The very patisfactory, manner in which our eleemosynary institutions have been administered must be a source of great pleasure to all patriotic citizens. Educational Affairs

Far different is the situation with reference to our educational affairs. The constitution imposes the duty of providing for the maintenance and support of the public free schools of this state for a period of not less than six months in each year. This requirement of the constitution has not been complied with generally. It is true that in many portions of the state our public schools have reached a high degree of excellence. Especially is this the case in urban centers, in the larger cities and towns where the schools are in many respects admirable. But the city schools afford educational facilities for only a small proportion of the school population of the state. of prohibition and local option have been injected into the present campaign, but since they have been, I will state my position with reference to those issues.

I am opposed to state prohibition, and do not favor submitting to the voters an amendment to our constitution on that subject.

I am, and always have been, in favor of local option laws. I think they are wise and salutary police regulations. Under some conditions I would vote to put these laws into effect; under others, I would vote against the proposition. While I lived in this ounty I never missed an opportunity to vote for local option. I opposed the effort to put Tarrant county under their operation, because I did not think the necessity existed for the protection which they afford in a rural community, where there are no police officers. In each instance the question was one merely of expediency. Free Passes

The democratic party has repeatedly declared for the enactment of laws to prohibit the giving by common carriers of free transportation to persons, and doubtless it will again so declare in its next convention.

I am in favor of recalling the privilege of giving free passes which has been accorded public carriers in this state. I say of recalling the privilege, because if it were not for the express authority conferred by the original railroad commission law, and by the amendments to it, railroad companies could not, without subjecting themselves to penalties, extend these fa-

Railroad Regulation and

Charges I believe that the best, and in fact, the only, effective method of regulating the management of and the charges by railroad companies is through the instrumentality of some perpetual and independent body. The question as to whether a reduction in passenger fares would be ts beneficial to our people as would one in freight charges, requires a technical knowledge which I do not possess, and it is probable that most of those who will compose the next legislature will be in the same condition. It must be known to all that comparatively few do much traveling, and would therefore be directly benefited by a reduction in the charges for transporting passengers, while every one would be interested in having the least possible scale of freight tariffs. I am inclined to believe, for instance, that the benefits which resulted from the reductions in the charges for hauling cotton were much better dis tributed than they would have been if reductions in passenger fares had been made, which would have lessened nomestead from taxation. Such large proportion of the landed property of our state consists of homesteads, that if no taxes were collected from them, the burdens imposed upon all other species of property would be confiscatory. Especially would this be so in our cities and towns, where the homesteads are of great value, and are generally owned by those who are best able to bear their proportion of the expenses of maintaining the public schools and of supporting the government.

I am aware that there is a disposition on the part of some to ascribe the action of those who endeavor to suppress or mitigate the evils of what is commonly known as trusts to a spirit of demagogy; but surely it cannot be imagined that the judges of our highest courts are actuated by other motives than those of patriotism, and of an exalted sense of right, and it is very gratifying to note that no appellate court in any state of the American Union, or of the United States, has ever rendered an opinion which in any way apologizes for, or contains an expression in commendation of the

However, I again say that I do not pretend to have given this matter the careful consideration which the members of the railroad commission must have bestowed upon it. As long as we have a commission in which we have confidence, I do not favor an invasion of their province by the legislature. If the time should come when we do not have, and cannot get the services of commissioners in whose judgment and integrity we are willing to confide, I will be in favor of abolishing the commission itself and again attempting to regulate railroad affairs through the legislative branch of our government.

likely to produce serious results, and it is a condition that should not be tolerated.

The Telegram would not detract one iota from the rights and privileges of these unfortunates. They are people on whom the hand of adversity has been most heavily laid, and the existence they eke out is doubtless just about as miserable as can fall to the lot of humanity. They are entitled to our assistance and help should be freely and liberally extended. But there should be a limit to all things.

