Soldiers Surrounding Regiments in Five Directions

FIGHT IS EXPECTED

Indians Marching to Reach Cheyenne Likely to Encounter Troops

By Associated Press. BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 29.—A special to the Miner from Sheridan, Wyo., says: Soldiers are now approaching the band of renegade Utes from five different points and it is only a question of time until the red skins are either forced to surrender or are annihilated by the cavalry from Fort Keogh approaching from the north, two more troops from Fort Meade from the northwest, two from Fort Robinson, out of Gillette, closing in from the southeast, two from the same fort advancing from Arvada from the south and two companies of infantry from Fort Mankato from the west.

Troops at the Front

CASTRO NEARLY ALL IN

Sick Unto Death Dictates His Presidential Successor. NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—A Philadelphia dispatch to the Tribune reiterates the report that President Castro of Venezuela is a very sick man and that it is hard to say what will happen. There are about 350 in the party, including women and children, but I do not think there are over 150 fighting men among them.

THE DALLAS FAIR WAS SUCCESSFUL

Anniversary Most Wonderful in Show's History

Special to The Telegram. DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 29.—The twenty-first anniversary of the State Fair of Texas came to an end last night. The year has been by far the most successful of the institution and is considered an excellent reflection on the prosperity of Texas. The weather was a serious handicap at first, but for the last ten days its mood was excellent and the people just closed their management and attractive entertainment were large contributors to the success of the fair, but it is believed that the greatest measure of its success is due to the fact that Texas is enjoying unusual prosperity.

Two concerts were given by Seymour's military band. In the afternoon the auditorium was closely packed and the audience was so demonstrative that Bandmaster Seymour was compelled to extend his program an hour beyond the usual time.

Unexampled in History of Country, Overworks Manufacturing Jewelers. By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Jewelry manufacturers are busy trying to fill orders which have rushed on them to an extent never before remembered in the trade. A canvass of the shops showed that with most of the plants running day and night the demand cannot be supplied. There is a scarcity of skilled labor and this has led to advances in wages.

RIGHT OF WAY BATTLE

Electricity Aids Picks, Shovels, Crowbars and Fists. Special to The Telegram. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 29.—A pitched battle in which electricity, picks, shovels and fists were used as weapons and in which 400 men participated, was fought by rival truck laying gangs of the Louisville and Eastern Electric Railway Sunday. About two scores of the combatants were badly shocked or battered but none was seriously wounded. The fight took place just east of Louisville, where a gang of 100 Louisville and Eastern men attempted to lay their track across the Louisville and Nashville line. They had only partially finished their work when 300 Louisville and Nashville men appeared and started tearing the rails up. A general battle followed immediately, during which the Louisville and Eastern men resorted to the novel expedient of charging the rails they had just laid with electricity from a trolley wire.

The strike is now being delayed, however, gave several passengers an opportunity to leap in the water before the car was finally submerged.

INCIDENTS STRANGE AND PATHETIC OF NEW JERSEY'S WRECK HORROR

SAVED LITTLE GIRL AS IF BY MIRACLE

One instance of a heroic and almost miraculous escape from the first coach is the case of David S. Enley of Camden. Enley reached Atlantic City suffering from bruises about the face and body, carrying in his lacerated arms 8-year-old Helen Gilbert, also of Camden. At the first intimation of danger Enley leaped to the platform, taking the child with him. As the coach plunged downward he sprang into the water and succeeded in swimming ashore with the little one.

TWO OWE THEIR LIVES TO CHANGE IN PLANS

R. J. Kelly of Jeffersonville, N. Y., and another party, who were passengers on the train which jumped from the trestle this afternoon, got off at Pleasantville for no other reason than that something told them to change their minds about coming to Atlantic City. They heard of the accident afterward and came over, thankful that they had not remained on board.

MOTORMAN WENT ON RUN DESPITE PARENTS' PRAYERS

Friends of Walter Scott, motorman of the wrecked train, who is among the dead, told a story last night that Scott had a quarrel with his father and

MOMENT'S TIME LET SCORE OF PERSONS ESCAPE

When the rear car of the train caught on the abutment of the bridge, where it hung, poised for a minute, there was a frantic rush of passengers for the rear door. Probably a score or more got out and as the car plunged over the edge, leaped into the water. The last car that went over the bridge fell upon the others and slowly slid off in the water. The momentary delay, however, gave several passengers an opportunity to leap in the water before the car was finally submerged.

