The supply of drinking water is exhausted. Actual hunger has over-then the people. Famine prevails.

Fires Uncontrolled

OAKLAND, April 19.—The San Francisco fires have assumed such prortions that dynamite, gun cotton and even field guns cannot stop them, ne flames are nushing through the fine residence section. Fires are still eading. Panic in the city is increasing. Owing to traffic facilities being impeded, it is impossible for but few to get away at a time. The Chicago and Marblehead are en route from Long Beach to San Francisco and will probbly reach there some time tomorrow. The Boston and Princeton are at ong Beach.

> SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 19 .- The day dawned bright on the scene death and destruction. During the night the flames consumed many of the city's finest structures and skipped in dozen of directions to the sidence portions. They made their way over into the North Beach section, and springing anew to the south, they reached out along the shipping sction down the bay, over the hills and across toward Third and Townand streets. Werehouses and manufacturing concerns fell in their path. his completed the destruction of the entire district known as "south of Market street." How far they are reaching to the south across the Downtown erything is in ruin.

No Business Houses Left

Not a business house stands. Theaters have crumbled into heaps. ctories and commission houses lie smoldering on their former sites. All newspaper plants have been rendered useless. The estimated loss in an Francisco will reach from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000. These figures he in the rough and nothing can be told until a partial accounting is ken. On every side there is death and suffering.

Fire in Residence Section

NEW YORK, April 19.- The Western Union received a report early this ng that the fire has spread into the Nob Hill section of San Fransca. This is the section in which is located many of the fine residences, ling the Crocker and Huntington homes.

Suffering Pitiful

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19 .- A Western Union bulletin to the war department from San Francisco says:

"The Western Union and Southern Pacific buildings have been totally destroyed. Fire is burning rapidly in a diagonal line up the hill, commencing at McAlester and ending at Battery street, and in Main street as far as Sixteenth street. The water supply has given out, the wind is rising and the military authorities have fust forbidden anyone to enter the city. They have all they can handle without attempting any more. The situation has not improved and already there is great suffering for food and water. I saw a line of thousands of people lined up in the park, awaiting the soldiers to distribute water."

Lieutenant Charles C. Pulis, commanding the Twenty-fourth company light artillery, was blown up by a charge of dynamite at Sixth and streets and fatally injured. He was taken to the Military hospital at the presidio. He had a fractured skull and several bones were broken and internal injuries. Lieutenant Pulis placed a heavy charge of dynamite in a building in Sixth street, the fuse was imperfect and did not ignite the charge as soon as expected. Pulls went to the building to relight the fuse and the charge exploded while he was in the building. The injured officer was a graduate of the Artillery school at Fortress Monroe, Va. Panic swept over San Francisco and the neighboring towns at the first intimation that there had been a seismio disturbance. Thousands fled in terror from their homes and hurried aimlessly through the streets expecting every minute there would be further shocks to add to the ruin already wrought. The feeling of helplessness and fright was accentuated by the bursting forth of flames from scores of dismantled and tottering buildings.

All Estimates Vague

The property loss from shock and fire is roughly estimated at $300,000,-000. Like the death roll, the property damage estimates are vague. General Funston, in command of the United States troops at the Presidio, declared the city under martial law as soon as the extent of the horror became apparent, and troops and police are working together to save life, protect property and recover the dead. The earthquake shock caved in so many of the fire engine houses that the department would have been virtually powerless, even had the water supply not been destroyed.

VOLIVA STRONG ENOUGH TO RULE

Jacob Waldeck Sized Up New Boss of Zion City

BY JACOB WALDECK. ZION CITY, April 10.—Out of Dowie

"Everybody Works But Father" Is the Motto of Wife Who Gets Divorce camp comes the declaration that Zion to succeed, needs a czar or a man of inspiration and that Voliva is neither. PITTSBURG, April 19.-The man It was a prejudiced statement, or the who wrote "Everybody Works But gentleman who made it was not well Father" must have heard of John Bowacquainted with Voliva. Probably he would never be as picturesque as Dowie unless he ordered the lace factory to turn out for him a set of whiskers to match the first apostle's snowy jungle. But there isn't any doubt right now as to who's who Overseers, the big men in the church are running errands for Voliva and they're running 'em with alacrity, too. Deacons smile and start on the jump when they get word from him. Voliva could not have founded Zion, people say, but of course there are few men in the world who could have done that. It's quite a trick to convince some thousands of people that the laying on of hands will drive away neuralgia, for instance, and that it is a plous thing for these thousands to turn over one-tenth of their earnings or income to the founder. Zion having been founded, however, there is a strong belief that Voliva can keep it going if he retains possession and can tide over the existing money stringency.

Voliva's eyes and his voice are among his chief assets. His eyes are coal black and snap and sparkle with the fire that is in them. When his zeal or his anger is aroused they seem to burn with the intensity of his feeling. His voice has the ring of authority When he assails the ememy his words strike the auditors like a shower of rocks-Vesuvian hot rocks at that

"It is a lie in-dorsed by all the infernal liars who have signed their names to it." Of Deacon Peters, who joined Dowie, he said; "I guess we can get enough wind even if he has left Zion." Of another backslider: "I believe he has been a sneak all the time." Here is another extract: "Dr. Dowie

HAGERMAN TALKS OF COURT RULING

Says He Will Advise Exchange to Drop Rule 9

KANSAS CITY, April 19.-Frank Hagerman, counsel for the Kansas City Live Stock Exchange, says that he will advise the exchange to eliminate rule 9 of the by-laws, which the Kansas supreme court held to be illegal. The rule provides that no member of the exchange shall buy or sell live stock for others for a less commission than fifty cents a head. provides also a maximum charge on the elimination of this rule would disthe association-for that is what the exchange is-effective," said L. A. Allen, a commission man.

Effect of the Rule

"When that rule is dropped the exchange will have outlived its useful FIVE TRIBES BILL ness. Without it the live stock commission business would become chaotic. Shippers would be afraid to conign cattle to us because without rule No. 9 there would be no guarantee to hem of fair treatment. Irresponsible agents would overcharge them and the live stock exchange would be powerless to prevent overcharge.

"The objects of the exchange rules are not well understood," continued Mr. Allen, "I believe that even the supreme court of Kansas was not in possession of all the facts in the case when it decided that the existence of the minimum charge rule was in restraint of competition. That rule, as well as all of the by-laws of the exchange, was adopted for the protection of the shipper. The exchange regulates the maximum commission that may be charged for selling cattle as well as the minimum. Knowing that these two rules exist, the shipper understands just what he will have to pay an agent for buying or selling cattle for him. He knows what to expect like the terms nothing is to prevent him from coming on with his cattle and selling them himself. In fact that A Parallel Case "We live stock men are simply agents, and anybody who wants to beome one can get into the exchange. It is only necessary that he comply with our rules, which are primarily for the safeguarding of the shipper The case of the real estate exchange which has fixed the commission to be charged by its members is parallel to that of the live stock exchange. "The rules regulating what commissions we shall charge are as old as the live stock exchange. Upon their enforcement has been built the present live stock market. Remove them and the market would flatten."

CONTRACT IS SIGNED Union Labor to Be Employed at White

City Another victory was gained by the Carpenters' Union of Fort Worth yesterday in the protracted strike when contracts were signed by L. C. Ramsey and Sam Rosen to the effect that only union labor would be used on the buildings being erected at the White City and Rosen Heights. All of the non-union men have been let go, numbering almost twenty, and beginning next Monday union carpenters will take their places. The new wage scale of $3.60 will be paid. The buildings now in course of erection are several in number and include a skating rink, theater and pavilion.

Of the thirty-four contractors in Fort Worth there remain but five who have not signed the new scale.

FOR 36-HOUR LAW

Strong Resolution to Extend Time Limit From Twenty-Eight Hours

Special to The Telegram. AMARILLO, Texas, April 19 .- The third and last day's session of the Panhandle Stockmen's Association was called to order at 10:20 o'clock this morning. The heavy rain that began at 3 o'clock this morning caused tardiness, but the attendance was large, nevertheless. Colonel Albert Dean of the United States bureau of animal industry addressed the stockmen anent parasitic insects that attack Texas cattle, reciting ample statistics gathered for the benefit of the cattlemen. "There are 16,000,000 cattle below the quarantine line," said Colonel Deau, "more than 5,000,000 belonging to Texas. Fifty cents per hundred weight is the loss suffered by the producers on account of the embargo against the tick, poverty, etc. In three tick states alone, east of the Mississippi, the loss on account of ticky cows, in the milk output alone, exceeds $26,000 per day If the ticks were eliminated, and they can be eliminated and eradicated, $40,-600,000 per year can be saved the producers. The department of animal industry is making a vigorous campaign for the eradication of the scab and mange. The scientificaly analyzed nature of the disease and its history shows that it must be transmitted, as it cannot create itself, so that, once exterminated, care and disinfectants will prevent a serious recurrence. In six months one female mite reproduces one and a half million fold. Grease and oil form the cure."

