the matter of proxies, those previously given now being worthless.

The modern Elijah does not propose to take any chances on the raven business, but will make a determined fight to recover his lost prestige and property in Zion City. He says he has been made the victim of designing persons who will repent of their . folly.

WAY JUNKUN ON LEED DEER

WASHINGTON, April 3 .- Senator Burton has no seat in the body to which the Kansas legislature elected him. Of course, if he came back to the senate, Mr. Clapp would have to vacate the seate once occupied by the Kansas senator, but the fact remains that in the perpetual scramble for choice seats, advantage has been taken of the absent one, and he has been rooted out. Burton's seat was more desirable than the one occupied by Senator Clapp, and the Minnesota senator rioved into it, explaining to the sergeant-at-arms that his move was only temporary. Clapp's old seat was more desirable than the one occupied by Senator Dryden occupied, so he concluded he would move into it.

"When Senator Clapp asks for his old seat I'll move back to my old one," Mr. Dryden explained to Colonel Ransdell, the sergeant-at-arms. Senator Hemenway of Indiana had a seat in the rear row on the Republican side, and when he heard that Dryden had left his old seat promptly seized upon it. Senator Warner of Missouri, who had been uncomfortable in a rear row on the Democratic side, saw the vacant seat once occupied by Hemenway in the rear of the Republican row, and began to make inquiries.

"Several senators have moved temporarily," explained Colonel Ransdell.

"All right," said Warner. "I'll move temporarily uvself." And he did.

Senator La Follette took the place of Senator Bailey, whose father's death has called him to Texas, as general counsel to Mr. Tillman, the custodian of the rate bill. Mr. La Follette moved into Mr. Balley's seat, alongside Tillman, and there gave him advice about the management of the bill during the debate,

This combination between a Republican and a Democrat is a curious illustration of the extent to which party lines have disappeared in the debate. It attracted no comment, and it seemed perfectly natural that a Republican senator should take the place of a Democrat as counsel to another Democrat. The whole discussion was strikingly illustrative of the changed conditions. No one listening to the discussion could have had any way of telling which were the Republicans and which the Democrats.

From the beginning of the session the progress toward this remarkable state of affairs has been continuous. The statehood bill, sent over by the house as a party measure and dragooned through that body by appeals to stand by the organization, was disposed of in the senate without the slightest attention to partisanship. There was no party division in the disposition of the Philippine tariff bill. There had been lingering traces of party division, however, prior to the advent of the rate bill. What finally broke it up was the sensational performance of Mr. Aldrich in placing Tillman, a Democrat, in charge of President Roosevelt's interests.

FROM STEAM TO ELECTRICITY

It looks as though the day of steam were passing. In this prodigious change-if it come-America is likely to lead the way. Already there is a feeling in Europe that if electric locomotives are to replace steam the question will be solved in this country. And the steam locomotive was never more powerful. Think of the speed it attains, of the loads it hauls. What did the world know a few years ago of what the steam locomotive could do? Compare the machine of a few years ago with the one of today-its size and speed. A ship does not convey an impression of man's power to accomplish great things more forcibly than does a modern American railway train with its monster engine, its long train of huge cars, with all the appliances of water and light and heat. And yet this

The Fort Worth baseball team will leave this evening at 7:45 o'clock via the Katy for Galveston, where they will Friday begin a series of three games with the Galveston team.

After the Galveston series the team will start back towards Fort Worth, and at Houston will play a series of five games for the state championship, Fort Worth holding the pennant, the sign of the victor in the Texas League, and the Houston club the pennant of the South Texas League. When the team returns to Fort, Worth it will play a series of three games with the San Antonio "Bronchoes." Until that time there will be no ball playing here except of the amateur variety.

