Rumored "Big Six" Will Combine in English Corporation

IS IT POSSIBLE?

Federal Anti-trust Laws an Obstacle—$500,000,000 Capital Is Needed

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 20.—All the packing interests in the United States of more than local importance are to be combined in a gigantic holding company, which is to be financed by English capital, according to reports in circulation tonight.

Report Given Credence

The report of consolidation, which was given credence tonight by some of the most conservative bankers in Chicago and New York, runs to the effect that Sir Thomas Lipton is vitally interested in the new merger and that he prolonged his stay in this country partly on that account.

Handle $750,000,000 Yearly

The volume of business handled by these six concerns probably runs close to $750,000,000 for that of the first two runs above $200,000,000 a year each.

When the Deal Fell Thru There Was the Necessity of Taking Other Measures

When the deal fell thru there was the necessity of taking other measures to protect the interests of the Anglo-American, the Omaha Packing Company, the St. Louis Beef and the Fowler Packing companies had been taken over by interests closely associated and generally known as the Armour, Swift and Morris.

Rumor of a Merger Reached La Salle Street and the Comment Was: "Do They Dare do It?"

The reply in several well informed quarters was that "Shelburne dispatched early in the week past" by the federal administration believed the packers had "had enough" and that further prosecution was not likely.

FORT WORTH MAN INJURED IN WRECK

George Thompson's Head Out Train Plunges From Bridge

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 20.—Due to a broken rail, three passenger cars of the Houston, East and West Texas north-bound, went over a thirty-foot embankment at the approach to the San Jacinto river bridge, at 8 o'clock today.

By less than a hundred feet the train missed plunging into the San Jacinto river. The train was running forty miles an hour and the derailed cars as they plunged downward turned bottom side up and plowed thru the soft sand, which served as a cushion to deaden the force.

BAILEY HEARD AT PALESTINE Senator Takes Occasion to Roast His Opponents HUFFY AT PAPERS Both Ring and Thomas Are Mentioned Frequently—A Large Crowd Attends

Special to The Telegram. PALESTINE, Texas, Oct. 20.—As Senator J. W. Bailey arrived in this city this afternoon, salutes from cannon were fired. After greetings at the depot, he was escorted to the New Lindell hotel, where an informal reception was held during the morning. Many men and women called to meet the senator, and many were trying to get a democratic paper, and the senator was a hypocrite. He said that Reimers of the Fort Worth Telegram was a republican. He had thought so before some time and telegraphed the chairman of the democratic executive committee at Davenport, Iowa, asking about his political stance, and his speech was along the lines of former speeches.

REST While You Work! That sounds paradoxical, but the reasoning is correct. Rest signifies "comfort," and there's comfort in working with a clear brain, steady nerves, possessed of the conscious power to "do things" and still have a lot of thought and energy stored up for more work. To be in fashion nowadays, one must be able to do something well that requires strenuous activity and correctly thought out plans. The "gentlemen of leisure" belong to a former era—not in demand in this country at the present time. The modern gentleman is a "doer"—not a mere "talker-on."

GRAFT CHARGED Alleged $25,000 Shortage in School Funds KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 20.—In a highly sensational bill filed here today by Superintendent Myrders against S. P. Armstrong, S. E. Tindell, E. W. Zanker, S. T. Mackie and his wife, Cordelia Mackie, and the American Card Company, a serious charge is made. Many of these charges are of specific graft and it is sought to compel the defendants to disgorge the sum of $25,000 school money, which, it is alleged, the directors and Principal Zanker, who was also secretary of the school board, have failed to account for. The bill indicates that the defendants did not confine themselves to any particular form of graft. Mackie was particularly on the item of chalk and it is said purchased in one month from one firm in enough chalk to supply all the schools in Tennessee instead of merely those in one district of the county.

TALIAFERRO TRIAL SET FOR TUESDAY Two Other Murder Cases Are Docketed for Monday

Special to The Telegram. The trial of the murder case, the State against Mrs. Ella Taliaferro, who is charged with the killing of her in-law, J. S. Kree, at the Kree home at 228 East Humboldt street, on the night of May 19, is set for trial in the Forty-eighth District Court, Thursday, October 23. The case is second on the docket assignment for that day, and there are two murder cases, if the two cases on the Monday assignment go to trial, it is possible that the case of Mrs. Taliaferro will not be reached before Wednesday, or later. Mrs. Taliaferro is in the county jail where she has been since she was arrested in Waco several days after Kree was killed, the examining justice before whom she had her preliminary hearing, committing her without bail.

FORT WORTH MEN SIGN GUARANTEE Four Local Men Obligate Themselves on Guarantee The guarantee which made possible the contract between Stanton Palmer, representing the stockyards company and the National Breeders & Feeders Show Company, was made by M. S. Hanson, S. P. Clark and Stuart Harrison. About $42,000 of the $50,000 guarantee fund wanted by the stockyards company is represented by subscriptions already made. Mr. Palmer was not willing to accept this as a satisfactory settlement of the demand for the guarantee of the fund for a conference, the matter was finally settled by the guarantee of the gentlemen named, that the total amount should be pledged. Now comes the work of collecting the guarantee fund, for which but little trouble is anticipated. The contract further provides that as soon as the 420 subscribers to the fund pay up the stockyards company will begin the erection of the exposition building on the lines of the International Stock Show auditorium at Chicago.

CALDWELL CASE SET FOR MONDAY Texas Synod to Consider Action on Ft. Worth Pastor

Special to The Telegram. DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 20.—At the session of the Texas synod today it was expected that the case of Rev. Wm. Caldwell, Fort Worth, would be received. Such was not the fact, however, the matter being passed until Monday. Much difference of opinion exists among the members of the synod as to the merits of the case. It was thought by friends of Rev. Wm. Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Fort Worth, that when the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church at Greenville, S. C., last spring, sustained the Caldwell case, it was in consideration of the case by the Texas synod at Dallas, the case having been brought up by the presbytery of El Paso. The Caldwell case arose over the charge that Dr. Caldwell's doctrinal views were not in entire harmony with the Presbyterian standards, and it was the procedure of the Fort Worth presbytery and Texas synod following this charge, which the general assembly overruled last spring.

MARLBOROUGHS TO SEPARATE? Paris Rumor Says Duke and Duchess Are at Outs

Special to The Telegram. PARIS, Oct. 20.—Disagreements between the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, which have been prolonged over a period of several months, or more, English society is convinced, will result in their separation unless the earnest efforts now being made by the father of the duke and other relatives result in a reconciliation. W. K. Vanderbilt, father of the duchess, arrived in London on Tuesday and went directly to Blenheim, where his daughter is with her children. The duke is not at Blenheim and all negotiations for a reconciliation have been conducted thru Mr. Vanderbilt.

Note the lines of the figure—curving back and sides, easily supported bust, the round waist with the Louis XV straight-front—Fashion's decree.

The closest scrutiny reveals only exact work in the Redfern Models, which results in making figure beauty. We shall never sell a corset for the sake of making a sale. It must prove its fitness. Therefore, we prefer that you have your corsets fitted by our special corsetiere, who is trained by the designer of Redfern Models and will see that you are properly corseted in the "new fashion." $3.50 to $15.00 per

HOG KILLING OF LONG AGO How Our Grandfathers Cured Their Meat

NEGRO'S DELIGHT Origin of a Much Used Expression—Time Before the Civil War

HOW MANY PEOPLE in this day and time make use of the expression, "I had a hog killing time," knowing the real significance of it, or its origin? The expression is a neologism, the genesis of which dates back to the days when every farmer and many people who were not farmers raised and cured their own bacon—to a time when packing houses were unknown in this country and the killing of fifty hogs a day was a notable event in any neighborhood.

To people who are now familiar with the methods of killing hogs and making bacon at the big packing houses in Fort Worth, the crude methods of fifty years ago can hardly be realized. In the old times a hog killing was not an individual but a neighborhood affair, and to the negroes it was a day of delight, surpassing even the "corn shucking," as it was called in the south, or the husking bee in the north, where there were no negroes.

Piles 14 Years Terrible Case Cured Painlessly With Only One Treatment of Pyramid

I write to thank and also praise you for the good your medicine has done me. Oh, I can find words to express my thanks to you all for such a wonderful and speedy cure. I felt relieved after using your sample so I sent right on to a druggist and bought a 50c box which I believe has cured me entirely. I feel more myself now than I have felt in over a year, for I have been bothered almost that long with the piles. I have told all my friends about this wonderful discovery and will recommend it whenever I can. You can use my name anywhere you choose. Respectfully, Mrs. Chas. L. Coleman, Tullahoma, Tenn.

the time for hog killing arrived these hogs would burn like tinder and would heat the roots to a white heat. Near the log pile an excavation would be made in the ground, and in it would be half sunk a hoghead that would probably hold gallons of water, and in front of it a wide platform nearly level with the ground would be built. This platform was the working board where the hair pulling contests were pulled off. The hog pen where hogs were being fattened were always within a few feet of where the hog pile and the hoghead were located.

Killed on a Cold Day Hogs were never killed then on a warm day, and the colder the weather was the better the farmers liked it, as there weather had to be depended on to kill the animal heat in the slaughtered hogs to prevent the meat from spoiling. When everything was ready and the hogs fat enough and the weather was cold and frosty, all the negroes in the neighborhood would be notified that there would be a hog killing at such and such a place, on such and such a day, and from that time until the happy day the blacks talked of nothing but the coming good time. There would be plenty of work to do, they knew, but the good times accompanying it would ten times offset the work; and it was a mighty mean slave holder who wouldn't let his blacks go help in a "hog killing."

Their work would be daylight then to begin work, but about 1 a. m. the fire would be started in the wood pile, and from that time on the logs would be red hot and at white heat. With the first gleam of the fire light the negroes would begin crooning, and from that time on singing plantation songs as they came, and there could be heard floating out on the still cold night air: "Rock me, Lucy, rock me!"

These refrains were kept up until the last hog was killed and dressed, for there was a stimulus in the music that made the negroes forget their troubles (if they had any) and make the most of the opportunity for having the best time in a "nigger's" life. The music was always at the hog killings a keg of whiskey that would hold enough to supply the entire working force with "drinks" enough to last through a "hog killing." A drum of good old Robinson county corn whiskey was a liquid of delight to a negro and it was the finest medium known then to work out of a negro at a hog killing.

HERE'S A JOB FOR THE PIED PIPER Local Rodent Population Over a Million

Something in the henhouse. Something under the bed. Looks like a buffalo. But is a rat instead. And that's a fact. They are the biggest things that ever belonged to the rodent family. Somehow they grow extra large in Fort Worth and 'tis said by the more conservative citizenship that many are quite large enough to carry bronco saddles on their back. Harker, one south side resident says that rats out his way are so big that he believes them to wear horse shoes. He can hear them, so he declares, coming a block away and that they have absolutely taken possession of his place. He says his wife woke up one night and cried out that cavalry was coming down the road. He got up and looked and saw six gray rats flying across the street.

WEAKNESS IN GRAIN MARKET

May and December Wheat at Half Cent Decline

LIVERPOOL LOW

Corn and Oats Are Correspondingly Low—Hog Market Is Firm

Special to The Telegram.
CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Weakness that was so general at the close of the wheat market yesterday received no check from the early reports from the other side. Liverpool showed unmistakable signs that if the owners of the goods on this side chose to lower the price, the buyers on the other side had "no choice" but to follow. Both futures and spot wheat at Liverpool were half penny lower. At Paris and Antwerp prices were unchanged, but Berlin and Budapest were both some cent lower. The domestic situation was not changed unless a threatened break-up in the weather might be taken account of, but the weakness in the market indicated that if the change from good to bad weather received attention from the traders there it would likely help prices. The correcting of the figures in an estimate made of the northwestern spring wheat crop as reported here two days ago was a contributory cause to the weakness prevailing. The market was, in all, weak near the end, and the close was at half a cent decline in December and 1/4 in May.

Corn Price Suffers
Altho the threatened change in the weather will be a hindrance to the marketing of new corn and local receipts were forty-four cars less than the estimate, the effect of the heavy crop of wheat could not be tested and the price of corn suffered to a slight extent. That the decline was not more material is due to an underlying confidence in present prices. The market wound up close to the bottom of the day's range and at declines of 3-8c for December and 1-16c for May delivery.

Oats Also Weak
The market for oats was also weak, in sympathy with the leading cereal, altho the comparatively small receipts suggested that had the tendency of wheat been upward instead of downward, oats would have been quick to respond. There were no receipts at the close from the lowest prices of the day, and the net losses in the end were from 3/4c to 1c in December to 1/2c in the May delivery.

Hog Market
The tops of the market for hog products was quite a contrast from that of the grain markets, but the firmness of the cotton crop in the territories now decided expression in its effect on prices had the grain markets been steady. Local receipts for hogs for the week was 120,000 head, against 149,000 head last year. The total receipts in the west this week were 316,400, compared with 287,000 head the similar week last year.

Charcoal Kills Bad Breath

Bad Odor of Indigestion, Smoking, Drinking or Eating Can Be Instantly Stopped

Sample Package Mailed Free
Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them when you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting in your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning—that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one of our powerful gas and odor absorbers every prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors from foods, or gas from indigestion.
Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are the only place stop for your bad breath and belching of gas, and make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities that massed together and which cause the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber. Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them pleasant to your taste. They are absolutely harmless.
Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal, and keep the impurities in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy the next box. So we will give you by mail a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, we will send you a box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cleaner" inside.

Send us your name and address today, and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address: P. A. Stuart Co., 46 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

TO MOVE COTTON CROP ON FLAT CARS

Rock Island Plans New Method of Transportation

A. C. McCall, superintendent of the Oklahoma division of the Rock Island railroad, with headquarters at Chickasha, I. T., was in Fort Worth, Saturday, the occasion of his visit at this time being to confer with the Texas officials of the road on the subject of a new schedule and time carrying, which will be put into effect within a few weeks.

When asked concerning the available facilities of the road for moving the southwestern grain and cotton crop, Mr. McCall said that the situation was somewhat relieved at present, as most of the grain crop has been moved.

However, it is going to take the entire equipment of the road to move the cotton crop. In addition to the enormous cotton movement now fairly well started, arrangements are making to increase car service largely for cotton shipments. This is a new departure in railroading for thru traffic of baled cotton. As cotton insurance companies do not accept risks thus exposed to fire, it is said the risk against loss while in transit will be assumed by the railroad company.

The cotton crop in the territories is about normal this year and, together with the Texas yield, the Rock Island road and other thru lines will be busy until late in the winter carrying the raw material to the mills in the east.

GIRL'S FATHER COMING

H. R. Reddick, father of Willis Reddick, who suicided in her room over the Arizona saloon early Saturday morning, wired the undertaker Saturday night that he would leave Paul Valley, I. T., on the first train for Fort Worth, and to hold the body of his daughter until he came.

The child has been embalmed, and is at Robertson's, waiting the arrival of the Pauls Valley relative, when it will probably be shipped home for burial.

NOVEL WAY TO LIVE EASILY

Man Feigned Insanity, But Is Nipped at Last

Special to The Telegram.
ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 20.—A young man named Ray Williams, who arrived in Atlanta recently, has adopted a novel way of making "five easy," his methods being to play insane and be sent to an asylum.
Williams appeared at the office of the assistant charities a short time ago, and apologizing for not entering the room where there were some ladies "for fear of scaring them," made the statement that he was crazy and asked if a pass to an asylum might be secured for him.

The gentleman in charge of the office remarked that Williams did not seem to be demented, and instead of smoothing the way to the asylum, notified the police, and Williams was held pending an inquiry into his case. Investigation developed the fact that Williams has been in nineteen asylums throughout the country from which he had been discharged. He tried manfully to mimic insanity, but experts declared him sane and he is now serving out a sentence in the city stockade, doing good work and giving his guards no trouble.

MANY NEW MEMBERS

But Little Effort Necessary to Add to Membership

The Board of Trade canvassing committee was out again Saturday morning and added twenty-seven names to the membership list. Interest in the Board of Trade work is increasing. For the recognized reason that its work is for the good of the city, and but little effort was necessary to add fifty or sixty new members added this week.

If You Believe In Competition Don't Be Without The New Telephone

If it is a matter of COST with you, just count up the price of extra car fares, the wear and tear of shoe leather, the postage, the messenger charges, the time spent in doing things that a New Telephone would do for you. This takes no account of the nerve tax and physical strain. The comfort, the pleasure, the convenience, do not enter into this calculation at all. It's merely the actual cost we are dealing with. But when you DO consider the convenience feature, the protection feature—you know, of course, there's no protector so promptly available in case of robbers or illness—when you DO think of it in this way—do you think you can afford to be without a New Telephone?

