MRS. BOUVET PROTESTS AGAINST ACCUSATION

Accused Widow Makes Statement for the Telegram
COURTS HEARING
Declares Irreparable Injustice Has Been Done Without Chance for Vindication

SURROUNDED by a number of friends, Mrs. Mattie Bouvet, wife of W. M. Bouvet, who was killed by a pistol shot on the billiard table boulevard Wednesday, gave an interview since the tragedy, to a Telegram reporter Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Bouvet not only talked about the killing of her husband but she also stated about the charge of murder that has been made against her, but for court house, but she said, "What the county attorney meant by charging me with murder, a charge that is a stain on my good name."

"I never murdered my husband and there is nothing to create a suspicion that I ever did. Why was this charge made against me?"

"If there is any proof that tends to implicate me as a murderer why have I not been arrested? If not, why have I been charged with such a heinous crime? I loved my husband and I loved me, and all during our married life there was never a cross word between us."

Will Meet Accusation
This accusation is a terrible thing, but I am willing and ready to meet it.

"I have heard that a murder charge had been made against me, expecting every hour to be arrested and taken to the county jail, but the officer who has been made against me and which I have never seen an officer to talk to since my husband was killed. No one of them has asked me for any proof that I killed my husband."

"In a woman's name worth nothing that court officials charge her with a heinous crime as I am charged with? I am told that at the county attorney's office it is said there is nothing in the case against me."

"Why does the county attorney let such a fearful charge be made against me, an innocent woman?"

Went to Court House
"I was at the court house Friday looking after some business matters of my husband and officers there saw me. If I am a murderer—if I killed my husband, why did they not arrest me?"

"It is a fearful thing to be charged with murder, and when I go out on the streets of the city I blush with shame because of the charge that has been made against me and which I have never been given an opportunity to clear myself of. Oh, it is terrible to be charged with murder, and I am a woman."

Was Deeply Affected
Mrs. Bouvet is a handsome woman, over 24 years old, and while she talked to the Telegram reporter tears were in her eyes. She has a beautiful face and when she talked of her dead husband there was an affection in what she said that could only have come from a woman who loved him. She told how the killing occurred and without the slightest deviation it was just as has been published in the papers. She said she had no investigation of this matter by the grand jury," she said, "but, oh! the humiliation of being charged with the horrible crime of murder is a black spot in my life; and those who have placed this terrible stigma upon my name I will never forget or forgive."

Mrs. Bouvet's Statement
The statement of Mrs. Bouvet to the officers was that Mr. Bouvet and herself were examining two pistols, one a new one he had just bought and the other an old one, he had just had repaired. She was examining the old pistol, which was cocked, to him. As he took hold of it the weapon was discharged and Bouvet pressing the trigger, the ball entering his left side and penetrating his heart.

There has been no date fixed for the examining trial of Mrs. Bouvet and her husband, but the district county attorney William Slay said:

"I don't believe there is anything in this charge against Mrs. Bouvet, but I think it best that the case be made and let the grand jury handle it. No bond has been fixed for Mrs. Bouvet—that will be left for the sheriff to do, if she is arrested."

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 29.—Dr. Adam Fisher, meat inspector of the state, has examined and condemned 38 cows in a herd of 66, belonging to a leading dairyman of this city, and the animals will be killed without delay. Tuberculosis infection is the trouble, as declared, however, Inspector Fisher. He declared that the disease has been reached the milk and that these patrons of the dairy, which is one of the largest here, are not in any danger from using the milk.

TWO TRAINS RACE ACROSS COUNTRY

Special Carrying Capitalists Hurry After Katy Flyer

Georgia Central Will Build from Albany, Ga., to Apalachicola, Fla.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 30.—A hundred and seventy-five mile extension of the Georgia Central railway, from Albany, Ga., to Apalachicola, Fla., on the Gulf, is indicated today by a charter granted through the secretary of state to the Georgia Central railway. Among the list of incorporators appears J. F. Hanson, president of the Central; Colonel A. R. Lawson, T. M. Cunningham, H. C. Cunningham, T. S. Moore, W. D. Beymer, George H. Richter and C. Williams, most of whom are directors of the Central.

Work to Begin at Once
The proposed route is from Albany, where the Central now extends, through Quincy to Apalachicola, at the mouth of the Apalachicola river. The road will have seventy-five miles of track in Georgia and eighty-two miles in Florida. It is understood that work on the extension will begin at once. A very rich and fertile section in both states will be opened up by this line.

RAID POOL ROOMS
Dallas Police Carry Gamblers to Headquarters and Charge Vagrancy

DALLAS, June 30.—The Dallas police department started the long-continued war on pool rooms this afternoon. The old old Coney Island Turf Exchange was raided, the bettors loaded into police patrol wagons, driven to police headquarters and charged with vagrancy docketed against them. The police and county authorities declare they will continue making arrests till the pool rooms close.

LUMPKIN TO RACE AGAINST TILLMAN
South Carolina Senator Meets Opposition for Seat

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 30.—Although it was expected that Senator B. R. Tillman would be returned to the senate without opposition, on the last day of the time for filing pledges, Colonel W. W. Lumpkin of Columbia entered the race for United States senator from South Carolina and is now making a vigorous campaign for the seat. Along with candidates for congress and state offices Colonel Lumpkin is stumping the state.

Born in 1841
Colonel Lumpkin was born Feb. 14, 1841, in Oglethorpe county, Ga. He is a relative of former Governor Lumpkin of Georgia and Joseph Henry Lumpkin, who was chief justice of the Georgia supreme court. He was raised on a farm and at 15 years of age, in 1856, he enlisted in the Confederate army until the war ended. After the war he farmed several years, and studied law at the same time, and was admitted to practice.

TULSA, I. T., June 30.—J. C. Schlossstein and J. R. Johnson, who are extensive manufacturers of glass in Indiana, have been here in Tulsa to view of establishing a glass factory. Cheap fuel draws them this way and they may make a proposition to the Commercial Club at an early date.

Cab Driver Stabbed
LAWTON, T., June 30.—L. B. Clayton, a cab driver, was stabbed by a negro on the platform of the Rock Island depot Thursday evening. The negro was brought in. Fields says that he was brought in. Fields says that he was brought in. Fields says that he was brought in.

LONDON AFTER GOLD
Will Bid Against New York for South African Receipts

NEW YORK, June 30.—Foreign markets were heavy with sharp breaks in Russian bonds, a feature, especially at Berlin, where the decline extended to over 2 points. French rentes also declined and discounts were firm at London and advanced at Berlin. At London it was reported that the Bank of England would bid against New York for next week's gold receipts from South Africa. Americans shared in the general weakness at London as well as Paris selling, a depressing factor. The water and arbitrage business here was nominal.

FARMERS SETTLE COTTLE COUNTY
Well-known Cattleman Buys Cotton Gin to Meet Demand

W. Q. Richards of Paducah, Cottle county, about 75 miles west of Vernon, and on the prairie, between the Peace and the north fork of the Wichita, is at the Worth. He is in company with Mr. Chaik of the same place, have bought a cotton gin. That seems strange, at first blush, as an investment in the Panhandle prairie country, but it is done with reason. Mr. Richards says there is a great development of the farming interest in that part of the state and, since the farmers have learned the "dry irrigation" idea in farming, they find that farming in what for many years and until very recently was regarded as only grazing land, and not too good grazing lands until the artesian water possibility was learned, is one of the good paying things and the farm industry is followed by many in preference to the cattle industry. Mr. Richards is a cattleman; he has, it is estimated, about 130,000 acres of land in his little garden patch; of that amount he has about 1,000 acres in cotton this season and as there are others near him who are also raising cotton, the reason for the gin became plain to all. Mr. Richards says that farming pays there; that there is more money in it here than in cattle and he will raise cotton without any disloyalty to his first love, the Texas cow. He is selling off some of his land divided up into such small lots as will suit the purchaser, and the influx of farmers is astonishing.

CREDIT FOR GILLESPIE
Congressman Worked Hard to Secure Fort Worth's $150,000 Building

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—Representative Gillespie of Fort Worth is deserving of much credit for the way he handled his bill appropriating $150,000 for a federal building at Fort Worth, his home city, and which finally became a law as a part of the omnibus public buildings appropriations bill. It is not often that congress votes $150,000 for federal buildings in the south. But Fort Worth has succeeded in getting the bill passed, and where others have failed, Representative Gillespie has succeeded, and Fort Worth gets a much needed federal building.

LIGHT THROWN ON MURDER

Full Confession Made as to Killing of Cockrell

FIEND EXPOSED

Hargis Put in Bad Plight by Statement of Fields, Who Fears Death

LEXINGTON, Ky., June 30.—John Abner and John Smith, confined in jail at Jackson, charged with assaulting Dr. D. B. Cox in April, 1902, James Cockrell, in July, 1902, and James B. Markham, in May, 1903, during Breathitt feud troubles, have made complete confessions detailing their complicity in the assassination of the three men. The news was brought here by Captain G. W. Henry, detective, from Dallas, who has been engaged to work up the feud cases. Sam Fields, of Hamilton, O., former feudist, who was charged with killing a man named Spicer, during the feud troubles, told Henry of his confession, stating that he had seen the Smith and Abner D. Jackson in the jail, and that they had told him that they had confessed, but that pending developments that would come up, the confession in full would not be made public for two or three weeks.

