BIG SHAKE-UP BREWS IN FRISCO POLITICS

Earthquake Threatens Union Labor Administration

TALKING GRAFT

Acting Mayor Suspends District Attorney and Appoints Political Boss Instead

Special to The Telegram. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.-The action of Acting Mayor Gallagher in removing District Attorney Langdon last night, came as a tremendous surprise, following the sensation of a few days ago, when it was announced that Francis J. Heney, of national fame as a presecutor, had been appointed assistant district attorney to investigate the charges of grafting by political sses in this city. Two days ago it was reported that Gallagher would take such action, and the press has been speculating whether he would have the boldness to take such a step, particularly as much hewspaper criticism had been directed against him as a supervisor. Mayor Schmitz, who is serving his third term as mayor, having been elected by the union labor party, is now in Europe on a sixty days' leave of absence, and Supervisor Gallagher is acting in his stead.

It is conceded everywhere that the suspension of District Attorney Langdon was made solely for the purpose of getting rid of Heney. For the past few months Heney, according to the citizens' committee, has been investigating the charges of official boodling and has bene assisted by a corps of private detectives in charge of William J. Burns, the noted federal secret service agent, who had secured permission from his federal superiors to engage in the work of purifying San Francisco's affairs. A new grand jury is to be completed today and Heney had announced that he would at once go before it with evidence that would secure the indictment of a number of men high in pubmass of evidence had been secured pointing to criminal acts among offi-cials and including three confessions.

A score of men who came into publie life before recent political upheavals, who were poor in purse, have recently been exhibiting signs of wealth in the way of handsome homes, costly ousiness places and lavish expenditures of money. Heney had declared he had obtained knowledge of how these men suddenly acquired riches. It has been openly charged that many saloons, criminal classes, disorderly houses, etc., were severely taxed to be allowed to flourish in peace. The board of public works has also been accused by taxpayers and newspapers with levying tribute in all directions. This board has almost absolute control of the construction of buildings and it is alleged, has illegally taxed contractors and house owners pefore allowing the erection of new edifices. One newspaper has been constantly insisting that $700,000 was paid by a street railway company for important privileges and declared that it could furnish proofs to an honest grand jury. This was one of the matters to be presented to the

Coupled to many of these insinuaens and rumors is the name of Abaham Ruef the acknowledged boss of the polities of San Francisco, and commonly known as "Abe" Ruef. He is a lawyer and it is he who has been appointed by the acting mayor to the position of district attorney. Ruef is acknowledged to be a man of rare learned in his profession, and a skilled politician. He is credited with having become very wealthy within the past few years. When Schmitz was first elected mayor he publicly announced that he attributed much of his success to "his friend" Ruef, and ever since has been on acknowledged intimate relations with the political leader.

Power Behind the Throne

Ruef has often been termed the power and guiding hand behind the municipal throne." Acting Mayor Gallagher last night at the meeting of the board of supervisors read a long statement giving twelve reasons for suspending Lang-Among them were neglect of duty, inefficiency, and absence from the county for more than thirty days to campaign the state as candidate for governor on the Independence League ticket. Prior to yesterday no objection was made to his absence, the officers having been in the hands of competent assistants. It is believed that injunction proceedings will be instituted to prevent the supervisors from ousting Langdon from office.

Langdon Talks Bu Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 26 .-"The course of Acting Mayor Gallagher and the board of supervisors suspending District Attorney Langdon from office and appointing Abraham Ruef, acting district attorney in his place, followed by Ruef's removal of myself as assistant district attorney, is not only illegal, but revolutionary in character," said Francis J. Heney last night. "The only purpose in Langdon's suspension is to bring to a halt the proceedings now under way in Judge Graham's court to impanel a new grand jury before which District Attorney Langdon, assisted by myself, proto present evidence, which, in my opinion, will justify the indictment of leading officials of the city administration and Abraham Ruef. I have evidence to prove these allegations, and at the proper time District Attorney Langdon and myself will lay it before the new grand jury. It is to prevent such exposure that this utterly illegal step has been taken." Congressman Hoar's Condition

The boy said his parents were dead and that he lived at 150 Ridge street with Harry Stein and the latter's wife.

"Does Stein know that you steal?" asked Judge Zeiler.

"He is the one who puts me up to it, and taught me," replied the lad. The youngster then went on to tell how Stein instructed him for weeks in the art of picking pockets before he sent him out. He said he had to practice for hours every day on Stein and his wife, relieving them of wallets, pocketbooks, watches and jewelry until he became so adept that he could rob them without their knowing it If he did it in a clumsy fashion, Stein would beat him.

Stein, who was in court, was placed under arrest. The detectives later searched his house and found a ruantity of stolen goods.

Another Spasm of Virtue Affects New York

Bu Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 26 .- Evidence of the "wide open" character of some parts of the city is to be submitted by the Society for the Prevention of Crime to the police department today in fullfilment of the promises made by Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst at the Jefferson market court. The evidence consists largely of reports of agents of the society who investigated complaints against poolrooms and dens of vice. Many of the reports will be in the form of affidavits when they are turned over today to Third Deputy Police Commissioner Mathot.

Parkhurst society officers, probably to demonstrate its charges that vice was flourishing, raided three alleged disorderly houses in the tenderloin precinct late last night. The police later made five raids. In all over fifty arrests were made. The raids caused a big sensation in the district. The police shake-up of yesterday by which eighty-four of the eighty-five police captains in Greater New York were transferred, will speedily be fol-lowed by other wholesale charges. It is expected that every patrolman in the city will be shifted. The transfer of the captains was the most radical police shift the city has ever seen.

Farmers Educational and Co-operative Union of America—an organization of phenomenal growth, formed to unionize the control of farm product prices. The paramount issue just now is the price of wheat. Plans have been laid in a systematic way for cornering the entire wheat crop of the United States and to hold the wheat in co-operative elevators until a price satisfactory to union leaders is agreed upon.

The cornering process is already well under way so far as preliminaries are concerned, and it is a part of the program of the congress to bring impending matters to a conclusion. James Butler of Topeka, a national director of the Farmers Union and the originator of the idea for holding this congress, will call the assemblage to order and introduce C. S. Barrett of Atwater, Ga., as temporary presiding officer. Mr. Barrett is the national president of the union, E. A. Calvin president of the Texas state union will most likely be the permanent chairman of the congress. The co-operative elevator plan is being pushed rapidly. During the first ten days of September this year fortyfive charters for such elevators were issued in South Dakota, and Minnesota already has 127 of them in operation, while Kansas and Nebraska have 100 each, Oklahoma comes to the front with 80 and others are under course of construction in several states. The union is particularly strong in the south, the state of Georgia alone having 90,000 members. The southern farmer, while not vitally interested in the wheat crop, is quite willing to cooperate with his wheat-growing neighbor of the north and west, by way of reciprocation for favors extended in the recently won battle for an increase in the price of cotton.

The cotton states hope thru the union to induce the federal government to restore a $6,000,000 civil war tax levy, which was placed on cotton back in the '60s. A demand is to be made upon congress at its next session to reimburse the cotton states for this levy, and it is proposed that the money shall be turned into the public school fund of the several cotton states.

JAPS PROTEST AGAINST ORDER

School Boards Exclusion Edict Causes Legal Contest

By Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 26.-Judge Wolverton of the United States circuit court yesterday issued an order to the board of education of San Francisco citing that body to show cause why an injunction compelling the reinstatement of Yasuhara, a Japanese pupil recently excluded from the Pacific Heights grammar school should not be issued. The board is ordered to answer by Nov. 5.

This order is issued following the application for an injunction presented to Judge Wolverton with the intention of making this a test case. The application for the injunction is made on the grounds that the present resolution of the board of education excluding Japanese pupils from the city schools is in violation of the constitution of the United States, and also the treaty now existing between the United States and the empire of Japan.

A mass meeting was held here by the Japanese last evening to discuss the present situation regarding their children's exclusion.

WOOD FAMINE IN SANTONE

Freight Congestion on Railways Cuts Off Supples of Fuel

Apecial to The Telegram SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 26 .-With not exceeding two cars of wood in their hands, but with thousands of cords stacked along the railroad tracks outside the city, the wood dealers of San Antonio claim the famine and high prices are due to the failure of the railroads to furnish cars. Cord wood is now $7 per cord and some of the residents who are not where gas is available are having a hard time to secure enough with which to cook their meals, much less to use for heating purposes. The price of wood is now nearly $2 a cord higher than was ever known in this city and has created a condition that is very hard on the poor people. The dealers claim that they have filed complaint with the railroad commission charging that the railroads are refusing to furnish them cars, that they have tendered to the roads the payment of the freight charge in cash and have taken every legal step to secure cars, but without avail. The railroads say that there is such a demand to move the cotton crop that they are unable to supply the cars, as there has been a car famine all this year. Should a severe cold spell come t would entail a great deal of suffering on the people.

THE NEW ANTI-TRUST FUEL

The present tax on denaturized alcohol which has been abolished by good sense of congress has been in force since 1861. As showing how it has crippled American industry, previous to 1861 more than 30,000,000 gallons of alcohol were annually used in the United States for manufacturing purposes. Under the varying rates of taxation in force since that time, the quantity of alcohol used in arts and manufactures has steadily declined until at the present time the total annual consumption for these purposes is estimated by competent authorities to be less than 5,000,000 gallons. With a per capita consumption equal to that of 1860, we should now be using for industrial purposes 80,000,000 gallons annually, or sixteen times as muc'n as is actually consumed. In view of the fact that the per capita consuming power of the public is now much greater than in 1860, and that the number of articles in the manufacture of which alcohol would be used if it were not for its high price has been greatly increased in recent years, it is evident that the annual consumption of alcohol for industrial purposes would be much more than $0,000,000 gallons. This fact is amply verified by the extent to which spirits are used in the arts and industries in Europe. Germany alone requires over 70,000,000 gallons yearly in its industries, while France makes over 100,000,000 gallons not only from potatoes, beets and grain, but even from sawdust, for a French savant has been successfully extracting 500 pounds of sugar and reducing it to twenty-five gallons of pure alcohol from a ton of ordinary sawdust. Consequently we can draw power not only from the plants of the field, but even from the trees of the forest.-Technical World Magazine.

THE GRUBSTAKE

The pioneers of the west know the meaning of that word grubstake. Many a man is well off today because he was grubstaked by someone who had faith in him and in the west. Old-fashioned faith in mankind has departed. The time was when a young miner could gamble away every dollar and the title to his mine and many a man would be willing to grub-stake him again and again. No man today can lose his all in gambling or any other way and ever hope to be grubstaked. In pioneer days, honesty (responsibility for obligations) was not so much a virtue as a necessity. To be otherwise was to face a dozen gun barrels. The man who broke faith was a dead man sure. The gun was judge, jury and executioner-and no respector of persons. Now the trickery of some lawyers and the maze of technicalities affords loopholes for the dishonest to escape and man has ceased to have

The grubstake is a rare thing these The banks and the money brokers have come in and when a man is broke he goes to them. If they have faith in him-based on good securityhe gets a loan at high interest and starts again. If he can't put up sufficient security he begins at the bottom again to accumulate wealth by faith in his fellowmen.