It is surprising that in all the advanced evidences of constructive statesmanship we see in Texas there has not been a proposition put forward to provide an asylum for mendicants of this class. They are a constant charge upon the people of the state and their support constitutes a constant tax upon the charitably inclined citizen. Then, why not provide an asylum; to be maintained by a state tax, compelling all property owners in Texas to contribute their mite toward its sustenance, instead of compelling only the charitably inclined to bear the burden?

The state has an asylum for its deaf and dumb, another for its blind, another for its orphans, another for its epileptics and three for its insane. Why not establish yet another for the benefit of the mendicant and keep him off our city streets? Some of these people are capable of doing fairly honest toil of different kinds, and where such a thing is possible, they should be afforded employment and made as near self-sustaining as is possible

The Telegram offers the suggestion in a crude form, leaving the details to be worked out by those statesmen who may feel an interest in the matter, but we believe that intelligent consideration of the suggestion can only suggest its wisdom and propriety. Such a procedure would be a good thing for the mendicant, and it would serve to relieve the streets of every city of Texas of an incubus that threatens to become unbearable in time if it is not remedied.

THE CATTLE BUSINESS IN TEXAS

The past twenty years witnessed some very important changes in the cattle business of this state, and the evolution that began at that time is still in progress. The free range of the long ago has given place to the enclosed pasture, and the quality of the beef herds has been so improved that the old timer has very largely become but a memory. All over the state the cattlemen are putting forward their best efforts to achieve still better results, and this policy is proving such a winner that it is attracting marked attention abroad. The St. Louis Republic says:

Texas cattlemen are not likely again to know the hard times which shortly preceded the convention of 1884. The demand for cattle, both for home use and for export, has grown enormously since then and better methods have made the cattle raising industry not the happy-go-lucky business that it used to be.

The Texas steer is no longer the creature of bone and horn that he was twenty years ago. The importation of thousands of head of pedigreed animals of the Ehorthorn, Hereford or other approved beef breeds has graded up the plain cattle so that they furnish carcasses as good as the best of the stock yards of Fort Worth, St. Louis, Chicago and Kansas City. The proportion of "canners" is steadily diminished among them, and the direct exportation of beef cargoes from Willis Moore says he will soon be able to forecast the weather a month ahead. We can forecast it two months ahead. For instance, during June and July the weather will be much warmer, with occasional showers followed by intense heat.-Houston Post.

And we can beat that." The weather along about September will become cool, frost will appear from the first to the tenth of November, there will be various showers in the interregnum and the latter part of December will be cool enough for heavy overcoats. This weather business is dead easy.

The Times-Herald would like to see enough Democrats in the next legislature to repeal the law giving the state control of political parties. Texas is Democratic in name only so long as that feature of the Terrell election law stands unrepealed .--- Waco Times-Herald.

And that same sentiment is growing all over Texas. The people of this state are beginning to feel the weight of the Terrell election law and the present murmurs will ultimately grow into a mighty roar.

Texas will not be divided during this generationperhaps never. Who wants to be disassociated with the sacred Alamo? Who would consent to have the battleground of San Jacinto and Goliad in another commonwealth? This is sentiment, but sentiment controls the actions of the people largely, if they are based upon heroic deeds, wisdom, self-sacrifice and blood of patriots .- Sherman Democrat.

No; Texas will not be divided. There are many things about Texas that could not be divided, and among these is the greatness and glory of the state. Politicians may paw the earth and split the air with their vaporings, but down here in Texas we know that such a thing can never be.

Already there are mutterings going up from railway officials against the proposed reduction of passenger tariffs in Texas. They claim that the sparsely populated country does not warrant a reduction and that the earnings are now too low. The great trouble now is that too many people are riding free .-- Sherman Democrat.

It may be true that too many people are riding free on Texas railways, but that fact is offset with the claim that favors of the kind are often compulsory, the railways feeling they are compelled in many instances to issue passes to placate antagonistic influences.

The report comes from the northwest that the wheat yield this year is going to be a "corker," and the indications are almost certain the cotton crop in the Panhandle will be a "cracker jack." So, why shouldn't us Panhandle people be happy?--Childress Post,

There is no reason in the world why the people of the Panhandle should not be happy, for they are prosperous with the finest of prospects ahead of them. Cotton grows to perfection in that section, wheat makes big yields, and the stock farmer has already entered and possessed the land, bringing with him a development that promises much for the future.

