He had known White several years and was friendly with him. There was a large water cooler standing to the right of the Aige and White remarked: "What

I knew of White's relations with the Thaws and I turned to him and asked: 'What is the matter with you? Are you looking for trouble?" Before he had a chance to answer, his interest was attracted by Maude Fulton, a little girl of the chorus, who happened to pass. "I turned as she went by and said: 'Hello, Maud.' 'Now, Laurence, you

TUESDAY ARGUMENTS

Submitted Tuesday in Railroad Injunction Suits Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 28 .- Judge Garwood of the Southern Pacific opened the argument Tuesday afternoon in the federal court on the injunction suits of the railroads. He contended that a bill in equity was not subject to general demurrer. That any demurrers to it should be overruled. He detailed what the bills set out and said that in the argument before the supreme court in the Reagan case was to the effect that the bill was too general, while here "we are confronted with the idea that we should be more specific. He argued as to the demurrers in general and the court announced that he understood the state acquiesed, indicating that it was to the Houston and Texas Central passenger rate. This included the allegation that the final act of the commission was prejudiced and the case decided before the hearing. Continuing, Judge Garwood said that a year ago the Houston and Texas Central had a surplus of $275 .-000 and it was seriously intimated that it had this surplus. The government was authorized to dip in its hand and take that away from it by reducing the passenger rate. He said that he believed it was becoming an offense for a railroad to disclose a surplus. Judge Garwood suggested that when the court issues his decree in this case that he fix it so that his hand will be on the situation, so that the complainants may not have to come again for relief, while the litigation

Judge Spoonts of the Fort Worth and Denver began his argument at 4 p. m., confining it to his allegations regarding the granting by the state a charter to his road back in 1853 and that it contained a provision allowing the owners of the road 12 per cent income on the investment, and the right to issue bonds to the amount of $25,-000 per mile; that today the railroad was worth double that amount. He said that Texas is the only state that charters a railroad and refuses to allow its rates to leave the borders of the state. When Judge Spoonts concluded the court adjourned until this morning.

Address of Ed S. Hughes

"The Wholesale and Retail Interest in Commercial Organization and Agricultural Development" was responded to by Ed S. Hughes, one of the best known hardware men in Texas. Mr. Hughes said:

I am a little in doubt as to what phase of the subject assigned me it was intended for me to discuss. It reads "The Wholesale and Retail Interest in Commercial Organization and Agricultural Development." As the success of both the wholesaler and retailer in Abilene is based entirely on agricultural operation and development their interest in that part of the question is intense and requires no argument. If it presupposes that their interest in commercial organization will produce agricultural development, then their course becomes plain and I unhesitatingly say that it is the duty of each to foster, support and encourage commercial organization for the accomplishment of this result. While I do not wish to minimize the very many benefits that commercial organization can accomplish (for I am a firm believer in the certainties, probabilities and possibilities of organized effort), yet, there are none so important or material to us as agricultural development. In our efforts to accomplish other results, we should not neglect it or forget how vital our continued agricultural development is. While we appreciate the value of manufacturing development thru commercial organivation and should never rest until we have our town full of successful factories and have added to our citizenship the "tin bucket brigade," yet we must admit that this is a dream of the future. While we realize the value of social, moral, educational and rethe legitimate uses for which the profis the foundation of all; our bone and cultural development western Texas has proven to the minds of the most skeptical among us (We old citizens were the last to quit knocking and line up), its ability to support famil'es, villages, towns and cities depending entirely on the products of the soil. Compare this with our convictions of ten years ago and marvel at the unexpected unforeseen agricultural development it records and its resultant prosperity. Is not then the only legitireate conclusion, that it is the duty of every merchant, individually and collectively, to use every honorable effort to continue to encourage this development. Should they not try as

Sunday Club Arranges for Services Beginning Sunday

Beginning Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church, in Fourth and Calhoun streets, the Sunday Club, an auxiliary organization composed of men, will start a series of meetings for men only, which promises to be most unique in character. Well-known speakers have been secured and there will be a different speaker each night. Among those who have been engaged are: Rev. J. Frank Smith of Dallas, who will open the services with a monster mass meeting Sunday night in the church; Rev. George W. Ray of the Congregational church, Dr. C. W. Daniels of the First Baptist church, and Bruno Hobbs, secretary of the international committee of the Young Men's Christian Association of New York, and others. It is expected the speakers will deal with subjects of vital interest to men, and the managers of the club believe a large number will respond to the ap-Good musical talent has also been

COFFEE SLAVES

Thousands of Persons Don't Know Why They Are Miserable

Most of our troubles come from what we eat and drink. Even bad habits seem to become more respectable with age. The coffee habit has an ancient pedigree, but it is none the less disastrous to many. "During the five years before I was married," writes a Calif. school teacher, "I became a slave to coffee. "I became a nervous wreck and my stomach was almost ruined. ELECT OFFICERS OF NEW FACTORY

Subscribers to Glass Factory Fund Meet

A meeting of the subscribers of the Fort Worth Glass and Sand Company, the new glass factory company, which is to be built at the stove foundry district, is being held this afternoon for the purpose of organizing and electing officers. A charter for the company will also be drawn up with a capital stock of $50,000 and sent to Austin. Total amount of capital already subscribed for the concern is $38,500. The new factory has secured an option on a tract of ten acres at the stove foundry and will erect a factory to cost about $45,000 and will employ about 265 men within six months after opening. William Linden, a glass factory expert, from Chicago, is the organizer of the new company, and one of the subscribers.

The purpose of the glass factory will be to manufacture bottles, jars, plate glass and window glass. The plant contemplated will be a first class and up-to-date in every particular. A promise of a yearly business of about $50,000 has already been secured from a concern willing to use the goods of a local company. The company anticipates the ability to turn out 280 car loads of bottles annually, amounting to 126,000 gross of bottles. The saving on freighton this amount of bottles, which now come from a distance, will be considerable. This freight would amount to about $125,000 annually on this amount from the nearest large glass factory to Fort The subscribers are: J. L. Breathwit,

SEND MISTLETOE NORTH BY MAIL

Rates by Express and United States Mail

The approach of Christmas brings with it a question that is often asked in this locality: "How can I send mistletoe to my friends in the North." Oftentimes such friends live so far away that the express rates which increase with distance almost prohibit the sending of mistletoe as a remembrance. However, it is perfectly within the law that mistletoe shall be sent thru the United States mail, where the rate is the same to all parts of the country. Mistletoe comes under the same head as cut flowers, which go as fourth class mail matter, at a cent an northern part of the country far more than it is here, where it is abundant. North of the territories there is but little growing and homes are usually decorated with holly with perhaps one sprig of mistletoe on a chandelier. Consequently a box of mistletoe from this section is all the more welcome. Express rates for a pound package of mistletoe to St. Louis are 25 cents. The same package to Kansas City and Chicago would cost 30 cents. By mail to either of these place it would be 16 cents. For three pounds of mistletoe to any of these three places the express rate is the better. Three pounds to St. Louis cost 35 cents and to Kansas City and Chicago, 45 cents. Farther away, however, the mail rates are cheaper.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty

Costs Nothing to Try Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few utilize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose. Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better: it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system. Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic. It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels: It disinfects the mouth and throat from

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is, that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them, they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug store, and altho in some sense a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets." "No, not in general," he said with simple dignity. "I believe that I am much better equipped as a listener." Helen had never seen more perfect self-possession than that, and she felt

It would have been difficult to guess the age of the man beside her, but Helen noticed that his hair was slightly gray. A closer view only served to strengthen her first impression of him that he was all head, and she found herself thinking that if that had been all of him he might have been handsome, tho in a strange, uncomfortable way. The broad forehead seemed more prominent than ever, and the dark eyes seemed fairly to shine from beneath It. The rest of the face tho wan, was as powerful and massive as the brow, and seemed to Helen, little used as she was to think of such things, to indicate character as well as suffering. "It looks a little like Arthur's," she thought. This she had been noticing in the course of the conversation; then, because her curiosity had really been piqued, she brought back the original topic again. "You have not told me about my playing," she smiled, "and I wish for your opinion. I am very vain, you know." (There is wisdom in avowing a weakness which you wish others to think you do not possess.)

