CHEER HEARST

Democratic Nominee Closes Campaign in New York

CAMPAIGN CLOSES

Mr. Hearst Predicts Election by Majority of Several Hundred Thousand

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—William Randolph Hearst practically concluded his vigorous campaign for the governorship by a tour of Manhattan, which will be memorable among present demonstrations.

From the Battery to the Bronx the streets were ablaze with fireworks. Crowds greeted him in every meeting place and followed him through the districts with a mighty roar of cheers. His progress was through long avenues of blazing red and green fires, entire city blocks being illuminated in his honor.

Unusual Enthusiasm

Fully one hundred thousand persons during Mr. Hearst's rapid tour of the island turned out to cheer the people's candidate to victory. It was Tammany Hall's night to show itself on record and the democratic masses flocked to the standard bearer with a degree of enthusiasm that eclipsed all records in any campaign.

At the greatest meeting of the night was held in the lower section of "Big Tom" Foley's district, where 5,000 persons gathered about the stand on Catherine Slip and cheered Hearst for five minutes before permitting him to speak. It was a wonderfully picturesque scene that Mr. Hearst faced when he advanced to speak in this gathering.

DODGE ASKS VOTES

Says He Will Not Be Nasty About Taxes

For the purpose of furthering his candidacy for the office of county attorney, N. A. Dodge, republican nominee, is making thousands of letters to voters of Travis county. The letter is addressed particularly to democratic voters, for he says also he is the republican nominee and is in that sense a party candidate.

THE OTHER SIDE

Woodruff Says Hughes and Associates Will Be Elected

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Chairman Woodruff of the republican state committee said tonight: "From the reports received tonight there is no doubt that Mr. Hughes and his associates on the state ticket will be elected by a handsome plurality. I affirm not giving out any figures, but I honestly believe that the state ticket will have a surprisingly large lead over the democratic-independence league candidate."

PREDICT BIG MAJORITY

Says Republicans Have Used Money Lavishly

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—"I am absolutely confident," said Max Isham, chairman of the state committee of the independence league today, "that Mr. Hearst will win this election by 200,000 majority. The cooperation of the three republicans is manifest in the course they have pursued. Federal interference has been invoked in a manner so audacious as to have called forth a protest from electors. Vituperation and abuse have taken the place of argument on the republican side, but if vituperation and abuse fall, they surely must, the republicans have no chance of reliance.

as is at their disposal for this campaign. The aggregate will probably equal that which was used in the presidential campaign in 1896. There is a way in which the law against contribution by corporations can be gotten round. New Jersey has no such law and it has come to me from reliable sources that contributions from the "blunder band" of the republican campaign are being sent to New Jersey banks and trust companies, to be drawn upon by persons designated by those having such authority.

DR. JASIN TALKS OF PANTHEISM

Lessons to Be Learned From Nature Worship. Rabbi Jasin, in the course of his lectures on religion, spoke Friday night on "Nature Worship and Mythology; What We May Learn from Them." His lecture, in part, was: "In studying and criticizing the crude religious systems of the prehistoric savage, let us bear in mind that age upon age passed away before any portion of mankind even laid claim to the possession of a revealed religion, and then, too, when these revelations came they were given at first to a mere handful of men in one corner of the earth, couched in a language that was not understood by the major portion of mankind. Even today there are countless millions who never heard of a revealed religion.

$50,000 IN PERMITS

Most of the Permits Are for Small Residences. The monthly report of City Engineer John B. Hawley for October shows value of permits issued for new buildings during the thirty-one days to be $53,250. Thirty-five structures are included in this amount, the majority of which are small residences. However, there are two buildings of considerable size and value, one being the addition to the August A. Busch & Co.'s plant to cost about $15,000. The other is the addition to the Acme laundry building, to cost $10,000. Both of these are already building and no delay in their completion is anticipated by the superintendents.

MEET THIS EVENING

Hebrew Charitable Societies May Be Consolidated. A joint meeting of the Hebrew Relief Society and the Ahavath Zion Society will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the synagogue, 825 Taylor street. Several important matters are to come up for consideration, the most important of which will be the question of uniting the Hebrew charities of the city and form one society, so the matter of distributing charity during the winter season may be consolidated. Rabbi Joseph Jasin of the Reform Jewish congregation will deliver an address on the subject of charities.

60,000 BALES AHEAD

Some Estimate This Year's Crop at 350,000 Bales. The record of cotton receipts by the Cotton Belt is now about 60,000 bales ahead of the receipts to the corresponding date of last year. It is not alone that the larger receipts are due to the fact that cotton has been rushed to market because of the good price which is being paid, but there is an actual increase in the amount of cotton produced in the Cotton Belt territory. The estimates are that there will be a large increase in the total receipts for the current season over the receipts for the last season, and some of the estimates of that increase go as high as 350,000 bales as compared with about 280,000 for the cotton season of 1905.

THE CITY MARKET

The City Market House To The Telegram. A great deal has been said and much comment has been provoked about the public market proposition. In my humble opinion the chief and essential feature of the compact sought to be obtained is the apparent oblivion to the absolute lack of adequate accommodation the proposed size of the ground space and the further proposed capacity of the building, which will in no wise meet the growing demand of a city like Fort Worth. It is quite certain that the plans multiplied by three would be only reasonable at this time. Such a market house as is before the council is adapted for only such towns as Arlington or other small cities of similar size. A great mistake will be made and lasting and unalterable error should the city accept such a shanty-like building for a public market. Go to other cities and we all know that among the great number of municipal prides, the public market calls for and ever demands the greatest care. The location is an extremely poor one. A market should always be near a central portion of the city, so as to provide equal accommodation to all. Large and commodious accommodations should be looked after so that proper classification can be had when desired by the inspection of the chemist or sanitary officer. Such additional position must of necessity be born with the installation of the market. If I were a city councilman I should be quick to transmit such a contracted proposition to the morgue. Respectfully, L. MYERS COMER.

Oriental Rugs From the Orient

There has always been more or less an air of "mystery" about hand woven Rugs from the Orient, and that bit of mystery and notion of "art" and "sentiment" have served splendidly to mask exorbitant prices. We have domestic and Oriental Rugs, small and large sizes, many styles and prices which must be seen to be appreciated. Call and see our line Monday, when everything on this floor will be in shape for display and business.

An elaborate musical program is arranged, together with the exhibit of the work of the classes. A nominal fee of admission will be charged for refreshments and every one is invited.

Solid Gold Watches Given Away Free!!

To Boys and Girls of Ft. Worth

THE BRADFORD BROS. CO.—Purchasers of the dry goods business formerly known as the Burch & Prince store, want to get acquainted with every boy and girl in Fort Worth, and are going to make some boy and girl happy by giving to each Absolutely Free a Handsome Solid Gold Watch of standard make, and an accurate time-keeper—one that anyone would be proud to possess.

How To Get It--You'll Enjoy the Effort

We want you to write us a letter—one describing to us in your own original manner YOUR BEST FRIEND. When we say best friend, we do not mean that your friend must necessarily be in the form of a person—you may describe your pet dog, horse, books, your father, mother or relative, of anything else that you may consider your best friend. Let your letter be brief—to the point, and written in a plain, legible hand. These prizes will be awarded Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock, Nov. 28, at our store, after having been passed upon by a committee, who will select from these letters the two which in their judgment are the best in point of composition, neatness and most correct. The boy and girl whose letters are approved by the committee get the watches. WRITE YOUR LETTER TODAY. You may either mail it or bring it to our store. Better begin right now. We are eager to enter every home in Fort Worth, and are going to begin through the children. We are showing everything that's new in the way of Dry Goods, Ladies' Tailored Suits and Coats, Skirts, etc., and are receiving daily large shipments of new goods and styles for every department of our store. We invite you to be an early shopper, and to get acquainted with our new methods and ways of doing business.

TWO MO. BRIDES COME TO TEXAS

A Couple of Interstate Romances Culminate Here

Two Missouri girls came to Fort Worth this week to marry Texas husbands. Miss Louise W. Miller, from the beautiful little Missouri river town of Miami, arrived in Fort Worth Saturday afternoon and was married at 6:30 to James Edward Byers of Austin, who came here Friday to meet his bride.

The wedding occurred in the Madrid flats, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Eakle, who are relatives of the bride. The ceremony was by Rev. Junius B. French, pastor of the Broadway Presbyterian church.

The couple left over the Santa Fe for Lampasas, Texas, where they will make their home. The groom is employed as traveling salesman for a commission firm at Austin and will remain with them, traveling from Lampasas.

Mr. Byers has often visited in the Missouri town, where he met his bride three years ago. Business interests made it convenient for him to go to Missouri and a visit of Miss Miller to her Fort Worth relatives was taken advantage of.

Came From Joplin

Louis Elmer Richards of North Fort Worth and Miss Lucile Pinkard of Joplin, Mo., were united in marriage Friday afternoon by Justice Charles T. Rowland. They are at home to their friends at 509 West Twelfth street, North Fort Worth.

Mr. Richards is in the employ of Swift & Co., where he has been for the past three years. He formerly lived in Joplin, Mo., where he met, wooed and won his bride. He recently made a visit to his old home and while there it was decided that his bride should accompany him home, and they would be married in Fort Worth.

Friday night a reception was tendered them by Mr. and Mrs. Snyder of 1310 Clinton avenue, where a large number of their friends offered congratulations.

WILL NOT BE CLOSED

Dr. Barber Denies Rumor of Diphtheria Epidemic

Relative to the story which has been going about the city for the last day or so that there was danger of one or more of the city schools being closed on account of diphtheria, Dr. Lyman Barber, city health physician, characterized the story as a "fake" and stated there was nothing at all in it, as there had been no danger of any of the schools being closed, nor even any official talk of it.

Informal Reception

The choir of Trinity church will give an informal reception on Wednesday evening, Nov. 7, from 8:30 to 11 p. m. at the Guild hall, corner Hemp-hill street and Pennsylvania avenue.

A musical program has been arranged, and a pleasant evening is anticipated. W. J. Marsh of Liverpool, England, will be accompanist for the evening. Friends and parishioners are cordially invited.

THE ABUSE OF HOME REMEDIES

BY ELLA K. DEARBORN, M. D.

