SOME HOT ARGUMENTS

Savannah, Ga., in Throes of Warm Political Campaign Special to The Telegram.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 29.-Savannah is in the throes of a hot municipal campaign. Jan. 8, a mayor and board of aldernien will be chosen and they in turn will choose the other city officials. The Citizens' Club is still 1 power and will make a desperate fight to prevent the People's Democratic League from wresting the city government from them.

Last night there were two rallies of the contending factions. At one of these Colonel William Girrad, the present city attorney, formally accepted the nomination of the Collins-Myers-Osborne faction for mayor. At the other George W. Tiedeman, nominee of the Democratic League, made an address. Both were largely attended and some hot arguments were turned loose.

Cunningham, district attorney of Abilene, was named as the candidate of the Bailey men for the state senate from the Twentyeighth senatorial district. No recognizance was made of the call issued by Roy G. Smith of Mitchell county and a committee was appointed t confer with William P. Sebastian Brenckenridge, who was recognized as the chairman of the district, in regard to a call for a primary. John D. Littler of Big Springs was elected campaign manager for the Bailey forces

He is being attended by Dr. John N. Carnachan, who said that while Mr. Cleveland's illness had been serious, it was practically over today. Mr. Cleveland attended a banquet in New York a week ago last night. After returning home the next day, he was suddenly taken ill with indigestion and was compelled to cancel all his Xmas engagements.

HIGHEST PRICE PAID FOR COTTON

Sunflower Staple Brings 231/4 Cents a Pound

Special to The Telegram. CLARKSVILLE, Texas, Dec. 29 .-The highest price paid for cotton in the state since the war times has been paid here by Nichols & Hooks, exclusive dealers in long staple, who purchased one bale of "Sunflower" cotton from B. F. Owens, a prominent farmer living two miles east of Clarksville at 23% cents a pound. The bale was grown on one acre of black prairie land and weighed 552 pounds at the yard, the field weight being 1,930 pounds. Mr. Owens had only one acre in this cotton this year and will reserve the seed, thirty-eight bushels, for which he has refused $2 per bushel, for next year's planting. The bale brought $126 and the sale of the seed at the prices offered would net a re-turn of $204.34 from the acre of ground. The staple of the "Sunflower" is short-er than that of the Allen, so extensively grown here, but the grade is pronounced prettier by cotton men,

Russia Is Getting Seriously Alarmed About Threatened Renewal

of Hostilities

Special to The Telegram.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 29.-Russia is getting seriously alarmed about the threatened renewal of hostilities in the Far East. Not only is Japan making ceaseless warlike preparations, but under her influence China is also sharpening her sword.

Count Witte's journal, the Slovowf, voices the apprehension and says: "Japan is arming and war is inevitable. Japan will seize the Amur province and perhaps will push forward as far as Lake Baikal. That is into the heart of Russia's Asiatic territory.

The fresh trouble between Russia and Japan appears to be over the fishery rights of the Japanese under the Portsmouth treaty, and also over Japan's claims to importation of goods to all European Russia via Siberia, as well as navigation on the river Amur. Japan's preparations, besides an increase in her navy, army and fortifications, include a railway from Rea to Mukden, with a bridge across the Yalu, which will enable Japanese troops to reach Mukden in five days. Japan has also a garrison in Nie Chwang, altho that port has been nominally transferred to China. In Southern Sakhalin, Japan is making military roads and could raise fortifications in a fortnight. Under the directions of the Japanese China is also making warlike preparations. Her huge army is being reorganized on European lines and already is marvelously efficient and wellequipped. In Manchuria the Russians regard a war with China as inevitable within a year or two, if not immedi-

The object of the threatened alliance of China and Japan against Russia is pretty obviously to turn the czar's forces out of Manchuria finally and completely, which Japan wanted to do in the last war.

Anti-Bailey Men Won Out in McLennan County Contest

Special to The Telegram. WACO, Texas, Dec. 29.-The Mc-Lennan county democratic executive committee late this afternoon ordered a primary for Jan. 12 to vote on the Bailey proposition. The vote was 19 to 13. The tickets will read for and against Bailey and will be held under the same rules as govern in the regular election law. None but qualified white democrats are to participate. Both sides put up a warm fight, but the anti-Bailey men were the better organized.

Chairman Abe Gross of the committee fought the primary stoutly, as did the attorneys, who gave legal opinions on that side.

Hon. Walter S. Baker, J. W. Davis. Robert H. Rogers and G. B. Gerald argued that another primary could be called, while Judge John G. Winter and Joe W. Taylor took the opposite view from a legal standpoint, James Dudley led the parliamentary fight for the anti-Bailey people in a highly adroit manner. The scenes were exciting as times, but good order prevailed most of the time,

Cardinal Gibbons Discusses | true that swift expansion of business Honor in Business Life

TELLS OF DANGER

Noted Catholic Divine Points Out Rocks on Which Society May Be Stranded

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 .- The indictment of George W. Perkins and Charles S. Fairchild for irregularities as officers and drectors of the New York Life Insurance Company, gives unusual point to a single article by Cardinal Gibbons under the title of "Honor in Business Life," which is printed in Van Norden's magazine, published today. Among other things, Cardinal Gibbons

"Business life in this day is allabsorbing. We are running the risk of carrying our enthusiasm for doing things too far past the sensible point when ambition to succeed and industry are still compatible with certain commendable enjoyments of the things of life that are good and pleasant. "Some of the modern seekers of wealth will sacrifice anything rather than be known for what they are. Clear and palpable dishonesty itself is shielded behind barriers cleverly constructed by the brightest minds in the country. Men of the highest standing in the financial world are guilty of acts as members of corporations which they would scorn to commit as individuals. This statement was made to me by the late James G. Blaine. I believe it to be true. The money craze with the corruption it has developed in this country, is, to me, the greatest of the evils we have to face. "Not only is it true that men of the highest standing take part in transactions in their capacity as members of a corporation which they could not be induced to take part in as individuals, but it has come to be true that the greater, the richer, the more powerful the corporation, the more the individuals composing it thrust the corporation itself to the front shielding themselves behind its great bulk. When men form themselves into a business league, their reputation is so overshadowed that their individual reputation is seemingly lessened. This is why many men in their corporate capacity assent to measures from which as individuals the dread of opinion or the dictates of conscience would cause them to shrink. "No friend of his race will quietly contemplate the grasping avarice exhibited by such heartless monopolies. "They endeavor, often it is feared. with success to corrupt onr nation and legislature and our municipal councils. "Throughout the whole of the United States, and of course in other countries also, there is today a net work of syndicates or trusts of companies and partnerships.