"It gave me great pleasure to watch you," said the man after a moment. "To watch me!" thought Helen. That is a palpable evasion. That is not criticising my music itself," she said aloud, not showing that she was

"You have evidently been very well taught,' said the other, "unusually well; and you have a very considerable technic." And Helen was only more uncomfortable than ever; evidently the man would have liked to add a "but" to that sentence, and the girl felt as if she had come near an icicle in the course of her evening's triumph. However, she was now still more curious to hear the rest of his opinion. Half convinced yet that it must be favorable in the end, she said: "I should not in the least mind your speaking plainly; the admiration of people who do not understand music really do not care for.' And then as Mr. Howard fixed his deep, clear eyes upon her. Helen involuntarily lowered her's a little. "If you really want my opinion," said the other, "you shall have it. But you must remember that it is yourself who leads me to the bad taste of being serious in company." That last remark was in Helen's own style, and she looked interested. For the rest, she felt that she had got- reason."

but it was too late to retreat now. "I will excuse you," she said, "I wish to know." "Very well, then," said Mr. Howard, "the truth is that I did not care for Helen gave a slight start. "If that is all the trouble, I need not worry," she thought; and she added easily. "The sonata is usually considered one of Beethoven's very greatest works,

Mr. Howard.' "I am aware of that," said the other. but do you know how Beethoven came o compose it?"

Helen had the happy feeling of a person of moderate resources when the conversation turns to one of his specialties. "Yes," she said; "I have read how he said 'So pocht das Schicksal auf ide Pforte.* Do you understand that, Mr. Howard?" "Only partly," said the other, very then that she had made a very awkward blunder, indeed. "Fate is a very dreadful thing to understand, Miss Davis," the other continued slowly. "When one has heard the knock, he does not forget it, and even the echo of it makes him gently; "do you?" And Helen felt just

"I suppose, then," said Helen glibly, trying to save herself, "that you think the sonata is too serious to be played in public?"

"Not exactly," was the answer: "it depends upon the circumstances. There are always three persons concerned. you know. In this case, as you have pardoned me for being serious, there is in the first place the great genius with his sacred message; you know how he learned that his lifework was to be ruined by deafness, and how he poured his agony and despair into his greatest symphony, and into this sonata. That is the first person, Miss Davis." He paused for a moment; and Helen took a deep breath, thinking that it was the strangest conversation she had ever been called upon to listen to during an evening's merriment. Yet she did not smile, for the man's deep, resonant voice fascinated her.

*"So knocks Fate upon the door." "And the second?" she asked. "The second," said Howard, turning his dark, sunken eyes full upon the girl, "is another man, not a genius, but one who has suffered, I fear, nearly as much as one; a man who is very hungry for beauty, and very impatient of insincerity, and who is accustomed to look to the great masters of art for all his help and courage." Helen felt very uncomfortable in-

"Evidently," she said, "I am the "Yes." said Mr. Howard. "the pianist is the third. It is the pianist's place to take the great work and live it, and study it until he knows all that it means: and then-"I don't think I took it quite so seriously as that," said Helen, with a poor attempt at humility. "No," said Mr. Howard, gravely: "it was made evident to me that you did not by every note you played; for you treated it as if it had been a Liszt show piece,"

Helen was of course exceeding angry at those last blunt wrods; but she was too proud to let her vexation be observed. She felt that she had gotten herself into the difficulty by asking for serious criticism, for deep in her heart she knew that it was true, and that she would never have dared to play the sonata had she known that a musician was present. Helen felt completely humiliated, her few minutes' conversation having been enough to put her out of humor with herself and all of her surroundings. There was a long silence; in which she had time to think of what she had heard; she felt in spite of herself the folly of what she had done, and her whole triumph had suddenly come to look very small indeed; yet, as was natural, she felt only anger against the man who had broken the spell and destroyed her illusion. She was only the more irritated because she could not find any ground upon which to

It would have been very difficult for her to have carried on the conversation after that. Fortunately a diversion occurred, the young person who had last played having gone to the piano again, this time with a young

"Yes," said the other, "she told me we had another violinist. The violinist played Raff's Cavatina, a thing which fiddlers all love to exhibit themselves; he played is just a little off the key at times, as Helen might have told by watching her companien's eyebrews. She in the meantime was trying to recover her equanimity, and to think what else she could say. "He's the most uncomfortable man I ever met," she thought with vexation. "I wish I'd insisted upon keeping away from him!" However, Helen was again relieved from her plight by the fact that as the fiddler stopped and the faint applause died out, she saw Mr. Harrison coming toward her. Mr. Harrison had somehow succeeded in extricating himself from the difficulty in which his hostess had placed him, and had no doubt guessed that Helen was no better pleased with her new companion. "May I join you?" he asked, as he neared the sofa. "Certainly," said Helen, smiling; she introduced the two men, and Mr. Harrison sat down upon the other side of the girl. Somehow or other he seemed less endurable than he had just lefore, for his voice was not as soft as Mr. Howard's and now that Helen's

"My daughter for five years was troubled with indigestion, which resulted in extreme nervousness." writes an Ind. mother. "She would eat heartily of meat, vegetables and pastry for a time, and then become sluggish, lose her appetite, and get so nervous she could not attend to her school work. "On such occasions the family doctor would call and by giving her medicine would fix her up for a while only to have the old trouble come back in three or four weeks. "She would walk in her sleep sometimes when her nerves were greatly disturbed by indigestion

"For breakfast we usually had some kind of cereal and for a change got some Grape-Nuts. We all took to the new food, my daughter became so very fond of it she often made her breakfast on Grape-Nuts, exclusive of anything else-sometimes also for lunch. "We soon noticed a marked change in her nerves, she ceased to walk in her sleep and had no trouble with her stomach. We were confident the Grape-Nuts had brought the happy change, and continued to use it, so that now after more than a year she is a rosy, robust girl full of animation, strong and well." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a

WEST TEXAS IN THE LEAD

Ferdinand Hanaw, 336 East Houston street.

The Telegram has frequently referred to the great prosperity prevailing in west Texas, and has continually defended that section from the aspersions cast upon it by other portions of the state. This has been made necessary by the fact that a number of east Texas papers are continually misrepresenting and doing all in their power to stop the tide of immigration that is headed in that direction. The return of one east Texas prodigal is the signal for a general shout of welcome, but when a bunch of enterprising east Texans pull up and start for the west it is either the signal for a prolonged and dismal howl or a silence that is positively painful. But this unfair disposition toward the west cannot retard the continued development of that section nor can it hide the fact that business men in touch with the commercial interests of the west are declaring it is the most prosperous portion of Texas. The Haskell Free Press says:

The writer was a silent listener at dinner the other day to a conversation between several drummers representing Dallas wholesale houses, in which they were discussing the merits and conditions in the different sections of the state in which they travel. Not to attempt to report their conversation, we will state that they were agreed that western Texas, and especially several counties in this section, were the most prosperous in the state and were making the most rapid strides in development. One of them who was traveling for a hardware and implement house backed up his argument in favor of this section with the state ment that their east Texas man had so far this year turned in about $70,000 worth of business to the house while he from west Texas and another man from central Texas had each turned in nearly half a million dollars' worth of business, and he properly claimed that his western business was relatively larger than that of the central man because of the much heavier population thruout central Texas.

It appeared from their conversation that eastern Texas is less prosperous and its farming population in more straitened circumstances than in any other portion of the state. We take it that their talk was a genuine expression of their belief of facts within their knowledge, as the writer was the only Haskell man present and they did not know that he was a

There is no disputing the question that west Texas, and when we say west Texas we include the Panhandle, is today developing faster than any other section of this great and glorious state. The steady stream of immigration that is continually pouring in and the abundant crops that have been made now for three years in succession has brought an era of unexampled prosperity, and the men who have pinned their faith to the west and hung on year after year during the depressing periods of the past are beginning to enjoy a just and proper reward.

