COMES HOME SHOELESS

Minister Dawson Back from Santo Domingo Hardships Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.-Thomas C. Domingo, has arrived on the Clyde liner Seminole after an absence of was years. He said Santo Domingo very prosperous and that the rried are not small insurrection in the province of Monte Cristo had been suppressed on Oat, 22. It was caused by smugglers running contraband goods across the Haytian frontier.

Monte Cristo, said Mr. Dawson; was the only province out of the twelve where there had been any rouble. The business men of Santo Domingo, including President Ramon Caceres, were all satisfied with the American administration of the customs. The collector is an American with a staff of Americans under him and native guards who keep the smugglers in check. The minister came back shoeless. He said that the climate of Santo Domingo curiously affected the feet of white people and for more than a year he had not been able to get shoes large enough to fit him. He wears specially constructed stockings.

Chicago Crooks Had Smooth

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 2 .- In the arrest of William Burt in the Palmer House last night by central station detectives the police believ they have in custody the last of the men indicted for operating one of the biggest swindling schemes known in police circles.

With Burt in the indictment are Edward Bauman, Abraham Lipman, Charles Meyeres and Tommy O'Neill. The five men were indicted by the March grand jury. All but Burt were arrested soon afterward and gave bonds for their appearance. Advertisements were placed in daily papers, asking for a loan of a sum of money ranging from $200 to $400. Security will be given by one of the three men in the form of a pawn ticket for diamonds valued at $500 or $600. Many persons, it is said, loaned the three men money and accepted the tickets.
When the holders of the tickets were unable to collect the amounts they loaned, they immediately went to the pawnbroker, paid the amount due on the articles pawned and accepted the goods, worth less than the amount of the loan.

IRISH TO GIVE BIG SHOW

Ireland to Have Stupendous Exposition

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 2.-A London special dispatch published here today says next May will see the opening of the great Irish International exhibition. The guarantee fund now amounts to $1,000,-000. Lord Iveagh leading the list with $50,000. The buildings will resemble in scheme those of the late Paris exposition. A prominent feature will be a great dome, the elevation of which will be equal to half of that of St. Paul's cathedral, London,
If King Edward does not open the exposition he will at least honor it with his presence at a later date.

ROGER SULLIVAN BRANDS HEARST

He Says Nominees Are Sailing Under False Colors

By Associated Press. CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 2.-The Tribune today says:

Roger C. Sullivan, democratic national committeeman for Illinois, reqested the election officer last night to give the Independence League its "proper heading on the ballot," its accurate descriptive title, he asserted, being the "Czolgoscz League." This request was accompanied with the demand that the circle be taken from the top of the column devoted to the league's candidates for the reason that the league is not a party, that its nominations are made by petition and that its candidates have no right to the circle at the top of the ticket.

In another democratic quarter the Independence League was given the description of the "Czolgoscz League" last night. At a democratic meeting, Thomas Gallagher, a former member of the board of education, attacked the Hearst candidates as nominees of the "Czol-

"Hearst is fighting the people's battles. Help him by urging your republican neighbors to vote for him. Tell them not to be deceived by the noisy falsehoods of corporation republicans. They oppose Hearst be-cause they fear him. They fear him, not for any injury he would do to legitimate interests, but for the work he will do for the public welfare and the damage he will do to those illegal and immoral combines whose managers grow fat by oppressing the people. If you, the beneficiary of the trust system and the beneficiary of unjust laws and special privileges, fight Hearst, you do so because he is your enemy. "In reply to the question, 'Will you state whether, in your opinion, Mr. Hearst is a democrat,' Mr. Cleveland said: 'I certainly never thought that he (Hearst) represented the principles of democracy as I understand them." "It is safe to say there is no difference between Mr. Hearst and Mr.

Cleveland on that point." An article relating to Charles E. Hughes and the insurance investigation occupies more than one page of Mr. Bryan's paper. The assertion is made that if Hughes had done his duty by calling Cortelyou to the stand after "stolen money" had been traced to the republican party's treasury, Cortelyou would not now be talked of for advancement to the most important position in the President's cabinet.

RUNNING U.S. TO COST MORE

The Appropriations Committee Will Face Big Estimates

OVER $857,000,000

Biggest Gain in Department of Agriculture. While Interior Alone Shows Decrease

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.-When the appropriations committee of the house assembles this month in order to prapare the appropriations bill for congress it will find awaiting it the largest estimates for the running expenses of the government during the next fiscal year that ever have been sub-Appropriations made during last session, which was the "long session" and therefore permitted of action on numerous bills, aggregated the tremendous sum of $880,183,301. The estimates which the secretary of the treasury is gathering from the various departments will be within this limit, but undoubtedly deficiencies and extra appropriations which will be gotten thru will swell the expenses until they total about the same and the Fiftyninth congress, consequently promis to be a record breaker in the matter of appropriations. By direction of President Roosevelt every cabinet officer is examining the estimates of his department with the greatest care and is eliminating those not absolutely required for the efficient operation of the service in his charge. However, the growth of the country and the expansion of government experimentation and control continue and call for increased expendi-

Law Curb on Padded Appropriations

In the past it was the custom to make a showing in the estimates by cutting them to the bone and then making contracts to be paid for out of the deficiency appropriations. It is no longer possible to pursue this policy, as there is a law on the statute books prohibiting the chief of any bureau te exceed the appropriations made by congress under penalty of dismissal from office and imprisonment, and as a result the estimates show today exactly what the running expenses of the government will be. Inquiry at several departments developed that the estimates will aggregate about as follows:

Postoffice department ....$206,662,000 Treasury department ..... 165,500,000 Interior department ..... 156,876,000 Navy department ...... 125,000,000 War department ..... 116,000,000 Panama canal .....

Department of commerce District of Columbia ..... 11,800,000 Legislative, unestimated .. 12,000,000 Department of justice .... Department of state..... 3,900,000 384.00 Executive ......

Total .....$857,888,000 In addition to these sums there will be deficiencies of $30,000,000, if not more, in spite of the prohibition imposed by law. That prohibition does not cover extraordinary emergencies, and Cuba is so considered by the Pres-

Cuba to Pay Its Own Bill It is the intention to have Cuba

eventually pay its own bill, but in the neantime the expenses of the naval and military expedition sent to Havana must be defrayed by the United States. Other deficiencies have developed which the departments are confident congress will approve. These various deficiencies will be covered in the urgent deficiency bill, which will be the first appropriation measure reported to the house of representatives. Another deficiency bill will be brought in at the tail end of the session, and will include appropriations for the various purposes unestimated which congress shall have authorized.

In the estimates thus far submitted to the treasury department for transmission to congress the greatest care has been taken to point out wherein permanent appropriations have been made, these appropriations being those congress authorized to continue from year to year. In this category comes, for example, the estimate for meat inspection service, for which an appropriation of $3,000,000 was made as a permanent charge annually upon the government.

This sum, with the estimate of $1,-000,000 for the enforcement of the pure food law, has swelled the estimates of the secretary of agriculture from $7,-626,000, the amount asked for the pres-

BARBER POLE CAUSES DEATH

Lee Stripling Is Accidentally Killed Friday

WAS FOUR YEARS OLD

Pole Had Been Romoved by Owner

to Prevent Its Being Stolen by Halloween Mischief-makers

Precautions taken on Halloween to preserve a barber pole from the youth of North Fort Worth, resulted indirectly in the death of Lee Stripling, the -year-old son of Frank Stripling of North Fort Worth, at noon on Friday.

The pole which stood in front of the Stripling barber shop in North Fort Worth was taken up Wednesday night that it might escape the Halloween jokers. When it was replaced it was not properly braced. At noon Friday little Lee Stripling was playing near the pole and placed his hand up against it, causing it to fall over. The top of the pole struck him on the right temple. Death resulted from the blow five minutes later.

Charles Rowland, justice of the peace, was called and an inquest held, resulting in verdict of accidental death, caused by the crushing in of the skull from the fall of the pole.

The pole which fell on the lad is about seven or eight feet high and about twelve inches in diameter, making quite a heavy weight.

KILLED BY WAGON

Ten-Year-Old Boy Met Death Friday

Robert Reithner, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Reithner, 1600 East Second street, was killed Friday morning about 8 o'clock, at the corner of Belknap and Live Oak streets, by a milk wagon, a wheel of which passed over his body.

The child had been sent on an errand by his mother and tried to jump on a passing milk wagon, which belonged to Shaw's dairy. He fell in front of the rear wheels, one of which passed completely over him. Death was almost instant.

Justice Rowland held an inquest and rendered a verdict to the effect that the boy came to his death accidentally He was the youngest of the family, and is survived by three older sisters The funeral will probably be held Saturday morning and the interment will be at Oakwood cemetery.

PREPARE FOR THE ELECTION TUESDAY

Eighteen Thousand Ballots Have Been Printed

The official ballots, supplies and poll boxes for the coming election are being prepared and delivered to the sheriff to be sent out, E. B. Randle, who managed that part of the business for the democratic primary, has charge of the official ballots and the supplies which are sent to the presiding officers of the election. The nearby boxes will be supplied Monday and some of the more remote ones earlier to insure the delivery of the supplies in ample time. Because of the excessive weight of the ballots the ballots and the supplies are tied up in strong sacks, for it has been found that the rather frail tin boxes have been broken at times in other elections where a blanket official ballot was used, as is the case this year.

The number of ballots used in this county for this election is 18,000. As the total vote is about 10,000, if all are polled, the supply is ample, for there is practically none wasted under the Australian system, which is the Terrell election law system in a somewhat modified form.

At the primary the total vote was a little more than 8,000. The total of the polls and the exemptions is about 11.000. In the last election, which was a Presidential election, the total vote cast in the county was only more than

COMICAL WILL ACT

Petition Has Required Number of Signatures

The petitions for the issuance of an order for the election to determine if a franchise shall be granted to the Rock Island to lay main and spur tracks on Seventh street and one to the Northern Texas Traction Company to change its route in the First ward will go before the city council at the meeting next Monday evening, as more than the requisite number of signaof voters has been secured. The law requires that a referendum election shall be ordered if a petition is submitted to the city council con-taining the names of 15 per cent of the qualified voters cast at the last general election and the total number cast at the last general city election in Fort Worth was about eighteen hundred.

Fire Destroys Mattress Factory Friday Morning

LOSS IS TEN THOUSAND

Mr. Ellison Says They Will Begin to Rebuild at Once-Employs Thirty People

Fire, which is thought to be of incendiary origin, originated in the rear extension of the Ellison Mattress Factory building, corner Third and Elm streets, early Friday morning and resulted in damage of about $10,000, half of that amount being covered by insurance. The equipment and contents were practically a total loss.

The building was one story high 200x50 feet in dimensions, with an extension of 25x30 feet on the rear end of the main building. The extension was erected but a few weeks ago and had been filled with excelsior for storage and use in the manufacture of mattresses. The fire originated in the excelsior room and the flames, being fanned by the wind to the front of the building facing on the Santa Fe railroad tracks, soon consumed the en-

The blaze was first discovered by the night watchman as he approached the factory from the south on the tracks just before 8 o'clock Friday morning. He at once turned in the alarm and by the time the departments had arrived the main portion of the building had collapsed. The night watchman said that when he made his regular hourly visit of inspection at 2 o'clock-there were no signs of fire.

The factory has been in operation daily and Mr. Ellison stated Friday noon that orders for 2,500 mattresses were on file the day before the fire. The factory was employing about thirty persons and between 100 and 150 mattresses were shipped daily. Possibly the only salvage of the fire will be a number of light bed springs and cots. There were ten bales of cotton stored in one corner of the building which are badly damaged by smoke and water. The fire was rung off at the central station three hours after the alarm had been given, but one line of hose played on. the ruins until after noon. Ladderman Jack Jarvis of the central station sustained a painful injury to his left foot in stepping on a a pie supper in the vacant building at 1410 North Main street tonight. Mrs. J. B. Burch, who a week ago got a small scratch on her finger, is now suffering from the effects of blood poisoning to such an extent that the amputation of the finger and perhaps the hand is thought to be necessary. Guy, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Proctor, was kicked on the leg while at school last Friday, from which serious inflammation set up. He is much improved now, however, since an operation was performed and treatment administered for blood poison. Captain Wheeler Lee and daughter Miss Maggie are guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Montgomery for a few days. Captain Lee is one of the plo-neers of the west Texas plains counry, and was well acquainted with Fort Worth in the early days. He is an uncle of Mr. Montgomery. W. S. streets, Rev. J. B. French, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church, will officiate. City Marshal Montgomery says there have been very few arrests made in the city within the past few days. A few complaints are now filed in the corporation court for violation of the city ordinances, but the city is generally quiet. Notwithstanding the large area covered by the incorporation of the city, only three peace officers are deemed necessary, and they manage to keep the city quiet. The degree staff of North Fort Worth lodge of Odd Fellows held a meeting Wednesday night, and the staff was reorganized. L. O. Miller was retained as captain of the staff, and has called a meeting for every Wednesday night for drilling the team. There is always degree work at each regular meeting on Saturday nights. The lodge has recently purchased over $100 worth of new regalia and is now prepared for very attractive ritualistic work.