COURTEOUS TREATMENT LOWER RATES BETTER SERVICE

Truly the home, the hearth, should be the focus of pleasurable delights and solid comforts of the entire household. And remember, good house mother, that there's nothing that will so largely contribute to the welfare, the content, the happiness of yourself and your family as the New Telephone. Don't go through the winter without one.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY

"Yes, but a telephone is a luxury," objected one woman, "and I'm afraid of luxuries." "Luxury, nothing," was her friend's laconic comment. No luxury about it except in the same sense that your bath is a luxury. Do you call it a saving to spend time, temper, car fare and strand boy charges in communicating with your friends, ordering your domestic and personal needs, summoning the doctor and attending to your business messages? "Do you consider it extravagant to be in instantaneous communication with the police, the fire station, the drug store and all other protective agencies?" "I don't, and you won't—if you are sensible." And neither will anybody else.

CALL CONTRACT DEPARTMENT NO. 99 LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE

A SEWAGE SYSTEM FOR NORTH SIDE

Matter Will Be Discussed Next Tuesday Night

Perhaps the topic that is being most discussed in North Fort Worth just at this time is the sewerage franchise, now pending before the city council. L. G. Pritchard, at the last meeting in September of the North Fort Worth city council, made formal application for a sewer franchise. At that time the petition was considered incomplete by the council, in that it did not specify the time the work would begin, how soon it would be completed nor any indication of what rates would be charged for sewer privileges. Acting upon the resolution of the city council, City Attorney J. W. Basin revised the application, covering all the points to which the council objected, and proposed further that after the first five years or at the end of any successive two years, the city, at its option, might take over the property at the appraised value, made by competent civil engineers. It also provided that not more than certain rates, which were itemized in the petition, should be charged for certain service, and further providing that the city public building and school buildings be allowed the privilege of tapping the mains free, the city bearing the expense of making the connections.

Mr. Pritchard was present when the amended petition was read, stated very pointedly his objections to the framing of the franchise, which were in brief as follows: That in the first place, he saw no reason why the city should be given sewer privileges free, and that the time required in which to begin actual work might be too short, and that the five-year option was entirely too short a period of time, in that it would be difficult to set stock coupons without paying a large rate of interest on a five-year franchise. The petition was then referred back to him, that he might make such revisions as he was willing to meet and present the petition to the council at its next meeting.

Mr. Pritchard, in a brief interview with a Telegram reporter Saturday afternoon, stated that he now has his petition ready. He is willing to meet the demands of the council in the franchise, but that he wants a twenty-five-year option, demands six months in which to begin actual operations.

WILL ENTERTAIN THE CREDIT MEN

Local Men to Meet New York Delegation

The various committees in the Fort Worth Credit Men's Association appointed for the entertainment of the national executive committee and Texas credit managers in this city Saturday, Oct. 27, held a special meeting in the office of Secretary George G. McGown, for the purpose of perfecting final details for the day's program. Each committee represented reported that the work is progressing rapidly, and the Fort Worth day promises to be a success. The finance committee, whose duty it is to arrange for defraying all expenses of barbecue, etc., has practically completed its work. No changes have been necessary in the original plans for the entertainment committee and the program will be performed as published.

The following members were appointed the Fort Worth portion of the reception committee to meet the New York delegation of officers and national committeemen who will arrive in Dallas Thursday, Oct. 25: Secretary George G. McGown, A. P. Fouts and H. E. Gardner. A like committee has been appointed in the Dallas association. The Fort Worth committee will go over to Dallas Thursday afternoon and after the arrival of the New York delegation a reception will be held in the Oriental hotel, after which the party will be banqueted at the hotel.

The business of the convention will commence Friday morning and Dallas headquarters will be maintained at the Oriental hotel. Cars provided by the Fort Worth association will leave the city Saturday morning at 9 o'clock for Fort Worth. The main program in this city will be held at Hermann park. Seventy addresses by officers and members of the national and Texas associations will be made and Senator J. W. Bailey will address the credit men and visitors at 11 o'clock Saturday morning.

BREWER LEMP LEAVES WIFE

Too Much Temper Reported to Be Cause

Special to The Telegram.
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.—William J. Lemp, millionaire head of the Lemp Brewing Company, has left his beautiful young wife, known far and wide as the "Lavender Lady," and will permit her to secure a divorce. Lemp states that in consenting to a permanent separation he has decided upon a course that, in his opinion, will bring the most happiness to his wife as well as to himself and will be to the greatest advantage of their son. The grounds for the divorce, it is understood, will be incompatibility.

Mrs. Lemp, who was Miss Lillie Handlan, daughter of A. H. Handlan, president of the Handlan-Buck Manufacturing Company, declines to make any statement concerning the separation.

Her unusual sobriety is due to her preference for stunning lavender toilet. She has been conspicuous because of her gowns, lavish entertainments, and her unusual beauty. Mrs. Lemp also has achieved some note because of her reputation for a high temper.

Former Breaks Repaired

Several times before within the last four or five years the Lemps have come to the parting of the ways, but friends and relatives up to this time have bridged the difficulty. Once Lemp was obliged to appeal to her father, who averted the threatened estrangement temporarily.

Mrs. Lemp, while returning recently from Atlantic City, where she spent the summer with her son, had an altercation on the train with her maid, which resulted in the latter refusing to accompany her mistress home when they arrived at the union station. An unpleasant scene ensued, it is said.

More Beer,--Less Strong Drink

Temperance Workers See Signs of Progress in Increased Sales of Beer.

Active temperance workers say the greatly increased consumption of beer in this country is a good sign of progress toward real temperance. It shows that beer is a healthful beverage, is fast taking the place of strong alcoholic drinks.

Superintendent Williamson of the Anti-Saloon League, one of the best known temperance workers, says the great increase in the consumption of beer does not show any falling off in temperance sentiment. Indeed, it is proof of more real temperance sentiment than ever before existed in this country. Interviewed by a Cleveland newspaper, Superintendent Williamson said:

"It is doubtless true that there have been 150,000,000 more gallons of beer consumed during the past year than ever before. There is a steady decrease in the consumption of spirituous liquors, such as brandy, whiskey and wine, and a tendency to drink more malt liquors, such as beer. The decrease is doubtless as marked in the one as in the increase in the other. Never before has temperance sentiment had such a strong grip on the people. I do not think there is any cause for worry because the beer consumption has jumped."

Superintendent Williamson takes the logical view, for statistics prove that when a community or a state or a nation drinks more beer it drinks less liquor. This is important because beer is beneficial to the health, a nutritious and strengthening food drink. The small percentage of alcohol in beer, only a little over three per cent in Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer, aids the digestion and is stimulating but not intoxicating.

Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is the most refreshing temperance drink. It is brewed from the best ingredients that money can buy or skill produce—Pabst exclusive eight-day malt, choice imported hops, pure water, and brewed in absolute cleanliness. It is the most wholesome beer because Pabst exclusive eight-day malt is produced from the best barley by a natural process of development, instead of by the quick, cheap process used in many breweries, and thus retains all the food value of the barley in pre-digested form.

Richest in food strength, best to the taste, most healthful and always pure and clean, Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer is no lowest in percentage of alcohol—the beer for the home.

Cuba Suffers Heavily From Storm's Fury

DAMAGE $2,000,000

Loss to Many Planters Is Complete—Shore Line Shows Mass of Wreckage

Special to The Telegram. HAVANA, Oct. 20.—Owing to the prostration of the wires the details of the hurricane which ravaged the western end of the island are slow in arriving, but enough is known now to make it clear that the storm was probably the worst that ever swept Cuba. The total number of dead is placed at twenty and the property loss will reach $2,000,000, according to late reports. The tobacco belt in Pinar del Rio suffered especially and the damage to the crop is serious. Many barns and warehouses in which the gathered crop was stored were demolished and in a number of instances their entire contents were destroyed.

Live Stock Suffers

The loss to many of the planters is complete. Live stock also suffered greatly and fences and farm buildings in many districts were blown away. Entire towns were flooded so that the inhabitants were driven from their homes.

The damage in Havana was chiefly in the poorer district, where the houses were of flimsy construction and when they fell they buried the occupants in the ruins. In the harbor there was no loss of life the damage to shipping was greater than even in the past. In the entire shore line there is a tangled mass of wreckage where barges and small boats were driven ashore and smashed on the rocks.

Escape Marvelous

How those on board escaped uninjured seems little less than marvelous. One thing that is causing a great deal of uneasiness here is the fact that the army transports Jacob Wright and Lauper, which sailed from Newport News on Oct. 14 and 16 respectively, are overdue and have not been reported from any point. They are laden with horses and mules for the American forces here.

No News From Ships

It is feared that they may have foundered. They are equipped with modern apparatus and the navy department can only wait till they arrive or are sighted for news from them.

Overseas reports are that the German liner work to clear away the traces of the storm and to aid those who suffered from its effects. Early today a big gang of workmen set out to move the debris and they already present an improved appearance. The fallen trees have mostly been cut up and hauled away while the streets are being rapidly cleared up.

Railroad Traffic Is Still Badly Impeded

It is feared that they may have foundered. They are equipped with modern apparatus and the navy department can only wait till they arrive or are sighted for news from them.

Trains and Bridges Gone

Near Guines a bridge went out and a number of culverts are gone. Just west of the city of Pinar del Rio it is reported that a stretch of track has been washed out for more than half a mile. Several towns in Santa Clara also suffered, but so far as known there was no loss of life.

Prepat Action Fortunate

There is no doubt that the prompt action of the officers and men of the American warships in the harbor averted a terrible disaster. The moment they were notified by telegrams of the approach of the hurricane, they took every precaution known to seafaring men and as a result of this every ship that was notified by telegrams either killed or so badly hurt that they had to be destroyed. Scarcely an animal was left on board uninjured.

Soldiers Are Lucky

General Bell is co-operating with Governor Masoan in rendering to the homeless and in clearing up the wreck in the city.

Aside from a good drenching the marines and American soldiers were either killed or so badly hurt that they had to be destroyed. Scarcely an animal was left on board uninjured.

Buildings Thrown Down

Besides the collapse of the building in Inquisition street, another house tumbled, like a pack of cards, blown by a breath, at No. 6 Escobar street. Later reports are that six persons were killed in this building and many hurt. The extensive warehouses, which were situated in the harbor off Regia, just opposite Havana, and known as the Santa Calina warehouses, were destroyed. The buildings were the property of M. Silveria, who is charged with failing to make an accounting of $1,000,000 collected for Juan Caballero & Co., the New York bankers. The buildings of the University of Havana were damaged.

STUCK TO IT

For Years But Finally Had to Give Up Coffee

Our habits of eating and drinking stick to us like a hungry pup to a bone. We can't always break loose even when we know we ought to.

Coffee does certainly hurt many persons, and they know it. But it is one thing to know and another to devise some way to change the habit and still have a warm beverage at meal time. Thousands of persons all over the world have found it easy to quit coffee because they use Postum Food Coffee.

"For years I've felt the harm of drinking coffee," writes an Iowa woman, "but I liked it so well that I stuck to it until about two years ago I quit coffee, and tea, too, and began to drink Postum.

"I made it, not like coffee, but boiled it according to directions on the package, and the first time we had it we all liked it. We have it now, morning, noon and night, and all feel healthier and happier for the change."

"I never have heartburn nor indigestion any more, though my husband and I used to suffer that way and with nervous headache a great deal of the time when we drank tea and coffee. We can't say enough in praise for Postum, and for the good it has done us." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

54,600 Meals Did Him No Good

How One Man Wasted 50 Years of His Life. Thousands Like Him

"What's the use of eatin', anyhow?" said the scrawny dyspeptic to his round, prosperous-looking friend. "Here I've been eatin' three times a day, and sometimes twice a day, for 50 years, and look at me. I'm rawboned and skinny, still at the bottom of the ladder, sour on the world, and a pessimist. I know it, and I can't help it. If I had it to do over again, though, I would take care of my stomach, for I don't believe I ever really relished a meal in my life, not even mother's Christmas dinners, and I firmly believe that my way of eating, or whatever it was, brought along with it darkness and impossibility of success."

"You're right," nodded his companion. "Of course, that isn't always the case. But in this age we must not only trust in the Lord and keep our powder dry," but we must swallow sunshine with our food. Cheerfulness, especially while eating, which is the most essential act of man, is as necessary to him as sunshine is to the flowers. Nothing normal can be produced in darkness.

"But this is what you haven't been doing, Mr. Dyspeptic. Your brain and your stomach, remember, are twins, and you have to treat them accordingly. Why not start now and repair the damage you've done. It is never too late, you know."

"You mean at my age? And suppose you can't always get the sunshine?"

"Absolutely, yes. Science has made it possible to get the sunshine, the health and the strength that your stomach needs, all put up together in little tablets. They call them Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the most effective tablets in the world for this very thing. One ingredient in these tablets digests 3,000 grains of food without the help of the stomach. Two tablets after each meal can do more work, quicker work and better work in digesting a heavy meal, than the stomach can itself. The stomach need not work at all. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets does all the work, and gives your jaded stomach a rest, the rest it needs. Meanwhile you cure yourself of brash, irritation, burning sensation, heartburn, sour stomach, acidity, fermentation, bloating, and the worst cases of dyspepsia and indigestion. You get rid of these for all time. And then, besides, you can eat all you want and whenever you want, and you will also relish mother's Christmas dinners if you will take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating. That's the sunshine I was talking about. Then your face will reflect the internal change going on, you'll be more energetic, your eyes will be clearer, you will have more confidence in yourself, you'll be happier, and you'll be yourself again."

"Your heart?"

"Just easy. You'll enjoy your meals—just easy. Let's walk down to the drug store and let me introduce you to one of the packages of these Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them at any drug store in the world for only 30c a package. It is worth it, Mr. Dyspeptic."

FEW GOOD HORSES ARE IN FT. WORTH

Talk of Starting Sales Stable in Fort Worth

Fort Worth is suffering from a horse famine.

This sounds funny, but it's a fact, and from indications there will be one for some time to come.

To buy a thoroughbred horse in the city just now is a problem. It is like looking for a deck of meat in a sand hill.

If good horses are in town for sale they are behind the barn, and that's no jester's jest.

But, really, this city has very few horses, that is, good horses, to offer the buying public. Those that are here can only be bought for enormous prices.

One man stated to a reporter Saturday that he had looked the town over for weeks in the effort to buy a fine team of horses, but had failed to locate any that were anything like he wanted. He says, too, he did run across a pair of good-looking horses, but the owner wanted $700 for the two.

The demand for western horses back in the old states is something rushing and the wild horses of the plains are herded up and shipped to strange lands where they bring anywhere from $15 to $30.

Tennessee ships the most of her thoroughbreds to New York state and into New England, and does Kentucky, Georgia, Alabama and other southern states draw heavily on the supply of Tennessee and Kentucky thoroughbreds and that is the reason more are not seen out in this part of the world.

The show horses to be seen in Fort Worth are nearly all brought in from Minnesota, Montana and Wyoming.

Wyoming ships a large number of mustangs into Texas and these in turn are shipped into Louisiana and Florida.

There has been talk of prominent Tennessee horsemen coming to Fort Worth for the purpose of operating a large sales stable. Dan Palmer, one of the wealthiest of southern horse owners and breeders, was in the city several weeks ago studying local commercial conditions. He stated that it was quite probable that Tennessee capital would come to Fort Worth and erect an enormous sales barn and conduct same along modern lines. However, Mr. Palmer was very reticent and would not say when he thought this would come about.

In case sales stables are operated in the city the shortage of horses will be relieved to some extent. But in the meantime the man that wants a high-stepper and a good-looking horse must curb his temper and wait.

RECORD BROKEN AGAIN

Local Clearing House Has the Habit Now

Again the Fort Worth clearing house has broken all records in its history by over a million dollars. Clearings for the week ending Saturday, October 20, amount to $9,199,930.56, and for the corresponding period of 1905, $5,573,700.30, an increase of $3,626,230.26. The last new record was made Monday, October 15, the day's clearings being $1,653,955.44. As compared with the old, the new record is an increase of $1,667,244.

The weekly report compiled by Bradstreet's for the week ending Thursday, October 15, shows Fort Worth bank clearings to be $5,120,512, or an increase over the corresponding period last year of $1.77 per cent. The same report shows for New York an increase of 24.1 per cent, Chicago 9.2 per cent and Kansas City 15.3 per cent.

MILL NOT ASSURED

Subscription Almost Completed and May Be Soon

J. W. Heany, who is working for the removal of a big knitting mill plant to Fort Worth from the east, said Saturday that the matter of removing the plant to Fort Worth is not yet settled, but he has the strongest hopes that it will be soon definitely fixed.

As soon as the balance of the subscription is secured, he will start for the east, close up the business of the mill and then dismantle and move to this city. It will take about four months for the dismantling and reconstruction of the mill in its new location.