Much of the abundant prosperity that is so evident in Fort Worth today is predicated upon the general prosperity that prevails in west Texas and the Panhandle. As those sections build up and develop it must continue to add to the growth and development of Fort Worth. This city is bound to those sections by the ties of an enduring friendship that traces back | wipe out the ticks. to the days when neither was able to stand alone. West Texas and the Panhandle have never made an unanswered appeal to Fort Worth, and Fort Worth has never held empty arms in the direction of those two great sections. They are doing their part nobly in assisting this city to become the real metropolis of the southwest, and Fort Worth will ever be loyal to her friends and allies who have been true and steadfast during all the years of the past. It has been often remarked that the most liberal and progressive citizens of Texas make their home in west Texas and the Panhandle. They are the men who were broad enough to see and recognize the exfsting opportunities-men who were too big and too - broad to remain comfortable in their former cramped and uncongenial surroundings, and whose great spirits could not find contentment until they had found an abiding place in the booming and free and untrammeled west. There is somethig in the very air of those high western plains that makes a man bigger and broader. He may go out there with a somewhat narrow and circumscribed vision, but if he remains he will unconsciously grow until he develops into the very highest type of American citizenship.

And west Texas and the Panhandle are doing a great work for all Texas in that respect alone. They are developing such a high and model class of citizenship that other portions of Texas may well emulate the example. No small men can exist in those portions of Texas, for they just grow and grow and grow until their former dimensions are entirely obliterated.

THE ORIGIN OF THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving day is peculiarly an American institution. In England and other countries there are occasional days of Thanksgiving in commemoration of some great or unusual event, and it is only in the United States that a day is annually set apart for Thanksgiving and observed by the great majority of the people. In this country it is a day set apart by proclamations issued by the President of the United States and the governors of each state and territory.

As a generally observed day, however, Thanksgiving in this country is only about forty years old, yet its history is of much greater antiquity. During the dark ages the Druids, who were the priests of a pastoral people, had great Thanksgiving festivals, and the Goths and Huns celebrated in their pagan manner the same kind of an occasion.

As an American institution Thanksgiving day commenced with the harvesting of the first crops by the Puritan fathers in the year 1623, which was the second year after their arrival. It was William Bradford the first governor of the New England colonies, who issued the first Thanksgiving proclamation on Benjamin Franklin has left behind him a good account of the origin of Thanksgiving in America. "There is a tradition," he wrote, "that in the plantations of New England the first settlers met with many difficulties and hardships as is generally the case when a civilized people attempt establishing themselves in a wilderness country.

"Being piously disposed, they sought relief from Heaven by laying their wants and distresses before the Lord in frequent set days of fasting and prayer. Constant meditation and discourse on these subjects kept their minds gloomy and discontented; and, like the children of Israel, there were many disposed to return to that Egypt which persecution had induced them to abandon.

"At length, when it was proposed in the assembly to proclaim another fast, a farmer of plain sense rose and remarked that the inconvenience they suffered. and concerning which they had so often wearled Heaven with their complaints, were not so great as they might have expected, and were diminishing every day as the colony straightened; that the earth began to reward their labor and to furnish liberality for their substance; that the seas and rivers were found full of fish and the air sweet, the climate healthy, and, above all, that they were there in the full enjoyment of liberty, civil and religious, he, therefore, thought that, reflecting and conversing on these subjects would be more comfortable, as tending more to make them contented with their situation and that it would be more becoming the gratitude they owed the Divine Being, if instead of a fast, they should proclaim a

"His advice was taken and from that day to this they have, in every year, observed the circumstances of felicity sufficient to furnish employment for a thanksgiving day, which is therefore, constantly ordered and religiously observed."

While Thanksgiving prospered in New England, it was not until the time of the revolution that it became general. Then a day of national thanksgiving was recommended by congress. As we now celebrate it, the festival dates from 1864, when President Lincoln issued a proclamation setting for the last Thursday in November as a day of national thanksgiving. Each succeeding year the President of the United States has annually proclaimed an annual Thanksgiving day, and the custom is followed by the governors of the various states. However, in the states of Arkansas, Colorado, Delaware, Georgia, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Utah Thanksgiving day finds no place in the list of holidays by proclamation of their respective

In Texas our people usually enter into the spirit of the occasion in a proper manner. Thanksgiving day is a holiday and appropriate religious services are always held, the people generally attending and then giving the remainder of the day over to rejoicing and festivities. This year the great state of Texas has much to be thankful for, and the day has been fittingly observed from one end of the state to the other.

WOULD CHANGE THE LINE

According to a report that comes from Colorado City, a movement has been inaugurated by some of the cattlemen who have interests in that section to have both Mitchell and Sterling counties placed permanently below the state and federal quarantine line, and some little feeling is being worked up over the matter. Letters have been written to Washington asking that such action be taken, and these letters have been referred back to Dan McCunningham, the federal inspector who has charge, of the situation out

Inspector McCunningham, who is well known to the cattlemen of Texas, has written to the Washington authorities expressing his unqualified disapproval of the suggestion. He says with the proper steps on the part of the cattlemen of that section and a rigid enforcement of the quarantine laws now in force and effect, the fever ticks can be thoroly eradicated from the infected herds of Mitchell and Sterling counties, and that he does not believe in placing these counties permanently below the line until it has been fully proven to the contrary. He and his men are now hard at work in a number of the ininfected pastures and doing everything possible to Leading cattlemen from that section who have been talked to on the subject seem to agree with the position taken by Inspector McCunningham. They say it would be a great mistake to place those counties below the line and thus abandon them to the fever tick after the years that have been spent in trying to prevent such a contingency. They declare that if Mitchell and Sterling are thus abandoned it will be but a short time until the next tier of counties will experience the same fate and this process will be repeated until the entire safe area of the state has been wiped out. It is averred that the movement is the result of desire on the part of a few men with tick infested pastures who desire to use Colorado City as a shipping point for cattle located below the line, but who are debarred from doing so by the fact that the town is located above the line.

Whether that allegation is true or not, it is morally certain that a feeling of this kind has existed in that section for several years, certain interests contending it would be best to go below the line, while others have contended it would be ruinous in the extreme. It is declared that popular sentiment in both counties is strongly in favor of keeping up the fight against the fever tick.

Texas has made a big turkey crop this year, and Thanksgiving finds the toothsome birds in sufficient abundance to furnish one for every table at a very fair price. And the Texas Thanksgiving bird has been shipped out by the thousands. Epicures of other states are learning that the turkeys produced in Texas are always the real thing.

It must be pleasant to Charles A. Culberson to read the many nice and complimentary things the newspapers of the country are saying of him as a Presidential possibility. But those nice things will not affect the level poise of the Culberson cranium. He is the one Texas statesman who cannot be spoiled by the adulation of the masses.

North Fort Worth has designs on Rosen Heights, and Fort Worth has an eye on North Fort Worth and feels very much disposed to spread herself in a northerly direction. The time will come at no distant day when these matters will all be settled to the satisfaction of the people.

There is a slight revival of Mineral Wells interurban talk, but there yet seems no disposition to get squarely down to business. The Telegram is still of the opinion, however, that the line will be built and will prove a fine investment.

It has been suggested that freight blockades in Texas cannot be overcome until a number of our leading railways are double tracked, and if Texas has to wait for a contingency of that kind there will be congestion for a long time to come.

Building material continues high, but it does not seem to affect the number of new buildings. Fort Worth people are continually building new homes and otherwise giving evidence of the fact that they are

The district judge of Grayson county in his charge to the jury commissioners said: "Above all things do not select as grand jurors men who may act upon spite or purely personal motive." This is good advice and should be observed by jury commissioners in every county.-Denton Record and Chronicle.

There is too much spite worked off in the grand jury rooms of Texas, and the action taken by the district pudge in Grayson county was both proper and timely. Men should be indicted for crime in Texas, and not to even up any personal scores.

This is jubilee week in North Fort Worth-the packing house district of the Panther City. Four years ago the entire section was a broad prairie, growing sunflowers, the beautiful Texas plume and the "stilly" cactus bush. Today it is an incorporated city of 10,000 peopulation, and is growing every hour. Truly North Fort Worth has a celebration coming to her, and no doubt will do the thing up brown .-

Mr. Pierce says his affidavits did not contain anything but the truth, and that it was made under the direction of legal advice. Why was he consulting counsel about an affidavit? There must have been some kind of an evasion, to say the least.—Austin Tri-

The Standard Oil Company may have relinquished control long enough for President Pierce to make that famous affidavit, but it seems to have resumed business at the old stand as soon as it thought the people of Texas had been hoodwinked.

