APATHY AND DOUBT ELECTION FEATURES

"Get Out and Vote" Being Urged Everywhere

SOUTH IS CARELESS

Little Interest Being Manifested Below Ohio River. Close Fight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—"Get out the vote," is the command from the political leaders throughout the country. Lack of interest is reported throughout many sections. This condition necessitates hard work at the polls and the assurance of favorable weather in the greater portion of the country is welcomed by all contending parties. The decided uncertainty as to the result of the balloting is a feature of the closing campaign news from nearly every quarter. This uncertainty was manifested in New York, Pennsylvania, Chicago and other sections by vigorous continuance of the campaign until midnight last night.

Messrs. Hughes and Hearst continued their terrific speaking records up to the last minute. Roosevelt's Last Act President Roosevelt's last act in the campaign was to telegraph his son-in-law, Representative Longworth, at Cincinnati yesterday to have portions of Secretary Root's Utica speech printed. The President's desire is that the republican congress might not be misunderstood in Ohio. The President left the White House at midnight for Oyster Bay, where he will vote, and will return to Washington, reaching here at 6:15 tonight.

William J. Bryan, who has been an active campaigner, closed with a speech on behalf of the fusion ticket at Plattsmouth, Neb., yesterday. Speaker Cannon, who averaged two speeches a day during the greater part of the campaign, is at Danville, his home. Vice President Fairbanks, as well as the majority of the members of the stump, are voting at their residences today.

The number of Washington voters who have gone to their homes today is smaller than for a decade. The absence of railroad passes on railroads is given as the reason.

Little Interest in South Reports from the "solid south" indicate little interest and a necessity of stimulating the voting. Missouri and Tennessee present interesting situations, and both parties concluded the campaign with confidence predictions of success. In Montana, the socialist party makes the confident claim of increasing its vote 6,000 over last year, and both republicans and democrats claim the state.

The earthquake in San Francisco is said to have so restricted the population of the city that old estimates cannot be relied on. Massachusetts has kept the fight warm until the last minute, and Boston was a midnight battle ground between the two parties.

In New York City and Chicago, the ballots are ponderous and with the prospect of many scratches. Long delay in arriving at results is predicted.

FAST VOTE IN ILLINOIS Fine Weather Brings Voters Out in Goodly Crowds

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Clear sky and Indian summer temperature greeted the voters of Illinois today and the indications are that the greater portion of the entire registration will be cast several hours before the polls close at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. There are seven different sets of candidates to be voted for, republican, democrat, prohibition socialist, independence league, progressive alliance and independent socialist labor. State candidates being voted for: State treasurer, superintendent public instruction, trustees University of Illinois, congressmen for twenty-five congressional districts and members of the next legislature will name the successor to United States Senator Culberson.

In Chicago voters will cast ballots

ONE LIFE IS LOST IN CHICAGO FIRE

And Four Aged Persons Were Rescued

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—An aged man died from the effects of a fire last night, at 16 Pauline street, and five other persons were rescued from the burning building. Of these, four were nearly as old as the victim of the fire, one was blind and another deaf. The victim was William Ogden, aged 70 years. He died while being taken to the county hospital in a police ambulance, after he had been carried unconscious from the building. The persons rescued were: Ralph Lamb, 65 years old. Mrs. Frances Lamb, his wife, 63 years old. Charles Miller, 65 years old. Mrs. Carrie Miller, his wife, 60 years old. Mrs. Sophia Mulholland, 42 years old. Ogden was a carpenter, and it is believed he had lain down on the bed to rest after working in his apartment. A sofa in one of his rooms is said to have caught fire from a stove.

The loss on the property, a two-story structure, was $1,000.

for a full set of county officers and judges of the new municipal court, which takes the place of the police courts throughout the city.

EXPECT TO WIN Do Democrats in Pennsylvania, Despite Butler Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 5.—The campaign in this state and city closed practically Saturday. Governor and other state officers and members of the legislature and congressmen will be chosen. Edwin S. Stuart, republican nominee for governor, is opposed by Lewis Emory Jr., candidate of the Lincoln party and the democrats.

Last year the Lincoln democratic fusionists elected William H. Berry for state treasurer by a big majority. Republican and fusionist leaders both claim the state and city. In several congressional districts bitter fights have been carried on and it is predicted that the democrats, who have at present but one representative in congress from this state, will gain several additional members.