Many Sensations Promised
Fields said that he was the first tributed Curtis and Asbury Spicer in their confessions of two weeks ago regarding the Breathitt assassinations and there were most sensational developments in the last confession that neither Jett, Spicer or Mose Peltner, who made the first statement regarding Breathitt assassinations plots in February, 1905, did not mention, and that many people, never before mentioned, would be brought in. Fields says that Smith and Abner both appeared relieved since confessing.

Field Asked to Kill Cockrell
Fields said that he was the first man that Judge James Hargis had ever employed to assassinate James Cockrell. Fields said that he was standing on the street in Jackson one day some time before Cockrell's killing, when Judge Hargis approached him and told him that he would pay him $10,000 if he would kill Jim Cockrell. Fields says that he was afraid to refuse his offer, and when he accepted Hargis detailed the plot to him. Fields was to engage Cockrell in a card game, then kill Cockrell before the latter had a chance to shoot back, but to wait until he had drawn a pistol so it would seem as though he were a victim. Fields said that he did not carry out Hargis' orders and that the plot was afterwards detailed to Curt

Dignified Solons in House Do Vaudeville Stunts
ODE TO CANNON
Glory Hallelujah Finds Its Echo in Dixie and All Animosities Are Forgotten

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30.—The house of representatives forsook the paths of statesmanship and dignity today and wound up its long session of hard work in a grand burst of frivolity. While waiting for the straightening of the tangle caused by straightening of a sundry civil bill of the $2,000,000 item for a new department site which had been struck from the public buildings bill, frequent recesses were taken and members on the floor amused themselves in all sorts of ways, and to the spectators in the galleries it was better than a vaudeville performance. There was singing and whistling and stunts of all kinds. It is almost needless to add that the solemn dignity of the senate was unimpaired by what happened in the lower house. That body went about its business in the old-fashioned way. There was but a corporal's guard in the senate galleries while the house galleries were filled to overflowing. In a little while pretty nearly everybody on the floor and in the galleries and grand old song, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," and was thundered out by three hundred voices until it shook the glass skylights.

Fulkerson Does Stunt
"My Old Kentucky Home" followed as a matter of course, and then came cries for Representative Fulkerson, the hard warbler from St. Joseph. Mr. Fulkerson became famous a couple of months ago during a dull session of the house by some ventriloquist stunts that amazed everybody within hearing distance and nearly drove Speaker Cannon crazy trying to find out who was disturbing the peace and dignity of the legislature.

Rebel Yell Given
Every member from below Mason & Dixon's line jumped to his feet, opened his mouth and sang in honor of the volume of that historic and feeble voice. But the prospects of delay in the passage of the bill were not to be dampened by the more frivolous members and a new version of the overworked song, "Everybody Works but Uncle," was roared from the democratic side during the lull. It went thus:

"Everybody works but Cannon, and he loaf around all day, presiding in his office in a fascinating way. He's supposed to be the speaker, but Hines is the whole show; everybody works in our house but Uncle Joe."

SOLDIERS GET PENSIONS
Confederate Veterans Will Be Granted $14 Quarterly By State

AUSTIN, June 30.—The Confederate pension department of the controller's office will begin the issue of warrants to pensioners Monday, July 2. The amount is $14 for the quarter beginning July 1. Owing to a deficiency of funds in the state treasury to meet appropriations out of the general revenue, every warrant before mailing will be registered by the state treasurer, and will be paid by him in the interim. It will take about a month before the issue of warrants can be completed.

TRANSFER IS ASKED
Gaynor and Treen Want to Be Confined in Savannah Jail

MACON, Ga., June 30.—Greene and Gaynor, who have been confined in the Bibb county jail here pending the outcome of the appeal for a new trial, have asked for a transfer to the Savannah jail on the ground that they can be nearer their attorneys. Judge Speer has the request under advisement. Marshal White says, however, if the request is granted, Greene and Gaynor will have to be confined in cells in the Savannah jail and will not be allowed the freedom of the jail yards.

WHEAT DECLINES FRACTION OF CENT

Conditions Cause Drop in September Crop

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., June 30.—The weather offered no excuse for putting the price of wheat up at the opening, and lacking that there was more selling than buying when trading started. There was a decline in price the first few minutes of about 3c and beyond that in a downward direction the crowd were disinclined to go for another half hour. It was comparatively clear in the northwest and very little was heard of damage from the recent wet spell. The clearing up of the weather there relieved a great deal of previously

PROHIBITION NOT CAMPAIGN ISSUE

Bell Gains Strength by Waxahachie Speech

Special to The Telegram. WAXAHACHIE, Texas, June 30.—Judge C. K. Bell of Fort Worth, a candidate for governor, spoke to a large crowd Friday night in the district court room in the interest of his candidacy. Judge Bell was given close attention and was frequently applauded. He was introduced by Captain W. H. Getzenaner, Waxahachie's first mayor, and one of the pioneer citizens of the town. In beginning his address Judge Bell said there were several questions in this campaign upon which all candidates for governor were agreed. One of these was the issuance by railroads of free passes and another was that of prohibition. With reference to the first he said that if he was elected governor he would exert every influence to secure the enactment of a law that would regulate the free pass evil. As to prohibition it was not an issue in the campaign. Prohibition of Police Regulation There was no demand for an amendment to the constitution for a state prohibition law for this reason it had no place as a political issue. He said he did not believe it was more than the question of police regulation, and that it was not a proposition around which political parties should be built up. He had always tried to discourage any effort to bring this question into politics. He said that if he was elected governor he would pledge himself to exercise every power to see that the local laws are perfected where defective. He said that if he was elected a governor may do.

MAN'S WISH FOR PRETTY WIFE IS GREAT FOR CHORUS GIRLS

MINNIE ASHLEY in NEW KEY-TOP BAYONER CHANLER. ADAH in NEW DERNZ MRS. FRANK WIGGINS.

Man's desire to possess a wife attractive in form and feature has given many chorus girls the opportunity to marry titles and wealth. Mrs. Harry K. Thaw, formerly Miss Evelyn Nesbit, is foremost in public attention just now as an example of a poor girl who has wedded millions. She was born in Pittsburgh, but it was in New York as a stage girl that she met the gilded youth who took her to Europe, and who managed to make his family recognize her as his wife after many humiliating experiences. An Original Girl Miss Frances Belmont, now Lady Ashburton and once a flame of Harry Thaw, also married brilliantly. She made her first appearance as a scrub-woman in "Mihadi," but the rough garments she wore did not conceal her beauty. When Maggie Dooley scrubs the floor you can bet the floor is clean; were the words she voiced while playing the brush. Frances went to England as leading lady with Charles Hawtrey, and later married Lord Ashburton. Will Become Peerses Pretty June Van Buskirk started in the chorus of "The Wizard of Oz." Then she took up the legitimate and went to London in "The Walls of Jericho." She married Robert Harcourt, the playwright, and will one day be Lady Harcourt. Eva Carrington, Gibsonesque and six feet two, met Lord de Clifford at a dinner while playing in Dublin. The lord immediately laid his title at her feet, and the pair are now traveling in Abyssinia.

Minnie Ashley, now Mrs. William Aster Chanler, would not trade her athletic young husband for the best titles in England. She worked faithfully for several years, first as a Spanish dancer, then as a chorus girl in "El Capitain" and later in "The Greek Slave." French from a campaign in the Philippines, Chanler saw her in "San Toy." They are now happily married. George Gould Ensnaered For a time before her marriage she played at Daly's theater, where Miss Edith Kingston had met her fate in the feet, and the millionaire railroad magnate. Mabel Stowman, parrot of blondes, attracted the attention of Harold D. Stickney, a shepherdless, costume while distributing favors at a ball given in New York by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish. They were married in a year. Adah Verne, a dusky beauty with Anna Held, became the wife of Frank Wiggins, proprietor of one of New York's largest hotels. Goldie Mohr, a vanilleville favorite, leaped into public notice when she married Allen P. Wood, a Pittsburgh millionaire with grandchildren. She is now enjoying his property, despite

NOTED DETECTIVE DEAD

Larry Hazen, Who Once Chased the James Boys, Passes Away CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 30.—Larry P. Hazen, former chief of detectives, and at one time chief of police in Cincinnati, died here today. He was 76 years old. Hazen was well known as a police officer and was connected with many notorious cases. A widow and three sons survive. They are Larry Jr., George, who is at head of the secret service on the Pacific coast, and William, who is in New York. Chased James Boys Lawrence P. Hazen was recognized as one of the foremost detectives in the United States and in the height of his fame was known from one end of the country to the other. His good work as a sleuth was noticed by the Adams Express company and the big corporation made him the head of its secret service. It was while in the Adams Express company's employ that he lived the most exciting and adventurous years of his career. He chased the James boys and the founders all over Missouri and had a hand in the capture of a number of lesser train robbers. On one occasion Hazen was after Jessie James, the Tennessee bandit, and trailed him to a house in the woods. He searched the house, but could not find his man. Years later James met Hazen on the ocean's edge and told him he had been hidden under the porch of the Tennessee house and would have killed the detective had his hiding place been discovered.

