TAFT SNUBBED BY ROOSEVELT

Gets Chilly Silence for Asking Further Instructions

NEGROES WILL GO

President Considers Order for Discharge Closed Incident For All Concerned

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Official Washington is today talking over the snub President Roosevelt administered to Secretary of War Taft for endeavoring to reopen the question of discharging negro soldiers of the Twenty-fifth infantry for their refusal to give up members of their company guilty of precipitating the recent riots at Brownsville, Texas.

Before leaving for Panama the President, as commander in chief of the army, peremptorily ordered the honorable discharge of the negroes. After he had gone pressure was brought to bear on Secretary Taft to have the order rescinded and Taft, yielding to the importunities of politicians, went so far as to order a delay in the mustering out of the troops, until he could communicate with the President.

In response to his cablegrams asking further consideration of the order by the President, he received a chilling silence, emphatic enough to prove that the President considers the incident closed.

There was nothing left for Taft to do but order a continuation of the mustering out process which he did.

Both engines and trains were badly damaged and twenty-five or thirty persons injured, all slightly.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21.—At the beginning of business today the treasury surplus of receipts over expenditures was $15,000,000 for the fiscal year. A year ago the deficit was $14,500,000. It is predicted the end of the year will find a large surplus in the treasury.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Interest in the trial of Chester Gillette, who is charged with the murder of Miss Grace Brown, increases as the testimony in this sad love romance develops. A great throng filled the court room yesterday and listened to the pathetic letters the girl wrote Gillette for three months previous to her death.

COUNTESS WHO GOT DIVORCE

HERE'S A GOOD JOB FOR COUNT BONI

He Can Work for Restaurant Proprietor

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—There is a job waiting for Count Boni de Castellane and he need not starve because Mme. Anna Gould has cut him off without a dollar.

J. B. Martin, proprietor of the Cafe Martin, at Broadway and Twenty-sixth street, sent the count the following cablegram: "Count Boni de Castellane, Paris: Will contract to engage you as major domo at salary of 50,000 francs a year to take entire charge of waiters and manage restaurant privileges of Cafe Martin. Oblige with immediate answer. —J. B. Martin."

"Count Boni is just the man I am looking for," Mr. Martin said today. "My patrons will be interested in a head waiter with such an interesting career as that revealed in Mme. Gould's divorce suit. Count Boni is graceful, fascinating and undoubtedly knows good food and how to serve it."

DITCHES TRAIN TO AVOID A WRECK

Operators' Nerve Prevents Accident at Flatonia

FLATONIA, Texas, Nov. 21.—Rather than permit a collision between a passenger and a freight train here at 2 o'clock, the operator pulled the patent derailer lever and caused the Kansas City-Mexico train of the San Antonio and Arkansas Pass to leave the track. The air brakes on the Sap had refused to work and the train was plunging ahead at practically full force toward the freight which stood over the crossing.

In order to avert the collision the derailer was thrown and the Sap train dived. No one was hurt, but traffic was tied up for six hours.

The city is a stop for the Sap fast train and yesterday morning the signals were given as usual. Instead of slackening, however, as it drew near the depot, the train did not moderate its speed at all. Directly over the crossing stood a heavy oil train of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio road. The operator saw the danger and ran for the derailer lever. At almost undiminished speed the passenger went off the track. Four cars were derailed for six hours, at the end of which time they were replaced and continued their journey.

CHISHOLM IS SANE

Jury Out All Night Before Returning Verdict

By Associated Press. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 21.—After having been out all night, the jury in the federal court in the case of the sanity of Alexander R. Chisholm, former paying teller of the First National bank who defaulted for $100,000, brought a verdict this morning declaring that the defendant was sane and is sufficiently in possession of his mental faculties to be tried for the defalcation. The verdict of the jury was unanimous and it is understood that little delay was encountered in reaching an agreement. The court then adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon, because of the illness of a juror. At that hour the trial will proceed from the point where it left off when the sanity issue was raised by the defense, after the prosecution rested.

While returning on the Neuw Amsterdam she threw Mrs. Aaron Gucoowski's 1-year-old boy overboard after hugging and kissing him.

CHARGES FRAUD IN COAL LAND GRANTS

Says Valuable Property Wrested From Government

SECRET HEARING IS HELD

Was Transferred After Bringing of Charges Before United States Commissioner

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—A series of most remarkable charges against the conduct of the general land office, especially in relation to the Wyoming coal lands that were turned over to the Union Pacific interests, have been laid before the officials of the interior department in a lengthy statement by Artemas J. Smith, a Denver lawyer. Mr. Smith declares that for more than three years he has been trying to get a hearing concerning the matter, but thus far he has failed. He recites the history of his endeavors to get the chance to prove, as he says he can do, that "vast areas of the most valuable coal lands in the state of Wyoming have been wrested from the government by a system so flagrantly nefarious as to become a public shame, and that the Union Pacific Railway and Coal Company have acquired title to these lands on perjured evidence, and outrageously false representations."

Mr. Smith says in 1903 the attention of Special Agent Myendorff of the land office was called by Smith to these conditions, and that Myendorff made a special report to the commissioner of Land Office Richards, accompanied by affidavits, whereupon Myendorff was removed to another district. Acting Commissioner Plimpe wrote the registrar and receiver at the Evanston, Wyo., land office, setting forth the essential parts of the Myendorff statement, and calling for any information that could be given; also directing that no final papers be issued in the matter of these lands unless the proofs be absolutely unquestionable.

The alleged fraudulent entries were accordingly suspected, and an investigation ordered by the department. Smith was notified, he says, that an investigation would be held and that he would be notified of the time and place of it. But he was not notified. Long after it was over he learned that practically a secret hearing was held at Evanston by a special agent detailed for the purpose.

Body to Be Shipped to Nashville for Burial

CLERK DEFRAUDS MANY CUSTOMERS

Used Firm's Letterheads and Sold Worthless Stock

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—George Dillon, 18 years of age, an 18-a-week clerk in the employ of the Fruit and Produce Trade Association, was arrested and arraigned in the Tombs police court yesterday. Dillon waived examination and was held in $2,500 bail. The complaint against Dillon was made by Ward W. Smith, manager of the Fruit and Produce Trade Association and also manager for the American Copper and Gold Company. According to Assistant District Attorney Krotel, Dillon used letter heads of the association to induce its customers to invest in the Eastern Trust Company at $100 a share. Dillon, he says, signed himself assistant secretary of the Fruit and Produce concern, but also in other letters signed the name of C. H. Adams, president of the Eastern Trust Company. Mr. Krotel said he had evidence showing that Dillon had received more than $10,000 from unsuspecting customers.

RAINING YET IN TENNESSEE

Railroad Service Better, But Still Crippled

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 21.—There has been an almost constant downpour during the night and the local situation is very little improved. Railroad matters are some little better as the Southern resumed traffic last night. With other roads, the Illinois Central and Nashville, Chattanooga and Southern, the situation is about the same, both roads having practically suspended their northern divisions. The Louisville and Nashville had no washouts, but the trains were delayed greatly by the heavy rains. Street car service in the city is badly crippled and the financial loss to the railroads and business is great.

He was subjected to a searching examination by Mr. Delmas upon new phases of the defense which have been developed by Detective O'Meara of Pittsburg. Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was in a cheerful mood after an interview with her husband at his cell door, and said: "My husband can hardly wait for his trial day. The last thing he said to me was 'I'll be home at Christmas.' I know he will be free by that time unless there is something to delay the trial."

WATERS-PIERCE DEFENSE RESUMED
Oil Company's Attorneys Still Arguing at Austin

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION ON
Work at Guthrie in Hands of Democratic Majority

WILL WORK FOR THE EXCURSION
Only Twenty-two Have Agreed to Go On Excursion

FIVE KILLED IN BUILDING WRECK
Several Were Seriously Injured in Collapse

Special to The Telegram.
AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 21.—In the afternoon session of the constitutional convention held in this city this morning, the Waters-Pierce Oil Company hearing, Judge Penn resumed his argument for the defense against the taking of the act of 1899, and that caption failed to mention the portion of the act. On this account he believed that act is invalid. As to the charges of conspiracy in the petition, Judge Clark directed the attention of the court to the fact that it was purely a bare statement and the facts should show whether or not a conspiracy was unlawful.