One day the physician is astonished that a mother dare not apply a mustard plaster without his permission, and the next day is equally astonished that she DARED give a teaspoonful of cooking soda for a sour stomach; the mustard COULDN'T do any serious damage, and the soda will.

If you have the soda habit, stop it, for tho it may relieve at the time, it ultimately makes the trouble worse.

Never use camphorated oil to anoint children that are hoarse or croupy, or have cough or cold. Camphor is drying—use the oil alone.

People who find milk difficult to digest add lime water, but most people use too much. Ten drops is sufficient for a glass of milk. If well beaten with the egg beater, the milk will digest easier. CHEW IT WELL—yes, CHEW milk! The mixture of saliva will prevent its forming into a large solid curd.

If you have the hot water habit do not drink immediately before nor after meals, as it dilutes the gastric juice and retards digestion.

Don't drink salt and water. You get too much salt in your system without that extra dose.

If you apply fomentations for the relief of pain, see to it that the patient does not become chilly, from wet clothing or neglected applications.

While you use the fomentations RUSH THEM! When you stop, put warm, dry flannels on in their places, else you are liable to do more harm than good.

Hot applications are usually better than cold. Be very cautious about using the latter.

NEVER GIVE SOOTHING SYRUPS. The less you dose yourself the better it is for you.

Mystery of Lawyer's Death Unsolved at Chicago

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 3.—The mystery surrounding the death of Charles H. The inquest was resumed yesterday and an open verdict returned. The causes of death as given by the coroner's inquest were a broken neck and hemorrhage of the brain, due to external violence.

LO, THE POOR INDIAN.
By Stuart Maclean

Lo, the poor Indian untutored stands!
Drinking heaps of fire-water,
Thinking things he hadn't ought to,
Spurning reprimands,
Thinking of the long ago
Days of wild Geronimo;
Throwing off his blanket red,
Lifting once again his head,
Mindful of his countless dead,
Lo, the poor Indian!

Lo, the poor Indian untutored stands!
Of his lust uncomprehending,
Atavism down descending
With his desert sands;
Looking to the mountain peaks
Where the stream in torrent breaks;
Where stand soldiers stern and still,
Whence stream bullets swift and shrill,
Whence leaps forth the order "KILL!"
Lo, the poor Indian!

Not intentional Customer (lifting something out with his spoon)—What have you been putting in this chicken broth?
Walter (closely inspecting it)—That seems to be a piece of chicken, sir. Accidents will happen now and again.

A Range
Burns
MOST men have been burned by the coal stove without realizing it. Coal fire-box.

Because, with the ordinary draft, the air current strikes part of the fire. Usually the damper does such a range is situated at the end of the fire-box, which makes your fire hot at the draft end and cold at the other end.

Or the damper is placed on the left side of the stove, makes an uneven fire for same reason. You are not only losing but your cooking and baking are unsatisfactory, for you get a uniform heat. Now, the draft in a Moore Range is entirely different. Instead of one damper there are two, one in each end of the fire-box.

These form a double or Draft, and both are regulated the same handle. So you get two direct currents of air at the same time, and your fire burns smoothly and evenly. W.M. H. BETWEEN NINTH AND Tenth WE SELL TO YOU

$20,000,000 FOR INSURANCE

Total of Premiums Paid in Texas During Past Year

MONEY FOR CO.S

Losses Met, as Shown by Insurance Commissioner's Report Less Than $9,000,000

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 3.—W. J. Clay, superintendent of the state department of insurance, statistics and history, has just submitted his annual report for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1906. The two years just closed, according to Superintendent Clay, were profitable ones to the insurance companies doing business in Texas. The premiums paid during 1905 showed a material increase over those of 1904; the same is true of the premiums received during 1906 as compared with those of 1905.

The report shows the number of distribution of the companies authorized to do business in this state during the past two years, to be as follows:

Stock fire insurance companies	120	136
Mutual fire insurance companies	22	24
Marine insurance companies	7	9
Level premium life insurance companies	46	48
Fraternally controlled life insurance companies	144	133
Assessment life insurance companies	4	3
Miscellaneous	32	42
Totals	368	400

During the year 1905 two stock fire insurance companies and one stock life insurance company were organized within this state and began business. The total capital of these three companies amounted to $330,000. Their progress has been satisfactory and successful.

Premiums Thrive Losses

The report shows that the risks assumed by the stock fire insurance companies doing business in Texas amounted to $410,441,333.89, for which they received premium amounting to $8,239,712.56. The amount paid out in losses aggregated $2,959,187.28, or 47.1-10 per cent of the total premiums received. The loss ratio of the fire insurance companies for the year ending Dec. 31, 1905, was slightly in advance of the preceding year, and the average rate of premiums slightly below; and the same is true for the year 1906 as compared with the year 1905. While the average rate of premiums during the past year through the United States was $1.02 per each $100 of risk, that in Texas was $1.07. The total assets of the fire insurance companies authorized to do business in Texas amounted to $397,463,398.08. The total surplus of these companies amounted to $259,239,163.22, leaving a surplus of $137,840,823.01. This surplus represents the paying power of the fire insurance companies, and is a guarantee of their solvency or unusual fire waste.

Commissioner Clay touches on the great conflagration at San Francisco, as a result of the fire insurance companies. It is estimated that the loss was three hundred million dollars and the insurance companies were not able to pay the claims.

Happiness in a Tablet

Perfect Health for Every One Procured at Small Cost

How many times have you sat down at your meals absolutely disgusted at the thought or sight of anything to eat?

How many times have you sat down at your meals without the trace of an appetite, but just because it was "time to eat"?

How many times have you felt a gnawing, unsatisfied "still-hungry" feeling in your stomach, even after you were through eating?

How many times have you felt that "lump of lead" on your stomach after eating, whether your meal was well cooked or not?

And how many times have you suffered a whole lot of other things from your stomach that you couldn't explain, but that made you grouchy, miserable, out-of-sorts and generally sour on everybody and everything?

It is safe to say you couldn't tell. You don't keep track of those things, of course, but you know you've suffered them. You probably have had them for so long that they've become a habit with you, and you may come to the conclusion that your fate is to suffer them indefinitely and perhaps forever.

And so men, much like horses, standing unheeded at the hitching post, think they're tied, and so their habit makes them prisoners. But no one need be a prisoner, nor indigestion, nor loss of appetite, brash, irritation, burning sensations, heartburn, nausea, eructations, bad memory, loss of vim and vigor, and the happiness that comes from a healthy stomach and a good appetite if he will only leave his old hitching post and tie himself to a new one, one that will hold him to health, joy and a clear mind and memory, and the sunshining that goes with them.

"That indeed is Heaven! And you can get it in a little tablet already prepared for the purpose, in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, those little cherubs of health and delight found in thousands of homes today. Listen—one ingredient of one of these precious little tablets will digest for you 3,000 grains of food. This relieves your stomach of the work of digesting until your stomach can get strong and healthy again. Your stomach has been overworked and abused. It's fagged out. It needs a rest.

Let Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do the work of your stomach. You will be surprised how fine you'll feel after eating, and how good your stomach will taste to you. That's because the Tablets are thoroughly digesting the food which your stomach couldn't digest before.

Have these tablets on your dining table, and take one or two after every meal without fail. Then you will realize as never before that the human stomach decides for every man whether he will go forward or backward—and besides, you'll forget you ever had a stomach to torment you.

A Range That Burns All the Coal

MOST likely you have been throwing away good coal every day without knowing it. Coal that is only partially burned in the fire-box.

Because, with the ordinary range draft, the air current only strikes part of the fire.

Usually the damper door on such a range is situated at one end of the fire-box, which makes your fire hot at the draft end and cold at the other end.

Or the damper is perhaps on the left side of the stove, which makes an uneven fire for the same reason.

You are not only losing fuel, but your cooking and baking is unsatisfactory, for you cannot get a uniform heat.

Now, the draft in a Monarch Range is entirely different.

Instead of one damper door, there are two, one in each end of the fire-box.

These form a double or Duplex Draft, and both are regulated by the same handle.

So you get two direct currents of air at the same time, and your fire burns smoothly and evenly.

OLD-TIME CORN SHUCKINS FESTIVITIES OF THE PAST

J. B. ROBERTS.

Use gwine to de shuckin' Sat'dy night;
De cohn shuckin', de nigger's d'light,
Whar de yaller gal's lips
Dis nigger he sips,
Ise gwine to de shuckin' Sat'dy night.
Yaller gal sweet, sweet,
Yaller gal sweet as chicken meat;
An' 'un gwine to de shuckin' Sat'dy night.

Of all the negro festivals in the old south before red handed war severed the old time and happy relations that existed between the southern slave owner and his slaves, there was none more thoroughly and intensely enjoyed by the slaves than the corn shucking; and even the whites attended the night festivals and enjoyed themselves almost if not fully as much as the negroes did.

At them the negroes divested themselves of all care if they ever had care, and absolutely revelled in fun and pleasure; and it was at these night festivals that were composed and sung negro melodies that have outlived their authors' children and grandchildren, and have come down through years of war and bloodshed to the present day.

The corn shuckings in the south in ante bellum days were always on Saturday nights and would continue often until far into Sunday morning, the length of them depending on how much corn there was in the crib to be husked. These functions were not confined to the south—they were known north as well. They were known as husking bees there, but in the north husking bees had a different fun in them, they didn't come up to the negroes' shucking in point of rib-roaring fun.

The corn shucking was a community affair. Negroes being loaned for the occasion to any planter who had a big lot of corn he wanted to get out of the husk and into the shell in order to get it ready for the market at the mill. Negroes, men and women, old and young, would flock to the shucking from adjoining plantations for miles around, and if there ever was a body of happy people on top of ground they were the negroes who husked the corn.

Provided with passes from their owners (they had to have them to prevent the "patrol" from yanking them up and punishing them for being out after 9 o'clock) the negroes would start for the shucking as soon as his day's work on the home plantation was over and as they polled their way along the dusty roads they would make the air melodious with their songs of:

"Ise gwine to de shuckin' Sat'dy night."
They were crowds of happy, careless, innocent people, as much different from the negro one meets as day is from night, as innocence is from crime.

