THE ENGINEERS HAVE ADJOURNED

Were Banqueted by Local Union Last Night

The State Association of Stationary Engineers closed its session in Fort Worth Tuesday with a visit to the packing houses in the afternoon. At the meeting Tuesday morning all the delegates were present and a very busy session was held, one of the most important pieces of business transacted being the appointment of a committee to agitate the movement in the state looking to the adoption of a license law. The members of the committee are A. S. Gorman, Fort Worth; N. S. Hatcher, Austin, and S. T. Sikes, El Paso.

The ways and means committee, whose duty it is to look to the best interests of the association, reported its plans for the coming year's campaign, which will be along similar lines to that of the past. H. H. Keener, El Paso, addressed the assembly on the subject of "Ammonia Compressors," dwelling at length on the fundamental elements in its process.

Delegates to the convention enjoyed the hospitality of the Fort Worth association No. 5 at a six course banquet Tuesday night. The banquet hall had been specially decorated and the tables garnished with ferns and roses.

President A. S. Gorman of the Fort Worth association acted as master of ceremonies. Those responding to the toasts were: M. Z. Smussen, C. W. Felton, H. E. Ogg, W. B. Gunby, W. C. Cooper and H. H. Keener.

President King of the state association in his address at the banquet spoke at length on the educational feature of the association and of the opportunities afforded the engineers as a school. President King urged the adoption in heart and the strict enforcement of the rules governing the license law as laid down by the national license law committee.

H. E. Ogg of San Antonio read a very exhaustive essay on "Refrigeration," during which he requested a free and general discussion of every point of vital interest and importance.

President Gorman of the city association announced that he would confer with the mayor and the general committee on the new city charter with a view to securing a chair in that committee from the association of engineers, which now numbers forty-one members in Fort Worth.

At the Monday afternoon session N. H. King of San Antonio was re-elected president of the state association, with the following other officers: A. S. Gorman, Fort Worth, vice president; S. S. Vickers, Dallas, secretary-treasurer; and S. T. Sikes, Houston, conductor.

The various committees made their reports during the day and the state association is shown to be in a very prosperous condition financially, and every subordinate association has ample employment for its membership, as follows: Sherman, 18 members; Dallas, 35; Austin, 31; Palestine, 12; Fort Worth, 41; El Paso, 16; San Antonio, 35, and Houston, 58.

Those present at the banquet were: N. H. King, H. E. Ogg, E. W. Fuller, San Antonio; C. S. Vickers, Dallas; North, J. P. Wiegand, F. Dresler, J. L. Kurtz, Dallas; S. S. Vickers, Dallas; W. Fallow, S. 50 CENTS NOT ENOUGH

Cabbies Say Cab Fare Law Should Be Changed

The Fort Worth cabby is worried. The city authorities say he must not charge over 50 cents for hauling a person to any point within the city limits. This sum seems small, pitifully small to the cabman and he is planning to have the city council change the law in the very near future. The cabbies claim that a cabman must not charge over 50 cents for carrying a fare anywhere in the city. However, some of the drivers have been known to charge as high as $1.

Chief of Police Maddox was ordered by Mayor Harris to enforce the law Tuesday, and will be done. The hack drivers claim that when the law was passed making 50 cents the within-city-limit fare the town was much wicker now. They claim the law as it now stands is unjust.

These were just a few of the exclamations Officer Bills heard when he entered a shoe shining parlor at 1510 Main street Tuesday night. The officer, hearing the exclamations of delight and the jingle of silver, went to the rear of the place and there he found three negroes, Tillman, Walter Moore and another—shooting the dice across the floor. When the officer made his appearance there was a wild scramble for the door and one of the dusky "gamblers" made his get-away. The other two were locked up.

The genuine ROUND OAK has never disappointed a user yet, and after all the years it has been tried and tested you certainly do not take a chance if you need a stove and decide on the Round Oak. This year it is better than ever; it has an improved hot blast for burning soft coal; with this draft alone it will make as fine a fire as one could desire, as it burns the gas and soot and makes the smoke clear. It has other exclusive features, for instance, the double fire pot and one center grate that makes no clinkers. You will surely appreciate this point. It certainly holds the belt as the best heating stove, and we are ready at all times to explain the reasons why. To be certain it is the genuine, always look for the name "Round Oak."