Special to The Telegram.
GUTHRIE, O. T., Nov. 21.—In the afternoon session of the constitutional convention of the state of Oklahoma, held here this morning, the Democratic majority in attendance, the governor to give welcome on the part of the nation, state and city and the latter to administer the oath.

Special to The Telegram.
ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Five persons were killed and several were severely injured this morning by the collapse of a building in course of construction at Kodak Park.

Special to The Telegram.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 21.—Subpoenas sent to New York for the defendants in the Standard Oil company will be sent out tonight. Writes for Rockefeller and other defendants will be sent to New York.

Judge Clark resumed his argument at 10 o'clock, and opened by saying that he would not review those points already decided by the courts. He said he was of the opinion that the petition was not valid, and that the defendant has acted in disobedience to the laws of the state; that it was confronted by the state in the charge of fraud and a deception; that Texas is only a component part of the country, and that it has no extrajurisdiction, such as is included in acts in other states. "The petition charges us with being an alleged corporation," said Judge Clark.

Active work for the trades excursion of the merchants of Fort Worth will be started on Thursday, when a committee composed of Captain B. B. Paddock, George C. Mountcastle, Paul Waples and Louis J. Wortham will organize a canvass of all the merchants of the city in an endeavor to bring the total number of those who will go on the trip to fifty or sixty. So far the total remains at twenty-two, but nothing has been done for two days. The committee will call upon all the business men of the city on Thursday and will undoubtedly bring the number up to fifty or more.

Some timely notes
 Over feeding, feeding when heated, high living and no exercise, over driving and suddenly cooling after the blood has been unusually heated, are the principal causes for founder- ing in horses. Whether our ancestors were ignorant of most of these things or unduly careless of consequences it is too late to discuss, but it is a fact that at the present time there are fewer horses founder- ed from any reason than in any other age of the world. It may be that the good horses are more valuable than at one time and this may have caused the owners to be more careful in the handling.

Plenty of Grass
 W. E. Washington of the Indian Territory, where he is among the big stockmen, came in to buy something for the winter. He said that the nature he purchased a string of horses. "Matters among the cattlemen are progressing finely and there is no outlook for a good winter. It will not rain will make a good winter and I. Grass is cured on the ground and will serve all the cold weather unless too much rain falls, when it will rot. My stock interests everywhere are in condition just as a man would wish them to be. I am not full feeling anything now, nor do I know of any other. There are very few being fed in the territory compared to past years.

As to penalties, he declared that the act of 1899 was unconstitutional, and that it has no extrajurisdiction, such as is included in acts in other states. "The petition charges us with being an alleged corporation," said Judge Clark.

"KEEP INSURANCE MONEY IN WEST"
ON LOCAL RECORD
 Doctrine Advocated by W. D. Vandiver of Missouri
 Temperature Dropped to 22 Last Night

Special to The Telegram.
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 21.—The executive resolutions committee vice president has appointed that morning by the trans-Mississippi commercial congress. Joseph B. Ransdell spoke on the improvement of navigable waterways. He was followed by W. D. Vandiver, insurance commissioner of Missouri, who advocated keeping insurance in the west instead of sending it to Wall street. Ransdell after his speech, said:

Weather records were broken Tuesday night by the one-inch snow which fell in this city, the earliest snow of the winter on record and also the first time in the records of the weather bureau in this city that Fort Worth had any snow during the month of November. Snow began falling about 11 o'clock and continued slowly but steadily until about 3 a. m., when the fall stopped. Exactly one inch of snow was recorded at the weather bureau.

Does anyone doubt that the commercial supremacy of New York is due to the centralization of insurance assets in that market more than any other one factor? The insurance reports of New York run back to 1859. At that time there were fourteen leading life insurance companies doing business there and their total assets amounted to in round numbers $35,000,000, with total insurance of $140,000,000.

Minimum temperature of the winter was also recorded Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock when the thermometer in the weather bureau touched the 22-degree mark. On the north side a thermometer similar to the one in the weather bureau recorded 18 degrees at the ground, which is probably the actual temperature that the people of the city felt, as the fact that the official thermometer is situated 100 feet above the ground causes it to be several degrees higher than the winter, just as it is warmer on a hilltop than in the valley on a morning such as this.

A TRIBUTE TO TEXAS

Some time ago, Captain B. B. Paddock, secretary of the Fort Worth Board of Trade, had a lot of advertising matter turned down by southern newspapers on the ground that so many of their people were coming to Texas they did not feel justified in accepting advertising that would accelerate the movement. Of course, such a shortsighted policy could result in nothing but depriving the papers of the revenue that would have been derived from the advertising, for the progressive people of those states will eventually find their way to Texas anyhow. It is gratifying to note there is an exception to this feeling toward Texas in the case of one great southern newspaper. The Louisville Courier-Journal pays the following tribute to the Lone Star state in its editorial columns:

The area of Texas is so vast, being 365,780 square miles, or more than six times as great as Kentucky, and thirty-two times as large as Massachusetts; its soil, climate and productions are so varied that, with prosperity prevailing throughout its borders, it is difficult to estimate to what degree of preponderance it may grow as compared with smaller or less favored states. It is but a few weeks since it was shown that Galveston, which six years ago was apparently ruined beyond resurrection by an equinoctial storm, stood second to New York in foreign exports during the past fiscal year. It is less than a decade since oil gushers were found in the state, and now it stands third in point of production. Among the new enterprises projected is a pipe line to extend northward from the oil fields near Houston, 400 miles into Oklahoma. In the extreme western part of the state, which embraces El Paso, it has been found that a large area of territory heretofore regarded as of little value, abounded in copper, and mines and reduction plants are now yielding the most satisfactory returns. Silver and other valuable minerals have also been discovered, and capital is being directed toward their development.

In the matter of cattle raising Texas has long been in the forefront, and movements are on foot looking to packing and exporting beef, instead of being subject to the control of prices for its cattle on the hoof by the northern trust. In varied agriculture, there is no state comparable to it. The lands near the Gulf are adapted for sugar and rice, while farther north the cereals thrive so well. In many of the western and northwestern states, settlers from which are pouring into the state. As they move westward over what was once thought to be sterile plains, corn, cotton and all the standard products of agriculture and horticulture are found to be capable of successful production. Just as has been developed in Kansas and other states once classified as desert lands. In addition to the great development of the natural resources of the state, it may be added that Texas now stands first in its railroad mileage, having in the past year changed places with Illinois, which long held the first place. All this progress and development have not been the result either of chance or spontaneous evolution. It is largely due to the enterprising spirit of the people, who have overcome great difficulties incident to their remoteness from the centers of capital and population, in practically demonstrating the valuable inducements for the introduction of both, and set in a tide of immigration embracing desirable representatives from all sections of the union. Their draft upon Kentucky has been second only to that of Missouri, while Kentucky has found no source from which to replenish the deficit thus created, with an element of equal value. We theoretically discuss the problem of immigration, but practically have made little progress in the past decade in adding to our population from this source. In some particular lines and a few localities there has been an infusion of something of the Texas spirit, but as a whole there is room for very material improvement.

The example of Texas is worthy of better imitation.

COMING SESSION OF CONGRESS

It is but a short time now until President Roosevelt to borrow an expression from Grover Cleveland, will have a session of congress on his hands, and already there is a great amount of speculation being indulged in as to the work that will be done by the impending session. Some of the republican party leaders have affected to be greatly alarmed by the trend of the recent elections and are declaring that tariff revision is an absolute necessity, but The Telegram does not believe there will be any tinkering with the tariff during the coming session. There is enough business brought over from the former session to keep the lawmakers reasonably busy without the injection of many new issues and many of these matters are demanding immediate attention. Here are some of the most important among them:

Immigration restriction (in conference). Santo Domingo treaty. Isle of Pines treaty. Morocco treaty (upon which a vote will be taken on Dec. 12). Decision in Senator Smoot's case. Campaign fund publicity. Prohibiting corporations to contribute to campaign funds. Ship subsidy. To make Porto Ricoan United States citizens. Reduction of tariff on products of Philippines. United States to own its embassies and legations abroad.