Iron Cid Rules

The corn to be shucked at these festivals was always piled high in the center of the barn floor, the barn itself being illuminated with flambeaux made often of "litter pine," and around the immense corn pile the negroes,

REPORT TO COUNCIL

Some Proposed Waterworks Economics to Be Considered

The waterworks committee of the city council, the mayor and the city engineer were in session Saturday afternoon considering the report which is to be submitted to the city council next Monday.

When the committee met in the earlier part of the week to consider the subject matter of the Harold recommendations for the improvement of the operation of the waterworks pumping plant with the view of effecting such economies as will bring the waterworks to a paying basis, the mayor, after a full expression of the views from the several persons who make up the committee, was asked to formulate the report and that draft was what was considered at the meeting Saturday afternoon. The report will be further considered Monday and then go before the city council for its consideration and action.

A Thanksgiving Game?
Dallas and Fort Worth Elks May Lock Horns
Fort Worth may still have an opportunity to see a good football game this season, as plans are now making whereby a game will be played between teams representing the Fort Worth and Dallas Elks that on that day for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. It is expected that if the plans go through the game will be played in this city.
While nothing definite has been done regarding the game, it is being talked over by the cattlemen as among the Fort Worth Elks of last year and interest is always manifested when it is known that there is a chance of a contest with the rival lodge from Dallas. The Elk lodge in this city possesses very good material and it would require but little work to organize a team of veterans in the game.

What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and Disease

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall.

It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and, mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not wasted.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect.

Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form.

Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they fed their children and ourselves every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike.

Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have never seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists and for that reason taboed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney ailments, and especially in all forms of skin diseases as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood purifiers will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers, a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

Send your name and address today for a free trial package and see for yourself. E. A. Stuart Co., 57 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

WHIMS AND FANCIES

I never heard of a hostess of a prospective party who did not begin early to complain about the lack of men and keep it up until after the party was over...

Up in Kansas a man who had been a sufferer from Halloween pranks got his garden hose ready, and when the mischief makers appeared the other day he turned the water on quick...

I watched these two youthful runaways with much interest. I remember when I was a very little girl I had great ambition to run, I was not sure of why I wanted to run, nor where I would go...

I never see a very good little girl that does not find myself watching her, with the deepest interest. Even now I wonder how it must feel to be cheerful all the discipline that thwarts childhood...

"I had a girl." I hear this every day. I find myself saying it too. "I had a girl." I wonder sometimes what it means to have a dear little baby girl to rock to sleep in infancy...

The heart of a girl. That is what sets me to grave thinking sometimes. It is the heart after all that is going to count when womanhood comes. She will become a wife, a mother...

If I had a girl. I wonder if I would thrust aside the little arms that cling to me when the thunder and lightning make afraid the little children...

If I had a girl. I wonder if I would get her, walk up and down the streets, unattended save by other companions no wiser than she, ogling and being ogled by every idler on the street...

"One day heard what a wonderful medicine Peruna is and what it has done for others, so I bought a bottle and tried it. I could hardly realize my good fortune, when, before I had taken a whole bottle of it, I felt like a new woman. I took it for some time longer and also gave some to the baby and she improved as rapidly and as permanently as I did."

"I cannot say too much for Peruna. Uses Peruna in His Family. Mr. Frank W. Harris, box 23, Basic City, Va., member A. F. & A. M., writes: 'I have used Peruna in my family with very satisfactory results for the last two years.'

"The Republican Party Stands for an Honest Dollar and a Chance to Earn it by Honest Labor."

To The Good Citizens of Texas Before You Vote

Are you satisfied with the present condition of the country?
 Do prices for farm and manufactured goods suit you?
 Do real estate values suit you?
 Do wages for the workingman suit you?

IF SO WHY VOTE FOR A CHANGE?

Are you tired of inefficient legislation at Austin; of a constant deficit in the state treasury? Probably Texas will not go Republican this year. Still every vote helps. Don't get the idea that it will not. Try Voting Once for the Party of National and International Progress. Vote as your heart tells you, not as your neighbor does.
 Think, those of you who supported Mr. Bell, Mr. Brooks and Mr. Colquitt before the primary of what you said of Mr. Campbell. Will you support him?

Here is what the Houston Post, edited and managed by the Democratic National Committeeman for Texas, said editorially on July 27, 1906—the day before the primary:
 "Col. Campbell's platform is highly unsatisfactory for lack of coherency. He is woefully deficient in his understanding of the tax and educational systems. His attitude towards the railroads of the state amounts to almost rapine and violence. While it is utterly improbable that he could do one-tenth of what he threatens to do, even if the legislature should assist him, it is nevertheless unwise and unjust to predicate an administration of state affairs upon a general assault on the state's transportation facilities."

I want the name and address of every Republican and every person in Texas who believes in Republican principles nationally. Won't you write me and give me your name and above all go to the polls and vote on election day. We have the cleanest, best Republican state organization we ever had and we want every vote cast. Every one helps.

There is only one Republican State ticket. Here it is, composed of clean and honest men who solicit your vote.

- For Governor,
Carey A. Gray
- For Lieutenant Governor,
Frederich Hofheinz
- For Chief Justice Supreme Court,
Frank B. Stanley
- For Associate Justice Court Criminal Appeals,
Alexander G. Foster
- For Attorney General,
Charles W. Ogden
- For Comptroller,
Wentworth Mannering
- For State Treasurer,
George M. Booth
- For Commissioner General Land Office,
Henry C. Harding
- For Railroad Commissioner,
W. F. Connor
- For Superintendent Public Instruction,
F. Vandervort

Respectfully,
 CECIL A. LYON,
 Chairman Republican State Executive Committee.

Sherman, Texas.

Let every Republican and every citizen of Texas who believes a change or a closer vote in the state would be beneficial go to the polls and vote the Straight Republican ticket on election day

SAUL OF TARSUS

A love story of early days in the Christian era is "Saul of Tarsus" (the Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis), by Elizabeth Miller, author of "The Yoke."

Some years ago, before Queen Victoria's death and about the time that the queen's jubilee was to be celebrated, the following conversation between two old Scotchwomen was overheard one day on a street corner in London:

Whereupon Hopkins, with a smile of conscious superiority, replied: "Sir, I have an office in Richmond wherein the show is delighted to enlighten you on any point of law for a consideration."

The late Maurice Barrymore told a capital story one evening. It has gone the rounds more or less since then, but I have never seen it in print:

IN AN OLD GALLERY BY ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

BEFORE the statue of a giant Hun, There stood a dwarf, misshapen and uncouth, His lifted eyes seemed asking, "Why, in sooth, Was I not fashioned like this mighty one; Would God show favor to an older son, Like earthly kings, and beggar without ruth, Another, who sinned only by his youth? Why should two lives in such divergence run?"

The New World Language
The new language, "Esperanto," which is designed by its sponsors for world use, and which, it is claimed, will greatly simplify intercourse between people of different tongues, is the subject of an explicit and luminous paper in the current Harper's Weekly by Professor George Macloskie, of Princeton, the foremost advocate in the country of the new language.

THE SILVER CROWN

In "The Silver Crown" (Little, Brown & Co., Boston, $1.25) Laura E. Richards has written a book of fables of no unusual literary merit and of obvious religious sentiment. It is suitable for minds of children between the ages of 7 and 12, though there are plenty of fables applicable to persons of much more mature years.

LITERARY NOTES

A Man Who Created a Type
It is a great thing to be able to create a type; but that is precisely what Richard Harding Davis did in his character of long ago, Van Bibber.

The Humors of Our Geography

No, the Englishman will never learn American geography. Here is a London newspaper praising Helena Ritchie to the skies, and then saying that the author, Mrs. Deland, lives in Boston, but spends her summers at "Old Chester," the town which she has immortalized and which is "near Boston."

Mr. Dooley and Charles Lamb

It is probable that Finley Peter Dunne never thought of comparing himself with Charles Lamb for the quality of the humor of these two writers is so vastly different, altho they is perfect in its kind.

The "Thunderer" and Conrad

The average Englishman says what may be termed actual and awed devotion to what he calls the "Thunderer"—otherwise known as the London Times. And it is therefore the more interesting to find that the "Thunderer" admiringly discussing Joseph Conrad's latest book, the Mirror of the Sea, recently published by the Harpers, is declaring in the course of a long and laudatory review that never before have such varied qualities been united in a writer of the sea as are found in Mr. Conrad's book.

Calling a Spade a Spade

Somebody cleverly remarked, once upon a time, that a spade is a spade, and that it is some body else's spade. It might particularly be expected that H. G. Wells, the famous English author, would call a spade a spade in his latest volume, for it is written about America—and his own home, in Sandgate Kent, is at "Spade House."

The Way of the Translator is Hard

That the way of the translator is hard was learned by Will N. Harben only by hard experience. He began his literary work by translating stories from the German, and the editor of a periodical for which he did a great deal of this work, including even a translated serial, failed to pay him any money!

Women Write to Him

The frequent references, by reviewers, in discussing Ann Boyd, the recently published novel by William N. Harben, to similarities between the situation which lies at the root of the story and the situation of the heroine of the Scarlet Letter, gives particular interest to the book.

