THE FORT WORTH FAIR ASSOCIATION RACES START MONDAY AFTERNOON

Most Attractive Program of Harness and Running Events Ever Offered Here Begin Tomorrow at Driving Park Track—Dan Patch, King of Pacers, Will Try for Mile Against Time—"Sacred" Concert Today a Starter for Events

FRESH TIPS ON THE WEEK'S RACES

Week starts today with "sacred concert," first opening of the kind ever given race meeting in United States. Stakes and purses total $19,000. Meeting lasts five days. Dan Patch, fastest harness horse in world, to race against time Friday. Park located on Arlington Heights Boulevard, just west of Frisco tracks. Arlington Heights cars run nearest to it. Grandstand holds 6,000 people. Everybody free today.

MONDAY marks the opening of the biggest race meet ever held in Fort Worth. Entries have been closed. Horses are still arriving and the requisites essential to a successful racing period are on the grounds. Things look cheery and 'tis no mis-figure at prominent race courses throughout the country and has ridden to victory under the wire some of the smartest "wing-footed" horses that ever breathed the dust of a race track. Lennie, as he is affectionally called by those who know him best, is a diminutive chap, hardly five feet in height and weighing in the neighborhood of 120 pounds.

At the track Saturday afternoon a Telegram reporter saw Brooker and said: "Well, Lennie, how on earth did you ever drift out to Texas?" The reply came, "Well, now you see, my old-time newspaper friend, I was riding Nannie Hodge in Louisville at Douglas Park ten days ago, when she 'tilted' the 'urf' and flung me here. How goes it, anyway?" and with that, the little jockey, with a smile bigger than his body extended his hand.

Another rider who is here, but only to look on is Erny Dake. Dake stopped riding early in the season on account of getting hurt in a close-in at Latonia, and has since been doing the fair, operating a hand book. Of all the speakers of right-up-to-the-minute slang, Dake has got the world beat. He likes to be told that his slang is refreshing and talks with the rapidity of a gatling gun fire. When he stumbled across the reporter he exclaimed with a broad grin that almost severed his face, "Geo, kid, but you certainly look as if you had been eating angel food for a century. Sure, I bowed in from the Crescent bench by moonlight, and expect to put a niffle in my gimmers during the few dict for the Fort Worth meeting unqualified success. Dan Patch Coming Of course, the greatest interest will center in Dan Patch. This monarch of the turf will give a speed exhibition, which promises to be thrilling from front to back. The horse has been a drawing card at some of the largest meets held in the United States within

CRESCUS.

When notion when the declaration is made that the efforts of the Fort Worth Fair Association to furnish Fort Worth folks and her neighbors with a season of high-class sport will be crowned with more than success. The greatest interest is being manifested in the event and for weeks it has been the talk of the town.

Not only have local people shown unusual interest in the week of races, but persons in almost every city within a radius of two or three hundred miles are here have demonstrated that they are "in on the deal," heart and soul, by sending letters of encouragement to the fair management.

It is predicted that when the ponies race the rubber Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the grandstand built to seat 6,000 persons will be crowded to the guards. The structure which has been completed is most substantially constructed.

The city is alive with horsemen, touts, bookmakers and "stringers." The latter, however, will find it rather "cramped" to operate as the word has gone forth that nothing bordering on crookedness will be tolerated.

The horsemen that are here with their racers are old-timers and pre-the past year, and the day he performs the whole town and the majority of many others will be on hand to witness his battle against time. It is not expected now that Crescus will appear during the week. A few weeks ago Dan Patch lowered his previous record of 1:55 1/4 to 1:55, and it will be the intention of his driver, Harry Hersey, to even clip this on the driving park course. For a horse to step over ground at the godly speed of 1:55 is going some, and but few sure enough whirlwinds hold such records. However, it is thought that Dan can beat this and the reins will be pulled over him by the driver with such in view.

Busy at the Track At the park everything is one big wheel of bustle. Over there a crowd of "jocks," are passing puns; down there rubbers are busy with a racer, while from one end of the park to the other can be seen hurrying forms of horse owners and race followers. All are getting things in the finest shape possible.

The stables are all full. About 400 horses being quartered, with many to arrive today. Out of the large number at the track are some of the best looking thoroughbreds ever seen here. They not only look good, but perform well, and can clip dust from off the turf in an astonishingly swift manner.

One of the prettiest harness horses quartered at the track is a five-year-old nifty looking bay that came in with a bunch of grey, out of the name of the horse is Little Brown Jug, by Glenco Woodard, out of Mamie Beckley, who holds the record in Texas for the half mile pace, having stepped it in one minute flat.

Raymond N. is another speedy animal and promises to develop exceedingly fast during the week's get-aways. While a green pacer, Raymond N. is by no means a bad horse and unless hunched up in the rounding and loses his head, will make some of the more experienced animals look for their footing.

By ear and away the best looking horse in the whole gathering is Admiral Dewey. The Admiral is a gray of exceptional beauty, having fine texture, stout muscles and large bones. This horse has a record of 2:17, but gives promise of lowering this several ticks.

Runners Arrive Saturday Saturday morning a car of runners came in from New Orleans. They are owned by F. F. Lewis and J. T. Sells. In the bunch are some dandy lookers. They have been in the race on eastern and southern tracks all season and come here with the expectation of winning in a "drift." Among them is Jim A. Lutz. This horse holds the record at the Hot Springs track for five and one-half furlongs, and at one time had the record for the same distance at one of the New Orleans plants.

A few of the speedy horses are Joe Goss, Chickora Maid, Le Baron, Geo. Kibborn, Miss Jimmie, Admiral Dewey, Raymond N., Emmett Wilkes, Little Brown Jug and a host of others.

In the stables where the runners are quartered there is a lot of new horses just beginning to make records. There is Taba Tosa, Anadaraco, Cheek Morgan, Ollie Burnett and T. J. Powell. All have the appearance of being capable and their owners expect much.

There is really not a sorry looking horse in the entire lot. They cut are clean, trim and game looking animals, and in the quiver of the nostrils show their love for the "paddy."

The equipment brought along with the trotters and pacers is the kind necessary in making speed, the carts being mere skeletons of nickel and steel. Among the jockeys here to ride during the meet is Lon Brooker. For years "Brookie" has been a familiar days to come looking for the right pony. I'm there stronger than a pile driver with the gold, and I'm going to give some of these western guineas a chance to lift a little taste of it. But, say, ain't this a peachy and creamy frame up? On the level, si, I didn't know there was such doings in the way of git-up-and-git horse plants in this divide-up of the soil! Whisper: "Come to me when you want the honey, I'll deliver the drake." But remember, no ganders for mine!"

In this strain Dake talks from morn 'till night, and sings and whistles as if he was king of all.

Race track followers are among the best-hearted people on earth. The tents are generally a jolly happy-go-lucky set of fellows, always willing to do a good turn. There is not as many, of course in Fort Worth for the race meet next week as one will find around the larger race plants in the country, but the few that are here are thoroughbreds from the word go.

Betting Paddock Ready At the north end of the grandstand a betting paddock has been erected and twenty books out in this far. This will be a place of great interest in that it will be where Dame Fortune will flit scintillous with those suffering from the race fever.

Sacred Concert as Starter The fair management announced Saturday that today the park would be thrown open to visitors free, and that Cox and his band of trained musicians will give a "sacred" concert. This is really the opening of the meet, but there will be no charge at the gates whatever. It is the desire of the men behind the fair that the people of Fort Worth come out and see the horses tried out at 2 o'clock promptly to improvements which have been made in order to make the event a success.

Cox and his musicians will begin the concert at 2 o'clock promptly tomorrow afternoon and will render beautiful selections up until nearly 6 o'clock.

Today several carloads of horses will arrive. Following is the race program for the week:

PECAN CROP IS SHORT
According to First Reports Being Received Here From advices received from various sections of the state the pecan crop of Texas this year is practically a failure. Trees that last fall and this year with the nuts are almost bare this season, only a nut or two to be seen. Last year the pecan crop was so good that the nuts were sold by the bushel from the sale of the nuts that owners of trees were looking forward to this year with great anticipation of another beautiful yield.

From points in South Texas millions upon millions of pounds of pecans were shipped to the coast last fall and thousands of dollars came into the state as the result. Thousands of pounds of nuts were brought into this city for amusement and one could buy enough for 25 cents to last all winter. By reason of the crop being a failure prices will be rather high, and 'tis predicted that by Christmas time pecans will be selling for as much as almonds, English walnuts and other members of the aristocratic nut family.

PLANNING FOR BANQUET
Board of Trade Committee Fixes Date for Nov. 5 The committee to which was referred the decision of the matter of a banquet by the Board of Trade met at the rooms of the board Saturday afternoon and decided that the banquet should be held and the date should be Nov. 5, the first Monday of that month, and the day before the annual meeting of the board.

Invitations are to be sent to a number of out-of-town speakers and among the more notable are I. H. Kemper of Galveston, John H. Kirby of Houston and Nat. Washer of San Antonio, the latter being one of the original members of the board, and during his residence in Fort Worth, one of the active factors in the work of the board.

There will be other speakers invited, but these names will sufficiently indicate the cosmopolitan character of the proposed banquet and the desire to have the speakers practical men of affairs, who have been among the business successes of the state. It is expected that the banquet will be one of the most important events of that character ever held in the city.

BURNET RANCH IS SOLD
Joseph Kemp and Associates Buy 17,000 Acres Announcement is made of the sale to Joseph Kemp of Wichita Falls and others of the old Burnett headquarters ranch, near Wichita Falls, the consideration being in the neighborhood of $200,000. News of this deal pending was printed in The Telegram some time ago. The sale was made by Captain Burnett and Captain M. B. Loyd, and survey of the tract will be commenced Monday. The terms of the sale were $17 per acre.

FEARED MOB, SUICIDES
While Crowd Was Breaking in Jail, Negro Took Own Life. Special to The Telegram. SWAINESBORO, Ga., Oct. 6.—Fearing he would be lynched, Tom Little, colored, committed suicide last night. Little was arrested yesterday afternoon for insulting remarks about a young lady of this city. Late last night a mob visited the jail, where it is believed the intention was forcing Little to leave town and whipping him. They found his throat cut and took him out of the jail and buried him outside the city. There are those who believe that he was murdered.

Admiral Prince Louis is said to have been much astonished when he asked General Fred Grant for a cigar and learned that the son of General U. S. Grant did not smoke.

STORAGE FEE DROPPED
New Plan Adopted at Local Cotton Warehouse Resulting from the meeting of the Tarrant County Farmers' Union Friday at Labor Temple in this city the plan of charging buyers of cotton at the local warehouse is to be abandoned. Hereafter the plan has been to charge the buyer the regular storage fee of 10 cents per day until he had it moved to the compress. In the future there will be no charge on cotton which has been weighed and stored at the house and purchased by an outsider for the time between the time of storage and movement to the compress or elsewhere.

From points in South Texas millions upon millions of pounds of pecans were shipped to the coast last fall and thousands of dollars came into the state as the result. Thousands of pounds of nuts were brought into this city for amusement and one could buy enough for 25 cents to last all winter. By reason of the crop being a failure prices will be rather high, and 'tis predicted that by Christmas time pecans will be selling for as much as almonds, English walnuts and other members of the aristocratic nut family.

PLANNING FOR BANQUET
Board of Trade Committee Fixes Date for Nov. 5 The committee to which was referred the decision of the matter of a banquet by the Board of Trade met at the rooms of the board Saturday afternoon and decided that the banquet should be held and the date should be Nov. 5, the first Monday of that month, and the day before the annual meeting of the board.

Invitations are to be sent to a number of out-of-town speakers and among the more notable are I. H. Kemper of Galveston, John H. Kirby of Houston and Nat. Washer of San Antonio, the latter being one of the original members of the board, and during his residence in Fort Worth, one of the active factors in the work of the board.

There will be other speakers invited, but these names will sufficiently indicate the cosmopolitan character of the proposed banquet and the desire to have the speakers practical men of affairs, who have been among the business successes of the state. It is expected that the banquet will be one of the most important events of that character ever held in the city.

STORAGE FEE DROPPED
New Plan Adopted at Local Cotton Warehouse Resulting from the meeting of the Tarrant County Farmers' Union Friday at Labor Temple in this city the plan of charging buyers of cotton at the local warehouse is to be abandoned. Hereafter the plan has been to charge the buyer the regular storage fee of 10 cents per day until he had it moved to the compress. In the future there will be no charge on cotton which has been weighed and stored at the house and purchased by an outsider for the time between the time of storage and movement to the compress or elsewhere.

PECAN CROP IS SHORT
According to First Reports Being Received Here From advices received from various sections of the state the pecan crop of Texas this year is practically a failure. Trees that last fall and this year with the nuts are almost bare this season, only a nut or two to be seen. Last year the pecan crop was so good that the nuts were sold by the bushel from the sale of the nuts that owners of trees were looking forward to this year with great anticipation of another beautiful yield.

Piles Cured Quickly at Home

Without Pain, Cutting or Surgery. Instant Relief.

We Prove It. Sample Package Free Seven people out of ten are said to have Piles. Not one man in a million receives them and we are proving it every day at our own expense.

We don't do this as a matter of amusement or philanthropy, but because it is to our interest to do so. We know that the sufferer from piles, terminated and driven almost crazy by this wretched trouble, will find such immediate relief that he will go at once to his druggist and buy a box and get well.

We know that we have got the greatest remedy in the world for piles, and we are ready and willing to stand or fall by the verdict of those who make the trial. We have been doing this for some years now and we never have had occasion to regret it.

RAILROAD STATISTICS YEAR ENDING JUNE 30

The interstate commerce commission has issued a bulletin in which appears an abstract of the statistics of the railroads of the United States.

The report is for the year ending June 30, 1925, and the figures are statistics now more than a year old, but new for all that.

On June 30, 1925, the report shows that the single track railway mileage in the United States was 218,101.04 miles, or 4,196.70 miles more than at the end of the previous year.

The operated mileage for which substantially complete returns were rendered to the commission was 216,973.61 miles, including 7,568.95 miles of line used under trackage rights.

The aggregate length of railway mileage, including tracks of all kinds, was 306,796.74 miles. This mileage was thus classified: Single track, 216,973.61 miles; second track, 17,300.00 miles; fourth track, 1,215.53 miles; yard track and sidings, 69,941.67 miles.

There were 10,300 miles of track operated by receivers. The number of roads in the hands of receivers was 26 or average mileage for all of the roads in receivers' hands of but little more than thirty miles.

There were in the service of the carriers 48,357 locomotives, the increase being 1,614. These locomotives, excepting 947, were classified as: Passenger, 1,335; freight, 27,869, and switching, 7,922.

The total number of cars of all classes was 1,842,871, or 44,310 more than for the year ending June 30, 1924. This rolling stock was thus assigned: Passenger service, 40,713 cars; freight service, 1,731,409 cars, and company's service, 70,749.

The average number of locomotives per 1,000 miles of line was 223 and the average number of cars per 1,000 miles of line was 8,494. There was an increase in the number of passenger miles per locomotive of over 5 per cent, and a larger increase in the ton-miles per freight locomotive.

The number of locomotives and cars equipped with train brakes is about 99 per cent of a total of over 1,800,000 were not equipped with automatic couplers. Less than 2 per cent of the cars and locomotives are equipped without automatic couplers and substantially all of the freight locomotives and train brakes and automatic couplers.

Over 1,000,000 Employees The reported number of persons on the pay roll of the railroads in the United States on June 30, 1925, was 1,382,196, which is equivalent to an average of 637 employees per 100 miles of line.

The total payments for wages and salaries was $329,944,680. On June 30, 1925, the par value of the amount of railway capital outstanding was $13,885,338,221, which is equivalent to a capitalization of $65,926 per mile for the railroads of the United States.

The average revenue per passenger mile was 1.962 cents, as compared with 2.006 cents for the preceding year. The number of tons of freight received as carried (including freight received from connections) was 1,427,731,905, which exceeds the tonnage of the year 1924 by 17,332,749 tons.

The average revenue per ton mile was 0.776 cent as compared with 0.78 for the preceding year. There was an increase in the earnings, both for the passenger and freight service per mile and a slight decrease in the ratio of the operating expenses or, exactly, a decrease of 1.01 per cent.

The gross earnings of the railroads in the United States from the operation of 216,973.61 miles of line were, for the year ending June 30, 1925, $2,082,482,406, being $107,303,215 greater than for the year 1924.

trains, locomotives or cars in motion were: Trainmen killed, 407; injured, 4,616; switch tenders, crossing tenders and watchmen killed, 22; injured, 126; other employees killed, 69; injured, 559. The casualties due to jumping on or off trains, locomotives or cars in motion were: Trainmen killed, 22; injured, 126; switch tenders, crossing tenders and watchmen killed, 4; injured, 111; other employees killed, 43; injured, 628.

537 Passengers Killed The number of passengers killed in the course of the year 1925 was 537 and the number injured 10,457. In the previous year 441 passengers were killed and 8,111 injured.

There was an increase in the income from the operation of the lines, that is, the net earnings were $931,880,264, or more than 10 per cent above the year 1924.

Net Earnings Gain There was an increase in the income from the operation of the lines, that is, the net earnings were $931,880,264, or more than 10 per cent above the year 1924.

The total number of casualties to persons on the railroads for the year ending June 30, 1925, was 25,711, of which 7,793 represented the number of persons killed and 86,093 the number injured.

Novent Petticoats

The edict of New York's fashionable dressmakers in favor of Novent places all others under the ban.

THE NOVENT PETTICOAT

Is just what the name implies—just what Fashion demands. Fits like a glove, made without vent or buttons or tapes or hooks and eyes.

Jersey tops, elastic waist-band, full, deep flaring flounce. Reduces waist-line. Molds form into graceful curves. Gives Fashion's ideal slender figure. Conforms with lines of Princess, Empire and Grecian modes of the present season.

$2.50 Deep sectional flounce of black rustling Taffeta, a fabric that closely imitates the softness, lightness and subdued rustle of silk.

$2.00 19-inch flounce, trimmed with two broad bands of shirring and edged with ruffle, finished with cluster pin tucks; dust ruffle.

$1.50 13-inch flounce, black sateen, accordion plaited, finished with ruffle trimmed with cluster six fine tucks.

$5.00 With deep sectional flounce of black Taffeta silk; dust ruffle of rustling Taffeta. All flounces are deep and full. Plenty of flare at bottom. All are attached to the glove-fitting "Novent" Petticoat.

TO START CLASS
IN "ESPERANTO"

Former Fort Worth Educator
Teaching Language

Plans for beginning a class in "Esperanto," the new international language, are being made by Dr. Frank Mackay Johnson, formerly of Fort Worth, a professor in the state university at Lincoln, Neb., and now a guest at the home of his father in Summit avenue. Dr. Johnson is an accomplished linguist in both modern and ancient languages. He can converse in Ciceronian Latin or court German, but he is a great believer in the future development of the new language which is intended to form a means for communication between the civilized nations of the world.