 \diamond \diamond \diamond The Denton Morning News has been discontinued after an earnest struggle of several months to make a success of two daily papers in a town hardly large enough for one. The News was a good paper, well edited and ably manged, owned by a corporation composed of leading citzens of Denton, but had an uphill fight in trying to down the Record and Chronicle, the established paper.—Brownwood Bulletin.

It was only the inevitable that happened in the case of the Denton paper. It went into a field already fully occupied and after a brief and fitful struggle was compelled to give up the contest, not because it did not deserve to succeed, but for the simple reason

. . . . Funny, but all the "original Campbell men" are enough now to discourage any man on earth out of the notion to run for governor. They are as thick as the entire vote all over the state from what we hear. And not one of the crowd is refusing office, when asked if he would accept, etc.-Bonham Herald.

The "original Campbell men" are very much in evidence, and it is said all the Austin office holders have become enthusiastic Campbell men and are insisting on a reward for their change of front. It is a great combination.

THE BANK SCRUBLADY

OR, THE VOLUNTEER SLEUTHESS

"My! I'm all in a flutter. Oh, to think of the wickedness of this world! I can hardly sleep nights thinking what might happen to the Bank should my suspicions come true. It was today that the president told all of us employes-myself, the janitor, office boy, cashier and such-that banks nowadays can't be too careful, and any of us should let him know the least thing that looked suspicious. You can imagine how that affected me-me who is always noticing peculiar little things.

"To begin with, I immediately told the president about Cully, the office boy. I caught him smoking a cigarette butt, and it was the SECOND time. The president thanked me, and his voice sort of choked." (To Be Continued.)

THE THANKSGIVING THIEVES

Leslie M. Shaw, the secretary of the treasury, during a recent visit to Louisville, said of a certain financial swindle:

"The thing was certainly angenious. It reminded ne of a Thanksgiving happening.

"Two sneak thieves were admitted, thru some error, to a Thanksgiving banquet, but they found to their chagrin that everybody at table was under surveillance. It was impossible to steal a thing.

"At length, tho, Doe, the older thief, managed to secrete a silver spoon in his shoe. Roe, the younger, saw the trick, and was filled with jealous rage, for, with all his cleverness, he had not been able to pouch o much as a toothpick

"All of a sudden an ingenious idea came to the envious and unsuccessful Roe.

"'Gentlemen,' he said, waving a silver spoon in the air, 'I will now try a conjuring wick.' "All eyes were fixed upon him.

"'Presto, vanish!' he said, and passed the spoon up his sleeve. Where is the spoon gone now? You will find it, gentlemen, in my friend Doe's shoe," \diamond \diamond \diamond \diamond

TOO FREQUENT ELECTIONS

"Too many elections!" The good people of Massachusetts can stand a great deal in the way of politics. but at last the cry has come "enough." Nearly all the states now elect a governor for two years or more. Massachusetts is one of six states that hold annual sessions of the legislature—Georgia, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island and South Carolina being the others. Yearly sessions only tend to multiply the number of foolish or unnecessary measures introduce into the legislative body. Massachusetts also elects a governor annually, so does Rhode Island. The hal in Massachusetts of renominating a governor for a second or even a third term, when his record has been satisfactory, is a recognition of the fact that a new governor barely "learns the ropes" during his firs year, and that his usefulness increases in proportion to his experience. United States Senator Lodge is committed to the scheme of biennial terms, and that surely

New Jersey is another state that is discussing revision of the election laws. A few years ago it wa decided to be a good thing to have the municipal an state elections in November. It has been found to be a great mistake, and Governor Stokes, who opposed the scheme, can readily show his colleagues how it worked to disadvantage a few weeks ago. The legislative fights got mixed up with town and city contests, and the democrats beat the republicans. The idea was to have all the elections at one time, the thought being that the republicans were so strong that they would carry the state and all the municipal elections also. But this has proved to be a dream. A biennial session of the legislature is also being discussed. If New York, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Rhode Island join hands and adopt the biennial system they will save money for the taxpayers.—Philadelphia

TALK PULLMAN RATES

Testimony Is Taken By Commission at Austin Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 29.-A proposition to reduce sleeping car rates on Pullman sleepers was taken up on Wednesday morning before the railroad commission. Letters have been received from many citizens of Texas opposing any reduction being made. A letter was read from E. S. Peters of Calvert of the National Farmers' Union favoring the proposed reduction, General Attorney Miller of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas declared that that railroad would insist upon three points: That between railroads and the Pullman Company by terms of which the contracts are exclusive and by terms of which the Pullman Company has a right to fix its rates; that the commission is doing indirectly that which it cannot do directly, and that every body of men who are undertaking railroads or common carriers must accordingly take into considerations the conditions and methods of business, therefore to make this order is a radical departure from existing methods of conducting railroad traffic. Judge Miller contended that the railroads have nothing to do with the transportation of passengers so far as sleeping car accommodations are con-

W. G. Crush, general passenger agent of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, was the first witness. He explained the methods of handling and operating sleepers between different points in the United States. He contended that no railroad, if it operated its own sleepers, could permit its cars to go off its own line. It would subject passengers to great inconvenience. He had never heard of alleged excessiveness of sleeping car charges. He said there are no important differences in the rate in Texas and in other states. If railroads would have to operate their own sleeping cars the cost would fall upon them, but as it is the Pullman Company bears the expense. Travel on night trains is nearly twenty times greater than on day trains. He said that if sleeping car rates were reduced it would throw sleeping cars open to an undesirable class of people. The commission then

Texas Central Bond Issue Still Before Commission

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 28.-When the railroad commission convened yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock after recess, Attorney Campbell, attorney for the Texas Central railway, resumed his argument in opposition to the proposed order of the commission to cancel $650,000 of the bonds of that road. He declared that the bonds were issued with the knowledge of the commission and that the failure of that body to raise any objection during all these years was equivalent to its approval of the transaction. He declared that when the bonds are assailed the mortgage is destroyed.

He asserted that the stock and bond law could not affect the bonds which were issued on a contract en-tered into before that law went into

PAILY KNITTING CHATS BY LAURA LA RUE

CIRCULAR SHAWL. Designed with Bear Brand Yarns,

If it has a good shape, there isn't anything we feminine folks like better than a circular shawl. I have never seen a circular shawl that is as pretty as the one in this picture. The shawl is planned to keep its shape and its fluffiness. The first thing that conduces to this perfection is the wool, a combination of zephyr Shetland and Pompadour wool. The former, altho-fine, produces a long, quickly made shell, while the Pompadour wool is worked tightly to preserve the shape of the whole. The shawl has a flat center yoke. This yoke is nice and flat and close, giving the shoulders a pretty sweep and yet keeping them comfortably warm. Here the stitches are made short and close. The yoke is mostly of double crochet in zephyr Shetland, with an occasional row of star stitch in Pompadour wool, Zephyr Shetland is soft and fluffy and Pompadour is silken. The texture of the shawl is a perfect joy. It is never thick or bulky, as badly made circular shawls are apt to be.

I will mail full directions for making this pattern to any of my readers who are interested. There will be no charge for sending them. Kindly address Laura La Rue, Knitting Editor, Fort Worth Telegram.

Girl's Double-Breasted Coat, 5523

There is no coat that ever supplants this simple one. It is absolutely becoming to childish figures, it is simple and takes admirable lines and consequently fulfills all the requirements of a garment of the sort. This one is made of a plaid cheviot with velvet collar but dark red and dark breen and brown cloths are greatly in vogue, both the plain finished and the rough ones, while mixtures show infinite variety and numberless combinations so that there is very nearly no limit to the choice allowed each individual. Velvet collars are always pretty, but a novelty of the season is the use of smooth finished cloth on rough while velvet coats with cloth collar also are much in vogue for more dressy occasions. The coat is made with fronts and back, the fitting being accomplished by means of shoulder and under-arm seams. There are pockets that are finished with big laps and the fronts are faced to form the lapels, while the collar is joined to the neck. The sleeves are in regulation coat style and are gathered at their upper edges. The quantity of material required for the medium size (10 years) is 31/4 yards 27, 2 yards 44 or 1% yards 52 inches wide, with 1/8 yard of velvet.