CITY'S CREDIT GOOD

Its Overdrafts Amounted to Over Hundred Thousand

With the close of the city financial business, Sept. 30, there was an overdraft on the city treasurer of over $100,000, nearly all of which sum consisted of overdrafts on two of the funds, the general fund and the city schools, the deficit in the latter being because of the permanent school building which had been done.

The balance reported was: Schools, current expenses, $1,529.33; streets and permanent water supply $10,395.13; street sprinkling, $238.92; police, $3,984.88.

There were deficits in the two funds named and in one other, which made a total overdraft of about $111,942. As there was a certainty of large payments of city taxes by Oct. 15, the end of the major discount, this was not a straining of the city's credit for the technical deficit is all wiped out by now and balances are increased in all of the funds which are in the collection of taxes benefits.

TALKS OF NEW CHURCH

Chairman Francis Says Work Will Go Right On

"Work is progressing rapidly on the new Methodist Episcopal church, south, building at the corner of Seventh and Taylor streets," said Chairman H. B. Francis, in a general outlining committee, "and the church people are going right on with the work; there will be no let up by reason of the departure of Dr. Alonzo Monk. The congregation as a whole is determined to get the building in shape at the quickest possible time. The money to pay for it is coming in right along and the building committee feels very encouraged at the prospect and at the unanimity and enthusiasm of the Methodist people."

"The policy of Methodism is a progressive one—to go forward, not backward, and while they may slip and fall from grace, when they get on their feet again they are further advanced than they were when they slipped. The building our people are erecting will be, when completed, the most beautiful and convenient in the south and it marks a new departure in the character of church architecture."

BRAZOS VALLEY OFFICERS HERE

Headquarters of Five Roads Now in Fort Worth

With the coming of the Trinity and Brazos Valley headquarters, to Fort Worth, which was effected Friday night and Saturday, there are the headquarters of four railway companies located in Fort Worth, a number not exceeded by any city in the state. Indeed it is not much out of the way to say there are five general offices of railway companies here, for the Northern Texas Traction Company will easily count as one. The general offices are those of the Fort Worth & Denver City, the Chicago, Rock Island & Gulf (the Rock Island in Texas), and the St. Louis, San Francisco & Texas and the Fort Worth & Rio Grande (or the Frisco in Texas) and the Trinity and Brazos Valley, named above, for the regular railroads and the Northern Texas Traction Company for the trolley line.

The Trinity & Brazos Valley railway receiving its headquarters and chatels, pertaining to the general offices, are already housed in the new offices on the top floor of the new Reynolds' building at the southeast corner of Houston and Tenth streets.

Practically none of the papers are unpacked and it may be two or three days before the office force will be settled down in the new home. From now on the headquarters of the road are at Fort Worth and the business of the company will be conducted, and all of the details of management of the line will be initiated here.

A MODEL DEBTOR

This Man Paid a Bill Fifteen Years Old

With the item long since posted to the loss and gain account in the ledger, L. G. Gilbert re-entered the amount and credited it on the cash book Saturday, when John Mahaffey, formerly of Fort Worth, but recently of Harrisburg, Pa., returned and settled for a $3.50 pair of shoes purchased on credit from Mr. Gilbert fifteen years ago just before his departure from this city.

Mr. Mahaffey is now a prosperous business man of Harrisburg, and, like many of the country's self-made men, started in his business career near the bottom of the ladder. Fifteen years ago he was employed as a dishwasher in Bill & Joe's restaurant, still located in lower Main street.

MEW MINISTER OF FRANCE ABLE

M. Clemenceau One of Europe's Strongest Statesmen

Cable Special to The Telegram.
(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)
PARIS, Oct. 20.—The resignation of the French Premier, M. Sarraime, has been foreseen for some days and M. Clemenceau's succession practically determined. The new prime minister is recognized as the strongest statesman in France, and his best powers will be needed to cope with the coming crisis over the law of public worship. It is not well known that he may work a revolution in French official life.

In a recent speech he declared his hostility to the army of place-hunters who hang on the skirts of departmental administration. Young Frenchmen prefer a small official position to the exertion of trade or industry. M. Clemenceau would discourage perverted ambition.

In the new cabinet, which may be named tomorrow, it is probable that most of the old members will be retained, but it is believed that Clemenceau will offer the portfolio of minister of war to General Foch, the defender of Verdun, who was restored to the army and promoted July 13. It is suggested that there will be a new minister of finance, but the name has not been made public.

REPUBLICANS DENIED

Special to The Telegram.
BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Oct. 20.—The suit brought here by Republicans to enjoin the state primary came up for hearing here this afternoon before Judge Galloway. The suit was brought to require the executive committee to rescind the rule requiring voters to affirm that they had voted in the election for congress before being permitted to vote in the primary, and to prevent the holding of the primary, in so far as it applied to the selection of a candidate for United States senator, it being contended that only candidates who are to be voted for by the people can be selected by a primary. Judge Galloway, a Republican, found his victim, William Ham-

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20.—The picture post card fad is directly responsible for Flora Nedemeyer and Frances Kusig, two pretty girls of Mount Washington, each about 18 years of age, giving into the mails. The girls are charged with mailing some of the illustrated cards containing some pointed statements to a friend, who does not appreciate the humor and reported the matter to the postal authorities.

Postoffice Inspector Craighead, after investigating the case, made the information against the girls charging them with violating the mail laws, which forbid the sending of mail upon which is written anything of an indecent or libelous nature. They were taken before United States Commissioner T. Lindsey for a hearing today. The fair defendants seemed to take the whole proceedings as a huge joke, refused to be serious even when they were threatened with jail.

Mr. Lindsey finally told them that if they would join the Salvation Army as a penance for their misdeeds he would not prosecute further. The girls then went away to carry out the court's order and the hearing was continued until Monday morning, when proceedings will probably be dropped.

WHITE HOUSE MEETING

Secret Conference Held at White House Until Late

Special to The Telegram.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—The conference at the White House this afternoon was protracted until late, those in the meeting at various times being Secretaries Taft and Root, Associate Justices White, Day and Harlan, of the United States supreme court, Mr. Bishop of the canal commission and Mr. Roberts, attorney for the commission.

When the justices emerged they said that they could not make any reference to the objects of their call to the White House offices, a similar statement was made from the White House as the whole conference. It is known, however, that President Roosevelt, in addition to Secretary Taft, had under consideration for a place on the supreme bench. Mr. Moody, attorney general, and Horace H. Lurton, judge of the Sixth Federal circuit. The presence of the particular justices of the supreme court gave color to the report that they were asked about the qualifications of Judge Lurton.

Almost Half of Amount Needed Has Been Subscribed

The movement started some time ago to erect a large public watering fountain at the intersection of Main, Ellis and Center streets, is now being pushed in earnest by a committee composed of J. B. The subscription will be kept open and those who desire to aid the committee may call either at J. B. Collier's store or at the Exchange National bank, where any amount will be received.

The fountain is to be erected of concrete and stone, and the shaft will stand about twenty feet high, and on the top will be placed an electric light. The estimated cost of the fountain is $500.

This fountain is one thing that has been badly needed, as there are hun-

QUEEN BEE TELLER

YOUNG BEEHIVES IN THE CELL.

BROOD COMB CUT OPEN. LOWER CELLS CONTAIN EGGS. AFTERWARDS TO BECOME BEES.

Places in Which Dwell Thousands of Inhabitants, Every One of Which Obeys Strictly the Most Rigid Laws

At home, and had taken it to the woods. From that and subsequent visits to the location of Hill's first business enterprise, and from further investigation on his own part, your Uncle Joe presumes to tell you the following, what he hopes will prove interesting facts concerning bees: "A bee hive is a city in itself and may contain from twenty thousand to sixty thousand inhabitants. A single queen rules over all. In this city each citizen follows the laws, going out when it is time to go out, coming home at proper hours, and staying at home when it is his or her duty. In the winter time, having no fires to warm them, the bees cling together in a bunch, just the same as children cuddle.

"You might suppose, just because one single queen rules over so many, having so many subjects to work for her and wait upon her, she would do nothing but amuse herself. On the contrary, she, too, obeys the laws laid down for her guidance, and never, except on one or two state occasions, goes out of the city, but works as hard as the rest in performing her royal duties.

"The gates of the bee city, or hive, are so narrow that two inhabitants can only just pass each other on their way thru them, yet thousands go in and out every hour of the day; some bringing materials to build new houses, others food and provisions to store up for the winter; and while all appears confusion and disorder among this rapidly moving throng, yet in reality each has its own work to do, and perfect order reigns over the whole.

"Bees prefer to work in the dark. They are gifted with double sight, one for the bright glare of noontide sun and the other for their own hive's gloom; their eyes accommodate adjusting to serve the purposes of the task upon which they are engaged.

"Francis Huber, a blind naturalist, was the first to discover many interesting facts concerning bees. Huber had started on the study of the tollers in sweets when his sight failed. He had others construct an inner glass hive with an outer common covering which could be lifted at will. When the covering was lifted he was told of what the bees inside were doing. Glass slides, such as are employed in some modern hives, hinder rather than help bee culture. Bees object to too much light being cast on their private doings, and will quit a hive if too frequently disturbed.

"Take a May morning, about 10 o'clock; go into the apple orchard of a farm whereon bees are cared for, and if you are fortunate enough to find a swarm you will see a black object which looks very much like a large plum pudding very likely hanging from the limb of an old apple tree. In swarming bees cling to each other by their legs; each bee with its two forelegs clinging to the two hind-legs of the one above it. In this way as many as 20,000 bees may be clinging together, and yet they hang so freely that a bee, even from quite the edge of the swarm, can disengage herself from her neighbors and pass thru to the outside of the cluster whenever she wishes.

"If these bees were left to themselves they would find a home after a time in a hollow tree, or under the roof of a house, or in some other cavity, and begin to build their honey comb here. But not wishing to lose their honey we will bring a hive, and holding it under the swarm, shake the bough gently so that the bees will fall into it, and cling to the sides as we turn it over on a piece of clean linen, and the stand where the hive is to be. Before five minutes are over the bees have begun to disperse and to make arrangements in their new home. The drones, or male bees, which are large and fat, and have shorter wings, do not work, depending on the others to wait on them and feed them. The queen bee is blackest of all and has a longer body and shorter wings. She is the mother of the hive and often lays as high as two hundred eggs a day in the wax cells which the worker bees have built for this purpose.

"The wax cells of the honey comb are constructed of material made by the worker bee itself. This bee has eight little wax pockets under her abdomen, which all up thru a process of digestion in the bee's second stomach, for when the bee sucks the honey drop from the flower it is drawn into a first stomach, and the wax is made up into the eight little pockets in the form of wax.

"As fast as the eggs are deposited in the cells prepared for them they are taken up by what are called the nursing bees. In two or three days each egg has become a maggot or larva, and the nursing bees put into its cell a mixture of pollen and honey which they have prepared in their own mouths, thus making a kind of sweet bath in which the larva lies. In five or six days the larva grows so fat upon this that it nearly fills up the cell, and then the bees seal up the mouth of the cell with a thin cover of wax, made of the same material as the cells, and then the larva is covered in.

"As soon as the larva is covered in it begins to give out its under-lip a whitish, silken film, made of two threads of silk spun together, and with this it spins a covering or cocoon all around itself, and so it remains for about ten days more. At last, just twenty-one days after the egg was laid, the young bee is quite perfect, and begins to eat her way thru the cocoon and waxen lid, and scrambles out of her cell. After twenty-four hours attention from the nursing bees she is ready to go to work with the rest.

"After all the worker-eggs are laid the queen bee begins to lay, in some rather larger cells, eggs from which drones, or male bees, will grow up in about twenty days. Meanwhile the worker bees have been building on the edge of the cones some very curious cells which look like thimbles hanging in a row. These cells are used about every three days the queen stops in laying drone eggs and goes to put an egg in one of these cells. These eggs are to be future queens, and the intervals between their laying are to insure corresponding intervals in their hatching, for but one queen bee may be in one hive. Just before the first princess is born the old queen mother flies away with all of those subjects which wish to accompany, and establishes a new home or hive. Just before the second princess is born the new ruler flies away in the same manner. Several other swarms may leave the hive; but when there are no more bees destined of leaving, the remaining young princesses are stung to death by the workers, for their day of usefulness is over. Drones have no stings and cannot defend themselves.

"Only the young bees born late in the season, live on till the next year to work in the spring. The queen bee lives longer, probably about two years, and then she, too, dies, after having had a family of many thousands of children."

INGERSOLL VERDICT SET ASIDE

Federal Court Acts in Case of Widow, Who Receives Judgment. BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 20.—A judgment for $138,000 in favor of Mrs. Eva Ingersoll, widow of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, given by a lower court, was set aside by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The judgment was given in a suit brought by Mrs. Ingersoll to recover an amount alleged to be due for legal services by her husband in the settlement of the estate of Andrew J. Davis of Butte, Mont. The United States Circuit Court found for the plaintiff, holding that the fact that the will contest had been settled by compromise did not relieve the Davis heirs, who retained Mr. Ingersoll from paying for his services. The Court of Appeals holds that Col. Ingersoll did not perform the services upon which his fee was contingent—namely, the successful prosecution of an action to break the will.

hour or so at the theater. They have at once a volley of denunciation. If men who work every day in the week from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m., many of them even later, want to go on Sunday afternoon to see a game of baseball, they are plunged into a bottomless pit of fiery chastisings by the Overseers of Public Morals and Pastimes.

The best woman I ever knew worked on a program that was greatly admired by the various and changing pastors of her church. Monday afternoon was the meeting of the woman's auxiliary, Tuesday afternoon the Bible by a popular clergyman, Tuesday afternoon the Foreign Missionary Society, Wednesday afternoon a meeting of the directors of the home for working girls, Wednesday night prayer meeting, Thursday afternoon cottage prayer meetings, Friday afternoon the Ladies Aid Society and sewing circle, Saturday afternoon she was usually in bed with a nervous headache.

This woman's family loved her greatly, but they were often hungry. Three men, working hard all day, would often sit and wait for this good woman to come from her religious duties to set before them for the evening meal a bit of cold potatoes or a slice of bread and butter with a helping of preserves. This scanty fare was often late in being prepared for them. Of course they could have waited on themselves, but they had been disciplined out of the kitchen.

To my intimate and friendly knowledge of the family I know they did not have a heavy, wholesome, well-cooked meal once a week. Servants could have been afforded, but the good woman believed in them such careless wasters of her substance that she refused their presence.

Those of that family now living are such physical and nervous wreckers as to be pitiable. The years that the good woman spent in church and religious labors not only sapped her vitality and strength, but her family was deprived of food and the comfortable house-keeping that was their right. While we were neighbors and the best of friends, it never once occurred to me to undertake a crusade of abuse or criticism because she and I did not see duty alike.

The good folks say, "You have just got to be as good as I am whether you want to be or not. You shall not go on enjoying your own way about things. I think this is right and that is all there is to it."

The other fellow says: "You are all right, I think it fine for you to go to meeting three times a day or oftener if you want to. It makes you better and happier. It does not make me better or happier, therefore, I leave the diligence of worship to you. I need relaxation of a different kind from a prayer meeting, but whenever you need a little money to help your good causes along, why, let me know and I will chip in."

The Good Ones continue the charge and those who will not be good lose their temper. And there you are.

A peculiar trait about really good folks and those not a bit good is the desire to help others. The good folks take to the separate methods taken to yank them to discomfort. The sinners on the contrary are quite happy that the other folks are good. They do not envy nor decry their methods and when a little money is needed for some good work, put their hands down in their pockets and contribute liberally.

There are so many opportunities for helping the world, for helping our weaker and our needy fellow man. May be when the Millennium revises our copy some of this fusillade against the non-essentials and opportunities, the good folks, I say, and not the don'ts the Y's say, will give way to positive energies directed to building up.

But the Millennium is away off I fear. The workers in the local "Social Settlement" are struggling for assistance. A settlement of active, benevolent workers will be located in a part of town where there is much poverty and where educational opportunities are scarce. Little help has so far been received from the church societies or from the clergy. The preachers have been too busy studying the canon, the dance, the races, the skating rink and the card table. The women's clubs and individuals are responding according to their ability.

A group of Fort Worth women have been laboring for some time to build and equip a hospital which will be free for the needy and afflicted. Can there be a worthier expression of divine grace? I was pleased to hear that these women, less than twenty in number, have their building almost completed and have let nothing disconcert or discourage them.

Forty motherless and fatherless children are objects of the benevolent heart of the public heart. How many of the clergy of Fort Worth have been studying the congregations when these waifs of unkind fortune were needing fuel or medicine or warm clothing or toys or any and all of the necessities of childhood?

Men will dance, go to the theater, play cards and be merry, but they will not be as good as I am whether you want to be or not. You shall not go on enjoying your own way about things. I think this is right and that is all there is to it."