PUBLIC FEARS WALL STREET

Standard Liquidation Proves Mystery to Outsiders

POOLS AT LIMIT

Power of Buying by Manipulators Comes to Climax and Break Is Feared

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, June 30.—As stocks reach new low levels from day to day the public is moving further and further away from Wall street. Disclosure of the fact that the Standard Oil people have been liquidating on an enormous scale has mystified a public that was already alarmed over the exposures of graft in corporations. To the ordinary mind exposures of crimes and inauguration of honest management speaks for greater value in stocks than the public lacks the power to interpret events in Wall street. It takes the heavy blows of a bankers' pool to give the initial velocity to stocks after any great event. Unfortunately the Standard Oil people have decided that honesty is a bear argument and it must be admitted that these people know what they are doing when they render that decision. Unload Stocks Within a week evidence has come out of one rich man unloading on his partner in a pool and such an event is usually the forerunner of more of the same kind. As there are only rich men in the market and as the public will not come in under any circumstances, yet the thoughtful time seems to be arriving for the managers of pools of Wall street. If they have succeeded in deceiving one another they are now to suffer the penalty. Pools Reach Limit There may be a doubt as to the immediate future of the market, but there can be no doubt as to the extent of the holdings of these pools. They have nearly all of them reached the limit of their buying power. Unless the big interests come forward and begin active manipulation for higher prices there is almost but one end for the pools and there is no reason why a higher market should not be seen except that there is an absolute lack of confidence on the part of the investigating public. In the Street Today's sales of stocks were 547,000 against 323,428 a year ago. Par value of bonds sold today was $78,000 against $135,000 a year ago. There was the same mysterious liquidation apparent in the market today that has worried the trade for the last two weeks. Steel and Copper were centers of activity. The good feature of the bank

Ryan Breaks Pool

According to reports in the street it was Thomas P. Ryan who unloaded the huge block of Interborough-Metropolitan stock on the Belmont syndicate and broke the pool. This report found favor with Mr. Ryan, who has a reputation of being the soul of honor in regard to the stock market deals. Deny Sale of Standard Stocks Brokers who are in close touch with the Standard Oil people denied strenuously today that their principals were selling. They claim that Standard Oil never had so many stocks on hand as at present; that the actual certificates are piled up at No. 26 Broadway as never before. This accumulation of stock convinces those who believe in the selling that there is actual selling going on, as they claim the accumulation is for the parties of being known by the public while stocks are borrowed for delivery. Fish After Proxies Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Finance Committee, has proxies for the annual meeting of the company which will be held Oct. 27. Wall street accepts this fact as meaning that Mr. Fish is doubtful as to his control of the property. There were rumors today that James R. Keene, after many months of indecision, had finally taken an aggressive stand on the bear side of the market.

PEOPLE DESERT CITY

Old Frame School House All That Remains of Burnham

Special to The Telegram. WAXAHACHIE, Texas, June 30.—A frame school house which was built in 1871, is the only building remaining of a once prosperous little town that was destined to be one of the leading trading centers of the county. The town of Burnham was established in the southeastern part of the county before the war, and for many years was the most important trading point in that portion of the county. The town was laid off with a large square in the center and broad streets radiating in every direction. Had Four Saloons Fronting this square were erected a number of business houses, including four saloons in which many carousals took place in the early days of the county. When the Houston & Texas Central railroad was built through Burnham all the business houses of Burnham were moved to that point. The square is still there, but all around it are well cultivated fields. The records show that the square belongs to Ellis county, but the people living near the old school house take pride enough in their surroundings to keep this plot of land clear of weeds. It is used chiefly as a play ground for the children who attend school in the old school building.

FORT WORTH SCENES LATE RISERS MISS

LOADS OF PACKING HOUSE WORKERS WHO LEAVE BEFORE MAJORITY OF TOWN PEOPLE ARE AWAKE, A GREAT CHANGE FROM STREET CAR PASSENGERS TEN YEARS AGO—HOUSTON STREET MARKET AN INTERESTING SIGHT

(By J. B. Roberts.)
HERE is no more interesting sight in Fort Worth than that presented during the early morning hours when the army of packing house employees are on the move from their homes in the city to their packing houses on the North Side. It is this movement of working people that conveys an idea of the benefit to Fort Worth the packing houses have been an aid to.

Every car that leaves the city before 7 o'clock a. m. is loaded to its utmost capacity with men employed at the packing houses who have homes in the city.
It is a continuous stream of human freight—a city emptying itself until night of the great army of wage workers who find remunerative employment at the great industries north of the river. This great tide of travel, passing as it does all the leading hotels, is a big advertisement of Fort Worth. Strange as it may seem, the city take notice of it and learn that the great movement in the trolley cars is a people going to their daily work. It gives an idea to the stranger in the city of the great magnitude of Fort Worth's leading industries over the river.

In the earliest cars will be found the brassy laborer with his dinner bucket; in the next cars clerks and office men followed in the next cars by neatly groomed young women who are employed as stenographers, typewriters and in other capacities. The succeeding cars will bring along bookkeepers, heads of departments, superintendents, until when the whole blues for work Fort Worth has sent an army to the North Side.

Then and Now
The contrast between the scene presented now by the early cars and that presented ten years ago is marked and suggestive. Before the present packing houses were built there was an electric street railroad on the North Side it is true, but there was no such rush for seats in the cars as there is now. The first car then would pull out from the city over the bridge with probably a dozen men in it and the second car would probably not have so many, and from the first car at 7 o'clock there would be a straggling crowd that was not of sufficient volume to attract the attention of any one. There were no conductors on the cars then. Passengers were expected to take their own seats and put their nickle in the slot—the motorman was not permitted to handle the cash. At night an office man would rob the boxes of the day's receipts and count up the cash. The cars then ran on a kind of catch-as-you-can schedule that was productive of any amount of profanity on the part of waiting passengers; the company operating the car line coming in for an unstinted allowance of abuse, condemnation and ridicule. It was not an infrequent thing in those days for the motorman to stop a car long enough for a passenger to rush in a neighboring saloon, get a glass of beer and get back on the car again. And the other passengers were never known to object to this very accommodating practice that made the motorman popular with a certain class.

Those days seem like a dream now; they will never be repeated, but they have left behind them memories that furnish food for much thought when the present up-to-date business methods are compared with the easy-going methods of ten years ago. Fort Worth was provincial then; now she is metropolitan—has outgrown the crude customs that obtained a few years ago when it was regarded as vulgar to be in a hurry.
But there are a few old timers here yet who have a sigh when they talk of the old times and old customs and say: "Well, they may not have been as much money or as much business here then as there is now, but everybody had a good time, everybody knew everybody else and we stood shoulder to shoulder."

The Early Market
There is another early morning scene in Fort Worth that is worth getting up at daylight to see and about which three-fourths of the people in the city know nothing about. That is the scene on Houston street where the vegetable wagons get their supplies of vegetables to sell from house to house in the city.

This scene is made up of people peculiar to themselves and it is interesting to be on the ground and see them select and barter for the crisp vegetables of the garden brought in by the car loads from the truck gardens in south and east Texas. All is life and bustle about the commission houses. During these hours, Fort blocks the street is packed with wagons waiting to get their loads, and the jolting of the bucksters in a dozen different languages fills the air with suggestions of the confusion of tongues at the building of the Tower of Babel. Sometimes there is a clash, but not of swords, and it is never serious enough to demand police interference. The men who are buying truck are too eager to get out on their routes to waste any time in pulling the bark of another trucker's head, and they simply let fly a few cursive words in Italian, Romanian, French, Bohemian or Scandinavian, or plain old English or Scandinavian. When the wagons are all loaded up they are simply bouquets of vegetables arrayed with a view to effect in colors. The most of the white bunches of new onions occupy a prominent place, and are flanked by rows of bunches of beets and radishes, white heads of crisp lettuce, golden carrots, blue turnips, thick neck new potatoes, rosy tomatoes, great green bunches of parsley, white plum carrots, beautiful bunches of golden carrots, and delicious cantaloupes are arranged in a manner to tempt the appetite of any man.

Everybody in a Hurry
When the wagons are loaded there is another interesting scene, and that is the break away to the suburbs. There is no time wasted in idle talk, but every man appears to be actuated with an get-there-as-quick-as-possible gets. This scene is like a stampede of a wagon train with the enemy just out of sight, but coming, and it is worth a man's hour of sleep to get up and have a look at it.
The wagons are soon out of sight, quiet prevails where only a few minutes previous pandemonium reigned, and away off in the suburbs can be heard the familiar early morning cry: "Nica, fresca vegetables! Cheap vegetables! Nica tomato! Nica peach cantaloupe! And thus it is morning after morning, and ninety people out of every hundred in Fort Worth miss a good thing by not seeing it all.

