At Fort Worth Rink

What promises to be the best race ever run upon roller skates in Texas will take place tonight at the big rink at the corner of Taird and Rusk streets. The race is a most novel and exciting one, in that it is a relay, reverse backward race between .undoubted champions. Eaton will run three miles backward against Teague and Baker going forward, the reverse way, the two last mentioned relieving each other at intervals, while Eaton will go the entire distance backward. Eaton is the acknowledged backward skater of the south. Teague is the fastest forward skater in Texas, and has fun races upon every important rink in the state. Of the twenty races in which he has been contestant during the past eight months. Teague has won seventeen. Baker won the Fort Worth medal last season over fifty competitors, and since that time has won every race that he has run. Saturday afternoon the juvenile race for all those under 13 years of age will take place at the Fort Worth rink. Mr. Eaton will also give an exhibition of trick and fancy skating. Saturday night there will occur the matuer free for all championship race for the Fort Worth rink gold medal.

Fort Worth, Texas. Dear Sir: It is a great thing for nerchant to have the exclusive sale (in his region, of course) of anything wanted by everybody. There are two ways to treat such goods. One is: put the price up and make big profit. The other way is: be fair and make more.

Devoe is the paint that takes least gallons and costs least money a house, how you reckon your costs, except by the gallon—Devoe is the best caretaker and costs least money.

Don't forget that the principal part of the cost of paint is putting it on. Less gallons, less cost. Don't forget that another principal part of economy is long wear; less gallons, less cost and long wear.

my is long wear; less gallons, less cost and long wear.

It is a great thing to have the exclusive sale of popular goods, of goods that make friends, of goods that enrich both buyer and seller. Devoe is perhaps only 10 per cent better than one or two others; but ten is a plenty—it's 200 or 300 better than many.

There's many a merchant who hasn't found-out his goods. It doesn't take a man long to find-out that Devoe is the least-money paint and why, no matter which side he is on.

FIGHT TO A DRAW

Neither McGovern Nor Young Corbett Gets Advantage Special to The Telegram.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 18 .-Terry McGovern and Young Corpett fought a hard sixteen-round bout at the National Athletic Club last night. When the gong announced the close of the battle there was little to choose between the fighters. The fight was one of the bloodiest ever witnessed in this city.

McGovern, profiting by his two previous battles with Corbett, took no chances and simply danced around the ring or rushed to a clinch. At opening of the second round Corbett rushed and caught McGovern with a terrific right on the chin, which forced the latter to take the count of nine. When McGovern got to his feet he rushed to a clinch and in doing so he butted Corbett over the left eye, opening a gash from which the blood flowed in a stream.

From this round to the finish the fighters were covered with blood. There was never a second that the men were idle. It was a rush, clinch and swing from gong to gong. At the pace the men were going it is doubtful if either could have lasted two more rounds, McGovern was weakened by Corbett's blows, and the latter, who carried at least twenty pounds too much weight, was very weary. The referee announced that the fight would be under straight Marquis of Queensbury rules, the men to protect themselves in the breaks. It was evident from the outset that Terry had a wholesome regard for Corbett's right, as he did all he could to keep out of harm's way until Corbett became partially blinded by the blood, Corbett endeavored to break clean from every clinch, but McGovern never missed an opportunity to swing his right to the back of the head or his left to Corbett's stomach.

LYON ASKS BUT FIVE PER CENT

Chairman Says They Need Fort Worth Suffered From a Not Pay It

To pay or not to pay is the question that is worrying the Federal employes in Fort Worth and they cannot decide whether it is better to bear the ills they have and remit to Cecil A. Lyon the requested 5 per cent of their annual incomes or to take up arms against these troubles and stick to the re-organized republican party of Texas, as advised by the state chair.

There was consternation in the ranks Wednesday when the Federal employes received a letter from the republican headquarters at Sherman, Texas, modestly asking for 5 per cent of each employe's annual salary to further the interests of our party in this state." interests of our party in this state." Five per cent is more than a month's house rent and would buy a fall suit, and the prospect of contributing that amount was not looked upon with any degree of enthusiasm. The letter foi-

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 16, 1906.

Dear Sir: It has become necessary for the republican executive committee to raise a campaign fund to be ex-pended in furthering the interests of our party in this state, and it devolves upon me as a member of the committee to at once raise my pro rata of the fund. You are now occupying the position of ...., at ....., and re-ceiving a salary of .... dollars per year. I therefore ask you to at once, on receipt of this communication, remit 5 per cent of that yearly salary. This is very important. As you know, the Terrell election law prohibits every Federal officeholder from holding any osition in the political affairs of our party. The present state executive committee consists of non-officeholders, who have no favors to ask and no friends to reward, and are working solely for the good of the cause, and it is incumbent upon you to do your share toward aiding us in our effort to build up an organization which will be a credit to all. Send your remittance to Cecil A. Lyon, chairman reblican executive committee, Sheran, Texas, and fill out and detach the coupon below and mail to my adess. If you are a civil service employe, the contribution will be entirely

"I have seen a letter addressed to you demanding five per cent of your salary, and requesting that the same be remitted to C. A. Lyon, Sherman, Texas. I suppose this money is to be used in the campaign which is now ing waged by Lyon to perpetuate

"I hope your good judgment and patriotism will deter you from contributing toward such an unworthy cause. "As you are well aware, the 'hold-up' of the federal office holders, as well as ignoring the wishes of the party organization, were among the causes nich compelled us to throw off the Lyon yoke and reorganize the party in Texas, to the end that the office holder, as well as members of the party, ild enjoy free political action without being terrorized and threatened with political annihilation for not upholding and supporting Lyon's corrupt

"Your oath of office, as well as your allegiance to your country, should be considered, before you lend yourself to the support of Lyon and his methods in this state. You will agree with me when I say that the national republican organization will never put its seal of approval on a lily white organization in any southern state, as repeated attempts in this direction have met with signal failure at national conventions, and those who were responsible for such a movement have been denied political preferment at the hands of the government. While there are numbers of men holding office in Texas who might come under the ban of disapproval, yet in the main there are a ber of office holders in this state who are competent and well equipped harge the duties incumbent upon them, and should have the support of every true and patriotic republican in Texas, and as state chairman, I desire to assure you that you shall have due consideration at the hands of the republican organization which it is my ambition and pride to build up.