SWIMMER KICKS IN WINDOWS OF COACHES

When the third car dropped into the water Henry Roemer was in the act of crawling from a window. Pressing himself with an effort and being a strong swimmer, Roemer set about to help others. Swimming along the side of the fast sinking car he kicked out the glass and thus gave several passengers an opportunity to escape. One man was caught in a window and was drowned before he could extricate himself.

CONDUCTOR CAN'T TELL HOW ACCIDENT HAPPENED

Perched on the roof of the last car, the rescuers found Conductor Curtis, almost crazed with terror. He was bleeding from several cuts on the head and was otherwise injured. When asked how the accident happened, his only reply was, "Good God, what is it?"

DEATH LIST IS ESTIMATED AT 66

Only a Score Out of Ninety-one Passengers on Three-Car Train Escape—Cause for Accident Not Yet Determined—Rising Tide Delays Work of Rescue and Bodies Are Packed at Ends of Coaches So Tightly Removal Is Difficult

By Associated Press. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 29.—At 11 o'clock today fifty-one bodies had been recovered from two cars of the electric line of the West Jersey & Seashore Railway, which, loaded with men, women and children, dashed into the Thorofare yesterday, and one of the cars has been brought to shore. How many, if any, remain in the other car is not known. The fact that some of the bodies were recovered outside the cars leads to the belief that possibly not all those drowned may ever be recovered.

Special to The Telegram. ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 29.—By the wrecking of a three-coach electric train on the West Jersey & Seashore Railroad Sunday afternoon at least fifty passengers perished and the list may reach the total of seventy-five before all is known.

While crossing over a drawbridge spanning the waterway known as the "Thorofare," which separates Atlantic City from the mainland, the train left the track and plunged into the water. The passengers in the first two cars with one or two exceptions were drowned.

THE SCAFFOLD IS THREATENED

That Extreme May Be Necessary in City's Reform

Special to The Telegram. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 29.—If we have many bad men in San Francisco we may have to get rid of some of them by means of the scaffold," declared President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California in an address before the pupils of the Los Angeles high school. President Wheeler is quoted as giving authority to these words: "Perhaps outsiders do not realize how desperate and bold the conspirators have become. Nearly all self-respecting men in the city are behind Henry, yet so many are overwhelmed with despair, the like of which have not been seen since the days of the last vigilance committee. Public feeling is wrought to such a pitch that should violence be done any of the reform chiefs I do not believe public indignation would stop short of death to the perpetrator. Henry is a brave man. He knows that every time he walks into the courtroom he takes his life in his hands. We stand by him. President Wheeler was deeply agitated as he talked.

TROUBLE
By HERBERT QUICK

SYNOPSIS.
Florian Amidon, a rich young banker of Hazelhurst (a middle western American town) decides to take a day off from business and indulge in his favorite hobby, photography. He takes the afternoon train and after alighting at a junction, dazes off to sleep and wakes up in a Pullman car to find himself known as Eugene Brassfield, wealthy oil operator, New York clubman, engaged to an attractive young woman, and involved in a mass of business of which he is ignorant, while the year is five years later than the one in which he started his journey. A clairvoyant to whom he applies for aid in solving his mystery is assisted by a hypnotist who puts Amidon in a trance, and while in that state his identity as Brassfield becomes normal. From conversations taken down in shorthand, during his hypnotic state, Amidon learns something of the business affairs of Brassfield, and with this meager help he is enabled to preserve something of Brassfield's position, the often sadly bewildered. He finds himself involved in a complex electric traction deal, the details of which are unknown to him. He also learns that his victory in a suit involving valuable property hinges on happenings of a date prior to his existence as Eugene Brassfield.

"Friends!" sneered Amidon. "I tell you, the whole thing is hypocrisy and fraud. That villain Brassfield has a scheme for stealing the streets. I told Edington I wouldn't."

"Yes," said the judge, "and he took you at your word and trotted McCormick out, and you trimmed them up. But it's all made up with him, now, and you and he and Alvord are as thick as thieves. You've got a jewel of a campaign manager in that man Alvord."

"Judge," cried Amidon, "I want you to get up a letter of withdrawal—you have watched the miserable business, and know more of it than I do—one that will make me as little ridiculous as possible, you know. I don't care for the people in general, but there are some whose good opinion I prize—"I know, Florian," said the judge, "I know. But you can't expect to cut a very good figure, you know."

"Well, manage it as well as you can, and I suppose you've watched me," he continued. "Why did you let me go this way! Have I been up to Miss Waldron's?"

"Once or twice for a few minutes," answered Madame le Claire. "You have been very busy indeed, and yesterday Miss Waldron went out of town."

"I think," said Judge Blodgett, "that you will find a letter from her in your room. Alderson brought it up from the counting-house."