"Esperanto" is not so new as many would believe. The first book outlining its scope was published in Warsaw, Poland, in 1887. It is based on English, Latin, German, French, Italian and Spanish. The present vocabulary contains about 2,000 words. Dr. Johnson hopes to begin his classes by Oct. 15.

BIG YEAR AHEAD

Virginia College Reaches Limit of Enrollment

Virginia College for young ladies, Roanoke, Va., opened with an enrollment of 117 students. For the past ten days the school has been receiving applicants, as every room in the house has been taken and several rooms have been rented outside the college grounds for the accommodation of teachers.

This school is one of the largest and best known in the state, and has a faculty of twenty-five or more American and European teachers, who have been specially trained to fill their respective departments.

Students are enrolled from thirty or more states, and several from foreign countries.

Virginia College is under the management of Miss Mattie P. Harris, president, and Mrs. Gertrude Boatwright, vice president. The reputation of the school is steadily growing and arrangements are being made for another year to accommodate the increased number of applicants.

Drunkards Cured
In 24 Hours

Any Lady Can Cure the Most Violent Drunkard Secretly and Quickly.

To Prove It, a Free Trial Package is Sent Sealed to All Who Write.

Let no woman despair. The sure, quick, permanent cure for drunkenness has been found. It is Golden Specific. It has no odor, it has no taste. Just a little is put in a drunkard's cup of coffee or tea, or in his food. He will never notice it, he will be cured before he realizes it, and he will never know why he abandoned the taste for liquor.

Golden Specific has cured some of the most violent cases in a day's time. This fact is proven by many ladies who have tried it.

Mrs. Mattie Atkins, Vanoverburg, Ky., says: "My husband took two doses of your medicine about three months ago and has not taken a drink or had any desire for liquor since then. Our home is so different now."

Mrs. Habel Zink, R. F. D. No. 6, Salem, Oregon, says: "My husband has not touched liquor since I gave him the sample package of your Golden Specific."

Save your loved one from premature death and the terrible consequences of the drink curse and save yourself from poverty and misery.

It costs absolutely nothing to try. Send your name and address to Dr. J. W. Haines, 7205 Glenn Building, Cincinnati, Ohio, and he will at once send you a free package of the marvelous Golden Specific in a plain, sealed wrapper.

He will also send you the strongest, conclusive proof of what a blessing it has been to thousands of families.

Send for a free trial package of Golden Specific today.

WHEAT TAKES SUDDEN DROP

Decline at Close of Day Threeeighths Cent

CORN IS AFFECTED

Offerings of New Corn Crop
Increased—Trade in Oats
Very Liberal

Special to The Telegram.
CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 6.—Buyers of wheat at the opening were scarce, but at that time sellers were also reluctant to take a fresh plunge, so that for a few moments, but not longer, the prices were about the same as at the close yesterday. The liquidation of heavy lines of long wheat Friday heightened a great crowd of the smaller holders, who, within a minute of the start, made haste to dump their loads in the pit. General liquidation hereafter was the principal feature of the early trading and it cost the price from 3/8 to 1/2 cent the first fifteen minutes of the session.

Liverpool Interested
The selling feature had other reasons for its rapid spread, among which was the readiness shown by the Liverpool market to endorse the decline made here the day before. Another western receipt from running steady, had at length caught up with the days' total number of car lots reported at Minneapolis and Duluth was $12, compared with 718 last year. There was a slight rally from the bottom figures near the end, which left the decline for the day at 1/2 cent.

The Corn Market
The market for corn was affected by the heavy ton for wheat and the fine weather prevailing for curing the new crop. Offerings of the latter are increasing from the country for delivery for the present month, as well as for November and December and at a price 3/4 cent above the special price for the contract grade. At the close October was 3/4, December 3/4 and May 3/4 lower.

Oats Trade Liberal
Trade in oats was fairly liberal in volume, but the tendency of prices was toward sympathy with wheat in the way of spreading against sales of corn. Closing prices were not far from the lowest of the day before. October was 3/4 lower, December 3/4 to 3/8 and May 3/8 lower.

Other Grades
Several grades of hog products were of fair dimensions with prices somewhat affected by the weakness of the grain market. The firmest showing was made by corn, which was in demand for ribs, which for several preceding days had been steadily declining. Local run of hogs 11,000 and their price was reported 5 cents lower.

POOL WIZARD
NOW IN CITY

Charles Weston, Ex-Champion,
Giving Exhibitions

Charles Weston, the cowboy champion pool player of the world, is now in Fort Worth, and for several nights past has been giving free exhibition games at the Emperor Pool Hall at 1006 Main street. He is preparing to meet Houston's champion in a matched game at Houston Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Oct. 10, 11 and 12.

Weston came originally from Philadelphia where he first became noted as a pool player. He first won the world's championship at Brooklyn in 1882, taking it from Clearwater by a score of 129 to 109. Since winning the championship he has played and defeated such noted players as Ketchum, Eby, Sherman, Houston and others, all of whom were champions of the world. Weston lost the championship last January at St. Louis where Ed Houston defeated him by eleven balls, the score being 689 to 600. Before becoming champion pool player of the world, he had won the championship of thirty states.

One of the most marvelous plays he has made since he has been practicing here was making fifty-four balls in one run, playing the two rear corner pockets. This he has considered by professionals to be an extraordinary play.

Weston carries with him his own cues and pool balls, which are of regulation size, 2 3/16 inches. These balls are somewhat larger than the average ball used in the pool halls of the country and requires more accurate shots. These are the sizes used at all the competitive tournaments.

German Lutheran church, Railroad avenue and Hemphill streets, Services Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

Dr. Alonzo Monk, pastor of the First Methodist church, has returned from a visit to the city. He will preach today at the First Methodist Episcopal church, South.

"The Monthly Visitor," published by the Broadway Presbyterian church, has been issued for October. It contains fourteen pages devoted to news of the church and its members as well as items regarding general church work.

Dr. H. R. White, a prominent physician of Iron, has returned to his home after being confined in Dr. Thompson's sanitarium for the past month and a half. Dr. White was injured, at the time of his being brought to Fort Worth, in a runaway and it was thought for a while that his condition would become serious.

Jacob W. Woodson of Fort Worth has just received letters patent from the United States patent office on an improvement on an acetylene gas generator. This improvement, the inventor claims, will make these machines absolutely safe, there being no possibility of an explosion, and that this improvement will revolutionize the use of acetylene gas machines.

A Snaky Snake Story
Special to The Telegram.
DORRAN, Texas, Oct. 6.—W. A. Hall is telling a snake story that is the champion of the season. One day recently he set his mouse trap in the barn and soon discovered he had captured one rodent and decided to let it remain to entice others. Yesterday he took another look at the trap and found it as full of snake as it could possibly contain, but had no rats. The snake had crawled into the trap after the captured rat and the trap door snapped on him, making him a prisoner in very close quarters. The trap was crammed full, the snake being coiled in a very tight roll. It was taken from the trap and killed and measured three feet in length.

Indicted for Murder—Free
Special to The Telegram.
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 6.—Patrick Carroll, the United States soldier who was indicted for the murder of Albano Robies, a Mexican, at the largest meeting at Leon Springs, in June, 1905, has been set free, on account of the absence of a witness who cannot be obtained from Mexico. The killing of the Mexican came about by the singing of the refrain, "Ten thousand Mickles threw down their bricks," by Carroll, the Mexican thinking it referred to him, and advancing on Carroll with a knife, who shot him.

Garnet in a Stone
Special to The Telegram.
BROWNSWOOD, Texas, Oct. 6.—Charles Bean of this place has just made a peculiar find. Over a year ago, while moving some rock on his place he picked up a rock that appeared to be a wood petrification. The rock remained in his yard until yesterday, when in leaning up he picked it up and threw it into the fire. It broke open from the heat and he found within it a symmetrically formed red garnet crystal, which proved to be garnet. He made further investigation and found another imbedded in the stone. The rock also bears evidence of containing gold, and with the garnets will be sent to New York for an expert opinion.

House Burns While Moving
Special to The Telegram.
MCKINNEY, Texas, Oct. 6.—The Bois d'Arc school house, two miles northwest of this city, was burned yesterday afternoon by a very peculiar manner. It was being moved from its location to a point half a mile south, and was being hauled by a field by traction engine. The engine was stalled, set fire to some stubble, and in a few minutes the school house was reduced to ashes.

Determined on Matrimony
Special to The Telegram.
RUSK, Texas, Oct. 6.—It is not often that a couple try to get married all night and never give up until the knot has been tied, but such an incident has just been witnessed here. Charles and Jacob Vining of Fort Worth and Miss Ida Hunt of Jacksonville arrived in the city and proceeded to the county clerk's office to get their marriage license. Owing to the fact the prospective bride was not quite 18 years of age, the license was denied them. But this did not deter them, and two hours were made for them to determine to commit matrimony. The entire night was spent in futile efforts, and the next morning in leaving up he picked it up and threw it into the fire. It broke open from the heat and he found within it a symmetrically formed red garnet crystal, which proved to be garnet. He made further investigation and found another imbedded in the stone. The rock also bears evidence of containing gold, and with the garnets will be sent to New York for an expert opinion.

Collected From Grave Digger
Special to The Telegram.
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 6.—A collector for a local firm yesterday chased a debtor into a grave and collected $3.50 from him. Speaking of the matter to the collector he said: "I have collected from widows, orphans, blind, deaf, cripples and every variety of hard nut known to the profession, but all night and never give up until the knot has been tied, but such an incident has just been witnessed here. Charles and Jacob Vining of Fort Worth and Miss Ida Hunt of Jacksonville arrived in the city and proceeded to the county clerk's office to get their marriage license. There's a Reason for Grape-Nuts

United States who does not belong to the class mentioned in the interstate commerce law is "to use free transportation, but who will doubtless be permitted to use his pass as long as he lives. He is an aged farmer in Texas, who was given a life pass by the railroad company as part compensation when the company obtained the right of way through his farm. Every day since he was given the pass the old farmer has used it to ride sixty miles or more over the line. He does not make the daily journey for business purposes, or because he desires to go to any particular destination, but solely because he is determined to get all the value possible out of the pass. A railroad attorney is said to have given the opinion that as the free transportation was made a part of the consideration in the contract for the sale of the land, a contract which was legal at the time it was entered into, a subsequent law cannot impair the agreement. So it is deemed likely the old farmer will be permitted to continue his free journeys during the balance of his days.

The House of a Thousand Canales

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON
Author of "The Main Chance," Etc.
The Bobbs-Merrill Co.

In the hall he was certainly a lucky man who held to his weapon a moment after the door tumbled in. I blazed at the sheriff with my revolver as he stumbled and half-fell at the threshold, so that the ball passed over him, but he gripped me by the legs and had me prone and half-dazed by the rap of my head on the floor.

I suppose I was two or three minutes, at least, getting my wits. I was first conscious of Bates grappling the sheriff, who sat upon me and as they struggled with each other I got the full benefit of their combined, averting, tossing weight. Morgan and Larry Stoddard rushed for Pickering. He had drawn a revolver from his overcoat pocket and thrown it up to fire at me when Stoddard sent the weapon flying through the air.

"Only a moment now, gentlemen," said Bates, an odd smile on his face. He was looking past me toward the right end of the fireplace. There seemed to be a fire in the wall, something impending. Even Morgan and his men, half-crouching ready for a rush at me, hesitated, and Pickering glanced nervously from one to the other of us. It was the calm before the storm; in a moment we should be at each other's throats for the final struggle of the evening. In the wall I heard still the sound of steps. They were clear to all of us now. We stood there for what seemed an eternity—I suppose the time was really not more than thirty seconds—listening, waiting, while I felt that something must happen; the silence, the waiting, were intolerable. I grasped my pistol and bent low for a spring at Morgan with the overturned table and wreckage of the chandelier between me and Pickering; and every man in the room was instantly on the alert.

All but Bates. He remained rigid—that curious smile on his blood-smeared face, his eyes bent toward the end of the hall. The door opened and a man in a suit, who had been in the room, gave us an opportunity to deal singly with the fellows who were climbing in from the terrace. Bates laid one of them by the throat, and as he pushed me before him into the library. "It was Gernam's pride," he muttered, and sprang upon a burly fellow who had brought down the library door and was climbing over the long table we had set up as a barricade.

We were now between two fires. The sheriff's party had fought valiantly to keep us out of the library, and now we were within. Stoddard's big shoulders held the door half-closed against the combined strength of the men in the hall. The sheriff's men were slowly gaining upon us.

"Let us go on the jump when I say three," said Stoddard, and at his word we sprang away from the door and into the room, ready to meet the sheriff and his men pitched forward and sprawled upon the floor, and we were at it again in a hand-to-hand conflict.

"Hold that position, sir," yelled Bates. Morgan had directed the attack against me and I was driven upon the hearth before the great fireplace. The sheriff, Morgan and Ferguson hemmed me in. It was evident that I was the chief culprit, and they wished to incriminate me from the contest. Across the room, Larry, Stoddard and Bates were engaged in a lively ruck and tumble with the rest of the besiegers, and Stoddard, Larry's plighted ally, had overturned table, broke past the trio and stood at my side, swinging a chair.

At that moment my eyes, sweeping the room from the scratch on his forehead before the great fireplace to the sheriff, Morgan and Ferguson hemmed me in. It was evident that I was the chief culprit, and they wished to incriminate me from the contest. Across the room, Larry, Stoddard and Bates were engaged in a lively ruck and tumble with the rest of the besiegers, and Stoddard, Larry's plighted ally, had overturned table, broke past the trio and stood at my side, swinging a chair.

Then the law-abiding citizens in the protection of their rights and privileges under the existing laws, which rights and privileges they often lose for lack of means.

"To unite the intelligent, respectable and worthy negro citizens, so that they can present a solid and orderly defense as law-abiding and manly citizens."

"The vindicate the negro before the law and thru the press and prove him innocent of many and vile crimes universally charged against him; and if he is guilty, to establish his guilt legally and let the guilty party suffer, and not the whole race."

FIRST WOMAN OF THE SOUTH TO RUN FOR CONGRESS LIVES IN FORT WORTH

Mrs. Laura B. Payne Named by Socialists as FORCEFUL SPEAKER
Has Won Attention by Brilliant Addresses in Behalf of Propaganda

Fort Worth Woman Who is a Candidate for Congress

QUIET - MANNERED, low-voiced woman, on the pleasant side of middle age, well built, with a habit of weighing each sentence before speaking, and then enunciating the words clearly and earnestly, are some of the characteristics of Mrs. Laura B. Payne of Fort Worth, the first woman in the south to become a candidate for a place in the United States congress. Mrs. Payne is the nominee for congress from the Twelfth congressional district, now represented by O. W. Gillespie of Fort Worth, and she is making the race for the office by a thorough campaign of her district.

Four years ago Mrs. Payne came to Texas, and in the time since reaching the state she has won the confidence of the rapidly growing socialist party as to be singled out for unusual honors. Most of the four years have been spent in speaking for socialism and in this way Mrs. Payne has become acquainted with party workers all over the state. The most of her work, until within the last two years, was done in southern Texas.

When Mrs. Payne was nominated she was slow in responding to the honor. Her reply to T. H. Gatlin, secretary of the socialist congressional committee, was sent Sept. 20, and in it she referred to her selection as follows:

"All my life I have rebelled against the injustice done my sex in the denial to her of the rights and privileges accorded man. Especially has this seemed absurd to me in this country, a nominal democracy.

"Considering the sentiment said to exist in the southland against woman's participation in any of the affairs of state, you may find my pleasure and surprise when I found that the Lone Star state, the place I had chosen for my home, had set the precedent of nominating a woman for the high position of congressman.

"It is one more blow at the iron chain of subjection forged for woman in an ignorant and long-gone past. May the strong arm of intelligence continue to strike a ledge-hammer blows at the citadel of ignorance until the last wall crumbles to the ground and the last link in the chain of slavery breaks and falls away.

"I do not say it with any degree of egotism, but I argue well, my comrades, for socialism and for the progress of the race, that this step has been taken.

"I am glad to have lived to see this and to promise my earnest support of the principles of international socialism, which mean the complete emancipation of every man, woman and child."

Wants Government to Own Packing Houses
The most original proposition offered in Mrs. Payne's letter of acceptance was the advocacy of government ownership of packing houses. She also advocated government ownership of railroads, but others, not socialists, have advocated the same thing.

Mrs. Payne says she was partly influenced in making the suggestion about government ownership of packing houses by Upton Sinclair's "Jungle," also she says the importance of pure food products has always appealed to her as an opportunity for practical government supervision and control. She also favors an extension of government ownership to all food products, not manufacturing and canning plants.

On the subject of packing houses, Mrs. Payne says:

"The private ownership of the packing plants is worse, if possible, than that of the railroads, robbing the live stock producers, the wage workers who are employed in these industries, robbing and poisoning the general public with their tainted meats, etc. If people should run them with no view to profit-making, there would be no incentive to adulterate food. They evidently would not poison themselves. That little word 'profit' is the explanation of all food adulterations and other grafting schemes underlying our present social system."

Defines Socialist Party of America
Mrs. Payne's definition of socialism is brief in striking contrast to the lengthy definitions required by some of the other parties to explain their tenets. She says:

"The socialist party of America is the political expression in this country of the international movement of the modern working class for freedom from the industrial slavery of capitalism. Its purpose is to capture the powers of government, take control of the machinery of production and distribution now in the hands of the capitalists, who use them to exploit the worker, and run them for the benefit of all, for use instead of profit."

To a Telegram reporter Friday Mrs. Payne talked more extensively on the beliefs of her party and what it hopes to accomplish.

"We do not advocate government ownership under the present capitalist form of government," she said, "and in this we differ from those democrats who are now talking government ownership. We favor public ownership, making all the people shareholders in the benefits of their labor.

"Government ownership under the present system would mean autocracy."

Not a Proposition Ready for Use Now
Mrs. Payne is frank to admit that were the socialist party to come in power tomorrow, it would for the present use the forms of government now in existence, until affairs could be adjusted to socialism.

For this reason she regards the work now being done by the socialist party, including her own race for a place in congress, as of chiefly an educational nature.

"We hope to interest enough intelligent people in socialism," she said, "so that majority will be appealed to by the logic of its arguments and bring about thru peaceful means the revolution which is sure to come."

Some of the Features Of Socialistic Ideas
Here are some characteristic socialistic doctrine which Mrs. Payne advances:

"Unionism is an effort toward getting a larger portion of the product of labor for the producer. Socialism means for labor to get the full portion of its efforts.

