Chile agreed to pay Bolivia about two and a half million dollars in gratification for her claims, and as this money is being expended in railway construction in Chile according to advice received here, feel that they should be permitted to recover some of this money through railway contracts.

THINKS CONGRESS WILL DO LITTLE

Attorney S. H. Cowan Returns From Visit to Washington

Sam H. Cowan returned Thursday night from his trip to Washington, where he went in the interests of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association on the tariff revision and meat inspection questions. On his return trip he stopped off at St. Louis, where he attended the meetings of the interstate commerce commission dealing with the shortage of cars for freight purposes. Judge Cowan said: "It doesn't look as though anything will be done in congress except a few special matters, aside from appropriations. I don't think that congress will take up any plans for tariff revision, and that means any bill which seeks to extend foreign trade of the country by means of reciprocity. In my understanding the session of congress is regarded as too short to take up these matters. The meat inspection matter is going to come up in the agricultural appropriations bill and Senators Beveridge is tearing off his shirt to put a system of inspection fees on the packers, as he says. Of course it is popular to say that the packers ought to pay for the inspection, but anyone at all acquainted with the subject knows that the cost of the inspection amounts to about $2,000,000 a year, is added to the cost of the packing house business of the country the packers are going to saddle it on somebody. It is pretty hard to argue that they shouldn't do it, that is, unless it can be shown that the stockman can get their benefit than that of the public. It will be perfectly natural for them to work along lines of the least resistance, and that means that they would naturally put the burden where it could most easily be added, and that would be on the cattlemen. It doesn't take any argument in Texas to satisfy anybody who knows anything about the business to know that it is what would happen here. My understanding is that the packers made up their minds last spring that if the inspection fee system was applied that they would buy all live stock subject to inspection, and that if the animal or carcass was condemned in either case the shipper would lose it, whereas now the shipper only loses when the animal is condemned. This system can be said about it, that there will be a strong effort made in congress to adopt this fee system, and it remains with the stockman and the farmer of the country to prevent it, because the packers are making no efforts in that direction and if they adopt the plan which they say they will put in, of charging the fees against the account sale and deducting the condemned carcasses, and if the inspection fee system is put in after post mortem examination, it is difficult to see wherein they have any particular interest in opposing the inspection system. "It may be that the packers cannot adopt that sort of system as against independent concerns engaged in packing hogs, but it is quite plain that it could be adopted as far as the cattle business is concerned. "I want to give this warning to the stockmen, that unless they take a very active interest in defeating the inspection fee system it is liable to be passed and most probably will be. Car Shortage Situation "There are more stock cars today than there have ever been. There is a shortage of stock shipments at all markets during the period of the car shortage. The stock cars are used for other purposes, which has been a deliberate plan. The railroads have not prepared themselves in advance for shipping live stock which they would have to be shipped. The Texas lines have but few cars. They have hitherto depended upon borrowing cars from other lines, but have made no arrangements in advance. On the lines where stock cars are plentiful enough they have used them for other kinds of freight and consequently the railroads here could not borrow them. All of this was clearly shown in the hearing before the interstate commerce commission at St. Louis and Kansas City and was not denied by the railroad men present. The railroad representatives claim that they had ample motive power to move the cars, but all the shippers denied that. The situation amounts to this, that the railroads simply cannot perform their chartered duty."

WYLIE RANCH SOLD Thirty-Six Thousand Acres to be Cut Up for Settlers Special to The Telegram. BALLINGER, Texas, Dec. 22.—R. K. Wylie has sold his entire land holdings in this county and a very large percentage of the land is being cut up into small tracts and sold out to farmers at reasonable prices and on long time payments. The contract of sale has been made, and all that remains is for the title papers to be prepared and a deed passed to the purchasers. Judge Charles H. Willingham who has been Mr. Wylie's attorney for a number of years, states that the contract was made for approximately $400,000, the papers only call for $30,000 acres at $11 per acre, or $330,000. The land in this tract comprises some of the finest agricultural land in the county. The enclosure covers seven or eight miles of Colorado river front on both sides of the river and a very large percentage of the land is the very finest farming land. The sale means a great impetus to the country and particularly to the city of Ballinger. Not less than 200 families will find good homes there, and the system is liable to be passed and most probably will be.

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie are at present making their home in Mineral Wells, where they will probably continue to reside, tho it is expected by their friends that they will continue to spend a part of each year here. Mr. Wylie came to this county nearly forty years ago and has made his fortune in the cattle business, and by obtaining and holding land for the increasing number of years ago he sold 11,800 acres of the ranch to C. A. Doose and those interested with him, for a consideration of over $100,000. Rheumatism more painful in this climate than any other affliction, cured by Prescription No. 1831, Dr. E. W. Amend. FIRE DESTROYED FORT WORTH MAIL

Fire Discovered at Muskogee, Ind. Ter.