The work of the Halloween enthusiast was noticed in many portions of North Fort Worth Thursday. While no great amount of damage was done, still the little pranks in some cases were carried to the extent that some were really damaged. Many vehicles were dumped into deep gulches and badly broken, window panes broken, shrubbery and flowers damaged and stock turned out. A stone was thrown thru a window in J. W. Buckland's residence, the broken glass falling over very sick child that was on a bed near the window. A lady living near lost a number of pots of valuable flowers, the pots being broken and the ers scattered over the yard. There will likely be some arrests to follow.

Reports from Soliciting Committees Not All In

Returns from the funds committees of the All Saints' Hospital have not all come in, but the reports received show that the actual amount raised on All Saints' day is far in excess of the anticipations of the association. It was stated this morning that the total amount of the subscriptions would not be known until all committees reported and that in the meantime it would be impossible to learn the amount. Thursday was the first of the hospital or red cross days which the hospital association has undertaken. The subscription on the first day of November will be an annual feature of the work for the support of the association, especially after the success of Thursday. A chance was given to every one who was down town to contribute to the association's fund and all contributors were presented with small cardboard tags with a large red cross emblem printed on it. The All Saints' Hospital Association was organized twelve years ago and the cornerstone of the new hospital was laid on All Saints' day six years ago. Part of the building was opened for use a year ago on All Saints' day. In order to completely finish the work of building the structure and equipping it thoroly it is necessary to raise about $5,000. The amount expended in the building so far is about

THE GREAT TEXAS PANHANDLE

For the past two years there has been something doing in the great Panhandle section of Texas. The demand for farming land and study into the ways and means of reclaiming the great areas of semi-arid lands in the west and southwest have been leading factors in attracting attention to this portion of Texas. The transformation of the west into a great agricultural section now seems well under way, and the crops made in the Panhandle this year are giving a renewed impetus to the further development of that sec-

The Texas Panhandle was first known as a cattle country, and this was away back in the early seventies. The buffaloes and Indians had it up to that time and except to them it was comparatively unknown. It was a great grass country in those days, and the buffaloes remained all winter because of the climate and the peculiar qualities of the grass which made good winter grazing. It cures on the ground and to this day is known as "buffalo grass." When a stranger goes across the Panhandle country in winter and sees the cattle grazing a brown landscape as industriously as If it were June, he may know they are rustling a good living from a hay crop that is better than ordinary hay, and that it has cured where it stands. Pasture in summer and cured hay in winter-not simply dead grass-has always been characteristic of this section of our great state. And it was from this very fact that the Panhandle came to be known as the greatest cattle country on the whole face of the earth.

The features of this region are as they were and can never be changed. It is a wide, rolling grassy wilderness. It is a part of the vast region that lies on the long slope upward from the Missouri and Mississippi valleys' to the Rocky mountains, and on this slope it occupies an intermediate place ranging from 1,300 to 2,000 feet on its southern corner, to about 3,400 feet in its northern corner. It is healthful and is being rapidly dotted with happy and prosperous homes now from one end to the other.

The larger part of the Panhandle comes under the term "Plains." The old time settler in that section called it "high plains," to distinguish it from what the people in Kansas, Nebraska and Illinois have always called "prairie." "Plains" in the old times always meant something to be crossed because one had to, and to be left behind with much thankfulness, as a country destined to remain forever as it was, where a railroad would never be built, and where white men would never make their homes. It should be borne in mind, however, that this same idea once applied to Illinois and Iowa, with their present teeming millions, and proved to be a fallacy of the most pronounced

The Texas Panhandle is still a cattle country, however, but the herds are owned by a greater number of men and each man owns a smaller number of cattle. They are no longer "Texas steers," as originally known, but are highly graded cattle, taken care of during the winter months and fed the forage crops that were unknown during the days of the longhorns. These forage crops are to be included among the present resources of that section, for stock farming pays as well or better than old-fashioned farming does in other places. It is an attractive business, pleasant and independent. It is true that in more recent times it is not the only farmer's business, and gradually under methods of farming that are adapted to the country, more and more land is taken under cultivation every year. There are many of these forage crops, such as Kaffir corn, milo maize, pencillaria, the sevwal kinds of millet, the various sorghums, Johnson grass and alfalfa, and the Panhandle country is doing business with all of them.

Ranch after ranch of the old order is passing away. The land agent and the prospector is to be found in every section of that country and land values have grown until the former owners are now opulent and wondering now they are going to invest their money. New blood is pouring into the Panhandle and it is the kind of blood that counts. It backs up that splendid American energy that has never yet failed to conquer every proposition it has ever tackled, and the Panhandle country will prove no exception to what has become a general rule. No section of the state is growing faster, and no section of the state promises more for the future. The possibilities of the Texas I'anhandle are just beginning to be understood. Some of the finest and best cattle in the entire southwest are produced in the Panhandle, and the indications are they will continue to be produced there.

OTHER SIDE OF THE BURTON CASE

There are two sides to the case of Senator Burton of Kansas, who is now occupying the cell of a felon, and who has fallen from the high estate of a United States senator. Heretofore we have contemplated but the side of the trusted public official, honored by the highest gift that could be bestowed by the people of his state, and who committed a crime sufficient to cause his expulsion from the senate and land him behind prison bars. Now that he is doing his time, the situation can be viewed with more calmness. A report from Washington says:

One point in Mr. Burton's favor has been overlooked-he has never undertaken to apologize or defend himself in public print. Since the charge of malfeasance in office was first brought against him he has refused to be interviewed or to make any statement. In this his course was opposite to that of every other party concerned in the case. While the matter was first pending before the United States supreme court Mr. Burton was confident the court would dismiss the case. At that time the writer had several conferences with him, with a view of interviewing him on the case and the underlying cause of his prosecution.

Mr. Burton took the ground that he could say nothing unless he was acquitted. The interview was partly mapped out but was never published, as Mr. Burton would not consent to its publication while resting under the stigma of a conviction. Several facts have been generally overlooked by the public which bear upon this case because only one side—that of the prosecution-was exploited. The case hinged on whether the United States is an interested party where the postoffice department has under contemplation the issuing of a fraud order against a private individual.

As the supreme court was divided on this point, lawvers may be pardoned for entertaining an opinion differing from that of the majority of the court. But, if the United States was an interested party, as the majority of the court held, then there can be no doubt that Mr. Burton was guilty of accepting a fee from the other party to the case. But two facts should be

First, that he never made any secret that he had been retained by the Rialto Grain and Commission company, but on the contrary visited the department and asked if the issuing of a fraud order was contemplated, in order that he might cease his connection with the company in case the United States should become an interested party thru the issuance of such

Second, that he never made any attempt to prevent the postoffice department from issuing such order in case the authorities thought one should be issued. An attempt was made to show that Mr. Burton was retained with the understanding that he would exert his supposed influence with the department, but it was never proven that such an agreement existed, certainly it was never proven that he attempted to exercise any influence to that end.

Under the decision of the supreme court that the United States was an interested party in fraud order proceedings Mr. Burton was guilty of accepting a retainer from the other interested party. Of this there can be no question, but it has never been established that he made any corrupt agreement with his clients, or that he made any secret of his connection with them, or that he attempted to exercise the influence or utilize the prestige that his position gave him in defeating the ends of justice. On the contrary, his conduct before the department was open and frank, since his arrest it has been characterized by dignity

For an offense, largely if not wholly technical, he has been ruined financially, degraded from a high position, and is now incarcerated in a cell. With the assistance of his devoted wife, Mr. Burton can confidently hope to re-establish himself when he shall have fully paid the penalty of the law so rigorously applied to his case.

SANTO DOMINGO WANTS ANNEXATION

Now that there is American occupation of Cuba and another revolution in progress in Santo Domingo, there is considerable speculation as to the report made to President Roosevelt by former Minister Powell, who has just returned from that country. There is a growing suspicion that something like annexation is in the air. and it is believed this country is just on the verge of getting another white elephant on its hands. In his report to the President the former minister to Santo Domingo says:

"The island of Haiti, which lies between Cuba and Porto Rico, will be of great strategic and commercial importance to us in the near future. On the western end the Windward Passage, separating the island from Cuba will be the main channel to the Panama canal. The Mona Passage, on the eastern end, separate Haiti from Porto Elco. Haiti has an area of about 21,000 square miles. Its greatest length is a little over 400 miles and its greatest width is 160 miles. It was the first land colonized in the western world by Europeans, the first to introduce African slavery and the

"On the eastern end of the island is the republic of Santo Domingo, known as the 'White Republic,' and on the western end is the republic of Haiti, known as the 'Black Republic.' In the natives of Santo Domingo the African blood is scarcely noticeable, and they speak Spanish, while the natives of Haiti are black and speak French. A majority of the natives of Santo Domingo would probably favor annexation to the United States if the question were submitted to them, while the natives of Haiti would stubbornly oppose such a proposition. The Haitians are great lovers of their country. They believe the island was given them by God. and they would defend it to the point of extermination of themselves.

"Santo Domingo once made an effort to become a part of the United States. The people, in 1869, voted to annex themselves to the United tSates. A commission was appointed by the United States government to investigate the condition of affairs in Santo Domingo. This commission visited the isalnd in 1871 and reported favorably, but the annexation treaty was defeated in the United States senate.

"The republic of Santo Domingo is the latest development in a series of violent political changes. The present republic was founded in 1844. The principal articles of export are to acco, coffee, cocoa, sugar, mahogany, logwood, hides, goatskins and honey. There is a fair system of public education, primary instruction being free and obligatory. The population of the re-There are forty news-

There is much mineral wealth, too. The total mileage of railroads in operation is 116. There are fifty-one postoffices and 430 miles of telegraph.

BRYAN TALKS OF HEARST

There has never been any marked cordiality between William J. Bryan and William R. Hearst, but there is a marked difference in the attitude of Colonel Bryan toward Hearst today and that of some prominent Texas democrats in the same direction. While in Calcago a few days ago Bryan said:

"Of course, I want to see Hearst elected," said Mr. Bryan, "but all I know about the prospects is what have seen in the newspapers. I would feel that I might tell how things are going even at this distance if the newspapers would only agree. At present they are about as far apart as the forecasts of the rival campaign committees the night before election."

"Do you think the election of Hearst would make him a Presidential candidate in 1908?" the Nebraskan was asked. "Well," hesitated Mr. Bryan. "I believe in fighting one battle at a time. The wisest course is to dispose of this contest first, and then go on and take up the other one later. The circumstances of one do not necessarily govern the other."

Mr. Bryan was told Senator Tillman's remark that he had found a good many republicans in the west who confessed they would like to vote for the Nebraskan in 1908, provided President Roosevelt should not be a candidate.

"Well, that shows the trend of thought in the last ten years," commented Mr. Bryan. "In the campaigns of 1896 and 1900 I did not discuss the government ownership of railroads. Now we find a republican President actually discussing a subject which was not mentioned by the democratic candidate ten and six years ago. President Roosevelt says that we will have to resort to government ownership of railways if we can't get the railways out of politics. I move to amend by striking out the word 'if,' because I don't believe we shall ever get the railroads out of politics.

"Then there's the question of limiting the size of fortunes. The people are beginning to see that great fortunes could not have been acquired honestly-I mean honestly in the broad sense of that word. Why, look at this story about Captain Grammer being considered as president of the Illinois Central with a salary of $100,000 a year for ten years. That's his own estimate of the value of his services. But if he should work for that salary for fifty years he would receive only

"That is a high price for a man's work, and yet It is only a drop in the bucket compared with the fortunes of $100,000,000 and more which many men acquire in a fraction of this period. "There is only one conclusion, and that is that the greater part of such fortunes was unfairly acquired."

The people of west Texas and the Panhandle are waking up on the subject of irrigation, and some big projects are being shaped up along these lines. And Jupiter Pluvius for the last year or two has been doing his level best to put those west Texas and Panhandle irrigation projects completely out of business.

The New York campaign is closed and next Tuesday will tell the story as to whether Hearst or Hugnes shall be governor. The indications are that Hearst has the best of it, but there is a general impression that the race is a very close one.

Fort Worth is getting ready to land another choice bunch of factories, and every factory obtained but promises a greater Fort Worth.

The activity of the Ute Indians in the northwest in getting on the warpath is pretty conclusive evidence that all the Indians are not yet made good.

It is said that during a circus at Dublin, Texas, a rowdy ran over a small boy, and when the little fellow's father remonstrated with the bully he cursed and otherwise abused him. The father promptly knocked him down and administered a good beating. Yet the father was arrested and made to pay a fine. And this suggests to mind that it has come to pass in Texas that a man cannot get justice in the petty courtsnor any of them, for that matter-for the simple reason that it costs him more to defend himself than it does to pay the nominal fine.-Vernon Call.

The law does not contemplate that a man shall engasic in an affray for any cause. It may seem unjust, but the law intends that a fellow shall live up to the Scriptural injunction of turning the other cheek.  $\diamond$   $\diamond$   $\diamond$

Texas has about two hundred and forty counties. The tax values of the state have increased about $60,-000,000 in one year. That is about $250,000 per county. and Denton's increase was only about $40,000. Denton is a little bit shy on her part of the increase.—Denton Record and Chronicle.

Denien county joins Tarrant county on the north and Tarrant county comes to the front with an increase of $3,840,000 in her taxable values. Denton county should try to measure up to the Tarrant county

Don't worry. There is nothing in it but gray hairs and wrinkles with shattered nerves. Make the best of the situation confronting you; have confidence in yourself to work out your own problems and you will find yourself all the stronger when the true test comes. -Denison Herald.