Colonel Dean also discussed interestingly the heel fly grubs, etc., and the stockmen would get out their books as Colonel Dean gave the following formular for emulsion for killing ticks,

"Four gallons Beaumont oil, low grade; one gallon rainwater; one gallon of laundry soap suds. "Dissolve the soap suds by heating and churn. For ticks, add five gallons of rainwater for each gallon of oil. This will destroy every tick without burning cattle thus dipped. "For mange, use eight gallons of water to one of oil." F. W. Tomlinson of Denver, secretary of the American National Live Stock Association, offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the Panhandle the house. With great emotion Mr. | Stockmen's Association, in convention assembled, unanimously inderses the change in the federal statutes so as to permit live stock in transit to remain on cars whenever necessary thirty-six hours, instead of twenty-eight hours, He read a telegram just received 'the present limit, and that the secretary of this association be directed to wire a copy of this resolution to our senators and congressmen, and urge upon them to do everything possible to secure the needed extension; and, further.

"That the secretary be directed to send a copy of this resolution to all western congressmen and senators, and it resolved.

"That the Panhandle Stockmen's Association, in convention assembled approve and indorse the plan to classify the public lands in the arid states and territories of the United States into agricultural lands open for settlement as grazing districts, and that the lands classified as agricultural be opened for settlement, but that, until they are settled, they shall be used for grazing purposes under annual or season permits, at a reasonable fee, and that the land classified as grazing districts be occupied under permits for as long a term as ten years, if desired, pon payment of a reasonable fee.' Secretary Tomlinson protested strenuously against the advance of commission charges, going over the history of the thing. He told of the miserably poor reasons cited by the commission houses for advancing rates, not one of which was logical excepting perhaps the increased cost of living at the markets. He read the answer of an important commission house, confessing that there were too many houses, all of which were paid for by the producers. He told of Secretary Wilson's failure to enforce the cattle law now on the statute, complimenting President Roosevelt upon his personal assurance to the committee from the Denver convention that he would strongly favor the enactment and enforcement of the desired act. C. K. Bell of Fort Worth, an oldtime cowboy of Hamilton, greeted the stockmen, contrasting the hardship of pioneer times with the advantages of ailroad and other facilities. The election of officers and the selection of the place of the next meeting will take place this afternoon. The rain has been continuous.

Special to The Telegram WASHINGTON, April 19.-President Roosevelt has made known to some of those to whom he has talked recently that his ambition is to represent the state of New York in the senate of the United States after he leaves the White House in 1909.

There is not the slightest doubt in the minds of the President's closest friends that he intends to adhere strictly to his announcement on election night in November, 1904, that in circumstances would he serve another term in his present office, and in speaking of his future President Roosevelt has taken it for granted his listeners understand fully he would not again be a candidate for the pres-

ZURN DECLARES VETO INVALID

Street Sprinkling May Be Discontinued

Alderman J. F. Zurn of the Eighth ward, chairman of the committee recommending the sprinkling contract vetoed by Mayor W. D. Harris, said Thursday

"As to the veto, in my opinoin the mayor has no authority to veto the contract, because it was a matter that came up and was virtually settled under Mayor Powell's administration, As it is not an ordinance and the authority under which the committee acted was granted by resolution, the mayor overreached his prerogative in vetoing the contract.

"The special committee acted on instructions from the council and, beside, based that action as well on practical business sense and not on theory, por on a striving for political effect. I hold that for the city to equip itself to do the sprinkling in all parts of the city, rapidly growing as Fort Worth is, would require the outlay of a much larger sum of money than that suggested by the committee. "I do not think there will be any difficulty in confirming the contract over the mayor's veto, and that thought is based on the fact that nearly every member of the city council is satisfied as to the expense to be incurred by a street sprinkling department under city control. "As the mayor feels so secure in his idea on the sprinkling proposition, I for one will be perfectly willing to abide his veto and hope he will not be disappointed. I understand that the sprinkling company, in view of the action of the mayor will at once discontinue sprinkling the streets and leave the matter with us for an uitimate decision.

SUN WORSHIPPER STARVES HIMSELF

Chicago Man Refused Food Until Death Came

CHICAGO, April 19.-Facts reached

Coroner Hoffman today which led to an investigation of the death of Milan Horvat, 30 years old, an alleged sun worshipper, who starved to death in obedience to what are believed to have been the mandates of his weird belief. Horvat, who was employed by the McCormick Harvester Company, was found dead in his room. His face and form were emaciated and drawn, and other dwellers in the house notified the police that the man had not eaten for a week. An investigation disclosed that Horvat, who was a Croat, had been a member of a mysterious religious cult, which he had refused to discuss with his friends. It was learned that Horvat fasted and rose early every morning to watch the rise of the sun, which leads the police to believe he was a sun worshipper. When pressed to eat by his friends. who saw that he was becoming wasted and weak, Horvat, several hours before his death, said:

"I dare not. God would punish me if I took food. I must fast." Dr. W. F. Schaar was called when Horvat was found dead. He examined the emaciated body and declared that death had been caused by starvation.

The police were unable to find any relatives or friends of Horvat in Chicago. He was a single man and had been in Chicago several years.

(Copyright, 1905, by Orlando Kling.)

Synopsis Jacmuth Adams, detective, in Denver, detects a secret sign used only by high-class criminals, made by a well dressed woman to a man, following her hurried exit from the Coliseum, where, during the dog show, a large Newfoundland canine expressed unbounded rage at the sight of her person. He goes to St. Louis to report the matter and his chief arrives at the conclube traced to the fact that the woman is a criminal, believing that dogs possess an instinctive hatred for persons | where nearly all of the passengers intending to commit crime. From what is found the chief decides that there is a connection between the disappearance of the dog and the antipathy of the Denver dog show canine and Wallace is detailed to have charge of the case, with assistants, among whom is a female detective who is introduced through the Denver press as an author. His attention is directed to Jackson's jewelry store, where many diamonds are being reset, after a fashion introduced by Mrs. Wheaton, whom the detective suspects of being one of a gang of high class expert robbers.

the passengers, ready to take the train, Up to that time there had been no intimation on the part of the railway officials that it would not arrive in time, but just as we arrived a bulletin was posted to the effect that it was five hours late. Gilmore looked disappointed, and seemed to lose a part of the confident air with which he had previously borne himself. His perturbation increased when he learned, as we all did, that there was doubts of the train reaching us during the next twenty-four hours, as a bridge had been destroyed that would require that time to repair. The time passed slowly, but the next morning the information that the train was safely across the temporary bridge, caused much rejoicing, and Gilmore's countenance perceptibly cleared. At last the time arrived, and when the train drew up to the platform Gilmore was one of the first to board the cars, as if the act itself placed him in a safer atmosphere. Neither Jerry nor myself had appeared particularly interested in the arrival of the train, hence, exhibited no haste to get on board. After seeing Gilmore safely seated, we turned our attention to the other passengers, who were now promenading the platform. To my astonishment, among these, I beheld the form of my chief, Mr. Adams. To what good fortune I was indebted for his welcome presence, I could not conjecture. But there he was, and directly catching sight of me, his countenance expressed quite as much astonishment as my own. Hastily crossing the platform, he passed near enough to say, in an undertone, "If you are going on the train, don't recognize me here; if not, I must talk with you.'

Turning to Jerry, I remarked that we might as well get on board, and thus gave the chief the information he desired; and in a few minutes the bell rang for the train to start. Knowing that Gilmore had purchased a Pullman ticket, and had entered the through car for Albuquerque, I had no apprehensions of his leaving the train soon, therefore, when a little later, Mr. Adams came into our coach and suggested that we go forward to the smoking car, I felt that it was entirely safe to do so. When we were comfortably seated, the chief asked for a history of what had occurred. When me to conclude positively that he was I had given him the information, he in turn gave Jerry and myself a story of exceeding interest.