Word was received by Superintendent S. M. Gaines of the Eleventh division railway mail headquarters here by telegram of the destruction by fire of considerable mail in the storage car of the southbound train of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas at Muskogee at 11:30 o'clock Friday night. When the train arrived at Muskogee Conductor Brown, in charge of the train, discovered smoke issuing from the storage mail car, the second car behind the engine, and the doors were immediately opened and the Muskogee fire department summoned. The car was cut out from the rest of the train. The car was a car containing the thru mail for Texas points and a large amount of mail was also damaged by fire. The partially destroyed mail was unloaded and taken to the Muskogee postoffice, where an attempt will be made to sort out some of it and have it delivered. The car contained a great amount of St. Louis Sunday newspapers for Texas points to be played something over two years ago. Mr. Edeson, whose engagement in his play, "Strongheart," in eastern cities for the past two seasons have had successful results. He is now at Greenwall's opera house tonight at 8:15, one of the most welcome events of the season. Mr. Henry H. Harts will present Mr. Edeson in "Strongheart," which is a play of American college life, by William C. deMille, in organization. The play has won very flattering success artificially, to say nothing of the lucrative gain which is said to have amounted to a very large sum. The first of the season to play something over two years ago. Mr. Edeson, who has since his advance to stellar roles, been identified with Broadway, and his recent success has this time selected a type never before utilized for stage purposes—that of an advancing actor who has the influences of close contact with civilization, has desired to marry the woman not of his race, and while he has figured in the past as a successful actor, up to the present time the stage has not pictured it. Mr. deMille has been fortunate in his choice of themes and equally felicitous in the selection of the background against which to relate his story. The play is a drama of local and his scenes and picture events on and during the big football game of the season. His leading character is a young man of the name of Indian, the son of a mighty chief. Henry B. Harris has selected a company well educated to handle effective plays for the southwest. It includes Mary Boland, who has won much success as Mr. Edeson's leading woman today in the field and in the city, supported by Frank Mills, and he specially selected company of actors to be seen under the direction of Louis Netherole. Miss Netherole has achieved an undoubted triumph, one which she deserves by night and day. Her acting and her faculty for touching the right key of passion in her production of the play is a masterpiece. Miss Netherole's interpretation of the artist's model who becomes infatuated with the actor, is a strong and vivid portrayal. Her powerful emotional ability has no better medium than the character of "Sapho".

EYES OF A BOY TRANSPLANTED

Remarkable Operation by Doctor of Vienna

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—A Vienna dispatch says that at a meeting of the medical society there yesterday, Dr. Zirm showed a man on whom he successfully performed transplantation of the cornea. The patient had lost the sight of both eyes. By chance the surgeon had to take an eye of an 11-year-old boy, which was ruined by a steel splinter, but the cornea of which was intact. Dr. Zirm then cut slits in the opaque corner of the blind man's cornea and inserted pieces from the boy's eye. The experiment failed with one eye because the transplanted cornea thickened, but with the other eye it was so successful that it afforded the man almost normal vision. In this eye the transplanted cornea retains its transparency, although there is a slight veil over the eye. But the once totally blind man can read small print and can work.

SMACKS ARE RELEASED Mexican Higher Court Reverses Lower Tribunal Special to The Telegram. PENSACOLA, Fla., Dec. 22.—The Warren Fish Company of this city, owner of the fishing schooner Silas Stearns, seized some months ago by Mexican authorities at the port of Tampico, received advice Friday from his counsel stating that the higher court had reversed the case was appealed, had reversed the decision of the lower court and had ordered the release not only of the Silas Stearns, but also of the collector of the port, owned by the Mobile Fish Company, and the Adams, owned by the Gulf Fisheries Company of this city, and the owners can now secure their vessels by sending for them. All of these vessels were seized last summer, it being the contention of the Mexican authorities that what is known as the Campeche redsnapper fishing grounds are within the three-mile limit of the present United States territory, and this contention was upheld by the trial court but reversed by the higher court.

CANES CAUSE DAMAGE City Marshal Tells of Objections to the Use of Bomb Canes Speaking of one of the objections to the use of the bomb cane as a Christmas noisemaker, City Marshal Madrox said that one of the gravest objections to the use of that noisemaker was the damage that can be done to the heavy glass used in the sidewalk skylights now so frequent in the city. The conclusion of the explosion of the larger breed of the torpedoes used in these cases, when the blow comes fairly on the glass, will break it and in cases drive the fractured glass out of the socket. There are many basements in this city in which the sidewalks are illuminated, and the cost of the glass in such use will well up into the hundreds or even thousands of dollars.