It is a great thing to be possessed of the faculty of not worrying, and but few men are blessed with it. The majority of us are so prone to worry that we even fret and fume over imaginary troubles. And worry does not improve the situation one particle. A problem that is complicated needs a clear head always to find the proper solution.

A romantic story comes from McGregor in this state. Fourteen years ago, in a Bell county cotton patch, a young man and a young lady engaged in a ten-hour cotton picking contest. The former gathered 787 pounds, while the latter picked 698 pounds. Cupid was busy that day, too, and for every pound of cotton ricked he discharged an arrow into the susceptible hearts of the two. Their friendship ripened into love, and marriage followed. One day last week their 12year-old son, industrious scion of an industrious sire, picked 872 pounds of cotton-an accomplishment for which he has his father and mother to thank .-- Gon-

History repeats itself and like produces like. If the loving couple referred to had quit picking cotton to spoon they would have lost their financial reward and that boy might have imagined that he was bornwith a silver spoon in his mouth and never developed into a first-class cotton picker.

There has already been ginned more cotton this season than was ginned all during last season. This is in Kaufman county. There have been boll weevils and worms, but this showing has been made in spite of these drawbacks. All of which makes on secure in the belief that you cannot lose Kaufman county.-Terrell Transcript.

The same kind of a report comes from practically every portion of Texas. The state has made a magnificent cotton crop and the farmers of the state are jingling much coin of the realm in their clothes these prosperous autumn days.

I don't know WHETHER I ought to keep on at Taffeta & Balbriggan's or not. I'm getting pretty sour on WORK, me being so fond of fun and entertainment. I felt like I was in Paradise when Mr. Biffkins, from Pittsburg, took me out in his auto last evening. I tied a veil over ray ears and tried to look like a real motor miss as we spun thru the back streets, Mr. Biffkins tooting the horn sudden to scare people at crossings and trying to run over fices like ALL those gay Pittsburg millionaires do. I FELT like I really was in society. The blame thing broke down and we had to WALK home in the moonlight, but that made it ALL the more romantic. Mr. Biffkins shows himself very attached to me. ## DRIFTOFPOLITICS

IOWA AND OHIO STORM CENTERS

With the doubt that comes over the state election in Ohio, where a secretary of state is to be chosen. interest turns to the Onio delegation in the next house. A republican slump may carry ten or even eleven democratic congressmen from the Buckeye state to Washington instead of the one there now. It is hardly possible that the slump, however great it may be, can sweep Goebel and Longworth off their feet in Hamilton county. It is probable that ex-Governor Campbe will be elected in the Taird district, and it is almost certain that the democrats will carry the Fifth, the Sixth, the Thirteenth and the Seventeenth, and quite likely that they will carry the eleventh-General Grosvenor's district. The Ohio farmers are apt to be stand-

It will be a queer condition of affairs if Secretary Shaw and his followers shall be permitted to defeat Governor Cummins in Iowa for re-election. 'He is getting no help from the administration, because of the fact, acknowledged all thru the west, that if he is reelected he and not Shaw will be the logical candidate for President in 1908 to be fostered in Iowa. The anti-Cummins, or Perkins, republicans are openly working for Claude R. Porter, the democrat, for governor, Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon and the rest all keep clear of Iowa. Every man in the west who has been mentioned for President has a knife out for Cummins. But the governor is not the sort of man that is easily suppressed.

. . . . THE NEW ENGLAND STATES

It is seldom, indeed, that the republican party has on hand so many factional fights in the different states. Beginning with New Hampshire, there is the row with Winston Churchill's Lincoln party and the regulars. Talk about possible fusion of Lincoln Republican Club representatives and democrats in the next legislature has caused a decided quickening of the political pulse in that state. The subject involves an apportioning of the chief offices among the two parties. The deal would involve a United States senator in Burnham's place for the Lincolnites and the legislative offices for the democrats. Churchill would be the United States senator. But it is said that he will not dicker with any one outside of the republican party.

Massachusetts resembles New York in some particulars. John B. Moran, the democratic-Independence candidate, makes the most astonishing charges in the Hearst fashion. Governor Guild, the republican candidate for governor, has frittered away his time answering the charges. The republican campaign is listless, the people seem to take no interest whatever. While the chances favor the re-election of Guild, yet matters have not sufficiently shaped to warrant a decided . . . .

LABOR FIGHT A FAILURE

Reports come from the west of the collapse of the movement of the Federation of Labor against the candidates for congress. So far as Speaker Cannon is concerned Frank P. Sargent, commissioner general of immigration and a Federation man, has taken issue with Gompers, and advocates Cannon's election. It is said that Compers has learned of the difficulty of drawing men from their party fealty to support whomsoever he should designate. Unless there is a pronounced union labor man in the field for congress, like Wilson and Nicholls of the United Mine Workers in this state or a known friend of labor when it neeeded help, like ex-Mayor Black of McKeesport, who is fighting Representative Dalzell, it has been impossible to turn the men as desired. At the Illinois state labor convention the delegates refused to follow Gompers' lead. John H. Walker, a United Mine Worker, is a candidate for congress against Speaker Cannon. He is on the socialist ticket. Gompers has declared he will never support a socialist, so Walker's friends will not do as Gompers desires. Barney Cohen of the state labor body, made a speech in the convention intimating that Gompers' political activity was injuring the cause of labor. "The history of the labor movement," said Cohen, "has been that where political action has been taken by a union that body has been rent by dissensions and personal jealousy. I believe it is the duty of every organized man to take an active interest in politics, but it is not the business of trade unions to dabble in politics."

THE SLAVE AT REST

The long, hard fight is ended; he is dead; llis big, rough hands lie all relaxed; he restal How many people know his soul has fled? How many carry sadness in their breasts Because he never more shall have to rise, Still weary, when the grass is wet with dew, And hurry forth to labor, lacking eyes And heart to notice that the sky is blue; To toil for gains that some one else may seize And spend pergaps for sinful luxuries?

The long, hard fight is ended: from his face Death has removed the weary look he wore; Tomorrow some one else will fill his place And serve the masters he may serve no more: And they who live in splendor will not weep Because he never had the chance to learn That glee is in the wanton winds which sweep Along the banks of every babbling burn; That hope is in the robin's briefest song, That grief is futile and that hate is wrong.

The long, hard fight is ended: let them lay His warped and worn-out body where they please: 'Twill matter not to him; he sleeps away; At last he can afford to lie at ease;

Ict no man come to stand beside his cot And sigh because his troubles all are past: Twere wringing him to wish he might be brought Back from the peace which he has won at last, To serve relentless masters and to strive For nothing but the right to be alive.

The fact that the state legislature is to meet in nnual session at Austin next January is causing the usual advance speculation as to the passage of new laws, and so far the hole in the state treasury seems to have the edge on all other topics of probable legislation. The patriotic and progressive citizenship of Texas has very readily come to the conclusion that the conditions now existing are such a reflection on the entire state that they cannot be longer permitted. and the general trend of sentiment is that the taxable values of the state must be made to yield the necessary revenue to keep the finances of the state upon a cash basis. Practically every state institution I now clamoring for more money, in splite of the ex isting deficiency, and a conservative estimate place the amount of revenue that will be needed by the state for the next two years as something in excess of $8,-000,000 .- Fort Worth Telegram.

The question of revenue and taxation is undoubtedly the paramount one and it all hinges on the necessity of framing a law to secure a more fair and complete assessment of property. Hitherto the legisla-lors have slurred over this important subject because the most of them were afraid of it. If the next legislature will attack it sincerely the people may be educated up to passing a constitutional amendment to cure the existing evils,-San Antonio Express. . . . .

Writers Send Protest Against Abbreviated Entomology

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.-Professor Brander Matthews is angry at Molly Elliot Seawell. There wasn't any doubt left about that with those who were present when the board of education's committee on studies held a hearing on the project to introduce the 300 words of the simple spellers into the city schools.

Professor Matthews got his mad up because Molly Elliot Seawell wrote Rossiter Johnson a letter in which she described the deeds of the simple spellers as "crazy spelling, advocated by certain cranks of high and low

Incidentally the chief simple speller got angry with Rossiter Johnton, too, for reading such a letter as Miss Seawell's. Johnson did his best to sidestep the wrath of Professor Matthews, but the simple speller wouldn't let him get away. Things were gloomy and depressing in the board room for the better part of the evening. Too, Too Much for Matthews

It all happened after Professor Matthews had told the committee what an outrage on a suffering public the English spelling was anyway, and how perfect it would all become if everybody would only spell like Matthews, Carnegie and Roosevelt. Then Rossiter Johnson, who is a good deal of a word juggler himself, ventured to dissent. This in itself naturally was irritating to Professor Matthews, but when Mr. Johnson read a list of eminent American writers who had signed a protest against the simple spellers and all their works, the Columbia professor became positively fidgety. The last straw appeared, however, when Mr. Johnson began to read Miss Seawell's letter. He already had read a pretty sentiment from Julia Hawhorne, who said any man who would maltreat his native tongue as did the simple spellers was a murderer at

"Now," said he, "Miss Seawell "'I disapprove of the crazy spelling advocated by certain cranks of high and low degree, and-" here Mr. Johnson's nerve failed him a little, and he broke in on the letter to say: "Mind you, I am not responsible for these

"O, yes, you are," said Professor Matthews, acridly.

Makes Rossiter Johnson Wilt, Anyway "No, I'm not either," retorted Mr. Johnson anxiously .- "I'm merely reading what Miss Seawell wrote. I decline to be held responsible. I won't be made responsible-" "But you are responsible," insisted Professor Matthews, angrily. "You can't dodge it."

There followed rapid fire insistence nd denial that sounded like this: "I'm not responsible."

Professor Matthews proved to be more long-winded than Mr. Johnson, who finally collapsed, remarking "O, well, if you insist, I'll be responsible. In fact, I am responsible.' All the Writers Jump on Scheme Satisfied with this admission, Professor Matthews fell to pulling his simple whiskers contentedly and allowed Mr. Johnson to add that Miss Seawell thought such spelling a violation of "good sense, good taste, and almost of good morals."

Other writers marshaled against the simple spellers by Mr. Johnson were Wharton, Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Percival Lowell, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Professor E. R. A. Seligman, Clinton Scollard, Thomas Nelson Page, John Fox Jr., Mary Johnston, Marion Crawford, James Lane Allen, Owen Wister, Samuel Minturn Peck, Robert W Chambers, President Taylor of Vassar college, Professor Rush Rhees, John Vance Cheney, Kate Douglas Wiggin, Anna Katharine Green, George Cary Eggleston, Professor Goldwin Smith, Joseph O'Connor and several others. Edith Wharton wrote that she was glad a voice had been raised at last "this desecration of our speech." Marvin R. Vincent wrote: "I detest the whole business." President

Taylor wrote: "I doubly deprecate the reform by executive order." All these writers signed the protest prepared by Mr. Johnson, which declared the changes save no space and no time in reading. Nor would it make correct spelling easier, but would obscure etymology, would make reading more difficult and tiresome, and make our liberties obsolete.

Cutaway Coat 5504 Unquestionably the short jaunty coat is a pronounced favorite of fashion. This one in cutaway style is exceedingly graceful and chic and is equally well adapted to the suit and to the separate wrap. As illustrated it is made of broadcloth, smoke gray in color, with the collar and cuffs of velvet and cloth combined, but there are a great many fashionable materials as well as fashionable colors this season. Dark red shades are well liked, browns,

The coat is made with fronts, side fronts, back, side-backs and under-arm gores, the seams that extend to the shoulders giving exceedingly becoming lines to the figure. There are extensions on both backs and side-backs, which are lapped one over the other, provide becoming fulness and there are pockets with laps on the fronts. HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Raw eggs are nourishing and healthful, and have proved beneficial in cases of nervousness.

It would be well if the housewife of today would follow the old-time way of polishing her silver with her own hands. By this habit she would always know its condition and whether any is lost or abused. It is never well to experiment with the silver polishes that you know nothing about; in fact, whiting of the finest quality sifted thru a double cheesecloth, is as good as anything made for the purpose. Dyspeptics should eat breakfast bacon often. It is said by some to be almost a cure for dyspepsia.