"When persons have passed the propounding age, socialism would provide for them an annuity in the receiving of which there would be no disgrace.

"Socialism would provide for the education of all children until they have reached the age of 21 years.

"Everybody serving society in a useful occupation, either as a laborer or in a profession, is regarded by socialism as a wealth producer.

"Under socialism traveling salesmen would not be necessary and their work could be eliminated. Teachers, writers, doctors and other professional people would have a recognized place in socialistic government.

"There is no distinction made between the values of the different kinds of labor. We hold labor the basis of wealth rather than the dollar."

Growth of Socialism in Texas is Rapid
Mrs. Payne estimates the increase of adherents to the socialistic propaganda during the past two years at 100 per cent. All classes of society, she says, are interested in its theory and are supplying converts to its doctrine.

"That there is much yet to be worked on she admits, citing as an example the fact that socialism is not a religion, but a political and social movement. She declares that socialism before the others, it could still retain its present forms in its relations to other powers.

Mrs. Payne is emphatic in declaring that socialism in America is not communism and is not an advocate of division of property. She declares that socialism is an equal opportunity for the acquisition of wealth. Summarizing this phase, she says:

"Modern socialism is engaged in the giant task of educating the workers of the world to a knowledge of their own class interests and of organizing them into a political party, whose aim is to abolish the present system of private ownership of the industries, interest, rents and profits, and establish upon its ruins an industrial democracy or co-operative commonwealth, where there will be but one class, the working class, and where there will be an equitable distribution of the products of labor."

LEAVES FOR CLEBURNE
Drawing Teacher Finishes Work in Local Schools
Miss Colby, representing the Prang system of drawing, has practically completed her introductory work with the various teachers of the Fort Worth schools and will go to Cleburne, Texas, Monday to introduce the system into the Cleburne public schools.

For over a week Miss Colby has met daily with the teachers of the various grades and classes, familiarizing them with the system now taught in the city schools. Miss Colby has had considerable experience in instructing pupils as well as introducing the Prang system in the various schools in the north and east. She will be in Cleburne one day and will soon return to her home in Chicago.

URGE BULK SALES LAW
Business Men Take Part in Campaign for Bill
The Business Men's League of Texas is working diligently in the interest of the "bulk sales law," which will be introduced into the state legislature next spring. Many communications have been addressed to candidates for the legislature and others setting forth the merits of such a law with expressions from prominent jobbers and other business men from over the state.

These were sent out from the office of George Q. McGowan, secretary of the Business Men's League. Assurances for victory in passing the bill are expressed by local members of the league.

At a recent gathering of the Grocers and Butchers' Association in this city that association endorsed the bill as it is promulgated by the league and the Credit Men's Association of the state.

CONSUMPTIVE'S HOME IS WANTED
Glenwood Physician Urging Passage of Bill
Dr. Love of Glenwood, who is the originator of the bill that was introduced in the legislature two years ago providing for the establishment of a state sanitarium for the treatment of the indigent persons afflicted with tuberculosis, has announced his intention to go to Austin again this winter at the opening of the legislature and further urge the favorable consideration of the bill.

The bill was prepared under the direction of Dr. Love, and introduced by Representative E. F. James of Waxahachie. The bill carried with it an appropriation of $30,000 as a starter, which was considered by those members of the legislature who had taken the time and trouble to investigate the merits of the bill, to be a meager sum, but the plans outlined by Dr. Love do not call for expensive buildings, and that amount, Dr. Love thinks, would be ample to put the institution on foot, and at least give it a good start. The fact that there was an appropriation attached to the bill was sufficient at that time, owing to the financial condition of the state, to table if not kill the measure altogether, notwithstanding the press of the state and almost every member of the legislature who would express himself on the subject was heartily in favor of the bill. But notwithstanding the merits of Dr. Love's bill, it was not acted upon, and has since not received the attention that those who are interested in the movement think it should have had, and another effort will be made this time to bring it up for consideration.

Dr. Love was present at the time the bill was presented and talked with a number of the senators on the subject, and met with plenty of encouragement as far as sentiment goes, and the only obstacle that appeared to be in the way then was the deficit in the state treasury. That deficit has to a great extent been overcome now and it is thought that there will be strong support to the bill when brought up. Dr. Worsham, superintendent of the state lunatic asylum, was one of the strongest advocates of the measure, and personally interested himself in its behalf.

It will be urged that the press of the state take the matter up and place it before the public.

KILLED CROSSING TRACK
Wagon Struck by Engine Resulting Fatally to One
PALMETTO, Ga., Oct. 6.—Berry Drew and Will Landrum were crossing the railroad on a wagon of cotton at a public crossing in Palmetto when they were struck by the fast mail train from Atlanta.

Mr. Landrum was killed instantly. He was a young married man and survived by his widow and one child. Mr. Drew's condition is quite serious, but he may recover. He is 63 years of age and a prosperous farmer.

THE REASON WHY KIMBALL PIANOS RETAIN THEIR SWEET TONE QUALITY
In the first place, the steel strings in the KIMBALL Piano do not have iron bearings. They have no connection whatever with the iron plate; the bearings of the string being on the bell metal covered pin-block, which is built up to seven thicknesses of rock maple. Therefore, in the Kimball Piano you get the full, free vibration of the strings and sounding board, and it never becomes harsh-toned.

A KIMBALL PATENT
This patented tone device, exclusively used in the Kimball Piano, positively insures the continuation of the original tone—a tone quality that grows even sweeter and more mellow as the years go by.

There are several other good reasons why KIMBALL Pianos retain their sweet tone longer than other makes, and it will be time well spent for to investigate these great tone-saving devices and satisfy themselves as to their great value. No person wants a harsh-toned instrument and you can avoid that kind by having the name KIMBALL on your piano.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR NURSES HERE

Young Women to Be Taught Care of the Sick

ROOM FOR 75 PUPILS

Four Hospitals and Clinic at Medical College Provide Opportunity for Study

Plans are being matured, are nearly perfected in fact, for the establishment of one of the most important of the many schools located in Fort Worth, and one which will add to the already first-class reputation the city has for hospital facilities and medical training.

Some advance has been made towards the establishment of the school and there are at this time fifteen or twenty young women who are being trained for the work, and where the proper place for the work is provided, as it will be as soon as the furnishing of the new wing of St. Joseph's hospital can be finished.

Course Takes Three Years There is a three years' course, and those young women who are now at work and those who will join them as soon as possible, are undergoing the hardest part of the training in this first year as well as the medical work.

While this training is an essential part of the course, some of their work, and it might be said much of the work, now comes under the "druggery" class, and yet it is useful to the nurse training, as the A. B. C. are to the primary school children.

Not merely are the pupils trained for the duties of nurses, but they have rooms and board provided for them in the building and even when they show fitness for the work and determination to succeed, little pin money, the "druggery" also referred to pays for the tuition, etc.

Responsibility Starts Early Even the freshmen are entrusted, after a certain amount of training, with a measure of responsibility in watching the patients and doing the other duties which may fall to them.

After the three years' course is completed, if the nurses are able to pass the examinations they will be given diplomas and then can go out anywhere.

Cool Breezes Make Police Seek Warmer Clothes

The winds that scampered in Saturday and Friday night from the north country and made the town shiver have had their effect on the Fort Worth police department.

COPS IN WINTER DRESS

All the uniforms used last winter will be cleaned, pressed and when done will look like the real goods right from the tailor shop.

where and perform the duties of their profession. It will be necessary also to have many more sisters come to Fort Worth to properly equip the hospital force, and there will be work for all the Sisters, the trained nurses and those in training.

Working on New Building The new part of the hospital building is now being erected in an open building, and the size can be best appreciated by the fact that there are ninety private rooms in the new construction, and several large wards in the basement, which is really a half basement, that is more than half of the room is above the ground, there is a fine summer theater, which will give comfortable seats for seventy-five or more students, who may thus be afforded a perfect view of the clinics.

The cost of the new wing, the contract price for the mere building, probably including the plumbing and the electrical work, is $125,000, and the grand total will probably be $150,000 before the building is entirely ready for the destined use.

It is safe to assert that no city in Texas has the same hospital facilities as Fort Worth. From every point of view there are the one, the subject of this article, and the three others named.

Except as an emergency hospital by several of the railroads, St. Joseph's is a private hospital, where special contracts are not made with any of the railroads, and that is also true of the other hospitals in the city.

THE HOOSIER GIRL

THE THEATRE

"The Hoosier Girl"

Miss Kate Watson, who is said to be one of the funniest women on the stage today, will be at Greenwall's opera house Monday matinee and night, Oct. 8, in her successful three-act rural comedy drama, "The Hoosier Girl," and her humorous portrayal of Roxiana, a girl with a fund of wit and common sense concealed beneath the unorthodox appearance of a backwoods girl who dresses in gingham pinafore and who wears her hair in pig-tails, is said to be one that is fairly the extreme.

Kersands' Minstrels

Billy Kersands' Minstrels comes to Greenwall's opera house Tuesday matinee and night, Oct. 9.

Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels

Real black-face minstrelsy has never been held on the affections of theatergoers, and the coming of Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels will be awaited with pleasurable anticipation. There are many so-called minstrel shows on the road this season, but only one which faithfully adheres to the minstrel text. That show is Haverly's Mastodon, and in this show no white faces are allowed to mar the study in black; all of the performers being made up in the real "kinky wool" order. The big minstrel company comes to Greenwall's opera house Saturday matinee and night Oct. 13.

Dramatic Gossip

The story of "Wonderland" has been taken from the fairy tale of the Eighteenth century, and Julian Mitchell, the producer, has allowed his artistic and inventive genius full sway until the result has been described as being a series of pictures from a veritable fairyland.

Over two million copies of "So Long, My Love" have been sold by the publisher during the past year. Its sales are said to far exceed that of any popular house. It means the return of vaudeville such as the Interstate Amusement Company has the prestige of sending into this territory. The bill seems to hold forth an entertainment which the discriminating theatergoers of the city cannot well afford to miss in their round of amusement for throughout the country. He sings sweetly and tells clever stories. He appears in character studies, all the way from a farmer to a "hick." Then he closes his entertainment by appearing in a very swell evening dress in his own persons.

Phyllis Allen

Miss Allen is a remarkable contralto with a range that will easily fill the auditorium of the Majestic. For the information of the south, where she is yet unknown, except in New Orleans, Miss Allen wears magnificent gowns. She is finely tall and statuesque. Her repertoire of songs include those which never fail to strike the responsive chord.

Majestograph

The subject of the popular Majestograph will be "Skiddo Brothers, No. 23," and the results of this picture are left to the anticipations of the audience.

wishes to announce that Wednesday afternoon a free matinee will be given for ladies only and the play will be an elaborate production of "Kathleen." This week's feature will be new up-to-date specialties and new illustrated songs by Al Harris. New people will be seen with the company this week.

Summit Avenue Rink

Hosts of people attended the Summit Avenue rink at the morning, afternoon and evening sessions Saturday, and the rink is giving satisfaction to all. George H. Burnett, one of the proprietors, announces the engagement of Professor Roy Burford, the western champion, and the world's most scientific figure and fancy roller skater, for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, both afternoon and evening sessions. The Friday Night Club will be organized this week and will skate every Friday evening at the Summit Avenue rink. The children are also getting up a theatrical business for this company. The big tent has held some of the largest audiences it has yet had. Monday night this high-class company will be seen in the great rural drama, "The Hoosier Girl," in four acts. A play that is filled with mirth and laughter. See the great mob scene and the flight of the murderer. Tuesday night the play will be T. S. Arthur's beautiful play of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." Wednesday night the great comedy, "Wanted, a Wife." Want Penny Postage

MILAN, Italy, Oct. 6.—The international congress of the Chambers of Commerce, in session here today, voted nearly unanimously for the universal penny postage.

Notwithstanding its four London has a lower mortality from tuberculosis than other European capitals. In 1904 it was only 165 in 100,000 inhabitants, as against 257.5 in Berlin, 254 in Milan, 256 in Madrid, 214 in Vienna, 383 in Paris and 387 in Moscow.

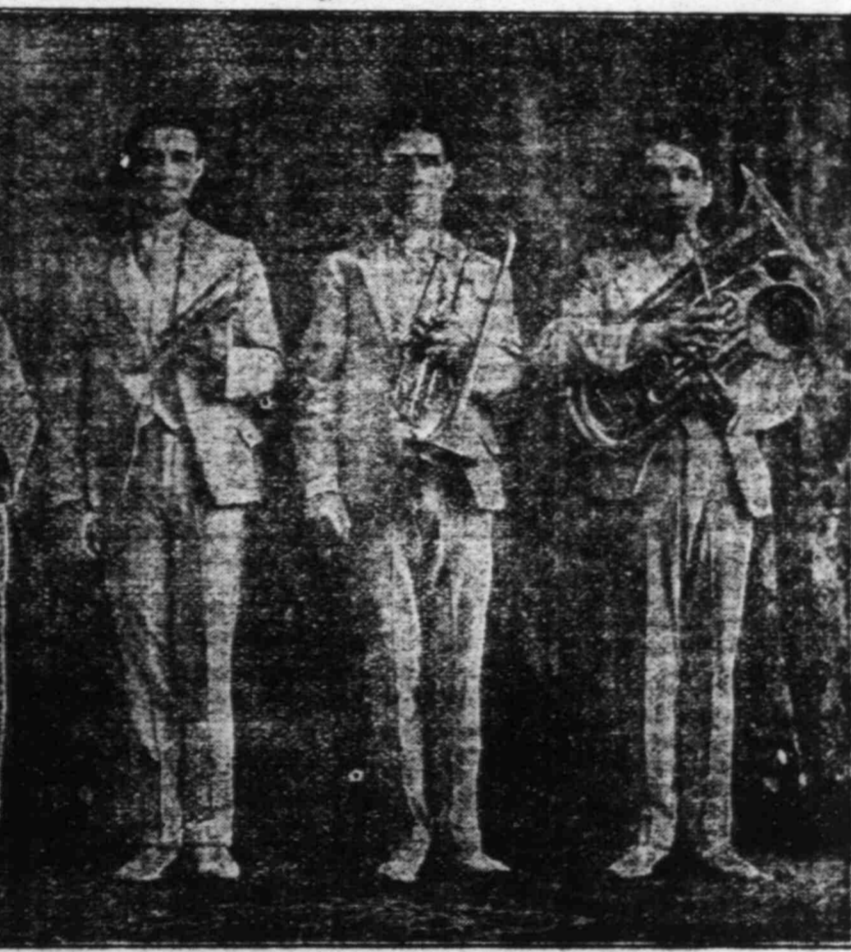

EFFIE PRUITT.

Fort Worth Rink

The feature of the Fort Worth skating rink this week will be the trick and fancy skating of Effie Pruitt, who performs the most daring feats upon the rollers. This wonderful skater will entertain the patrons of the Fort Worth rink Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, afternoon and night. Miss Pruitt has won quite a reputation throughout the south, having played return dates at New Orleans and Nashville.

The management also wishes to announce in this connection with the floor of the rink is being improved daily by the use of three large sand papering machines. Last night's attendance was very good, and the patronage has increased nightly since the grand reopening. The hall is in excellent condition, perfectly ventilated and none need have any apprehension of another accident, as the building has been accepted by the architect and pronounced staunch and sound.

FOUR EMPERORS OF MUSIC AT THE MAJESTIC THIS WEEK.

feature of this season will be the six-piece orchestra led by Prof. Phil Eppstein. The overture for the week will be "A Day in Arcadia," introducing novel electrical effects. One passage imitates a church organ, with a quartet in which George Wells, the Majestic's well known drummer, plays a saxophone. This is the first use of a saxophone in a Fort Worth orchestra. Joseph Callahan and Jenny St. George. Mr. Callahan is an Irish-American who ranks with Tom Nawn, as the leading impersonators of Celtic character studies. These fine actors are not of the hurly-burly Irish comedian class. Their artistry is far above such methods. Callahan's interpretation of John McCool is an idyll of itself, a quaint, irascible yet lovable type of that great good heart of the whole Irish race and that subtle humor whose very deepness is refined. McCool rouses laughter and tears because he is McCool and not a mere stage impersonator; in other words, Mr. Callahan is infusing the beautiful character with all his personal knowledge and feeling. Nothing so forceful in its assertion that the vaudeville stage is uplifting the masses could be offered at the outset of a new season. Despite whatever conditions may obtain the lovers of true art will miss one of the rare recollections of the year if they fail to see "The Old Neighborhood," the vehicle in which Mr. Callahan and Miss St. George display their respective talents. A wonderful thing in the world is seldom in these days of brassy clash that one is permitted to hear the soft music of an Irish harp when its strings are touched by such a master of this instrument as Miss St. George. She is the acknowledged leader on this instrument.

For volumes of music, for crescendos and velvety minors the Emperors lead all musical teams. It is a small edition of Creators and his electrical band. Perhaps a correct idea of their value in the vaudeville field can be realized when the management states that the engaged time of this organization is filled solidly for two years to come, therefore the Majestic circuit is fortunate in securing the attraction.

Al Leonhart

Leonhart is a juggler whose time is engaged for the entire season. It is an endorsement of his work which will bear comparison with that of any man in this class of work. The manner of presenting his dexterity is something new and pleasing.

Master Slater

Master Slater is the "little man" of vaudeville. Persons who expect to see a mere child entertainer will be agreeably disappointed. It is the maturity of his work that singles Master Slater out from all other boy artists. This elderly appreciation of the world as he finds it, is a distinguishing charm of the boy. His airs, his directness and his complete self-possession, without being pert or forward, make of him a performer in demand song, published in recent years. One of the musical numbers which Gus Cohan composed for his most successful comedy, "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway," and is sung with telling effect by Corinne in the act of the play.

It has always been conceded that the Held's "The Little Duchess" was the most expensive musical comedy production in years. In fact, in point of actual outlay, nothing has yet been done that surpasses it. This season, however, Olga von Hatfeldt is starting with the Held production in its entirety.

Certain it is that before another week has passed two new acts will be staged around Fort Worth streets. "O'Reilly," "The Maiden and the Clinging Bug" will be heard on every street corner. These are the two historical numbers of "The Royal Chef," a new musical production.

CRANE PUTS STATE FIRST

yer had been attacked; that in all due respects to modesty, he would say that he had met the best lawyers and statesmen of the nation and had never yet trailed his banner on the ground.

He here stated that he never sold his influence, but his legal ability was for sale, as was any other lawyer's.

Senator Bailey here discussed his amendment to the state bill in which he placed a prohibition on the railroad which he represented and caused it to sell its coal mine at a sacrifice.

Mr. Bailey said he was not the only democrat of the old southern school whom an attempt had been made to ruin. John Sharp Williams also came under their efforts and was fought bitterly.