"That I should have such a race as this," said he, "I had no idea. You remember that I left you watching Gilmore while I followed up that expressman? Well, I jumped into a cab, telling the driver not to lose sight of his wagon. He took us at a lively gait, leading us, at first, toward the bottoms where all manner of rubbish is dumped. Instead of going there, however, he swung off to the right, and dressed individual, accompanied by a lava and ashes, but owing to his won- Capitol Hill. Said | derful powers he threw himself into a | never for a moment seemed in doubt trance and remained twelve days thus as to the direction to take. We soon found ourselves on Pearl street and into an alley leading to Mrs. Wheaton's barn. Jumping from the cab, I came from the yard of the house opposite, and discovered that he was unloading his wagon into the Wheaton carriage house. It took but a few minutes, as he had the assistance of three of the employes about the place. As soon as the stuff was unloaded, he drove away. I did not follow him, being anxious to learn what disposal would be made of the material he had brought. It was impossible for me to see what was taking place, but from the sounds, concluded that several trunks were being dragged across the floor and after a half hour's waiting was convinced that my conjectures were correct, as woman came from the house and asked: 'Are those trunks all packed?' Remaining on watch, shortly afterward the doors swung open, and two teams were driven out. One of these was nitched to a closed carriage, the other to a light wagon containing a number of large trunks. The driver of the latter started toward the union depot at a apid pace, while the coachman drove the other to a side door of the house, from which a lady emerged and entered the carriage. It was a risky thing to do, but believing that success depended on my getting to the depot first, I rushed across the yard to where my cab was waiting, and ordered the criver to go to the depot by the shortest route. His horse was speedy and I had the satisfaction of passing the Wheaton team conveying the trunks. Arriving at the depot I lost no time n finding the baggage agent, to whom showed my credentials, and requested that he co-operate with me in a manner that would assist justice, to which plan he readily agreed. By the time had arrangements completed the Wheaton team drove up, and one after another the trunks came sliding down the chute. Seeing them safely landed, crossed the hall into the ladies' waiting room. In a few minutes a woman who, by the photographs you had hown me, I recognized as Mrs. Wheatentered. She stepped to the winy and asked for a ticket to St. Paul, Minn., via the Rock Island train, due leave in about twenty minutes. Handing it to the footman, she ordered him to get the baggage checked to that point. I followed him out, and heard him request checks for two of the trunks. That only two of them were checked to St. Paul did not surprise me, as the theory I had formed coincided with such a procedure. That I was right was proved in a few mining down through tickets for Galveston, requested that the remaining trunks checked to that city. Receiving the the waiting room. After signaling to the agent a request which he granted, see toth the tickets and checks handed to Mrs. Wheaton, who now had two sets of tickets. That she intended taking the train for St. Paul, I had no oubt, as I believed that the Galveston tickets were not to be used at that In a few minutes the last call sounded, and Mrs. Wheaton entered the sleeper. I followed her, and we were soon en route. When the conductor came through for tickets, I asked him for the privilege of an interview at the first opportunity. A glance at my transportation was sufficient to cause him to grant my request, and in about an hour he returned saying that he was now at liberty. At my request, he showed me his time schedule and explained his meeting points, junctions etc., and assisted me in figuring ou that at Courtland, Kan., we would cross a line that runs nearly southeast. The train service of both roads made a close connection, so that one could leave for the south within a quarter of an hour after arrival. Fol-lowing up the schedule of the southbound train, we found that the line led into Strong City, Kan., a station on the Santa Fe road at which point an-

St. Andrew's parish house was most attractive Wednesday night, beautiful and elaborate decorations being made for the marriage of Miss Helen Waples to Lloyd McKee. The entire floor was covered with white and at the head of each pew was a bunch of Easter lilles. At the chancel southern smilax was draped over lectern and pulpit, and the altar rail was covered with it. The altar flowers were lilies, and set around the chancel were jardiniers of

After months of careful work the constructors have turned the building, at the southwestern corner of Seventh and Throckmorton streets, over to the interior finishers and they to the furnishers and decorators and the Hotel Touraine stands completed, a fine example of modern hotel construction, some of the finishings and appointments being unexcelled in the country.

In the building, as in the fitting and furnishing, nothing is stinted and modern experience, as to appointments and artistic finish, have been followed until, in its way, the Touraine is perfect.

Not inaptly there may be two entrances called main entrances. One is through a small lobby to the cafe and the other is through a doorway to the office from which the stairway rises to the upper fleors while, to the right of this entrance, there is another entrance to the cafe and to the elevator. The first entrance named is to the ladies' and gentlemen's cafe and dining or banqueting room. It is panelled in leather, with solid oak facings and mouldings. There are brass rods and hooks for coats and hats. There will be a "buttons" to attend the door. Here, as throughout the house, all of the curtains are of lace.

Cafe Large Enough for 125

The cafe is furnished with 2, 4 and 6-seat tables and, using the banquet room, there are accommodations for at least 125 people at one time. The drapery curtains of the cafe are "Bon Femme." The ceiling is cream tinted and the walls are hung in Japanese gilt paper. The ceiling is finished with heavy greenish tinted oak panel beams and, at the intersection of the there are new style lights which flood the dining rooms with radiance, yet doing away with all glare. There are, in addition, electroliers on each table. The floor of the cafe is covered with very heavy body Brussels carpet. There is an "L" or extension of the cafe, which is remarkable for the Pa. thenon freize which is the chief ornament of the room. The walls of this "L" are finished in leather and oak panels.

wood, with ornamented leather wall panels, with the pllasters and the head pieces of the columns of old ivory finish. The ceiling is in keeping with the other parts of the dining rooms and, in the center, is a jeweled glass skylight, giving light by day and masking the electric lights used at night so the softly subdued radiance falls on the guests and tables diffused and yet brilliant enough to illuminate

Three Art Panels

One of the features of the room, and it may be well said, it is the feature, are three art panels, painted on canvas and then stretched on the walls. The painting is in oil and is the work of a Fort Worth woman-Mrs. Clifford Sharon. The subjects are all classical, being copies of Alma Tadema's "Sap-pho," "A Reading From Homer" and "A Song of Bacchus." The work is truly artistic and merits the attention of all who may enter the banquet room. The furniture is all early English type with Spanish leather seats and backs to the chairs. The sideboard and china closet are of dark oak, almost as dark as bog oak, and those two and the table are hand carved and most artistically done in uniform style. There are three small private dining rooms, two finished and furnished after the Dutch or Holland style as to furniture and wall decorations, and the third, English, a fox hunt scene being the idea of the freize. Except where noted all of the walls of all of the rooms are done in hygienic kalsomine and in some instances the finish is so hard it suggests a well dried oil finish.

Kitchen a Marvel The kitchen, which as Proprietor Miller says, is the heart of the establishment, is simply perfect in its own useful way. One of the latest style ranges, with the size to accommodate a regiment, broilers, boilers, ovens, steam tables and all else that a modern hotel kitchen can demand, is here of the newest as to style and of the best as to quality. There is a large refrigerating storeroom built into the house and the size may be inferred by the fact that in the meat room alone it is divided into three compartments, a whole side of beef can be hung, over and above the current day's supply, a sheep or two and yet have room for chickens, eggs and such "small deer." The kitchen range is so built that coal, charcoal or gas can be used in cooking, as the exigences of the occasion may demand. There is a dumb waiter leading upward from the kitchen so that hot meals can be promptly served to any part of the hotel.

Across the hall from the kitchen is the billiard room. Going to the front next comes the writing room and then the office, all of the three rooms last named being on the south side of the The office is finished in mahogany with the walls of leather panels and oak. The floor is covered with a linoleum with a parketery design. The elevator shaft, which is to the right of the office main entrance, has an elevator of the latest and best

The stairway, of easy ascent, leads to the reception hall on the second floor where, as through the hotel, except as already noted, the furniture is of old mission style. Two of the features are that all of the clocks are of the grandfather clock type and that the pier glasses are set in the walls. To the south of the reception hall is the ladies' dressing room and cleak room, furnished in bird's eye maple. All of the carpets, above the ground floor, are Wilton velvet.

There are thirty-four bed rooms in the building and seventeen bath rooms. The stationary wash bowls, all the appointments of the bath rooms where possible are of the best white enamel. The wood finishing in the baths is

All of the lodging rooms or bed rooms have commodious built-in closets which more than take the place of wardrobes. All of the rooms are en suite, but all of them can be cut off so they can be used separately. Brushed brass is used for all of the builder's hardware and all of the bath room doors have solid glass knobs. The furniture is the best that money could buy and one of the notable suites is a four-piece bed room set which cost about $200. It is of Circassian walnut and the markings of the wood are so beautiful that exquisite alone will do the subject jus-

Each bed room is equipped with individual telephones. In each room, in the base boards, are plugs for reading lamp and fan switches. All of the house is steam heated. Each room has chandeliers for electric light and for gas and, additionally, a wall bracket electric light.

While it is not complete, a description of the bridal chamber is necessary to round off these sketchy notes of Hotel Touraine. It is really "the bridal apartments," for there are two rooms and the bath, the rooms being the largest in the house. It is furnished with Arts and Crafts inlaid furniture, is finished in natural oak and is one of the finest bridal suites n the United States. Take it all in all, the Touraine is a family hotel and dining place and cafe, perfect in its appointments of all kinds, and finished with artistic taste, where the surroundings delight the eye while the gustatory nerves are beng pleased. The dining room was formally opened Wednesday night and the rooms were profusely decorated with flowers and potted plants. Fully 250 well satisfied patrons had dinner at the Touraine.

Bentley, a special agent of the United States department of agriculture, to Dr. S. A. Knapp of Lake Charles, La. The letter is dated Wichita Falls, April 14, and is as follows:

"I visited our demonstration farm at Memphis, Hall county, on Monday, April 9, and went over the land care-

"The spring oats and barley are not in as good shape as they should be. Too little seed was used and they were sown broadcast, which is the worst possible manner of planting small grain in this section. I charged Mr. Bradley, also Mr. Woodley, our farmers at Shamrock, that small grain should be planted with a drill with press wheels if possible, but as they did not have drills and could get none, they sowed the seed by hand. The winds dry out the soil as deep as a harrow covers two-thirds of the seed in a few hours, so that less than half of the seed germinate.

"It's my judgment that good crops of small grain can be grown with a reasonable degree of certainty all over this plains country if the land is properly prepared and good seed is propery sown.

"It is still early for corn planting here, but as the land was in good condition I left instructions to plant the corn at once and immediately after to list the cotton land.

"The indications are that the cotton land acreage in all of these western counties, where cotton is grown at all, will be increased at least 100 per cent over last year. The chief reason for this is the large number of new settlers who have come in, besides it has been fully proven that cotton is their surest and most profitable money crop, and that it succeeds well on all kinds of their soils.