"In a few days I will mail you some campaign literature, which will explain itself, and I hope you will see to it that it gets into the hands of repubcan voters, and I shall expect you to have a good word to say for our nomi-

Scarcity of Bivalves

Patrons of several leading restaurants were surprised Wednesday to find that their oyster orders could not be filled because there were no oys-

The oyster eaters of Fort Worth have been face to face with a qualified oyster famine for the two days ending with sundown of Wednesday. Is is a qualified famine for the reason that those who were fortunate enough to get in early orders were supplied, but the dilatory ones faced the famine for the "oysters were out."

The normal daily demand for oysters, based on the experiences of several years passed, is about 75,000. The supply for several days has been very near to 90,000, but the supply ran out before the demand was filled and the effort made to get oysters elsewhere

Telegrams were sent to New York and to Galveston, inquiring about additional daily shipments, and the replies came that no oysters were to be had. The additional orders were for 30,000 each, and these two would bring the demand for the two days to about 120,000 oysters. The chief sources of supply for this city are Galveston and Houma, La., the shipments coming in about equal numbers from either place. There are excellent oyster beds near Galveston, just at the outer ends of the jettles and many of the oysters that come from the gulf for the interior supplies come from that city. There are several beds on the Louis-

SUGGESTS MURDER

DEATH OF HAYS

Police Say Accident-County Officers Say Foul Play

In the death of T. W. Hayes, aged 40 years, who was found in a dying condition with terrible bruises on his head and neck, near mile post No. 2, on the Denver road, early Thursday morning, another strange case is added to the already long list of unsolved mysterious death in Fort Worth. That Hayes was murdered, robbery being the motive, there is little doubt. as all evidence unearthed thus far substantiates this theory. However, some of the police are inclined to believe that the man met his death from

It was a little after 5 o'clock Thursday morning, when laborers going to work in the packeries on the north side and walking the Denver tracks, came across Hayes. The unfortunate man was groaning and muttering, "Keep those rascals off me," while from a deep gash in his head blood trickled. He was picked up and carried into his boarding car a few feet away and died an hour later without ever telling how he received the injuries that brought death. Just a few moments before he passed away he recognized his wife and two little children, who were at his side, and said: "Oh, please keep those rascals away from me." From evidence disclosed at the in quest Hayes spent Thursday evening in the city drinking. He bought wine freely in a lower Main street saloon and flashed considerable money. He was forced to go home by the proprietor of the place. A cab was called and Hayes, in company with Harry Cohen, started toward his car on the northeast side of the city. Cohen accompanied Hayes as far as the pavilion, returning to the city in the cab. Co-hen stated that Hayes was intoxicated when he left the cab, but assured him (Cohen) that he could make it to his car without assistance. This was shortly after midnight, and at 3 o'clock Thursday morning a negro cook who is employed by the bridge gang of the Fort Worth & Denver road, and who lives in one of the boarding cars utilized by the bridge crew, of which Hayes was foreman, heard something like a groan on the outside of his car. However, she paid no attention to it and went back to sleep. A few hours later the occupants of the cars were awakened by the men who found

Hayes in a dying condition and badly On the back of the dead man's neck appeared a terrible bruise. It looked as if he had been beaten with a billet of wood or some other heavy instrument. On his head there was a gash several inches in length and quite deep Around his neck were scratches and marks resembling finger prints. His body was found a few feet below the car occupied by his family and his collar and tie several feet above. It is the opinion of the county officials that Hayes was beaten to death by thugs, as it does not appear possible for a man to fall so as to cause the wounds which appeared upon the The watch of the dead man was found half way between the pavilion and the boarding car. A pathetic feature of the case is that

Hayes had only been in Fort Worth a week with his wife and two children and had promised to bring them to the city Friday and let them do some shonping. He was to accompany them and all were to spend the day buying winter clothes for the children. The deceased was foreman of the iron and bridge gang of the Fort Worth & Denver road and bore a good reputation. He arrived in the city with his crew a week ago and was to leave here Saturday. Justice John L. Terrell held an inquest over the body at Robertson's morgue, but at the time of going to press had not rendered a verdict. The body will be shipped to Cedar Falls, Iowa, by L. P. Robertson Fri-

The Waco Tribune, which is edited by a friend and admirer of Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, contains some very sensible and timely suggestions as to the course the senator should have pursued in the present great emergency that confronts him. The Tribune says:

Tote fair with Senator Bailey. We cannot imagine a democrat, at all fair-minded, who is not really glad to find any mitigating phase of the matter that has brought the senator under criticism. Nine out of ten men who deplore Bailey's course have been his loyal stituents and admirers. The enemies he had in Texas could have never created-simply out of animosity—the state of mind that exists.

In Senator Bailey's letter of Oct. 9 to the attorney general he (Bailey) says he called on the Texas oficial, when the latter was in Washington months ago hunting up testimony against the Waters-Pierce Oil mpany and offered his (Bailey's) services to aid the ey general in effectively prosecuting the offending trust. The senator says he offered and was ready to give his services when called on and so informed Attorney General Davidson months ago.

Now that is an important statement made in black and white and puts Mr. Balley in a quite different light than that shed on him by the letter (of Oct. 5) of the attorney general. How about that, General Davidson? It is up to you to say something. One could wish there were more mitigatory features of that sort, but this must have its due weight. Tote fair.

The Tribune has presented the matter in which Senator Joseph W. Bailey comes under discussion quite fully and it is believed-certainly it is hoped-fairly, for there has been no desire to do Senator Bailey intice. Likewise, as to editorial comment the paper has not printed aught in malice to the senator. It has said plainly that while it did not call in question the personal integrity of Senator Bailey, it could not conede that his course has been either wise or in line with what we conceive to be his duty to his people and state. That is as plain as language will permit. It would be replorable, it would be more than deplorable, if the precedent set by the senator is to be accepted and adopted by congressmen in general.

One of the most regrettable features of Senator Balley's present attitude is his declaration that- conding his course is above criticism or challenge-he poses to continue taking clients as may suit him. There is where, really, he clashes with the people of Texas, but let it pass. He accepts responsibility for what he may do and cannot be indifferent to the importance of the issue thus created. Senator Bailey has made his defense; the much talked-of "joint debate" is over, and what has been achieved? Simply the division of Texas democrats into two camps, one standing up for Bailey, the other deprecating and deploring his course. Will the element that condemns take any steps to emphasize its disntent? That remains to be seen. It is up to the

The Tribune is not disposed to indulge in frequent and continued editorial reference to the matter. Space an be better utilized and mere reiteration is neither le or interesting. We shall print any additional haves of a news character that may develop (as we ne correspondence today) and when editorial ssion seems to be in order it will be made. Otherwise the paper can, as said above, make better use of Toere will always be regret, however, on the part of this paper-as with so many who have admired and supported Senator Balley—that he did not say to the le of Texas, the moment H. Clay Pierce spoke at St. Louis three weeks ago today:

untrymen of Texas, I have been beguiled and deceived equally with you. More than that I was used, the unwittingly, to deceive you and to defraud and defy the state of Texas and its laws. I am ready to help your law officers to punish the offender.