WHAT TO DO WITH THE VAGRANT

In time even the people of the South will find it necessary to shake off the leeches, to compel the able-bodied vagrant, white, yellow or black, to earn his clothing and his keep. They will have to do this as a means of public safety. It is only a short step from vagrancy to vice, and another step from vice to crime. Aside from the natural prejudice against the drone, the natural turn toward self-defensive measures will lead, in due time, to a war of extermination against vagrants who prey upon, defraud and plunder the industrious and provident element of society.

One planter near Flete in Rockwell county has 900 acres in cotton that is opening. The grocers $1 per 100 pounds to pickers. It is a poor hand who does not pick 400 pounds of seed cotton, and there has just been reported a case of a boy 16 years old picking 860 pounds in a day's work, weighing the cotton himself as he filled his bag. One planter in Foard county has 3,000 acres that hasn't been touched by pickers, and which will yield three-quarters of a bale to the acre. In such cotton a fairly good cotton picker could pick between 500 and 600 pounds a day. This man is offering 75c per 100 pounds with board and lodging thrown in, and will pay half the railroad fare," says The Fort Worth Telegram. The Telegram adds:

There should be some plan devised to round up every idle man in the state of Texas and compel him to go to work. This is a fair and sane proposition, and every section of the state, the crops are suffering from the inability of the farmers to obtain the assistance they need in the harvest, and if all the loafers were put to work there would be such an era of general prosperity as the state has never seen before. These idle fellows around the cities and towns of the state are the ones continually crying that there is no work, that there is a constant menace to society, and the officers should not be content with spasmodic efforts to run them in and make them go to honest labor. There should be systematic and concerted action on the part of all officers, and no efforts spared to make these fellows get busy and learn how it feels to earn a little honest coin.

One reason why the vagrant is dealt with so leniently is that generally he is a voter who is purchasable at a low price, the willing tool of the lawless element. He is, therefore, not without his pull in practical politics. There are not wanting instances in which some lusty demagogue has appeared at the opportune time to save the vagrant from ever being a victim of the law. This "hily" who toils not, and who spins all of his yarn on the witness stand in the criminal courts, is not only defended by candidates on the stump and in the offices, but he sometimes finds ample support in the corrupt practical politics out of which he has grown. There is, however, another means of excusing him, sometimes employed even by those who would condemn him. It has been argued a thousand times over that the vagrant should be compelled to work at least during cotton picking time; that the main reason why he should be forced to earn his living is that the farmer with cotton to pick can not secure hands and may lose his crop. Of course the white cotton patch and the offer of a good price for picking deprive the loafer of his usual excuse, but he can not find anything to do, but this is apparently not the main reason why the loafer should be driven out of his dive. It is not even necessary to use the white cotton patch as a means of depriving the vagrant of all his excuses. If all the vagrants in Texas cities and towns were brought right up to the law and marched out to earn their livings at road work, they could not complete the improvements badly needed in this line in a hundred years. Eliminate the cotton patch, which affords employment for at least twelve months in the year; the pile of wood, which need to be sawed and split; the world of half-finished work about the towns and cities, and the endless lines of service on farms, ranches, railroads, in mines, in quarries, in mills and factories—cut out these and other opportunities to get a living honestly and honorably and bring the whole matter down to the one task—road work—and there is not in the state a neighborhood in which there are not ample and lasting opportunities, all the year around, for all the vagrants, right out in the open air.

public service in cities and towns. It is a grave law and order work. It is the old way, probably the only way, to secure a system of good roads. It is a means of civic education that is sure to bring direct results of great value and to produce wholesome indirect effects whose value can not be known nor estimated.

The Telegram does not favor confining the vagrant to the cotton patches, by any means. The cotton situation was used simply as an illustration of the crying demand for labor, and as it is the most urgent, it is but natural if should be given preference. The main object is to be attained is to make these idle fellows go to work and live by the sweat of their brows instead of continually living off the sweat of others.

SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED

One of the most hopeful signs of the times is the organization of law and order leagues by the negroes of Texas. Such action on the part of the thinking members of the race indicates a determination to put down the lawless and criminal element among them, whose very presence is a continued menace of society and peace and good government. The following call has just been issued from Houston:

By virtue of authority vested in me as president of the said Texas Negro Law and Order League, I hereby call a meeting of the said Texas Negro Law and Order League to meet in the city of Houston, Texas, on the 13th and 14th days of November, 1906, at 12 o'clock noon at the U. B. F. hall.