TOO MUCH FOR HUGHES Republican Candidate of New York State About All In

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The Rev. Dr. David E. Hughes, father of Charles E. Hughes, told how he felt over the prospect of having his son the governor of the state. The Rev. Mr. Hughes has been the proudest of fathers ever since the candidate started his work with the insurance investigating committee. Dr. Hughes said he was hopeful of the outcome and that he told his son he would win.

"How does the candidate feel?" he was asked. "Oh, well, he is confident, but he is awfully tired. He said to me this morning: 'Father, I don't think I would go thru it all again, thru all the turmoil and work for all the presidencies, for all the governorships or for any other office.'"

ROOSEVELT CAST VOTE Chief Executive of Nation Drops His Ballot Early

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt arrived in Jersey City this morning and immediately started for Oyster Bay, where he cast his vote. The President, who was accompanied by Secretary Loeb, reached Oyster Bay a little before 10 o'clock and after voting he at once started on his return trip to Washington.

The President's plans are to reach the capital early in the evening. He will get election returns at the White House and has invited a party of friends to hear returns with him.

HEAVY IN THE BAY STATE Interest in Boston and Entire State Keen

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Blue skies and crisp, cool weather made an ideal election day. This with the extraordinary campaign that has been waged points to the casting of a heavy vote throughout the state. Keen interest is displayed in the contest between Guild and Moran, heads of the republican and democratic tickets, respectively, and for lieutenant governor between Draper, republican, and Brown, democrat.

INDIANS VOTING In the Territory and a Heavy Vote is Expected

TULSA, I. T., Nov. 6.—Election day dawned bright and clear. Interest in the election is intense, both parties are working hard and a heavy vote will be cast. Indications point to republican success in Sixty-third, Sixty-ninth and Seventieth districts.

SLIGHT IN NEW ORLEANS Soggy Weather Prevails and Early Vote Small

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—Election day in New Orleans was rather slow last night. The corridors of the hotels where this business is conducted, were thronged until a late hour, but the big wagers of former years are not in evidence.

The Telegram will display election bulletins by stereopticon tonight in front of the Eighth street entrance to the office, between Houston and Throckmorton streets.

PISTOL DUEL ENDS FATALLY "Silvers" Ferrell, a Western Gambler, Shot to Death

RENO, Nev. 6.—In a pistol duel here last night at the Palace saloon, Ed Ferrell, a gambler, familiarly known as "Silvers," was killed by Charles Kuchs, a bartender. Kuchs' jealousy over the attentions which Ferrell is alleged to have been paying his wife, led up to the tragedy. Kuchs is said to have been looking for Ferrell all day. Ferrell was warned and both were prepared as they met in the saloon. Firing began immediately and Ferrell staggered out of the door, pierced thru the body with two bullets, and died a few moments later in a hospital. Kuchs received three wounds, none of which are serious. He is under arrest.

Patriotic Loyalty for Panther City Reigns at Banquet

HEAR JOHN H. KIRBY Future of Texas and Its Northern Gateway Eloquently Pictured by Capitalists

From the time when Captain B. B. Paddock called the guests to order with a toast to "the best town in the best state in the best country on earth" until same speaker closed the occasion with a glowing prophecy for the future of Fort Worth, the first annual dinner of the business men of Fort Worth was expressive of the determination to build a bigger and better and more successful city.

Over two hundred guests, representative of practically every interest in the city, were seated at the banquet tables in the Imperial hall. It is probable that not since Fort Worth was a mere hamlet have so nearly all of the business men of the city gathered in one meeting. However, Paul Waples, who acted as toastmaster, called attention to several vacant chairs and regretted that the attendance was not so large as it should be. He expressed the hope that at the annual dinner next year it would be necessary to enlarge the hall in order to accommodate the guests.

Speaking Starts Late The guests at the dinner assembled at the World Hotel and proceeded from there to the hall in a body, arriving at 8:30. An eight-course dinner was served, and it was not until after 10 o'clock that the coffee was brought in and the speechmaking began. In his preliminary remarks, Mr. Waples recalled the days when he came to Fort Worth to work for a railroad and he and Captain Paddock would walk the streets together soliciting money for some public enterprise.

The town then was suffering from dry rot, he said, but now it was necessary to fight inertia. The coming of the railroads and other improvements, brought here by the earlier efforts of citizens, had brought to great a sense of security. He urged the business men not to relax their efforts but to keep up the work for a bigger and better city.

