

NEGROES' RECORD TO BE AIDED IN CONGRESS

War Department Preparing History of 25th Regiment

ONE WAS LYNCHED

"Shooting Up" of Ft. Sturgis, Dakota, Followed by Prompt Action on Part of Citizens

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.—The war department is preparing for an investigation by congress of the case of the Twenty-fifth recently discharged without honor by order of President Roosevelt, and to this end there is being compiled records of the negro troops, dating back to the civil war. It is said that this record discloses a state of affairs not generally known, and once before at least the Twenty-fifth infantry "shot up the town."

The affair happened in 1885 at Fort Sturgis, Dakota. Some of the negro soldiers went on a rampage similar to that at Brownsville, Texas, and one of their number killed a man. In the first case the citizens took the matter into their own hands and forced the troops under pain of death to disclose the name of the man who did the killing and then took him out and lynched him.

Von Meyer; secretary of navy, Victor H. Metcalf; secretary of interior, James R. Garfield; secretary of commerce and labor, Oscar S. Straus; associate justice of the supreme court, William H. Moody.

For fifteen minutes before noon there was a general reception on the floor of the senate, with greetings and congratulations. When the signal for the roll was given, the senators, seventy-five of whom were in their places, rose to their feet and the venerable chaplain, Edward Everett Hale, placed the invocation. The roll call followed prayer, when Senator Dupont, Delaware took the oath of office, being presented at the bar of the senate by his colleague, Senator Allen. On motion of Senator Hale of Maine, which was agreed to, Vice President Fairbanks announced that he and Pettus as a committee to join a similar committee from the house to notify the president that congress was in session and ready to proceed to business. Senator Cullom secured the adoption of a resolution instructing the clerk of the senate to inform the house and a quorum present and was in session. After the introduction of the resolution regarding the discharged negro troops, Senator Hale announced that the president would have his message before the senate in a few minutes relating to nominations.

Messenger May Die

Condition of W. J. Grisette Remains Serious

TEXARKANA, Ark., Dec. 3.—The party of the parties who robbed the express car and murderously shot and wounded W. J. Grisette, a messenger, Saturday night is a mystery. Bloodhounds reached from Camden, Ark., Sunday morning and were taken at once to the scene of the robbery, but failed to trail. A stranger who has been seen out a short while was arrested on suspicion Sunday, but was later released. So far it seems the officers have developed nothing very tangible. A telegram received from Camden, Ark., Sunday, says two men had been arrested and taken from the train on its arrival here and would be held for further developments. Col. J. K. Wheeler, chief of the Cotton belt's secret service, left for Camden, Ark., at 7 o'clock last night.

PRETTY IS THE GIRL HELD PRISONER BY PIRATES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 3.—An appeal to the state department at Washington has been made and it is expected a United States cruiser will be sent in pursuit of Captain A. W. Hall's schooner Rover, alleged to be a pirate, to rescue pretty Iora Dennis of his city, who is a prisoner in the hands of the pirates. The first information that the girl had been abducted and was held a prisoner on the mysterious schooner, which has been plying up and down the California coast, came in the form of a letter to her father, Marco Benvenuto, from the girl's prisoner. The letter had been smuggled ashore and called by the wife of the engineer, the only other woman on the schooner. Her letter the girl tells how she was rescued by the offer of an at-

BOYS USELESS

Special to The Telegram. BOSTON, Dec. 3.—The startling declaration of President David Starr Jordan of the Leland Stanford university that one-third of the young men in the world today are useless and are not wanted, was the chief topic of conversation among the members of the sectional congress today. President Jordan describes the twentieth century as "strenuous, complex and democratic. One-third of the young men of the age are not wanted, he said, because of their habits; but trained, loyal, cheerful, sober-minded young men were in demand."

5,000 WILL ATTEND THE ASSOCIATION

Many Teachers Are Coming to Fort Worth

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 3.—Great preparations are being made by the teachers of Texas for the next annual meeting of the State Teachers Association, which is to be held at Fort Worth on Dec. 27-29. At the same time and place the Texas State County Superintendents Association will hold its convention. The programs for both events will be ready within the next few days. It is predicted that the attendance this year will exceed that of any previous year. There are 16,888 public school teachers in the state, besides recent graduates and instructors of the private schools, colleges, denominational institutions. It is confidently expected this year that there will be about 5,000 teachers in attendance at both these conventions.

Speaking of why teachers generally should attend these conventions, Professor F. M. Bralley, chief clerk in the state department of education, himself an educator of prominence, said: "Every member of the profession who pretends to be progressive and up-to-date takes and reads two or more educational journals, studies the latest contributions to the science and art of teaching as found in the books and periodicals, and attends the annual sessions of the State Teachers Association. It is to be expected that the attendance at both these conventions will be a number of excellent papers read by various members of the association, which are now in course of preparation."