HARRIS CONFESSES HE KILLED WOMAN FOR $500

Special to The Telegram. GOSHEN, Ind., Dec. 22.—George W. Harris, arrested for assaulting a policeman here, was sentenced to prison today. He made a long confession that he murdered Miss Sarah Schaffer, the Bedford teacher, two years ago. He signed the confession and the officials at Bedford are on their way to investigate. The confession is in part as follows: "I killed Sarah Schaffer, but I did not know it. I killed her thinking she was another woman."

"In January, 1904, just before I killed her, I met a man who said his name was A. C. White. He told me he was living with a woman who thought she was his wife, and he wanted to be rid of her, but did not know how. "After some talk about the matter he offered me $500 to kill the woman. "I waited and when the woman he described came along I caught her by the throat. I could hear bones crack. I choked her until I was sure she was dead. I then went to White and he gave me $500."

WAS FOR BAILEY BUT IS CONVERTED

George Laneri Says Limit Has Been Reached

"I have been a Bailey man all along thru this fight against the junior senator from Texas, until very recently," said George Laneri, a telegram reporter Saturday. "I didn't want to believe he was guilty of what he is charged with, but I have stood up for him and talked for him all at times. "But I have reached the limit and having studied the situation carefully, considering all the facts presented, I have reached the conclusion that Mr. Bailey is no longer the proper person for Texas to send to the United States senate. I have been hoping that Senator Bailey would disprove the charges against him, but instead he has simply made a defense by denouncing those who oppose him, and has brought out nothing to prove that he is not guilty. It is no defense to say that those who are fighting him are liars and scoundrels, and I can't stand for such. I am no longer for Bailey."

PAFRATH SENDS BOXES OF FLOWERS Many Receive Gifts from the Philanthropist For a period extending over twelve or fifteen years E. A. Paffrath has been in the habit of sending to many worthy charities and to his old acquaintances who may be unable to get for themselves the comfort of Christmas flowers, his collection of choice blossoms with his good wishes. They were as coming from an unknown donor for he would not permit his name to be used. Into a large number of the boxes he has placed the name of the donor sent the flowers and by the florists to gain permission for the use of his name, but that was steadily declined. This year he gave a liberal order to the Drum Seed and Floral Company, who have been in the habit for many years of handling the gifts of flowers sent by Mr. Paffrath and Mr. Drummond, an old friend, insisted that with each of the several donations the donor send in his card. The gifts this year are as follows: One box to Rescue Mission Home. One box to Mother Superior and Sisters of St. Joseph. One box to South Side Mission. Four boxes to City Charity of St. Joseph. Four boxes to Orphans' Home.

They will be locked with combination locks, the combination code known to the auditor's office, and the sacks will be taken out from time to time, as the business demands. Front street messengers, except when it is convenient for the conductors to personally deliver the sacks at the office.

CORPORATE CONNECTIONS

William J. Bryan, the great democratic leader, is printing across the top of the editorial page of his paper, the Commoner, the following great democratic principle in large type: "How to the line, Let the chips fall where they may. No man who is financially connected with a corporation that is seeking privileges ought to be a member of a political organization, because he cannot represent his corporation and the people at the same time. He cannot serve the party while he is seeking to promote the interests of the corporation, with which he is connected.

In a circular letter to his subscribers Editor Bryan says there are two things that must contribute to democratic success, and they are: 1. The presentation of democratic argument to the public. Every democrat should make himself a committee of one to get the democratic position before the public. Democratic agencies which present the democratic position clearly ought to be circulated, and local papers which champion democratic ideas ought to be heartily supported. 2. The democratic organization must be in sympathy with the people before we can expect their aid. We have no confidence in our party's declarations. Today the trust question is the paramount issue. The democratic organization and the candidates for office must stand out boldly against corporate domination in politics. Upon this proposition there should be no dispute.

If you believe with me in the importance of the democratic organization free from the taint of corporate control I urge you to apply the principle to your local and state organizations, as well as to the national organization. I can reach so many more people through the Commoner than I can by public address that I hope to make the paper of great service in setting forth democratic ideas and in the elimination of those from the party organization who would use the party to promote their private enterprises.