"You except, I note, to my service as a lawyer for corporate interests—as for Kirby and his associates in the lumber combine, and for Pierce and his associates the Tennessee railway and coal properties. I do of consider my course in any measure open to critiism or censure. I may regret that my action has met our disapproval but as it was honest I have no apolo-les to make. But if you dissent from my view I am illing, as long as I hold your commission to serve and present you in the nongress of the nation to secont I they need in the harvest, and if all the loafers were | Cole, in the Home Magazine for October.

Suppose the senator had so spoken? He could have done so without loss of self-respect or dignity. Texas would have rung with his praises and the situation of today would not exist, could not have ensued. He cannot so speak now. It is too late. For a less grave mistake than Senator Balley's Arkansas retired James K. Jones from the senate of the United States.

THE DEATH OF SAM JONES

Sam Jones, the noted Georgia preacher who died on a Rock Island passenger train a few days ago, had many warm friends and admirers in Fort Worth and thruout Texas and the southwest. He held many revivals in this state, and the good he has done here will live after him for many long years yet to come. Sam Jones had been preaching for thirty-three years. He became an evangelist, to use one of his own expressions, thru trials and tribulations that would have broken the heart of an angel.

His father, Captain John J. Jones, was a distinguished Georgia lawyer, and caused Sam to be educated for the same profession. But Sam was wild. He had an exuberant social temperament which led him into all kinds of excesses, and at the age of 25 he was almost a wreck, becoming such a source of shame and mortification to relatives and friends that: his father died of grief.

But the father's death awakened Sam to a sense of his condition, and from that day he determined to change his course and take up the work of saving souls. His entrance upon the ministry, however, was bitterly opposed by relatives, and his wife did not believe that he had either the capacity or persistency to succeed in the pulpit. But there was never any half way ground with Sam Jones. He had turned about from a dissipated to a Christian life and nothing could prevent his going to the fullest extent in the opposite direction to which he had been traveling.

So he became a preacher and was admitted on trial to the North Georgia conference of the Methodist Episcopal church at Atlanta in 1872. For eight years he traveled and preached in three different circuits of Georgia, and in 1880 was appointed agent of the North Georgia Conference Orphans' Home, saving the institution from financial ruin and starting it upon a career of enlarged usefulness and prosperity.

During these ten years Sam had developed great power in his own peculiar way. He studied the native Georgian with a view of successfully appealing to his better nature. He discarded the stilted language of the orator and took on the homely expressions of the community, so rich in significance and emphasis.

The church stewards frequently remonstrated with him and endeavored to make him see that he was giving offense by his personal thrusts and undignified speech and that he would starve in the ministry unless he mended his ways. All this made no impression whatever on Sam oJnes. He had mapped out his course and decided that no snadow of turning should attend it. He preached to thousands in almost every state in the union, and from one end of this country to the other the verdict has gone forth that there was but one Sam Jones. He has had many imitators, but never an equal and it will be a long time before his place in the pulpit and in the hearts of the people can be successfully filled.

We may not have always been pleased with his efforts, but we could but rejoice at the manifest results.

DEATH OF MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS

The passing of Mrs. Jefferson Davis in New York Tuesday night will cause much sadness thruout the south, where she was so universally loved and venerated. The people of the south have never wavered in their love for all that pertained to Jefferson Davis, and in his widow they felt they had a tie that still bound them to the man who was so long the idol of

When Mrs. Davis gave up her residence in the south and made her home in New York it was a matter of great grief to the people of every southern gate. But Mrs. Davis, while ever loyal to the south and southern people, was of northern descent. While she was born in Natchez, Miss., her grandfather was Richard Howell, who commanded the New Jersey troops in putting down the first rebellion that arose against the American government, and was afterward governor of that state. It is stated that her residence in the north was purely for the sake of her health. Her winters were passed in New York city and her summers generally on the New England coast.

Mrs. Davis was about 80 years of age at the time of her death, and was married to Jefferson Davis Feb. 25, 1845, being his second wife. She was with him during all the troubloys time that he was at the head of the ill fated southern Confederacy, and also when he was captured after the hegira from Richmond. During the first year of his imprisonment she was not perraitted to be with him in Fortress Monroe, but the second year she was permitted to share his captivity.

After the release of Jefferson Davis from prison, the couple went to England, where they remained several years, and upon their return made their home in Memphis, Tenn., where they resided until 1878, removing from that city to Beauvoir, Miss., where they made their permanent home. Mrs. Davis acted as her husband's amanuensis when he wrote his "Decline and Fall of the Confederate Government," and after his death wrote a variety of magazine and newspaper articles.

Of the six children of Jefferson Davis but one survives, Mrs. J. A. Hayes of Colorado Springs, Colo. The name of Jefferson Davis has been perpetuated in his grandson, Jefferson Davis Hayes, who by legislative enactment, has had his name changed to Jefferson

PUT THE LOAFERS TO WORK

There is a dearth of farm labor and the old story of few cotton pickers is read in many papers. It seems that there are lots of idle hands. The Fort Worth Telegram tells the following:

One planter near Fate in Rockwall county has 900 acres in cotton that is opening rapidly and offers $1 per 100 pounds to pickers. It is a poor hand that cannot pick 400 pounds of seed cotton and there has just been reported a case of a boy 16 years old picking 860 rounds in a day's work, weighing the cotton himself as he filled his bag. One planter in Foard county has 3,000 acres that hasn't been touched by pickers and which will yield three-quarters of a bale to the acre. In such cotton a fairly good cotton picker could pick between 500 and 600 pounds a day. This man is offering 75c per 100 pounds with board and lodging thrown in and will pay half the railroad fare.

Notwithstanding these tempting offers-offers that will enable a good worker to earn from $4 to $6 and possibly more per day-there is in Fort Worth and other towns and cities in Texas numbers of idle negro men and hoys who rather than go to the cotton fields and do honost work, prefer to put in seven days in a your view. Texas is my state, you are my people, and put to work there would be such an era of general prosperity as the state has never seen before.

> These idle fellows around the cities and towns of the state are the ones continually committing crime. Their very presence is a constant menace to society, and officers should not be content with spasmodic efforts to run them in and make them go and do honest labor. There should be systematic and concerted action on the part of all officers and no efforts spared to make these fellows get busy and learn how it feels to earn a little honest coin.

