AMOUR WAS EXPENSIVE

Leo Kiesler Advertised For a Wife

STORY OF WOMAN

Says She Really Wanted to Marry and That She Was Honest With Him

Special to The Telegram.

EW YORK, Dec. 8.-The touching story of Leo Kies-'er's love at first sight for Mrs. Bina Verrault, who answered his "personal" in a nempaper and of his subsequent infatuation, which lasted until Mrs. Verrault had induced him to transfer to her $2,000 and numerous valuable trinkets, was continued before United States Commissioner Shields in the federal building this morning. Mrs. Verrault was on hand promptly at 10;30 o'clock with her counsel, Hugh Gordon Miller. She was the first witness. She told the court that she met McClellan, the Philadelphia butcher, who is another complainant against her thru a personal she put in a Philadelphia newspaper. The personal, she said, read thus:

"A young woman in prosperous circumstances desires to meet a sincere, honest man with view to matrimony." McClellan, she said, answered the advertisement and later called on her and seemed much impressed. "He said he thought I was a fine" lady and had a beautiful home," said

"He said he was looking for a wife and wanted to know if I could give bim any encouragement. He remained only a few moments. He appeared very sincere and honest and I told him I thought I should like him. He asked for permission to correspond with me." "Did you think favorably of him?" asked Mr. Miller.

"I thought him very honest and agreeable.' "Was your purpose matrimony?"

"Yes, if I ever met the right man." "You were married?" "Yes, but my husband had not supported me for two years. If ever net the right man I meant to get a divorce and marry him." Mrs. Verrault said that she told Mc-Clellan she was married and talked over with him the circumstances of her having horse-whipped her husband a year before. "Were you ever engaged to McClel-

"What was the understanding?" "That if I liked him well enough l was to get a divorce and marry him.' "Did he give you presents?"

Accepted Presents

"Yes, I've been accepting presents all my life. He gave me a ring, locket, flowers and candy.' Mrs. Verrault denied that the ring was an engagement ring. She said he gave her no money. She denied having told him that her husband was buried in Boston. Assistant United State Attorney Doer then asked Mrs. Verrault how she went about finding a husband. She said she inserted advertisements and got replies to them. She said she could not remember about any cases except the Kiesler and McClellan

"What did you write to Kiesler?" asked Mr. Doer. "I said I was a young woman in good circumstances and would like to meet Mrs. Verrault kept insisting that her intentions involved matrimony only in case she met her ideal man. She admitted that she thought Kiesler was a The witness identified some of her letters to Kiesler and read them with apparent interest. "What is the trouble you refer to here?" asked Mr. Doer, holding up one

Financial Trouble

"I was having a financial trouble with my brother over money I had given him to invest in Mexican land." The witness then said she had other investments in Wisconsin in mines between Ironton and Cassanovia, The land was inherited from her father, she said, whose name was Finnegan. "Do you know his name was Finregan?" asked Mr. Doer.

'Why-no.' "She means it is a wise child that knows its own father," put in Mr. Mrs. Verrault objected to telling in what bank she had an account, mentioned in the letter about the mining "At the present time," she said, "I am in financial trouble and I object to giving the name of my bank." Later she admitted that she had no money in the bank. "When I wrote that letter," she admitted, "I needed money and I just gave a reason." This was to explain why the had told Kiesler about her investments being tied up. Mr. Doer then switched again to the personal in the Philadelphia paper. The witness said she got a reply. She then wrote to McClellan she said. The witness identified fifteen or twenty of her letters. Mr. Miller then took the witness in "Which of these two fortune hunters first sued for your favor?"

"Kiesler." "What reason had you for dismissing him??" "Good reasons; but I object to giving them." Then Mr. Miller brought out the fact that the two suits were not running contemporaneously but that Kieser had received the mystic "23" before McClellan came on the scene. Mrs. Verrault said Klesler knew from the start that the name Montgomery, which she had used, was fictitious. McClellan, she said, also knew this. "McClellan," said the witness, "did HE'S THE BOY WHO'S ALWAYS THERE not like the name Verrault. He could not pronounce it. He said he preferred to call me Helen as he had had a youthful sweetheart by that name. At this point the case was adjourned to Dec. 29. Mr. Miller said he was going to Virginia for Christmas. "I'll hang a lemon on the tree for Kiesler," he said, "Kiesler of Budapest, with an accent on the 'pest.'

MINE PROMOTER JAILED

War Arrested in a Hotel at Atlanta, Special to The Telegram.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.-Morris Weil of New York. a mine promoter, was arrested this morning at the Aragon hotel by detectives, and is held prisoner at the police station on communication from New York that he is wanted there on a charge of forgery. An officer from New York is expected here Sunday.

Definite information concerning the alleged forgery was not given out, and Weil refused to talk, further than to say that he was innocent and had no idea why he was in jail. Weil was a promotor of the Lawrence Mining Company, for which an application for charter was filed here

HUSBAND'S DUST THROWN ON WATER

Mrs. Johnson Carried Out the Wishes of Spouse

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 8 .-Standing on the county bridge that spans the Tennessee river this morning, Mrs. Charles Johnson scattered the remains of her husband upon the

This was in accordance with the last will and testament of Mr. Johnson in life, whose dying request was that his body be cremated and the ashes given to the wind and water at the same spot where the "interment" occurred. Many were present when Mrs. Johnson went to the bridge, carrying a small jar, from which she took the ashes in her hand, sifting them slowly into the air, as she leaned from the outer railing on one side of the structure. The wind took up the small particles and swept them downward nto the water. They were caught up by the water and in a few moments after the weird ceremony began the last of that which was mortal of Mr. Johnson had disappeared from view.

BRYAN COMMENTS ON THE MESSAGE

From Democrats

Special to The Telegram. LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 8.-Here is what William J. Bryan has to say in the Commoner on President Roosevelt's

"It contains much that is democratic and which has been boldly appropriated from the doctrines of the democratic party. The President's reference to government by injunction is not satisfactory to the laboring man or to those for open criticism on decisions of the courts, Mr. Bryan says: "Those who remember the abuse eaped upon the democrats for pre suming to criticise supreme judges will

who respect the right of trial by jury."

Referring to the President's stand find consolation in this. "The President contributes little toward remedial legislation in regard to the troubles between capital and labor."

Mr. Bryan commends the President's attitude on the Japanese question and upon employers' liability. Attitude on the trust question is not satisfactory. The President is not anxious to disturb what he calls "good combination of capital." Mr. Bryan is disappointed over the war-like tone of the President's recommendation in regard to the army and navy. He cries shame upon brute force as a guarantee of peace.

Ayers and the New York department

The flames have a good start, and it looks as if the whole square, if not the entire central part of the city will be destroyed. Employes have left the New York store, and the firemen are fighting hard to save it. The fire is in the square bounded by Washington, Meridian, Pennsylvania and Maryland streets.

BAILEY MAKES SECOND REPLY

Says President Appropriated Issues Statement From Dallas to Attorney General

> Special to The Telegram DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 8.—Senator Bailey gave the following to the press tonight in reply to Attorney General Davidson's letter, publishing copies of vouchers and letters relating to the senator and Henry Clay Pierce:

Dalas, Texas, Dec. 8, 1906.—Hon. R.

. Davidson. Austin. Texas-Sir: I have just read your letter which appears in the newspapers of this morning. It eliminates very much from the discussion by confirming what I had said in my open letter to you. Indeed, the documents you print, so far from supporting the inferences which your questions were calculated to raise in the public mind, directly contradict them. You sought to make it appear that the $3,300 mentioned in your first question was a fee paid to me by the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, but the memorandum vou print establishes beyond the shadow of a doubt that it afflicted is due to some other trouble." was, as I declared it to be, a demand loan made personally by H. C. Pierce to me. Your question was also calculated to make it appear that even if Pierce made the loan to me, the Waters-Pierce Oil Company repaid the sum to him and passed it in to its Special to The Telegram. accounts as an expense; but one of the paid. If this $3,300 had been considered an expenditure by the Waters-Pierce Oil Company it would have been charged either to the expense account or to the profit and loss account. The statement appearing in your own memorandum demonstrates out other particulars in which the receivable, to be paid by him in the due course of business. I could point that Pierce used his voucher as a bill memoranda you publish, negatives, like this, the presumptions which you sought to raise. But it is unnecessary to pursue this particular branch of the subject further; because there is one item in this controversy which ought to be accepted as decisive, and that item is the Henry & Stribling draft. This is the one point which you assert and which I deny, that is sus-ceptible of absolute and positive proof if the facts exist, as you have alleged them.

Offers to Resign If Proven

"If I ever drew a draft in favor of Henry & Stribling, or either of them, that draft will show on the back of it the endorsement of every bank thru which it passed in the course of collection, and every bank thru it passed made an entry of it on its books. It

Fighting Days of McGovern Are Over

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Dec. 8 .- Terry Mc-Govern was pronounced hopelessly insane today, after a conference between Dr. Charles Mosely, who has charge of the Kings county hospital pyschocopatic ward, where the pugilist is detained, and Sam Harris, Terry's former manager, and Dr. Creamer. At the end of the conference it was decided that McGovern should be taken to Dr. Creamer's sanitarium, near Stonington, Conn., tomorrow at 9 a. m. "The poor boy will never enter the ring again," said Mr. Harris, who was greatly affected by the meeting with the little pugilist. Harris had come here from Cincinnati last night, and this afternoon rode in an automobile with Dr. Creamer, Joe Humphreys and others to the hospital. When Terry saw Harris he extended his hand listlessly and said: "Hello, Sam.' He seemed no more pleased by the visit than if a total stranger instead of a friend who had come so far to see him had entered. Dr. Mosely said that Terry had been very irritable earlier in the day and had a ordered his father and other friends who had called to leave the "The whisky is all out of his system now," said Dr. Mosely, "and the mental derangement with which he is in the Deal

Thomas C. Platt, Republican Leader, Shared in Division of the Spoils

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The true story of the $10,000 check emorsed by Lou

Payne and deposited to the credit of the United States Express Company, a photograph of which was introduced in evidence today at the trial of George Burnham Jr., was divulged, it recites that Lou Payne, at that time a professional lobbyist is Albany, and Thomas C. Platt, then republican leader of the state of New York, personally demanded and obtained from the exempt Firemen's Benevolent Fund $10,000 for furthering legislation favorable to the payee. It is further recited that Lou Payne and Thomas C. Platt made good. The story was first told to the district attorney by Samuel Patterson, a Harlem real estate dealer, and a member of the Exempt Firemen's Association. It appears, according to this story, that in 1876 the legislature passed a law granting to the exempt iremen's benevolent fund a percentage of the taxes received by the state. The grant was to run for twenty years. As t approached expiration in 1896 the members of the paid fire department laid plans to have the payment shifted to their pension fund.

Wanted Windfall

The exempts wanted to hold on to the windfall from the state and set about to secure the passage of a bill to continue the payment to their fund of a percentage of the tax receipts for another term of years. George B. Patterson, who died in 1900, was then secretary of the exempt Firemen's Benevolent fund. He was Samuel Patterson's father. To Mr. Patterson was intrusted the work of getting the bill thru the legislature. It did not take him long to discover that the wheels of legislation must needs be lubricated and that the lubricating matter would have to be passed to Lou Payne, who was with Senator Platt in absolute control of the legislature.

Platt and Payne Present

According to the district attorney's nformation the exempt Firemen's Benevolent association held a meeting in March, 1896. Both Senator Platt and Lou Payne were present. The district attorney has been informed by persons who were present at the meeting that both Platt and Payne pledged themselves to get the necessary legislation thru for $10,000. It would not do, however, to draw the check directto Payne. Charles and W. W. Buckley were counsel at that time for the exempt Firemen's Benevolent fund. The check for $10,000 was drawn to the order of James Y. Watkins, a trustee of the fund, and that Mr. Watkin immediately indorsed it over to the Buckley firm "for legal services." Then the Buckley firm endorsed it to Lou Payne and Payne deposited it to the credit of the United States Express

Company. Apparently the money was not split satisfactorily, because that $10,000 check caused all sorts of feuds and discussion in the ranks of the republican leaders, finally leading to a libel suit, in which Senator Rains and Lemuel E. Quigg figured. The canceled check was in the possession of George B. Patterson, who took the precaution to have it photographed. Then came Lou Payne's appointment as state commissioner of insurance and his alleged attempt to shake down the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company for

The Burnham officials of the Mutual Reserve knew of the check, because George Burnham was counsel for Mr. Patterson. The offense was not outlawed then, according to the district attorney's information, the canceled check was potent enough to force Payne to accept $40,000 instead of the $100,000. At this time the $10,000 check transaction and the $40,000 transaction with the Mutual Reserve are both out-

SHOT MAN WHO RUINED HER

New York Politics Involved Mrs. Bradley Followed Brown From Utah

A $10,000 HOLD UP A UTAH SENATOR

Relies on Unwritten Law and Says Man She Shot Is Father of Children

Special to The Telegram 8.-Former United States Senator Arthur Brown of Utah was shot in the abdomen and probably mortaily wounded by Mrs. Annie M. Bradley of Salt Lake City, Utan, in room 268 at the Raleigh hotel this after-

With life hanging by a cob web the former representative of the people lies on a cot in the emergency hospital. while his assailant is confined in a witness room at the First precinci police station, closely guarded by a kindhearted matron.

Alleging that Senator Brown is the father of two of her children, one of whom bears his name, and that he had repeatedly pledged himself to make her his wife and had refused to provide for her, the frail, delicate prisoner tonight admitted that she shot him because he had broken every fromise made to her and deserted her in her darkest hours. She stands entrenched behind the "unwritten law," the law that says men and women shall do right toward men and women. She is calm and composed. She is confident that the world will see the justification for her act. Tracking Senator Brown across the continent, with less than a dollar in her pocketbook, a large caliber revolver in her coat pocket and a firm resolve in her heart to have a final understanding with the man whom she accuses of having humiliated and degraded her in the eyes of the world for seven long years, Mrs. Brady arrived in the national capital this morning without a friend and knowing not which way to turn to find the man she sought. After some time she found the Raleigh hotel where Senator Brown was stopping. Scanning the register she detected his name and, taking a pen, wrote hur-riedly, "Mrs. A. Brown, Salt Lake City," a few lines below it. Questioned by the clerk as to whether she was the senator's wife and what her business, were left unanswered and unnoticed by her. She was shown to a room on the second floor, a few doors from room 268, occupied by the man for home, family name and all else. Had no Response

Three times she went to the door of his apartments and sought admittance, but there was no response to her repeated raps. The fourth time she knocked at 2:40 o'clock in the afternoon, the door was opened by Senastr

whom she says she sacrificed her

"What!" exclaimed the senator surprise. "I thought I left you in Salt

Lake City." "You did," replied the little woman. boldly, as she took a firmer grip on the revolver in her pocket of her long gray coat, "you did, but I am here today, and all I ask of you is will you do the right thing by a woman whom you have ruined? A woman who has grown desperate because of your desertion of her? Will you marry me as you have promised to do these seven years? Will you give me money with which to live and care for your chil-

A pause followed. Senator Brown looked into the woman's face and saw grim determination on every feature. "No, I will not," he said, and reached for his overcoat to leave the hotel. As he neared the door leading to the corridor the woman got in front of him and faced him. With fire flashing from her eyes she cried: "I must have an answer. I can't stand this another moment. Will you marry me or provide for me?"

Before Senator Brown's lips could form the simple word "no" the frenzied woman whipped out her big revolver and began firing. The man threw up his arm to ard off the bullet. The missile struck the ring finger of his right hand and with a shrill cry of pain he ran toward her to wrest the smoking weapon from her hand. She was too quick for him, however, and before he could reach her she sent another bullet into the pit of his stomach and he fell heavily to the floor

Mrs. Bradley was very calm when she arrived in the police station. She admitted that she had bought the pistol in Utah, and the police, from that inferred that she had intended to have a final reckoning with Senator Brown. She declared to the police officials that Brown had promised to marry her; that he had not kept faith and that therefore the tragedy resulted.

It is believed by the police that when she arrived in the Raleigh hotel she made several attempts to see Brown personally and that failing in her attempts, she went to his room; that he refused to marry her and that she then opened fire. After the affair in the hotel Senator Brown was sent to the Emergency hospital. Surgeon White was put in charge and saw at once that it was a serious case. It was discovered that Brown had been snot once in the hand, the ring finger and again in the stomach, the ball entering the bladder, puncturing it and lodging in the bone posterior of the bladder. "There is only an even chance that the senator will live thru the night," is the opinion of the Emergency hospital experts. Mrs. Bradley made a statement this evening in answer to a series of questions she was asked as calmly and as composed as if she were doing the honors at an afternoon tea, and but for a tired look in her black eyes, she showed no sign of having gone thru the ordeal of trying to end a man's

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.-In the midst of a great Broadway noon hour throng revolver as he was passing Exchange Place and fired two shots at a man thought to be W. R. Hennig, said to broker, wounding the latter in as Hennig, a tall man and apparently wealthy, fell to the pavement. There was also the greatest excitement within a cafe at the corner, 57 Broadway, as one of the two bullets fired by O'Connor went thru the plate glass window, narrowly missing a number of men at their luncheon. Both O'Connor and Hennig showed the utmost coolness. It was plain that they knew each other, according to eyewitnesses of the shooting. O'Connor made no effort to escape, but submitted calmly as Patrolman Foley of the traffic squad placed him under arrest and took him to the Old Slip station. Hennig's wound was a serious, al-tho not a fatal one. The bullet had struck him in the right leg and coursed upward, Passersby carried him into the cafe until an ambulance from the Hudson street hospital arrived. At the hospital the wounded man said he was Dr. Napoleon Judson of 2731 Broadway. The hospital authorities were inclined to believe that the wounded man had given his real name and that he was the victim of mistaken identity on the part of O'Connor. O'Connor insists that the man's name is W. R. Hennig and he is

Sign Cost $1,000 a Word At the Franklin inn, a literary club of Philadelphia, a young poet, licking

his lips, said that Conan Doyle was "That is nothing," said a railroad advertising man. "I know of a case where a man was paid $1,000 a word. Our line used to have at its grade crossing a very long and complicated sign that began, Beware of the engines and cars,' and then this sign went on with a lot of injunction and warning that would have taken five minutes to read. "In a number of accident cases the complainants for damages declared that our long signs were not clear warnings. Therefore the line decided at last to get a new grade crossing sign and Judge Paxon was engaged to write one.

"The sign that Judge Paxon wrote cost $1,000 a word, but was a classic. remains a classic. It is as well known among us as 'Father, I cannot tell a lie,' or 'England expects every man to do his duty.' "The sign that cost $1,000 a word,

HOW HEMPHILL STREET WILL BE PAVED

This interesting photograph was taken in El Paso when paving one of the principal business streets of that city with bithulithic paving was begun a few weeks ago. Bithulithic pavement is the kind adopted for Hemphill street and the all contracts for the work have not been signed, the contract has been approved by the city council and work is expected to begin within a few weeks. Bithulithic pavement is made of rock, crushed in several different sizes. The top coating is made of crushed fock and bitumen applied to the rock while it is hot. The surface thus acquired is said to be more resilient and at the same time more durable than that of any other kind of paving. Bithulithic pavement has been in use several years on Lindell baulevard, St. Louis, which is said to be the finest residence street of its kind, considering its extreme length, in the United States.

On the other, merely thru * * thoughtlessness, many shoppers * * defer their purchases until the * * last possible moment at the cost * * of unnecessary strain upon the * * salespeople and delivery force.

 The above is an extract from an appeal which has been made by Jacob Riis, the New York reform lecturer, to hasten the time of Christmas shopping and thereby save the disadvantages which must attend the late shopper. The movement is becoming general thruout the east to have shopping done early this year and thus institute a reform which past Christmas seasons have shown to be necessary The shopper as well as the merchant knows the advantage of shopping early and thus avoiding the rush. The prospective Christmas buyer who goes to the stores of Fort Worth now when almost all if not all of the Christmas goods are on exhibition, will have a pick of goods that he or she cannot get later and will also have the undivided service of the clerk selling. At the present time one knows as well as later what one wants, if only a little thought were given to the matter. A prominent merchant of this city said Saturday: "Right now the lines of goods in our store are unbroken and i shoppers would only take advantage of this state of affairs they would get along better. Our lines will become broken and shoppers will come down in the rush and strain and pull all day long to find some one article, and

THREE LEAGUES ARE PROBABLE

Baseball Organization at Temple

Texas threatens to have two rival baseball leagues, and possibly three, next season, from present developments. Malcontents over the formation of an all-Texas league, which was compelled to leave them out in the cold because they could not support a team necessary for such a league taking in all the big cities with long railroad jumps have started the new organizations.

One league has been started by the Temple enthusiasts, and even threatens to take the same name of the new league, namely the Texas League, altho it is admitted that perhaps this league may have to be called the Texas Association. This league wants Waco as a member, and states that representatives from Waco have been present at the meeting, and said that they would have a team. Tyler is mentioned as a third town, with the fourth Another league is being formed by the people interested in the game in Beaumont and Lake Charles who were dropped from the South Texas League their plans include the taking in with the exception of New Orleans, where it is stated that a team would successful during the absence of the Southern League team. The name of this league is proposed as the Louisiama League. Developments from the three leagues can be expected almost at any day as the press agent managers of one or the other get busy and disclose plans for the coming season. The Texas League as now organized will play under a constitution very similar to the one in operation in the Southern League, that having been adopted with but few changes. Otto Sens of Houston has been decided upon as vice president of the league. salary limit of the league has been sot pay roll to fourteen men.

signs in the grand stands and bleachers at all the league parks reading: 'No Betting Allowed." This step is considered to be a good one, and one that would obviate much trouble. It has also been decided that President Robbie should have the power to appoint umpires and official scorers He will also have the power to punish any player who in any way conducts himself in a manner contrary to the best interests of the game.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE and DIABETES CAN NOW BE CURED (From the Kansas City Journal.) Diseases heretofore believed incuraole are yielding one by one to modern science. The control of Bright's Disease and Diabetes are probably the most important recent accomplishments. These diseases were considered fatal. From recent developments in San Francisco and from confirming facts in this city it is evident that not alone relief but a permanent cure of both these dreaded complaints can now be effected. The new formula was first put to the test by a prominent hotel man who had exhausted local medical skill in a ong battle with a severe case of diabetes. He got such results that he spread the news among his friends about town, and it would astonish the public to know the number, character and prominence of the patients now recovering in Kansas City. To ascertain if permanent relief has been effected by the new treatment, as most all of the local cases that have been treated are of comparatively recent date, the following wire was sent to California, where the new diuretic has been in use for the past year or two: Kansas City, Jan. 15, 1906. R. A. Crothers, Proprietor Bulletin,

San Francisco, Cal. Several prominent citizens of Kan-sas City report wonderful recoveries from Bright's Disease and Diabetes by use of Fulton's Compound. Kindly atvise us if successful and permanent results have been accomplished in your city. THE JOURNAL COMPANY. In reply the following wire was received from the Evening Bulletin: San Francisco, Jan. 16, 1906.

Kansas City Journal: Permanent results here, Know a doctor who acknowledges absolute recovery from Diabetes. Many authentic cures of Bright's Disease.

R. A. CROTHERS. One of the most wonderful recoveres in this city is that of Dr. J. M. Guest, of 240 West 3d street. His case of Diabetes was of long standing and so serious that he was advised to go to Florida. During his absence in the south the hotel man spoken of above, hearing of the case, informed the doctor's wife that he was recovering from the same disease and that her husband could recover, and on his return he immediately took up the new preparation. The doctor now states that he soon began to get relief. Normal sleep was restored, strength returned and he now weighs more than for the last twenty years, when the Diabetes first made its appearance. The doctor has very naturally been the means of other cases using the new specifics and reports that practically the same results were obtained.

The experience of the hotel man also seems conclusive. He states that he had had Diabetes for years and believed it incurable till a western traveling man called his attention to the recoveries that were being made in San Francisco. The results were, if anything, more definite than in the case of Dr. Guest, for upon his recovery he passed for life insurance. He likewise has been the means of others here taking it with like results, Other late cases reported include two recoveries from Bright's Disease, both the patients being prominent in local mercantile circles.-Kansas City

Journal. If anyone having knowledge of a case of Bright's Disease or Diabetes will send us the name and address we will see that they are sent full details of this important discovery. We sent for the treatment and have it in stock. H. T. Pangburn, druggist, Fort

NEW WITNESS IN

Man Says Thaw and White Were Armed

WANTS AN EARLY TRIAL Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Visited Her

Husband Saturday and Was

Particular to Deny Story

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The startling fact became known today that the Thaw defense has in its possession the name of a resident of this city who is willing to go upon the witness stand and declare that both Thaw and Stanford White were armed on the night of the tragedy on the Madison Square roof garden and that they both anticipated a duel to the death. This man was closely examined by Thaw's attorneys and it is possible that he may be called in the trial.

Counsel for Thaw today expressed the opinion that the man's testimony was of no value in the conduct of the case and that it was a grave question as to whether the witness was reliable. His statement was taken in full

It can be authoritatively stated that Harry Thaw is more determined than ever to go before a jury and ask acquittal for the killing of Stanford White. He declared today in the Tombs that he was in excellent physical condition and wanted an early trial.