We have had our cycle mania, And our golfers clad in plaid; The baseball crank's still with us, And the man who's auto mad; But now there comes a new one, Who turns the strangest trick:

AN AFFRONT TO THE SOUTH

The action of Father Sherman, the Catholic priest and son of General W. T. Sherman, in seeking to follow the march of his father to the sea with a big military escort, has precipitated a perfect avalanch of angry protests from the people of the south. Down In Georgia the people, who have much cause to remember the original march to the sea, became almost frantic, and Georgia sentiment was well represented in the telegram sent to Governor Terrell of that state by Congressmon Livingston, calling on him to forcibly repel this armed invasion of the Goober state.

The acting mayor of Savannah publicly expressed the opinion that the reverend father should be caught and hanged before his arrival at that fair southern city, but that expressed an extreme that does injustice to the true southern character. There are no sane persons in the south who would catch and hang Father Sherman, even though there are few who can indorse the action of his coming.

It may be urged that the trip of the reverend gentleman is a mere matter of sentiment, that he simply desired to go over the historic ground traversed by his distinguished father upon the occasion of his trip that carried fire and the sword through the heart of the south. But the anger of the people is but natural under the existing circumstances. There are too many people living who have occasion to remember the original march to the sea for the event to assume anything like the proportions of an ovation.

When the temper of the southern people was brought to the attention of President Roosevelt he very promptly gave orders that the military detachment accompanying Father Sherman should be relieved of the necessity of accompanying him any further on his expedition, and the men were accordingly turned back. This action on the part of the President was gratifying to the people of the south, and relieved the situation of one of its most exasperating features.

It is true the war is over and the people of the north and south have become reconciled. It is equally true that there was really no occasion for such a tremendous upheaval over so small a matter. But the people of the south feel that if any mistake was made it was at the instance of the uninvited visitor, whose action only served to bring to mind some cruel and unforgiven memories.

Father Sherman's march to the sea was a most unfortunate incident.

AN ASYLUM FOR MENDICANTS

It has been often asserted that there are more mendicants to the square inch in Fort Worth than in any other southwestern city, and whether this is true or not, it is morally certain that we have our full quota of this class of population. The reputation this city enjoys for large heartedness and great liberality, has been sufficient to attract to our borders the halt, the maimed and the infirm from almost every section of the country, and as a result our streets are continually lined with these people plying their various vocations, which range all the way from selling shoe strings and lead pencils to straightout mendicancy.

The Fort Worth heart is proverbially large, and there are none within our borders who question the right of these people to ply their simple vocations and invoke the constant presence of a sweet and abiding charity. But at the same time it must be conceded that many of these people are repulsive-some of them Galveston seems a thing of the near future.

If the best grazing ranges of Texas are steadily shrinking before the advance of the man with the hoe, the growing of forage crops for winter feed, with better provisions for shelter and care, more than make up the deficiency of free grass. In the production of cattle, sheep and hogs the best days of Texas and the big cattle farm is fast taking the place of the boundless cattle ranch and careful, scientific cattle farming supplants the cowboy round-up. In the matter of railroad freight rates, interstate laws for the shipment of live stock, stock yard charges and other incidents of their business the callemen have problems not a few, apart from the raising of cattle, to occupy their thoughts and employ their activities.

The cattle business in Texas is not the decadent industry that it is being represented in some quarters. It is true that changed conditions have brought up some problems that will have to be solved before the industry can be said to enjoy such eras of prosperity as it has known in th past. But Texas cattlemen are a level headed lot of people, and are showing their ability to solve these problems as they arise. In fact, conditions that have come to light in the affairs of this great industry have served to open the eye of the nation to the ability and good horse sense existing among the men who are at the head of the industry. For the past two years the eattlemen have been very much in the national eye, and they have uniformly given a good account of themselves.