"The great question is how shall we remedy the evil? Undoubtedly correction will be found in the creation of a more intelligent and less complacent public sentiment.

"A corporation should be regarded as the sum of the entire number of individuals composing it and each member of that corporation should be held by the public to a full accountability for each and every act of the entire corporation. "It may take years to educate the people to this comprehension of the reason of the evils of monopolies but the work will never be undertaken unless one of us that call ourselves a good citizen does our part, and if corruption, graft and the many other evils growing out of our modern system finance are to be checked. "We are confronted with the question of placing restrictions upon the accumulation of great wealth by individuals. This question is perhaps more

"Unfortunately, it seems to be too

within the province of discussion of the master of social economies than within that of the churchman, but personally I think that depends more upon the man himelf than upon the amount

WHITE MEN AGITATED

Race Question Is Making Trouble in Dark Continent as Well in the Southern States

Special to The Telegram.

ATLANTA, Dec. 29.-H. T. V. Pickstone of Cape Town, Africa, is in this country to study the negro problem as it confronts the white people of this section. He says the white people of Africa, too, are disturbed and agitated over the race question and he has come to America to see how the enormous black population of the southern states is handled.

Mr. Pickstone is an extensive planter. He cultivates a large plantation near Cape Town and is dependent upon the negro for farm labor. He has lived in South Africa for fifteen years and has made a close study of the black man in his native haunts.

"My experience with the negro and of Africa and my information and observation of the negro and of the south convinces me there is no material difference between the so-called civilized negro and our semi-barbarous native," said Mr. Pickstone. "They are alike in many respects. "I am surprised that the white people of the south ever tolerated the negro as a voter, and I am in sympathy with the movement to disfranchise the black man. There are many negroes in South Africa who would take a hand in political affairs if the white people would permit. But we realize the unfitness of the negro as a race to participate in the affairs of government and we eliminate them from the ballot box by an educational

Mr. Pickstone says there is not equality between the races in Cape Town or Cape Colony. The whites refuse to recognize the negro as their equal and the superiority of the white man is so patent that no movement for equality has ever been inaugurat-

"The negro is inferior to the white man. He is fit only for farm labor and we are now experiencing trouble in keeping them on the plantations," continued Mr. Pickstone. "The tendency to flock to the cities is giving us much concern and I am in the south today to see how you people manage it.

"In Africa the negro will work just enough to earn a living and no more. If a negro can live on $2 per week he will work just long enough to earn the $2 and loaf the balance of the time. If we increase his wages we get less

THE SOUTHERN LEAGUE

Important Meeting Held at Bimingham, Ala,-New Rules Special to The Telegram.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 29 .- The meeting here at the Hotel Florence of the delegates from the Southern Baseball League teams closed tonight. It was the best attended meeting ever held, all the clubs being represented most of them by three delegates. The report for the year of 1906 showed the league in the best financial condition since its organization. All the clubs made money during the last season. The important changes in the rules are as follows: A recommendation by President Cavannaugh, which was a rule providing that in the future no manager shall be allowed to swap or trade a player or sell one to another team without serving notices on the president of the league that he intends to make the trade. Provisions was also made that managers shall first secure waivers from all other league managers before such trades of swaps or sale is made. This provision was bitterly opposed by Charley Frank. The three days' notice rule in case of swaps and trades goes into effect the first of the season One hundred and forty games will be played in 1907. The Castro case was placed at $2,500 and the number of each team was limited to fourteen. President Cavannaugh was re-elected president, Lowery Arnold, vice president, and R. V. Baugh of Birmingham was elected a director in place of J. Palmer of Nashville. The new board of trustees is as follows: President Coleman of Memphis, president Kuhn of Birmingham, Mr. Rather of Little Rock. The next meeting will be held at Atlanta around the end of Febru-

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany-with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt-I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without hat last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular rastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of atism is gone forever. There is now no and need-no actual excuse to suffer longer withont help. Murdered

Special to The Telegram. NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 29.-With a jagged hole in the breast, the body of Jesse Smith, son of Edward Smith, and nephew of Morgan Smith, the Pittsburg millionaire, was yesterday found in the woods near Advance, Va. Young Smith, who was only 17 years old, had been on a hunting trip with a party of friends, but failed to return to Advance with his companions. A searching party was formed and the body was found in the woods. The wounds were apparently made with a shotgun. Edward Smith, father of the young man, is convinced that a murder has been committed. It seems that young Smith became separated from his companions with the result that they returned home without him, believing that he had merely lost them in the woods. Detectives have been put on the case. No reason has been assigned why the young man should have met with foul play. He had no enemies so far as

Three First Choices Won in Saturday's Racing

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 29.-A noisy demonstration greeted the return today of Phil Finch, the popular idol of last winter at the Fair Grounds The old horse had the battle of his life and no one save the judges could say with any degree of certainty whether he had succeeded in poking his nose in the last stride in front of Minnie Adams or not. Thirty-three books did a good Saturday business and for once in a way the public held its own, as three first choices and three well backed horses won six of the races. Gold Proof in the first race showed very different form to which he exhibited last Saturday at City Park. Garner did not make his effort soon enough on Padre in the fifth. He seemed to think Shaw would come back to him. The Padre was soing best at the last, it was too late. At the last race Jake Marklin bid Shawana up to $1,500 and got the mare.

A Suicide, a Bank Robbery and a Peculiar Killing Special to The Telegram.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Dec. 29.-Fred Hatchet, son of a prosperous farmer near Arapahoe, committed suicide today by shooting himself. No cause is

The fifth killing in two months at Ripley occurred yesterday when Phil Jackson, a negro, shot his 16-year-old son, blowing off the top of his head. The two met in the field on the Moorehead ranch and exchanged holiday greetings. Jackson then raised his gun and fired. Tom Moorehead hurried him off to the county jail at Stillwater to escape a lynching.