School Board Proposes No Radical Departure

If the board of school trustees for the city of Fort Worth holds the expected meeting Monday evening next the committee charged with the duty of fixing salaries of teachers will be prepared to make a report for the committee has given consideration to the question of the salaries.
The amount of the salaries fixed, then the secretary will be able to send out the contracts for the signatures of the teachers and, of course, in the absence of action on the part of the board, in fixing the salaries, he is prevented from trying to get the teachers' signatures to the contracts.
From the treasurer of the school board it is learned that the amount available for the city schools for next year will be between $165,000 and $180,000. The increase in the amount arising from the facts that the city assessment will be larger and there will be a greater pro rata from the state, and also from the increase in the earnings of the permanent school fund available for the purpose.

Longer School Term

There will be no extraordinary demands on the school fund this year, and therefore it is expected there will be a longer school term and that period may go to the full nine months.
One matter of great importance to the people of the city who have to buy school books may be stated positively, and that is it is contrary to the spirit of the new management that any change in the text books for many or radical. The book committee and the new superintendent are all opposed to the radical change plan and the most conservatism, consistent with efficiency, may be expected on this important, because to the patrons of the schools so expensive matter.

No Building Proposed

There will be no new school building

No Appetite Means loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a precursor of prostrating sickness. This is why it is serious. The best thing you can do is to take the great, alterative and tonic Hood's Sarsaparilla Which has cured thousands.

ing done this year. The temporary buildings will be moved to the different ward school sites, where the people of the schools and the convenience of the school management dictates. Following the course pursued for the past two years, there is no need for a new building apparatus at the high school. There is not this extraordinary expense to come out of the school funds and, therefore, it may be that a suggested move to the site of the teachers and the lengthening of the term may be effected without trouble. The heating apparatus at the high school does not work fairly well when the frost sets in, and it is not possible to keep up steam, with the result that the fires went down or out at night, and the whole building got cold or chilly. It was impossible to get the school comfortably heated, starting the fires at 8 o'clock, say, by the time the scholars were present to use the rooms. But little fire is needed to keep up steam during the night, and for the two or three months of the winter, when the expense of the night man is required, the cost is not so high as it would be, and additions made not long ago added much to the efficiency of the high school heating apparatus. A new boiler is needed, and it is now now there has been in use for about fifteen years, or since the building was erected.

Everybody in a Hurry
When the wagons are loaded there is another interesting scene, and that is the break away to the suburbs. There is no time wasted in idle talk, but every man appears to be actuated with an get-there-as-quick-as-possible gets. This scene is like a stampede of a wagon train with the enemy just out of sight, but coming, and it is worth a man's hour of sleep to get up and have a look at it.
The wagons are soon out of sight, quiet prevails where only a few minutes previous pandemonium reigned, and away off in the suburbs can be heard the familiar early morning cry: "Nica, fresca vegetables! Cheap vegetables! Nica tomato! Nica peach cantaloupe! And thus it is morning after morning, and ninety people out of every hundred in Fort Worth miss a good thing by not seeing it all.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WILL NOT CARRY OVER ANY SUMMER DRY GOODS!

We have made this a rule for many seasons past. July is on us and our contract for remodeling and re-arranging is let for the 15th of this month, and for the next fifteen days we must clean out all over this store every article in summer merchandise. We have again gone through our stocks and marked down and cut the price of every article so as to make a clean sweep of everything, and we expect in the next fifteen days to accomplish our aim, because the prices on most of our goods are marked cheaper than they can be manufactured for today. These are straight bona fide facts, and an inspection will bear us out in every assertion we make. Many yards of fine and cheap Lawn and Summer Dress Goods will be sold at half price. Beginning Monday morning Muslin Underwear and Ladies' Ready-to-wear Department will offer a large assortment of the best goods manufactured, at half price. All over the store and in each department the half price card will hold a conspicuous position for the next fifteen days. If you ever expect to buy any more dry goods, this surely is your opportunity. Doors open at 8 o'clock Monday morning, July 2. Be on hand every day for the next fifteen days.

A table-full of all classes of goods from each department ranging clear through the store, in center aisle, selling for half and less. Look it over. You will save money. Another case of ladies' Hose arrived last week, the 12 1-2c quality, and will be sold for 9c per pair. A genuine fast black and elastic.

Every yard of 15c and 12 1-2c Figured Lawn this house has in it will be sold during this fifteen days' sale, 10 yards for 80c and you never bought better. Pure White Dress Linens cut to pieces. We bought too much and must clean them out, so they go like this:

55c quality, 36 inches, for 30c
65c quality, 36 inches, for 45c
75c quality, 36 inches, for 50c
85c quality, 36 inches, for 60c

Very large Bath Towels, hemmed and extra heavy, the quality you pay any time and to any store $3.00 dozen, must be sold and they go at $2.30 dozen. No better woven Towel known to the trade.

Third shipment this season of one manufacturer in men's Hose—black and tan—out wear any Hose—made in Japan—four times the price. Most store's sell them for 18c and 15c. We make the price 12 1-2c or four pairs for 50c.

Our line of beautiful White Parasols is getting very low, but not one will be carried over, so come and select one at one-third off of the already low marked price.

Advertising costs money, and as we propose to do it principally in giving you cheap prices on our goods, the mention of many articles in our newspaper ads will not be done. Come to the store and get the benefit.

1.087 yards 40-inch White Lawn, very sheer and a beautiful quality. You would expect to pay not less than 15c or 18c per yard; will be sold at 12 1-2c or 8 yards, enough for a dress, for $1.00.

Wash Belts, Wash Collars, many different patterns and styles and regular price was 10c to 20c, all go at one price, 5c each. You can't go wrong by buying a dozen. Ladies' Muslin Underwear was never sold so cheap in the history of our merchandising. Not the cheap, skimpy kind, but made full, trimmed beautifully and worth twice the price. Replenish your wardrobe now.

Ladies who dress well want to dress comfortably. Visit our Corset stock and be fitted in a late style Corset, one which will make you feel like a new woman. Prices 50c, 75c, $1.00 and $1.50.

The weather is growing very warm and to be comfortable at home you should invest in one of our cool short or long Kimonos, selling for less than the material is worth. Made of silkoline, lawn and silk, figured or plain colors.

Ladies' Knit Underwear in lisle thread, lisle thread finish, full regular made, very cool and elastic. Desirable and worth more than one-third the price, 7 1-2c, 10c, 12c, 15c and 18c.

Children's Clothing, in both girls' and boys. All washable and latest make; must be cleared out. Some lines a little broken, and half price will be the ticket on them. Don't let this opportunity pass you by.

"LABOR RECORDS" IN FOR SCORING

Trades Assembly Passes Resolutions at Meeting

Efforts to create sentiment in favor of political candidates by publication of "labor records" came in for a scolding at the regular meeting of the Fort Worth Trades' Assembly Thursday night. Incidentally the attempt to drag labor organizations into supporting candidates was also severely condemned.

Resolutions passed at the trades assembly meeting were as follows: "Whereas, There seems to be quite a desire upon the part of candidates for office and their over-zealous friends to establish labor records, especially those desiring the office of governor; and

"Whereas, There has appeared in the newspapers a statement signed by an ex-president of this body, said statement giving the results of an investigation supposed to have been made by him in regard to the records of the candidates for governor; and

"Whereas, The Union Banner, the official organ of this body, has given the statement made by our worthy ex-president a generous amount of space upon its front page; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That we wish to impress upon all trade unions that while it is the duty of their membership to carefully investigate the records of all candidates for office and to vote accordingly, they should do so in instances where any candidate or party

POPE PIUS III

Special to The Telegram.

ROME, June 30.—The truth about the pope's health is somewhat startling than the rumors that have been recently circulated. There seems to be nothing more serious than a general ailment due to his increased age and lack of exercise. Pius X is now 75 years of age and is far from well. He is very weary. He no longer makes the sedan chair in which Pope Leo XII was carried about. The undoubtedly feels keenly the depletion of the active life he led in his pontificate, when he was bishop of Mantua, and the sentiment imposed on the occupant of a holy see is telling on his health.

KILLED BY PARADE

Man Run Over by Crowd During Injuries Received

SAYANAH, Ga., June 30.—W. H. Estill, brother of Colonel J. H. Estill, died yesterday afternoon as a result of injuries received during an Independence parade on the night of June 29.

He was standing on a corner watching the procession when a crowd of boys and young men suddenly came around the corner and ran over him.

In the fall he received a severe blow on the head. He was 20 years of age and was owner of a book store here. He had been in business in Sayanah for many years and was favorably known. He was wounded in the battle of Cold Harbor.

Counterfeit respectability is a tarnish.