RAILROADS WIN PARTIAL VICTORY

Federal Judge Maxey at Austin Sustains Contentions

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 3.—Federal Judge Maxey this morning announced his ruling on preliminary matters presented to him last week in the injunction suits the railroads against the railroad commission, in which the railroads seek to enjoin rates and tariffs of the commission, also a proposition to put in effect a 2 1/2-cent rate on the Houston and Texas Central. As a whole the allegations of the railroads were sustained, and the commission's ruling being the charge that the railroad commission act is unconstitutional. The United States has already passed on this holding that it is constitutional. Judge Maxey holds the same. The state's general demurrer to the railroads' petition is overruled. On the reduced passenger fare proposition affecting the Houston and Texas Central, it is ruled that the commission is without authority to establish passenger rates on account of statute fixing passenger rates at 3 cents a mile. The court announced the following conclusions: "The legislature of Texas having expressly authorized the railroad commission to make and establish passenger rates, the commission has the constitutional right to fix such rates, provided they do not exceed the maximum allowed by the legislature of 3 cents a mile. "The commission, within the limits prescribed by the constitution, may fix different passenger rates for different orders. "Any order of the commission which prescribes an unreasonably low and confiscatory passenger rate for one carrier while other carriers, similarly situated, are permitted to charge a higher rate, denies to the former the equal protection of the law, as guaranteed by the Fourteenth amendment to the constitution. The acts of the commission are subject to full review."

The counsel for Gillette urges the jury to acquit. Judge Dwyer announced that the last word shall be said to the jury today and announced that a night session would be held if necessary.

CEASELESS WAR FOR 243 YEARS IS ENDED

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—A cable dispatch from The Hague, Holland, today tells in matter of fact fashion of the ending of a war which has lasted 243 years, probably the longest in the history of the world, waged ceaselessly by the Dutch against the savages Macassars for the possession of the diamond-dusted, gold-crowned island of Celebes, in the East Indies. The last thousand of the dusky Malay tribe, driven back foot by foot from the southern coast of the island, made their last stand in a wild fastness on the topmost crag of the crater of one of Celebes' extinct volcanoes. With its natural battlements of solid rock and upon "the roof of the world," it was more like an eagle's aerie than a fortress. But the Dutch soldiers, trained to meet their enemy by the lessons of the almost interminable war, pushed their way up the mountain, thru the tangled tropical forest and escaped themselves around the crater. Escaped the Macassars because impossible. The Dutch sat themselves down and waited. One fierce onslaught the savage tribe made to break the stout Dutch were driven back. Once more the Dutch sat themselves down and waited. At last, rather than starve, the Macassars surrendered, and signed less than when they took their stand. The soldiers took their 900 prisoners to Macassar and the long war was over. Thus the little country of Holland came into absolute possession of the great island of Celebes, seventy times its own size, set like a gem in the wonderful Flores sea, just east of Borneo. Although 1,400 square miles in area, no point in Celebes is more than seventy miles from the sea.

Logan of the battleship Ohio, which arrived Sunday from the Pacific station, declared himself in favor of the vice admirals for the navy and pointed out the pressing need for such an officer in the far east. He said: "For a nation with our naval pretensions, we are placed in the most undignified position on account of this matter of rank or rather lack of rank. Wherever you will go, out there you will find the commanding officer of our naval forces junior to the commanding officers of any other, and as a natural sequence all having to play second fiddle. Whether at a banquet, reception, review, or the same we are all the time at the tail end of the procession. Every one of the leading maritime nations has vice admirals at the station—Great Britain, Germany, France, Japan, all have but our own."

Short Session of Both Houses Today

IMPORTANT BILLS

Beveridge Will Introduce Child Labor and Meat Inspection Bills

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 3.—The fact that both houses of congress meet today for a short session had its effect early in the day, giving the capital an appearance of activity such as it has not presented since the adjournment last June. The first day's session never develops much interest to those used to attending the sessions of congress, but no other day's session seems to possess greater charm for the average citizen.

Both visitors and members found the great building in excellent shape to receive them. Vast as is the structure, it had been thoroughly renovated, both inside and out, during the recess, and it looked clean and more inviting than many newer buildings, all of the committee rooms have received a thorough overhauling, pictures have been replaced and the two chambers completely cleaned up. Senators and members of the house began to arrive early in the day and there were many cordial greetings in the corridors and on the floors.

Experiences of the late campaign were fruitful sources of remark, and also there were many meetings between republicans and democrats, there was no evidence of any but the best of feeling.