A good way to mend a round hole in a silk or woolen dress, and where otherwise only a patch could remedy matters, is the following: The frayed portions around the tear should be carefully smoothed, and a piece of the material moistened with very thin mucilage, placed under the hole. A heavy weight should then be put upon it until dry, when it is only possible to discover the mended place by care-

Uses of Borax Next to kerosene, borax is the housewife's best ally in cleansing. It is also antiseptic and medicinal. systematic soul keeps three grades of it upon a shelf in the bedroom; a arge tin can of pulverized borax for cleaning porcelain linings and nickel fittings: a smaller can of boracie acid (in powder) for sores, feverblisters, and corns; lastly, a dainty can of perfumed boracic talcum for chapped hands, etc. There are means of treating the ordinary brown bath sponges, even when originally of none too good a quality, so that they will become white, soft, and in every way desirable. The following formula is of French origin and will be appreciated by those who are fastidious in regard to their daily bath. After selecting a large, fair specimen, beat out the gravel and sand which often is to be found in the sponges in natural condition. Dip it afterward in tepid water-a good basinful-and there let it soak twelve hours. At the end of that time press out the water and knead out also any foreign matter left within. Fill up the same basin two or three times and squeeze the sponge out, until the water finally remains perfeetly clear. After removing every drop of water, dip it into a solution of permanganate of potash and water, the proportions being half an ounce of potash to a quart of water. Leave the sponge in the solution not longer than ten or twelve minutes, and after squeezing it out very thoroly plunge it into another basin containing a quarter of an ounce of oxalic acid to a quart of water. This last wash will turn the sponge a pale yellow, and as soon as this coloring appears remove the sponge. After this wash it thru tepid water, and then thru cold water. in which a lump of soda the size of a nut has been dropped; this treatment will effectually neutralize the effects of all acids. The last rinsing is to be done with milk and water, a quart of the former to three pints of water. Squeeze out the sponge, let it dry immediately, after which it will be found soft, silky, and very agreeable to use, Keep Your Distance

Distance has a magnetic power of lending enchantment, not only to mountain view, but also to our mental attitude toward our friends, says the Philadelphia Bulletin,

To match the old saying, "Out of sight, out of mind," there is that other and truer saying, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder.' When we are with those we love their faults annoy us, and in our irritation we sometimes entirely lose sight of our affection. But a little separation refines away the sharper edges. Thinking upon him the best qualities of our friend stand out clearly. The little faults and vanities fade away. With a new tenderness we dwell upon this more perfect picture of our friend, as he seems to us now in fuller perspective. All the early springs of affection revive; and it sometimes dawns upon us that we had to go away from our friend in order to find him

And this is precisely what we have to do. As a ruie, we stand too close to people. Probably, outsiders see the true proportions of the members of our family circle a great deal more accurately than we see them. Some persons we can never know

The little jacket in our illustration is just the thing for an active bit of humanity two or three years old, who is forever on the go. There are many points I like about it. First of all, it is practically tight fitting, so that it does not hinder the child in her play. Then, again, I like it because it has no collar or thick neck ornamentation, to bring on a certain attack of tonsilitis. Last of all, it is so dressy in its looks and may be worn even by a child who has on her best Sunday-

go-to-meeting dress. The little jacket is knitted of fourfold zephyr Germantown. I would choose for it a delicate pink or blue, or else the rich, brilliant shade of red that is so becoming to most children, especially if worn with a white dress. The pattern is a peculiar basket weave that lies almost in plaits, yet is not majority in favor of joint statehood. What will happen then? Nothing. The delegates who will be elected to the proposed constitutional convention will have nothing to do, and will not assemble. Arizona and New Mexico will go on as territories. For a year or two nothing will be said about stateheod; but before very long both territories will come separately knocking for admission to the union.

People in Earnest It is hard for a person who has lived in other parts of the country to understand the earnestness of these Arizona people in this joint statehood matter. The plan to tie them up to New Mexico seems to have struck them as an outrage. They resent it. They declaim against it.

In a popular presentation of the situation New Mexico figures as a large and brutal colored man. Arizona is represented as a lovely white lady. New Mexico, as the negro, is urging a desire to get married, offering as a plea that he will be unable to get married at all unless the fair maiden consents to marry him. Arizona prefers single blessedness to matrimony under these circumstances.

"We want to jump on the grave," said a prominent citizen. "We want to kill jointure so dead that it will never be resurrected.

Roosevelt Unpopular

President Roosevelt and Senator Beveridge are not popular in Arizona, The fact that Beveridge is the author of the joint statehood bill, and that the President has written an open letter to Arizona voters urging them to accept jointure, is sufficient explana-

More uncomplimentary things may be heard about President Roosevelt in Arizona than in any section of the United States-not excepting the old south. They say he "butts in," that he is a "meddler," that he "insults their intelligence," and much more to the same effect.

As for Senator Beveridge, they recall that he said that Arizona was 'nothing but rocks and sand," and that he came thru in a private car in the night, declining to see what the citizens wanted him to see.

Arizona Wealthy

Arizona has the wealth and New Mexico the population. That is the reason, according to the Arizona people, why New Mexico wants joint statehood. According to figures obtained at the governor's office at Phenix, New Mexico's acknowledged debt is $3,600,000, while its assessed valuation is $44,000,000. Arizona's acknowledged debt is $3,100,000, with an assessed valuation of $63,000,000. So New Mexico's tax rate is $1.55 to the $100, while Arizona's is but 75 cents to $100. The territory with the big debt and big tax rate votes for a combination with the territory with the low debt and low tax rate. They would pool their funds and all debts become a common charge. In this connection an interesting story is told in Arizona as a further explanation of the activity of certain people who favor joint statehood. They say that in the old days, years ago, New Mexico issued a lot of county se-ourities which are not reckoned among the present acknowledged debt. These securities for a million dellars or over were issued to raise money to fight the Indians. Arizona claims that eastern owners who bought the bonds for a pittance are putting up money to carry statehood, believing that they

Bisbee, for example, has grown from ing from a protracted spree. 1,000 population to 15,000; and Dougas has grown from nothing to 7,000. It contains within its borders the largest unbroken pine for-est in the United States, the Coconino

Salt river valley is more in area than all southern California. And it is true that Arizona is not without its share of the general pros-perity. This little city of Prescott is all up and coming. One of its na-tional banks, the Prescott National, of which F. M. Murphy is proprietor, has individual deposits aggregating $807 .-544, while the savings institution across the street has deposits of more than a million. ## EARLY HISTORY OF RED POLLED BREED

Hornless, or polled, cattle have existed in the county of Suffolk, England, from time immemorial. The probabilseems to be that they duced soon after the Roman occupa-Bede says that the folk who settled in Eastern England after the Romans had gone, brought with them their slaves, their cattle, and all their live stock. Certain it is the breed has existed in Suffolk as far back as we can trace the history.

The eighth edition of the Encyclopedia Brittanica, speaking of this old breed, says: "The county of Suffolk has for centuries been celebrated for its dairy produce, which is chiefly obtained from a polled breed of cattle."

John Kirby, who published the Suffolk Traveler in 1784, speaks of the butter produce in dairy districts as 'the best and pleasantest in England.' Arthur Young in his 'Survey of Suffolk,' published in 1794, mentions the breed, and of the milk yield says: "There is hardly a dairy of any consideration in our district that does not contain cows which give, in the height of the season, eight gallons of milk a day, and six are common among many for a large part of the season. For two or three months a whole dairy will give five gallons a day on the average.' He, 'Many of these beasts fatten remarkably well-the flesh of a fine quality.''

Of the Norfolk strain of the breed, H. F. Euren, in the account prepared for the herd book, said: "The files of the Norwich Mercury show that as early as the year 1778 there were whole dairies of polled cows in Norfolk. In the advertisements of that and succeeding years sales of polled cows and bulls are specially referred to. Money Griggs of Gately, who died in 1872 in his 100th year, and who had been for upwards of eighty years a tenant of the Elmham estate, informed Mr. Fulcher, when making inquiries as to the breed, that, "from his earliest recollection Red Polled cattle had been kept in the neighborhood of Elmham. Lord Sondes, speaking at the Norfolk Agricultural Association dinner in 1859, stated that when he came to live in the county, early in the century, he found on the estate the Norfolk, or, as they were termed, "home bred" cows. The Elmham Polled cattle of this period are represented in a painting now in possession of Lord Sondes. The inscription reads: "These bullocks, exhibited at the Fakenham Agricultural Show, obtained two prizes, and allowed to be the best home breds ever shown under 4 years old. Killed by G. Nicholson, weight 187 stone and 8 pounds, A. D. 1836."

At the Holkham sheep shearing of 1810 the report says: "Mr. Reeves showed his Norfolk bull and 2-yearold heifers, which convinced every person who saw them to what a height of perfection breeding may be carried on by care in selection. Mr. Reeves' Norfolk bull was greatly admired as an animal of very superior frame and points, and his heifers are such as few men can exhibit.'

Mr. Euren says: "The year 1846 may be taken as the date from which the Norfolk varieties merged into each other, so as to be spoken of as one and the same breed. For the first time the East Norfolk Agricultural Association established separate classes for Norfolk Polled cattle, the prize winners being G. B. George of Eaton and T. Edwards of Hapton. Descendants of the animals then shown are registered in the herd book." There was a friendly rivalry between the two counties at the agricultural shows, and a constant interchange of the best blood, with a resulting improvement in both strains. W. Torr of Aylesby Manor, Lincoln (a noted breeder of Shorthorns), said (June 18, 1856): "Some ten or twelve years since had the honor of being judge at Swaffham, and a few years since at Norfolk, and I consider the polled breed have very much improved since the first meeting I attended. I do not see why they should not improve, for two or three centuries ago they were one of the first breeds in the kingdom. The old Polled Norfolk homebred was nearly cynonymous with the best Polled Galloway Scot. They had the same at-tributes, or nearly so, and there is no reason why, with individual exertion, the polled breed of Norfolk should not maintain a very prominent position as what which seem most adverse conditions, finds a striking illustration in what were known in Massachusetts as Jamestown cattle. In 1874, during the famine in Ireland, the people of Boston sent a shipload of provisions to that country to relieve the distress. As a slight token of appreciation, a Mr. Jeffries, living near Cork, presented to the captain a Suffolk polled heifer. She was delivered by him to the donors of the provisions and was sold at auction for the benefit of the fund. She proved a remarkably fine milker, and her progeny (mostly bulls by what were then known as Alderney sires) were largely used in the dairy herds about Boston. The progeny of these half-blood Suffolk bulls were nearly all hornless, and were so superior to the ordinary cattle of the district as to become noted. They were known as Jamestown cattle, from the name of the vessel in which the heifer came over; and at several local fairs were shown in considerable numbers. A. W. Cheever, agricultural editor of the New England Farmer, became possessed of a small herd of them, and after fifteen years' experience says: "We were thoroly converted to a full faith in the superior qualities of the polled cow as a domestic ani-

Later Importations

The first regular importation of Red Polled cattle for breeding purposes was made by G. F. Taber of New York in 1873 This importation consisted of a bull and three heifers. In 1875 he imported four cows additional, and in 1882 three bulls and twenty-three heifers.

In the last named year Mead & Kimball of Vermont imported a bull and ten females; and the next year G. P. Squires of New York and Geldard & Rusk, an English firm, made importations. From this time on the number brought over increased rapidly from year to year until the prices on the other side became so high that the business was unprofitable.

TROUBLE

SYNOPSIS

Florian Amidon, a rich young banker of Hazelhurst (a middle western American town) decides to take a day off from business and indulge in his fa-vorite hobby, photography. He takes the afternoon train and after alighting at a junction, dozes off to sleep and-wakes up in a Pullman car to find himself known as Eugene Brassfield, wealthy oil operator, New York clubman, engaged to an attractive young woman, and involved in a mass of business of which he is ignorant, while the year is five years later than the in which he started his journey. A clairvoyant to whom he applies for aid in solving his mystery is assisted by a hypnotist who puts Amidon in a trance, and while in that state his dentity as Brassfield becomes normal. From conversations taken down in shorthand, during his hypnotic state, Amidon learns something of the busi-ness affairs of Brassfield, and with this meager help he is enabled to preserve something of Brassfield's posi-tion, the often sadly bewildered. He finds himself involved in a complex electric traction deal, the details of which are unknown to him. He also learns that his victory in a suit avolving valuable property hinges on happenings of a date prior to his existence as Eugene Brassfield.

But most of the votes appeared to be for Brassfield—a name which the professor hailed joyfully as insuring against failure. It is not often that the audience will hit on the only practiced sensitive in the room. Madame le Claire started, as there was thus presented to her the thought of bringing her power to bear on Amidon. The serious results of her last exercise of it came vividly to her mind. Yst, here she was openly hypnotizing him. Here she could keep him under control. She could limit his Brassfield state as to time, or she could keep him in a state of automat-

"Mr. Brassfield vill greatly obliche by goming forvart," said the profes-sor; and, as he had learned to do, Amidon obeyed his request. Elizabeth, standing near Mrs. Hunter, heard an agitated exclamation from that lady as Mr. Amidon went

"For heaven's sake," she said, "it's Florian Amidon!" "Who?" inquired Mrs. Pumphrey, 'that? Why, that's our chief citizen, coon to be our chief magistrate, Mr. Eugene Brassfield."

Elizabeth heard no more, but in spite of perplexity at what she regarded as Mrs. Hunter's recognition field moved on. Mrs. Pumphrey, Mrs, her lover's face and forgetfulness of his name, she could not help noticing her excited talk to her sister, and the meaning giances finally directed toward her, Elizabeth. Whereat, to hide a little rosy flush, Miss Waldron turned more completely toward the place of the hypnotist. Madame le Claire stood in the little curtained alcove, empty save for the great tiger-skin rug, the dais, and a chair or two. She was gowned once more in the yellow and black, and stood in tigrine splendor cap-a-pie. Amidon felt her old power over him, as he approached her and looked into those mysterious eyes, and knew that he should do her bidding. She had seen his devotion to Elizabeth, and, be it confessed, was jealous in spite of herself. Pity and jealousy inspired the resolution which now formed in her mind; she would for an intervalan interval definitely limited—restore Eugene Brassfield to this company in which he was so completely at home, and lay the troubled ghost, Amidon.

altogether and do himself more credit; he would, in fact, be more convincingly Bellevale's "chief citizen." She bowed deeply and waved him to the chair. Then she performed the charm of "woven paces and of vaving arms," and he slept, "lost to life and use and name and fame." "When he opens his eyes," said she, "he will know nothing, think nothing, do nothing, except what I suggest," "Make him dance with the broom," suggested Cox.

