North Fort Worth Family Has Narrow Escape

ESCAPE DIFFICULT

J. E. Story Painfully Burned in Rescuing Wife and Child From Burning Home

J. E. Storey and his wife and baby had a very narrow escape from being burned to death in their home at the corner of Ross avenue and Twentyfifth street, North Fort Worth, shortly after midnight Tuesday. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it started in the front room and was not discovered until part of the building fell in, almost burying the Story family beneath the burning timbers. Mrs. Story escaped with the baby without great difficulty. Mr. Story was burned in several places and his hair and clothing badly singed while helping his wife and child leave the building. He escaped only after being nearly suffocated.

The building and contents were insured for $350. The loss probably reached $1,000. The building was probably owned by Mr. Goldgraber.

Had it not been for the hard work of the fire department under Chief John Buckland there would have been an even more disastrous fire. Two other residences took fire, but were only slightly damaged.

It will be noted that the permanent improvements in the water works for the past year reached the sum of $104,888, which, added to the permanent improvements in the other departments. will show that during the year just closed, there has been expended in all of the departments of the city of Fort Worth the sum of about $225,000 in permanent improvements, and this without the issuance of any bonds. The assessment of 1899 showed that Fort Worth had an assessed valuation of $15,426,160. In 1905, which is the last assessment, it has an assessed valuation of $26,220,725. An increase of

Northern Texas Traction Company Has Four Months to Finish

The opposition to the franchise for the Third ward car line was less than was expected in the election on Tuesday, but twenty votes being cast against the franchise while 278 favored it. MUSEMENTS was in Fort Worth Tuesday night and delighted the audience at the Greenwall opera house with her acting and singing in "Molly Moonshine." The company which supported her was also very good and the fact that she was attended by a regular Broadway chorus, made the show the more exceptional for Fort Worth.

There is no better way of describng Marie Cahill than by the adjective sweet. Her singing has made more songs popular in this country than any other actress or actor on the comic opera stage, and yet she has but little voice. It is not the voice, however, but the expression and the delightful manner in which she renders her parts and music that make one forget the voice and one will be willing to declare before leaving the house that she is the equal of them all in singing or in anything else.

Marie Cahill has been here once before and, remembering this fact, a large number who had seen here before attended the opera. There were many also in the house who had been in the east and had struggled there to get seats to be able to witness this remarkable woman. She has not rested on her reputation to let that do the work of the play for her. Encores were called for again and again after every one of her appearances, even after she had exhausted all the verses to her songs. The greatest song hit of the evening was "Robinson Crusoe" song by Miss Cahill. Marie Cahill has been rather unfortunate in her songs of the past two years, as none of them have had the necessary go to make them popular, and when she does get a song like "Nancy Brown" or one of the other half dozen or so that became so popular, they have almost to be cut out of the show in order that the show can go on, the applause is so tremen-

The chorus at the opera Tuesday night was one of the best that has been seen in Fort Worth this winter, almost all of the girls being of the type that is necessary for a Broadway performance, but so seldom seen in Fort Worth. The dancing of the chorus was also of the highest order, difficult steps being executed through-

"Buster Brown"

Melville B. Raymond's "Buster Brown," known to everybody, has been dramatized and put on the stage. Buster is an appealing little fellow with his dog Tige, and is the moving spirit in a vast number of creations and side splitting adventures. These are set in a handsome framework and adorned with a large chorus, a ballet and a group of American beauties. "Buster Brown" will be offered at Greenwall's opera house tonight and tomorrow matnee, 3:15, and tomorrow night. "Buster Brown" will entertain after the matinee tomorrow on the stage.

Dockstader's Minstrels Lew Dockstader will be here with his all new show which requires the services of about 100 of the very best comedians, singers and dancers in the musical world, and also three car loads of special scenery, properties and other accessories on Thursday matinee and night at Greenwall's opera house, April

Deposition in Case is Heard by Judge Smith

L. W. DeMotte appeared before Judge Mike E. Smith of the Seventeenth district court Tuesday afternoon and gave his deposition, which bond when that case comes up for trial. This deposition was given for the reason that DeMotte expected to leave the city Wednesday morning and would not be here to give oral testi-at the request of Philadelphia authorhabeas corpus to Judge Mike E. Smith, who, pending the hearing of the application released DeMotte on $1,000 bond, and when the case came up for hearing DeMotte failed to appear, having voluntarily gone to Philadelphia there. Judge Smith declared the bond forfeited and entered judgment nisi against the sureties, ordering the clerk of the court to issue notice to the sureties that the judgment would be made final unless good cause to the contrary was shown

Returned to Fort Worth After these proceedings DeMotte returned to Fort Worth and has been here ever since. His trial will come up in Philadelphia soon, which causes him to return there at this time. In his deposition DeMotte said that he thought his return to Philadelphia before the trial of the application for a writ of habeas corpus here would meet the ends of justice, and that if he had known that his bond would have been forfeited by his going to Philadelphia and putting himself in custody of the court that wanted him, he would not have gone at that time: that as soon as he heard his bond was rfeited he returned to Fort Worth in order to give his evidence as to his motives in going to Philadelphia before the habeas corpus case came up here.

SEEK BURIED WEALTH

Aged Negro Rewarded by Gold Ring

Digging in the ground in search of buried treasure, two old negroes, a man and a woman, attracted much attention at the corner of Twelfth and Main streets Wednesday, on the site where will soon be erected a modern business

The old wooden buildings on this property were torn down a few dayago and the two old negroes took a notion that there was money to be found on the ground where the old buildings stood.

A Telegram reporter watched the old man, Claiborne Thompson, for a few minutes, and saw him turn up with an old case knife he was using as a digger, a silver 10-cent piece, which he put in a leather pocketbook. "Find much?" asked the reporter of the old fellow. "Purty considerable," said he. "I done found 55 cents already this morn-

"No, sah; all good money." "Found anything else?" "Yes, sah; found a gold ring this mawnin', and I don't know how much is worth," and he took from his pocketbook a solid gold ring of ancient pattern set with a red stone that may be a ruby. If it is, the size of the stone would make the ring of considerable value

The old woman has not been as successful as her fellow treasure seeker, the total of her findings being 25 cents.

I was in the office of the John J. Fulton Co. yesterday when a prominent old school physician of an adjoining city came in. He came in to report in a friendly way to the manager of the Fulton Company the astonishing results he had gotten in two cases of Bright's Disease. He stated that to his utter amazement the albumen disappeared in both these cases within a week, and that there was later complete recovery. He was willing for the facts to be known, but for professional reasons didn't want his name used. The manager of the Fulton Company said he was glad to have the facts, but would rather state that the albumen had BEGUN to disappear the first week rather than that it had totally disappeared, for it was not only unusual but hard for people to believe in view of the belief that Bright's Disease meant death; and he therefore thought the more conservative statement would be the best, The idea of results being so miraculous that it was best not to give them in their entirety and to temper them was such an amazing tribute to the astonishing results being obtained by the Fulton Compounds in diseases that are considered incurable the world over that upon being asked to certify the fact I cheerfully comply, for these facts ought to be known. fore me by H. W. Knoll this Dec. 10th. 1904. Attest my hand and official THOS. S. BURNES, Notary Public, 626 Montgomery St.,

One reason we hesitated about stat-ing the real facts in the above cases is that in most cases it takes weeks and months to get rid of albumen, and patience is of the utmost importance. Bright's Disease and Diabetes, heretofore incurable, are now curable in 87 per cent of all cases by Fulton's Compounds. Send for pamphlet.

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free

There can be no more terrible ordeal wa delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private ills, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female disease.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs Pinkham, daughterin-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise sick women more wisely than the local physician.
Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Mrs. T. C. Willadsen, of Manning, Ia. She writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I can truly say that you have saved my life, and I cannot express my gratitude in words. Before I wrote to you telling you how I felt, I had doctored for over two years steady, and spent lots of money in medicines steady, and spent lots of money in medicines besides, but it all failed to do me any good. I had female trouble and would daily have fainting spells, backache, bearing-down pains, and my monthly periods were very irregular and finally ceased. I wrote to you for your advice and received a letter full of instructions just what to do, and also commenced to take just what to do, and also commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have been restored to perfect health. Had it not been for you I would have been h my grave to-day. Mountains of proof establish the fact

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

WHITEWASHED DIAMONDS THE EXPE-

RIENCES OF JOHN WALLACE, DETEC-TIVE, Under JACMUTH ADAMS, CHIEF

(Copyright, 1905. by Orlando Kling.)