JONES TO LEAVE WICHITA VALLEY

Rumor Says He Will Go Out Firt of New Year

Special to The Telegram.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Dec. 29 .-It is understood that Colonel Morgan Jones will go out of the management of the Wichita Valley on the first of the year. The Colorado and Southern-Rock Island-Frisco interests will take charge at that time. The road will be in Abilene on New Year's day. Thru trains will begin to run thru to Abilene at that time. The line will then begin to run from Byers to Abilene and there connect with the Texas and Pacific. It is thought by those who claim to know that the gap between Ardmore and Byers will soon be closed

The Fort Worth and Denver has always been very close to the Wichita Valley, but at the offices of the former company in Fort Worth nothing is known, it is said, about any impending changes of that kind. It can be stated with authority that there are some changes pending, and from the known relations between the Wichita Valley and the Colorado and Southern, which is one of the properties in a species of if not actual alliance with the Rock Island-Frisco system, there is great probability given to the story that such changes are pending which will give the control to the Colorado and Southern people. But the Wichita Valley is in the Rock Island-Frisco family, at least, and it will be no surprise to railroad men if the announcement is made that the Valley line has been taken over by the Colorado and Southern. Colonel Morgan Jones was in the city Saturday and had nothing to say at that time about the report, either in affirmation or denial.

Cear Killed By Train

Special to The Telegram. TEMPLE, Texas, Dec. 29.-Friday morning the engineer of the passenger train on the Santa Fe branch from here west, on rounding a curve near Antelope Gap, noticed a young deer on the track. There was no time to slow down the train, even by throwing on the air, and the animal stood motionless on the track mesmerized by the glare of the electric headlight as the machine of steel and steam came on full tilt. It is further related that all of the train crew had juicy venison steak for dinner on arriving home that

It seems that the stroke was made with the ax at or about the center of the head. A part of the brain can be seen in the head and a part in that part of the head that still remains with the chicken. The chicken is fed by means of a tube and spoon, and seems to be thriving all right.

Special to The Telegram. Bryan, Tex., Dec. 29.-The anti-Bailey sentiment which has been very strong in Bryan and vicinity since the early disclosures in the Waters-Pierce Standard Oil-Clay Pierce-Bailey affair, has reached the point where a number of the citizens have volunteered to donate a sum of money for legal services, if such a course is necessary to unseat Mr. Bailey, and in addition to this the prominent citizens of Bryan, of which J. E. Baker, mayor of Bryan, and John K. Parker, county Democratic chairman, are leaders, are discussing the necessity for calling another primary for the purpose of reinstructing Representative-elect W. C. FIREMEN'S STRIKE Davis, who is one of the very few Bailey men in this section. While Mr. Davis has been called upon on several occasions to state his position in the matter, he has had nothing to say further than that personally he was a Bailey man.

Which brings us back again to the statement that last week we had on Christmas eve Olga Nethersole and her company of English actors in "Sapho" and Friday night we had Miss Jane Corcoran and her Empire theater company in "The Freedom of Suzanne." The crowd to see "Suzanne" was larger than the one which saw "Sapho." The first-named play was by an author whose name did not appear on the program. Most theater-goers of experience know what that means. "Sapho" was written by Daudet, one of the masters of French literature and actresses to keep them from being wholly impossible. Miss Corcoran had an actress supposed to represent an English lady of title and save for the program her only apparent claim to the title lay in the fact that she wore a white wig done pompadour. One of the lords suggested very strongly a life insurance agent while the villain looked much like a jewelry clerk.

All this must be said despite the fact that "Suzanne" was a success considered from the way the audience liked it. Just why they liked it is not hard to see in that a sort of semicynical humor ran thru the play giving opportunity for plenty of false wit, the kind that makes laughs come easy. laughs that are not hard enough to strain stays or interfere with previously eaten large dinners. Whether Friday night's audience noticed that the leading actor, supposed to be living in Curzon street, London, was wearing what would hardly pass for afternoon dress in Philadelphia, at his own home at 12 o'clock at night, and entertaining a party of friends to boot, is doubtful. But you say, "We liked 'Suzanne' and she made us laugh?" So she did, but Charley Grapewin will make you laugh much healthier kind of laughs, or so will Lew Dockstader or Frank Daniels. This is not a sermon against laughing shows. Heaven knows they're too rare now.

The knocking part of this sermon is against plays that are neither farce, tragedy, comedy nor drama. So-called "society dramas," another euphemism for flub-dub and foolishness. The whole point of "Suzanne" was that a man was good-natured enough to let his wife have her fling and then in the third act win her back, not by love, but by his overpowering will, which he had to begin with. Two acts and a half might have been saved if he had used a buggy whip, or a chair, or a rolling pin to subdue Suzanne, which was all she needed. It was made plain that six months' experience of freedom did not conquer the willful wife. It was only when her former husband told her she had been shadowed to his rooms by a detective and that her visit under such conditions was compromising that she came to and consented to

This week we will have Louis James in "The Merry Wives of Windsor." It is to be hoped that James' well-earned popularity will be sufficient to get out a patronage which would probably otherwise stay away, because James as Falstaff is really very good.

'He's over there. I was agoin' to tell you dat he throwed my hat in the lake, but you wouldn't let me finish."

Louis James in "The Merry Wives of Windsor"

An evidence of the loyalty with which the public holds on to a favorite player and a meritorious performance is manifested this season by the enormous reception accorded everywhere to that Prince of Actors, Louis James, and his magnificent presentation of Shakespeare's delightful comedy, "The Merry Wives of Windsor." which comes to Greenwall's opera house for two nights and a matinee, Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 2 and 3.

The whole secret of this successful revival can be attributed to only one cause and that is of giving the public a popular player in a popular play with popular associates and a proper presentation.