Many New Measures

Not in recent years has the opening of the national legislature found so many important measures before that body. The recommendations set forth in the president's message might furnish material for several sessions, and the bill now pending are of a most overwhelming number and importance. Overcome by the enormity of the task set for them, it is likely that the members of both houses will spend the time prior to holiday recess, which will begin Dec. 20, in arguments on the various measures now pending and in introducing. No definite action on any important matters is expected before the first of the year.

Many of the congressmen have come to Washington with new bills to be introduced at the present session. Among these is Senator Albert Beveridge of Indiana, who celebrated the opening of congress by filing measures for the child labor law, to reform the present meat inspection law. The provisions of the latter bill require that the cost of inspection and to place the date of the inspection on the label of every can. It is expected that the packers will make a hard fight to prevent the passage of the latter measure. The Beveridge child labor bill prohibits all carriers engaged in interstate commerce from accepting for transportation the product of any factory or mine that employs children under 14 years of age.

One of the first important matters to be considered is the immigration bill. At the last session the senate passed a somewhat drastic measure increasing the head tax and making it much more difficult for immigrants to land in this country. The house modified this bill and it was sent to a conference of members of both houses who were unable to agree before the adjournment last summer. An effort is being made to bring the bill to a conference for immediate consideration and it will probably be successful.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The senate had a full membership. After the divine blessing by Dr. Edward Everett Hale, the chaplain, the roll was called and a committee appointed to inform the President of the attendance of members. There was taken until the committee returned in writing. Then the senate adjourned until Tuesday afternoon. There was more life in the house. Speaker Cannon was applauded when he appeared. In all nine members were sworn the roll call. The house initiated eight new members. The house sent a committee to inform the President and then adjourned until Tuesday, when the first first business will be the reading of Roosevelt's message. Measures covering nearly every subject under the sun were presented and chucked away in pigeon holes, where many will remain.

ONE WEEK'S SACRIFICE

The Power of Price Called to Aid in a Much Needed Relief at 711 Houston Street.

30 PIANOS MUST BE SOLD

LISTEN!

Just to make room at this particular time, we are forced to call to our aid the wonderful power of price, which means one week's selling with the sacrifice of all profits; in fact, many Pianos will go this week at a loss to us. Just at this particular hour we need the room more than we need the profits, and, knowing the wonderful influence which price has on the piano buyer, we have determined to make prices which will move the Pianos quickly and give us the much needed room. Why we need this room so much at this time we will not here explain, as our friends and patrons will understand fully the moment they enter our store at 711 Houston street.

We would call our patrons' attention particularly to the fact that this is not a sale scheme or anything of that kind, but it is a true case of needed room, and it is impossible just at present to secure extra storage room. We have tried to devise a scheme whereby we could make this much needed room and at the same time spare ourselves the loss which will naturally follow the selling of these thirty Pianos at the prices which we are going to offer in order to make the room quickly. We wish to state here in all candor and frankness that the moment we have sold sufficient Pianos to give us the required room we shall declare off the special sacrifice prices, which we truly hope will not be longer than Wednesday night, and in fact we predict that many of the choice Pianos will go even before Monday night. We therefore urge an early inspection lest you be disappointed in getting just what you no doubt have in mind as you read this ad.

We are not going to quote any prices here, as the people of Fort Worth and North Texas understand what it means when we advertise bargains. Our bargains are always taken because they are bargains. Many hundreds of our customers know our regular prices, and it is to such customers we shall wish with much joy refer you. We make this statement because we want you to understand that our reduction on any Piano means just that much profit to you; in other words, we do not advance the price on our Pianos in order to have you understand that we are giving you a reduction. We promise you a saving of from $75 to $125 on each and every Piano you buy of us this week, or that is, until the thirty have been sold.

Our regular guarantee, together with that of the factory, is given with each Piano, notwithstanding the sacrifice of profit. The tuning will have the personal attention of our Mr. L. W. Norcross, and without extra cost to you.

Easy terms will be from $10 to $25 cash and $8 to $10 per month, or on terms to suit the purchaser.

Store open every night. "The Name That Guarantees Quality."

FLUE CURING PROVES TOBACCO LIKE ROASTING IMPROVES GREEK COFFEE

Flue Curing Develops the Stimulating Aroma and Taste Found in Schnapps that Satisfies Tobacco Hunger

There are three ways used by farmers for curing and preparing their tobacco for the market; namely, sun cured, air cured and flue cured; the old and cheap way is called air cured; the later discovery and improved way is called flue cured. In flue-curing the tobacco is taken from the field and suspended over intensely hot flues in houses especially built to retain the heat, and there kept in the proper temperature until this curing process develops in the tobacco the stimulating taste and fragrant aroma found in Schnapps tobacco, just as green coffee is made fragrant and stimulating by the roasting process. Only choice selections of this ripe, juicy flue cured leaf, grown in the famous Piedmont country, where the best tobacco grows, are used in Schnapps and other Reynolds' brands of high grade, flue cured tobaccos.