Jacmuth Adams, detective, in Denver, detects a secret sign used only by high-class criminals, made by a well dressed woman to a man, following her hurried exit from the Coliseum, where, during the dog show, a large Newfoundland canine expressed unbounded rage at the sight of her person. He goes to St. Louis to report the matter and his chief arrives at the conclusion that the antipathy of the dog may be traced to the fact that the woman is a criminal, believing that dogs possess an instinctive hatred for persons intending to commit crime. Records are searched, a possible connection is developed between the woman and the disappearance of a fine dog in an eastern city.

"Again, it seems she purchased the most of her stock from one firm, Bettis, Beale & Company. Their salesman was in the habit of taking his sample trunks direct to her establishment. Nothing so very unusual in such a proceeding, to be sure, but suppose there was special reason

"Nothing of special interest transpires until the disappearance of the dog, which occurs on April 23, and in a day or so he is killed by the train. On the night of the 26th the McVicker store is robbed, and two days afterward Madam Harrington's establish ment is burned. Cause of fire is unknown. The stock is not insured.

Now the hotel register shows that the man Bettis was in town on April 26 and left on the 28th. After the fire Madame leaves for New York to purchase a new stock, but fails to eturn. These are all coincidences, perhaps, but we will keep them in mind. Another thing, it appears that the dog was killed accidentally-just in time to give the thleves the opportunity they were looking for; fortunate for them, wasn't it?

Now let us consider it in this way. pose the dog was in the way, what would have been the usual course of events? Poison him, would it not? But you see this was not a usual case, for the dog was so thoroughly known and so well liked that he had no enemies mean enough to poison him, therefore, such a plan might arouse immediate suspicion. To avoid this ne must be disposed of in some manner that would create the impression that he might return at any time-if the reward was worth while. This would, or at least might, prevent the employment of special police service. If he was killed and the body thrown on the track at the proper moment, the train would be held responsible for the death, which would be supposed to be on accidental one. If then during the excitement the store should be somewhat neglected, the opportunity for robbery would be all the better. Now here seems to be no clue to the hieves, and how they succeeded in getting their plunder out of the city equally as mysterious to the police. "Now suppose that at some convenient place there were several huge trunks, for example, sample trunks, a style of packing case that would acommodate such goods very nicely, and could be removed without exciting any suspicion. Suppose we go a step farther and not only accuse Madame Harrington of being in the plot, but of being the chief instigator of the robbery. Not such an extravagant supposition when one comes to look at the "First, she occupies the store on Ninth street, which, by comparison of the number, shows that it was di-

Vicker place. Now, it would be easy for Bettis to weight his trunks, send them to Madame's store, and with the assistance of confederates, transfer the plate, jewelry, etc., across the alley into Madame's. He can then pack the trunks with the results of the robbery, and under the very noses of the police next morning, ship them to the depot and disappear.

"Madame, herself, must have a plausible excuse for leaving the city suddenly and a fire is the most rapid method of disposing of the stock, and at the same time supplies the necessary excuse. As it was not insured, no one has a special interest in ascertaining how it caught on fire, and certainly no suspicion could attach to the owner, for she would be silly to burn goods that were not insured. Of course the loss, a couple of thousand dollars, was considerable-unless one knows how the owner might be reimbursed through some other means.

"Wallace, in my opinion, Madame went there for the express purpose of perpetrating that robbery. Bettis, Beale & Company were only a part of the general plan, and the fact that they disappear about May 1 is corroborative evidence of their connection with it. Isn't my theory fairly well proven by the facts? What do you think of it, eh. Wallace?'

As Mr. Adam had held point after point in review I had unconsciously admitted every argument, and when he had concluded I could only acknowledge that the proofs presented were as strong and conclusive, at least, as circumstantial evidence could make Therefore, I readily admitted that he was right, and expressed my admiration of the successful demonstration of his theories. "Now, Wallace, said he, "I believe that Madame Harrington and Ida Montgomery are identical, for the general description given shows the two women have much in common, and what is of more importance to my mind, is the fact that both of these affairs required ability of a high order. them through successfully. For these reasons I shall not be at all surprised if your fine lady in Denver should prove to be the same individual also, and her gentleman acquaintance none other than the traveling man, Bettis. It is a broad assertion to make, but I am confident I am right and feel like congratulating the dog on his display of good judgment. At any rate, I propose to follow up the case, and will notify you now that you are to take full charge of it. Be prepared to leave for Denver tomorrow. As assistants I shall detail Miss Carroll, and Page and Somerton. You will find necessary to follow "milady" close ly, for if she promises to be Ida Montgomery-the notorious-you will have your hands full. There's a fortune offered for her arrest and conviction already, so there is sufficient inducement for us to make an investigation. regardless of the scheme she may have on foot. When this is consummated, I'll wager she will relieve the westerners of some of their diamonds, to say nothing of any odd change they may happen to put within her reach. So get your traps together, my boy, and in the morning we will decide on a plan of operations, although most of the details will have to be left to your own judgment after you get there. As you know, we haven't much ground work yet, as you were there so short a time. Understand that you are to have full charge of the case, the other operatives will work under your direction. The Sale of the Savings Bank To say that I was overjoyed at the manner in which matters had developed, would ill express my feelinbgs. At one time I had been almost ready to drop the case on account of what appeared to me to be the vague and unsatisfactory information secured, but when the tangled clues were straightened out, and in their proper relation readjusted by the keen and a: tical mind of the chief, my confidence returned, and I felt that the case could not fail to become an important one. It was with great difficulty that I expressed my satisfaction and gratitude to Mr. Adams, as I attempted to thank him for the confidence he had shown in my ability, and seeing my embarrassment, he hurried me off to my rooms with the assertion that he really had not the time then to listen

The next morning I was at the office promptly, and as soon as the chief arrived, we began discussing plans for my work. It was decided that I should engage the services of a crayon artist who could make a specialty of first. class portrait work. So far as he was concerned, he was not to know that the venture was not genuine in every respect, as the business was to be conducted in my name, and his work done under a salary. This plan would enable me to have as many people employed in the capacity of clerks and canvassers as I desired, and at the same time furnish plausible reasons for cultivating an intimate acquaintance with such people as we wished to meet. It was not difficult to obtain the services of such an artist as the occasion demanded, as the salary was liberal and the situation a desirable one. A stock of sample portraits and supplies was packed for shipment, and the artist and myself took an evening train for the west. The trip proved uneventful, and I soon found myself established at the same hotel in Denver where I had previously stopped. My first work was to select a suite of offices suitable for the purpose I had in view, and after half a day's search I decided upon five rooms in a large business block directly across the street from the postoffice. Within a few days they were furnished and the lettering on the ground glass doors informed the public that George Wallace, general manager of the Cartwright Cravon Portrais Company occupied them. I then advertised for experienced canvassers, and applicants for positions became numerous. By a little ingenulty, these were all kept on the waiting list until Page, Somerton and Miss Carroll ar rived. The men made application in the regular way, and without exciting the suspicton of the others, were given employment.

We were now ready to begin work, and it required but a few days for us to obtain the permission of several well portraits for exhibition purposes. While the artist was engaged on these, Page and Somerton were beginning the preliminary work of canvassing the residence districts. It was not their first attempt, for we had, some years before, utilized the same means to conceal our identity while working on an important case, and the experiences gained at that time were valuable to It was desirable that we learn as much as possible of what was going on at Mrs. Wheaton's and Page made special efforts to obtain orders for portraits in the vicinity of her resilence. He succeeded fairly well, and soon had matters so arranged that it was necessary for him to visit the lo cality frequently. Somerton established himself at the family hotel that sheltered Mrs. Wheaton's acquaintance, and while he made some show of canvassing, he managed to spend much of his time about the hotel, seldom leaving it unless his man, also, was away. Our arrangements now enabled us to get among the people in a business way and ascertain much that was gong on outside of Mrs. Wheaton's own esidence, but to obtain entrance there, and on a footing of social equality, was still to be accomplished. For this we depended upon Miss Carroll, and it was necessary that she appear in some character that would allow of her becoming a guest, not only at Mrs. Wheaton's, but at other places as well. In doing this, no time was to be lost, and acquaintances must be made rap-

The role she assumed was extremely difficult, but as it was not her first appearance, and being well equipped with a good education and a fund of ready wit, she had no hesitancy in attempting the work the chief had laid out for her to do.