"I certainly hope that my case can go to trial in January," he said to one of the keepers. "I am absolutely confident that I shall go free." Because of the intention of Delphin M. Delmas to return to California shortly on account of certain business interests, the story was rumored around the criminal court building today that he was retiring permanently from the case. Investigation of this report resulted in an absolute denial from Thaw's attorneys.

Mrs. William Thaw, mother of Harry Thaw, is now in Pittsburg. It is denied that she has any intention of disposing of her Pittsburg realty. Mrs. Florence Evelyn Thaw, wife of the prisoner visited her husband in the Tombs today. She had not been there for several days on account of cold, but she asked that it be distinctly understood that there had been no quarrel between her husband and herself as at first reported.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 8 .- The appeal for a new trial that was made by the attorneys for Greene and Gaynor will be heard before the United States court of appeals next month. In case a new trial is denied the case will be taken to the supreme court of the United county jail since last spring. There is also a suit pending against the government for $800,000, claimed by Greene and Gaynor for actual work done on the Savannah harbor, which will be pressed for a decision.

Charcoal Kills

Disagreeable Odor Arising From Indigestion or From Any Habit or Indulgence, Can Be Instantly

Sample Package Mailed Free

Other people notice your bad breath where you would not notice it at all. It is nauseating to other people to stand before them and while you are talking, give them a whiff or two of your bad breath. It usually comes from food fermenting on your stomach. Sometimes you have it in the morning -that awful sour, bilious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods, or gas from indigestion. Don't use breath perfumes. They never conceal the odor, and never absorb the gas that causes the odor. Besides, the very fact of using them reveals the reason for their use. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges in the first place stop for good all sour brash and belching of gas, and make your breath pure. fresh and sweet, just after you've eaten. Then no one will turn his face away from you when you breathe or talk; your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it. things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint flavor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal. and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal necessary to do these wonderful but simple things by getting Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your druggist and get a 25c box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and

"cleaner" inside. Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 60 Stuart Bldg., Mar-

Fort Worth, Texas, Dec. 7, 1907.

Dear Santa Claus: I am a little boy, 6 years old, and l am not often good. Well, how are you this Christmas, Santa Claus? Now, I want you to send me a loop the loop, an airgun, a pistol, horse with a saddle, a little horse and wagon, an auto, a drum, two horns, a street car, a magic lantern, a ball, a train with cars, a set of fire wagons, a set of tools, a rabbit, a fiddle man, some oranges, apples and candy and nuts. Also would like some firecrackers. Call at 211 East Bluff street. I wish you a merry Christmas and a happy life. LITTLE TOM TATUM.

WEEK IN REAL ESTATE

Many Large Transactions Have Been Reported

Real estate in Fort Worth and Tarrant county has taken a great boom the past week and trading has been more active than it has been for weeks or months. Many trades have been reported and the last of the week there has been an average of at least two trades a week. Property which it was thought would not be sold on account of the owners being satisfied has come upon the market in response to offers gone the way the ranch prop erty has been going for the past year or so. The cattlemen who have retired and moved to this city are becoming stronger real estate holders every day and much of the money reaped in west Texas is now invested in lots and buildings in this city.

George Reynolds and W. D. Reynolds who are two of the heaviest owners of Main and Houston street property, added considerably to their possessions this week, purchasing fifty feet from Mrs. C. D. Brown on Main street between Ninth and Tenth for $50,000 and also taking up 900 acres of farm land near Crowley and 200 acres of fand in North Fort Worth that has been divided up into lots.

Mrs. Sarah Larimer, who owned the property at 1209 Main street, disposed of it for $50,000 and in turn reinvested part of her sale price in the corner of Fifteenth and Rusk streets for $26,-

Other property changing hands during the week included 250 feet on Monroe street behind the Majestic theater which was taken by Gus O'Keefe and Mr. Cassell. There have been other changes in real estate during the week and several have been made that have not been announced, as the deeds have not been examined yet.

Tendency to procure country homes for the summer has also manifested itself during the week, two farms having been bought within easy distance of Fort Worth. Otho S. Houston completed the purchase of 1,000 acres near Cleburne on Saturday that will provide him with probably the finest location within a hundred miles for a country home, with the Brazos rolling by and two lakes and a beautiful cave on the property. George and W. D. Reynolds will probably improve the farm of 900 acres they purchased near Crowley, so that it can be used for spending the week end or any other time that they may prefer there.

AND WOMEN WEPT

Money Would Not Tempt The Hot Springs Doctors to Accept an Incurable Case For Treatment

His last hope gone, fittle Harry Brockman of Paris, Texas, broke down and cried, while women wept in sympathy, and big strong men silently wiped away tears. The boy, who is 15 years old, had come all the way to Fort Worth to see Marvel Kinsey and the staff of Hot Springs Doctors. Harry was suffering from partial paralysis, due to a fall down stairs, and as many doctors had treated him and all had failed to cure, his last hope was centered in his faith in the great specialist. The boy had been carried up the steps on his father's shoulder and on account of his weakened condition, other waiting patients gave up their turn in order that the poor boy might consult the specialist at once. After Harry had been thoroughly examined, Dr. Kinsey placed his hand upon the little fellow's head and turning to the father said: "I am very sorry that it is not within my power to cure your boy, but such is the case and there-fore I will not treat him." The father then offered to pay a targe sum for treatment in the hope that even if the boy could not be cured he might be benefited, but the specialist remained firm, explaining that the boy's condition was due to a deformed condition of the spine and was incurable by medical treatment

As Harry was being carried through the waiting-room he realized that his last hope was blotted out and it was then that he broke down and cried, and the waiting patients wept in sympathy. The little fellow brightened up enough to shake hands with Dr. Kinsey and thank him for the free examination and say he was glad there was one doctor honest enough not to take his papa's money when they could do him no good.

A reporter who was in the waitingroom at the time asked if many such pathetic scenes were enacted there. The answer was that they are common, as the Hot Springs Doctors never accept a case for treatment unless they feel sure they can effect a complete cure. They want a clean record of cures—for only on such a foundation can such an enormous practice be maintained. All day long yesterday the waitingcooms of this wonderful Hot Springs Institute at 900 Houston street was crowded with sick people, waiting to be cured. There was not time enough for the specialists to see all, and some had to be turned away and told to return Monday.

At the big free show at Fifth and Taylor last night, an enormous crowd was present to hear the Great Anselme lecture and cure the afflicted. Seven people came upon the platform and were healed. They were: Johnnie Putnam, aged 10, of 1402 Calhoun St. Little Johnnie was cured of paralysis of five years' standing. O. D. Jones of 1908 St. Louis Ave., cured of deafness of eight years' standing. H. M. Floyd of 1907 S. Henderson, was cured of rheumatism of twenty-five years' standing. Mrs. T. Hamilton of 1105 Houston, deafness of six years 'duration. J. W. Hackney of Box 49, R. F. D. 5, Arlington Heights, was cured of roaring in head from taking quinine several years ago. Mrs. Gaw of 2518 Market Ave., North Fort Worth, six years, deafness. R. E. Huggins of 2209 Clinton, had been sick four years.

PRES. DAVIDSON HERE

Frisco Official Spent the Night in Fort Worth

President A. J. Davidson of the Frisco spent the night in Fort Worth and will go out over the Fort Worth and Rio Grande division of the Frisco Sunday for an inspection of the line, and will return here Monday to await the return of the main Rock Island-Frisco party from the south. President Davidson says he did not feel interested in work the rest of the party had to do in the southern part of the state, and as he had work which called him out over the line of the road between Fort Worth and Brady he did not make the trip to the south. President Davidson had a meeting to attend Saturday at the general offices, where the directors had to pass on a purely technical matter pertain-

separate and apart from any other profession or calling. I will ask why should a newspaper man seek adm sion into a farmers' organization? Nine times out of ten, of course, it is to benefit his own pocket; and just so with other professions. Their interests not being directly with the farmer they come in to farm the farmer and this they have succeeded in doing in the past to a finish. We will ask who has caused the dissention, strife and discord that has always been in farm ers organizations of the past and ultimately brought about failures most all their undertakings-the farmer? No sir, but in almost every case it has been caused by men that show not have been admitted into a real farmers' organization and the re farmer has become disgruntled and disgusted with so-called farmers' organizations that professional mer dominate and run in their own inter ests and not that of the farmer. Brother farmers, we, the actual tillers of the soil, are going to organize the first actual farmers' organization that has ever been organized in history of societies of any kind, and every actual farmer who is in favor o this plan is invited to be at Abilent on the 13th and join others in proving to the world that farmers are capable of attending to their own business even to the controlling of their own organization. Judge Shepherd is also making a plea for more money for support of territory's rural schools. He wants $250,000 this year. Last year congress appropriated $150,000. The McAlester man says the territory needs this increased sum, because the population has increased and the new state will not be able to collect taxes for another year. PACKING HOUSES IN OLD MEXICO

of Meats

Special to The Telegram. CITY OF MEXICO, Dec. 8.—The general slaughter and packing house which was established in this city some eighteen months ago, is now beginning to be run under full blast and it will not be long before the complete work, as intended in the original plans, will be finished and ready for operations. Success has attended the plant ever since its opening and what was originally an experiment is now such a pronounced success that already another packing house is almost ready for operation in Uruapam.

Concession for the Mexican company was granted by the government some two years ago. The establishment was opened about eighteen months ago with an up-to-date packing house in the Peralvillo and Belem district. The plant is now fully equipped with all the necessary facilities for cold storage and all the purposes required for this class of industry. Up to date the cold storage system has not been started, the company confining its operations solely to the killing of cattle. Within the near future, however, the directors of the company expect to commence the curing of all classes of beef, hog and sheep products. The capacity of the plant is large enough to fill all the requirements necessary for this city; in fact, almost all of the republic of Mexico. Outside of this packing house there is another plant almost ready for operation at Uruapam, in the state of Michoacan, which is controlled by Chicago capitalists. This plant is also to be up to date in ail particulars, and as it is located in a section where immense quantities of cattle and other live stock are produced, will no doubt be able to transact a very large busi-

STRIBLING GIVES OUT STATEMENT

Company Was Legitimate

Special to The Telegram. WACO, Texas, Dec. 8 .- O. L. Stribling tonight gave out the following to the press:

"To the Public: In an interview published in the Texas newspapers of Dec. 8, John B. Johnson of St. Louis makes the following statement: 'I did as general attorney of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, at one time employ Mr. Stribling to render certain legitimate, legal service to the Waters-Pierce company in Texas, and had the Waters-Pierce company pay him for the same, but Mr. Henry was not included in this employment, nor did he render any service in connection with the subject matter of the same.'

"While to my mind this statement has nothing to do with the matter under discussion pertaining to Senator Bailey, yet the statement as made by Mr. Johnson, as above quoted, is true feet, however, that I should supplement this statement, made by Mr. Johnson, by saying that the employment referred to by him was entered into by me after I had ceased to be attorney for the state in the penalty suit brought by the state of Texas against the old Waters-Pierce Oil Company, in the district court of Mc-Lennan county and was not mentioned in any way by any one to me while I was attorney in said suit.

"That the employment referred to by Mr. Johnson in no way, directly or indirectly, had anything to do with the penalty suit, which had, in fact, at the time of my employment been finally disposed of in the district court of McLennan county, neither was any service to be rendered under said employment in any case then pending against any of the officers or agents of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, in the district court of McLennan county, but said employment was as Mr. Johnson states, for legitimate, legal service to be rendered by me for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company in Texas, the naure of which I am willing to disclose at any time when necessary and "I will also state in this connection that the fee paid me was not $1,500. "Hon. R. L. Henry, who was at that ime nominally my law partner, knew nothing about said employment at the time it was entered into, and did not in any way, either directly or remotely. receive any part of the fee paid me by Mr. Johnson and did not, as stated by Mr. Johnson, render any services for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, or any one connected with it, either under said employment or otherwise. "Referring to the publication by the attorney general of the copy of a purported telegram from H. C. Pierce to

A. M. Finley from Lake Nebagamon of date of June 12, as published in the various papers under date of Dec. 8 inst., I have to say that I never applied to J. W. Bailey for a loan of $1,-500 at that time nor at any other time, nor for any other sum, nor did I ever apply to H. C. Pierce, J. D. Johnson or the Waters-Pierce Oil Company for a loan of that sum or any other sum, nor did I ever receive a loan from any of said parties or their representatives for said sum or any other sum. I never heard of such transaction until it was published in the press of the state and in so far as the matter relates to me, it is absolutely false. "The voucher for $1,500 dated June 15, 1900, a copy of which is published by Attorney General Davidson, is a matter with which I never had any connection and never heard of the transaction it represents until it was published in the newspapers. I never received one cent of the money represented by said voucher from any one. Immediately upon seeing its publication I denounced it as being absolutely false in every particular, both as to Henry & Stribling, R. L. Henry and myself and here and now reiterate that statement. I stand ready at any time to go upon the witness stand and testify to all I have here said or to say to any other pertinent matter. Being only a private citizen with no ambition to reap a political advantage over any one by reason of the controversy now going on, I regret that I have felt the necessity to say anything pertaining to the matters under discussion and hope that what I have said above will be sufficient so far as I am concerned for all those who desire to know the truth. To all those, if any who have other motives, I have no statement to make

PROBE LUMBER TRUST

"O. L. STRIBLING."

Asks Investigation by Bureau of Commerce and Labor

Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.-Investigation of the lumber trust, which is propassed by Senator Kittredge of South Dakota in a resolution presented to the senate, promising to unmask the most gigantic combination and monopoly that has yet been probed by the federal government. Even the Standard Oil monopoly and the immense combination headed by the United States Steel corporation will be found, in all probability, eclipsed by the tremenlous combination of capital alleged to have its grip upon the great bulk of lumber used in every city, town, village, namlet and rural district in the Senator Kittredge's resolution directs the secretary of commerce and labor to investigate and report to congress or to the President, if the congress is not in session, as to the lumber trade or business of the United States, with a full inquiry into the causes of present high prices of lumber and particularly whether a combination, conspiracy or trust agreement exists which operates unlawfully to restrain the lumber trade. It is expected the senate will order the inquiry and that the bureau of corporations will begin probing into the facts at an early date.

Stole Wagon and Cotton special to The Telegram.

TEXARKANA, Texas, Dec. 8.-The nost audacious piece of thievery that has been perpetrated in this section in a long time occurred out just beyond College Hill at the point where the T. S. and N. railway crosses the Linn Ferry road, Friday night. The thief is said to have been a negro named Dorsey, whose home is near Genoa. He went upon the premises of Mr. Elisha Barber and appropriated a horse, harness and wagon, and then stole a bale of cotton from the yard loaded it on the wagon and lit out. Yesterday when the theft was disovered the officers were notified and onstable Fleet McGee and Charlie Strange went in pursuit of the negro. They took the trail and followed it south to Boyd where they overtook Mr. Nigger and the stolen property. The officers emptied their six-shooters at him, the negro, when he saw the officers, left his stolen booty and took to the woods with the speed of a wild deer. The shots missed him it is supposed, as they failed to stop him. For a piece of downright nerve this is said to hold the record over any thieving proposition that has been pulled off in the vicinity of Texarkana since a party stole a red hot stove near the water works some sixteen years ago.

Died from Fear Special to The Telcyram. CHANNING, Texas. Dec. 8.-The community was shocked yesterday to learn of the death of Mrs. Robert Harold. The primary cause of he death was fear and excitement. Her husband was expected home from the south on Saturday. Mrs. Harold hearing of the passenger wreck near Tascosa, was seized with terror lest Mr. Harold was either injured or killed This idea so preyed on her mind that she took a trip to the scene of the accident, but failing to find any trace her husband, returned home and in few hours breathed her last. Mr. Harold was in the meantime in Amarillo and reached home a few hours after his wife's death. The occurrence was indeed a sad one and the sympathy of the town is with the bereaved ones. The body was taken to the old home in Arkansas for inter-

Negroes Were Whipped Special to The Telegram.

COOLIDGE, Texas, Dec. 8.-Last Saturday night as three or four young girls were going from the residence of Mr. Bunk Anderson to a nearby neighbor's, they were attacked by three vicious negro boys, aged from 14 to 16 rears, and one of Mr. Henderson's daughters, about 15 years old, was struck on the head by a large stone, cutting a gash two or three inches long and knocking her senseless. The other children, of course, reported the matter to Mr. Henderson, who went to the negroes' house and demanded that their father whip them. This the old reprobate refused to do, but sent word to the other niggers to come to his assistance. Mr. Henderson sent for his son and then went and stood guard while the neighbors were being notified, and whenever a negro buck put in an appearance to assist the "colored ge'man," Mr. Henderson sent him off in a manner that caused him to stay. It was not long before several white men were present with shotguns and the alleged daddy of the young devils was given the choice of ither whipping the young apes until the crowd was satisfied or taking the sequences. He concluded to use the halter strap furnished him, and calling them out of the house one at a time he satisfied the crowd.

Bitten by Pole Cat Epecial to The Telegram LOCKHART, Texas, Dec. 8 .- Yesterday the 6-year-old son of Mr. Mosely was bitten by what is supposed to have been a mad pole cat, while at his home at Joliet, eight miles south of here. A litter of pupples was under the barn and hearing the pups making a racket, he went to find out the cause. He placed his hand under the house where the dogs were, when a large pole cat caught an inch of his thumb in its mouth, and lacerated it

Strength Comes

Not From What You Eat, But From What You Digest

Most people eat most foods without discrimination-it matters little what. Few stop to think what that food does for them. This is the first turn on the road to dyspepsia. Reckless disregard of the proper choice of foods, rapid eating and improper mastication, are the unquestioned causes of all stomach disorders from the slight ache to the malignant cancer. There is nothing more revolting than dyspeptic stomach-a very vat for putrefaction, sending forth its poison throughout the entire system, depressing the brain, befouling the breath, souring the taste, deadening the muscles, incapacitating the liver and kidneys for their work, debilitating the heart, choking the lungs and clogging the bowels.

All of these disagreeable and dangerous conditions are due to the improper digestion of food and the consequent assimilation of poison. What else can be expected? If the food lies in the stomach, if the system is constipated, fermentation is the natural outcome. It shows itself in sour watery risings, belchings, heartburn and painful

There is only one way to relieve this condition. If the stomach refuses to digest your food, put something into it that will. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are nothing but digestives. They are not a medicine. They work when the stomach will not. Each tablet contains enough pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other digestive elements to reduce 3,000 grains veston, the railroad commission today of ordinary food to the proper consistenty for assimilation into the

Had Narrow Escape Special to The Telegram.

UVALDE, Texas, Dec. 8.-L.

Pounds of the Mitchell ranch had narrow escape for his life yesterday morning, and as fortunately as the accident terminated, he has lain for several days suffering great pain in a room over the Uvalde drug store. Intending to come to town to get Mr. Mitchell, who was expected on the train, he went out about 4 o'clock to get his team, which he had tied together with a rope. In hitching up he slipped the noose from the head of one of the horses and dropped the rope to the ground. In putting the harness on the horses he accidentally stepped into the noose and at that instant the horses became frightened and ran away, dragging Mr. Pounds to the ground. He said it appeared to be case of certain death, as he could e no way of stopping the frightened norses and the pounding and bruising he endured was something awful. In me way the noose on the horse's neck tightened, choking it down, and Mr. Pounds was enabled to reach his feet and disengage them. Suffering great pain, he managed to get the orses back to the wagon and hitched them up several hours after the first attempt. He then made the trip of ome thirty miles to Uvalde, in spite of his condition, and thus evidenced his true Texas grit and endurance.

Caught in Sausage Mill

Special to The Telegram. BROWNWOOD, Texas, Dec. 8. Quite a serious accident happened to Andrew Ward this morning while he was grinding sausage at Groom's market. Ward killed hogs yesterday at nome and brought the sausage meat down to the market to grind it on the power mill and while doing so he beame a little bit careless and let his nger get in the mill, with the result hat one finger was ground off to the first joint. Ward managed to get his and out and stopped the mill, but he oon became unconscious and did not egain consciousness until he had been carried to a physician's office and the wounds dressed.

Died From Fire

Special to The Telegram. CLEBURNE, Texas, Dec. 8.-Miss Rule Linton, the 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. A. Linton, a widow and an adventist, residing at Keene, died at her home on Wednesday morning at 11:15 o'clock. The death of Miss Linton was a sad one. Her death was due to the fact that she swallowed the flames while her clothing was on fire. She was about the stove when She was badly frightened and ran. This made it impossible to extinguish the flames and she drew the latter into her lungs and died after suffering great pain. Her chin and lips were raw from the effects of the blaze. The accident took place last Friday and it has been hoped that she would recover, but human efforts were of no avail. Death came to relieve her sufferings at the hour named.

Charged by Steers Special to The Telegram. CLEBURNE, Texas. Dec. 8.-Mr. G. . Brown of the opera house and Mr. Jesse Human went to the Kennard anch west of the city on a duck hunt, There are several lakes on the ranch The bosom of the lakes have been covcred with ducks. Recently over a thousand steers have been placed on the ranch to be fed. Friday the two gentlemen named underwent a new experience. After shooting a string of ducks they were walking from one lake to another. Imagine their chagrin e observe 500 steers charging them. There was no tree to climb. There was but one thing to do and that was run. They ran and Mr. Brown says Mr. Human made a record of 10 flat. Both men cleared a barbed wire fence without touching it. Seeing a cowman, the Cleburnites wanted to know what those wild steers meant by charging them. The cowman replied: "Oh, they were hungry, and thought you fellows were coming to feed them." These steers were recenty shipped to the ranch from west Texas, and many of them never saw a man on foot. These same steers will never see these two Cleburnites again.

ERECT SIX BUILDINGS

Work on First Grant Will Begin in a Year

Special to The Telegram. CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 8.-Plans for the erection of six fine buildings to be completed as the funds accrue within the next ten or fifteen years, were mapped out today by the diocesan building committee of the Catholic church. On a ten-acre tract of land, north of Norwood, a suburb of Cincinnati, it is proposed to erect a fine Cathedral costing probably $1 .-250,000, a seminary building costing about $175,000, a cathedral home for the archbishop costing $50,000, a parsh priest's house, school and teacher's and work will be begun within a year.

She Will Work in a Ten-Cent Store in Atlanta

Special to The Telegram. ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.-Miss Idele Beard will not have to go back home to Augusta to the step-mother she complained about Friday. She will remain in Atlanta with Miss Anna Lou Adams, with whom she left Augusta, and who claimed to be her sister. Both young ladies began work this morning at a ten-cent store and they seemed glad to have the chance. They are still quartered at the Union hotel on Mitchell street, under the care of Proprietor Hughen's wife. Miss Beard, the younger of the girls, has received word that she need not go back home if she desires to remain in Atlanta and she says she wants to remain here.

The Christmas Dinner

In spite of the fact that the word dyspepsia means literally bad cook, it will not be fair for many to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Christmas Dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea. It may not be fair for any to do thatlet us hope so for the sake of the cook. The disease dyspepsia indicates a bad stomach, that is, a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook, and for a weak stomach there is nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla, It gives the stomach vigor and tone, cures dyspepsia, creates appetite and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

In a few days more you may begin to feel your appetite for a hearty dinner returning.

Mayfield Says Bailey Has Served People Well Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 8 .- Railroad Commissioner Mayfield tonight gave out an interview in which he strongly favors Senator Bailey. Mr. Mayfield points out the service Bailey has done to the people of Texas, and his record as a champion of the rights of the people. He then goes on to say:

"If in all his years of public service Mr. Bailey had done nothing else for his country, this is sufficient, in my judgment, to endear him everlastingly to his peaple. With such a record it is impossible for me to conceive of him as a patron of trusts and a tool of corporate greed. I don't care if he did borrow money from Mr. Pierce. He paid it back, so he says. It is not a crime to borrow money in this coun-

Plans for Occupying Building Now Completed

WEEK OF WELCOMING

Series of Receptions Arranged for Different Classes of Patrons-Lunch Room to Be Feature

The date for the opening of the Y. M. C. A. building has been set by the directors for Dec. 26. The first reception will be to members, contributors and business men and will be followed by a full week of open house during which time it is hoped by the directors of the association that every person in the city will visit and inspect the building. The receptions during this week will be informal, but there will be at each one some special gymnasium work and other features of

In the forenoons of the holiday week will be given receptions to the boys from the ward schools, two wards each morning. One afternoon the ladies' clubs will be entertained and another day will be given to ladies in general. The students of the University, Polytechnic, Medical school, high school and the three business colleges will have one afternoon. One night will be given to pastors churches and young people's societies, another to clerks, office men and railroad men, another to members of all secret societies and another to North Fort Worth and other suburbs. The New Year's reception will be a general one.

The first game of indoor baseball ever played in Fort Worth will be played during the week. Match games will be conducted in the bowling alleys at different times. On Sunday evening, Dec. 30, at 4 p. m. the first men's gospel meeting will be held, at which time a stereopticon will be used. A nmittee of twenty-five young men will be present at each night's recepion to receive visitors.

On Jan. 2 the regular work of the association will begin. The lunch room will be fitted up during the week of receptions, but will not be opened for use until Jan. 2. The lunch room feature is put in the building as an ade ditional attraction and will be conducted by the association. It will be opened on a new plan for Fort Worth, The food will be placed on the counter and each person entering takes what uits him and eats it sitting at tables. There will be no waiters, but a supply of food will be kept on the counter and in this way there will be no waiting to be served. This style of lunch room is very popular in the cities. The lockers for the gymnasium arived Saturday and are being installed in as rapid an order as possible so that they will be ready in plenty of time. The lights for the gymnasium will be put up as soon as the painters, who are at work now finish, and then the building will be ready for the formal opening, the furniture having been for he most part purchased in this city and will be ready when needed.