Some Towns Delightfully Described

A book which is certain to be among the most popular of the season is "Certain Delightful English Towns" by William Dean Howells, which the Harpers are to publish next week. The book is to be profusely illustrated, and Harpers get full of that charming quality which has made Mr. Howells a classic in his own lifetime.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless; Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food; Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."
Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."
Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."
Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."
Dr. Wm. J. McCann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."
Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

SYNOPSIS.
Florlan Amidon, a rich young banker of Hazelhurst (a middle western American town) decides to indulge in his favorite hobby, photography. He takes the afternoon train and after alighting at a junction, does off to sleep and wakes up in a Pullman car to find himself known as Eugene Brassfield, wealthy oil operator, New York club-man, engaged to an attractive young woman and involved in a mass of business of which he is ignorant, while the year is five years later than the one in which he started his journey. A clairvoyant to whom he applies for aid, in solving his mystery is assisted by a hypnotist who puts Amidon in a trance, and while in that state his identity as Brassfield becomes normal. From conversations taken down in shorthand, during his hypnotic state, Amidon learns something of the business affairs of Brassfield, and with this meager help he is enabled to preserve something of Brassfield's position, the often sadly bewildered. He finds himself involved in a complex electric reaction deal, the details of which are unknown to him. He also learns that his victory in a suit involving valuable property hinges on happenings of a date prior to his existence as Eugene Brassfield.

city we are all devoted members. Present company are members, but incumbent, of the board of control, and a system of fines for absence at board meetings accumulates a fund which has to be spent, and we are now engaged in spending it. Beyond the logic of the situation, which points unerringly to the blowing-in of this fund, the impending happy event in the life of our treasurer, Brother Brassfield, together with the public honors already and about to be conferred on him, render it fitting that this banquet be in his honor. What the devil is that racket? Oh, the boy—! Let the wandering califf enter! What says the recreant invader of our Mystic Circle?
"He said he'd hev me 'rested 't I came there any more, an' the whole bunch pulled," said the boy. "An' he clucked the parrot out of the window."
"Let another scroll be preared," roared Simpson, "and go back to him as per schedule."
"Eugene," said the boy "he said —"
"We hold the police force in the hollow of our hands!" shouted Simpson. "We will protect you."
"I should say we would!" "You trust us!" "To the death!" chorused the roisterers.
"I'll collect damages from him for your death!" said Judge Blodgett.
"Divide the booty!" said the boy, "among my grandchildren—ekally. Do I go back?" said Simpson, "as soon as another Exhibit A is prepared."
"It's ready, most noble Potentate," said Edgington ritualistically.
"Where's that menu I had? Hang it, you've used it for the kid, and it had my remarks on it. As I was saying, this is Brassfield's night, and he's evidently told a story, sings a song or dances."
Edgington told a story which, he said, was "on Brassfield," and showed what a regular deceiver a gentleman had been. It seemed that he and "Brass" were at one time fly-fishing in the mountains, and Eugene had so caught on the part of the school mistress that she had let school out at three, and gone to learn casting of Brassfield.
And when they came to the house at supper time," he went on, "the whole family were laying for them. 'Ketch anything?' said the old lady, 'anything more?' a bullhead 'I c'n see' said the hired man, 'that shoe's been castin' purty hard by the way her dress is kinder pressed around the waist. It alters fixes mine that way.'"
And so on, to the narration of the outbreak of hostilities with the hired man, and the flight of Brassfield and Edgington. As Brassfield, who was wincing, as he got views of Brassfield's character which hypnotism could not yield, and the assembly roared the louder at his embarrassment.
The messenger boy returned again by this time, still unsuccessful, and was provided with a bunch of cannon firecrackers to be set off in Cox's front yard so that the invitation to the banquet might not be overlooked. Then Slater told of Mr. Brassfield's adventures at the race track, and the story consisting mostly of the account of Eugene's wonderful series of winnings at the race course, where he adopted the system of betting on the judges' stand. Said he never saw the judges' stand run with the horses before (laughter); thought it was a good idea—judges could always tell whether the riding was fair (cheers); and put his money on Azim at about one hundred to one; and when Azim romped in his triumph, they stuffed all his pockets full of money, and the reporters came with cameras to get shots at the northern millionaire who had such a thundering good luck, and Cox ought to have seen 'Gene when he saw the papers in the morning! Had to take him to Pass Christian next day. It was too strong for you, that humbly servant at New Orleans. All the sports knew him by this time, and wanted to run into him so as to touch him for luck, and 'Gene wanted to fight every guy that touched him, and about half the time was getting accommodated and taking steady money in every fight." (Great laughter and applause.)
Amidon was unable to tell as to the absolute truth of these tales, but they had such verisimilitude that they impressed and shocked him. He was doubly astounded at the evidence of mental with which they were received by his friends, and especially at the fact of the hearty and unrestrained manner in which Blodgett and even Blatherwick joined in the applause. Every shot from the quiver of horse-play (except those aimed at the luckless Cox) directed at him, Amidon, the dignified. Here, it seemed, he was known to have been guilty of gambling, drunkenness and libertinism—the three vices of the street—his face burned with shame. How had Elizabeth ever cared for such a man as that villain Brassfield? Where was the Sir Galahad, or Lancelot, he, in this life? He must somehow, some time, find a way to tell her that he was Brassfield, not Amidon, who had done these things, and that he, Amidon, reared by a dotting mother and cared for by a solicitous sister, and all his life the model of the moral town of Hazelhurst, was as innocent of these things as she was.
These thoughts so filled his mind that he heard very little of Judge Blodgett's dialect story. Professor Blatherwick, however, in a long fall of trilled 'r's, aches and hechs; but became offended at Bullwinkle's strident "How-de-do!" at the end of the first sentence, between Fox and Judge Blodgett, for the first time sensing that something was wrong in the goodness of his heart began singing, "How-de-do!" and the song, "The Outfit," in seeming compliment to the nationality of the professor; but, owing to the subtlety of the reasoning, the professor failed to detect such. Life took on a written summons, and he hurled his card down on the table with a bang, at which Bullwinkle slipped under the mahogany.
"Gently as a skylark settles down Upon the clustered treasures of her nest."

Say That Atlanta's Officers Are in Fault

Special to The Telegram. ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 3.—In its presentments yesterday the Fulton county grand jury declared that the city police force of Atlanta "opposed a determined front to the mob at the inception of the riots of Sept. 22, all serious trouble could have been averted." It finds that after the riot was under full headway, individual members of the police force, with some exceptions, acted with courage and with a consciousness of the seriousness of the situation, excepting that there was too little disposition to resort to stringent measures in protecting the innocent and helpless.

THE COMANCHES' LAST RAID

A Story of Texas' Final Struggle with the Indians for Mastery of Southwest. By J. Marvin Nichols.....

Written Specially for The Telegram. In the closing days of the thirties and the opening years of the forties, Texas wrote her history in blood. The pioneers who sought to redeem this vast, howling wilderness were closed in on every side. In all that mighty territory south of San Antonio, and on into the land of the Mexicans, the treacherous soldiers of Santa Anna bore down upon them. From the encampments and all the regions of the north, the Comanches and their allied savages built highways out of human bones and smoldering ruins.

It was the spring of 1836. The Texas colonists—heroic, dauntless spirits that they were—had beaten their retreat from Santa Anna's advancing Mexicans. From then, until 1839, the wild tribes of the north stole their horses, burned their homes, killed their people and carried captive their women and children into the far-away Comanche land. Many council fires were kindled—many peace-pipes were smoked. But, gifts having been made to them by their white foes, the chiefs invariably turned their ponies' heads toward their wigwams only to plot a more dastardly raid when the moon shone again.

Capital Moved. The seat of government in the fall of '39 was moved from Houston to Austin—the ancient and settlement in the Colorado. So remote was it that not a cabin stood west, north or east above the falls of the Brazos. The Texas republic was outraged by the perfidy and faithlessness of the savage tribes. Hundreds mourned their wives and children held captive by the Indians. The capture of Santa Anna in 1840, when Albert Sidney Johnston was secretary of war, the pioneers determined on a final truce that should never be broken. This war was to the hit of the sword and arrow's feathery. The cries of the captives inspired them. The faithless treachery of the savages stirred them. The edict of the settlers meant final recovery of every captive—a final treaty that should stand unbroken. That—or death!

While the whites were thus in council it appears that the Indians, eighteen days before, had anticipated the action of the palefaces. About the time the secretary of war received the letter from the government in Texas, he got one from Colonel Karnes of San Antonio. There had visited him three Comanche chiefs who told him of their desire for peace. They had, however, with their broken treaties, told the chiefs that no peace was possible unless it came with the return of every captive and unless his father in property. This, Muk-war-rah declared was the desire of the tribes. They left under the promise to return within thirty days.

Fights Among Indians. Among all the Indians of the plains the last three years, prior to the famous council of 1840, were filled with stirring events. In the winter of '35 the Kiowas lost their famous chief, Big-face was killed on a raid led into Mexico. The summer of '36 witnessed the big sun dance on Wolf river. After the dance the Kiowas moved north to the Arapahoes and the Kiowas made a visit to the Crows to buy the teeth of ermine and the elk for their squaws. While they were on the Cheyennes laid their traps in ruins. When the snows of '36 began to fall one Kiowa band was raiding in upper Missouri, another in Old Mexico. Big-face was the big chief. Man, who was killed by a Timber Mexican beyond the Rio Grande. In the summer of '37, because of their quarrels with the Arapahoes, Kiowas and Comanches held the "waglan sun dance" on the north fork of Red river. Moving southward, they encountered the bloody Cheyennes whose medicine stick they captured and whose big sachem they slaughtered.

When the leaves began to fall in '37, the Comanches fought their enemies in the Brazos. The year closed with the memorable event of dragging thru their camps, and at the end of their rations, the disheveled heads of the Arapahoes, they carried away as trophies. The outraged Arapahoes, aided by the Cheyennes, fought the combined tribes of Apaches, Kiowas and Crows. The Kiowas and Comanches fled to the north. The Kiowas and Comanches fled to the north. The Kiowas and Comanches fled to the north.

The peace pipe, now emblematic of war—was sent from tent to tent, from clan to clan, from tribe to tribe. Their men, their women, their children smoked it. But it must be a silent preparation. The light of the moon was thirty days away. No till then would they go. So ready was the sky written on uncovered trees, on the faces of the gray cliffs, on the wampum belts sent here and there. This was the edict that was Suyeta's call to arms. Sun-boy and his wild clans heard the wild tattoo. The Comanches heard the song and the claxon call from the tent of their great sachem. Soon, he gathered about that fire hole, stood a circle of determined warriors. They passed outside the tent. Each in turn beat upon Suyeta's buffalo hide. Each sang with him his travel song. War was now fully declared. And it was to be "the bloody year" in all Texas history.

Suyeta, now once more alone, bent a long stick, like a hoop, around the fire hole of his wigwam. Beating time upon it with his own stick, the old sachem began—in the weirdest fashion—the singing of his travel song. The medicine lodge was not so furious as to miss that note. It was Suyeta's call to arms. Sun-boy and his wild clans heard the wild tattoo. The Comanches heard the song and the claxon call from the tent of their great sachem. Soon, he gathered about that fire hole, stood a circle of determined warriors. They passed outside the tent. Each in turn beat upon Suyeta's buffalo hide. Each sang with him his travel song. War was now fully declared. And it was to be "the bloody year" in all Texas history.