Mr. James never gave a greater token of his consummate art than as the braggadocio, witty, sack drinking flirtaious "Fat Jack Falstaff," for he embellishes the role with that subtle intelligence, that discreet humor and that unctious personality which gives t substance, vitality and the keenest human interest. His chuckle is in itself a work of art, his make-up ideal and a facsimile of the famous painting of Sir John Falstaff by Ed Grutzner. One of the chief beauties of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" lies in the necessity for all good players in the cast. This Mr. James has realized, and has accordingly selected a coterie of associates of exceptional merit. Conspicuously at the head is that dainty and charming comedienne, Nellie McHenry, who has been specially engaged for Mrs. Quickly, a character

Norman Hackett, who has been Mr. James' chief support for several seasens, is also featured as Mr. Ford. Aphie James will be the mischlevous Mrs. Ford and Charlotte Lambert the demure Mrs. Page. Lillian Lancaster, sweet Anne Page; J. Arthur Young, Pistol; Nathan Aaronson, Mr. Page; William Chrystie Miller, Justice Shallow; Anna Millward, Robin, etc.

Of all Shakespeare's comedies there is not one that lends itself to the display of scenic beauty with as much propriety as this, the scenic investiture is upon a scale of "regal magnificence," while the costumes, accessories, electric effects, etc., will be perfect in every detail. The matiner will be given Thursday.

Coming Attractions

When "The Squaw Man" puts in his appearance at Greenwall's local playgoers will be given an opportunity to see John Harrington, who plays the bad man in the play, Cash Hawkins by name, and judge of the fidelity with which he has managed to transfer the very embodiment of the "rustler" of the plains to the stage. Mr. Harrington spent many weeks in carefully evolving this character from personal

One of the important dramatic events of the present season will occur when William H. Crane and Ellis Jeffreys put in an appearance at Greenwall's in the famous old play, "She Stoops to Conquer." Both these players have won for themselves an enviable place in the artistic world,

When Frederic Ranken and A. Bal dwin Sloane created the new fancifu fairyesque, "The Gingerbread Man." they also created a new character in the mythical child world. Mrs. Santa Glaus. In this play this character is portrayed in a spirit of delicious burlesque by Ross Snow, who has been seen as Fairy Queen, Dowager and feminine absurdities for a number of years. His is an awkward, stumbling, good-natured, comical Mrs. Santa. backed by a chorus of pretty girls dressed as good fairies. Jack Horner the Man from Our Town, Sallie Lunn, Margery Daw, Simple Simon and other friends of childhood days help to round out one of the most beautiful interesting and enjoyable entertainments seen in years. The stage pictures are marvels of splendor, while the mechanical and electrical effects are simply wonderful. "The Gingerbread Man" will be presented at Greenwall's opera house before long.

Lillian Russell's Great Tour Lillian Russell is making a complete

tour of the south and middl west in her new comedy, "The Butterfly," visiting a large number of towns in long been anticipated "The Butterfly" is a comedy of the most up-to-date variety, which was written expressly for Miss Russell by Kellett Chambers, a brother of the famõus dramatist, Haddon Chambers. The scenes are laid in New York city and Saratoga and Miss Russell's role is that of a fascinating young widow, who becomes involved in a remarkably ingenious and complicated series of matrimonial entanglements.

Manager Joseph Brooks has provided a notably handsome mounting for "The Butterfly," and the superior company includes such sterling comedy artists as Eugene Ormonde, John Flood, Fred L. Tiden, John Jack, Grant Mitchell, Charles Lamb, Roland H. Hill, Isabel Merrill Richards, Kate Griffith and Rosalie de Vaux. Miss Russell will wear a number of very beautiful gowns. Miss Russell will appear in "The Butterfly" in this city during the course of this great tour.

week will have an opportunity of witnessing attractions that are reputed to be the best offerings of the vaudeville stage. The program will be made up of exhibits of a varied character and will include some of the stars of the theatrical profession. The program will be as entertaining to children as to grown folks, for the management is striving hard in making selections that will please the little ones. Bert Levy, the celebrated cartoonist of the New York Morning Telegraph is the head-liner. In full view of the audience he will draw pictures of famous men and cartoons. Lorimer

MISS YAW THRILLS AUDIENCE Johnstone and Caroline Frances Cooke will be seen in an original sketch, "A Shave for a Wife," Fanny Hatfield and Marvelous Voice Sends Hearers Into her company will present their renowned statue posing, and Mile, Esmathilds will be heard in sexaphone and violin selections. Bissonette and Newman are a team of cadets who will introduce novetlies in fencing and Miss Lizzie Wilson will tell stories in German dialect. New pictures will be shown on the Majestograph.

Bert Levy.

To step from the stage of the art room of metropolitan newspaper to the vaudeville stage and at the same time continue work for the publication which has made him famous, has been the strange privilege of Mr. Levy, celebrated as an artist and lecturer. He is on the stage for half an hour and there is never a dull moment in that time. The artist sits at an easel and draws with a sharp stick on a little piece of blackened glass about two inches in diameter. As he draws his work is magnified 800 times. A spot light is thrown on the artist's hand and the audience sees every touch of his pencil on the original and its repetition hugely repeated on the wall of the studio. On the stage he uses no make-up, sitting before the easel just as in his New York studio, trusting to his wonderful personality and work to speak for him and he never fails to make good. His pathetic cartoon of the Frisco conflagration is one of his drawings made at every performance. Out of a smouldering mass of ruins ne deftly draws, line for line, a beautiful woman figure (emblematic of San Francisco), and with uplifted arms, appeals for sympathy. Mr. Levy oesn't let his audience remain sad long for he quickly transforms the Frisco cartoon into a comical head of the mayor or some local character and turns the tears to laughter. Lorimer Johnstone and Caroline Frances Cooke will present a one-act comedy, "A Shave for a Wife," which abounds in humorous situations, They never fail to bring forth plenteous applause. The scene is laid in the studio of Tom Dale in New York, a sister of Alice Dale, interpreted by Miss Cooke, who thinks very much of George Stanton, an artist struggling for honors. The comedy is written around the situations and funny part is brought out when Miss Dale enters the studio to find Stanton in the midst of shaving himself. The result is a happy union. "Snuffy" is another character in the comedy which he plays himself and aids materially in carrying out the action of the piece.