The other fellow says: "You are all right, I think it fine for you to go to meeting three times a day or oftener if you want to. It makes you better and happier. It does not make me better or happier, therefore, I leave the diligence of worship to you. I need

One of the most admirable of the musical journals is the one devoted to the personal side of the art. The current issue contains a valuable account of the Maine music festival, an event that has been an annual occurrence for more than ten years. Schuman-Hinck was the solo artist this year and his playing was as great as when she first delighted American music lovers.

Musical America needs but a short acquaintance to appreciate the value for any musician or club desiring to keep in touch with the practical side of musical development and achievement.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Mrs. E. H. Carter's Luncheon
 Quite the most important event for a long time was the announcement luncheon Tuesday given by Mrs. E. H. Carter in honor of Miss Saunders and Miss Mary Harrison, two brides-elect very dear to a large circle of friends.

Mrs. Carter, neighbor and friend of both since they were tiny girls, gave her exquisite taste and unbounded enthusiasm to the most delightful luncheon was appropriately introduced. The luncheon was attended by the members of the wedding parties and the colors, pink and yellow, used for the decorations were those that will appear in the supremely important events. A multitude of pink roses transformed the dining room into a rose bower with gay companions of yellow "mums." As background for these beauties were ivy leaves, showing the first faint touch of autumn in the brilliant red and yellow edgings of the hearty green foliage.

Over the doorway was a strand of clear plant in full bloom, the foliage measuring from door to walls beyond on each side. The masses of green were evidences of luxuriant growth and like the roses and other flowers, were all grown in Fort Worth yards.

The table was very gay with the autumn tints, coupled with the favored pink and yellow. The centerpiece was an inverted cut-glass punch bowl, surmounted with a home-grown pumpkin, with edging ornamented and holding a riotous profusion of pink and cream grapes. The grape foliage with the autumn leaf and the pink favors were water-color reproductions of sacks of a cereal famous for popularity at weddings, the bag reproduction having a rice-bell.

The menu was of the delectable cookery, the feature being the desert served in a unique and beautiful way. A huge block of pink ice-cream was cut and from its depths were produced bunches of pink grape cream with silver cake.

Mrs. Carl G. Elliott was toast mistress for the cheering words that were offered to "The Bride, 'The Groom,"

"The Mother-in-Law" and "The Queen of the Pantry"

In introducing the first toast to the bride, Miss Harrison was as follows:
 "They say that for every joy we know there exists as keen a woe. So every moment of pleasure today is more than overbalanced by the anguish I'm suffering at having to act as toast-mistress. But I love Mrs. Carter and I was very glad to be committing the crime—one thought consoles me we are all fellow sufferers—half of us must drink and the rest are compelled to listen. However, for the resolved solemnly yesterday that we'd have a good time anyway, even if we have a struggle in an enemy's mind to be bright, when we're so much rather just plain be natural. It is with a heart full of interest, therefore, that I propose the first toast today. To The Bride, to her who in the midst of all her happiness may be longing for and making a sacrifice beneath the content that follows. I ask Miss Tarleton to respond."

Miss Tarleton said:
 "I knew a certain girl. She was dear to me then; she is dearer to me now. On her sweet forehead mild the parting gleams of the simplest guile. The blue of heaven was in her eyes. She was the darling of her parent's hearts. A few years passed, the little girl is now a woman. Her head is bowed, her doth culture well repay and more engaging grows from day to day. And now she stands about to be a bride. A lovely woman, nobly planned, to warn to comfort and command. Let Mr. Reimers mark the word command, and make obedience beneath the gentle hand. May the mild rays of the hymeneal moon beam soft upon them, and to her let Love be true and health stay close. May joy draw near to her. Fortune see what you can do for her, search your treasure house thru and thru for gifts to follow her footsteps the wide-world over and keep her husband always her lover."

Miss Labatt was called upon for a toast to Miss Harrison. She said:
 "That Love is blind, will not dispute; He's often deaf and dumb to boot! But if he sightless be, now pray How doth he always find the way?"

"With unerring aim the tricky archer has shot out the golden arrow of the rosy garden of girls and found the way to her heart with a shaft which has set its string all a tingle to the tune of Love."

"May the love-lit path which leads our bonny bride from girlhood to wifehood labor in and prosper, and when she shall have attained her goal of gladness may she look back on a sun-kissed way that has known no shadows."

In this class let us drink to Misses Mary and Lloyd McKee gave an impromptu toast to "The Groom." None of the guests were experts in shorthand, so the clever speech will have to be treated to the memory of those who heard it.

Miss Katherine Stripling was entrusted with the important topic of "The Mother-in-Law." Her speech was as follows:
 "I can understand why I, a bachelor maid, who knows nothing whatever of the subject, should be called upon for this toast, when there are so many better qualified. A young man was once called upon to present to his fiancée, upon being informed by the undertaker that he would be compelled to ride in the same carriage with her, that he would not be able to do so, as there was no possible way out of it. When told there was not, he replied, 'Well, that spoils all the pleasure of the occasion.'"

"It must have been this same husband that an earlier period inspired the hostess to say:
 "He called her his darling, his pearl; But when they were married, Her name came and he called her 'mother-of-pearl.'"

"The mother-in-law is a necessary adjunct to the happy occasion when a girl gives her hand to a man for a name and for a ring. Without her there could not be blissful bride. So here's to the mother-in-law, for indeed she is a laborer of peace who can keep me from roasting her."

Mrs. Hunter Gardner gave the witty toast to "The Groom." The toast being "The Queen of the Pantry."

When all was over, Mrs. Elliott proposed a toast to Mrs. Carter and her husband, and the toast was as follows:
 "The menu for this delightful occasion was a culinary poem, as follows:
 Baked Red Snapper Stuffed Peppers
 Turkey Cranberry Ice
 Potatoes, a la Hollandaise
 Peas Purée with Whipped Cream
 Chicken Salad
 with Mayonnaise Dressing
 Hot Rolls
 Celery
 Salted Almonds
 Olives
 Crystallized Fruits
 Mint
 Silver Cake
 Cafe Noir
 The guests were Miss Saunders, Mrs. Harrison, Miss Stripling, Miss Gardner, Mrs. Eader of Sherman, Mrs. Penn of North Carolina, Mrs. McKee, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. John Salley, Craddock and Miss Jean Craddock.

Mrs. McKee for Miss Saunders
 Mrs. Lloyd McKee gave a luncheon in honor of Miss Ray Saunders Thursday, the decorations being happily expressive of the marriage season now reigning in Fort Worth. For the table's center was a cut-glass receiver, intertwined with rings, on which rested snow white favors. The place favors were bonbon holders, dove shaped, and each individual cake bore a dove triumphant as it should be on an occasion when love for a beautiful bride was the theme and inspiration.

Mrs. McKee's guests were Miss Saunders, Mrs. Eader of Sherman, Miss Stripling, Miss Elizabeth Tarleton of Austin, Miss Harrison, Miss McLean, Mrs. C. G. Elliott, Mrs. A. B. Wharton, Miss Jessie Curd, Mrs. Frierson and Miss Slaughter.

During the luncheon it became known that the day was the anniversary of Mrs. McKee's wedding, six months before, and there were bouquets of congratulation for the hostess as well as for the bride-to-be.

The A. B. Whartons Give a Barbecue
 Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wharton introduced a number of their friends to their country place on the Benbrook road Friday afternoon, and seasoned the introduction by a capital barbecue luncheon. Barbecued lamb, sweet potatoes roasted in hot ashes, pickles, broiled bacon, assorted cheese and confit, were served with a home label unmistakable.

The guests were Messrs. and Mesdames, H. E. Egan, E. W. Turner, W. C. Manafae, W. C. Stripling, D. T. Hooper, E. A. Want, W. G. Turner, W. W. Sloan Jr., E. W. Temple, Ben O. Smith, Tom Wagner, Mrs. Dan Wagoner, Ben O. Smith Jr., Misses Stripling, Wright of Manfield, Pendleton, Darter, Miller, W. C. Hollingsworth, T. E. G. I Took Pe-ru-na, Hardly Daring to Believe

So Writes Mr. Newhof, of Albany.

Pelvic Diseases in Men.

Many an invalid is dragging out a miserable existence with catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the bladder, or both.
 There is no disease equal to catarrh of the bladder in producing complete wretchedness, absolute despair, haggard misery and stubborn weakness.
 An army of this sort of victims have one by one discovered that Peruna could be relied upon to relieve such cases.
 One man tells another man, and in this way the news spreads until in all parts of the country are to be found men who have been permanently liberated from the thrall of catarrh of the bladder by a course of Peruna.
 Many cases of catarrh of the stomach, kidneys and other abdominal organs have reported themselves as cured.
 We give below two prominent testimonials which illustrate the benefit of Peruna in these cases.

CHARLES B. NEWHOF

Catarrh of the Bladder

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 10 Delaware street, Albany, N. Y., President Montefiore Club, writes:
 "Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years. I took Peruna, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided, and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peruna."

Catarrh of Stomach and Kidneys.

Mr. David L. Jaycox, Chaplain Clarinda I. O. G. T. and Chaplain G. A. R., 866 Broadway, Oakland, Cal., writes:
 "I am an old war veteran. I contracted severe bladder and kidney trouble, I spent hundreds of dollars and consulted a host of doctors, but neither did me any good.
 "Finally some of my comrades who had been cured by Peruna advised me to try it. I at once bought a bottle, and found it helped me so much that I kept using it for nearly four months.
 "Peruna has proven the best medicine I ever used. My pains are gone and I believe myself to be cured. I feel well, and would not be without a bottle in time of need for ten times its cost."
 Mr. Robert E. Hanvey, Treasurer Knights of Industrial Freedom, also a well known writer and lecturer, writes from 111 South Nicholas St., Chicago, Ill., as follows:
 "I was in good health until about four years ago, when my back became lame and sore. The pains kept increasing, with severe twitches and slow exhaustive aches. Urine was highly colored and passed with great irregularity. I knew this must be inflammation of the bladder.
 "Having read of Peruna I decided to try it. I found relief from the pain within ten days. The aches gradually diminished, and it was a blessed relief I can assure you. Within three months I was well once more. My appetite had returned, nervousness and irritability were things of the past, and for over two years now I have been a healthy man.
 "I give all thanks to your Peruna, and believe that it is a blessing to mankind."

Mr. H. L. Emory, Vice Chancellor and Master of Arms, K. P. of Omaha, Neb., writes from 305 North Sixteenth street, the following words of praise for Peruna as a tonic. He says:
 "It is with pleasure I recommend Peruna as a tonic of unusual merit. A large number of prominent members of the different orders with which I have been connected have been cured by the use of Peruna in cases of catarrh of the stomach and head; also in kidney complaints and weakness of the pelvic organs.
 "Peruna tones up the system, aids digestion, induces sleep, and is well worthy the confidence of sufferers of the above complaints."

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. McCollum, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben O. Smith, Captain H. M. Johnson, L. Marsdon and Miss Marsdon.

 Mrs. Keeler for Miss Saunders
 Mrs. D. B. Keeler entertained with an informal luncheon Saturday in honor of Miss Saunders. There were no toasts, only the cordial welcome, the infectious gaiety that belongs with a party given to a beautiful and beloved bride.
 Big bunches of American Beauty roses were used and seven courses were served. The guests were Miss Saunders, Miss Stripling, Miss Tarleton, Mrs. H. J. Richardson of Rochester, Minn., Mrs. Saunders, Miss Slaughter, Miss Harrison and C. D. Reimers, who was called to act the part of host in the absence of Mr. Keeler, whose train was unavoidably delayed.
 Mrs. John Winter
 Mrs. John Winter entertained informally with high five for her sisters, Miss Lewis and Miss Margaret Lewis, formerly of Sherman, now living in Fort Worth. The guests played the game skillfully and then forgot the game in the rare luncheon of salad, hot beaten biscuits, coffee and other edible accessories. Miss Margaret Lewis

Kress' Stores an Evolution

The name Kress has come to mean a whole lot to the housekeepers of the Southern States, solely because of the principles which founded the business and which govern every transaction.
 To give the public the greatest value for price—to sell only on the merit of the goods—to give a satisfactory store service in every particular—and above all, to win the unbounded confidence of every citizen—these have been our aims, and these principles we believe have held true ever since the establishment of our stores.

You know what this has meant to you. Every visit to the store must have impressed you favorably. We cannot realize how it could be otherwise.
 When we look around many other stores and note the prices that seem standard among them on goods such as we sell, we cannot wonder why the crowds continue to visit our stores, nor are we surprised at the enthusiasm and eagerness with which purchases are made.

We strive always to give a prompt and satisfactory service. Sometimes we are a little crowded, and those who are impatient are prone to complain, but every day sees the service growing better.
 When you see the goods here advertised, and realize the values which these offers represent, you will understand why the crowds visit the Kress Store.

A cut-glass nappy was won by Mrs. Bowman in a cut with Mrs. Hartford, Moore, Crady, Hunt, Triplett, Pondery, Ault, McDonald, Sittinger and Carnahan, and Misses Gertrude Bowman, Smith and De Vos.

Mrs. Du Puy will be the next hostess.

The All Saints Hospital Association desires publicity given to their approaching celebration. All Saints hospital is now nearing completion and will be ready for patients within the next two months. As is well known, this hospital is primarily for those who are without money to pay for hospital treatment and attention. There will be pay wards for those able to pay, but the main building is to be free for those who may be sick and financially unfortunate.

On All Saints day the members of the association will be divided into groups and will be stationed in prominent points all over town. Every man, woman and child will be asked to contribute a single penny, at least, for the support of this charity. The public is asked now to be ready with the penny. Those giving will be furnished with badge, so that other workers will know and refrain from further solicitations.

Mrs. Q. T. Moreland will entertain with a dinner party for her sister, Miss Stinson of Ann Harbor, Mich. next Tuesday evening.

A Beautiful Display of Dress Trimmings and Laces

WE INVITE YOU to view the most extensive and tastefully selected showing of exclusive Laces and Dress Trimmings that it has been our privilege to offer. A more beautiful and complete showing than at any previous season. Just a hint of what is being used by the best designers of women's dresses. Braids are much used, not only upon wools, but on chiffons and silks and other widely contrasting fabrics. Passementerie seem to have come into their own again. The Tulle Bands embroidered in jets and chenille are very handsome; so are the wide, rich skirt and evening coat band trimmings of gold and white silk cord applied on a thin foundation of silk net, etc. Beads are used in all ways from the "bugles" to the solid bead bands, done in tapestry colors. As to laces, they deserve a chapter to themselves, so lavishly as they are used. Contrast and combination seem the order of the day. Very heavy laces are put upon very fine, thin goods, and when a heavy lace is used upon one part of dress, a very fine lace is very likely used elsewhere on the same dress, and often on the coarse lace itself. The Lierre Laces are offered in many patterns and widths. For real lace, Venice Point leads. Cluny will be good style, and some handsome Spanish laces are shown.

Everyone who buys the Cole's Hot Blast Stove says they are the only Stove

COLE'S ORIGINAL HOT BLAST=THE CLEAN STOVE

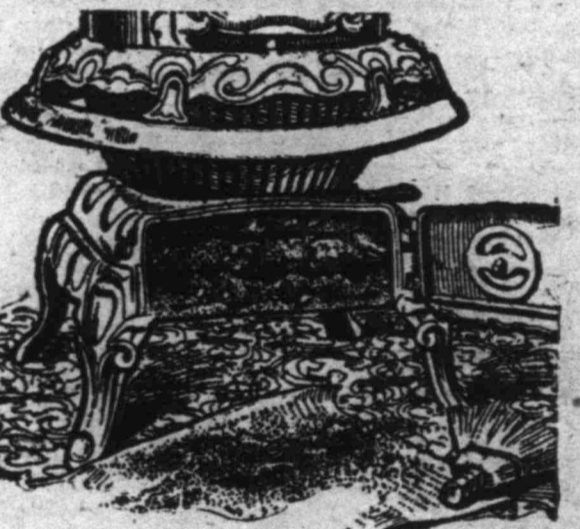

Cut No. 1

DUST PROOF
Cole's Original Hot Blast is the cleanest stove ever placed on the market. Our method of removing ashes shown by cut No. 1, is perfectly clean and overcomes the many objections to the ash pan used in other stoves. The elbow draft casting with its upward slant allows the empty coalhod to be set under the draft so that no ashes or coals can be spilled on the floor. Our patented dustless-ash cover shown by illustration is furnished free with Nos. 122, 152, 182 and 196 stoves. It keeps down every particle of dust in removing ashes, a feature that will be appreciated by every tidy housekeeper. The ash pans used in other stoves are too small to hold a full 24 hours' accumulation of ashes. They are usually over-filled when removed, and the ashes in the bottom of the stove are dragged out on to the carpet, as shown by cut No. 2. You are all familiar with the ash pan method, and have, no doubt, gone through the process many times of spreading a newspaper or cloth under your stove every time the over-filled pan is removed. The ash pan is not only dirty, but is a great evil in stove construction. It adds a door and joints which can be made only temporarily air-tight by the use of stove putty. These joints open after a few weeks' use, rendering ash pan stoves worthless as fire keepers. It makes them fuel-eaters rather than fuel-savers. The ash pan and the shield for guiding ashes into the pan, also prevent base heat. Our method is the only clean way. The whisk broom, turkey wing and dust cloth are dispensed with. There are no joints to leak air, base heat is not retarded and Cole's Hot Blast is the cleanest stove, the best floor heater and the only stove in the world which can be guaranteed to remain always air-tight.

SMOKE PROOF
The feed door on this stove is guaranteed smoke proof and does away with the escape of smoke, soot and gas into the house. Side feed doors used on other stoves discharge a cloud of gas and soot-laden smoke into the house and scatter soot and ashes over the carpet when opened. Another point: In feeding coal into a side feed door it has to be thrown into the stove, which usually results in scattering much of it over the floor. With our cleanly smoke proof feed door the coal is poured into the stove even to the dust in the bottom of the hod without a particle being spilled on the floor. This clean and economical stove burns the gases which often escape into the rooms with other stoves. The annoyance and dirt from kindling new fires is dispensed with, as the rooms are heated up for two or three hours each morning with the fuel put in the night before and the Fire is Never Out. COLE'S ORIGINAL HOT BLAST is the cleanest stove made and will more than save its cost in fuel each winter.

Cut No. 2
Shows the dirty ash pan method.

READING WITH A PURPOSE

READING maketh a full man, said Solomon long ago, had he said it nowadays instead of then he might have been tempted to drop the vowel and one of the "ts" in his adjective, substitute a couple of "os", and with out changing the sound, come very near to a truth as axiomatic as the original. For careless reading, a habit of all our better modern critics, one human fallings than it is today. There are more people who read now and there is much more to be read. There are four good book stores in Fort Worth and a public library. The news stands find sale every month for more than 140 different magazines and periodicals. There are newspapers without number. The churches and colleges have their crusades, yearbooks and there are a large number of technical and professional publications received weekly and monthly through the mails. It is surely then is worth while to consider the effects of so much reading is daily indulged in by men, women and children part of the city's great army of readers. Ask the average man why he reads and he will answer first: "For information." If he is more honest than the average he will answer: "For recreation and pleasure." Sometimes one will be found to say he reads for mere enjoyment and he is likely more sincere than the man who declares he reads to keep in touch with the thought and action of the times. Why women read is another question. It is too deep for a casual search after solutions in a newspaper article. Not that there are no women who read the same answers to the question of why they read, as have the men, but to classify women readers is an endless task. Of all readers, let it be advanced as a truism for defense, the best are children. The boy who, heels in air, and flat on his stomach before a volume of fairy tales pores over the pages until he sees with vivid distinctness the scenes the author has tried to portray, gets far more out of his reading than his father, who, with every worthy motive, sits down to peruse the pages of some serious work or standard piece of fiction. And there are many reasons. The youthful mind is fresh. It receives impressions readily and retains them well. Its imagination is not yet being deadened by contact with the prosaic facts of everyday life. The child more nearly lives with the author in the making of his story as it profits from page to page than does any other reader no matter how great his earnestness or good intentions. This is one of childhood's birthrights: something for which his elders, if they be self-censured, envy him. To seek after it is vain. But there is another quality in which the child reader excels his elders. An unconscious quality, yet none the less remarkable, and one which is not shared as an exclusive privilege of immaturity. That is the advantage of self-improvement which all reading save trash, may furnish even the most experienced reader. Did you ever notice, and probably laugh at the pedantic phrases a child affects in common conversation after he has been reading some serious book? Or perhaps he has been fascinated by some quaintly worded tale of olden times, and into his every day vocabulary he injects some expression which sounds almost strange to the lips of a generation a hundred years later than the one to which it first belonged. It is a childish habit and it has doubtless often amused you. Did it occur to you that when you read a book, and outgrow the habit, you let slip something of precious value? How many readers of standard literature seek for any greater benefits than those of the cerebral development resultant from the cerebral exercise required in such reading? That the mind is improved by reading good books is self-evident. Is it not a fact that the majority of readers consider this benefit the greatest boon for which they may achieve?

How many recognize the value of the "childish" habit in adapting to everyday conversation the best phrases which they may have encountered in their reading? Most of us are too afraid of being called pedantic, and so we read a beautifully worded passage, enjoy it, and straightway resume our normal habits of speech, interjecting idioms that border of the colloquial, if we do not even stoop further to vulgar slang.

Our best books are written in the simplest language, but how many who pride themselves on being discerning readers, use the simple language they find in their favorite authors, as part of their every day vocabulary or even their correspondence? Well bred, well educated, intelligent people who have some pride in their qualities of mind, go to an evening party, and when taking their leave tell their host and hostess "We have a splendid time," and are told in reply "I'm sure we're awfully glad you came."

Laying aside the extravagance and untruthfulness of both statements, which may be heard a hundred times a month, consider the inaccuracy of both. Were we to find them, or their equivalents in a book, we would shut it with a snap and register a feeling of contempt towards the author who was so careless as to use them.

Can any person possess time, a time, or even merely time? Can the adjective splendid belonging to descriptions of persons have any application to so abstract a thing as time? The guests meant to say that they had passed the time enjoyably and to have said simply that had passed or spent the time would have been a more sincere compliment to those who had entertained them. It would not have been inappropriate to use any modifying adverb with the descriptive adjective. Very often even exceedingly (to some who that extravagant might have sounded well. There would be nothing wrong in applying a descriptive adjective to "evening" because it is a period of time. To attempt any modification of time itself save one conveying its natural qualities such as "fleeting," is nothing short of ridiculous.

Perhaps the host and hostess may have been well bred enough to have omitted the word "awfully" in their reply. But many people use it. The adverb which is debased by association with anything less than the highest is interjected daily in places where it is not only incorrect, but vulgar.

People who display in conversation qualities indicating broad and cultured minds are not averse to being referred to as well read. But the man whom nature did not endow with a broad mind, and who, for lack of time or other reasons, has not had opportunity to be widely read, may by a cultivation of the childish habit of self-improvement in speech, acquire a culture far more favored persons have overlooked. More than one student of affairs because he spoke good English and used simple well chosen words in both his conversation and his correspondence.

It is a fact that in every business firm the important task of letter writing is entrusted to the man who has the best English at his command, and whose own word the correspondence of his firm in the best manner possible. Everyday reading, even of the newspapers (for good newspapers strive after the best English with a zeal that is almost a passion) may give a man the ability of which he at some time or other must feel the lack. Reading of standard literature will do for him even more.

The best read man is not the most read man, but he who from his reading has obtained the most of good.

A BALLADE OF HEROES

TARKINGTON'S bucks are of courtly stuff; Major's knights, at a pinch, will do; Howell's heroes are well enough; Hopkinson Smith's have a healthy hue; Barrie's Scots are a kailsome brew; Parker's Canuck very likely drinks; Give me the man with his mind in kinks, (Benedict be he, or squire of dames) Who tells what he thinks he thinks he thinks— Give me the hero of Henry James!

Wister's cowboys are slightly tough; London lands but a truceless crew; A little too much inclined to bluff Is Harding Davis' civilized Sioux; Hall Caine's sufferers wear their rue With little indifference. Each one slinks Away, and the dazzled reader blinks, When some psychic problem he tackles and tames— From mental muddles he never shrinks— Give me the hero of Henry James!

Garland's grangers are gritty, if gruff; Hope's smart bachelors wittily woo; Weyman's worthies are up to snuff, Conan Doyle's never lack a cue; But, alas! at a glance you can look them thru! No matter in what gay clothes he prinks, Who cares for a character full of chinks? Such transparency, his make-up-shames; Cards and spades he can give the Sphinx— Give me the hero of Henry James!

ENVOY

Ho! Sir Critic, with eye of lynx That sleeps not ever, nor even winks, Scan me the field with its clash of claims; Then take your choice; as for me, i-jinks! Give me the hero of Henry James!

—Frank Preston Smart, in October Century.

ROOT IN SOUTH AMERICA

Arthur Ruhl, Collier's special representative in South America during Secretary Root's visit there, tells, in Collier's for October 13, of Mr. Root's visit to Uruguay and Argentina. Speaking of the arrival of Mr. Root in Buenos Ayres, he says: "The skies cleared, and all Buenos Ayres poured into the streets, with the vivacious good humor which might be expected to accompany the prospect of a three days' fiesta and a splendid free show. Everywhere there were lights, Florida, a street corresponding in a way to our Broadway, was festooned with incandescent lamps, in the Argentine and American colors. The happy throng, with many necklaces, like a beauty dressed for a ball. Beneath this blaze trooped a crowd much like—except that it mostly spoke Spanish or Italian or French—troopway crowd on New Year's or election night. Mr. Root was being banqueted in the government house on the plaza, and the great show of the evening was set for 10 o'clock when the banqueting party were to emerge upon a balcony and watch the firemen march by in a torchlight parade. For those the populace surged in the plaza below, proud to be witnessed by many lines their splendid cuirassiers, shouting out Latin jefts to the pastry cook's men from the Cafe de Paris who patterned their way to the banquet hall balanced a tray of wonderful quaking jellies on their heads. At last there was a great shout. On the balcony of the palace could be discerned a lot of white shirts fringed with red, the necks of the shirts screamed, and round the plaza and past the reviewing balcony the firemen came. They marched like infantry, carrying torches and axes instead of rifles, and the head of the first was a bugle corps which counter-marched and drew up in front of the balcony, where, all during the procession, it blared in snarl unison a curious wild march. Presently the band came, a band of those walling, eerie calls peculiar to South America. Those who had passed the reviewing stand continued to march on out of the plaza and up into the Avenida, where they were met by a rumble and rattle in the distance, and all at once into the glare in front of the reviewing balcony swept the engines—steam up and smoking—the hook and ladder and hose carts, pell mell, on wine with a fellow clubman, listens unknowingly to the story of his wife's love for another man—a situation poignant with possibilities and losing credence under the forceful yet subtle handling of the author.

One is swept along breathless on the current of a love story of increasing suspense and interest—when suddenly in the twink of an eye the glittering picture is enveloped in blackest gloom and the story plunges headlong into an abyss of tragedy. From the artistic and literary viewpoint, in conception and treatment, "The Girl on Board" is a story of uncommon strength.

Under the striking title of "A Sawdust Man," Heyward Greene has written a story dealing with a commonplace but interesting phase of New York life. The background is a boarding house, one of the long rows labeled "Rooms with Board," familiar to every resident of the big city. There is a touch of Bohemianism in the atmosphere of the place, and the glittering story is a typical young woman of today, careful of her morals but regardless of convention. The cost of her ethical creed, in the boarding house environment, is skilfully worked out in "What She Thought," Julia Browne has written down the anguish of a woman into whose heart love has crept, a woman of uncommon mold, who hates the bondage of love and cries out passionately for her freedom. While the desire for love overweighs her, she fears and shrinks from it, and rears arguments against it, only to be broken down, with pathos that stirs one to pity and admiration. It is a page out of a woman's inmost heart. Homeless, alone, without work, without money, sleeping on park benches with the city's derelicts, the heroine of "Anne Annis' story," "The Girl of Fate," stumbles on a wallet, bulging with greenbacks. Reckless, hating the life of toil, the dingy boarding house she hated before, she is driven to park benches, she deserts, and a desperate gamble, a "try" at some of the good things of life she rubs shoulders with on every side. There is a love story in the picture, but the picture of the girl's morality, that sets one thinking—wondering who is to blame.

BOOKS

An Ultra-Modern View of Dickens A book on Dickens by G. K. Chesterton, the brilliant essayist and clever writer of wild paradoxes, cannot fail to be suggestive and readable. Interest in Dickens is really wonderful. A man who is an ultra-modern in many respects, a law unto himself, and who has as much in common with the humanitarianism of the Dickens period, set so absurd and wayward as Mr. Chesterton become in straining after freshness and originality that many must have shared the fear of the London reviewer who frankly admits that he looks up the new work on Dickens with fear and trembling.

However, the book is generally declared to be a remarkable piece of constructive criticism, in spite of its crudities and faults. Some of the author's analyses of intention are really wonderful, and many of his sidelights on the lives and characters and situations in the Dickens novels are indicative of sympathy, understanding and exceptional critical acumen.

Chesterton's main purpose is to uphold the democracy, radicalism and optimism of Dickens, "Dickens and his school," he writes, "had a historic faith in democracy and thought the service of it as a sacred priest-hood." "We cannot understand, imagine, Dickens and his life unless we are able to imagine this old atmosphere of democratic optimism—a common sense, a sturdy, sturdy, sentimental radicalism, a Dickens' vivacity emotional, yet with a good judgment; pugnacious, but only when he sought himself oppressed; prone to look himself oppressed, yet not content about human motives." He thought and what the people thought; he had common capacity to express with vigor and power the things close to common mind.

But Mr. Chesterton grows infectious, enthusiastic when he deals with the "mystic invention" of Dickens and the "we all feel in Pickwick, Toots, Miller, Swallow and Pecksniff." Miller, Mr. Chesterton describes as a "mantic adventurer," and we are told that "the strange and stirring story which Dickens made was this—having chosen a fat old man of middle classes as a good thing of which to make a butt, he found that fat old man of the middle classes was the very best thing of which to make a romantic adventurer."

The characters of Dickens, Mr. Chesterton says, "live statistically, in a personal summer of being themselves."

Interesting Topics in October Magazines

Century There is an element of novelty, often amounting to surprise, in the contents of the October Century. The article on "The Human Side of the Car" is, perhaps, of most general interest. This is a personal narrative, by Mrs. Amalia Kussner Coudert, of her experiences in the palace while painting the portrait of the Russian emperor—the political character of the world now most in the public eye. Reproductions of her miniatures of the Imperial family add to the attractiveness of the sketch.

Delineator The November Delineator treats of the established styles for autumn both in dress and millinery, and also devotes much space to the accessories of dress which women find so alluring. The spirit of Thanksgiving season is preserved in the light of the growing interest in American art. Annie Nathan Meyer's record of "What American Museums Are Doing for Native Art" makes wide appeal. Dr. Robert Bennett Bean supports his paper in the September Century on "The Birth of the Negro" by another on "The Training of a Negro," which is likely to attract attention North and South. "The Dog Police of European Cities" is full of information and fresh interest; and there is the first account of "The Japanese Pilgrimage to the Buddhist Holy Land," the writer, Count Otani, being the chief of the Buddhist cult in Japan. Langdon Warner's personal narrative of "Kjiva from the Inside," a vivid description of strange adventure, is illustrated from photographs made by Mr. Warner, probably the first ever secured in that out-of-the-way spot.

There is plenty of fiction in the number, too: the third instalment of A. E. Mason's strong serial, "Running Water"; the merry conclusion of Anne Warner's rollicking story of travel, "Seeing France with Uncle John," which has proved reminiscent of De Mille's "Dodge Club" of two generations ago; and a number of short stories with surprises in them, Harvey J. O'Higgins, Edna Kenton and Grace E. J. Channing being among the contributors.

Demands special mention among the pictorial features of the number are reproductions, one in color, of Orlando Rouland's sympathetic painting of Rouland in Shakespearean roles, and reproductions of work by living American artists of note, four of these in tint.

The editorial articles protest against the resort of violence in labor troubles; consider "How to Aid American Art," appealing to protectionists to support the movement for free art, as being disconnected with the general tariff question, and, apropos of election day, call attention to the fact that political demagogues and charlatans thrive upon the toleration of so-called "good citizens."

Young's Opening with the dazzling gaiety of a great charity bazar in Paris, crowded with the beauty and nobility of France, here a beautiful society leader selling bric-a-brac; there a charming blonde courtesan offering for sale embroidery; excellent wine served in a little bistro; a one of the foremost opera stars; a booth wherein age youths of the jeunesse doree delight the on-lookers with exhibitions of acrobatic skill, A. de Nora's brilliant story "Pink Corset" in November Young's portrays vividly the splendor of Paris aristocracy.

The Century in 1907 Elizabeth Robins Penhell and Joseph Pennell are preparing for the new volume of the Century an illustrated series of descriptive articles on "French Cathedrals." They are intended to have special interest for travelers and art lovers.

Recollections of Whistler in Paris, Venice and London by Cyrus Cueno, the artist, and Otto Bacher, the etcher, both of whom enjoyed delightful comradeship with the great painter, will be among the features of the Century in 1907.

Color work already under way for the new volume of the Century includes pictures by Anna W. Bista, J. C. Lydencker, and Stamen (Frankwell).

Young's In the midst of the gay scene, with the elegant and fashionable beauties of Paris smiling, bowing and blushing on every side, a nobleman, idly gazing

Reckless, hating the life of toil, the dingy boarding house she hated before, she is driven to park benches, she deserts, and a desperate gamble, a "try" at some of the good things of life she rubs shoulders with on every side. There is a love story in the picture, but the picture of the girl's morality, that sets one thinking—wondering who is to blame.

Technical World The November, 1906, issue is a special opportunity number, and the wonderful opportunities open to enterprising Americans are featured on every page. The articles cover almost every branch of human activity. Following is a partial list of leading articles: Hudson Bay—New Way to Europe—J. C. Elliott. "To a Dream Came True—Edith Neal Ferrine." "Told at Forty—An Employee." "New Island Rises from Ocean—J. Mayne Baltimore." "Emurying up the Coal Mines—Aubrey Fullerton." "Mr. William Devereaux Magin and his Technical Education—Henry M. Hyde." "New Path into Gotham Harbor—Nick J. Quirk." "Making a World to Order—Bess Bache." "New Marvels in Physics—Ben Winslow." "World's New Treasure Box—O. J. Stevenson." "Predict Next Year's Weather—J. E. Watkins." "New Zealand—W. G. Fitz-Gerald." "New Outdoor Profession—Guy E. Mitchell." "Homesteads for the Asking—Robert Smith." "Twenty-five other articles, 130 illustrations.

The latter artist has already painted, for a near issue of the Century, a portrait of Maude Adams in the character of Esther Parson.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's new novel will begin in the November Century and run thru the entire year. The story has the piquant title of "The Shuttle" and the author says "I am the author, "when the Shuttle began its slow and heavy weaving from shore to shore that it was held and guided by the great hand of fate" and deals with different phases of international marriage, the heroines being girls of the finest American type whose fortunes carry them to England. The illustrations are being made by Greiffenhagen.

OUR LAY SERMON.

O Lord, my strength and my fortress and my refuge in the day of affliction, the Gentiles shall come unto Thee from the ends of the earth, and shall say, Surely our fathers have inherited lies, vanity and things wherein there is no profit.—Jeremiah 16:19. It may be true that our old friend, Jeremiah, was very much given to lamentations when he ought in the eternal fitness of things to have been up and doing, but there can be no doubt that he felt the truth embodied in the statement quoted above, even though the outlook must have appeared quite discouraging from his view point. Almost all of the world was given over to heathenism at that time, and the great majority of his own people were given over to the practice of various forms of wickedness and idolatry.

But since the days when Jeremiah gathered his burthen about his head and gave vent to those pious lamentations which have come down to the children of men, a great change has taken place on the whole broad face of the earth. Idolatry has virtually been abolished from the surface of the earth and the old nations of the Far East seem to be accepting the principles of the real Christianity. Prof. J. Ingram Bryan, who is employed in the Imperial College of Commerce at Nagasaki, Japan, is in position to speak as to the conditions existing in that country, and he offers the following testimony in a recent issue of Harper's Weekly:

Japanese observers assert that at present Buddhism has no influence in China, and the statement is still more true of Japan. The average Japanese who has any conception of the difference between one religion and another, feels that Buddhism has a scant message for the twentieth century. The real religion of Japan is Ancestor Worship—a reverence for, and service of, the departed ones whose spirits are believed over to pour their mighty forces into the life of today. To a large number of the more intelligent Japanese, this creed is no more satisfying to the spiritual nature than the anniversary of a funeral would be to us; and as for the masses, they are slaves to the most blood-curdling superstitions, amounting in many cases to a worship of demons. In a very able article in the "Shin Jin" (New Man), Mr. Ebina contends that notwithstanding its philosophical excellence, Buddhism is destined to be overcome by the practical efficiency of Christianity. Japanese Christians are now exerting a powerful influence at home, and that influence has conspicuously followed the flag into Formosa, Korea and Manchuria. When the main points of the ethics of old Japan, loyalty and filial piety, are consecrated by the social service of a pure and noble character, a great and lasting leadership will be assured to Japan, not only in statesmanship, but in religion and morality.

It will be readily noticed that this Japanese authority asserts it is the "practical efficiency" of Christianity that will win. And it is well for us to continually bear in mind that it is the practical efficiency of Christianity that makes it so abundantly superior to all other so-called religions.

It may be true that there is a great deal of counterfeit religion in actual circulation. It may be true that the ring of the dross is clearly apparent when we are in many instances attuning our ears for the clear ring of the true metal. But similar conditions prevailed back even in the days when the Great Teacher denounced the Pharisees of His day. These Pharisees were the sanctimonious class, but the acknowledged sinners were not so severely condemned as they.

It must be conceded that there are many Pharisees today. The breed has been perpetuated and they have come on down in an unbroken line since the days when Christ walked and talked with His Disciples on earth. There are countless thousands of those who make a pretense of Christianity and yet possess none of its spirit. The grafters, the commercial oppressors, no matter how great their professions, have no more of the real spirit of Christianity than did those ancient Pharisees who inhabited Judea and were rebuked by the Son of God. It is not this Pharisaical or counterfeit Christianity that is conquering the world. That has none of the "practical efficiency" promulgated by the Great Teacher in the two great commandments of love to one's Maker and to one's neighbor. It is the spirit of the Golden Rule that wins, and the Golden Rule has nothing in common with graft and doing ill to one's neighbor.

The Christian religion is ample for all the necessities of this world, and when we say Christian religion, we mean the real thing. No man can afford to lay hands on the spurious article and hug it to his bosom under the delusion that it will answer the purpose. No man can hide from the world for any length of time that he is a canting hypocrite, for the wrong he is doing is sure to find him out. There is no religion but the real religion and the man who has it does not have to be told what it really is. He is so full of it that it shines out in his every act.

WILL ABANDON PACKERS' SUITS

The report from Washington to the effect that the suits against the big packers, or the Beef Trust suits, as they have been generally designated by Texas cattlemen, are to be abandoned, has created no great amount of surprise among the cattlemen of this state. It has been pretty generally believed since the Humphrey decision that the government would finally abandon the cases, as the promised immunity from punishment by Commissioner Garfield in the case of the corporations must also act as a block in the prosecution of the individuals.

The report from Washington says the department of justice decided to abandon the cases some time ago, but no formal announcement to that effect has been made by Attorney General Moody, who is to retire Jan. 1. The statement is made that the only thing that could be gained from a prosecution of the cases would be a fine, which would be promptly appealed to the supreme court of the United States, and probably drag along for years. And thus proceedings that were heralded to the world as a blow that would free the country from the operations of the so-called beef trust, ends in a farce that causes even the victims to smile. Following is a brief history of the case:

The trial was originally set for Jan. 6, but on that date was postponed until Jan. 17, owing to the illness of one of the counsel. On Jan. 17 the trial began. It was not until three days later that attorneys for the indicted packers entered their famous plea for immunity to James R. Garfield, the government agent, on his promise that any information he gained should not be used against them. Upon this alleged promise made to the packers hinged the guilt or innocence of the packers.

Attorneys for the packers in their plea set up the following defense: That Garfield visited Chicago for the first time on April 13, 1904. Thru Charles G. Dawes he met L. G. Krauthoff, counsel for Armour & Co., and S. A. McRoberts, treasurer of that company. Thru James H. Eckles he was introduced to Edward Swift and Edward Morris. He had his first interview with these representatives of the packing industry at the Chicago club on April 13, 1904, and outlined the general purposes of his visit.

The packers at first were suspicious and asked for time to consult among each other. A few days later Commissioner Garfield met most of the packers or their attorneys at the office of H. A. Veeder & Co., and assured them that they had nothing to fear personally from the investigation of their books he desired to make. With this understanding the packers opened their books and Commissioner Garfield made his report. Parts of his report went to the grand jury and the indictments followed.

The immunity plea was practically the only one considered at the trial. Attorney General Moody reached Chicago on Feb. 5, to take charge of the case. The Garfield report was read to the jury Feb. 7, and Garfield himself was on the witness stand on Feb. 21 and 22, and again on Feb. 27 and 28. The arguments began on March 15, United States District Attorney Morrison speaking three days and Attorney General Moody two days. The attorney general concluded his argument on March 20, and Judge Humphrey decided the case the same day, upholding the packers' plea of immunity.

There was considerable talk among the Texas cattlemen when the Humphrey decision was first announced, the general trend of opinion being that the efforts of the government to secure the conviction of these cases had been effectually thwarted by Commissioner Garfield, who assumed prerogatives he did not possess and promised something the government could not and should not grant. There was some very caustic criticism of the action of Garfield among the cattlemen of Texas and the southwest at that time, and it looked at one time as if a demand would be made for his resignation. But the matter was passed with an expressed hope that in the final trial of the cases the packers might get what they properly had coming.

The Texas cattlemen have had a great deal of confidence in President Roosevelt thruout the entire situation, from the simple fact they believed the President was their friend. While others have insisted from the beginning that there was nothing in the prosecution but political bluster, the cattlemen as a rule have thought otherwise, thru their unwavering confidence in the friendship of the President. The information that the cases are to be abandoned while causing no great amount of surprise, will involve considerable disappointment to those who have been pinning their faith to the President.

SOUTHWESTERN LAND VALUES

There is a warning for homeseekers in what a staff correspondent of the Republic, writing from Oklahoma City, has said about the rush of population to the new state, and the rapid rise in land values there. The time is limited in which cheap lands can be bought in either of the territories that are to form the state of Oklahoma.

In Oklahoma the public land is nearly exhausted. The new state will start with about 1,250,000 acres of school lands, but the powerful farmers' unions oppose their sale at present price. The disposal of the lands can not be decided upon until the state is formed and the legislature takes action, but even if they are speedily sold, they will bring good prices. The 505,000 acres of the Kiowa pasture will be sold at a minimum of $5 an acre before December 5, and it is hoped that congress may do something this winter to open to the farmer the 300,000 acres of the segregated coal and asphalt lands in the Indian Territory. These will be the last great land openings in the new state.

Much allotted Indian land remains to be sold by individual barter, but the longer its sale is postponed by restrictions upon the Indian's freedom of contract the higher the price is likely to be when sales are at last made.

The Republic's news columns tell of the great industrial progress that is seen on every hand in the new state. Glass works, pottery works, smelters and industrial plants of many other kinds are springing up and flourishing in both territories. They are bringing in a population that will make home markets for the products of farm and garden.

All of which is notice to the homeseeker that if he wants to get cheap land in the new state he had better not delay his going to that land of promise. The same warning holds for Texas and Arkansas. In a few years cheap land will be a thing of the past all thru the southwest—St. Louis Republic.

The Telegram has repeatedly called the attention of homeseekers to the fact that the day of cheap land in Texas is rapidly drawing to a close. It is a well known fact that in all the history of Texas there has never before been such rapid enhancement as has been witnessed during the past two years. And this enhancement is not confined to any portion of Texas, but extends even to what has been considered the arid portion of the state.

The cattlemen out in west Texas who has contended for twenty-five years that the land of that section could never be worth more than $2 per acre and was only fit for grazing purposes, is now parting with his holdings at prices ranging from $5 to $20 per acre. One big cattlemen down in the San Antonio country has just succeeded in selling the last of his land holdings at a clear profit of $500,000, and feels that he is able to get out of the live stock business in pretty good shape. The buyers of that land realized that they had already waited too long, and when it was placed on the market they did not lose much time in taking every acre of it.

Up in the Panhandle it is now a very common thing for land in close proximity to some of the leading towns to sell for $100 per acre, and sales at $15 per acre from fifty to seventy-five miles from a railroad. The big ranches are passing, the land being in such great demand that owners cannot resist the temptation to sell. The famous L. X. ranch, one of the most noted in the entire Panhandle country, has just been wiped out of existence in this manner and others are constantly following in its wake. The same thing is witnessed in west Texas, and all over that section new homes are being built, new lands converted into farms, and the people are prosperous and happy.

Thousands of people are coming into the state and buying lands daily. The demand is so great that prices are continually stiffening, and the man who is deferring the purchase of a home will pay dearly for his folly. The time is near at hand when Texas land values will be much higher than they are at present. Better get that home now, or make up your mind that you will soon have to pay about twice what it would now cost you.

YARDAMAN RIDING THE NEGRO

Governor Yardaman of Mississippi, who rode into office in that state on the negro issue, is now a candidate for the United States senate and is still perched on the back of the sable steed he has heretofore ridden so successfully. His chief plank in his senatorial campaign is the repeal of the fifteenth amendment to the federal constitution and expresses himself as follows:

I favor unqualifiedly and without reserve the abrogation of the fifteenth amendment to the constitution, and it is my hope thru the United States senate to demonstrate to the nation that there is only one way of settling this matter and that is by plainly showing the negro his proper place in our system of government.

The race question must be settled and that very soon. It can not be disposed of, however, until the nation as a whole has been convinced that there is a distinction between the white and the black.

The laws now specifically recognize the difference between the white man and the Indian, the Chinaman, the Eskimo, or the Malay. There is just as wide a gap between the white man and the negro.

The negroes in the South are becoming more criminal every day. Notwithstanding the millions of dollars we have spent in attempting to educate them, they are becoming more irresponsible, more disrespectful of law and more alien like in their characters and desires.

"How will the abrogation of the fifteenth amendment change conditions?" was asked.

"It will simply place the negro where he belongs," replied the governor. "The criminal instinct which is daily becoming more rampant is an outcropping of the desire to attain social equality, fostered by the present legal equality the amendment recognizes and compels."

If I get to the senate there will be an opportunity to speak to the entire nation. The North will know what the South already knows, that the climax of the situation is at hand. It will come to appreciate that Thomas Jefferson was not speaking of the negro when he said that man was created free and equal. He knew then that the negro was a mere chattel.

There are thousands of people in the south who believe a great mistake was made when the rights of citizenship were conferred upon the negro, and there are a few others who believe the negro was better off and in his proper place when he was a mere human chattel. But if it were put to a vote in the south today as to whether or not the negro should again become a slave the proposition would be overwhelmingly defeated.

The people of the south who are fair-minded realize the negro is in that section to stay, and when he can be kept in his proper place he is a very important factor in the domestic economy of that section. Take the negro out of the south tomorrow and hundreds of thousands of the big farms would grow up in briars and thistles. The people of the south need the negro in their business and cannot well get along without him. It may be true that there is a large criminal element among them, but that element generally meets with a prompt and just reward.

Governor Yardaman knows that if he should be elected to the United States senate there would be absolutely no chance of repealing the fifteenth amendment, as he proposes to do. He knows that it would simply bring about the biggest kind of a fight and rekindle the smouldering fires of racial hate and sectional strife and contention. But Yardaman would do all that for the sake of the cheap notoriety it would bring him. He is one of those demagogues whose political success would be a constant menace to the peace and tranquility of the nation.

Editor Shook of the Abilene Reporter, who was in the city Saturday, says that west Texas is growing and prospering these days as it never grew and prospered before. And the people of west Texas reserve all the growth and prosperity that could possibly come their way.

Tom Watson has severed his connection with the magazine run in New York under the title of Tom Watson's magazine. And if Tom will now settle down to straight democracy and stick to his country newspaper he may develop into something more than a dead populist after all.

This has been a very unfavorable fall for gathering the cotton crop, but even at the rate it has been gathered the gins running night and day have not been able to keep up. If the season had been favorable for picking every gin in the country would have been snored under completely.

Chairman Cecil Lyon only wants a little matter of five per cent from the republican office holders of Texas for campaign expenses, and it would have been just as easy to have taken ten per cent.

THE TEXAS PRESS

No matter how unpleasant it is going to be, state taxes will have to be increased in order to keep the state on a cash basis. And while the legislature and the governor are putting their wits together on this proposition they might get some light on this problem if they will take notice of the work of Mr. Graft. Perhaps, if this gentleman was eliminated from official life, it would not be so hard to keep money in the public treasury.—Snyder Light.

Graft has nothing to do with it. The taxable values of this state are not yielding the revenue required to conduct the state government, and there will be a deficiency until the situation is remedied in the proper manner.

The man who buys lumber, complains of the lumber trust; the man who buys meat, complains of meat trust; the man who buys kerosene or gasoline, complains of the oil trust, and so on down the list. The trusts live in open violation of the law, yet they continue to do business, to rob the purchaser—and they do so directly under the nose of the grand jury in nearly every county in Texas.—Tyler Courier.

That is the right kind of talk, and is worthy of the most careful consideration. Texas has ample law for the protection of her people from every trust that is in existence, and if officers charged with the enforcement of the law would only do their sworn duty no trust could do business in Texas.

Grand old man is Governor Lanham. The snobs were on his head while the blush of youth was on the cheeks of nearly all the rest at the Ben Tillman speaking at Dallas, but he was there; he was governor and the people were as loyal as loyalty itself to the grand old fellow.—Bonham Herald.

The last experience of Governor Lanham in Dallas was much more agreeable than upon the occasion of the state democratic convention, and it is to the credit of Dallas that such was the case. Lanham has made our people a good governor and is entitled to just recognition of that fact.

Weatherford papers are roasting the Sells-Forrepaugh circus unmercifully. They state that notwithstanding the advertisement that one fifty cent ticket would admit to all the show, a charge of 49 cents was made to every man, woman and child for reserved seats, that two-thirds of the seats were reserved, which included practically all from which the show could be seen, that the performances as a whole were inferior and that the night entertainment was cut short to enable the show to get to the next place.—Brownwood Bulletin.

The same scheme was worked here by the last circus with regard to seats, and price of the reserved seats added to the price of admission was tantamount to a charge of $1. But the majority of the people seemed to think they got the worth of their money.

The President may be obliged to call congress together in extra session, in order to procure the money necessary to carry out his plan of a military campaign in Cuba. Congress has appropriated no money for that purpose, and the President cannot divert to it any appropriation made for another purpose.—Austin Statesman.

The President usually finds a way to do things, and does not let a little thing like the constitution stand in his way in the hour of emergency. And congress meets in December.

Colonel Tom Campbell will not tell who he has in mind to appoint to places in his official family until after the election. There will be as much interest in the same then as there is when the assignments are read out at a Methodist conference.—Sherman Democrat.

Colonel Tom Campbell will not be governor of Texas until after the election has been held in November and the legislature announces the result in January. Any announcement from him now would be quite premature.

Next legislature should temporarily suspend sessions of the State university and concentrate the state's educational funds on the Agricultural and Mechanical college at Bryan and the several normal and industrial schools. The present supply of lawyers and doctors will last the state for another quarter of a century, but there is almost a famine of men and women who can do things which add to the wealth and development of the state.—Beaumont Journal.

The university at Austin answers its purpose just as the Agricultural and Mechanical college does, and is just as much entitled to support and proper recognition. But conditions at the Agricultural and Mechanical college should be improved. There should be accommodations for all Texas boys who desire to attend.

SAM JONES FIXED FOR BOTH WORLDS

The following is credited to Rev. Sam Jones. It is said to have been part of a sermon preached by him:

"Before I was a Christian I learned one thing, and I want you to hear this. I was away from home and was robbed on a train. I had all the money of both my friend and myself. He did not have any and my friend got mine, and we got off at a station. That was when I was a sinner. He was a steward in the Methodist church, and I was just a plain, common, simple sinner; that is all I was. When we got off at the station, we stayed around there a moment or two. He says, 'Sam, I wonder if there is a Mason in town?' I said 'A Mason?' He says, 'Well,' I said, 'what do you want with a Mason?' He says, 'I can get some money if I can find a Mason.' I said, 'Ain't you a Methodist?' He said, 'Yes,' I said, 'Why don't you go to the Methodists?' 'Oh, struck,' he said, 'I will go to the Methodists.' And he struck out and after a few minutes came back and I said, 'How did you come out?' 'All right,' he said, 'I got it.' 'Who did you get it from?' 'From a Mason,' he says; 'Sam, if you want to go to heaven, you join the Methodists, but if you want a hold forth down here, join the Masons.' So, when I started I joined both, and tonight I am a Methodist and a Mason and I am getting along well for both worlds."

CHIEF ENGINEER STEVENS

John F. Stevens, chief engineer of the Panama canal, is a man to have his own way, but tells of one occasion when he was compelled to dance to another's music. Years ago he was sitting one day on the counter in a western grocery store when a cowboy came in and, taking him for a clerk, said: "Gimme some raisins!" There had just been a couple of impromptu hangings in the next town and looking up without moving the young engineer asked: "Do you want the same kind of raisins they had over yonder?" The next instant he was looking into the muzzle of the cowboy's shooter. He says that it was as big as a cannon, and without waiting to argue or explain he slid off that counter and hustled for raisins. The cowboy followed him around, gun in hand, until the proprietor came in and begged the plainsman not to "spatter up the place." Then Stevens apologized and all was well.

The average doctor would die of starvation if his patients had no more confidence in him than he has in himself.

DOWN ON THE FARM

We see by an eastern paper that the American Farmer has become modernized and that the old-fashioned life, with the romance and feather beds and bucolic pleasures, is passing away.

I paid my annual visit to Uncle Horace as usual this year. I do not know why I have a habit that ranks with whisky and morphine, and the use of tobacco, and lying.

I reached the beautiful old home, in its rural setting, at the late hour of 4, and of course found the family in bed. Uncle Hod drove the dog away with an axe and said he "supposed" it had supper and escorted me to the little room where I not soon smothered in feathers and could not sleep because of the fragrant barn odors that were wafted into my boudoir.

The chirp of crickets and the hum of mosquitoes and the baying of a dog served to make the night interesting. But enough of that. We arose at 4 and I washed in icy spring water and wiped on a towel that had already served for seven, and sat down to breakfast.

We had pork and gravy and the kind of coffee that gets you a tea set and a lot of other things, and then Uncle Horace and I went to the little room where I had just over the township line for 44 a month and thought he would do well. I hope he does. Shows how easy it is to get acquainted in the country.

4:30 p. m.—Fed the chickens. 5 p. m.—Draw a gallon of vinegar which Uncle Horace sold and put the money in the pocket of my coat. 6:30 p. m.—Churned. 8 p. m.—Supper. Pork and fried potatoes. More coffee.

7 p. m.—Uncle Horace and I went to the barn and I had pains worse than jumping toothache. I strained the milk and from then until daylight picked up apples for the pig, picked four bushels of peaches and dug several pods of potatoes.

After that the whole family adjourned to round up the cattle that had escaped through the fence and were on the railroad track and I learned some of the most original cuss words that ever came from the lips of a man who believes that tooth brushes are a luxury only for the rich.

Then we came back to the barn and there, while we were scraping the horse and mending the barn pump, "And he never forgave me?" he asked.

"He never accused you," said the aged solicitor, "and yet he seemed to feel that there should have been an explanation. But that is all over now. I want to speak to you of his will. In his later days your father became even more eccentric than he had been all these years. The last clause in the will concerns a pearl."

"A pearl!" ejaculated Allen. "Yes, but not the one that resulted in the quarrel between you and your father. That was never found. I often expressed to your father my conviction that you had nothing to do with its disappearance. The pearl mentioned in the will was left to whichever of the two sons was actually in possession of it six months after your father's death. With the pearl would go all the property not disposed of in the will. There was little of that. Mr. Raymond, for your father seems to have possessed only a very small part of the means with which he was credited. The six months will expire in a week."

Allen listened without much show of interest. "There is no chance that I shall find it," he said. "Then they talked business. Watson was sympathetic and in need of a clerk. He awarded the place to the neglect as this one. It can be slipped on at a moment's notice. It is loose and ample, it takes most graceful and becoming lines and is absolutely simple withal. In this instance Japanese crepe trimmed with plaid ribbon bands, but lawn, batiste, wash silk, challoes, albatross, cashmere and all materials that are used for kimonos are appropriate within the limiting of any contrasting material that may be liked.

The kimono is made with fronts and backs. The backs are joined at the center and tucked from the neck to yoke depth while the fronts are tucked at the shoulders. A double banding is attached to the neck and front edges and the fronts are rolled over with it to form lapels. The sleeves are in one piece each, gathered at their upper edges.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3 1/2 yards 27, 3 yards 36 or 4 1/2 yards 44 inches wide and 3 1/2 yards 4 1/2 inch ribbon for banding.

The pattern, 5481, is cut in three sizes, small, medium and large, corresponding to 32, 36 and 40-inch bust measure.

A MEMORY SYSTEM

Forget each kindness that you do As soon as you have done it. Forget the praise that falls to you The moment you have won it; Forget the slander that you hear Before it can repeat itself; Forget each slight, each spite, each sneer Wherever you may meet it. Remember every kindness done To you, whatever its measure; Remember praise by others won And pass it on with pleasure; Remember every promise made, And keep it to the letter; Remember those who lend you aid And be a grateful debtor. —Phyllis Leonard.

AUNT JUDY'S BEST

Sweet Pickles—Take from two to three pounds of sugar, one quart of vinegar; add half ounce of stick cinnamon and one-eighth ounce cloves. Cook in water until tender, then cook for a few minutes in vinegar.

Watermelon rinds, cucumbers and great tomatoes should be soaked overnight in a weak solution of salt before pickling.

Ripe Tomato Pickles—Pour boiling water over ripe tomatoes; pare and weigh, put into jar, cover with vinegar, let stand three days. Then pour in preserving kettle add five pounds of sugar to seven pounds of tomatoes; also one teaspoonful of ground cinnamon; one-fourth teaspoonful of ground cloves, one-fourth of a nutmeg grated. Boil slowly until about half boiled down. Pickles will keep without sealing if the vinegar covers them.

Wash green tomatoes and slice into a jar. Slice an onion to every dozen large tomatoes. Sprinkle each layer lightly with salt. Cover with a plate that will go inside the jar and put a stone on it to keep it down. In a month you will have excellent pickles. They will keep all winter in the cellar. Keep pressure on them. —Mabel Morehead, Koculchick county, Ind.

Apple Pie—To make Dutch apple pie. Line pie plate with pie crust a little thicker than usual, put in a small handful of flour and one of sugar. Stir with your fingers and add a little more flour, the Maiden Blush is very nice, sprinkle thickly over top with white sugar, dip sweet cream enough over the top to moisten all the sugar, grate over some nutmeg, bake rather slow and serve warm. This is delicious.

NEW ORLEANS METHOD OF COOKING BANANAS

Fried Bananas—Split each banana, dip in sugar and fry brown in butter. A delicious snack. Bananas Souffle—Four bananas, the juice of one lemon, two ounces of corn flour, one pint of milk, vanilla to taste, two ounces of lump sugar, quarter of a pint of water, four eggs, if possible use a potato ricer to make the milk smooth. Beat the yolks of four eggs and mix with the milk and butter. Pour the mixture into a small pan. Let the sugar dissolve. Then boil the syrup for a few minutes. Peel and slice the bananas and bake in the oven for twenty to thirty minutes until it feels spongy and is well puffed up. Remove the band of paper carefully and serve the soufflé as quickly as possible in the mold.

HEALTH HINTS

If you would keep young never ride when the distance can be walked with ease. Fresh air is not a thing to be taken in little doses every day, but a thing to be taken in abundance. Every time a woman worries she loses a little of her attractiveness and takes on marks of age. It is best to eat simple food and creams at night, as the skin then has more time to absorb them. Fresh air, cleanliness and a daily brisk massage are almost indispensable in keeping bodies away.

Proper bathing makes hard flesh and pink skin—happiness and strength originate in cleanliness. Wash the hair with salt water with the white of an egg will stop the growth of a felon if applied as soon as it makes its appearance. If possible dry the sun. There is nothing like it for putting lights into the hair, if you cannot have sun never use any artificial heat, for it is highly injurious. A very simple and good remedy for itching is to make a soap by melting in a cake of castile soap in a quart of boiling water and making a soap jelly keeping it in a wide mouth bottle. To use, take a little of the soap and mix with a spoonful of bicarbonate of soda. Wet the scalp and rub in the soap. It will not make a lather until more water is added. The greasy matter which the shampooing should be a constant rubbing of the scalp, rinsing with plenty of fresh water.

There is no better cleansing shampoo than an egg beaten with an ounce of water. This is always to be had and is massaged into the scalp. No soap is used with the rinsing. Women with very dark hair can improve its luster by beating a raw egg with a quarter of a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda in half a pint of water. The mixture is massaged into the scalp and rinsed out. It will give red lights to the hair without in any way changing the color, and is stimulating to the growing hair. Anything that nourishes in it is likely to be darkening in effect upon blonde hair, the shampooing of which therefore becomes more difficult. White wine is good for it, and a wash is made of honey and rhubarb. It is composed of equal parts of strained honey and rhubarb stalks, steeped in three parts of white wine. Let it stand for twenty-four hours, then strain. Wet the hair with the mixture, massage, wipe away any superfluous moisture, and let the rest dry in. Then wash the hair with cold water.

Perspiration, if unchecked, will cause the hair to fall and to prevent this a tonic should be used. Do not neglect to include the ears in the treatment, else they will lose their color and freshness.

ALL ABOUT THE HOUSE

Cheese is usually brushed over with arsenic to keep the flies away, and

Do not clean windows while the sun is shining on them if you do not want them to look smoky. Red pepper scattered in mice holes and the holes filled up with salt cement will drive away mice. Add a spoonful of molasses to buckwheat cakes. It will make the cakes try delicately brown. Paper may be made transparent by saturating it with castor oil. Place a mass of cold water in the oven to cool when it is too hot. Always use a double boiler when cooking custards or cereals, both of which are liable to burn. Keep pudding sauce warm by placing the vessel containing it in a larger vessel of hot water, but do not allow the water to boil after putting the dish in it. To remove wine stains from linen, soak the stained parts in boiling sweet milk for a few minutes. Celery salt is made by grating dried celery root and mixing it with one-fourth its quantity of salt.

HOW TO PROPAGATE ROSES

Inquiries on the propagation of roses are answered by Professor Albert Dickson as follows: The rose is propagated in various ways. Some varieties succeed well by cuttings, namely, the China and many tender roses, but with most of the hardy kinds, this is only resorted to by skillful gardeners. All of the summer flowering roses may be propagated by layers. Where only a few plants are required, this method may be employed. Later in spring, using wood of the last year's growth; the bark of the buried portion should be about 1/2 inch thick.

R. Lucida, R. Carolina, R. Utaida and Crispin Moss are easily propagated by division. Plants are taken up and making three or four year's growth and then parted. The divisions should be planted either in the nursery or where they are to remain. Roses are grown from seed mainly for the purpose of getting new varieties. The seeds should be gathered in the fall and at once stratified with moist sand. When well rotted they can be easily rubbed or washed clean, and should be planted at once in carefully prepared and well manured beds out of doors or in pots and pans in a cool greenhouse.

Last year the writer had fine success in striking hardy rose cuttings under glass. Cuttings were taken from the wood of the current year's growth in October, and placed in sand in a cool greenhouse. These cuttings were made like any other greenhouse cutting and given exactly the same care. Out of a total of 500 cuttings, 80 per cent made fine, large roots.

Any Fancy Flannelettes may be followed with success, but where named roses can be procured so cheaply from reliable florists, it is far better to procure healthy, vigorous plants from such a source.

THE MAKING OF A MAN

"A youth born and bred in the midst of luxury," says a writer in Success, "who has always leaned upon others, who has never been obliged to fight his way up by his own coat, and who has been coddled from his infancy, rarely develops great stamina or staying power. He is like the weak sapling which the forest giant, with its giant oak which has fought every inch of its way up from the acorn by struggling with storms and tempests. Power is the result of force overcome. The giant is made strong in wrestling with difficulties. It is impossible for one who does not have to struggle and to fight obstacles to develop fiber or stamina."

cal drilling. It remedies incorrect and ungainly postures, turns out the little one's toes, prevents them from walking with outspread feet, strengthens their feet, gives ease of motion and control of their limbs, insures promptness and obedience, and, most of all, amuses them. Begin with the wee infant, and daily exercises its precocious mind and head; then when the little one starts to walk the legs will have the strength necessary to bear the weight of the body, and such deformities as bow-leggedness, knock-knees and weak ankles will be unheard of among otherwise strong and healthy babies. Naturally the inquiring mind asks for the kind of exercise to give baby girl and bouncing boy, and for the comfort of those who desire such information I shall herewith specify a set of callisthenics which may be used for the baby and for older children as well.

Sit baby on a chair over which a soft blanket is spread, not a pillow or cushion, and begin the following delightful movements: If the grown child is to take them then the standing position is best, and be careful that the body is erect, the head and shoulders well back and the feet close together. Begin in the following way: Raise the hands to the chest and thrust outwards and sideways, being level with the shoulders. When this position has been successfully assumed, twist the hands outwards and inwards. Another movement is begun in the same way by placing the hands to the chest and thrusting them upward and twisting the hands as you did before. A third movement is gained by bringing the hands down to the chest, and then thrust them forward until they are in a horizontal and parallel position. Twist the hands as you did in the other movements.

Baby will be charmed with these exercises, for they immediately give new life into their little bodies and make their little faces beam with smiles. An excellent exercise for the arms is contained in the following: Keep the arms stiff and swing them into a parallel and perpendicular position above the head to the left side, then swing

NEW YORK STOCKS

Market Showed Weakness on Unfavorable Bank Report and Money Situation

Special to The Telegram. Oct. 20.—There was a further decline in the general line of stocks today. The unfavorable bank statement and a renewal of liquidation in a vast number of the list of securities gave the bears another opportunity to hammer prices down, and every opening for active and aggressive operations was taken. The future of the desirable stocks, however, was bullish and there was some trading on all reactions through the list. The bull sentiment was especially partial to such stocks as Copper, Steel, Hill and Hariman, Baltimore and Ohio, Reading, Canadian Pacific and Pennsylvania on the present decline, and a bull movement is anticipated before many days to recover the loss in these quotations. The increase in net profits in earnings in Southern Pacific for the first two months is given at 4 per cent on common stock.

Eight roads for August show an increase of 15.16 per cent, and for two months an increase of 31.15 per cent. The Bank of England expects to get gold in the open market Monday. Dun's report says that industrial operations are unprofitable at the present rate and Bradstreet says trade continues on a large volume and the feature is the pressure to produce sufficient quantities to meet requirements. Total sales to noon only $1,044,400.

NEW YORK COTTON

Opened on a Break But Made Gain at the Close—Tone Steady

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—There was a break at the opening of the New York cotton market but it was held up restfully well, making a net gain at the close. The conditions seemed more favorable all day for a decline than an advance, and while there was sharp trading on declines by shorts, who were anxious to cover while the break obtained. The bull sentiment was never entirely lost, however, and occasionally wild fluctuations were not in evidence. Telegraphic reports indicate that rain has been general during the week, especially in Texas and a few other cotton states, and picking has been greatly interrupted. This information came to the aid of the bulls to some extent, and liquidation was somewhat checked. The action of the great English financial concern was considered remarkable, and was the topic of much conversation today. Its rate of 6 per cent is not only an increase since the Baring failure in 1890, which makes this action remarkable, but the rate was changed on Friday, when the usual rate for changing in Monday. It was reported that the rate on the bank rate and the weakness in the financial centers which resulted was due to the expected default of Russia on the interest on her bonds, which she had denied today, and the advance attributed to the desire to prevent a recall of the gold drain from America and Egypt.

The close of the market, marked a recovery of the price, with a slight net gain. Spots closed quiet at 11c for middling, the same as at yesterday's close.

New Orleans Cotton

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20.—The cotton market opened at 11 points below today, but was a much better market than was expected by the general traders. The situation looked bearish but the market was to advance soon after the opening on weather reports having affected the cotton in various sections. The break in Liverpool was evidently due to the continued weakness in the London market. Cables say that the raising of the discount rate was due to a large export of gold. This explanation, however, was not regarded as satisfactory.

The break in today's market was not altogether unexpected, but a few local shorts were caught. Prompt covering by local shorts soon started the market up, and it made steady advances, closing at a gain over yesterday's close.

Spots closed easy, middling 11c, the same as yesterday's close, and the same as New York spots, which is something unusual. Sales, against yesterday's sales of 1,900 bales.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Small Hog Movement and Increasing Consumptive Demand Bullied. Provisions—Grain Weak

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 20.—The wheat market was again dull today so far as trading was concerned, and the prices were lower than yesterday. The total receipts today were only 41 cars, which is much larger shipment than expected. The financial troubles in Russia and the fact that foreign cables were lower, kept the market weak, and the local talent was more anxious to sell than buy. There was nothing in the situation for the investor to gather strength from, notwithstanding the conditions in the northwest remain strong, with very little receipts. The financial situation is being followed with much interest, and the continued rumors of a similar character had little effect on the bear sentiment. The principal trading was noticed in spring wheat today, but the supply was light. The blockade at Buffalo continued today, and was a continued hindrance to grain movement. The few concerns who are operating today by the strictly "guardian" route did a better business. The wheat figures announced yesterday of 1,680,000 bushels are considered rather high.

The corn market started lower on report of improved foreign cables, and in response to Liverpool's decline of 1/4 off. Large Argentine shipments also had a bearish effect, and a slight decline was made. The light offerings are promptly absorbed by professional traders, and the corn now arriving is of an inferior quality, and the price is suffering on this account. However, this cereal has stood up with all things considered. The receipts today were 209 cars, while 323 cars were estimated to arrive.

Oats were weak throughout the session, and some pressure from northwestern selling was noticeable. Cash oats were weak at a decline of 1/4 of a cent, except for the better grades, which were really taken. Today's receipts were 333 cars, an increase over the estimated number of cars to arrive of 129 cars.

Provisions were stronger today and the demand was good. The continued small hog movement and the increased consumptive demand leaves a very bullish influence. Prices were really buying by local shorts. There was some selling by packers and local longs.

Views on the Market

Wheat and Lard

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 20.—Shorts were brought up with a jerk this morning. A mildly bearish visible supply statement and a poor Liverpool market encouraged them to buy before the opening that they would put prices lower today again, but on the opening prices were down 11 points and after the market displayed great strength and advanced until December was higher than yesterday's close. Liverpool was $1 per bale cheaper on futures and 3/4 a bale lower on spots, which called for a corresponding decline here, as Liverpool was due unchanged on fluctuations in the American markets yesterday. That the local market held up the way it did spoke well for the strength of the position of cotton and it indicated an average condition. The weather map was good, in so far as yesterday's weather was concerned, but was bad for future and cotton. Cold and wet weather was forecast for tonight and tomorrow over a large portion of the cotton country and a regular blizzard seemed to be developing to the northwest. While the visible supply statement was bearish in its variations for the week, the spinners' takings were only 21,900 bales against 25,000 the week last year and 24,000 bales in 1904, the week-end figure had the bullish features. Thus the stock of cotton in Liverpool, all kinds, was put at 29,000 bales against 29,000 bales at date last year and 26,000 bales in 190

Curious Crowd Looks On But No Emotion Is Displayed COUNTRY QUIET

Stories of Anti-Foreign Feeling Exaggerated—Chinese Reformers Dangerous

BY WILLIAM MOWBRAY. CHINANFU, Shantung Province, China.—A few weeks ago we had a dog—my German friend and I. It was a cowardly, useless, immoral, and dirty. We persuaded a Chinaman to take it as a gift, but the animal came back to us and stayed around the house.

We consulted, and I gave it some potassium cyanide. It died quickly and probably painlessly. We watched it die. If you have ever seen an animal killed by that particular means you won't particularly want to see it again. But it is an easy death.

A few days ago we bribed a clerk in the judge's yamen. He was to have 200 cash if he would send us word of the time and place of an execution, and another 100 cash if we got to the place in time (16,000 cash equals about 50 cents.) My "boy" was laying the table today for tiffin, and I had just got back from work, when my colleague put his head in the door and said: "Be quick, there is going to be an execution."

I was quick. We put off down the street as fast as we could, arriving at the place too early. We loitered further on in the direction from which we knew the procession would come. Presently we saw a slight disturbance of the traffic ahead, and something like spears appearing above the heads of the crowd. We turned and walked quickly back to the place. A small crowd, perhaps fifty people, had gathered there.

It is not an execution ground in the least. One street, running east and west, ends in another running north and south. The place of the execution was in the latter street, a few yards from the corner. Street a Busy One

It is a busy street, technically in the "suburb," because outside the inner wall, but still inside the suburb wall. The "suburbs" of such a city as this are almost as thickly populated as the city—in some parts more so. We took our stand under an open shed projecting from a house standing about five feet back from the street.

Across the road was a barber's shop; thru the small window we could see a man being shaved. The crowd slightly increased, because a crowd always holds newcomers. In the middle of the street two or three men were standing. One of them was remarkable by the fact that he was tall, lean fellow, with his queue twisted into a knot, the upper part of his body bare, and with the lower part clothed in red trousers instead of the regulation. He was not an executioner, but the man who held the head.

A few minutes and the procession arrived—a dozen men carrying long spears, and behind them two men carrying a basket slung on their shoulders by a pole. In the basket was the condemned man, his hands tied behind his back, his elbows tied to his body. He was naked except for a pair of socks, and shivering slightly.

A few people, perhaps thirty, brought up the rear; they had followed out of curiosity. The spearmen halted, the basket was unslung, the man dragged out of it, and a yard or two forward, while it was tossed aside. With Neatness and Dispatch ber of Chinamen. It had been prepared before they came, and one of them asked where I got the blood. "From my finger, of course," I replied; "the best way of getting a drop of blood, if you need it, is thus—" and I showed them. Their faces were a study of horror, surprise, and admiration of the way I bore pain which I did not feel.

This unvarnished tale is valuable because it is exactly true as it would be, and because it throws some light on Chinese character. It is neither dressed up nor toned down. I saw the whole business in its right perspective. Other accounts have been written by globe-trotters, who probably saw pictures of it in Canton, or, if they saw the real thing, were probably feeling too sick to know what they were doing. They might not feel sick because, they being globe-trotters, a Chinaman even near at hand would be little more to them than he is to you, when you say, "Another '100,000 Chinamen killed by a flood. Good! There are still too many." To me the Chinaman is very much a man, and a man I like.

Many Changes in China I will now write some of the things I meant to write yesterday, before I remembered that an account of the execution would probably be interesting, and that I could write it more exactly while it was fresh in my mind. Without any flourish of trumpets, many changes are taking place in China. The influence of Wu Ting Fang, formerly minister from China to the United States, is making itself felt, slowly but surely, throughout the empire.

Western ideas and Western methods are coming more and more into fashion. The opposition to the "foreign devil" is dying away with the Chinese New Year came, for instance, the more general adoption of European dress. Students at the University of Peking and the various provincial colleges or universities are "permitted" to appear without the pith helmet, and likewise officers of the army and navy can dispense with this appendage. All classes in the larger centers of population show a leaning to Western customs.

But it is not alone in these minor things of everyday life that China shows evidence of a desire to keep pace with the modernization of the East. China is determined to reconstruct her navy and her army in order that she may take place among the great powers and no longer be the plaything of her aggressive neighbors. The plans afoot are kept profoundly secret, but on the very best authority it can be stated that orders will shortly be given for the construction of ships of war, battleships, cruisers, torpedo boats, and submarines. It must not be understood that these ships are to be built in a hurry or that the order will be given immediately.

A Big Chinese Navy "China is going to have a navy worthy of a great nation, a navy strong enough to enable her to hold her position and command respect upon the seas. The plans have been under consideration for a long time, and have been completed in a tentative fashion, but China is not talking about these plans or holding out a threat while she is in her present financial straits," said a Chinese official from Peking when asked for confirmation of private advices. "I am not in a position to talk about these plans," he continued, "but I will not deny that much of the information contained in this letter is correct." The letter referred to comes from a source usually well informed concerning matters transpiring in the Chinese capital. The writer says that China has determined on a secret appropriation for the purposes of reconstruction of her navy, and that the fund amounts, according to the best information available, to $200,000,000.

"It is no use talking about new ships until we have officers and men to handle them. These China has not got as yet, but she will have them. I am not committing any breach of confidence when I tell you that China is preparing to officer and man a navy second to none in quality, if not in quantity. China realizes that this takes time, but I am very firmly convinced that within a few years she will not be able to taunt China with weakness or inability to protect her shores or her boundaries." This is sufficient confirmation of the report with respect to the preparations now afoot in China.

The Chinese Shame Perhaps some idea of the change of mind that has come and is coming to the Chinaman can be gathered from the following extract of a student's essay at one of the provincial colleges. The students were allowed to choose their own subject. They wrote in English, for of course English is taught in all the universities and colleges. These are under the government. The students are kept there by the government, and the teaching staffs are drawn from America, Germany and England. Out of this educational system has sprung the "Young China

Thurber in Palo Pinto? MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Oct. 20.—Palo Pinto county has laid claim to the live and flourishing town of Thurber, and it is believed the final survey will result in establishing that town is wholly within Palo Pinto county. At Thurber there are five or six coal shafts in operation, and these mines are operated by the most powerful dynamo west of the Mississippi river. Each mine is lighted through with incandescent lights and huge arc lights at night making the town as bright as day. In addition each mine has electrical haulage, which brings the coal from the bottom of the shaft. A new survey has been run, which gives Palo Pinto county a strip 800 yards wide and thirty miles long off the northern end of Erath county, and this strip takes in practically all of Thurber, this giving to Palo Pinto the largest coal-mining industry in the south. The several counties interested have been notified and the final survey will be made soon. Edgar L. Marston, president of the Texas and Pacific Coal Company, once said he would give $200,000 if his coal camp were located in Palo Pinto county.

Money in Cotton and Hogs WEATHERFORD, Texas, Oct. 20.—J. N. Frazier, who lives near Agnes, in this county, brought in a bale of cotton yesterday for which he received $15, and a 45-pound pig for which he received $1.55. Six weeks ago Mr. Frazier sold nine pigs from this sow at $3 each, making a total of $27.35

Movement—a formidable one, because it is anti-dynastic but not anti-foreign. This anti-dynastic essay, the transcript of which lies on my desk at this moment, reveals the reform idea of these young Chinamen—the future leaders of this country. It says: "Till talk with you about the subject which is named the 'Chinese Shame.' Thirty years ago Japan was as weak as China, but the Japanese tried their best to strengthen their country, and today they are very proud of their education. They captured one province and one position from China. They have fought with the Russian soldiers and have conquered them. Why do these two countries fight with each other? I believe my friends will answer me at this right moment. 'For China for China!' He cannot protect our country ourselves. We depend on our neighbor, and we can't help our sister country, too. What do you think of it? It is a shame. Some one told me the war between Japan and Russia did not signify. I do not know what kind of a man we shall call him. I am very sorry that I will call him nothing but a fool. You, gentlemen, must consider what is the cause that Japan is so strong and how they can make the country better. Have you not remembered that an account of the people can devote the mind to the country. China is very much like an old woman. We are her sons. We must help her. If she is dead, we shall be enslaved by other people. Do you not think it is a great shame? Remember these two words: 'Chinese Shame.'"

The Chinese Reformer One more thing must be remembered—the Chinese Reformer, with a capital R, is a dangerous animal. He is the "Popocrat" in a country where Popocracy in power would be civil war in its worst possible form. China and Japan are not on all fours. In the old days Japan was being ruled by ignorant gentlemen, and the ruled were a people with a national feeling. In China the feeling is for the village or for the district. It is not for the individual only, and the typical official is a gentleman in manner only. He is even more corrupt than a New York policeman. There are honorable, very honorable, exceptions, but these must wink at the corruption in others, and if they are highly placed they can only guess at what their subordinates are doing. The district magistrate here loses money; in a year or two he will be transferred to some smaller place in the West, I expect, and will grow rich on a salary that an American in America would starve on—and God help the people of his district—their only remedy is to rebel when things go too far.

The recent Honan trouble was only local. Kaitzeung, where I spent some days in the summer, has been wholly, or in part, exempt from taxation for many years on account of a disastrous flood. The governor said he would not impose taxation. The people said if he did they would burn down the post-office (where I stayed) and roast my friend Tolson. Others wanted riot on general principles. The governor closed the city gates, manned the walls, and for about the first time in years drilled his troops. Also he took off the tax. Thirty miles of telegraph wires were thrown down. Purely local matter and nobody hurt, except, perhaps, the governor.

Boxer Talk is Rot The Boxer talk is all rot. About two months ago I read in the London Times, according to proclamation, we foreigners had all been exterminated some days before. As a matter of fact the country is quiet, it is exceptionally quiet.

Of course a flame might start at any time. The Chinese are the most peaceful and pleasant people you can imagine—all the world is pious, and then they can do things that no other people can speak of. All sorts of stories as to possible disturbance in China come from Shanghai. Shanghai is the home of lies anyhow. Shanghai is not in China and the people of Shanghai know nothing of China. You might as well try to learn Afghan politics in an Indian barbers' room here.

One should never believe more than 0.001 of anything about the far East that comes from Shanghai, except the rate of exchange. Even the rate of exchange is probably exaggerated, but we all agreed to call it true. Once for all, North China is as quiet as it has ever been. A foreigner can go anywhere practically unmolested. Remember, there are regions perpetually overrun by robbers—or rather, regions in which the whole population lives by robbery, and has done so for generations.

There are districts where you may see many robbers' heads hanging outside every village. In parts of Honan you may find districts that practically amount to a lawless state, and a government but that of their own headman. But all this is permanent. There is nothing new or significant about it.

Mr. McGoldrick says the plant will be furnishing light and power inside of thirty days. The laying of pipe in different parts of the city is now in progress. The excavations for the building have been completed, and the concrete work is on the ground ready for active building operations.

He brought in two bottles this morning, one made from the black grape having a dark color and the other from the pink grape, being of a light red, almost transparent color. Both are of very fine flavor and demonstrate that Balingger grapes make most excellent wine. Mr. White made up about two hundred gallons of the wine.

Cotton in San Angelo Special to The Telegram. SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 20.—Farmers are taking advantage of the high prices being paid for cotton and are now bringing it into the yards faster than the public weigher can handle it. Nearly two thousand bales have been received here to date and it is coming in at the rate of about one hundred and sixty bales a day. Farmers in this section complain they cannot obtain sufficient labor to gather the crop, no matter how big a price they offer for picking.