OVERDOSE OF POISON
Causes the Death of Anthony Thomas of Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Anthony Thomas, aged 26 years, son of former Justice Thomas of this county, died here today from an overdose of poison.

To Get More Strength from Your Food.

WHEN the Bowels are filled with undigested food we may be a great deal worse off than if we were half starved.

Because food that stays too long in the Bowels decays there, just as if it stayed too long in the open air.

Well, when food decays in the Bowels, through delayed and overdue action, what happens?

The millions of little Suction Pumps that line the Bowels and Intestines then draw Poison from the decayed Food, instead of the Nourishment they were intended to draw.

This Poison gets into the blood and, in time, spreads all over the body, unless the Cause of Constipation is promptly removed.

That cause of Constipation is Weak, or Lazy Bowel Muscles.

When your Bowel-Muscles grow flabby they need Exercise to strengthen them, not "Physic" to pamper them.

There's only one kind of Artificial Exercise for the Bowel-Muscles. Its name is "CASCARETS," and its price is Ten Cents a box.

So, if you want the same natural action that a six mile walk in the country would give you, (without the weariness) take one Cascaret at a time, with intervals between, till you reach the exact condition you desire.

One Cascaret at a time will properly cleanse a foul Breath, or Coated Tongue.

Don't fail to carry the Vest Pocket Cascaret Box with you constantly.

All Druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC."

HINTS BY MAY MANTON

5501 Seven Gore Skirt. 22 to 28 waist.

of the child mother that the doll shall be dressed in an up-to-date fashion as it is to the real one to see her little daughter properly clothed. Here is an attractive and altogether stylish little outfit that is simple and that can be made by the older doll lovers themselves, while it involves so little labor that even the busiest mother will not hesitate to undertake it for the tiny girl who is not yet old enough to handle the needle. It is in Peter Pan style and as illustrated the waist is of white linen with the collar of shepherd's check and the little hat is made of silk with trimming of braid and quills, but any material that will be liked can be made alike if an entire costume is preferred and that hat can match or be made of anything that harmonizes therewith.

The waist is made exactly as are those of the real folk and is finished at the front edges with hems. It includes three-quarter sleeves and roll-over collar. The skirt is in one piece and kilt plaited and the hat consists of crown and brim. The quantity of material required for a doll 22 inches in height is, for either waist or skirt 1/2 yard of material 27 inches wide and for hat 1/4 yard of material. For a 24-inch size for dolls of 18, 22 and 26 inches in height.

Blouse or Shirt Waist 5502—To Be Made With Long or Three-quarter Sleeves

Fancy waists are exceedingly charming, but no matter how many one may possess there exists a need for plain and simple ones such as the model illustrated. In this instance the material is taffeta simply stitched with trimmings and with very pretty ornamental buttons, but numerous light weight flannels, cashmeres and other wool materials are as appropriate as the one shown. The quantity of material required for a doll 22 inches in height is, for either waist or skirt 1/2 yard of material 27 inches wide and for hat 1/4 yard of material. For a 24-inch size for dolls of 18, 22 and 26 inches in height.

5502 Blouse or Shirt Waist. 22 to 40 bust.

The skirt is cut in seven gores and is laid in inverted plaits at front, back and sides. The trimming bands are arranged over indicated lines and attached to position with belling silk.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3/4 yards 27, 5 yards 44 or 52 inches wide when material has figure or nap; 7 yards 27, 4 yards 44 or 3 1/2 yards 52 inches wide when it has not.

The pattern 5501 is cut in sizes for a 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32-inch waist measure.

5505 Doll's Peter Pan Suit. 18, 20 and 22 inches in length. Doll's Peter Pan Suit 5505. It is as necessary to the happiness.

ARE YOU A BROMIDE

Gelett Burgess, delineator of Gops and lyrical of the Purple cow, comes forward with a valuable work of which this is the full title: "Are You a Bromide? or, The Sulphuric Theory Expounded and Exemplified According to the Most Recent Researches into the Psychology of Boredom; Including Many Well Known Bromidisms Now in Use." (New York: B. W. Huebner.)

You probably are a Bromide, since the majority of us are. If not, then you are a Sulphite, for those are the only two kinds of people in the world. The terms, Mr. Burgess explains, are themselves so bromidic that they are not susceptible of explanation. But of this you may be sure, that if you do your thinking by syndicate you are a Bromide. You are one if you utter Bromidisms, such, for example, as the following:

If you saw that sunset painted in a picture you'd never believe it would be possible.

I don't know much about Art, but I know what I like.

The Japanese are such an interesting little people!

The Salvation Army reaches a class of people that churches never do.

Of course if Bromidism is to want a policeman, there's never one within miles of you.

I don't go much to the heat (or the cold) as the humidity in the air.

I don't know what we ever did without the telephone.

I never read Bertals.

I and so on. There are thousands of Bromidisms which initiate in the new theory will have no trouble in recognizing. It is not merely the Purple Cow man points out, because, these remarks are true that they are bromidic; it is because that, with the Bromide, they are inevitable—and "always" offered by the Bromide, as a fresh, new, apt and rather clever thing to say.

The essence of the Sulphuric mind, being originality, spontaneity, and definition of this minority type can be attempted. All cranks, we are told, all reformers and most artists are sulphuric. The insane asylums are full of Sulphites. Hamlet was a Sulphite; Polonius a Bromide. Becky Sharp was a Sulphite; Amelia Sedley bromidic. Mr. Burgess himself is admittedly a Sulphite. Fancy a Bromide inventing the Purple Cow!

There is no space here to go into the refinements of the classification. But the sulphuric theory is lovely and makes practicable a "shorthand of conversation." The credit of first discovery is attributed and the book dedicated "To Gertrude McCall, Chateaufort de Mac Manor." If you are a Bromide you are expected to read this discovery is "epoch-making."

Soft Negligees

Pink—the soft, pretty shade that is so near akin to white—is the favorite color for negligees, gowns, short or long, with or without petticoats to match. Crepe de chine and albatross divide honors about evenly for the most costly robes. Two materials are especially useful, which are the soft, yet both of them full of rare possibilities of treatment, in entirely opposite ways.

In the longer negligees empire ideas rule, but any and every one of them is made with a fitted lining that reaches down below the waist, which the loose, full skirt of the empire—as its fullness cleverly arranged so as to do away with any possible bulkiness—in pretty folds.

The waist is trimmed as elaborately as you please, some of them inset with lace, or with an occasional elaborate blouse, there's only enough of the material left to hold the bits of lace together. With others—occasionally—there's a buttoned side-clasped insertion set in, perhaps, in a straight row just above the hem and down the front and used in a yoke upon the bodice, or a modified key pattern, the many corners mitted neatly.

The skirt of one particularly pretty robe was cut off just above the knees and a flounce set there under a deep tuck. That flounce ended in a tuck upon its own occasion, under which was set another flounce. It was the cleverest, prettiest way of making the robe very full about the feet without making it awkward where it joined to the high-belted waist.

Some of the empire models show yokes made of box plaits, thru which (by means of carefully buttoned openings) wide, soft ribbon is drawn and tied into a big, effective cloud diaphanous front.

On one robe the flounces were apparently embroidered with polka dots and white—big ones, too, as large as a copper cent. There were bits of white satin, turned in neatly about the edges and braided stitched by way of appliquéing them to the material.

Some of the prettiest of lingerie embroidery, made in princess styles, and embroidered upon yoke (or upper) yoke and sleeves, are being worn over slips of delicate color—usually of China silk. Even if their first cost does seem a bit extravagant, there's nothing perishable about their beauty, for slips and all may make frequent trips to the tub without in the least marring the beauty of either.

Severe simplicity may have its day again—but it will not be the winter. The tiniest peep in shop windows makes this evident. Braids, passementeries, insets, jettied and jeweled laces, hats and chiffon volants, all are bowered and befringed; hand embroidery everywhere; velvet and braids in the most remarkable combinations; nets and chiffon volants, all southeasted taffeta; filmy, glittering sequins, beads, bugles, and danglers; ornate buttons as big as silver dollars; wonderful buckles in all patterns, gilt and silver; rhinestones and colored jewel effects—such as a few of the gauds with which lovely woman is to beautify her person and deplete her pocketbook.

This is to be a color season beyond all in nothing is more marked than in the new trimmings. Never have so perfect has become the designer's skill in harmonious blending of many tones. In fact, if you really want to grow delirious with admiration and indelicacy try to decide on some particular applicability of color among the bewildering assortment from which choice may be made.

Few evening or house gowns are without at least a touch of this color-ed trimming. For an elaborate white gown something could be lovelier than a new applique with lilac-shaped clusters of small pink velvet flowers with gilt centers, shaded leaves of green ribbon with gold and a heavy gold edging.

GROW THIS HAIR AND WE CAN PROVE IT

MISS JEANETTE WALLICE, 43 W. 14TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

When the scalp throws off either dandruff or a greasy substance, it is an evidence of scalp disease, and no time should be lost in correcting it. You certainly would not hesitate to take treatment were you to look at this matter through a magnifying glass. When highly magnified it resembles a vast mass of insects. These creatures absorb the nutriment or life-sap of the scalp causing the scalp to become dry and feverish, resulting in the loss of hair and finally baldness. Danderine works wonders in all such cases. It thoroughly eradicates all trace of scalp bacteria and makes the hair grow unusually long, strong and beautiful. One 5-cent bottle is enough to show you that it will do this and also more. NOW at all drugstores, three sizes, 25c, 50c, & $1.00 per bottle. KNOWLTON DANDERINE CO., CHICAGO.

Pineapple-apricot marmalade—A delicious marmalade can be made of pineapple and apricots. Slice each an apple thin, cut out the heart, which is tough and stringy, and cut the slices into small squares. Use very ripe apricots and after pitting them, cut into small pieces and mix with the pineapple "cup for cup," or in equal parts. Add sugar also, "cup for cup," or a cupful to each cupful of the fruit. Boil slowly until the mixture is thick and mushy. Put into jars, let stand open 24 hours, then wax over with paraffine and cover.