Hundreds of imitation brands are on sale that look like Schnapps; the outside of the imitation plugs of tobacco is flue cured, but the inside is filled with cheap, flimsy, heavily sweetened air cured tobacco; one chew of Schnapps will satisfy tobacco hunger longer than two chews of such tobacco.

Expert tests prove that this flue cured tobacco, grown in the famous Piedmont region, requires and takes less sweetening than any other kind, and has a wholesome, stimulating, satisfying effect on chewers. If the kind of tobacco you are chewing don't satisfy, more than the mere habit of expectorating, stop fooling yourself and chew Schnapps tobacco.

Schnapps is like the tobacco chewers formerly bought costing from 75c to $1.00 per pound; Schnapps is sold at 50c. per pound in 5c. cuts, strictly 10 and 15 cent plugs.

RAWLINGS FAMILY TO BE EXECUTED

Preparations for Long Delayed Hanging Being Made

Special to The Telegram. VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 3.—Preparations are being made for the execution this week of the Rev. J. G. Rawlings and his two sons, Milton and Jesse.

The preacher-father and Alf Moore, a negro, who assisted in the frightful murder of the children, will be hanged next Tuesday, and the sons, Jesse and Milton, will be executed on the following Friday.

The father and the negro were to have been hanged last Friday, but the South Georgia Methodist conference was called and the conference minister requested that the execution be delayed until after their adjournment, and Governor Terrell complied. Sentence of death has been passed upon Rawlings five times, but there has not been a doubt that the long legal fight over and that the accused men will pay the extreme penalty for their murder of the two Carter children.

Both Rawlings and W. I. Carter, father of the children, were formerly clergymen, and both had retired from their homes in the same wild neighborhood, in the hills back of Valdosta.

Quarrels arose between the two men and Rawlings attempted to kill his neighbor by shooting at him one day in the woods. He was wounded, but the wounds were not fatal. Carter was crippled in one arm and one leg. By this time the controversy between the two had grown into an ancient feud and Rawlings determined that the entire Carter family should be wiped out.

An Errand of Annihilation

One dark night in June, 1905, he sent his three sons, Milton, 19 years old; Jesse, 17, and Leonard, 16, and a negro, to the house of the Carters. The verdict of annihilation. They were to shoot the father and mother first, then the children, after which they were to throw all the bodies into the cabin and set fire to it.

Two of the Carter children, Willie and Fannie, heard the Rawlings party, and ran out to investigate. They were shot down, the little girl being instantly killed. Willie, mortally wounded, succeeded in dragging himself back into the house, where he told his father that Milton and Jesse Rawlings had done the shooting.

All night long the young murderers hung around the house trying to get at the father and mother, and at midnight long the body of the little girl lay outside, with the face trampled in by the heels of the Rawlingses.

Scared Away by Carter's Shot

At last the besiegers got tired and tried to burn the cabin, but Carter disabled as he was, contrived to get his gun thru a chink and fire into the cabin, although the shot did no damage, it frightened the murderers away.

An effort was made to save the father, because he was not actually a member of the party, but he made no plea for mercy, and he would be hanged and that he would "meet the judge in hell." He asserted that he and his boys had been "tried by a set of illiterate degenerates."

MARRY RICH OR DO NOT MARRY

Prof. Edward Everett Hale Roasts Trustees

Special to The Telegram. PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—"If you are a college professor and wish to be successful, marry a rich woman. If that is not possible, don't marry at all."

"If you do marry for love and not for money, your family must be small, in keeping with your income."

These were some of the radical utterances Prof. Edward Everett Hale Jr. of Union University gave vent to at the opening session of the annual convention of the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools held here.

Dealing sarcastically with the subject Prof. Hale said: "The present system of compulsory plain living may produce a race of professors incapable of high thinking."

The trustees of universities think professors would grow laggard in such a Utopia as a college would be if decent salaries were paid. They would have a chance to take a greater interest in college life and become more skimp and save spent in the outside world to earn a living."

The speaker presented several alternative plans for the improvement of the college which might obtain the respectability that only comes with money. Then he made the above statement.

So Badly That Friends Carried Dowie From the Stage

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—John Alexander Dowie Sunday created a sensation by his peculiar actions in an address to his followers. He spoke ramblingly of wars in Lake Michigan and was otherwise so peculiar in his conduct that he was carried bodily from the stage.

Severe Pains

When a prominent nerve is affected, the pain is severe. It is called neuralgia. It may be in either the head or body. Relief comes only when this nerve trouble is overcome. By its soothing and strengthening influence upon the nervous system Dr. Miles' Nervine removes the cause.