To build government powder factory. Appalachian and White mountain forest reserves. Copyright revision. Modification of Chinese exclusion law. Prescribing punishments on high seas. Codification of revised statutes. Navy to have biggest battleship afloat. Removal of customs duty on works of art. Swamp reclamation similar to irrigation statute. Cable to Guantamano and canal zone. Anti-injunction bill. Eight-hour law. Nominations of Isthmian Canal commissioners. Army and navy dental surgeon corps. Increase of artillery corps.

To punish improper use of Stars and Stripes. Retirement of superannuated federal clerks. To establish postal savings banks and parcels post. Limiting working hours of railway employees. If congress should attempt nothing else, it can hardly be expected to dispose of all these matters prior to the adjournment which must come on March 4, and this list is not complete, from the fact that it does not embrace the recommendation of the President is certain to make in his annual message. These facts seem to disprove very effectually any idea of tariff revision during the short session, and the republican talk in that direction may be very appropriately classed among the hardy annuals of political topics.

The most that can be hoped for apparently is that the President will get the consent of the party leaders to proclaim himself in his message in favor of some modification of the Dingley duties. He did this in a former message and was persuaded to cut it out by Speaker Cannon and others of the more radical stand-patters. The real leaders of the republican party, who stand unalterably for the principle of protection, are just as determined today as at any time in the past that there shall be no change in the existing tariff laws.

INOCULATION FOR FEVER

The process of inoculation for the prevention of southern fever among cattle as practiced so extensively at this time below the state and federal quarantine line, has worked a great transformation in the live stock business of that section and will work a still greater one. Prior to the discovery of this method of combating the disease it looked as if the cattle interests of that portion of the state must remain very largely without the benefit of the rapid improvement that was taking place in other sections of the range country. Ranchmen and breeders of fine stock generally were continually confronted with the fact that the importation of fine breeding stock was a proposition that meant certain death for the major portion of the importations, and those who concluded to try the experiment regardless of the consequences were generally very sorry for their action. Losses were enormous, from the fact that when one of these fine breeding animals laid down and yielded up the bovine ghost it meant the passing of a good sized lump of coin of the realm.

The experience of these cattlemen below the line was that about 75 per cent of the animals brought in for breeding purposes could be depended upon to die, and that ran the cost of the few survivors up to such an extent that further improvement seemed practically prohibited. And when it was discovered that northern cattle could be inoculated with the fever virus in such manner as to develop mild cases of fever and render them immune against the dreaded acclimation period, it was hailed with delight by the cattlemen generally and gave a wonderful impetus to the process of herd improvement. The treatment given the cattle is on the same principle as that of vaccinating the human family for the prevention of smallpox.

Virus from a favored animal is injected into the blood of the animal it is desired to have rendered immune, and after a few days a mild form of fever develops, which is held under perfect control. If the animal recovers it is ever afterward immune to southern fever. A careful record has been kept of all the experiments in this direction, and it has been established that 90 per cent of the animals inoculated for the prevention of fever recover from the effects of the inoculation and become fever proof. The per cent of loss has been reduced to such a low minimum that nearly all of the progressive breeders of south and southwest Texas now have their purchased cattle inoculated by a competent veterinarian and treated for the disease before carrying them to their final destination. Considerable work of this kind is being done at the Agricultural and Mechanical College, under the direction of the college veterinarian.

WILL BE NO LOBBY

Some of the state papers believe they have made an important discovery in the allegation that the next session of the state legislature will not be attended by the usual lobby. The Houston Post says: It comes from Austin—we do not know upon what authority—that the railroads will maintain no lobby at the capital during the session of the legislature and that no free passes will be issued; that if measures destructive of the rights and welfare of the railroads are introduced, the representatives of the roads will go to Austin and appear before the proper committees. The Post hopes the statement is true. There has been so much said about the corrupt lobby at Austin—half of which we have never believed—that it will be a welcome experiment to try a session of the legislature without one.

It is the public understanding, however, that in Washington and the state capitals, hordes of men, with diamond pins ornamenting their shirt fronts and money bulging from their pockets, throng the corridors for the purpose of corrupting the public servants; that railroads spend thousands to wear the unwary patriot away from the pathway of duty. That is all good enough, perhaps, for campaign thunder, but well informed people know it is all rot.

If it be desirable, however, to keep the alleged wolves of the lobby away from the lambs of the legislature, so is it also desirable that every member should be circumspect in drafting bills affecting the corporations. Where there are evils to be corrected, legislators should not hesitate to present the necessary bills. But it is recalled that in days gone by bills have been introduced for no other purpose, perhaps, than to frighten the officers of the corporations and to compel them to flock to Austin to protect themselves. The people should keep their eyes peeled for this class of statesmanship and watch the men who indulge it.

A lobbyist legislature would be a decided innovation in Texas, but it is hardly possible. What is going to become of the army of lobbyists who are on the payrolls of certain corporations for no other purpose but to exert their influence with the legislative body in the matter of restricting certain kinds of legislation? It is said there are a number of professional lobbyists in this state who are paid as high as $750 per month during the legislative session for exercising their influence, and certainly these gentlemen can be depended upon to make some effort to earn the salary. The lobby may be limited at Austin next session, but the indications are it will be on hand for business as usual.

Ice and snow have been superabundant in the larger portion of the state during the past few days, but the sun can still shine warmly in Texas, and there will be plenty of days before Christmas that will make us think of the good old summer time.

Of course, the ice men are welcome to Fort Worth, but the warmth of their greeting would have been more appreciable if they had left the ice at home. There was no real necessity for such an extensive advertising of their business.

There is some fine trigger work being done in connection with the discharge of those negro troops from the United States army. It seems to be a genuine case of "nigger in the woodpile."

As the railways are too busy to haul almost anything, the very pertinent question is being raised as to what it is the railways are so busy hauling.

The TEXAS PRESS

The new settlers in southwest Texas are being preceded to some extent by the speculative capital which is buying up the big ranches and converting them into small farming tracts. There will soon be very few big ranches left in southwest Texas.—San Antonio Express.

If the speculative craze continues there will soon be very few large ranches left in any portion of Texas. There appears to be a marked determination on the part of the speculators to wipe out every big ranch in the state that can be persuaded to come upon the market.

The plain people of Texas love Governor Tom Campbell because he is a plain, honest, unassuming man. He is a Texan and a democrat in everything these terms mean. He will make Texas one of the best governed states ever had. He came from the ranks of the yeomanry of Texas and will stand by their interests in every contest.—Georgetown Commercial.

There is no question about Tom Campbell making the people of Texas a good governor. He may be a little rabid in some things, but at heart Tom Campbell is all right.

The lady near Snyder who was attacked by a crazy Mexican saved her life, or what is more to her, by knowing how to use a pistol. It is not a bad thing to know, and we think that men with daughters could not do better than teach them the use of firearms. If they never need to use them in self defense they are none the worse for knowing how to use them.—Ablene Reporter.

Every woman should know how to use a pistol, for no one knows when an instrument of that kind will come in handy. Usually, however, the man of the family goes around with a pistol concealed under his coat tail, and leaves his wife at home entirely unprotected.

It's sad about these Cook county poultry raisers starving. Only $1,500 worth of turkeys were sold here between last Monday morning and Wednesday night. And such turkeys as they were! Some of them weighed as high as thirty-four pounds.—Gainesville Messenger.

The Texas turkey crop is up to the usual standard this year, and the annual Thanksgiving sale will put thousands of dollars into active circulation.