He announced the regrets of I. L. Kenner of Galveston and Nat M. Washer of San Antonio, both of whom were on the program for making a speech on "Commission Government" but were unable to attend, sending letters instead. These, Mr. Waples read. Mr. Kenner was on the program for a speech on "Commission Government" and the toastmaster announced that Hon. Clarence Ousley would talk on the same subject.

In his preliminary remarks Mr. Ousley referred to the fact that he had prepared another speech for delivery and that at the last moment he had been asked to talk on commission government. He referred to his discussion of this form of government he briefly discussed the negro industrial school of Fort Worth, for which he had a decision. This subject was to have formed the greater part of his address. This educational project, modeled after the famous school at Tuskegee, Ala., was met with Mr. Ousley's approval and he is enthusiastic over the plan. "We are too prone," he said, "to attribute the crime of the negro to his innate criminal instincts of the race. Too often we forget that he has not been given an education that will make him useful and a valuable citizen. We have had a school for slaves and must shoulder the burden." After urging the business men to give this institution their heartiest and most liberal support, the speaker turned his attention to the subject of "Commission Government" which he characterized as "a centralization of authority and responsibility in the hands of a few men of government at Washington and at Galveston, briefly outlining the appointive power of each city. The first plan at Galveston was for the election of three commissioners and the appointment of three commissioners by the governor. Later the court of appeals had been elected. This election he declared that the appointment of commissioners was contrary to historical precedent, so all six of the commissioners were elected. The election coming soon after the Galveston flood, found the city with a great unanimity of opinion and there was no difficulty in selecting men who were most di for the office. In Fort Worth, however, this will not be the case, for the guiding spirit here is a mere desire to improve the town, a sentiment which never strong enough to insure unanimity of opinion in municipal matters.

Judge George W. Armstrong was introduced by the toastmaster to talk on "Fort Worth, What It Was, What It Is and What It Will Be," the subject which had been assigned to Nat M. Washer.

At that time, said the speaker, there was no excuse for the existence of Fort Worth, and he jocularly referred to the early growth of the town as being caused by the alluring talk of Captain Paddock, who would induce some foreigner to invest his money here and that one, finding himself up against a dead proposition, would try to get other people to come here in the hopes of having some one to unload on.

He recalled that six or seven years ago lots could be bought on Main street for three thousand dollars, and discussed the remarkable advance in realty values.

IS AGAINST AMENDMENT

Colquitt Gives Out Interview at Austin

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 6.—Before leaving for Terrell yesterday afternoon in order to vote in the general election today, O. B. Colquitt announced that he was opposed to the constitutional amendment which proposes to fix the per diem of the members of the legislature at $1,000 per annum, and would accordingly cast his vote against the amendment.

"There is no good reason," said Mr. Colquitt, "for thus increasing the burden on the state by raising the salaries of the members of the legislature. I will not give the state better men for making the laws, which will materially increase the cost of running the legislature."

SYNOPSIS

Florian Amidon, a rich young banker from Astoria (a middle western American town) decides to take a day off from his business and indulge in his hobby, photography. He takes a moon train and after alighting in a Pullman car to find himself in the company of a girl who, a year or five years later than the age in which he started his journey, is an avoyant to whom he applies for help in solving his mystery is assisted by a hypnotist who puts Amidon in a trance and while in that state his wit as Brassfield becomes normal. On conversations taken down in shorthand during his hypnotic state, he learns something of the business affairs of Brassfield, and with the help of his hypnotic state, he finds himself involved in a complex, electric traction deal, the details of which are unknown to him. He also learns that his victory in a suit involving valuable property hinges on happenings of a date prior to his marriage as Eugene Brassfield.

"Well, stay by him, then!" cried Edgington. "Go on and butt your brains out on this stone wall of isms, and see where you come out. You're already beaten. The other side knew about this last night and you'll be blown out of the water before tomorrow morning. Doctor Balkon and his crowd are already lined up against you; the doctor will take the position that Brassfield's proposal to segregate vice is a compromise with sin, and that's the paramount issue. Why Pumpfrey and Johnson and the Williams set are all among his best-paying parishioners, and they've put the seal on his throat, and you're the point anyhow. I tell you that there are too many pillars of the church with downtown property to rent, for you to expect either them or their pastors in line. They'll find moral issues to fight the ten commandments on, if they have to. You ought to know this, Jim."

"Well," said Alvord, "let the Pharisees oppose us! I'll appeal to the liberal element. I'll convince 'em that they'll be glad to see you out. They like him and they'll stick!"