"Well, you must excuse me," said Mr. Amidon. "I want to talk this all over with you early in the morning, but I must go to my room now. No, thank you, Clara. I really cannot stay to your supper. Tomorrow you must tell me how you kidnaped me—I never can repay you for your faithful service to me. Good night!"

The discerning reader has already anticipated that Mr. Amidon went straight to the letter and opened it. "Dearest Eugene," it said. "I want to give you a word to say that I am proud of the love and confidence which every one has for you, and to say that I do not regard the place to which you are to be elected as unimportant, or one which you should decline. Of all men you are best able to protect our town against corruption, and to lift its civic life to a higher plane. I wish I might help you upon to city government. Amidon had long entertained similar notions, and that their unity of sentiment might appear, each wrote answers to a list of questions which they made up, and Amidon was hugely delighted to find that they agreed precisely.

"Why not make it your platform?" she asked.

"You mean, a public manifesto?" he queried.

"Surely," said she. "The people ought to know what we represent. Print it, so all may be well informed."

"But that would be an acceptance of the nomination," she said.

"Hardly," she replied. "We have already accepted, and that's settled. But it will raise the contest to one of principle. The best elements of society are with you—Doctor Bullock might as well have mentioned your name as he described the ideal candidate today—and such a noble declaration from you will fill them with joy. Oh, don't you think so?"

"Elizabeth," said he, "if I take this office, it will be for you sake. I shall withdraw, or run on your platform."

"Oh, you can't withdraw," she asserted. "Not now!"

The adoring glances, in which she constantly surprised him, mitigated somewhat the pique which his ceremoniously respectful parting raised in her heart. She stood looking at the hand he had kissed, and wondering if this was the Eugene of days gone by, but was not quite able to think him cold to her. This was true at all events, she thought, the officious-

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

The laws of nature and heredity are fixed and invariable. Parents who are related by the ties of blood, or who have a consumptive tendency, or family blood taint, are sure to transmit it to their children in the form of Scrofula. Swollen glands, brittle bones, weak eyes, hip disease, pale, waxy complexions, emaciated bodies, running sores and ulcers, and general weak constitutions are the principal ways in which the disease is manifested. Those who have inherited this blighting trouble may succeed in holding it in check during young, vigorous life; but after a spell of sickness, or when the system has begun to weaken and lose its natural vitality, the ravages of the disease will become manifest and sometimes run into Consumption. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and forces out the scrofulous deposits. S. S. S. kills the germs and completely cures the disease. It changes the quality of the blood by removing all impurities and poisons and supplying this vital fluid with rich, health-sustaining qualities. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable medicine and is especially adapted to systems which have been weakened and poorly nourished by scrofulous blood. Literature on Scrofula and medical advice free.

"I am a boy eleven years old, in the Fifth Street School, and my grandfather wants me to write you what Grape-Nuts has done for him," says a Calif. boy.

"For more than fifty years he was troubled with a kind of nervous chill which would attack him in the night, especially when he was very tired, and he couldn't get to sleep."

"Also, for about ten years he was troubled with indigestion which caused heartburn and he could only eat a little bread and milk for supper, and even that careful diet did not always prevent it."

"After eating Grape-Nuts for a little while, the attacks of heartburn and indigestion disappeared altogether."

"Today at the age of 78 he is hale and hearty, and is entirely cured of all his old troubles. I can never thank you enough for what Grape-Nuts has done for my dear grandfather."

"As for myself, I believe Grape-Nuts is the best food a boy can take while attending school." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Judge Releases Man on Promise to Do Better

Altho Fort Worth is supposed to be a dry town on the Sabbath, fifteen Sunday drunks faced the barrier when City Judge Frewitt called court to order Monday morning. Of the fifteen men who had partaken a little too freely of "maah," four were Mexicans. All pleaded guilty and were fined $1 and costs.

One man, who stated he lived fifteen miles from Childress, Texas, and who had 'jest' been over to Dallas fer to see the fair, and had bumped against old barleycorn a little strong, pleaded that his fine be remitted. With tears in his eyes he told Judge Frewitt that he would never take another "so long as he lived." The heart of the judge was softened and he told the man to go.

With profuse thanks the rural visitor left the court room. Descending the stairs he slipped and fell. Whisky flowed freely. He had broken a pint bottle of the fluid in a hip pocket.

Angelo Wynman, a white man, was fined $17.95 for taking a couple of negro girls buggy riding Sunday night. The man pleaded guilty and Judge Frewitt said: "You ought to have ninety days and a fine of $1,000. Any man that would do what you did is unfit for the shambles."

Twenty-eight cases were tried and disposed of.