Quaint Customs Observed on the Great Baronial Estates

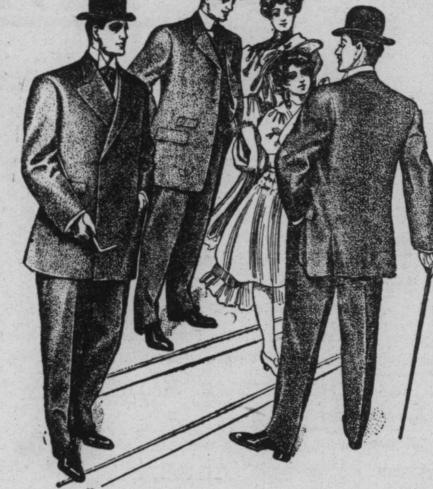

In Germany some quaint Easter customs are observed by the peasantry. At sunrise on Easter morning one is awakened by the servants on the great estates singing Easter anthems beneath the window to the accompaniment of a small but excellent orchostra maintained among them. Then the baron and all his guests assemble in the great hall of the castle while the entire establishment passes in review before them.

Each couple carry-for they march two by two-something which indicates to what department they belong and is also emblematical of the life and death of the Savior or of something connected therewith. The washerwoman carries a tub white as snow containing a large doll intended to represent the infant Jesus; the woodmen have a shining hatchet, its bright blade driven into a small cross of some black wood; the gardeners a large bouquet surmounted by a crown of thorns; the cooks a huge cake baked in the form of a sepulcher; the housemaids a try is a high pressure center marked broom wrapped in white rag, emblemin Florida and a low pressure in Kanatical of the Savior's winding sheet; sas, causing rain in the territories the blacksmiths a great sledge hamand Texas and Arkansas. There was mer and spikes, to represent the implean incorrect report circulated Thursments which nailed him to the cross, day morning to the effect that there while the masons bring up the rear, had been unprecedented rains in the trowel in hand and carrying a large stone to represent the one which was rolled away from Christ's tomb. As each pair pass the master of the house they make a profound obeisance and receive from him a gift of money. This quaint Easter custom has been observed for many generations and is universal on all the great estates of line marking 60 degrees average tem-Germany. perature advanced further northward

Every Suit "The Store Ahead" Sells Is a Type of Good Quality Clothing!

We don't aim to produce clothing that's simply "good' 'enough to sell, and the cheaper the better: that isn't at all the idea of this house. We take the other roadthe sure road to lasting success. We secure the best that is possible to give you. Every skimping of quality, of workmanship, of finish, that is indulged in to cheapen the price of a suit of clothes is more than doubly paid by the man who buys it. The chain is only as strong as its weakest link. The clothing that in any detail is made up with the idea of cheapening its price won't stand up against the making of "The Store Ahead" Clothing. Corporal J. V. Langhorne, who has been in charge of the United States recruiting office in Fort Worth for considerably over a year, has been transferred to the Dallas office by orders issued from the officer in charge there, and has been succeeded by Sergeant F. R. Riley, who has been in charge of the recruiting office at Waco, which has been discontinued. Sergeant Riley reported at Fort Worth Thursday morning and Corporal Langhorne left for Dallas Thursday afternoon. Corporal Langhorne has done good work in Fort Worth, the result of it comparing favorably with that of any other recruiting station in Texas during the period of his service here. He took charge of this office Oct. 25, 1904, since which time he has recruited 180 men for the different branches of the service. While here he has made many warm friends. Corporal Langhorne enlisted in the Twenty-sixth infantry from Virginia, Jan. 5, 1901, and has seen service on the firing line. His regiment was ordered to the Philippines and shipped from San Francisco, Feb. 16, 1901, He was with General Bell on the Bellemino expedition after the Moro insurgents, as hard service as the army has had in the archipelago.

Corporal Langhorne is not only a soldier, but he is a musical composer as well, and has contributed many articles to the press outside of Texas since he came to Fort Worth. In the Western Monthly of Kansas City and the American Advertiser of New York he

All Pure Beer Is Not Good Beer

Some Large Brewers Claim Purity and Sterilization and little else. We Guarantee Purity, Sterilization and Excellence of Materials. Superiority of Quality is the Test.