"Stick!" sneered Edgington. "Like him! You make me tired, Jim! How will you sell against me? A saloon man or gambler fears a good woman's influence as a wolf fears fire. Why, Jim, when this advanced thought platform of yours gets into the hands of your own people, you're not a man for my financial interests with the other side."

"Go, then!" shouted Alvord, "and find you've hopped out of the frying pan into the fire! By George, I tell you we've got the money to buy this election!"

"Oh," said Edgington, "have you! And how about your publishing an itemized account of campaign expenses?"

Alvord's last card played. Fell he was the victor of optimistic pugacity gone from his face. Edgington laid his hand on the other's shoulder, in sympathy.

"I'll tell you, Jim," said he, as he departed, "this is no place nor time to run a reform campaign. Brassfield isn't the candidate for it, and you're not the manager. You're simply fish trying to fry. Come with me and we'll get into our natural element."

"Not by a good deal," said Alvord stubbornly. "I don't know anything about this Brassfield and to him I'll stick!"

"As you please," said Edgington. "But keep the lid on the Scarlett business. Alvord made no reply. But when Edgington was gone he took up his work with a groan of relief distress."

with and slept with and sworn to stay by his side, I won't say."

Nor with Mr. Amidon, who while ignorant of the full extent of his misfortune in the eyes of Elizabeth, yet knew that he was deep, deep in disgrace who had found so many plausible reasons for it that the episode at the reception seemed the least of them. He knew enough of Brassfield to believe him guilty on any charge which might be brought against him. The only doubt he allowed himself was as to how far he, Florian Amidon, was morally responsible for Brassfield's wrongdoings. He had no doubt that Miss Scarlett had a real grievance against Brassfield, and in an extremity of vexation had sought out Amidon must hold himself to the sorry trade of answering a debt he never contracted. He knew from a brief interview with Alvord that the political situation was bad, but for this he had scarcely a thought since the tragic breaking-up of their little Bellshazzar's feast it was his relations with Miss Waldron and Miss Scarlett which placed him beyond the reach of philosophy.

So also is Judge Blodgett, who has been busy since the banquet, some of the time with a towel about his brow, searching thru Edgington's library, with his connection with the Dunn's Ferry will help against his office, for the law of breach of promise of marriage as defined by the Pennsylvania decisions. Edgington himself was surprised at the fullness of Blodgett's call on Fuller & Cox was most unsatisfactory. Mr. Fuller with some acerbity disclaiming all knowledge of any such case as Scarlett vs. Brassfield, and Mr. Cox being invisible.

"They act," said he to Florian, "like people who are waiting for a vindication, or something of the kind. I don't consider their attitude favorable to a compromise."

"Well," said Amidon, "that does not surprise me at all. It caused, I think, surprise me, the I was a little taken off my feet by the perfect order and arrangement of the local society, which gives to Alvord three delegates. The following were appointed delegates Sunday night: J. T. Howell, S. Salomon and Shambum, Samuel I. Towse and Rabbi Joseph Jasin.

(To Be Continued.) Reception at Trinity All the friends and parishioners of Trinity church are reminded of the reception to be held in the Guild hall, corner Hemmhill street and Pennsylvania avenue, tomorrow night from 8:30 to 11 p. m. The gentlemen who are subscribing to the choir fund are especially invited to be present.

A DELIGHTFUL JOURNEY Taken by Any One at Small Expense. A bright young lady was telling a friend recently of her trip along the most delightful road she ever traveled, the foot route. She said:

"For a number of years I have been a sufferer from indigestion with its attendant ailments, but my case was not sufficiently serious to cause alarm until two years ago."

"In the early part of this summer my stomach was in such a state I could take very little food, owing to the intense acidity. I caused, consequently I was losing flesh rapidly, and growing weaker every day. I had read about Grape-Nuts in the papers and magazines, and I was determined to try a package. I read the little booklet it contained and resolved to follow instructions as closely as possible."

"The result may be understood when I say that I met a friend whom I had not seen for three months. Her first inquiry was, 'Where have you been all summer?' I said, 'for the past two months I've been traveling along the road to 'Walville.'"

"What are you doing?" she asked. "I was feasting on Grape-Nuts and drinking Postum Coffee," I replied. "Oh," she said, "you are looking so well I don't know you at first sight."