Chief of Police Mitchell took the proper stand when he told his men that El Paso had outlawed the cowboy. A Texan man with brilliant artillery, sombrero and slouchy attitude, who thought El Paso is not a city, but a police town in neat uniforms, who when not chasing lawbreakers are courteous bureaus of information, looking out for the safety of everybody, even to watching crowded crossings.—El Paso Times.

El Paso is progressing. There was a time when that city prided itself upon its gentle western ways, but advancing civilization appears to be steadily getting in its deadly work.

It is as good as a $100 to $1 shot that the ouster suit against the Waters-Pierce Oil Company will not go to trial late in November. The defendant will move for continuance, and over it will go until late in January or February, 1907. Attorney General Davidson is ready for trial, but the attorneys for the defendant company will be very busy, will fight for postponement and will win their contention.—Dallas Times-Herald.

The state should insist on a prompt trial of this case. There is no reason why a continuance should be granted or any delay allowed.

A report from Kansas says that an old citizen died in that state and went to a bad place. The evil one put him in a caldron and put the cover on. Knowing he was from Kansas, he built an extra hot fire, and left him longer than usual. After he thought the body had been reduced to ashes, he took the cover off, and to his great surprise the Kansas man poked up his head and said: "Howdy, did the hot winds hurt the corn?"—Tyler Courier.

The average citizen of Kansas knows what a hot wind is, and it is but natural the old fellow referred to should have made the mistake. And Kansas corn is one of the things we continually hear of.

And now comes the assurance from New York that the republicans of that state don't appreciate the work that Roosevelt did for them in the recent campaign. Isn't it strange how republicans will continue to try the bluff on the dear people?—Austin Statesman.

Roosevelt has enemies among his own party in New York who would rejoice to see him consigned to political oblivion. His nomination for vice president was intended to accomplish that purpose, but the plan miscarried.

THE TEXAS REPUBLICANS

From the showing made by the reorganized republicans in the election Tuesday it is apparent that there was a whole lot of energy wasted in the effort to obtain recognition on the official ballot. The result would have been the same without the recognition extended.—Fort Worth Telegram.

The result of the combined vote polled for both wings shows that the republican party in Texas, as at present constituted, exists mainly, if not solely, for the purpose of appropriating the loaves and fishes coming this way from the federal pig table.—Houston Post

That Reminds Me

WANTED TO GO HOME M. Deverne was waiting at a station in Ireland for his train. Two Irishmen entered and engaged in the following conversation:

"Sure, Pat, it's down to Kilmory I've been, on me way back now to Kil-Patrick." "Arrah, musha, Mike, it's meself that just after coming from being down to Kil-Kenney, stopped a bit before I go down to Kil-Moore."

"I say, Pat, let us take the day and go down to Kil-Moore."

"Ye gods," exclaimed the Frenchman, "what assassins. Would that I were back in France."

A MISUNDERSTANDING

At the breakfast table in one of the mining towns the landlady gave Mr. Muggins a severe look and said: "Mr. Muggins, I understand that you have been circulating injurious reports about my house."

"How, madam?" "I understand that you said you had used better butter than I have here to grease wagons with."

"I did say so, madam, but not to injure your house. I have used better butter, madam, to grease wagons, but I wouldn't do it again. I'd sell it to you."

DECIDING A CASE

A negro justice of the peace was about to open court in a small country town in Alabama. The first case on the docket concerned two negroes, one of whom charged the other with having stolen a hoe. The judge called up the plaintiff and said: "Mr. Jones, how many witnesses has you got dat Mr. Jenks stole dat hoe?"

"Two, sah." "Mr. Jenks, how many witnesses has you dat you neber took dat hoe?"

"Fo', sah." "Den I shall dismiss de case. Everybody knows dat fo' witnesses can sw'ar harder dan two witnesses, an' it am no use to take up de valuable time of dis court. Next time Mr. Jones you is gwine ter sue a man you wants mo' witnesses dan he's got or you are gwine to be left."

THE MARRYING POINT

Tibbie was a Scotch lass, hardworking and comely. She ruled over a grateful and suppressed family of New Englanders for eight years, and then announced her intention of marrying within six weeks.

"I suppose it is Rab whom you mean to marry, Tibbie?" asked her nominal mistress, referring to a tall, mild-faced young Scotchman who had spent more or less time in Tibbie's spottish kitchen for the last three years.

"It is," announced Tibbie, calmly. "Here he's been coming and sitting w' me all these times, and never a word o' merrying. So at long last I said to him: 'If you've no mind to take me, Rab, ye can jist say so, and I'll spend nae more on bright ribbons to sit up w' ye, but I'll tak my money and buy one o' those talking machines that plays tunes, after I've paid for a strip o' new cloth to cover the floor where you've worn out the old one, and then I'll tak my relegateous books and settle down in quiet.'"

"Rabbe was so concerned at my dear prospects and the thoughts o' m' yasings he said he would hae me whenever I got ready."

FREE SEEDS

Mr. Sulzer, of New York, represents in the house of representatives what is probably the most congested district on the East Side. Mr. Sulzer has, of course, like every other member, a quota of garden seeds, but as there isn't a garden in the district the amiable Sulzer has been accustomed to trade his seeds for public documents.

This fall, however, he began to think that some of his people who live in tenements might plant the seeds in boxes on the window sills and fire escapes, so he sent an assortment to the inmates of a model tenement lately built by a friend of the congressman.

Some time later Sulzer, while in New York, was met by the proprietor of the tenement, who immediately buttonholed the representative, to whom he unbosomed himself as follows: "See here, Sulzer, I want you to cut out that seed business! It's the limit!"

"Why, what's the matter?" asked the astonished Sulzer, and he explained why he had sent the seeds.

"Oh, you meant well, all right," returned the friend, scornfully, "but when I visited the place the other day I found that about ten families were raising cabbage, cucumbers and tomatoes in the bath tubs!"

The next day after she becomes engaged a girl begins to wonder if her happiness will last till she is married.

The worm will turn when trod upon, but so will the banana skin.

VERSE THAT RINGS

IN THE FURROW Let me follow in the furrow while you turn the black soil over:

Let me breathe and smell of Mother Earth I have not known so long.

Here last summer thru the sun and rain grew timothy and clover,

Here again I feel my heart alive with all the joy of song.

The I come each spring returning to the same instinctive rapture,

It could never be more wonderful a transport than today.

Let me follow in the furrow that my heart may so recapture

The dreams that chased the swallow's flight and lost it far away.

Not the perfume of the violet or hyacinth or lily

Can be sweeter, in the magic of the wonders that should be,

When my boyish dreaming thought the world one golden daffodily

Blown for no one but myself to pluck, and no one else to see.

Not the breath of any fragrance can be sweeter to my fancy

Than the smell of earth the plowshare turns against the sun of May.

Let me follow in the furrow while I feel the necromancy

Of dreams that chased the swallow's flight and lost it far away.

Let me feel the early passions and the primal instincts thrilling

Every daedean inspiration of the plowshare and the sod,

Till the warm, moist earth with ecstasy my eager soul is filling

Such as led my steps in boyhood when the plowman's path I trod.

Here the corn shall lift its greenness while the rain-washed winds blow over,

Till it bears the wealth of summer where the dark stalks droop and sway.

Let me follow in the furrow, every sense an idle rover,

With the dreams that chased the swallow's flight and lost it far away.