'Let's have his inaugural address," petitioned Edgington. "Give him this," said Alvord, offering a coin, "and make him think it's People in this neighborhood would go farther to see Brassfield drop piece of money, than to interview live dinosaur!" The laughter at this sally was lost on Madame le Claire. She was looking down on the unconscious Amidon, wondering how any one could think of making him the instrument of buffoonery.

"I will perform only one simple, yet very difficult, test," said she. "This gentleman will soon wake as Mr. Brassfield, and will be his old and usual self among you until a certain hour, which I will write on this card, and seal up in this envelope, so that

The card will remain in the possession of Major Pumphrey until it succeeds or fails, and the envelope will then be opened." Kneeling on the dais, she seemed whispering in the subject's ear. Then, tapping his wrist, she said, decisively,

It was Eugene Brassfield who opened his eyes on a circle of his friends, associates and cronies. He bowed to Madame le Claire, and moved across the room to Elizabeth's side, with an air of incipent proprietorship. "No true lover of carnations," he confided to her, "could wish you to wear them as you do tonight."

"Flowers have rights, you know, and to be outdone in sweetness- Ah, Jim! Go away, and don't bother me! Don't you see I'm very busy?" "Old man," said Alvord, answering the name of "Jim," "it's good to see you as you are tonight-your old self. You'll make a hit, my boy. This will make it more than ever a cinch." Self-possessed, masterful, Mr. Brassfield moved thru the assembly like a conqueror. Those who, a short time ago, found him dull and moody, rejoiced now in his confident persiflage pitched safely in the restful key of mediocrity, but possessed withal of a species of brilliancy, like the skillful playing of scales. Elizabeth noted the return of the dash and abandon which she had lately so missed-but for the first time the Brassfield music had a hollow ring in her ears. The subtler

Madame le Claire, immensely popur, gave readings in palmistry. Miss Smith was to have a husband with dark eyes. Mr. Brassfield offered to cross her palm with any gold coin she night name, if she would promise him a sweetheart with party-colored eyes, who would meet him for a long walk next day: Madame le Claire blushed and dropped the hand. Brassfield adroitly overtook Miss Scarlett, who seemed endeavoring to retreat. He stood by her, chatting lightly, using two voices, a distinct and conversational tone, and one so low as to be for her ear alone.

"Oh, isn't it a crush?" said he, ("Daise, what's the matter?) A perfect evening, tho, (Are you running away from me?) And such delightful people! (The east room in ten minutes: is it yes?)" Miss Scarlett nodded, and Brass-

Hunter and Elizabeth Waldron were sipping punch. "May I have some?" said he. "And, please, Mrs Pumphrey, may I be presented to the guest of the evening?"

Mrs. Hunter received the introduction with a gasp.
"Is it possible," said she, "that you don't know me? Can the possessor of that voice and face be any one but Florian Amidon?"

"Amidon, Amidon?" he repeated. Pardon me, but someone else spoka that name to me lately, and I was trying to recall the circumstance. It is in every way on my part to be regretted, as the fact has deprived mo of the happiness of knowing you, that I am not Mr. Amidon. Am I so like

"Oh, it isn't a matter of resemblance, but of fdentity!" replied Mrs. "Were you never in Hazel-Hunter. hurst, Wis.?"

"Never." said Mr. Brassfield: "but am beginning to see its beauties as place of residence. And I hope to know more of this other Dromio before the evening is past."

Mrs. Hunter bowed in acknowledgment of the compliment, and Mr. Brassfield took himself gracefully from their presence. In the fashion of one pressed for time, he moved on.

Elizabeth had grown suddenly very grave. What did this conduct of her lover mean? A little while ago he had recognized Mrs. Hunter, at a distance, as an old acquaintance. Now he had audaciously outfaced her, and denied that he ever knew her. Could this be the man she had trusted with her all? Again her doubts and fears and scruples rose-rose instantly in full strength. The new impressions she had lately received of him vanished, and all the subtle suggestions of sordid lightness which the diplomacy of Brassfield, even, had not entirely kept from her mind, came back with multiplied distinctness. These transformations of character, these curious duplicities, and now this lie. She must think it over; it impressed her, and she must act. "Auntie," said she, "let us go." As down thes tairway they came, robed for departure, they were conscious of a hum of excitement running thru the assembly.

"Where is he? The envelope has been opened and the time is up! Where

At this moment, a scream, a soprano scream, high, long-drawn and piercing, the scream of a woman in terror, came echoing from the deserted east room. A body of guests rushed thru the portieres, Madame le Claire pale with fright, at their head, and Elizabeth borne with them, all looking to see what violence had provoked that scream. They saw Mr. Brassfield, seated on a sofa in a shadowy corner, holding both Miss Scarlett's hands in his; saw the girl frantically, but in vain, trying to take them from his grasp. He sat like a statue, with his eyes set wide and unwinking like a corpse's, every limb and muscle rigid, his body tense and imm vable as a stone image. The sight was terrible. It was as if the living man had been transformed in an instant into a "Really? I suppose I ought to ask ghastly trap, to catch those soft, warm, pretty hands! The world is less familiar with the Snake river of Idaho, than with any other river of importance in the United States; and yet it is our seventh largest river-more than 1,000 miles long. It is one of the most wonderful and impressive waterways in the world. The few who have tried to follow its winding course through wild and forbidding extents of lava plateaus, do not wonder that so little is known of it. for no railroads traverse the lifeless desert that borders it, and no boats for hundreds of miles at a stretch dare ply its waters. It is navigable for only 100 miles from its junction with the Columbia to the Idaho boundary, and in several isolated sections of the

Burch & Prince Sell Establishment to Bradford Bros.

After having sought an opening in Fort Worth for almost a year, the Bradford Bros. Company of Fort Worth, Dallas and Cleburne, took charge of the stock of the Burch & Prince Dry Goods Company, corner Sixth and Houston streets, Friday

Work of preparing for the new business was undertaken at once by the manager of the Fort Worth store, G. W. Anderson, who comes here from Cleburne where he was manager of the Bradford store there. Mr. Anderson has come to Fort Worth to make it his permanent home, The Bradford Bros. Company was started with a capital stock of $40.000 a little over a year ago, and has recently authorized an increase in the capital stock to $75,000.

The company has settled here with the intention of remaining, and Mr. Anderson stated soon after taking charge Friday morning that he had ordered a new stock of goods and that the stock purchased would be disposed of immediately in order to make room for the new goods.

The Bradford Bros. Company is composed of T. L. Bradford, proprietor of the Bradford Grocery Company of Dallas; H. C. Bradford and G. W. Anderson. H. C. Bradford has been connected with Sanger Brothers of Dallas for seventeen years, a large part of the time as burer, and is thoroly acquainted with the dry goods business. He is at present in Cleburne, where he has charge of the Cleburne store of the company. Mr. Anderson, who comes here as manager of the new store, has had over ten years' experience as a buyer for two of the largest retail establishments in Chicago, and is well known among the merchants here. The stock of the Burch & Prince store was purchased by the Bradford Bros. Company for spot cash, and transfer was made late Thursday afternoon. Painters were put at work Friday morning changing the name on the outside of the store so that everyone should know that the new company had come to stay.

This is the third of the stores owned by the Bradford Bros. Company, the Cleburne and Dallas stores already being opened. The company was incorporated under the laws of Texas July 15, 1905, to operate stores in the three ent fiscal year, to more than $12,000, 000 for the next fiscal year. Mr. Wilson increased his ordinary estimates only by $500,000.

Hitchcock Alone Cuts Down

Secretary Hitchcock has the distinction of being the only member of the cabinet to submit lower estimates this year than last. H has succeeded in bringing about a net reduction of $2,-662,000 in the cost of his department. Part of this saving is in pensions, $141,345,500 being the amount appropriated for the present year, while $140,245,500 is the sum asked for the next fiscal year. The increase in the death of pensioners is responsible for the reduction.

The expenses of the military branches of the government continue to mount up, the secretary of the havy asking for $125,000,000, while the secretary of war will ask for $9,-000,0,00, or $100,000,000 less. In the estimates of the latter, however, will be included the expenses of the river and harbor improvement service, which will amount to $29,000,000. No river and harbor bill was passed during last session, the "pork" being distributed in the shape of public buildings. The estimates of the secretary war include about $9,000,000 also for fortifications. Appropriations for the support of military establishment during the present fiscal year were a little under $70,000,000, but they will be increased to nearly $80,000,000, unless Secretary Taft cuts seriously the estimates submitted by the various chiefs of bureaus of his department. The expenses of the navy will be $25,000,000 more next year than the appropriations for the current year if congress complies with the recommendations of the secretary of the navy. An efficient sea service costs, but the President and most publicspirited men regard it as an effective insurance against trouble. For instance, it is pointed out that if the United States were without a strong navy, Japan would not long content itself with demanding that its subjects be treated in every respect like Americans: it would back up its demands by force. In his estimates, Secretary Bonaparte will not mention the need of additional ships, but will make a strong recommendation in his annual report for the authorization of three large battleships and smaller craft Secretary Metcalf, who will succeed Mr. Bonaparte as head of the navy department, will use all his influence to the navy. Mr. Metcalf comes from California, and appreciates the necessity of the United States having a formidable fleet upon the Pacific as well as upon the Atlantic coast. In this respect Fort Worth is probably a great deal more fortunate than many other Texas towns. There are lowns in the western part of the state where it is impossible to get even the mesquite bushes and roots and not a trace of wood. Such places must have coal and must have it soon. The question whether the cotton crop will be moved before the coal shortage becomes very serious is one that has not been answered and it is probable that time alone will determine it.

LAMPTON AGAIN TO MRS. PAYNE

Declares Her Race for Congress Vain

And yet again once more, inspired by the spectacle of a Texas woman making the race for congress, W. J. Lampton, New York's humorist-poet, who writes verses in a meter as musical as the gentle buzzing of a sewing machine or the dithyrambic clicking of a typewriter at the hands of a blonde stenographer, has addressed a stanza to Mrs. Laura B. Payne of Fort Worth, socialist candidate for the lower house at Washington from the Twelfth Texas district. Lampton first wrote a modest little stanza for the New York World, in which he urged Mrs. Payne to stay out of the race. Mrs. Payne replied, also in verse, telling her advisor she had a mission to perform and that she proposed to perform it.

Now Lampton comes back in a letter to The Telegram and a stanza to Mrs. Payne, both of which go to prove that even a poet may sometimes be gallant. The letter and the verse

NEW YORK, Oct. 28 .- My Dear Mr. Editor: Some kindly soul out your way, tho a stranger, sends me a copy of The Telegram of Oct. 19, containing small verse of mine from the New York World anent the candidacy of Mrs. Laura B. Payne, socialist, with Mrs. Payne's very fentinine and impulsive response thereto, and I am constrained by it to believe that she is too eternally feminine and too everlastingly impulsive ever to be elected to congress, and ought to be glad of it. If she should be elected-voters doing all sorts of unaccountable things at times-and is a widow, by heck, she would be married out of her seat before she had plowed a furrow in the proad field of her chosen labor. As a further token of my esteem may I submit the following sunburst of sentiment? Ah, if all pain were such a pleasure Then socialism would be a treasure,

And those among us who have got Would even up with those who've Dividing justly so that none Would keep forever on the run, While others rested in the shade. Serene and safe in what they'd made.

But say, It ain't that way: Nor can I see How Laura B., A willing, able, busy She, Can square the deal, How easily it might be done If the Laura Payne Were the only one.

Which is no sign that I'm going to vote the socialist ticket. I don't want a square deal. What I want is Mr. Rockefeller's pile and Mr. Carnegie's wad, and those two amiable gentlemen may go live on hay for all I care. My pain isn't the Laura B. kind, and plunks is its only panacea—anybody's plunks, with a preference for those mentioned. But I'd like to see Mrs. Payne elected, simply to show her how much more truth than poetry was in my verse. Very cordially,

W. J. LAMPTON.

"Life would be one round of pleasure," said a Texas and Pacific depot official the other day, "if all of the passengers we have were as easy to handle as the foreigners who are coming thru here in such numbers. The other morning about 200 foreigners from Galveston came in here and we sorted them out and started them on their way again in about one-fourth the time it would take to handle the same number of American passengers. "A foreigner will stay where you put him and do what you tell him to. When they came into the station here, they generally stay in a corner until some one tells them to go to some other place, and they do it without a word.

Constitutional Convention Will Held in Fort Worth A meeting of the members of the Negro Protective Congress, which was recently incorporated in this state for the betterment of the race, has been called by its acting secretary, A. M. Mason of Fort Worth, for Nov. 15, for the purpose of holding a constitutional convention. The place of meeting has not been decided other than it will be in this city. Invitations have been sent to all cities interested and a large attendance is anticipated.

NOW A GUN POINTER

Relative of Fort Worth Man Is Rapidly Promoted

Five promotions within three years and six months is the naval record of Robert Pendery, now a gun pointer on the United States battleship Missouri. Mr. Pendery was one of the eight pointers who participated in the gun target practice for the pleasure of President Roosevelt last September. The President was first aboard the Mayflower and later took dinner with the marksmen on the gun deck of the Missouri. Robert's record on this day was sixteen hits out of sixteen shots. His brother, E. P. Pendery, is a resident of Fort Worth.

SYNOPSIS.