LEAPS TO DEATH

Despondent Man Jumps From Window of Hospital, Where He was a Patient

WILMINGTON, N. C., June 30.—Because he was demented from an illness of typhoid fever or despondent from brooding over domestic troubles, Frank Clark, a saw filer, leaped to death last night from a window at the Walker Memorial hospital. Clark had been sick two weeks.

Yesterday he showed symptoms of depression and, being alone this morning, seized the opportunity, going to the front window and leaping to the ground. He died at 4 o'clock. The dead man was 48 years old and came here from Sheboygan, Mich.

GIRL BECOMES TRAMP

Wandered Four Weeks About City, Sleeping in Sheds

CINCINNATI, June 30.—Mamie Halberstadt, aged 15, whose home is on Front street, this city, was found by a patrolman this afternoon after she had been missing from home for four weeks. During that time she had lived the life of a girl tramp, begging from house to house and sleeping on porches and in sheds about the suburbs.

Inherited Restlessness
The girl presents a remarkable case of inherited tendencies for a restless, roaming life. Her father was George M. Halberstadt, a scholar, soldier of fortune and born nomad, whose misadventures and death by his own hand in this city last winter attracted widespread attention. Halberstadt was at one time employed as interpreter at the court at St. Petersburg.

He had to flee for political reasons.

Prickly Heat

YIELDS readily to the application of Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic. Bathe the parts in warm soapy water, and dry thoroughly with a soft towel. Then bathe the irritated spots with the Antiseptic mixed with an equal part of warm water. Should this be too strong, more water may be added to good advantage.

Apply once or twice daily, increasing the amount of Antiseptic each time. The first or second application will give you relief, and a few more times will so toughen the skin and stimulate the circulation to these parts, as to prevent recurrence of the trouble.

Should this application smart, fanning will stop that immediately, and the soothing coolness felt then is indeed grateful to the burning irritated skin. If you have not yet tried this, it is certainly worth while doing so—you will be gratified with the results.

THE STRANGE LIFE OF STANFORD WHITE

(BY CHARLES SOMERVILLE.) DEATH, ending any man's life, can never be a more terrible figure than as it stands now in the coffin of Stanford White. It is not only the manner in which it came upon him, although that was very terrible...

STANFORD WHITE, THE FAMOUS NEW YORK ARCHITECT, WHO WAS SHOT TO DEATH BY HARRY THAW.

VIEW OF THE RESIDENCE OF STANFORD WHITE ON HIS $100,000 ESTATE AT ST. JAMES, LONG ISLAND.

At the cafe table his tongue never falters when it reached a woman's name. And even among men of easy mole of life, in which a code of morals has no real place...

er of a group of wealthy men who are pleased to be termed bon vivants. From the front of the house he went back to the most artistic member of the party...

High in the tower was his studio. It was safely to be used for any end purpose. He was director of the building. His word to any subordinate was law.

Childhood invaded for recruits for this longing place of rages. White and such men as he drew around him in the diabolical diversion he invented...

Well,—a Cascaret acts on your Bowel Muscles as if you had just sawed a cord of wood, or walked ten miles. That's why Cascarets are safe to take continuously in health, and out of health.

FREE TO OUR FRIENDS! We want to send to our friends a beautiful french-designed, GOLD-PLATED BONBON BOX, hard-enamelled in colors. It is a beauty for the dressing table. Ten cents in stamps is asked as a measure of good faith and to cover cost of Cascarets, with which this Delightful treat is loaded.

Little girl among the studios of New York, of whom she appeared in the choruses of White's interest in her. And White, his hair getting gray, his vanity in his long string of victories growing daily as an artist on him, gave loose tongue to the hearing of many men, and he even boasted that at a word he could make a faithless wife. He sneered at the immodest young husband who came to him. And he sneered at the threats that the crazed and desperate young fellow uttered. He piloted the young wife with letters that made her shudder.

Peacock's Startling Speeches. Alexander Rowland Peacock, a steel mill magnate, who for the last few years ago by making a practice of buying anything he saw and liked. He was one of the syndicate of Pittsburg millionaires who made up a victory pool of $20,000 to bet against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock III.

EIGHT STATES HUNT LORD

Cavendish Believed to Have Murdered Girl He Duped

LEAVES NO CLUE

Last Victim Never Heard From After Leaving Home in North Carolina

Special to The Telegram.

RICHMOND, Va., June 30.—The police of at least eight states and the federal government are waiting eagerly for news of the present whereabouts of John C. Cavendish, the alleged bigamist, and his latest victim, Miss Josephine Hood of Asheville, N. C. The girl was married to Cavendish at the home of her brother at New Bern, La., Dec. 10. Immediately after the ceremony the newly wedded couple started on their honeymoon to Mexico, where Cavendish had told the girl he had immense plantations and untold riches.

Not long had been heard of Miss Hood since she kissed her brother good-bye and started upon her wedding trip. The relatives of Miss Hood believe that the girl was murdered by Cavendish and her body disposed of after he secured her jewels and what money she may have had in her possession. They are waiting every effort to secure information that will lead to her safe return to her home, if she is alive, or that will reveal beyond a doubt the whereabouts of her body.

Covered Tracks Well. The governor of North Carolina has offered a reward for the capture of Cavendish and the reward has been supplemented by another by the governor of Virginia. It having developed that a Virginia girl was also his victim, Reynolds has also been offered by several other states whose young women have succumbed to his wiles. But Cavendish has covered his tracks well. Not a single clue has been left upon which the detectives can go to work. This week the girl's mother asked the secretary of state at Washington to search for her through the foreign consuls.

Put Victim in Stupor. The fact that Miss Hood had been made a victim was made known by a letter from one of his wives to her mother in Asheville. This woman says that she also was taken on her honeymoon to New Mexico, where her husband had told her he possessed riches. While on the way the man complained to her that he was short of funds and later put her into a stupor with laudanum, took her money and jewels and left her to make her way back to the states where she held out for her.

Wanted in Many Cities. It has been learned that Cavendish is wanted at Fort Worth, Texas, South Bend, Ind., Hot Springs, Ark., East St. Louis, Ill., and Denver, Colo. He is also wanted in Louisiana. In all of these states he is wanted for inducing young girls to marry him, and then deserting them and robbing them on the wedding trip.

Poised as Lord. In this state Cavendish posed as Lord Reginald Douglas, the son of the Marquis of Queensbury of England. He chose for his Virginia bride the beautiful Miss Elizabeth Lambert Lambert Point. He deserted the girl and heartbroken and foot sore, she made her way back to her friends in this state. The Virginia marriage was the last escapade credited to him until he came into the life of the North Carolina girl.

OUR LAY SERMON

Take thought early, therefore, young brethren, to make yourselves honestly worthy your salt in this agitating world, and to be content with what you can honestly acquire. There is no use of telling you not to bother your heads about money, because you will have to bother your heads about it unless some one has saved you that labor by laying up some money for you to use.

And the world is full of this kind of young men today. You can find them in every community and their number seems to be constantly in process of augmentation. They rally at the fate that has caused them to be endowed with the instincts of a millionaire and the bank account of a wooden Indian without realizing it is their own lack of energy and application that has brought about the conditions of which they complain.

The average young man of this day and time is constantly on the lookout for a soft snap—a minimum of healthy effort they offer for a maximum of reward. Few of them are content to begin at the bottom of the ladder and work up. They rather aspire to begin at the top and add on another story. They do not realize the honor that legitimately attaches itself to a self-made man who knows not the necessity for apologizing for what he has been able to accomplish.

Put a young man of this class in a position where the effort is a little bit irksome and accompanied by requirements of toil and he soon loses all interest in the situation. He cannot understand why it is he is not immediately placed in complete charge of the business while the owner sits back and gives him free rein. He feels in his heart that such splendid abilities as he knows he possesses should be recognized and fittingly rewarded, and he spends the time he should be honestly giving his employer in devising schemes that will bring him nearer his goal.

There are too many young men today who are shirking responsibilities they should gladly assume in qualifying themselves really for the positions they aspire to fill. No young man is qualified to manage any business until he has mastered its every detail, and details can be mastered only through actual experience and the grind that comes from close and persistent application.

The possession of an automobile does not qualify any young man for a responsible position. On the contrary, it engenders expensive tastes and inclinations that but add to the care and disappointments of life. The laborer pushing his wheelbarrow in contentment along the dusty thoroughfares is often a happier man than the man with goggles over his eyes who splits the wind in a Red Devil.

The young man who acquires expensive tastes early in life usually finishes his career a complete failure, for he has been a spendthrift all down the line. He has learned none of the principles of thrift and frugality.

gality and when adversity comes nothing has been laid by for the proverbial rainy day there comes a time when he wishes he had never been born and it would have perhaps been just as well as if it had been that way.

What the world needs today is young men of honesty and close application, who will try to render honest value to their employers and be content with the management of the business when they are really qualified to fill the position. The business world is cold and calculating, and the average business man not much given to experiment. He must know that his employe is able to deliver the goods before indulging in an unconditional surrender and young men should bear this fact in mind.