It was suggested to her that probably he had not confessed. "Yes, but the news that he did was just what we expected from the in-formation we had received. I am so glad he has." Her eyes were wet with crying, but she smiled for the first time since the trial of her son began at Herkimer. Special to The Telegrum. HERKIMER, N. Y., Dec. 8 .- Chester Gillette has confessed that he murdered Grace Brown on Big Moose lake. To his counsel he admitted: "Yes; I killed Grace Brown. "She stood up and came from one end of the boat toward me and was crying and said she was discouraged and to end it all. "I took my tennis racquet from the straps of my dress suit case and struck her twice. "She fell full length backward, her head striking the seat. Then I dumped her overboard." When Gillette on the witness stand told his story of how his sweetheart had jumped into Moose lake and committed suicide, at least six persons in the courtroom knew he was lying.

These were Gillette's two lawyers, the prosecuting attorney and Sheriff Richard and Turnkey Evans. During the cross-examination of Gillette District Attorney Ward said to

"Did you not confess night before last that you struck Grace Brown when she came up beside the boat?" Gillette made a denial. Later in the dramatic events of the trial the purport of this question was forgotten. The district attorney, however, knew at the time that Gillette had confessed and he had witnesses to prove it. He feared however, to put the confession in evidence, as it had been made to ack, inner guard: J. G. Mabin, outer the prisoner's lawyers and might cause the granting of a new trial. Gillette had told former Senator Albert M. Mills, his junior counsel, how he had slain Grace Brown. His statements were overheard by Sheriff Richards and Turnkey Evans, who at once informed the district attorney.

> Tells Lawyer the Truth Lawyer Mills had been wrestling with the problem of whether he should permit Gillette to go on the witness stand and tell his story. He finally decided Gillette's story could not make his case any worse and went to Gillette's cell to have him again go over the details of his story of the girl's

> Gillette went over the events of the fateful day as he had related them before, until he came to the point where he had said the girl leaped out of the boat to drown herself. Then, in a deliberate manner, he told that as the girt rose in the water beside the boat he struck her a terrible blow over the head and the girl sank to her death. "You little wretch," cried the horrified lawyer, "why didn't you tell me this before?" Gillette was silent and the angry lawyer left the cell. The next day when the trial was resumed it was observed there was a coolness between Gillette and his lawyers. Mills and Charles D. Thomas, his other lawyer, did not sit near him, and until the end of the trial they seldom spoke to him.

> Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 8.—Death threats have been received by Clifford Hartridge, chief counsel for Harry Kendall Thaw, accused of the murder of Stanford White, the noted architect. These threats are directed both against Thaw, in the event of his acquittal, and against Hartridge.

> When Harry Thaw was apprised of the death threats received by his attorney, while in a consultation within the Tombs prison today, he immediately desired Hartridge to place the matter in the hands of the police. It is known, however, that Mr. Hartridge informed Thaw that he was not at all worried by the letters; that he considered them from cranks and that he was more afraid of the persons who said nothing and acted without preliminary warning.

The latest death warning received by Mr. Hartridge came today. It read as follows: "Mr. Hartridge, Mr. Thaw's Attorney-Be very careful about how you attempt to conduct this Thaw case. You are in danger of death, so do not attempt to blacken the memory of any dead man. We will not stand for anything like that. Be careful of your future actions. We are following every move and we will know when the time comes to act. AN AVENGER." When Mr. Hartridge was seen today regarding the death threats he laughed and said: "I place no account upoa these death threat letters, sooth-sayers, mind-readers and fakers of every de-scription have visited my offices with

PLAN TO SEIZE ALL CHICAGO SUBWAYS

Magnate

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 8.—Details of E. H. Harriman's gigantic scheme to seize control of Chicago's electric power facilities and to use the tunnels that now undermine Chicago as railway subways were disclosed officially today. The railroad magnate's plan is Bridge Company's plant yesterday, and alleged to be: To consolidate the Chicago-Edison Company with the Commonwealth Electric Company. To merge these with the Automatic Telephone Company and Tunnel Company. To scoop in the Chicago Gas, Light and Coke Company and Ogden Gas Com-

Conversion of the Illinois Tunnel Company property into a railway passenger subway by electrical engines is one of the ultimate aims of the great consolidation.

That such a scheme is actually being hatched out by eastern capital engineered by E. H. Harriman and financed by John D. Rockefeller and the Standard Oil Company was the substance of a report made to the city council committee on gas, oil and electrie light today by Corporation Counsel James Hamilton Lewis. Extracts from the letter follow:

"I went to New York to gain direct information from the lips of those who could speak authoritatively on the in tended merger of the electric lighting companies in Chicago. I am not permitted to reveal publicly the source of my information, but I am permitted to reveal the names of any member of the committee who might desire such for the purpose of knowing what source of further information might be sought. It is understood in New York that the Commonwealth Electric Company is to pass into the hands of the Edison Company by the purchase of the stock, either by that company direct or by an intermediate agency."

MANY INJURED IN CHICAGO FIRE

Loss Is Estimated at Seventyfive Thousand Dollars

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 8.—Twenty men and a number of women were injured this afternoon in a big south side fire which attacked the plant of John Mangus & Co. The Magnus building was practically gutted, the loss being estimated at $75,000. It spread thru the four stories of the structure so rapidly that the 100 or more of the employes within it had difficulty in escaping. The women were thrown into and stairways. Many were thrown down and trampled upon. The building was filled with dense smoke within a very short time, lessening the chances of escape for the occupants. As soon as the fire chiefs reached

a wild panic, fleeing down fire escapes

the scene they saw the necessity of quick and decisive action. A special call for ten engines was sent in. Many firemen and a score of policemen who were immediately dispatched to the scene rescued women and injured men. carrying them to the street. Between fifteen and twenty patrol wagons and ambulances were waiting for these persons. They were driven away to near-by drug stores and doctor's offices. Both buildings are surrounded by other large mercantile and manufacturing companies and for a time it appeared that the entire district was threatened by a big conflagration.

The war department in its efforts to find a flying machine, may be accused of paying too much attention to the Wright brothers and not enough to Walter Wellman.

Interview of Judge Terrell at Austin

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 8.-Judge A. W. Terrell, former representative of Travis county, the author of the election law, has come out in an interview against Bailey. The following is the full text of the interview: "I said months ago that I would never be a candidate for office, but have never renounced my right to express myself as a citizen of all things that concern the interests of my state. In the light of recent events the election of Joseph Bailey to the United States senate would in my judgment be wrong, for it would show that our legislature has slight regard for civic

"The legislators are the constituents of the American senator, made so by the constitution. They and the people must elect our United States senators until the federal constitution is changed. We, indeed, permit people to express their preference on their nallots with such lights as are then before them, but the final responsibility is on the legislature and they cannot shirk it by hiding behind primary expressions or convention resolutions. "There must be some limit to the power of machine politics or we will soon find state conventions usurping despotic powers in defiance of laws and constitution.

Has Exposed Facts

"The attorney general of Texas has exposed facts based on entries in the books of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company that were not known either to the people or to the Democratic state convention. Those entries show that the relation of client and attorney existed between Mr. Bailey and the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, tho Mr. Bal-ley has denied it. No man but an fdiot or a blind political peon can believe that those entries in the books of that company made six years ago were made in anticipation of present conditions. Nor can any one believe that the attorney general would risk his reputation by using forged papers.

"The Hon. M. M. Crane, over six years ago, when he was acting as attorney general of Texas, exposed the trust tyranny of that Waters-Pierce Oil Company. He convicted it as a felon which had violated the antitrust laws of this state. Mr. Bailey was instrumental in securing a new charter for that company. No man has ever questioned either the integrity or the ability of M. M. Crane, and poetic justice, should in my opinion, send Mr. Crane to a seat in the United States senate now occupied by Mr. Bailey. Texas has an abundance of senatorial timber and we should unite in Mr. Crane, Yancey Lewis or some other good man. If further investigation is be needed let it be made by the legislature, but let them underst advance that the people will not tolerate the use of a white wash brush."

JAPS PLEASED WITH MESSAGE

Consul at San Francisco Discusses Question

Special to The Telegram. SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.-In an interview published in the Call bearing on the recommendations in his message by President Roosevelt on Japanese naturalization and segregation of their children in schools. General K. Uyeno, the consul for Japan here,

"Sentiment is practically universal among the 10,000 Japanese in San Francisco that the recommendations made by the President constitute the most rational solution of American-Japanese problems yet attempted. The Japanese are not only pleased over the message, but they regard it as one of the most noteworthy documents on international questions that has been ssued from the white house. "There is no question but that the bonds between Japan and the United States would be considerably strengthened by conferring the privilege of franchise on the Japanese in California. There are some fifty odd thousand Japanese in the state and while I am not in a position to say how many of these would take advantage of naturalization privileges I do think that the number would be comparatively large. I think this would be especially so in the case of the Japanese

San Francisco. "Many Japanese have family and property interests here and they would naturally regard San Francisco as their permanent home once they believed that they had the same privileges as other aliens,

"Concerning the school segregation s lot is being written and talked about it that is due to misconception of the facts in the case. I think that the entire matter will be solved satisfactorily and that there is no occasion for believing otherwise. The Japanese are not striving for anything unreasonable and are quite willing to let the facts in the dispute guide whatever decision is to be ultimately rendered."

unanimous vote of thanks for the splendid showing the division has made in registering members. Registration has become a strict rule with the division now, numbering 5,924 members, the year's increase being 749. Dixie Land was adopted as the official organ of the Texas division. Various resolutions were adopted, among these one pleating the influence of the Daughters in securing the removal of the book, "The Man Without a Country," from libraries. Other resolutions were adopted expressing sympathy for Mrs. Vincent in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Carey W. Styles; thanking Mrs. Currie of Dallas, members on legislative committee, and others for services in behalf of the Woman's Home; against soliciting funds at inopportune times, particularly at political conventions composed exclusively of men. Upon invitation of Mrs. Wilson Austin, president of Albert Sidney Johnston chapter, and Mayor Shelley of that city. Austin was unanimously chosen as the place for the next annual meeting. The election of officers resulted as follows: Mrs. Joseph B. Dibrell of Seguin, reelected president; Mrs. G. W. Sholars of Orange, first vice president; Mrs.

RAISE IN PRICES AT NEW ORLEANS

Increase Has Not Marred Attendance-Horse Gossip

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 8.-Up to Saturday last a number of people were inclined to doubt the wisdom of the step taken by the Crescent City Jockey Club when it raised the admission fee to the fair grounds from $1 to $1.50. Foremost among these were the bookmakers who pay $100 each for the privilege of laying the odds, besides subscribing daily the amount of the sixth race on the card,

The New Orleans public is one which is pretty well educated in racing affairs, due in a great measure to the prominence accorded to racing in their city during the past two seasons thru the turf war between the rival clubs. They wanted to get, something of a line on the "ponies" before they opened their purse strings, and as the horses har run very well to form from the opening day they were encouraged to speculate. The attendance was good both in number and class, and the raise in price of the entrance fee has come to stay. At a meeting of the City Park Jockey Club's directors on Saturday night it was decided to follow the lead of the older club and make the admission $1.50 for men and $1.00 for women to their meeting, which begins on Monday, Dec. 10.

Plums for This Stable

Racing to date has served to show the strength of Burlew & O'Neill's stable, which includes such well known performers as Belmere, Juggler, Gild, Fantastic, Rebo and others. He has annexed the two principal stakes run up to date, the Inaugural and the Thanksgiving handicap, the former with Belmere and the latter with the aid of Juggler, the brown son of Hamburg, which Burlew acquired for a mere song, some $700 or $800, from Harry Payne Whitney. Juggler is an unsound horse and won the Thanksgiving handicap on his class, as it is practically impossible to get him to Belmere, more or less of a cripple came out of the Thanksgiving handicap very badly, pulling up dead lame and if Nicol had not humanely pulled him out of the race, when he found the horse weakening, it is probable that that would have been the end of Belmere's racing career.

With Gild, who has turned out a remarkably good investment for the partnership, Burlew & O'Neil have won three races, all of them very easily. Sir Toddington, another two-year-old has, however, failed them twice. Glamor Star of Meet

Of the other eastern stables, A. C. McCafferty has won three straight races with Glamor, a Belmont bred filly, by Hastings-Glory, which last summer was an occupant of "Jack" Joyner's stable at Sheepshead Bay. The soft nature of the fair grounds track which this year has been heavily top dressed with sand, has just suited Glamor, who, with her quick striding, collected way of going, is at home on a heavy track. It was a very pretty race between Glamor and the fast western filly Colloquy on Saturday last, in the Crescent City Stakes, but before the end of the five and a half furlongs the Hastings filly had clearly asserted her superiority. Glamor looks bigger and stouter than she did during the summer and is likely to be very useful to McCafferty, who is fatherin-law to Frank O'Neill

W. H. Snyder, who in addition to his own lot, has two belonging to T. Hitchcock Jr. in his barn, has not made much of a showing so far. Snyder has Southern Cross, Palloday and his others all looking in good shape, and nearly ready to go to the races. Southern Cross, a high class sprinter, is working in great style and is likely to take the measure of anything which will race in New Orleans this winter. George B. Hill, whose best is the two-year-old filly Grand Duchess, arrived at the fair grounds on Saturday last and Al Weston, in charge of the Clyde string, which includes the twoyear-old Tudor and Landsman, got in the same day. James McCormick who was very successful last winter, at the City Park, has his horses stabled there again this year, but up to date has sent nothing to the races. Not arriving here in too good shape, some of them will probably be seen out at the City Park meeting next week. Tucker Has Strong String

Robert Tucker, well known in connection with the late Captain S. S. Brown's horses, has brought over several from City Park to the fair grounds, and has won one race with Consideration.

Hughie McCarren and Pat Dunne, the latter a nephew of Ed Corrigan's both very well known western horsemen, have brought their horses over from City Park and both have scored Dunne has a few yearlings which will race next month, and a reliable report has it that one, a brown one by Artillery, has shown his owner a fast workout, one-eighth in eleven seconds.

Corrigan Stable is Big Ed Corrigan has a big string at City Park, to which track his racing will be strictly confined. Alma Dufour, whose racing qualities were leased from Corrigan for a season by D. H. Barnes, who raced the Artillery mare on eastern tracks, is believed to be in foal. The accommodation for horses at City Park is taxed to the utmost of its capacity, the latest lot to arrive being the stable of William Gerst, the Nashville brewer, whose horses. Lady Savoy and others, were handled last summer in the east by William McDaniel.

In the first seven days of racing Jockey J. Hennessy had won ten races, three more than his nearest competitor, "Dave' Nicol. The majority of Hennessy's wins were on Burlew & O'Neill's horses.

Nicol is beginning to experience the usual trouble of jockeys. He finds a difficulty in keeping down to the weight at which a rider can get regular employment in the west with the light scale of weights in vogue. He can still, however, do 109 pounds, and his services are much in request. Garner came here to ride for James Mc Cormick, who has not yet started anything.

Garner won the Crescent City Stakes on Glamor last Saturday a week. Jockey from Bushes Makes Good A. Martin, a boy who has ridden with considerable success in Canada and Texas, was close on Garner's purchased 24,000 acres of land in the heels with four wins. Martin was responsible for the suspension during the latter part of the meeting of Jockey Diggins. Resenting some raillery on the part of Diggins and other boys that he was a rider from "the bushes," Martin put Diggins nearly retaliated by beating Martin in the jockeys' room. C. Morris, who rides for James Arthur, who has a big string at City Park, has won three races, and "Puddin" McDaniel, Trueman and others been on winners. The plaint of R. F. Carmen sent from Los Angeles | Hesse Envelope Co., Dallas.

over the rail in a race, and Diggins

thru Colonel Hamilton, presiding judge at Ascot Park, against the Crescent City Jockey Club allowing McDaniel to ride on the ground that the jockey had broken an engagement to ride for him, is not likely to receive much attention. Both McDaniel and his father assert that it was made conditional on the lockey's going to conditional on the jockey's going to Los Angeles.

- ACHT IS THE THE STATE OF THE

The work of A. B. Dade improved as that starter went along. Mr. Dade pleads, very justifiably, in extenuation of some bad starts effected, the impossibility of dispatching fields of fifteen horses from the six-furlong pole, where the width of the track is simply inadequate to allow of that number of horses being lined up. .In a circumscribed space as that it is absolutely impossible for any one to start the big fields which in too many instances have been sent to the While on the subject of the track, too much credit cannot be given to Superintendent Myers for the improvement he has effected at the fair grounds. The track at the fair grounds was for years a heart-breaking subject with the management, but Myers has successfully overcome all the difficulties presented by the peculiar nature of the soil, generally known as "gumbo."

Improvement at City Park

At the City Park, where the meeting opens next Monday, the cleaners and renovators are hard at work. Francis Trevelyan and Mars Cassidy, who will act as presiding steward and starter, respectively, are expected here Sunday. The modern nature of the plant at City Park, and the fact that shares in the New Orleans Jockey Club are largely held locally, tends to make it the more popular of the two tracks.

The Initial Handicap for all ages at a mile, with $1,500 added, will be the feature on the opening day, Dec. 10. The next stake will be run on Dec. 15, for all ages at six furlongs, with $1,000 added; The Planters, at seven furlongs, for 2-year-olds, is se down for Dec. 19, and the Cypress handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward at one and one-eighth miles, with $1,-500 added, closes the meeting.

Elsinore apartments yesterday afternoon almost caused Arthur Span, her employer and sweetheart, to whom she was soon to be married, to be arrested on a charge of murder. It was only because Detective George Cole accompanied him to the place that he was not accused of the crime. Had he appeared two minutes earlier the life of the woman would have been saved When Span and Detective Cole reached the apartments and gained the second floor the woman was dead. A woman who saw Span at the rear door was heard to tell a neighbor that "a woman was shot in the Elsinore apartments a few minutes ago and I saw the man at the back door." She is said to have pointed out Span afterward. Captain Eagan declared today that if Dr. Span had gone to the apartments himself he would have taken big chances of being arrested for the woman's death. PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 8 .- An infuriated mob surged around the Homestead police station this afternoon, about 4 o'clock, threatening to lynch Machael Kurvoik, a foreigner, accused of attacking Edna Story, 17 years old, in her home, and slashing off her hair with a razor.

Kurvoik, who is apparently mentally deranged, cowered behind the policemen until the mob had been dispersed, when he was locked up. Miss Story, who is a pretty black-haired girl of 17, lives in Homestead.

She emerged from the parlor of her home just in time to meet a strange man in the hall. Without a word of explanation the man seized her by the throat and with one slash cut the greater part of her flowing hair from her nead. Releasing the screaming girl, the man escaped from the house. The cries of the girl drew a large crowd, among them Detective Bell. Bell caught Kurvoik a short distance from the house with the hair still in his

ATTRACTIONS FOR WHITE CITY

Manager Schwarz Plans for Next Summer

White City will be opened for the spring and summer season on Monday, April 1. The season will close

Extensive improvements are contemplated before the opening of the season, and work will begin at once. Manager Jake Schwarz has been in correspondence with the owners of many entirely new and novel attractions in eastern cities, and has succeeded in contracting for a number of them to be at White City thruout the entire season. Among the attractions already secured are the following: The "Old Mill," which is claimed to be one of the greatest scenic attractions now before the amusement world. its construction required the expenditure of $100,000, and is built only by one firm, who control the patent. It is provided with a circular water trough, in which a boat is propelled by electrical devices. The walls are painted with various old time plantation scenery, and with the aid of motion pictures, everything is made to appear very real. It is said to be a very fascinating attraction, and on account of the great cost of construction, are operated in only a few cities.

Another splendid feature is the "Trip to the Moon." This is perhaps one of the greatest, if not the greatest novelties of its class now being used as a park attraction. It is composed of a very tall tower, on the top of which may be seen a mammoth moon. On a mechanical device at the ground is mounted a large head of a dragon, with a long tongue protruding several feet from the mouth. On this tongue the passengers to the moon are mounted, when the tongue, passengers and all are slowly drawn into the head, the great jaws are closed with a snap and the passengers are ready for the ascension. The mechanical devices are started, the large head gets into motion, and the passengers feel all the sensation of a rapid ascent. For a very long while, when they seem to have gone many miles skyward, passing on the way many curious fowls of the air, and starting thru the clouds, all of which may be plainly seen thru the windows, they arrive at the moon. They are ushered into a spherical looking object. with linings of silver and in every respect a counterpart of a full moon, from which they may gaze in wonder at the earth below. Once more they are conducted back into the head of the dragon; and then to the outside, and it is hard to feel that they are really once more on terra firma, for they never feel the descent. The fact is, they have been in the same position all the time, and it is by the peculiar operation of the machine and painted scenes kept in motion that gives the sensation of going thru space. It is an attraction that never grows old. The jumping horse is a new attraction in the merry-go-round class. It is similar to the carry-us-all machines, except that it is much larger, and has four horses painted in natural and assorted colors, and mounted four abreast. It is finely carved, and is propelled by electricity. A Japanese tea garden, operated after a strictly Japanese custom, by Japanese. Tea and rice cakes will be served at all times by Japanese girls. The hike-the-bike. Ferris wheel, circular swing, miniature railway, figure s. toboggan slide and many others are now on the grounds, and are being put in thoro condition. The "double whirl" will be one of the feature attractions. It consists of six Ferris wheels and a merry-go-round, and requires an outlay of $5,500. This machine carries the passengers over and around at the same time, producing a very peculiar, yet delightful sen-The Miniature City will be seen thruout the season. This is also somehing new. It shows the city of San Francisco before the great earthquake. Everything seems natural as the city itself. Even the people may be seen walking upon the streets, the buzz of the street cars can be plainly heard and the clang of the engine bells on the locomotives are heard as plainly as if everything was real. Suddenly the earth begins to quake, the skyscraper buildings begin to twist and crumble, the people frantic with terror are running in all directions thru the streets, and many are buried under the falling debris. The black clouds of smoke begin to rise in various portions of the city, followed by the bursting forth of the angry flames as they leap high up in the air, and eating their way thru blocks of buildings. The firemen are seen battling with the flames, and all the horrors of that great disaster are plainly seen, as the one had actually observed it from a distant point. The attractions include a zoo, consisting of many small animals; an old fashioned country store, and many other smaller attractions. The lake will be brilliantly illuminated, with a cycle of electric light bulbs placed under the water. dancing boat will be built, and the lake will be provided with electric launches and row boats. Men will be put to work Feb.

planting trees, and several hundred will be planted. New walks will be put down and flowers planted, and the grounds made beautiful in every way. All employes will be in white duck uniforms. White City will be open Sunday afternoon and evening. Entrance to the grounds is free.

The more dressy of gowns and hats, so while a girl can costumes are made a little longer, but appropriately wear "young-looking"

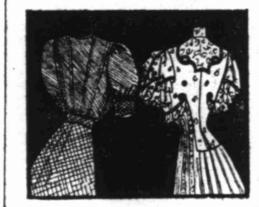

clothes, by all means let her do so. The best-dressed people this season are wearing severely simple coats and skirts for street wear, and although it must be admitted that if these suits are made by a good tailor, they are quite as expensive as a fancy suit would be, they are very much smarter and more youthful than a trimmed suit.

One of the leading New York tailors, fn planning an outfit for a debutante | who makes a specialty of young girls', or other suitfng cloth, the invisible plaids, the sweeping skirt is little seen for outof-door wear.

One of the best skirt models is a kilted style, the plaits being stitched in all around to just below the hips. This style skirt is the one usually seen with the model coat described, and is very graceful in effect, being very full about the lower part, while giving slender hip lines. These street frocks are made either of plain broadcloth or in cheviot serge much liked. Small hats and toques are this season than are the larger hats. Many of the most attractive street hats shown are of felt, tilted up sharply on the left side and trimmed with velvet and coque plumes. One of the illustrations shows a pretty toque which could be copied in almost any color, the model being trimmed at the left side with a rosette bow of ribbon, a folded strip of which was carried through slits in the feit, so that it showed across the front of the hat. The back of the hat was folded down to fit flat against the hair and at the left side was a soft shaded coque plume. It really takes some cleverness to contrive dainty and effective evening gowns which will be inexpensive, but excellent results can be obtained in these light colored frocks for a very small outlay. If a limited sum is to be spent on a young girl's outfit it is wiser not to "scrimp" when her cloth street suit is at question, but a large saving is possible in planning her house dresses and evening gowns.

These can be made for most occasions of quite inexpensive material, such as silk mulle, which can be bought at from 25 cents to 40 cents a yard; Japanese erepe, India or China silks, and sheer silk and wool, and silk and cotton mixtures. Accordion platting is very effective in such materials, and if the skirt is sun-plaited and waist and sleeves accordion plaited very little trimming is required, none at all being used on the skirt, the waist trimming consisting of a deep yoke of fine lace and lace sleeve

Silk muslins, India silks and Japanese crepe, which is heavier and less transparent than the all-silk variety, do not require a silk lining, in which case it is quite possible to get a very effective little gown at a very small cost.

great bargains can be found in laces and trimmings, and, as lace is used in almost every gown it is not a bad plan to pick up effective pieces as opportunity offers. For instance, the little net and silk gown illustrated was for the most part trimmed with insertion and deep flouncing bought at a sale.