Mr. Bailey said he talked with General Tom S. Smith about permitting the Waters-Pierce Oil Company to re-enter Texas in an open manner.

At this point Mr. Bailey said he had never extended any personal or political influence to ascertain the results which were forthcoming at Austin as regards permitting the Waters-Pierce Oil Company to re-enter Texas.

Reference was made to the railroad bill, and Mr. Bailey said he was instrumental in the fight against the corporations and in favor of the people.

Crane and Bailey Talk In his rebuttal speech Mr. Crane said he had never seen Mr. Bailey's name appear in the supreme court report of Texas or of the United States. "If I had not accomplished more than Mr. Bailey has in fifteen years in congress I would not boast about it. It is a dangerous practice for a senator to represent corporations," said Mr. Crane.

Mr. Crane—No, sir. Mr. Bailey—Did not you informant know it. Mr. Crane—I have nothing to do with that.

Mr. Bailey—I represented the banker you refer to as attorney once, but have never seen him since. Mr. Crane—if you represent a corporation once you may do it again when the opportunity occurs.

Mr. Crane here made a defense of H. F. Ring of the Good Government Club, saying he was once a law partner of ex-Governor Hogg. With a happy climax he closed his argument amidst much applause.

Mr. Bailey concluded his speech of two hours' duration by first asking that General Crane, who had in the beginning, spoken an hour and thirty minutes, and who had a rejoinder of thirty minutes, be given respectful attention. He referred to his leadership in the lower house and in the senate at Washington and said that no man had ever achieved the two leaderships for his party under the age of 43 except himself.

When Mr. Bailey concluded Mr. Crane replied in no uncertain tones, claiming that Mr. Bailey had not answered any specific charges but had dodged the issue and dealt in eloquence and side issues.

COTTON PICKERS CLOSELY WATCHED

Labor Agents Guard Squads as if Prisoners

BIG DEMAND FOR HELP

150 Laborers Taken Out of Fort Worth Saturday Night—Get 75c Hundred and Make Good Money

Fort Worth lost over 100 of its negro population and forty or fifty of its white population Saturday night. They were taken out on the different railroads to the cotton fields, oil mills and compresses in different parts of the state, where they will remain until the rainy season is over and then they will drift back to Fort Worth.

These men were collected in the city by the different labor agencies during the week and Saturday night were forwarded to their destinations. They were all at the Texas and Pacific passenger station from 8:30 p. m. until their trains left, and while they were at the station they were as closely guarded by the men in charge of the squads as if they had been sacks of silver dollars.

This action was explained when a Telegram reporter said to a negro man in a gang of a dozen: "Where are you people going?"

The answer came from a white man in charge of the squad, who said: "These are my men; please keep away from them." The reporter explained that he was out after news and that he was, when the man apologized.

"Beg pardon, captain, but we have to be on the watch to keep some fellow from getting our men away. There is a great demand for help in the cotton fields and at the oil mills and compresses and if an agent succeeds in getting a big crowd of men, he and other agents who do not hesitate to try to get them away from him.

Get 75c Per 100 Pounds This is the negroes' picnic season in the matter of wages. Cotton pickers were taken out of Fort Worth Saturday night under contracts of 75c per hundred and many of them can pick 600 pounds of cotton a day. Mill and compress men are paid from $1.50 to $2.50 a day and it is these prices that are taking droves of negroes out of Fort Worth temporarily.

First Car of Corn Shipped From Frisco to the Fort Worth Market The first carload of shelled corn of the new crop was received at Fort Worth Saturday night. It was shipped from Frisco Station, on the St. Louis and San Francisco, as No. 2 white corn, and was graded here as No. 3 mixed.

17 INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY Three Bills Charge Murder, One Against Lee Randol The grand jury reported to Judge Mike E. Smith Saturday afternoon, returning seventeen indictments, twelve of which were felony bills. Among the felony bills three were for murder, one against Jim Fisher and one against Lee Weathers, both negroes, charged with the murder of Frank Bonaparte, another negro.

LAST DAYS PIANOS! PIANOS!

The last days of our Anniversary Sale are here, and many people have been made happy by the possession of beautiful Pianos purchased at prices that have been simply astonishing. Never before in the history of Texas have such inducements been offered to piano buyers, and it may be years before such an opportunity occurs again—WHY—the prices prevailing during this sale on Chickering, Smith & Nixon, Ebersole, Emerson, and many other Pianos are much lower than the same instruments can be purchased at the factories by the small dealers throughout the United States. NO intelligent piano buyer should hesitate a minute!

17 INDICTMENTS BY GRAND JURY

Three Bills Charge Murder, One Against Lee Randol

The grand jury reported to Judge Mike E. Smith Saturday afternoon, returning seventeen indictments, twelve of which were felony bills. Among the felony bills three were for murder, one against Jim Fisher and one against Lee Weathers, both negroes, charged with the murder of Frank Bonaparte, another negro.

Another indictment for murder is against Lee Randol, who is charged with killing James P. Stacey on Lincoln avenue, North Fort Worth, on the night of Sept. 22. Randol, who lives near Eagle Ford, Dallas county, went to his home after the killing but returned next day, surrendering on route to Constable Bud Douglas at Arlington, who brought him to Fort Worth.

Stacey, who for two years, had been in Randol's employ at Eagle Ford, was shot in the back on the night of Sept. 22, a shotgun being used, and then his skull was crushed by blows on the head with the butt end of the gun. No one witnessed the killing, but parties in their homes near the scene of the tragedy heard some one cry out: "For God's sake don't kill me Lee!" and then heard the report of the gun, followed by the thud of the blows that crushed the dead man's skull. It was testified at the inquest held on the body of Stacey that Lee Randol had said prior to the killing that Stacey had ruined his home. Randol is well connected, his father being a wealthy farmer of Dallas county.

Resolutions of Shakespeare Club Whereas, It has pleased God in infinite wisdom and power, to send the death angel into the home of beloved president, Mrs. R. M. Kelso, to pluck from the garland of sweet blossoms there

The tenderest bud from the wreath, as it twined 'round her heart, And with one cherished darling she has now had to part. And she grieves for the loss of this sweet, precious flower, Altho it has gone to deck heaven's own bower;

And all broken are the tendrils of a fond mother's care. Our Saviour's voice so sweetly has said To suffer little children to come unto Him. And to many sweet innocents comes the call That the angels have whispered to sweet little Jim. But still in the arms of Jesus thru the gates ajar, the gates ajar, They shine, to each mother's heart a guiding star. In heaven, where God and the angels are.

Therefore, Be It Resolved, First, That we, the members of the Woman's Shakespeare Club, extend to her our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in this her deep bereavement in the loss of dear little Jim. We all knew and loved him, and many of our hearts have felt a like sorrow, for truly affliction comes and goes and we are found pleasure in regaling with the tales of Uncle Joe, the teller.

ELOPERS' MANY TRIALS Could Not Find License Clerk—State Border Special to The Telegram. CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 6.—Frank B. Henderson of Greenway, Miss., and Miss Ethel Rawson, Louisville, Ky., after an unsuccessful attempt to secure a marriage license in Cincinnati this evening, were married in Covington and are now anxiously awaiting the parental blessing. They arrived at the Dennison hotel at 6 o'clock and wanted to get married. A hurry call at the residence of marriage license clerk showed that had gone downtown and could not be located. Dr. Henderson declared that a wedding must take place at once. After considerable telephoning and necessary arrangements were made, the ceremony was performed by Rev. R. H. Carlisle of the Presbyterian church.

UNCLE JOE—THE STORY TELLER

He Tells the Children About Bees

Bill. Some folks used to say Bill was 'uncanny,' and didn't want their children to have anything to do with the boy. Others regarded him with indifference, while the cruel and ignorant referred to him as 'tetched.' The causes of the disfavor in which he was held were several; first, he was exceedingly small for his age, and possessed a face whose only indication of intelligence was to be found in a pair of piercing, almost motionless eyes, that seldom or never turned to right or left, but gazed constantly straight ahead. Then, too, he seemed to exercise some strange influence over animals; and those who referred to Bill as 'tetched' claimed the lad thought he could talk with them.

And Bill Bradley the Honey Finder

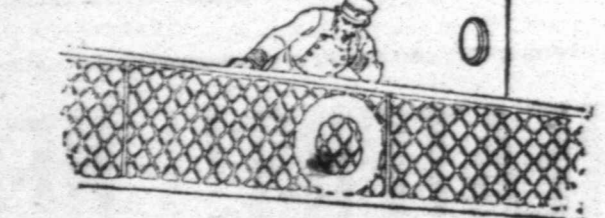

honey-bag full and took its flight. Bill laid down a stick, indicating the direction and turned to me. "That little old brown-back's making geranium honey this trip," he declared, "and like as not it will keep on doing the same for a while. There are bound to be more like it, and they'll probably be on geraniums, too. Besides, it flew in a different direction from those we watched back there. Now you go on ahead a piece and find a geranium bee and lay your stick the way it flies, and come back here." "Can you walk chalk?" he asked. "I didn't quite understand, and so told him.

THE TREE WAS LOCATED, BUT NOT DISTURBED. DRONE BEE. THE QUEEN BEE. WORKER BEE.

CLINKERS

are a nuisance. The genuine ROUND OAK does not make any. Just shaking the grate clears the entire bottom of fire uniformly. The clinkers are made, of course, but owing to the cone center grate in the double fire pot they are not melted together. It is the nicest and easiest stove to run you have ever seen. Take it for hard coal for instance with magazine—we never sold one yet that the user did not express his satisfaction in possessing a stove that used so little fuel and gave so great a quantity of heat. It is all radiating surface, you see no heat is lost. Of course, it is a plain stove, a business stove built to make warmth and yet many people like it better on that account. You will like it; if you cannot help it. If you are going to need a stove we hope to sell you one. Call in and let us explain it to you. There is only one "ROUND OAK"—look for the name. We Set 'em Up.

CLAUSE TO KEEP SALOONS ORDERLY

Being Prepared for City Charter by A. J. Baskin

A. J. Baskin of Fort Worth, who will be elected one of the members of the legislature as one of the representatives of the Seventy-eighth district, and who is also a member of the charter-framing committee which is now at work on a new charter for the city, has some decidedly pronounced views on the subject of saloon regulation and Saturday talked of those views in the following manner: "The charter for the city is now in course of preparation and now is the time to decide on all of those things. Some of the opposition at least to the saloons is for the way in which they are run, and I do verily believe that one of the potent factors in saloon regulation will be the incorporation of a provision in the new charter which will permit the forfeiture of the saloon license for flagrant violations of the laws which have been framed for the regulation of the saloon traffic. "This course has been tried successfully elsewhere and the result has been most happy from every point of view. "I expect to present to the committee which now has in hand the framing of the new city charter, a proposition to be incorporated in the charter that all saloons located within the corporate limits of the city of Fort Worth, wherein intoxicating liquors are sold, shall close their doors and places of business from and after 12 o'clock midnight until 6 a. m. of each week day and shall close their doors and places of business and transact no business whatever from and after midnight Saturday night until 6 a. m. of the following Monday of each week. "And any proprietor, agent or employee of such saloon who shall fail to close his saloon and refrain from the transaction of any business pertaining to said saloon or who shall violate any of the ordinances of the city of Fort Worth or the laws of the state of Texas shall forfeit his license upon conviction in any court of competent jurisdiction, and the unearned part of the same shall not be refunded. In case of such forfeiture the city shall not issue to such person or persons, for himself or to any firm or corporation in which he may be interested, engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquors or to any other person for him for a period of five years from the date of such forfeiture. "One of the requirements of the proposition, if enacted into law, shall be that the court which enters the judgment of conviction shall at the same time enter a forfeiture of such license. "Additionally I expect to offer in the legislature a general provision providing for the amendment of the state laws regulating the liquor traffic, in which this same provision shall be embodied.

walk chalk you find the bees and get the honey." Here Uncle Joe paused to make a side remark: "And the same holds good pretty much with some other things in life." "Well," resumed the Story Teller, after his moment's pause, "Bill Bradley and I had started after those bees and their hive. I followed his instructions and shouted to him at intervals. He shouted back, as he said he would, and I drew closer and closer until we finally met. Bill looked around and solemnly declared there was no bee tree in sight. He said we had started too close together. He believed we ought to spread out more; that maybe his stick was too crooked, or mine was. "So we both went back to our original starting places and whittled off all the crooked side branches of our marking sticks, and then I took my stick as far away from Bill as I could make him hear and found a geranium bee. I sighted its flight and started from there. "That time we had better luck, and though we had to look around pretty closely for a while after we met, the tree was located, but not disturbed. Bill explained that his only object was to locate the tree and hold off taking the honey until his Paw got ready to go to town again with some of his own. "Bees are funny little things," said Bill, as we walked through the woods to the roadside, "that is, if you don't understand them. I'll bet I understand bees as well as Paw does, but I wouldn't let him hear me say that for anything. He'd larrup me if he heard. He thinks he's the only person knows about bees, and that I don't know anything about anything. But it's funny, all the same, I'm the only one he will allow to have anything to do with his bees. Why, I make more money twice over for finding swarms than all the rest of them put together. And every time they swarm hanging from limbs I am always the one that has to go up and shake them down easy while he holds the hive under them for them to fall in."

"By this time we had reached the road, and as it was getting late we decided to go our separate ways. But before parting, Bill took time to say: 'You come over to the farm some day soon, and I'll show you and tell you a whole lot more about bees. And, say, don't you tell anybody, but I'm saying up my money for a Spanish queen, and I've almost got enough.'"

ORE STOCKS GO UPWARD

Public Centers Interest in Mining Shares

CRASH IS LIKELY

Standard Oil Co., Schwab and Gates Participate in Rush for Speculation

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Wall street and the entire country is trading in mining stocks in volumes never before equalled. The strange feature is that many of the stocks can be sold at higher levels than they were bought.

Several of the popular stocks are selling at full value of the ore that they block out, but they explain this high price by saying that the portion of their properties which have been exploited is relatively insignificant and this is true in many cases.

Railroad and industrial stocks have been worn threadbare by the manipulating pools and the mining world offers a fresh region of speculation. That there will be a crash ultimately goes without saying, but some of the best informed authorities say they expect a long campaign of wild speculation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Today's sales of stocks 473,432 shares; a year ago 421,325. Par value of bonds sold was $1,087,000; a year ago $1,794,000.

Companies having mines in the Colorado region were centers of intense excitement. The Nevada shares were active rivals for popular favor, but the general issues were practically neglected.

Amalgamated Copper sold at the highest price it has reached in some months. Wall street is unanimous in the belief that Copper stocks are in for a great boom, owing to the price of metal in London. Private dispatches from European ports today stated that they expected the market to open up in London Monday at around 96 pounds for copper metals.

Several New York operators are long of Copper around 8 to 19 pounds a ton under prevailing figures. Erie made another display of the mysterious strength which it shows whenever the ore deal and the Great Northern stocks are popular favorites.

believe the man is to blame, tho, of course, he needs help to be at his worst.

I think it must be one of the meanest women who run down a girl. Girls know so little and the way we manage our social relations they have so little protection.

Why should a woman with a daughter take part in hurting a girl's good name? How does she know that evil tongues may not be at work on her own girl's reputation?

Women are dreadfully particular about associating with another woman who is even under suspicion. Wonder if anybody ever knew positive of indiscretions rubbing off—that is, off the woman?

I have trouble trying to be polite to life insurance agents and at the same time to be sure that I have been misled by them.

You do not mean that so intelligent people are often untidy and her eyes are so hungry with eagerness to sell her wares as to be pitiful.

I asked an old woman last summer who was peddling a periodical—"Why do you tramp around in this hot weather? Why do you not make a place in some family and do housework?"

While everybody at a wedding was sniffing and kissing the bride to pieces at the same time an unmarried woman of well advanced years and handsome a woman as you are not interested in life insurance?"

"I am very busy. Will you excuse me?" closing the door gradually.

"But, madam, I would like to explain to you."

"Will you allow me the privilege of knowing any of your affairs? I am not interested in life insurance."

I doubt if my insurance agent is making money just now. The farmers of Texas are crying for men to pick cotton.

The woman agent is even a more difficult subject than the usually peaked and half-starved. Her clothes are often untidy and her eyes are so hungry with eagerness to sell her wares as to be pitiful.

gracefully in the different rooms, and was also used in the background for the punch bowl, which was filled with a most delightful beverage from which the guests refreshed themselves between the games.

Green and gold ribbons were gracefully festooned and interwoven along the stairway and tied in love knots on the columns. The effect was charming, and the rooms artistic and tasteful in themselves were converted into a scene of festive beauty, illuminated by electric lights, the shades being drawn.

The first half hour was spent in social conversation, as many of the ladies had been away during the summer and this was their first meeting since the club disbanded in June.

The score cards were dainty Septia heads, with appropriate mottoes in green and gold.

Mrs. Frank D. Hill made the highest score and was awarded the club memento, a very beautiful and useful article.

After the games all enjoyed delicious refreshments of chicken salad and wafers and ice cream and cake in the club parlor.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. D. O. Modlin.

Mrs. Albert O'Neill was hostess for the L. H. F. C. and other friends Friday afternoon. American beauty and the French roses were used effectively in parlors and dining room.

The guests' prize, a dainty water color picture, was won by Mrs. O'Toole, in a cut with Mrs. W. E. Howell.

studies in roses. Each card had a quotation from Shakespeare especially applicable to the guest for which it was intended. Nine courses were served.

The W. A. G. The W. A. G.'s held a business meeting with Miss Lillian Fuller last Wednesday. Miss Fuller was elected president of the club and Miss Bea Rintleman treasurer.

Miss Lily Douglas will entertain the club next Friday.

WEDDINGS The Marriage of Miss Connell The interest that has been expressed in the marriage of Miss Connell and Mr. Paul Garth Spang culminated Tuesday evening, when many close personal friends and relatives assembled in the beautifully decorated home to witness the impressive ceremony and to add the voices of love and good wishes to the happiness of these popular young people.

The decorations were marked by exquisite taste in design and execution. The hall was festooned with southern smilax with a frieze of smilax running around the entire reception suite.

The wedding alcove of the reception hall was draped with the most beautiful foliage reaching to the ceiling. The grill work was draped with asparagus ferns, while over the wedding group hung a wedding bell of soft and feathery ferns.

Mantels in the parlors and dining room were banked with countless masses of Lawson carnations while the dining table had a generous mound surrounded by maidenhair ferns.

In the library the punch table was formed of bunches of grapes attached to the vine, and a set of china and the bowl with the grape leaves as relieving green.

The ceremony was begun by the singing of "Beloved, It Is I, Myself," by Mrs. Julia Hill Moxdox and with Mendelssohn's wedding march as accompaniment for the procession of the bride party, which was led by Misses Lenore Lewis and Misses Mabel Long and Miss Nell Connell, then the bride and her father.