A simple cold starch for dainty shirts, made of pieces of ivory soap, by mixing a smooth suds of ivory soap, and rubbing in the starch until the mixture has the right thickness. Thoroughly saturate the garment, wring dry, and roll tightly away in a clean cloth for a while. Then iron dry with a good hot iron. The soap smoothes the starch and prevents staining. By using the soap suds the annoyance and risk of having the cloth adhere to the hot iron will be eliminated. Try it.

Don't throw away worn window curtains if they have any pretty embroidered pattern. If you will carefully cut out the embroiders and applique it on some dark material, you will have a pretty pillow top, dresser cover or colored curtains. The patterns of old or colored laces can be utilized in this way with rich effect.

A quick variation of the pot roast is to boil the meat until tender and then add the gravy, finish it in an open skillet, basting the natural gravy in which it cooks over the meat, until the roast coating is formed, and then add thickening to the gravy. Cooked this way it has a different flavor than when cooked in a covered pot.

Appearances Against Them

Ruth was a city-bred little girl and was making her debut into country life. While out driving with her mother she saw several men and women kneeling in a row, their faces close to the ground.

"What are they doing?" she asked in an awe-struck whisper.

"Worshipping the onions, dear," her mother replied.

"Oh," with a sigh of relief, "I thought they were praying to the devil."—Lippincott's.

Anecdote of Mohammed

The prophet gazed long and earnestly at the advancing foe.

"Who is in command for us today?" he asked, at length.

"Caled, the Sword of Allah," replied the vizier at his side.

"Caled," the vizier said to the Sword of Allah, and tell him to look sharp," quoth Mohammed, promptly; but inasmuch as he spoke in Arabic, and with a gloomy brow, it was left to the higher critics of a later age to see the joke.—Puck.

Lord's Break in Conversation Amuses Friend—Alfred Beit's House for Sale

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Queen Mary, Norway, King Edward's daughter, with her husband, King Haakon, say a visit of state to London next month, has written to her friend Alfred Beit, expressing a feeling of great homesickness.

Her own thoughts is of Appleton, the little cottage in Norway, close to Sandringham, where she spent her happiest years of her early life as Princess Charles of Denmark. She dreads the state procession through the streets and the inevitable luncheon at the Guildhall, and is pining for the English cottage which Alfred Beit is already busy preparing.

It is an open secret that Queen Mary never desired that her husband should rule over Norway, but she writes from the time, "I don't want you like or dislike, but I want you to be king of my favorite daughter."

Sir Ernest King's Favorite

Sir Ernest Cassel, the king's companion, has been christened "gentlemanly" in waiting. Although Sir Ernest is a German, and is usually known as "the German" in private life, he is an official courtier, and has a privy councillor position. Sir Ernest accompanied the king on a tour to the county houses of the king, and is not considered a amusing companion, but his common sense and business ability are his indispensable qualities. Sir Ernest is not considered a "wise" man, but his common sense and business ability are his indispensable qualities.

Woman An Auto Driver

Miss Dorothy Levitt, the famous motorist, who has recently established a world's record by driving a motor car at ninety-two miles an hour, has been presented with a small advertisement which appeared in a London newspaper some ago.

Mr. E. J. Edge, the famous racing car manufacturer, wanted a driver, so he inserted the usual notice. To the ad. he received a number of replies. Many of the ladies he interviewed personally, one of them being Miss Levitt.

He did his best to shout at all the ladies and scare them in many ways, but Miss Levitt was the only one who remained composed. Mr. Edge consulted with the other members of the committee and selected Miss Levitt. The lady proved to be only a very moderate typist, but she is the best possible advertisement for a car that a manufacturer ever obtained.

Strathcona a Busy Man

An amusing story is going the rounds in connection with the late Lord Strathcona, one of the greatest of the "old man" of Canada, who was the central figure at the opening of the new buildings of Aberdeen university in the morning.

Lord Strathcona, who was kept waiting at the time, made a dive into a hotel "between the acts" and was seen along with Lord Strathcona, who was built for himself, is now for sale at the Duke of Connaught, who has bought it for himself.

"Oh, I see you have been talking to the Duke of Connaught, what he said?"

Lord Strathcona was only fustled for a moment. "Well I'm sorry I was short with the duke, but I recall an am very busy. Good day."

Beit's House for Sale

A splendid opportunity is now offered to a rich American or colonial who acquires a small but perfect lot in a perfect situation. No. 22 Park Lane, the house which the late Alfred Beit, the South African magnate, built for himself, is now for sale. The house was left to his brother, Mr. Otto Beit, whose wife is one of the most prominent American ladies in London. Mr. Beit bought a magnificent house in Belgrave Square from the duke of Devonshire some years ago and has no children.

The feature of the late Alfred Beit's house is the large winter garden and beautiful wood panelling in the drawing room. Mr. Beit, with his wife, Mrs. Beit, the latter's clever sister, Mrs. Carter, are very musical and all the best talent in London entertains in Belgrave Square.

Lord's Break in Conversation amuses Friend—Alfred Beit's House for Sale

BY PAUL LAMBETH. Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) LONDON, Nov. 3.—Queen Maud of Norway, King Edward's daughter, who with her husband, King Haakon, will pay a visit of state to London next month, has written to her friends expressing a feeling of great homesickness.

Sir Ernest is not considered a very amusing companion, but his shrewd common sense and business ability make him indispensable, and the king takes his advice on all subjects, much to the jealousy of certain court officials who do not share his majesty's confidence.

Sir Ernest intends to open his palace in Park Lane with a royal luncheon which will outshine any ever given in London. The party will be given next spring.

THIEF REVELS IN ARMY STORES

Supplies Systematically Taken From Military Camp

BY PAUL VILLIERS. Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) PARIS, Nov. 1.—The theft of many millions worth of army stores has been discovered at the great military camp of Chalons. It is believed that the robbery has been going on for a number of years.

The leakage was discovered by the finding of a sack of army flour at a bakery. When the package was opened the man declared he had got the flour from a person named Oscar Cadix who lived near the barracks.

CHORUS GIRL'S STORY READS LIKE CINDERELLA

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—In words of wonderment the show girls in the Broadway theaters are discussing the one absorbing between-the-acts topic concerning the astonishing rise to fame and position of Camille Clifford, now the wife of the Hon. Henry Lyndhurst Bruce, son and heir of Lord Aberdale of England.

Her return to London was followed by a fluffy quarrel with Edna May, to whom Camille Clifford took a dislike, it is said, because of the latter's efforts to bear the popularity of the girl who had once been an emigrant domestic in Boston.

Death Ends Romance of Russian Noble

ARISTOCRATS TAKE TO TRADE

Earning a Living No Longer Disgrace in France

BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE. Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) PARIS, Nov. 3.—The French aristocracy is fast becoming Americanized. Evidences of the American ideas which are taking hold of our nobility are continually cropping up. Titled Frenchmen are beginning to realize that it is not a disgrace to work, and that the mere fact of a man's earning money does not cost his social position.

Here are a few names, which, better than anything I can say, will indicate the commercial, and therefore American spirit which is awakening among our aristocracy.

Count de Kergoyat is at the head of an automobile factory. The Marquis de Dion long ago made the motor cars which bear his name famous.

When men bearing such names as the above decide to put their shoulder to the plow, as it were, it may be said of them and of the country that they are fast passing from the aristocratic to the democratic stage.

The disease came originally from Sumatra, and everybody knows, and nobody need be frightened thereby, there are microscopic leper colonies pretty much everywhere.

To Free White Slaves. On the 25th of last month, under the presidency of Senator Berniger, the congress for the prevention of the white slave trade was opened in Paris.

Another congress, the dancing masters' met a few days ago in Creteil, Germany. William II, who takes an interest in everything, even dancing, was honorary president. He did not address the meeting, or if he did, he said, but the emperor, who seeks in every way to emulate his illustrious ancestor, Frederick the Great, did not fail to let his faithful subjects understand that he admired the art of dancing and considered himself a past master thereof.

Baron Von Oertzen Starts Crusade Against Stage—Says Is Generally Immoral

BY MALCOLM CLARKE. Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BERLIN, Nov. 3.—The Kaiser is sending thirty Bibles with his autograph and a message in each to New York for thirty American converts who are converted to religion.

Hereafter, the Kaiser is giving away seventy of the Kaiser's Bibles to the roughest and poorest of the Wadsworth converts, and will take the rest to New York.

The widowed Grand Duchess Sergius of Russia is about to console herself by marrying her late husband's cousin, the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicolaievitch.

Germany is threatened with a woman famine in 2007. A. D. Herr Gustav Kukurich, a noted statistician, forecasts that the male population, increasing at its present rate, will be a hundred years hence outnumbered the female Germans by 2,000,000.

The author's latest production, "The Boat of Flowers," is "knee-deep in lewdness." The theaters which make a specialty of immoral plays form the third class of the baron's classification.

Baron Would Elevate Stage. A Comstock is on the warpath in Berlin. The Purifier of New York's German discipline being Baron von Oertzen, who has been telling the congress of associations for promoting public morality at Hannover will be a wretched public entertainment in the capital.