DRIFT OF POLITICS

VILLAGE BAKER STATE TREASURER

Among the odd fish who were landed in public position—or rather will be—as the result of the recent election in New York state, the most notable is Julius Hauser, the German baker of Sayville, L. I. The little village baker will most likely be the next treasurer of the state of New York, a dignified and responsible position, as he has been elected. Hauser is a democratic politician in Suffolk county, and had some influence. He travels over the county serving bread and pies, and has a pleasant word for every one. He delivered a dozen delegates to the state convention to Murphy for Hearst. Neither of the leaders one. He delivered a dozen delegates to the state convention. Some of the young men of his district interested Leader Cassidy of Long Island city for Hauser. They boomed him as a great man and he was put on the ticket to fill up. To the surprise of Hauser and everybody else in Suffolk when the news came from the convention the baker found that he had been placed on the ticket for state treasurer. This did not disturb Hauser much. He went about looking after his pies and bread as of yore, waiting until young Cooper, a friend of his "living around the corner," from his own home, came from Buffalo. The young man took Hauser to see Murphy and Hearst. He was told to go home and stay there and not appear in New York 500 much. A couple of days after the election Hauser was told that he had been elected. He said he was up to all "dosed tricks," and refused to treat. Finally his "young friend around the corner" told him he had been elected, and the two journeyed off to see Murphy. The latter told him he had won. This satisfied him. He filed his account of election expenses a few days ago. It cost Hauser $237.50 to be elected treasurer of the great state of New York, while it cost Hearst $256,370 to make his fight on the same ticket—and lose. Hauser has vague ideas of what the state treasurer is to do. Murphy will arrange to get a bond for Hauser. "My young friend around the corner" may be made deputy state treasurer at $4,000 a year, or given one of the good berths in the office. The treasurer is also a member of important boards and commissions, as is the case in Pennsylvania.

Roasting Ears Ripe
Special to The Telegram.
STRAWN, Texas, Nov. 21.—C. D. Williams had a fine mess of roasting ears for his family Tuesday and can have another any day he desires. It is something unusual for this season and climate. Think of it! Roasting ears from the stalks the middle of November. It is not altogether to the credit of the climate, but partly to Mr. Williams' skill as a diversified farmer, for it was brought about in this way. He planted Mexican June corn about the first of August, and it was just in good roasting ear time when the frost came two weeks ago. Just before frost he cut the stalks down at the ground and gathered them all in together in a big shock, the stalks standing upright. So many of them tied so close together keeps the frost or frosts from the ears in the shock, except a few on the outer edge. The corn remains fresh, drawing substance from the stalks, says Mr. Williams, and he is satisfied it will continue fresh and fine until Christmas, if it is not all eaten before that time.

Dickenson, and sold to persons in Navarro county at a consideration of about $25,000. This body of land will be cut up into small tracts and used as farms. They also sold for J. D. Self four sections lying ten miles east of Midland, to R. W. Martin of Little Rock, Ark., at a consideration of $10,000, and to E. S. Hill of Sherman county one section of land for Phil Scharbauer, lying seven miles west of Midland, at $12 per acre. All of these lands will be put into cultivation some time in the near future.

Suffered Severely With Eczema All Over Body—Examined 15 Times by Government Board Who Said There Was No Cure—An Old Soldier Completely Cured.

A THOUSAND THANKS TO CUTICURA REMEDIES
"For over thirty-five years I was a severe sufferer from eczema. The eruption was not confined to any one place. It was all over my body, limbs, and even on my head. I saw fifty years old and an old soldier, and have been examined by the Government Board over fifteen times, and they said there was no cure for me. I have taken all kinds of medicine and have spent large sums of money for doctors, but without avail. A short time ago I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, I was completely cured. I am now well and completely cured. A thousand thanks to Cuticura. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John T. Rosch, Richmond, Ross Co., Ohio, July 17, 1905."

SKIN ERUPTIONS FOR 35 YEARS
Suffered Severely With Eczema All Over Body—Examined 15 Times by Government Board Who Said There Was No Cure—An Old Soldier Completely Cured.

A THOUSAND THANKS TO CUTICURA REMEDIES
"For over thirty-five years I was a severe sufferer from eczema. The eruption was not confined to any one place. It was all over my body, limbs, and even on my head. I saw fifty years old and an old soldier, and have been examined by the Government Board over fifteen times, and they said there was no cure for me. I have taken all kinds of medicine and have spent large sums of money for doctors, but without avail. A short time ago I decided to try the Cuticura Remedies, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap, two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent, I was completely cured. I am now well and completely cured. A thousand thanks to Cuticura. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Remedies. John T. Rosch, Richmond, Ross Co., Ohio, July 17, 1905."

DE LA MEURTHE'S NEW AIRSHIP.

Special to The Telegram.
PARIS, Nov. 17.—Aeromobiles is the newest name given to airships, and the latest fashion in them is the invention of M. De la Meurthe. The balloon is shaped like a huge cylinder, made of four thicknesses of India rubber, so woven it cannot split. The motor is hung from the great rubber envelope, well forward, in a specially devised car; it is capable of developing 70-horsepower and works one screw. The most novel feature of the aeromobile is four sets of two smaller balloons, resembling the parent, which are fixed to the sides of the greater envelope. They are to serve as wings, and much is expected of them. The aeromobile is 190 feet long, with a circumference of 32 feet and has a capacity of 30,000 cubic feet.

MAN'S SWEATER.

Here we are almost on the doorstep of December and every young man beginning to think and to talk of the sweater he wants. To start with, it must be hand-made. The sweater in this picture is new and so different from the average model and has so smart an air that the up-to-date man will consider it just the thing he needs. This sweater is made of eight-fold Zephyr Germantown wool. I like the pattern of the stitch, too. It is a sort of basket weave, done very closely on small needles, so that the sweater will not stretch all out of shape. Another point, and the best thing about the sweater is the shaping of the armholes. There is what might be called an under-arm section, giving a good deal of room across the bottom of the armhole, and making the set of the sleeve so much better. I know of nothing more suitable than this sweater for girls as well as men. It is exactly what the athletic girl will find she cannot do without when she is "roughing it."

Blouse Coat 5518
The blouse coat is always a becoming one and this season is being shown in some fresh variations that render it exceedingly attractive. This one includes a vest that can be made of any contrasting material and is held at the waist line by a pointed belt that gives a slender effect to the figure. The coat is made of dark blue cheviot with vest and the cuffs of leather colored broadcloth, but there are almost innumerable combinations that might be suggested. Velvet with broadcloth is always handsome and where velvet or velveteen make the material for the gown, there are a great many figured materials that can be utilized with success. The garment is finished in tailor style with stitching of beading silk and is held by handsome buttons, buttons making a notable feature of all the season's garments.

The coat is made with fronts, back and the vest portions. There is a box plait at each front edge beneath which

PEEK-A-BOO WAIST

BY ELLA K. DEARBORN.

Are the peek-a-boo waists immodesest?
Some dress reformers and some ministers have said so, but are they really?
If one cannot go to communion in elbow sleeves, what chance does one stand of going to heaven sans wardrobe?
In this temple of the soul so unholly that it must be swathed from sight?
If the body is unholly does draping it closely sanctify it?
Travelers tell us that those tribes that go almost entirely nude are much more modest and virtuous than the so-called civilized nations where the peek-a-boo waist is so severely criticized.
Fie upon such shallow criticism! Decency dwells within the person quite as much as in the wearing apparel.
Peek-a-boo waists and elbow sleeves are both dainty and comfortable. There is no sufficient reason why any woman should look out of place on the second woman, and vice versa—hence the necessity of cultivating individuality, and to a certain extent, using your own judgment in selecting your wardrobe.
Do you not know women whose clothes look like them—dainty, sufficiently in mode, and yet revealing the purity of mind and life and the artistic "emperment" of the wearer?
Another woman, equally gifted and charming, wears an entirely different style of dress, thus expressing her own self, and the clothing of the first woman would look out of place on the second woman, and vice versa—hence the necessity of cultivating individuality, and to a certain extent, using your own judgment in selecting your wardrobe.
A gown may be purchased in Paris, but it expresses the inner woman just the same if it has not been never have appealed to the buyer. Cultivate individuality—do not wear a garment simply because it is in style or because Mrs. Up-in-Gee has one like it. She has one like it because it is sufficient reason for your not getting it. Be yourself and give others the privilege of being themselves!