Florian Amidon, a rich young banker of Hazelhurst (a middle western American town) decides to take a day off from business and indulge in his favorite hobby, photography. He takes the afternoon train and after alighting at a junction, dozes off to sleep and-wakes up in a Puliman car to find himself known as Eugene Brassfield, wealthy oil operator, New York clubman, engaged to an attractive young woman, and involved in a mass of business of which he is ignorant, while the year is five years later than the one in which he started his journey. A clairvoyant to whom he applies for aid in solving his mystery is assisted by a hypnotist who puts Amidon in a trance, and while in that state his dentity as Brassfield becomes normal. from conversations taken down in shorthand, during his hypnotic state, Amidon learns something of the business affairs of Brassfield, and with this meager help he is enabled to preserve something of Brassfield's posi-tion, the often sadly bewildered.

He finds himself involved in a com-plex electric traction deal, the details of which are unknown to him. He also learns that his victory in a suit involving valuable property hinges on happenings of a date prior to his existence as Eugene Brassfield.

But most of the votes appeared to be for Brassfield—a name which the professor hailed joyfully as insuring against failure. It is not often that the audience will hit on the only practiced sensitive in the room. Madame le Claire started, as there was thus presented to her the thought of bringing her power to bear on Amidon. The serious results of her last exercise of it came vividly to her mind. Yet, here she was openly hypnotizing him. Here she could keep him under control. She could limit his Brassfield state as to time, or she could keep him in a state of automat-

"Mr. Brassfield vill greatly obliche by goming forvart," said the profes-sor; and, as he had learned to do, Amidon obeyed his request.

Elizabeth, standing near Mrs, Hunter, heard an agitated exclamation from that lady as Mr. Amidon went forward. "For heaven's sake," she said, Florian Amidon!" "Who?" inquired Mrs. Pumphrey,

"that? Why, that's our chief citizen, soon to be our chief magistrate, Mr. Eugene Brassfield." Elizabeth heard no more, but in spite of perplexity at what she regarded as Mrs. Hunter's recognition of his name, she could not help noticing her excited talk to her sister, and the meaning giances finally directed toward her, Elizabeth. Whereat, to hide a little rosy flush, Miss Waldron turned more completely toward the curtained alcove, empty save for the great tiger-skin rug, the dais, and a chair or two. She was gowned once more in the yellow and black, and stood in tigrine splendor cap-a-pie. Amidon felt her old power over him, as he approached her and looked into those mysterious eyes, and knew that he should do her bidding. She had seen his devotion to Elizabeth, and, be it confessed, was jealous in spite of herself. Pity and jealousy inspired the resolution which now formed in her mind; she would for an intervalan interval definitely limited-restore Eugene Brassfield to this company in which he was so completely at home, and lay the troubled ghost, Amidon. He would appear to better advantage altogether and do himself more credit;

he would, in fact, be more convincingly Bellevale's "chief citizen." She bowed deeply and waved him to the chair. Then she performed the charm of "woven paces and of vaving arms," and he slept, "lost to life and

suggested Cox. Let's have his inaugural address,' petitioned Edgington. "Give him this," said Alvord, offering a coin, "and make him think it's People in this neighborhood

The card will remain in possession of Major Pumphrey until it succeeds or fails, and the envelope will then be opened." Kneeling on the dais, she seemed whispering in the subject's ear. Then, tapping his wrist, she said, decisively,

It was Eugene Brassfield who opened his eyes on a circle of his friends, associates and cronies. He bowed to Madame le Claire, and moved across the room to Elizabeth's side, with an air of incipent proprietorship. "No true lover of carnations," he confided to her, "could wish you to wear them as you do tonight." "Really? I suppose I ought to ask

"It isn't fair to the flowers," said "Flowers have rights, you know, and to be outdone in sweetness- Ah, Jim! Go away, and don't bother me! Don't you see I'm very busy?" "Old man," said Alvord, answering the name of "Jim," "it's good to see you as you are tonight-your old self. You'll make a hit, my boy. This will make it more than ever a cinch." Self-possessed, masterful, Mr. Brassfield moved thru- the assembly like a conqueror. Those who, a short time ago, found him dull and moody, rejoiced now in his confident persiflage pitched safely in the restful key of mediocrity, but possessed withal of a species of brilliancy, like the skillful playing of scales. Elizabeth noted the return of the dash and abandon which she had lately so missed—but for the first time the Brassfield music had a hollow ring in her ears. The subtler melody of last night-after all, it was Madame le Claire, immensely popuor, gave readings in palmistry. Miss Smith was to have a husband with dark eyes. Mr. Brassfield offered to cross her palm with any gold coin she might name, if she would promise him a sweetheart with party-colored eyes, who would meet him for a long waik next day: Madame le Claire blushed and dropped the hand.

Mr. Brassfield adroitly overtook Miss Scarlett, who seemed endeavoring to retreat. He stood by her, chatting lightly, using two voices, a distinct and conversational tone, and one so low as to be for her ear alone.

"Oh, isn't it a crush?" said he, ("Daise, what's the matter?) A perfect evening, tho. (Are you running away from me?) And such delightful people! (The east room in ten minutes: is it yes?)" Miss Scarlett nodded, and Brass-

Hunter and Elizabeth Waldron were sipping punch. "May I have some?" said he. "And, please. Mrs Pumphrey, may I be presented to the guest of the evening?"

Mrs. Hunter received the introducis it possible," said she, "that you don't know me? Can the possessor of that voice and face be any one but Florian Amidon?

"Amidon, Amidon?" he repeated, Pardon me, but someone else spoke that name to me lately, and I was trying to recall the circumstance. It is in every way on my part to be regretted, as the fact has deprived me of the happiness of knowing you, that I am not Mr. Amidon. Am I so like

"Oh, it isn't a matter of resemblance, but of fdentity!" replied Mrs. Hunter. "Were you never in Hazelhurst. Wis. ?"

"Never." said Mr. Brassfield: "but am beginning to see its beauties as place of residence. And I hope to know more of this other Dromio before the evening is past."

Mrs. Hunter bowed in acknowledgment of the compliment, and Mr. Brassfield took himself gracefully from their presence. In the fashion of one pressed for time, he moved on.

Elizabeth had grown suddenly yery grave. What did this conduct of her lover mean? A little while ago he had recognized Mrs. Hunter, at a distance, as an old acquaintance. Now he had audaciously outfaced her, and denied that he ever knew her. Could this be the man she had trusted with her all? Again her doubts and fears and scruples rose rose instantly in full strength. The new impressions she had lately received of him vanished, and all the subtle suggestions of sordid lightness which the diplomacy of Brassfield, even, had not entirely kept from her mind, came back with multiplied distinctness. These transformations of character, these curious duplicities, and now this lie. She must think it over; it impressed

her, and she must act. "Auntie," said she, "let us go." As down thes tairway they came, robed for departure, they were conscious of a hum of excitement running thru the assembly. "Where is he? The envelope has

NEW FIRM BUYS A DRY GOODS STORE

Burch & Prince Sell Establishment to Bradford Bros.

After having sought an opening in Fort Worth for almost a year, the Bradford Bros. Company of Fort Worth, Dallas and Cleburne, took charge of the stock of the Burch & Prince Dry Goods Company, corner Sixth and Houston streets, Friday

Work of preparing for the new bustness was undertaken at once by the manager of the Fort Worth store, G. W. Anderson, who comes here from Cleburne where he was manager of the Bradford store there. Mr. Anderson has come to Fort Worth to make it his permanent home.

The Bradford Bros, Company was started with a capital stock of $40,000 a little over a year ago, and has recently authorized an increase in the capital stock to $75,000. The company has settled here with the intention of remaining, and Mr. Anderson stated soon after taking charge Friday morning that he had ordered a new stock of goods and that the stock purchased would be disposed of immediately in order to make room for the new goods.

The Bradford Bros. Company is composed of T. L. Bradford, proprietor of the Bradford Grocery Company of Dallas; H. C. Bradford and G. W. Anderson. H. C. Bradford has been connected with Sanger Brothers of Dallas for seventeen years, a large part of the time as burer, and is thoroly acquainted with the dry goods business. He is at present in Cleburne, where he has charge of the Cleburne store

Mr. Anderson, who comes here as manager of the new store, has had over ten years' experience as a buyer for two of the largest retail establishments in Chicago, and is well known among the merchants here. The stock of the Burch & Prince store was purchased by the Bradford Bros. Company for spot cash, and transfer was made late Thursday afternoon. Painters were put at work Friday morning changing the name on the outside of the store so that everyone should know that the new company had come to stay.

This is the third of the stores owned by the Bradford Bros. Company, the Cleburne and Dallas stores already being opened. The company was incorporated under the laws of Texas July 15, 1905, to operate stores in the three eral more tracks, that can be laid whenever necessity arises. North of Ninth street and crossing Ninth street, the tracks of the Rock Island are being doubled. All of the embankment, or fill, is made from the yards on the east side of the city, under the Texas and Pacific and Denver viaducts and across the Rock Island property, which extends from Sixth street southward to Ninth street, and from the Santa Fe eastward toward the Trinity bottom. ent fiscal year, to more than $12,000, 000 for the next fiscal year. Mr. Wilson increased his ordinary estimates only by $500,000.

Hitchcock Alone Cuts Down

Secretary Hitchcock has the distinction of being the only member of the cabinet to submit lower estimates this year than last. H has succeeded in bringing about a net reduction of $2,-662,000 in the cost of his department. Part of this saving is in pensions, $141,345,500 being the amount appropriated for the present year, while $140,245,500 is the sum asked for the next fiscal year. The increase in the death of pensioners is responsible for the reduction.

The expenses of the military branches of the government continue to mount up, the secretary of the havy asking for $125,000,000, while the secretary of war will ask for $9,-000.000, or $100.000.000 less. In the estimates of the latter, however, will be included the expenses of the river and harbor improvement service, which will amount to $29,000,000. No river and harbor bill was passed during last session, the "pork" being distributed in the shape of public buildings. The "pork" this year will be in the form of a river and harbor bill, and a desperate effort will be made by every member of congress to secure some for the improvement of a waterway, be it river or creek, harbor or haven, in his district.

$9,000,000 for New Forts

The estimates of the secretary war include about $9,000,000 also for fortifications. Appropriations for the support of military establishment during the present fiscal year were a little under $70,000,000, but they will be increased to nearly $80,000,000, unless Secretary Taft cuts seriously the estimates submitted by the various chiefs of bureaus of his department.

The expenses of the navy will be $25,000,000 more next year than the appropriations for the current year if congress complies with the recommendations of the secretary of the navy. An efficient sea service costs, the President and most publicspirited men regard it as an effective insurance against trouble. For instance, it is pointed out that if the United States were without a strong navy, Japan would not long content itself with demanding that its subjects be treated in every respect like Americans; it would back up its demands

In his estimates, Secretary Bonaparte will not mention the need of additional ships, but will make strong recommendation in his annual report for the authorization of three arge battleships and smaller craft. Secretary Metcalf, who will succeed Mr. Bonaparte as head of the navy department, will use all his influence have congress add large battleships to the navy. Mr. Metcalf comes from California, and appreciates the necessity of the United States having a formidable fleet upon the Pacific as well as upon the Atlantic coast.

Government Able to Meet Bill Estimates of the interstate merce commission will amount to a little more than $100,000, but no additional money will be required for investigation purposes unless congress ## should put further work of this kind upon the shoulders of the commission. MONTH'S SUPPLY HERE

In this respect Fort Worth is probably a great deal more fortunate than many other Texas towns. There are towns in the western part of the state where it is impossible to get even the mesquite bushes and roots and not a trace of wood. Such places must have coal and must have it soon. ## LAMPTON AGAIN TO MRS. PAYNE

And yet again once more, inspired by the spectacle of a Texas woman making the race for congress, W. J. who writes verses in a meter as musical as the gentle buzzing of a sewing machine or the dithyrambic clicking of a typewriter at the hands of a blonde stenographer, has addressed a stanza to Mrs. Laura B. Payne of Fort Worth, socialist candidate for the lower house at Washington from the Twelfth Texas district. Lampton first wrote a modest little stanza for the New York World, in which he urged Mrs. Payne to stay out of the race. Mrs. Payne replied, also in verse, telling her advisor she had a mission to perform and that she proposed to perform it.

Now Lampton comes back in a letter to The Telegram and a stanza to Mrs. Payne, both of which go to prove that even a poet may sometimes be gallant. The letter and the verse

Special to The Telegram. FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 2.-Mrs. Hattie Lowry, a pretty young woman of East Sandy, declared today that she would not leave town despite the humiliation she was put to by four of her neighbors, who dobbed her face with shoe blacking, poured molasses over her and gave her a coat of feathers for her alleged misconduct.

The vigilantes-Mrs. Verda Lowry, sister-in-law of the victim; Mrs. Bertha Brinkeman, Miss Gertrude Glaze and Mrs. Hilda Pherson—appeared at Mrs. Hattle Lowry's house in the day time and announced that she had not heeded their warnings to desist from actions which they declared brought disgrace to the community and they had decided to chastise and humiliate

Two of the women seizezd her and tied her hands behind her back. Mrs. Glaze took from a package a box of stove polish and a dauber. While two of the women held Mrs. Lowry on the floor the others smeared her face with a stove polish until it was completely covered. Then Mrs. Glaze took a jar containing thick molasses, which she poured upon the head of the helpless victim. One of the other women then emptied the contents of a feather pillow upon the molasses, to which the feathers stuck. The quartet of women seized the loose end of the rope that bound her hands and commanded her to march out of the house. They told her to go in the direction of a railroad camp and there she went. The 200 workmen employed there ceased operations to witness the spectacle. When Mrs. Lowry had paraded thru the camp the women tied her to a large box where she remained until a man released her. She immediately went to Franklin and procured warrants for her assailants. Sheriff McElhinney served the paners on all but Mrs. Pherson, who was not at home. Their husbands accompanied them to the office of Alderman Henderson at Franklin, where they pleaded guilty and were fined $10 and costs. The husbands settled.