When a competency has been acquired and the future has been settled will be ample time to cultivate and establish an expensive taste for the luxuries of life. Until that time the man who succeeds must content himself with simpler things that do not prey so heavily on the wages earned.

COWAN SHOULD ACCEPT

There is a pretty well defined rumor in circulation to the effect that President Roosevelt has expressed a desire to have Judge Sam H. Cowan of this city as a member of the interstate commerce commission when the new rate bill becomes a law and the membership of that tribunal is increased as contemplated in that measure. But the rumor goes a little bit further and says Cowan has declined to be considered in that connection.

It has been believed for some time that this honor would come to Judge Cowan by reason of his eminent fitness and superior abilities, and when it was mentioned to him upon sundry occasions he did not appear altogether averse to the idea. This has led his friends to believe in the event of the appointment being tendered him it would be promptly accepted. And there are many reasons why it should be accepted.

No man in the whole United States is better posted on the subject of live stock rates and freight rates generally than Judge Cowan. No man is better posted with regard to the law pertaining to such matters, and he can rattle off freight tariffs with as much ease and gusto as a circuit rider can quote familiar Scripture. In the various investigations that have been held by the present interstate commerce commission Cowan has proven himself a holy terror to railroad managers all over the country, and it can be safely asserted that he is more feared and respected by railway people generally than any other lawyer in the country.

If Cowan was a member of the commission this fair and respect could but add to the efficiency of the law for the railroad people would be brought face to face with the certainty that there was at least one member of the commission up to their every trick. They would have a more wholesome respect for the law and would hesitate before they made up their minds to go contrary to its plain provisions.

The importance of the great live stock industry of the country demands representation on the interstate commerce commission. There are few live stock producers in the country who are not interstate shippers, and few who have suffered in the past through the inefficiency of the present law and lax methods of its enforcement. These live stock producers and shippers are primarily responsible for the perfection of the law and its passage in its present shape. It has all been accomplished by virtue of the splendid campaign of an educational nature that was first instituted right here in Texas by the live stock interests, and which gradually spread over the country.

President Roosevelt recognizes the importance of having Cowan as a member of the commission. He realizes the fitness of the man and the justice of the cause which demands such recognition. It may be true that Judge Cowan feels that acceptance on his part would involve considerable sacrifice, but he ought to be patriotic enough to stand by the people who have manifested such unwavering confidence in his ability and his leadership. As attorney for the American National Live Stock association and also of the great Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, Judge Cowan has displayed remarkable ability, splendid zeal and untiring energies. Much of the credit for what has been accomplished belongs to him, and he should realize at this juncture that the great work has not yet been finished. He should yield to the desire of his people and consent to serve them where he is so badly needed.

ONLY A DOG

There is a blind man in Fort Worth who has long been a familiar figure on the street corners. He sells daily papers every morning and evening, and is led from place to place by a dog, which seems to possess as much intelligence as a human being, although it hasn't the power of speech.

The dog's master's eyes are sightless, but the faithful little animal supplies the eyes for the man and conducts him to any part of the city in a manner that is marvelous. When the man wants to buy another supply of papers he shakes the chain and says a word into his master's face and leads him unerringly to whatever office the master indicated.

Perhaps it is necessary to cross the streets once or twice to get there, but the dog looks out for automobiles, street cars and other vehicles and shields his blind owner from danger.

Although successful fortunate in protecting his master from bodily harm in the crowded streets, the dog himself was not so fortunate today for while in the act of passing from one curb to another he was struck by a buggy wheel and badly injured about his hind legs. In considerable pain and walking on three legs, the dog showed no disposition to neglect his master after the accident, but continued to lead him from place to place in the morning's work was finished as if both would then slowly and homeward the dog limping and making little progress and the blind man groping his way behind him.—Dallas News.

He was only a dog, but he is doing a little more than a dog's part in the case he is taking of the one out of whose soul Gods blessed sunshine has been shut.

He could not speak the terrible anguish of his mind when the cruel wheels rolled over him. He cried out when he felt the grind, and he believed the end had come, but the thought of duty was uppermost in his mind.

He hopped off on three legs, still patiently leading the unfortunate attached to the other end of the string. There was a look of keen suffering in the patient eyes—a look that was almost akin to human intelligence, but the dog could not express what was in his mind. He did not lie down to lick the bruised places and whimper over the terrible hurt he had experienced. His only thought was his blind master—the half leading the blind.

It may be true that a dog has no feeling. But what do you call this particular instance of canine devotion? Instinct, did you say? No; if it had been instinct the first act of the dog would have been self-preservation. When he felt the grind of the wheels as would have abandoned his charge. But even as a little child, this suffering representative of the misused canine race led his helpless charge to a place of safety.

And what is the reward that comes to the canine tribe for its service and devotion to the human race? Ask Colonel Jim Moss.

Judge Bell is developing great strength in every portion of the state and down in South Texas he has pretty well set the woods on fire. The people of Texas cannot be diverted from the proper course by the raising of false issues. They recognize Judge Bell as the candidate standing for their best interests, and they are giving him a cordial and loyal support.

According to advices from Austin the chances of C. E. Gilbert for the democratic nomination as land commissioner are constantly growing brighter. The people of the state seem to think they have honored Commissioner Terrell sufficiently by giving him two terms. The third term idea is always repulsive to all democrats, for it is contrary to democratic precedent.

There is a howl going up from west Texas over the change made in common point territory by the railroads, just as The Telegram insisted would be the case when an association was organized at Dallas to bring about this result. It helps the jobbers of Fort Worth and Dallas, but it plays havoc with the wholesale interests that have been built up in the territory affected.

As David Graham Phillips did not assail Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey on the floor of the senate, the action of the senator in replying to Phillips from that exalted position seems somewhat incongruous. Phillips fired paper pellets at Bailey, and Bailey replied with senatorial thunder.

Candidate and Commissioner Colquitt now admits that he does not think he could do as much work in one hour as the other two railroad commissioners can accomplish in a week, but he still intimates rather broadly that he could give the other fellows a close run for their money.

The Colquitt boom does not appear to be making much headway in Kaufman county. It is said the Brooks sentiment in that neck of the woods is positively alarming.

President Roosevelt wants Sam Cowan on the interstate commerce commission, but Cowan declines. The cattlemen of Texas and the southwest should proceed to get busy.

Rain has fallen in south Texas, and the drought that has afflicted that section for the past three months has been dissipated. More than one inch of precipitation is reported from Houston.

Central Texas will make a fairly good corn crop this year, thanks to the big rains which have just dissipated the drought in that portion of the state.

Senator Hanger has finally decided not to be a candidate for re-election, and the state of Texas will lose the services of a valuable man in his voluntary retirement.

There would always be something doing in Texas if Judge Brooks were only in position to order out the state rangers and the "milsh."

"The Campbells are coming" is the slogan of Colonel Tom's crowd of enthusiasts, but the Bell ringers will soon have them going.

Tarrant county should send its best legislative material to Austin next year.

Candidate Bell wants it understood that he endorses and defends the present state administration, and the administration wants it understood that it is heart and soul for Bell for governor.—Tyler Courier.

Judge Bell is a democrat and knows no higher duty than to endorse and defend a democratic administration. In that respect at least he sets a shining example to some other people who call themselves democrats.

It is now only about five weeks until the state campaign will be over and if Colquitt and Brooks continue to lose strength during that time as they have in the last five weeks there will be nothing left but the jobs they are now holding, observes The Fort Worth Telegram. So far as chances of winning are concerned the campaign has long since been given up to Bell and Campbell and from the present drift of sentiment The Telegram might have added that within a few weeks the sole public duties of Judge Bell would consist of compiling an itemized statement of his campaign expenses for the state chairman.—Clarkeville Times.

And receiving the congratulations of his friends over the splendid victory he has won, Judge Charles K. Bell will be the next governor of Texas.

Rather than be muzzled by Gould and his trust associates, Tom Campbell had the backbone to resign a position that paid him $10,000 a year, and went on talking Bryan and free silver. They call him a demagogue, so they did James S. Hogg, and we say give us more demagogues of the Hogg and Campbell stripe.—Holland Progress.

The Houston Post is authority for the statement that Colonel Campbell retired from the management of the International and Great Northern railway for the simple reason that his contract had expired and his pay was stopped.

Judge Charles K. Bell came and saw and carried south west Texas before him. Everywhere enthusiastic crowds have listened to him and, impressed by the breadth of his views and the soundness of his logic, as well as by his frank and manly bearing and honest sincerity of purpose, have crowded around him to pledge their support. It is a foregone conclusion that Judge Bell will carry southwest Texas by an overwhelming majority.—San Antonio Express.

Some of the opposition papers are trying to persuade the people that Bell is losing strength, but it is the last desperate effort of the campaign. The Bell boom is steadily growing and will sweep the entire state.

Realizing that Judge Bell will have to make a hard fight in order to win the third highest position in the coming democratic state convention, the Fort Worth Telegram and other Bell organs have turned their batteries on Judge Brooks and from now on it may be expected that the honor of holding this position will be fiercely contested. At this writing Brooks seems to have the advantage.—Houston Post.