"Whereupon I told her all about it—advising her to pursue the same course and continue it indefinitely, as I shall do."

"I am now using Grape-Nuts in some form three times daily, and Postum Coffee twice a day, and I shall improve every opportunity by advising others to do likewise." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason."

NEW WHOLESALE FIRM IS COMING

Kindel-Clark Company to Move from Weatherford

Announcement of a new wholesale firm for Fort Worth is made by the Weatherford Herald as follows:

"The citizens and business men of Weatherford will no doubt learn with no small feeling of regret that the Kindel-Clark Drug Company, for many years doing a wholesale and retail drug, wall paper and paint business in this city, will, in a very short time, remove to Fort Worth."

"The company has been organized and chartered with a paid-up capital of $150,000, and the charter will be received within the next day or two."

"The firm will continue to do business under the name of the Kindel-Clark Drug Company, a commodious building has already been leased for a term of five years. This is located in Front street, almost opposite the Texas and Pacific passenger station."

"There are a number of strong capitalists of Fort Worth interested in the new firm, and it is anticipated that the new company, which is being organized by Kindel-Clark, and as soon as this work is completed removal will commence."

PREPARE FOR MEETING

Members of Ahavath Society Met Sunday Night

A meeting of the members of the Ahavath Zion Society was held jointly with the Relief Society Sunday night at the new synagogue, arranged for the annual convention of the State Zionist Association, to be held probably Dec. 31, and the two days following. The association is affiliated with the Federation of American Zionist Associations and the membership of the local association is about seventy.

The arrangement committee appointed by President I. N. Mehl of the Ahavath Society is composed of B. Z. Friedman, chairman, Dr. Samuel H. Brodsky, Samuel I. Towse and Rabbi Joseph Jasin.

The committee will probably hold a meeting in the afternoon. Twenty-five members of a local society, which gives to Alvord three delegates. The following were appointed delegates Sunday night: J. T. Howell, S. Salomon and Shambum, Samuel I. Towse and Rabbi Joseph Jasin.

ASKS RULING ENFORCED

Judge Cowan Represents Cattle Raisers in Washington

Some time ago the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association won its contest before the federal commission for enforcement of the abrogation of an arbitrary charge of $2 switching charges, which the Terminal Railway Company at the Chicago stock yards imposed on the local load of cattle from Texas. This ruling was made before the commission had power to enforce it.

Judge Sam H. Cowan, general counsel for the Texas Cattle Raisers' association, is in Washington, asking the commission to issue such orders as will now enforce its former decisions. The postoffice will be open for general delivery Tuesday until 12 o'clock noon and two deliveries by carriers will be made thru the business section of the city, but one in the residence portions. All deliveries will be made in the forenoon, as all windows will be closed after noon. The building will remain open for accommodation of box owners.

ELKS PLAN TO BUILD

Rented Imperial Hall Until Now Building is Completed

The local lodge of Elks have rented Imperial hall on Main street, between Fifth and Sixth, as a meeting place until their new building shall be completed. The lease on the present rooms in the Continental Bank & Trust building expires May 1 and the Imperial hall will be used from that date until the new building shall be completed.

DIED IN NEW ORLEANS

The Late Mrs. Hollander Had Many Relatives Here Word was received by relatives here Tuesday of the death of Mrs. F. Hollander of New Orleans early Monday morning. She had been a resident of New Orleans for the past fifty years and lived in the latter part of her life in the city of St. Louis.

HOGS AND CATTLE SHORT IN NORTH

St. Louis Will Be Short About 4,000 Cars

A general shortage in the supply of cattle and hogs is reported at the northern markets. The cattle shortage is being felt in the supply of stuff usually marketed from the west and southwest, where the bulk consists of grassers.

The hog supply will fall short this year also. H. W. Prickett, traffic manager of the Kansas City stockyards, is here today on an inspection tour looking into the conditions throughout this section of the country. In speaking of conditions throughout the west and southwest, Mr. Prickett said:

"We are finding a general shortage in the number of cattle that is being marketed this year from the range districts in comparison with former years, the cause of which is twofold. During the past year or so the cowman rushed any number of calves to market, as calves were bringing proportionately greater prices than matured cattle, and then again the stuff was marketed heavily. This, coupled with the good grass conditions throughout the range and quarantine districts this year has caused a general deficiency in the supply that has been received. The cattle man has made plenty of feed and was in position to hold his cattle, having sold a good part of his ranch to settlers and unless prices were held back. The shortage in feed cattle will hardly be as great as was at first thought on account of the feed made by cattlemen. From what I can learn a great many cattle men are going to feed thru the winter.