As Denver was becoming a favorite resort for health and pleasure seekers, t was not at all an uncormon thing to find among them a considerable number of theatrical artists and literary celebrities who found the city an xcellent place to spend a vacation, and among these were a number who were looked upon as being social "lions." When, therefore, the society columns of the daily press contained the information that the talented authoress, Miss Carroll Clifton, would spend some months in Denver, the announcement was regived by society people with as much favor and Interest as we could desire.

Some days later her name appeared ipon the register of the most fashfonable hotel, and no little effort was made to ascertain what manner of person she was. For several days the curiosity seekers obtained little satisfaction, as Miss Clifton adroitly kept out of their way, but enough was learned to assure them that she was young and suffiently pretty to warrant the belief that her acquaintance might prove worth cultivating. Her apparent desire to remain unnoted was now no onger considered and several of the "swell set" made bold to attempt to call upon her, and in a short time considerable rivalry had developed which was ended only when it was discovered that the "Wheaton clique" had cap-tured the prize, and Miss Carroll found herself in the social position desired.

FORT WORTH'S PROGRESS IN SIX YEARS SHOWN

The annual interest and sinking fund now amounts to $127,260, which shows a saving in the fixed charges on the debt annually of $21,420, and a reduction of the debt to the amount of During the six years that I have been mayor the following permanent mprovements have been made without the assistance of a single bond:

at hand at this time. It is reasonable to say that threequarters of a million dollars have been spent in permanent improvements in the last six years in the city of Fort Worth, without the issuance of bonds. do not believe that there is another city in America that can make a better showing in the handling of its finances than is told by the figures

The demands of a growing city are always beyond the limit of its finances and it is impossible to extensively carry on permanent improvements without drawing upon the city's credit, and under a system in which bond issues are not made it is almost impossible not to be in debt at the end of the fiscal year; hence the city of Fort Worth has been compelled to have an overdraft with its bankers, varying according to the amount of work done during each year.

Public Schools

The public schools of the city show the same healthy increase to be found in the other departments. The present session shows a total enrollment of 6.116 against a total enrollment of 5,-157 in 1903, a gain of 17.4 per cent in that time. The actual attendance for the past year was 5.127 as against 4.034 in 1899, a gain of 24.6 per cent, showing an improved condition in the handling of the schools. There are at present 130 teachers including the superintendent divided as follows: Grading teachers, 120; specials teachers, 9; su-On March 9 the new Eighth ward school building was opened with 12 rooms. On the 16th of November last the Fifth ward new building with 16 s was opened. The manual training department, which has recently been opened in the high school now has 47 boys with three teachers. The cooking department has 53 girls and the sewing department 55 girls. These departments have become fixtures, and are doing as well as could be expected with a limited amount of means that the school board has to expend in them. The pay roll of the schools in 1903 was $7,210.38 per month; in 1906, it is $9,206.61, an increase of $1,996.23, or This shows that there has been an advance in the salaries of the teachers. The total amount expended for school purposes last year was $162,-

Permit me in this connection to pay compliment to the teachers of our Fort Worth schools. As a body I do not believe that there has ever been gathered together in any municipality a better corp of teachers than we nov have in the city of Fort Worth. school board has been very careful and painstaking in this matter, and the result has justified the time and labor they have spent upon the schools. Fire Department

I have not at hand a report of the chief of the fire department, and am unable to give any figures as to its operation during the past year. Suffice it to say that it has more than maintained its previous record for efficlency with the rather limited apparatus at its command. Police Department

The police department is under a splendid system of discipline, but it is entirely too small for the needs of the city. Chief Maddox has done the very best that could be done under the circumstances, as will appear from his detailed report, which he will file

Engineering Department In the engineering department the past has been a busy year. The new sewer system and large amount of street work has involved a considerable expenditure of money for this department, and you will refer to the city engineer's report for further informa-

Condition of the City

Fort Worth is now on the crest of its greatest prosperity. Its people are prosperous and contented, no serious labor troubles have arisen during the six years I have been mayor. There been work enough for all and sofisfaction generally between the employed and the employer. Values on business property have risen steadily without any boom, and business lots are being sold on a basis of the revenue they will bring, and have reached the high water mark of $1,000 per front

The city has the finest system of railway terminals in the southwest, capable of handling the aggregated trade of the state. It has the finest water that flows through the mains of any city on earth. It is the healthiest city of its size in the United States, and is destined to become the great inland metropolis of Texas. The packing house industries have centralized the great cattle interests of Texas in Fort Worth, and the cattlemen of the state are investing heavily in Fort Worth real estate, and as the large pastures diminish, the money drawn therefrom will enrich and beautify this home of the cattleman.

During the time I have been mayor. it has been my ambition to help to lay broad and deep the foundation of a great city in Fort Worth. I realized that a pure domestic water was the highest essential to this end. Fort Worth would never have been a great city without an adequate and pure water supply, and in my judgment the placing of the artesian water in the mains of the city was, and always will be, the greatest event in its municipal history; and in my judgment no greater calamity could befall its people and its future than the placing of river water back in the mains. In the extension of the artesian system no expense should stand in the way, and it is my deliberate judgment that with the expenditure of sufficient money enough artesian water can be run into the mains of Fort Worth to supply a half million people.

City Government

The fault of the present system of government in Fort Worth lies in the fact that it combines the executive and the legislative functions. I do not believe that executive officers should be endowed with full legislative powers. In other words, there should be a check upon the executive independent and separate from themselves. This is now partly accomplished in the referendum clause of the Fort Worth charter, and if this city is to have a commission form of gover ment, I believe the Merendum clause should be retained in the charter. I also believe that any new charter should be submitted to the people for ratification or rejection under the referendum. Concentration of executive power in the hands of the commission will probably produce better results than under the present system, but concentration of all legislative power in the hands of any small body of men, in my judgment, is destructive, in the end, of the highest ideal of our public and a government of the people, for the people, by the people.

Charter Changes

I believe the Fort Worth charter should contain the clauses which were stricken out of an amendment prepared by myself and sent to the last legislature, as follows: The power and regulation of the rates and/services of public utilities, and a percentage of gross receipts paid to the city. The power of municipal ownership of public utilities. The election of all chief executive officers by a direct vote of the people, and if we are to have a commission form of government, the election of the commissioners by a direct vote. In saying farewell to the city council, I cannot refrain from expressing my profound gratitude for the manner in which its members have overlooked my faults and aided me in the many things I have tried to do for the city. There has never been a serious conflict in opinion between the executive and legislative body that was not amicably settled by concessions on both sides. In the six years I have never suspended a single officer under my charter power, and have had the loyal, honest, earnest support of them all in everything that tended for the benefit of Fort Worth.

Those of you who have weathered the storm of adverse circumstances and the varying changes of public criticism, know what we have passed through, and how hard we have struggled to build up our city. Upon our record, we must stand. Respectfully T. J. POWELL,

GRADERS CLASH

Forces of Hill and Harriman in a Mix-Up By Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 11 .- The Oregonian says that on Monday the Hill and Harriman forces met in a serious clash near La Camas, According to the version of the Columbia Valley railroad men, they stole a march on their opponents, the Portland and Seattle railroad forces, and occupied a deep cut near La Camas, where they began digging to lower the Portland and Seattle grade.

The sticks, it is said, were not lighted. Then several came down with lighted fuses, which were promptly pulled out by Chief Engineer Wose. Seeing that their ruse did not frighten away the Harriman graders, the Hill forces are said to have thrown sticks with such short fuses that it was fool hardy to try to pull them out and both crews of railroads ran away, leaving the dynamite to explode harmlessly. The Portland and Seattle officials deny any knowledge of the dynamite throwing by their construction gangs.

PROGRESS MADE

Druggist R. A. Anderson Says One of the Most Noted Examples Is in Medicine. _

"While electricity has supplanted the old-fashioned tallow candle for lighting purposes, almost turning night into while it has opened up our great country by a network of electric railways; while all kinds of machinery have been invented to do the work of hosts of people, we have just as noted an example in the field of medicine," said Mr. R. A. Anderson,

"Fifty years ago every one knew of the latent medicinal properties contained in cod liver oil; physicians everywhere prescribed it, but thou-sands could not take it on account of the oil and grease which enveloped the curative, strengthening properties it contained, and in many cases where they could take it it would upset the stomach so it could do no good.