The pending railway rate regulation matter now rending before congress and which threatens to overthrow the republican party, is a measure that had its birth in a cow camp, and if it is whipped through to a successful culmination, the nation will owe a debt of gratitude to the cattlemen of the country who instituted and maintained such a spirited and effective campaign of education that popular sentiment compelled attempted action.

GOVERNOR'S RACE IN RHYME

Could I but stand where Moses stood, and view the prospect o'er I might be governor instead of just plain Monta Moore.-San Antonio Express. If Campbell, Colquitt and Monta Moore would yield the floor to Bell, the governor's chair would go to brooks, and the rest could go to-tut, tut!-Ozona Enterprise.

If Bell and Campbell should draw out, and Brooks should do the same, to Colquitt Monta Moore could shout: "Now, I have got the game!"-Riessel Rustler. But Monta will never shout that way-the scheme will never do, for since Judge Wells is out of it, his friends will pull Bell through.-Houston Chronicle. Yes, that's the way the feline jumps, as the signs so plainly tell: while the other four are hunting votes, the votes are hunting Bell.

There are hints of a compromise to be effected at Austin, by the terms of which but one suit against the Fort Worth Live Stock exchange is to be pushed, and if the state is able to establish its contention that the exchange is being operated contrary to Texas laws then the assessed penalty will be paid and the obnoxious rules and regulations abrogated. That seems a very sensible procedure and all that is necessary in in the premises. It is not the intention of the law that any of its provisions shall be used either as a means

The action of the railroad commission in ordering a hearing on a reduction of passenger rates from 3 to 21/2 cents a mile comes in the nature of a surprise both to the railroads and to the public. The developments in this hearing will be watched with interest .-- Denison Herald The action of the commission was not much of a surprise when considered from the point of practical politics. That body has become such a political nest that its game is continually that of the pettifogging politician with a very dull ax to grind.

The Fort Worth Telegram informs the public that almost everyday it notes the advancement of Fort Worth in a material way and the town is booming right along. The public in general is pleased to note that The Telegram keeps pace with the town.-Austin Statesman.

Fort Worth is the fastest growing city and The Telegram the fastest growing newspaper in all Texas. They constitute a pair that cannot be equalled.

Since reading of that new hotel in Fort Worth, the Register would like to see the next Democratic convention held there. That grill room picture makes a fellow hungry to look at it .- Sherman Register. The state Democratic convention should come to

Fort Worth this year, and it will come if the wishes of Texas Democrats are consulted in the matter. \circ \circ \circ \circ

It is now proposed to call an extra session of the congress after March 4, next year, to revise the tariff. Well, there may be a house in power at that time that will take kindly to the proposition .- Galveston Tribune. The Republicans are paving the way for Democratic success in the congressional election this fall, and if the leaders in the Democratic party make no mistakes the personnel of the house will show a big change next March.

The Fort Worth Telegram, Bell organ, insists that O. B. Colquitt is unpopular at home because he is an anti-prohibitionist. General Bell, its candidate for governor, says prohibition is not an issue and Rev. J. B. Cranfill is positive that General Bell is a dyed in the wool prohibitionist and is urging his prohibition Democratic followers to vote for the Fort Worth man. Perhaps The Telegram has been misinformed .-- Dallas Times-Herald.

The Telegram has not been misinformed. Large Brooks campaign clubs have already been formed in Kaufman county, and at least one newspaper published at the county seat it pronounced in its support of Brooks. Colquitt is a Kaufman county man and entitled to the support of his home people, but local option dissention will prevent anything like unanimous endorsement.

The knocking out of the unorganized county vote in state convention by the attorney general puts the Panhandle "proxy" statesman at a decided disadvantage, However, it is only a matter of twelve votes. Seventy counties will be given seventy votes, just fifty more than their voting strength calls for at this time. And so the Panhandle is thirty-eight votes to the good .--Dallas Times-Herald.

The attorney general's ruling will be very distasteful to the politicians who have carried the unorganized counties of Texas as a vest pocket accessory, but it will stick. These proxies have long been a bone of contention in Democratic conventions and a prolific cause of trouble.