MOST beer, no matter by whom brewed, is clean, pure and sterilized.

These primary conditions prevail in nearly all breweries. Many pure, clean beers, however, are not good beers.-

Clean, pure beer may be made from almost any cereal - and may be aged and sterilized, but it will not necessarily be good beer.

CORN OR OTHER CHEAP MATERIALS WILL NOT MAKE GOOD BEER.

The maximum of Quality is not there.

The brewers of Corn-made beer can and do justly claim purity, cleanliness and freedom from germs.

BUT THEY CANNOT JUSTLY CLAIM QUALITY.

Science and experience have proved that good beer MUST contain two essential ingredients-HOPS and BARLEY, and for pale beer a small percentage of rice.

But it is much cheaper to use Corn-Grits as a substitute for Barley-Malt.

This is why some of the large brewers use Corn - it costs less. 00000

We use those materials which are recognized in the science of brewing as the essential elements for a really healthful, palatable, honest and superior beer; and of these only the very best, regardless of cost.

Not a grain of corn ever enters our brewery in any manner or for any purpose.

Our precautions for pure, clean and perfectly sterilized beer are unequaled.

Our storing capacity of 600,000 barrels, exceeding that of any two other breweries in the world, enables us to lager (age) our beer from four to five months.

For these reasons

must and does command a higher price than any other beer, and has a greater sale than all other bottled beers.

-From Games We Might Have Won.

A small crowd shivered through nine innings of the first game in the series with Austin at Maines park Wedndesday afternoon, and saw the Panthers go down before the mystery of Pitcher McCall's curves.

In the nine innings the Panthers got but three hits, one of which at least, was a characteristic Panther scratch. The visitors got five hits, all off Pitcher Jones, the newest recruit to the Panther staff. The slaughter was greatest in the second inning, when four hits, one a two bagger, a base on balls and two errors, let in four men. Wicker went in after the third and for five innings held the visitors from getting a hit or a run.

The sky was cloudy throughout the game and a high wind made judgment of flies difficult.

Boles caught a good game and Whiteman, in his place at short, accepted eight chances, landing three outs and five assists. His only error was in misjudging a throw to Salm. The Panther's only run was made by Wilson in the fourth inning. Wilson started out on a bunt, reaching seconw on Leutke's wild throw to first. Wilson scored on Boles' single. Wednesday's game was the last for ten days. Another game with Austin was scheduled for Thursday afternoon, but the grounds were too wet. Wednesday's score:

About two years ago after he had served sixteen years. lacking a few days, Tonlin was pardoned by Governor Lanham and his citizenship restored. His record in the penitentiary was perhaps the most remarkable of any man who ever wore the stripes. Of the sixteen years he was confined within the prison's walls he worked only sixteen days. He maintained that he was innocent of the crime for which he was convicted, and insisted that as he owed the state nothing he did not propose to work for the state. And work he did not, as the olous. records of the prison will show. In discussing the matter after his release he said he was subjected to all kinds of punishment, but he was unrelenting in his determination to do no menial labor.

Tonlin stated to the correspondent that the pardon was granted as the result of a deathbed confession made by his prosecutor that he was not guilty of the crime. .

Both have their spheres of usefulness in the amusement field, and are equally necessary in promoting each other's interests. The expense required alone to maintain a manegerie, after the animals have been secured, is enough to stagger the ordinary statistician. In the care of fifty cages of wild beasts and two herds of performing elephants, it is of no consequence or even thought to the average auditor; he pays his money and takes it all in at a cursory glance, well satisfied that he is fully repaid, without once reckoning that half a million dollars would hardly Cover what he has just observed. The student of wild animals will tell

Its manner, except when aroused, suggests strength and reserve, indicating great force when pressed into combative ac tion. It is powerful, yet the whole demeanor of this mighty beast is candor personified. Any keeper will trust a lion under ordinary circumstances, because of its fairness in making an attack. Before it springs it invariably gives a warning. While all that is true of the lion, stealth, deceit and cotton freely, this and the stringent money market caused sharp liquidations for a time, in the May and July options, sending prices off 8 to 11 points from the best, but heavy buying of the distant positions was all along a feature and when reports from New Orleans were received denying the truth of the assertion regarding the free offerings, shorts began to cover on a small scale and prices worked back almost to the opening figures.

