

COLQUITT NOT FIGHTING BAILEY

Says He Is Not Behind Opposition in Texas

HERE FOR CONFERENCE

Meets Attorney S. H. Cowan Regarding Preliminaries in Railroad Suits Against Commission

Railroad Commissioner O. B. Colquitt is in Fort Worth in conference with Attorney Sam H. Cowan, counsel for the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, arranging and preparing certain preliminary to be used in the injunction suits instituted by the railroad against the Texas state railroad commission.

Referring to the J. W. Bailey meeting at Galvestone, Mr. Colquitt said: "I read in The Telegram a report of the meeting, held in the interest of Senator J. W. Bailey, which the statement was made that cartoons were exhibited there showing me to be behind the fight against Mr. Bailey and have done nothing since the recent opposition to his reelection developed that would justify the statement that I was behind it or have anything to do with it. When I read the statement the thought occurred to me that it was a manufactured article."

SOUND DEMOCRATIC DOCTRINE

"No man who is financially connected with a corporation that is seeking privileges ought to act as a member of a political organization, because he cannot represent his corporation and the people at the same time. He cannot serve the party while he is seeking to promote the financial interests of the corporation with which he is connected."—William Jennings Bryan.

DAVE CULBERSON AND BAILEY CONTRASTED

Writing under the heading, "The Point of View," Cynicus had the following in the New Orleans Times-Democrat of last Sunday: Mr. William J. Bryan has posed a question much more important than the government ownership of railroads. It is one which will bring down upon him the wrath of many of the great leaders of both parties, though their fighting will be done mainly in the dark and will be based on other issues. His proposition that a man who is serving the public in office should not be the employee of a corporation...

THE TELEGRAM AND SENATOR BAILEY

The Telegram expects to be roundly abused for daring to criticize Senator Bailey, but the Telegram does not mind abuse when it results from the fearless discharge of a public duty.—Fort Worth Telegram. When a paper realizes it has gone off "half-cocked" it knows the penalty that follows, especially when a public man's character and record is assailed. The Telegram in its dislike for Senator Bailey has let its zeal to besmirch him overcome its judgment. It has made charges that are not sustained by the facts as brought out. In that it has made a grave error and done a great wrong. No act of Mr. Bailey's has been cited wherein his connection with Mr. Pierce, Mr. Kirby or Mr. Anybody else has effected his vote or other senatorial duties. Until such act can be shown clearly, so grave a charge should not be made. The law of this country presumes every man innocent until his guilt is proven. This applies to senators whom the Telegram does not like as well as persons in private life.—Strawn Enterprise.

lawyer if he can get the employment. There is precedent sufficient in his favor, as known by Edmunds, Thurman and Culberson, legal giants as they were, did not leave a title of the fortune bequeathed by the late Senator Gorman of Maryland, who was not a lawyer, being set down in the congressional directory as a "public official" by occupation. It is known that the Maryland senator secured his great wealth while in the public service and not entirely by the drawing of his salary or the investment of it, either. The choice between the careers of these men is a matter of individual choice, of course. Mr. Bryan in saying over the corpse of Charles McIver of North Carolina that he would rather be that man lying dead as he was than John D. Rockefeller living with his vast wealth, may have represented the sentiment of only the infatuated part of the population of the country, and yet there is no reason to believe that he was wrong.

If the public understands the position of Senator Bailey as expressed in his interviews since the Sullivan affair brought the matter to the attention of the public, it is that as a great lawyer he is in constant demand on all sides on all questions of great public importance, and that as a senator he is representing the people a part of the time and those who are considered enemies of the people another part of the time, and himself all the time. No one but the greatest of lawyers is equal to such a dual performance, and it is not too much to contend that such a really great lawyer should be exclusively devoted to the practice of the law. If a senator's great talents entitle him to take fees from the people who make the laws and from the corporations who violate those laws and do their utmost to nullify them, and to earn his fees from both clients, he is too great a man entirely to waste his talents in the performance of a public service.