The marketing so far has been steady and I do not think that grass cattle will be rushed to market in a month or so as heretofore. Prices will be good and steady thruout the year, and I do not expect to see any great increase, but they will be stiff."

"I would judge that St. Louis will fall short about 4,000 cars of quarantine cattle this year and our yards about 400 cars in comparison with last year. Our shortage is not as great on account of the good market conditions at Kansas City."

RAISED CHECK 60 CENTS

Negro Accused of Forging a Pay Check

In an effort to increase his cash capital from $112 to $172, Isaac Cepulman, a negro, in the employ of Armour & Co., succeeded in getting inside the county jail Monday afternoon with a charge of forging entered against him in Justice John L. Terrell's court.

Bugs for work done for the packing company had been given in payment a check for $112, the figures of which were afterward taken into custody by an additional stroke to the figure 1, but there was no attempt made to alter the word 'twelve,' which was spelled out. This bungling piece of work having been done to Bug's satisfaction, he attempted to negotiate the check at a North Side saloon and was immediately taken into custody by a bartender, who delivered him to Marshal Montgomery. He was arraigned before Justice Terrell on a charge of forgery, waived an examining trial and his bond was fixed at $50, which he failed to give.

NEW MEANS OF TORTURE

Lot of New Machinery at the Chief Ranch House

The chief ranch house of the Mystic Knights of Bovinia has been completely furnished with all the paraphernalia needed for the work of bovines and the improved machinery and apparatus will be used in actual service for the first time Wednesday night, when there will be about a dozen mavericks initiated into the mysteries and beauties of the organization.

The work of getting the ranch house in shape for actual business has been the hands of Dr. Frazer and it has been done so well that the mavericks endeavored to have them put thru all the steps of the dance tonight, but as round-ups and branding bees can only be held on Wednesday night their requests to be branded Tuesday night were refused. There is a lot of improved machinery at the ranch house that will prove decidedly interesting to new members.

Dyspepsia and Stomach Trouble Mr. W. W. Crouch, of South Framingham, Mass., who suffered severely from complicated stomach troubles, says that great tonic invigorator, Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, has restored him to vigorous health. He writes: 'For some years I suffered severely from dyspepsia and complicated stomach trouble. I tried a number of medicines and visited physicians. I hoped to secure permanent relief, but to no avail. I learned of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and for some years past I have been taking it regularly as directed, and I find that it gives absolute relief from dyspepsia and stomach troubles, from which I suffered. As a tonic stimulant it is without a peer.' - W. W. CROUCH, So. Framingham, Mass, June 20, '06.

BAILEY SPEAKS AT DENISON

Given a Big Quotation—Still Says the Same Things

Special to The Telegram.
DENISON, Texas, Nov. 6.—Senator Bailey spoke here yesterday and received a royal welcome. The town was decorated for the occasion and people for miles around were on hand for the speaking.

Mr. Bailey's speech was about the same he has been delivering in Texas for the past ten weeks, only, of course, his introductory remarks were made to apply locally. A crowd left here for Bonham, where Senator Bailey spoke in the afternoon, and returned here with him.

Arrives at Denison
On the arrival of the train at Denison a number of carriages were in waiting to convey Senator Bailey and his committee. He showed some hotel, where an elegant spread was served. The banquet was confined to the committee, with the Bonham friends of the senator as invited guests.

Opera House Crowded
Senator Bailey arrived at the opera house at the hour announced in the program. Long before the hour began every seat was filled. The aisles were crowded and many were turned away, unable to gain admittance. At least fifty persons in the audience were composed of women.

When Senator Bailey stepped to the front of the stage he received an enthusiastic ovation. He showed some what the fatigue of constant speaking, but after a while this all disappeared. The first word that fell from his lips was a commitment to Denison and the gracious manner in which he had been received, saying that he had always heard that Denison contained some of the best people on earth and now he was certain that the truth had been told. As long as he lived the occasion would never be forgotten. He referred to the great battle to be fought tomorrow and urged that all Democrats vote the straight ticket and no Democrat could afford to run the black pencil thru any part of the Democratic ticket. His remarks about the Republican situation in Texas created considerable merriment.

In a few moments Senator Bailey got down to the main part of his address and for a period of over two hours he held the audience.