COLONEL POOLE AT THE SAN ANGELO FAIR

I shall now tell you something more about the carnival and fair at San Angelo. There were several counties competing for the best county exhibit in farm and garden products, the garden truck was immense. Irion county walked off with the blue ribbon on farm and garden truck. Bill Lackey of Sherwood has on hand that seven of them weighed over 10 pounds. These onions were grown from the seed planted in February; one acre of them produced a little over 27,000 pounds. They are the best I ever saw grown in any state and Mr. P. W. Howe had two varieties of corn, white and speckled, that made 85 bushels per acre, grown near Sherwood, but you must bear in mind all this stuff was irrigated and grown on Spring creek bottom land. Kershaws, pumpkins, beets, potatoes, cabbage and all garden truck. This party of west Texas is coming to the front as a farming country. This may sound a little fishy to you, but it is hard hammered facts. The hog show was a good one. Hillis & Morris were on hand with a fine string of fine blooded hogs and they were good ones. I was one of the three judges that passed on the hogs, and I want to say they were good ones. I think they had seventeen head in the show ring and got fourteen prizes. These gentlemen are in the business to stay. Their hog, chicken, turkey and pecker ranch is located seven miles from town on the North Concho river. They have for sale Poland-China and Berkshire pigs, also white and brown turkeys, peckers, ducks and two breeds of fine chicken eggs for sale. A letter will catch them at San Angelo. W. Davis Jones walked off with all the prizes from a sucking pig on Herford cattle and they richly deserved it, for this is a crack-er-jack herd. There were a number of splendid horses and jacks in the ring. This western country is peculiarly adapted to the production of horses and mules and the horse and mule men are getting there with both the premiums awarded, but it would string this communication out too long. I received a nice compliment while at the fair grounds. I was standing chatting to several lady friends, and said to them that I regretted to get old and baldheaded; that when a man got to that point he was no longer a favorite with the ladies. One of them said, "you are mistaken, and I think all sensible women do," and another one of them chimed in and said, "Mr. P., you ought to remember that all of us women love marble-topped furniture."

On Friday, the last day of the fair, a stiff, cold norther came, which made every one hunt for heavy clothing. It caught me with a little old thin, pen-cain black alpaca and thin underwear. I went into my grip and got out everything I had with me. Yes, I got out two pair of drawers, three shirts and still I was cold as a frog, but my old friend, Colonel A. J. Baker, kindly loaned me his good overcoat and still I am cold. Some of my friends said to me, you are dressed better than usual; you must be selling lots of horses at 12 o'clock. I did not tell them I was wearing a rich banker's coat. He will be in luck if he gets this coat back any more this winter. I am selling papers right along since I named this coat. Saying adieu to my many friends in Angelo. I took a seat beside me, my friend E. M. Barbee, behind a snapping good pair of black horses at 12 o'clock away from the south on the head waters of South Concho. Getting out two miles from town, right out in the open, be seen immense fields of alfalfa, corn and other feed stuffs. It will require a great many stock to consume this immense crop this winter. Grass is knee deep. Yes, all this western country has certainly got on her Sunday clothes. The stockmen are all wearing broad smiles and report grass always made money out of all the stuff all over this county better than any other year, and stock all in prime condition. The outlook for stock of all

Stockman-Journal at his home regularly. On Monday I had the pleasure of meeting a number of the boys who are the donors to the journal. Among them were Judge J. A. Whitten, F. S. Millard, Judge M. B. McKnight, C. E. Johnson, all prosperous ranchers. The latter is raising horses and mules, and is making a big success on his investment. The other gentlemen are all raising first-class, high-grade cattle. They all report a far better in this county than for several years past. Everybody in this country is in good shape and is making money. There is several fine bodies of land in this county, as good as a crow ever flew over it. It is equal to the black land belt of Texas. That is saying a great deal, but it is a hard-hammered gospel truth. I know what I am talking about. Beavers & Cousins planked down the required amount, and are now readers of the Stockman-Journal. They are the real estate agents of Schleicher county, and are doing a rushing business. Both are reliable gentlemen, and can fit anyone up with a farm or ranch up to thirty sections in size, and are ever ready to give strangers any information about land in this section. A letter will reach them at Angelo. J. P. Tandy, the leading sheep man of Schleicher county, also came forth with the required amount. He has a fine herd of Merino breed, and is making money every day. Mr. Tandy is an esteemed gentleman. About 10 o'clock Tuesday I again hit the road, headed for Sonora, the seat of government for Sutton county. There is some beautiful country between Eldorado and Sonora. The land is rich and fertile, being of a black heavy substance, like Collin, Grayson and Fannin counties. We struck the head draw of Devil's river about ten miles out from Sonora. This is a narrow valley, skirted on each side by hills, rocky hills, two to four hundred feet high, with liveoak trees and brush and a little cedar growing on the sides and on top of the hills. The land is rich and fertile, well carpeted with grass, making an ideal stock country. This country has been blessed with fine rains all summer, therefore the grass is simply immense. Stock of all kinds is fat and in fine shape to go into the winter. We arrived in Sonora at 2 o'clock. A number of my old friends here extended me a hearty greeting, among them being Judge L. J. Wardlaw, F. T. Mayfield, T. D. Word, Charley Bryant, W. C. Bryson, W. C. Page, Frank Clout, A. F. Clark, J. J. Wyatt, G. W. Stephenson, J. T. Evans, M. W. Kuykendall, Sam H. Stokes, M. M. Farkerson and H. Thiers, all well-to-do stockmen. One and all reported reported stock of all kinds in prime condition and grass knee deep. Sutton county is strictly a grazing country. However, there is some good land in the county, fit for farming, but in small bodies. The merchants of Sonora do a good business, and carry first-class stocks of good in their respective lines. When stockmen come to town for supplies they carry it out by the two and four-horse teams. The town is a place of importance in selling to a farming community, as farmers buy in very small quantities. Sonora is an up-to-date town in every respect. The citizens are progressive people. A $10,000 school building is the pride of the town. Three churches, two hotels, three livery stables, one national bank, two newspapers, three saloons, three blacksmith and woodwork shops are among some of the organizations and business enterprises of the town. The legal fraternity is well represented here. Cornell & Wardlaw are the leading lawyers of Sonora. I met Frank Mike and Stephen Murphy, editors and proprietors of the Devil's River News, and Judge D. R. Woodruff, editor and proprietor of the Sonora Sun, for so many nice attentions during my stay in Sonora. They are all admirable gentlemen and are getting out good, spicy weekly papers. Both papers are well patronized all over this country. I had the pleasure of stopping at the Commercial hotel, Mrs. Jessie McDonald, proprietress. Mrs. McDonald is a dashingly sweet widow. Good meals and nice clean beds are provided for patrons, and the hostess has a pleasant word for all of her guests. She is very popular with all the stockmen and drummers. The latter I climbed aboard the mail hack beside my friend, Thorne Sarnall, who has the mail contract from Sonora to Juno. It is fifty miles from Sonora to Juno and piles back and forth every day, except Sunday. Thorne Sarnall is a nice, pleasant gentleman, ever ready to look after the comfort of his customers. This fine country with the Comstock stage line at Juno. Thorne had plenty of blankets and wraps and yet I got as cold as a barrel of sauer kraut before I could get to Juno. He had a day-break where we would get breakfast. He replied at Boogerville, eight miles from here. I said, "That is a new one on me; never heard of that town before." He said, "It is about an hour we halted in front of the De Hotel Boogerville, a pleasant young man approached me and said: "Do you wish a hotel?" I replied in the affirmative. He said, "Follow me and fear no evil," and he led the way into a tent. This town consists of one tent and a horse corral, where the stage horses are contained. There was a big pot of red hot coffee on a fire on the ground in front of the hotel, also a skillet of hot biscuits, meat, beans, etc. Thorne said it was his time to set 'em up, and at the same time called the bartender, who, by the way, is cook, chambermaid, horse rustler and hotel man. He at once produced a fine good stump of wood, as ever run out of a wildcat still, two tin cups were produced and Thorne and I took one each over the De Hotel Boogerville bar, then repaired to the dining room around the campfire and did ample justice to a good hot breakfast. I was just in the mood to do so after a thirty-mile drive. Again the driver called out, "All aboard for Juno," which is twenty miles down the Devil's river. At 11 o'clock the conductor called out, "All off for Juno." The road from Sonora to Juno, most of the way down the Devil's river valley, which is from four to eight hundred yards wide, both sides being skirted by rough, rocky hills from two to six hundred feet high, making beautiful scenery all the way thru, very sparsely settled by ranchmen. This is an ideal stock country and especially adapted to sheep and goats. Stock of all kinds are fat here. The nights and mornings are cold and chilly to me. Now, Mr. Reader, if you ever have an occasion to come this way, ride with Thorne Sarnall. He is a jolly, pleasant gentleman.

men to serve them. They jumped onto me for my support. I told them I could not do anything for them, as I was pledged to the other fellows. They looked a little crest-fallen over it and I had to explain that I lived in Parker county. Today I dropped out one mile from town and took a peep at E. E. Stricklen's fine Angola goats. They are extra fine ones, about two hundred names or does in this bunch, a number of them registered. He has probably as good goats as there is in the United States, and is making a big success out of the business. I examined the fleece on several of them, which is fine as silk. He had just got in from San Angelo with the two bucked bills. He spoke of in last week's issue. It was quite a treat to me to see these big white beauties. Now I will close. -Juno, Val Verde County, Texas, Oct. 12, 1906.

Thomas Palmer, an old friend of mine, soon showed up. He is a nice gentleman if he is an old batch and a prosperous rancher. He lives five miles out of town, raises some tip top horses and cattle, and is doing money easy right along. He, too, is an up to date rancher out ten miles from town and is raising some splendid Herford cattle that is an honor to any country. He, too, like Palmer, coughed up the required amount. They kicked a little about my doing business on Sunday, but I claim the better the day the better the deed. Thirty years ago Kerrville was regarded the western limit of the farming portion of Kerr county. West of there was considered fit only for wild people, wild cattle and wild hogs. Gradually a change came over this section of the country. The hunter, the cedar hauler, and the primitive stockman moved on in quest of game, free timber and free grass, and left the country in the possession of an intelligent thrifty lot of farmers and ranchmen here. This is my territory and long-horned Spanish cattle which only experienced cow punchers could handle, we now see herds of improved domestic hogs and cattle and sheep of Anglo goats and fine sheep. Four Hundred Years Ago!

Dandelion was used by the Arabs as a blood purifier. Today it is used by every medical man throughout the world, because every physician knows that it is one of the most valuable and effective of all Nature's remedies. On most prescriptions for pills and tablets you will see the words Ext. Tarax. Q. S.; this means extract of Dandelion, sufficient quantity. A doctor's prescription costs you anywhere from $1.00 to $5.00, and it is generally worth the money. DR. EDWARD'S Dandelion Tablets or Pills cost 25 cents for a box of thirty, and they are always worth the money, because they are a certain cure for those diseases for which they are recommended. Get a trial package free of cost from H. T. Pangburn & Co., and test them yourself.