Either Mr. Bryan is wrong in this matter, and Edmunds, Thurman and Culberson were idiots, or Mr. Bailey is as wrong as he can possibly be. The matter will, doubtless, be thrashed out in Texas in the forthcoming campaign and the result will be watched with intense interest throughout the country. It may be that the attitude taken by Mr. Bryan will cause his own political destruction. The leaders of his party will deeply resent his talking about the matter, but the slaughter will not be on one side altogether. Heretofore, in the defeat of the Nebraskan by the great political leaders, there have been corpses left on the field the victims of his sword and spear. One may count over on both hands several times the great men who disappeared from public life after 1896, though the earth had opened and swallowed them. The greatest of these was John G. Carlisle, of course, but men of somewhat less stature were lying everywhere without the breastworks, among them Olney of Massachusetts, Caffrey of Louisiana, Catchings of Mississippi and Patterson of Tennessee. The Nebraskan has gone after larger game than public life after 1896, though the earth had opened and swallowed them. The greatest of these was John G. Carlisle, of course, but men of somewhat less stature were lying everywhere without the breastworks, among them Olney of Massachusetts, Caffrey of Louisiana, Catchings of Mississippi and Patterson of Tennessee. The Nebraskan has gone after larger game than public life after 1896, though the earth had opened and swallowed them.

MODERN PUBLIC SCHOLL METHODS

There are a great many people in Texas who are not pleased with the manner in which the children of the state are being taught in the public schools, and who believe that the old methods were by far the most effective. The San Saba Star says:

Why has the old time spelling by syllables been discontinued in most schools at the present time? You frequently find scholars far advanced and even graduates that would not know a syllable if they should meet one in the road. The old style taught the division of words like this: C-o-o-k, s-a-n, c-o-m-a-n, e-t-i-c-u-l-u-m, c-o-n-s-a-n-g-u-i-n-y, c-o-n-s-a-n-g-u-i-n-y. How to divide a word may not come in handy any where else, but it is one of the most essential things in a printing office. To have a well educated printer divide the word h-o-u-s-e in the middle, or graduate on e-a, looks like there's something wanting somewhere.

The children of today are not grounded in the rudiments of an education like they were in the days when Webster's "Old Blue-Back" was the chosen instrument of childish torture. They are taught what a word is from sight before they really learn the alphabet, and as a consequence they know nothing about the word or its pronunciation.