Fanny Hatfield and Company Fanny Hatfield and company, known as the "Three White Adonises," will be seen in statue posing and fancy dances. This is a unique act, entirely out of the usual run of statue posing. The stage is darkened and when the curtain rises the three white figures are seen against a dark background in representations of some of the prominent works of famous sculptors. Then the cute several pretty dances, returning to the back of the stage to finish their performance with more statue posing.

Mile. Esmathilde Mlle. Esmathilde will attend to the musical part of the entertainment. She is an artist in the rendition of classic selections on the saxaphone and violin. This is her first season in vaudeville. her present engagements being as soloist for the First regiment band of St. Louis. During the World's Fair Mlle, took part in many concerts at the fair and won many laurels. It is quite difficult for a woman to play the saxaphone, but this artist has acquired the art in great style.

Lizzie Wilson

Miss Wilson will give some German ongs and incidentally tell a few stories in the German dialect. She is a past mistress in the art of telling German stories and warbling melodies familiar to all, and no doubt will prove one of the features of the attractive bill.

CHICAGO MARKETS

General Weakness Was the Feature of the day on 'Change Special to The Telegram.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The wheat roarket was a tame affair today. The sent up large chunks of long wheat. Ordinarily the news of the day concerning that market would have induced enough buying to put prices up instead of down. Northwest receipts. were smaller an last year and the estimate of the world's shipments for the week was low enough to have given confidence to holders, had it not been for their weakening faith, caused by the previous day's decline. Weakness made fresh inroads on the prices toward the end. At the close December was 73 to 73 1-8c and May 77 to 77 1-8c. Altho the weather was less favorable for drying out the new corn and receipts might thereby be considerably lessened the market for corn was un able to maintain itself at first against the bearish influence of declining wheat. In the end December and May deliveries were at the same prices they were at the end of the previous day. Trade in oats was quieter than of late, and buyers were not in their recent form. They appeared willing to allow the trade to drift, but without fresh buying, the drift was downward for over an hour. The market was 1-10 lower at the close.

Few buying orders in the provision market at the opening induced sellers to press their offerings and prices for the products yielded easily. The total receipts of hogs in the west this week was 138,000 this year, against 149,000 the same week last year.

Wilson was attempting to cross Main street and a car coming from the stock yards, it is alleged, ran into him and knocked him down but did not run over him.

A lot was secured was not considered suitable either size or location, and again the Y. C. A. proposition floated on troued waters. A renewed movement for ganization was finally begun in Ocber, 1904, and since that time every fort has met with the most flatter. ig success. Ground was broken for he present home in August, 1905, and he next interesting feature was the one day's canvass for membership which was held last July. But one set of steps lead to the main floor, which assures every guest of a greeting inasmuch as the office is at the head of the steps and just to the right of the reception room. The woodwork thruout is attractive in its wax finish and at once the men's reading room, correspondece apartment and game room vie with each other for glances of approval.

The parlor, furnished by the History Club, is complete with plane and tasteful furniture, and immediately in the rear is the boys' department, which consists of music, game and reading rooms, which were furnished by the Woman's Wednesday Club.

To the right of the men's game room is the Cafetiere, one of the best features ever introduced in connection with a Y. M. C. A. home. At the noon hour and also at six in the evening, members may lunch in the cafetiere, which will be conducted on the dairy lunch plan inasmuch as each patron waits on himself. The European idea, introducing menus having the price of each dish, will be in vogue and many other novel ideas for the convenience and comfort of the patrons will be

Sleeping Rooms Upstairs

The next flight of stairs leads to a large tastefully fitted parlor and the sleeping apartments wherein twentyone neatly furnished rooms are rented to the members by the month. The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Taylor Street Presbyterian church, Miss Mattie Warren, the '93 Club and R. P. Smith have each furnished a sleeping room and the others, which are also neat, commodious and well ventilated, are none the less choice for comfort and The fifth or top floor will remain in an unfinished condition until further donations have been received and will later be utilized as class rooms for a night school and the west side subdivided into sleeping apartments. The stair leading from the reception room conducts one to one of the best patronized features, the plunge, shower and tub baths, with dressing rooms and locker complete. Further down the hall is the busi-

To the right is the gymnasium gallery and below one of the most complete gymnasiums ever provided for the development of Young America. Extra thick floor mats prevent serious bruises or fractures and paraphernalia of every description affords every opportunity for exercise. Other features to which the directors point with pride are the bowling alley, the heating system and the separate heating system for the baths and also the clever and sensible arrangement of the lighting system.

Regardless of the fact that the first men's meeting will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, reception week will he continued until New Year's evening and on the day following the entire building will be thrown open for Every department will be in charge of a special attendant and it may be truthfully said that the Fort Worth Y. M. C. A. is being and will be operated on a broader plane than any other similar institution in this section of the country.

NEED NEW FIRE BELL

North Side Department Is Often Short of Help

Chief John M. Buckland of the North Fort Worth fire department says he needs a fire alarm bell, and all the members of the department are of the same opinion. When a fire occurs at night, the small gong now in use is of little value in notifying the firemen, who do not sleep at the fire station. There are often fires when the de partment is compelled to go without sufficient help to handle the necessary hose, simply for the reason that there is no way of immediately communicating with them. The matter will be brought before the city council at its next meeting.

CONGESTION OF CARS

Much Freight From North and East to North Fort Worth

Notwithstanding the many miles of railway trackage in North Fort Worth there was a congestion of cars Saturday afternoon and several trains had to be handled in Fort Worth. This is due to the heavy shipments that are now being made to Fort Worth and North Fort Worth from the north and east.

Julie Opp's Husband Gives Exhibition of Muscular Christianity Special to The Telegram.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 29.-William Faversham, who was accomnanied by his wife, Julie Opp, thrashed a waiter in the Rittenhouse cafe when the man, who had been drinking, used a dish at Mrs. Faversham's head.

After the night's performance, Mr. and Mrs. Faversham went to the Rittenhouse cafe, at Twanty-second and Chestnut streets. They had no sooner taken seats than the waiter began to tilt things over and to make remarks which the guests promptly Mr. Faversham requested that the man's understudy be given the role. The waiter became incensed and taking a dish smashed it upon the floor. Some of the contents spattered on Miss Opp's dress. Not satisfied with this, the man grabbed a dish and hurled it at Miss Opp's head.