The market closed quiet and steady, with prices 4 to 5 points higher for the old and 6 to 7 higher for the new crop months. Spots were quiet at an advance of

MAMMOTH SCOPE OF IRRIGATION PROJECTS

(By Gilson Gardner.) Special to The Telegram

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5 .- The part to be played by the vast irrigation projects which the United States government now has under construction in western states, in adding to the productiveness of that region, and stimulating the new commerce which is already beginning to develop with the Orient, now is commencing to attract the attention of those who are in-terested in the nation's business velfare.

Within the next three months the government will be ready to invite settlers to take up the first of its reclaimed lands. It is less than for years since congress passed the clamation act, and the vast labor of reclaiming the desert on a large scale

The engineers modestly report that they have constructed seventy-seven miles of main canal, fifty-four miles of distributing canal, and 186 miles of ditches. In connection with these there have been built the dams, headworks, etc., necessary to control the flow; three and a half miles of tunnel have been driven through the rock, 126 miles of wagon road with 147 bridges have been built.

In the performance of the above rock and earth have been excavated to the amount of 9,350,000 cubic yards; concrete has been laid to the amount of 70,000 cubic yards; riprap has been laid to the amount of 12,000 cubic yards; paving has been laid to the amount of 190,000 square feet; and into the works have gone 150,0% linear feet of piling, 130,000 pounds of railroad iron, 250,000 pounds of structural steel, 600,000 pounds of cast iron, 1,-750,000 feet of lumber, cut and sawed

But the work has only just begun. There are no less then seven projects, involving an outlay of over $11,000,000, on which not a dollar has been expended, though they have been for tially approved by the government. There are three other projects which have progressed no further than the letting of contracts-projects which call for the expenditure of $6,000,000, and of eight other projects which are under way, not more than one of them can be said to be more than half done.

Brundage of St. Louis went down and examined the property and concluded that it way an attractive proposition and at once closed a deal for it, making his first payment, the deeds to pass when the second payment was made. Mr. Brundage in the meantime had turned the propety at an attractive figure, the total aggregating $160,000, or nearly $4 per acre. "The land is all susceptible of cultivation," said Colonel Kerr Tuesday, "and I really don't think Mr. Brundage should have turned it loose yet. but I have my money and really have no right to say what he should do with his own."

In speaking of the deal. Mr. Brundage said: "It has been secured by St. Louis capitalists who have a record of making things move. Their energles will be directed to bringing a desirable class of citizens to South Texas, who will settle the land and mabe it blossom, as are other sections of the grand old state."

PRESIDENT CRITICISED

Fitzgerald Has Caustic Comment on Land Opening Bill

Special to The Telegran WASHINGTON, April 5.-The house during its session yesterday, listened to a criticism of the President on the part of Mr. Fitzgerald of New York, for the failure of the chief executive to properly advise the house as to the objections he had to the bill opening 50,000 acres of land for grazing purposes in Oklahoma Territory, instead of advising the members of the Indian affairs committee as to the weakness of the measure so that it might be amnded to meet the wishes of the commissioner of Indian affairs.

The postoffice appropriation bill was taken up, but beyond the explanation of the bill by the chairman of the post. office committee, Mr. Overstreet, Indiana, no headway was made.

Mr. Payne, chairman of the committee on ways and means, presented the denaturized alcohol bill, and it was ordered to the unfinished calendar.