She was visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lee Barnhill, when the peculiar accident happened. She was engaged in dressing her hair, and in throwing the mass to one side so as to comb it better, a jerk of the head was given to accelerate the movement, Instantly she felt the most acute pain and a physician was hastily summoned. Investigation revealed that the jerk given her head had dislocated three small bones in the neck, and when these were gotten back in position the pain was over.

MOTHER GIVEN CHILD Celebrated Habeas Corpus Case De-

cided at Texarkana

Special to The Telegram. TEXARKANA, Texas, Nov. 2.-Judge Edwards of this city has just rendered a verdict in a celebrated nabeas corpus case involving the custody of a 6-year-old child. The plaintiff was Mrs. M. E. Analy of Amarillo vs. Mrs. Julia Smith of Texarkana. Mrs. Smith is the mother of the child by a former marriage. The child's father was divorced from the mother some five years ago, and has since married again, now living in the Indian Territory. Mrs. Smith has since married and lives in this city. When the child was 1 year old it was taken by the father from the mother by force and given in charge of Mrs. Analy, who is his sister. The mother was poor and unable to make a fight for the child and so the matter relained. Mrs. Analy came to Ravenna, near Texarkana, on a visit and brought the child with her, and on circus day brought the child to this city to see the circus. While on the streets the keen eye of the mother soon recognized her little girl, and telling her husband, they soon gained possession of the little one and carried her home. Mrs. Analy at once brought habeas corpus proceedings for possession of the child, and the whole story was told in court, but there were many sympathizers. After hearing all the evidence the court very promptly awarded the custody of the child to its mother.

Bad Blaze

Special to The Telegram.

HILLSBORO, Texas, Nov. 2.-At 8:50 o'clock last night fire broke out in the large dry goods and clothing store of Charles F. Graham & Company, on East Elm street. Within about an hour the establishment was destroyed and little remained other than a portion of the brick walls. The fire was under good headway when discovered and the brisk wind blowing soon spread the flames until they grew almost beyond possibility of control and for a time the Citizens' National Bank and most buildings on the east side of the square were threatened with destruction, even the court house being endangered. The stock of C. F. Graham & Company is estimated at $75,000 to $100,-000, with insurance amounting to $85,-

In the upstairs of the building was the lodge room of the Knights of Pythias, Woodmen of the World, Modern Woodmen and new Odd Fellows' lodge. will be a change for the better or worse, for the better if the system is purified by such a tonic as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. D. C. Wedding, of Hartford, Ky., writes as follows concerning the diffioulties which afflicted her: "I was seriously ill and was confined to my bed for six or eight months in all, during two years. I had chills, fever, rheumatism. My stomach seemed always too full, my kidneys did not act freely, my liver was inactive, my heart beat was very weak and I had dizziness or swimming in my head and nervous "I was under the treatment of several different physicians but they all failed to do me any good. After suffering for two years I learned from an Arkansas friend about the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided that I would try them. The very first box I took made me feel better and when I had taken four boxes more I was entirely well, weighed fifteen pounds more than when I began, resumed my household duties, and have since continued in the best of health. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to many people on account of what they did for me, and I feel that I cannot praise them too strongly. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills restored Mrs.

Wedding to health because they actually make new blood and when the blood is in full vigor every function of the body is restored, because the blood carries to every organ, every muscle, every nerve, the necessary nonrishment. NEW YORK COTTON

Further Decline in Futures-The Into Sight Breaks All Records-Giles' Statement Criticised

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.- The opening was much lower today on indifferent cables and liberal offerings. Commission houses had heavy selling orders, and many locals seemed to have bought long and were anxious to unload. Foreign cables were four to five down, while spots in the Liverpool market were six down. The rush of selling orders at once started the market down, and the indications for a while were favorable for a sensational drop. However, a brief cessation in offerings gave the market an opportunity to steady itself and it began to look more favorable to the bull side.

The Giles report was issued showing the condition 70 per cent, against 68.4 issued Oct. 15. These figures were severely criticised from the fact that it was considered that there could hardly be an improvement in crop conditions at this season of the year, even with good weather. However, the amount of cotton into sight as shown by the report of Secretary Hester of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange breaks all records, the figures being 629,000, against 483,285.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Declining Market and Very Bearish Sentiment Prevailed-Interest Centered on Texas Special to The Telegram.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2.- The market was off and barely steady at the opening today. Killing frost is shown in a number of localities on the map and temperatures below freezing. However, there is no rain reported, and the weather is generally clear and cool. The present season, which is at least three weeks earlier than usual, under normal conditions would have given a very bullish feature to the market, but the excessively heavy crop estimates and that, too, without regard to frost, freezes or weather conditions, are placed at not less than thirteen million bales. Since this is logically greater than the demand of the world, weather conditions have little effect in regulating the market fluctuations. The professionals are wholly at a loss as to what conclusion to reach as to the probable outcome. The conditions in Texas are record crop, and since much of the Texas crop is late, a general killing frost and rains with freezing temperatures, the effect might be marked in the price values of the staple, the estimates of foreign authorities to the contrary, notwithstanding. Much interest is centered in the Texas crop, as it is claimed by many that it is now at a stage where it may influence the market one way or another. The market was nervous and irregular until the publication of Miss Giles' report, which was the absorbing interest on account of the conflicting rumor as to the figures to be given. The estimated into sight was 624,000 to 634,000 against 483,285 this time last

Wheat Holds Strong-Corn and Oats Active-Demand for Pork Products Causes Decline

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 2.-The wheat market opened strong, and the sentiment was very bullish, the considerable blocks of cash wheat changed hands. Information from the northwest, especially from Minnesota, was bullish. The receipts at shipping points are not what has been expected, and rumors that the crops will not pan out with previous estimates have had the effect and took the market up a shade high-

Selling took place early in the session, and improved Liverpool cables strengthened the sentiment of the bulls. The constant hammering of the bears failed to produce only temporary effect on the market. The northwest was buying and Kansas City in the market with heavy buying orders, the bulls were well supported.

Corn was not quoted so active, but the market had a good undertone and showed much strength. December and May shorts were inclined to cover, notwithstanding the country offerings of new and old corn for nearby and December shipments were more free. The close was firm, with sentiment inclined toward buying operations.

Cash houses were the best buyers of December oats, but meeting some sales from the scalping crowd. Later, however, the scalpers began covering shorts and added some strength to the market. The large clearances for foreign markets induced more animation in buying, but the market was not overly vigorous.

The provision market was quite strong, the maintained a quiet tone. Foreign houses bought January pork products and the market for the most part of the session was hardly as high as yesterday's prices. The offerings

MAKING OF WHEAT PRICES

Duluth Grain Dealer Discusses Present beeves, $4@6.25; cows and heifers, $1.50 Northwestern Conditions Special to The Telegram,

DULUTH, Nov. 2.-Jules Barnes, a prominent grain dealer of this city, today made the following statement of conditions surrounding the making of wheat prices, which have made a radical change during the past week:

"We thought we had secured a large northwestern crop immediately after wheat was generally acknowledged to be a large winter wheat crop. Estimates were made of an exportable surplus to press from America, which, in the light of recent developments, seems to have been far too sanguine. The radical shortage in the spring waeat can be explained in only two ways. One is that the northwestern crop is materially smaller or that the grower will not part with it at this price. On Sept. 1 No. 1 northern was 70c and the same day the bearishly inclined speculator sold at 75c. Today we are exporting and milling No. 1 northern at 77 1/2c, while Chicago May is 781/2c. The consumption level had advanced 7½c and the speculative level 21/2 c."

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 2.-The heavy movement into sight was the dominant feature of the cotton market today. The week's into sight was again of record breaking proportions, only this time it smashed all old records to pieces. The official pointer was 624,000 to 634,000 bales. The previous high record was 603,000 bales in round figures. Up to the time the pointer was road, the chances were fair for a reaction upward, but with such a movement to face, bulls lost courage and bears were stimulated in fresh selling. The Giles bureau issued what was intended to be a very bearish document on the condition of the crop, but it overshot the market because those who framed it did not give the market credit for any common sense at all. According to unofficial reports the figures were 70 per cent against 68.4 per cent on Oct. 15, and 68 on Oct. 31 last year. According to that, the crop has actually improved during the last two weeks in spite of killing frost and the inevita-ble destruction that takes place when any crop has matured or is in the final stages of maturing. Because it is universally recognized that the crop loses in condition at this time of the year, reports on condition around Nov. 1 are looked upon as a waste of paper to write them on and good money to telegraph them. Under the influence of the into sight figures December was sent down to 9.90 by noon, where it stood 29 points lower than Wednesday's closing. In the early hours un-favorable cables and the effect of yesterday's fluctuations in New York and Liverpool caused a moderate decline. Spots were quiet and easy, but f. o. b. cotton was firm. In spite of the fact that October shipments were out of the way the basis was well held up and even advanced. Bids of 50 points on December for Liverpool good middling failed to bring out much cotton. G. C. BATTLE, Manager.

Cattle Receipts Moderate-Steers Active and Strong-Cows Steady. Hogs Active and Steady

The supply of cattle was fairly lib-eral for Friday, amounting to 3,300 head, including 800 head of calves. Fifty-eight cars arrived for the early market, with twenty cars reported back, which was fully enough to supply all requirements of the trade. Steers were active and strong. Butcher stock sold steady, with calves a shade higher on the day's trading. Hogs came in to the small number of 500 head. The market was active and steady.

About twenty loads of steers arrived, but most of these were consigned to a Fort Worth feed lot, leaving but few on sale. There was nothing choice in the quality of offerings, but local packers and feeder buyers were both active and the supply soon sold at prices steady to strong. Arkansas Anti-trust Suits Are Settled Temporarily

Special to The Telegram. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 2.-By agreement of Prosecuting Attorney Rhoten and attorneys representing five of the cotton oil companies doing business in Pulaski county, in which Little Rock is situated, orders were entered in the anti-trust suits against the five companies Wednesday afternoon in the Second division circuit court ending the five suits, for the time being, at

One of the anti-trust suits, that against the Dixie Cotton Oil Company, was dismissed by agreement, but the other four companies, the Southern Cotton Oil Company, the Consumers' Cotton Oil Company, the Arkansas Cotton Oil Company and the Buckeye Cotton Oil Company, each pay $1,250 and costs into court on agreement that the cases will end with this order of court. The companies, altho denying that they have ever been in any pool or trust, state that they will keep out of such trust in the future.

The five suits were brought July 18, 1906, by Prosecutor Rhoten, Attorney General Rogers and special counsel, alleging that the five companies, the Southern Cotton Oil Company, Consumers' Cotton Oil Company, Dixie Cotton Oil Company, Arkansas Cotton Oil Company and the Buckeye Cotton Oil Company, were members of a combine contrary to the Arkansas antitrust laws. Judgment was asked from each company in the sum of $130,000, the minimum amount provided by law, for twenty-six days' violation at $5,-000 a day.

DAY A CANDIDATE

In this issue of The Telegram Lem Day, captain of the city police, makes his formal announcement as a candidate for city assessor and tax collector, subject to the result of the Democratic primarles, Dec. 6. Lem Day is well known all over Fort Worth and he is favorably known, No young man in the city has a straighter record than he has and his four years as deputy in the office he asks for demonstrated that he is fully qualified for the position. In fact, Lem Day con-ducted the business of the office when he was a deputy in it and it can be expected that the same attention he gave it then will be given should he be elected. He is a young man of good moral character and of fine business attainments, and besides he is a Democrat who never scratched a ticket. Any pugilist will tell you that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound-

INQUEST TO FIND CAUSE OF WRECK

Bridge-tender's Testimony Is Taken at Atlantic City

Special to The Telegram. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 2 .-The coroner's inquest which is to examine into and fix the responsibility for the electric railway wreck Sunday began Thursday. Attorney Bourgers for the railroad company offered the extensive resources of the Pennsylvania Railfoad Company to assist in ascertaining the true cause of the accident.

Daniel Stewart, the aged bridge tender, testified to letting the yacht Sinbad thru the draw. After the yacht had passed he placed the red flags or danger signals. He said the towerman relocked the bridge and then he went to the center and relocked the rails, raising them an inch and a half above the other rails. He said the rails were down and fast and he gave the signal "All is right," and the towerman pulled the lever. The only trouble he had had with the rails, he said, was in extremely hot weather, when they would project past the iron at the groove. If this occurred he would hit the rail a blow with a hammer. He reported this to the company and was told to saw off the section that projected. The bridge previous to Sunday, he said, had not opened for two days, but Sunday he opened it twice. He said when the train jumped off the trestle he ran out to assist in the rescue, but could do nothing. The train was going pretty fast and he did not know that it slackened up for the bridge. He noticed the electric flash prior to the accident. Stewart admitted that one raff could lock and the other stick up. The rail that he sawed out was on the northbound track and the accident was on the south. He declared that he locked the bridge about fifteen minutes before the train arrived.