In this case it is made of hyacinth blue faille stitched with belding silk and trimmed with embroidered buttons while the chemisette and the collar are lace over chiffon and the belt is of velvet combined with the silk, but almost any material of fashion can be utilized. Coth and poplin are so light in weight and so pliwhile veilings and silks are almost numberless. Again, the chemisette can always be of some contrasting silk or in lingerie style, so that from the one model a great many different effects

This lining is faced to form the chemisette at the back and on it are arranged the front portion of the chemisette, the tucked back and fronts of the waist. The over portions consist of three straps at each side that over-lap one another, giving a plaited effect, and these are arranged over the waist, meeting at the back. The sleeves are quite novel, the lower edges of the linings being covered with little frills, while the plaited portions are arranged over them. Such little dresses as this one are in demand at all times. They can be made from simple materials simply trimmed and used for school or they can be made from a finer material combined with lace chemisette and

As shown the material is jacqueminot red cashmere stitched with belding silk, piped with velvet and combined with chemisette of cream colored lace, but veilings are greatly liked for girls' wear and there are also a number of sturdy materials, such as serge and checks, while the variety of pretty bright plaids this season is unusually attractive.

Again, if liked, combinations of materials can be made and the yoke, the cuffs and the girdle can be of the silk, while the waist proper is of wool. The waist is made with a fitted Iming and consists of the front and the backs. These last are laid in box plaits and the front also is laid in inverted plaits, while between the plaits there are groups of tucks that provide soft and becoming fullness below the stitchings. asia comes from the unthinking ones, or those who halt at the first idea, not being far-sighted enough to look beyond the individual and see the real good to the nation and the race. While many of our wisest and most careful students of sociology commend euthanasia for certain cases, none have outlined definite plans for its appli-

ing punishment, are supposed to be made by just and conservative men, the penalty being in proportion to the crime. These same law makers could as easily make euthanasia the modus operandi of capital punishment. This would be less horrible, and uite as effectual for the criminal, and less revolting to the public. If it were known that vasectomy were to be the penalty for minor crimes, with a corresponding operation for women criminals, the number of crimes would be immediately lessened to an astonishing extent. Now the penalty for minor crimes is short imprisonment (with leisure to nurse and plan revenge), and possibly, a fine; by the time the prisoner is released the potential criminal has become a confirmed criminal, with a grudge against law and society, and only awaits an opportunity to begin a criminal career in real earnest. The criminal class increases faster in proportion than the law-abiding people, because they realize few of the responsibilities of parentage, and we keep enlarging our correctional institutions, thus preparing to care for their hapless offspring, at the expense of

It would be better to prevent crime than to devise penalties. It would be better to prevent the birth of criminals than to build penitentiaries in which to imprison them-truly we are working at the wrong end of the mat-

The lives of four innocent men, the sorrow of four families, and much money might have been saved had euthanasia, instead of imprisonment, been the penalty meted out to a Mr. Smith, who was imprisoned and who escaped from an Oregon city jail, and who was finally killed by some one of the will convince any one that our lawmakers are short-sighted when they consider the comfort and wish of the criminal, before they do the safety of the law-abiding citizen. The same legal red tape, now shown to suspected criminals, is sufficient protection for innocent people, and the substitution of vasectomy for minor crimes, and euthanasia for greater ones, could be easily made. The value of vasectomy, as a crime preventive, may be better understood from the following case, from the pen of Professor Pellman of Bonn University, Germany Frau Ida Jurka, who was born in 1740, was a drunkard, thief and tramp, for the last forty years of her life,

Of the women, 181 lived disreputable numbered 834, of whom 706 were traced. in local records from youth to death. Out of 700 born, 106 were born out of wedlock. There were 144 beggars, and 62 more who lived from charity. Of the woman, 181 lived disreputable lives. There were in the family 76 convicts, 7 of whom were sentenced for In the period of seventy-five years, this family rolled up a bill of costs in alms house, prisons and correctional institutions amounting to at least 5,-000,000 marks, or about $1,250,000. Many families in American cities have records quite as startling. Euthanasia is both mercy and jusice; it is prevention and cure. Law-abiding citizens have the first

right to consideration. The criminal child is often neglected that he may become a criminal, and the time and money that should be his, is wasted on a child that can hardly be anything but a criminal. When dealing with a criminal, cut out sentiment, and think straight.

SHORT STORY

Stories By the Old Engineer "So you want to know about runway trains?" said the old engineer. "Well, here goes: "At one time I was engineer of train that was dashing thru burning forests, near Lima, Ohio, at the rate of sixty miles an hour. That particular night the sky was concealed by black storm clouds, and before the burning district was reached the darkness from the windows of the cars seems impenetrable. Then, as the train proceeded, the horizon became hazel red. "There was a straight stretch of track continuing about seven miles. As the train sped along the fire sprung up in sheets from crackling, falling trees on either side, and above was a canopy of shifting, eddying, red smoke. Down the track, beyond the reach of the headlight, there was only a red "A bridge spanning a deep river was ahead somewhere. "Suddenly, immediately in front of me, I saw a shower of big sparks fly upward. In an instant i had reversed my engine, and the train was brought to a standstill within ten feet of the edge of the river. It had flashed over me like lightning when I saw the sparks that the bridge was burning and that a span had fallen, sending up as it went down-a shower of light. I was thankful when I knew that the train was saved and the lives of 200 pas-

"Some queer things happened down in the Cactus republic during its first experience with the iron horse. I knew a young fellow from Illinois who was put in charge of a station on the Mexican National when that road was first built, who sold out his job to a wealthy ranchero for $600 and put him in charge without consulting anyone, and skipped the country. You may walk around the young sucker's gall and size

Speaking about the Mexican National reminds me of an adventure that occurred about twelve years ago when was running an engine on that road between Laredo and Morterey. "At that time if a locomotive ran over a greaser, no matter how worthless he might be or needed killing, the engineer and fireman were arrested and thrown into a dungeon, where they were liable to languish for a year or two before they were brought to trial. "Now, a Mexican prison is a subcellar to the bottomless pit. "One day we were coming north, and at Bustamante we 'busted' a 'greaser,' who had filled his yellow hide full of pulque and had lain down on the right of way. Bustamante was a small place, and we made no stop. There was a telegraph office at the next station in charge of an American operator. I told him my tale of woe, and he wired the train dispatcher to clear the tracks into Laredo, for old 47 was coming with both fins working. I cut loose from the train and put the lever down among the tallow pots. It was an even 100 miles to an inch from Housache to Nuevo Laredo, the track was new and firm and old 47 was a bird. The telegraph poles looked like a tight board

"I made the run of 100 miles in just 130 minutes, the fastest time, I dare say, ever made on a Mexican road. The natives still refer to old 47 as the 'flying devil.' I crossed the international bridge at Laredo, and there my fireman and I bade old 47 good-bye and struck for the north."

A Modern Cipderella

"I am going to marry Roland Masters," announced Viola Hamilton to her sister, Jennie, at the same time holding out a slim han adorned with a glittering diamond. "You," breathed the amazed sister. "you to become the mistress of Evergreen Hall? Oh, tell me all about it.

Do you love him?" There was almost a speer on the handsome face of Viola Hamilton, "I am tired of genteel poverty-hate itdetest it. Here is a man who wants a beautiful mistress for his stately home. I am well born. I can fill the position. What has love to do with marriage, anyway? I have accepted and I shall marry him." "You will love him in time, for he is fine and noble and kind," said Jennie. "It would never have done for you to have married a poor man, Vi." "How little she knows." thought the other. "Had Elbert Moviton remained true to me, how little would I have cared for wealth, for I loved him and I love him yet." \diamond \diamond \diamond When Roland Masters met shy Jen nie Hamilton he was taken back. Here was a modest wood violet, indescribably sweet. They met often, and she struggled to keep from the world, and most of all from him, the fact that she had fallen in love, as few women do fall in love, with her sister's betrothed, and what she felt to be the dishonor of it almost killed her.