Fortunately the dish landed against the wall. Mr. Faversham, with one bound, was upon the waiter. Pushing him away with his left hand, he let his right whiz thru the air. The clenched fist brought up against the waiter's jaw and down he went in a

The other diners rushed in and prevented further hostilities. Regaining his composure almost instantly and apparently as unruffled as if stalking a stage parlor, Mr. Faversham resumed his 'seat, first bowing to the ladies at nearby tables and apologizing for disturbing their supper.

EIGHT CLUBS POSSIBLE

Worth, Austin, San Antonio. Houston and Galveston

It is the desire of the Texas League franchise owners that there be an eight-club league, but there are some requirements that must antedate the grant of franchises for other clubs, and unless they are complied with by Jan. 13 the other clubs will not be admitted to the Texas League for the year 1907. The two other clubs being considered are those for Waco and for Cleburne. They will be welcomed into the league, but the perequisites must be complied with and that done, the other six will gladly welcome the two which are now hanging in the bal-But the baseball patrons of Fort Worth may rely on one thing, and that is that the league will go thru and with stronger players than ever before or since the palmy days of 1889 and 1889, at least. It will be a sixclub league, if it has to be, and may be an eight-club league. The latter is the hope and wish of the present club managers and owners. The question will not probably be settled until the league meeting for the making of the schedule in Dallas, Jan. 13, the it is possible that the other clubs may give their adherence to the league plans before that date and thus definitely fix the matter. They have until that date to arrange their plans and decide if they will ally themselves with the Texas All-State League or not.

Meet in Dallas

The Texas State League magnates will meet in Dallas at the Oriental hotel Sunday, Jan. 13, to arrange a playing schedule for the season of 1907. The six cities that have franchises are tht largest in the state-Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin, San Antonio, Galveston and Houston, with an aggregate population of 360,000.

President W. H. Ward and Business Manager Dewitt Feegles of the Fort Worth club are busily engaged signing men for the coming season. The most pleasing information for local fans is the assurance that Walter Salm, of last season's club, will captain the club and play first base in 1907, as he did so well in 1906. Among the new men signed are to be found several promising young players. Roland Bush, a catcher from Terrell, Texas, comes recommended by Mike Erwin Rush tins the scales at 197 pounds, and is said to be a heavy batter as well as a good receiver. F. M. Tweed is a coal miner from Therber, Texas, and was considered by West Texas baseball fans to be the most promising pitcher in that part of the state. Tweed is a six-footer and weighs 180 pounds. Will Baxter is also a pitcher and outfielder, and made quite a good reputation last season while pitching for an independent club in Yazoo City, S. J. Rockenburg is an infielder and s from Denver, Colo, Little is known of his ability as a ball player, except that he is said to be an extra good Henry Weaver, another pitcher, hails from Henrietta, Texas. Weaver will not be able to report before June 1. as his duties as principal of the public school of that place will not permit him to do so. If half of the good things said about his pitching and hitting are true, he will have no trouble in landing a place on the local club.

Vitter to Be Here

Roland Vitter, another pitcher, will be remembered as a member of the 1905 club that made such a recordbreaking finish, thereby winning the pennant. Vitter at that time was playng on the utility roll. Last season he pitched for and was manager of the Morgan City, La., team, winning fifteen of the seventeen games that he pitched for that club.

Alex Dupree, the midget twirler of last season's team, will again pitch for the locals, Last season, Dupree won 35 of the 42 games he pitched and in the coming season he claims that he will do equally as well. Dupree's strongest points are his wonderful control and fine fielding. Neal Vance, another pitcher, who was with the Temple club last season until that club disbanded, when he went to Camden, Ark., in the Texas and Arkansas League, when he proved to be a winning pitcher. Vance is a spitball artist and great things are expected of him this season. In addition to the new men signed,

President Ward has all of last season's men under reserve, with the exception of Ollie Gfrorer. Tom Carlin will again be found at third base. And Owen Wilson will be shifted from right field to center, and will make the greatest center fielder seen in Texas since the days when Jake Getman played that position for the Fort Worth club. Manager Feegles has lines out for a couple more infielders, and another catcher of known ability. Walter Boles, who has been with the Fort Worth club for the past three seasons, is spending the holidays in Fort Worth with his many friends, and will return to Topeka, Kan, the first of the year, where he is studying law. He has not decided whether he will play ball in 1907 or not, but if he should decide to play, it will be in a Fort Worth uniform.

JIM SEALY AT REST

Remains of Dead Engineer Interred at Temple Special to The Telegram.

TEMPLE, Texas, Dec. 29 .- The body of Engineer Jim Sealy, the Santa Fe engineer who was killed in the wreck to passenger train No. 15 at Somerville, was brought here and prepared for burial. The body was terribly mutilated and scalded and great astanishment was expressed that he should have lived for five hours after the fatal accident. The first report received here related that Sealy was imprisoned under the tons of steel and and being threatened by steam and burning oil, begged the bystanders to amputate his imprisoned leg, which the report stated, had been done. Later, however, it was learned that the leg had been crushed off by the iron apron between the cab and tank. Funeral services occurred here yesterday under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, of which order the deceased was an honored member. Radlroad officials cannot decide on the cause of the wreck, but ascribe same to one of the three following causes: A defective switch, a tampered switch or spreading rails.

Exciting Episode at Last Day's Session of Convention

There was an exciting episode the last day's session of the State Teachers' association that came up during the reading of the report of the committee on resolutions.