The bridegroom and his attendant, Lee Jordan, followed by the bridesmaids, the introductory words of the ceremony and the benediction were spoken by Rev. Dr. Spang of South Orange, N. J., the father of the bridegroom, Dr. C. W. Daniel of the First Baptist church delivering the nuptial prayer.

After the ceremony and congratulations salads and ices were served in the beautifully appointed dining room, while in the library Misses Ann Maiterson and Mary Cameron served punch.

The bridal gown was an imported robe of hand-run chambray with seed pearl, girde, yoke, finish and collar. The veil was fastened with lilies of the valley and the bridal bouquet was of brides roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Nell Connell, wore a frock of pink crepe de chine with skirt bands and yoke medallions and a pink and white satin brocade with tucked skirt and bodice trimmed with English point.

The bridesmaids wore a pink tulle and shirred skirt founce and shirred bodice with Spanish point bertha and medallions.

The bridesmaids' bouquets were of maidenhair ferns, tied with bows of wide streamers of pink tulle.

The ribbon maids wore accordeon-pleated dresses of pink chiffon. The handsome presents included everything in cut-glass and works of art that could well be imagined.

The bride is the niece of Mrs. James W. Swayne and has been in Fort Worth the greater part of the last four years. She is considered an extremely capable graduate from the Kindergarten College that have given that institution its enviable reputation.

Mr. Pollock is a son of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Pollock and has lived here since a lad. He has a host of friends, who are all very congratulating him.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollock are east on their wedding trip and will be gone two weeks.

The Mayo-Lewis Wedding Miss Eva Mae Lewis was married Thursday evening to Eagsdale B. Mayo and a very beautiful and winsome bride she was, but the smiles and tender words of affection were not called out by her beauty so much as by sympathy with the happy realization of a sweet love story that began so long ago that neither bride or groom can remember when. Both her former friends for more than twenty-five years—more years in fact than either is old. Every guest at the wedding Thursday evening knew the story and was glad.

The decorations were effective, southern smilax and asparagus ferns being favored for festoons and draperies. Behind the nuptial corner was a bank of palms, and festoons of smilax and ferns were held back by bows of white satin ribbon.

In the dining room where the ices were served after the ceremony, La France roses and pink ribbons were used, while in the punch room were deep red roses and carnations. The punch bowl was set in a bed of Chinese fruit of rich coloring.

The music before the ceremony was rendered by Miss Grace Devenport, who gave a violin number, and Miss Helen Maiterson who sang "I Love You" by special request.

The Rev. J. B. French officiated at the ceremony. Miss Edna Lewis, the bride's sister, was the maid of honor, Charles Bykes being the groom's attendant.

with plisse skirt trimmings and lace bertha for the bodice. The veil was fastened with lilies of the valley and the bouquet was of brides roses.

The maid of honor's frock was of Paris muslin, with bands of Venetian embroidery. She carried bridesmaid roses.

The presents number more than a hundred articles, those attracting the most attention being a set of china and a tapestry panel painted by Mr. Mayo's mother, both being greatly admired.

Those present were Mesdames Anderson, Lewis, Groves, Withers, Ewell, Sawyer, Kane; Misses Luella Lewis and Anna Sawyer.

Miss Porter Lou Calhoun gave a party last Thursday because of her 6th birthday. There were a dozen guests, who brought presents, and more presents came than guests.

The Auxiliary E. M. A. met with Mrs. W. L. Cate Thursday afternoon, the first meeting of the year. Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Brownson.

Mrs. Bloodworth at Polytechnic Heights entertained with an informal musical Saturday evening, complimentary to Mrs. M. L. Hargrove. Plans selections were rendered by Mrs. Hargrove, Miss Lehman and Miss Williams.

Punch was served during the evening and musical games and contests gave variety to the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Brann's fifteenth wedding anniversary occurred last Thursday, but owing to Mrs. Brann's indisposition they held no celebration.

THE Original Hot Blast COAL STOVE

A COAL STOVE in which the fire is not out from the time it is set up in the fall, until taken down in the spring—which demands attention only three times in twenty-four hours with soft coal and two times with hard coal, and which gives an even heat day and night with soft coal or hard coal—has long been the dream of the good housekeeper, and is realized in Cole's Original Hot Blast Stove.

Our first experiments, begun more than twelve years ago, were based on the knowledge that more than one-half of the carbon available for heat in soft coal and a large portion of the carbon in hard coal is gas, which is allowed to escape up the chimney with the smoke, in the ordinary stove, and the loss of which has cost the users of stoves many millions of dollars.

To save this enormous loss of fuel, and to overcome the escape of smoke and soot into the room, it was necessary for us: First—To invent a construction for a stove, absolutely air-tight, and which would remain air-tight at every point, year after year, as long as used. Second—To invent a draft that would oxidize and burn the GAS in the coal after being controlled by means of the air-tight construction.

Our experiments were attended with complete success, and we offer you in Cole's Original Hot Blast, not only the most economical, cleanest and most convenient stove for hard and soft coal manufactured, but a stove which is a perfect success also with wood and lighter fuel. The even heat and cleanliness we get with soft coal, and the economy in burning any fuel, was only dreamed of, before the invention of our stove.

The ordinary stove is provided with an underdraft, and has many joints which are made tight only temporarily, by plugging them up with stove putty.

It is hardly necessary to state that the perfect combustion of fuel cannot be attained with any stove having leaky joints admitting a large supply of air to the fire, which is in no way controlled after the putty has dried out.

As to the underdraft, it will keep a soft coal fire burning after a fashion, but it cannot oxidize and burn the gaseous carbon in either soft or hard coal, which must be made to contribute its quota of heat, if you are particular about the size of your fuel bill, and want heat free from escaping gas, smoke and soot.

These glaring evils are entirely overcome by our patents, which give practically a jointless construction to our stove, and by our patented Top Hot Blast Draft.

This Top Hot Blast Draft shown by cut is the burning draft for soft coal, and, used as it is, in connection with the air-tight construction, utilizes all the gas in the coal, as a heat producer.

This draft forces a blast of fresh air, heated to more than 600 degrees, over the upper surface of the burning coal, thus thoroughly oxidizing the gas, and fanning a flame to burn it, as it is distilled from the coal.

This large supply of fresh air, mixing with the gas, increases its volume and adds greatly to the amount of the heat producing fuel originally put into the stove.

Like all great improvements in mechanical construction, our stove is very simple; nevertheless, it effects a perfect combustion of the fuel.

If you want a stove which is as near the ideal as possible, and one that will pay its original cost in fuel saved, with less than one winter's use, you will purchase Cole's Original Hot Blast.

WE are sole agents for this Stove, and, as we are very anxious to give you entire satisfaction, will ask you to let us have your orders quick. We will set up your Stove with as little delay as possible. We sell on easy payments to everybody.

The Treasure of Heaven

David Helmsley, a multimillionaire, has found life a failure at 70. He has no one to whom he can turn...

Such is the motif of "Treasure of Heaven," the latest novel by Marie Corelli...

The volume deals with the existing conditions of society, and the writer strikes from the shoulder in her arraignment of the rich whose selfish lives are lived with utter disregard...

But Mary Deane comes into the life of David Helmsley as a bright, sweet, womanly nature of this old maid, as she terms herself, pushing new life into the hero of the tale...

an interest and determination as ever accompanied any of his tremendous financial schemes.

Not the least interesting of the pages are these which tell of the simple village life. When David travels to Exeter to have his will drawn up...

My faith is carried out the seeming darkness of death will prove the veil which hides the light of a more perfect life...

The chief fault in the book lies not in the story, but in the author's failure to have drawn a single character with enough fidelity to let a reader form a mental picture of the person described.

Miss Corelli's people live and move naturally enough, but there is faultiness in the manner in which they are introduced to the reader. And the result is one goes thru the book seeing a bit of description of a character...

"Treasure of Heaven," by Marie Corelli. Dodd, Mead & Co., publishers. 372 Fifth Avenue, New York. 427 pages. Price $1.50.

ANGEL OR DEMON

BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

YOU call me an angel of love and light, A being of goodness and heavenly fire, Sent out from God's kingdom to guide you aright...

Now, list to my answer, let all the world hear it; I speak unafraid what I know to be true: A pure, faithful love is the creative spirit...

As my ship skims the sea I look up from her deck, Fair, firm at the wheel shines love's beautiful form; And shall I scorn the barque that last night went to wreck...

I laid down the wealth of my soul at your feet (Some woman does this for some man every day.) No desperate creature that walks in the street...

This fire from God's altar, this holy love flame That burns like sweet incense forever for you, Might now be a wild conflagration of shame...

I tell you the women who make fervent wishes And sweet tender mothers, had fate been less fair, Are the women that might have abandoned their lives...

The world makes grave errors in judging these things. Great good and great evil are born in one breast; Love horns us and hoofs us, or gives us our wings...

HOW TO SUCCEED IN LITERATURE

Anne Warner (French) the creator of "Susan Clegg" has been interviewed at her home in St. Paul and induced to talk of her successful literary career...

When I entered upon my career as a writer alone and unaided, and any one who has courage and talent can be sure that that is the best way to enter it...

"I wrote a joke in 1900 and sent it to Life. It was accepted, I wrote a story and poem and sent them to a manuscript bureau...

"It was quite soon enough to know, too. Publishers and editors really cannot do anything for you until you have succeeded in a first fight...

Roberts Bros. had long gone out of business, and so my manuscript went to Little, Brown & Co., who succeeded them.

"They accepted the book, and afterwards I made a contract with them which got them the others, too.

"What kind of rooming to the publishers like the best? I really don't know. It doesn't do to know, even if I did know. Publishers reflect the public...

"No one can write a book without becoming changed thru its agency. The law of give and take makes a writer absorb an equal measure of his creation. It is a wonderful experience to handle live people...

Mr. Hardupe—"I hope the flowers I sent you to wear at the ball came on time."

Miss Cutting—"No, they didn't. They came in O. K. Woman's Home Companion for October."

Phil May's Prompt Wit The late Phil May was once on his upper lip in a small town in Australia. To stave off starvation he sought and found employment as waiter in a fourth class eating house...

"Oh, hell," retorted the artist indignantly. "I'm not pretty. I'll admit, but I haven't yet got so far down that I have to eat here." Under the Spreading Chestnut Tree, in Everybody's Magazine for October.

Interesting Topics in October Magazines

A Lesson From Brazil The most wonderful feature of Rio de Janeiro is the Avenida Central.

A Lobby in the People's Interest A Washington correspondent has narrated this incident: One day at a hearing before a committee of the house of representatives...

This is what Rio did. The Avenida was cut literally through the heart of the city. From the 8th of March, 1904, when the first house was unroofed...

The reactionists who object to the whole plan say that for a tropical city the old streets were best; that these new, broad avenues which bring sunlight into dark places, have also brought the first cases of sunstroke into Rio.

Writing as a Profession When I broached this topic to the editor, he said, "Now, do not encourage those girls to write. You know that the way of the author is a hard one those at Whitechapel or East Broadway—Albert Hale in the Octobay leader.

His unconcern means that he and his comrades will go hand from the beginning to the end of the next session of succeeding congresses; that they will appear before the committees of the senate and the house...

Theoretically, the members of congress themselves form the people's lobby. But, strange as it may seem, the people are not adequately represented in the congress of the United States.

Don't I know that? Indeed I do—and that is why I always want to help, if I can, the girl who thinks she can write. The profession of letters is broad and liberal. It presupposes a college education—yet I have known girls to graduate from the eighth grade into the short story field...

It is a national, non-partisan organization, independent of concentrated capital and organized labor, established to further, in a practical, effective way, legislation in the interests of the whole people, and to expose and defeat misleading special and vicious legislation.

In St. William Magnay's new novel, "The Master Spirit," which Little, Brown & Co. will publish early in October, the hero, Paul Gastineau, is first presented as the monthpiece of a great newspaper.

Professor George Wharton James' new book, entitled "The Wonders of the Colorado Desert" (Southern California), published by Little, Brown & Co. in two octavo volumes instead of one, with a colored frontispiece, thirty-two ink-plate plates, and over 300 pen and ink sketches, by Carl Eysel.

When Hugo in Exile Wrote Les Miserables

It is practically a forgotten fact that Victor Hugo was a political exile from France for nearly a decade and a half. At first he was a warm admirer of Napoleon "the little," expecting great preferment, and when his dreams of political power and titles were shattered...

In 1851 he fled to Brussels to avoid imprisonment, and on reaching the Belgian capital was promptly requested to leave the country. Hugo went to England, thence to the Isle of Jersey and started a campaign in a series of articles directed against the emperor of the French, which were so anarchistic and revolutionary in tone as to attract the attention of the French foreign office.

There was a lot of fiery correspondence which resulted in Hugo's being ordered from the Island of Jersey by the British government. There is a peculiar phase in the ruling of the Channel Islands, and while Jersey is amenable to the British constitution, the Island of Guernsey reserves all its old feudal rights.

It was to this little that Hugo fled, and he landed at Saint Port Peter, a little fishing village on the south coast of the island, forty-six miles from Cherbourg. Hugo roamed the house of a Scotchman named McCulloch, and took up his abode. The house was the scene of many of his greatest literary efforts.

The beautiful love scenes and dialogue which appear between Marius and Cosette were really taken from the letters which Hugo wrote to Adele Foucher, and from those he received from her. That famous epigram, "You are witty, you are wise, but with all your learning you can say no more than 'I love you,'" was incense to the soul of Hugo.

The writer named his home Hauteville house, a characteristic appellation. This was surmounted with a cupola, and here Hugo erected a two-foot telescope on a large tripod. In fair days he would scan the coast of his beloved France, dreaming of her past greatness, the wrongs and sufferings of her people, and other exciting ideas which resulted in his epochal works.

It was during the bitterest moments of his exile that he wrote that scathing denunciation which he called "Napoleon Le Petit." Following this came the "History of a Crime" and that remarkable study of the fishermen of Guernsey filled with nautical inaccuracies, "Tollers of the Sea." All this time Hugo was at work upon that gigantic protest against existing conditions, "Les Miserables."

He would attend on Sundays high mass at the church of St. Agnes, which was located in Saint Sampson, another little fishing village about five miles away. After mass came a sixteen-mile walk, and the sturdy figure with the grizzled locks and beard, hands behind his back and swinging a cane, was a familiar sight to the simple fisher folk of Guernsey.

Political plotters were frequent visitors to Hauteville House, and it was a sure sign that Hugo expected one when he would stand in front of the city walls contemplating the shadow of the sun dial and comparing it with that cast by himself.

In 1862 "Les Miserables" was given to the world, and was printed simultaneously in French and English. The sensation caused by this merciless exposition of "man's inhumanity to man" and the vehement protest against the existing conditions in France, remembered by many persons now living. It really was the most sensational work of the nineteenth century, and if Hugo had never written a dramatic poem or essay his fame would have been imperishable.

The passion of the great Frenchman for flowers, sunshine and the birds is aptly illustrated in the conversations which Marius and Cosette have, and is a matter of record that he was so jealous of his flower garden that, despite the fact he was in a situation to employ a number of servants, he asked the gardener to permit anyone to touch the beds.

It cannot be truthfully said that Hugo was a social success, for he considered himself the greatest genius the world had ever produced, and the incident of his writing to Kaiser Wilhelm I, offering to meet him in a duel and settle the quarrel between Prussia and France, was a choice of an intellectual king, gives some idea of how the exiled writer held himself while a resident of Saint Port Peter.

The simple fisher folk of Guernsey still talk of Hugo, and one of the most charming experiences it is possible for an individual to have is to drop in at Mr. McCulloch's hospitable home and listen to the descendant of the famous Scotch pirate tell of the many arguments he had with the possessor of the most brilliant literary brain of the nineteenth century.

LITERARY NOTES

F. Marlon Crawford's new novel, "A Lady of Rome" is not, as has been reported, a sequel to "Fair Margaret," but a story dealing with entirely new characters and comparable in setting and spirit with his "Cecelia," rather than with his latest published book.

There is a hint of much joy for children readers in the dedication of Miss Beulah Marie Dix's new story, "Merrill," to the terminally ill largest child of the girl who has wished for an hour to be a little boy, this story is dedicated by her friend, the author. The story is set in a little town in California; family who is compelled by the perplex circumstances of those times to masquerade as a boy and take part in battles and other exciting adventures before she finally finds safety. The book is illustrated by Frank E. Merrill.

The second New York article of national interest is "The Worst Conducted Business in New York," the worst conducted business in New York is the city's business, especially the department of tax collecting. Robert Adams, the author, who writes with authority on this subject, states that New York city permits $16,000,000 of its income to go uncollected annually and never turns a hand to get it. More than that, there are accumulated on the city's books in a few years about $80,877,138.33 of uncollected taxes and fees from sheer overweight of figures to $23,000,000 simply to get rid of it. This is but a sample of the business methods of a municipal corporation whose income exceeds that of the steel trust, the biggest trust in the world. The base work of the whole system seems to be inactivity, pull and guesswork, and as a result, the citizens of New York who do pay their taxes support the city while fully 75 per cent of the people who can and ought to pay taxes "dodge." Among these "dodgers" are many wealthy individuals and many wealthy corporations. Metz, has declared that $50,000,000 owing the city is absolutely good, and he is to hold a sale in the district of the Bronx this year. He has published a catalogue of many pages, a specimen of which appears in this article. This article is of interest to every taxpayer in the largest city can easily handle in the smallest.

Lilian Whiting's new book, "From Dream to Vision of Life," is a familiar character in "The World Beyond" series, finds its keynote in the question asked by the Archbishop of Canterbury, "What is life beyond the grave?" What is its bearing on these present working years? To the discussion of this vital problem Miss Whiting brings to the reader a wealth of research and that peculiar spiritual clairvoyance which has been retained in her first book, "The Outlook for the Future." "The Outlook for the Future" is a book which has been published by Little, Brown & Co. in October, is already a second printing.

Don't I know that? Indeed I do—and that is why I always want to help, if I can, the girl who thinks she can write. The profession of letters is broad and liberal. It presupposes a college education—yet I have known girls to graduate from the eighth grade into the short story field, because they found inspiration and help in the English masterpieces read after working hours. It presupposes leisure and elegant surroundings, a restful environment, and yet one of the daintiest fairy tales I ever read was penned by a woman between the time that she sent five growing girls off to school, and the washing of the breakfast dishes. I know of no work in which patient, persistent, unflinching effort and study bring such rich rewards, because the joy of giving birth to a new thought is equalled only by the joy of motherhood in her first born. The writer draws something more than mere dollars from the profession of letters. The happiness peculiar to congenial work, intensified by steady mental growth, and the development of resources within herself which rescue her from morbidness, loneliness and selfishness. The successful writer must draw information and inspiration from her contact with human nature. She must know people in their own centers, consequently she is never self-centered. She may be egoistical, spoiled by flattery when success comes her way, but during her probation she is dependent upon her fellow-men, therefore interested in them, and, so, interesting herself. Anna Stone Richardson in Woman's Home Companion for October.