"Indian corn does well on deep sandy soils and is as sure and as profitable as cotton on these sandy soils, but on the tight clay lands corn is a doubtful proposition, as it is also where there is a clay subsoil near the surface.

"I visited Jerico, McLean and Shamrock on the Amarillo branch of the Rock Island, and found that the crop prospects in those sections all that could be asked. At Shamrock, Wheeler county, Mr. Woodley made the mistake of flat breaking his land in the early winter. Mr. Woodley's land is deep, but light sandy soil, the very best for corn in this section, and should never be flat broken in the fall, winter or spring on account of the blowing. The winds soon cause the surface to become smooth and the soil drifts and blows away. The good effects of winter breaking may be obtained on these light soils by using the lister, which leaves the land in ridges, which prevents the drifting. On these lands corn A. Miller, who has grown up in a and cotton should be planted in the lister rows for protection from the "In no section of the state is an ear-

But it is my hope that some of our co-operators, by seed selection, will breed up a cotton suited to the land conditions existing. Many farmers all over this section are planting alfalfa and most of them are succeeding well.

"I succeeded in getting a number of farmers to try corn planting with wide rows and to plant cow peas between, At Chillicothe, Hardeman county, on the experiment station under Mr. Carleton of the department of agriculture, at Washington, Mr. Conners, the manager, has his corn in five foot rows. Colonial full dress, with the conventional knee breeches, was the garb of the main portion of the performers, while the end men wore britmant costumes in red. The orchestra was located at the rear of the large stage and was uniformed in white.

The entire audience gave frequent appreciative expressions as the program was proceeding, the first unusual outburst of applause being that which followed the rendition of "Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown," by Hy Manning and Harry Miller, the "long and the short" men of the show. Hy was twice called to the front and forced to make a speech. Especially good was the quartet which sang with R. B. Mayo in "I'll Be Waiting in the Gloaming, Sweet Genevieve.

The feature of the evening's entertainment came in the appearance of little Logan O'Reilly, who sand the "Yankee Doodle Boy," his voice being wonderfully clear, and the chorus stunt, the lad being lifted to form the apex of a minstrel pyramid, being repeated-

BADGES RECEIVED

Knights of Columbus Secretary Says All Ready for Convention

T. P. Fenelon, the state secretary of Texas State Council of Knights of Columbus, has received the badges for the delegates to the state convention which is to be held in the city of San Antonio, May 8 and 9.

The badge has a gold plated hanger bar, to which is attached a ribbon, red, white and blue, suspending a disk on which is the emblem of the order, a maltese cross in red and white enamel with a blue and gold shield in the center, on which are the objects used in the secret work. The disk is surrounded by an oak wreath.

The delegates from Fort Worth are A. M. McElwee and Fergus Moriarty, and as state secretary, Mr. Fenelon will also go.

Dockstader's Minstrels Tonight So ingenious has Lew Dockstader been in creating novel and unique methods of making fun in his minstrel show that it has caused many to remark he might have made his fortune as an inventor of practical utilities. The latest production of his inventive genius is a mechanical interlocutor. An interlocutor presides over the first part of the minstrel show until after the first appearance of Dockstader himself. Scarcely have more than one or two gags been given by two men when a quarrel ensues and the interlocutor declares that if he could only change places with Dockstader, he could make the people laugh more than the best jokesmith himself. Dockstader is pleased with the idea and makes the change. The interlocutor fails most dismally to get a laugh, and he is dismissed instanter by Dockstader declaring that the show cannot go on without an interlocutor. and as there is no one else present to fill the bill he introduces his mechanical handy man. The exchange is a most laughable success. Tonight at Greenwall's opera house.

Ellery's Band The genius of Ferullo, the young leader of the Ellery Italian band, is something that cannot be described through the medium of cold, unsympathetic type, says the press agent. In fact, it is something too sacred and too subtle to be pictured through any medium other than the receptive mind of the intelligent listener. Ferullo's personality is in evidence in every musical measure. Ferullo will lead the Ellery band at Greenwall's opera house Friday and Saturday, April 20 and 21. Special matinee Saturday.

PROS WIN CASE

Decision of Local Appeal Body Upheld by State Supreme Court

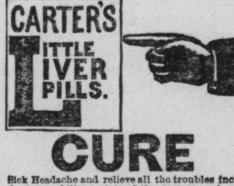

The supreme court has sustained a decision of the court of civil appeals, Second judicial district, Fort Worth, involving an important point in the matter of elections held under the local option laws.

The case was Thomason, county attorney, vs. Conner, chief justice, et al. By a majority of forty the pros were defeated in a local option election in Cooke county, but contested on the grounds that 500 votes at least were illegal for the reason that the poll taxes had been paid by others than the per-sons to whom they were issued. For that reason the Fort Worth court held the election yold and refused to certify questions to the supreme court to determine if such votes were illegal and therefore voided the entire election.

THE BAILEY PRESIDENTIAL BOOM

Joseph W. Bailey is said to have made a great speech on the railway rate regulation bill, and the occasion has egain been seized upon by some of the small fry Washington correspondents to nominate him as the democratic candidate for the presidency. Bailey is a very able man-as able, perhaps, as there is in the United States senate. But this continual yawping over him as a presidential possibility is one of the things well calculated to give sober-minded democrats that tired feeling.-Fort Worth Telegram.

The Telegram is not apparently all everlastingly swallowed up in the state adulation that opens to receive Balley. The allegation that the movers of this boom of the Texas senator for President are small fry politicians located at Washington is tough on the honorable Joseph. Is the inference to be drawn that only among small fry politicians is the mention of Bailey made for the head of the democratic national ticket in the next presidential campaign, and if so what is to be said of the efforts of certain Texas editors to put Bailey next? There is a wide difference of opinion among democrats everywhere whether there should be a nomination from the south or not, and there is a wider divergence of opinion as to whereabouts in the south, in case the nomination fell there, the lightning should strike. That The Telegram is right in not considering Bafley a presidential possibility is no doubt true, but it is not looked for from that direction.-San Antonio

The Telegram would not print one word in disparagement of Senator Balley that is not warranted by actual facts and conditions, for The Telegram recognizes and concedes the splendid abilities of the gentleman who is assisting Senator Culberson in giving this state the strongest senatorial team in the national capital. But The Telegram is not yet prepared to concede that all Bailey does must necessarily be the proper caper just because it emanates from Senator Bailey. The Telegram believes that Bailey is human, just like the balance of us, in spite of the lackeys and hangers on who would transform him into a demi-god.

And The Telegram does not believe that every time Senator Bailey delivers himself of a panegyric in the United States senate he is entitled to honorable mention as a presidential possibility. It does not believe that Texas has sent Senator Bailey to Washington to indulge in grand stand plays that will appeal to the would-be Warwicks representing certain newspapers at the national capital, who fill their papers with rot. concerning a situation that cannot materialize. Senator Bailey is in Washington as the representative of the people of Texas in the United States senate, and in that capacity he has certain duties to perform that are just as absolute as those of any menial within all the broad confines of the state he represents. We do not know that Bailey's head is being turned by the adulation so fawningly bestowed, but the fractious spirit he has evinced on more occasions than one would seem to indicate as much. The Telegram believes Senator Bailey owes a duty to his people just as his people owe a duty to Senator Bailey, and when those duties are properly performed honors will be near enough even for all recognition in the naming of the democratic presidential candidate, and the time will come when it will be done. The Telegram believes that future Presidents of the United States have already been born in Texas, but their day has not yet materialized. The voice of the people from one end of this great country of ours to the other is calling for William J. Bryan to lead the democratic masses in the next national compaign, and | in county jails. And it will prove a most welcome dethe man who has the temerity to place himself in front liverance.

of the Bryan band wagon will simply be the subject for a political wake to be held by his admiring friends.

Senator Bailey has the ability to make this nation an admirable executive, but the time when Texas will b called upon to furnish presidential timber yet remains some time in the future.

A POLITICAL MOVEMENT

Texas is about to have a reduction of passenger railway fare and for that purpose a hearing will be had before the railway commission on May 15. Allison Mayfield made the motion for a reduction from 3 to 21/2 cents per mile for adults and 11/4 cents per mile for children between the ages of 6 and 12. Commissioner Mayfield moved for these rates on the Houston and Texas Central, but Commissioner Colquitt amends by moving for the rate to apply on all Texas roads. The reduction may have the effect of a curtailment of free passes, but the free pass abuse is doing its bad work where legislators and court judges and county commissioners' courts are provided free travel over the railroads. The railroads will be heard by the commission and then action will be taken, whether all the lines shall be included in the order to reduce the passenger tariffs.-Sherman Democrat.

If there is any demand going up from the people of Texas for this reduction in railway passenger rates, it must be among the small coterie engaged in boosting the members of the present railroad commission for other political offices. Of course, the people of Texas would be pleased with cheaper railway fares, for they are a frugal people and disposed to save money when possible. But the people of Texas are also a just and reasonable people, and they know that with the long miles traversed by Texas roads that are almost a howling wilderness, the scantiness of Texas population when the magnitude of the state is considered and the necessity of railways being extended to properly build up and develop the state, constitute a combination of circumstances that render a reduction in passenger rates impracticable at this time.