There can be no questioning where Bryan stands on the question that is now agitating the public mind in Texas. He stands squarely with the people of this state who believe that no man engaged in the service of the people shall be permitted to accept service of the hands of those combined interests that are pressing upon the people. He believes it is a duty the people owe to their country and themselves to scourge all such back to the walks of private life and compel public servants to only serve the public. That is sound democratic doctrine, and the great democratic party can afford to make no exceptions. No man can become greater than his party—no man can successfully override the will of the people.

BONAPARTE, THE TRUST BUSTER.

The placing of Secretary Charles J. Bonaparte at the head of the department of justice as attorney general of the United States, by President Roosevelt, is not regarded with favor by those who are acquainted with his corporate tendencies. It is pointed out that this appointment must exert a very limited effect on the situation, from the fact that it must give hope and encouragement to the great corporation influences the government is now grappling with, and is inconsistent with the President's announced policy of keeping up the fight against further corporate encroachments. In a public address delivered by Secretary Bonaparte prior to his entrance into the Roosevelt cabinet, he said: "Emphatically, no legislative action in regulation or restraint of combinations, whether by congress or by state legislatures is desirable. Our public men (with, I need not say, some honorable exceptions), are wholly unfit to deal with any such matters. The attempt will be highly demoralizing to all concerned, the practical results (except in the levy of blackmail) altogether nugatory."

It is evident from this very remarkable declaration that if Attorney General Bonaparte engages in octopus hunting his heart will not be very deeply in the quest. Congressman Smith, who represents the great Jumbo district of Texas, earnestly protests against the appointment of Bonaparte, and says: "I, for one, would like to know what Mr. Bonaparte has ever said or done to cause the people who are anxious over the trust question to look for any great or notable performance by him in the prosecution of trusts—unless he has radically changed his view upon this subject since the meeting of the trust conference in Chicago in 1899. I want to know now that they need not expect any performances—noteable or otherwise—by Mr. Bonaparte in the prosecution of trusts. Mr. Bonaparte made a speech before the congress, in which he took the position that the trust question would regulate itself, and he proposed any legislation upon the subject.

In discussing the tendency toward combination as an inevitable feature of our civilization, he said that we could not prevent it except at the price of liberty and civilization. He declared also that emphatically no legislative action in regulation or restraint of combination, whether by congress or by state legislatures, was desirable, and that any such attempt at such legislation would be highly demoralizing to all concerned, for the practical results, except in the levy of blackmail, would be altogether nugatory.

"What we people who are stirred up over the trust question," he would like to know, is, will Mr. Bonaparte endeavor to enforce the Sherman anti-trust law, believing, as he does, that such action on his part will not be a violation of liberty and civilization, or will he endeavor to preserve our liberty and civilization by refusing to enforce that law?

"No one can doubt that Mr. Bonaparte has sought the position which is satisfactory to the trusts, but how his appointment can be satisfactory to those whom the trusts plunder is not so clear."

CALLS FOR ANOTHER EXPLANATION

The Washington Post seeks to connect Senator Bailey with the loophole alleged to exist in the railway rate bill thru which the Standard Oil Company is seeking to escape. The Post says: "The attorneys for the Standard Oil Company, in the cases being tried in Chicago, claim immunity for their clients because of hiatus between the time when the Elkins law was repealed by the railroad rate law and the adoption by congress of the joint resolution extending the Elkins law for days when the law was to become operative. The ostensible purpose, and the real intent of congress, was to enable the railroads to become acquainted with the requirements of the new law. The joint resolution went over one day before being acted upon, and this, the lawyers say, created a hiatus of twenty-four hours when there was no law in effect. The rate law provided for the repeal of the Elkins law, but stipulated that cases then pending should be governed by the Elkins law, and that the rate law existing at that time. On page 822 of the congressional record of the joint resolution of June 23, 1906, appears the following: 'The Vice President—Is there objection to the present consideration of the joint resolution? Mr. Bailey—It is an easy way out of it would be to allow the senate to remain pending, and if the conference report is adopted in the senate tomorrow, then, after the rate bill is sent to the President for his signature, that the resolution can be passed thru both houses. Mr. Tillman—It has got to be approved. Mr. Bailey—It must be approved. Mr. Cullom—It can be taken up and passed by the senate immediately after the conference report shall have been adopted. Mr. Bailey—It can be passed here, and in the course of course would be communicated with, and he would not sign the bill until the joint resolution comes to him; and he can sign both at the same time. The joint resolution, at Mr. Bailey's suggestion, went over. It is now alleged by the Standard Oil Company that Mr. Bailey caused the condition of affairs upon which immunity is now claimed. It will be noticed that the Post quotes directly from the official record, and its evidence is neither forged nor stolen. But it may be that the Post is a member of the 'political conspiracy that has been formed in Texas' for the undoing of Senator Bailey.