THE ROAN STEER IN THE BEEF HOUSE

The roan steer, passed through the narrow chute to the "beef house." He had been pushed and goaded and sagged down there in the pens until he thought, once or twice, that he would kick a hole through the fence, fling his head in the air and be off across the prairie. He had done so on the ranch the first time the men tried to brand him. But a glance through the openings in the yard had shown him only more pens and more roan steers and dirt and dust and yelling men, but no prairie anywhere. He couldn't even see the sky now, for they had driven him staggering, troubled at heart, wild-eyed, with swinging head, up the long awesome incline—and there the roan steer stood, but only for an instant, at the door.

RANGE NOTES

In Donley County

Clarendon Banner—Stockman.

One of the prettiest bunches of steers ever raised in Donley county went to a bargain last week when M. T. Crabtree sold to H. B. Lovett 180 head of 2s past at $20 around. Delivery was made Saturday, the steers dehorned and started on the trail to Mr. Lovett's ranch in Gray county. Mr. Lovett also bought sixty-eight head of dehorned 2s from John T. Sims at about the same price. All these cattle were good and in prime condition.

It is interesting to watch the experts that handle the animal as it moves along this trolley. Every man has his part and none may delay an instant or the whole circle is stopped, for by this time there is a long line of animal traveling around the circle. When one circle of the trolley railroad is completed the carcass passes into a tunnel-like receptacle where boiling hot water is sprayed on the carcass from every direction until it is apparently as clean as it can be made. It continues its journey and another detachment of men handles it. Every one of these has a brush attached to the end of a hose through which hot water runs. Every man has a hot part to handle, one the foreshoulders, another the loin, another the flanks. They handle their brushes swiftly and deftly and the carcass is again cleaner. It then enters another tunnel where a system of brushes so placed as to fit into every part of the carcass gives it a third washing with hot water. It then moves to a tunnel that extends half the length of the killing beds. Here two currents of air moving in opposite directions dry the carcass. Many things have happened since the journey was begun and all have been under government inspection and handled so as to insure the cleanest. From the drying room the carcass moves, always on the endless chain trolley, to the cooling room, where it ages before going to the cutting rooms.

The carcass hangs in the cooling rooms ten days or two weeks. If a "canner," it goes to a big room where expert cutters remove the bones and prepare the meat for the cannery. If for the trade it goes into another room where expert butchers cut it into the various parts that may be seen in the butcher shop or the refrigerator in the home. There is one big cooling room devoted to beef intended for the hotel trade. There is another room where beef is prepared and kept for the general trade. These rooms are cold all ways and the men who work in them wear overcoats and caps.

Cleanliness, which is on a parity in every step of the process from the time the live animal enters the plant until its various products reach the consumer. The wholesale market and the retail market furnish the outlet for George Baber of Dudley, Edgar county, Ill., has been in the city all week, guest of A. J. Fries, who is a cousin. Mr. Baber made the trip for the purpose of buying calves to put on feed, and purchased one car from J. W. Whitehead of Cottonwood, and three cars from Wallace Good at Quanah. The calves will be shipped to Illinois about the first of November and put on feed. Mr. Baber has followed this plan for several years and says the calves he has purchased are the best he has ever seen. He is a pleasant talk, talking over old times in Illinois, when both were several years younger.

Mr. Will Gray came in Sunday from the Territory with a car of saddle horses he had been using there. He has closed out his stock of cattle there, consisting of between 2,000 and 4,000 head. His suits with the railroad are still pending settlement, in which he lost several cars of cattle in a wreck near the Texas line.

Jim Slater has been buying some more cattle for his Kinney county ranch, his latest purchase being 800 head of stock cattle from J. J. Minter of Rock Springs. The price is given by the Rock Springs Rustler as $10 for the branded cattle and $5 for the unbranded calves.

SOUND DEMOCRATIC DOCTRINE

"No man who is financially connected with a corporation that is seeking privileges ought to act as a member of a political organization, because he cannot represent his corporation and the people at the same time. He cannot serve the party while he is seeking to promote the financial interests of the corporation with which he is connected."—William Jennings Bryan.

OUR LAY SERMON

"Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right."—Proverbs vi:3. Recently the world witnessed the sudden flight of a man who had stood high in financial circles, and who had worked his way up from a very humble beginning, and who would today be a pillar of financial strength and a monument of business and social integrity had he been content with a just and righteous accumulation.

But this man was not content with a little that was being accumulated righteously, but formed such extravagant habits and such profligate methods of dissipating money that in a moment when he could parley with his conscience he forged a note and put it in his own bank. The money came so easy that there was an almost unending shower of these forged notes, and as the worthless paper found its way into the bank the golden stream of other people's money flowed into the unrighteous hand greedily extended, and the bank was looted of millions of dollars.

When the condition of affairs could no longer be concealed, this banker, who had robbed his own bank and set down for a moment to think it all over, and the result of his cogitations was that he decided to die. But sitting there in the dark his craven soul was not brave enough to do the last desperate act that would send his guilty soul into the presence of his Maker unbidden. He wanted to die in order to escape the earthly effects of his sin, but when he stood face to face with death and was brought to a realization of the enormity of his offense, he just simply did not have the nerve to face God, and there followed that long flight into Africa, where he was finally caught and returned to his former home by a representative of a leading newspaper.

There was an immediate trial and sentence to the penitentiary, and today Paul Stensland, former president of the Milwaukee Avenue National bank of the city of Chicago, is an inmate of the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet, engaged in the very tiresome process of learning to put rattan bottoms in very common chairs. Six months ago Stensland would not have even looked at the chairs he is now engaged in bottoming. If he had been obtunded on his vision they would have been incontinently kicked aside, for the mind of the banker was on bigger things.

And the theft of other people's gold is not the only crime that should be charged up against Paul Stensland. Suicides and mental wrecks are a part of the harvest he has wrought, and he is responsible for much suffering in Chicago among the people who had confidence in his honor and integrity. As he sits and weaves the rattan canes into chair seats no doubt the man's mind is a thousand fold busier than his hands. The horrid retrospect of the guilty past flashes across his mental vision, and he bitterly remembers the time when he was satisfied with the little that came through righteousness—before he reached out for great revenues without right.

In a fashionable home in Philadelphia a few days ago the president of one of the great financial institutions of that rich and prosperous city, placed the end of a revolver in his mouth and proceeded to blow his soul into eternity. His banking institution was a complete wreck. He had personally loaned millions of its funds to an unsafe plunger and he himself had taken money from the bank he had no right to, and was short in his accounts. Speculation—a desire to get rich quick, an overweening desire to acquire great revenues without right, wrecked this man's business enterprise as completely as it wrecked his life.

In these days of hasting to get wealth it might be profitable for all men to stop and ask what is the good of it all? Why not be satisfied with a modest amount of this world's goods rather than risk honor, peace of mind, the happiness of others, all these things and much more in the unrighteous pursuit of riches? Is it worth the cost?

That is a question you might go and ask Paul Stensland as his fingers grow sore from contact with the rattan canes he is weaving into chair bottoms in the Joliet penitentiary. This is a different form of weaving to that formerly practiced by Stensland, but he is learning how. And as he learns to weave this rattan, he is also learning other things. He is learning that it would have been much better if he had been content to lead an honest, God-fearing life and had been content with a gradual and legal accumulation of this world's goods.

"Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right." And this text fits all men in every walk of life.

TICKS MUST BE EXTERMINATED

According to the statement of Dan McCuningham, the Federal officer in charge of the work of tick extermination in the counties bordering on the state and Federal quarantine line in west Texas, the cattlemen in that section of the state have lost 15,000 head of cattle this year from fever caused by the fever tick. And yet, reports from that section all the year have seemed to indicate that there was nothing abnormal in the situation, and if this is the case and the cattlemen of the counties bordering on the quarantine line are losing annually 15,000 head of cattle from this cause, it is a heavy tribute that is being exacted by this little parasite.

It is safe to assume that the 15,000 cattle that have died from fever in west Texas this year were worth at least $200,000 on a conservative estimate, and if one-half that sum had been expended in an effort to overcome and eradicate the tick it is quite probable the other half could have been saved. These are the kind of arguments that are being used on the west Texas cattlemen now with telling effect in an effort to get them interested properly in the matter of tick extermination, and reports from that section indicate they are rapidly falling into line.

Inspector McCuningham goes further and says that the time has come when it has narrowed down to the proposition of exterminating the tick or letting the tick exterminate the cattle located above the line. That is a pretty broad statement, but it should be borne in mind that the cattle located above the line are highly graded and quite susceptible to what is known as fever tick. Just as soon as they are exposed to the tick they contract fever and die. If that section should be given over to the continued spread of the tick it would result in losses that would be enormous.

But the cattlemen are showing a decided disposition to co-operate with the authorities in the matter, and the inauguration of a general system of cleaning the pastures and the cattle is expected to result in the practical wiping out of the tick. Work in that direction is already in progress, and results promise to be all that could be hoped for.

ONLY ONE DIPPING REQUIRED

The federal authorities have granted a new dispensation in the matter of dipping cattle that are destined to enter the Indian reservations this winter, and the new order went into effect the first of October. Until May 1, Southern cattle may enter the Otoe, Ponca, Kaw and Osage nations and the five record districts of the Cherokee nation, with one dipping. Heretofore the dipping one time period extended only from February 1 to May 15, otherwise, two dippings have been required, with the modification that cattle held a few days after the first dipping and showing then no evidence of infestation by ticks, would not require another dipping.

Already about 2,500 cattle have gone into the Osage country for wintering, and it is estimated that nearly 100,000 head may be taken into that section of the territories this winter if conditions continue favorable. A large amount of corn has been raised and a very large amount of roughage, and pastures are reported in unusually fine condition. The cattle that have been pastured there this summer are now finding a good market and the movement, it is believed, will continue until the present supply is exhausted. If this results it will be necessary to ship in large numbers of Texas cattle to feed the corn and other big accumulation of feed to, and this will probably create a considerable demand for Texas cattle.

Texas cattlemen in discussing the government order says it indicates the passing of the territory from a grazing to a feeding district, and are of the opinion that it but foreshadows the same result right here at home. Of course, as long as Texas can find an outlet for the stuff she has to sell right off the grass it is not natural that her producers should turn to the finishing idea. But it requires no stretch of the imagination to foresee the time when Texas cattlemen will be called upon to settle this question of an outlet for their surplus stock by turning to the feed pen and finishing the stuff for market at home.

The time will come when big corn crops and big feed crops will be just as much of a problem in Texas as they are in some of the other states, and many Texas cattlemen are already drifting in the direction of feeding and finishing at home. Even in the range country of the state there will be a considerable number of cattle fed for market this year.

THE ROTATION OF PASTURES

John Lovelady of Colorado City is one of the best known cattlemen in West Texas, and he is deeply interested in the work that is being done by the federal government looking to the destruction of the fever tick in that portion of the state. Mr. Lovelady believes the pasture rotation system is the proper procedure. He has practiced that system now for several years in his own pastures and has met with remarkable success, the ticks completely disappearing from pastures which have been allowed to carry no cattle for five or six months.

The federal government is now recommending this method of proceeding against the ticks as the most practical method of extermination after many experiments along different lines, and it is a high compliment to Lovelady and other stockmen of that section of the state that they first devised and practiced the method that has finally been adopted by the government. Discussing the rotation system, Mr. Lovelady says: "That a pasture has got to stand idle and cease to be a source of revenue to a cattleman while he is starving out the ticks is a mistaken idea, as sheep can be turned in, which can later be marketed at a profit. I have demonstrated from my own persistence in this practice that sheep, unlike cattle, are not bothered at all by the ticks, which die off entirely while the sheep are occupying these pastures.

"The fight against these pests is making good progress south of Colorado City, in a section which for several years has been removed from quarantine regulations, and the prolific forage, which is, of course, the keynote of revenue to all cattlemen, when left for a few months free from cattle who are the agencies by which the tick is communicated, eventually turns out to be their graveyard, so to speak."

This rotation system is to be given a thorough trial in the counties bordering on the state and federal quarantine line this season, and as it has already been demonstrated that the plan will do the work, there is no question but that the effort will result in materially freeing that section from the tick evil if there is the proper co-operation on the part of all the cattlemen with the government authorities.

The bounding, boundless west looks good now, as the rains have been just about right. Just wait till one of those drouths that are more terrible than an army of boll weevils or boll worms with banners hits her, and you will see 23 written on the wagon sheets of the good old Fanninites who have gone out there, and they will skidoo for the place they left.—Bonham Herald.

Such things have been written of the west now for the past three years, but from some cause or other that section goes right ahead enjoying good seasons, producing good crops and attracting a heavy immigration. The predicted drouth does not put in its appearance.

Senator Bailey owes it to himself, owes it to his constituents, owes it to his party, owes it to his country, to get in line with prevailing public sentiment on the proposition that a public servant must not in any way be affiliated with public service corporations and monopolies or their allied interests or representatives.—Waco Times-Herald.

While Senator Bailey is putting in his time abusing the men and newspapers who differ from him, they are in reality only trying to save the senator from a very perilous position. The people of Texas do not want the political scalp of Senator Bailey and will only lift it as a last resort. They are simply trying to make the man realize his real duty to the people.

Houston is to have an officer who is to be provided with an auto, the duties of this officer being to chase down those who violate the speed limit of autos and arrest their reckless drivers. Thus it is that Houston is about to break into the city class sure enough. It's Dallas' move now.—Terrell Transcript.

The Houston policeman thus equipped auto he is able to catch the fellows who violate the speed ordinance.

Fort Worth is worrying over the fact that said city is flooded with tramps. It is possible that they are northern tourists coming south after a summer at the seashore.—Austin Statesman.

It matters not from whence they came, for Fort Worth is only interested in the matter of their going. The cotton patches are extending a cordial invitation, which they should be compelled to accept.

Chief Arnold of the local fire department has issued a warning to all to be particular in starting fires. Cool weather is here, and the early morning fire may cause a conflagration. Look after your fires, and heed the warning of the chief.—Sherman Register.

And the same precautions should be generally exercised. Looking after the flues before cold weather may save many homes from destruction by fire.

IDLERS NOTE BOOK

Do you know what time it is? Yesterday I walked out into the woods and, altho the pecan leaves were as glossy green as in July, I saw a tangle of bushes I got a glimpse of Virginia creeper, crimson-leaved against the gray trunk of an ash, while among the weeds along the fence rows were clumps of yellow golden rod. The scarlet runner berries are ripe and the mustang grapes long ago began to turn.

It might have been only last week that the sun set over the gap in the hills thru which the West Fork finds its way to the Trinity. Now its day's journey is ended before it gets farther north than the Heights of Arlington. The sunsets, too, no longer revel in fiery crimson, copper gold, purples and lavender. There are more pea greens, violets, pinks and pale yellows in the evening skies and the afterglow does not last half so long as in midsummer.

The quail no longer scatter about in pairs or singly, but fly in coveys, while already the bluebirds have stopped for a brief visit on their journey further South.

It is the time of early fall: equalled for beauties in Texas only by a moist early spring after a winter of drouth. It is a good time to renew old acquaintances with Nature, forgotten or overlooked during a busy summer.

Maybe you did not get away on your vacation this year. The purple haze that hangs over the hills at evening is not so different from the kind you would have seen had you gone to the mountains, while the crispness of the early morning air is every bit as invigorating as the salt breeze which comes in at evening from the sea.

It is a good time to walk about, sniff the ozone, and get the heart to pumping sluggish veins full of red blood again.

Maybe you rather would overlook the opportunity, go along as you have been going all summer, start into the busy winter season with a nerve-fagged, tired feeling, and after awhile pay your doctor for telling you what primalve instincts would have told if you had listened or if you had not dulled your finer ears by habits of foolish civilization.

"Now is the time" as the old copybook used to say, for bracing up before tackling the hardest end of the year's work.

"Tempus fugit," you remember the copy book said on the next page, and then "opportunity passes our way but once." Nature's copybook never showed a more attractive page than is now open. Why not go to school awhile? THE IDLER.

TEXAS PRESS AND SENATOR BAILEY

AN ADMISSION OF CHARGES Senator Bailey's statement does not look very strong to us. It is virtually an admission of the charges made against him.—Riesel Rustler.

TIME TO CONDEMN HIM If Senator Bailey fails to clear up the charges made by his enemies it will then be in order for good democrats to condemn him, but not before.—Sherman Democrat.

HAS NOT YET VOLUNTEERED Up to the hour of going to press Senator Bailey had not tendered his services to the attorney general of Texas to drive the Waters-Pierce Oil Company out of the state.—Waco Times-Herald.

HIS DAYS ALREADY NUMBERED Senator Bailey may have clean hands in the matters wherewith he stands charged, but it looks awfully suspicious to us. He is a great man and an able politician, but we predict that his days are already numbered in Texas politics.—Troupe Banner.

SERVANT OF A GREAT TRUST Mr. Bailey is a great man and may be able to explain his conduct satisfactorily to his partisans, but it will be a difficult job to convince the general public that it is wise to keep a man in congress who is a servant of a great trust.—Rogers News.

OIL BAD TO MONKEY WITH Senator Bailey is not going to have a walkover for the nomination, unless he can make his actions more satisfactory. Oil is a mighty bad thing to monkey with, as it is so easily ignited, and when once set on fire it is so hard to get extinguished.—Jacksonville Reformer.

BAILEY'S CLIENTS WELL SATISFIED Mr. Bailey says he is not required to explain his professional employments. "My clients," he says, "are entirely satisfied with the way in which I have protected their interests." It seems to us Mr. Bailey should explain to Texas, whom he professes to be servant for. Texas' main objection to the thing may be that Mr. Bailey's clients are too dogged well satisfied with the way in which he has protected the corporations he serves.—Texas Farmer.

NOT A SAFE REPRESENTATIVE Senator Bailey is a smart man. It is true, but we believe he has grown too smart and big-headed to continue as a safe representative of the masses as against the classes. There is a familiar old Biblical saying that "no man can serve two masters," and he should therefore clear himself of these charges or else prove himself the honest man he claims to be by refusing to stand for re-election. Better still, he should resign his present seat in the senate.—Chillicothe Independent.

CONFESSION AND AVOIDANCE We regard Mr. Bailey's defense wholly unsatisfactory and falls short of putting him in a good light before his constituency. It is a plea of confession and avoidance.—Athens Review.