On a summer day Jennie went to pick wild flowers. Just how it hapneared a steep bank the earth gave ping away. She came to her senses in he arms of the master of Evergreen nall, and had a feeling that he had whispered "I love you," and kissed her. She struggled to free herself, and when it was found that she had escaped with a sprained ankle, there was joy on the face of Roland Masters that needed no explanation. Both knew, and a tumult raged in their hearts.

Fate is kind to lovers sometimes. Roland Masters was reading to Jennie, who with bandaged ankle was lying on a couch, when a telegram arrived. It was short and to the point, and "Elbert was true. I've gone with nim. Forgive me. We are very happy. Mrs. Hamilton had built fine air castles, and promptly fainted at the news, but when she became conscious and saw Jennie in Roland's arms, two faces shining with happiness, she remarked: "I don't understand it, but I guess things are coming out right,

Every mother feels great dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of misery. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of the great pain and danger of maternity; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is avoided by its use. Those who use this remedy are no longer despondent or gloomy; nervousness, nausea and other distressing conditions are overcome, the system is made ready for the coming event, and the serious accidents so common to the critical hour are obviated by the use of Mother's Friend. "It is worth its weight in gold," says many who have used it. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Book containing valuable information of interest to all women, will be sent to any address free upon application to BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

HIGH SCHOOL 16: THALIAN CLUB 10

Ball Near Goal When - Game Was Called

When the Thalian team had the ball within three yards of the touch-down that meant a certain tie and a possible victory, time was called in the football game Thanksgiving morning and the victory went to the high school team by the score of 16 to 11.

The first half both teams played a straight game, trying to score on rushes, but the ten-yard to gain rule prevented much scoring. The half ended with the score of 6 to 0 in favor of the high school. Lydick having urned an intended forward pass into a quarterback run because there was no one in sight, and making the necessary fifteen yards to the goal line. In the second half kicking was the principal part of the game and all the scores were made as the result of fumbled punts. High school scored first, Bostick picking up the ball after Arneson had fumbled a punt and running thirty-five yards to a score. Groom missed the goal. Within a few minutes Clarkson secured the ball on a fumble of a return punt and ran fifty yards for a touchdown, but he missed the goal. The next score came for the high school when Kellner picked up a blocked kick and ran fifty yards for a score. Groom missed the goal.

The last score of the game was made by Portwood for the Thalian Club, who fell on the ball behind the high school goal line after Groom's kick had been blocked.

With but a few minutes to play the ball crossed back and forth over the center of the field several times until a Thalian man fell on it close to the goal line. One attempt at a line play brought no gain and time was called Both teams were evenly matched, most of the gaining and scoring being done thru the individual ability of the different men when flukes brought the

Referee, Kellner. Umpire, Anderson. Time of halves, 20 and 25 minutes. Score, 16 to 11.

Mabel Montgomery as Zaza, who played at Greenwall's Wednesday night, is not at all and as an actress, and shows ability in this particular role. But we have arrived at a point when we expect a great deal of Zaza and cannot help but compare this actress with others who have been seen in the past. In many ways, Miss Montgomery is a typical Zaza, but she lacks the voice. However, one becomes more attracted to her as the play progresses and when the fourth act arrives, where the real strong work comes, one is in a position to appre-

The play is another of the kind where one person does almost all the acting. The other characters, with the exception of Bernard Dufresne, the man with whom Zaza falls in love, while necessary for the play, are of no consequence. It must not be inferred that Zaza did all the work, for Katherine De Barry is as good a character actress as has been seen here. and Mr. Seay certainly knows his business. But the rest of the cast had little to do. More people should have seen the play. There was only a small audience and the play is worth seeing; the company with Miss Montgomery does some very creditable work.

Charles B. Hanford

Charles B. Hanford has made it ar absolute rule to make each of his annual productions as much of an improvement on its predecessors as expenditure of money and energy could accomplish. When Mr. Hanford's tour closed in May last, his manager, F. Lawrence Walker, made the announcement that it had been the most prosperous season Mr. Hanford had ever known. The prosperity which this popular star has enjoyed of later years has been manifested not in expenditure for matters of personal luxury but in his productions. He has made his performance his chief interest and the public which has been so loyal to him for many years has been able to regard the money paid in the box office during a Hanford engagement, as being in a sense, an investment which would bear returns in the shape of greater and bigger productions in the seasons yet to come. The public selects a few actors out of each generation as the accepted exponents of Shakespearean plays. These actors are regarded as being in a sense custodians of a trust. The yare only recognized after many season of probation. The enthusiasm which has always greeted Mr. Hanford has demonstrated that he didn't err in aiming at the highest possible achievement in his profession, and in apply ing his energies and resources entirely to the greatest works of the standard drama, despite the complaining assertion of worldly wise managers that "Shakespeare spells ruin." Mr Hanford's management announces a great cast and a greater production for the presentation of "Julius Caesar" at Greenwall's opera house tonight at 8:15 than he has ever before given. The play is one which commands the fulles resources of the modern theater and the Hanford production is the result of life long study and experience. Mr. Hanford will appear as Marc Antony.

"Parsifal" One of the most striking and beautiful features in the spectacle of "Parsifal," which is to presented at Greenwall's opera house Friday night, Nov. 30, is the flower garden scene with its fascinating flower maidens. This garden, as we are told in the story, is the creation of Klingsor for the deliberate purpose of seducing the Knights of the Holy Grail from their lives of rectitude and holiness. How well he succeeded, for a time at least, we are told in the story and play. But it is in the attempted destruction of the soul of the hero himself. Parsifal, where Klingsor put forth his greatest efforts, and the flower garden and its occupants are made to play their most important

REAL ESTATE MEN VISIT CARNIVAL

Are Impressed With Splendid Building Sites

The best pleased lot of men who have visited North Fort Worth during the Texas Real Estate and Industrial association, who were entertained Wednesday afternoon by the North Fort Worth Commercial Club. There was a large number of these people, coming from all portions of Texas. They were taken in special cars to North Fort Worth, where a good dinner was prepared for them. They were then taken to the packing houses, stock yards and shown thru these places. and then driven over the entire city. A more amazed lot of men, at the beautiful building sites, streets and thorofares, and scenes of the city were never seen together. There are points in North Fort Worth where the entire city of Fort Worth as well as North Fort Worth can be seen, and it presents a scene that is rarely found in any city in Texas or in the southwest. There are many people in the city of Fort Worth who have no idea of the splendid building sites offered by North Fort Worth, notwithstanding the North Fort Worth people have for the past four years been trying to convince them that such places really exist. Many of the visitors were so well impressed with the location, that negotiations for building sites were at once in progress, and some remained over to make further investigations. The Commercial Club is well pleased with the result of the visit of the Texas Real Estate and Industrial association.

WHAT'S DOING IN THE PANHANDLE

Raising More Wheat Special to The Telegram.

PLAINVIEW, Texas, Nov. 29.-There are quite a number of fine fields of wheat in this country, some of which are growing so fast that they will have to be pastured to retard the growth. Our people are just now beginning to seed down the winter crop. Heretofore they have sown only for pasture and often did not attempt to harvest what the stock left. With the advent of the railroad our people will have a market for their wheat and all other crops. Then thousands of acres of wheat will greet the eye where now only grass and the stubble from forage crops is to be seen. This change will come rapidly and with it other changes will come. The four-section man will be numbered with the things that were The one-section man will quarter his holdings, quadrupling the population and the number of homes to the section. These changes will come and come rapidly. The cowman is on the run and as soon as he can unload his cattle, he will cut up his pastures and turn them over to the home builders.

Money in Cotton

sort that farm.