The Telegram does not undertake to say that Commissioner Mayfield was actuated by political motives in moving for the reduction on the Houston and Texas Central. The fact that he was indorsed by the special session of the state legislature for a position on the interstate commerce commission recently, and the move for this reduction may be merely a matter of coincidence. But the alacrity with which Candidate Colquitt chimed in to make it apply to all Texas roads was thoroughly characteristic of the Kaufman county brand of statesmanship. Candidate Colquitt occupies the same identical position as Citizen Fixit-he is for the public-the public has suffered long, and Candidate Colquitt is always ready with his little sop to vox populi when there appears to be something in it for Candidate

In justice to Commissioner Mayfield, it should be stated that as soon as the Colquitt game became apparent he declared his intention of washing his hands of the whole affair, alleging it had become a matter of politics. Commissioner Storey, who is also a candidate of the anxious type, gave a sort of indorsement to the scheme, and the whole situation truly serves to portray the fact that the railroad commission of Texas has degenerated into a political hotbed of such a nature that the only hope of the people lies in scourging | public spirit manifested in Texas. the politicians from its membership.

When Texas has a few more millions of population and the railways of this state are prospering beyond a just and reasonable degree-when the waste places have all been developed and revenues from all sources have increased so as to justify such action, the state legislature should pass a law reducing passenger fares in this state. But no professional politician should be permitted to grasp the idea as salvage and float into greater preferment politically through floating into harbor on the crest of an intended popular wave.

DOCTORS AND ADVERTISING

The Fort Worth Medical association, which recently condemned advertising as unethical, is coming in for a lot of criticism from papers all over the state. The Fort Worth Telegram, however, takes up the cudgels in defense of the doctors who do not advertise.

And The Telegram is right, too, in the majority of cases. It is a fact that many of the doctors prefer not to have their names mentioned in connection with cases they have under treatment, and right here in Denton physicians have requested reporters to say nothing of the attending physicians, even where their treatment has been most wholly successful. As said, the mapority of doctors are consistent in their position-they want neither paid nor free advertising. There are, however, as in all cases, exceptions to the rule, and one of the most ethical physicians the writer ever knew when it came to paying for advertising was the most solicitous about getting his name in the paper in connection with cases he had successfully treated. Then he abused the reporter when other physicians "jumped" him about it, when in point of fact he had looked up the reporter to tell him about it for the purpose, as he reporter knew, of seeing his name in print.

That was the exception, however, in our experience that proved the rule. The great majority of physicians, when they do turn in a news item to a newspaper reporter (and reporters always appreciate news items) do so with the request that their names be not mentioned. So far as the writer knows, there is not now an exception to this rule in Denton.-Denton Record and Chronicle. Of course, there are exception to all rules, and there are physicians who are just as much tickled to see their names in print as are members of other professions. But The Telegram has always found the majority of the reputable practitioners have strongly objected to anything that savored of advertising.

There are some physicians who think if the fact can be brought out in the papers that they successfully treated a prominent citizen in some serious malady it will result in the bringing of more desirable business of the same kind. There are numerous tricks in the medical profession just as there are in all others. There is the newcomer into a community who daily grabs his medicine case, springs into his buggy and drives to the country like mad, for the sole purpose of making the people believe he has been called on a very important case. There is the promising young physician who has himself publicly called out of public meetings, and there are many other methods by which a form of advertising is sought by members of the profession who have not succeeded in building up the lucrative practice they desire. But all physicians are not built along these lines. And while we may all be strong believers in the virtues of printers' ink, we should respect the disposition manifested by leading members of the medical profession to keep their affairs out of the public press just as much as possible. It does not hurt the general public that medical ethics declare so strongly against

PROFESSIONALLY, OF COURSE

A physician took it into his head to go hunting, and started out bright and early on a beautiful October morning, fully armed for game.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon he returned, tired out and empty-handed, telling his wife he hadn't killed a thing, whereupon she remarked triumphantly:

"If you had stayed at home and attended to your legitimate business you might have been more successful."

. . . . NOT THE SAME

A Sunday school teacher was talking to her class about the Deluge, telling the little boys about the different animals that Noah took into the ark, also the names of the people who went with him. Having given the class what she thought was a most thorough explanation about this event, she decided to question them and see how much good her talk had accomplished.

"James," she said, "after this interesting talk, can you tell me anything about Ham?"

"Yes, ma'am, dey uses it ter flavor sandwiches wid," was the startling reply.

. . . . THE UNPRONOUNCEABLE HYMN

An anecdote is narrated of a negro evangelist who held evening services in a chapel formerly used by the Anglican church. In a hymnal, which had been left there, he found an old familiar hymn suitable for his sermon, but the Roman number CXIX somewhat confused him, and he was not able at once to announce it.

As was the custom, he read the verses through, still showing signs of embarrassment, and then reread the first stanza. This did not seem to aid him or the congregation, and at last he straightened himself and said with dignity, "Brethern, let us sing the Skeesix Hymn."

. . . . A GOOD REASON

A professor tells this story at his own expense:

He was instructing a class of boys about the circulation of the blood, and to make sure that they understood him, he said: "Can you tell me why it is that if I stood on my head the blood would rush to my head, and when I stand on my feet there is no rush of blood to

"Then a small boy, after pausing for a short time, answered: "It is because your feet are not empty, sir."

CHRIST WITH US "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these

I cried aloud "There is no Christ In all this world unparadised! No Christ to go to in my need-No Christ to comfort me and feed! He passed in glory out of sight, The angels drew Him into light: Now in the lonesome earth and air I cannot find Him anywhere. Would God that heaven were not so for And I were where the White Ones are!"

Then from the gray stones of a street Where goes an ocean drift of feet. I heard a child's cry tremble up, And turned to share my scanty cup, When lo, the Christ I thought was dead Was in the little one I fed! At this I drew my aching eyes

From the far-watching of the skies;

And now whichever way I turn I see my Lord's white halo burn! Where ever now a serrow stands, 'Tis mine to heal his nail-torn hands; In every lonely lane and street, 'Tis mine to wash His wounded feet-'Tis mine to roll away the stone And warm His heart against my own Here, here, on earth I find it all-

MAYOR VETOES COUNCIL ACTION

Sprinkling Award for Year Is Opposed

WOULD BUY CITY PLANT

Present Purchase Urged in Official Paper Declaring Free Bidding Was Not Secured

Mayor Harris Wednesday filed a veto of the contract resolution which recommended the making of a street sprinkling contract with the Fort Worth Sprinkling Company for one year, as recommended by the special committee having that matter in charge. The committee was composed of Aldermen Zurn, Lehane and More-

In giving his reasons for his disapproval of the committee report the mayor says: "The special committee was appointed March 5 simply to take up the sprinkling matter for consideration." The veto asserts that no instructions were given as to what acts the ecmmittee should do and that they did not take any action or apprise the public that bids were wanted for street sprinkling and that the chairman of committee stated that nothing would be done until the new administration was installed, and thus caused the withholding of one bid at least. The committee afterward concluded to make a report April 12, he says, but that report did not show that bids were invited, but did ask for power to make a contract with the old sprinkling ompany on the old terms, and not "on the best terms obtainable." The veto characterizes this proceeding as unusual and calls it in effect snap judgment and a summary manner of closing a contract with one concern without the public having the chance to bid on the proposed contract, "The semi-consideration given the propositions of one or two other arties after these rigid and exclusive instructions does not relieve the proceedings of the objectionable character," continues the veto. "The very fact that when the slight competition that by accident or force of circumstances came to the front, the sprinkling company then for the first time offered to do the work for less than under the old contract, shows the bad policy of cutting off free, full and fair etition, and especially shows the mistaken judgment of the committee in asking the city council to instruct it the old contract." The proposition made contemplates the unrestricted use of the fire plugs, the veto says, and goes into some detail to show objectionable nature of this feature of the contract, and dere is the yet graver danger that the threads will be so worn that the fire hose will not hold and in times of conflagrations the firemen be unable to make a contract upon the terms of

The veto recites that the old contract called for the use of standpipes to be provided by the sprinkling company or restricted the company to the use of those hydrants which had been specially prepared for the use of the sprinkling wagons, but that this provision was entirely ignored by the sprinkling company.

The mayor then gives figures from which he draws the conclusion that the city could well afford to buy and operate its own sprinkling outfit, even at the large figures given by the committee for "the unnecessarily large" outfit estimated needed, and that the sums paid by the abutting property owners would much more than pay the running expenses of the sprinkling outfit. The veto concludes: "It is my opinion that the city should own its own outfit and do the sprinkling and collect the charges. nittee suggests that at the end of the year the city would possibly be in shape to undertake the work municipally. It is my opinion that we had better undertake it now. Respectfully, "W. D. HARRIS, Mayor."

J. T. CROSS GETS 8 YEARS IN PEN

Is Convicted of Robbing Howard B. Geer

The jury in the case of the state of Texas vs. J. T. Cross returned a verdict of guilty Wednesday afternoon and assessed the punishment at confinement in the penitentlary for a period of eight years.