Assistant Bridge Tender Russi corroborated Stewart. Tower Tender John Shiker said he unlocked the bridge for the Sinbad to pass and locked it again. It was about 2:05 p. m. when he opened the bridge and he closed it at 3:12 o'clock.

Another Body Recovered

Local Switchmen Controlled by Action

of National Officers The action of the local Switchmen's Union in regard to the general demand by switchmen for increased pay will be determined by the decision of the national officers of the Switchmen's Union of North America. Assistant Yardmaster Hilgers of the Texas and Pacific, who was for years the master of the local union, said Friday that there was no reason at this time to anticipate any trouble. The demand for increased pay is being managed by the national officers.

It is expected that an increase in pay will be granted, as the demand for an eight-hour day has been abandoned, There are about eighty members of the local Switchmen's Union, Trilby No. 8. P. J. Burns is master of the Fort Worth union,

Ranch and Cattle Sold

Special to The Telegram. ROCK SPRINGS, Texas, Nov. 2 .-John Martin of this place has sold his ranch and cattle to E. R. Jackson at private terms. The ranch consisted of nineteen sections of land, with wells, windmills, tanks and other improvements. This gives Mr. Jackson seventy-four sections of land in his pasture, and it is one of the best winter ranches in Texas.

7,000-Acre Ranch Solo

Special to The Telegram. MENARDVILLE, Texas, Nov. 2.-Wyatt Perry sold his ranch on the river above town, consisting of 7,000 acres, and known as the Poplar Grove ranch, to A. R. Kuykendall of San Saba county, for $25,000. This is a fine ranch property and has fallen into good hands, for Mr. Kuykendall is an experienced cow man.

Sales at Sonora

Special to The Telegram. SONORA, Texas, Nov. 2.-Forrest Beman has sold 100 head of cows to W. R. Clendennen, at $12 around. Buster Allison purchased sixty head of stock cattle from John McCay, at private terms.

Sale of Goats

Two-Hundred-Dollar Billy Goat

Special to The Telegram LLANO, Texas, Nov. 2. - W. J. Moore & Bro. received from Cmofort, Texas, this week, a splendid buck goat which they recently purchased from G. A. Hoerle and which cost them $200. They will add this animal to their flock of 1,400 head which they have on their Six-Mile ranch. Altho they already have a very fine herd, they expect to introduce the very finest blood and have the champion flock of this section. This recent purchase is one among a number imported by Mr. Hoerle from England last year. It is impossible now, on account of duty, to buy such animals in that country. The animals brought overe were of the finest strains. Mr. Hoerle lives in Kansas and is a widely known goat raiser. He is wintering a little bunch of 200 head at Comfort that is worth $30,-

Special to The Telegram. GAIL, Texas, Nov. 2.-T. J. McCarty and Ed Baldridge are gathering about 200 head of cows and calves purchased principally in Lynn county, for market. Calves were bought at $7.

Special to The Telegram. SHERWOOD, Texas, Nov. 2.-The roads leading to San Angelo have been pretty well lined with wool wagons for the past few days. The shearing is now about completed and most of the sheepmen are sending their wool to market just about as fast as it is clipped. The fall clip is said to be good and the sheepmen are all prosperous.

Special to The Telegram. QUANAH, Texas, Nov. 2.-W. H. Bartlett has closed the sale of 715 acres of land in R. P. Coffer's pasture near Gypsum, to D. P. He was wise enough to see the future of the country when he came here three or four years ago, and now has the satisfaction of knowing that lands he bought when he came are worth at least $250,000 more than when they came into his possession. He expects still further advances and is not selling his land.

Hogs Fat on Peanuts Special to The Telegram.

CLARENDON, Texas, Nov. 2.-James Trent, a market man of this place, has just purchased thirty head of hogs from a Collingsworth county man that were fattened on peanuts at 5% cents. The hogs averaged 196% pounds each, and the bunch brought their owner $327.25. Every one of these hogs looked to have been fattened in a pen, when in reality they had never received any extra attention whatever.

Demand for Polo Ponies

Special to The Telegram. CLARENDON, Texas, Nov. 2.-Savage & Conover, the polo pony buyers of Brady, were here yesterday and bought one polo pony from T. H. Benson and another from W. A. Coggin and were disappointed in not getting more. "There are plenty of ponies in the country," says Mr. Savage, "but the people have not the time to fool away in bringing them to town. We will go out to Midland and from there visit a number of the big ranches in the hope of finding what we want, and I believe as soon as we get away from the railroad we will experience no trouble in finding

Shipping Angora Goats

Special to The Telegram. KERRVILE, Texas, Nov. 2 .- J. W. Garrett of Segovia, Kimble county, is here shipping some thorobred Angora goats to L. Ward of Edna, Texas. He says he has reeently purchased the famous South African thorobred billie "Fritz Hobsen" for $400. This animal recently sheared 18 pounds. The mohair is extremely long and of very fine texture. Mr. Garrett says that by careful handling he can be made to yield 20 pounds at a cdip.

Land in Big Demand

Special to The Telegram. SAN ANGELO, Nov. 2.-J. B. Lucas, county and district clerk of Reagan county, is in the city. Mr. Lucas reports a big land boom on in Reagan county, and says three big ranches have been sold to speculators at good prices, and they in turn sold them in small tracts to stock farmers and home seekers in tracts of from 100 acres up. John Gardner has sold his ranch of 9,000 acres to an Abilene syndicate for nearly $40,000, and this syndicate is now selling this land rapidly at an advance of about 50 per tee Passes Resolutions Special to The Telegram. TYLER, Texas, Nov. 2,-The Smith county democratic executive committee, at a meeting here this week, adopted by a vote of 17 to 1 the following resolutions: Resolved, By the democratic executive committee of Smith county: 1. That we heartily approve the course of Committeeman Edwards, the member of the state democratic executive committee, from this senatorial district, at the meeting of said committee at Dallas, Oct. 16, 1906. 2. That we hereby adopt and approve the resolution that was offered by our said representative, James M. Edwards, at the last meeting of the state democratic executive committee at Dallas, which resolution was as follows. Resolved, That the right of the democrats of Texas, at all times, to consider and criticise the records and conduct of their representative in congress and other public servants, is fundamental and is essential to their welfare. The exercise of this right cannot be abridged or stifled by this committee (state democratic executive committee or the chairman thereof). Whether the democrats of this state have merely indorsed or have legally nominated Senator J. W. Bailey for election to the United States senate by the next legislature, such indersement or nomination does not preclude the democrats of this state from further consideration, whether they desire their representatives in the legislature to re-elect him and making known their It is believed that an effort of this committee or its chairman to suppress or discourage freedom of speech and action on the part of the democrats of the state would impair democratic organization and prestige much more than will the free and satisfying speech and action of the democratic masses to whatever extent the same may pro-Resolved, therefore, That this committee (state democratic executive committee) and its chairman, are without jurisdiction with reference to the record or conduct of Senator Bailey, or with reference to his re-election; and it would be impolitic, unwise and futile for this committee to take any action which is intended, or which may be construed as an effort to do so.

3. That no United States senator or congressman has a right to accept fees or employment from the monopolies or other public service corporations or congress or the United States senate. 4. We approve of the course of Hon. M. M. Crane in boldly announcing and courageously defending the principles for which we stand.

MUSEMENTS

Murray and Mack

The same old Murray and Mack that ve have seen for years was at Greenwall's last night. One cannot tell what there is about the ridiculous horseplay of these two comedians which is laughable, but the audience is certainly enjoying itself all of the time during the performance.

The best song in the show is 'Mooney Time," sung by Mr. Brower and chorus. The Trocadero quartet was very popular. Its song, "Peezy-Weezy," received about seven or eight encores. There are those who have seen Murray and Mack every season opera house Saturday matinee and night, Nov. 3. The most attractive, however, is the pond hily scene in the third act. The curtain rises to weird music and a view of a dismal swamp is disclosed. Pools of water shimmering in the moonlight are to be seen in the foreground. Cattails and rushes wave gently in the wind; the fireflies gleam in the dusk; the frogs croak and the cricket's chirp is heard abroad in the land, while in the distance the mist slowly rises from the boggy

"Sultan of Sulu"

"The Sultan of Sulu," which comes to Greenwall's opera house Tuesday matinee and night, Nov. 6, deals in a whimsical and satirical vein with certain imaginary events supposed to happen in the Philippines during the American invasion. Mirth and melody is the keynote to this comic opera success and from all accounts the entertainment is witty, dainty, provocative of laughter and especially diverting to songs sometimes have enough contagion to cause them to be taken up and whistled and sung, after they have been introduced to the public from the stage. One song, at least, in the pretty music of Mr. Jerome's petite opera, this week at the Majestic, is sufficiently catchy to have been seized upon by music lovers. It is called "The Treasure,' and is sung by the entire company presenting "The Lady Buccaneers.'. Mr' Jerome has embellished his operetta with eight musical numbers, distributed, judiciously thruout the three scenes which compose its one act. The pirates or buccaneers, in this instance, are a chorus of pretty singers led by a dashing youn gprima donna, Miss Maybelle Palmer, who is Captain Helm, the head pirate of the brig "Chafing Dish."

At Fort Worth Rink

A small but appreciative gathering saw the performance of Barron and Munden, the trick bicyclists and unicycle wonders, at Fort Worth rink, corner Third and Rusk streets, last night. The string of stunts featured by hese star bicyclists is a long and interesting one and never fails to elicit the admiration of the spectators. Among the feats is side-shoulder riding, riding down a fifty-foot ladder, riding one man upon the other, double mounting, seperating bicycle while both Barron and Munden are upon it, and thrilling vaudeville performances, etc. Barron and Munden are certainly vonders in their line, and keep the onlookers interested from start to finish, with a rapid succession of new and varied acts.

Barron and Munden will perform again tonight at the Fort Worth skating rink, and ample arrangements have been provided for the comfortable seating of an unusually large crowd, which is confidently expected, now for years and will continue to take advantage of every chance to see them again. They know what to expect and

"Under Southern Skies"

There is the gay spirit of Halloween n "Under Southern Skies," which plays at Greenwall's tonight at 8:15 o'clock with an excellent company and a beautiful scenic production of the pretty dyll, now as famous as "Way Down "Under Southern Skies" is by Lottie Blair Parker of "'Way down East" fame. It is as essentially a geographical play as "'Way Down East," and succeeds in staging local color and southern life in really charming and unhackneyed style.

"Simple Simon Simple"

There are many striking scenes in Nixon & Zimmerman's new cartoon musical extravaganza, "Simple Simon Simple," which comes to Greenwall's

"JUST A LITTLE"

Grape-Nuts Worked Wonders for an Unfortunate Woman.

"At last I was obliged to sit all day at a sewing machine in a factory." said an English lady who was once well and happy, but whose circumstances changed so that she was comcelled to earn her living.

I soon suffered dreadfully with indigestion, some days thought I would die from acute pain in front of the waist line. I took about everything for indigestion without any permanent relief; tried starvation but suffered just as much whether I ate anything

"Curiosity caused me to try a package of Grape-Nuts food for a change. Then I got a second package and becan to use it regularly. What was my surprise-bowels became regular, no more headaches, piles troubled me less frequently and best of all the stomach trouble was gone entirely. I wanted Grape-Nuts for luncheon as well as breakfast-seemed as if my system craved what was good for it.

"Everyone in the family has taken to eating Grape-Nuts. They said I ate it with so much relish they thought it must be very good—and so it is.
"My little girl has gained five pounds since she started eating Grape-Nuts-in about three months. I think everyone, sick or well, should eat Grape-Nuts at least twice every day." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Confederate When Floyd McFarland was "sweated" Thursday by the police he confessed all there was to the robbery of J. C. Weston last Monday night, and the police sent out a number of telegrams about the man who was implicated by the McFarland confession. Friday morning a messenger was sent to the sheriff's office that "Dutch" Murdoch, the man accused, was under arrest at Commerce, Texas, on a telegraphic request from Fort Worth. "Dutch" Murdoch was the man who was placed under arrest recently in connection with the Newman murder. He was released on bond. This latest case, if he is connected with it, is also a capital case, for the robbery was one with deadly weapons and that, under the Texas statutes, is a capital

RECORD BROKEN

Postoffice Follows Example of Clearing

The receipts of the local postoffice for the month of October broke all previous records by over a thousand dollars, the exact amount being $1,272. The October receipts amounted to $17,-280.30, while the largest receipts for any month previous to that was in March, 1906, when the receipts amounted to $15,908.14. The receipts for September, 1906, were $15,717.23. Assistant Postmaster McKee said morning that the ceipts occurred all thru the office, altho the demand for two-cent stamps for letter matter was unprecedented. The incoming matter at the postoffice was also the greatest on record. Postmaster Lon Barkley says a request will be sent into the department after the first of the year for twelve eight clerks working in the postoffice and they are rushed to take care of the increasing business of this office. Massachusetts Congressman Dies Special to The Telegram. WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 2.—Representative Rockwood died here last

Important Points to Know When You Buy an Overcoat

HEN you try on an Overcoat, note the set of the collar and the shape of the shoulders: note the cut of the lapels and how they set, see if the edges are bunchy or uneven; note if the sewing is straight, the stitches smooth and equal; note the hang of the coat down the front and back, from the shoulders down; note the appearance and "feel" of the material; note the general style and appearance of the coat, see if it has that dash and style that characterizes this season's garments.

The Overcoats and Raincoats we offer at