> The report that the Northern Texas Traction Company has purchased ten more cars is welcome information to hundreds who daily pay five cents for the privilege of hanging on to the tail end of the cars now in service. A man with one good eye can readily see the Traction company is badly in need of more equipment.

> The Fort Worth cotton market is a constantly growing proposition, and it is a proposition that has already proven its value to Fort Worth. Every bale of cotton marketed here adds just that much to the volume of business transacted in this city. And the more business done in Fort Worth the more employment and prosperity for Fort Worth people.

Citizens of Fort Worth should go over and see the great Dallas fair. The fair is not a strictly Dallas institution, but belongs to all Texas, and those enterprising people over there deserve the hearty support and encouragement of all progressive citizens of Texas.

It seems to be a settled fact that the big building for the Fat Stock Show is to be built. Those who are promoting the enterprise say there is no question about the necessary guarantee, and Fort Worth's live stock friends can be depended upon to make good.

The bad weather for the past few days has been a little rough on the Dallas fair, but a few days sunsaine now will soon make things square with the man who takes the tickets at the place of entrance.

Again it is announced that the new market house for Fort Worth is a go, but the trouble with previous announcements of the kind is that they did not go far enough.

That knitting mill seems to be a sure thing, and hereafter when Fort Worth goes visiting she will always be prepared to take her knitting.

ROOM FOR ONE MORE

A visiting bishop in Washington was arguing with a gentleman friend of his on the disirability of attending church. At last he put the question squarely: "What is your personal reason for not attending?"

The gentleman smiled in a no-offense-intended way as he replied: "The fact is one finds so many hypocrites there."

Returning the smile, the bishop said: "Don't let that keep you away; there is always

. . . . WHERE HE CAN BE FOUND

"Private" Allen of Mississippi, while in congress, was fond of telling about a fine old gentleman down in Tupelo, whose habit was to sit on a dry goods box and talk politics. His hobby was that the office should seek the man and not the man the office, and he waxed eloquent in the discussion of his chosen theme. Finally he determined to become a candidate himself, and went out upon an electioneering tour. When his friends twitted him about the change of front he replied: "Oh, yes, the office should seek the man, but the man should be around so that the office may find him." . . . .

"Maria," said Mr. Smith, as he came in and laid a folded document on the table, "I have just insured my life for $5,000 in your favor. There is the policy."

out almost any fool you like." "No," she replied affectionately. "I think I should want a change next time."

THE ENGLISH SETTER

In character the setter should display a great emount of "quality," which means a combination of symmetry, as understood by the artist, with the peculiar attributes of the breed under examination, as interpreted by the sportsman. Thus, a setter possessed of such a frame and outline as to charm the former would be considered by the sportsman defective in "quality" if he possessed a curly or harsh coat, or if he had a heavy nead, with pendant, blood-hound-like jowl and throaty neck. The general outline is elegant, and very taking to the eye.

His skill has a character peculiar to itself. It possesses considerable prominence of the occipital bone; is moderately narrow between the ears, and there is a decided brow over the eyes. A sensible forehead, with width enough for brains.

The nose is long and wide, without any fullness under the eyes. There should be in the average dog setter at least four inches from the inner corner of the eye to the end of the nose. Between the point and the root of the nose there should be a slight depression-at all events, there should be no fullness-and the eyebrows should rise sharply from it. The nostrils must be wide apart and large in the openings, and the end should be moist and cool, though many a dog with good scenting powers has had a dry nose. In dark-colored specimens the nose should be black, but in the orange and whites, or lemon and whites, a colored nose is desirable, tho it must not be spotted. The taws should be exactly equal in length; "pig jaw," as

The hum of the gins, the whistle of the cotton mills, the singing of the cotton pickers-all of these make life in Texas these October days "one glad sweet song." In it there may be some discordant notes, but these only tend to make the harmony of the other the more complete. #### THAT IS LOVE (BY FRANCES GILREATH INGERSOLL.)

"I wants my mamma," said the grieving baby voice; and the man, looking around the desolate room, so lacking in woman's care and order, thought how many times in all this long sad year he had "wanted" her too. How he wanted her at morning with her good-bye kiss; at evening, when he returned to his cheerle bome-when his clumsy, toil-hardened hands strove to fill a mother's tasks for his lonely little child." How he awoke at night and missed the head once pillowed on his breast, and held out arms that ached with emptiness.

"Where has my mamma gone?" And he looked into tear-wet baby face while he told her how "mamma" had gone a "long, long journey where she could not take baby and papa." Such a long, long journeyfrom innocent girlhood; happy, honest wifehood, and tender, lawful motherhood. Such a long journey as measured by a breaking heart, since the day when the asnes lay cold on his hearthstone and a little child was worse than motherless, and his Janie had started down the black road that ends in womanly wreck

"Will my mamma come back?"—the baby voice more pitiful still-and the man's voice sadder th tears answers, "Some day, God willing," thinking wi despair in his heart now very, very few ever "c back" who have started on that journey.

But, haggard and wan, with raiment old and wo Janie at last does come home, and the door is or to her timid knock.

"Hush, lass,"-as she tries to speak-"you've or been awa awhile and are home again-the bairnie waiting to kiss her mither"; then his tender arms dr her within home's shelter and Janle's "journey"

That is love; the love that is for worse as well as better; that knows no shadow of turning; that neither shame nor evil can blight; that forgives unto the seventy times seven; faithful through sunshine and storm; lasting as eternity.

No one who attended the performance at Greenwall's last evening can gainsay the popularity of Al H. Wilson. Those who have seen Mr. Wilson year after year were beginning to feel that his voice had lost some of its sweetness, but last night he undoubtedly sang as well as he did when he first came south with "The Watch on the Rhine," some years ago. Perhaps the new play, "Metz in the Alps," which so perfectly fits the personality of this comedian, makes one enjoy his singing inore than he would otherwise.

As a play "Metz in the Alps" is good, because Mr. Wilson is its hero; however, there is a great deal in it that is commendable, and the cast which deals with it is excellent. Theater goers always associate Al H. Wilson in his plays with some delightful scene with children, and last evening was not lacking in this respect. One of the most pathetic climaxes in the play is when "lat" sings his little girl back to sleep just as his wife is about to leave their home apparently forever. Certainly no voice but Mr. Wilson's has such mellowness, and this lullaby, like all of his songs, received many

"Wonderland"

The story of the latest New York musical success, "Wonderland," that comes to Greenwall's opera house Friday and Saturday nights, matinee Saturday, Oct. 19 and 20, is told in three acts and six scenes, and deals with one Dr. Fax (Little Chip), who conducts a hospital for the mending of broken hearts, and thru whose careessness in mixing his lotions and potions all the trouble arises, giving an excuse for many amusing incidents and comedy situations. The cast is an unusually strong one with Little Chip and Mary Marble at the head of the lot. The chorus is large and like all choruses that have had the advantage of Julian Mitchell's training they are a perpetual delight to the eye and ear. The book is by Glen MacDonough and the music by Victor Herbert, the entire production having been made by Julian Mitchell. "Wonderland" is the only musical extravaganza that was accorded a long New York run last season.