NEW CLOTHES FOR COBS

Local Police Will Soon Don Winter Garb

Fort Worth policemen are going to dress up.

The wintry winds are having their effect, and Chief of Police Maddox will issue orders tomorrow for all patrolmen to don uniforms of last year's vintage and "look nice and keep warm."

Several new men have been taken into the department in the past few months, and these will, of course, have to buy their winter uniforms. But the majority of the patrolmen still have their uniforms of last winter and when these are cleaned, pressed and brushed up they will look like the real goods right off the bolt.

A COURT CLERK EMBEZZLER

Nicolette County, Minn., Found the Long Wanted Blomberg

By Associated Press.

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 25.—A Helena dispatch to the Minn. press says: Governor J. K. Toole has honored the requisition papers of Sheriff John McMullen of Nicolette county, Minn., for the extradition of Gustav A. Blomberg, wanted there for grand larceny. Sheriff McMullen left yesterday afternoon for Billings, where Blomberg was arrested Thursday.

Blomberg was clerk of the district court and it is alleged he stole a large sum of money from the county. In June, shortly before five indictments were returned against him, he fled and was not apprehended till located at Billings.

WALL STREET UP IN AIR OVER COMING ELECTION

BY MARLEN E. FEW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The political fight which now convulses the Empire state is surcharged with elements vital to the interests of the nation.

In many aspects it concerns California or Maine as deeply as it does New York. State issues pale in contrast with the national question involved.

It may solve the gigantic trust problem. It may spell the name of the next President of the country. It may finally define a new political system.

The basis of this remarkable and entirely unique situation is composed of the personalities of two men of national reputation. Distinctly different types they appear to represent the identical theory of government.

Wm. Randolph Hearst and Chas. E. Hughes have won fame as trust fighters, Hearst as an editor who has turned his vast newspaper machinery into

WHO SHE WAS

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM

And a True Story of How the Vegetable Compound Had Its Birth and How the "Panic of '73" Caused it to be Offered for Public Sale in Drug Stores.

This remarkable woman, whose maiden name was Estes, was born in Lynn, Mass., February 9th, 1819, coming from a good old Quaker family. For some years she taught school, and became known as a woman of an alert restored the family fortunes. They argued that the medicine which was so good for their woman friends and neighbors was equally good for the women of the whole world.

The Pinkhams had no money, and little credit. Their first laboratory was the kitchen, where roots and herbs were steeped on the stove, gradually filling a gross of bottles. Then came the question of selling it, for always before they had given it away freely. They hired a job printer to run off some pamphlets setting forth the merits of the medicine, now called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and these were distributed by the Pinkham sons in Boston, New York, and Brooklyn.

The wonderful curative properties of the medicine led to a great extent, self-advertising, for whoever used it recommended it to others, and the demand gradually increased.

In 1877, by combined efforts the family had saved enough money to commence newspaper advertising and from that time the growth and success of the enterprise were assured, until today Lydia E. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound have become household words everywhere, and many tons of roots and herbs are used annually in its manufacture.

Lydia E. Pinkham herself did not live to see the great success of this work. She passed to her reward years ago, but not till she had provided means for continuing her work as effectively as she could have done it herself.

During her long and eventful experience she was ever methodical in her work and she was always careful to preserve a record of every case that came to her attention. The case of every sick woman who applied to her for advice, and there were thousands—received careful study, and the details, including symptoms, treatment and results were recorded for future reference, and to-day these records, together with hundreds of thousands made since, are available to sick women the world over, and represent a vast collaboration of information regarding the treatment of women's ailments, which authenticity and accuracy can hardly be equaled in any library in the world.

With Lydia E. Pinkham worked her daughter-in-law, the present Mrs. Pinkham. She was carefully instructed in all her hard-won knowledge, and for years she assisted her in her vast correspondence.

To her hands naturally fell the direction of the work when its originator passed away. For nearly twenty-five years she has continued it, and nothing in the work shows when the first Lydia E. Pinkham dropped her pen, and the present Mrs. Pinkham, now the mother of a large family, took it up. With women assistants, some as capable as herself, the present Mrs. Pinkham continues this great work, and probably from the office of no other person have so many women been advised how to regain health. Sick women, this advice is "Yours for Health" freely given if you only write to ask for it.

Such is the history of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; made from simple roots and herbs; the one great relief for women's ailments, and the fitting monument to the noble woman whose name it bears.

REPORT OF SOUTHERN

Substantial Increase in all Departments is Shown

The earnings of the Southern Railway for the year covered by the annual report just issued show a very satisfactory growth.