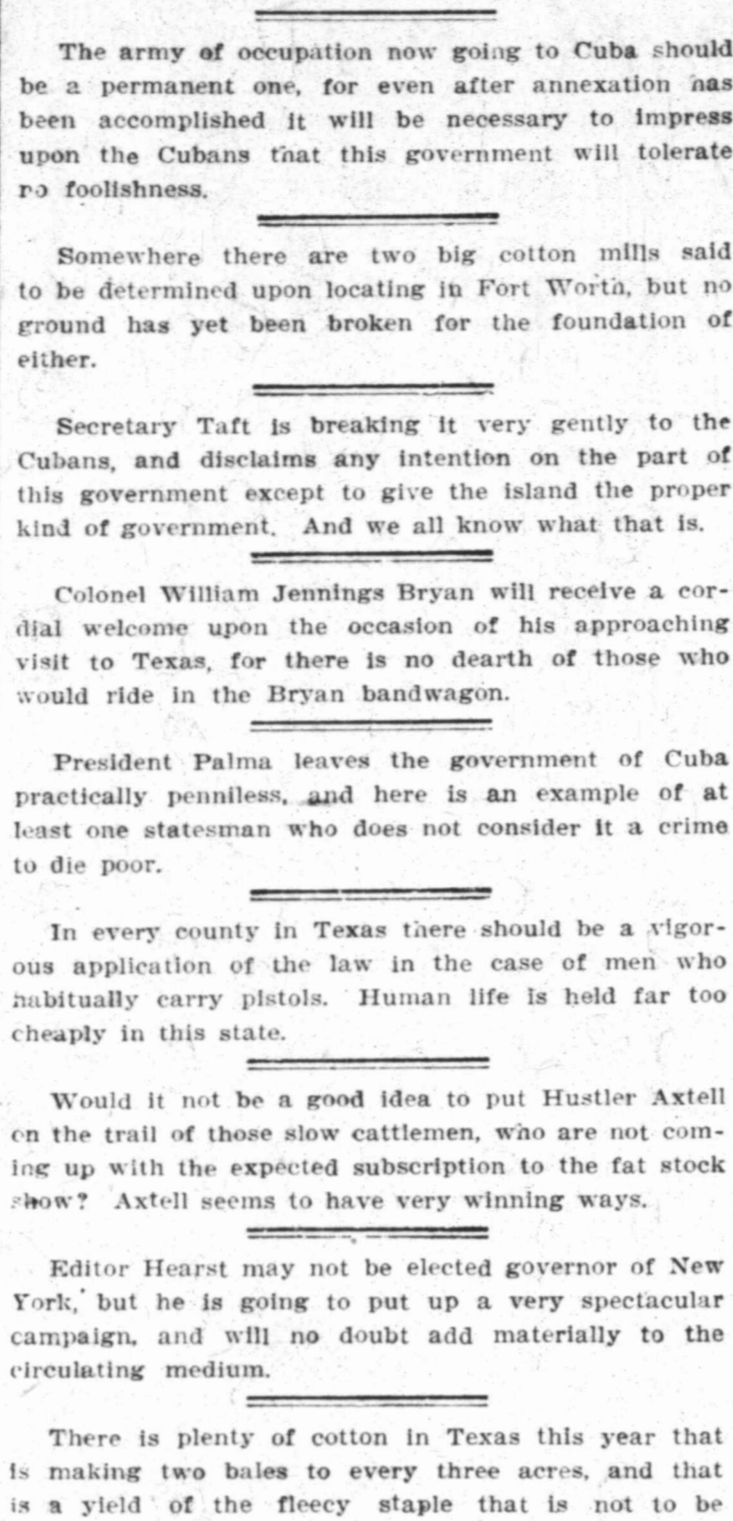

A public school pupil in the upper fourth grade right here in the city of Fort Worth was asked a few days ago what a vowel was, and was unable to give a correct answer, and the same condition applied to the consonants. To the suggestion that the ignorance displayed was lamentable, the child replied, "Oh, our teacher does not teach us that."

And the teacher is not to blame, but the system. Under present methods it is probable that one-half the children who make their way through the public schools in Texas only get a smattering of the questionable text books employed, and the present system, while it may have its advantages, fails to measure up to the ideas of those who were grounded in the "Old Blue-Back" and kindred text books which served their purpose nobly and well.

The Telegram does not intend by this to criticize the Fort Worth public schools. It simply believes that modern educational methods do not in many respects measure up in comparison with the old hard way.

VERY AWKWARD

WHAT WOULD YOU DO IN THIS SITUATION?

If you were an arctic explorer hanging on an icicle just out of reach of a ravenous polar bear, while a swarm of savage natives gleefully awaited to add you to their bill of fare, would you do? Would you ascend and seek to soothe the savage breast of the savage beast, or would you keep your perch until the sun's rays melted your icicle and precipitated you into the arms of the hungry barbarians?

TEXAS PRESS AND SENATOR BAILEY

CAN'T HOLD DEMOCRATIC CONFIDENCE Senator Bailey's Standard Oil episode is now coming to the front. Unless he exposes it fully he will not be able to hold democratic confidence to as great an extent as formerly.—Guadalupe Gazette.

HARD MATTER TO EXPLAIN Joseph Weldon Bailey is going to have a hard time explaining to the people of Texas his connections with H. Clay Pierce, who is at the head of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and southern manager for the Standard. This, no doubt, will have effect upon the senatorial race.—Cameron Enterprise.