County Fair

One of the charms of Neil Burgess is that he and his audiences are in such perfect rapport with each other. His Abigail Prue in the "County Fair" seems like some dear old country relative that we not only know well, but we have some sincere and genuine affection for.

After the play is done and the audience has left the theater Mr. Burgess tells us that he comes back to his masculine self with a jump and looks at Aunt Abby as a real old lady, sweet, kind and impulsive, but in no way related to himself. And with the masculine garment comes Neil Burgess, the manliest kind of a man, one who is interested in all modern inventions, all scientific investigations, especially electricity and all sorts of modern machinery. The production of "Ben Hur" used his mechanical device when it made such remarkable runs in the larger cities. Mr. Burgess is supported by an excellent company in producing "The County Fair," which comes to Greenwall's opera house on Monday night, Oct. 22.

"Playing the Game"

"Playing the Game." which is the vehicle that Joseph and William W. Jefferson will use this season is the maiden effort of Cleveland Moffatt and Hartley Davis, jointly, tho both of these authors have written several successes individually. "Playing the Game" is a comedy thru and thru, and constructed for laughing purposes only, and the Messrs. Jefferson have proven their capability of handling comedy, as evidenced by their success in "The Rivals." It will be seen here for the first time at Greenwall's opera houdse, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and matinee Wednesday, Oct. 23 and 24.

At the Majestic

King, the mind-reading dog, at the Majestic this week, seems to realize his superiority among his canine associates of the Schepp circus. His men-tal attainments have raised the distinction of caste in this highly trained family of dogs. King has decreed that he will not feed with the less enlightened part of the professor's household. He must be served alone and always after the other dogs have eaten at the first table. Recently this aristocratic tendency has made itself manifest in a more astonishing manner He always sniffs at the viands spread before the plebian members of the circus and then refuses to touch the same kind of food. If the course of the other dog's meals are altered the next day. King will very heartily partake of the meat they were feeding upon the day previous, but on the same day they may not be fed of the menu. Professor Schepp sas that he has vainly attempted to deceive the mind reader, but never with success. Another thing in which King differs from the ordinary trained dog is that he frequently becomes very ill after a too severe test of his intelligence.

Twice during the present season Professor Schepp has almost lost his invaluable property, because of an acute distemper from which this highly gifted canine suffers.

TRAINS MUST NOT BLOCK STREETS

Ordinance Against Railroads to Be Enforced

The railroads that cross the city's streets and make a practice of blockading same anywhere from ten to sixty minutes with their rolling stock, wili hereafter be forced to respect the city law regarding the blockading of thorofares or pay a fine of $25 in each case made against them. Assistant City Attorney Parker says the blockading of Fort Worth streets by railroads has been in vogue quite long enough and he intends to put a stop to it. There is a city law which says that no street must be blockaded by railroad cars, engines or any kind of rolling stock over five minutes. As far as respecting this law is concerned the railroads have given it the horse laugh, as it were, by stopping traffic on some of the busiest thorofares as long as they pleased.

It is a daily occurrence for traffic to become congested in Lower Main street in vicinity of the passenger station, by reason of the crossing being blockaded with a long line of freight cars. Sometimes as many as two hundred vehicles are in waiting for the crossing to be opened. This causes the greatest inconvenience and a loss of time and on several occasions runaways have been narrowly averted as some horses lose their heads when crowded.

The crossing near the Texas Brewing Company's plant is another place that is the source of great worry to travelers of that street. Here, as at the Main street crossing, traffic is continually delayed by train crews making switches and couplings.

Four houses in Glenwood burned last week by reason of the fire department not being able to get there on time, as the crossing was blockaded by a freight train.

All these things have been taken into consideration by Attorney Parker and he intends to make the railroads pay the city for every minute they blockade its thorofares over the limit allowed by law. To make sure that he was on the right track, Mr. Parker visited several crossings Wednesday morning and as a result filed six cases against the Rock Island, the Fort Worth and Denver roads in the city court.

The city officials would appreciate it if any one who discovers a line of cars standing on a crossing over five ininutes will report same to the police.

MANY FAIR VISITORS

Dallas Fair Brings People to Fort Worth

Dallas fair visitors are taking the opportunity of seeing Fort Worth while away from home and are coming to this city in goodly numbers. A large crowd came over from Dallas Thursday morning to do the town and were startled to find such an enterprising place. One man who had never been in Fort Worth and who lives in Atlanta, Texas, said:

"Honestly, I never knew that Fort Worth was such a city. Why, it impresses me a great deal more than Dallas does as a commercial center and hereafter I intend coming here to do some trading instead of doing it all in Dallas. Your building activity here is something wonderful and Fort Worth will surely be a great city one of these days." All the downtown taverns were crowded last night with Dallas fair visitors and the merchants declare the city to be full of strangers. Wednesday morning all trolley cars bound for the north side were pretty well filled with people desiring to see the great packing houses, while many

Talks of Democratic Executive Committee Meeting

Q. T. Moreland, the member of the emocratic executive committee from this, the Thirtieth senatorial district. was at the meeting at Dallas Tuesday when the committee had so long a session over the question of approving or disapproving the course of the chairman, George Carden of Dallas. He says the effort of some of the more conservative members of the committee was to keep all reference to Senator Bailey on the proposition that the executive committee had nothing in the world to do with the matter of indorsing or refusing to indorse Bailey. This was the view held by Mr. Moreland.

Several of the committeemen favored the Edwards resolution, but they did not favor his preamble and all they wished to say was that they had nothing to do with the question of whether or not the democrats of Texas had or had not the right to discuss the record or actions of Bailey.

Eby and Clearwater, who have often met at the pool table, once played a game of 1,200 points. So evenly were the pair matched that the last frame decided the game. With fourteen points to make, Eby broke the frame for Clearwater, and on the following shot Clearwater swept the necessary fourteen into the pockets. At one time in Brooklyn, Eby made a run of 102 balls on a regulation 5x10 table. Eby is rated by pool experts as being a particularly steady player, and his work is not so brilliant as that of De Oro. Especial interest in the coming of Eby is found in the fact that Weston, the cowboy player, has been in Fort Worth for some time. These two players have met before and on one oc-

It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morn. ing-that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared. Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you, "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods, or gas from indigestion.

Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour brash and belching of gas, and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber. Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known, A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless. Get a new, pure, sweet breath, fresh-en your stomach for your next meal, and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. # FLUE CURING IMPROVES TOBACCOLIKE ROASTING IMPROVES GREEN COFFEE

Flue Curing Develops the Stimulating Aroma and Taste Found in Schnapps that Satisfies Tobacco Hunger

There are three ways used by farmers for curing and preparing their tobacco for the market; namely, sun cured, air cured and flue cured. The old and cheap way is called air cured; the later discovery and improved way is called flue cured. In flue-curing the tobacco is taken from the field and suspended over intensely hot flues in houses especially built to retain the heat, and there kept in the proper temperature until this curing process developes in the tobacco the stimulating taste and fragrant aroma found in Schnapps tobacco, just as green coffee is made fragrant and stimulating by the roasting process. Only choice selections of this ripe, juicy flue cured leaf, grown in the famous Piedmont country, where the best tobacco grows, are used in Schnapps and other Reynolds' brands of high grade, flue cured tobaccos.

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps; the outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco; one chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco.

Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other kind, and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers. If the kind of tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy, more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco.

Schnapps is like the tobacco chewers formerly bought costing from 75c. to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts, strictly 10 and 15 cent plugs.

they want to make a record of it." "I don't remember- Well," said Amidon, "lay that by for a moment, And this piece of business with the A. B. & C. railway. more fully acquainted with them than "Not at all,"asservated Mr. Amidon, 'I find myself uncertain as to a great many things. Let's have the records constantly. "Yes, sir, but these are cases where there isn't anything. Nobody but you and Mr. Stevens knows anything about

"Well, I can't answer them now," protested Mr. Amidon. "I've a headache! My-my mind isn't clear-is confused on some of these things; and they'll all have to wait a while. Who's that tapping? Oh, it's you, is it, Mr. Alderson-you startled me so that 1-Mr. Edgington here? Well, why don't you show him in? After luncheon, Miss Strong, you may come in again."

Mr. Edgington had a tightly-curled mustache, a pink flusk on his cheeks, wore an obviously new sack suit, had a carnation in his buttonhole, came in with an air of marked hurry, and car. ried a roll of papers.

"I thought I must have a talk with you," said he, "on the evidence in that Bunn's Ferry land case. The time for taking evidence is rapidly passing, and the court warned us that it wouldn't be extended again. That proof you must furnish, or we shall be beaten. "Yes-yes, I see," said Amidon, who knew absolutely nothing about the matter. "We should feel really annoyed by such a termination!" "Annoyed!" exclaimed the lawyer. "Say, Brassfield, that reminds me of Artemus Ward's statement that he was 'ashamed' when someone died! You'd lose the best wells you'v got. And it would involve those transfers to the Waldrons, and might carry them

"The Waldrons!" exclaimed Florian. "Why, I mean Miss Bessie and her aunt," said Edgington. "I mean bankruptcy-... But we've gone all over that before."

Amidon nodded, with an air knowing all about the matter. "Lots of times," said he. "And this evidence is-? Please give me the exact requirements-er, again."

"The exact requirements," said Edgington, "as I have frequently shown you, and without its doing you much good, are to prove that some time in March, 1896, you did not make a partnership agreement with this man Corkery by which you were to share with him the proceeds of your oil prospecting, and under which he went into possession of this tract of land. He has a line of testimony which shows that you did, Proving a negative is rather unusual, but about the only thing which will save you is an alibi. Now you must pardon the expression, but you've always evaded my questions as to your whereabouts prior to June of that year. You've never flatly denied Corkery's story, but if it weren't for the inherent improbability of it, I'd have given up the fight long ago, for you have not helped as a client should. You haven't confided-"But I will!" sand Amidon energeticonsin. I was-I'll prove where I "Good!" cried Edgington, noting a tendency to falter. "And now for the nesses and we'll go after them!" "Witnesses—yes, yes—we shall need witnesses, won't we?" faltered Arcıdon. "Say, Mr. Edgington, I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll turn you over to cally. "The man's a perjurer, and I'll prove it! All that time I was in Wis-

Blodgett."

"The old gentleman at the hotel?"

"The same," replied Amidon. "He was my lawyer years ago. I'll send him to you directly this afternoon."

Edgington made some notes in a "Very well," said he. "I'm glad that puzzle is in process of solution, And now one thing further, and I am done. This is a question of local politics. You know the talks we've tad with the fellows about this trolley franchise, and the advisability of making you mayor. We all agree that your interests and miss and these of all our crowd demand your election to the place—"" shouted Amidon, "Me run for office! Why, Mr. Edgington, you must be crazy!"

"Well, this—certainly—is refreshing," expostulated Edgington in apparent amazement. "When can anything be supposed to be settled, between gentlemen, if that isn't? Why, confound it, didn't we make up the complete slate, including control of the common council? And aren't we to have an exclusive franchise on all the streets, with your signature as mayor. Of course, you're joking now. Why, we're right on the eve of the caucuses, and with Conlon in line everything will go as it ought. I mean Barney Conlon, the labor leader. Since you've come back from this trin of yours every-thing seems to be going in unexpected ways-and somehow you've given offense to Conlon. Do you know what it

"No," answered Amidon, with some heat. "I don't know what it was! I don't know Conlon, and I don't know anything about this business except this: That if you think I'm going to sneak into office for the purpose of stealing the streets of this town you don't know Florian Amidon, that's

"Don't know what? Don't know "Don't know Flo-ah-me! Me!" "Then you won't see Barney Con-

"I won't foul my hands with the dirty mess! I won't——"
"Dirty mess, indeed!" retorted Edgington, "when the best business men —Oh, well, if that's the way you —Oh, well, if that's the way you feel—Why didn't you say so, instead of—I think we'd best not discuss the thing any further, Mr. Brassfield. and returning to legal matters, where we are happily at one, let me remind you that you are to send Judge Blodgett up to see me regarding the Corkery case this afternoon, Good day,

/Mr. Edgington went forth from Amidon's presence in a state of mind which can be appreciated by no one but some "good" citizen who has perfected all the preliminaries for securing a particularly fat financial prize by the cheap and simple device of a popular vote, and finds the man on whom he relies going off into a fanciful ism induced by some maggot of so-called conscientiousness, Any one ought to be able to see that there is nothing wrong in accepting gifts from those able to give; and who is more able than the public? Everybody would be better off for the arrangement contemplated and no one the worse, So reasoned Mr. Edgington as he saw with chagrin the Bellevale franchise slipping away, and urban lines connecting half a dizen cities.