INJURY TO THE PARTY Congressman Gregg says Bailey is the regular democratic nominee for senator and that the movement against him is subversive of party discipline and injurious to the party. Party discipline has nothing to do with it and the worst injury that could be done to the party would be to elect Senator Bailey if he is not worthy.—San Antonio Gazette.

BAILEY DODGES THE REAL ISSUE As we see it, Senator Bailey is dodging the real issue, to wit: A senator's right to serve both people and mammon as illustrated in Joe Bailey's dealings with H. Clay Pierce. "I think," writes Mr. Frank Eckels, "there is only one way for Mr. Bailey to square himself with the people and that is to see that Mr. H. C. Pierce is indicted for perjury and help to prosecute him and help our attorney general to oust the Waters-Pierce Oil Company." This consideration has nothing to do with Hearst or good government clubs or curbstone politicians; in the contest between Pierce, Mr. Bailey's employer, and the state of Texas, Mr. Bailey's other employer, where stands Mr. Bailey?—Waco Times-Herald.

LABOR LOST Some years ago there lived a lazy, shiftless man in Lancaster. One night his wife put the cream in the churn, which was one of the old-fashioned kind, and asked him to do the churning. He replied: "No, I'm going out to see a friend," and he went out. About 8 o'clock he returned. The churn still stood where it had been, and he immediately set to work. After working nearly two hours and seeing no signs of butter, he shouted: "I'll be cursed if I don't set that cow!"

His wife, who sat near quietly mending, said: "You need not. I churned as soon as you went out and put the butter away. That is the buttermilk you have been working on."

BREVITY The teacher had just finished explaining how concise a telegram should be, as every word meant money. After a little more talk on the subject, she said: "Now every boy imagine his mother is sick and send a telegram to his father."

Here is a specimen of the telegrams: "Dear Father: Mama said you should come home from the shop because mama is sick. And, father, mama said please come home quick. Your truly son, 'WILLIE MILLER.'"

THAT REMINDS ME

HE HAD A STEPMOTHER A boy of 12, large for his age, was being registered in one of the public schools of Philadelphia. He readily replied to the questions asked, but he did not know whether his birthday fell on the 10th of November or December. The principal was surprised at this display of ignorance on the part of a child of his age, and asked how it came to pass that he hadn't learned the date of his birth.

"I wasn't born," said the boy, "I had a stepmother."

IN SEARCH OF A COLLAR Among the prominent men of New England there was none, perhaps, who wore a larger collar than Tom Reed. One hot day in the summer of 1901 Reed was in Portsmouth, and, having to wait for a train, he decided to make an impromptu toilet, changing his collar, etc. So he hid himself to the nearest haberdasher's and began a general survey of the collar display in the store.

"Wanted on, sir?" queried one of the clerks. "Not yet," replied Reed, and then added, "I would like a collar."

"What size?" piped the clerk. "Size 20," answered Reed.

"We don't keep collars so large, but I think you may be accommodated three stores above."

Reed went and found the third store above. It was a harness shop.

A FAILURE Not long ago a man appeared at the capitol and had his card taken in to Senator Bailey. The senator did not recognize the name, but, in accordance with his usual courtesy, came out to where the stranger was waiting.

It took only a few minutes' conversation to develop the fact that the individual simply desired to make a "touch." It was the regulation "Been unfortunate, sah, and desire to get back to my own country, sah."

"What is your business, Colonel?" the senator inquired. The rusty frock coat and black hat seemed to warrant the title.

"Why, why, I am a gentleman, senator," the stranger replied pompously.

"Oh! I see," the senator said pleasantly. "Have you instituted bankruptcy proceedings yet?"

RISKY Senator Tillman piloted a constituent around the capitol building for a while, and then having work to do on the floor, conducted him to the senate gallery. After an hour or so the visitor approached a gallery doorkeeper and said:

"My name is Jones, I am a friend of Senator Tillman's. He brought me here and I want to go out and look around a bit. I thought I would tell you so I can get back in."

"That's all right," said the doorkeeper, "but I may not be here when you return. In order to prevent any mistake I will give you the password so that you can get your seat again."

Jones' eyes rather popped out at this. "What's the word?" he asked.

"Idiosyncrasy." "What?" "Idiosyncrasy." "I guess I'll stay in," said Jones.

INFORMATION WANTED A Camden man came home about 2 in the morning rather the worse for a few high balls. As soon as he opened the door, his wife, who was waiting for him in the accustomed place at the top of the stairs, where she could watch his uncertain ascent, started upbraiding him for his conduct.

He went to bed and when he was almost asleep could still hear her scolding him unmercifully. He dropped off to sleep and awoke after a couple of hours only to hear his wife say:

"I hope all the women don't have to put up with such conduct as this."

"Annie, said the delinquent, "are you talking again or yet?"

WAS IN A HURRY Two Massachusetts veterans of the battle of Bull Run were revisiting the scene of that conflict and had employed a guide to point out to them the positions which the various commands had held. At last he pointed out a ridge, stating that that had been the first position of the regiment to which they belonged.

"Oh, yes, I remember that stone fence," one remarked. "Now, suppose we go in the direction in which the regiment moved after having been dislodged."

This they did, and presently came to a deep and wide ravine across the path.

"Are you sure that this is the route the regiment took?" one of the old soldiers asked.

"Perfectly sure," the guide replied.

"That's funny," the veteran said. "You know, I didn't notice this ravine when I went along that day."

ONE DECLINED Many years ago a Philadelphia clothing manufacturer received a contract for making uniforms for the telegraph operators along the line of one of the railroads. In order to measure the operators along the line he sent telegrams asking them to meet him on the station platforms.

He sent this telegram to the operator at one of the small stations:

"Meet me on the arrival of the 2:15 p. m. train. Wear nothing but shirt and trousers."

At the appointed time he reached this station and inquired for the operator. He saw a young woman, looking embarrassed. She said, in answer to his inquiry:

"I am the telegraph operator and am here in response to your summons; but I decline to comply with your instructions as to apparel."

MR. FUGIT Professor Wiley, the chemist of the department of agriculture, recently went to a Washington store for the purpose of purchasing a fountain pen. The obliging clerk furnished the professor with a sheet of paper, ink and several fountain pens, so that he might try each kind.

In doing so the professor soon covered the sheet with the words "tempus fugit," the clerk looking on with kindly interest.

"If you should buy one and it doesn't suit you, Mr. Fugit," said he, knowingly, "you can bring it back and take another."

HOUSEHOLD

MY DREAM

I do not dream of castle wall, A house with servants large and small, Of silken gowns and jewels fine, And tables sparkling with glass and wine, Of carriages and coaches grand And I the richest in the land, No, that is not for me!

This is my dream— Happy farmer's wife I'll be; Live the hour, fair and free, My castle wall the long rail fence To tell us where our fields commence. My hands, my willing servants are, Out-work the hired ones by far. No silken gowns; but garments clean And neat as ever can be seen. My thoughts my jewels then shall be From unkind things, I'll keep them free, My tables laden with wholesome fare Than with the city's daintiest compare. No wine; but water pure and clear Comes from a spring that gushes near; No city coaches; but instead Our buggy with the bell ahead. Ah, that's the life for me! —Mary Foster.

PLAIN RULES

It may seem a waste of space to you old soldiers of the kitchen to lay down plain rules for cooking ordinary food, but some people don't know anything in cooking Irish potatoes it takes about thirty minutes or less to have them just right. Scrape the skin off if they are young; if old, peel with a knife, drop in boiling water, when you can pierce them with a fork draw off the water and place on the back of the stove uncovered, till the steam dries out—no salt. Put on salt, and butter, and serve once. If not ready to serve cover with a napkin, never with top of the dish, as that makes them waxy. In cooking string beans, put in a small quantity of water so it will all boil out by the time you are ready to serve. Cabbage needs a large quantity of water. To prevent beef, fowl or anything that is old from being tough, put in boiling water, and then put on stove, where it is not so hot. Boil the usual time and take vessel from the fire and let the meat get cold in the broth. It will fall from the bone. If the children have dysentery, give turpentine and laudanum twice a day. A child a year old needs two drops of each given in a spoonful of hot water. Regulate the quantity according to age, giving an adult ten drops of each. Always give in hot water, as it is so much easier to take. Feed the patient on strained blackberry juice. Boil the berries in a good deal of water and sweeten a little. It will cure any case without so many nerve-killing drugs.

GREEN OF ENGLISH LAWN

The human soul is so made that green is one of its most delectable esthetic colors. The color is not exciting like red, nor stimulating like yellow, nor exalting and inspiring like blue; it is simply soothing, satisfactory, revivifying, pleasing, is the human color; if there be planets on whose surface green is a color as rare as is blue on ours, our race would speedily laugh and die out there. But I speak of color, of the perfect green—the green of English lawns. Other greens there are, cold, or trivial, or musty, or crude, which do irritate or depress us; and there are blue-greens and gray-greens, well enough in their places; and in the caves of icebergs, spiritual greens that exercise a weird enchantment. But for the garment of the mighty, round earth no other green is more worthy than this of England; none other touches so inwardly the heart of man. No wonder that Faust, on his death-bed, babbled of green fields; for my dying eyes I could desire no happier vision than the gracious levels of an English lawn steeped in the gentle sunshine of a summer afternoon.—Julian Hawthorne in Atlantic.

RUNNING INTO DEBT

It has been said that next to death or serious illness the most distressing thing in the household is debt. The general thrift of the members of one of our most highly respected religious societies is doubtless due to the fact that they are enjoined to live within their means. With this sect prudence in the expenditure of money is rightly accounted one of the master virtues. The secret of the rise of many in worldly estate is to be found in the undeviating practice of spending less than is earned. This may involve Spartan sacrifices in some instances, but it comprises the art of getting on in the world. The maxim, "Spend less than you earn," is easily understood, yet the majority of persons, heads of families, are so constituted that, no matter what the earnings may be, the standard of living rises with the financial resources of the family, and at the end of the year the debt and credit sides of the domestic account balance, or, perhaps, the household is grievously in debt. The piling up of debt for domestic expenses is inexcusable, save in cases where no amount of prudence will keep the wolf from the door.—Chicago Record-Herald.

FOR GOOD HEALTH

Eight hours' sleep. Sleep on your right side. Keep your bedroom window open all night. Do not have your bedstead against the wall. No cold bath in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of your body. Exercise before breakfast. Eat little meat and see that it is well cooked. (For adults.) Drink no milk. Eat plenty of fat, to feed the cells which destroy disease germs. Avoid intoxicants, which destroy these cells. Daily exercise in the open air. Allow no pet animals in your sleeping rooms. They are apt to carry about disease germs. Live in the country if you can. Watch the three D's—drinking water, damps and drains. Have a change of occupation. Take frequent and short holidays. Limit your ambitions. Keep your temper.

FOR VETERANS' HOME

State Institution Asks Nearly $200,000 for Two Years' Expenses Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 6.—Estimates for expenses of the Confederate home for the next two years were received yesterday by the comptroller. The total asked is $197,538 for the first and $211,128 for the second year. An appropriation of $3,000 was asked for a steam heating plant. Superintendent Chenoweth also submitted his report to the governor, showing the total inmates were 846, an increase of 66 in four years.

Dividing the Rich Man's Money

Mr. Carnegie disapproves the leaving of fortunes to be distributed after death. He thus condemns Russell Sage for hoarding to the very last his great wealth and leaving to an aged and honored wife its distribution, presumably for charity. Mr. Sage cannot be classed with the rich men who have made a vulgar ostentation of wealth, and by flaunting it in the face of the community in riotous and luxurious living have roused its indignation and contempt. But as our multi-millionaire critic states, "there is no grace" in such a gift. The brain and hands that won the fortune, directed by a heart beating with sympathy for mankind, should have relieved his widow of the tremendous responsibility thrown upon her. I know of no parallel in history where "the weaker vessel" has been so deliberately subjected to such an unnatural pressure. And it may be, if litigation shall ensue, that she will never be able to distribute a single dollar, and the scriptural declaration be fulfilled in the case of the veteran Wall street operator, "He heapeth up riches and knoweth not who shall gather them."

had been paid would be the limit public policy should approve.

It is said that fifty men in Pittsburgh alone are worth fifty million dollars each. Then, if these men do not follow their fellow townsmen's advice, and distribute their money wisely before death, Pennsylvania ought to receive at least a billion of dollars for the people's welfare.—Bishop Samuel Fallows in the Reader for October.

HOUSEHOLD

MY DREAM I do not dream of castle walls, A house with servants large and small, Of silken gowns and jewels fine, And tables sparkling with glass and wine.

PLAIN RULES It may seem a waste of space to you old soldiers of the kitchen to lay down plain rules for cooking ordinary food, but some people don't know anything. In cooking Irish potatoes it takes about thirty minutes or less to have them just right. Scrape the skin off if they are young; if old, peel with a knife, drop in boiling water. When you can pierce them with a fork draw off the water and place on the back of the stove uncovered, till the steam dries out—no longer. Put on salt and butter, and serve at once. If not ready to serve cover with a napkin, never with top of the dish, as that makes them waxy.

Fifty-three Arrested for Making Gold Coins

SWINDLE GIGANTIC

Company Had Agencies in France, Germany, Spain, Italy and England

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Cable Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The Latin quarter has been startled by the arrest of fifty-three students on a charge of making and passing counterfeit gold coin.

The original cost of producing the coins was about three francs each. They were sold in neat parcels, in which each coin was wrapped up in tin foil, and the whole inclosed in old match and cigarette boxes to elude detection.

The ingenious inventor of the process by which the coins were made, constructed them of glass mixed with a small quantity of metal to give them the desired weight.

Several hundred spurious ten-franc pieces were seized by the police at the lodgings of Menage, the chief of the counterfeiters.

Sixty miles an hour is the speed which Count de Lambert expects to attain with his new hydroplane which he has been trying on the Seine.

The new boat is made up of a series of oval pontoons, which rest partly in the water when the motor is not in motion, but under way glide on the surface of the stream.

The motor is a 50-horsepower one and has an air propeller. When completed the boat will carry about a dozen people at a speed of nearly sixty miles. The count will enter his boat in the next year's motor craft races at Juvisy.

The telephone girls' home, which has been established near the ministry of posts and telegraphs in the Rue de Lille, has been opened for occupancy, but not yet officially inaugurated.

The renting of rooms is not confined to the employes of the post office department, but any respectable working girl or widow can obtain lodging there.

A room with balcony neatly furnished costs 30 francs a month, and other smaller and less pretentious quarters can be obtained for half that sum.

TURNED DOWN BANDIT Moroccan Robber Offered to Kill Thirty-Six Wives to Win One

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Cable Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Mme. du Gast, who is now in Morocco on a mission for the French government, won the hearts of both the notorious Moorish brigands, Raisuli and Vallente during her former visit to the troublous land of the Sultan Abdul Aziz.

In her adventurous wanderings in the wild parts of Morocco, she met both of these redoubtable personages. Raisuli was accompanied with the plucky French woman ever since; while Vallente, whom she despised as "a most adroit bandit," actually asked her to marry him.

It mattered little that he already had thirty-six Moorish wives. If he offered to banish them all if Mme. du Gast would take their place. If that would not do, he would have them put to sword before her eyes.

Even this did not please the French woman, who said to refuse the brigand's hand and heart even when, as a last resource, he promised that the thirty-six members of his harem should become her slaves and the slaves themselves groveled before her and begged her to let them serve her as slaves.

BETRAYED TO FOE Brother of Girl Martyr if Caught Will Meet Same Fate

BY MALCOLM CLARKE. Cable Special to The Telegram.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—The brother of Marie Spiridonova, the girl martyr of the Russian revolution, is doomed, in all probability, to his sister's fate.

The Roumanian authorities have expelled him from Jassy, where he was living as a refugee from Russian persecution. He was sent, under the guardianship of a police sub-commissioner, to the Russian frontier. Once in Russia he is almost certain to be seized and to follow his sister to Siberia.

When Marie Spiridonova "removed" the vice governor of Tula, her brother, living in Roumania, became the suspect of the native police, who were informed by Russian agents of the sub-commissioner's activities. A big dossier was compiled, accusing him of desperate designs, and he was obliged to leave the town. He went to Bucharest, the capital, but was soon deported, and he is now in the hands of the Roumanian police.

ENGLISH PLAN TO IMPROVE SCHOOLS

500 Teachers Will Investigate American System

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET. Cable Special to The Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Mr. T. S. Dymond, one of his majesty's inspectors of the schools, lecturing before the Royal Horticultural Society on the "Education of the Cottage Gardener," stated that there are now over 20,000 children being taught practical gardening at elementary schools in the rural districts of England.

A great improvement in our methods of teaching may, however, shortly be hoped for. Mr. Dymond, who organized the recent commission of inquiry into educational matters in the United States, which did so much to stimulate interest in the subject here, is now arranging for 500 British teachers (including head masters and mistresses) to visit the United States.

The program will be arranged by Dr. D. Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, and Superintendent Maxwell of the New York board of education, and should be productive of benefit to both countries, as every opportunity will be given for the interchange of opinions and experience between the British and American teachers.

Already over 2,000 applications have been received from teachers who would like to join the party, and the results of the advisory committee's selection will be made known during this month.

That they have so large a number of teachers to improve our national system, so that as soon as the present so-called "education" (but really religious quackery) is settled, they may look for the introduction of real reforms.

GIRL CLERKS TO GO Female Ticket Agents Cause Excitement in Germany

BY MALCOLM CLARKE. Cable Special to The Telegram.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—Female ticket agents will no longer be employed on the Prussian railroads. They have been found quite unsuitable for the work and will be superseded by men.

The banishment of girls who work by one of the minister of railways is due to the chaos caused in the bookkeeping department by disputes between the women and the male officials. "Scenes," accompanied by tears and hysterics on the part of the fair employees, were of constant occurrence. Tais disorganized the service, so the women had to go. They were also given to attacks of "nerves" in their dealings with the public.

The women clerks removed from the bookkeeping department will be transferred to the telegraph and telephone services of the state railroads.

NAPOLEON'S GARRETT Authorities Made Error as to Which Garret—Now Corrected

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Cable Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Americans who have been staring in admiration wonder at the windows of the house No. 5 on the Quai Conti, where an inscription placed upon the wall near the street door says that the great Bonaparte was a young artillery officer, when he was looking at a fake. Not an intentional one, however, for the inscription was put up by the city authorities.

M. Victorien Sardou, the celebrated dramatist, who is an authority on Napoleonic subjects, has been looking up the subject and has discovered that a mistake had been made. It was in the house now numbered 13 Quai Conti that the Little Corporal lived. The inscription is to be removed from its present to the correct position.

WEALTHY ENJOY HOP PICKING

English Aristocracy Finds New Time Killer

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET. Cable Special to The Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The hop pickers are beginning to return, brown and bonny, strong and glad, to the sun and the breezes and the soft rain and the cool nights have all done their work, and have given them a better stock of strength than spas or sea baths could provide.