Each local league is entitled to ten votes and it is requested that each league send a full representation. Fellow co-workers, bear in mind that the conditions which called into existence this organization one year ago, when it was launched so auspiciously, still confront the race. Altho we have not accomplished all desired, and so much good has been done to uplift our sons and daughters in various communities.

The most aggressive and effective work in warring against idleness, gambling and the adulterous practice has been done in the rural districts. In some communities the loafers' gang has been broken up and the moral tone greatly improved. We regret that the larger cities, where idleness and gambling most afflict our people, have been hard to reach. We still more regret that the cause is in opposition from those who should stand fast and uncompromisingly for the work expounded by the Texas Negro Law and Order League.

However, there is no reason to despair, but patience and a firm faith in the righteousness of our cause will break down every opposition. The day is not far when those who have stood aloft, as well as those who have understood the motive and spirit of our movement, will lend willing and helping hand in this unselfish and Christian movement to some negro boys and girls from the loafers' corner, and gambling dens, the low dives, and the adulterous practice.

Since last we met, some of our faithful workers have been prosecuted by those who have misunderstood our cause, but we have reason to congratulate these men, who love the best interest of their race, that they have stood unmoved, turning neither to the right or left. They have counted the approval of their conscience as more than a reward.

Only conscientious negroes who place high the value of character, and who can feel keenly remorse when ever the reputation of the race is brought low, can do the work of the Texas Negro Law and Order League.

Such men will trust will hear this call and gather at our second annual meeting to draw new inspiration and return to our various homes to do more for the salvation of our sons than ever before.

Manifold reasons crowd upon us why every manly effort should be made to reach the youth who is being daily destroyed by the public vices into which they fall without restraint, but none of these reasons are more potent than that it is our moral and religious duty to hedge in the rising generations so as to reduce to a minimum the likelihood of even one boy becoming a criminal.

Let none think there is nothing to do. Altho every so unjust, it is none the less true, that a whole community of peaceable and law-abiding negroes may be exposed to unbridled passion and fury on the account of the deeds of the criminal element.

Then it is well that each member of the race should be concerned in the reputation we make. Then it is well that each member of the race should be concerned in the reputation we make.

Trusting to see a full delegation of earnest men and women who will work and work until the wayward have been reached, until every negro youth is an industrious citizen, until peace and a fellow feeling are restored between the races, I am your obedient servant,

JOHN M. ADKINS.

The Telegram considers this one of the most remarkable expressions it has ever seen emanate from the negro race. It is remarkable from the fact it evinces such keen insight into the conditions that now confront the negroes throuth the South, and offers such timely and sensible remedies. There is a great work for the Texas Negro Law and Order League to do in this state, and it should receive every possible assistance and encouragement. The negroes who identify themselves with this movement are showing their desire and determination to get above the lawless and criminal element and redeem the race if possible from the consequences of their folly. They are showing themselves worthy the confidence and goodwill of their white friends and neighbors and it should not be denied them. Give the league a helping hand at every opportunity.

THE INDEPENDENT PRESS

Men who boast allegiance to the Democratic party cannot overlook the fact that the newspapers which have taken the lead in the effort to set aside the action of the primaries and state convention in the case of Senator Bailey do not even claim to be Democratic. The Houston Chronicle, the Dallas Times-Herald, the Fort Worth Telegram and the San Antonio Gazette frankly proclaim their independence in politics. They disclaim any obligation to regard the dictum of the duly constituted party authorities. No one criticises their independence.—Houston Post.

as much work as any man on the job—more than some and gets the same wage of $1.75 per day. He knows nothing about the law of the survival of the fittest, or if he does, made no mean about it. As soon as he got over the amputation he learned how—pathetic laborer—to use his shoulders and left arm and he makes the dirt fly with the best of them.

More about John Coyle: He not only makes a living for himself by hard work and decent living; he supports with his left arm, shoulder, pick and shovel an aged father and mother. Most men in his place would have waited for an easy job to turn up, or haunted the street corners, hat in hand, or asked society for help. But John Coyle had nerve and courage and grim endeavor under his vest. Like the soldier with broken sword, he fought on.