"It was about two years ago that I was taken down with what I then claimed was neuralgia, and some called it lightning rheumatism. Sharp pains would go from one place to another, mostly in my head, and I hardly could get relief. During these spells I would be so nervous that I hardly knew what was doing. The pains were so severe and exhausting that I would have to have a steady stream of water when walking across the room. I would feel fever, and in a day or two I would collapse, and in a day or two I would feel better. Just as soon as I would expel myself the very next day I would be sure to have a spell of neuralgia. I have taken the very best of medicine, but I might just as well take water. My aunt kept writing me to try Dr. Miles' Nervine, and I finally decided that I was persuaded to do so, for I had heard that it was a good thing out of my system."

SANTA CLAUS TIME

Have you begun buying them yet? These Christmas presents, you know.

It is getting along about the time when the children are listening for the sleigh bells and the fearfully constructed cotton batting snow scenes are already appearing in the shop windows.

It is a grave and serious matter—this buying of presents, particularly when one is even now worrying over one's coal bills and the necessity of paying for the winter clothing of the family.

It seems sort of foolish to you—you who have been putting forth your best efforts thru the year to make both ends meet, and cheerfully going down into your pockets when a birthday party came around. The old charm of the Christmas tree was long ago lost on you. Holidays don't mean as much as they used.

Perhaps, Mr. Business Man—this isn't an accusation, but a supposition—perhaps the more successful you have been the less the season appeals to you. Business matters have taken such a hold on you that you do not seem to be able to bring yourself into the proper spirit for the holidays.

The repeated exchanging of apparently useless gifts may strike you as a sign of foolishness.

Perhaps you have been receiving gold-headed canes from your wife, purchased from the money you have given her for household expenses. Perhaps the blue-plush manure set which the children gave you last year did not strike you as being a valuable addition to your personal property. It is only natural that you should feel that way new and then. But you are wrong.

Supposing it is true that you have no use for gold-headed canes and blue-plush manure sets. Think of the flouting the wife did to save that cane from the grocery bill. Think of the pride the children took in selecting that blue-plush box for papa.

Would you deny them that pleasure? Certainly not.

And if they happen to give credit to a mythical Santa Claus for the gifts which you shatter on them, you should not allow your jealousy of this fictitious personage to take away the joy of giving.

Some day they will know that "Daddy" and "Santay" are the same. You have been harsh, irritable and even stingy now and then during the past year, and this is your opportunity to make up for it. Can you afford to miss it?

THE GOOD TODAY

There is a shadow of romance over the past that leads many people to speak of the "good times of long ago."

It is wise of beneficent nature to let the man of seventy years forget the cares and anxieties that beset the earlier years of his life, and permits him to live happily in the memory of "good old times."

He forgets the monotony of the nightly meal and only remembers "the delicious cornmeal mush that mother used to make." Will the housekeeper today wonder if she knows anything at all about cornmeal mush.

The fact is, the laborer of today has luxuries that Queen Elizabeth never dreamed of—daily mail, telephone, street cars, electricity for domestic purposes, homes well lighted, well plumbed and well heated, to say nothing of the thousand and one articles that we daily use, and do not regard as luxuries—matches, for example.

Nówadays contagious diseases do not devastate our cities, because state and municipal laws unite to enforce protective sanitation, and never were homes so clean and well cared for as by the housekeepers of today.

The society or business woman is tired—has no time to go home and rest, so she goes to the parlors of a professional massage, and in an hour emerges a new woman, rested and happy and ready for a strenuous evening.

Are your feet tired? In ten minutes the chiropodist will fix you up so you can dance till 1 a. m.

The manicurist will attend to your hands, and the hair specialist will dress your hair and adjust your complexion for you, and men are just as well cared for as are the women.

How inconvenient it must have been to have been alive even fifty years ago!

The good old times? Think of a trip to Europe then and now, and each coming year brings us new luxuries.

Just as much as automobiles are ahead of ox-carts, just so much will always excel automobiles, and thru new devices, the luxuries of tomorrow will exceed those of today.

A few years will find stoves and furnaces but cumbersome nuisances of the past, and the ash gentleman will be forgotten.

Good old times? Today is the best day the world ever saw, and tomorrow will be better.

WAGGING THE EARS

An eminent scientist declares that all men may learn to wag their ears if they try long enough.

Who has not known and envied the boy who could wag his ears?

As a boyhood hero he is second to none—not even to the one who can lay back his thumbs or wiggle his scalp.

There are few things impossible for man to accomplish if he will only set himself at it seriously enough and keep at it long enough.

The pity is that so many of us put so much of our enthusiasm and energy into attempts to wag our ears—or many other purposes equally useless—and have so little left for efforts toward useful achievement.