One of the resolution referred was one that advocated compulsory education, offered by J. E. Watkins of Port Arthur. This, the committee reported back without recommendation, and the author moved the adoption of the resolution and made an impassloned speech in support of his motion, and the general principle involved in the resolution, saying, among other things, that he spoke as one having authority from the labor unions, and threatened those who failed to vote for the resolution, saying that "if any teacher refued to so vote, he would see that they were marked for slaughter.' Several attempts were made to get him off the floor, one being led by a motion for the previous question, but Mr. Grubbs of Greenville came to his rescue with the point that the speaker had the right to talk as long as he pleased and as long as he was talking the motion for the previous question was out of order. Finally after making a fervid speech in advocacy of his resolution, Mr. Watkins said that Prof. Potts of the Agricultual and Mechanical college was an advocate of compulsory education, and he would give him the balance of the time. Prof. Potts said that while be might be and was an advocate of compulsory education, he wanted it well understood that he was not there to threaten anyone, and above all he wished it understood that he had no one marked for slaughter. There was some confusion and again Mr. Watkins got the floor, standing on his seat, but finally motion to refer the whole subject back to the committee on resolutions to report at the next meeting of the association prevailed and the incident ended.

To Meet in Auctin.

He said they meant business and would work for their ends with zeal and asked the co-operation of all who were with them in spirit and in truth.

TALKS WITH TEXAS STOCKFARMERS

Lost Some Hogs

U. F. Clemons, a citizen of Oklahoma Territory, who has his mail delivered by Uncle Sam at Marshall, Logan county, was on the market with a load of hogs.

"I am out two head of swine," said he, "and I cannot understand how it occurred. I came with the train in the caboose: they were not unloaded on the road anywhere until they reached the yards. What became of them is a mystery. I had some pigs in the bunch that could have possibly gotten out of the car, but they are al accounted for in the final analysis of the car.

"I am a partner of Gossett, who comes here often. He lives in Canadian county, some fifty miles from me. We deal in cattle and hogs. Cattle are not much in evidence up our way now, it being almost entirely an agricultural county.

'Wheat, oats, cotton and corn are the prime crops, and forage crops, such as sorghum and millet. Little stock farming is done as yet, but nearly everybody has hogs and after killing for their own use they have a surplus that is sold to buyers for market and local butcher purposes. "It has been pretty cold and we

W. E. Sanders, from Chillicothe, Texas, secretary of the Texas Real Estate Association, was in attendance on the meeting of the association here, and of course had a word to say for his Panhandle home for this paper. "Conditions with us," said he, "are in extra good shape. The yield of cotton this year has surprised the natives. The inhabitants, while believing that their country was good for most any purpose, never had believed that the product of the cotton fields would turn out an average of from one and a quarter to one and a half bales per acre, which it has done this season. The corn also was an average yield and the wheat was an extra good crop, from twenty to thirty bushels per acre. Cattle are in fine condition and the grass has gone into the winter in fine shape. The winter has been very mild and the recent cold flurry did no damage. Our grass is mesquite, which is as good as any in the state. Our lands, being what is called a chocolate loam, is an ideal one for peanuts, which grow with great yields of nuts. Oats were also good. The Farmers' Union has a big gin and we have a government experiment farm, in addition to the Hardeman County Irrigation Company's farm. This company is experimenting with sugar beets. They

As a cotton growing place it has seen its best day. For peas, goober peas and vegetables of all kinds it is first class. It is in the timber belt and sandy. I have now three fine coveys on the place and they do good work in destroying insects that are detrimental to fruits, berries and other crops."

Stock Farmer's Paradise "We are most all stock farmers in my section, that is those who farm, said T. D. Holland. "I live in Anderson county near the line of Henderson, but my shipping point is La Rue, which is in the latter county. East Texas is becoming, and will soon be, the stock farmers' paradise, for, with the character of soil we have, which will produce many kinds of feed that do not produce well in other parts of the state, we can cheaply keep our stock in condition at all times. There is no better feed for hogs than sweet potatoes, peas, peanuts and the other kinds of vegetables and fruits that are almost indigenous to the soil. I make a practice of breeding hogs, some cattle and have had lots of rain, but notwithmules and can easily raise sufficient feed to keep them. I have a pasture too, but the main dependence of a stock farmer should be his feedstuffs that he raises on his farm. Our hav from the peas and goobers cannot be excelled for feeding purposes, and we can raise in any quantity of this, and, with the hogs in the field eating the peas and goobers and sweet potatoes, and the other stock doing well on the tops, who would wish for more. We all kill our own meat and our hogs are of good quality now, and the oldtime razorback is out of the racing

"Turkeys and chickens are plentiful, and the latter are expert bug and grasshopper eaters, and turned loose in a pea patch will soon lower the crop of insects that are so injurious to crops generally. A few of the farm canneries are being used successfully by farmers in our heighborhood, and they will become common after a while. when their success is appreciated by the rest of the farmers. There are several pastures yet on the creeks in the glades, and on the creek bottoms there is good pasturage for stock. My place is on the head of Brushy creek, and my address is R. F. D. No. 1.

The Abilene Country

T. W. Clark, an old time stockman, now living at Abilene, where he first landed in 1872, remained thru 1872-74 leaving for five years and returning in 1879 and has remained in the section ever since. "I never saw the country tons to the acre and the beets are very in just such a good fix as it is at present," said Captain Clark, "there the beet. Land is selling from $12.50 to seems to be no end to the production of crops since they have earnestly taken being a big demand for it. Most all in hand the reduction of the grass lands to the control of the plow and cultivator. Just think, when I came out here it was a grass land; indeed the grazing ground of countless herds of buffalo, antelope, deer and turkey, No one ever believed that what has occurred would ever be realized in their generation. It was looked upon as almost idiocy for any man to suggest that crops of any kind except calves could be raised in the Abilene country. But the farmer can be relied upon to bring about revolutions in methods and it is thru his work and experience that this section as it has happened in others, has become as a garden and a perfect Eden in products. I still own my farm out about eighteen miles from town, but I don't work it any more, but let my son run it. There is 320 acres in the tract. When my son, D. S., married I loaned him $200 to put in cattle. That was only a few years ago and now he has paid me back and bought half the farm. Last year he had in two acres and a half of onions and he paid me for my share, one fourth, $120. He is a stock farmer and is making a success of it. It is no trouble now for a man to make money farming here, since they have learned that this land has to be cultivated after a plain very different from that practiced in other sections of the state where more rain falls each year.