In the light of this man's high purpose and achievement in rough, should not you, with two good, strong arms, be ashamed of your complainings? Unfortunately, Mr. Carnegie's medals do not come to such noble souls as John Coyle. But, just the same—warp and woof of his valiant soul, he is made of hero stuff.

Some of the Texas farmers declare now that the boll weevil has been a genuine blessing. The assertion is made that the advent of this pest has caused early planting and thorough cultivation of the crop in such manner that it might be far enough advanced not to suffer at the boll weevil's coming. The result is cotton is being gathered and gotten out of the way in much less time than formerly, and the period of family slavehood has been correspondingly reduced.

And now the Irish people are expecting President Roosevelt to soon say something that will result in freedom for that unhappy nation. It looks like the poor and oppressed of all nations are now learning to look longingly in the direction of the Big Stick.

The success of the Standard Oil people in successfully eluding prosecution by the federal government for violating the anti-trust law by having the bulk of its stock owned abroad, seems to be stimulating the packing interests to make a move in the same direction.

The Panhandle had its first taste of a genuine blizzard Sunday night, snow and sleet being very much in evidence. But the sun will soon shine brightly in the Panhandle, and the progress and development of that section will not be even temporarily chilled.

It is said not a Mexican can now be found within twenty miles of the town of Baldi, and it may be that they were wise in their going. Such tragedies as that recently enacted in Baldi is not calculated to make Texans think any too much of the sons of Montezuma.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

FAMOUS OLD CHIEF STILL LIVES Although the death of Red Cloud has been reported at various times during the last few years, that famous old Sioux warrior and scalp taker, the mention of whose name back in the '70s would strike terror to the hearts of the settlers along the Big and Little Platte, is living, hale and hearty, at the Pine Ridge Agency, apparently many leagues this side of the happy hunting grounds.

This interesting information has come to Captain G. A. Iager of the interior department from his brother L. J. F. Iager of Caldron, Neb. The latter is known through the west as Billy the Bear.

Prompted by a spirit of adventure back in the '70s, Billy the Bear left his quiet home in Hamburg, Pa., going first to California to join the rush of gold seekers. Tiring of the tedious work of the prospector, he struck across the plains and joined a band of daring cowpunchers who were waging a relentless warfare against the encroachments of the Texas cattle stealer, whose raids on the ranches of the western cattlemen kept the plains in a constant uproar.

While engaged in this hazardous calling, Billy the Bear, first met Red Cloud. It happened while the daring young scout, at the head of a party of cowpunchers was in hot pursuit of a party of cattle thieves, who had the previous week, rounded up and were driving off into Texas a bunch of cattle. The pursuit across the trackless plains for six days under the rays of a burning sun had been one of sleeplessness and torture for Billy the Bear and his little band of faithful followers. The men had long since grown sad and sore and their mustangs leg weary, yet the end was not in sight.

Suddenly, and without warning, they were confronted by a band of fifty warriors coming on a full gallop on war ponies, their faces streaked with the unmistakable war paint and apparently on a raid against the unprotected hamlets and settlements.

Without a moment's hesitation Billy the Bear beckoned his companions to remain behind, and waving his rifle above his head, a sign of peace among the Indians, he rode into the midst of the war party. To his companions it was an act of sheer madness, but Billy the Bear, acquainted with the ways of the red men, knew his quarry.

"Ugh!" grunted the chief, who was none other than Red Cloud, as he rode forward to meet the scout. "White man heap brave. No want scalp." Calling his companions, Billy the Bear entered a short parley with the chief, who agreed to join in the pursuit of the marauding cattle thieves. Before nightfall the band was overtaken by the combined white and red forces. A short, sharp skirmish resulted, and five scalps dangled at the Indians' belts and as many lifeless bodies were left on the sun-baked plains, mute reminders of this bloody border warfare. Thereafter, Billy the Bear and Red Cloud were fast friends and the passing years only served to cement their friendship.

The Texas Press

It has been nearly a year since the case of A. S. Busby was tried and an appeal to the court of criminal appeals taken, and yet no decision has ever been handed down, while the unfortunate gentleman who was convicted and only given three years, has been held in jail one year of this time. Something is wrong in the arrangement of our courts when a man is held pending a decision so long. It is a shame to the state of Texas.—Gatesville Messenger.

As a part of the court of criminal appeals is now no longer a candidate for office, there is a probability that it may soon catch up with some of its neglected work.