Special to The Telegram. PLAINVIEW, Texas, Nov. 29.-W. . Ussery, living near Wright, passed thru our city on his way home from the Lockney gin, where he had 3.185 pounds of lint cotton ginned from eight acres of land-six 500-pound bales and a surplus of 185 pounds of lint over-and still has three or four hundred pounds ready to pick and apother bale if it opens. Besides this his seed will bring him $60 to $70. This crop sold for more than double the price of the land it grew on. A man can make some money out of cotton as well as other crops in this country if he will work on intelligent lines, as Mr. Ussery has done. About the greatest need of this county is farmers, the

Profit in Popcorn

Special to The Telegram. CHILDRESS, Texas, Nov. 29.-W. D. Cope is a farmer as well as land agent. This year he grew 100 bushels of popcorn, which he is shipping to dealers at Fort Worth. Popcorn is a very profitable growth to grow in this section of the country.

Experiment with Cotton

Special to The Telegram. WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Nov. 29 .-W. C. Hilburn, whose fine farm lies down the Wichita river two miles, has been experimenting with cotton this year. He had in twelve acres. He has gathered six bales already and says he has as many as three bales more when he goes over it for the second time. This will make as many as twelve bales, or an average of a bale to the acre. This is as good as they can do in the black land counties, where cotton is said to grow best. There is no question about it, this is a good cotton county and the farmer who does not raise it is standing in his own light. Cash in Melons

Special to The Telegram. HEREFORD, Texas, Nov. 29.-J. J. Anderson says that from seven-tenths of an acre of ground on his ranch near Boom he marketed the last season $105 worth of melons, besides two families were supplied with what they could use. When the wide range of it 's seldom equalled.

Sales Near Childress

Special to The Telegram. CHILDRESS, Texas, Nov. 29.-C. W. Rogers of Carthage, Texas, was in Childress several days this week, looking around. He purchased 160 acres of land from R. W. Biggerstaff, being the southeast quarter section. lying about three miles of town, paying $26 an acre. Mr. Rogers also purchased three residence lots from E. L. Biggerstaff, opposite the home of W. H. Hill, where he will erect a residence at once. Mr. Rogers has been in the mill business in East Texas for several years, having recently sold out, but has a large amount of lumber on hand, which he will ship here and sell. He expects to enter the mercantile business in Childress in a short time.

Panhandle Records Broken

Special to The Telegram. CLARENDON, Texas, Nov. 29.-The Panhandle is making all kinds of records this year. She has broken the record on corn, cotton and forage, as well as melons and vegetables. She has broken her record on immigration. She has now broken her record on early snow, and next year the record on small grain crop will be broken. Great is the Panhandle.

Bellevue Now Rebuilt

Special to The Telegram. BELLEVUE, Texas, Nov. 29.—Since the cyclone of April 25, which completely wiped out Bellevue from the map, the town has been rebuilt and is by far a better town in every respect than it was before the cyclone. The new town outnumbers the old town in the way of residences, yet the number is inadequate. We are told there are frequent prospectors here, but for the lack of houses to live in they are forced to seek other locations. Contracts are being made almost every day for new houses.

Money from Small Town

Special to The Telegram. SEYMOUR, Texas, Nov. 29.--J. O. Beatty, who lives north of the stock pens, reports that he has four acres of cotton from which he has already picked five bales of cotton, and still has a little in the patch. Mr. Beatty has only ten acres, but at this rate he does not need much more.

Profit in Hogs

Special to The Telegram. HEREFORD, Texas, Nov. 29.-Hog raising is bound to become one of the Panhandle's leading industries, if not the leading one. The achievement that of J. J. Anderson, who for the jast four or five years, has been ergaged in stock farming at Boom. Mr. Auderson tells us that he recently killed two hogs, eleven months old, which weighed 440 pounds each, and were sold on the local market at the orce of six cents a pound, both hogs bringing $52.80. This is a record which cne should and would feel proud of even in the leading corn belts of the country. In fact, it is well known that

Mr. Cook's magnificent stock farm, Mr

Cook has, located near Oldebolt, twelve sections of land in a solid body, all of the very best agricultural lands, and on which corn is raised in quantities of from fifty to seventy-five bushels per acre, and the land is valued at from $50 to $100 per acre. On this magnificent property Mr. Cook feeds thru the winter months about four thousand steers, beside keeping on hand all the time about one thousand head of registered Hereford cattle, from which he produces some of the finest bulls of the north. While there on this trip

BUY MANY TURKEYS MAYOR OF FRISCO FOR THANKSGIVING WARMLY WELCOMED

Day Generally Observed in Thousands Wait to Greet Him Fort Worth

Some of the leading grocers and butchers of the city say, if their business is indicative, the people of Fort Worth will feast galore on the Thanksgiving bird and that he is generally in good condition, some of the dealers stating that they found the Thanksgiving turkeys of surprisingly good quality. A reason for that was the choicer specimens were corn-fed or had the run of corn fields and pea patches, which is about as good for them, and were in good flesh and quite fat enough for any ordinary use. The prices were controlled by the conditions of the bird as a rule and range from 121/2 cents a pound dressed to 171/2 cents dressed, the average of the sales being well up to 15 cents

Live turkeys sold at from 8 to 10 cents to 121/2 cents a pound. There were great crowds of shoppers on the streets Wednesday evening until all of the stores were closed. Thursday morning the grocers and butchers held open their places of business until all of their customers, who had not made provision for the day were supplied, and then they went home to enjoy their Thanksgiving. The day is so generally observed Thursday that it is more like Sunday, and there were but few people on the streets in the forenoon after the church-goers were at home.

CAME TO TEXAS FROM TENNESSEE

Many Young Men Attracted to Southwest

Gerald Warburton of Fentress couny, Tennessee, is in Fort Worth progrecting for a business location. He will investigate the Panhandle and West Texas conditions before determ'ning where he will locate.

"Texas is very much in the public eye in Tennessee," he said, "and during the coming year there will be a considerable movement of people from that state to Texas. Opportunities for making money are not so numerous in Ternessee as they are here, and this being strictly a money getting age prople are inclined to sever old times and leave their old stamping grounds and strike out for new territory. This restlessness in Tennessee is confined a'most entirely to young men who beleve they have a wider scope for their talent and a better field for endeavor e sewhere than at their old home.

"Texas appeals to Tennesseans anyhow for in this state a large percentage of the population are from Tennessee or Tennessee stock, and when they get here they do not feel that they are among strangers. Besides Texas figuts Tennesseans about as well as it does its native born citizens, about one half of its office holders, I am fold, being former Tennesseans or sons of former Tennesseans. Fact of the matter is, office holding and office seeking is peculiarly a Tennessee institution, and people of that state have a knack of getting there that I have never been able to account for. No, I am not coming to Texas to run for office. I have held office for eight years of my life and I am willing to give some other fellow the right of way so far as I am concerned.'

HOMESEEKERS' RATES

Texas Railway Authorized to Sell Side-Trip Tickets

The state railway commission has receded from its position on homeseekers' rates and Wednesday issued the following notice, effective at once: "For the information and guidance of the general passenger agents of all railroad companies operating within the state of Texas, who have complied with the provisions of passenger circular No. 5, issued Oct. 1, 1906, the railroad commission of Texas begs to state that a majority thereof (Commissioners Mayfield and Colquitt) gives its sanction and approval to all classes of reduced rates promulgated on account of "homeseekers" and all applications therefor which have heretofore been refused are now subject to reconsideration upon request. SANTA FE EXTENSION

May Build from Tulsa to Shawnee,

TULSA, I. T., Nov. 29.-Folowing

the announcement that the Santa Fe will apply to the next state legislature of Texas for a charter to merge several branch lines in that state and will extend a line northwest from Red river to a point in Indian Territory, connecting with the Southern Kansas division, it is thought here that Tulsa is the objective point. The Santa Fe has a division ending in Tulsa. It has been believed that the division would some day be extended to Shawnee, a distance of 109 miles, for which line a preliminary survev has been made. However a line northwest from the Red fiver, which would pass thru the oil and coal belt and traverse the best farming regions of the new state, promises good business. COUNTY OFFICERS TAKE A HOLIDAY

All Departments Are Closed Today

Thanksgiving has been scrupulously observed in county official circles, every department at the county buildng having shut down for the day except the county court, Judge John L. Terrell holding court to dispose of a case that was on trial Tuesday and not concluded. Both district courts were shut down and the district clerk's office locked The county clerk's office opened up for a short time, but as nobody come about it was closed at 11 a. m. Justices Bratten and Maben were on hand ready for business but as none came in except one waiver for exam ining trial these two establishments went out of commission at noon until Friday morning. Collector Davis locked up his office early and went over in North Fort Worth to take in the carnival, taking arly all his force with him. shoriff's office there was nothing doing, there being an atmosphere pervading that branch of business. Chief Deputy

MANY SHEEP FROZEN

Heavy Loss Reported from Deaf Smith County

Special to The Telegram. DIMMIT Texas, Nov. 29 .- One of the heaviest losses in stock ever known in this part of the country was reported here Tuesday. W. B. Dameron, who was keeping a herd of 1,400 sheep for a Mr. Robinson, who lives is what Hollister's Rocky Mountain in Deaf Smith county, reported that Tea will do. day morning, the 17th, and lasted until the following Tuesday. They were in a pasture of several sections, which was enclosed with a wolf-proof fence, and when the storm came up they drifted to the southwest corner, and the herders who were looking a'r them were unable to drive them back to the pens. Other stockmen report their losses as light, but their stock drifted badly.