"Now all this is changed," continued Mr. Anderson. "Science has shown us a way to separate the curative medicinal elements which exist in the cod's liver from the oil or useless part and given us Vinol. It contains every one of these medicinal elements, actually taken from fresh cods' livers, out without a drop of oil or grease to nauseate and upset the stomach and retard its work. Vinol contains no sickening drugs, everything in it is printed on every bottle. "We have never sold in our store a dedicine equal to Vinol to give strength and renewed vitality to aged, build up the run-down, tired and debilitated, make the weak strong, cure chronic coughs, colds and build up the convalescent.

"It is because we know so well the medicinal power of this new cod liver oil preparation that we freely offer to return the money in every case where it falls to give satisfaction." R. A. An-

THE PASSING OF DOWIE

Advices from Chicago indicate that while John Alexander Dowie, self-constituted First Apostle and Elijah III., in the Dowie religious world, has been off in foreign lands in search of health, sowers of discord and fomenters of trouble have been at work, and the old uman returned to America to find himself supplanted. A man by the name of Voliva, who has been his deputy has seized control and is now working the Elljah business. Old things have passed away. The king is dead-long live the king.

The catastrophe was not altogether unexpected, for John Axelander's influence has been on the wane for many months. His bright particular star has been sinking steadily in the western horizon, and his fate is that common in the experience of all men who live too long. Carrying his pretensions and his ideas with a high hand, his influence even among the most ignorant of his followers naturally became tame, and his recent mental and physical collapse only hastened the denouement, which came a few days ago when Overseer Voliva publicly defied the Apostle and disobeyed his explicit commands.

And in all the holy city of Zion there is not one person found so poor as to do reverence to the fallen one. Even the wife of his bosom and his "unkissed son" have cast him off, as is often the case when the head of the family is no longer able to exhibit an earning capacity. Apostle Voliva has been received with wild enthusiasm since the former leader has been relegated to the scrap heap, and the apostleship will henceforth be occupied by an up-to-date and thoroughly reliable prophet.

John Alexander Dowle has been one of the most picturesque and prominent religious figures of the present day. His spectacular methods and audacious claims have made of him a figure which delighted the newsgatherers of the country, and the strong tersonality and unquestioned genius for organization resulted in the formation of a colony which for years submitted unreservedly to his autocratic rule. It !. an established fact that Dowie has contributed largely to the gayety of those who were not converted to his peculiar style of religion, and his pretensions have been ridiculed by thoughtful people. And yet, the influence of John Alexander Dowie has not been entirely for evil. He has done some good in the world.

In his best and palmy days J. Alexander was very much of a joke, but now he presents a pathetic figure ard the impulse to laugh at him is past. A feeble and lonely old man, sojourning in foreign lands, he finds himself deprived of his family, his wealth, and what he prized above every other possession, his power. Fallen from his former high estate, his last days have been embittered and filled with sorrow, and he himself cannot but have come to feel that it would have been better for him to have departed this sphere years ago when his strength and influence were at full tide.

THE FORT WORTH METHOD

Fort Worth has inaugurated a campaign for a ferring to the matter, The Telegram says:

The campaign that is being conducted in this city for the Young Men's Christian Association building fund should be short, quick and decisive. There is no mecessity for the men who are engaged in this great work to have to make frantic and everlasting appeals to the most liberal and progressive people on the face of the earth to do something that must appear to every one as a matter of plain duty. There is a certain fore completion amount of money to be raised within a certain time and as a result of that amount of money being raised, Fort Worth will have a Young Men's Christian Association building that will be a credit to the city and answer the existing demands in that direction. Of course, Fort Worth will raise the required amount of money. The men who are giving their time to the promotion of this great enterprise will not be met with refusals or procrastinations. The great heart of Fort Worth will give an answering throb and every progressive citizen will go down on that subscription list for what he feels able to give to a good cause.

Can not Houston gather inspiration from this appeal, in which such confidence in immediate results is expected. Surely we will not lag behind all the cities of Texas in a matter of such vital importance to the religious growth of the city-Houston Post.

Fort Worth has a manner of doing things that is the wonder and envy of all other Texas towns and cities. While they are figuring on the best way to attain desired results on a given proposition they see Fort Worth step in and do those things with the least apparent effort. Houston is an old city, has had the benefit of long years of experience, but evidently sticks to old methods and continually finds herself stuck in the ruts.

Editorial Rooms-Phones 676 Fort Worth is modern. Fort Worth is up to date. Fort Worth is chock full of enthusiasm and enterprise, and when Fort Worth starts out after an enterprise it is a foregone conclusion that it is going to be landed. When it was announced that $12,000 additional was needed for the new Y. M. C. A. building Fort Worth did not stop to figure on the thousand and one ways by which this money might be raised. There was a mighty resolution made to raise it and men went to work with a vim and determination. And when the twelve days had expired it was found Fort Worth has made good as usual, and raised nearly $5,000 over the amount required-in fact, enough to add still another story.

> There is no need for wasting tears over the escape of the individuals freed from indictment on charges of constituting a beef trust. When the corporations are convicted and jailed the individuals will then see what they have escaped and may be good in the future. Just how the corporations are to be jailed is something of a problem for future ascertainment, but where there is a will there is always a way, and the President himself has insisted the corporation should bear the odium and weight of the punishment. Who knows but the President may still have some form of corporation imprisonment up his sleeve? But, seriously, the beef trust farce has progressed to the point where the people are actually losing interest, and are turning back to the consolation contained in the assertion that this is a government of the trusts, by the trusts and for

> The Telegram believes the people of Fort Worth owe it to themselves to free the public school system of this city from any alliance whatsoever with any form of politics. The political field is big enough and broad enough for virtue to find its reward without spoliation of the sacred school fund. In the administration of public school affairs, let us have a system of absolute merit, combined with aggressive progressiveness, and strive to make the public schools just as efficient as it is possible to make them. Let the poltticians with friends to reward stand with hands off.

Thomas Jefferson Powell has turned loose the reins of city government after an administration that must go down into history as one of the best Fort Worth has ever known. In his voluntary retirement, which was made to become a candidate for congressional honors, former Mayor Powell carries with him the I laudits and best wishes of all our people.

The hope of the people in the enactment of a railway rate law is centered in the Democratic party. And if such a measure is enacted during the present session of congress the Democratic party will be entitled to the credit therefor, with incidental thanks to a Republican President and a few members of his party in accord

Eastern politicians are wasting their time and breath in suggestions as to the division of Texas. This state will never be divided, and men can talk their heads off with so-called argument as to why it should be done without any appreciable result. Texas is not for division,

E. G. Senter, of Dallas, formerly editor of the old Fort Worth Gazette, is a candidate for the state senate from the Dallas district. Senter is a very brilliant and able man, has always been in touch and sympathy with the real Democracy of the state, and is a man who deserves well at the hands of his party.

While the people of Texas have been clamoring for the attorney general of the state to go after the trusts hot-foot, he has been doing some work in a Lightfoot manner. And according to the whispers that leak out from Austin, the state is now nearly ready to spring some very sensational allegations.

As a proposition in which all our people can very readily take stock, The Telegram hazards the suggestion that it is a very safe plan to keep politics out of the public school system of this city. The schools are designed for the benefit of the children, and not for the reward of the politicians.

Friends of William D. Williams in this city have taken hold of his candidacy for railroad commissioner in a manner that promises to bring some very decided results. The Williams boom is one of the things that is constantly growing.

Judge Charles K. Bell of this city will make the opening speech in his regular campaign for governor friends and associates down there promise to give him | Salem (O.) Reporter. a rousing reception.

James B. Wells is still non-committal as to his candidacy for governor and is still engaged in studying the stars. It looks as if those oros would have long ago revealed to him that it is no use. The next governor of Texas resides in Fort Worth.