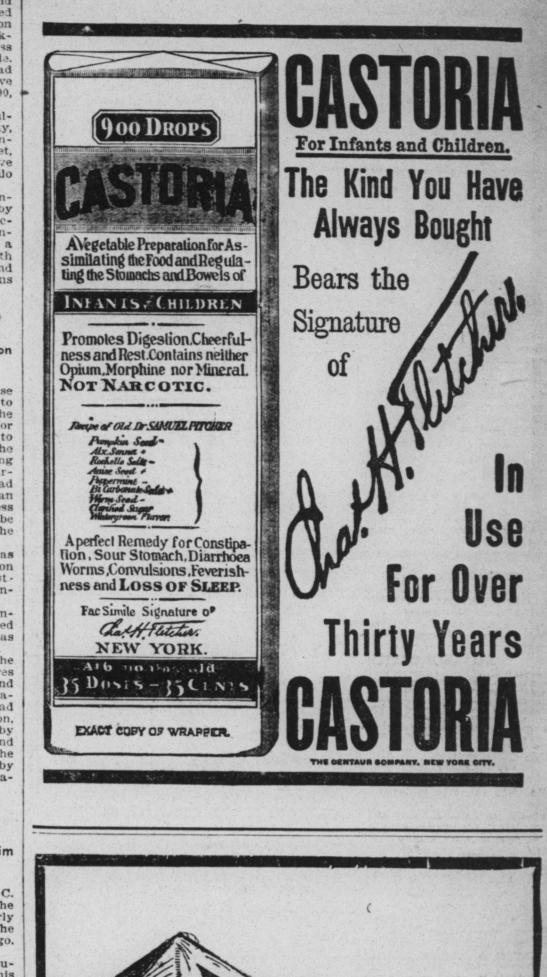

Mr. Stephens of Texas called up the bill opening to settlement 50,000 acres of land in the Kiowa, Comanche and Apache Indian reservations, in Oklahoma. He stated that the bill had passed the house early in the session, but some objection was made to it by the commissioner of Indian affairs, and it was therefore recalled from the President and his objections met by incorporating into the bill bill the features desired by the commissioner.

EDWARD SWIFT DEAD

Eastern Head of Packing Firm Victim of Pneumonia

~pecial to The Telegram. BOSTON, Mass., April 5.-E. C. Swift of Chicago, a member of the packing firm of Swift & Co., died early today at the Quincy House, where he engaged rooms about two weeks ago. Pneumonia was the case of death.

Mr. Swift was taken ill with pneumonia March 27. He had come to this city from his country estate at Beverly farms, in order to be near his friend and business associate, N. E. Hollis, of Boston, who was undergoing an operation. Mr. Swift grew worse and his daughter, Mrs. Clarence Moore of Chicago, was summoned. His physician, Dr. Johnson of Chicago, watched by the sick man's bedside until he died.

(By Marlin S. Pen.) NEW YORK, April 5 .- With a continuation of the alarming reports concerning the illness of John D. and William Rockefeller and the apparent breaking down of H. H. Rogers, the importance in the trust world of William G. Rockefeller looms up and overshadows every figure of today in the financial kingdom. For five years this young man has been in training to fill the highest office in the greatest of all corporttions, and already he is bald-headed. His examination on the witness stand in the Missouri oil investigation afforded an excellent opportunity for measurement by a student of character. "Marie Cahill"

One of the cleverest and best singers in Marie Cahill's "Molly Moonshine" company, which will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Tuesday night only, April 10, is Mabel Douglas, a young woman of the chorus, who has been around the world twice, although scarcely 20 years old.

For three years Miss Douglas has been a nurse attached to the United States army and has only just gone on the stage. A manager of an Australian company heard her singing to her convalescents in the general hospital at Manila, and made her a generous offer to join his company, then at the Manila theater. This gave her the first idea of going on the stage. So when her enlistment was up recently she returned to the "States" and forsook the red-cross for the long gloves of Miss Cahill's dainty chorus.

A refreshing announcement at Greenwall's opera house is the reappearance of "Buster Brown," which will be presented for three perform-ances commencing Wednesday night,