To lose here by such a sudden ex-hibition of so-called "civic patriotism" -Edgington knew the patter of those reformers-was disgusting, and all the more so from the fact that the one to blame was Brassfield, whose ethical attitude had always been so "safe and sane" in business matters.

He must find some way of reforming the lines, and adjusting the action of the machine-now engaged in grinding out Brassfield's nominationso as to produce other grist just as good, if that were possible. It was ticklish business, but it must be done. The time was short, but before the caucuses met a new candidate must be found, and the word passed down the line that the dear people had changed their minds over night on the subject of the next mayor.

To decide, with Mr. Edgington (who fancied that he resembled the first Napoleon), was to act, and almost instantly, his forces, hastily mobilized, began an enveloping movement for the purpose of surrounding and bringing into camp a proper candidate for the local chief magistracy.

Mr. Amidon was flushed after this encounter. Mr. Edgington's cool manner of approaching him with this questionable and shady political job had generated some heat in Floriana man always possessed of strong convictions concerning civic purity. was offended; yet he knew that it was to the turpitude of Brassfield that he owed this, rather than to any fault of Edgington's.

"How could such a fellow as Brassfield reap such success!" was Amidon's mental ejaculation, "Ready to rob the community, he enjoys the confidence of all; full of the propensities of Don Juan, he wins the respect and love of Elizabeth Waldron! Shameful commentary upon society, and-Yes, Miss Strong, who is there? Judge glad! I need your advice and aid.

Trading Held in Check Waiting Outcome of Storm Warning-Market Remarkably Strong Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.-The market opened with a wonderful degree of strength today. After opening it jumped up by buying by Mitchell, who took about 15,000 January. Parrott bought about 10,000 January, rarrott bought about 10,000 January, and there was a good general demand from commis-sion houses. The market became quiet and the locals began to hammer. Ring gossip says Price bought considerable cotton. The reports of an approaching storm caused considerable nervousness and trading soon relaxed, and held in fear of weather conditions. The map showed no great amount of rain, but reports later pointed to very unsettled weather for the near future, and the government issued a storm warning for the Florida and South Atlantic coast. This started the shorts to covering quite freely, and a slight advance over yesterday was Opened Strong and Held Steady, Frost for North Texas Tonight Port Receipts Heavy Special to The Telegram.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18 .- The market opened better than was expected on unfavorable cables and held steady. The local talent was somewhat nervous over reports of another Carib-bean Sea storm, and the market was by no means heavy. Steady buying by Mitchell and the local crowd soon after the opening caused a rally and some advance was made, but the weather map and frost indications in Texas and other portions of the belt, with a probable freeze to follow, held the general operations in check. The rain was more or less general over the belt, enough in some sections to cause further shortage in the crop value by damage to quality.

With the spot demand as strenuous as ever, the forecast is distinctly unfavorable; interested operators were nevertheless partially successful in the effort to befriend the speculative short who is dreading the approach of the ginner's report. But the actual cotton 'short," it is claimed, could liquidate his obligations on a rising basis only. Therefore, the situation developed no weak fear, tho the trade began to pln its faith to the prospect of a comparatively large movement, with a temporarily diminished demand for spot cotton expected to recover from current difficulties in putting new business thru. But of course such consideration plays little part in ultimate results. However, the market remained steady and hard to move. Port re-

Wheat and Corn Very Strong-Decrease in Yield-Provisions - Decline Slightly Special to The Telegram.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 18.—The opening of the wheat market was firm. The local pit dealers were buying freely and the selling on this rally was good and large quantities changed hands. The situation gradually improved and wheat showed more strength than for some time. Wheat was quickly taken at the present prices, and the senti-ment is more bullish than ever. The Minneapolis market record issued in detail tomorrow, will give the Arnold estimate of the northwestern wheat crop. It makes a total of 170,000,000 bushels, which is nearly 6,000,000 less than the government's October estimate. The estimated requirements for the torse northwestern states for mills the three northwestern states for mills and seed alone are 121,000,000. This leaves a deficit requiring shipment from the west and southwest to make good the shipments to date, and to fill any farm, mill and elevator supply that will necessarily be carried at the end of the crop year.

Provisions were on a further decline today, and the demand very weak. The large shipments of hogs into all the principal packing centers put pork products down a little, but this weak tendency is regarded only temporary by the bull element.

Corn—Professionals were advising the purchase of corn at today's prices, upon private advices that husking returns are very disappointing in Illinois and other corn producing sections. Some of the corn is said to be rotting, while in many instances it is soft. The market is tipped for a bull movement soon, and a rush of buying orders is beginning to come in. Farmers in Illinois have very little corn along the Burlington road, and it is evident that farmer stocks of corn are light, or have been held for higher prices, since the movement at this time is large considering the size of the crop. Farmers in Illinois are demanding 40c for new

The weather bureau predicted rain, cold weather and a hurricane to take place along the Atlantic coast and former over a good portion of the cot-ton region. The outside public per-sistently stays away from the long side, and, to some extent, the country is beginning to send in bearish news concerning the crop. This suggests a growing short interest in the country, which is probably based on the same reason that is given for the bearishness of professional operators—the expectation of a continued heavy move-ment. The truth of the matter is that the talent has tried to bull an entire crop several times and has failed, the attempts being disastrous even in years when the out turn was small enough to justify bulling it. The largest bull manipulators in the market are undoubtedly delighted with the present turn of affairs for, if there is one thing they want this year it is a delayed bull campaign and a bull campaign at some time or another sems inevitaable. In the meantime spinners are working hard to keep up with orders and a loud cry for more help is coming up from both northern and southern mills. Some mills are sold for months ahead and are refusing to take any more business. Spots in dry goods, in popular lines, are almost impossible to obtain at any price, no fault can be found with this end of the situation and no matter what it may be, the crop may look small when later on the opportunity comes to make an approximately correct guess at it. G. C. BATTLE, Manager.

There were only a few bales of cotton on the local market today. The price was better than yesterday, some of it reaching the 11c mark in the local market. Cotton seed remained the same-$13 per ton, which is the prevailing price at the oil mills. Hulls are selling at $4.50 per ton and cotton seed meal at $1.25 per hundred pounds. There was no change in the price of corn, oats and hay, and fuel remained unchanged.

ENVELOPE COSTS NEGRO 5 YEARS

Furnished Clew to Arrest of Convicted Negro

An envelop addressed to him at 1027 West Belknap street and postmarked "Mineral Wells," cost Earl Crawford, a negro, five years of freedom. He was tried in the Forty-eighth district court Thursday on a charge of burglary, and the jury gave him five years in the penitentiary.