SHORT STORY

GETTING HUNK
Buxom Mrs. Clargan, proprietress of the Central house at Big Wolf, Okla., handed the handsome new arrival a pen. Hers was the best hotel—actually a three-story brick—in the ten-year-old town, and her success in business was a howling one.
"Ahem," said the newcomer, registering from Tonawanda, N. Y. "Is it far out to old man Longhorn's from here?"
"It is," said Mrs. Clargan, "but he's here in the hotel calling on my daughter, if you want to see him." So it was that Jim Longhorn, the ambitious young hunk, made his way to the effect east, at once got to see the object of his quest, his deceased father's only brother. The latter was a bachelor about 50, and wealthy, and was considered the catch of the county, the only drawback being that he was also the local lightning rod.
"It was a very cool welcome that was given to the young hunk, but he was not backing for a restaurant or similar business in the new country. In fact, he positively declined to loosen. "All right," said young Jim, "I'll get along without it. As it is, I wouldn't be here at all if a fire hadn't cleaned out my little store, but I had it insured for only $100." He remained at the hotel while looking around for work that he could do.
A few days seemed to put the way of revenge in the hands of the newcomer, for Bessie Clargan, the daughter, became decidedly cool toward old Longhorn, whose work on the courtship line was palpably coasting. Indeed he was more at home on the range than in the lavishly (for Big Wolf) upholstered parlor of the Central house. On the other hand, she seemed to like Jim Longhorn very much and showed it.
Events moved rapidly, like a liner past second base.
Like an old fox that he was, Buck Longhorn soon decided that the girl, altho a beauty, didn't have anything anyhow, and he transferred his attentions to Mrs. Clargan. She was flattered. Young Longhorn began thinking. Result, he saw the folly of marrying a school girl, and he began courting the landlady of the Central house, Bessie was content. Her real steady was the telegraph operator at the Big Wolf. The courtship engagement was announced in a few days. As for old Longhorn, he didn't last three days after his brash nephew showed serious attention to Mrs. Clargan. With the fair sex he was strictly a dead one. He felt whipped. He craftily thought of fixing up a trace.
"The Central House," said Jim, "I married Mrs. Clargan last night. We'd like to have your trade when you're in town."

was certainly not of other people's signs. She had been on the stage, and it was whispered that even yet she often danced theatrical measures in the rectory.
But Cyril did not seem to care, and Angeline spent much time in looking after the poor and aged. She had a reason for this.
"Cyril-r-ril," she would say, "still I am looking for my gr-r-randfather. My poor mother lived somewhere near this ugly little town. She r-r-ran away with my handsome father, and I never knew who was her father. But I find heem—you see!"
And, despite the village talk, all went well until one day Cyril received word that the bishop was coming to visit him.
"Now, my darling," he said, "the bishop's coming. You'll be very careful, won't you? You won't dance? Just dance for me—yes, Cyril-r-ril, I will be oh, so good!"
The day for the visit came, and Angeline worked like a Trojan setting the house in order. Finally she stood for the 10th time in the parlor, a dusting towel in her hand, and she thought, "So disconsolate ar-re you! You must be ar-r-r-rail of this bishop? Look! I dance for you!" and she began to whirl gaily around the room, waving the towel gracefully.
"The bishop of Marryville."
There fell a silence. The Rev. Cyril found himself for the first time in his life, speechless. Even Angeline found it difficult to greet her guest. Almost immediately dinner was served, but everything went wrong. The chicken was tough, the soup was cold, the celery stringy and the dessert a total failure, and when the gentlemen left the room, Angeline bent her head and wept.
"Oh, Cyril-r-ril," she laughed. "So disconsolate ar-re you! You must be ar-r-r-rail of this bishop? Look! I dance for you!" and she began to whirl gaily around the room, waving the towel gracefully.

A. B. Heard of San Antonio
in Claim Against U. S.

Special to The Telegram.
ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 21.—Captain William J. Heard, a well known Confederate veteran, has just returned to Atlanta from Washington, D. C., where he has recently been conferred with his attorneys relative to a claim for over two million dollars against the government, in which he is interested as one of four heirs. He is much encouraged over the condition of the case, and entertains a firm belief that the federal court of claims will next week render a favorable verdict, a verdict that will make him independently rich.
The claim is the outgrowth of the civil war, when federal troops seized two steamboats, 4,000 bales of cotton, 3,000 hogshead of sugar, 800 barrels of molasses and numerous other plantation supplies belonging to the late John Allen Heard of San Antonio, Texas, friend of Captain Heard of Atlanta.

Prominent Attorneys Engaged
The Heard heirs—Captain W. J. Heard of Atlanta, A. B. Heard of San Antonio, and the heirs of Mrs. Pearl Heard of Wilkinson and Mrs. Mary Heard Jones, living in Colorado and Arkansas—are represented by Crosswhite & Collady and Herbert & McCon, among the most prominent and successful attorneys of Washington. Mr. Herbert was a member of President Cleveland's cabinet.
Attorneys for the heirs are sanguine over the result of the claim," said Captain Heard. "They advised me that we were sure to win the verdict, as there is no doubt about the justice of the claim."
The Heard heirs claim $484,000. The claim has been pending for forty-two years, being postponed from time to time, first at the instance of the government and next at the instance of the heirs. It is believed, however, that both sides are now ready and the heirs feel sure of a favorable verdict.
Property at Vicksburg
The property seized by the federal troops during the war was situated at Vicksburg, Miss., and along the Mississippi and Ouchita rivers. In the event of the court of claims renders a verdict favorable to the heirs, it will then be up to congress to appropriate an amount sufficient to pay the claim in full with interest at the legal rate for the past forty-two years. In the event interest at the rate of 6 per cent per annum is allowed by the court, the claim when paid will aggregate $2,120,400, of which sum Captain Heard will be entitled to one-fourth.

BAR AMERICAN MEAT

Microscopic Examination Has Been Abandoned
Special to The Telegram.
PARIS, Nov. 21.—The elimination of the microscopic examination of pork from the new American meat inspection regulations has resulted in a preliminary decision by the French customs authorities barring American hams, bacon, canned pork, etc. After long diplomatic negotiations several years ago France agreed to admit American pork on a government certificate that it had been microscopically examined and found sound. When, therefore, the new regulations instituted after the packing house disclosures, and under which the first shipments are now on their way to French ports, were submitted to the authorities they ruled that they did not comply with the old agreement and prompt measures were instituted to secure their reversal, and, if possible, avoid prolonged unpleasant diplomatic negotiations.
Ambassador McCormick, under instructions from Washington, made telegraphic representations to the government of France, pointing out that while the microscopic examination had been eliminated the new meat inspection was more rigorous and more effective.
Foreign Minister Pichon promised to give the matter immediate attention, but it must naturally be decided first by the agricultural department.

Making the Ohio Navigable
The Ohio river will be made navigable even if it takes sixty-eight dams and locks to do it, said the United States government. That was about a generation ago, and much higgling by the different sections of the country over the cost of the project has resulted in the proposed purpose of congress, according to J. R. Schmidt, who tells about "Making the Ohio Navigable" in the Technical World Magazine for December. But the appropriation by congress of over a million dollars for the construction of one dam alone, the Fernbank dam near Cincinnati, finally gave definite shape to the work of making the river navigable for 1,500 miles. The work on this dam is about half done, and five other dams are partially completed. The importance and national character of this work may be better understood when it is known that Pittsburgh coal shipped down the Ohio last year was destined for Japan, to be used by the mikado's fleet in its fight against Russia. The Ohio is the natural highway of commerce from the East to the Middle West, but has heretofore been navigable for only four months in the year. When the Fernbank dam is completed, the river will be navigable as far down as Cincinnati all the year round. With the improved river it is estimated that the cost of transportation will be reduced about one-half.

It is one of the most wonderful tools for developing the figure, making bright eyes, red lips and rosy cheeks, ever offered to the American girl. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea. Tea or Tablets, 25 cents. J. P. Brashers.