The Panhandle Stock Raisers' association will meet next year in Roswell, N. M. Fort Worth now regrets Rockefeller is far away, with his offices in other states. -Sherman Register.

THE TEUROBAM ANT TENAS PRESS

Suits have been filed at Austin against the packing companies at Fort Worth, charging them with a violation of the Texas anti-trust law. This is a Texas industry, and the attorney general will find that these suits are not popular with the Texas people. If he really wanted to get the blood of a real octopus, what's the matter with Mr. Rockefeller's company? Besides,

The point made by our esteemed Sherman contemporary is well taken. The great packing houses located here constitute a great Texas industry, and while they are located in Fort Worth and have proven their worth and importance to this city, the belong to Texas and the southwest. If the packing plants located in this city were wiped out of existence tomorrow it would be a calamity that would be seriously felt in Fort Worth, in Sherman and incidentally throughout Texas and the southwest.

So far as the so-called beef trust is concerned, it is a matter that is in the hands of the federal government. The state has been content to let the matter rest in federal hands up to this time, and it looks as if good judgment would have at least prompted deferring the action taken until it was ascertained whether or not the federal people are going to make their allegations stick. When insurance matters were up and in full glare of the calcium in this state and the people were clamoring for action to be taken at Austin, the word was passed out that Texas would await the action of New York in the pending investigation, and that policy prevailed .- Fort Worth Telegram.

It has been reported in some papers that in view of suits recently instituted against the packing houses that they may withdraw from the state, but such will hardly follow. Indeed, it is possible, if reports current here are true, the cases will never come to trial. However, if the packing houses are violating the law, they should be made to obey it and be punished severely for violating it .-- Austin Tribune.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Lots of people would get up to see the sun rise if they could bet on it. The dangerous thing about getting engaged to a

NO DANGER OF UPRISING

The Methodist missionaries in China, so far as heard from, see no danger. Perhaps we may as well believe the Chinese minister at Washington, when he says there is no danger of a general uprising in China against foreigners and that his government will deal most severely with Chinese who harm foreigners. He is in a position to know something about the situation and his assurances ought at least to be treated with some consideration. We already have strong confirmation of his statement that the dowager empress has become the

The Third ward democratic club, which is expected to take part in the efforts toward bringing about the changes, has a membership numbering nearly 100. Plans for the erection of the new lub hall are meeting with success.

The hall will be 75 feet by 40 feet. A committee of which T. F. Loughery, secretary of the organization, is chairman, is busy taking subscriptions for the new building. The night of May 25 the club will give a ball at Handley in the interests of the new hall. J. G. Hendricks is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the affair.

Alderman Favors Change

R. F. Cook, present alderman of the ward, when seen in regard to the matter Thursday, declared his belief that the ward is too large. He suggests that a change of boundary should be made by which the northern line should be Ninth in place of Seventh street, adding the strip to the First ward. This, he says, would make the limits: Seventh street, Main street, the Texas and Pacific railway and the eastern city limits. "I do not approve of the plan for two aldermen," he spid, "and think it ridiculous upon its face. "The ward is at present larger than the First and Ninth wards com-

"All right," I said. "If I can't find an apartment to suit, I'll put my stuff in storage, too, and stay at a hotel for a while. I'll know by tomorrow noon, Mrs. Fitch." I settled back in my chair and took up my paper again, when a sudden thought brought me bolt upright. Here was an apartment, two rooms and bath, just what I wanted, empty -and moreover, so situated that I should be admirably placed for closeat-hand study of the tragedy. glanced at my watch-it was only half-past seven-and I hurried into my coat in a sudden fever of impatience lest someone else should get before me.

I examined the room with keen interest. Evidently everything had been left just as it was on the night of the crime; only the body had been removed.

"I shall bring my own furniture," I aid. "But I haven't any carpets. Perhaps I can buy these. They seem pretty good.

"They are sir," agreed Higgins. "It'll make it lots easier if we don't have t' ear 'em up.'