After Enemies
The greater portion of the address consisted of an explanation of his public career as affecting his connection with the Texas Pipe Oil Company and the episode at Waco, denouncing as false the statement that he rode in a private car with Mr. Pierce on a number of occasions.

He then turned his attention to the present situation in Texas and declared that it was the bitterest speech that he has yet made.

"They say I ought not to use those harsh words," he said, "but I am more of a Christian and less of a Democrat I would not use them. But do these men who stand upon the street corners denouncing me as a traitor to my country, accusing me of having betrayed a high and sacred trust, expect me to make a soft answer to those who accuse me of turning one cheek after being smitten on the other is an exceedingly good one for Christians to observe, but I will not answer for Democrats. My rule is that when a man smites you upon one cheek smite him upon both."

As a practicing lawyer, he spoke of his practice, stating that he has resumed this year owing to the long session, but that he will practice next year, when the session will be a short one.

PREVENT NEPOTISM

Pay Roll Must Not Resemble Family Tree

Several weeks ago the International made transfers of agents in the freight department so that any basis for a charge of favoritism might be removed, the changes taking the men from the control of their relatives and placing them under the direction of those who are not allied to them by kinship.

Some of the more important railroads of the country have adopted the same anti-nepotism policy and the latest and most sweeping order of all on this subject comes from the Chicago & Alton. The order issued by President Felton that line positively forbidding anyone in an employable capacity to give any position or work under his control to any relative near or remote.

Help

Special to The Telegram.
AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 6.—Waiters for the hotels of Austin are decidedly scarce these days. In fact it may be said that the hotels in many instances are unable to get half the required number of waiters.

The waiters are all in the cotton patch and no inducement can persuade them to remain in town while there is money to be made picking cotton.

The literature of advertising has made rapid strides, but we still read about "gents" furnishing goods and "pants."

NERVOUS DEBILITY

A Scant Woman Tells How Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills Made Her
Well and Strong.

Nervous debility is the common name for what the doctors term neurasthenia. It is characterized by mental depression, fits of the "blues," or melancholy, loss of energy and spirits. The patient's eyes become dull, the pink fades from the cheeks, the memory becomes defective so that it is difficult to recall names and names at will. Some of these symptoms may be present or all of them. The remedy lies in toning up the nervous system and there is no medicine better adapted for this purpose than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Mrs. Jane J. Davies, of No. 814 Wagon street, Scranton, Pa., says: "Some years ago I became greatly reduced in health and strength and my nervous system became so debilitated that I felt wretched. I could not rest or sleep well at night and woke up as weary and languid in the morning as I was when I went to bed. My head ached in the morning and often there was a pain in my right side which was worse when I sat down. My nerves were on edge all the time, every little noise bothered me and I was generally miserable. Then I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, as my husband had taken them with good results, and they did wonders for me. Now I have no more pain in my side, no more headaches, I sleep well and feel strong and able to do my work."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mrs. Davies and they can do just as much for other weak, pale, ailing men or women who are slipping into a hopeless decline. They strike straight at the root of all common diseases caused by poor and impoverished blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schuylkill, N.Y.

Barnett was said to be under the

STENSLAND AND HERING

Are Now Doing Time at the Joliet Penitentiary

Special to The Telegram.
CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Paul O. Stensland, formerly president of the Milwaukee Avenue State bank, who was arrested in Tangier, and Henry W.
Hering, cashier of the same institution, were today sentenced by Judge Pinckney in the criminal court to interdeterminate terms in the penitentiary for embezzlement and forgery. These sentences may run as long as one to ten years. The new sentence given Stensland today will not lengthen his term of imprisonment as the new sentence is concurrent with the old.

Stensland had been brought from the penitentiary to Chicago to give evidence against Hering. He said that the irregularities of the bank began about ten years ago, when he commenced to invest the funds of the bank in real estate. During the last eight years he declared he had lost $400,000 in real estate transactions. He also lost $218,000 in running a co-operative store. Stensland declared he kept investing the money of the bank in real estate deals and to use it for the payment of his debts, at the suggestion of Hering. He asserted that he had never forged, despite the fact that he had pleaded guilty to forgery when he was brought back to this country.

"Hering knew all about all transactions," said Stensland, "and they were all credited to my account."
At the conclusion of Stensland's testimony, Hering was called to the bar of the court, and withdrawing his plea of not guilty, entered a plea of guilty, and both men were then sentenced to the penitentiary by the judge.