Hon. George A. Carden cracked the whip and six committeemen defied him. Twelve voted to sustain the chairman and his proclamation, Chairman Carden should decapitate the sturdy six. They are "creatures." When you're a czar play the game to a finish. Independent political thought should be muzzled and free speech stamped out. If any man dares say nay, knock him.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Chairman Carden will grow wiser with experience. He will learn in time that Texas democracy is not prepared to bow a servile knee to the dictation of a czar. Texas democrats are not built that way.

Theodore Price, a New York cotton speculator who claims to be a bear, says cotton will go to 12 cents per pound, and advises the farmers to hold the staple and market it systematically.—Sherman Register.

The farmers have received a great deal of gratuitous advice concerning the marketing of the cotton crop, but they go right along marketing the crop according to their own convictions.

Hon. Tom Campbell will soon be passing out orders at the state house and the rebellious legislator who hasn't any nose to spare had better begin early to form a mutual admission society or pool his differences. Tom expects to govern.—Sherman Democrat.

Members of the legislature are not willing to furnish the proboscis for the gubernatorial grindstone, and the indications are good for a lively row at Austin when the new governor attempts to make good his threat of coercion.

There are some very fine men now holding jobs under the Lanham administration that will tell us good-bye in January. We dislike to give them up, but such is the fortune of politics.—Austin Tribune.

The man who pins his faith to politics usually awakens to the fact in the end that he has been leaping on a broken reed. There is nothing solid and substantial in politics but disappointment.

Mexican military commander on the border makes personal inspection of the district reported revolutionary and finds no signs of revolutionists or revolutionary feeling or organization and certifies officially that the reports of revolution are absolutely false. Let it rest.—San Antonio Light.

Then, if that is the case, why are so many Mexicans being arrested in Texas on the charge of being revolutionists? If there is no trouble in Mexico, why make trouble for these men?

The Texas railroad commission has ruled that railroads must submit excursion rates to the commission for approval before same can become effective. As rates have been made for the great fairs over the state and arrangements made by various large cities for entertaining the immense crowds expected, this order is likely to create a big stir. Anything touching passenger rates affects the traveling public, and the public is as much interested as the railroads. Go a little slow, there, Mr. Commission, you may gore the wrong man's ox.—Palestine Visitor.

It looks like the commission is pinning down a little too tight on the railways in this matter, and it will doubtless result in fewer excursion rates being given in Texas.

The Texas cotton crop is a month late this year and some of it is pretty short, but when the year is figured up if the present or better prices prevail there should be a balance on the right side of most of the farm books.—Denton News.

There is nothing the matter with the Texas cotton crop, except a shortage of the required labor to gather it. There is cotton enough in sight now to keep the women and children in the fields for several months yet.

Some people borrow trouble and some others wait for their neighbors to throw it over the back fence. The pen is mightier than the sword when it comes to making an obese bank balance look like 30 cents.

VERVOT THATRING

"KEEP A SMILE ON" "As we journey thru life let us live by the way," Sang the poet whom Scotia adored, And the motto's a good one for all to obey While our bark's to existence are moored. Give the laugh to dull care that comes snooping around, Slap the trouble fiend square in the jaw, And while you're sojourning on top of the ground On the Jollity bank freely draw.

In enjoying life bulge merrily ahead, Put a touch of snappy ginger in your tread. For when you are under cover, 'Neath the daisies and the clover, You are goin' to be a long time dead.

Care is often a bubble; 'twill burst with a breath, Tho a threatening banner it flaunts. Many troubles you see can be driven to death By a kick in the seat of the pawnts. Our journey adown this terrestrial vale, We are oft told, is only a span, And we should strew sunshine along the short trail, And have all the fun that we can.

Keep your soul with merry sunshine freely fed, Hear a smiling face up to your dying bed, For when death the cord shall sever, And your eyes are closer forever, You are goin' to be a long time dead.

—JAMES BARTON ADAMS.