Cooke-Quickenstedt

Miss Elsie Minnie Quickenstedt's marriage to Cecil C. Cooke Wednesday was a quiet home ceremony, attended only by relatives and a few intimate friends. The decorations were of the most elaborate character-beautiful door draperies of hot house smilax, banks of roses and tall and stately palms. An alcove of palms reaching to the ceiling was formed in the front parlor for the bridal group during the ceremony. Behind the alcove was a complete background of bride roses. The back parlor was used for the display of the handsome presents and for the punch table. The punch bowl was set in a large mound of pink carnations and fern leaves. The dining room had a chandelier canopy of smilax with the center piece of carnations in a cutglass vase that almost met the greenery of the chandelier drapery. Sprays of climbing roses were used for the mantel and sideboard.

Before the ceremony, Miss Lola Lou Quickenstedt, the gifted 11-year-old sister of the bride, sang "All for You." Professor Bauer played the accompaniment and also Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The flower girl was Miss Evelyn Quickenstedt of Hillsboro, and the ribbon bearers were Misses Minnie Mae Quickenstedt of Hillsboro and Miss Lola Lou Quickenstedt.

The bridesmaids were Misses Lilian Aarons of Dallas, Hattie Veazey of Cleburne and Maggie Hague of Hillsboro. The best man was Stephen Cooke, brother of the bridegroom. The bride's gown was of airline with diamond insets of Mechlin lace above a deep lace-edged tucked flounced. The veil was fastened with lilles of the valley and a diamond pin, the gift of the bridegroom.

Among the many handsome presents was a chest of silver from W. L. Cooke, the bridegroom's father, and a fiftypiece game set from Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dodson of Hillsboro. Mr. and Mrs. Cooke will spend their since last report, Newport, Ark., hav-coupled with the statement that former Minister of the Interfor Goremykin would succeed him, was made yesterday. In view of the publications of the last few days, the former statement .00 did not come as a surprise, but M. .00 Goremykin's election to the premier-1.96 ship created amazement. He is not .58 only regarded as reactionary, but the general impression is that he is not equal to the task of facing the coming task. Count Witte's retirement from т .34 public life is complete.

There is now no question of his appointment to be president of the council of the empire and although it is rumored that he may be asked to act as chairman of the finance committee, it is learned that this is incorrect.

Count Witte will again assume the role of a spectator of the great events which are transpiring, returning to private life from which he was summoned last summer to negotiate the peace of Portsmouth.

The work of removing his furniture from the annex of the winter palace. back to his old residence has already begun. While reasons of health are assigned for his retirement, it must be accepted as a victory for the reactionists at court. Count Witte simply served the emperor's purpose as a barrier between him and the people during the trying months of the revolution, and now that the uprising is suppressed and the treasury again replenished, the count has been ignominiously dismissed.

Ousted by His Enemy

M. Goremykin, the new premier, was exposed by Witte in 1899, and since then has been the retiring premier's. unrelenting enemy. At that time the former minister of the interior made a report to the emperor to the effect that the stories of famine and suffering which were said to exist in certain provinces were untrue. Witte who was then minister of finance, thereupon produced documents to prove that the conditions in the interior were as bad as they were represented to be.

When the emperor confronted M. Goremykin with this he is said to have fallen upon his knees before the emperor and to have wept and begged forgiveness. The minister was so overcome that the emperor brought him a glass of water himself.

Later M. Goremykin took part in the Von Plehve cabinet, which drove M. Witte from the ministry of finance in 1903.

Count Witte, unquestionably the biggest man in public life of Russia, goes out unwept and unsung and amid the rejoicings of the reactionists, who hate and the liberals who distrust him. Yet. even today, it is predicted that when the next crisis comes the emperor will be compelled to call Witte from his retirement.

Goremykin's Record

Privy Councillor Goremykin was minister of the interior from 1895 to 1899 and has taken a prominent part in Russian political life, especially during the revolutionary period of the last few years. He is greatly interested in agrarian subjects and in April 1905. Emperor Nicholas appointed him chairman of the special commission formed in an endeavor to check the agrarian movement which was causing considerable disturbance in the country.