Cream-colored net to match the lace was used for the skirt (which was made in princess effect), and inset with strips of insertion and flounced about the bottom by two gathered ruffles of the deep The bodice was made with the yoke and sleeves of lace, over which was worn a fetching little coat of brocade taffeta. This little coat was in a deep cream color, patterned with little Dresden bouquets in colorings of pink, pale blue and green. The design about the edge of the coat was carried out in half-inch wide stitched bands of pale blue satin, the tie in front being of the same. The street suit illustrated was intended for afternoon wear, and was of shadow-

plaid velveteen, in shades of dark and light blue, the coat and the bands on the skirt being of plain blue breadcloth of a rather light shade. The draped collar was of dark blue satin, with silk fringe across the ends, the buttons used on the skirt also being of the satin. The cuffs and rever were of the shadow plaid velvet, with a border of cloth braided with blue silk soutache. The skirt was circular, with inverted plaits

The fliustration shows a rather unusual little pocket workbag, which is small enough to be tucked into one's shopping bag or muff, if desired. At the top of the case two whalebones, which held the width of the ribbon taut, were slipped in to the hem, these bones serving to keep the little case tightly closed so that none of the small articles inside could slip out when not in use. The little case should be fitted with silver thimble, a tiny pair of scissors and a little needlecase filled with assorted needles. The needlecase should be made of a small piece of the ribbon with two or three pieces of flanuel, in which the needles are placed, inside. If the owner's monogram is embroider ed in the center of the case, the effect is improved, the model having the letters done in green slik to match the inside. BEATRICE CAREY.

OTHO HOUSTON PURCHASES FARM

Gets Thousand Acre Tract in Johnson County

Otho S. Houston on Saturday closed a deal with B. B. Sellars of Cleburne, Texas, for a one thousand-acre tract of land in Johnson county, Texas, south of Cleburne. This is known as the "Klondike Farm." and is considered to be one of the prettiest spots in the state of Texas and is called the "Paradise of Johnson County." This farm is connected by phone with Fort Worth, and it is but three hours' run from Fort Worth to the ranch by train and buggy. Its beauty is almost indescribable, it being situated on the Brazos river and having two large akes upon it supplied by artesian flowing wells of sulphur water, upon which are two pleasure boats and a naptha launch carrying six passengers. The lakes are stocked with fish, and the river can be seen from the ranch house for a distance of twelve miles. The owner has done a good deal of landscape gardening upon the place and has several fountains in front of the lake with a pretty park surround-

The former owner had a one-half mile race track upon the property with a large training barn and about 400 acres of Brazos bottom land in cultivation. The improvements are said to have cost about $40,000. Mr. Houston paid $20,000 for the one thousand acres, and intends to use it for his country home during the hot months of summer. He will further beautify the grounds by encircling the park with wire netting and place inside of it a number of deer, a couple of ostriches and put swan and pelican

SWEAR TO FALSE AGE

Clerk Made One Young Man Get Written Consent of Parents and Then Swear Consent Was Genuine

County Clerk John A. Kee is keeping a close watch on the issuance of marriage licenses from his office, and recent happenings not only justify but demand this close supervision. Young people who have not arrived at the age of discretion and whom the law says cannot marry without the consent of their parents are continually applying for marriage license, and in some instances their eagerness to get married leads them into making statements under oath that are not true and consequently result in trouble.

There is now a warrant out for the arrest of a young man from Eagan, Texas, charging him with false swearing in order to get a marriage license for himself and a girl under the legal age. The complaint was filed by the girls' father but he was unable to prevent the marriage.

A few days ago a very young looking couple from Dublin applied for a marriage license, making the usual sworn statement in order to get it, but after was delivered the clerk being suspictous, communicated with Dublin parties, the result being that the license was taken from the youngsters before they could make use of it. In a few hours the girl's father was at Fort Worth after the runaways and Sheriff To:n Wood succeded in catching the youngsters and took them to the saeriff's office, where an interview was held with the girl's father, who took her under his protecting arm and escorted her back to her mother.

Saturday afternoon a young man from Arlington applied for a marriage license for himself and a young ady of Arlington, and he was required to make oath to the girl's age. This he did, but not being satisfied that all was strafght, County Clerk Kee demanded that he go and get written permission from the girl's parents for the license to be issued. This he did, but when he presented it the clerk was so nervous on this marriage license business that he required the prosective benedict to make oath that the written permission was the genuine This the young fellow did, and after sweating like a field hand on account of the hard work he had getting his papers he pulled out for Arlington and will be married Sunday.

What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and

COSTS NOTHING TO TRY The mention of sulphur will recall

our mothers and grandmothers gave lasses every spring and fall. It was the universal spring fall "blood purifier," tonic and cureall, and, mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur. In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, ef-Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver and excretory organs and purifles and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material. Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike. Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin diseases as this remedy.

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Caldum Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation. Send your name and address today for a free trial package and see for F. A. Stuart Co., 57 Stuart Bldg.,

DELIVERY BOYS MAKING MONEY

Profit in Working for Uncle Sam Carrying "Specials"

One of the best jobs that a boy can have in this city is delivering special delivery letters for Uncle Sam. The cost of a special delivery letter is as every one knows 10 cents additional, and of this the government keeps only 2 cents and gives the rest to the boy who delivers the letter.

There is only one drawback to the position of delivering these letters, and that is that it keeps the boy out of school, as he has to work all day in order to hold the position. At present the number of special delivery letters a month in Fort Worth runs from 1,800 to 2,000 and even more. From these letters there is of course the sum of $150 to $175 a month divided among the boys carrying such letters. It is necessary that the boy doing this work to have either a pony or a bicycle, in order to hasten the work of deliverying the letters. There are usually three boys working here, altho at times five and six are employed. As soon as a boy reports from one trip he is loaded with whatever special delivery letters are in, whether there is a dozen or only one, and sent out. Then when the next one comes he goes right out again. The last delivery made is at 11 p. m., all special delivery letters arriving before that time being deliv-

Usual pay earned during the month runs from $35 to $50 a boy. A sum of the postoffice department for car fare whenever necessary, in bad weather, etc., but this is only given to the boy in order to reimburse him for amount actually spent for car fare.

CLERKS WILL BANQUET

Sam D. Triplett Appointed as Toast-

The first annual banquet of the clearing house and bank clerks of the city will be held on Friday, Dec. 29. It has been the custom with the clearing house to have a Christmas celebration every year, but this year the occasion will be a more pretentious one than usual. At the meeting held in the rooms of the First National Bank, on Saturday night, Sam D. Triplett, teller of the First National Bank, was appointed toastmaster for the banquet. Committee in charge of the banquet is composed of S. D. Triplett, First National Bank; Lee Shearer, State National Bank, and B. B. Getzendaner, Traders Nationa It is expected that almost every clerk employed in the banks of Fort Worth and North Fort Worth will be present at the banquet, as the idea has been taken hold of by every one interested with a great deal of enthusiasm.

LA SALLE CO. COTTON

Former Sheep Range Now Yielding Good Crop

To those familiar with conditions in Texas it seems a little strange to have any one talk of the crops of La Salle county and the vast deal of cotton shipped out and talk of cotton as, one of the paying crops of a county which a short time ago was regarded as being a better sheep range than anything And yet Hugh Burns of Taylor, who has a ranch down in La Salle, near Gilley on the International, and seventy-five miles south of San Antonio tells of the great success that the cotton planter has made of his crop this year, not as if it were a new thing, but one of those fixed facts that every one should know.

The cotton crop is not all gathered yet, but enough has been made and sold to establish, beyond doubt, that the crop of 1906 is a good one as to quality and quantity and has already paid the planter for his labors. Another thing that Mr. Burns said was that there had been no trouble from boll weevil or boll worm and in fact there was as a rule too much dry weather to cause even apprehension about the work of the boll worm, but that for some reason the boll weevil had never in the several years of successful cotton planting in that part of Texas caused any trouble. "It is not too much to say," said Mr. Burns yesterday, "that that part of Texas is becoming a farming country where it was formerly held in slight repute as a grazing land. The grass is in good condition; there is plenty of water and the November freeze did absolutely no harm out that way to cattle or grass."

Worth is growing so fast that the old building did not hold the "hello" girls. The public has been a bit impatient with telephone service, but I do not think anybody wants to criticise the local management. They are doing, no doubt, the best they can. But when I consider my own troubles for the past month, I wonder if I am very unreasonable. If the moving from the old telephone building to the new quarters was going to put the service out of commission for thirty days, I think we might have been given warning. When a city of magnificent distance is accustomed to depend on the telephone service, we might at least be warned when it is to be withdrawn. We still have Uncle Sam on free delivery of service. Charity in immeasurable

quantities wraps the local management

when the replies are made. Everybody knows that Central has lots of troubles. Everybody knows that Fort

A number of the employes of the telephone exchange have the advantage of the patrons. A customer who has tried for a half dozen times to get a desired connection may be told to "go to grass," when any delay has produced emphatic irritation. The customer does not know who the guilty employe is and so complaints cannot be backed up with exactness. I called at the office, after office hours, and edge of the world beyond my when inquiring where I could leave a request for my phone repairs was told that "it will be fixed when they get ready," but as the person who is so generous is not of the regular office force he may not be responsible.

I am sorry I am not a real big, important person, so that I can take this charter committee to one side and whisper that I think it would be a great move for the city to acquire and operate the telephone franchise. This is why I think Editor McEachin would get after me for it if he knew of it.

I have been talking to a good many housekeepers and I found every one of them satisfied with our water system. know I have reason for my faith in the present water management. One month I got an "excess notice" and closing prayer and benediction the orproceeded to protest both loud and long. I had not used any great amount, had no horse, nor other animals, did not sprinkle the yard, and there was no leakage. The man at the other end of the phone was positive but polite. refused to be convinced. In a few hours a man from the department was at my door. He spaded and dug half an hour or so and then found a break in the pipe underground, where the water had been pouring into the sewer undetected for days. I paid the excess and sent for the plumber, convinced and no longer indignant. From that day to this I have been a loyal supporter of our municipal water system. I was tickled greatly that the department would take so much trouble over a small consumer. I am not a voter either. (A man I know says tho, that I am a powerful good at circulating my grievances.) I am inclined to think if the city had charge of the telephone service we would at least stand a chance to find out why and what is the matter when the line gets out of commission.

Another thing worries me. From the way Fort Worth is growing five years should be a reasonable time for the exchange to need another new building. If it takes one month to set things right now, with sixty thousand folks, how long will it take when we have a population of 100,000?

SOCIAL EVENTS

A Brilliant Wedding

The First Baptist church has seldom been made more beautiful in nuptial celebration than for the marriage of Miss Maybelle Slaughter to Francis Eugene Lott, which took place Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The pews at the ends of the aisle down which the bride came were marked by staffs of white surmounted with bouquets of white chrysanthemums tied with bows of chiffon ribbon. The altar rail was filled in completely with masses of smilax with a bouquet of white flowers in the center. The choir rail showed the same background with inlaid festoons of white chrysanthemums. Rising from the choir rail was a tall pyramid of flowers tied with a true love knot of satin edged chiffon ribbon. The doorways leading into the Sunday school room had smilax draped upward to the balcony windows. Around the balcony were drapings of

Prof. Bauer at the organ gave a series of melodies before Mrs. George Rozelle sang "All for You" with tender feeling and beauty of voice. The ushers, C. D. Reimers and Paul Spining, R. E. L. Costan and Alf Luckett, Charles Fain and Raymond Reimers, advanced to where Rev. C. W. Daniels waited and formed a semi-circle as the organist played for the processional, the bridal march from Lohengrin. Following the ushers came the first maid, Miss Hallie B. Cook of Oklahoma City. Her frock was of pink crepe with lace inset to form a V at the girdle, fastening in front. The lace passed to the back and disappeared under the tiny tucks that fitted the

Reimers and Mrs. Paul Spining of Chickasha, brides of a few weks ago, preceded the flower girls, Miss Louie Slaughter and Miss Jessie Ross, whose accordion plaited pink frocks had wreaths of pink rosebuds for ornaments. Their baskets were filled with pink rose petals. Master Winfield Scott Jr., looking for all the world like a page for royalty, in black velvet Fauntleroy with wide lace collar, bore with dignity the satin cushion on which rested the wedding ring. As the attendants were grouped in front of the altar the picture presented was very beautiful. The artistic backgrounds of green foliage and white chrysanthemums set off with impressive emphasis the radiant cheerfulness of the bridesmaids's gowns of pink. To this brilliant setting for the happy moment came the bride with her father, J. B. Slaughter, and if those who had preceded her, had been admired, the admiration was many times deepened as the petite figure with graceful carriage and beautiful face appeared at the altar. The gown was of richest Duchesse satin princess, en traine, with deep flounce of Duchesse point. The tulle veil was fastened with orange blossoms and the bridal bouquet was of lilies of the valley. The bridegroom and Dr. Walton Hall of Kansas City met her at the altar. Dr. Daniels' were solemnly impressive and with the

At the Hotel Worth after the ceremony a reception was neld and a large number of friends called to offer their words of love and wishes for happiness. The bride is one of the dearest of girls, not only beautiful of face, winsome of manner, but is of a charm of womanliness that has won and held universal affection and admiration. Mr. Lott in his home in Kansas City is accounted one of the progressive young business men, esteemed and hon-

Christmas Shopping

THRISTMAS IS RAPIDLY APPROACHING—Only thirteen buying days remain, and seven of them will be days of such tremendous activity that our organization will be taxed to its utmost capacity. We take this opportunity to urge every one to consider this condition and make full use of the advantages the present week affords for satisfactory and comfortable Xmas shopping. If an important truth will bear repetition, why will not the same rule hold good with a helpful suggestion? So we again repeat-NOW is the time to buy your gifts, and from 8 to 10:30 in the morning are splendid hours for shopping. This store is filled with beautiful things suitable for gifts and suited to all purses. Selection is a pleasure.

LAND SUIT DECIDED

Land Boundaries in Channing Dis-

Decision was rendered Friday by Judge Edward R. Meek in the cases of The Capitol Freehold Land and Investment Company, Ltd., against Condy Burns and the Matador Land and Cattle Company against Condy Burns in favor of the plaintiff in both cases. These were cases of contested land boundaries near Channing, in Hartley county. A vacancy was discovered by the land commissioner there and was awarded by him to Condy Burns in both cases, whereupon the plaintiffs brought suit in the federal court here for the land. Judge Meek ruled in their favor, a jury having been waived. By the decision the Capitol Freehold Land and Investment Company secures 945 acres of land and the Matador Land and Cattle Company 933 acres.

The case of Sarah B. Corpany et al. o'clock. vs. Texas and Pacific Rallway pany was taken up by the federal court and a jury sworn Saturday morning. This is a suit instituted against the railroad company to recover damages for the death of husband and father of the plaintiffs in the Texas and Pacific wreck at Aledo on Nov. 11, 1905. Damages of $65,000 are asked.

ATHLETES MADE MANY RECORDS

1906 a Good Year for Americans-100-Yard Record

The 1906 season for field and track events is over. It has been an eventful one and many new records have been established. The biggest event of the year, of course, was the Olympic games at Athens, Greece, where the American representatives carried off all the oig events except the famous Marathon race, which went to the Canadian runner, Sherring.

In the west Dan Kelly has estabshed a record of 9 3-5 seconds in the 100-yard sprint, this being practically the only big record of the west this

FOLK WHO HAVE PHONES There Are Many Smiths and Johnsons

in the Directory If you wanted a Fort Worth man named Smith in a hurry and didn't know his initials, address or vocation in life, where would you turn to get him? The directory would be the first consideration but it would take you a week or so running down all the Smiths and even then using all the messenger boys in town. Next the telephone book could be consulted as a quicker means of reaching him. This might do, but to one unaccustomed to telephoning, the task might get irksome. In the directory of the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone Co. there are only sixty-nine phones accredited to Smiths and when Smyth, Schmidt and Schmitt are added to this the total run to seventy-five. The second most popular name the phone list is that of Williams, with thirty-six different phones to its credit, besides a number of Williamsons. Brown or Browne follows in third place with thirty-three. Other colors represented in the list are White 15, Green and Greene 7, Black 6 and Blue

Red, yellow, orange, etc., fail to qualify at all. Other popular names are as follows: Moore 30, Jones 28, Johnson and Johnston 27, Miller and Mueller 27, Anderson 21, Harris 20, Evans 19, Wilson 18, Thompson 17, Scott 16, Adams 15, Allen 15, Stewart and Stuart 15. There are nine phones credited to Mr. Day and the same number to Mr. Knight. For names beginning with Mc the total runs to 154.

MANY LICENSES ISSUED One Couple Married in Clerk's Office

Saturday There was a rush for marraige licenses at the county clerk's office Saturday afternoon, such as John A. Kee, the new county clerk, has not been thru since he has been in office. Nine sets of licenses were issued after 3

Worth and from all over the county, and some of them came ready to have matters fixed up on the spot. One couple, R. R. Keith and Miss Ella Allen, announced when their license was issued that they were ready to be married on the spot and Justice R. E. Bratton was called up and while Deputy Clerk Elliott was issuing another set of licenses to a North Fort Worth couple Mr. Keith and Miss Allen were made husband and wife.

The Most Economical Place in Fort Worth to Make Purchases is The Daylight Store

Unhampered by excessive expenses, we can and do give better values hour in and hour out, better values we say, than any house in Texas.

It is a notorious fact that from the gulf to the lakes Fort Worth sells dry goods and all department goods for a less price, value for value, than any city or town between lakes and gulf.

Merchants of Fort Worth have been compelled to economize expenses and selling close so long that it is second nature.

It is a matter of buying right and selling right.

People who do more or less shopping in any part of the United States admit all the time that Fort Worth is the most economical place.

A Larkin and Burns,

* The venture may be made that the strongest bill of the season will appear at the Majestic theater this week. It is overwhelmingly strong in great novelty acts and especially strong in comedy. Aside from the features of the Bedouth Arabs and Shields and Rogers, the acrobatic lasso throwers, every act on the bill is a comedy feature. The head-liner is one of the greatest acts in vaudeville, thrilling and intensely picturesque with the sentiment and romance of the far east. The unique exhibition of two ex-cowboys is the first of its kind ever introduced to the American stage.

Bedouin Arabs The advent of the Arabs has been sufficiently heralded by the Majestic management to have built up a high expectancy among its large patronage. The advance notices have not overestimated or overstated the merit and strength of this wonderful act, and the management is, therefore, perfectly confident that all expectations will be satisfied and even more by the actual presentation of the feature. The novelty of the Arab act lies in the fact that what they do has not been done heretofore in this country and that what they do is better and more sensational than any acrobatic work ever done in this country. These are the claims for the act. Details of the performance have been fully given in the press and all that remains for the spectator is to see for himself and enjoy something really new.

Shields and Rodgers

When the performance of Shields and Rogers is seen it will be the first of its kind any theatrical goer has ever beheld in this country on any stage. It is not a mere lasso throwing exhibition. It is just about one hundred per cent more than such an exhibition. Where the skilled cowboy reaches the climax of his fine prowess with the running noose, these former cowpunchers have taken a serious hold of the knack and elaborated it until what they accomplish with their dexterous fingers is a wonderful development of the "showing off" style of the American cowboy. The act is amplified by the remarkable acrobatics. which are made a part of the rope throwing.

Nellie Elting and Company

Miss Elting, who will be assisted by Harry Earle, in "Picking the Winner." is a comedienne of established reputation on the vaudeville stage. Most of her appearances have been confined to the big eastern cities, but this season she was induced to come westward and display her fine talents to new audiences. The vehicle which she has chosen is her success of this season. Mr. Earle is a very fine actor and together they manage to make a most enjoyable entertainment out of the clever story they offer.

Louis Dacre

Louie Dacre is the "Marie Dressler" of vaudeville. She is one of the few women who can really tell a story. Miss Dressler can do it and one or two others, but the crop of women story tellers is limited. Miss Dacre handles a story as tho to the manner born. She presents herself in a neat little turn with her "Candy Boy," a youth who assists in the delivery of some songs.

has fully acquitted himself as a co-Larkin and Burns median.

Larkin and Burns are eccentric comedians and dancers. Their comedy belongs to the low school, but is perfectly wholesome. It does not do to feed the amusement palate all the time on ultra refined laughs. They must have a chance to laugh at the absurd, at the clownishness of nature, and here is the opportunity.

Kinzo, the Great

The management of the Fort Worth Skating Rink is determined to afford its patrons the highest form of entertainment, and is sparing neither trouble nor expense to prove its determination.

That the public appreciates the enterprise of the management is clearly evidenced by the rapidly increasing patronage.

At the big rink, corner Third and Rusk streets, this week, the patrons will enjoy a novelty never before seen in this part of the state. Kinzo, the Great, will perform Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 10, 11 and 12, afternoon and evening.

Kinzo, the Great, is the renowned Japanese juggler, who does the most difficult juggling stunts while skating at a rapid pace. The press thruout the north and south has commented enthusiastically about the unique and entertaining performances of this little Jap, who never fails to completely thrill his audience. Manager Billy Laird wishes to state that the floor is in excellent condition, the building thoroly ventilated and that every courtesy, comfort and convenience shall be provided for patrons. Cox's celebrated band will furnish music, as usual every afternoon and evening. Skating is an ideal winter pastime, and the people of Fort Worth are proving their belief in this by their.

"The Land of Nod," a musical fantasy in a prologue and two acts, by Adams and Hough, with music by Joseph Howard, as presented under the management of the Will J. Block Amusement Company, will be the attraction at Greenwall's opera house Thursday, matinee and night, Dec. 13. "The Land of Nod" has scored one of the greatest successes of any musical comedy ever produced in Chicago, having played to a succession of crowded houses and could probably remain to paying business if previous bookings would permit. One of the principal reasons for the unusually liberal patronage bestowed upon this attraction is the novelty and picturesqueness of the play, characters and production, which are briefly de-

 Sketch of Olga Nethersole

Miss Olga Nethersole, actress, was born in Kensington, London, in 1870. On her mother's side she is of Spanish descent, but thru her father she is descended from one of the oldest Kentish families in England, and the family tree dates from the twelft. century. The premature death of her father (who was a well known barrister at law in London), made it necessary that she should provide for herself, and she chose the stage as the field for her activity and ambition. She was educated in Germany, and THE FAMOUS EIGHT BEDOUN ARABS, AT THE MAJESTIC

WATERS-PIERCE ATTORNEY TALKS

Says Senator Bailey Was Never Employed by Oil Co.

Special to The Telegram. ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8 .- John D. Johnson, general counsel for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, in an interview Thursday afternoon made the following statement:

"Senator Bailey was never in the employ of the Waters-Pierce company," said Mr. Johnson, "and was never, as far as I know, paid any money by the company for legal services or otherwise in connection with the granting of a new license to the company to do business in Texas.

"Mr. Bailey never drew any draft on me in favor of Henry & Stribling, nor anybody else, nor did I pay Mr. Bailey any money for Henry & Stribling or himself in connection with the matter mentioned.

"The loans referred to in Attorney General Davidson's questions to Senator Bailey were entirely personal between Mr. Pierce and Mr. Bailey. knew of them in a general way, and have always understood that Mr. Bailey had repaid to Mr. Pierce all money in full that Mr. Pierce had loaned "Senator Bailey, in effect, charges that something like $8,000 was taken from the Waters-Pierce company to conceal the fact that the senator's notes were repaid. Is that statement correct?" Mr. Johnson was asked. Note and Papers Stolen

"That may be possible," he said. "I know nothing about that. I do know, however, that the $8,000 note and some of the other papers mentioned by At-torney General Davidson in the question which he propounded to Senator Bailey in his open letter were abstracted from Mr. Pierce's files or the office of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company by a trusted employe.

"The same man clandestinely abstracted and made copies of confidential correspondence and matters pertaining to the business affairs of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. He did this with a deliberate purpose of obtaining hush money from Mr. Pierce or the company. "He even went so far as to demand from me that Mr. Pierce pay him $28,000, accompanying the demand with the threat that if Pierce did not to so he would give the information he had to Attorney General Hadley for use in the Missouri anti-trust case. His demand was indignantly refused, whereupon he furnished Attorney General Hadley with all the information that he had acquired, together with copies of the correspondence and papers of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, which he had obtained possession of in the manner stated. "While Attorney General Hadley at several of the hearings in the Missouri case before Commissioner Anhony referred to copies of certain let ters and documents, he, after being apprised of the manner in which his in formant had got possession of them refrained from using them." "The same man afterward voluntarily gave the information to Attorney General Davidson that he had given to Hadley and, I am informed, gave him copies of the so-called Bailey note and vouchers which Mr. Davidson has attempted to use to the detriment of Senator Bailey. I have seen copies of the papers, and an investigation shows that some of them have been falsified and that falsified entries have been made in the books of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

"As to the so-called Henry & Stribling draft for $1,500, mentioned by Bailey in his statement, to my personal knowledge Senator Bailey had nothing to do with that matter. No such draft was ever drawn on the Waters-Pierce Company nor upon me, and no money whatever was ever paid to Heny & Stribling by or thru Mr. Bailey or

y me for the Waters-Pierce company. "I did, as general attorney of the Waters-Pierce company, at one time employ Mr. Stribling to render certain legitimate legal services to the Waters-Pierce company in Texas and had the Waters-Pierce company pay him for the same, but Mr. Henry was not included in this employment, nor did he render any services in connection with the subject matter of the same. "The statement has been made by Attorney General Davidson that while Mr. Pierce personally loaned Senator Bailey money, Mr. Pierce was repaid by the Waters-Pierce Oil Company.