Judge Bell will have the first position when the primaries have been held, Campbell will be second, Brooks third, and the Post's man, Colquitt, will be away down at the very tail end of the gubernatorial procession.

Opinion in the democratic party as to Mr. Bryan's availability for renomination seems to boil down to

IDLERS NOTE BOOK

It is now the time of year for smart writers to turn their annual grist about the Fourth of July.

You will read clever essays about celebrating Independence day with firecrackers made by the gunpowder trust; going to the parks on street cars controlled by the traction syndicate; eating ice cream made by agents of the ice trust; hearing a patriotic address made by some lawyer who represents half a dozen trusts, and eating a picnic dinner in which sandwiches bought from the beef trust, pickles made by the pickle trust, sugar from the sugar trust, butter and cream from the dairy trust, and so on.

They would have you believe Independence day is a farce. Don't do it.

The little snub-nosed, freckle-faced boy who lives next door, who is always wearing a foot or a toe or a finger in a bandage, who will get up at half past four next Wednesday morning to set off a cannon cracker under your bedroom window, doesn't believe the Fourth of July has reached the farcical stage and his belief is worth more than all the combined cleverness of the miserable hack writers with the whole production of their cynical platitudes and feeble wit thrown in.

The boy will be a man some day and his belief that Independence day really means something may last even that long.

If it does, he will be a patriot and his country may one day call him to do something big.

Throbose Roosevelt is a fair writer, a passable ranchman, possibly he might be able to eke out a living for himself and his family as a business man, but it isn't for any of these qualities he was elected President by the biggest majority ever given by American citizens to one of their fellows.

Roosevelt is a patriot. Even his most unreasonable enemies admit it.

And that helps explain some.

OUR HOME POULTRY CORNER

P. H. C. wants to know what the trouble is with his chickens. Their legs give way. Notices something like ticks on them.

Answer.—If there is any evidence whatever of ticks try making them wear clocked stockings. The giving way of their legs is not alarming. You probably have pacing chickens instead of trotters, to which you have been accustomed. If you wish, try hoppers.

M. M.—How should young pea fowls be handled? Does it make any difference if my young turkeys are confined until 10 a. m. if the grass is wet? Can old turkeys sleep outside in winter?

Ans.—Too much care cannot be used in handling young pea fowl. They should always be carefully placed in the pod at night until they get big enough to run around. It is a good plan, while they are still young, to keep the vines covered at night, as it protects them from dampness. As to the time of keeping your young turkeys in we are not prepared to say. If they are Presbyterian turkeys they probably will thrive on restricted hours and a curfew schedule. It will not hurt Baptist turkeys to let them run in the wet grass. The last query depends on the sex. The mother turkeys should be carefully cared for in winter when they get too feeble to look out for themselves. Let the father turkeys stay out. Any old thing is good enough for father.

B. W.—What makes Leghorn pullers pale? Ans.—Late hours, probably. Make them get in by 10 o'clock and avoid feeding them bon bons. Physical culture will help their circulations.

E. K.—How can a crow be tamed if taken from the nest when young? How can you cut his tongue to make him talk?

Ans.—The lim up in the stable without food for three days. Starvation sounds cruel, but it is effective. After that approach him with food, taking care not to get within reach of his beak. Impress upon him that you have a stronger will power than he and concentrate your mind on the domination of thought over matter. You might also try reading him some of Alfred Austin's poetry. Second query: Don't try it. There is no talking enough in the world.

THE IDLER.

these two propositions: First, Mr. Bryan has become conservative; second, he has not become conservative enough to hurt.—New York Tribune.

We can see the great athletic event of next year in a meet between the school attended by Theodore Roosevelt Jr. and the one at which William Jennings Bryan II. is molding his young mind.—Chicago News.

Young Bryan should be careful how he tells about your father's buying clothes in foreign lands. If you are to be a regulation candidate nothing better than a $10 suit furnished by his favorite clothier, at Lincoln, Neb., will do for him.—Chicago News.

Mr. Bryan's Commoner may be pardoned if it passes to put itself on the head occasionally these days. Though outwardly it preserves its wonted calm, still that man who reads between the lines can see "I told you so" written all over its pages.—Chicago News.

Reporters over in Berlin are placing special significance on the fact that Mr. Bryan smiled when told of the growth of his Presidential boom. The Berlin press folks will learn, possibly, that the Bryan smile is copyrighted, also stereotyped, also chronic.—Washington Post.

But at the present time Mr. Bryan can congratulate himself on the most remarkable vindication ever given to a leader of the opposition by the party in power. And in view of this palpable fact the republicans who recognize the transformation, and are ready to acknowledge its meaning, are to be commended for their candor and courage.—Boston Herald.

The Constitution finds in the overwhelming recrudescence of Mr. Bryan a gratifying vindication of its own convictions and of its consistent and unwavering support of him in his Presidential campaigns. The millions spent to defeat him, and to delay the accounting from organized wealth that he demanded as champion of the people, are now one of the main sources of his strength, since the memory of their unholy use is rallying universal support to his standard. Confidence in the man rises more surely as the alignment and motives of his past antagonists are laid bare.—Atlanta Constitution.

VERIFIED THAT RING

MODERN THERAPEUTICS I went to a modern doctor to learn what it was wrong. I'd lately been off my fodder and life was no more a song. He felt my pulse, as they all do, he gazed at my outstretched tongue; He took off my coat and woskit and harked at each wheezing lung. He fed me a small glass penstank with figures upon the side, And this was his final verdict when all of my man he'd spild: "Do you eat fried eggs? Then quit it. You don't? Then hurry and eat 'em. Along with some hay that was cut in May. There are no other foods to beat 'em. Do you walk? Then stop instant— For exercise will not do. For people with whom it doesn't agree— And this is the rule for you: Just quit whatever you do do and begin whatever you don't. For what you don't do may agree with you As whatever you do don't." You, said the modern doctor, Tradition be double darned! What the oldsters knew was nothing compared to the things we've learned. There's nothing in this or that thing that's certain in every case. Any more than a single bonnet's becoming to every face. It's all in the diagnosis that tells us the patient's fit. The modern who knows his business is up to a hat of tricks.

Do you eat roast pork? Then stop it. You don't? Then get after it quickly. For the long-eared ass gives the laugh to grass And delights in the weed that's prickly. Do you sleep with the windows open? Then batten them good and tight And swallow the same old fetid air. Through all the snoozesome night. Just quit whatever you do do. And do whatever you don't. For what you don't may agree with you As whatever you do do don't.

—Strickland W. Gillian in Judge.

QUAKER REFLECTIONS

Some people are of no more account than the thermometer on a pleasant day. Many a man is out for the rocks who doesn't know anything about geology.

Talk is cheap, unless you happen to be a basket player, and talk back to the umpire. When the doctor's son becomes an undertaker he may be justified in saying that he takes after his father.

The trouble with the people who claim it is never late to mend is that they are never in a hurry to begin.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

You never hear any religious discussions on a fishing party. When the children's vacation begins everybody else's in the house ends. It's funny the way a woman's figure moves up and down her according to the fashion.

A queer thing about a girl is the surer she is you are in love with her the surer she isn't about being in love with you.

If a man has a half-dollar he isn't sure whether it is good or not. It is a sign it is going into the church collection plate.—New York Press.

Material is supplied—this says, measured lengths of the paper. Paste is paid for by the and as the boxes, when they are finished, are damp from the moisture of the ink, they are constantly going at the worker's before which they have to be. These boxes are paid for at the two pence per sheet, and in a room, they lie on every table carry them in their pockets to universally needed, unavailably. Thousands are employed in trade, and it is interesting to the woman who works with a machine.

An inquiry is to be set on for hours of work, rates of pay as conditions of health of those engaged in home production. In England the same social conditions contracts are involved. Sweating industries makes the very serious, but the government will not do anything to remedy it. The outcome of the sweating investigation in Berlin has given a stimulus to the workers in some of the workers under legislative trial and regulation.

A bill has been introduced in English houses of commons for sessions and will be reintroduced regarding out-workers, but it is feared that it will do very little to obviate some of the evils upon home work. It attacks the very side of the question, as standard below which conditions should not fall, but it does not seem forthcoming to show that the worker has been visited, and it is difficult to follow the shifting of the workers under the conditions which will never get upon set at all.

LETTERING HER BATTLE CRY. Mrs. Roe, Secretary of the Votes-for-Women Association, a Red-Hot Captain of Femininity Militant.

LONDON, June 29.—Woman's suffrage in England is becoming one of the great questions of the day. Not only men like Keir Hardie, the leader of the labor party in parliament, but a majority of the members of the present house of commons have already committed themselves to the principle, and it is predicted that before the present government in England goes out of office women will have the right to vote.