Some day, somebody, thru marvelous strength, skill and persistence, is going to swim the English channel. And lots of people will think for this reason we are really progressing.

No doubt attempts will be kept up until somebody some reckless idiot actually succeeds in going over Niagara Falls in a skiff and come out alive. What more will be left for brave men to aspire to?

A little more time, a few more millions of dollars, and some scores more of frozen bodies left in the ice heaps—and the north pole will be discovered.

Then one of the most picturesque and dramatic series of brave deeds and ex-cruciating suffering in modern history will end. In what?

Some time soon—but let's hope not in our own time—women are going to succeed in turning themselves into wasps at the waist and birds at the top.

Wagging the ears is a tame accomplishment beside some others which the human race has been about long and seriously.

Individual effort, held straight ahead by persistence and driven by enthusiasm and energy, is a tremendous force. When millions unite their individual forces to one end that result is irresistible.

Whether our aspiration and striving be toward something useful to the world and ennobling to self, or toward some such thing as wagging the ears, we will succeed at it, if we only try long enough and hard enough.

TRAINING FOR CITIZENSHIP

The 2,300 boys and girls in one of the New York city public schools have formed a city government of their own, with mayor, district attorney, three judges and completely organized police and health departments.

This discipline in the school is maintained by the children themselves.

The principal under whose guidance the government was formed says that the system has already lessened truancy and elevated the moral tone of the entire body of pupils.

The children in this school are mostly of foreign birth. The mayor is a Russian boy who has been in this country only three years. The district attorney is a 12-year-old lad born in Italy. One of the three judges is a girl.

Warrants are issued, arrests made and trials conducted precisely as in the city courts. The commonest penalty is detention after regular hours. Truancy, crap playing and other forms of gambling are dealt with severely.

This is getting at education at its very roots.

No other knowledge that can be crammed into a child is so valuable to him and to the community as is the knowledge of the principles of good citizenship and self-government.

Intimate knowledge of the real purpose of government, of its processes of operation, and of the inestimable advantages of its protection to all well-meaning people saved the best and sincerest respect for it.

The child cannot be taught too early to be a good citizen—a stanch pillar in the temple that shelters mankind in common interest, good order and brotherhood.

Particularly important is it that children born abroad under oppressive conditions should learn at the earliest dawn of their reasoning powers that real freedom consists in rigid enforcement and strict observance of just laws.

The "school city" idea is too good to be long confined to one school or one city.

Western train bandits say he got a lot of jewelry which he did not want because the passengers insisted upon giving it to him. Anybody is liable to get stuck with that kind of jewelry in the Christmas exchange of gifts.

Returning, the President finds the country shy a battalion of colored troops and one Italian grand opera halo.

Reformed football has been pronounced O. K. Now reform the professional player.

Wonder if they're still digging dirt down at the isthmus?

DRIFT OF POLITICS

Republicans Strongly Intrenched

It is among the republicans that the troubles will ensue in the effort to elect United States senators. In 1873 the senate consisted of fifty-five republicans and only seven democrats.

That was the last time the republicans had two-thirds of the upper house. In 1875 they had lost enough seats to bring their strength down to forty-five, while the democrats held twenty-eight, breaking the two-thirds margin, the leaving the control of legislation in the hands of the republicans. Thenceforth the republican strength steadily diminished until the popular vote of 1892 swept in an adverse majority of democrats and independents. From year to year since that time of republican low tide, however, the now dominant party has recovered its lost ground in the senate. With a full senate on March 4 next, the republicans will add the new state of Oklahoma, eighteen republicans will retire in 1909 against twelve democrats.

In that time, the republicans will retire in 1911 against six democrats, and nineteen republicans will retire in 1913 against eleven democrats.

It is in the senate that the republicans will have the gain control of the senate two years hence the democrats will be compelled to hold all of their own seats and give their democratic successors to seven of the eighteen republicans than in the race.

Notable Senatorial Contests

In at least three states the republicans are sharply divided. In Rhode Island enough independent republicans have declared themselves against the Brayton-Aldrich machine to threaten the extinction of Senator Wetmore and gain control of the senate two years hence the democrats will be compelled to hold all of their own seats and give their democratic successors to seven of the eighteen republicans than in the race.

That Reminds Me

Good Little Boy

One afternoon while in Sunday school a little boy who had not been very attentive and had been interrupting the lesson was asked by his teacher if he knew where bad little boys go.

The little fellow studied awhile and then answered: "Yes, it is a place where there is fire, but I don't remember the name of the town."

On the Road

It was a few days after the examination. The French class had just received their papers, and found them corrected with the usual method of "H" for honor, "P" for passed, and "F" for failed, and so on. Today honors prevailed, and accordingly mademoiselle beamed. Tapping lightly on the desk with her pencil she leaned toward them.