Is that true? Thinks Pierce Repaid It

"I have never examined the books of the company," said Mr. Johnson, "but understand that Mr. Pierce was never repaid by the Waters-Pierce company moneys which he loaned to Senator Bailey. It may be that Mr. Pierce obtained some of the money which he loaned Mr. Bailey from the Waters-Pierce company, but if that was done am satisfied that Mr. Pierce has repaid the Waters-Pierce Oil Company and that Senator Bafley never knew anything about that feature of the

"Mr. Davidson also stated that some f the vouchers had been audited by the auditors of the Standard Oil Company," it was suggested. "Audits of the books and accounts of the Waters-Pierce company," said the attorney, "have been made at times by auditors of the Standard Oil Company. This practice was permitted by the officers of the Waters-Pierce company on the theory that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey either as owning or controlling a large percentage of the stock of the Waters-Pierce company was legally entitled to inspect the books and accounts of the company to learn of its financial transactions and affairs. "Therefore, if any of the vouchers mentioned by Attorney General Davidson in his open letter to Senator Bailey appeared in the account books of the Waters-Pierce company or its files at the time an audit of the books and accounts was made by the Standard Oil Company's auditors, such auditors included them in the audits which they made. Hence there is no significance in the statement made by Attorney General Davidson that one or more of such items were audited by the Standard Oil auditors."

Son of Famous Alienist Eagerly Followed in France

Special Cable to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE. PARIS, Dec. 8.—Paris is passing thru her annual crisis which consists of creating an idol at the beginning of each winter and raising him on a pedestal to worship for the next 365 days. Paris is faithful to its fetich for a whole year, and what more can one This year the idol is Guglielmo Ferrero, the celebrated historian of Rome, who is a Roman himself, and the sonin-law of Dr. Lombroso, the leading alienist in the world, has been elected to a professorial chair at the College of France. Twice a week, under the attentive eyes of our best men of letters, he discourses to us of the valiant deeds of his compatriots under the Emperor We know that this emperor endowed his land with laws which assumed to recast the edicts of Roman morality. He attacked the cellbate and the immoral with the rage of a sectarian, but which was in reality only the pose of a politician. M. Ferrero, comparing the efforts of Caesar with our present day moralists, has had the luck (and this is the secret of his success) to interest in his discourses on the severities of Augustus all women who have had troubles in their love affairs, all hardened bachelors, and all the couples without children; and these generalizing their aspirations and sufferings, make Guglielmo Ferrero a chief and leader of

10,000 Are Within 100 Miles of Fort Worth

Fort Worth will have the honor of entertaining the State Teachers' Association, which convenes here Dec 27 and 29. This organization is composed of thousands of teachers from all parts of the state. There are in the state 20,000 teachers, and of this number 10,000 are found within a radius of 100 miles of Fort Worth and both on account of its accessibility and being located in the most densely populated part of the state it is the logical place for a teachers' convention, as it is for all other kinds of conventions.

Probably 2,000 teachers will be present at this meeting and they will be here from the Panhandle to the gulf, from the staked plains to the Rio Grande and from the free state of Van Zandt to Bean's sovereignty west of Preparations are being made for the comfort and pleasure of the visiting teachers. The city teachers have given $150 toward a fund for the entertainment of the visitors. Committees of principals visited business men on Saturday, Dec 8, with the view of securing a greater fund for entertainment purposes. This convention will be a great ad-

COTTON FUTURES LOWER PRECEDING THE GINNERS'

New Orleans Cotton NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 8 .- The market today was of the regular fashion of a Saturday preceding an important statistical day, and accordingly trading was slow and narrow, with little break the monotony of things, exept the prediction of the prophets and the comparisons of statistics. A fairly favorable supply statement, a better market at Liverpool than was expected and sales of 6,000 bales of spots at 4 points better prices com-bined to cause a higher opening, and a limited inclination to expect bullish government documents next week. Few, however, appeared willing to back their conclusions as above, and futures consequently slipped gradually lownward, some 10 to 14 points from opening quotations. Forecast receipts at principal cotton markets for Monday are large, there were reports of slight concessions on the part of holders of spots and the break in exchange also put a damper on the best interests of the exporters. The national ginners' association places the ginnings to the first instant at 9,952,000 bales. Now, good authorities say that 80 to 85 per cent of the cotton crop had been ginned to Dec. 1. Upon a basis of these figures 80 per cent would accordingly place the total yield at 12,437,000, and 821/2 per cent

The guesses at the ginners' report, which will be flashed Monday at 1 o'clock, vary widely, the average being something like ten million bales, which would, it is thought by the average conservative, sustain prices at and around present levels.

The guesses regarding to percentage of the crop ginned to Dec. 1 are at wide variance, likewise the calculations of the season's yield, and it seems strange that the ringside should, in the light only of the census compilation, fix its whim so positively. Yet the leaders seem to have set their guide posts and will probably line up accordingly as the ginners' Monday may be on this or that side of 10,000,-

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.-There was practically no buying power in evidence this morning and the result was a break to within a few points of the low figure of yesterday. The covering in evidence on the recent break seemed to be lacking and the result was a sharp decline of 12 to 13 points from the opening level. While the general indisposition to open new accounts before the reports would account for some of the absence of support, the way the market ran off proved very disappointing to those who have been inclined to look for higher prices. New Orleans led the decline and a heavy movement helped the break. With a report on Monday and another Tuesday the market is likely to experience many fluctuations next week. Some idea of the crop is likely to obtain, however, and this should help in the end. Unless some Fillip in the way of low ginning figures or a low bureau is received, prices may sag some lower

The New Orleans Times-Democrat says editorially this morning: "Revision of the New Orleans spot grade | • New York stock market suffered • differences and the magnitude of the movement held the center of the stage, | • stringency. but yesterday's cotton market was held in restraint by the fear of radical deelopments over the bureau days. The revision did not affect middling and the grades below, thus evidencing the impotency of the efforts of dvocates of narrower differences at this time. Grades better than middling were advanced. Students of the staple urged the importance of speculative conservatism in the attempt to gauge the true significance of the heavy movement of cotton and pointed out the danger of attributing the cause thereof solely to the size of the ultimate out turn, thereby ignoring such extremely important factor or urgent trade demand favorable extremely relatively below the contract of the factor of the facto mand, favorable skies, relatively higher prices and the ability of well equipped central gips to clean up a crop more rapidly than could the old style

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.-Secretary Shaw's keen and careful watching of the money situation, the secretary's apparent disgust with the action of the local banks, the lack of any absolutely definite time set to relieve the present stringency, the worse than expected bank statement of today, the considerable deficit in the surplus reserves-all these features and factors served to bring straight home today the gloom incited by the sombre clouds that temporarily darken the monetary outlook in the east. Peering thru the beclouded atmosphere, however, is the confidence of the bulls in the light of Mr. Shaw's promise to shortly come to the rescue. notwithstanding the fact that no positive date has been promised when this shall take place other than dire emergency's signal. The bank statement today, which is

WHEAT MARKET STEADY; UNDERTONE WAS STRONG

Special to The Telegram.

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.-Wheat: A little selling appeared early on declines in Liverpool, due to cheaper Manitoba and Argentine offerings, but world's shipments will show nearly 3,000,000 bushels under last year and there was fairly good buying by commission houses. Local longs were inclined to take profits, there being a continuance of yesterday's selling, but the northwest bought May as well as July. Seaboard clearances were quite heavy, nearly 800,000 bushels, wheat and flour -the visible is expected to show a small decrease, altho it may prove a surprise in larger figures than expected, while the interior movement continues to run small. The market held remarkably steady and certainly displays a strong undertone with sentiment more bullish than otherwise. Corn: Further reports of damage to the Argentine crop furnished the bull motive in this cereal and they pean markets and may tend to increase the kind of people who are in the market. Oats: The market displayed a strong front. Cash interests, northwestern houses and locals were general buyers. Commission house trade was quite lively. Many in the trade are predicting that the price of this cereal will move closer to corn.

Moderate Week-End Run — Trading | 18 mixed 113 Steady in All Departments-Active Demand for Offerings

There was a moderate run of live stock at the early opening for a weekend market. Thirty-eight cars of cattle were in early, and with that reported back, the estimated receipts were increased to about twelve hundred. No calves were in at the opening, and none reported back. The few on the market were in the small lots driven in. Eleven cars of hogs were in at the opening, and none reported The estimated receipts for the day were only 1,000. The hog offerings consisted of quite a sprinkling of pigs. A few sheep were received with some mixed loads of hogs, aggregating 217 head. The receipts of horses and mules were light, forty-nine head being the total receipts for the day. The tone of the general live stock market was about unchanged. The trade opened with a good active demand from local packers and order buyers, and salesmen made early clearances at prices fully steady, quality considered, with Friday's prevailing prices. The market closed about 15c lower than last week. The estimated receipts for the day were as follows:

And it is strange to think that perhaps the much-desired pacification may be the work of a Protestant woman-and an American at that, since the charming comtesse is a native of New York. If she succeeds in her enterprise, Catholic America may flatter herself at having, thru the intermediary of one of her children, reconciled the mother and her eldest daughter (the French church), which for many years past, as the only marks of her affection, has repeatedly hurled insults at her head. The peace of the Catholic church restored by a pseudomiscreant is a spectacle which is not lacking in originality.

IS FLYING POSSIBLE?

Santos-Dumont's Experiments Give Qualified Affirmative Cable Special to The Telegram.

(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE. PARIS, Dec. 8.—Surely enough we shall soon be flying! The automobile had better look out. I give it no more than ten years before it will be put aside like an old cab or omnibus. Thanks to M. Santos-Dumont, the heavier-than-air principle has won all along the line. With the wings of his wonderful "Bird of Prey" the clever aeronaut has been able to rise from the earth and fly a distance of from 60

to 100 yards. The principle, therefore, has been discovered-all that remains for the engineers to do now is to perfect and make practical for every day use these new, great birds of the air. We are already beginning to picture to ourselves what a great city like New York or Paris will look like when, on looking up, we shall see crowds of curiously shaped omnibuses flying thru the air. One advantage aerial traveling will have over the motor car is that we shall thereby escape the dangerous and dusty roads which have to be kept up by our municipalities at such cost. M. Santos Dumont has not the slightest faith in the statement of

are to have an aerial navy within a few years. "I do not hesitate to say that the story of the Wright brothers' flying machine having made a flight of thirty miles is nothing but an example of the bluffing in which Americans have always been masters," he said a few days ago. "I believe in the future of the aeroplane as a means to navigate the air, but it will need many improvements before it can possibly fly any such distance as thirty miles."

A Christmas Prayer

Dr. Edward Everett Hale, who in the declining years of his long and noble life still clings steadfastly not only to the tenets of his religious belief, but also to his wonderful love of country, contributes the following Christmas prayer to the December number of the Woman's Home Companion:

Father of Love, Father of Life, Our Father who are here, We thank thee for everything. For the Glory and Beauty and Wonder of the World. For the Glory of Springtime,

For the Glory of Summer, For the Glory of Autumn, For the Glory now of Winter, Bless the Lord, oh my Soul, and forget not all His Benefits. On this Christmas Day we bless Thee.

thank Thee, For Peace on Earth and Good Will among Men. And our Christmas Prayer is, that we all may be one-that we may be made Hear us and bless us in our Christ-

BY LAURA La RUE

Garter Stitch Hood

Lately a great many of my friends have been calling for something to wear to the theater. They want a head covering rather warmer than a fascinator, yet not a close hood, to crumple the hair and unfit it to be seen.

Isn't the hood in our picture just what is needed for the youthful girl? I am sure you will think so. Its big, balloon-like shape is so girlish and old-fashioned that it is certainly becoming, making every face piquant and charming beneath its folds.

But the shape has a practical as well as a beauty value, for it is exactly fitted for wear over an elaborate coiffure leaving aside all consideration of the fact that the hood is as light as a

Then the hood is so easily made. There isn't a bit of shaping excepting what is done with tacking and ribbons. You might as readily make it of cloth, but with the latter you would have none of the beautiful softness and airiness that comes with the knitted

Two squares of Shetland floss in plain garter stitch are worked on big wooden needles, and one placed over the other, with the rows criss crossing. After that the edges are joined with the prettiest thick cord finish one could imagine, worked in pompadour

The Shetland floss squares are, of course, in two colors. The lining is preferably of cream white wool, the upper or outer square in pink, or Nile, or lavender, or light blue, a delicate shade of corn, or a brilliant red for the black-eyed girl. A big point of cream white is turned back from the face, throwing the color to the back of the head. To relieve the white outline to the face, at the neck is a big splash of color in a soft ribbon bow. This ribbon is traced around the neck, gathering it into shape, and at the back is fastened into another big bow.

Girl's Box Coat 5450 The box coat is always becoming to young girls and happily makes one of the latest fashionable models. Here is one that can be made from white serge or broadcloth and worn for the late summer or from darker cloaking material and utilized for the coming fall. It is simplicity itself yet absolutely smart and includes the latest touches, As illustrated white serge is made with black velvet collar and is stitched with belding silk, the buttons being handsome ones of mother-ofpearl. Bright red broadcloth, however, is picturesque and fashionable for between-seasons and early autumn while

By far the greater majority of women are capable of entertaining, for each other, lasting friendship, staunch and loyal. In a business way, they are shrewd and alert, but withal, honest. They are broad minded and close mouthed. One talented woman is proud to be a friend of another gifted woman; jealousies are forgotten in genuine

A Thoughtless Druggist.

ONLY a thoughtless druggist would offer a preparation without the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher when Castoria is called for; the "delicate, faint and flickering light" that joins baby's life to its devoted parents being too sacred, to the self-respecting druggist, to be trifled with.

For over thirty years Mr. Fletcher has given, and still gives, his personal attention to the preparation of Castoria. It has won the confidence of mothers and physicians everywhere-never harmed the tiniest babe. This cannot be said of Imitations, Counterfeits and the "Just-as-good" rot.

The thoughtless druggist only offers the counterfeit because of a few pennies more profit. Any new preparation can be but an experiment, and they are experiments-mere guess work-irrespective of what their sponsors may say for them. It is experience of over thirty years, against wild and injudicious experiment.

Collector Bob Davis Files His Report for November

County Collector Bob Davis has his report of tax collections for the month of November ready and has filed it as the law directs. It is the second report of Tarrant county officials filed and it makes a splendid showing. Collector Davis went into office Nov. 17 and since that time he has collected a total of $11,844.76, which, taken together with what his predecesor collected for the first sixteen days of the month, makes the total tax collections for November, 1906, $51,014.93, against $34,211.65 collected during November, 1905. The difference in favor of November, 1906, collections is $16,803.28.

HOW NEW ZEALAND DOES IT

In New Zealand the state advances sums of money to settlers at low interest on the security of their holdings, in order to assist them to develop the capabilities of their lands. The railways, postoffices and telegraph lines are operated in the direct interests of the people. The state owns and operates two collieries and there are no strikes because under the conciliation and arbitration act all labor disputes are amicably settled. The postoffice savings bank has been in existence thirty-six years, and has deposits of over $30,000,000. There is a government life insurance department with an accident insurance branch, and important state works, such as railways, bridges, roads, etc., are constructed by the government. Its government is ranked amongst the most advanced in the world.

Weather in the west was dry and cold the last twenty-four hours, as shown on the signal service map, but the cold weather, which was ments this way from the country, aption. The local receipts for the day still indicated reluctance on the par of the growers to part with their corn course of the first hour had an accession of strength in which both the December and the May deliveries participated and prices reached their

STOCK MARKET MARKING TIME

Day's Trading on the Street Meaningless

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 .- Today's total sales of the stock exchange were 295,-824 shares of stock, against 832,050 a year ago and $950,000 par value of bonds, against $1,407,000 a year ago. With the bank statement showing the entire disappearance of the surplus reserves, stocks turned dull but very strong just before the close today. The lowest prices of the day were made at about the moment of the bank statement. Immediately afterward support was put under the market and those few who cared to sell found ready purchasers at advancing prices. Canadian Pacific was the strong feature of the day, selling above 193. Reading, Union Pacific and St. Paul were the other favorites among the railroad stocks, while the Steel shares led the industrial list. Most of the movements were meaningless, as the entire list was waiting on the money situation and "marking time." There has been heavy buying of American stocks in London for the last few days and international brokers say the movement has only begun. They expect most of thee real business in stocks to be done on the other side about the middle of January. The New York market will simply be used as an index of prices on which to base London quotations. The insiders do not intend to permit any serious decline and in fact there are several issues which they have planned to advance sharply in anticipation of public buying as soon as the money market eases up. Steel Foundry preferred is being made active and is being marketed higher. There is no symptom of public interest in this stock nor is there likely to be any in view of the slaughter which disgraced Wall street two years ago when a pool inside left the public to buy the stock at a high price thru a false announcement of their intentions to pay a big dividend at a time when they themselves were selling the stock. COLONEL POOLE

My first stop after leaving Del Rio named for the land commissioner. This county is sparsely settled, only by stockmen. District court was in session, and it takes about all the voters the county to compose the grand and petit juries. I had the pleasure of meeting several old-time friends and making new acquaintances here. Among them were Bill Carpenter, Judge Thomas, H. I. Pakenham, F. H. oung, N. H. Carter, William Schup bach, Charley M. Wilson, A. Armstrong and Charles Downie. All the above are prosperous ranchers and report stock of all kinds in Terrell county in prime condition. William Schupbach had just closed a deal with Sheriff Fenley for his herd of cattle at $10 a head and $7 a head for calves, or $17 a head for cows and calves and $10 for all other cattle. This is regarded here as a great bargain, as the cattle are well graded up, but Sheriff Fenley had. decided to go out of the business.

My old friend, William Martin of Comanche, has the contract for building a court house and jail here. The work is well under way. Mr. Martin has about thirty men as busy as bees from early dawn until night pushing the work. All the material is on the ground to complete both houses. The court house is a beautiful design, 57x67 feet in the clear, two stories high. Both are being built of first-class brick. Mr. Martin is widely known all over Texas as an honest, upright gentleman and has probably done more public work than any man in the state, always giving entire satisfaction. Terrell county is strictly a grazing county and can never be anything else. Of course there is some good rich land, but in very small bodies, and it is too drouthy for the man with the hoe. The stockmen report a fine coat of grass all over this country, as they had a great deal of rainfall this summermore than usual

Again at 9:30 o'clock at night boarded the southern Pacific cars, headed for Alpine. This is one of the best equipped roads in Texas. The coaches are splendid, the roadbed is all rock ballasted, the engines are all busting big ones and they make good

At 12:20 o'clock the conductor called out Alpine. I soon found the Belmont hotel, shed my duds, said my prayers, put my money under my head and was off to dreamland. Mrs. H. R. Dryden operates this hotel. Good meals, nice clean beds, nice attentions all around make it a desirable place for the weary hungry man to stop; rates reasonable. Now, my reader, if you should come this way, stop with Mrs. Dryden. She is a worthy, nice lady and makes all her guests feel at home. I met Mrs. Dunbar here again. She was operating this hotel when I was here one year ago. I shall never forget the nice venison she fed me on the two days I stopped with her. She, too, is an elegant lady, so jolly and pleasant, and I think a very pretty woman of her age, about 33 summers, and a pleasant word for everyone. A number of old friends and acquaintances greeted me with a hearty handshake next morning after breakfast, among them Captain Jason W. James, T. M. Lease, J. D. Jack. son, H. L. Lackey, W. B. Hancock, J. Wilson, H. L. Kokernot, L. B. Carruthers, Judge A. M. Turney and several others, all up-to-date ranchers. All of them were wearing broad smiles try; all kinds of stock fat and slick and everybody prosperous and the goose hanging high. This (Alpine) is a very pretty little town, situated in beautiful valley between the high mountains to the north and to the south. This valley is from one-half to two miles wide; water is close to the top of the ground; fine wells all over town at from twenty to sixty feet deep, with endless quantities of as good pure water as ever ran down any man's neck. Quite a number of actual settlers from back east are locating in this valley, getting ready to starve out when the drouth comes this way, and it will come. The land is rich enough to grow any kind of crop here, but the seasons are too uncertain for the man with the hoe. However, I surely wish these men and their families great success, but it looks to me like hoping against hope. However, I hear a number of men in my rounds predicting that the seasons will rapidly change for the better. Yet to wait for all these great changes o come around. Again at 12:20 o'clock I boarded the cars for Marfa, the seat of government of Presidio county. At 1:45 the conductor called out Marfa. I was soon in one of the cozy bedrooms in the St. George hotel, telling the hotel clerk to call me at 9 o'clock next morning. It is sleep I want, not breakfast. Talk to me about something good to eat or drink. Oh, Lord, give me good sleep. t beats anything I have ever tasted yet. The trains on this part of the road all run both ways at unseasonable

Shabby, decrepit, and insignificant Voight's appearance in court was the signal for an outburst of laughter. He has served thirty years in prison. A howl of delight went up from the growd of spectators when the imposing uniform and sword worn by Voight on his famous raid were produced as preliminary evidence. Voight answered the judge's queries unreservedly narrating the history of his life without dramatic embellishment, and told a straightforward story of the Coepenick affair in an unassuming manner. An interesting fact brought out was that Voight years ago made use of an expression which led to his capture, having remarked to a fellow prisoner while in the pen, where he was under sentence: "With a few soldiers one could do a fine job."

This prisoner, after hearing of the Coepenick affair, informed the police of Voight's remark, which fastened suspicion upon the latter.

When the shriveled defendant arose to make his defense it was apparent that behind his miserable exterior there was a personality worthy of consideration. He defended himself with eloquence that astounded the court. He proved that after his last term of fifteen years in prison he took up the honest trade of shoemaker. The police, he said, made it impossible for him to get employment. He said he literally was driven back to crime as the only means of gaining a livelihood. His pleadings won the favor of the crowd, who cheered. It became necessary for the police to maintain order.

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—Torrents of water deluging the stage stopped the performance of Richard Strauss' opera "Fledermaus" at the Central theater. Berlin, and cost the management $2,-

The cause of this extraordinary mishap was the blunder of a young fireman, who, inadvertently, turned on the special hose pipes which the management of every Berlin theater has to have directed onto the stage.

The deluge came when the audience was waiting for the performance to begin. Lasting about two minutes, it flooded the stage, dressing rooms and orchestra. The musicians and the people in the front seats of the parterre rushed out of their places, while other members of the audience shouted "Are we to be drowned within the build-

After the water had been turned off the manager came on the stage, his clothes dripping with water, and said the performance could not be given that evening owing to the damage to the stage and scenery. At his request the audience left the flooded theater and received their money back.

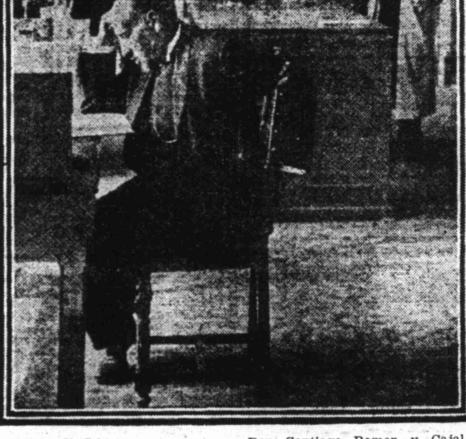

Girls Play Highwaymen

Masquerading as highwaymen, two grils of Neiss, Upper Silesia, attempted a practical joke which ended in their arrest and probably severe punishment. The girls, disguised in masks and cloaks, waited by the roadside one night, with a man whom they had taken into their plot. When a carriage came along, they sprang out and held

While the man held the norse, the two girl highwaymen attacked the occupants with clubs. In the carriage were two officers of the Neiss garrison, who struggled with their assailants, overpowered them and drove them to the police station, where their sex was discovered. The girls declared that it was only a joke, but they will be indicted for the violent assault on two officers.

Many nobles of Tamhoff, near Moscow, boycotted by the neighboring peasants, have subsisted on rye bread for over a month. On the declaration of the boycott their servants deserted them. The peasants refused to allow supplies to be transported on the village roads, and has been imprisoned in the monastery of Solovetsk, on the White sea, for breaking the laws of both church and state.

To the monastery of the Trinity, outside Moscow, there came as a pilgrim Mariya: Jakovleff, the 20-year-old ward and heiress of a Siberian merchant. Platonoff, a young monk, conducted her around the famous monastery, explained the history of the relics of the saints, and showed her the treasures amassed by the monastery in the course of its long history.

Instead of departing next day as do most visitors, the young girl came again and again, and each time the same monk escorted her and lectured eloquently on the monastery's history. When the pair were finally in love, Platonoff arranged an elopement. He | Kansas City, Mo.

row from his future wife. One night they fled together. Knowing that it was impossible for them to marry in Russia, they took a train to Odessa, bought forged passports and escaped to Constantinople and thence to Austria. Finally they reached Lemberg, underwent the formalities precedent to matrimony and were married. A week later the pair arrived in Moscow. Platonoff thought that as he was now married ne was out of the reach of the ecclesiastical authorities. But the day after his arrival the civil police, accompanied by a monk from the Trinity monastery, arrested him. Within a few days he had been tried by the ecclesiastical courts as a renegade from the church, and sentenced to perpetual imprisonment at Solovietsk.