A VERY PERTINENT QUESTION The promised interview of Senator Bailey on the subject of government ownership of railroads did not materialize. A more important subject of ownership may be engrossing the senator just at this time, which needs elucidation at his hands, and that is, does Mr. Pierce own Mr. Bailey or Mr. Bailey Mr. Pierce?—Beville Bee.

NOT FRIENDLY TO MASSES The Herald has opposed Senator Bailey in times past, because it thought he was not a fit representative of the people in the senate of the United States. Events transpiring are vindicating the Herald in its position. Bailey is not the friend of the masses, but has made himself wealthy through his efforts for big corporations seeking special privileges.—Palestine Herald.

STEPPING FROM POLITICAL STAGE If Senator Bailey is to be heeded, and it looks that way at this writing, we are in favor of giving the job to Hon. Horace Chilton or Judge C. K. Bell, either one of whom would do credit to the state. The time rapidly approaches when Senator Joe Bailey will step from the political stage and the democratic party will know him no more forever. Mr. Bailey has been a little too close to the Standard Oil monopoly and the Texas people are "next to him."—Center Advocate.

HIS DOLLBABY IS SAWDUST From the very first day that Senator Joe Bailey began his fight on the floor of the Galveston convention the Herald has been an ardent supporter of his, has always found some way to meet the criticisms that his enemies have always been ready to make on the slightest pretenses. But now, if there is any truth in Mr. Pierce's testimony, and there is little ground for doubt, it feels like the little girl does when she discovers that her doll is stuffed with sawdust.—Yoakum Herald.

A HINT The Philadelphia papers are demanding the moral regeneration of Atlantic City. Atlantic City is what the people who go there make it, and more people go there from Philadelphia than from any other place.—Houston Post.

SENATOR BAILEY DIDN'T The Hon. Charles Towne has announced that he intends to retire from congress and devote himself to making money. Things have come to a pretty pass when a man has to leave congress for that purpose.—Washington Post.

LET SPAIN SNICKER Spain could hardly be blamed for chucking it, while separating the belligerents in Cuba, Uncle Sam should accidentally get a kick on the shins.—Washington Post.

THE GREATEST ROBBERS Experts estimate that the annual loss of crop values in this country through the ravages of insects is at least $300,000,000.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

NEGRO SURROUND

Escape of Girl's Assaulting Officer. Special to The Telegram. WEATHERFORD, Texas, Oct. 2.—A negro who is wanted at Wells to answer to a charge of assault is being sought by officers here confident they will find him before he gets out of the timber in which he is now. Every farm house has been searched day and night by the citizens from Mineral Wells, others who have joined in the hunt at this place. Hugh Martin of Mineral Wells is an uncle of the young lady here yesterday, and he said the negro would be captured before he got out of this county.

MURDER CHARGE

Negro Jailed to Answer for Murder. Special to The Telegram. TEXARKANA, Texas, Oct. 2.—A negro, colored, arrested about brought here and lodged in the jail, on the Arkansas side, this morning on a warrant charging him with the murder of a negro. The victim was a negro named Minnie Dickerson. The look place Sunday afternoon, October 2, two miles north of Red River, and about sixteen miles east of here. The woman was the father with a 38-caliber pistol bullet ranging down and breaking neck. Robinson claims the woman was accidental. Even the absent-minded man forgets his troubles.

STOP, WOMAN

AND CONSIDER THE ALL-IMPORTANT FACT. That in addressing Mrs. Pinkham you are consulting your private physician is a woman—a woman whose experience with women's diseases covers a great many years. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for many years under her direction, and since her decease, she has been advising sick women free of charge. Many women suffer weakness and drift along badly to worse, knowing full well they ought to have immediate relief, but a natural modesty then to shrink from exposing their troubles to the questions and prescriptions of even their physician. It is unnecessary. Money or price you can consult with whose knowledge from experience is great. Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invited. Women suffering from all female weaknesses are invited to communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. All letters are returned, read and answered by only a woman can freely talk about her troubles to a woman; the private illness of a woman; the experience which she has to draw upon is more than possible that she gained the very knowledge that helps your case. She asks nothing in return except your good-will, and advice has relieved thousands of any woman, rich or poor, is very if she does not take advantage of this offer of assistance. If you are ill, don't hesitate to buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. When a medicine has been used in restoring to health so many women cannot well say, without trying, "I do not believe it will help me."

VERGET THAT RING

A MOVING BALLAD

Ah, distinctly I remember, it was almost done (September) And the moving van was coming, coming slowly to the flat; Vainly I had sought to borrow—every friend expressed his sorrow, Saying, "Well, perhaps tomorrow." And the head beneath my hat Wasn't swelled up much by that. Then I heard a sound of smashing—heard a sound of dishes crashing. Through the halls large men were dashing with my tables and my chairs, And the china, never stopping, kept on dropping, dropping, dropping. And my almost-bought piano slid the bases down the stairs, While the pictures fell in pairs. Fiercely toward the mover turning, every nerve within me burning, "Not one copper cent you're earning!" was my mean, sarcastic shout; And the mover never wiggled, but most scornfully he giggled. Saying, "You can talk till morning, but you'll hand me, like as not, Thirty dollars—on the spot!" Ah, distinctly I remember, it was almost done (September), And today my mission furniture is almost done as well; And my heart is slowly breaking, and my nerves are weakly shaking. Oh, this dreadful fiat-forsaking! What a sure thing game of shell! What a tiresome tale to tell! —William F. Clark.

SHAW AND MOODY TO LEAVE CABINET

Roosevelt Looking for Men for Positions

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3.—President Roosevelt is looking ahead to the time when he must make changes in his cabinet. He is also considering the selection of a successor to Justice Brown of the supreme court.

Regarding both matters it is possible to give tonight some inside information. Secretary Taft is not going on the supreme bench, nor is Justice Brown's successor likely to be Attorney General Moody, whose retirement from the cabinet, much to the President's regret, is expected to take place in the early winter.

A conference between the President and Senator Knox this afternoon is believed to have dealt with the supreme court vacancy, and has created a rumor that Solicitor General Hoyt of Pennsylvania is likely to be slated to fill it.

It is being practically settled that Secretary Taft is to remain in the war portfolio. The cabinet changes that are to be made will result from the retirement of only two members—Attorney General Moody and Secretary of the Treasury Shaw. The latter's time limit is Feb. 1, 1907, when he will have served an even five years.

It is settled absolutely that George Von L. Meyer, at present ambassador to Russia, is to enter the circle of the President's cabinet advisers, but what portfolio has not been determined.

Salvatore is RACING KING

Two-Year-Old Takes Place of Famous Sysonby

HAS GREAT FUTURE Famous Horse to Take Much Needed Rest in State of Kentucky

BY J. S. A. MACDONALD. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—"Long live the King!" is the cry of the thousands of racing devotees here in the east at the present moment. But a short time ago they acclaimed another equine potentate in the same manner.

A year ago it was Sysonby, and today Salvatore is the lion. Sysonby, the "perfect American thoroughbred," and enjoying the greatest meed of praise and hero worship ever accorded a premier race horse in this country.

"Greater by far," said one racing enthusiast, "the perfect American thoroughbred" such as the melodramatic encomiums concerning Salvatore, one heard just now; in fact, so great a hero has the colt become that the Brighton Beach Racing Association, at whose track racing opens for a week on tomorrow, Monday, is out with an offer of a sweepstakes with $5,000 added if Salvatore will be entered by his owners against the champion of the Futurity, and Fountainbleu.

But that Salvatore will be seen again under silks this season is not thought probable, for he needs a rest and an easy winter down in some Kentucky paddock in order to be ready for the rich fixtures in which he is engaged every two-year-old of pretension in the lists. For a while Water Pearl was held up as the sure champion, but he has proved only a "near-champion," for Salvatore beat him by over twenty lengths in the running of the Champion Junior Stakes at Gravesend.

At a bright horse longer than another man on the turf. He raced one colt some years back three straight seasons without winning a single purse. The stallion Belvidere sired Salvatore, the good dam of Sallie of Navarre being his dam. An agent of the late Captain "Sam" Brown bought Salvatore as a yearling for $11,000. Salvatore, with a score of youngsters, was turned over to Trainer "Bob" Tucker to be pointed for the races last April.

Two months later Capt. Brown had died in Pittsburg, Pa., and his turf interests reverted to W. Harry Brown, the deceased's brother, a sort of assistant to Capt. Brown in the management of the joys of life heaped on him all at one time. Horse racing stood as an abomination in his eyes. "I want you to seek out a buyer for the colt," he directed Brown in a talk with Tucker at Belmont Park last May.

Accountant sold the three-year-old Accountant for $45,000 to "Diamond Jim" Brady, right after the colt had won the Withers Stakes. Brown not caring enough about it to come Brown's racing course in order to see his colors triumph. Since then Accountant has won over $95,000 in stakes, and his owner has cashed $50,000 worth of bets on his successes. Along at Brighton Beach, Brown thought Tucker had better clean out a few more. Then came a paddock in Pennsylvania, a $25,000 winner since then, went for $2,500. Frank Gill, a good colt, brought $3,100, and Salvatore, in and behold, was knocking down to John H. Madden for but $2,700. Salvatore, as aforementioned, had been beaten by Fountainbleu in a sort of scratch scramble, but

WIENERWURSTS PALE

Use of Coloring Matter Now Prohibited and Customers Have Been Wondering What's the Matter

The new meat inspection law, which went into effect Oct. 1, requiring the inspection labels to be placed on all meats, both for domestic and foreign consumption, is being strictly observed, both by the packing houses and the local butchers in Fort Worth.

Every piece of meat must be labeled at the slaughter pen as it is cut up and inspected. The inspection is made under government supervision, and it is a heavy penalty for meat to be placed on sale to the retail trade unless it bears the government stamp of approval. The inspector simply slips the label on a piece of meat while the animal heat and moisture is still in it, which makes the label adhere to the meat. After the meat is cooled, the label, which is a small piece of cheesecloth about one and one-half inches square, may be pulled off, leaving the imprint of the stamp still on the meat, and this imprint cannot be removed without cutting it out of the meat.

Wienerwurst Are Pale Now

The sausage and wienerwurst products also come under the United States inspection act, and local butchers claim to have experienced no difficulty in disposing of these products since Oct. 1, especially in the wienerwursts. Formerly a vegetable fluid was used with them to give them a red color, but the new law forbids the use of this coloring, notwithstanding it has been found to be perfectly harmless. Butchers formerly accustomed to the rich red color at first refused to take that which is now white. But since the first day or two these matters are becoming understood, less explaining on the part of the butcher is required in order to sell his wares.

TO ORGANIZE AN 8-CLUB LEAGUE

Meeting Will Be Held in Fort Worth October 10

At a meeting of Texas baseball managers held Tuesday in this city an eight-club circuit was decided upon for next season and much business of importance was transacted. The baseball situation for next season was freely discussed and plans outlined by which the association of Texas leagues will be governed.

The following circuit was prepared for next season: Fort Worth, Dallas, Cleburne, Waco, Gainesville, Ardmore, L. T. Sherman, Denton.

It was stated by W. H. Ward, manager of the Fort Worth team, that the Texas League managers had done everything in their power to join hands with the South Texas League, but that just now there was no indication that the two would ever be consolidated.

For the purpose of organizing the circuit for next season a meeting of the Texas League will be held in this city on the evening of Oct. 10, and all the cities that are now in the league will be represented.

The following players who during the season of 1906 did stunts on Texas ball fields have been "elected" to travel with the swifter class:

Cross of Cleburne to St. Louis, American League; Fowell of Cleburne to Shreveport, Southern League; Adams of Cleburne to St. Paul, American Association; Dismore of Cleburne to St. Paul, American Association; Erwin of Fort Worth to St. Paul, American Association; Walsh of Fort Worth to Montgomery, Southern League; Pruett of Dallas to St. Paul, American Association; Rodebaugh of Dallas to St. Paul, American Association; Meyers of Dallas to St. Paul, American Association; Stevens of Dallas to St. Louis, American League; Parris of Dallas to St. Louis, American League; McIver of Waco to St. Paul, American Association.

TWO WARDS HOLD CHURCH MAJORITY

Fourteen Congregations Have Homes in Second and Fourth

Rev. J. B. French of the Broadway Presbyterian church made the occasion of his last Sunday morning sermon to call attention to the serious grouping of the churches of the city, taken with reference to no particular denomination. He specially mentioned that in the Sixth ward there were ten churches, while in the other wards of the South side there were but three organized churches, those being in the Fifth and the Seventh wards.

That directed attention to the way the churches were grouped about Taylor, Lamar and Throckmorton streets and in adjacent parts of the Second and Fourth wards.

There are the First Baptist, corner Third and Taylor; Wells Chapel Baptist, 1012 Taylor street; Taylor Street Presbyterian, corner Fifth street; St. Andrew's, 311 Lamar street, and the new First Methodist might be included. Seventh street between Taylor and Throckmorton; Christian Tabernacle, corner of Throckmorton and Fifth; First Christian, corner Throckmorton and Sixth street; German Evangelical St. John's (Lutheran), Taylor and Texas; Spiritualist, one of the Jewish congregations; at the Spiritualist temple, 315 Taylor street; Swedish Lutheran at the same place; St. Paul's Methodist, Lamar and Seventh streets; another Jewish congregation at 327 Taylor street; four churches within about six or eight blocks of one another.

The First and Ninth wards have relatively few churches. In the First Presbyterian, at Calhoun and Fourth streets; First and Fourth Street Methodist at Jones and Fourth streets; Grace Baptist, Hampton and Peach streets, and Peach Street Methodist, 201 Peach street.

Many of Herd Are Killed While Pack Escapes Hunters

Special to The Telegram.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 2.—A pack of seven wolf wolves, headed by a stalwart dog wolf, attacked a flock of sheep in the McLaughlin pasture, in the northwest part of this county, and killed and made away with five fat muttons. The slaughter was done in the early dawn, and the Mexican shepherd knew nothing of it until he came upon the carcasses of the sheep. This particular pack of shaggy lobos has caused a good deal of trouble to stockmen in the Water Valley vicinity. The herdsmen are armed, but the wolves get in their work at unexpected and seemingly inopportune times.

There has been a decided growth of the spirit of tolerance in the city, and it is to the credit of those most concerned, he said, that this is also the case generally, and that finds manifestation here in the work which is being done by the Fort Worth Pastors' Association, whose decisions as to policy find the cordial endorsement of all of the members of the association.

HE BROUGHT THE FIRST TRAIN INTO FORT WORTH

Engineer John Kelly Dead at Springfield, Ill.

John Kelly, the engineer who was at the throttle of the first locomotive engine that ever run into Fort Worth, died some time since at his home in Springfield, Ill., where he had been living for quite a number of years prior to his death.

The fact that Kelly was engineer on the first engine that ever entered Fort Worth made him a conspicuous figure in the early history of the then little hamlet on the West Park of the Trinity, and for a long time he had possession of the keys of the city. There wasn't anything in town that he wasn't taking care of, and he was as big as a big man as the governor, and there are numbers of old-timers here now who cherish the name of John Kelly, the engineer.

The bringing in of that engine was the beginning of a new era in the town, and from that July day in 1876, thirty years ago, began the growth that has now reached metropolitan proportions. There had been a valuable land grant and bonus to the Texas and Pacific railroad, conditioned that it reached Fort Worth from Eagle Ford by a given time, and the day before that time arrived the end of the track was over a mile from the then city limits and the grading had not been completed. The prize to be won by having a train in Fort Worth on time was too valuable to let slip, and some shift had to be made to win it. Temporary trestles were hastily erected across ravines and across branches, and cross ties were laid on the prairie with hardly a scratch to remove the grass. The rails were laid down spreading and, by working all night and all day, the corporate limits were entered on the day that ended the limit allowed the road.

John Kelly pulled the train in, up hill and down hill, over shaky trestles, and as poor a make-shift for a steam railroad track as was ever run over in Texas. It was a risky undertaking, but Kelly imbued enthusiasm and patriotism enough of the Fort Worth brand to nerve him up to the task, and he brought the engine and cars in town and saved the valuable grant to the railroad company.

Kelly remained in the employ of the Texas and Pacific for a number of years afterwards—until he was getting to be an old man, and then left Texas. Ten years after he brought the first engine into Fort Worth he took part in a big celebration in the city commemorating the day he brought in the engine. He was living at Springfield, Ill., at the time and was brought to Fort Worth by the arrangement committee for the celebration to play the part in the celebration he acted in bringing in the first engine to Fort Worth.

At Fowler, a veteran railroad in Fort Worth, still living here, fitted up a float for the parade that represented the first engine ever seen in Fort Worth. John Kelly was on the float as it moved through the city, and his march through Fort Worth that day was like the march of a Roman conqueror in a triumphal procession.

Before his death John Kelly retired from the road and rail and in his declining years had charge of the heating apparatus in the state capital building at Springfield, Ill. There are Doctor Recommends Postum from Personal Test.

No one is better able to realize the injurious action of caffeine—the drug in coffee—on the heart, than the doctor.

When the doctor himself has been relieved by simply leaving off coffee and using Postum, he can refer with full conviction to his own case.

A Missouri physician prescribes Postum for many of his patients because he was benefited by it. He says: "I wish to add my testimony in regard to that excellent preparation—Postum. I have had functional or nervous heart trouble for over 15 years, and part of the time was unable to attend to my business.

"I was a moderate user of coffee and did not think drinking it hurt me. But on stopping it and using Postum instead, my heart has got all right, and I ascribe it to the change from coffee to Postum.

"I am prescribing it now in cases of sickness, especially when coffee does not agree or affects the heart, nerves or stomach."

"When made right it has a much better flavor than coffee, and is a vital sustainer of the system. I shall continue to recommend it to our people, and I have my own case to refer to."

PUTS FORTUNE IN TWO-CENT STAMPS

Mutual Life Buys Eleven Thousand Dollars' Worth

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A morning paper states that State Superintendent of Insurance Kelsey learned yesterday of a purchase by the Mutual Insurance Company last week of $11,000 worth of 2-cent stamps. They were not secured direct from the postoffice by the company but the deal was put thru a stationer. The latter got the stamps at the postoffice and sent checks he received from the Mutual Life to Postmaster Wilcox.

What Superintendent Kelsey wants to find out and what the Mutual will be called upon to explain is the purpose for which these stamps are to be used. The superintendent of insurance has been advised that if the company is to use these stamps to send out campaign literature furthering the interest of the administration ticket the policy holders' money is being used in a wrong manner.

WEST POINT REJOICES

Military School Glad American Officer Won Balloon Race

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Among former fellow-officers, teachers and students at the West Point Military Academy, the announcement of the victory of Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm in the international balloon race was received with great satisfaction.

Lieutenant Lahm was one of the most popular men at West Point in his cadet days, making the football team as quarterback, and as an instructor, he was even more popular.

"It was a great victory," declared Colonel H. L. Scott, superintendent of the academy, "and I feel mighty good to think one of our army men captured the trophy for America. There is no doubt aerostatics will play an important part in the next great war and the United States should not be behind the other countries."