"My pupils," she cried joyfully, "I feel how you have pleased me, but such encouragement is not to be given to you all upon the road to 'H'!"

Tuesday's Menu

It was Tuesday morning, the clothes had been washed, dried and folded the day previously, and common sense prevailed. The day was for ironing, but, cautious Scandinavian Tillie, the new maid, was not going to make the mistake of going to bed before being sure that she was right.

Before committing herself to the obvious task, she poked her head into the kitchen, to see if no avails.

"Meets, I skuld like to speak something."

"That is it, Tillie?"

"Shall I cook some flatiron?" asked Tillie, earnestly.

Down in Arkansas

In a part of Arkansas, where the natives take life easy, a young man and his sister were one day sitting on the porch, talking.

The boy, who was sitting whittling in a chair tilted comfortably back against the side of the house on its hind legs, remarked: "I reckon of man Johnson's got about the biggest funeral that's ever been held around here."

"You betcher," the boy answered.

"I would like to see it," replied the girl. "What a pity I ain't that way."

Even when a man goes to a fashionable health resort for his cough he is forced to cough up to the hotel proprietor.

Bobbs—Daneing isn't nearly so popular as it used to be. Sibbs—No, never the credit as it used to be.

Chair, author of "The Jungle."

"It was a very little girl," Helen replied. "And so I have only a dim recollection of its magnificence; the old man who lived there never saw any company."

"It had to be sold because he failed in business," said Mr. Harrison. "Would you like to drive over?"

"The strongest wins," laughed the other. "I had made up my mind to have it. The Eversons are a very aristocratic family, aren't they?"

"Yes," said Helen, "very, indeed. They have lived in this part of the country since the Rev. Mr. Everson here in the story of the sale she found herself vividly reminded of what her aunt told her of the different ways of having good deal of money and all the money one wanted. Perhaps, also, her companion was not without some such money-felt purpose in the telling. At any rate, the girl was trembling inwardly more and more at the prospect which was unfolding itself before her."

"Isn't it splendid!" the girl exclaimed, gazing about her. "I thought it was rather good," said Mr. Harrison, depreciatingly. "It can be made much finer, of course."

"When you take the Everson's hay crop from the lawn, for one thing," laughed she. "But I had no idea there was anything so beautiful near our little Oakland as the rock at that tremendous entrance!"

"It's all built in royal style," said Mr. Harrison. The family must have been wealthy in the past. "Probably slave dealers, or something of that kind," observed Helen. "Yes," said the other, "but I expect to do most of it over. Wouldn't you like to look?"

CRAPSEY CASE SERMON THEME

Rector of Trinity Discusses Freedom in Interpretation

Rev. Robert Hamilton Cotton, rector of Trinity, Sunday night took for his theme "The Crapsey Position So Far as I Understand it and Endorse It," taking three texts: 1. Rev. 1, 2, "Christ, who is the faithful witness and the first begotten from the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth." (From the second lesson.)

With regard to the first and second however, the time has not come when this can be. The functions of the prophet and the priest have to be limited and localized, and these two functions nowadays are the special and peculiar functions of the minister of religion strictly so-called. The function of kingship only in universalized in the totality of humanity, of some large aggregation of humanity called the state. Church and state are in our country, and in all advanced nations, separate and distinct. But kingship has to be qualified for its obligations by learning from the religious prophecies which is true and acquiring from the religious prophecies the moral and spiritual qualifications for government.

Dr. Crapsey closed his year's work Sunday. Rev. J. F. Boyce of St. Paul Methodist Episcopal church, closed his year's work Sunday and at the evening service read a statement of his work during the year as applying to St. Paul's church.

COON DELIVERED UPON INCREASED ESTIMATES

New Orleans Cotton Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—Dramatic excitement marked the opening of cotton futures here this morning. The spasmodic rally convulsed the bullish leaders, and those of the other rank quickly took advantage of the opportunity to exhaust the enemy, and prices accordingly slipped in spectacular fashion. Professionals sat up all night and awaited the opportunity to sell the earliest available market after knowing the estimate of the yield as made by the New Orleans Times-Democrat, placing the crop at 12,450,000 bales, exclusive of repacks and linters.

The reflex action of a slumped Liverpool swept against bullish sentiment with drastic force, and former confidence vanished for the moment and the market was subjected to a severe hammering without drop or support. Prices were $1.50 lower at the opening of futures, and the limited buying by straddlers and scalpers and professional longs, the latter of whom attempted in feeble manner to stay the tide—offered little resistance to the sweeping decline, which, on account of the professional tactics employed, might have proved serious, had not calm reason reigned with some enthusiasm. The discouraging cables from such a strong bullish source as Liverpool undermined sentiment and it proved a feature already predicted, viz., that the first signal of bearish estimates would cause a slump because there was a limited short interest to induce buying on the scale downward.