MAJESTIC HAS NEW MANAGER

Chas. McFarland in Charge. S. S. Harris Promoted

They do things quickly in vaude-

From treasurer of a local theater to advertising manager for the largest vaudeville circuit in the south, is the two-year record of Saul S. Harris of this city. From baseball diamond to manager of the Majestic theater in Fort Worth, is the record of Charles McFarland, National League pitcher and "spit-ball" artist, who came to this city shortly after the opening of the present theatrical season.

It was announced by Karl Roblit. zelle, president of the Interstate Amusement Company, the corporation operating the string of Majestic theaters in Texas and other parts of the south, that he had appointed Mr. Mc-Farland to succeed Mr. Harris as the local resident manager, and had assigned Mr. Harris to other and broader duties. Mr. McFarland was sent here to assist Mr. Harris and to familiarize himself with the local situation, after which he was to be placed in charge, and allow Mr. Harris 'o take charge of the advertising line on the circuit, a field of activity Mr. Harris preferred.

The new manager has made many friends already in Fort Worth, who have offered him every assistance. Mr. McFarland has moved his family here and will permanently locate here. Mr. Harris has a wide acquaintance in Fort Worth and there will be many who will regret to see him transferred from this city, but as the change will be a beneficial one, they rejoice at his promotion and wish him increased success in his new field of labor. Mr. Harris will leave for Little Rock in a few days and establish his headquarters there. This will give him a more central legation and enable him to keep in touch with both ends of the general advertising department. Harris' Rise Rapid

The rise of Mr. Harris is one of the most rapid made by any young man in theatrical circles of the south. Last year he was treasurer of the Majestic for its in'tial season. This year he was made manager at the opening and now, with the season just begun, he becomes advertising manager for the entire Majestic circuit, at a salary greatiy increased. Fort Worth, by the way. has also furnished the Majestic circuit with its musical director, Professor Philip Eppsteon, director of the local orchestra. Manager McFarland starts on his new duties in the best week of the season for the Majestic and his friends hope the auspicious beginning tespeaks a lucky augury.

The same invitation promises "pleasant surprises; pretty girls; novel features; good fellowship." The social will be in the church parlors of the First Presbyterian church, Fourth and Calhoun streets. It is an invitation affair and is for men and women.

Subscriptions for the wholesale paper house which has been in consideration for Fort Worth for some time, are now being asked from the citizens of the city. The capital of the new company is to be $10,000, of which $3,500 is to be raised by the citizens of the city before the plant will locate here. Altho the capital stock is small, yet it is proposed to keep about $50,-000 worth of material on hand at all times to supply all demands. The propcsition has been indorsed by the Board of Trade thru its directors.

TALKS OF NEGROES

Booker Washington Says Riot Was Beneficial

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Nov. 29.-Booker T. Washington, at a meeting of the Armstrong Association, held last evening at the residence of William Jay Schief. felin, Number 5 East Sixty-fifth street, made what was considered a surprising statement when he said that the Atlantic riots had helped the negroes. While his audience was expectantly waiting to hear some singular story, Mr. Washington explained that the friendly attitude of the white men toward the negroes who showed that they were bent on living quietly and educating themselves was purposely exaggerated after the riots in order to impress the negroes generally. Mr. Washington said further that the proud of the progress made by the in the snowstorm which began Satur- | negroes.

CUNNING BREAKS FROM CITY JAIL

Accomplished Escape in Seven

Cunning, who is playing an engage-ment this week at the Majestic as a "jail breaker," gave a exhibition at the city hall at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, where, in seven minutes he released himself from a pair of shackles and unlocked the calaboose doors and, placing himself on the outside of the door, relocked the door as he called "all right" to those in waiting. One pecularity about the Fort Worth calaboose doors is the fact that they have double locks, and the same key which opens or locks the outer lock will not lock or unlock the inner lock.

After the leg irons were on Cunning was locked in the run-around, a blanket being hung over the door, covering the lock from outside observation, and the prisoners being kept from seeing the work by Cunning's turned back and shrouded hands. Cunning then began his work and in the time stated was outside of the calaboose doors, with the shackles in his hands and the doors of the calaboose securely locked.

As usual he was accompanied by Mrs. Cunning, but she was standing so far back that any suspicion even of aid from her was out of the question. Saturday Cunning will release himself from the county jail. He will release himself from a packing box in which he is to be securely nailed by employes of the Burton-Peel Company Friday evening at the Majestic.

WATERS-PIERCE CO. INDICTED

Seventy Counts on Charges of Rebating Are Returned

Special to The Telegram. ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 29 .- Two indictments with a total of seventy-two counts were returned Wednesday by the Federal grand jury against the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, charging the company with having violated the interstate commerce law and the Elkins act in the matter of freight rate discriminations and of rebates. The indictment charges the Waters-Pierce Oil Company with accepting lower rates on shipments of oil over the Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific lines from St. Louis to Alexandria, La., and to eleven specified points It convicted on all the counts in the indictments the aggregate maximum penalties that may be collected $1,520

It is charged in the indictments that the Waters-Pierce Company is a subsidiary corporation of the Standard Oil Company. In a statement prepared by H. K. Smith, deputy commissioner of corporations at Washington and made public today by the United States district attorney, he asserted that the indictments are returned on facts discovered by James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations, and made pubic by him in his annual report of May 21. 1906. It was Garfield's report which was submitted to congress and President Roosevelt had in turn referred to the department of justice for

After the indictments were voted and returned in the United States court. B. F. Finckburg, judge for the eastern division of the Eastern district of Missouri adjourned court until Dec. 11. One of the indictments containing twenty-one separate counts, each o which alleges a separate and distinct violation of the law, charges that the Waters-Pierce Oil Company at stated times, shipped car loads of oil from St. Louis to Alexandria, La., at less than the lawful rate, using the lines of the

Missouri Pacific. CHANGE POLLING PLACES

WEATHER REPORTS

Temperatures Along Route of the Denver

Such reports as were received at the railway general offices in Fort Worth Thursday morning indicate that the weather for the day promises to be cool and clear. During the night of Wednesday there was over the most of the country north of Fort Worth, a prevalence of light drizzling rains or cloudy weather, with a calm or with light northerly winds. The reports from along the Denver are typical. As far north as Amarillo there was a light rain all or nearly all of the night, in some places the reports ranking it no more than a drizzle. The temperatures are moderate and from them can be deducted only an indication of cooler weather for the day and night. Temperature reports made to the Denver are: Texline, 40; Amarillo, 38; Wichita Falls, 45; Fort Worth, 56. The Childress report is lacking, but that, generally, is about the same as Amarillo or a degree or two warmer. It will be noted that in no place within the confines of the Texas Panhandle even is the temperature down to the freezing point. East of the Texas line in the nation the weather is about the same in general and the temperatures so far as reported are similar.

THERE IS NO REASON fretful during the night. Worms are the cause of thin, sickly babies. It is natural that a healthy baby should be fat and sleep well. If your baby does not retain its food, don't experiment with colic cures and other medicine, but try a bottle of White's Cream Vermiwhites in the South were secretly | fuge, and you will soon see your baby have color and laugh as it should.