DRIFT OF POLITICS

APPROACHING STATE ELECTION

Three weeks from Tuesday elections will be held in nearly all the states for governors, members of the house of representatives in congress, and legislatures that will elect twenty-nine United States senators. The eight representatives to congress elected in Maine, Vermont and Oregon are republican. In only one state thus far has the republican majority shown a decline from what was previously given. This was in Maine, where local issues predominated. In fact, in all states so far voting, including Georgia, which is democratic, the people have clung tenaciously to state affairs and cast aside the national issues that have been injected into the campaign. In Pennsylvania local issues alone seem to arouse enthusiasm. The discussion of the state capital job and Penrose's domination of the republican party excite the people. In New York "Heartstun" and its terrors bring the people to the shouting point. In Massachusetts, where tariff revision is a breakfast table topic, Moran and his eccentricities are discussed with avidity. Governor Cummins seems so well satisfied that the people of Iowa will stand by him that he has gone off to Illinois to make speeches. It seems as if the 1906 fight will go down to history as a "home contest," leaving the national issues for 1908.

WEALTH IN POLITICS

There's a whole sermon in the retirement of Timothy D. Sullivan from office holding in New York city after twenty years' continuous activity at the public patronage crib. His last job is as a congressman, but this is too esthetic for his tastes and Sullivan has decided to resign. It was his intention to return to the state senate, which is the garden where golden crops are garnered. But Sullivan opposed Hearst. He has declined the senate. It was really touching to hear Magistrate Finn talk of the Sullivan, when the latter refused to be a candidate. Finn said: "Sullivan is a wealthy man. He made his money honestly and fairly. He is a man with an income now of $150,000 a year. Notwithstanding all our pleadings, he has positively declined to accept this nomination." It should be remembered that Sullivan has only held office and kept a saloon, and yet his income is immense. In Philadelphia is cited the case of Israel W. Durham, David Martin and others who grew fabulously wealthy in politics.

AMONG FOUNDRY MEN. Foundry workers are complaining of a strange malady which physicians say is caused from the intense heat and dust to which the men are exposed. The pores being opened by the heat the dust is forced into the pores of the body to pollute the natural way. The blood becomes filled with poisons and sickness follows.

Joseph Coughlin, a stove worker living at 125 Sixth street, Detroit, Mich., recently recovered from a protracted illness caused in this way. Regarding his case Mr. Coughlin said: "In the spring and fall I was always accompanied by constant headaches and nervousness made it difficult for me to work and all the medicine I tried did not seem to benefit me until I heard of the famous Cooper remedies and took several bottles of Cooper's New Discovery. It quickly drove the poisons out of my system and every trace of my illness disappeared."

At the Majestic. Popular taste will like this week's bill at the Majestic better than any given thus far this season. It has more humor, more variety and more skill from an entertainment standpoint.

Take Ed La Vine, who has "soldiered all his life." It may be soldering to juggle a twenty-pound sledge, a twenty-five pound cannon ball and a bean, keeping them all in the air at the same time. He has sold for the most part his life, and hard work at that. La Vine does a humorous and at the same time exceedingly difficult act.

HOUSTON LIKED "PLAYING THE GAME". The Houston Post said: "One of the brightest and cleanest comedies seen at the Houston theater in many a day is 'Playing the Game,' in which Joseph Jefferson and William W. Jefferson appeared last evening."

The French and English Stars. Yvette Guilbert and Albert Chevalier have been engaged for a tour of America and Canada, which will last six weeks, and which covers the whole country from New Orleans to Winnipeg.

AT FORT WORTH RINK. There's something doing every night this week at the Fort Worth skating rink at the corner of Third and Rusk streets.

"Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway". With a record of thirty weeks in Chicago and twenty weeks in New York, the first year of "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway" was profitably making an extensive tour of the country under the direction of Klav & Erlanger, and will be seen in this city at Greenwall's opera house, Saturday matinee and night, Oct. 27. It is promised that the company presenting Mr. Cohen's play on tour is one of the most spectacularly equipped in the country.

Madison in "The County Chairman". Adolph Arbuckle in his character of a county chairman, which is the best of George Ade's comedies, will be seen at Greenwall's opera house Monday night, Oct. 29, refers to Shakespeare as "Bill." As "Bill" says, has become a famous saying. Here are some of the Ade's lines: "Arbuckle is quoted: 'The convention got together about 10 o'clock. We agreed on a harmony program and then started in to fight. I try to make the supply equal to the demand; that is political economy.'"

Why don't the theater-going people of Fort Worth take advantage of a good play well acted and enjoy an evening? Nell Burgess in "The County Fair" was at Greenwall's Monday.