Kansas is making the biggest wheat crop in the history of the state this spring, and Teras is not far behind her. The outlook was never better in North Texas than at this time, and farmers are very much

The contest for governor in Fort Worth and Dallas will be quite spirited. Dallas don't want Fort Worth to run off with the governorship with Bell in the harness, and Fort Worth is determined to prevent Brooks of Dallas from doing the same thing. It is probable while they fight over the bone that Tom Campbell of Palestine will get the prize.-Memphis

The contest for governor is not between Fort Worth and Dallas, but between five gentlemen who desire the position. Judge Bell is not the Fort Worth candidate, but the choice of the conservative element of all Texas Democracy.

The Houston Post is going too far with its advocacy of the blanket primary when it urges the special session of the legislature to go beyond the governor's recommendation. The legislature is constitutionally inhibited from pursuing the Post's program, if we mistake not. It cannot pass the bounds set by the state's chief executive when in special session. That has always been our understanding. If we are mistaken, we shall be glad to stand corrected.-Waco Times-Herald.

The Times-Herald is right in its contention, and it is certain the blanket primary system cannot be engrafted upon the law at this special session. It is a matter not included in the call of the executive.

Gradually the cordon is being tightened about the eigarette smoker, and he is finding it more difficult to obtain a position. It begins to look as if all positions to be filled will soon be decorated with the legend "No cigarette fiend need apply."

. . . . Some day we will get a legislature in Texas with election law which pokes the nose of the state into the political conduct of the people.-Waco Times-Herald.

When the people of Texas awaken to all the despotism that is embraced in the present election law they will send a legislature to Austin instructed to prune it of all objectionable features.

. . . . The public has never had the slightest hope of the conviction of the meat packers. They are as guilty as hades itself, but their wealth makes them immune. The oil trust agitation will also result in the final success of these well known thieves .- Austin Tribune.

It was not the wealth of the packers that rendered them immune. It was the immunity promised them by James R. Garfield, who performed the task faithfully he set about to do.

. . . . It is now quite clearly seen that except for the game of politics at Austin "section 120" might have been corrected within twenty-four hours after the legislature assembled and the state could have been saved a deal of expense.-San Antonio Express,

The men who played politics at Austin were properly rebuked by the failure of their little scheme. Next time it is to be hoped they will know better.

. . . . The Texas delegation in congress went wrong on the federal quarantine bill. The people of Texas want the federal government to take charge of and control the

THE WOMAN DEPUTY

Special Dispatch to the Telegram.

Le Sueur, Minn., April 7 .- Miss Molly Theroe, deputy sheriff, appointed for one special piece of work only, performed the duty assigned to her with great honor to herself and to the eminent satisfaction of the sheriff and the plaintiff in the case yesterday,

A year ago one of the gay young farmers of the country was paying most devoted attention to a witching lady of rather gay and reckless nature, and in his infatuation he lavished upon her many fine and costly presents, the chief among which were a diamond studded watch and a $600 diamond ring. These presents were given to her after they became engaged to marry and in contemplation of their eventually becoming husband and wife.

She jilted him and married another man. He demanded the return of the presents and she scornfully refused to accede to his wishes in that respect. She vowed that she would keep them, and he brought suit against her to secure their recovery. She made no defense to the action and judgment was entered in his favor and an execution issued and placed in the hands of the sheriff for service.

This official waited on the lady, showed her the formidable looking writ with which the clerk of court had furnished him, and demanded that she comply with its mandate and hand over the valuables. She told him that the writ did not order her to do anything; that it only directed him to get the goods, and that, masmuch as she had them on her person and intended sufficient Democracy to repeal all that portion of the to keep them there, she would be delighted to see how he was going to get them.

> The sheriff had already been informed by his attorney that he had no right to take them from her by force; that such a seizure would be illegal and give him no right to hold them and that, if he did so, she could replevin them and make him pay costs and damages. So he could do nothing when she met his bluff with scorn except to go away and think up plans.

> This lady was then keeping house, and her husband being a traveling man, she was alone a good deal of the time. She had advertised for a girl to do housework for her, and this combination of circumstances gave the sheriff a notion.

Miss Molly Theroe was employed as a domestic servant in his family, and he discharged her, appointed her deputy sheriff, gave her the writ of execution and got her to apply to the lady with the diamonds for the vacant place as her servant. Miss Molly got the place very easily, and last night, after her mistress had placed the watch and ring, with other valuables, on her dresser and then had gone to bed and gone to sleep, the deputy made levy on them under the execution, left a duly certified copy of the writ, duly receipted, in their place, discharged herself from the employment and returned to her situation in the sheriff's family with the goods and much honor. LE SUEUR LYRE.

LITTLE STORIES WELL TOLD

ANANIAS OUTDONE

The champion liar of the town was outdoing himself on his pet topic, the civil war. "Talk of mud," he was saying, "our campaign in the Wilderness was the worst. It rained for days without letting up. When it did stop we started off with our artillery. Soon we came to a regular water hole, but we drove straight along, and do you know that first team went right out

. . . . JOHNNY'S CONSCIENCE

A teacher in one of our city schools defined conscience as "something within you that tells you when you have done wrong."

"Oh, yes," said a little lad at the other end of the room, "I had it once last summer after I'd eaten green apples, but they had to send for a doctor."

. . . . COMING DOWN LIKE A LADY

A young lady was entertaining callers one evening when her little sister came down the stairway in a noisy manner. "Frances," said the annoyed elder sister, "you came downstairs so that you could be heard all over the house. Now, go back and come down Frances retired, and in a few minutes re-entered

"Did you hear me come downstairs this time, Mar-ile?" asked the little girl, anxiously. "No, dear, this time you came down like a lady." "Yes'm," explained Frances, exhibiting some pride and satisfaction in her performance, "this time I came down the banisters,"

PUZZLING MATHEMATICS

At the close of the war of the rebellion a young doctor in Kentucky told his black people that all of them who wished to stay on the old plantation and work could do so and give him a third of what they made. He himself went to practicing his profession in a neighboring town. A number were loath to leave their old home and gladly accepted their young master's proposition. Among them was the oldest negro on the place, who was known to the whole country as Uncle Caliph.

One day the next autumn Doctor Gray, returning from a call, found Uncle Caliph seated on his office "What is it, Uncle Cabe? Nobody sick, I hope?"

The old negro rose with his hat in his hand and

"Nothin' the mattah, little marse. I'se jest cum o see you on ticlah bisness—jest to tell yo' I didn't make de thurd." "Didn't make the third, Uncle Cabe. I don't know

BULLET PROOF CLOTHES

LE SUEUR, Minn., April 8.-Right upon the the notable failure just lately made in Italy by Benedetti to prove his boastful claims of vented and manufactured bullet-prof cloth for of soldiers in war comes, very apropos indeed s covery by a Minnesota man, Donald Maw Wheatley, of a method of making for use in war a kind of clothing, light and comfortable such peculiar texture that no bullet fired for rifle yet invented can penetrate it.

It is rather difficult to give an accurate dead of the so-called cloth, but it resembles, more than thing else yet made, cloth of spun glass, althou no glass in it, but it is made almost wholly of at num, so treated that the metal is as changed for condition in which we have been accustomed to a as brittle glass is when it is so metamorphosed as be changed into a fairly pliable cloth that my woven into a dress.

Although the process is secret, it would seem the aluminum is first drawn out into wire as floor cobweb, thrown into a somewhat spiral form, cut is short lengths, mingled together with about an en bulk of the finest silk threads, spun out again b threads of considerable thickness and then woven h close meshed cloth, which is afterward quilted h gether in several thicknesses and then made up h

The cloth is three-eighths of an inch thick and made into suits consisting of three pieces-a help coming low down on the forehead and fitting co about the face, with a flap hanging from just bener the nose to six inches below the chin; a sleevejacket, reaching a little below the waist, and a wi flowing apron fastened around the waist and con down to the ankles, the jacket being made of the but proof cloth in front only.

The entire suit, which is, of course, intended to wern over other garments, weighs no more than ordinary heavy spring overcoat, but is absolutely pervious to the most seathing rifle fire, even for Mausers, Krag-Jorgensens, the new Springfield other high-power firearms.

There is no protection for the face and arms this, Mr. Mawhone claims, is unavoidable. He the that it would not be advisable to attempt to cover arms and thus render the soldier ineffective he fensive work.

AN EASTER GREETING

Long before the dawn of morning. Where entombed, the Savior lay, Came an angel, clad with glory. Came, and rolled the stone away; And the watchman, pale with wonder, Shook and trembled at the sight; Fled in terror at the visage Of the holy angel bright.

Death is vanquished, Christ has conquered Death is captive, Christ is king. He shall reign o'er all victorious; Let the song of triump ring.

On that lovely Sunday morning, Jesus, rising from the grave, Broke the seal of death forever-Proved His mighty power to save. He who in bitter anguish: "It is finished;" all is o'er; He whose brow was pierced so keenly, Wears the crown of thorns no more

Come and hail our Lord and Savier; At His feet devoutly fall. Come, receive the gift He offers-Life through Him who died for all. Peace and pardon, love and mercy, To the wandering soul He gives. Go proclaim the joyful story; Tell the world our Savior lives. -FANNY CROSSI.

A meeting of the directors of the Board of Trade was held in the Board the purpose of taking up the matter of Show and a committee was appointed to look into the matter and report at the next meeting. A large number of business men of the city interested in the matter were present at the meeting besides the directors of the Board of Trade.

He said in part: "I have understood that there was a plan on foot to form an association to build a pavilion for the Fat Stock Show and I feel assured that the commission men will be glad to co-operate with the Board of Trade to make the Fat Stock Show a more pronounced success. Everything connected with the show was a success, even being independent of the Cattle Raiswere larger than ever before and I feel that the show was a greater success than it has ever been before."

Marion Sansom stated that thought that the matter should be pushed immediately. "Dallas has her state fair, San Antonio her annual fair, and I think that the Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth will rank with any of them for interest. This matter was talked over a few months ago by a few of us and we decided to postpone action for the past show, but I believe we must have a permanent place for next spring. The breeders in Texas and all over the country are interested in this show and now is an opportune time to make a permanent place for the show here. If we don't some other city will step in and appropriate enough money to beat us out. BAILEY MAKES STRONG SPEECH

Junior Texas Senator Talks on Rate Bill

ON COURT REVIEW

Powerful Legal Argument Advanced Against Senators Spooner and Knox

Special to The Letegram WASHINGTON, D. C., April 11.-Joseph Weldon Bailey of Gainesville, Cooke county, Texas, junior senator from the Lone Star state, in a speech lasting for more than four hours, yesterday made the contention that congress has the power to limit the jurisdiction of courts, a point raised by Senators Spooner and Knox in their discourses on the rate bill. He laid bare such faults in his opponents' contentions that his answer will probably go down in parliamentary history of the nation's capital as one of the few greatest speeches ever delivered in the upper house of the United States con-

SENATOR BAILEY SPEAKING.

Senator Bailey maintained that the power to create and the power to destroy has never been denied congress, and yet senators were now questioning the power of congress to impose limitation upon the jurisdiction of the inferior courts-these very courts in question having been created by act

The Texan cited nearly a hundred authorities in support of his position. in which he also was supported by Senator Hale of Maine.

Powerful Legal Argument

Mr. Bailey's speech was purely a legal argument; only the beginning and ending of it were of a kind that could be followed by an audience not deeply versed in law. He read perhaps from fifty decisions, but he was so happy in illuminating them that he kept his audience from start to finish.

Mr. Bailey affirmed two propositions. One of them was that there is no such distinction between jurisdiction and judicial power as would enable congress to limit the one without limiting the other. He read a multitude of decisions-the books as he finished them and piled them on the desk of Senator Tillman hid the South Carolinean from the view of the presiding officer; the 'cornfield" senator was literally fortified behind the lore of the courts. These decisions were to show not only had congress frequently limited the jurisdiction and power of the inferior courts, but that the courts had affirmed the right of that body to do so. His other proposition was that there is no such distinction between proceedings in equity and proceedings in law as deprives congress to regulate one as it could the other. The negative of these propositions was predicate that Mr. Knox and Mr. Spooner used for their objections to the proposition to limit the authority of the circuit courts to suspend the orders of the commission. To refute the contention of these gentlemen was to establish the power of congress to do what Mr. Bailey proposes in his amendment. This was the purpose of his speech, and it was the point toward which he drove his argument for nearly an hour. Then he deflected somewhat from the purely legal question. He had some criticism for those who split hairs. "I do not belong to that class," he said, "who think they can answer every distinction by their opponents in debate by inveighing against the advocates habit of drawing distinctions. In fact, sir, I rather delight in the mental habit of satisfying my own mind and of trying to satisfy the minds of those who hear me that things which are similar are not necessarily identical, and in my opinion, no mental quality is more valuable than that which enables us to perceive and to point out just and proper distinc-Criticises "Hair-Splitting"

"But, sir, I must confess that the lawyer's subterfuge of continually striving to distinguish and divide a hair twixt the north and northwest side has gone far toward justifying the complaint often uttered by the senator from South Carolina and others like him against what they are pleased to call the endless and confusing wrangles of the lawyers. I recognize the right of those who ought to be guided by our knowledge of the law to complain when we bewilder them with useless refinements instead of leading them into the gladsome light of jurisprudence. If, however, the senator from Wisconsin and the senator from Pennsylvania have succeeded in establishing a distinction between the judicial power of the government and the jurisdiction of its courts, as those terms are involved in this debate, they have rendered the senate and they have endered the country a valuable service and I hasten to acknowledge that they are entitled to the credit of having been the first to understand and to apply that distinction to a matter of this kind. But, sir, if I can demonstrate, as I believe I can, that the distinction which they have invented has no relation to the question which we now have under consideration, their best friends must realize that they have made a grave mistake in creating a doubt as to the constitutional power of congress to do that which all men admit in justice and reason ought At this point Mr. Bailey plunged again into the legal argument, one of the most elaborate that has been made

No skin disease can exist without an underlying cause, and in nearly every instance that cause is either a humor in the blood or an excess of fiery acids in this vital fluid. These SALT RHEUM. humors and acids find lodgement in the blood in various ways, the most usual of which is from a lack of energy on the part of the different members whose duty it is to keep the system free from all waste matter. Skin diseases are always worse in warm weather, and those who are sufferers from Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, etc., look forward to the return of Spring with a feeling of dread. During the cold Winter months we shut ourselves in as much as possible, and take a great deal less exercise than is customary in warm weather; we also indulge our appetites by eating of the heavy, rich foods of the winter season, which do not digest as readily as the lighter foods of Summer. This indoor life and lack of exercise cause on my right hand. I was hardly able to use my hand in all parts of the system to become inactive my work. I tried a great many things in an effort to get and listless, and as a result the channels of relief but was unable to do so until I read of S. S. S. and bodily waste do not properly carry off the remedy and it cured the trouble entirely. S. S. S. put my refuse and waste matter, which is left from sours and is absorbed into the blood to weaken and render this vital fluid sour and acrid. The skin is one of Nature's avenues for removing foreign matter from the system, being provided with millions of little pores and glands through which the unhealthy matter is expelled. As these fiery acids are forced out through these pores and glands they burn and blister the skin, producing Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum or some other itching, burning skin eruption.

Eczema commences usually with a slight redness of the skin, followed by the formation of pustules, which discharge a clear, sticky fluid. This dries in crusts, and the itching is so intense that often great areas of raw flesh are exposed by the scratching indulged in, in an effort to get relief. In Tetter, the skin becomes hard and dry, often cracking open and bleeding, and as in Eczema the pain and itching are severe. Acne comes on the face and neck, usually, and while not so uncomfortable as other skin troubles, is unsightly and embarrassing. Salt Rheum is very much like Eczema, except that the head is its favorite point of attack; sometimes becoming so severe as to produce baldness. Psoriasis is a dry, scaly form of skin disease and causes acute suffering by its continual burning and itching. These, and all skin eruptions, rashes, etc., are due to the same cause, and the treatment that does any permanent good must be constitutional. Salves, powders, lotions, etc., cannot reach the blood; the most they can do is to temporarily relieve the itching and keep the places clean.

S. S. S. is the best treatment for all skin diseases; it goes down into the blood and acts with a cleansing, healing effect, and by neutralizing the acids and humors and removing them from the circulation, it cures the trouble permanently. S. S. S. does not leave the least particle of the humor for future outbreaks, but entirely rids the blood of the cause. It cleanses and cools the blood so that the skin, instead of being burned and blistered by the fiery fluid, is nourished by a supply of cooling, healthy blood. S. S. S. tones up the system and regulates the different organs of expulsion so that they will carry off the waste and refuse of the body instead of leaving it to be absorbed by the blood. It is purely vegetable, and not only a pleasant, effective remedy, but is the one medicine that can be taken with absolute safety by young or old, and besides being the king of blood purifiers, is Nature's greatest tonic. Astonishing Revelations Made by Governor Hanly

Living and Dead Auditors Are Charged With Misapplication of State's Funds

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 11 .-right on the heels of the final report of the committee that has been prying into the affairs of the Indiana state auditors for the past two decades, Governor Frank Hanly issued a statement to the public, in which he declines to pardon or parole ex-State Auditor David E. Sherrick. And this, too, despite the fact that 21,000 people affixed their names to a petition that Sherrick be pardoned. Hanly's statement is a reply to that prayer.

The committee that has been examining the records of the auditor of state's office since the Sherrick shortage became known reported to the governor this day. The report shows shortages in the accounts of James H. Rice, deceased, auditor for 1883 and 1887, and Bruce Carr, deceased, auditor from 1887 and 1891. The amount is $260,403.61, in addition to the shortage in the account of J. O. Henderson and A. C. Daily, making a total shortage in the office of $390,594.47.

Three Exonerated

The report exonerates ex-Auditors W. D. Mason, 1879 to 1881; E. H. Wolfe, 1881 to 1888, and W. H. Hart, from any misconduct of the office. The committee was composed of James W. Noll, William B. Durbarrow and Warren Bigler.

The report is a detailed statement of the affairs in the offices of the exauditors already named, the affairs of David E. Sherrick, Daniel E. Storms and a long list of recommendations nade concerning the conduct of the auditor's office in future. The shortage alleged in Mr. Rice's account comes, as in the case of others, from the alleged retention of insurance fees and taxes, with interest on each, the principal of taxes, $14,727.72, the interest on these principals constituting the remainder of the $108,832.69 alleged to be due the state.

The total of $151,470.92 alleged to be due the state by ex-Auditor Bruce Carr, rises from the retention of fees and the interest on delayed payments. The total principal due the state on account of fees is given at $74,998.24 and the interest on delayed payment | Don't Ask Me won, Louise McFarland $903.68. The interest on fees makes up

Some of the recommendations made by the committee are the extension of the auditor's jurisdiction to county and township offices, a daily settlement between auditor and treasurer, a change in the levy for benevolent institutions which is at present misleading, change in the payment of school revenue and the establishment of a depository system for state funds.

The Sherrick Petition With reference to Sherrick, who was recently sentenced to serve a term of from two to twenty-one years in the penitentiary for embezzling $121,000 state's money and who is now in Michigan city prison, the governor declares in his statement today that Sherrick had a fair trial and that the "The jury could not have done less under their oaths than they did," the governor said. "The case is still pending before the courts. If error of law has been committed, it will, no doubt, be corrected. But even though error of law shall be found to have intervened in the trial of the cause, the fact will remain unchallenged and unchallengable, unchanged and unchangeable, that Mr. Sherrick is guilty of one of the gravest crimes known to the law. The entire statement indicates that the decision of the governor is irrevocable. In it he deals with the case without gloves and lays bare to the public many of the unpleasant phases which Sherrick's friends have so bitterly resented and have endeavored to keep in the back. That Sherrick is not entitled to executive clemency because of his personal and official record and that it is untrue that Sherrick, was merely following precedent established funds is emphatically stated by the The governor also holds up a number of Sherrick's acts in office in an npleasant light. He refers to the story that Sherrick addressed a letter to a railroad company in December, 1904, asking that its passes to members of the legislature be distributed through him. The result, he said, was that the auditor's office became a broker's office for the distribution of passes. Sherrick, he declared, informed the company that he had legislation of his own to look after and that he would care for their interests if the passes were given to him for distribution. The governor also referred again to the charge he made after Sherrick's removal that Sherrick wanted to reduce the assessment of the Monon railroad company in Indiana because the attorney for the road was his personal friend and he was under obligations to

Sherrick's Career Reviewing the official record of Sherrick further, the governor says: "Mr. Sherrick entered upon the duties of the office of auditor of state in the month of January, 1903. He was without property and without other income than his official salary. This salary is fixed by law at $7,500 per annum. He was indebted at the time in the sum of $20,000. Immediately upon coming into office he took $20,000 of the public moneys coming into his hands with which to pay his personal indebtedness. Within four months after his induction into office visited French Lick Springs, where lost in less than thirty days more than $9,900 of money in gambling. At that time he had received but one arter's salary. Other than that he had no money of his own. His gambling debts at French Lick were paid by checks drawn upon banks where the public funds in his care were deposited, and they were paid by these banks out of the public funds. "From that day to the day of his resignation he was a defaulter." In conclusion, the governor declared that the position that the law has been vindicated by the conviction of Sher-rick is untenable. "As an individual my heart is heavy with grief that Mr. Sherrick betrayed the trust confided to him by a generous people and is guilty of the crime of which he has en tried, convicted and sentenced," the governor says. "If this were a rsonal matter Mr. Sherrick would be e now. But it is not. Decision in this case is not the act of an individual; it belongs to the office; it is the act of the governor of the state; I am compelled to eliminate from my mind all question of friendship, of party ties, public sentiment, or of personal

SPORTING SALAD

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.-Not off in New Orleans in the early '90s when Jim Corbett wrested the championship from John L. Sullivan, Jack McAuliffe successfully defended his title against Billy Myer, the "Streator Cyclone," and George Dixon whipped Jack Skelly, has such a great program of biff been arranged as that offered by Promoter Tom McCarey for Fiesta week in Los Angeles. While his card thus far consists of fights between Nelson and Herrera and Herman and Britt, the winner of the latter match to meet the winner of the former, it is more than likely that a pair of heavier men, one of them probably Jack O'Brien, will be asked to enter the lists.

Naturally, greatest interest conters in the fight between Nelson and Herra for the "lightweight championship" of the world, a $20,000 purse and unlimited theatrical engagements. Every since this pair of hefty sluggers met in Butte, Nelson securing the decision after twenty rounds of the most victous fighting, there has been a demand, more or less, for a second match. There was some doubt as to the justice of the decision, Herrera's adherents claiming that he gave as good as Nelson sent. As a matter of fact, Herrera is the only man who ever had Nelson in serious distress, a clip on the faw in the early part of their encounter sending Battling to the floor for the nine-count. Herrera claims to this day that had the blow landed an inch higher or an inch lower it would not have been necessary for the referee to give a hair-line decision, and anybody who knows anything about the awful kick the Mexican carries in either mitt won't discount the claim.

In the matter of natural physical advantages the Dane has it on the Mexican, with probably, the exception of punishing power. Nelson has a good, stiff poke, but it cannot begin to compare with the murderous wallop that Herrera always carries in stock. To offset this Nelson has far greater endurance, reach and a jaw that is the marvel of the age.

In addition to Herrera's terrible punch, he has greater speed and more science, but lacks in durability and heart. The Dane has never touched liquor or tobacco and is sound as a less dissipation does not seem to have materially affected his vitality, but there can be no doubt that in a long, hard bruising fight he will not wear so well as the Dane.

Whichever way the fight ends, the winner will know that he has been participating in something more than pink tea.

If Britt is not convinced after about clearing the championship title. Gans has quite an equity in the lightweight laurels, and Nolan knows it so well that he does not care to risk his bread-winner against the negro whirlwind.

Eastern papers of late have been commenting on Nolan's reluctance to put Nelson against Gans and one of them, without warrant, questions Nelson's courage. The man who wrote that probably never saw Nelson fight, but this is what he says:

"If Nelson wants to be a real champlon-the John L. Sullivan-I've-licked-'em-all-and-I'm-ready-for - more kind -he will have to 28 Mr. Nolan and BE GAME. hard to reach, being as stumpy, in proportion to bulk, as Joe Walcott. He is exceedingly fast on his feet cool under fire and can take a world of punishment. His defeat of Hanlon and twenty -round draw with Herrera stamp him as being worthy of any man's glove.

But to revert to the Attell-Neil affair. They must weigh in at ringside and neither man must be over 122, which means that the battle will be at the legitimate featherweight limit. In agreeing to fight Attell at this weight many believe that Nell is giving away too much weight. As a matter of fact. Neil can fight very comfortably at 122, which was pretty near his poundage when he met Tenny. On the other hand, Attell will be forced to come to a rather low notch for a boy of his build, his best weight being 125, so that neither will have an advantage on the weight

London Advances Price of Bar Gold. Wheat Prices Continue Firm-Bears Fight Hard for Supremacy, But Are Routed

Special to The Telegram CHICAGO, April 11 .- Wheat encountered some adverse influences, which for a time threatened to dislodge the long interest and send prices back below Monday's closing level, in fact yesterday's gain was wiped out during the early trading; but bulls rallied to the support of the market and sent the short scurrying to cover, finally attaining supremacy and adding fractionally to yesterday's high price. The disturbing factor at the start was Liverpool's action in failing to respond to our advance, which intimated plainly that the Englishmen did not place much confidence in the government figures regarding the condition of winter wheat. This shook the confidence of some recent purchasers, and there was some unloading on the opening, resulting in a decline of 16c to 14c ont he first call.

Leading bears in general were inclined to question the veracity of the government figures and sold the marhet freely, being helped along by scattered liquidation, which was influenced by reports from various sources regarding the condition of the plant, which did not coincide with the government report, for instance the government made the condition in Nebraska, 51, while private reports from over that state made it from .95 to 115. while a Kansas City authority stated that from authentic information the average condition in Kansas was 95, against 86 as reported by the government. Under the weight of these influences prices broke to a net loss of

1/2c to %c. Traders evidently believed that their confidence in these bearish arguments were misplaced, for at this level good support was forthcoming, many of the early sellers taking profits, and prices worked up withiut interruption to a level 1c above the low point for the May option. The close was firm, with prices near the best at a net gain of Longs Unload Liberally-Prices Show Early Strength But Slump Sharply in Final Trading Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, April 11.-Owing to the near approach of the Easter holidays, the cotton market had a considerable volume of liquidation to contend with today, which, although support was fair, eventually resulted in a sharp lowering of values. Liverpool again did more than her part toward sustaining the upward movement, sending unexpectedly strong prices for contracts and reporting an enormous business in the actual staple, with prices for middling 7 points higher. The market opened strong, but prices did not show the final response to the foreign advance, being only 5 to 6 points higher for old crop Longs were somewhat discouraged over the action of the market and an avalanche of long cotton came out presently, the advance reaching large proportions. Although opening prices were the highest, the market received fair support and prices did not break much until during the last hour, when rumors that the bull crowd had been selling quietly all day served to increase the liquidation and bring on a heavy volume of short selling, causing a sharp slump, carrying prices down 10 to 14 points from the best. The market closed barely steady, with prices at the lowest. Spots were quiet; at unchanged prices at 11.80c for middling. Sales,

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 11.-The cotton market started the day strong in response to extremely bullish reports from Liverpool, where contracts were several points higher than due and spot cotton was in splendid demand at a healthy advance in price. Opening prices here were 4 to 5 points higher and the gain was increased to a matter of 3 points during the initial trading, but owing to the fact that after tomorrow's session four days will intervene before the opening of the exchange for business, the talent were very cautious about going long at this time, being more inclined to even up their committments over the holiday. Reports from New York to the effect that the bull clique was selling did not stimulate confidence in the long side, and as a result the market encountered considerable liquidation, under which prices sold off 13 points from the best, the close being weak, with prices practically at the low level, showing net losses of 5 points for old-crop months. Spots were firm at unchanged prices, at 11%c for middling. Sales, 2,300 bales, with 1,500 bales f. o. b.

FORT WORTH, April 11 .- The following is our cotton letter from New Orleans: The case with which futures crossed the supreme barrier indicates favorable conditions in the contract market for an advance. As on our side there is a limited privilege long interest profiting at present by the conversion of public opinion and engagements to the bull side. Spots are still leading the advance and giving it a substantial character. Spot quotations in the English market are 7 points higher, with the day's turnover amounting to 14,000 bales, inclusive of 12,300 American bales, whereas futures closed only 3 to 4 points up. Cables report uneasiness among the principal shorts and predict a further advance. There is no change in conditions on our side. In spite of every possible encouragement outside speculation is not developing and is not likely to come into the market before the holidays. We can hardly wonder at this indifference. The public bulled cotton during the early part of this season for the same reasons now laid down by the present leaders and which were discounted then with every possible means. Confidence therefore cannot be expected and as professionals have about all the long cotton they want, the advance may proceed slowly on the increasing strength of developments in actual cotton. Our market is in a waiting attitude, trading in futures is narrow and professional, even the game in new crops is blocked by the hope indulged by the one side of selling to better advantage on a sympathetic rise with old crops and on the other side the fear of improved weather conditions. There is a great demand for spots. Some buyers paid 1-16c advance, although little is offered at any price.

Vivion Commission Co.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 11 .-Cotton bulls continue to present a formidable front and owing to the healthy condition of the foreign market are amply able to cope with the scattered remnants of the bear adherents without fear of any but a successful out-

There seems to be no grounds for any bearish argument whatsoever, with all statistics favoring the longs and Liverpool doing more than her share in boosting prices, while the trade demand continues enormous, with prospects of an insufficient supply unless there should be a marked diminishment of demand, which is hardly likely, as spot sales continue large from day to day. Today's sales in Liverpool aggregated 14,000 bales, of which over 12,000 were American and that, too, at an advance of 7 points in price, with

American middling at 6.24d, Recognizing the unsurmountable bullishness of the spot situation the contract market boosted itself again prices were 6 to 7 points higher against an advance of 1 to 2 points as due. Final figures were 3 to 4 points net

The New York market did not respond in full to the foreign advance, opening prices being 5 to 6 points higher , for all crop months higher for old-crop months.

Commission houses as well as Liverpool and New Orleans bought, but there was a great deal of long cotton came out on the advance and prices eased off, being 1 to 2 points lower at the second call. Support was good, however, and prices worked back before midday to the opening figures.

Predicts Light Movement DENVER, April 11 .- "I look for a very light movement of southern cattle to the north this year," said A. E. de Ricquies, who has just returned from the annual convention of the Texas Cattle Raisers at Dallas and to stock show at Fort Worth, to the Stockman. "There were no sales made whatever at the Dallas meeting, and up to date very little trading has been done. A few sales of New Mexican cattle have been reported, but practically none of Texas stock. Grass is very good down there, especially in southern Texas, and cattlemen are independent and holding their stuff at high figures, which northern men absolutely refuse to pay." Mr. de Ricqles says cattle are in fine shape throughout most of New Mexico and in southerr Texas, but the Panhandle steers are thin, as the grass is not so good in that sec-

$5.00 CASH PRIZE FOR LINER READERS

The Telegram offers a prize of $5 to the person showing a receipt for the largest number of articles purchased this week through the medium of Liner Advertisements. Look through the Liner columns and see if there is not something advertised there you want. If there is, and you purchase one or more articles, be sure and take a receipt for the money you pay for your purchase. Send in a list and the cost of the articles so that it will reach The Telegram office not later than Monday noon, April 16, and you may have a $5 check mailed to you the next day. The Telegram will have three judges who will examine the lists sent in and in case that a number of people send in the same number of purchases or trades, they will award the prize to the person whom, in their judgment, has secured the best bargain. Goods put up in packages will be counted as one article; such as a box of matches or a paper of pins, etc. In the case of a set of dishes for instance, each dish will be counted. The Telegram is offering this prize to stimulate interest in the perusal of the little Liner ads. The variety of articles advertised in the Liner colums cover almost everything that can be bought or sold. Look the list over in today's Telegram. If you are not in the habit of reading the classified pages you will probably be surprised and astonished at the variety of things offered for sale or exchange. Get in the habit of reading these columns daily and if you do not get the $5 prize you will undoubtedly make a number of purchases in the course of time that will save you an amount far in excess of the prize money offered today. Should you become interested in the Liner columns through this offer and purchase some one of the advertised articles, do not let the fact that you have only one purchase to send in deter you from entering the contest.

Everyone may have the same idea and it may happen that some person who only buys one thing may walk off with the $5. Remember that if a number of people send in the same number of articles purchased, the prize will be awarded to the one making the best trade. This will give everyone a chance to win. The contest begins in today's paper and closes with next Saturday's issue of April 14. The prize will be awarded Tuesday, April 17, and announced in The Telegram of the same day.