PARIS, Dec. 8 .- There is no doubt that within a few years it will no longer be necessary for our many American visitors who come to the shores of France after their obligatory visit to London, to take the dreaded sail across the channel. They will simply board a train in London and remain in their parlor or sleeping car until they arrive here, for the tunnel under the tempestuous strait is now positively to be built.

The military precautions taken by the cautious Britton and agreed to by the French government have practically disposed of the invasion scare which made the English stop the work when about a mile of the tunnel had been dug on either side of the channel. The entrances will be at Calais and, Dover and the tunnel is to be made as light as day thruout its whole length. As to how long the work will take opinions differ widely, but enthusiastic Parisians are already planning a unique celebration which is to take place when the president of France and the king of Great Britain will meet and shake hands in the center of the tunnel many fathoms below the surface of the water.

Murdered by Daughter

A crime has been committed near Rambouillet, which in its tragic horror and simplicity of evil motives needs the pen of a Zola to describe it. An old man of 76 named Bellanger was murdered the other day by his own daughter because she was tired of keeping him. Bellanger was a wneelwright. His murderess is the youngest and was the favorite of his seven children, all of whom are earning their own living in different parts of the country. This daughter, Emilie, married a man named Faudoire a few years ago and old Bellanger took his son-in-law into partnership and lived with the young

. . . Crown Prince Mad

In spite of all official denials, doubt no longer exists that Crown Prince George of Servia is madder than a March hare. Besides his notorious pranks, which can only be the acts of lunatics, there is a significant report that Dr. Fleschig, the famous alienist of Leipzig, has been summoned to the court of Belgrade for a stay of several

Meanwhile Dr. Dinitsch, the court physician and one of King Peter's most intimate friends, has resigned his post on account of Prince George's violence

The unhappy youth's latest exploit was witnessed by a large crowd in the streets of Belgrade. Carrying a live mouse, which had been caught in his rooms, the prince went up to one of the sentries at the royal palace gate. He held the mouse's mouth under the soldier's nose and commanded him to bite off its head. When the astonished sentry refused the prince began to belabor him cruelly, threatening to shoot

Shouts from the /www which watched this scene brought the officers of the guard out of the palace. Restraining the prince in his mad frenzy they saved the soldier from further harm.

Professor Rossi, a young and clever man, who held the chair of comparative anatomy, was stabbed to the heart while leaving the university by Lagana, who escaped arrest because the Naples police are afraid of Camorra.

For years Lagana has terrorized the teaching staff of the university by his violence. He has once been expelled for wounding a fellow student, and also banished to a convict settlement, but returning he resumed despotic rule over the university, and with the dreaded Camorra organization at his back he defied the powers. Lagana is a Sicilian, heads a powerful group of anarchist students, who

raise disorders in the lecture room on every possible occasion. Every professor in the university went in mortal fear of the bully, except Rossi, whom Lagana determined to "remove." The crime arose out of Rossi's defiance of Lagana, who threatened him with dire punishment for his refusal to engage in the traffic in dispensations to distribute gratis despite the corrupt system which Lagana had introduced. Lagana, who has keen commercial instincts, had obtained a sort of monopoly in these dispensations, which he sold at high rates to the students. He had also got hold of every contract for repairing the university buildings.

The university's despot having crowned his exploits with this crime and disappeared, the rector, professors and students, while mourning a popular man, foully murdered, are relieved to be rid of the assassin. A Nimrod Novelist

NEWS, REVIEW AND COMMENT OF THE NEW BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

Pussy Cat Town

"Pussy Cat Town" by Marion Ames laggart, is one of the latest of the juvenile books that have been issued and has proven a success from the of the Roses of St. Elizabeth series and is beautifully bound in green cloth with black, white and red colored cover design. It is well illustrated, having over thirty pictures, several of them full-page color designs. As its name indicates, this is a book dealing with adventures of the cat family, and is most interesting to the child who shall happen to get a copy for Christmas or any other time. "Pussy Cat Town," by Marion Ames Taggart; the Roses of Saint Elizabeth series; small quarto, illustrated in tint by Rebecca Chase. L. C. Page &

The Giant Scissors

Co., Boston, Mass. Price, $1.00.

Another book that has proven a favorite with the children is "The Glant Scissors" issued in special holiday edition this year. This is one of "The Little Colonel" series by Annie Fellows Johnson and as printed this time is probably the handsomest of the books of that series. Bound in dark navy blue cloth, something after the style of Henry Van Dyke's books, it makes a beautiful present for the children. The top is also gilt edged. The adventures of the fairy scissors as related in this book make interesting reading for the child that likes to read and also too to the one who is not old enough and likes to be read to, Illustrations in color by Frank T. Morrill are most beautifully done. "The Giant Scissors," by Annie Fellows Johnston; illustrated in color by Frank T. Morrell; holiday editon. L. C. Page & Co., 200 Summer street, Boston, Mass. Price, $1.25.

Enchanted Automobile

The up-to-date quality is just as essential in the fairy story published today as it is in the other literature and probably more so as the mind of the child can more easily grasp the story when it is about something that is seen every day. When the idea of enchantment is added to an automobile story, for children there is all the more probability that it will be enjoyed. Such a book is "The Enchanted Automobile by H. Gauthier-Villars and G. Tremisot and translated from the French by Mary J. Safford. This is one of the Roses of Saint Elizabeth series and is beautifully illustrated by Edna M.

Juvenile Books

interesting and instructive children's books of animal life published by the J. B. Lippincott Company are "Wee Tim'rous Beastles" and "Beastles Courageous," by Douglas English, each with more than a hundred illustrations from photographs. Other children's books published by this firm include "The Book of Sports and Pastimes," a book of outdoor games by J. K. Benson; and the fairy stories "Bluebell and the Sleepy King," by Aubrey Hopwood and Seymour Hicks, and "Legends from Fairyland," by Holme Lee. The same firm's new stories for boys are "The Boys of Brierley Grange," by Fred Whishaw, "Tention!" by George Manville Fenn, and "Foray and Fight" and "Jack Haydon's Quest," by John Finnemore; their girls' stories include "Dora: A High School Girl," by May ·Baldwin, "The Record Term," by Raymond Jacberns, and "The Hill-Top Girl," by Laura T. Meade.

"When Love Speaks"

In his new novel, "When Love Speaks," Will Payne has probably given us the best picture in fiction of society and politics in a typical city of the middle west. The scene of the story is laid in Sauganac, a city of seventy-five thousand inhabitants on the east shore of bake Michigan, a day's ride by boat from Chicago. Mr. Payne evidently writes with abundant knowledge of the life he has described so faithfully. He is himself a resident of Chicago, and his book was written at his summer home in a little Michigan village, called Paw Paw, not far from the location of his imaginary

The book, which discusses broadly the important phases of business organization, is designed especially to be of practical help lerks and young men entering on siness career.

Reveries of a Bachelor

An extraordinarily beautiful, gift book is the holiday edition of "The Reveries of a Bachelor." There is always a charm about Ik Marvel's wellknown work that the passing of the years seems not to dissipate in the least. One reads the old "reveries" year after year with a freshened interest. They are presented in this instance in a manner that adds materially to their own inherent charm. The edition is illustrated by Mr. E. M. Ashe, and it is altogether conservative to say that the artist has not in the past done any work comparable to his illustrations for this book. The pictures are in colors and have been unusually well reproduced. Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis,

Saul of Tarsus

"Saul of Tarsus," by Elizabeth Miller, author of "The Yoke" is a story what cannot fail to be interesting about Christmas time as it is a faithful story of the early disciples of Christ. The book is magnificently illustrated by Andre Castaigne and is published by the Bobbs-Merrill Company of Indianapolis. This is a story, pure in conception, unaffected and noble in its religion, accurate in history and fascinating in romance.

The People's Lobby

The People's Lobby, which has been organized to operate at Washington to further the passage of good laws in the interest of the whole people, has been definitely determined upon with regard to personnel and plans, and is ready to begin operations with the convening of congress. Writing of the movement in "Success Magazine," which has been furthering the project, Samuel Merwin says:

"There can be no excuse for any sort of secrecy in the work of the bureau. It is based on the belief that there is no reason why any detail of the legislative work of this republic should be kept hidden. It assumes that evasion of the light is an unhealthy symptom. And, animated by this spirit, it can do no less than keep all its own records open, all the time, to any magazine, any newspaper, any citizen, or body of citizens.

In so far as they will go to fix the full personal responsibility of senators and representatives for the work of congress and its committees, the reports will be based wholly on their public acts. The People's Lobby is not interested in personal or political gossip. But every state and district has a right to scrutinize the work of its representatives in congress, as has an employer to scrutinize the work of his employes. There is nothing in the slightest degree personal about this. No honest man can object to a record, compiled thoroly and accurately from official sources, of his public acts-of precisely what he has said and how he has voted or every question that has arise nduring his term of office, all brought together in concise form and stated in incompromisingly simple terms. It should be seen, from this, that the People's Lobby is starting out without the slightest feeling of antagonism for congress. These records will be an inestimable help to the upright independent congressman. As to the dishonest congressman—and it is with regret that we employ the term-the records will probably hurt him."

Mile-a-Minute Madness

"Mile-a-Minute Madness" is the title of Walter Prichard Eaton's automobile article in the American Mgazine for December. Following are some of the facts about American cars developed by the Vanderbilt cup race:

"The result has been on the face of it a victory for France each year. But American builders have learned much, none the less. A car does not have to win first in such a contest to prove its staunchness and speed. If it is still running when the race is done that is no small accomplishment, and all but one American car was running this year. Last year Tracy won third place, and this year he drove the strictly American designed Locomobile the fastest lap of the race-26 minutes 20 4-5 seconds for the 29.7 miles-70.5 miles per hodr. That Tracy was not well up with the leaders at the finish was due largely to his frequent attacks of that dread automobile malady, 'tire trouble.' Wagner had 'tire trouble,' even on the last lap, but still won because the foreign cars are equipped with detachable rims. They carry extra rims with inflated tires on them and readjust with the clamping of a few bolts. It took Wagner and his mechanic just three minutes to refit their wheel. The American cars, by the rules of the race compelled to use only American material thruout, had no such advantage, and it was this in no small part which kept Tracy and Le Blon so far behind.

"But more important in the long run of automobiling than the tires is the material of the cars and engines. American steel went thru the Vanderbilt cup race with the best. If we can build racers to stand that strain. we can build touring cars for all the uses of commerce."

Our Army Death Rate

In his report for 1905, just issued, Surgeon General O'Reilly says that the rate of admission to sick report in our army is, next to that of the Dutch army, the highest in the world. It is 12.95 per thousand. The lowest rate, Russia's, is 3.48. Our army's death rate is high, too, 6.28, next to that of the British army, which is 7.13. The Prussian army's death-rate is only 2 per thousand; but the report says that many countries have a low death-rate because their sick are promptly and falling leaves, and the harvests in the vineyards, which have been recently published in a French magazine.—Transatlantic Tales.

Tho' hearts are iron and thought are steel. And all that has value is mercantile, Yet marvelous truths shall the age reveal.

Ave, greater the marvels this age shall find Than all the centuries left behind, When faith was a bigot and art was blind.

Oh, sorry the search of the world for gods, Through faith that slaughters and art that lauds. While reason sits on its throne and nods.

But out of the leisure that men will know. When the cruel things of the sad earth go. A Faith that is Knowledge shall rise and grow.

QUEEN OF NORWAY WRITING A BOOK

Compiles Things Prince Has Neither Said Nor Done

Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY PAUL LAMBETH.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Some superlative nonsense and gush has been expended over the recent visit of the king and Queen Maud of Norway, and more especially over their little son Olaf, who is a very ordinary little boy.

Queen Maud who is the only one of King Edward's daughters with any sense of humor, has for years collected newspaper cuttings relating to the royal family, and also keeps a diary of her own movements and those of her immediate relations.

The first book she entitles "Things we are supposed to have said and done." The diary is called "Things we nave said and done."

She has now started a new book with the title "Things Olaf Has Neither Said Nor Done." The strangest thing about the recent visit to London is the shyness which has come over Queen Maud. In private life she was the "larkiest" of all the British royal famfly, but the new honors appear to have frozen her with fright. So fixed was her expression passing thru the London streets that a man in the crowd near Paddington Station shouted out pathetically "Oh, do give us one smile. Mand."

This frightened the queen all the more, and in some of the West End streets she did not obtain a single cheer. At Windsor, however, in the old ircle she let herself go and amused Queen Alexandra with her descriptions the court functions at Trondjem in forway, where all the local tradesmen and their assistants attend the court balls. There is no aristocracy and the greatest personages are the furrier and the local grocer.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Phipps (nee Grace) are extremely happy over the birth of daughter. The young couple married the month of November. The following November Mrs. Phipps presented her husband with a boy, the next November with another boy, and now has arrived the November girl. They have taken a cottage residence at Battle, close to Battle Abbey, so as be near Mrs. Phipps' father, Mr. Michael P. Grace, who is the tenant of Battle Abbey, which has been the scene of many week-end and shooting parties during the past few weeks. At Battle, too have settled for the winter Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Martin Jr. (nee Helen Phipps), who are carefully tending a still more junior Bradley Martin. The village of Battle is, in fact, a huge nursery, as the Phipps' retinue of domestics is at all times

Marlborough Affair Puzzling The Marlborough affair becomes more and more puzzling to London society. Intimate friends of the duchess declare positively that there is a distinct chance of the duke and duchess coming together again. They also point to the fact that all the two weeks during which the duchess was at Sunderland house, Curzon street, the town palace which her father built for her, her most constant visitor was young Lady Castlereagh, whose husband was the young duchess' chief sympathizer thru all her trials. Lady Castlereagh was closeted neary every day for several hours with the duchess and the puzzle becomes more and more complicated.

Everyone, of course, remarked on the fact that the duke went alone to the state banquet at Windsor castle. Meanwhile the duke is making preparations to live at his small residence at Woodstock and the duchess will go to Paris for a short visit.

Amateurs to Hunt Whales

A firm of English gun makers has received an order from New York for a complete whaling outfit. Harpoons of the latest type are insisted upon, and every weapon has to be thoroly tested and in good condition. The orders are signed by Mr. Simpson Mercer, and drafts are inclosed to cover the estimated cost. It is understood by the gun makers that the outfit is intended for an amateur whaling expedition. "Big game of the sea," is the way one of the principals expressed it. The crew, it is thought, will be picked, and the vessel chartered at Aberdeen.

Arizona Calves Dying

According to the statement of T. B. Carter, the Walnut Grove, Ariz., stockman, a mysterious disease is causing the death of a large number of spring calves, the nature of which the cattlemen have been unable, despite diligent investigation, to determine.

"Over a dozen calves have died in my neighborhood during the last ten days," Mr. Carter said, and so far no one has been able to account for the disease. The calves die suddenly and it appears that none but the fat ones become victims to the mystericus sickness. While riding among a bunch of cattle a few days ago I noticed a fat calf feeding from its mother, only to return about thirty minutes later to find it lying dead at the cow's feet. "All of the stockmen are investigating the sudden death of some of their best stock, and while several theories have been advanced, I am satisfied that the real cause of the trouble has not yet been discovered. It is feared that in addition to those already discovered dead, a number are dead on the ranges. Some think that larkspur is the cause, while others attribute the atal malady to other sources.

Better Demand for Stockers

During the last few weeks the demand for feeding cattle has increased in a very gratifying way and shows that the country is taking more kindly to the feeding proposition. Lots of thin light cattle are being offered, but the demand for them is slack, for the popular notion is to seed something that can be made marketable in the shortest possible time. While it is true, of course, that the good, wellbred feeding steer will command the highest price when returned to market, it is a debatable question from an animal is better to feed than the thin, light steer, whose initial cost is half as much. A $2.50 steer cannot be made into a finished product, but properly handled he can sometimes be made to yield more profit than the high-priced and short-fed animal. At the present time the good feeder is much preferred at the price, but lately the outlet for the common stock is a little better.-Chicago Live Stock

Fever Tick Problem

The state live stock sanitary commission, which is composed of R. J. Kleberg of Kingsville, W. J. Moore of San Antonio and M. M. Hankins of Quanah, have submitted their annual report to Governor Lannam. The text is as follows:

Conditions are practically the same as under our last report. As the benefits to be derived from the regulations of this commission are better understood by the people, less friction is caused by their enforcement.

At the present time there is considerable tick infection in what are dominated the special quarantine counties. However, the loss of cattle from tick infection this year has caused the cattle raisers in said counties to be almost unit in their endeavors to eradicate the tick, and it is believed that by Dec. 31 most of said territory will be free of infection.

The last congress appropriated money to eradicate ticks in states operating with the department of agriculture, and at the present time the department of agriculture, thru the bureau of animal industry, has three sets of men at work in the territory west of the quarantine line, and while our appropriation has not been sufficient for us to give the help in this line desired. yet the work is going forward satis-

From our investigations we think it the best bath yet found, in that it seems to be efficient and not harmful to the animal, besides the cost is merely nominal. .

Hereford Prairie Fire

John McDonald came in today from Hereford Texas where he spent several days. The prairie fire which swept over a large strip of the plains country surrounding that point about a week ago caused a heavy loss to the cattlemen. He says that an area of 50 by 150 miles was completely devastated of everything in the way of

"And the flames came right to the city limits of Hereford," said Mr. Mc-Donald. "The citzens of that place turned out and fought the fire heroically in order to save the place from destruction. It was a narrow escape, and one which will long be remembered. But the heavy losses will fall on the cattlemen. On the X I T ranch over 285,000 acres were burned bare of every spear of grass and other feed. Other large and small ranchmen suffered in proportion. All over that country an abundance of feed was raised, but this fire swept it clean. Then, to add to the trouble, there is a shortage of cars with which to move the cattle out or take feed in. With no feed and no cars, the situation is one that is bound to cause losses, and a heavy expense to the cattlemen."-Drovers Telegram.

New Terminal Charge Disregarding the long and sad experience of the Chicago livestock market, and apparently throwing down the gauntlet to southwestern stockmen. and particularly to the Cattle Raisers' Association of Texas, the National Stockyards Company of East St. Louis, Ill., has levied a trackage charge on livestock. Since preservation is the first law of nature, the railroads entering the National stockyards, to protect themselves, will fall back on the shipper to bear the burden. Two railroads already have announced that beginning Jan. 1, "on all livestock carloads destined to or coming from National stockyards in addition to the regular rates, a charge of $1 per car will be made to cover trackage charge assessed by the National Stockyards Company." No one has been found who will say what the charge assessed by the company is. In the famous case of the Chicago terminal charge the stockyards company imposed a tax of $1, while the railroads, which were forced to stand the charge, collected $2 per car from the snippe one dollar for the original charge, and one for the trouble of collecting it. It is possible, therefore, since railroads are pretty much the same the country over, that the National stockyards' levy was fifty cents, and that the roads tacked on fifty cents just to show they had no hard feelings in the mat-

Members of local commission houses with St. Louis connections, were considerably exercised this morning when apprised of the order by the two railroads, assuming that similar orders from the remaining roads will follow jority of the range cattlemen are fol-shortly. of bridge traffic and does not apply to St. Louis, only in East St. Louis. The Texas Cattle Raisers' Association got a decision from a former interstate commerce commission that the $2 terminal charge made in Chicago was exorbitant and that $1 would be a reasonable charge. At that time the commission had no authority to enforce its rulings, and suits were brought in the courts to secure the application of the commission's ruling. An attempt was also made to get refunds of the excess charged. The cases dragged thru several years of litigation and were not yet settled when the congress gave the interstate commerce commission power to enforce its rulings. The stockmen immediately asked the commission to enforce the ruling that $1 was a reasonable charge. A few days ago the commission issued a statement that it would enforce only its own rulings and would not enforce rulings made before the law was passed under which it now operates. The proceedings against the Chicago rate have, therefore, to be begun and fought out over again. It is presumed that East St. Louis. having decided to make a charge, concluded that the commission would look upon $1 as a reasonable charge. If the Chicago case is a fair precedent and railroad men say that the terminal conditions at East St. Louis make the comparison fair, the commission will sustain the $1 terminal charge. Strenuous objections probably will be made by St. Louis interests against the institution of the charge and there is yet time for the order establishing it to be recalled. If the charge is put on, a great deal of business doubtless will be deflected from East St. Louis and the National stockyards. Kansas City probably would get most of this business, both because there will never be any terminal charges here, and because this city already enjoys an advantage in freight rates as well as in time from much of the territory from which the National yards have drawn their business.-Drovers' Telegram.

Cattle Suffer Little TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 3.-It is the opinion of the leading cattlemen that there will be no great loss among the cattle of the state as a result of the county, one of the most extensive cattle raisers in the state, said: "There will be no loss to cattlemen as a result of the storm. The cattlemen never were better prepared for winter than they are at this time. The season has been an especially good one and range cattle are going into the winter in better condition than they have been at this time of year for some time. We have had plenty of moisture and the feed has been good on the range until the last few weeks. The cattle in the western part of the state are all right.

"The western Kansas cattlemen are working under a different system from that usually followed. They are beginning to find that they can get better results by feeding Kaffir corn or cane to their cattle during the winter and then bringing them to the pastures near the Kansas City markets the spring ready to go onto grass and begin to put on fat. I formerly ran my cattle thru the winter without any rough feed and brought them to the eastern pastures early in the spring and began to prepare them for the Kansas City or Chicago markets. 1 found that it took a few months to get the cattle into condition to put on flesh and that I was unable to get them ready for the late summer or early fall markets. I then began to feed a little fodder during the winter and bring my cattle out in much better condition in the spring. I think a ma-

finding that it is helping the business. "Cattle raising in the range country is more of a scientific business now than it was a few decades ago and This charge is understood to have there is little probability that a man been charged to cover the extra cost who has been in the business for any length of time is going to be caught unprepared for the ordinary changes in the weather."

CORN-FED HOGS NEED ASHES Hogs that are fed mostly on corn become weak because there are insufficient bone-forming elements in the food, and whole herds have died, apparently from disease, when in fact the animals simply demanded proper foods. In one case where a farmer lost a number of hogs, and had attributed the cause to "hog cholera," all remedies failed until one of the hired men happened to try wood asnes.

At once an improvement was noticed and soon the so-called disease was conquered. The fact was that wood ashes contain a large proportion of ime, as well as a percentage of phosphates, thus supplying the animals with something that could not be procured from the corn, and yet every farmer should understand such fact, tho many of them will not devote their attention in that direction.-Farm Stock Journal.

A TIMELY HINT

In butchering time take pulverized resin one pound which is sufficient for two medium sized hogs, rub the resin well into the hair all over, then scald as usual and you will find that the hairs will all come off at once without the use of a scraper and have the hog surprisingly clean. Try it. This timely hint is given by a reader of "Agricultural Epitomist."

GROWING HOGS WITHOUT CORN

Professor Cottrell of the Colorado

Agricultural College has begun a series of hog feeding experiments to demonstrate that a country not growing corn can grow and finish hogs profitably. Professor Cottrell says: "I believe there is a great future for the hog feeding industry and I hope to be able thru experiments which we will conduct at the college to show that hogs can be raised and fattened very successfully without corn. Barley will be the chief ration tried in the preliminary experiments, and we will endeavor to ascertain the best supplementary feeds to go with it. The Danish bacon hog, which is considered the best in the world, is fed largely on barley, as the producers in that country have found after years of experimenting and considerable outlay of money in testing the different feeds that it is the best for finishing this type of hog. In my experiments at the Kansas experiment station, where I was located for a number of years, we were very successful in producing the bacon hog from feeds grown in the dry farming sections."

KEEP THEM GROWING

Do not let the pigs get too fat, for this may cause them to have the thumps. Keep them growing and let them have plenty of fresh water and exercise. A pig gives best results from dairy by-products when young. OUR LAY SERMON

"Suffer little children to come unto Me and forbid them not, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

So spake the Blessed Savior of mankind during the period that He spent upon earth, and His every utterance concerning childhood was one of supreme tenderness and abiding love. He set this world an enduring example of the proper manner of handling a child, and His heart went out to the little ones in all the glory

But the world has been slow to follow in the footsteps of the Blessed Master in these things. The little ones are too often neglected even within the sacred circle of the nome. And when we get outside the home God pity the friendless child that is compelled to buffet its way thru the devious channels of an unloved and unsympathetic life. And yet, God so loved the world that He gave us the sublime example of Sending His own Son here to suffer and die, that we might enjoy the blessed privilege of eternal life and happiness beyond the gates of pearly paradise.