INCH FALL IN LAMAR

Earliest Snow in Many Years Fell Last Night

S. S. S. HAS BEEN CURE FOR FORTY YEARS

S. S. S. is not a new treatment for Catarrh; it has been curing the disease for more than forty years, and so universally successful has it been that it has won an established place in the confidence of the people as a remedy for this disgusting, troublesome and dangerous disorder.

Catarrh is not merely a stubborn or protracted cold, as some people seem to think; it is a deep-seated and serious blood disorder, more generally affecting the body than any other disease. Hardly any part of the system is exempt from the trouble; it attacks the head, throat, stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, lungs and other members, and its effects often completely break down and undermine the entire constitution.

This catarrhal condition is usually first noticed after the contracting of a cold. The inner skin and tissues of the body become irritated and inflamed and secrete an unhealthy matter, which is absorbed into the blood; this foreign matter corrupts and diseases the circulation, and as the blood goes to every nook and corner of the body the poisonous matter with which it is loaded is deposited to set up inflammation and disease of the different members. Catarrh has more disgusting and annoying symptoms than any other trouble. There is a constant buzzing noise in the ears, a watery discharge from the nostrils, headaches and pains in the eyes, stringy, filthy matter drops back into the throat, requiring continual hawking and spitting, the breath has an offensive odor, slight fever often accompanies the disorder, gradually the entire blood supply becomes tainted and diseased and the system completely disordered and upset. After awhile the kidneys and bladder become affected, chronic Dyspepsia or Catarrh of the stomach develops, and the disease settles in some vital place, generally the lungs, because of the constant passage of poisoned blood through them, and Catarrh terminates in consumption, a hopeless and fatal disease.

Catarrh is usually worse in Winter, because of the cold and dampness and suddenly changing temperature, but it is in no sense a disease dependent on climatic conditions for its development. Neither is it a trouble to be cured with sprays, washes, inhalations and such treatment; these merely relieve the reflex symptoms for awhile, but they are fanned into existence again at the next exposure to unfavorable weather.

As Catarrh is a deep-seated blood disease the very best constitutional treatment is required to effect a cure. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and is therefore the remedy best fitted for the work of removing the cause and permanently curing the trouble. Forty years of successful service have proven the worth of this great medicine in the treatment of Catarrh. S. S. S. is peculiarly suited as a remedy for this disease. It is made entirely of healing, cleansing extracts and juices of roots, herbs and barks, without the least addition of mineral medicines. S. S. S. goes down into the blood and removes the catarrhal matter and poison, and its gentle acting vegetable properties strengthen and repair the diseased membranes and tissues so that when the cause has been removed the entire system is left in a state of perfect health. S. S. S. also tones up the stomach and digestion, and acts as a fine tonic to the entire system. S. S. S. has been curing Catarrh for more than forty years, and what it has done in the past is a guarantee of what it will do in the future. It is not an experiment, but a real blood purifier tested by time, for blood diseases like Catarrh. Write for our book which contains information about Catarrh, and ask for any medical advice you desire. No charge for either.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC COMPANY, ATLANTA, GA.

During the Civil War I contracted Catarrh and suffered terribly with it. It was so bad that I had lost my hearing, sense of taste, as well as being nearly blind. I had tried various medicines and specialists, spending a large sum of money on them, but with no perceptible results. One day I was driving along the coast of Florida when I found out that I had taken it home and read it carefully. I decided that it fitted my case exactly, so I abandoned all other remedies and doctors, and began using your S. S. S. I took several bottles, when much to my joy I found myself a well man. All my senses were fully recovered, and I am happy to relate that I have never had the slightest return of the ailment. I am now 75 years old and enjoy good health for my age. I cheerfully and gratefully recommend S. S. S. as the remedy that cured me of Catarrh.

Fordyce, Ark. L. S. LOHRIDGE.

Members of the Southwestern Ice Dealers' Association continued the work of their thirteenth annual meeting at Imperial hall Wednesday morning and the proceedings consisted of the routine work always inseparable from a meeting of the kind, addresses, the more important being those of Mr. Nicholson of Chicago, and G. T. Verbees of Boston, both technical and of great value to the members.

There was for the first time in the history a free and general discussion of a legislative committee, and the scope of its work, which is to be for the good of the association and its members, as far as the committee can be influential. There were a number of new arrivals Wednesday.

Before the opening of the meeting Wednesday morning the association, accompanied by a band, went to the station and met John Bonner, "Coal Oil John Bonner," who came in this morning, delayed en route. The band consisted largely of Christmas horns of all brands and ages, if size can measure the age, and all ornamented with the national colors.

After the morning adjournment the association went to the court house, where they were photographed on the steps.

This afternoon the work of the meeting will conclude, officers will be elected, and the next meeting place will be selected.

The closing entertainment of the meeting will be a typical Texas barbecue, except that it will be served at Imperial hall instead of out in the open.

The entertainment for the ice men Tuesday evening at Imperial hall was a great success, if the testimony of the ice men and the ladies who accompanied them is to be accepted.

George Diehl said at the beginning that it was a family affair; that he could not control the weather machine, but promises so freely made last week of good weather for this week were not realized, and therefore they could do nothing for them outside. But you can be assured that we will take care of you inside, and with the feat from the Hotel Delaware before us, the remark was construed in another way.

One of the great features was the singing of Major George Bond of San Angelo.

Probably the best feature on the program to most of those present was the singing of the Apollo quartet. Professor Keschner gave two whistling numbers and sang one upon song.

Several brief addresses were made.

MURRAY KNOWN IN FORT WORTH

President of Convention Was Local School Teacher

W. H. Murray, who has just been elected president of the Oklahoma state constitutional convention, is well known to a large number of Tarrant county people, who are much gratified at the honor which Murray has won.

President Murray twenty years ago was a struggling county school teacher in the public schools of Tarrant county and in the red-hot campaign in which E. H. Buck was nominated for county superintendent Murray was one of his opponents. He taught school in the eastern part of the county, studying law at the same time. After securing a license to practice law he abandoned school teaching for the law, but had such a rough experience that he for a time abandoned the law and durin the night of the oil boom, published a daily paper at that place called the Oil Review. He sold his paper to J. W. Watkins and left Corsicana in 1888 and went to Oklahoma or the Indian Territory and once more took up the law. Before going to the territory, however, he had a law office in Fort Worth, but didn't do much good for himself.

Backache, "The Blues"

Both Symptoms of Organic Derangement in Women—Thousands of Sufferers Find Relief.

How often do we hear women say: "It seems as though my back would break." or "Don't speak to me, I am all out of sorts?" These significant remarks prove that the system requires attention. Backache and "the blues" are direct symptoms of an inward trouble which will sooner or later declare itself. It may be caused by diseased kidneys or some derangement of the organs. Nature requires assistance and at once, and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all these peculiar ailments of women. It has been the standby of intelligent American women for twenty years, and the best judges agree that it is the most universally successful remedy for women's ills known to medicine. Read the convincing testimonials of Mrs. Holmes and Mrs. Cotrely. Mrs. J. C. Holmes, of Larimore, North Dakota, writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I have suffered everything with backache and female trouble—I feel the trouble run on until my system was in such a condition that I was unable to be about, and then it was I commenced to use Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If I had only known how much suffering I would have saved I should have taken it months sooner—for a few weeks' treatment made me well and strong. My backaches and headaches are all gone and I suffer no pain at my monthly periods, whereas before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered intense pain. Mrs. Emma Cotrely, 109 East 12th Street, New York City, writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I feel it my duty to tell all suffering women of the relief I have found in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. KING MIDAS

Copyright, 1906, by Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle."