Cross was charged with robbing Howard B. Geer on the night of Jan. 25, 1905, of $34, Geer being knocked senseless with a piece of iron as he was walking along Tucker street at about 8 p. m. He did not see who struck him nor did anyone else witness the assault or the robbery, but it came to light through the arrest of Cross for another matter. Cross denied to Chief of Police Maddox that he had any hand in the affair for which he was arrested, but made a statement, it is alleged, that led to the charge of robbery against him in the Geer case and the conviction secured Wednesday.

NEGRO GOES TO JAIL

Ernest Hurd Charged with Robbing Laundry Wagon

Ernest Hurd, a negro charged with robbing William Kane, driver of a Fort Worth laundry wagon Saturday night, was arrested by Detective Tom Talbott Wednesday and was arraigned in Justice Terrell's court. He waived an examining trial and his bond was fixed at $1,000, in default of which he went to jail.

Kane charged that the negro was riding in the wagon with him and when a lonesome spot on West Belknap street was reached the negro threw him from the wagon and robbed him of what money he had, about $18.

liam Hesse, from Bexar.

It will be as Roosevelt, the conservative, rather than Roosevelt, the radical, that our great executive will go down in history. Twenty years from now, viewed in the light of history and achievement, the Roosevelt administration will be characterized as moderate, sober and conservative, rather than rash, fitful and reactionary. This will be so because, on all legislation with which his name is connected, Roosevelt stamps the indelible impress of thorough fairness, courageous devotion to high purposes and practical applicaion of the principle of a "square more and more to realize that Theodore Roosevelt is neither a visionary nor a zealot. Upon his entrance upon the duties of the hief executive he was pictured as an enthusiast and dreamer, if not a revolutionist. But his administrative efforts and public utterances have shown how false the portrait was. His treatment of the tariff, of the railway issue, of the Panama canal, of our foreign relations, all bear the imprint of a great mind swayed neither by prejudice nor public clamor, but steadfast in impartial adherence to broad and sincere principles of government. In days to come, when the fanatic, the wild-eyed reformer, and the fantastic bidder for popular favor occupy the stage to a greater extent than even now, men will look back upon the present administration as one of the wisest, most equitable, and most beneficent which our country has known. Roosevelt will then be acclaimed not merely because he was brave or far-sighted or incorruptible, but because history will ascribe to him the attributes of moderation and tolerance which make for righteousness and just government. Russian Girl Here Makes Her

A newspaper matrimonial advertisement, a promised wife and a disappointed lover are the central features around which are woven threads of an interesting romance, the scene being laid in Fort Worth.

Miss Zenidbena Pondua, a beautiful young Russian girl, for some time past employed at the Delaware hotel, but a short time ago put an advertisement in a New York Russian paper for a life partner to share her joys and sorrows, adding as a side issue that she was worth $5,000 and was young, handsome and lonely. The young woman is 18 years of age and good looking, but that she possessed $5,000 proved a revelation to friends here.

There were many youths of the land who answered the advertisement, but they were all doomed to disappointment-save one, a young Russian about 25 years of age, who resides in St. Louis. He declares that his advances met with ready response on the part of the young lady and that she had agreed to become his wife, and that the loving letters that passed between them from Fort Worth and St. Louis were many in number.

The wedding day was set, says the young man from St. Louis, when he was to lead his fair bride before the altar. Filled with joy, he reached Fort Worth Tuesday night. All seemed well, but his hopes were dashed and his sorrow great when he learned that the bride-to-be had other plans and refused to marry him. To sooth his wounded feelings he sought Officer Allgood of the police force and confided in him his troubles and requested that Miss Pondura be arrested, and at least be forced to reimburse him for his car fare from St. Louis and return A woman, however, must be permitted to change her mind, and there was no redress for him. Congressman McKinley Talks of Orient's Development

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, April 19.-Congressman Donald F. McKinlay of California, who was a member of Secretary Taft's party in their trip to the Far East, was the guest of honor and principal speaker at the dinner of the New York Credit Men's Ass'n Tuesday night. Congressman McKinlay spoke of the industrial and commercial conditions in Japan as they are likely to affect the markets in the Far East. He warned his hearers against "the illusion that Japan is going to be our commercial ally in the Far East, or anywhere else, and according to today's Times, said:

"We hear a whole lot about the United States dominating the markets of Japan and the Far East, but any hopes we hold in that respect are destined to be rudely shattered. The 800,000,000 people who live on the shores and Islands of the Pacific before long will not only be consumers of American goods, but will be our competitors, perhaps, in our home markets.

"While in Japan I visited Osako, which is the Pittsburg of the mikado's empire. It has some 200,000 inhabitants, but a modern factory is spring-Need Laborers at Home "Marquis Ito, who was the guide of Secretary Taft's party in the Japanese Pittsburg, said to me: 'You need not be afraid that we will allow Japanese laborers to come to the United States. We need them all at home. In a couple of months we will bring home a million men from Manchuria. We are going to teach them all how to manufacture everything in the world with the best labor-saving machinery to be found. Instead of selling you cheap labor, we will sell you American goods cheaper than you can manufacture them

"It is only six months since Marquis Ito told me this. Three weeks ago I picked up a California paper and read that a whole ship's load of Japanese goods had come into the port of San Francisco. I am afraid that the people of the Far East will become not only our commercial competitors, but that they actually may become our commercial masters.

"More than half the population of the world lives on the Pacific. Up to recently they have been living in the Far East in sloth and indifference, They are waking up now. wase Wave Liquidation Envelopes May Wheat Prices Drop Over Two Cents-Decline Preceded by Rise of Half Cent

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., April 19.-Wheat traders were even more active today than has been the case for the past few sessions, but all conditions continue to favor the shorts and by concerted action they were enabled to give the bulls a hard fight and eventually succeed in obtaining substantial price concessions. Nothing should be detracted, however, from the glory of the bulls, for despite the adverse conditions under which they labored, they caused considerable palpitation by forcing May up to 82 1/4 c, this being the record level for the movement and the feature of the day's session. The proceedings summarized were as follows: Liverpool prices suffered from realizing sales and cable advices reported that market much lower than expected, in conjunction with this the absolutely perfect weather conditions and adverse news regarding the cash situation were conducive to lower prices on this side and our market opened weak with prices %c to %c The utter indifference manifested by the outside public was a bearish factor and owing to the light volume of trade some difficulty was experienced in starting prices upward. Liberal buying by the local crowd. however, soon had the desired effect and May worked up rapidly 11/2c from the low to 82 4c. This was more than bearish patience could endure, and hammering was immediately in order, being pursued so persistently throughout the balance of the session as to preclude any possibility of a rally and finally landed prices in the cellar for the day, breaking them 2%c for May. Final figures were near the lowest. Local receipts 5 cars vs. 70 this day last year. The northwest received 258 cars vs. 273 cars this day last year.

Corn Corn was only moderately active, while prices moved irregularly. Weakness in the Liverpool market was a factor, causing a break in the early trading, but later prices worked back above yesterday's closing level in sympathy with wheat, selling off again from the same cause and finally closing at the low point, showing a net loss of 4c to %c. Local receipts 63 cars vs. 144 cars this day last year.

Oats Oats were active with the price movement dominated by that in the wheat and corn pits. Closing figures showed a net loss of 1/8c to 1/8c. Local receipts 71 cars vs. 62 this day

NEW UNIFORMS FOR PANTHERS ARRIVE

Are of Famous Panther Blue and Attractive in Cut

The new uniforms of the Fort Worth baseball club have been received and are the best the club has ever had. They are, of course, the dark blue which has become to be known in Texas as the distinctive Fort Worth color, and the lettering on the breast of the blouses is the initials of the city in plain white letters. The stockings are of solid blue and the prisonbarred hosiery which the club has disported in the practice games will be retired. The caps are of the same gen. eral style affected by the Fort Worth club and the seams are lined throughout with narrow white cord. President Ward has signed several new players, and when the club returns from the Austin-San Antonio trip the weeding out of the ineligibles will begin and continue until the club salary list is brought down to the manager's ideas and the team so fixed that it can be expected to play winning ball.

Will Have 250 Schools

Special to The Telegram, LAWTON, Okla., April 19 .- After the big pasture in Comanche county has been opened it will be subdivided into school districts and will make as many as fifty. The county will then have about 250 school districts, a number larger than any other county of Oklahoma.

Market-Lack of Support Contributes to Success

THE TELEGRAM'S DAILY FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL REPORT

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, April 19 .- San Francisco disaster and its adverse effect on the stock market, poor outlook for settlement of difficulties in the anthracite region, easier foreign contract market, poor demand for actual staple, favorable weather and almost total inactivity on the part of the local bull leader were influences too overwhelming at the time to allow the small holder on whose shoulders the burden had fallen to retain his confidence in the long side of the game, and after vainly attempting to carry the market, pursuant to his will, he finally withdrew and left the bears to enjoy their feast with unalloyed pleasure, which they proceeded to do to the extent of breaking prices 24

In response to the unfavorable character of the cables the market opened unchanged to 1 point lower. Scattered buying in the initial trading caused a reaction and prices soon worked up to a net gain of 3 to 5 points but after reaching this level bears began hammering and the selling was soon general, commission houses furnishing their quota, while disgusted holders liquidated. The downward movement did not have much momentum until in the last hour when all support was withdrawn and bears had full sway, continuing to dominate until the close, which was barely steady, with prices near the lowest at a net decline of 17 to 20

Spots were quiet with prices 15 points lower at 11.70c for middling ..