God pity the homeless child in all lands and send it shelter and home that is so often denied. God often does this. When earthly homes are closed to such as these His love reaches down and lifts the little soul from its suffering tenement of clay and transplants it to purer and better climes. And He often fills Christian hearts with a realization of duty and causes them to act in His name. A touching incident of this kind has just happened at Waco, and the following account of the death and burial of a strange little pauper boy who had wandered from his home in a foreign land, is from the Waco Tribune. It serves to demonstrate that there is yet much that is good in this old world, and the reading of the incident ought to make a better man or woman of every one who peruses it. The

He was a little boy, only 14 years old, a native of far off Bohemia-that land whose sons have ever wandered, so much so that a man who has no settled abode or binding ties has come to be called a "Bohemian." And this boy, true to the instincts of his race had left father and mother and wandered to the wonderful land, America, of which he had heard so much and where he was to make his fortune. In his wanderings he rested at Waco and here he sickened and went into the hands of the good Sisters of St. Vincent de Paul, at the Providence sanitarium. They nursed him tenderly. He was only a "city patient," an object of charity, but he was so little and the sisters are good. But Otto was not to find fortune in this land, and one day last week his soul went on the last journey and he died. The wanderlust was over and let us hope he went near to God. The good sisters shed some tears, kissed the little pallid, thin face and the body was carried down town, that John Fall might consign it to Mother Earth. The little body lay in a casket in the chapel room at Fall & Puckett's and kindly people came in and looked. It was a neat casket, for John Fall didn't have the heart to put the body in a pauper's coffin. If John Fall has half a chance or show of excuse you can always count on his big heart to do a kindly deed. Dr. Straynorn stood and looked at the dead boy. Something moved in his heart and he went out and came back with a flower, which he placed in the dead boy's hand. Miss Annie Wolfe heard of it, and in a few minutes she was there with beautiful flowers. Then came the good sisters, with some more flowers, and in a little while flowers, the mere tokens of love and sympathy, were plentiful on the little pauper boy's coffin-for after all Otto will figure on the city's record as a dead pauper. Next came Father Clancey, of the Church of the Assumption, and the burial rites of the Catholic church-in which faith in all likelihood the child had been reared, were celebrated and Father Clancey spoke words of tender sympathy for the parents far away-for the mother, whose heart might even then be yearning for her wandering boy, who she was never to see again in life. The burial service of the unknown pauper boy touched all hearts. They buried him in the Holy Cross cemetery. When the mother hears that she will be glad he rests on consecrated ground. The boy was a stranger to Mike

Mazoneck, but he was a countryman. Mike heard of the case, and that the lad was a Bohemian. Mike has a kind heart, too, and he met the cost of a resting place in the cemetery and some other things and the ase of the little white hearse. When the boy went to clothing. It was all the money he had. John Fall took it and will try to get it to the child's parents in Bohemia-if they can be found. He also took some of the flowers from the casket and had them pressed. They will go with the silver coin to the mother, with an account of the burial and assurance of the last offices of the church and the rest in consecrated ground. She may be-probably she is-just a plain, unlettered peasant woman, but these tidings will do her good-for is not a mother's neart the same the world over? It was a very simple episode, this-an event of a busy week-and will be forgotten soon. We have only told it to illustrate anew how one touch of Chicago Office, 749-50 Marquette Bldg. nature will make all the world akin. He was such a little fellow-and he was dead and among strangers. It was kindly sympathy, and the fragrance of the sympathy will vie with the aroma of the flowers they put around him. "Even as ye did it unto the least of these," etc. There is goodness in this world. It's hard to find sometimes, but it's here. Never doubt that, and the best of it is God knows it is here. That is the reason we think He will be more merciful to almost everybody than some folk seem to think He will.

And we can always depend upon the happy assurance that God will be good and merciful to us, even as we are good and merciful to others. God's Holy Word teaches us that we must be good and kind to all God's creatures, but few of us, however, in any degree measure up to the requirements. As we hope for mercy for ourselves, let us learn to be merciful and kind to all others. That is God's plan, and He doeth all things

THE ROAD AND BRIDGE FUND

There is something of a disposition or sentiment being worked up in various portions of the county against the idea of Fort Worth having the use of any of the county road and bridge fund. The Arlington Journal, which can usually be depended upon to knife Fort Worth at every opportunity, says:

For some years past it has been the custom of the commissioners' court in this county to use a part of the road and bridge fund in the city of Fort Worth. claiming that as Fort Worth paid such a large per cent of the taxes that she was entitled to some of this fund. We not only believe that this was unjust to the country precincts, but we believe it was contrary to both the spirit and letter of the law.

Of course the county judge has always been a Fort Worth man, and the commissioner from Precinct No. 1 as well, but even then it is not possible to use this money thus without the consent of one of the outside commissioners.

We believe that the time has come when this practice will stop. In the first place we don't believe Judge Terrell will consent to using this fund in the city of Fort Worth, and even if he would, we don't believe that enough pressure could be brought to bear on Sweet, John Hiett, or Tom Huffman to get them to vote for such a use of the road and bridge fund. If these three will be loyal to their precincts, this practice

Fort Worth is benefitted by every dollar that is spent on the roads and bridges and should be glad for this money to be spent on them. She has a street tax and should keep up her own streets. If the road and bridge fund can be used for grading the streets and building culverts, it could be used in paving and building viaducts. Thus one can see where it will eventually lead.

Arlington and Mansfield are incorporated cities and pay more taxes than the same amount of territory in the country, but it will be a long time before you see any of the road and bridge fund used in either of these wns. They will gravel the road up to the city limits, but when they get there, it is all off.

We don't object to this, we believe in it, but what is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander, and we want them to do Fort Worth the same way. Let every town keep up her own streets and give to the country people that which is theirs. They get little enough, the Lord knows, but when it comes to skinning, them out of their road and bridge money to build paved streets for the Fort Worth autoists, then we say let up.

Is the Journal an advocate of the un-Democratic and unconstitutional idea of taxation without representation? Would it make of Fort Worth simply a taxing district for the benefit of the road and bridge fund of the county, with the assertion that all county roads end where the city streets begin? If such is its contention, then it should also concede that the road and bridge tax for the county should end at identically the same point, and extend no further so far as Fort Worth taxpayers are concerned.

Certainly, if the property owners of Fort Worth are taxed for the maintenance of the county roads and bridges, and Fort Worth property is forced to yield an annual revenue for this purpose, a just proportion of the revenue so derived should be expended upon the streets of Fort Worth.

Fort Worth is benefitted by the good roads in the county, for all county roads, like all the railroads in Texas, lead to Fort Worth. But the citizens of the county who do their marketing and transact other bus ess in Fort Worth are the ones who enjoy the greatest benefit. And those citizens of the county who come to Fort Worth to transact their business are also benefitted by good streets when they have passed the city limits. The city streets are thus traversed by more country people than are the county roads by Fort

The public roads that lead thru the incorporated cities of Arlington and Mansfield are just as much public roads as if the designation of city streets had not been applied, and entitled to the same consideration in the distribution of the county road and bridge fund. It strikes The Telegram that it would be much more seemly on the part of the Journal to insist on justice being done to its own town in the premises than to contend that so grave an injustice should be done

TEXAS FEEDERS ARE COMPLAINING

There is the annual complaint of high priced oil mill products heard among the men who annually feed a considerable number of cattle, and they say the price this season is so high that it is going to materially curtail operations. One feeder who operates within a short distance of Fort Worth says the oil mills are so nearly getting control of all the gins in the country that it is becoming a difficult matter to even obtain raw cotton seed, and thinks the feeders are up against a very serious proposition.

Discussing the outlook generally, he said he believed this was a fine time to feed a bunch of cartle, provided they were handled properly, for the indications are prices will be good for good stuff. He has a good lot of steers he expects to shape up for market, but insists that he does not relish the idea of feeding them for the exclusive benefit of the cotton seed oil mill men. He fed a good bunch of steers last season, and thru proper and economical methods came out considerably to the good. Some of these feeders are declaring they will not patronize the oil mill men at all, but will feed all the roughness they can get their hands on and large quantities of raw cotton seed, provided the cotton seed can be obtained. But right here they again come in contact with the mill men, who are out for all the seed in sight, and who do not hesitate to boost prices skyward when it comes to a matter of controlling the seed they need to keep their machinery in operation. At many of the mills the owners or those who are interested in these properties are putting in a considerable number of cattle, and the indications are up libraries wherever he may be allowed to do so .considered favorable for more feeding being done in Baltimore News, mills report good bunches already on feed on in sight, and there will be many big bunches fed on the side. In Oklahoma and Indian Territory there also seems to be more enthusiasm than usual among the feeders.

The general impression among cattlemen is that it is a good time to feed if the price of the trimmings can be held down within the bounds of reason.

Members of the next legislature are industriously taking and giving their ideas of just what is necessary to save the country, and many of them will be painfully surprised next January to learn those views have apparently fallen on unappreciative ears. But it will be another case of history repeating itself.

The holiday season is approaching, and there is so much genuine prosperity in Fort Worth that it will prove a season long to be remembered.

There is going to be some pure food legislation in Texas at the next session. Not to protect horses that eat oats and cows and mules that eat mixed feed, but for the babies and big folks who have appetites to appease and would rather have straight stuff in every instance without dangerous chemicals to make it look pertty or keep it from spoiling.—Sherman Dem-

Members of the next state legislature have already signified their intention of introducing a pure food law at the coming session, and it is probable this badly needed legislation will be enacted.

0 0 0 0 It must be a fight to a finish between Attorney General Davidson and Senator Bailey, and there will be no "fouls" permitted, either. It must be the straight thing, and the fellow that's counted out stays out. Time has been called. The Texas press is the bottle holder and the Texas people the referee. Now, get a move on you, gentlemen, but fight fair.-Tex-

That is the way to talk it-a fair fight and not a lick below the belt. What the people want is the facts. They care nothing for platitude of personal opinions. Let the real facts in the situation come to light.

. . . . There is a lot of chivalry in the south and there is a deal of rag chewing among those who say they have the Simon pure article. In politics in this state there never was a greater muss, and it is all among the Chesterfields, the chivalrous gentry that has got to be a regular set of political blackguards and villifiers.-Bonham Herald.

There is not much chivalry in the political life of the present day. The average politician answers logic with billingsgate and facts with sophistries of the purest ray mene. Many of our leading politicians need working over.

Texans have had a great deal to do with the shaping up of the new state of Oklahoma and that fact insures all the details being properly arranged. Oklahoma as a state will pass into safe and competent hands.

A HEAVY FINISH

A Kansas editor is said to have entertained extreme deas with reference to the value of a "condensed style." On one occasion, owing to lack of space, he wielded his pencil at the end of a syndicate serial story, with this result in the way of compression: "Reginald took a small brandy, then his hat, his departure, besides no notice of his pursuers, meantime a revolver out of his pocket, and lastly his own life."

Dr. J. J. Kinyoun, America's mosquito expert, was alking in Washington about the mosquito's coming

"It will come," he said, "but to hasten its coming, the public must be drawn into the fight. It is on the public that we must depend for the mosquito's exermination, and, to interest the public, all sorts of methods, the finest diplomacy, must be used.

"Diplomacy, you know, is a remakable agent. The other day a lady said to her husband: "'James, I have decided to do without a new fall dress, and with the money I shall have mother here "James turned on her excitedly.

"'Wear that old brown cloth thing another season? guess not," he exclaimed. 'You go down town to your tailor's today and order something handsome. Remember, please, that as my wife you have a certain osition to maintain.'

"The wife bowed her head in submission. On her ips played a peculiar smile."

A schoolboy was about to start on a visit to his grandfather's to spend his summer vacation. The day before his departure his mother, passing his room, saw him kneeling beside a chair in the corner with his head bowed. After a few minutes the mother said:

"Well, Richard, what are you doing?" "Just getting my prayers said up before I go to my grandpa's in the country, as I 'spect to be pretty busy while I'm there," was his reply.

THE FORT WORTH SPIRIT

What Cleburne needs is a little of the Fort Worth spirit which in brief is to never be still when there is work to do. The Fort Worth spirit is building right here the real metropolis of the Southwest .- Fort Worth Telegram.

We have tried every scheme to make the people wake up and take on a progressive spirit. We wanted East Henderson street paved to the Santa Fe station. Thirty thirty-fifths of the property owners on that street signed the list to assist the city in paving the street, but the fraction of the whole refused to sign the list and this will keep the street from being paved, if the decision to pave around these non-signers is not adhered to. We have suggested that this city has got to make a start some time, to get in the progessive column, and that it would be best to make that start, right now. There is no getting around the fact that by reason of Fort Worth's effort to help herself she is attracting outside assistance. If this is true in Fort Worth, it would be true in Cleburne. Cleburne is one of the lowest bonded cities in Texas. One hundred thousand dollars in bonds would give us a new high school building, a deep sewer system and would pave one or two sides of the court house square. This done the city could point to something done. When money is spent, and there is nothing to show for the expenditure, then there is room to kick about taxation, but when public utilities are in existence they shine out as monuments to the hustling qualities of those who made it possible to get them, and no kick is admissible.-Cleburne Review.

. . . . LONGER TERMS OF OFFICE

The idea of longer terms of office and fewer elections continues to find favor. The Fort Worth Tele-

An election every four years is often enough in every county in Texas, and if such procedure should result in a few four-year terms for incompetents it would but prove a wholesome lesson. The custom is to reward all good officers with the second term, which is equivalent to four years' election, and it would be both wisdom and economy to elect every state and county officer for a single term of four years and then retire them from business.-Denison Herald.

. . . . THE SCHOOL BOOK TRUST

The Fort Worth Telegram recently said: "The next legislature should pass a uniform text book bill that will fit all Texas. There is no reason why any city or town in this state should be exempt from the provisions of a general text book law. The same school book fund sustains all Texas public schools."

To which the Harlequin of New Orleans replies: "We'll show you how there's every reason for it. What could the por downtrodden book trust do if there were not a uniform text book law? What could the monopolists of the book handlers' business do? Bless you, man, get next! The people here are on. A uniformity of text books, too, which means a monopoly for some handler, makes possible a fine disregard for the people. A poor mother with her little child coming in to get the next set of text boks, bringing along the old, with from forty to eighty cents rebate exchange printed on their covers, can be told with impunity that the exchange rebate "doesn't go any more."

The text book is becoming a burden in Texas to such an extent that many children remain out of school because their parents are not able to buy books enough to keep pace with the changes.-El Paso Times.

• • • • THOSE AURICULAR APPENDAGES

The Fort Worth Telegram says that "anybody can work his ears if he will train to it." Looks that way. In fact, most everything else is getting worked these days, and it may be up to the ears. But, really, this working the ear went out of style some two or three thousand years ago. Time was when a man could flip a fly that flew on his ear the same as a horse. His ear movements largely helped in his expression, something like unto a jackenule. But he has quit that now, as expression is not neded very much any more, the age is getting so cold-blooded, you know.—Bonham Herald.

THE FAULT-FINDING MAN

O, the man that finds fault is the gloomiest man! There is never a good thing comes under his scan; He is sneering and snarling by day and by night At the things and the people that come into sight, And he frowns and he scowls at each project or plan-He's a sour old persimmon, the fault-finding man,

He will growl at the sunshine and fret in the shade. He will sneer at the loveliest day ever made, He will worry and weepingly groan and complain Of the clash of the hues of the bow after rain; He will make you unhappy as well, if he can-He's a grouchy old bother, the fault-finding man.

He is soured on the world, he is soured on himself, He will scold at the poor and the people with pelf; If you paint on a picture with all of your art He will snap out a comment to sink in your heart; If you sing, then your song will come under his ban-He's a grumbling old pest, is the fault-finding man.

If you write anything he will yell of its flaws, And he's happiest when he complains without cause; If you work, if you loaf, if you ride, if you walk, If you sit and keep silence, if gaily you talk. He will toss you about in his hot roasting pan-He's a dreary companion, the fault-finding man.

Why, at Paradise gate there is one of his breed, And he sits there and sulks all the time; yes indeed, And he will not go in for a harp and crown, And he long ago said they should not send him dow He's been full of his frets since creation began, And the devil's afraid of the fault-finding man, -Wilbur Nesbit, in Chicago Tribune,

DRIFT OF POLITICS

CALIFORNIA IS STANDING PAT NEW YORK, Dec. 9-A special to the Globe from

Washington says: President Roosevelt lost no opportunity of discussing the Japanese question with callers today. Representative Kahn of California was one with whom he talked. The President made it plain that he would be led into nothing rash and that he intended to deal with the Japanese pacifically.

From what the President has told callers, it may be predicted that he will follow his favorite maxim, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." He has evolved a plan he believes will be satisfactory to both sides, but has not yet made it public. Representative Cousins, who will be the new head of the house foreign relations committee, says the Japanese question will be quietly adjusted.

Two Japanese exclusion bills, one by Representative McKinley, and the other by Representative Hayes. both of California, are now pending in congress. Representative Kahn reflected the sentiment of California when he said: "California will stand pat. We have acted only within our rights and have done nothing upon which reconsideration is necessary or even probable. But I do not think that the situation is as serious as would appear from the newspaper reports. I cannot believe that the Japanese government has taken the hostile

"A number of matters have contributed to bring about the present situation. It must not be forgotten, when the alleged expulsion of Japanese from the white schools in San Francisco is under discussion, that there are not enough seats for the white pupils, the children of taxpayers and citizens. Under the law a Japanese cannot become a citizen of the United States. More than this, we have had in San Francisco for some time schools for Orientals, and the transfer of Japanese pupils to this school was not in the nature of a discrimination.

"Several instances following the great earthquake and fire contributed to bring the race question to an acute stage. As you know, 200,000 people were rendered homeless by the fire, and when affairs began to get in a little better shape, some dittle time after the calamity, there was, of course, a great demand for lodging. The Japanese, by outbidding white tenants, managed to secure houses in the most desirable residential portion of San Francisco, and those houses were in practically every case operated as a Japanese tenement and lodging house. For instance, in a number of cases Japanese secured leases on houses by offering the owner three or four and even seven times as much as his present tenant was paying, and in addition taking a lease for five years. Property values and social conditions in the immediate vicinity of these Japanese tenements contributed to bring the race question to rather an acute stage.* I firmly believe, however, that the Japanese and American governments have at bottom too much good sense to become involved in an international imbroglio as a result of something which is at best little more than an unfortunate misunderstanding."

\diamond \diamond \diamond \diamond TRUST NEWSPAPERS ATTACK DAVIDSON

It will be recalled that Attorney General Davidson was bitterly and maliciously attacked when he moved on the livestock exchange trust and the beef trust. Now he is hammered and harassed for attacking the Waters-Pierce Oil trust. The public official who stands for the people against Standard Oil need expect no mercy, no quarter, no justice. Years ago Frank S. Monett, a Republican attorney general of Ohio, opened fight on the oil trust monster. He was hounded out of office and out of the Republican party by trust newspapers, trust politicians and trust methods. Things have changed since Monett was crushed for daring to stand for the people. Public sentiment has changed, the people refuse to be driven like dumb cattle to the polls-even in Ohio. A public official, who is fearless in the discharge of his duty and loyal to his oath of office, should be backed by the people even if a last ditch fight should be necessary. Hadley, of Missouri, cut the ground from under the conspirators of that state. He will be the Republican nominee for governor in 1908 as a reward for his services. Ten years ago Monett was crucified. For doing the same work, in another state, Hadley will be glorified. "De sun de move, Brother Jasper."-Dallas Times-Herald.

STOCK FARMING

The Abilene Country Colonel H. L. Bentley, for a quarter of a century a resident of the Abilene country, was, in the city in attendance on the meeting of the Texas Real Estate and Industrial Association, of which he is an active member and for which he is an enthusiastic worker. The colonel has always been a close observer and was at one time in charge of the experiments in range improvements in central Texas, the reports on which sent in by him are looked upon as authority by the government at Washington. The colonel was in one of his usual cheerful moods and was willing to talk of his section, "When we speak of the Abilene country, it should be understood that that term includes some eight or nine counties, which are all almost identical when it comes to natural characteristics, soil, products, climate, and health, one varying but little from the other. The term was given when the Texas & Pacific road was first built and the town of Abilene in better shape than now as to stock and agricultural possibilities. The people are in good condition financially, and have no fear for the future. All the crops, which include cotton, wheat, oats, barley and rye, corn, millet, sorghum, milo maize, Kaffir corn, duro corn and Colerado grass have yielded the usual good crops and in some instances, such as cotton, the crop has been abnormal. There is an idea among the people and it is encouraged the present success in making a success of agriculture in the Abilene the atmospheric conditions, which has it possible thereby for the farmer to in former days it was the rule to fail There never was a greater mistake for the change has been so small, if any, that it is hardly worth mentioning. To prove my assertion it is only necessary for any one to examine the weather bureau in Abilene and note the observations during the term of years since it has been established.

Later reports show that the precipitation during 1904 was below normal, while that for 1905 was 33.06, considerably above normal, the total average for the entire period, 1905 to 1906, being about 24.60. That for 1905 was not so great as that for some other sections, north and east, but as compared with a number of localities where agricultural land is now selling from ten to twenty times higher, it indicates a condition so far as mois ture goes, for crop growing, more favorable even than most of them, and very nearly as favorable as the others The average precipitation, it is safe to say, is now 24.60, which may be regarded as normal in this section. In this connection it should be stated that a continuous drizzling rain seldom occurs in the Abilene country, rains as rule lasting but two or three hours at most, practically every day having its share of sunshine and clear, pleasant weather.

"If the rainfall has not increased annually to any great extent, as the records show, how is it that there is a continuation of success in agriculture in the Abilene country?" some one

conditions. No man can come out there from east Texas, middle or north Texas and succeed if he persists in using the cultural methods in vogue in those sections. He would make an absolute failure. There have been in every neighborhood men who used their intelligence, put on their thinking caps and made a study of the soil, etc. They found that the way to make a crop was to plow deep, pack the earth underneath the surface, plant their seeds on this and then cultivate the surface and keep the dust moving. There are plov now in use among them that enables them to carry out this method and it is in the nature of dry farming, and enables them make a crop regardless of what the rainfall is. Newcomers soon learn to consult the older settlers and then make good by following their instructions. If one will hark back to older counties to the east of the Abilene ountry and make a study of the condition, past and present, in these counties, he is most likely to find that they pursued the same methods, probably, or similar ones, to insure the present fine crop conditions they have. I cannot in an interview of this sort, go into details as I should like, but from the above it will be seen that the change in precipitation has not been of such a character as to account for the agricultural possibilities of the section nce known as in the dry country.

"Potatoes of every variety, sweet and Irish, yield enormously; peas, beans, onions, beets and other similar crops grow and mature so satisfactorily that the section has a good right to be classified as a garden section of Texas. Fruits, such as peaches, pears, quinces, berries and in fact, every species grown in the temperate zone, grow to perfection and ripen perfectly, and their flavor is quite equal to that of the Pacific coast fruits. "Cattle, horses, mules, sheep and goats until quite recently have constituted the principal available wealth of the section. The conditions as to climate, rainfall, water, native grasses and forage plants were all especially favorable to the livestock industry. The natural conditions in 1906 are quite favorable for the livestock industry, as they were in former years, except that instead of large herds of cattle, horses and sheep, roaming almost at will on free grass, now livestock are fenced in on pastures of farmers and stockfarmers, who have purchased and now hold the lands under titles that the courts hold to be good. It is the current opinion of those not informed on these subjects that in consequence of the changes noted are of superior quality. In no other section of Texas are to be found cattle, horses, mules and sheep that class better on the pastures and on the market than those now in the Abilene country, and the grade is improving every year. Any one who will visit the West Texas fair any year will be easily convinced that what is said here is correct. It is a delight to tell of the various advantages of the Abilene country and to the readers of the paper there will be some surprises in some of my statements, but there is not one which is not a fact susceptible of proof. One other thing and I am done talking on the subject. The agrostologist of the United States department of agriculture reports that there are quite 350 varieties of native crasses in Texas, and very nearly, it not quite 175 of them in the Abilene | of the cotton crop to any extent. They country, which is in central Texas. In 1897 I had the honor of being selected by the agrostologist to make a field inspection and report as to the range conditions of the southwest, and as to native grasses and forage plants of central Texas. I found and reported change greeting his old friends and making new ones at a rapid rate. "Yes, I am living now in historic old 'Santone,'" said the Captain, "and my ranch interests are all now down in southwest Texas in the chaparral country. I bought 30,000 acres of the well known Millett ranch in La Salle county and made no mistake in doing so. This is an ideal cow country and about the best winter pasturage anywhere in Texas. There is always something for cattle to feed on when there is no grass, which don't happen often now, even in the thicket chapparel. The soil is as good as the red sandy out in the Abilene country, and if there were any prairie dogs it would be identically the same. The soil is six or seven feet deep and with a fine subfoundation of clay, which holds water like a cement tank. It produces any kind of crops. Cotton, corn, milo maize, Kaffir corn, sorghum, ribbon cane, onions and every known kind of vegetable. Its productiveness is something wonderful and when the whole country is turned into farms the total value of its products will be almost incalculable. The question of water, which has always been of supreme importance to cattlemen, has been settled definitely in that section. I have had wells driven one hundred and fifty feet and the water rose to within forty feet of the surface and was inexhaustible and of a singular purity. I am having a deep well bored for artesian purposes and if 1,000 feet is not productive of results. I will send it down deeper. I have no fear that the first figures will not be a producer of flowing water, for a fellow ranchman a little ways below me has gotten a fine flowing well at 700 feet. Speaking of cotton, it is a fact that when the farmers want to get ready for the next year's crop they simply cut down the old stalks near the ground and plow a furrow, throwing the dirt over the stubble and the cotton stalk goes to growing and thus the early bales that are put on the market from down there are produced. There is not frost enough to kill the stalk down into the ground. Grass is green now and the weeds are growing all right. There is a perfect rush of people into that section looking for homes and men buying up the land for speculative purpose. It ""'t be long until a big ranch will be a rarity and when the country is cleared up and planted to crops and hundreds of homes dot the

landscape, it will be a land of promise

H. N. Hanson lives near Meridian, is a stock farmer. He brought in a load of mixed cows and hogs, the result of his farm and stock operations. "I am a Dane by birth, but have been in Texas for a long number of years.' said he. "I lived first in east Texas and finally moved to Bosque, where I have made my home. Our crops have been very good this season, especially cotton, that has made good, and will make more than is thought by most people. We have had some boll weevil this year, but we have become accustomed to them and have become to have quite a feeling of sympathy for them; they seem to have been so very badly misjudged. Of course, we thought as the others did and do as to their rascally predatory habits and bitterly condemned them as violators of our sacred rights to raise cotton undisturbed by these or any other outsider. For some reason or other they have begun to leave us and the damand does not affect the general result have come as the army worm did at one time, stayed until their welcome wore out and then gradually departed. I can remember during that dry season that every one remembers in 1887. when almost all crops in Texas failed. I lost all the wheat I had planted from drouth and afterward later planted it to cotton. It grew beautifully and despite the dry weather bid fair to make a fairly good crop, when the army worm walked in and I got only four bales for my trouble. I breed hogs, in a very few years. Corn is selling for 35c, with no prospects of a drop.'