The gross earnings increased to the extent of more than 11 per cent and the net earnings by over 6 per cent. Out of the net earnings and other income the fixed charges were met and the usual dividend of 6 per cent for the year was paid on the common stock and $399,827 was appropriated for improvements, betterments and charges not capitalized, with the result that the amount carried to the general profit and loss account was $1,229,238.

The freight department shows that during the year 23,518,071 tons of freight were carried, an increase of 12 per cent over the traffic of the previous year. There were 11,663,550 passengers carried, an increase of 7.3 per cent.

Prominent Railway Man Says Electric Projects Fakes

Special to The Telegram.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Joseph Ramsey Jr., states that his proposed New York-Chicago air line has no connection with the other wide-advertised electric air lines between Chicago and New York. Mr. Ramsey is quoted as follows: "Down in New York a couple of days ago one of my railroad friends from the west shook hands with me and wanted to know how my ten-hour New York-Chicago electric air line was coming on. I have had letters by the score from friends of mine who wanted to know if the advertised scheme was mine, and if it was they would like to take some of the stock."

"The electric lines, which any reader of sense can see on the face are purely bunco games, had been advertised in the west before my road was announced, but they took advantage of the news of my line to begin advertising in the eastern papers. I have absolutely no connection with any of those schemes. My road is to be a steam railroad, designed like any other road to haul freight and passengers. It may be that they shall find electric locomotives the best when the road is ready, in four or five years, but that is no reason for the line being called electric. The New York Central is not called an electric road because it is operating some of its trains with electric locomotives."

SMALL FORTUNE BURIED

Ruins of San Francisco Home Hide Mrs. Marsden's Inheritance

Special to The Telegram.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 29.—Some-where buried in the San Francisco ruins is a small fortune which Mrs. Charles W. Marsden of New York city inherited thru the death of her father, B. C. Bowrath, shortly before the coast city was swept by earthquake and fire. Mrs. Marsden was here this week on her way to San Francisco to prosecute the search for $10,000, which her father kept a small iron safe in the basement of his home at 2544 Edwy street. The house was destroyed by the earthquake and fire that followed the disaster, and it is supposed the treasure is buried in the ruins. Mrs. Marsden said her father was eccentric, that while he was well to do in real estate he always kept his cash in the safe in the basement of his home. A letter received from her father by Mrs. Marsden gave the information that she would find all his money, stocks and bonds, etc., in the safe. This information came prior to his death a short while before the great earthquake and fire disaster.

guns directed at the money power. Hughes as a lawyer, who has devoted his keen and powerful brain in tearing down the castles of two arrogant classes of trusts and exposing to the world the corruption at the base.

Whatever Hearst may be as statesman or mountebank, self-seeker or altruist, he is a hundred thousand times pledged to the overthrow of special trust privilege.

Whatever Hughes may be, sincere or insincere, corporation lawyer, whom the trusts have bought at will or man above reproach who knows no master but a clean conscience, his most conspicuous life work has been to fearlessly unmask men in high office; expose corrupt practices born of special privilege, and political intrigue with the money masters; and point his bony finger in the faces of the political-commercial oligarchy.

Wall street is trembling at the spectacle of these two men nominated by the two great parties for the governorship.

Hearst is worth personally as much money as some New Jersey corporations are capitalized for. He is no friend of the rich. He has made a fortune from the poor, with which class his newspapers cater. He stands now at the reflected glory of the "poor man's friend."

Wall street would hesitate, perhaps, to attempt to drag Hughes from his political position of honor, into the net of special privilege for the few. Wall street met Hughes at the insurance investigation. No man had ever the machines in the state. President Roosevelt is the real boss of New York state today. He entered the fight and forced the nomination of Hughes. His captain in the field is Timothy L. Woodruff, who was the President's lieutenant governor when he was chief executive of the state.

Oedell, who has bossed the state since Tom Platt fell by the wayside from sheer servility, is declared down and out.

Oedell was one of those money moths who were stung by the Hughes insurance light. That was a time when his political power could neither save himself or his dear friend, E. H. Harriman.

The Republican state machine is in splinters.

Hearst surprised his friends by accepting the support of Charles G. Murphy, of Tammany hall and the Tammany braves. It is said that there was a "deal" with Murphy.

However this may be, it is certain that young Mr. Hearst's political exploits of the past few years have opened his eyes to the necessity of using means of expediency rather than those of personal choice when expediency is demanded. It will probably turn out that the Murphy "deal" was such as this and that Hearst will be his own boss when he is elected.

New York is boiling with excitement and these factors are not lost to view. The politicians of the old school look stupidly at the havoc wrought. And Wall street does not know whether to run or jump.