What Dandelion Tablets and Pills are

Everybody knows that Dandelion is the most valuable of all Nature's remedies. Well, Dr. Edward's Tablets and Pills are simply common dandelion (Taraxicum) in a concentrated form, combined with other harmless ingredients of purely vegetable matter. They are one of the very few proprietary medicines endorsed by the medical profession. If your physician desires to know what these preparations contain, have him write us and we will gladly send him the information together with the name of the expert chemist who superintends their manufacture.

for this reason they never gripe or cause the least discomfort. They are equally good for children as well as adults, because they are a tonic and do not produce any unnatural condition of the bowels.

Stomach Trouble

The Tablets are the best to use in cases of Stomach Trouble which take the form of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour Stomach, etc., because they tone up the system and stimulate the flow of gastric juice, thus very effectively aiding the digestive organs to perform their proper functions. Their mildly cathartic action also relieves the stomach of all refuse and undigested matter.

Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

All Kidney trouble and nearly every case of Rheumatism is due to the presence of uric acid in the blood. Dr. Edward's Dandelion Pills thru their direct action upon the Liver and Kidneys restore these organs to a sound and healthy condition. The uric acid then passes away thru the natural channel and the blood becomes pure again and free from all poisonous matter.

We only guarantee to cure Rheumatism when it is caused by the presence of uric acid in the blood. We have cured hundreds of cases because this is usually the cause of rheumatic affections.

Liver Trouble

Thru their direct and immediate action upon the liver Dr. Edward's Dandelion Tablets and Pills induce a natural flow of bile. This relieves the congested condition of the liver and enables it to perform its important work of keeping the bowels and stomach in a healthy condition.

Nervous Trouble

It is well to remember that disordered nerves are nearly always caused by a disordered stomach. We do not make a specialty of nervous troubles unless they are caused by stomach trouble—then we cure them permanently.

George Ade, so well known as author of "Fables in Slang" will herd at Greenwall's opera house Tuesday matinee and night, November 7, when his musical satire, "The Sultan of Sulu," is produced.

The Daily Clarion Ledger, Jack Miss, said: "The Sultan of Sulu, a great, was the opinion of the late audience at the Century last night, laughed itself tired at the fun of babbles out in every scene of George Ade's musical satire, the success two seasons."

"The words and lyrics are fine, above the average, and the music tuneful and sweet, and many of the airs will be running in the heads of those who heard them for many days. The wit is keen and bright, and the humor is fine and delicate."

"The Sultan of Sulu" is presented in two acts, and deals with the social and political conditions following the purchase by the United States of the island of Jolo, which is part of the Philippine group. The American troops inform the sultan that his island no longer belongs to the United States, and that he is sultan no longer, but may hold the office of government, and conform

Field's Minstrels

Now on its twenty-second annual tour and has never experienced one unsuccessful season. Such is the remarkable record of the Al. G. crowded houses that greet the show everywhere attest its continued popularity.

"The Toast of the Town"

That Clyde Fitch has not lost the art of saying bright things is again demonstrated in his play, "The Toast of the Town," which Jane Kennark will present at Greenwall's opera house Friday matinee and night, November 9. In the first act of the play one of the characters says to the old Duchess of Malmesbury: "This is the throne Henry VII sits on when we play the drama by Master Shakespeare." To this the old duchess replies: "Henry VIII—the divorced fiend I call him! 'Twas never quality in a wife he wanted, but 'twas quantity." One of the characters is said to be a cousin, but not much of a cousin—"one many times removed; but we love her all the more for that. 'Tis wonderful sometimes how much more we do love our relations the farther off they are removed." The old duchess says: "The Malmesburys had royal blood in their veins. To be sure it formance. The play is always satisfactorily cast, but this season's company is said to be the best that has ever been seen in the play. A fine scenic production, all new, has been provided for this year's presentation. "In Old Kentucky" has attained the distinction of being the most popular of all American plays of the present day.

Coming Attractions

Charles Klein's American play, "The Lion and the Mouse," which Henry B. Hall, producer here at Greenwall's, has won from audiences in all the larger cities the most cordial demonstrations of approval and it has certainly taken rank as the notable success of the new century.

"Human Hearts"

The powerful and impressive melodrama, "Human Hearts," presented by an exceptionally strong company of players, will be offered for the approval of the lovers of all that is clean and wholesome in melodrama on the stage, at Greenwall's soon.

"Zaza," which comes to Greenwall's soon, will be played by Miss Mabel Montgomery, who is, without question, the only successful rival to Mrs. Leslie Carter, and our foremost emotional actress of the present day.

Miss Olga Nethersole has announced her intention to spend next summer in America, paying visits to various favored parts of the country, ultimately settling down to rest in some sequestered spot by the sea in Massachusetts.

It would be difficult to imagine two roles more diametrically opposite than those in which Charles B. Hanford is appearing during his present tour. No greater test of an actor's versatility could be commanded than the performance of two parts like "Iachimo" in "Cymbeline" and "Marc Anthony" in "Julius Caesar." The first is in some respects entitled to rank as Shakespeare's arch villain, the other is his most dashing and sympathetic hero. Both have the subtlety and intellect which appeal to the imagination. The true artist turns with equal facility to the delineation, both having attractive and sinister phases of human character. Indeed the fact that a malevolent role presents something of a handicap, because the sympathy of the audience was at the outset alienated gives such a portrayal an added fascination, as the players have preferred "Iago" and have allowed the part of "wretched" to fall to the care of the members of the supporting company, because it requires even more skill to command admiration for a villain than for a hero. If "Cymbeline" is a complete example of pernicious men it presents a no less complete picture of feminine loveliness. The role of "Imogen" appeals irresistibly both to men and women. In his unique character, a complete example of vivacious mentality, combined with the highest principles of honor and loyalty. It is a role in which any ache puts it: "A rough house in Cripple Creek is a pink tea to 'Pals.' 'Pals' is in lucid language, the greatest melodrama ever written into one act. But aside from this exciting feature, there is Harry De-Coe, who risks his neck every time he gives his daring performance with a stack of common kitchen tables and chairs. Then there is Gordon, who hammers a punching bag faster than the eye can follow the strokes; Veolette and Old, whose telepathic quickness of mind, sets a pace that the minds of the audience can hardly follow. George Redmond, and finds that all the servants save the stable boy are away from home. Then a riot ensues. They fight with fists and teeth and feet and heads and bottles and chairs and a pistol and what not. A champagne bottle hurled into the big chandelier, which crashes into thousands of fragments; decanters and other bottles smash the costly mirrors. Then the men clutch and clinch and scuffle and the lights are wrenched from the newel posts and the banisters from the stairs and up the stairs they go in Siamese embrace and down they roll with the husband on top, cackling the old college chum. Then the audience gets fighting mad, aroused by this unexpected realism. Mr. Finero's "Iris" is not to be mentioned on the same page with the windup of Mr. Day's "Pals." The play carries all of its own scenery, lights, and other appointments, and is an elaborate vaudeville act on the stage.

Paddock scene in "Old Kentucky."

De Coe

When a fool hardy young man piles table upon table and chair upon chair, all in one tottering pile, right over the footlights and then on the summit of this unsteady tower, balances himself on the hind legs of a common kitchen chair, he has done something that makes the cold shivers run down the back. This is only one of the remarkable feats accomplished by De Coe. He places a beer bottle on a table and then inserts the leg of the chair in the mouth of the bottle. Seated in the chair he successfully balances himself. The strong point of De Coe's work, is that he carries no specially grooved chairs and specially balanced tables. He does not need this trick equipment because his equilibrium powers lie within himself and not in equipment. De Coe is the undisputed leader in this line of work.

Veolette and Old

One of the principal attractions on the coming bill is a mind reading telepathic demonstration by Veolette and Old. Mr. Old goes into the audience, after blindfolding Veolette, a young lady, and touches various objects on persons, such as pins, furs, hats and coats. She tells accurately just what he points to. Moreover, she calls off the first names of numerous people, and the climax is reached when she tells the number on a greenback held by a man among the audience. It is a marvelous demonstration and leaves a mystery over which the spectators are always divided. Veolette is considered at the head of the several mind reading acts now before the public.

Lew Wells

Lew Wells is a law unto himself. He is not an imitator, but derives his stock of genuine wit from his own gray matter, which insures his success and great popularity. Aside from his fame as a monologist, Mr. Wells is the greatest saxophone performer in vaudeville. He has appeared not only in this country, but has recently toured the larger British cities, making the same impression there that has placed him at the top of his peculiar line in this country. The use of the saxophone by Wells both from the humorous standpoint and the serious, makes his performance one of the most unique that has been offered by the Majestic management.

Belle Gordon

Belle Gordon, known as "the athletic girl," is a novelty. Nothing like her performance has ever been seen here. She is an athlete pleasing to behold and evidently as vigorous as the blows she delivers on the punching bag. Such marvelous rapidity of execution is almost inconceivable in a woman and a young woman as it happens. The skill of her manipulation of the sphere is something to cause amazement. The cleverness of her performance is not marred by any suggestion of the female pugilist. On the other hand Miss Gordon is as fresh and healthy looking as the clean life of an athlete can make her. One of the pretty effects of her act is the music which she hammers out of the bag, to the accompaniment of the orchestra. No body of musicians ever played faster in their efforts to keep up with a pacemaker. Miss Gordon's act is something new and refreshing.

Le Cie

The entire scenic and lighting equipment of this spectacle is carried by the Laureles who present it. Jean Laurelle is the performer. A huge ball or planet rolls into a blue sky void. Dancing on the uppermost curve of the sphere is a graceful girl with flowing draperies.

Howard Morris

Morris is a whistling wonder. He imitates the birds of the fields, the noises of the city and many other things familiar to the ears of the world. His performance is a rare one of the kind, and is sure to please the patrons of the theatre.

"Not a dull moment" is the time-worn line of the press agent who pre-empted a bang, who woke above. The bill which opens at the Majestic next week does not give any spectator time to consider whether there are any dull moments. It keeps his nerves on the go from the rise of the curtain. Ashton Stevens, the dramatic critic of the San Francisco Examiner, says that "Pals" presents the most exciting "roog" home" ever seen on the stage. In fact,