The rich, who have their Homburgs and their Caribads, their Engadine and their Scotch moors, have, however, not failed to note these facts. The teaching of the so-called simple life has hidden them tire of green casting and so they, too, have been casting about to know whether a little wholesome work would not be more hygienic and perhaps give a new sensation instead of the wornout methods of health building. The happy thought was put into practice by a courageous party this summer.

Hopping "de luxe" has been inaugurated, and it may very likely "catch on." A camp was opened in a field adjoining some in which the very poorest work. In a special enclosure the smart hoppers began their labor. It is only fair to say that the day's work did not commence so early as is usual with the hop pickers, but then, the tents of the amateurs are expensively furnished, soft beds are more inviting than trusses of hay and straw; what wonder that they should wish to sleep longer. At 1 o'clock a delightful lunch is served, with all the neat appliances of the camping outfit.

The ladies loudly declare that it has done them no end of good, and by and by if the craze grows, we may expect to see the Kent hop yards crowded with the tired pleasure seekers of the West End of London. This will be all right if the ordinary picker is provided with a family ticket, and hotel coupons for a month at Marienburg, or a tour in Switzerland. It is always fair to change places, for exchange is no robbery.

SAYS AMERICAN BOOK INIMITABLE

Frenchman Declares Book is Better Than Dickens

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Cable Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—A writer in the Gaulois, who hides his identity under the pseudonym of "Pepper and Salt," has published an article on the subject of the French translation of an American book, which has just appeared under the title of "Frere et Soeur" (Brother and Sister), the original of which is by Hugo Berbeck, of Brooklyn. Y. M. Francois Coppee, of the French academy, has written a preface of the French edition.

The critic declares that this work is one of the most beautiful which he has read, and that it is bound to live in the libraries of those who appreciate really good books. Despite its many faults of construction and general workmanship, which betray the inexperience of the author, "Frere et Soeur," the critic says, is a little gem.

A wonderful story told with a simple charm which is inimitable. The chapters in which the hero, Tom Pratt, tries to find a publisher for his book, are, says "Pepper and Salt" worthy of Dickens, and even more touching and poignant in some points than the Englishman's work.

TEA POPULAR DRINK English Houses Established for Benefit of Those Liking Beverage

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET. Cable Special to The Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Rumpelmayer's tea-house, in the Rue de Rivoli, has long been a rendezvous for all the best known English and American visitors to Paris. "Rumpelmayer" in Monte Carlo is almost as well known, and now here we are to have "Rumpelmayer" in St. James street, in London, which will start as a tea-house, but will, it is expected, gradually expand into a full blown restaurant.

On December 1st, we are told, we are to hear Mme. Fatti on the London concert stage for the last time. FACED TERRIBLE DEATH ON GLACIER

Spent Five Days Cold and Hungry

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Cable Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Another terrible Alpine adventure has been gone thru on the Wetterhorn. A Frenchman named Thery, with two guides, having spent four days, suffering from hunger and cold on the mountain and the Huhnerguts glacier.

They attempted the ascent by a route never followed by the most skillful Alpinists at this time of the year. He was expected back at Grindelwald on the day after setting out, but did not appear all thru the third day, and was given up for dead.

The fourth day three men were seen thru telescopes from Grindelwald on the glacier. They were working in turns at hacking steps in the ice by which to descend. One of the men was seen to be much exhausted.

The party were descending a route never before attempted. They had collapsed thru cold and hunger, and the three had spent two nights, starving and half frozen on the mountain.

A rescue party brought them back to Grindelwald on the fifth day. They are recovering, and the hardy guides are little the worse for their adventure.

Religion never will be attractive so long as it only offers easy things to men.

PRINCE ROBBED WEALTHY WOMEN

Sniff of His Bouquet Caused Fainting Spell

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Cable Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—"Prince Tschillindro, of Montenegro," otherwise Ramselweiff, has been arrested at the Grand hotel here on the charge of stealing jewelry from American and English women staying at the swellest Parisian hotels.

Apparently a man of wealth, he engaged expensive suites of rooms at the various hotels and made himself agreeable to the lady guests who wore the costliest jewelry.

Flattered by the attentions of the "prince," the ladies were disposed to accept attentions, which mostly took the form of bouquets of lovely flowers.

After smelling the bouquet the "prince's" victim would faint and have to be led to her room. This was the effect of drugs which had been used in composing the bouquet.

It is alleged that Ramselweiff relieved the fainting lady of her jewelry under the pretence of rendering assistance, and that when he was arrested he was in the act of pocketing a costly diamond bracelet belonging to an American woman who had accepted one of his bouquets.

QUITTS $50,000 JOB German Financier Becomes Government Employee at $3,750 Annually

BY MALCOLM CLARKE. Cable Special to The Telegram.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—With characteristic enterprise and a tendency toward the American, which some of his subjects do not appreciate, the Kaiser has appointed Herr Deinburg, the famous business man, head of the German colonial office, in place of Prince Ernst Hohenlohe-Langenburg, who has retired. Herr Deinburg started business life as a clerk, and has risen to be a banker with an income of $50,000 a year. This he sacrifices for an income of $3,750 a year and an official residence. He was a director of several banks, and the leader of a dozen or so industrial enterprises in Germany, as well as a director of the Consolidated Mines Selection Company.

INFANTS ARE DYING OFF

Lack of Mothers' Knowledge Blamed for Death

CURE SUGGESTED

Englishmen Would Institute Doll Drill for Little Girls at School

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET. Cable Special to The Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Speaking at a meeting of the Sanitary Inspectors' Association at Blackpool the other day, Sir James Crighton Browne spoke very strongly about the waste of infant life which goes on in England and Wales, and which in 1904—the last year for which returns are available—reached the horrible figure of 145 per 1,000 for infants under 1 year.

To remedy this he said we must have well trained lady visitors to teach mothers the lost art of mothering. He pointed out that the complex conditions under which the human race now lives, instincts are not enough, they must be supplemented by technical knowledge.

Sir Lauder Brunton has suggested a poupee department in all our public schools, and doll drill for all little school girls. The last suggestion seems to me rather bearing at the wrong end. Would not the little ones learn more of the art of mothering from being themselves mothered, even if only by a well trained teacher, than from being made to play at being mothers, while they really are only babies?

Speaking of recreation, Sir James said that motoring "is in relation to scenery what both are in relation to food. The flavor is missed in both cases, and indigestion results, mental dyspepsia in the one case, stomach dyspepsia in the other. The confirmed motorist must, he thinks, become sluggish in intellect, and excitable and jumpy in temper, while motoring at its worst tends toward homicidal mania."

The British Phrenological Society is organizing a conference which should do something toward settling a long disputed question. They have invited men who are authorities on the physiology of the brain, on craniology, anthropology and related subjects, to take part with the officials of the society in a discussion on the educational value of phrenology.

That the society includes such men as Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace, Dr. Bernard Hollander, Mr. J. M. Robertson, Mr. P., and Mr. William Why, is a guarantee that it will be seriously conducted, and if the scientific basis of phrenology can be proved to exist, should have useful results.

While, however, psychologists are still unable to decide whether any function of the mind can be readily associated with any portion of the brain, and anatomists tell us that the outside shape of the skull has little or no connection with the convolutions of the brain it is difficult for the lay mind to see how this scientific basis can be proved to exist, and without it the discussion can lead, I fear, nowhere.

THAMES FAVORED Americans Sojourn on Boating Point

BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET. Cable Special to The Telegram.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—This summer has created a record in the number of visitors to the boating center on the river Thames, and especially in the number of Americans who have been among the sojourners in that happy valley. Of course the British boating crew is in some measure responsible for this, although the numbers have been steadily increasing ever since the beginning of the Kingston-to-Oxford journey no motor passenger train carried. This season 35,000 passengers have taken the trip, and in the case of eight steam launches is needed for the service.

All other forms of transit have increased in like proportion, and those who get their living by the river side rejoice accordingly. But the heart of many a man and woman who loved the dreamy quiet of the old time, little-frequented streams is sad in looking over the crowded waterways, and "thinking of the days that are no more."

PARIS POPULAR 331,453 Americans Visit French Capital in Year

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Cable Special to The Telegram.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—Interesting statistics relating to American visitors in Paris have just been published. They show that between August 31, 1905, and the same day 1906, 331,453 Americans arrived in Paris. This is an increase of about 25 per cent on the previous year, when there were 261,974 arrivals from the United States.

One of our wise men who has just returned from an expedition to the upper Nile claims to have added 1,000 years to history by showing that the earliest authentic date was 4341 B. C. "The manufacturers of Massachusetts" last year amounted to $1,998,751, which is 10.55 per cent more than was manufactured in 1904.

Lady Henry Somerset Does Good Work for Temperance Cause

BY PAUL LAMBETH.
(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Of all the real workers among the British aristocracy no woman works harder than Lady Henry Somerset, the great temperance reformer, whose latest recruit at her home for inebriate women at Duxhurst, Kent, is the former maid of the late Madame Belle Cole, the popular English singer.

This maid, who formerly occupied a first-class position, was found in rags in Fleet street, the story by a woman newspaper reporter. The unfortunate woman, who had been sinking lower and lower, had been without food for several days in the street.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.
(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)

PARIS, Oct. 6.—In an article on clothes, published in the Gaulois, M. Emile Euguet of the French academy has brought to the notice of the public some curious facts. He says that of the 1,500,000,000 inhabitants of this globe, only 500,000,000 are clothed. By that he means completely covered, from the throat to the ground. The remainder 750,000,000 are only partially clothed. The remaining 250,000,000 do not wear clothing of any sort. They go naked.

HOW TO BUILD UP A TOWN THRU A COMMERCIAL CLUB

ONE of the most progressive commercial organizations in Texas is the Abilene 25,000 club, which is doing a great work for the development of not only Abilene, but also of the big section in west Texas known as the Abilene country. Last July The Telegram told something of the club's plans of work and its liberal view that development of the country around Abilene was as much the club's work as the development of Abilene itself. O. P. Thomas, secretary of the 25,000 club, has written an interesting article for The Telegram, telling how a commercial club can help build up its own community and enclosing a recent photograph of some Abilene country products. But a few years ago Abilene was the center for the range country.

SPECIMEN PRODUCTS OF THE ABILENE COUNTRY.

(By O. P. THOMAS.)

A few years ago we only heard of the "Commercial Club" as a thing remote, or far away; somewhere back east, where we thought, perhaps, some profitable use might be made out of such organizations. In the past few years, however, they have been getting closer and closer to us, and now we have them in our midst, and are beginning to study them, their uses and abuses, what they may be made to accomplish, and whether or not they are a necessary factor in the upbuilding and advancement of cities and localities.

The function of our commercial organization may be to embrace sundry and various plans by which it is hoped or expected that good may accrue to the business or agricultural interests and of given locations.

But it would seem that its most vital use, or the legitimate excuse for its existence would lie in its ability to properly advertise the resources, investment advantages, etc., of the place it represents.

A community has the same need for intelligent advertising of its resources as a business firm has for advertising its wares and merchandise. Talk to any progressive and enterprising merchant about the purpose and value of advertising he will readily agree that no matter how "up to date" his stock, how much intrinsic value he gives for the money spent with him; how well qualified and courteous his salespeople, in order to secure and hold a proper share of the business in his line he must continually tell his friends and customers, as well as the people generally about the attractive features of his stock, or his competitor will get off with the bulk of the business in his line. Hence the same principle enters into the business interests of a town or a community, and the outside world must be made acquainted with the advantages and inducements the community has to offer if they would secure their full share of new people who are constantly looking for other fields of endeavor, as well as capital that is constantly looking for new fields of investment.

There is but one reason alone why so much of Texas is today undeveloped, and that is that the people of the north and the east who have had money to invest were unacquainted with our great natural advantages and wondrous ful resources until a few straggling excursionists accidentally stumbled on to some of the good things in Texas, and now the eyes of the world, so to speak, are turned toward Texas. No good work, however, can be left to stand alone, and the reason why the people of the north and east are disposed to continue to look with favor upon Texas is the fact that such organizations as the Commercial Club, and 150,000 Club of Dallas, the Board of Trade of Fort Worth, as well as similar organizations of other cities of Texas have for a number of years not only invested liberally in "printers' ink," but have kept up their business organizations and have managed to run them upon a business basis. Their business and professional people realizing that every move that helps a community promotes the interests of every individual in that community, have gone down in their pockets for contributions for the purpose of having the work kept up and continued in an intelligent and businesslike manner.

Contributions Investments

In the cities where commercial clubs have been in existence for several years, and where the citizens have had a chance to realize the importance, the value and possibilities of the work, they do not call the monthly contributions "donations," but speak of them as investments, pure and simple, and state to you readily and enthusiastically that their contributions, along these lines they consider among their best investments.

In organizing a campaign for this kind of work the first and most important feature of the program to my mind is to bring your own people to realize fully the importance of the work, and get them to take enough interest to thoroughly acquaint themselves with the natural advantages as well as the various resources of their community. When we have accomplished this we have won the biggest battle of the whole fight. Once the idea is thoroughly instilled into our minds that a merchant can come just as near making a success of a business and secure his maximum profit rate of the trade without advertising, as a city or a community can secure its resources without telling the balance of the world anything about it, and the importance and value of a commercial organization run on business principles is fully recognized.

Why do people pay $50 to $150 per acre for farm lands no more productive in money crops than the lands of Texas, and where they have nine months winter, fifteen days of "sunstroke" summation and 2 1/2 months late fall, where they could come to Texas and buy land at from $10 to $25 per acre that is the equal of their best, and where the climate is almost ideal?

Because they don't know fully about Texas lands.

Why do factories—or why did they in the recent past—cling so tenaciously to the north and east, when in so many instances a location in the south would place them closer to the fields of production of the raw material and where they have numerous advantages over a northern and eastern climate and location for factory purposes? Because they did not know about it; that's all. Now, the question is, shall we tell them about it, and tell them often, intelligently and forcibly and keep on telling them until we shall have received our full share of the new people and additional new capital needed to bring our state up to its maximum capacity of development.

To be able to fully appreciate the value of a commercial organization we must get it into our minds that there are two kinds of benefits derived—direct and indirect. The first is easily approximated and readily appreciated, but the trouble is that they are not near so numerous as the indirect benefits. For instance, we get into correspondence with some one by reason of learning his address through some source of information and through that correspondence we induce the party to come and investigate and by looking on carefully we succeed in locating him after he has been introduced to some of the people who are members of our commercial organization, and then the local papers announce the fact as a result of the Commercial Club's work and it furnishes a visible example of what may be done through the medium of our organization and might be properly termed a "visible" direct benefit.

On the other hand, through literature being sent out by your commercial organization and thru the publicity given it in the way of news items, interviews and advertisements, numbers of people become interested in what they see and hear about your locality and a considerable per cent come to investigate. Now, while it is a fact that they have been made to think about your locality thru some of the means above outlined, it does not necessarily follow that these good people will report at your club headquarters when they strike town and tell you they were induced to investigate your country by reason of having gotten hold of some of your literature or having read something about your locality in some newspaper. The fact is, the majority of those who come to investigate, which is to them a new section of country, are inclined to be very quiet about it; in fact, if your secretary happens to run them down and engage them in conversation they nearly always belong to that class of men (who are certainly on the increase at this good time), who are "just looking around, spending my vacation and taking a little pleasure trip."

Now this character of people not only as a rule become investors, but oft times prove our most valuable acquisitions. But the fact that they slip in and quietly have so little to say and never think of telling anyone that they were attracted to your community thru the efforts of your commercial organization for fear they might be put down at once as mere "suckers" ready to "take the cork under" at the first bait thrown out; consequently when they become investors and locate within your club or community, they have never been given any credit for them, and you find your citizens get to thinking that the people are coming any way, and that the club work is only a very small part in the fight for advancement.

Need of Personal Work

So a little canvassing among your new citizens occasionally will help to keep in touch with the full scope and character of your club work by frequently showing its value and usefulness in instances that had been overlooked.

A very important feature of commercial club work to my mind is to have a definite aim incorporated in your plan. That is to say, instead of calling your organization the "Commercial Club," or "the Board of Trade" of such and such place, set a definite figure for a population to be reached within a given time, and call your organization the 25,000 Club, the 50,000 Club, the 100,000 Club, or whatever you think is reasonable and work to that end. This gets your people to talking and as your club work progresses the effectiveness of the work will be evidenced largely in the confidence shown by your people of the final success of the project.

Another thing, beware of "advertising grafts"; they are abroad in the land in different forms. Control your own advertising, make it a democratic organization in the disbursement of its funds; cut out all indirect expenses to your club members and pay for your advertisement straight. Then your people know where the money goes.

"Write ups" in newspapers are a good thing, but when an organization sanctions every subscription agent that comes to town soliciting subscribers on the promise to give the town a good "free" write up providing he secures a certain number of subscriptions, if you will analyze his proposition carefully you will easily find that the space given in his paper to a write up of your locality is paid for by your citizens for a very long time. The fact that your citizens have a year's subscription to some periodical that "nine chances to one" they never have the time to read is a mistake that he can hardly make a mistake by locating in any part of Texas.

Patronize Home Industry

Locally, you can encourage the doctrine of patronizing home industry, as near as possible, expending the club funds for advertising the printing, etc., with your local printers; and especially should you make it a point to send your local papers every assistance possible by gathering news items for them, bearing in mind the fact that the local paper as a rule does more gratis work for the community than any other agency, and therefore should receive your thoughtful, intelligent and earnest consideration. Also bear in mind that the newspapers generally have "the call on you" for courtesies and favors, whenever their representatives "blow in." These representatives are good fellows, the papers they represent as a rule are indispensable factors in the development and advertisement of our great state.

As previously stated the eyes of the world are upon Texas, truly the land of wonderful opportunities, and the time was never more opportune than now for Texas to secure her full proportion of new capital seeking profitable fields of investment. The tide may not be entirely turned this way, but it is inclined to turn Texasward, and a system by which dependable information may be promptly furnished all inquiries of every section, as to agricultural, manufacturing and financial investments, together with a well-formulated and active plan whereby the advantages and resources of our state may be placed before the people of other sections in an attractive and forcible manner must have its effect. It will unquestionably bear fruit of a rich reward, and ample returns for the money expended, resulting in a few short years of bringing the grand state of Texas up to a normal state of development. Two items alone of the production for the year 1905, when it is considered what a very small per cent of the tillable land of Texas is now in cultivation will serve as a slight index to her possibilities. Her cotton crop last year exceeded in value by several million dollars the total assessed valuation of some of the other states; while her oat crop equaled the production of all the other southern states combined for the year 1905. These are only samples. I believe when you have anything good to tell, tell it. Organize regularly for telling it, and keep on telling it until your purpose is accomplished.