THE ARRANGMENT

Six months before the first gun was fired upon Fort Sumter, Rev. Dr. Robert Nassau, then a young Presbyterian minister, set off to act as missionary in Africa. He spent all the years since then in Kamerun, the German Congo Dominion in West Africa. Dr. Nassau has for years witnessed the horrible atrocities of the white men upon the unfortunate natives, and has returned to New York with the report that conditions have not improved despite the soft promises of the royal slave-masters of Europe.

claiming my rights about so that they may not lapse. Belgium possesses the right to suppress except those which emanate from me. "It has been said at various times that atrocities of many kinds have taken place in Kamerun and Congo. I have appeared in sensational newspapers have all been maliciously exaggerated. I will not try to deny that the natives may have been subjected to injustice and sufferings, but only such which are inseparable from all human work.

It will be seen that King Leopold doesn't say he will investigate the charges of cruelty which have recently been made in Kamerun and Congo. He says he will investigate the charges of cruelty which have recently been made in Kamerun and Congo. He says he will investigate the charges of cruelty which have recently been made in Kamerun and Congo.

PLACING BLAME FOR THE KONGO HORRORS

BY REV. DR. ROBERT H. NASSAU, Presbyterian Missionary in Kamerun, German Congo Dominion in West Africa. It is a great mystery to me why the civilized nations of the earth permit the atrocities upon the natives of the Congo to go on. There is no pit in hell that can adequately punish the money-mad king Leopold of Belgium for his crime. The cruelty of the soldiers of the Kaiser is almost incredible.

disappears or his hand is severed. A white trader will seize a good-looking native woman. If her husband or brother objects death will be his lot. The allotment of work is always at the maximum. Failure means death by torture at the hands of brutal soldiers. Natives who are given authority are more brutal than the whites. One black lieutenant murdered no less than ten men and women who had failed to gather the specified amount of rubber. He was tried, but the governor excused him after he had testified that all who were killed had refused to work at his personal command.

KAISER PLANS TO VISIT IN NORWAY. Haakon Plans Great Reception for the Emperor. BERLIN, June 30.—The Kaiser has now definitely arranged his program for the summer. As usual he is going to spend a great deal of his time traveling. To make up for last year, when his friendship for King Oscar forbade him to visit Norway, he is going to spend the middle of this year in a rather long one and he may even go as far north as Cape North.

GERMANS QUIT EATING MEAT

Thousands of Workmen Turn Vegetarians. BLOW TO DEALERS. American Product of Packing Houses Cannot Be Given Away in Fatherland.

(BY MALCOLM CLARKE.) BERLIN, June 30.—The interest of the public in the American meat scandal continues to grow, and it has now gone so far that it is absolutely impossible to sell or even give away any canned meats bearing American labels. The poor people of Berlin who formerly were large buyers of corned beef, have entirely given up using it, and hundreds of families are now living entirely on a vegetarian diet. It is not thought that the adoption of the new bill just passed by the American house of representatives will make any particular difference, because confidence in American business methods is absolutely shaken, and the impression prevails that even with the increased number of inspectors, the inspection will be worthless as the packers will very soon corrupt inspectors with money.

RICH GIRL WEDS. English Society Centers Interest in Nobility Marriage. BERLIN, June 30.—It is difficult in one's own mind not to draw some strong contrasts on the artificial state of our present social conditions. Recently at the popular Church of St. George, Hanover Square, was celebrated a wedding round which I suppose more public interest has centered than the marriage of any but royal couples for many long days. Thousands of people lined the streets between the duke of Devonshire's house and Hanover Square, in order to catch a glimpse of the bride, who has the reputation of being the richest girl in the country.

FIGHT FOR POSTALS. Japanese Have Riot to Purchase Cards Showing Battles. BERLIN, June 30.—An enterprising German firm has made a vast amount of money by manufacturing a series of postal cards issued by the Japanese government. Each card shows a scene of one of the great battles during the Russo-Japanese war, and as the Japanese are a very patriotic people the whole issue was sold a few hours after it was placed on sale. Double files of people a mile long were waiting outside of the post-offices in Tokio as soon as they opened. At one place the police lost control of the crowd, who began a desperate struggle to gain admittance. A temporary fence which had been erected around the postoffice, was trampled down and the people climbed up on the walls of the houses to the roof. In such crowds that several of these caved in. To put an end to the disorder it was necessary first to call the fire department which turned the hoses on the struggling people and as even this proved useless, troops were called out and charged the crowd with fixed bayonets.

Another series of postal cards is being manufactured as fast as the press can turn them out.

RAILROADED TO MADHOUSE BY EMPEROR OF GERMANY

Countess Von Wedel-Berard. They separated and she then married Lieutenant Schlichter of the German army. Learning that his wife corresponded with the emperor, the lieutenant sought a divorce. The countess received from the Kaiser an income of $4,500 a year, but some time ago they became estranged and, offended by the emperor's coolness, his former friend threatened to write a book exposing some of the Hohenzollerns' family skeletons. A former book from her pen had told some startling facts about court life, and exposed a number of scandals concerning Count von Waldsee. Terrified by her threats, the Kaiser, when his emissaries failed to dissuade her from her design, had her placed in an asylum for life, an act that can be easily accomplished in Germany.

MUCK-RAKERS DIGGING UP NEW JERSEY GRAFT

Special to The Telegram. TOM RIVER, N. J., June 29.—Muck rakers have been striking graft in a tea cup in this little town. Following their investigation seventeen officials, among them highly respected citizens, have been indicted for booting county funds, the charges ranging from perjury to the illegal acceptance of money. Of the board of freeholders, ten are under indictment, including the director of the board and another, Joseph R. Cox Jr. Three former freeholders are in the stretch, one in Mr. H. L. Disbrow, a wealthy man of this town. Other officials are indicted and still others who have confessed to the misappropriation of funds have been sued by the state of limitations. The investigation has shown that grafting has been rampant here for years. Starting with a balance of $10,000 in the bank, the freeholders have reduced it until the county owes $75,000. Among the startling discoveries are: One freeholder sold the county number from an estate for 50 per cent more than was paid for the estate. He supposed to meet about twice a month and to receive $2 per day for attendance, some of the freeholders are charged with collecting as high as thirty-five days' pay in one month. A steel bridge that cost $3,500 was sold to the county for $12,000. Six of the indicted men are church deacons, one a postmaster and another a highly respected merchant. Politics has not figured in the investigation, as the grafters belong to both of the big parties.

BOY A GREAT ARTIST

"Tadde" the Craze Among Art Lovers of Paris. BY PAUL VILLIERS. Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) PARIS, June 30.—A 16-year-old boy artist is just now the fashionable craze of Paris. His name is Theodorus Styca, or, as he is more generally called, "Tadde" Styca. He is the son of Jan Styca, whose remarkable painting, "Golgatha," created such a sensation in America a few months ago and has now been sold for cutting up into theater curtains. "Tadde" Styca is pronounced to be the greatest artist prodigy which the world has seen since the days of the Great Italian masters. He has been exhibiting in the salon for the last three years, but it is only this year that his work woke the public to a realization of his extraordinary powers.

$315 TO SEE SHOW

High Price Paid to Swell Ellen Terry Jubilee Fund. Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) LONDON, June 30.—The Dowager Lady Cook (née Tennessee Coffin of New York), widow of the late Sir Francis Cook, is once more in the public eye. She has been everything by turns—a spirit medium, a lady stock broker, an advocate of woman's rights, an author, now she comes out as a supporter of the Ellen Terry Jubilee fund. Lady Cook expressed the greatest disgust at the fact that in spite of cables and letters and the influence of the Frohman, only $1,500 came from Americans to swell the fund for the great actress. Although she was lying ill in bed she sent a special messenger to Drury Lane theater on the day of the jubilee matinee asking for a box. There was only one small one left, and for this she sent a check for $315.

Your Liver

You cannot possibly enjoy good health when the liver is inactive and the bowels constipated. You must keep the liver active. You must have daily action of the bowels. Ask your doctor if this is not true. Ask him at the same time if he knows a better laxative than Ayer's Pills. All vegetable, sugar-coated. Dose, only one pill.

Prominent Educational Institutions

It is Superior Teachers that make a Conservatory Famous

YOU WANT THE BEST FOR YOUR CHILD

The greatest American Pianist is Edward Baxter Berry. The greatest Violinist of the South is Chas. D. Hann. The most successful Vocalist in the South-west is Katherine Stewart. These famous musicians are at the head of departments in the Landon Conservatory and are assisted by thoroughly trained teachers of marked inborn gifts for imparting instruction, each teacher being enthusiastic in the work of teaching, and each has a strong magnetic and forceful character, being teachers "by the Grace of God," as the Germans say. This shows how Landon Conservatory has earned a National Reputation, and has attracted students from thirty-three states during its seven years of wonderful growth and remarkable success. The director has furnished four teachers for a well-known conservatory in New York, twelve to the Randolph-Macon Colleges of Virginia. The presidents of colleges in the Southwest call for many times more teachers than it has graduates to supply. Landon Conservatory has a Home Life with active religious influence. CHAS. W. LANDON, Director, Author of Landon Methods. Eighth session opens September 31, 1906. Address: Desk W, LANDON CONSERVATORY, Box 873, Dallas, Texas.