It is strange that when a merchant fails his fellow merchants rejoice and do their utmost to complete the downfall, instead of grubstaking him. It is strange that when some calamity has swept everything away from a respected and well-known farmer no one offers to grubstake him. Instead, the bankers or the money sharks try to get his farm from him. Every man wants his "pound of flesh" for every favor shown a fallen victim. That isn't grubstaking—that is genteel robbery. But are we wrong in distrusting

Rumored That He Will Retire from Presidency

Special to The Telegran CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. $3 .- In connection with the rumors that Stuyvesant Fish is to leave the presidency of the Illinois Central to be succeeded by G. J. Grammer, a story has become curernrent that Mr. Harriman is to retire from the presidency of the Southern Pacific

The present plan is stated to be to make J. C. Stubbs, now traffic director for the Harriman lines, president of the Southern Pacific, Mr. Stubbs retaining his present position also. Mr. Harriman is now chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific and will, it is said, continue as such in order to keep his hand at the heim. His reason for retiring from the presidency is said to be a desire to devote most of his time to the task which he is supposed to have undertaken of securing a line of railroads from New York to the Pacific coast and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf

In regard to Illinois Central affairs, stances would Mr. Harriman take the presidency of the Illinois Central and that the reported selection of Captain Grammer was with a view to securing a traffic rather than an operating man. The operation of the road will be left under the direction of J. T. Harahan.

DEAL IN TEXAS LANDS

St. Louis and Chicago Capitalists Purchase Large Tract in Leon County Special to The Telegram.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 26.-A deal for 25,000 acres of Texas agricultural land was closed Thursday for a syndicate of St. Louis and Chicago capitalists by the Commonwealth Trust Company on a basis of $187,000. The property is in Leon county, Texas, and is good agricultural land. The tract will be divided into 160-acre sections and sold to farmers who desire to devote their efforts to intensified farming.

The property is at present in cotton and general crops. It is planned to encourage the raising of truck crops and other agricultural produce which can be shipped to northern markets early in the season.

Tom Randolph and R. H. Cornell of the Commonwealth Trust Company conducted the negotiations, but refuse to disclose the names of the men interested in the transaction. The trust company is devoting special attention to the development of the Texas lands and several large deals are under way for large tracts of such land.

"In form of prayer, Oh Lord, Jesus Christ, we implore Thee, Oh Eternal God, have mercy upon all mankind, Keeping us from sin and take us with Thee thru all eternity."

The letter is as follows: "This prayer was sent out by Bishop Lawrence of Massachusetts with the request that it be sent to nine persons, beginning with the day you receive it and sending one each day for nine days. The one who will not do this will suffer some misfortune, but he who will do this will be saved from all calamity and will, on or before the tenth day, experience some joy. By Associated Press.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Oct. 26.-After killing five cowboys and raiding a big herd of beef cattle the major portion of the rebellious Indians are surrounded by troops of the Tenth cavalry from Robinson, Neb., in eastern Wyoming.

Unable to turn the Reds back on their trail to Utah, and fearing to make a too open demonstration of hostilities against the sullen Red Men, a courier was dispatched by the command for reinforcements. He arrived this morning at Fort Meade, S. D., and immediately six troops of the Sixth cavalry were sent to the relief of the Fort Robinson garrison.

Colonel Rogers is in command of the reinforcements, which went thru here about noon on a special train. The distance to where the Utes are being detained is about 135 miles and about forty of it must be covered over-

SATISFIED WITH A COMPROMISE

Editor Robinson of the Waco Times-Herald, who attended the Bailey speaking at the town of Mart, was so impressed with the Bailey oratory that he is inclined to accept a compromise. He buries the hatchet and asks The Telegram to do likewise, saying that Bailey has taken his position alongside of Bryan, Campbell and Crane, and indicated hostility toward H. Clay

If The Telegram had been engaged in fighting Senator Bailey personally it might feel inclined to follow the Waco paper over into the Bailey camp and join it in singing hozannas to its chief. But The Telegram is fighting for a matter of plain Democratic principle, and when Democratic principle is at stake it is no time for compromise. In the Times-Herald's report of the Mart speech we find the fol-

Mr. Bailey laid great stress upon his position with reference to members of congress practicing law, and having for their clients trusts, corporations and especially public service corporations. In fact, the senator gave more attention to the discussion of these mestions than any address he has delivered, and by many people who heard the senator yesterday it was stated that if Mr. Bailey had delivered this address in ruply to General Crane at Houston that his critics would have been silenced at that time.

The senotor took the position that no citizen, congressman or others should have a trust for a client. A trust is a combination to restrain trade and is therefore unlawful, and no citizen should violate the

He said, however, that a corporation was a creature of the state; received its permit from the state and was a lawful enterprise. He as a senator had as much right to represent a corporation as he had to represent an individual. With reference to public service corporations, Mr. Bailey said that he had a right to represent them just so long as their interests did not come before congress. For instance, he could represent the Gainesville Water Company if he desired. as it had no interests that would come before congress. However, he would not represent a public service corporation in the Indian Territory, for the reason that congress made laws for the government of Indlan Territory, even in local affairs. His position was that no man should in the legislature or congress represent any public service corporation or any other interest which might be affected in any way by the legislative body of which he was or would be a member. The senator elaborated these ideas, something that he had not done before and his elaboration of his position thereon caused a feature of the meeting and resulted in the address here being somewhat of a

The Telegram sincerely congratulates Senator Bailey upon having arrived at the point where he is willing to concede and does concede that no citizen, congressman or others should have a trust for a client. That is an open admission from Senator Bailey that the fight The Telegram has been making against citizens, congressmen and others accepting employment by the big corporations is in line with sound Democratic polity. And The Telegram is proud of the vindication it is thus accorded by Senator Bailey. But the trouble with Senator Balley is that he falls down at the crucial point and shows the legal bent of his logic that at least seems to have been sufficient to turn the usually level head of Editor Robinson, Here are the exact words he used at Mart:

*A senator and a member of congress have no right to practice law for public service corporations, I subcribe to that in modified form. If, while I am in congress, the Gainesville Water Company, a corporation organized to furnish water to the people of that town to give purity and health to the people, becomes involved in litigation, I would have the right to represent it, because the Gainesville Water Company | being a brave man, a successful man. So you are. | News.

wants nothing from congress and is not regulated by

"I say that no senator or member of congress has a right to practice law for public service corporations which apply to congress. They cannot show that I have ever represented a trust or a monopoly or a concern that was being regulated by congress. "I say a man in congress has as much right to practice law legitimately, when congress is not in session, as you have to till your farm or run your store, if you are a member of the legislature. Apply that rule, they state, and my friend Kennedy would have to shut up his newspaper."

The principle contended for by The Telegram and Democratic yeomanry of this state is that the man who is engaged in making the laws of this country has no right at any time, whether congress is in session or not, in accepting service at the hands of those who are engaged in an effort to override the laws. That is stating the proposition bluntly, but that is the real issue, and Senator Bailey cannot compromise it with the assertion he is opposed to the practice, but will continue to indulge in it in defiance of public sentiment and true Democratic principles. According to the Bailey line of argument and logic, the pastor of any church is justified in going fishing as soon as he finishes his Sunday sermon, the commission man at the stockyards is justified in serving the packing houses as soon as he finishes a sale of cattle, and the man in your employ is authorized to put in all his time in building up the opposition firm every minute he is not actually at work in your establishment. Senator Bailey must eschew sophistries and subscrib: in whole to what is sound Democratic doctrine. No compromise will go.

THE PATRIOTISM OF EAST TEXAS

Over in Cherokee county, which is the neck of woods in which Colonel Tom Campbell first saw the light of day, there are said to be enough original Campbell men looking for pie to leave absolutely none for the next comers. . The average East Texan is intensely patriotic when it comes to a matter of pie.-Fort Worth

The above slur at East Texans is entirely uncalled for. The patriotism of East Texans has been put to the real test time and again, and it has never been found wanting. Always true to their country, they are alike true to their party when it is assailed by enemies from either the inside or the outside. This truth was well expressed by County Attorney Sam Kay at Palestine last Saturday, when, in introducing Senator Bailey to the magnificent audience of East Texans that had assembled to do him honor, he said: "The true and loyal Democrats of East Texas fight out their differences as to men and measures before the primary. After that. East Texans turn their attention to those who attempt to tear down Democracy and detroy the strength of her advocates." May be it is this admirable trait in the character of the East Texans that has so aroused the resentment of The Telegram, which, being owned by Republicans, naturally enough thinks the world revolves around a piece of political pie.-Houston Post,

The Telegram had no intention of "slurring East Texas" in the little bit of pleasantry indulged in which the Post pounces upon with so much celerity as an opportunity to berate this paper. The squib in The Telegram was predicated upon a news item in the Post from Cherokee county, giving the number of applicants for office under Campbell from that county, and if The Telegram "slurred" East Texas in its editorial paragraph, the Post most certainly criminally libelled that entire section.

The Telegram knows and appreciates that some of the noblest and ablest men we have in the state today are the product of east Texas, and the east Texan is making himself felt in every portion of the state, and the puerile attempt of this great morning publication to make a little political capital at the expense of The Telegram will fail of its puropse.

As to the Democracy of The Telegram, it has never yet suffered the use of its columns to pull down the Democratic party in this state, and if we remember correctly the Dallas News some months ago made some allegations in this direction concerning the Post that put that esteemed publication in a very uncomfortable

The editor of the Post aspires to be the great Democratic pooh-bah of Texas, and by virtue of his position as member of the national Democratic executive committee from Texas, has been in position to do the Democratic party great harm in this state. It was under his able manipulation that Texas was delivered over to the Parker crowd in the national campaign two years ago, which resulted in 200,000 Texas Democrats remaining away from the polls. And where is Alton B. Parker today?

HE IS STUMPING THE STATE OF NEW YORK FOR CHARLES E. HUGHES. REPUBLICAN NOMI-NEE FOR GOVERNOR, AGAINST WILLIAM R. HEARST, THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE.

And Alton B. Parker is the Democrat around whom the Post sought to convince the people of this state the whole political firmament was revolving.

SOME "BLUFFS" ARE LEGITIMATE

"I'll take a chance at it, anyway!"

This is a common enough expression; but it contains the essence of the success of hundreds of men who started their careers with nothing more than an ordinary supply of brains and perhaps a supply of COURAGE above the ordinary.

Courage, when looked at from one side, is but a mixture of common sense and a readiness to test one's ability. What is this readiness but what the world calls a "bluff?" It may be warranted or not. At all events it is an endeavop to make others believe something of you that you are not sure you believe your-

A responsible position opens. The courageous man secures it: the timid man says, "That is too high for me." The courageous man has "put up a bluff" and stands ready to use every ounce of brain and nerve force to "MAKE IT STICK." No one but himself ever knows that he had misgivings,

A difficult problem presents itself. The courageous man grapples with it. He may solve it or he may blunder, according to his ability. The timid man asks advice of those who may be no more fitted than is he. BLUFF is an ingredient of courage only when it is backed by GOODS. The world watches you put up the bluff and waits for you to show the goods. You stand alone. No allowances will be made. No one will help you. You "chuck the bluff" yourself, and it naturally follows that you must show the goods by yourself.