It would seem, therefore, that notwithstanding the bearish estimate of the Times-Democrat, which confirms the opinion of many of a commercial crop little less than 13,000,000 bales, that a sharp reaction is due before the flash of the government's reports on the 8th and 10th inst. This, especially in view of the reluctance of spot holders to give up anything like easily on account of the upheaval in sentiment caused by estimates, not compiled by the bureau.

Of course should the government confirm the estimates of today, even approximately, all must necessarily depend upon the determination of spot holders and the inclination of consumers to put in their wants within the limited time of one month. The uncommonly wide discount between spots and December options presents the tangle of the problem, and in the meantime, while the trade is awaiting the documents of the government, more moderate views and compromising sentiment indicate action, at least of some small extent, with an adjustment during the next few days that ought not to be far from the adjustment that will follow the flash of the government's ginners' and crop figures.

The latest reports today depict an upset spot market, with buyers and sellers far apart. The approach of both to more reasonable grounds will probably bring about a diminution of the prevailing discount between spots and futures. This wide discount was, of course, a check per se even today against selling.

In the early afternoon December and January settled around 10.45-44, or a loss of about $1.50 per bale from the closing quotations Saturday.

New Orleans Cotton Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 2.—Several factors contributed to the striking settlement of the bear side again and under the selling for short account and liquidation of long cotton, a short break was the result. December opened at 10.14-11 and declined to 10.92. Opening of January was 10.23, or 10 points off and price declined to 10.94, reacting in the afternoon to 10.11. March declined to 10.20, or 31 points from Saturday's level. A large number of December notices circulated freely, this increasing the inducement to sell the undermined market by force of the discouraging European market. The increased movement also discords with bullish ideas, yet without sharply with heavy selling on both sides of the water, so the local market ran off easily until March sold 10.20 as compared with 10.50 Saturday. January and February continued to sell at 10.05 to 10.03, a break of 56 points from the high level of last week. On the break there was liberal buying by shorts and others but it was not until prices had declined 20 or 30 points that the support was of a character to infuse steadiness into the market.

With the census report on Saturday and the government report expected to appear tomorrow, an irregular cotton market is expected.

New York Cotton Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Futures, which were due to come 3 down to 1 point up, opened steady, 7 points down on near and 8 points down on late month options. At 12.15 the market was 3/4 to 1 1/2 down, with undertone quiet. Closing quotations show prices 10/16 to 1/4 lower than Saturday's levels. Spots closed barely steady, 10 points lower to 8.64 for American middling. Of course should the government confirm the estimates of today, even approximately, all must necessarily depend upon the determination of spot holders and the inclination of consumers to put in their wants within the limited time of one month.

STOCKS COARSE GRAINS TAME AND WHEAT IMPROVED

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 3.—The forecast shows fair weather tonight and Tuesday in the grain belt, with indications of light showers in North Dakota tonight. Wheat Liverpool opened 3/4 lower and by 1.30 p. m. there prices had eased off, increasing loss to 7/8, at which level quotations closed. The market here opened 3/4 to 1/2 lower, except for July deliveries, which were bid to 7 1/2 at the opening. Good buying supported December, at 73 1/2, proved figures, price reaching 73 1/2 during the early morning trading. Bears' noon may sell around 73 1/2, showing a loss at the same time that the present month showed a gain of 1/4.

Corn at Liverpool opened at Saturday's prices, but sold down 3/4 to 1/2 before the close. The market here opened 1/2 to 3/4 lower, except for July deliveries, which were bid to 7 1/2 at the opening. On showing of stocks, provisions market ruled steady at the prevailing prices. The hog supply was liberal, the estimated receipts being 2,500 for the day. The quality was unusually poor, except for a few hogs, which topped the market at $6.20. Among the offerings were a large number of pigs and a lot of very poor quality. In the lot were 598 stockers for East Texas, 700 for West Texas, 100 for Oklahoma and Indian Territory. The market opened steady and on the choice offerings was strong, while it displayed a very weak tendency on the poor quality of stuff. More than half of the early offerings consisted of lights and hogs, and a good number of stockers. The close was generally steady with Saturday's prices.

There were eight loads of medium well finished beef steers in the market early, at quite a string of prices. There was nothing choice at the early offering, but a better quality was offered to arrive later. The early offerings were good enough to bring $3.10, which was about steady, with the representative prices at $2.80 for the same quality of stuff. The northern markets came in a little lower, but had little effect on the market, but a few light offerings were active, with a good demand from local packers and other buyers. There were a number of feeder buyers in the market, but very little feeder stuff and practically no stockers were offered. The representative sales of steers were:
