Where Autos Are Dashed to Pieces But No One Is Ever Hurt

PARIS, Oct. 1.—The toy exposition now being held at the summer Alcazar on the Champs Elysees is a remarkably attractive display. There under the auspices of M. Lepine, the popular prefect of police, the inventive faculties of the purveyors of amusement for children are brought to the notice of the public, already thinking out the problem of Christmas and New Year's gifts for their little ones.

Mock Auto Wreck

Many of the articles known are closely connected with up-to-date events. Consequently automobiles play a great part in the exposition. Toy cars are exact copies from the full sized machines are displayed in proportion and the frequent motor car wrecks have provided the inventor with the idea of showing an automobile which after being wound up, smoothly pursues its dashing way for some distance and then something goes and it suddenly wags with the machinery, leaps into the air and falls to all points of the compass to await the appearing hand of the manipulator, who can in a few moments replace the scattered pieces and have the car ready for another wreck.

The profile is obtained by a double frame of metal which are numerous strips of pasted paper projecting from the side when according to the protuberances encountered and gives a remarkably accurate profile of the outline of which may be easily transferred to paper.

Hundreds Without Homes or Provisions—Relief Work Rushed to Aid

STORM SITUATION

Heavy rains cause misery among thousands driven from homes by recent storms. Nation asked to help relieve suffering by sending supplies to stricken districts. Forty crores on Monluis Island reported starving. Negro looters caught robbing wrecked houses arrested. Railroad and telegraph companies hindered in repairing damage by downpour.

Hundreds Homeless

On Dauphin Island there are 500 people homeless with only three small buildings in which they can obtain shelter. In spite of the fact that two relief expeditions were sent out yesterday, there were only enough provisions for little more than one day and additional supplies were sent down early today. While there was no suffering in Mobile proper, the urgent need at many points on the southern part of the bay and assistance for these people will be gratefully received.

Negro Looters Arrested

Arrests were made at some of the lower coast resorts today of negroes who were caught looting some of the wrecked houses and it has been determined to send additional details of militia to Coden and other points near by to protect property. Word was received last night that thirty to forty Crores on Monluis Island are destitute and are in imminent danger of starvation. It is doubtful, however, if anything can be done for them before tomorrow. Citizens of Mobile have undertaken relief measures with energy and are sending food and clothing to the stricken points as rapidly as possible.

Lumber Loss $10,000,000

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 1.—It is now believed that the loss to the lumber interests in the storm here is $10,000,000. It is almost impossible for any person who has not been thru the storm-swept district to comprehend the extent to which the country has been swept of pine lumber. Tens of thousands of trees of the finest quality have been completely blown from the shore to places 100 miles in the interior. It is possible that some of this may be saved, but much of it is lost beyond recovery. The number of logs that have been carried out to sea or driven into inaccessible swamps is enormous. The great mass of trees that had been weakened by being tapped for turpentine were leveled with the ground and dealers in turpentine are very gloomy over the outlook.

NEGRO SCHOLARS SHOW SCARCITY

Little Advantage Taken of Educational Opportunity

The annual report of County Superintendent Ramsey, showing the condition of the public schools in Tarrant county has been completed and will be forwarded to the state superintendent Monday evening.

Among other things the report shows there is a lack of interest shown in educational matters by the negro population outside the city of Fort Worth. Two districts in the county are without schools for negroes, notwithstanding the fact that there are quite a number of negro children in those districts and that there is a school fund provided to maintain schools in those districts for negroes.

Referring to the fact, Superintendent Ramsey says in his report: "There is very little interest shown by the negro in school work. The patrons seem to realize but one responsibility—that they owe but one thing to their children—that is, to furnish them with food, raiment and shelter."

The report, which covers the session of 1933-34, shows a total enrollment for that term of 5,320 white children, 2,997 males and 2,323 females. The total enrollment of negroes was only 264 in the entire county outside of Fort Worth, 123 males and 141 females. The total number of white teachers employed was 127, of which number 46 were males and 78 females, the aggregate number of days taught being 13,687.

The value of all school property in the county (outside of Fort Worth) is shown by the report to be as follows: White, $58,223.85; negro, $1,350. Improvements added during the year, $5,687.85. Value of school furniture, $10,948.85; value of libraries and apparatus, $2,438.

Money expended during the year for educational purposes footed up $45,734.55. Of this amount there was received from the state and county funds, including a balance left over from the previous year, the sum of $34,858.77, the amount of local taxes collected being $9,560.98, and the amount of tuition collected was $1,314.79.

There was paid to male teachers during the year $17,140.49 and to female teachers $21,802.15; total paid teachers, $38,942.64. Fuel and other expenses were $4,733.77.

The amount of money received by negroes from the state and county funds was $1,987.21 and from other sources $217.94. Of this money $1,750 was paid female teachers and $139.66 expended for other purposes.

MEDECS SCHOOL OPEN TUESDAY

Year Begins at New Fifth Street Building

ARE TO HAVE HOSPITAL

Accommodation Will Be Ready for Fifty Patients Within Thirty Days. Enrollment Shows Gain

With brighter prospects and larger enrollment than for any period since its beginning the medical department of the Fort Worth university will open its fall term at its new $65,000 Fifth street building Tuesday.

Opening exercises will be held in the assembly hall at the new building at 9 o'clock in the morning. There will be addresses by Mayor Harris, President Fielder of the university and members of the medical department faculty. The assembly hall is one of the features of the new building and seats 300 persons.

Announcement is also made that the hospital in the new building, which has fifty beds and will be looked after by Dr. George Thomas and four nurses, will be ready within thirty days. This hospital is in the basement and on the first floor, and is expected to provide cases for clinical work at the college.

Admission to the hospital will be free to all accident cases and any other cases which the authorities will accept. Cases like chronic rheumatism or other diseases which offer no opportunity for special study, will be rejected.

The opening of the hospital free to accident cases is expected to greatly relieve both the city and county authorities of many embassies which has existed heretofore in handling cases which belonged in the province of neither, but which from a humane standpoint needed immediate treatment.

A case like this occurred last week in which a farmer was injured by a Santa Fe train outside Tarrant county, brought to Fort Worth, and for this reason that he came in the province of neither, city and county physicians refused to accept his case, which was finally attended to by private surgeons. Incidents like this have caused considerable unjustified criticism toward the city and county authorities. It is believed the arrangements now being made at the medical college will provide for this contingency.

BAILEY PLANS FOR CITY CHURCHES

COMING DEBATE POORLY GROUPED

Greenville Speech Last. Until Next Saturday

Special to The Telegram. GREENVILLE, Texas, Oct. 1.—A crowd of several thousand people is here this afternoon to hear Senator Bailey, who speaks here at 8 o'clock this afternoon in the court house. Bailey speaks in defense of his public and private record and, in expectation of answering critics, Senator Bailey arrived at 12:30 o'clock over the Cotton Belt from Fort Worth. Was met at the train by Judge L. A. Clark, State Executive Committeeman Harry Carpenter, B. Q. Evans, Judge J. S. Terrell and other dignitaries.

Senator Bailey stated to a representative of the press that after the Greenville speech he would not accept of the invitation to speak at 8 o'clock after the debate in Houston Saturday night.

Mr. Bailey is securing data regarding the Harris County Court House Improvement Club and is believed that he is carefully planning his arguments to be made in debate with General M. M. Crane.

Among visitors from Dallas to hear Senator Bailey speak today is Judge E. B. Terrell, Dallas. A number of country residents are in Greenville to hear Mr. Bailey's defense.

"Black Patti" Troubadours

"Sissieretta Jones, better known perhaps as 'Black Patti,' is the star of a company of colored performers. She has a well-cultivated soprano voice of good range and there is much natural sweetness in her tones, particularly those of her middle and lower register. She sings quite a number of selections—both classical and otherwise—each being received with due appreciation and loudly applauded."

Among the other features is a farcical comedy and a long olio of variety performance. The most laughable and laughable absurdity entitled, "A Royal Coon." There is little plot, but this shortcoming is made up for by large quantities of laughs and a smartly-dressed musical numbers, the latter being particularly well rendered by "Jolly" John Larkins, "The Giant Premier of Colored Comedians," and an exceptionally drilled chorus is said to be the best which has been heard in a New York theater this season.

"Black Patti" Troubadours tonight at 8:15 o'clock at Greenwall's opera house.

"McFadden's Row of Flats" Rebuilt
"McFadden's Row of Flats" has been rebuilt. In lieu of any possible old ideas, the brightest, newest things imaginable have been introduced, to such an extent that the new revival is practically different in detail. Recently composed music, new songs and specialties have been added as well as a number of modern electrical devices. It will be the attraction at Greenwall's opera house, Tuesday matinee and night, Oct. 2.

"The King of Tramps"
"The King of Tramps" which comes to Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee and night, Oct. 3, contains nothing whatever that can offend the most exacting. Special matinee prices, 25c; night prices, 25c, 35c and 50c.

Tim Murphy is to be the attraction at Greenwall's opera house Thursday night, Oct. 4, when he will be seen in the character of Jason Green in that delightful comedy, "Old Innocence," which some seasons ago formed the principal offering in his repertoire, and which was one of the very best pieces of its kind before the public.

FIRST WOMAN TO USE A HAMMER

Dr. Cotton Preaches on Incident of Jael and Sisera

Rev. Dr. Cotton, the rector of Trinity church, preached from Judges v. 29: "The stars in their courses fought against Sisera," Sunday night. In the course of his sermon he said in such a bloodthirsty recital as this:

"And Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said unto him, turn in my Lord, turn in to me; fear not. And when he had turned in her tent she covered him with a mantle and he said unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink, for I am thirsty, and she opened a bottle of milk and gave him drink and covered him.

"Then Jael Heber's wife, took a nail of the tent and took a hammer in her hand and went softly unto him and smote the nail into his temple and fastened him unto the ground, for he was fast asleep and weary. So he died.

"Beloved, may we not well ask why the church requires us to read in her pulpits the narrative of such a killing? Of course there are more reasons than one, but does it not remind us that sometimes religion finds herself in very bad company? Religion, or the tie that binds us to the source of all things, and first principle of the universe, undoubtedly the most powerful impulse of our human nature, and when it operates as a motive, controlling and under the control of earthly purity, truth, righteousness, holiness and love, all things are well with us, and we are in our measure and stature perfect men and women.

Over-Developed Religion

"But let us always beware of that very human fallacy, called abstraction, and development of our part of our nature in separation and of exclusion from all others.

"A perfect man will be, of course, a religious man. But he must also be a moral man. He must also be a lover of truth. He must also be physically well-favored. Now, are these qualities ever in their due form and relationship? Never.

"A religious man may be a man weak of body, full of infirmities, a religious man may be a selfish man. A religious man may be an immoral man. There are true and false religions. There are bloodthirsty and refined religions.

"Religion is often found in company with lust—in company with a propensity to lying—in company with a past from carnal pleasures and the true object of the grace of God as bestowed through the sacrament and offices of the all the different elements of our common nature and character that men may take knowledge of us that we are children of God both in likeness and image.

"The children of Israel mentioned in our text were intensely religious. Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, was a believer in Jehovah as the one true and living God. But it is terrible to contemplate the awful conception of her mind, the very and in deed thought that God was such an one as herself, blindly, bloodthirsty, revengeful and cruel.

"Under the more favorable conditions and influences of our modern civilization and culture we have a sweeter, juster and grander idea of God, but still, beloved, even we need the lesson of our text, to remind us that all is not well with us unless that idea and sentiment is associated with 'whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report.'

Christians Who Are Hypocrites

"Unfortunately we know Christians who are great liars, great hypocrites, and narrow minded souls, who do not compare favorably with men of the world who make no profession of religion.

"My brethren, these things ought not to be. Religion ought not to be associated with brute force, and a persecuting spirit. Religion ought not to be associated with a blinking of the eye to the new truth that God, the Holy Ghost, is ever revealing to the world. Religion ought not to be associated with superstition, vanity, pride, revenge, back-biting and evil-speaking, envy, hatred and lies, and all unchristian and unbecoming things. We need the lesson of our text, to remind us that all is not well with us unless that idea and sentiment is associated with 'whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report.'

Negro Slashed Frightfully and Alleged Assassin Escapes

Houston, Texas, Oct. 1.—Last night between 11 o'clock, Chaneyville, a suburb of Houston on the Washington road, was thrown into a state of excitement over a murder in which the throat of Katie Dennis, colored, was slashed from ear to ear by a fugitive, colored, named Winston Drummond, colored, 18 now a fugitive, being chased by the police. The place is inhabited largely by negroes.

Her throat was cut to the bone from side to side with a pocket knife. She died instantly. The police received a telephone message and men were hurriedly sent to the scene, but they were unable up to a late hour to overtake the fugitive.

TERRIBLE ECZEMA ON LITTLE BOY

Mouth and Eyes Covered With Crusts—Face Itched Most Fearfully—Hands Pinned Down to Prevent Scratching

MIRACULOUS CURE BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"When my little boy was 11 months old, he had eczema. The sores extended so quickly over the whole body that we at once called in the doctor. We then went to another doctor, but he could not help him, and in our despair we went to a third one. Matters became so bad that he had regular holes in his cheeks, large enough to put a finger into. The food he took to be given with a spoon, for his mouth was covered with crusts as thick as a finger, and whenever he opened his mouth they began to bleed and suppurate. He did also his eyes. Hands, arms, chest, and back, in short the whole body, was covered over and over. We had no rest by day or night. Whenever he was laid in his bed, he had to pin his hands down, otherwise he would scratch his face, and make an open sore. I think his face must have itched most fearfully.

"We finally thought nothing could help, and I had made up my mind to send my wife and the child to Europe, hoping that the sea air might cure him, otherwise he was to be put under good medical care there. But, Lord be blessed, matters came differently, and we soon saw a miracle. A friend of ours spoke about Cuticura. We made a trial with Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Balm, and within ten days or two weeks we noticed a decided improvement. Just as quickly as the sickness had appeared, it also began to disappear, and within ten weeks the child was absolutely well, and his skin was smooth and white as ever before.

Supports J. S. Napier to Succeed Him as Commander

Commander E. W. Taylor of R. E. Lee Camp, U. C. V., has returned home from a trip east and presided at the regular meeting of the camp Sunday.

In calling the meeting to order he took occasion to refer to his trip and to say that it did his heart good to get back among the old boys who wore the gray when they were "young and in their prime."

After the routine opening Comrade J. M. Smith, of a Sterling Police Camp, Dallas, was introduced by Comrade C. C. Cummings, who spoke in complimentary terms of him as a man and a soldier who was a member of the staff of General K. M. Van Zandt. Comrade Smith responded and extended an invitation for one camp to attend the reunion at Dallas, Oct. 25 and 26.

J. H. Howell of Bowling Green, Ky., who served with the great raider, John H. Morgan, was called to the platform by Commander Taylor and made an interesting talk on the days when he rode with Morgan. Charles Anderson of Belton also related his experience as a Confederate soldier.

Commander Taylor called the attention of members to the importance of a canvass for membership. "Every old soldier who fought for camp honors," said a member of some camp and every one in this district should be a member of R. E. Lee Camp. "Recent," he said, "old Confederate soldiers had died and been buried without assistance from the camp and without the honors due them as veterans because they were members of no camp. This he said, should not be, and he hoped every member would get a move on himself and bring the boys within the fold, where they would find sympathy and welcome.

A letter of thanks was read by Adjutant McConnell from Miss Louise Berny, who had been elected sponsor for the camp at the Dallas reunion. The letter was read by Comrade C. C. Cummings and he would do the talking for Uncle Jesse, who was agent for the members of the late Judge J. H. Reagan, and he read several extracts from the book that were full of interest and value.

A motion was made that R. E. Lee Camp attend the Dallas reunion in a body and it was carried.

On motion a bill of $5 for repairs on the piano used at the camp was allowed.

MALONE, Texas, Oct. 1.—The cotton platform at the Trinity and Brazos Valley railroad, together with 121 bales of cotton, was destroyed by fire here Sunday afternoon. The fire broke out in the early morning, succeeded in saving two flat cars loaded with cotton, they being pushed away from the flames.

They also saved twenty-nine bales from the platform before the fire gained much headway. How the flames originated is not known.

The loss is very heavy, especially since Saturday's advance in the cotton market, when quotations went up from $1.25 to $1.50 per bale.

The cotton had been purchased by local buyers representing several firms and was to have been shipped soon.

The Tobacco That Made Chewing Popular

Man's fondness for chewing tobacco is created and popularized by the tobacco produced in the famous Piedmont tobacco belt. Only choice selections of this well matured, thoroughly cured leaf are used in making SCHNAPPS. That's why SCHNAPPS requires and takes a smaller amount of sweetening than any other kind—and that's why SCHNAPPS has a wholesome, stimulating and satisfying effect on chewers.

There are many imitations of SCHNAPPS claiming to be "just as good," but without the flavor or quality that has made SCHNAPPS sales more than all similar tobaccos.

Schnapps

It is made in the Reynolds factories, famous for producing the best chewing tobacco, by clean, sanitary processes, under the same direction, since 1875, of men who have made the business a life study. They are the largest and best equipped flat plug factories in the world and are situated in the very center of the world's greatest chewing tobacco district.

If you've never chewed SCHNAPPS, now is the time to get acquainted with the cleanest, most healthful, stimulating and wholesome form in which tobacco can be used. Do not accept imitations.

FEAR OF RIDICULE: It strikes me that of all human dealings, satire is the very lowest and most mean and common. It is the equivalent in words for what bullying is in deeds, and no more bespeaks a clever man than the other does a brute one. These two wretched tricks do not differ in their nature, for the deep common sense of our nature tells us that no man of a genial heart or of any spread of mind can take pride in either. And the good man may commit the one fault or the other, now and then, by way of outlet, he is sure to have compunctions soon and to scorn himself more than the sufferer.—Thackeray.

A bridegroom of 27 failed to appear at the altar at the appointed time the other day to wed a bride of 33. His explanation to the reporters was that he feared his friends would "make fun of him" for marrying a woman several years older than himself. Fear of ridicule has done what the opposition of his family could not have done—made a moral coward of him in the matter nearest his heart. Next to the stings of a bad conscience, the derision of one's fellows is about the most painful of moral afflictions.

Human nature is so constituted that it rejoices in a measure of opposition, and it is strengthened by combat. There are men who take an honest and perfectly natural delight in being attacked. They feel the fittest amid a storm of denunciation, as the oak seems proudest when the winds shake it. But ridicule falls on the soul as a blast from the desert. Mere ridicule affects only the liberty; it may leave the spirit untouched. Derision may try the very resources of the soul and shake it in its citadel.

A scornful laugh will break up a baby girl too young to understand language, and make a life-long enemy out of a loyal-hearted dog. There is a special place for ridicule in destroying vicious dogmas and in ridiculing pretense and hypocrisy. But even there it should be used as Taine's familiar phrase—"respect the man who 'wrestles the dogma.'" The pity of it all is that so many good and generous impulses are repressed for fear of incurring this terrible punitive force, and that when men are actually true to themselves they are made to feel that they are the most ridiculous.

It takes a spirit of exceptional poise and greatness to stand unmoved in a Man, sneering and grinning faces. In fact, but of one only laughing at the gift of laughter seems to man bend itself to Satanic service. Every physician knows that we may increase bodily suffering and even enrage the very diseases we most dread by continually dwelling upon our bodily condition. On the other hand, we may encourage our health-power by expelling discordant thought or any other enemy of health and happiness from the mind, as one would eject a thief from his house.

The mental conditions that govern success are precisely the same as those that govern health and happiness. Success is largely a creation of the mind. If we would succeed we must frame the mind for success. Our thoughts must be of success, not failure.

A stream cannot rise higher than its source, and even Raphael could not paint the face of Christ with Satan in his mind for a model. If we have dwelt upon the dark side and lived in the shadows, the brain is incapable of producing bright, helpful mental pictures.

How can one expect to find success and happiness when one is going in the opposite direction, constantly feeding the mind with visions of disaster and failure? The mansprings of all effective effort is hope. If hope is strangled by gloomy forebodings there is no incentive left. You can anticipate failure and disaster so long that your brain is absolutely incapable of giving off anything but morbid thoughts.

You increase discord by admitting its reality, just as you increase happiness by denying its reality. The things which make you happy. So by dwelling upon and anticipating failure you invite it and cause success to fly from you. If we persistently shut out every thought that discourages or depresses, and keep the brain active and bright, the condition, then the brain cells will be clear to think and plan and the body strong, active and able to carry out the brain's dictates.

The mind that is unclouded by the cobwebs of fear and expected failure, and that seizes upon every passing opportunity or advantage, will open the door to success. Indeed, the possession of such a spirit as this is success itself. No material treasures that any man may acquire can compare with the treasures of a hopeful, healthful mind.

AN AMERICAN FAMILY PICNIC: Read about the Roosevelt family picnic the other day? Well, the Roosevelts' big and little, from father down to little Kermit, got up early in the morning and started snatching a hasty breakfast, filled the big lunch basket and started off an old fashioned family picnic. The family piled into a big row boat and the picnic started in the morning. Nobody went on this picnic but the Roosevelts.

By and by they came to a fine, grassy shaded picnic ground, up the bay, and the boys jumped out before the boat got in just as boys always do. And there was swimming and bathing and playing ball and water on another and fun galore. When luncheon time came the boys made a picnic of it, and the big and little, from father down to little Kermit, got up early in the morning and started snatching a hasty breakfast, filled the big lunch basket and started off an old fashioned family picnic.

When luncheon time came the boys made a picnic of it, and the big and little, from father down to little Kermit, got up early in the morning and started snatching a hasty breakfast, filled the big lunch basket and started off an old fashioned family picnic. The matter of Green getting his name on the official Texas ballot as a candidate for governor will not be passed upon by the supreme court until next month. And in the meantime, Lyon is rapidly shaping up his fighting forces.

If President Palma is unable to run the thing that is designated as a Cuban government, he will find that Uncle Sam can pacify that turbulent island and keep it pacified. Annexation is the only sensible thing to be considered under the circumstances. The heirs of the late Russell Sage have finally managed to settle their differences outside the courts by the widow agreeing to double the bequests to each beneficiary. That kind of a compromise is calculated to prevent litigation in almost every instance.

Secretary Taft has gone to Cuba to try to straighten out the troubles existing down there, and it is expected his presence will add great weight to the suggestions that have just been made by this government. The Texas mayors here last week were delighted with Fort Worth and their experience here. And that is the same old story that continually reaches Fort Worth ears. All Texas is proud of Fort Worth. Responses from the cattlemen on that fat stock show are coming in very slowly, and some steps should at once be taken to inject a little more ginger into the situation.

Fort Worth wants all the cotton this year that is produced in Fort Worth trade territory. Farmers should bear this in mind and study the many advantages of the Fort Worth market. Colorado democrats have again nominated Alva Adams for governor of that state, and this means a revival of the old bitter fight that was witnessed in that quarter two years ago. President Roosevelt tells the Cubans that unless they at once proceed to get good he will find a method of making them real good, and President Roosevelt means business. Senator Tillman brings his pitch-journal, and there are many who would like to get a glimpse of that historic instrument. District Attorney Jerome is a critic nomination for governor of New York.

Among the Exchanges

The dispatches say that 200 tramps have congregated in Fort Worth. Tramps will not congregate in a dead town.—Cleburne Review. Nor will they be permitted to long remain in a real live town.

The vagrancy law could be enforced in Hill county much more effectively than is being done to help in saving the cotton crop. There is no reason why farmers should have to go to the cotton pickers when there are hundreds of able-bodied loafers on the streets of the various towns, who have no visible means of support.—Hillsboro Mirror.

The vagrancy law should be vigorously enforced from one end of Texas to the other. There is no valid reason why every able-bodied loafer on the street should not be put to work.

Of course the wicked republicans would insist upon making government the ownership of the issue in the national campaign in 1908 in certain contingency. In 1880 the presidential nominee of the democrats—one of the most popular of our times—has given birth—casually remarked that "the tariff is a local issue," and that "sententious pronouncement" of the republicans for all it was worth, and more. The remark has been many times repeated since, but it proved to be a very judicious campaign slogan in 1880.—San Antonio Express.

The fact that Colonel Bryan is willing to drop the government ownership issue does not signify that he will be able to do so. The republican leaders will frame his declaration and keep it suspended where all the country can continually view it.

The news companies are going to outlaw and destroy all the bandit news. No longer can the small boy read of the heroic deeds of Deadwood Dick or Jesse James or the Young Brothers. It is hard to see what the messenger boy will do to pass his time; and the army man will be up against it, too.—San Antonio Express.

And it is a good and timely move. Many of the boys of America have been seriously contaminated if not ruined for life by being permitted to indulge in this class of pernicious literature.

The Federal railroad's official report would tend to show that Camp Mabry was the healthiest camp ever held in the south, notwithstanding the heroic deeds of Deadwood Dick from San Antonio—Austin Statesman. The reports from San Antonio referred to are to the effect that an epidemic of typhoid fever is prevailing among the men who were stationed at Camp Mabry. The supposition is that the trouble was induced by impure drinking water—a prolific source of typhoid fever.

At last the attorney general's office has taken action against the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, and will endeavor to cancel that corporation's permit to do business in Texas. It is a long lane that never turns, and the people of Texas, as well as a few others, may yet learn that the Lone Star State has a real, live attorney general.—Sherman Register.

At last the attorney general of Texas has taken action in the Waters-Pierce oil case, and has consumed in preparation is any criterion by which we may judge of results, he ought to be able to make good. The general impression is that the state has a case that can be made to stick with very little effort.

As capital for various undertakings is in such demand in Texas, the big ranch owners all over the state are coming to the conclusion that it is more money to them to sell their ranch lands and invest the money in other ventures that bring greater returns.—Jacksonboro Gazette.

Synopsis of Previous Installments: John Glenarm, a roving young engineer, is killed near the station at Nashville, Ind., by his grandfather, on condition that he live there a year. This brilliant youth, says the professor, "wrote with all seriousness after 'Disposition of the Carcass,' 'Mild and gentle.'"

He accepts the term of his grandfather's will, and starting for Indiana, accidentally meets his chum Lawrence Donovan. The two line at Sherry's, and see there Pickering, accompanied by a young woman whose face impresses Glenarm.

While Glenarm is seated in his grandfather's house, the first evening notes give an entirely new tone to the library door, threw it open and sat aside. "Here you are, Glenarm," said Stoddard. Pickering advanced and offered Stoddard a cigar, and the latter, without taking it, his companion, burly countryman, stood staring a peer in his hand.

"Pickering advanced and offered Stoddard a cigar, and the latter, without taking it, his companion, burly countryman, stood staring a peer in his hand. "The sheriff," Pickering explains "and our business is rather personal." He glanced at Stoddard, who looked at him.

"Mr. Stoddard will do me the kindness to remain," I said and took my stand beside the chaplain. "Oh," Pickering ejaculated scornfully, "I didn't understand that you had established relations with the neighboring clergy. Your taste is improving, Glenarm."

This belief is further strengthened when, after a tour of his grandfather's house late at night, comes across a woman's shadow and a fierce revolver battle. Morgan is wounded and Glenarm learns next day, through Rev. Paul Stoddard, that Stoddard's stepson, the one who fired at him through the window the first night of his stay at his grandfather's house.

Solon Satisfied With Reports of Speech

Special to The Telegram.
GAINESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 1.—Senator Bailey spent Sunday at home and left over the Santa Fe via Fort Worth at 6 p. m. for Greenville, where he is to speak Monday. He is still receiving a deluge of letters, telegrams and long distance calls from his friends all over Texas, and he has but little time to rest. WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Frankie Orser      Miss Pearl Ackers

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drags them into the horrors of all this, and, falling and displacement, depression, causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

It is especially require an invigorating and sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and give them the best possible health. It is a day to sleep well at night, and rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so sore that she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Miss E. Orser, of 14 Warrenton Street, Boston, tells women how to avoid such suffering; she writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I suffered with severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen, was very nervous and irritable, and my trouble grew worse every month. My physician failed to help me and I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, soon found it was doing me good. All my pains and aches disappeared, and I no longer fear my monthly periods."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society, nervousness, are the danger signs—when all symptoms are the danger signs—when all symptoms are dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman, and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years she has, under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge.

Tired of Waiting, Tires Sweet-heart, Knot Tied

Special to The Telegram.
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—W. Lee Hurley, Harvard graduate and football star, was married to Miss Rose Austin of San Francisco at the Waldorf-Astoria Sunday. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Warren, the hotel chaplain.

According to the New York American, the marriage was a secret one. Although the couple was engaged and was to have been married in two months' time, Mr. Hurley got tired of the eternal waiting, as he expressed it, and last week telegraphed Miss Austin to come to New York. She responded, arriving in this city Sunday morning. Arrangements had already been made for the ceremony and it was performed at 4:30 o'clock.

"Won't be surprised when he hears," Mrs. Hurley said, when the ceremony was over. Her father is Frank Austin of San Francisco. Mr. Hurley has been in a brokerage office in Wall street since his football days ended.

Joe Morris Held in Connection with Death of Gambler

Special to The Telegram.
TULSA, I. T., Oct. 1.—Joe Morris, alleged to be the murderer of Charles Harper, a gambler, was held in connection with the death of the gambler in the Glenn oil field with a bullet through his body on the morning of Aug. 21, was captured today at Tulsa and will be returned to Tulsa at once for a hearing in the commissioners' court.

Charles Harper, known as "Texas," was said to be a "sure-thing" gambler, and his murder is thought to have been the result of a quarrel over the game of poker. The death of Harper started an agitation for reform in the community about the Glenn pool, it being proposed to organize a body of regulators to suppress lawlessness.

HERE'S THE CHAMPION FREAK NEWSPAPER

Special to The Telegram.
ROBY, Texas, Oct. 1.—The "Terminal Advance" is the name of a newspaper started in a town without a name, located at the terminal point of the Texas Central road, in this county. The publisher is Don H. Biggers. Considering that there is not a single house in the town, which is yet to be given a name, the editor certainly has nerve to venture under such conditions, and the publication is a wonder. The editor explains his reason for locating in such a spot in the following introduction:

"You have, of course, heard of a country newspaper. Well, this is one that is not yet named, where not a lot has been sold or a structure erected. It is published in a town where two national banks and at least fifteen strong commercial concerns are waiting for the sale of lots in order to locate in such a spot. It is the erection of buildings. The barn roof leaks a little and a one-eyed mule seems mazy to know what kind of a monster is taking up his abode in the mule maize department of the first floor, but so long as he keeps his head in and his heels out, his presence will be tolerated. According to make application for admission in the mails until it is learned what this postoffice will be called. One of the best towns in west Texas will be right here, and the editor is supremely confident that this will be the first paper published in the territory. He has possession of the only barn in the vicinity, and if any one has a printing office under a bush it hasn't been taken care of in a long time. Hereabouts the situation has been minutely investigated. This paper has no perpetual monopoly of the field, nor the adjoining fields or the adjacent cow pasture, but it certainly has a cinch on volume one. Just at present there is plenty of room here for another paper, but not a blooming bit of patronage, and it certainly seems advisable for opposition to stay away until the morning after the next crying demand for competition. Seemingly, this paper may be previously established, but the editor has always contended that the north pole was discovered it would be by some country newspaper man looking for a new location."

SERMON ON "SHAMS"

Evangelist Hart Heard at St. Paul's Church

Probably the largest crowds that have ever attended St. Paul's church were present Sunday to hear Evangelist Hart and Magann. All in all it is estimated that nearly 2,000 people were accommodated during the entire services of the day.

Sunday night the subject of the discourse was "Shams."

At both the morning and evening services the altars were filled, and twenty conversions are reported for the day.

Preaching begins this evening at 7:45 o'clock, preceded by a worker's prayer meeting at 7:30.

Tuesday a canvas of the entire city will be made, and every effort put forth to reach unsaved people throughout Fort Worth.

WANT TAX OFF SCHOOL FUNDS

Amendment to Be Submitted to Voters in November

A. S. Garden of San Antonio was in Fort Worth last week in the interest of an amendment to be voted on at the coming general election in November, the purpose of which is to remove taxation from endowment funds of educational institutions. While here Mr. Garden said:

"At present the young men and young women of this state are fitted for the university and higher institutions of learning by the city high schools and by private academies. This state does not make any provision out of the public fund for preparatory school work.

"Under the constitution the buildings used for school purposes are exempt from taxation, but the cash endowment for the maintenance and improvement of the schools, and for free scholarships, etc., is taxable.

"The net earnings of these educational endowment funds is about 6 per cent, but this income is cut in half by the combined municipal, county and state tax, which usually amounts to about 3 per cent.

"The utility of these funds is impaired, and the cause of educational endowment is seriously retarded.

"Leland Stanford and Chicago University, by large universities of the east would never have been possible if the generous donors of endowment had been confronted with taxation laws that would reduce the working power of their donations 50 per cent.

"The state can very well afford from a pecuniary standpoint to create non-state schools by reasonable tax exemptions, because these institutions are providing for thousands of students who would otherwise be a heavy burden on the public funds.

Following is the joint resolution passed by the last legislature, including the amendment, which comes up for vote:

Section 1. That section 2, article VIII of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be so amended that the same shall read as follows, to wit:

"All occupation taxes shall be equal and uniform upon the same class of subjects within the limits of the authority levying the tax; but the legislature may, by general laws, exempt from taxation public property used for religious worship; places of burial not held for private or corporate profit; all buildings used exclusively and owned by persons or associations of persons for school purposes and the necessary furniture and fixtures thereof; the endowment funds of such institutions of learning and religion not used with a view to profit and when the same are invested in bonds or mortgages, or in land or other property which has been and shall hereafter be bought in by such institutions under foreclosure sales made to satisfy or protect such bonds or mortgages; that such exemption of such land and property shall continue only for two years after the purchase of the same at such sale by such institutions and no longer; and institutions of purely public charity and all laws exempting property from taxation other than the property above mentioned shall be null and void from and after the date of the passage of this act."

Sec. 2. The governor of the state shall and he is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for the submission of this amendment to the qualified voters of the state of Texas at the next general election of state and county officers.

Monday will be an important club day during the season. Two music clubs—the "Trio" and the "St. Cecilia"—the '93 club, Monday Book and History clubs will have Monday for their meetings.

The trio club has been at work for a month and the St. Cecilia, the no rehearsing, have been occupied on important business changes.

The St. Cecilia club will rehearse Monday night in Gould hall, corner Pennsylvania avenue and Hemphill street, W. A. Jones, musical director. Tonight the club will take up chorus work for mixed voices. Hitherto the club has been a women's chorus, but in the judgment of the members a change would introduce to Fort Worth lovers of choral singing a feature that has been greatly longed for. A number of men have become candidates for membership and will be present at the meeting tonight.