Chapter III "For you alone I strive to sing, Oh, tell me how to woo!" When Helen was left alone she seated herself before her old music stand which had been brought down to welcome her, and proceeded to glance over and arrange the pieces she had learned and enjoy the young girlhood. Most of them made her smile, and when she reflected upon how difficult she used to think them, she realized that now that it was over she was glad for the German regime. Helen had accounted herself an accomplished pianist when she went away, but she had met with new standards and learned to think humbly of herself in the great home of music. She possessed a genuine fondness for the art, however, and had devoted most of her three years to it, so that she came home rejoicing in the possession of a technic that was quite a mastership compared with any that she was likely to meet. Helen's thoughts did not dwell upon that very long at present, however; she found herself thinking again about Arthur, and the unexpected ending of her walk with him. "I had no idea he felt that way toward me," she mused, resting her chin in her hand; "what in the world am I going to do? Men are certainly most inconsistent creatures; I thought I was doing everything in the world to make him happy!" Helen turned to the music once more, but the memory of the figure she had left slumped helplessly upon the forest seat stayed in her mind. "I do wonder if that can be why he did not wait for me," she thought, shading her eyes. "He was too wretched to see me again; what can I do?" She got up and began walking restlessly up and down the room for a few minutes. "Perhaps I ought to go and look for him," she mused; "it was an hour or two ago that I left him there;" and Helen, after thinking the matter over, had turned to leave when she had a step outside and saw the door open quickly. Even before she saw him she knew who it was, for only Arthur would have entered without ringing the bell. After having pictured him over come by despair, it was rather a blow to her pride to see him, for he entered flushed and seemingly elated. "Well, sir, you've treated me nicely!" she exclaimed, showing her vexation in spite of herself. "You will forgive me," said Arthur, smiling. "Don't be too sure of it," Helen said; "I looked for you everywhere, and I am quite angry." "I was obeying your high command," the other replied, still smiling. "My command? I told you to wait for me." "You told me something else," laughed Arthur. "You spent all the morning instructing me for it, you know." "Oh!" said Helen. It was a broad and very much prolonged "Oh," for a sudden light was dawning upon the girl; as it came her frown gave place to a look of delight. "You have been writing me a poem," she cried, eagerly. "Yes," said Arthur. "Oh, you did forgive me, but you ought to have told me, for I had to walk home all alone, and I've been worrying about you. I never once thought of the poem." "The muses call without warning," laughed Arthur, "and one has to obey them, you know." "And so you've been wandering around the woods all this time, making verses?" And you've been waving your arms and shouting 'Eureka' and doing all sorts of crazy things, I know!" Then as she saw Arthur flush, she went on: "I was sure of it! And you ran away so that I couldn't see you!" "Oh, I wish I'd known; I'd have hunted you up and never come home until I'd found you." As was usual with Helen, her momentary vexation had gone like April rain, and all her seriousness had vanished with it. She forgot all about the last scene in the woods, and Arthur was once more the friend of her girlhood, whom she might take by the hand when she chose, and with whom she might sit at tea and eat and drink when she was alone with the flowers and the wind. It seemed as if Arthur, too, had vented all his pent up emotion, and returned to his natural cheerful self. "Tell me," she cried, "did you put in all the things I told you about?" "I put all I could," said Arthur. "That is the great deal to me." "I only want it to be full of life," laughed Helen. "That's all I care about; the man who wants to write primitive poetry for me must be wide awake." "Shall I read it to you?" asked Arthur, hesitatingly. "Yes, of course," said Helen. "And read it as if you meant it; if I like it I'll tell you so."

Can't Miss It

So many ailments are purely nervous affections, that you can hardly miss it if you try Dr. Miles' Nervine. It restores nervous energy—and through its invigorating influence upon the nervous system, the organs are strengthened. The heart action is better; digestion improved, the sluggish condition overcome, and healthy activity re-established.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is worth its weight in gold to me. I did not know what ailed me. I was a good physician but got no relief. I could not eat, sleep, work, sit or stand. I was nearly dead. One day I saw in the paper the first thing that met my eyes was an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Nervine. I swallowed it and let the doctor go, and I did so. After taking a bottle I could dress myself. Then I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and now I can work and go out, and have told many the benefits I have received from these remedies and several of them have been cured by it since I am five years old and pretty good yet. ANNA R. PALMER, Lewistown, Pa. Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails, he will refund your money. NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Call money opened at 8 per cent and before the end of the first hour the rate had increased to 10 1/2 per cent.

Good authorities expect bullish force in numerous low-priced issues, among which are mentioned San Francisco second preferred, Rock Island, United States Steel, Car Foundry and Amalgamated Copper.

While all indications are for easier money rates before December, present conditions will probably continue to influence hammering of stocks, which fact, added to opportunities to scalp profits, would naturally cause reactions in numerous stocks.

RAILROAD WANTS TO CONSOLIDATE

Governor Campbell May Veto the Proposition

It is practically settled that the Rock Island will present to the next legislature a bill for the consolidation of several lines, which are known as the Yoakum lines of railway in Texas, and which if done will simply bring under one management several properties which are now, by reason of their separate charters, operated and offered as distinct lines and yet which are really one line and in no sense of the word competing lines. And because of that fact do not come under the inhibition of the consolidation-out-competes law.

As outlined, the system traverses the regions where freight is most abundant, cattle, in the Panhandle, and the northwest, cotton in north and central Texas, timber in the eastern part of the state, oil and timber in the southern and truck and produce generally from the Brownsville country, and along the southern edge of Texas, making the proposed system one of the most important in the country from a freight traffic point of view.

Suspend Examination Arrangements have been made for the checking of the railroad commission, which holds that the fact that no examination is required at Laredo, as is now the general rule. The new regulation is to apply to baggage going in over the Iron Mountain and International & Great Northern, tho, of course, if this is applicable to the passengers over the other lines. Baggage to intermediate points is subject to the examination at Laredo. Often the examination is infunctory, but there are times, when for some reason, inexplicable to the railroad, the examination is made as rigid as that by American custom agents at New York city.

Commission Has Power The attorney general has given an opinion to the railroad commission, which holds that the fact that a receivership exists is no bar to action, on the part of the railroad commission. The character acts done by the road prior to the making of the receivership. The query came up on the position of the Texas Southern. For the most part, the commission will not require the Fuman company to charter and statutory obligations of the road's charter is subject, in the judgment of the commission, to forfeiture. A receivership exists and the commission was doubtful of its authority to act while the railway was in charge of the court. It is the common understanding that Kate has a lien on the road and if it can get a good title it will so improve it that it can be run and do the service expected.

To Relieve Shipper Commissioner Colquitt of the state railroad commission has evolved a plan for the relief of the cotton shipper which, if actually applied, will be made general to all freight. The idea is a brief, reciprocal demurrage. Now the rule for the railroads to delay the cotton shipments at the compresses, at shipping stations and at the primaries, but creates what is charged demurrage for the use of the cars in which the cotton is stored. The proposition is that the shipper shall be allowed demurrage if the shipments are not promptly handled.

Ignore Pullman Company Practically a conclusion has been reached by the state railroad commission to ignore the Pullman company. In the matter of the proposed regulation of the charges for sleeping car accommodation, and require the railroads to make the proper provision for the benefit of the patrons of the roads. The authority of the commission to require the Pullman company to do anything is subject to grave doubt.

Control of Colorado Southern The report comes from New York that the Rock Island interests have acquired control of the Colorado Southern. The deal would involve the purchase of about $20,000,000 of the common stock of the road. The obligations of the road are in common stock, and first and second preferred, a total of about $47,000,000.

Can Absorb Charges Because the compress at Stamford, is on the line of the Texas Central and the Wichita Valley has not built its switching line to the compress the Wichita Valley is granted authority to absorb the Stamford switching charges so as to equalize the freight rates with the Central.

Reduce Railroad Fares It is predicted a score of more of bills will be introduced in the next state legislative session, and the reduction of the maximum passenger fares to 2 or 2 1/2 cents per mile, and one of them at least will pass.

ATTENTION, WOODMEN CIRCLE Sovereigns of Maple Hurst Grove No. 5 are requested to assemble at their hall at 1 o'clock p. m. Thursday, Nov. 22, to attend the funeral of Sovereign R. C. Moore. Funeral from First Baptist church at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Sarah Hoyt, guardian; Mrs. Nannie Luther, Clerk.