W. G. Kingsbury of Morgan was a visitor on the yards and in the exchange, bringing nothing to market, but was just looking over the stuff that others had. "I have 5,000 acres of pasturage which I rent out to stockmen who desire grass and I also have 700 acres in cultivation, but personally I do not cultivate an acre, but rent out all of it. The cattle and crop conditions down with us are all good and the farmers have all done well this year. The crops of small grain turned out better probably with us than in most parts of Texas. Corn was a good crop and harvested a good average. Cotton was an average good crop, probably half a bale will be the minimum average per acre. Feed crops turned in an excellent yield and there will be an abundance of food for stock till another crop or till grass comes, as we say down in Texas. Grass has been very fine all the year and is still of vast benefit to the pasage they are doing now is not great turemen. The cold weather did no damage with us and in fact was not so very cold after all, only it was a little bit earlier visitor this time than is usual with such chilly neighbors. There are a good big lot of stuff being fed at and near Morgan. One part alone has probably 1,500 head that are being full fed. Stock farming is a growing industry in our county and there are a good many fine stock in the county. Hogs are being given more attention and the surplus that will be available for market is growing all the time. We have before us all the time the example of our snow

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE

J. W. Biffle of Ryan, I. T., was on the yards with a car of hogs. "Hogs

The fire that came so near doing such

serious damage to our citizens burned

over a considerable distance. It began

a little northeast of Ryan and burned

if to Mud creek, where it was stopped

this being a distance of ten miles, and it extended east and west for a space

of seven miles, every blade of grass

within those lines being burned up entirely and many of the corn fields were burned over. There was a huge crop of crab grass in the fields and the fire

went like wildfire when it reached one.

The standing corn had all the shucks

burned off and the corn was left

shucked to hand. This has not hurt

the corn for feeding purposes and thus

It is not a total loss. There were some severe losses, among the most serious

being that of Captain Majors. He lost

all of his grass except enough for 800

head of cattle. He had 10,000 bushels of corn, 5,000 pounds of cotton seed

and some five hundred tons of prairie

hay. This property was in emminent

danger of destruction for a long time and it was only by the very hardest

kind of work that it was saved. Some sixty men came from the surrounding fire. At such a time as this everyone is interested in helping his neighbor,

for no one knows when his turn may come. Without this assistance the fire could not have been beaten. It traveled, when it struck the high sage grass, like a race horse. To expedite matters an old tent of large proportions was taken, folded and with two horses hitched to two corners was used as smotherer. A heavy man was placed on the tent to hold it down and to urge the horses. The horses were made to straddle the fire and then put into a run and smother the fire, men

following to whip out what should not

This machine was very successful, but

Arizona Conditions

A. L. Jack lives way out in Arizona in the city of Globe, which is situated in the mining district so noted in the United States. "Arizona voted largely against joint stateneod which included New Mexico in the deal. My own opinion, however, is that it would be a good thing for both territories if the double statehod could be carried out. New Mexico voted for the plan and they were right. The influences of the big corporations are too paramount to Arizona to permit of an honest vote cast by the real people who have the true interests of the territory at heart. Arizona is dominated by the big corporations and they have no desire to bring about statehood, which would give the people a chance to put the curb on some of their ravenous plans. One mining corporation alone in the Globe mining district, and there are many more, pays out in wages alone each month as much as $175,000, and of course its influence is not on the side of joint statehood. I am here for the purpose of buying hogs. I find that it is not easy to do this, not at least as I thought it would be. Freight rates from here to Globe are monstrous, especially when you strike the Arizona and New Mexico end of the roads that lead for El Paso, and that El Paso to Globe over the Southern Pacific, a distance of a little over 300 miles is something over $2, so it don't do to pay anything approaching fancy prices for live stock here and ship it nome. This rate business, both passenger and freight, is one of the reasons why the big corporations do not want joint statehood or any other kind if they can prevent it. The cold snap was pretty severe in Arizona, but we

of tricky lawyers."

"Matters relative to cattle and other range stock interests down in the southwestern part of Texas are in as good condition as one could wish at present," said Captain Jennings. "We have had plenty of rain and no cold weather to amount to anything, and of course our section under those conditions is prepared to virtually "blossom as the rose," even during midwinter, There are a good many other things besides grass that can be accounted as cattle feed that grow down in our section that will help to fatten cattle and keep them so. Among these are the tallow weed, and in the early spring the wild pea vines begin to grow and between the two there is little chance for the cow to go hungry. The Old Mexico side of the range business is about in as good condition now as the Texas side and all stock interests there are doing well. I am going to look up John Lytle. He is going to go south to San Antonio just as soon as he can go conveniently, and move about in his old range and see his old friends and neighbors, whom he has known for nearly fifty years, and it is believed that this will bring him around with jerk sure and restore his health to its former ruggedness. He went over to his ranch in Mexico and remained a month and gained ten pounds. While everything was done with the warmest friendship and a desire to aid in rehabilitating him, I am handle was taken too late in the season and the cold of the high altitude of that section told against him, instead of benefiting, as was intended. If he gets up into the Bandera mountain country, where he is so well known and which is such a fine, warm, I ing an average of half a bale to the

Selling Ranch Lands Clabe Merchant, the noted cattleman of the Abilene country, was in the city at his old familiar quarters at the Delaware. "Matters are going along as well as they have," said he. "Everybody is doing well, the farmers and stockmen especially. I am selling of my land up to about 600 acres around the home place I have still 1,800 acres to sell. Prices are good and I sell and take notes at 8 per cent. This makes it easy for homeseekers to get homes and they cannot fail to make enough off the land to meet the paper when it is due. I have bought some lands down in Reagan county which are cheaper than lands in the Abilene country and make good cattle feeding grounds, and it may be some time before settlers begin to rush in. Jim Paramore is out in Arizona shipping his stuff to market. He is selling off his lands at good figures down in Runnels, where he had 18,000 acres. bought, as you know, some land in Mexico and intended to make it a fine cattle farm. for man or beast."

Big Ranches Scarce J. H. Bray who resides in Cooke county at Valley View and is engaged in the stock business. "I am in with some hogs today," said he. "We did not suffer much from the cold spell that has been talked about so much. In fact it was not so very cold, not any colder than it was in Fort Worth. Cotton is about all picked and ginned. It was not damaged much and is mak-

Grass is in very good condition up till now and cattle are not suffering to any extent. Of course winter is a bad season of the year for stock of all kinds that has to live in the open, but big ranches are pretty scarce now and when cattle are directly under the eye of the owner or his help it is carelessness surely when stock are hurt or die from cold. Everybody can put in enough protection to allow the stock to kep warm and dry in this country, for wheat straw will make a fine one and the stock eat it at the same time"

Uses Good Cattle R. H. Harle has his residence here in Fort Worth, but has ranch interests in Throckmorton county. "I have 9,000 acres of fine land in Throckmorton county," said Captain Harle, "and am stocking it with good grade cattle I bought a herd of thirty-six registered Durham cows and use these for breeding bulls for my purposes. This class of stock makes fine beef and sell well on the market. They fatten easily and are a smooth, fine looking cattle. Grass is very good and everything is wintering well so far. Conditions Are Good

J M Cunningham is a citizen of Callahan county, living at Putnam on the Texas and Pacific ten miles east of Baird, "We can't complain out our are so protected by mountains that it way," said he "over our condition did not hurt. We have snow in the this year, for all our crops and cattle interests are good. Cotton is realizing to the farmer from a bale to a bale and a half to the acre and just north of us in Stephens county they report that as much as two bales to the acre have been made. I have a ranch and farming interests and am interested always in the prosperity of these particular industries, thru which nearly all the circulating medium gets into circulation among our various other industries. Cattle are all in good shape and it looks as if they would go thru the winter in excellent condition, for the new grass in the spring. Grass is in good winter condition and is hay on the ground. I have grade cattle which for ordinary range purposes are good enough for beef. The corn crop was not quite up to standard on account of so much rain.'

In Good Shape "I am from Kopperl," said Steve Bailey, "and I would like you to explain that I am plain 'Steve' and am not a senator nor member of the legislature from Texas. Some of the Baileys seem to be getting into trouble, but it's not I by any means. I am only a stockman and don't get into trouble, except with the railroads. To establish an alibi I have brought in a mixed load of cattle and hogs for the market. Kopperl is not far from Morgan, where my two friends who have just been talking to you hail from, Kingsberry and Abernathy I allude to, and certainly a fine country and has a large variety of fruits and vegetables as they have given you a history of what conditions are in their 'neck of the woods,' I can only repeat what has been said as to general conditions and only add that we have all that they say they have, and a little bit better. Every stock interest is in good shape and the farmers are all safe thru the harvesting and getting to think of the Christmas festivities, in connection with which hog killing and good living are prominent.

county, Texas, but now doing business here, and a man well known as a stockman and buyer and seller out that way, paid a flying trip out to the Big Springs country and north of there, looking over the matter. "You know that I lived and practically 'growed up' out in the range country of West Texas, have owned cattle and known a good condition when I look things over, and I can say with truth that I have never looked on the range in better condition for this time of the year, altho it has had the recent cold snap to pull it down. Cattle do not appear to have suffered to any great extent from all that I could learn, altho, of course, they suffered some in places. Altogether matters with the cowman are mighty good just now, that is, on the range, and everyone seems content. I did not stop at my old home in Abi.

Fine Winter Outlook

lene, but the town looked all right as

I passed thru."

Colonel M. Sansom returned from the southern part of the state with very encouraging reports of conditions in that section of the cattle country "I went south as far as Corpus Christi and then over west to the International and Great Northern railway to the Cotulla section, and everywhere the country was in an elegant condition for the winter and stock getting along nicely. There has been plenty of rain to keep things growing and as no frost had fallen there before I left, there was a fine growth of new grass and of the tallow weeds. Cattle are in excellent condition and there will be quite a number to come out some time whenever the owners make up their minds to try the market. There was nothing of special interest to note and nothing that would of interest to the general public by publishing."

S. P. Fowler came in from Chillicothe with a couple of cars of cows. "I am ranching with White & Ray, who have a headquarters place of five sections near Chillicothe and a main ranch out near Tulia, in Swisher county. They raise grade stuff, crossed ball-faced and Durhams. The cold spell was a corker, sure," said Mr. Fowler, "and damaged to some extent things around Chillicothe, but what was done out in Swisher has not been accurately determined and cannot be until full returns are received of its effect. Cattle were all in good condition, however, and it is not probable that the losses will be as great as they usually are when such an early snap strikes the country and so cold, and the stock are thin and the grass is poor on the range. Altogether the range is in a much better condition this winter than usually is, and the cattle have been on good grass all the summer and fall. The country around Chillicothe is now almost a farming country, and except along the river there is very little grass lands left. Lots of wheat sown and oats later along. Cotton has also taken a hold upon the people and it is all the talk."

Looking for Feeders

Captain Browning, who lives a few miles out from Hillsboro, Texas, was on the market looking for something that would suit his ideas of feeders. He has on feed now 200 head of steers and wishes to purchase several hundred more if he can find what he wants. Lots of rain had fallen in the Hill county section and during the cold spell he had been told that the wood and coal had given out in Itasca and they were compelled to resort to cotton seed hulls to burn in an endeavor to keep warm. As far as crops are concerned they are all right and there is a probability of a large increase in the per capita that will be put in circulation after the crops are disposed of

No Damage Done

Colonel E. T. Ambler returned from a visit to his stock interests in Garza county, the Llano Cattle Company, of which he is the president. "The recent cold snap did us very little harm," said he, "on our immediate holdings, We are very well prepared at all seasons in any year for eventualities, but this winter our stock was in such fine fat condition that it was hardly possible for damage to done even with a more continued spell of bad weather. We have ample winter protection in the brakes of the plains country, and with plenty of good grass cattle ought not to suffer. It was another matter further north on the plains itself, for there there is no natural protection at all and the blizzard has full sweep for a thousand or two miles at least without a single break the whole distance and a down-hill pull at that. Around Amarillo it was very bad indeed, so reports say. Our stock is doing well at present and the prospects for a good winter all thru are encouraging."

Synopsis

Helen Davis has just returned from a three years' trip to Europe and on her return breaks her engagement to her foster brother. Arthur, made in her girlhood days. Soon after her return she is invited by her rich aunt to a aire James Harrison, and others. Her aunt proposes that she try and captivate him. The very first night Helen is successful, enchanting him with her music and her manners. The next morning the house party is broken up by the illness of one of the members and Harrison takes Helen for drive, visiting a newly-purchased country home. She is absorbed in it and Harrison proposes and is accepted for his money's sake. Helen returns home to find her father gone on a visit and she returns to her aunt. Meanwhile her poor poet lover, Arthur, is very sick.

Helen remembered with a start havng heard some one say that Mr. How ard was better. "Auntle." she cried "he won't be at lunch, will he? I don't want to see him. "He won't, dear," was the reply; "the doctor said he could leave his room today, but it will be afterward, when you have gone driving with Mr. Har-"And will he leave soon?" asked

Helen, shuddering; the mention of the invalid's name had instantly brought to her mind the thought of Arthur. "He will leave tomorrow, I promise; he probably knows he has caused us trouble enough," answered Mrs. Roberts: and then, reading Helen's thought, and seeing a sign upon her face of the old worry, she made haste to lead her down the stairs.

Helen found Mr. Harrison in conversation with a tall, distinguishedooking man in naval uniform, to whom she was introduced by her aunt; the girl saw that the officer admired her, which was only another stimulant to her energies, so that she was at her cleverest during the meal that followed. She accepted the invitation of Mr. Harrison to go with him to Fairview during the afternoon, and after having been in her room all the morning, she was looking forward to the drive with no little pleasure, as also to the meeting with the architect whom Mr. Harrison said would be

It seemed once as if the plan were to be interrupted, and as if her excitement and resolution were to come to naught for a telegram arrived for Mr. Harrison, and he announced that he was called away to New York upon some business. But as it proved, this her on in carrying out her defiant resolution, for Mr. Harrison added that he would not have to leave until the evening, and her aunt gazed at the girl significantly, to remind her of how little time there was. Helen felt her heart give a sudden leap, and felt | ence between a technical study and the a disagreeable trembling seize upon

ner: her animation became more fever ish yet in consequence. After the luncheon, when she ran ip for her hat and gloves, her aunt with a laughing assurance that everyout into the hallway; she did not go saw caused her to spring quickly back and turn pale. "What is it?" whispered her aunt, as

Helen put her finger to her lips. "It's he!" replied the girl, shuddering; "wait!"
"He" was the unfortunate invalid, who was passing down the hallway upon the arm of Lieutenant Maynard. Helen shook her head at all her aunt's laughing protests, and could not be tant and vague; her one wish was that induced to leave the room until the he might stay and give her time to induced to leave the room until the two had passed on; then she ran think.

other door, sprang into the carriage with Mr. Harrison and was whirled away, waving a laughing good-by to The fresh air and the swift motion scon completed the reaction from Helen's morning unhappiness; and as generally happened when she was much excited, her imagination carried her away in one of her wild flights of joy, so that her companion was as much lost as ever in admiration and delight. Helen told him countless stories, and made countless half-comprehended witticisms, and darted a great many mischevious glances which were comprehended much better; when they had passed within the gates of Fairview, being on private land she sang "Dich, theure Halle, gruss' ich wieder!" and laughed at her own cleverness quite as much as if her companion had understood it all.

After that it was a new delight to discover that work was progressing rapidly upon the trimming of the forest and the turning of the grassgrown road into a broad avenue; likewise the "hay crop" was in, and the lawn plowed and raked and ready for grass seed, and the undesirable part of which things Helen knew had been done according to her commands. And scarcely had all this been appreciated properly before the architect arrived. Helen was pleased with him, because for one thing he was evidently very much impressed by her beauty, and for another, because he entered so understandingly into all her ideas. -He and the girl spent a couple of the happlest hours in discussing the details of the wonderful music-room, a thing lightful possibilities than any other in all her radiant future; it was a sort of a child's dream to her, with a fairy godmother to make it real, and her imagination ran riot in a vision of banks of flowers, and of paintings of all things that embody the joys of music, the "shapes that haunt thruout's wildernesses." At night the whole was to be illumined in such a way as to give these verisimilitude. and in the daytime it would be no less beautiful, because it was to be almost all glass upon two sides. Helen was rejoiced that the architect realized the importance of the fact that "a musicroom ought to be out of doors:" and then as she made the further welcome discovery that the moon would shine in it, she vowed eagerly that there would be no lights at all in her music-room at those times. Afterward she told a funny story of how Schumann had been wont to improvise under such circumstances, until his next-door neighbor was so struck by the romance of it that he proceeded to imitate it, and to play somebody or other's technical studies whenever the and the architect laughed very heartily, and Mr. Harrison with them, tho he would not have known the differ-

Altogether, Helen was about as happy as ever thruout that afternoon, the one who watched her closely might have thought there was something followed her, but Helen shook her off | nervous about her animation, especially later on, when the talk with the archithing would be all right, and then ran | tect was nearing its end. Helen's eyes had once or twice wandered uneasily on, however, for something that she about the room, and when finally the man rose to leave, she asked him with a sudden desperate resolution to look over the rest of the rooms and see what he thought of her suggestions. The latter expressed himself as pleased to oblige her, but he would probably have been somewhat chagrined had he known how little Helen really attended to his remarks. Her mind was in a whirl, and what he said sounded dis-

in his and bent forward eagerly. "Then may kiss you, dear?" he asked; "you will not mind?"

And Helen bowed her head and answered, "No." In this same instant, as she sank forward, the man clasped her in his arms; he pressed her upon his bosom, and covered her cheeks and forehead with his passionate, burning his grasp, felt a revulsion of feeling so sudden and so overwhelming that it was an agony to her, and she almost creamed aloud. She was choking and shuddering, and her cheeks were on fire, while in the meantime Mr. Harrison, almost beside himself with passion, pressed her tighter to him and poured out his protestations of devotion. Helen bore it until she was almost mad with the emotion that had rushed over her, and then she made a wild effort to tear herself free. Her hair was disordered and her face red, and her whole being throbbed with shame, but he still held her in his

"No," the girl gasped. "You told me that I might kiss you," said; and she was so choking with er emotion that she could not answer word, she could only shudder and submit to his will. And Mr. Harrison, supposing that her emotions were very different from what they were, rested her head upon his shoulder, smoothing back her tangled hair and whispering nto her ear how beautiful she was beyond any dream of his, and how the resent moment was the happiest of his lifetime

"I thought it would never come, lear," he said, kissing her forehead again, "you were so very cold." Helen had not yet ceased fighting the fearful battle in her own heart, and so as he looked into her eyes, she gazed up at him and forced another ghastly smile to her lips; they looked so very beauagain and again, and he would probably have been content to kiss them many times more, and to forget everything else in the bliss, had Helen been

But she felt just then that if the strain continued longer she would go mad; with a laugh that was half-hysterical, she tore herself loose by main force, and sprang up, reminding the other that he had a train to catch. Mr. Harrison demurred, but the girl would hear no more, and she took him by the hand and led him to the door, still laughing, and very much flushed and excited, so that he thought she was happier than ever. It would have startled him could he have seen her

The two went back into the dining room alone, where Mr. Harrison stood leaning his hand upon the table, and Helen stood in front of him, her lips trembling. Twice she made a faint attempt to speak, and then she turned and began pacing up and down the room in agitation. Mr. Harrison was watching her, seeing that there was something on her mind, and also that her emotion made her more beautiful and more disturbing to aim than ever. At last Helen went and sat down upon a sofa at one side, and clenching her hands very tightly about her knees. looked up at him and said in a faint voice. "I had something to say to you, Mr. Harrison." And then she stopped, and her eyes fell, and her breath came very hard.

He had bent forward pleadingly, and his face was very close to hers, trying to read her heart. Perhaps it was well that he could not, for it would have frightened him. The moment was one of fearful suffering for Helen, tho there was no sign of it, except that she was trembling like a leaf, and that her lips were white. There was just a moment of suspense, and then with a cruel effort she mastered herself and gazed up at the man, a smile forcing itself to her lips again.

"What is it that you wish?" she asked. "I want you to care for me," the other said-"to love me just a little,

Poor Helen was facing gigantic shadows just then, and life wore its most fearful and menacing look to her, she had plunged so far in her contest that it was now a battle for life and death, and with no quarter. She had made the choice of "Der Atlas," of endless joy or endless sorrow, and in her struggle to keep the joy she was becoming more and more frantic, more and more terrified at the thought of the other possibility. She knew that to fail now would mean shame and misery more overwhelming than she could bear, and so she was laughing and talking with frenzied haste; and every now and then she would stop and shudder and then race wild on-

And so all thru the ride, because the girl's shame and fear haunted her more and more, she became more and more hysterical, and more and more desperate; and Mr. Harrison thought that he had never seen her so brilliant, and so daring, and so inspired; nor did he have the least idea how fearfully overwrought she was, until suddenly as they came to a fork in the road he took a different one than she expected and she clutched him wildly by the arm. "Why do you do that?" she almost screamed. "Stop!" "What?" he asked in surprise. "Take

"Yes," said Helen, shuddering; "it is horrible place." "Why, I thought it was a beautiful town," laughed he. "But of course it is for you to say." Then he gazed about him to find a place to turn the carriage, "We'll have to go on a way," he said. "The road is too narrow here. I'm sorry I didn't ask you, but I had no idea it made any difference.' They continued, however, for fully a mile and the road remained narrow, so that there was danger of upsetting in the ditch if they tried to turn. "What do you wish me to do?" Mr. Harrison asked with a smile. "The more we go on the longer it will take us if we are to go back, and I may miss my train; is your prejudice against Hilltown so very strong, Miss Davis?" "Oh, no," Helen answered, with a ghastly smile. "Pray go on; it's of no consequence." As a matter of fact, it was of the greatest consequence, for that incident marked the turning point of the battle in Helen's heart. Her power seemed to go from her with every turn of the wheels that brought here nearer to that dreaded place, and she became more and more silent, and more conscious of the fearful fact that her wretchedness was mastering her again. It seemed to her terrified imagination as if everything was growing dark and threatening, as before the breaking of a thunderstorm.

"You must indeed dislike Hilltown. Miss Davis," said her companion, smiling. "Why are you so very silent?" Helen made no reply; she scarcely heard him, in fact, so taken up was she with what was taking place in her own mind; all her thoughts then were about Arthur and what had become of him, and what he was thinking about her; and chiefest of all, because her cheeks and forehead had a fearfully houses of Hilltown drew near, remorse and shame and terror were rising, and her frantic protests against them were weakening, until suddenly every emotion was lost in suspense, and the shadows of the great elm trees that arched the main street of the town closed them in. Helen knew the house where Arthur lodged, and knew that she should pass it in another minute: she could do nothing but wait and watch and tremble. The carriage rattled on, gazed at by many curious eyes, for every one in Hilltown knew about the young beauty and the prize she had caught; but Helen saw no one, and had eyes for one thing, the little white house where Arthur lodges. The carriage swept by and she saw no one, but she saw that the curtain of Arthur's room was drawn, and she shuddered at the thought, "Suppose he should be dying!" Yet it was a great load off her mind to have escaped seeing him, and she was beginning to breathe again and ask herself if she still might not win the battle, when the carriage came to the end of the town, and to a sight that froze her blood.

There was a tavern by the roadside. low saloon that was the curse of the place, and she saw from the distance a figure come out of the door. Her heart gave a fearful throb, for it was a slender figure, clad in black, hatless and with disordered hair and clothing. In a moment more, as Helen clutched the rail beside her and stared wildly, the carriage had swept on and come opposite the man; and he glanced up into Helen's eyes, and she recognized the face, in spite of all its ghastly whiteness and its sunken cheeks; it was Arthur! There was just an instant's meeting of their looks, and then the girl was whirled on; but that one glance was enough to leave her as if paralyzed. She made no sound, nor any movement. and so her companion did not even know that anything had happened until they had gone half a mile farther; then as he chanced to glance at her he reined up his horses with a cry.

"Helen!" he exclaimed, "What is the matter?"

The girl clutched his arm so tightly that he winced, powerful man that he