Special to The Telegra NEW ORLEANS, April 19 .- The cotton market was featured today by aggressive pressure from bearish interests and continued heavy liquidation by longs under which prices broke 23 points. The market opened with prices unchanged to 1 point lower and the course of prices was downward from the start, although there seemed to be no logical reason for this condition of affairs other than the utter refusal of longs to contribute support. While bears attacked the market promiscuously it was easy to see that they lacked leadership, which, if furnished would no doubt have resulted in a further slump. As it was, closing prices were pra-tically at the low point. Spots were easy with prices 1-16c lower at 11%c for middling. Sales, 950 bales and 1,900 f. o. b.

Prices Drop $1.00 a Bale-Bears Raid | Firmer Tone in the Beef Steer Market. Swine Market Shows Nickel Loss

The cattle run today dropped within reasonable limits and the market tone improved in consequence. The total market run reached 1,300 head, with 2,-100 head reported coming in on through billing.

Grass steers from the southern counthe run, and nothing very choice in this class was observable. Some fairly good grassers sold at $3.60, and a longer string of plainer steers at $3.35. These sales could hardly be called stronger than yesterday, but the trade had more snap to it than at the close on Wednesday.

Fed steers were few, but had a good top end. One bunch of heavy fed long yearlings that would weigh better than 950 pounds, had a bid of $4.40, but this was declined as some heavy fed cattle of a rougher class sold at that price. The general steer market was fairly active. Sales of steers

The most clear profit in handling good horses lies in the fact that you have raised them yourself.

THE STATE OF THE S

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 19 .-Both our market and the Liverpool market presented an artificial appearance today. After a decline of 3 points on natural heaviness, speculative indifference, lack of spot support, etc., manipulative assistance caused a temporary recovery of the loss in the English market, not supported, however, by cable advices, which are decidedly less favorable. Spinners are reported to have about enough for the time being and total spot sales today amount ties continued to make up the bulk of | to only 10,000 bales, although a concession of 5 points in price was made. Our market acted heavy, with a desire to get out, and liquidation of smaller amounts, owing to the proximity of notice day, was conspicuous. But for supporting orders placed around 11.40c for July at the opening, prices would have given way readily to the general selling by wire houses. As soon as this support was withdrawn liquidation told at once on the market, which showed 10 points decline at the end of the first hour. An unfavorable weather forecast promising general showers for the western half of the belt and the expectation of a very bullish visible supply statement tomorrow caused some professional support at the decline. Yet, until notice day is past the adjustments of accounts will be the dominant feature in the market and only short scalps on the bull side appear safe. Best opinion here is very skeptical about the taking of notices in New York by the bull crowd. Spots here are dull at from 1-16c to 1/sc lower to sell, with a fair demand.

> Vivion Commission Company FORT WORTH, Texas, April 19 .-Cotton prices suffered further loss today, principally on account of a lack of support from the bull leaders. Liverpool opening prices for contracts were better than expected, be> ing 1 up instead of 1 to 2 down as due. That market also suffered from lack of bullish interest and closing figures showed the full loss as expected. Spots in Liverpool declined 5 points, closing at 6.16d. There was a slight increase in demand, 10,000 bales being taken, of which 2,300 were American.

Despite the favorable opening in Liverpool, prices on the first call in New York were unchanged to 2 lower. Small traders on the long side furnished support during the initial trading and prices worked up 3 to 5 points in the first half hour, but the eading bull interests were inactive. offering no support, while Liverpool and continental interests sold July and August options. The San Francisco calamity was also an adverse influence and the market weakened, prices easing off 12 points by mid-day. The weather over the cotton region for the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. today was generally clear for east portions and cloudy in west half, with light showers in Louisiana and Texas. The forecast for Texas indicates showers for the eastern portion of the state. C. T. VIVION.

Chicago Banker Seeks to Avoid Publicity's Glare

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, April 19.-A secret trial of John R. Walsh is the new plan of the Chicago banker to gain freedom from punishment on the charge of making false returns to the United States government. It was on this remarkable pretext that he slipped into court and obtained his fifth continuance before United States Commissioner Foote.

His attorneys have submitted a long statement to District Attorney Morrison, denying Walsh's guilt and "explaining" the acts on which the charges are based. The United States prosecutor is to go over this document in secret-his examination being the actual trial of the banker. Walsh hopes that Morrison will decide he lacks evidence to prosecute, and wilf nolle the case, thus freeing him. Walsh's friends were jubilant after the continuance was granted and openly predicted that the government will drop the case and let Walsh have his liberty. It is declared in some quarters that Walsh expects his in the Illinois Surety Company, to use influence to prevent prosecution. District Attorney Morrison further admitted that the results of the "investigation" may have to go to Washington before the government can be sure whether or not the question of Walsh's innocence or guilt should be left to a jury.

The railroad and bank books of account and finance are furnished the government for inspection. The purport of the statement is to convince the government that there was no misappropriation of the funds of the Chicago National Bank, as alleged in the charges made by the government. Walsh is now at liberty under a bail bond of $50,000, charged, at the instigation of United States Attorney General Moody, with the deliberate falsification of government records and the juggling of $3,000,000 in de-

SENATE AMENDS INSURANCE LAW

Allows Policy Holders to De mand Information

By Associated Press. ALBANY, N. Y., April 18. - An amendment of vital importance to the bill amending the insurance law was made by the senate last night at the close of an all-day debate. The amendment, which was adopted by a vote of 26 to 24, strikes out the provision requiring mutual companies to expose lists of policy holders in connection with the annual election and substitutes a provision requiring such companies to mail to all or any of their policy holders during the five months prior to any election, any matter required by one hundred or more policy holders to be sent. Senator Armstrong declared today that the amendment destroyed one of the crucial reforms sought by the insurance investigating committee. DEVIL'S ISLAND TORTURE is no worse than the terrible case of Piles that afflicted me ten years. ### ATHLETES READY FOR LONG RUN

Cross Country Run to Take Place Saturday

What will be one of the longest cross-country runs ever held in the south will take place next Saturday from Burleson to Fort Worth, a distance of fifteen miles. The track team of the Athletic Association of the Polytechnic College will give the run, and there will be fifteen entries.

The men have been training for the event for the past ten weeks under the eye of Coach Lyman W. Rogers, and although they have not gone over the course, have taken many runs about the country and are reported in splendid condition. The start will be made from Burleson at 10 o'clock in the morning and the scene of the finish will be at the county court house, the final spurt to occur on Main street. Coach Rogers states that a record may be made of one hour and twentyfive minutes, and that in practice runs one of his men, Little, has made fifteen miles in one hour and thirty minutes. All arrangements have been completed for the runs and officers of the day named. The following contestants are entered for the event: James Mc-Carely, L. Gregg, B. Gregg, Little, barbed wire fence. A handsome loving cup, valued at $50, will go to the winner of the race. The cup is a gift from County Attorney J. D. McLean. There will be no other prizes, but the men getting first and second places will represent Polytechnic College at St. Louis May 5 and participate in a cross-country run to be held under the auspices of the Missouri Athletic Association, the course being from Fremont, Ill., to St.

The students are looking forward to the run Saturday with much interest and expect the run to be closely contested, no one being picked as a winner thus far. The timers selected are:

L. P. Rogers, J. C. Welsh and Jack In the evening, as a fitting and happy culmination of the event, the coeds of the college will give a banquet in is slated for a speech. Belonging to the track team are twenty-two members. The average age is 20 years and the average weight is 155 pounds. Washington University of St. Louis has been challenged to a run of ten miles, but the challenge has not yet been accepted.

SOME GENTLEMEN OF TEXAS

for reasons of his own, desired to take quite a number of capitalists to San Angelo. It must be very pleasant to have a string of capitalists to play with, more fun than the old-fashioned button string, or even two strings to your bow. But this New York lawyer made arrangements with a certain wealthy ranchman Metcalf (an harmonious and becoming name for a cattleman) to receive and entertain his capitalists when they arrived at San Angelo.

The ranch, one of the biggest and wealthiest in Texas, is about twenty miles from the town, and Mr. Metcalf wrote that he would be at the train to meet the party. So he was, with two "spring wagons," with chairs in them on which the capitalists might Angeleno won, Lemon Girl second, be seated-if they could. To each "spring wagon" were harnessed six little mules, red tassels at their ears, greased lightning in their heels, and seeming indifference on their faces. The capitalists looked around for cabs as they got off the train. It would have taken good eyesight to see one, for the nearest cabstand one way was New York, and the other way, leaving out San Francisco, Pekin. Only in Pekin cabs are probably boats. They looked in all directions, and not seeing anything but prairie dogs and little mules, they looked as if they had been offered a gold brick. They were cordially invited to "git in" the spring wagon by Mr. Metcalf himself.

they reached the ranch. not being accustomed to draw anydraw their breath. Their host and driver chatted with them pleasantly, driving with one hand, and seeming not to think a thing of driving twenty miles in twenty minutes. The Boston and New York papers got hold of this famous ride, to which young Lochinvar, the king of Denmark; those two gentlemen who rode from Ghent to Aix, or even Paul Revere might do homage; and it was written up in great style. You may perhaps have seen it. It happened not great many months ago. I am only throwing it in as an extra to give local color to my Texas tale, and to give you an idea of how they do things in and around San Angelo, where the Lone Highwayman did a flourishing business twenty years ago or less.

In Southern League There were no harsh words spoken; it was done with neatness and dispatch

Were there ladies in the band, my Lone Highwayman gallantly told them that their sex rendered them immune. He was too chivalrous to rob the ladies, and even expressed regret that he was forced by cruel circumtances to place a bandage over their bright eyes-forgetting that leve as well as justice is so relieved from reponsibilities!

treated them singly to deposit each the cap upon the ground and return to the coach, with many a gentle word of thanks to them for their prompt aceding. The driver last was encouraged to mount his seat, and, the Lone Highwayman insisting on the coach taking precedence of him on the road, ach went their separate way. This captivating gentleman was always alone, always unmasked, always at the same spot on the road, ever suave and regretful and of a powerful persuasion. A monstrous gentle highwayman! He was also a humorous dog, and after an adventure he frequently wrote an account of it, using language and things, and sent it to the authorities. Moreover, he indicted, it is said, charming notes full of spice and flavor of naughtiness to those whom he had bereft.

ant a bit of biography to have to record that this artist of high finance and finesse was at length overthrown and raised to a higher sphere-promoted, in fact. This is a robber after my did much in the late '70s He grew and flourished in Missouri, and was a graduate of the famous James gang. When the James boys got a price set on their heads, and the band scattered, Bass gathered up the fragments and they went about doing good and robbing trains with what comfort they could. He does not rightly belong to Texas, as no robbery he attempted there was a success; but he spent the last three weeks of a meteoric career there, and there gave up the ghost. He left Missouri under a cloud, as it were, or rather with a cloud of officers pursuing him, and thinking that Texas was the place of the Bad Man, he

He made the mistake of his life. Texas had grown weary of the howling of the Bad Man, impatient with picturesque villains, and had made up her mind that every one on her soil should be run to earth. The Texas Rangers, the most interesting body of frontier soldiers ever organized, was on the alert for all honest gentlemen who lived by sleight of hand-the pistol hand. Bass and his confederate undertook to rob the Texas Central at Mesquite, a little way station just beyond Dallas. They failed in the attempt. The coolness and pluck of the conductor foiled them. He jumped off the train on the opposite side when they got on, ran under the trucks, hid behind a cottonwood tree and talked to them with a derringer. At that the passengers, who were only stampeded for want of a fast that Bass had to run He then planned to rob the bank in Waco, and he and his men spent two days hanging about the town waiting for their opportunity. Finding the task too difficult because the Rangers were after them, they had to give that scheme up.

they intended to rob the bank. At the appointed time four of the men may draw your own conclusions. Major Jones, at that time chief of the Rangers, with five of his men, dropped quietly into the little town on the fateful day. They stationed themselves at the appointed time on or near the long platstamps for pamphlets, maps and full form of the railroad station, which particulars to W. B. Kniskern, P. T. commanded a view both ways of the one long business street of Round

It seems that a New York lawyer, | Rock. The one bank was just oppor reasons of his own, desired to take | site an end of the station platform. Bass and his men approached the town about 9 o'clock in the morning, all coming in singly from different directions. They tied their horses and proceeded leisurely to stroll over to the bank; thinking to outnumber and overawe the one or two employes, kill them If necessary, ransack the safe at their lelsure and ride off with their plunder without exciting suspicion.

The Rangers waited patiently until the robbers were all dismounted, and then at the proper moment they "ante'd

Doubtless it gave offense to those "innocents," as well as caused them much surprise. Being accustomed to the sounds of shots, however, they promptly got into the game, and firing and running, tried to reach their horses. There was some desperate fighting, three of the Bass crowd and two of the Rangers being killed. Major Jones was wounded. Sam Bass, with a well nigh mortal wound, managed to get to his horse, and under a deadly fire he and one of his men, Bill Jackson, escaped.

They separate, of course, each doing what seemed safest to escape capture. Sam Bass rode as far as open woods on the other side of the town, and there his wounds compelled him to stay. He could sit on his horse no longer. He slipped to the ground, propped himself against an oak tree, and with his rifle ready, waited with the grim determination to have the first shot at any pursuer, not knowing that there was hard at hand that which a rifle shot was powerless to stay. He kept watch till loss of blood brought loss of consciousness and he passed

There, unable to lift his rifle, unable to crawl off in the bushes to die like an animal, he lay, and there next morning he was found by an old negro man who lived on the outskirts of the and afraid to leave him. He did not know that it was Bass, did not even know of his fight the day before. All that he knew was that it was a dangerous thing in Texas to offer succor to a suspicious looking stranger, unless prepared to share his trouble. Bass worked on his sympathy enough to get food and water and to be lifted to a more comfortable position, but the old man could not bring himself to offer the shelter of his cabin to the stranger. Probably Bass would not a thing once undertaken. The darkey was noticed carrying food, watched, surprise. He died before he could be brought to trial.

I have not been able to gather as much information about him as I would love to have; save for you the reassuring knowledge that he has gone to happier hunting grounds by way of The Elevated Rope Railway, at pres ent Texas' only means of rapid tran-

This pleasant gentleman contracted a babit in youth of robbing stage coaches. That in itself it not, or was so uncommon; but it was his manner of doing the robbing that makes him interesting. Not more picturesque than Tom Lawson, nor with less hair than Rockefeller, as marks of eminent genius, he yet managed his affairs with the literary dash of the one, the imperturbability of the other, and with the skill of H. H. Rogers and the Equitable Life thrown in. He was besides "the gentlest pirate that ever cut a throat or scuttled a shir There were no railroads in those parts then, though this was not so very long ago, so he chose stage coaches for his pleasures.

At one particular spot on the stage road out of San Angelo he would station himself alone, and as the stage reached this spot rise up quietly out of the earth, some say, and softly halt it. and the passengers to come forward, he placed them three feet apart, admonishing them gently with a "persuader" to put their hands up over their heads. Lying on the ground was a neat pile of black cambric caps, something resembling the dunce's cap of old, a little larger than the average head so that it could be pulled down over the eyes.

One by one, in order to make the game pleasant, he urged each to advance from the line, procure a black cap, return to the line and fit the headgear on in such a way as to represent the well-known Goddess of Justice. Then at his given word each one in turn came three paces forward out of the line, and, hands up, had their persons relieved of filthy lucre, watches, jewelry and "sech."

Weekly Weather Bulletin

Special to The Telegram. GALVESTON, Texas, April 19-Folowing is the official summary of weather in Texas during the past clonic disturbance, which has crossed the Rocky mountains and was then central over Kansas, was attended by numerous thunderstorms, with squalls, hail and moderate to heavy precipitation throughout the northern portion of the eastern half of the state. On the early morning of the 13th these local disturbances extended southward to the coast line. They weer particularly severe and destructive in portions of the central and northeastern divisions. The hail and wind did considerable damage in Burnet, Bell, Brazos, Johnson, Milam and Robertson counties of the central division, and in Collin, Dallas, Grayson, Lamar and Red River counties of the northeastern division. In the coast and southwestern divisions the storms were not so severe, but some damage has been reported from Caldwell, DeWitt, Chambers and Hardin counties. The greatest damage was done in Burnet county of the central division, where a tornado developed during the afternoon of the 12th and destroyed the principal portion of Briggs, which is a small town in that county with a population of lot inhabitants according to the census of 1900. Six persons are reported fatally injured and a great number received more or less bodily injury. The damage to property has not yet been determined. These destructive storms were generally of short duration and they were followed by fair and cooler weather, which continued to the close of the 15th. With the beginning of the 16th an area of cloudiness overspread the state and moderate precipitation fell in the Panhandle. The temperature during the week was very nearly normal and the average ranged from 56 degrees at Amarillo in the Panhandle to 70 degrees at Corpus Christi and San Antonio. The week closed with generally cloudy and unsettled weather over the entire state and with rain falling in the extreme northwestern division.

VARSITY HAS PITCHER

Seven Men Struck Out in Three Innings by Twirler Fort Worth University has developed another pitcher in Pctts, who struck out seven men in three innings of a game played Wednesday afternoon on the university campus with the team of the Railway Mail Service.

Potts relieved Thornberry, who was forced to leave the game, having badly strained his leg. His superb pitching proved a surprise to the student body, which places great hope in his work in future contests. The game was won from the Mail Service team by a score of 9 to 5, six of the 'varsity runs being made in the fifth inning by consistent stick work. Roark pitched for the Mail Service, being received by McDade. Nies caught for the university.

One to Nothing Game Played at Pros-

The Fourth ward team played the J. A. E. baseball team at Prospect park Wednesday, the score being 1 to 0 in favor of J. A. Cs. The feature of the game was the pitching of Butts and Lewis. The score stood 0 to 0 up to Batteries for the Fourth ward, Lewis and Breen; J. A. C., Butts and Johning. The line-up for the balance of the Fourth ward was: Tucker, first base; Weltman, second base; Wilks, third base; Oliver, short stop; Garth, left field; Ward, center field; Taylor, right field.