Some of the papers accuse the Telegram of seeking for a candidate for the senate against Bailey, but that is all a mistake. The Telegram believes the people are the ones who should select a candidate and what satisfies the people will meet the approval of the Telegram.

President Roosevelt says that death should be meted out to individuals who conduct themselves as did the negro soldiers at Brownsville, and that assertion will meet with a hearty response from Southwest Texas.

Cullen F. Thomas is speaking in Comanche county, and he is handing out some warm Christmas presents to Senator Bailey and his adherents.

Among the Exchanges

Western Texas is being spoken of as "the land of opportunities." This may be, and doubtless is, true. But that section of the state has no copy right on the name. The term is applicable to the whole state, to one section just as well as another.—Terrell Transcript.

All Texas is a land of glorious opportunities and for that reason people are flocking to every portion of the state. Many of them are content to stop as soon as they cross the eastern boundary line, while others push on to other localities where they have been induced to make investments.

The Texas railroad commission is now deeply absorbed in the consideration of an inevitable feature in our civilization, the great Jumbo district of Texas. There's a prospect for gallons and gallons of sassafras tea.—San Antonio Express.

The railroad commission is getting down to very small things in the sassafras matter, but it may be that it expects in this manner to arrive at the root of the car shortage.

The day is going to come when Texas will be one of the greatest manufacturing centers in the Union. Her wealth of raw material and her proximity to the gulf make this a foregone conclusion. It is the towns that first get underway and are going to reap the greatest rewards.—Denison Herald.

It is just what Fort Worth thinks of the situation and serves to explain the great efforts that are being made for industrial development in this city. Fort Worth is rapidly becoming a great manufacturing center.

Actual settlers and not land boomers is what San Angelo and the Concho county need most. Come here to the country, plant your own apple tree and live under them in the prettiest country in the state.—San Angelo Standard.

Actual settlers are needed in every portion of Texas, and there should be a law to regulate the sale of land and speculation. Such people will soon get the price of land so high that it will materially interfere with the settlement and development of the country.

PRECAUTIONS

When lately Enrico Caruso took Lillian Russell to tea (I cannot see why he should do so, it's only what people tell me), she wore a creation of copper with rivets of steel up the side, reinforced with some Harveyized armor.

Her bodice was nicely steel-plated (It's a rather new wrinkle, I think) and her underskirt was a la princesse. Of a delicate pattern in silk.

Her... well, instead of newspapers, it was built up of nickel steel blocks, and with it she wore a sweet girle Of the latest design in Lake locks.

As I say, I don't know why she did it. But it must have been funny to see. When lately Enrico Caruso took Lillian Russell to tea, she wore a creation of copper with rivets of steel up the side, reinforced with some Harveyized armor.

J. W. Bailey, United States senator, representing the state of Texas and who stands at the head and in the front rank of the talent of the senate and whose record is untarnished and is invulnerable and reflects great honor not only upon himself but his constituents, and we trust that the poisoned arrow of his assailants may fall harmless at his feet. TEXAS PRESS AND SEN BAILEY

A FLIMSIFY FARCE

The Bailey organs are now attempting to show that the Standard Oil Company is persecuting Bailey. At first it was Hearst who had contributed a million dollars for that purpose, "to make anybody believe that they made the sweeping charge that Bailey was being opposed by all the trusts and corporations of the north. Now it is the Standard Oil that is trying to undo Bailey and the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. It is admitted and has been proven in Missouri that the Standard Oil Company owns 68 per cent of the Waters-Pierce stock and absolutely controls that company. Isn't it a farcical supposition that the Standard Oil Company was anxious to injure itself by fighting one of its branches and destroying the man who has proven itself to be the most successful of that branch? What has Bailey ever done to indicate anything but friendship for H. Clay Pierce or the Waters-Pierce Oil Company?—Brownswood Bulletin.

GREATNESS OF TEXAS

The case of Senator Bailey, now before the public, has reached a stage of investigation which result in a legislative investigation. More than that, it is beyond the understanding of the ordinary man, unless he has more facts than he has found in what has appeared, so far, in the public press. We think the public can well suggest that the legislature should be instructed their representatives to the legislature as they may think wise, care should be taken to do justice to no man, and the legislature should be instructed that if Senator Bailey should be re-elected the legislative representatives of the state should be instructed to take action in the past and start a precedent for all time to come, in state politics. Texas and the people are greater than any one man, and the people are far more important. We must be just before we are generous.—Glimmer Mirror.