Crawford was charged with stealing two saddles from the Country Club early in September, and it was the en-velop which he dropped in the room from which the saddles were stolen that furnished a clew to the thief and lead to his arrest. He was found by officers at the address on the envelop and the two stolen saddles were found in an outhouse on the premises.

Notwithstanding this strong circumstantial proof against him the negro testified that he was never on the premises of the Country Club, and called on the Lord to bear witness that he was an innnocent negro.

Deer Increase and Expense Becomes Too Heavy

Special to The Telegram.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 18.—
The deer and buffalo kept in Brackenridge park, in this city, have increased so rapidly in the last few years that they have become too great an expense for the city to maintain them. Last year a number of the deer was sold to local butchers, which caused considerable indignation. To avoid criticism able indignation. To avoid criticism the city administration will sell the animals to zoos, where they will re-ceive good treatment.

San Antonio's experience with raising wild animals in captivity has been very successful, and if the city were in commercial business a handsome profit could be made yearly by sciling the increase. This applies to every animal but the buffalo herd. These animals propagate every slowly. Two of the five cows have died this year and there is every indication that even with the most careful treatment the herd will gradually become extinct. APACHES FEEL RESTLESS

SWEDES COME TO TEXAS A Revival at the Swedish Methodist

Church Much interest among local Scandinavians is being taken in each service at the revival now in progress at the Swedish M. E. church, corner Broadway and St. Louis avenue, conducted by Rev. O. F. Leustrum of Georgetown, presiding elder of the Austin district of the Swedish Methodist conference. There are now about three hundred Swedes in Fort Worth and about fiftyfive or sixty compose the membership of the South Side church. It is to revive interest in the church work and increase the membership that Rev. Mr.

Leustrum is conducting this series of meetings. Rev. C. G. Lindberg is pastor of the Fort Worth church and he conducts services in Dallas every two weeks on Sunday afternoons. During the last two years several large colonies of Swedes have come to Texas from northern states and another colony is expected soon to arrive with Rev. Mr. Serverin, who is now in Chicago organizing the colony. Rev. Mr. Serverin was formerly pastor of the Fort Worth church and is putting forth every effort possible to in-crease the Swedish population of Texas. He went north about two weeks ago and is expected to return with his party this month. His colony will probably locate in West Texas. Among the Swedes in Texas today the Methodist churches are strongest with the Baptist and Lutheran as second and third. Altho the membership rolls of Swedish churches are often small, it is a general rule that the attending congregations are large. Toward the end of the time during which the 2 per cent is allowed there will be another spurt in the payments into the tax collector's office. Since the beginning of the collections, Oct. 3, to this time more than one-fourth of the total of the city taxes for the year have been collected. PLANS FOR A NEGRO SCHOOL

Will Be Located at Arlington Heights-Site Donated

Preparations are making for the eseducational industrial school for colored youths, the school to be modeled after Booker T. Washington's famous institution at Tuskegee, Ala. The name of the new school will be the Industrial and Mechanical College of Texas and the first expenditure of $20,000 for buildings has been provided for. The site for the buildings has been donated by some local people and in addition, a tract of about one hundred acres has een purchased to be used for truck

The site selected si about a mile south of Lake Como, at Arlington Heights, just east of the grounds on which the new cotton mill is to be located. The south boundary of the tract is the Texas and Pacific right of way.

The number of pupils to be accom-modated at first has not yet been de-cided on, but it is the plan to make this the beginning for a great indus-trial school for the negro youth. The whole movement is under the auspices of the Baptist Educational and Missionary Society of Texas, col-ored, of which society J. N. Codwell of Houston is the state educational agent.

There is a promise of substantial outside help, and a letter from J. Ogden Armour of Chicago states that he will give liberal aid to the funds for the development of this new school. One of the special purposes of the proposed school is the training of young girls and young women for household work, and that is of vital interest to the people of Arlington Heights. They, more than any of the other dwellers in Fort Worth, are troubled about help for household work. The girls in training at the Industrial school could leave the school n time to do much of the housework before the 9 o'clock school hour and

PRINTERS PROSPEROUS

President Lynch Says Union is Rapid ly Winning Out

J. M. Lynch of Indianapolis, Ind. president of the International Typographical Union, arrived in Fort Worth late Wednesday night and was met at the station by a committee composed as follows: C. W. Woodman, state organizer; T. W. Barnes, delefrom the International Typographical Union to the Fort Worth Trades Assembly; A. E. Markwell, president of the local union; A. B. Moore, local commercial printer, and W. B. Atchley, foreman of The Telegram com-

Mr. Lynch is in Texas on a tour of inspection, looking after the interests of the state unions, in pursuance of a request made at the convention held in Colorado Springs last August, by the thirteen delegates from Texas. While in this city Mr. Lynch visited the newspaper offices and several job shops. He left Thursday morning for Dallas, where he will investigate the strike situation now prevailing in the job printing shops. He will visit for similar purposes at Austin, San Antonio, Galveston and other Texas cities, Speaking of the national situation, President Lynch said: "We are winning rapidly in the eight-hour movement over the United States, as is evidenced by the recent reduction in the assessment on all printers from 10 to 7 per cent. Today we have about 40,000 printers at work over the country on the eight-hour day basis, but there are still about 5,000 scattered thruout the states in shops still out. Things look very favorable now for the early signing of the larger shops and conditions in general are leaning our way. "I find all shops recently visited in a prosperous condition as concerns the work they are doing."

MANY CLOUDS THURSDAY

Forecast for Fort Worth Fair Weather and Colder Texas is generally cloudy Thursday and unimportant rain is reported from many points excepting in the extreme west portion. The low barometer area which was Wednesday centered over the northern portion of Texas has rapidly moved to the south and is causing cloudiness and showers on the gulf cities. The forecast for Fort Worth and vicinity is for fair weather and colder. This change will be caused by a high barometer area moving toward Texas from the north, which is causing sudden drops in the temperatures today in Colorado. The cotton belt is already clear and considerably cooler in the western half and cloudy conditions are still prevailing in the east portion. The extreme southeast portion of the country continues under low pressure, and warm, cloudy conditions prevail. Portland, Wash., and New York state are still centers of high barometer conditions and clear, cool weather is the rule. Some temperatures reported Thursday morning are: Amarillo 52 and 48, Chicago 69 and 60, New York 58 and 52, Atlanta 62 and 56, Galveston 74 and 70 and Fort Worth 71 and