There are, broadly, two species of bluff. One is put up by the man who is ready to "put up or sout ap," the other by the man who can't put up and won't shut up. It is only the man who is ready to put up who can call his bluff a part of courage.

Looking at life from this viewpoint, we are all of us gamblers. The big, jolly world is very similar. | we must realize the Webb county people have plenty after all, to a big game of "craps" run on a square

You can't expect to throw sevens and elevens all of the time. But on an average you can throw them half of the time and you are always in a position to dig down in your jeans and, as the world sees you, you are a winner coming or going.

Counting the gains in units of what men call success, fame or what not, you have the reputation of talking things over in his own imperial way.-Newark

But what have you done but gambled your brains, your special talents, your ABILITY, against the obstacles that you had to overcome-AND WON? It takes courage to do this. The successful man, when he is ready to draw his chair back and retire from the game, looks back over the play and sees again, with a smile of satisfaction, the "bluffs" that stuck. The unsuccessful man, tolling with his nose to the grindstone, looks back with sour visage, looks back over a dreary waste of lost opportunities, or a long series of "bluffs that failed."

BLUFF and GOODS. If you have the courage for one, the material for the other, combined with a determination to PLAY ON THE SQUARE, the opportunities will take care of themselves.

HONESTY IN ADVERTISING

That advertising pays is a fact now generally recognized, but it is still an open question whether untruthful advertisements produce results equal to those of announcements, which if not quite deceitful, are nevertheless obvious exaggerations. The first exponent for paid-for publicity on a large scale was a famous manager of circuses to whom was accredited the cynical observation that "the American people love to be humbugged." It is a significant fact, however, that the practice of that able showman did not conform to his precept, and that the continuance of his success was really due to the excellence of his productions, Doubtless, he was as well aware of this truth as anybody else. and merely chuckled over the additional advertising obtained at no cost thru a witty observation that could not fail to appeal to the American sense of humor. Second only to the showman in using what seemed to be a daring innovation was the publisher of a story paper, who, also, always gave more than he promised. Not a few ambitious emulators of these pioneers mistook the true cause of their success and endeavored to achieve similar benefits by mere pronouncements, without regard to accuracy, to discover that lasting gain could not be obtained in this manner, and year by year they have become more heedful of the injunction that, irrespective of its inherent merit, honesty is the best policy.-North American Review.

OUTDOOR LIFE IN AUTUMN

These are the days in which to prepare the body against the asperities of cold. Live out of doors as much and as long as possible. Keep the windows open and fresh air all about you. Walk thru the parks and along the boulevards every morning and evening. Accustom yourself to the slowly approaching chill of winter. Take deep breaths as the simplest and best of protections against throat and lung troubles, always more serious in the cooler weather. Take a final and intelligent farewell of the trees and their herbage. Note how they part unwillingly with their summer leaves. Observe how long the faithful grass performs its beautiful service for the gladdening of the eye. See the autumn flowers, the golden rod and lovely asters, prepare the way for a last burst of glory in the chrysanthemums. For ill health, for depressed spirits, for every unhappiness in the world there is no cure like out of doors. For education and elevation of thought there is no better exercise than the painstaking observation of natural aspects-

A MOTHER'S LOVE Some day,

When others braid your thick brown hair And drape your form in silk and lace: When others call you "dear" and "fair" And hald your hands and kiss your face-You'll not forget that far above All other's is a mother's love.

'Mongst strangers, in far distant lands, In your new home beyond the sea. When at your lips are baby's hands, And children playing at your knee-Oh, then, as at your side they glow, How I have loved you you will know.

Some day, When you must feel love's heavy loss. You will remember other years, When I, too, bent beneath the cross And mix my memory with thy tears." In such dark hours be not afraid-Within their shadows I have prayed.

Some day, Your daughter's voice, or smile, or eyes My face will suddenly recall, When you will smile in sweet surprise, And your soul unto mine will call In that dear, unforgotten prayer

Some day,

I shall with glad impatience wait. Amid the glory and the song And yon, before the golden gate, After earth's partings and earth's pain, Never to part-never again. -Selected.

SYNOPSIS. Florian Amidon, a rich young banker of Hazelhurst (a middle western Amercan town) decides to take a day off from business and indulge in his favorite hobby, photography. He takes the afternoon train and after alighting at a junction, dozes off to sleep andwakes up in a Pullman car to find himself known as Eugene Brassfield, wealthy oil operator, New York clubman, engaged to an attractive young oman, and involved in a mass of iness of which he is ignorant, while the year is five years later than the one in which he started his journey. A clairvoyant to whom he applies for aid in solving his mystery is assisted by a hypnotist who puts Amidon in a rance, and while in that state his dentity as Brassfield becomes normal. from conversations taken down in shorthand, during his hypnotic state, Amidon learns something of the business affairs of Brassfield, and with this meager help he is enabled to pre-serve something of Brassfield's posiion, the often sadly bewildered.

He finds himself involved in a complex electric traction deal, the details f which are unknown to him. He ilso learns that his victory in a suit involving valuable property hinges on happenings of a date prior to his existence as Eugene Brassfield.

"I see," said Brassfield. "My view of the function of the saloon is that it is sort of club for those too poor to belong to the more exclusive organizations. As long as they are performing these functions in an orderly way, why

"Glad to have you," said Alvord. 'Come on, and we'll turn in. As for the situation, how can you improve it? If Conlon and Sheehan and Zalinsky can't control these caucuses, I'm mistaken. Put them along with the saloons and the others that depend on police permission for existence, and

"Turn nothing!" said Alvord, "They'll make the noise tonight; we'll have the votes tomorrow night. -Adventures in Egoism. I really shrink from giving an account of the result of the Bellevale caucuses next evening, for fear of imparting to the general reader-who is, of course, a violent patriot—the idea that I am narrating facts showing an exceptionally bad condition in municipal affairs, in the triumph of one or the other of two bad men. This impression I should be loath to give. Colonel McCorkle, whom we know by psychologically incapable of deviating much from the course marked out by the average ethics of his surroundings This subconscious mind which—as Professor Blatherwick so clearly explained to us-normally operates below the plane of consciousness, happens, in his case, to be abnormally acting consciously; but it is still controlled by suggestion. The moneymaking mania being in all minds, he becomes a money-maker. The usual attitude of society toward all thingsincluding, let us say, women, poetry, politics and public duty-is the one into which the Brassfield mind inevitably fell. The men on whom any age bestows the accolade of greatness, are those who embody the qualities-virtues and vices-of that age. Your popular statesman and hero is merely the incarnate Now. Every president is to his supporters "fit to rank with Washington and Lincoln." Future ages may accord to him only respectable mediocrity; but the generation which sees itself reflected in him, sees beauty and greatness in the reflection, Bellevale was psychically reflected in Brassfield. Therefore Bellevale raised him on the shield of popularity. One may see this reflected in the conversation of Major Humphrey, one of Bellevale's solid citizens, with Mr. Smith, who owned the department store, on the morning after the caucuses.

"Rather lively times, I hear," said Major Pumphrey, catching step with Mr. Smith on their way down town. "Rather lively times at the caucuses last evening."

"Really," answered Mr. Smith, "I don't know. I never attend caucuses. Every one has his friends, you know, and by not taking sides one saves many enmities." "I don't agree with you," said the major, "Every one should attend his party primaries, as a matter of duty." "You were out last night?" said the merchant interrogatively.

"Why, no," said the major, "not last night. The fact is, Colonel McCorkle and I served in the same regiment and belong to the post here, and he ex-pected me to support him. At the same time, the nomination of Mr. Brassfield appeared to be the only right thing from the standpoint of party expediency or business wisdom. Brassfield can be elected. He is strong in busihearsay only, seems to be so good a citizen that his belated attempt to be "broad" and "liberal" excites laughter in some quarters. As for Mr. Brassfield, there are at least nine chances in ten that he is the man who would have received the support of the gentle reader had it been his own city's the nomination of so present of the money to pay off the church debt recently none of us could decently have gone out and worked against him even for the colonel. They say that McCorkle is a good deal chagrined by the small showing he made-claims that the saloons and the lower classes ran the caucuses, and that the decent element stayed away alto-"Pooh!" scoffed Mr. Pumphrey. "A little sore is all-soon get over it. I only hope Brassfield will be able to get us that trolley line he promises. That would bring Bellevale abreast of the times." "That's certainly true," was Mr. Smith's answer. "Mr. Brassfield is an enterprising citizen, broad and liberal. safe and sane, and fully in touch with the great business interests of the country. His nomination will reflect credit on Bellevale." Inasmuch as such citizens as Con-

"Oh, you're quite right!" exclaimed Mr. Smith, "My attendance would not have made any difference in the re-sult. Colonel McCorkle is a good man, but after Mr. Brassfield made us a lon, Pierson, Sheehan and Zalinsky were equally well contented, no one, it would seem, ought to have been dissatisfied. The fact that Mr. Brassfield's success meant the giving away of Bellevale's streets to Brassfield's interurban trolley line must be considered in connection with the fact that Bellevale seemed only too anxious to give them away. One must look at such things from all sides, if one is to come to a satisfactory conclusion. Miss Waldron, having a keenly personal interest in the matter, and being a member of the cultured and leisure class, endeavored to do this. Her conclusions, both personal and political, seem to be fully set forth in a letter which "You know I always was a queer

Well, I am doing something of the same sort now in turning over and over in my mind the question as to whether I should ever marry any one or not. I know perfectly well that no one can ever be the One for me if Eugene is not—but is there a One? Don't say that I am a little-goose, but listen and ponder. "You remember the sort of literary friendship I had with George L---Well, of course George was a veritable Miss Nancy, and perfectly absurd, but there was something basically likeable about him. Now, I always have thought that if one could grind George and Eugene to a pulp and mix them, the compromise would be my ideal. I like men who do things, and Eugene is the most forceful man I ever knew. Owing to your absence when he was in New York you missed seeing him, but his pictures must have shown you how "It is possible for such qualities to subsist in the same personality with those I loved (there's no use denying it-in a platonic sense) in George? In other words, can one reasonably expect to find a man who can win battles in the world's life of this twentieth century, who will not stare at one in utter lack of comprehension when he finds one dropping tears on the pages of Charmides, or McAndrew's Prayer, or Omar, and perhaps try to comfort one-at the moment when the divine despair wrought by poignant beauty fills one with divine happiness? It's horribly clumsy as I put it: but you'll know.

"He's just as good and kind and considerate as a man can be, and as little spoiled by the fierce battles which he has fought-and won!-as could possibly be expected—in fact, not at all spoiled. Even this suspicion of a lack of the gift of seeing that the violet 'neath a mossy stone is a good deal more than that-the chief good quality George had-around which I have been writing in these pages, seems to be more a suspicion than a reality; for recently he has once or twice, ventured on discussions of such matters with a confidence and an insight which put me-me, who have plumed myself on my mental St. Simeon's tower, like a detestable inellectual cockatoo (you must untwist the metaphors!)—at his feet in the attitude of a humble learner. It took some of the conceit out of me; and yet, with true Elizabethan inconsistency I turned this new view of his character against him, and because he -well, it doesn't matter what-I gave him a pre-nuptial instalment of 'cruel and inhuman treatment.' "Then he became timid and overrespectful, and not at all like himself, and I all the time just longing to make up to him all the arrears of kindness which were due. It seemed as if I had a new lover, one who needed encouragement, one who made a goddess of me, in the place of the almost too bold gallant who had been mine; and lo! when he suddenly comes on me with all his pristine assurance and seeming contempt for the weepful things I mentioned above, I don't like it at all. I feel as if two men in the same mask are courting me, and I without discernment enough to tell one from the other.

"Now, if I am so shilly-shallying as his before marraige, what shall I be after? Can I go on with so much of

CALLS CRITICISM PLATITUDINOUS

Resolutions Adopted at Sherman Supporting Bailey

Special to The Telegram. SHERMAN, Texas, Oct. 26.-Criticism of Senator Bailey's position was characterized as platitudinous in the resolution adopted Thursday following the senator's address before an enthusiastic audience. The paragraph of the resolution making this classification reads as follows: "That there is no public issue between Senator Balley and his traduc-ers; the only public questions raised which have any substance are political platitudes with which Senator Bailey and all good public men agree. The others are mere academic quibbles which never have had and never can have any vitality."

Enthusiastic Greeting The welcome Senator Bailey received in Sherman was probably the most enthusiastic that has been given him anywhere in Texas, not even excepting his home town of Gainesville. Aside from local references, Senator

Bailey's speech was almost identical with others he has recently made However, there were some embellishments and additions. Among these was his remark that the vote of Grayson county had put General Bell out of the race for governor, and that a good thing had been done thereby, Another was his assertion that there would be only four votes cast in the next legislature against his re-election to the United States senate, and that the four members so voting would be retired to private life, as had the four democrats of the Twenty-seventh legislature who voted against him. Another new feature was his warning that unjust accusations against public officers would react upon the people and work irreparable injury to the

"I am going to bid you good afternoon by saying to you, now that I am your senator, what it was always my pride to say to you when I was your representative in the house, You all remember well, those of you who took an interest in political affairs, that I came every two years into this community, and, looking you in the face, declared I had kept every promise I

SUFFERINGTHESUREPENALTY

Health Thus Lost Is Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

How many women do you know who are perfectly well and strong? We hear every day the same story over and over again, "I do not feel well; I am

More than likely you speak the same words yourself, and no doubt you feel far from well. The cause may be easily traced to some derangement of the temale organs which manifests itself in depression of spirits, reluctance to go anywhere or do anything, backache, bearing-down pains, flatulency, nervousness, sleeplessness, or other female weakness.

These symptoms are but warnings that there is danger ahead, and unless heeded a life of suffering or a serious operation is the inevitable result.

The never failing remedy for all these symptoms is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Kate McDonald of Woodbridge, N. J., writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Restored health-has meant so much to me that I cannot help from telling about it for the sake of other suffering women.

"For a long time I suffered untold agony with a female trouble and irregularities, which made me a physical wreck, and no one thought I would recover, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me, and made me well and strong, and I feel it my duty to tell other suffering women what a splendid medicine it is."

For twenty-five years Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, has under her direction, and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge. Her advice is free and always helpful. Address, Lynn, Mass.

had made to you, faithfully in the spirit, exactly to the letter; and never once in those ten long years did any honest man deny my chatlenge. I come back now after six years in the public service in the highest assembly at Washington, and standing here now as it was my habit to stand in the earlier times, I again challenge my most inveterate foe to tell the people of a single pledge I have made and then failed to keep. As long as your representative can do this you need have no fear. But, my countrymen, when they come in obedience to your call; when they can repeat as fulfillment what was a promise when they came the time before, you owe it as a duty, not to them, but you owe it as a duty to yourselves to defend the honor and good name of your public servants as they defend your welfare and your in-

DEMAND MADE FOR MORE PAY

All Union Switchmen United On This Action

Special to The Telegram.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26 .- Every railroad in the country on which members of the Switchmen's Union of America are employed received yesterday from that organization a demand for increased wages and an eight-hour day. With the demand was also presented notification that unless satisfactory terms are reached a strike vote will be taken by the union within two weeks. A compromise of 2e an hour advance of wages offered by the railroads was rejected yesterday by the committees representing the switchmen,

The men are holding out for the original demands submitted a month ago calling for a minimum scale of 42e an hour for foremen, 38c for helpers and an eight-hour day. Despite the failure of negotiations, both sides expressed the belief last night that there would be no strike. The railraod managers are in a conciliatory mood and are willing to make reasonable concessions, they say, in the way of increased wages, but they will not consider the question of reducing working hours at this time.

New York Teachers Help Furnish Cheap Food Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 .- At a charge of 1 cent each, the younger children in five of the public schools on the lower East Side are being supplied with luncheons each day by District Superintendent Julia Richman, aided by the principals and teachers of the The luncheons consist of crackers and milk, and are distributed at 10:30 in the morning or at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The board of education refused to furnish luncheons to pupils in April, 1905, after one of its committees had investigated a statement made by a society that 70,000 children were attending school without breakfast. The committee found that the statement was untrue, but that many children were not receiving proper nourishment,

GRAND JURY VITRIOL

Poured Out Freely with Hope of Correcting Evils Special to The Telegram,

WACO, Texas, Oct. 26 .- The report submitted yesterday by the grand jury before adjourning was a suggestive one, and several important propositions were dealt with. The body said that the use of formaldehyde had been discovered in some food products, but the parties using it were in most cases innocent that it was harmful. A recommendation was made that an inspector be engaged by the community to look after such matters.

The grand jury scored gambling and said that the peace officers should act in concert and stamp it out. The trial juries in murder cases were scored for not returning heavier penalties, and one or two instances were cited, and names used, where parties had sotten off too lightly at this present term. The higher courts were criticised for reversing too many cases on technicalities, entailing trouble and expense

Morris Not An Applicant Special to The Telegram.

PALESTINE, Texas, Oct. 26.-Hon. Ned B. Morris, a well known lawyer of this city, has issued a statement in answer to a telegram sent from Austin to the state papers. Following is the statement:

"An Austin correspondent stated in Tuesday's paper that I would accept the position as private secretary to Governor Campbell if pressed. This is unjust to me as well as to Mr. Campbell. I am not an applicant for any position within the governor's gift, and would not, and could not afford to accept any, even if he should press me. It is true that I am his friend, me. It is frue that I am his friend, and have always been, but it is not for the sake of office nor any other special favor. Nobod" knews this better than Mr. Campbell."

HAGENBECK'S IN BAD WRECK

Five Cars Derailed and Much Property Destroyed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 26.-A special to the Gazette from Hot Springs, Ark., says:

The third section of the Carl Hagenbeck circus was in a bad wreck shortly after 9 o'clock Thursday morning on the Rock Island road, about twelve miles east of this city.

The first news that reached this city of the wreck came from one of the show men, who walked five miles in order to telephone the manager here. Five cars, each sixty-five feet long, were derailed and thirteen property wagons destroyed.

One of the cars was split entirely in two. A fine automobile belonging to one of the managers, was totally destroyed. "Hamburger Kid," one of the helpers, who was sleeping in one of the cars that was defailed, was buried under the debris and when he was finally taken out it was found that one of his knees was fractured and he was hurt internally. It is thought he will recover, however. The wagons were loaded with seats, costumes, trapezes and iron cages, the performers and animals being in another section. The wreck was caused by the breaking of one of the trucks on one of the cars.

The circus was scheduled to snow in Brinkley tomorrow, but this engagement was canceled in favor of this city and two performances will be given here tomorrow. The rails were badly torn and will require several hours to be placed in condition so that trains

A Pleasant, Simple, But Safe and Effectual Cure for It COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating. accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, headaches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling. There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condi-

According to Dr. Harlanson, the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. Mr. R. S. Workman, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found flesh, appetite and

City Marshall Maddox Receives Small-

City Marshal J. H. Maddox received Thursday a bridal present that was a little late in reaching him, but which was nevertheless highly appreciated by the recipient.

Some time previous to his marriage Marshal Maddox informed his friend, James Saunders, of his approaching nuptials, but Saunders placed no confidence in the announcement, and to prove his disbelief said:
"When you get married I will make you a present of a fine ham; but if the hog from which the ham is to come doesn't die until you marry he will live to be a mighty old hog."

Marshal Maddox was married all right and went to housekeeping Thursday morning. His first act was to inform Saunders that he was ready for the ham. To make good his promise, Saunders drew a requisition on the packing house for the smallest pig ham in stock, which weighed less than two pounds, and to do the subject justice, supplemented the ham with a sample sack of flour that weighed less than a pound and a half. Marshal Maddox was notified that the provisions had been sent and his feelings when he saw his bridal present can better be imagined than described.

RIDS THE SYSTEM

The healthy color of the skin is given to it by the millions of little red corpuscles in the blood. These are the carriers of nourishment, health and strength to all parts of the body—in other words the very life of the blood. When the germs of Malaria get into this vital fluid they destroy these corpuscles and rob the blood of its rich, lifes-ustaining qualities, rendering it thin, weak and watery and unable to supply the system with the needed strength to resist disease. Then the symptoms of Malaria such as pale, sallow complexions, weak vitality, poor appetite, deranged digestion, a general "let down" condition of the system, and perhaps chills and slight fever, show that this insidious disease is gradually affecting the entire health. Malaria must be removed from the system through the circulation, and the medicine to accomplish this is S. S. S. It not only cleanses the blood of all impure, unhealthy matter, but rids the system of Malaria, and restores the blood to a strong, healthy condition. S. S. S., besides removing the germs of Malaria, builds up and gives tone and vigor to the entire system by its fine tonic effects. Malaria is a blood disease, and S. S. S. eures it because it is a perfect blood purifier. Book on the blood and any medical advice without charge THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

THE ANT HILL CHURCH By William Edgar Geil F. R. G. S. Copyright 1906 by W. E. Geil

saturated with cannibalism, sorcery and fetish beliefs the English Baptists have situated their mighty mission at Yakusu. Geographically the site was well chosen for at this point the Lindi and Congo mix their waters. Also anthropologically the location of the mission is an excellent one. Here the workers are in easy touch with the Lokele, that bright, fickle, stalwart and vigorous people whose towns are on the banks of the Congo for fifty miles to Isangi at the mouth of the Lomami river. Then the Rurumbe, stunted, weak and mentally poor, dwell in towns which lie in the woodland but near to the river on the north bank They supply the Lokele with plantains palm oil and the fruits of the ferest. On the south bank, somewhat lower, are the Bafoma, one time known as Luvuka. They resemble the Lokele and are active, adroit and enterprising. There are also the tall Bamanga, the gloomy, taciturn and skilful in shooting the rapids. The forest tribes are inferior to the river tribes, while between Yakusu and the Aruwini the back blocks are but sparsely populated. Then there are the towns of the Bakumu people between Stanley Falls and the Lower Lindi These energetic and industrious savages are clearing great areas of forest for plantations. The tribes around Yakusu have been cannibals. Some, forsooth, still are, but they are epicures with dainty palates and only devour certain tasty individuals. Women and children are never eaten, only adult men. The women are too precious to eat; they are the riches, they work in the fields, make pots, draw water, are too valuable for food. Neither are the men considered edible if dying of maladies or injured in accidents. The heads of people used for food are rejected, but the teeth are extracted for ornaments The hands of the victims, after being soaked some days, are considered a

The Ant-Hill church was construed by men who were raw cannibals four years before. It is a creditable building made of brick and capable of seating 500 savages at a time. The ant hills are thereabouts of monstrous size. I climbed to the top of one twenty feet high. Three of these hills furnished sufficient clay for the bricks for the big church. It seems almost impossible that men so recently canniabals should have done this, but I was there and saw it with these two eyes.

And now there is a mighty religious awakening in all that ant hill region, In one year's time eighty schools have had to be opened and hundreds are professing conversion to Christianity. It is a mighty movement. The heroic missionaries who are responsible for so many cannibals quitting human meat feasts are constantly subjected to fever. Indeed my secretary almost died there, and I myself had two attacks of the fever while at Yakusu. And yet the men and women who have gone out from comfortable homes in Britain make no word of complaint and gladly do their work of humanizing, civilizing and Christianizing the savages on the upper Congo river. I take off my hat to them. Their devotion to duty is beyond all praise.

Across the Congo and directly opposite the Yakusu mission is the wood tract of the institution. As a part of the industrial work of the station excellent African timbers are felled and brought into use. These are found on the south bank and with half an hour's canoe journey. Fine teak and mahogany have been brought over and used in the construction of the station buildings. One tree yielded between roots and the first branches 400 plank thirteen feet long, a foot wide and an inch and a half thick. Canoes are hollowed out of the same kind of timber. Smith says "It sets the boys up to work and puts vim in them."

On one occasion the native sawyers returning to Yakusu saw a fish six feet long floating down the river choking with a small fish in its mouth. The town people caught sight of the fathom of food at the same time and sent a canoe out to get it. The two canoes reached the fish, but the sawyers selzed it first and put it in their boat. For a moment a fight in mid-river was imminent. However the two boats came in side by side, the town people evidently thinking that a division would be made at the landing place and they would get their share. But the wood-cutters said that they got the fish and had brought it in and would not share it. Then the fight began.

The town people were out with sticks and their companions came to their aid. The woodsmen sent a party to provide them with arms, and then return to the fray. The town soldier, trying to quiet the combatanas, got hit. He turned on the town people and ordered them to stop fighting, but fighting blood was up an the town people wanted to be in the fun. Between the soldier and the sawyers the town people were being driven back, and its seemed as if the affair was about at an end, when the soldier was

In the midst of sockless savages, I struck by a stray handful of dirt. He immediately cocked his gun and leveled at the town people. There was a stampede to the river. In a moment hundreds were in the water up to their necks ready to dodge beneath the surface the moment they saw him pull. A missionary went along with a can and was just in time to knock up the soldier's gun and settle the matter by diriding the fish The natives were obliging enough to give me a practical illustration of their pugancity. One night a woman who had some fish to sell offered them to a man. But another man wanted the fish and said: "I want you to sell the fish to me, the other man has no money, but I have and will pay you for them." But the woman persisted on selling the fish to Number One because she said she owed them to him. Now she had been recently marked on the shoulder after a tribal custom when woman comes to maturity, and her wounds were not yet healed. The would-be purchaser seized her by the shoulder and she cried out in pain. One of the mission boys, moved by a chivalry new to the people, told him to desist.

As was to be expected, he was told to mind his own business. The effect of these words was an interchange of blows, and as the man was from the interior and the boy from the riverside, the quarrel soon grew into a pitched battle between river and bush people, and several anatomies were bruised before one of the missionaries arived on the scene and offered to hear the palaver in the morning. About 10:30 or later my festive boy, "Lamb," who belongs to the river tribe, came into the house. I asked him what all the noise was about. He said there had been a fight, and I told him to keep out of it and go to bed.

Next morning, while breakfasting with the missionaries, we heard a great row. Learning that fight was on between the same factions, I took my pocket kodak intending to take its picture. But when I arrived on the comic scene the performance was so interesting that I forgot all about the picture, and with a heavy cane proceeded among the naked natives, active brickbats, pious missionaries and malicious savages to fight for peace. The battle raged in front of the Ant Hill church. As I moved into the thick of the scrimmage, between two contending lines of warriors was a powerful savage with a neavy stick, striking right and left, showing no preference to either side and trying with tremendous vigor to keep the two legions separate.

Later on I learned that he was a chief. I noticed at the time that no one struck at him, that brickbats did not drop in his immediate vicinity, and that when he made a lunge with his club everybody stepped aside,

The fight lasted over an hour, resulting in one man who had been extremely vigorous in the attack having what little sense he had knocked out of him. Some others had broken or wounded fingers. It was a well battered-up crowd. Right thru the heaviest part of the fighting a few powerful fellows stood around taking no part in the fray. At this I was greatly surprised, knowing the natural desire of natives to have a hand in anything like a fight. These warriors were from another part of the country and voluntarily held themselves in reserve to assist the white men if they required help. Had these stalwart cannibals employed their battle maces they would have promoted a lively scatteration.

This is one of the most interesting features connected with missionary work at Yakusu and must be especially attractive to any Christian workers who, in the home country before conversion, were pugilistically inclined. Such vigorous natives as these, if converted, will soon do good work in the Christian cause. The medicinal effect of such a performance is superior to morphine or opium working forgetfulness of even all the ordinary ills and pains to which in Africa the human race is subject. These fights are also useful because they arouse profound enthusiasm. Indeed, it might be advisable for the issionaries to arrange some such exhibition about once a month, the home board supplying medicines and bandages. Later I learned that a fight occurs usually with the change of the moon. The tide of human passion ebbs and flows under lunar influence, The ancients said it was impossible to

Dear Sirs: Believing that "ZEMO" saved my arms. if not my life I will gladly tell all sufferers from eczema what your good medicine did for me. I suffered six years from a torturing case of itching eczema of both arms. I tried eight different doctors, and every eczema cure I could hear of without relief. The disease grew worse and spread to my neck and breast; my arms had great holes eaten in them; I soon became an invalid and was confined to my bed part of the time. My husband bought a bottle of "ZHMO"; the first application stopped the itching, and I began to improve; in six weeks and one day the disease had disappeared, and my arms were clean and smooth as my picture will show, before and after using "ZEMO." My arms were so had some of my friends wanted me to have them taken off, but I would not agree. I arm now entirely cured and have gained ten pounds in weight, and feel better than I have felt in many years. I consider my quick recovery by using "ZEMO" nothing short of a miracle. I will gladly answer all inquiries and recommend "ZEMO" to all persons suffering from any itching skin disease.

Yours gratefully, GUARANTEED AND SOLD BY

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

HER GOWNS ARE STUNNING BUT COST ONLY $4.20 EACH

BY MARION ASHE. This is a picture of one of the best dressed girls in town. And her dresses never cost more than $4.50 or $6.501 She makes her own clothing, and instead of spending money on a lot of gingerbread trimmings she puts it all in on quality of the material, reserving just enough for the lining, etc.

When seen sauntering down the promenade one would think she had stepped out of the carriage of a millionaire, so trim and stunning is the picture she presents And in her own words, this is how she does it: "When the time of the year approaches for a new dress I look in the windows of the best shops in town and get my ideas of what will be the prevailing fashion of the approaching season. I always select the style that is simple in outline and general appearance. Five yards of double-width material is sufficient to make a dress of this description for a woman of average figure.

"After selecting the style of dress that I wish to make, I then note the materials that are being shown by the first-class houses, for it is my experience that best results can be obtained by shopping in the best stores. Some seasons, especially in the spring, the prettiest lightweight dress goods can be obtained for 50 cents a yard. Of course, at that rate the rest is easy, for three yards of silk at 50 cents a yard will line the jacket. In the fall it is more difficult to get really desirable dress goods for less than $1 a yard, but I never pay more than "The secret of my good appearance is that I am very particular about the details in the making up of the costume. I get a pattern from a reliable magazine, and then with exact care I cut and fit my dress. I rely entirely on the perfect cut and fit of my gown to give it style. I spend little or nothing on trimmings. Good machine stitching will finish off a dress better than a lot of cheap lace or applique.

"Once the dress is made, I am particular about its care. I always have hangers for each gown and enough space in which to hang both skirt and jacket without mussing them. I give particular care to the accessories of my costume. My gloves and shoes and hat are selected to harmonize with my dress. The cost of them is given as much consideration as the gown itself.

"You can depend upon it, that many of my dresses are turned, or portions of them used in the making up of

"Every woman should know what is particularly becoming to her, both in style and color of dress, and should never rush, as so many do, after a new fad, for that in itself is fatal to dressing well on little money."

THE PROPER METHOD OF PROPOSING By Dorothy Dix-

You would like to know how to pop the question, son, and as you think of Maud and wonder in what words you can most persuasively ask her to be yours, you wish with all your heart that there was some cut-and-dried formula for doing it, as there is for taking a ninety-day option on a house and lot or a bale of dry goods.

According to old-fashioned novels there used to be. In those halcyon days the pattern proposal of marriage called for the lover to assure his sweetheart of his most respectful affection, and to offer her his hand and heart and lay his fortune at her feet. After which he said: "Miss Smith-Miss Marydare I call you Mary?" Upon which Mary either tumbled into his arms or froze him with a haughty glance.

Nowadays it is greatly to be feared that no girl, no matter how much she desires to marry, will stand for such a tame proposal. She wants something with a little more ginger in it for hers. and thus the unhappy youth who has reached the point where he must either speak up or shut up for good is left to his own devices, with no precedent to guide him, no manual of proper conduct to teach him what to say, and when and how to say it.

For no man has ever yet been found who divulged the secret of how he popped the question. All he can remember of the occasion is that at some particular moment, without knowing why, he screwed up his courage to the sticking point, swallowed hard, shut his eyes, turned on the third speed and let her go, and the next thing he knew the girl was either tenderly gathering up the fragments or else sweeping them out of the front door.

This being the case, any advice concerning how to pop the question is bound to be general rather than concrete, and yet there are four elementary rules, to the breaking of one or the other of which may be traced the large supply of mittens that are handed out to bungling suitors. The first counsel that can be given to the young man who is anxious to bring down a wife upon his devoted head is to be romantic and poetic, be as romantic and poetic as you can. Cut away for once from the hard and sordid facts of life. Don't tell a girl that you want to marry her beuse she is good and industrious and conomical, and that you feel that she would make you a sensible wife.

I knew one man who proposed to a rich girl by telling her that if they married and joined their holdings they could control the stock in a certain industrial enterprise, and another who lost out because he began his impassioned declamation to the lady he desired to espouse by saying that he didn't mind her not being pretty because she was so strong and healthy, and that was the kind of a wife he

The hour in which a man asks a woman who loves him to be his wife is the great hour of her life, the one that will live in her memory when the waters of death have washed away every other landmark, and the one thing she never forgives is having it desecrated, having it dragged down in the dust of the commonplace,

Many a woman has said "Yes" to the man she never intended marrying because he proposed so beautifully and many a one has said "No" to man she ought to have married just because she was so outraged and revolted at the way he asked her to be desire presented to you on a silver salver wreathed about with roses and another to have it hurled at you in a head of cabbage, The second tip to the man who is about to propose is never to take a woman's "No" as final. As often as not

It is one thing to have what you

she means "Yes" and only wants to be persuaded. Besides, she doesn't want to seem too eager. Hence victory waits on the doorstep for the persistent wooer.

The third bit of advice in popping the question is to give proper consideration to environment. When a man makes up his mind to ask a woman to marry him he views it in pretty much the same way as he does having a tooth pulled. It's a painful operation he has got to go thru, and the quicker he does it the sooner it will be over and he will be comfortable again. So, altho it is a place so delicate that an angel might not dare to tread. he rushes the situation and any old time and place is good enough for him. Not so with women. A woman is as sensitive to her environments as an aeolian harp to every breath of wind. A man can love and eat and pop the question at the same time; a woman,

A man can dodge in and out among venicles on a crowded street with his heart fixed on the beloved one at his side: a woman is wondering if she is holding her dress up out of the mud in the back A man can be sentimental and romantic with his hair mussed and his hands grimy and his collar wilted. A woman puts on and lays off sentiment with her frills. She has to look the part before she feels it.

A moonlight night with the shadows stealing across the end of a gallery, or sheltered corner somewhere with the music of a distant waltz dying in passionate longing on the air, or the purple haze of twilight, or even so small thing as having on a chiffon dress, makes a background against which a woman finds it physically impossible to hurl an adamantine NO.

Yet there are men-God forgive hem, for women never can!-who are imbecile enough to pop the question across the beefsteak and onions, or swinging on to a strap on a trollery

The fourth hint to the would-be penedict is to study a woman's moods and take his cue from them. I asked a bachelor maid once why she didn't marry a certain man who had long and ardently wooed her, and who, alybody could see, was her foreordained Fate. To which she replied: "Because he hasn't sense enough to know when to ask me. He always pops the question when I have had some bit of good luck. sold a story or a poem, or have a new dress, and feel strong and brave enough to fight the world, and full of the intoxication of woman's independence. Then I say 'No!'

"But if he would only propose some day when my stories have come back the windows, and I sicken at the very thought of a frowsy table d'hote dinner. and I want nothing else on earth so badly as a good, broad masculine shoulder to flop over and cry on, then I'd be only too glad to say 'Yes.' Some time he'll hit the right moment by accident, and then I'll be a goner." And now, one last adjuration, son. Don't, when you propose to a girl, tell her that she reminds you of your first wife, or your lost leve, or your first wife, or your lost leve, or your mother, or any other female living or dead, real or imaginary. For that one minute, at least, a woman wants to be all in all to you, or nothing—to be loved just for herself or not at all, and if she's got a spark of spirit she'll turn you down good and hard for ringing in any other lady. And you'll deserve it.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dainty Sets in Scrim for Girls' Room Embroidering on scrim is not particularly new, but, given the lovely shades of floss and lots of patience, this perfectly inexpensive material may be made into most dainty room furnishings. The work, too, is so easily and quickly done, that with reason it is popular as a veranda pastime.

A good plan is to do the hemstitching—as it is necessary to set a wide hem on each piece before embroidering -in the house, leaving the less laborious work for the porch.

A pretty set for a girl's rooms is in a deep cream shade, cut to fit stand, bureau and cushion, hemstitched an inch and a half deep all around the corners, worked in a conventional design, cross stitch, of course, in shaded greens, encircling squares of ecru filet lace, which happened to be pieces of applique left over from dressmaking. Cut these into motifs. Floral bits of applique may be used in the same way, and with the same results. Skillful workers will pick out these lace scraps with different shades of silk so that, with the cross stitch embroidery, the effect will be extremely handsome. Cushion covers are made by sewing thru the hemstitching of one plain and one decorated square each of the same size. Handkerchief, veil and glove cases take on their varied shapes, arranging similarly to the cushion cover. A pincushion top is the work of an afternoon, and as these goods wash so well, two or three will keep the dress-ing table looking fresh and dainty at all times.

SHORT STORY

A RAINY EVENING

We were about out of resources at the Springs that evening toward the end of the season. Several days and nights of steady rain and clouds had affected our spirits and we wanted something to stir us up. Somebody proposed shost stories, and with this suggestion we began.

A man over in one corner of the room told of a strange experience of a young woman he used to know at "Miss Standish was the girl's name," he said. "For five years she never traveled by train without having a most singular dream. The dream was singular from its vividness, more so from the fact that in its manifestations the details never varied. Only could be obtained from Miss Standish, but she always said there was noise, hurry and confusion, a sensation of pain, not so much for herself as going on about her. From all this confusion, however, the figure of a woman, with a head of wonderful blond hair, seemed to be the central object. Her head seemed to be borne slowly past the windows of the coach, but over it was always a delicate, half-transparent handkerchief, in the corner of which was a coronet and cipher of dainty embroidery. "Soon after meeting Miss Standish the last time, I went south and was detained several weeks. Upon my return I went at once to see my aunt. and found her very lonely, for Miss Standish had left her but a day or wo before, having been suddenly called away by the illness of a sister. "While we sat talking to each oth-glancing over it, caught sight of a headline, 'Awful Railroad Accident.' "First on the list of killed was the name of Miss Standish. My aunt saw ny agitation and insisted upon being old its cause.

er, I picked up the evening paper, and,

"Miss Standish has been killed instantly. When found her head was completely severed, as if the guilloine had done its work. At first no thought of her dream came to me, but when we found later that a woman had covered the tranquil features with dainty handkerchief, there was a flash of memory, and we at home could but remark the singularity of he accident.

"These details were told us later by he sweetheart of the girl, who had gone on the journey with her. He had kept the handkerchief, for on it was a coronet and cipher in the corner. This bit of cambric was the property of a woman of rank, who was on the train that fatal day. "Miss Standish had admired the yoman, whose seat was opposite." The fire gave one expiring flicker, he pale moon shone into the room after several nights' absence, throwing a faint light over us all. The effect of the story just told and the others which had preceded made us feel a bit creepy, and silently we went to our rooms.

A WIDOW INDEED

When my friend Isabel Deane suddenly sank from a pinnacle of proud and happy wischood into a heartbroken widow it was a change quite properly expected that she should turn her face to the wall and refuse to be comforted for many days. John Deane had been her lover as well as her husband as long as he lived. For this reason his death was all the more overwhelming to his What was surprising was that Isabel changed completely in manner. Her eyes became cold and hard as if there were no more tears in them, and the corners of her mouth were sharply drawn as of one in pain. In less than two months after her great loss she crossed the ocean with three children, but the dregs of her bitterness left their impress or Her few letters told nothing of her real life. They were full of generalities, about pictures, cathedrals and castles, nothing of herself. Isabel had been abroad about five years when I received one day a letter bidding me come at once to the Russell street infirmary. Doing good

Being assured that we were alone Special to The Telegram, the dying woman confided to me that her name was Madeline Dejoux a New York hotels: seamstress, who once worked three months for Mrs. John Deane. According to her confession she had tried every way to attract Mr. Deane's attention. "I had not been in his house two weeks before I loved him with all nly heart and he scarcely knew me by sight," she said. "One day Mrs. Deane sent me away, and I had to go into a strange place with very little money and no references of character. When I was in my sorest extremity I read of John Deane's death and all my old wrongs at his wife's hands rolled over me like a flood.

"With the utmost care and deliberation I put together a letter addressed to Mrs. Deane which would have carried conviction even to your mind, that I had been near and dear to him. It was long and affectionate and signed by my name. The letter reminded him ever so delicately of a certain allowance that he had promised to make me from the beginning of that year. In due time I received notice from a banker that a certain sum would be placed to my credit every year by order of Mrs. Isubel Deane. It was exactly the amount of the allowance I had mentioned in my letter. The last I heard Mrs. Deane had gone to Europe with her children." As the woman finished her recital and fell back exhausted I rushed home and wrote the confession just as I had heard it. After sending the letter to Isabel I sat down to wait.

Three days after my visit to the hospital Madeline Dejoux died. In less than two months Isabel came home. She looked womanly and pretty, much like she formerly did. Her eyes were bright and filled with a light that had been absent for a long time and on her cheeks was a faint flush. We spoke no word of all that nad passed between us. We just

"SWEET MARIE" GREAT TROTTER, CAN TELL WHEN SHE'S TO RACE

 "Sweet Marie seems to know what is expected of her," says her trainer, "When the day comes for her to race or to go out for exhibition she knows it just as well as I do, and she shows that she is pleased. I don't think she hears the men talking about the race, but she knows from the way we feed her. She is dieted the day before she races." ********

"She is steady on her feet with the best set of nerves you ever saw," said Mr. McDonald. "She is not easily excited and scares at nothing. She has traveled much this year and was never off her feed, giving evidence of the greatest enjoyment in her travels."

Strange is the early history of Sweet Marie, She was foaled, the property of a negro gardener in the suburbs of Los Angeles, Cal. RANCH SOLD FOR MILLION DOLLARS

Northern Men Will Open Tract for Settlement

A telegraphic dispatch from Memphis, Tenna Friday brings news of what is believed to be the largest sale of ranch property owned by an individual ever made in Texas. J. K. Zimmerman, owner of the Shoe Bar ranch in the Texas Panhandle, has sold to Chicago capitalists his entire ranch outfit of about 185,000 acres of land, 15,000 head of cattle with a hundred or more saddle horses. The bulk price is $1,000,000. The land is located in Hall and Donley counties and the ranch houses are and 24, in block 170, Chamberlin Arabout forty miles southwest of Amarillo. About a year and a half ago Mr. Zimmerman is said to have offered for sale this property for $2.50 per acre and $12 around for the cattle, but the deal did not go thru. The selling price now figures about $5 per acre straight. The advance in the value of land in this section of the state is due to the heavy demand for small tracts for farming, together with the growth of Amarillo and the railroad lines enter-

It is stated that the purchasers will sub-divide the property at once to meet the demand of the great influx of home-seekers from northern and other states. The sale was made thru the agency of Grundy Brothers of Mem-

Mrs. Green Gained 36 Pounds and Recovered Her Hestor by Taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

General debility is a term that covers a multitude of cases where there is no acute disease, yet the patient continues to lose strength and the doctor's medicines have no appreent effect. This is the decline that leads to death if means are not found to check it. In a great majority of cases Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will check it and restore health and strength because they actually make new blood and so send renewed vitality to every organ and tissue of the body.

Mrs. S. A. Green, whose address is Box 29, R. F. D. No. 4, Franklin, Ga., says: "For three and a half years I suffered with weakness and nervousness, complicated with stomach trouble. At times I was confined to my bed for periods ranging from three weeks to two mouths and was under the physician's care most of the time for three years. I do not know the cause of my trouble but I was prostrated with weakness and, although I took a great deal of medicine, nothing seemed to give me strength. At times my stomach hurt me something fearful and my head often troubled me. I was sleepless and what sleep I did get

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 26 .- A delegation of citizens from Del Rio, headed by J. G. Gillis, is here today conferring with the governor regarding the extradition of several Mexicans who are in jail at that point charged with robbery, etc. The real cause is that they were instrumental in inciting the recent revolution. J. G. Gillis wants the matter fully investigated before the extradition issues. Governor Lanham is also desirous of having the matter fully investigated and has requested J. G. Thomas of that district to pass on the cases and then to furnish him with the facts. Some of the cases may not be of an extraditable nature and that is why diligent inquiry will be made. Requisition papers have been received from Mexico for all parties under arrest.

Adjutant General Not Necessarily Brigadier General

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 26 .- The correspondent of The Telegram has received a letter from Captain Monroe Chapman of Bay City, a member of the Texas National Guard, also an applicant for the position of adjutant general under the incoming administration, in which he says: "My attention has been quite generally called to an article under an Austin date line in Sunday's papers relative to an opinion that it is necessary for an appointee as adjutant general to have anterior rank as brigadier general. It is furthest from my desire to engage in any controversy in this matter, and I will not do so. I have due respect for the gentleman who rendered the opinion and for his office; but as it may have a tendency to cause some to withhold indorsements that some of us who are applicants for the place might otherwise receive, I think it only just that my version of how the 1905 law should be construed should be given as much publicity as was the other.

"The governor may appoint whomsoever he pleases adjutant general. He is a staff officer, distinctly so; and no matter what his anterior rank, if any, may have been, he attains the rank of prigadier general, which is only incidental, when appointed adjutant general. However, the governor, could handle the matter in any way he thought best, and if he should choose, appoint one to any rank he pleased, designating him as acting adjutant general, until, at his pleasure, he gave the full rank incident to the office. Most assuredly he may appoint anyone he may please direct to the office with the full incidental rank. "My sole purpose in requesting that this be printed is on account of the effect the contrary opinion might have on probable indorsers of all those of us except the efficient gentleman who now has the place; and most certainly not, as any suggestion to Mr. Campbell, for he does not need any. "As some know, the adjutant general appointment does not offer me any financial inducements."

Futures Down But Steady-Good Spot Demand and Buying by Spinners Around 10.55

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Oct. 26,-There was a few points drop in the values on the New York Exchange at the opening, and the market's fluctuations were close around the opening figures to, well up in the session. The census report seems to be the most absorbing topic and opinions are still derided on it. The movement and the weather are the two factors that are expected to control the course of the prices. In the spot market the buyers and sellers were at considerable distances apart, as far as the prices asked and bid were concerned. Buyers demanded concessions which the factors refused to grant. The local scalpers were almost entirely squeezed out of the market and speculation was practically at a standstill. The crop estimate is puzzling many of the locals, and they do not know which way the sentiment will lead. Professionals claim that if the season's crop is in excess of eleven mililon bales, that the next ginners' report will have to be larger than for the same period last year by almost 500,-000 bales. There are all kinds of rumors and conflicting stories as to the real damage that has been caused to the cotton by recent storms, rains, frost and other causes, and the various estimations by heretofore unquestioned authorities, differ so widely that it leaves the majority of the traders in a state of nervousness that was a great restraining influence in today's market. Some are inclined to the belief that in the final analysis of the present situation it will be shown that a larger percentage of this season's erop was ginned to Oct. 18 than in any year since 1902, and that the figures will more nearly aprpoach that

Decline in Futures-Good Weather and Foreign Cables Have Bearish Effect on the Market

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 26 .- The sharp decline on the market at the opening today was the result of a good weather map. Cables did not warrant the decline, but a wide slump would have been seen had not liberal buying by Hayne and Brown come to its support. Spot houses stated that the demand was good and spinners seemed anxious to take considerable quantitles around 10.50. Liverpool cable states that professionals in that market claim that the ginners' report was bullish, and that it forcasts a deterioration in the season's crop from former estimates, and that an advance is expected. Spinners were eager to buy on declines, and that the spot demand was good. Hester announced a plus correction in the New Orleans receipts to date of 5,941 bales. The bureau's tabulation of the crop report brought very little to light that the average crop guesser did not already know, further than that Texas, with favorable conditions for harvesting, ginning and marketing, had fallen well behind the 1904 mark, and thus disappointing bearish expectations. On the other hand, bulls were prompt in pointing out that should the ginning after Oct, 18 equal the 1904-05 season, of seven and one-quarter million, the total yield for 1905-06 would aggregate no more than 12,100,000 bales, or just about the estimate of consumption. Trade Was Heavier-Continued Small Receipts from the Northwest. Hogs Strong

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 26 .- The grain market was steady today. The receipts from the northwest continue small. Despite the lower Liverpool cables, the opening was strong and held firm the greater part of the day. There was a sharp demand and trading was perhaps better than for some time past. The bull influence was still in evidence, the a number of the leaders bought heavily, and shorts covered quite freely. The total receipts of wheat at the Chicago market today was 46 cars. Lighter receipts were much lighter at all points than at this time last year.

The foreign cables reported corn unchanged and in response the local market maintained moderate strength. thruout the day there was an active demand for corn, but the supply on the market offered for sale was not large. The corn receipts were 210 cars, with 128 contract grade.

Oats were firm, but trading in the pit was quiet. Total receipts were 241 cars. Provisions were firm at the opening, but selling by packers and local longs soon brought about a slight reaction later in the session. The hog receipts were 15,000 with the tone steady. Cattle weak, receipts 5,000. Sheep 10,000, and weak.

Secretary Wilson's regulation for securing sanitary conditions in the preparation to meat-consumers at home and abroad. They are so there as to seem rather severe to some. All parts of the buildings must be kept painted or whitewashed, or, where this is impracticable, must be thoroly washed. Old floors and walls must be renewed, and all trucks, trays and

No dyes, chemicals, or preservatives other than salt, sugar, vinegar, woodsmoke pure spices, and, pending further inquiry, saltpetre, are allowed to be

All animals found diseased must be slaughtered separately from others. Carcasses or parts of carcasses found unfit for human food must be destroyed in a tank sealed by a government inspector, and containing sufficient coloring matter to insure that the tankage cannot be used for lard or edible products.

No false or deceptive labels can be placed upon a package of food. (No more potted ham made of tripe, scraps of beef, and rope.) Neither steamships nor railroads will be allowed to receive meat for interstate commerce transportation unless it is duly stamped and certified.

The government inspectors are to have access to the packing houses by day or by night, at any nour they may demand. Running thru the regulations is a carefully prepared scheme which will effectually prevent the entrance into sausage, curing, canning, and other chopped meat establishments, of any carcasses which were not inspected and passed. The packer may appeal from any inspector to the bureau of animal industry, or the secretary of agriculture.

When these regulations are fully in force, the label "United States inspected and passed," will mean what it ought to, and we can eat without shuddering, and look other nations in the face without blushing.

Sotham's Sale a Success

The sale of high-grade Hereford and Shorthorn feeding cattle and calves by the T. F. B. Sotham Company of Kankakee, Ill., Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 16 and 17, is deemed by all who attended to have been the most successful sale yet held by this company. In saying that this was the most successful of the many sales held in this great sale mart it must not be understood that this success was merely one of good prices. Much higher prices have been realized by the company at previous sales, but the success is written chiefly in the popularity of this company's methods, as demonstrated by the openly expressed good will of visitors from all over the central and eastern states, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, Indiana, Ohio, Pesnsylvania and Kentucky being represented, with Kentucky sending the largest delegation from any outside state. A happy feature of the sale was the number of buyers present who had bought cattle at the company's sales in the fall of 1905 and spring of 1906, all of whom, without exception, testified to their eminent satisfaction with the cattle purchased .- Drovers' Telegram.

RANGE NOTES

In Deaf Smith County

Uncle Fred Williamson and daughter, Mrs. L. A. Morrow, left Wednesday for Roswell, where they expect to live. Uncle Fred has disposed of his ranch in the northern portion of the county and, on account of old age, will give up the hard work of ranch life. J. P. Carr, the champion sheep grower of this end of the Panhandle, received a shipment consisting of two yearling Merino bucks this week, which are perhaps the best ever brought to this country. They are both registered and were shipped to Mr. Carr by E. B. King of Burlington, Kan., as a cost of $100 and $50 respectively, Mr. Carr paying express. We are told that the sire of these animals cost $400.

The Lone Star ranch, which is located about seventeen miles south of Bovina, so far as we know, can boast of the largest millet field in Texas. Seven hundred acres of that splendid ranch have been given over to this valuable crop, which is said to be very fine. We are told the crop this year will range about two tons per acre, which at the market price ($10 per ton) would bring an income of $20 per acre, or $14,000 from the entire 700 acres. This would not be considered a small thing in Illinois or Iowa, or even in the boasted state of Missouri, In fact, can it be beaten in the whole country? This same ranch threshed twenty-four bushels of wheat per acre from eighty acres this week, which is no bad record in the wheat line.

In Tom Green County

San Angelo Standard. Juan Flores, the boss sheep shearer, came in town one day the latter part of last week to get supplies for his sheep shearing camps. When he returned he found that not a shearer remained. A farmer had happened along and offered the men shearing sheep 65 cents and a dollar to pick cotton and the whole outfit deserted the camp on the jump.

The rain Saturday evening is reported as having been general over the greater portion of the Concho country. The rain was a soaking one and filled most of the water holes. At several places the lightning accompanying the storm played havoc with telephone wires, and connection with other towns from San Angelo was completely cut off for some time. Ranchmen report that in some sections of the Concho country the grass is almost as high as the cattle's heads and that when a bunch of cattle get out in a big pasture it is almost impossible to find them. The ranchmen say that the grass is the finest this year that has ever been for many years. Colonel C. C. Poole, the vereran representative of The Stockman-Journal of Fort Worth, and the youngest old man in Texas, as well as a great admirer of ladies, was in the city Wednesday evening and Thursday morning. The colonel left San Angelo right after the fair and journeyed to Christoval, Eldorado, Sonora, Juno, Ozona, Sherwood, Knickerbocker and "Boogerville." He then came back to San Angelo and left Thursday morning for Water Valley and Sterling City. He expects to return to San Angelo about Sunday and then take a run into Fort Worth and the office. The colonel says that he never saw such large gobs of prosperity in all his life as those he ran to out on his trip. He stated to a Standard representative that undoubtedly west Texas was the finest spot he had yet found. The colonel said that he was still ace high with the ladies, but asked the reporter not to mention it, for fear Mrs. Poole would find it out.

that a heavy rain fell thruout the Divide country Saturday night and Sunday morning, which would make plenty of winter grass for stock. At Esperantes, Mexico, on the night of the 16th inst. Captain Charles Schreiner of this city stepped from the depot platform in the dark and got a severe fall. He was badly bruised but fortunately not seriously burt. A message from San Antonio yesterday stated that he arrived in that city Thursday night and was feeling well and apprehended no serious results from his recent accident.

The Alpine Country

ALPINE, Texas, Oct. 22.-Alpine received a fine rain Saturday night. It rained a slow, warm rain, slowly all Saturday night. The atmosphere is delightfully cool and invigorating and to inhale it now is equal, if not superior, to a good tonic.

The range was never in better condition for winter than now. The grass was sufficiently matured before frost fell for frost to kill it. Water for winter use is plentiful and all live stock rolling fat. G. W. Beakley has sold 340 head of heifer calves to Cereca & Hotchkiss for $10 per head. Pretty good for calves. T. N. Crenshaw reports that he will harvest 100 bushels per acre on two acres planted in Kaffir corn. The Business Men's Club is preparing a collection of the farm and orchard products of Brewster county to forward to the San Antonio fair. It is safe to say that the collection will have few if any equals at the fair and a great many people will be surprised at the fine exhibit from a county heretofore thought as only fit for raising cattle. Wade Farley, sixteen miles northeast of Marathon, this county, planted two acres in Irish potatoes. He harveste from the two acres three and a half tons of potatoes, many of which weighed more than thirty ounces each. The "big pumpkin" we have been writing about was weighed last week and tipped the scales at 731/2 pounds, How is that for pumpkins? And how many pies will that make? Some good mathematician answer and then come to Brewster county and raise pumpkins and plant a few hogs. Many strangers are daily arriving in Alpine seeking locations and the majority of them are buying and intend to make this place their home. It is predicted by all that within five years the town of Alpine will have 5,000 population, while others seemingly in a position to say so, say that 10,000 will be nearer the mark. Time will tell, but we are certainly growing-steadily and sure.

E. M. Tankersley of Graham, Texas, says that cotton is the leading crop in that part of the state, asd that the crop this year was extra good, and is bringing high prices. Mr. Tankersley says that corn raising is on the increase there, but that the stockmen have not taken it up as feed as yet. "A good many cattle are fed around there, but cotton seed meal is the ra-tion used," said Mr. Tankersley, "We are also beginning to raise hogs, and we thing that eventually a good many hogs will be produced in that country. But cotton is the money-maker, This year the crop is ranging from a half to a bale to the acre, which is big. A half bale to the acre is a large crop. Then the price is high and that is making the crop yield a large amount of money to the raisers. This big yield of cotton will mean a large am of cotton seed meal, and probably more fed cattle."—Drovers' Telegram.

IT IS SAID

that there never was a good article put on the market that was not imitated. We all know that imitations are never so good as the genuine, and in Stoves it was never more emphatically demonstrated than in the case of the genuine ROUND OAK heating stove. There are four or five hundred imitations of this famous stove and not one of them ever "worked" like the ROUND OAK and not one ever made a reputation. Does it not stand to reason that the stove that has stood the test for 35 years, with still the largest sale and greatest reputation has some great merits that place it above and beyond its imitators? Sure, and we wish you to know that the ROUND OAK is the best all-around heating stove for any kind of fuel made. Have you seen it rigged up for hard coal? We have it and invite an inspection. The name

Last year Mr. Bonham attended the Confederate reunion at New Orleans, and while there had occasion to visit a rice farm. While being shown over the place he picked up a handful of the seed and determined to try it in Brown county. The result it quite a lot of nice home-grown rice that is quite a curiosity to Brown county people. The rice in the sheaf resembles wheat very closely and grows to about the same height as that cereal.

West Texas Prosperity

Special to The Telegram. SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 26 .-Never before in the history of West Texas have the farmers and ranchmen been as prosperous as they are today. They have money in the banks, buy the best of everything that they really need to live upon and much that they consider at all times as luxuries. Their children are attending the best schools and everything points to general prosperity. Every farmer and ranchman is now driving good, fat and sleek horses. He uses a fine vehicle and is seeing that his home is improved; that his stock are graded up and that in every way he is getting the best. Not only does he want the best, but he is able and willing to pay for it.

A Fine Concho Farm Sold

Special to The Telegram SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 26.-C. H. Ratje sold his farm on Lipan Flat, twelve miles from this city, to Dr. H. M. Woodward. This farm of 640 acres is an exceptionally fine one, owing to the fact that on it can and has been raised all kinds of crops, and besides this, in the sixteen years that Mr. Ratje has been living on the place he has never had a complete crop failure. The farm is probably the best one in this country, and has long been coveted by many who wanted good farms. Dr. Woodward paid $12,500 for the place, and know what he was doing. As an illustration of the fertility of the soil on this place, some of it has produced as high as eighty bushels of milo maize to the acre. Every year Mr. Ratje has made money off of the place and has now reached the point where he can afford to sell out and move to town. The place is well improved, having six houses and two wells on it.

Compress Works Day and Night Special to The Telegram. BROWNWOOD, Texas, Oct. 26.-The cotton compress located here is preparing to put on a double force in order that the plant may be operated both night and day. Something like fifty men have been imported from Houston to assist with the work, as labor here is scarce and hard to get. An enormous amount of cotton has been turned loose within the last month and the compress has been overrun with work. Cotton is now piled up on every available spot in the vicinity of the plant, waiting its turn, and it is hoped the doubling of the force will soon relieve the conges-

Well Grown Beets

Special to The Telegram. STAMFORD, Texas, Oct. 26 .- P. A. Beatty, an enterprising farmer living a few miles south of town, brought in some very fine vegetables yesterday. In the lot was a single beet that tipped the scales at even fourteen pounds, and it is pronounced the largest beet ever seen in this portion of Texas. Jones county has produced some very fine vegetables this season.

The New Replaces the Old Special to The Telegram,

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, Oct. 26 .-The block on the east side of Mesquite street, known as the Preston or White Sulphur Well block, is now in process of demolition for a handsome twostory brick block, the owner, R. B. Presston, having let the contract to J. W. Crenshaw. The building is to be of brick, 90x100 feet, and two stories in height, with the usual trimmings, and will cost in round numbers about $25,000. This enterprise marks the passing of practically the last of "old Mineral Wells" in the business section. About all the floor space in the new building has already been contracted for, and still there is demand for more good business locations. Mineral Wells is today growing faster than any other small city in all Texas, and will have 25,000 population inside of the next five years.

An Ideal Type of Farmer

Special to The Telegram, HASKELL, Texas, Oct. 26.-Henry Free of the east side of the county was here yesterday, and says he has seventeen bales of cotton picked, ginned and stacked up at home, and had not sold a single pound. He thinks his crop will yield him twenty bales more. It is farmers like Mr. Free who raise their own meat and lard and keep their smokehouses at home, instead of in a grecery store, and who raise plenty of vegetables and feedstuff for home use, with a surplus to sell as he does, that can hold their cotton for the best market, instead of having to sell as fast as it is picked in order to meet pressing obligations.

New Telephones at Merkel Special to The Telegram.

MERKEL, Texas, Oct. 26.—The Texas and Pacific Telephone Company has just finished stringing 7,500 feet of fifty-wire cable in Merkel, and other improvements are also being made on the line. The company expects to add from 100 to 200 new telephones to the exchange just as fast as the force of men employed can do the work.

Exchanged Store for Land Special to The Telegram.

DUBLIN, Texas, Oct. 26.—Messrs. Frank Denton, J. Y. Everett and M. J. Thornton of Gail, in Borden county, have traded for the general merchandise business of Simmons & Son at Purves, and have taken charge of the property. Thru the deal the Messrs. Simmons become owners of a large quantity of West Texas land, located in Gaines county. Mr. Denton was formerly a citizen of Erath county, but for several years has been engaged in the real estate business at Gail.

Auto Cabs at Abilene Special to The Telegram.

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 26,-The two auto cars Spaulding Brothers bought on the Plains are here and are being put in readiness for carrying passengers to and from the fair next week. This will bring their equipment up to four cars of five and six passengers capacity each, and will enable them to handle many passengers out to the fair grounds and returning. The livery stables will also have comfortable carriages and other vehicles running to and from the grounds, so there will be ample accommodations for all who attend the great West Texas annual O'Keefe Ranch Land Sales Special to The Telegram. COLORADO, Texas, Oct. 26,-Captain R. A. Jeffress reports that out of the 28,293 acres of the O'Keefe land lying in Mitchell and Scurry counties that about one-half has been sold in blocks of from one-quarter to eight sections, prices ranging on small tracts from $10 to $16 per acre. Captain Jeffress states that at the rate the land is going it will all soon be sold, and this marks the passing of one of the finest and best-known ranches in this section.

ALL STATE BASEBALL

Prospects Bright for Formation of an Eight-Team League Last Sunday a conference was held in Fort Worth between certain of the Texas baseball league managers and representatives of the South Texas league. Then it was determined, if the conditions were favorable, that an all-state league should be organized. W. H. Ward, owner of the Fort Worth franchise, took the initiative in the premises and compiled a letter, which is to be sent to all of the North Texas franchise owners, to secure, if they approve, their approbation, After Mr. Ward had signed the letter it was sent to J. W. Gardiner at Dailas, signed by him and returned to Mr. Ward, who will again send the letter on its travels. Several cities of north Texas are named as desirable in this connection, and the south Texas cities would be as are named in the San Antonio dispatch, which follows: Additional to Fort Worth and Dallas, Cleburne, Waco, Sherman, Paris and Temple are named. There is a preference for Temple as one of the number on the part of the local fans, and if the matter of the pending damage suit can be settled amicably, it is highly probable a strong effort will be made to have temple one of the all-state league clubs. The dispatch from the Alamo City follows:

a meeting to launch the project will be held in San Antonio early in November. This comes as a result of a conference at Fort Worth Sunday with the North Texas league magnates, in which President Robbie of the South Texas league and Morris Block, owner of the San Antonio franchise, participated. The teams from south Texas are to be Austin, San Antonio, Houston and Galveston. From north Texas Dallas and Fort Worth and two other cities are to be agreed upon. Lake Charles and Beaumont are to be cut out, the mileage to those places and the attendance being too small to warrant the league in carrying them. Riley of Houston, who has been the stumoling block in the path of an all-Texas league, has been converted, and it is believed that the scheme is now as-

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Oct. 26.-At a dinner tonight given in his honor at the Brooklyn Yacht Club, Sir Thomas Lipthe first formal announ ment since his arrival in America of what he intends to do toward making another effort to lift the America's cup. He declared that he hoped that he might be urged to challenge for the international trophy and intimated that he would issue a challenge next year for a race probably in 1908 or 1909. He expressed favor with the new New York Yacht Club racing rules, which he said contemplated the building of yachts and not mere racing machines.

Sir Thomas was presented with a watch fob made of a nugget of gold on which was enameled the pennant of the Brooklyn Club.

MUSEMENTS

Fort Worth needs a town critic rather than a dramatic reporter, jurging from the size of the audience which turned out Thursday night to see and hear Madame Yvette Guilbert and Albert Chevalier. Admitting that the average Fort Worth theater-goer does not understand French or perhaps Coster dialect either, there is about as much excuse for failing to avail oneself of the opportunity to hear Guilbert and Chevalier as to neglect reading Chaucer because he did not write in the language which made George Ade's fables slang famous. It is a long time since Fort Worth audiences began staying away from really worthy productions and crowding houses for indifferent ones, but to see vacant seats downstairs at Greehwall's Thursday night was to wonder whether it was indifference or just plain ignorance that kept people who could afford it away from a performance which they might have used as a standard to judge others by for years

Two of the most brilliant stars in the dramatic world, the like of which Fort Worth will not see again for a long, long time, offered a performance which proved delightful to those who witnessed it. Yvette Guilbert and Albert Chevaller, the charming singer of quaint songs and the wonderful impersonator. As far as quality is concerned, Mme. Guilbert's voice is not great by any means, but she certainly is a vocalist and one does not think of her voice when she is on the stage. Her expression, her exquisite grace, her personality, so fascinate that even to those not familiar with a foreign language (for many of her songs are in French) appreciate her and try to express their appreciation by enthusiastic encore. One cannot decide which rendition is the best, they are so varied, but her French songs are more popular even than the English. She is costumed appropriately for the period of