Here for Holidays

Major Frank Sansom, formerly of Texas, but now located in Kansas City, has come down to spend the holidays among his relatives and friends, and revisit the haunts where his childhood days were spent. Talking with a reporter he remarked:

"I am glad to come home on these occasions, for there is nothing that revives a man's vitaHty as association with the friends of his youth who in confidential converse will be sure to recall and remind him the incidents that occurred when 'we were boys.' There is Americus Johnson now, altho we have but just met is full of some of the old-time doings of he and I when we were boys. "Yes, I am glad to get home. Kansas City is all right, but just now is in the throes of a big freight blockade, which is testing the patience of the shippers and the ingenuity of the railroads to explain. I will return some time after the holidays."

Stock on Farms

J. S. Franks of Era, Cooke county, Texas, came on the market with a car of cattle for market. Mr. Frank is a stockman and deals in cattle pridiversifier. In the first place my land is | marily, but doesn't object to handling any other classes of stock at the proper

"Our county is almost out of the oldfashioned way of raising cattle," said he, "but there are still a very few of the old timers left. Agriculture, including stock farming, has taken hold of the minds of the people and in future stock will be raised by them on their farms. In time this method will produce a large percentage of cattle, more even than the old way, for under cultivation and planted to feed crops, an acre of land will produce feed enough to sustain at the very smallest estimate, for not less than two head of cattle, while under present methods it takes in good times, that is like this year, not less than ten acres to a beast.

"At present many head of young stock is bought direct from the stock farmers of the county, and all of them have a few head each year. As the lands are cut up into smaller holdings the number of head from this source will constantly increase and the supply of fat cattle be almost unlimited."

Conditions in Arizona

W. H. Johnson is in the city from Arizona. In conversation with a reporter he said: "My father's ranch is in Arizona, near Foursee, Ariz., this being located in the northern part of the territory. He located out there nearly twenty have a fine orchard, which was on the years ago, coming from Georgia originally. He is 80 years old now and is apples, peaches, pears and plums and gradually closing out his holdings with a view to getting out of the business. "I would like to go to Georgia to spend the holidays, but can't see my way this year."

In Hood County

Among the prominent young business men who have located in Fort Worth is Americus Johnson. He originated down in Hood county and still has large interests there in the shape of farms and cattle. "We have something like four thousand acres down near Granbury," said Mr. Johnson, which my two brothers look after. There is something like 500 acres under cultivation and cotton, corn and forage crops have equal attention. Feeding stock for market is one of our main businesses, and in a country where feed can be had readily and at comparatively cheap prices, it is a good proposition, this feeding steers. One of my brothers is a member of the Farmers' Union and takes great interest in the business of the order. The union is strong in Hood and has gone into business in a businesslike way and is prepared to defend itself in its business interests. The president of the union in the county is Captain R. S. Whitehead, who is a stock farmer, a Confederate Veteran and one of the very best men of the county, and a thoro business man in every way, and a man who has made a success of all his business. With such a man at the head of affairs success will surely follow the efforts of the union. They have gins which in ginning their cotton saves them probably not less than $1 a bale, and they have warehouse facilities for holding their cotton. If people think that these people are not in earnest in their business efforts and are not working intelligently along the lines laid down for their guidance, they will be badly fooled in the re-

"Cotton has done well this year and the crop is above an average one. Corn was fairly good and other crops were on a line with these. Farmers are in a good condition financially, as an inquiry at the Granbury banks will readily show, and they are prepared to put their surplus funds into enterprises that will help them in their efforts to sell their products for what they deem a fair and just price, as all other business men do. They are going to succeed, too, in my opinion, and it will be an advantage for them to do so in every way, for the more money they receive for their products. the more business there will be for me and other business men. "Stock are in good shape and will go thru the winter splendidly. W. H. Green Jr., who lives on the northern border of Eastland county and who is an active cowman and stock farmer, came in with some of is usual good stuff "Things are humming out with us," said he, "and you never saw such cotton crops and feed stacks as we have -it is a fact that more than a bale of cotton to the acre is not the exeption, but the rule, in our section. The rains have been all thru the year and fell just at the right time for crops. Cattle are all doing well and are in fine condition regardless of the fact that the cold spell was so early and severe. In fact our country is covered with timber of various sorts and this gives protection even in the severest cold spells in better shape than in the open prairie country. People are so busy that they do not have time to bother with any thing else than their own concerns but they are reading and thinking and believe from all the signs that Texas is the best, as she is the biggest section of the United States. Lands are holding their own, altho there is no big boom, and most people pass on farther west and thus miss one of the best portions of the state for stock raising and agriculture. While such rains as we have had this winter would have made good crops anyway, still, without the market here, the small dealer would have been out of it and would never have been able to ship himself to market. The market here is as good for the small man as the large, and will gradually draw all men who deal in stock to it as a common center wherein to display for sale their good stuff."

Shortage in Cattle

Colonel Marion Sansom has returned from a trip down into the lowlands of Texas and reports that matters and things of a cattle kind are just too good for anything. "People should not make the mistake of supposing that there are a great many marketable cattle to come out of the southwest just because the conditions are good for cattle. There will be some cattle to come out of course, but not near so many as have come out in previous years, Cattle have been skinned closer from the ranges for market purposes than for a long time and the scarcity is a natural consequence of this fact. There is an abundance of grass and the tallow weed is vigorous and is in great quantities. There is no scarcity of feed, and as the weather has not been cold enough for frost up to the time I left, everything is green and the levels look as if an emerald carpet had been spread over the land."

His Panhandle Ranch "I am going up to my ranch in a few days," said Captain Sterling Clark. "No, not up to Runnels county, but up in the Panhandle country. I have no reason to believe that there is anything wrong, tho I have not heard anything from there in some time, not since the cold snap, but no news in a case of this sort is generally good news. I am going up anyway to look over the situation and determine what is necessary to provide to keep the cattle from suffering as much as possible. All my stock interests so far this winter have been doing well, and I have no complaints to make. My cattle and horse stock down in Runnels county have just done as well as any stock could, and with them in the condition they are, I can see no reason why they should not pull thru the rest of the winter without material loss of flesh even if the hardest part # is to come."

In Southwest Texas John Dyer has returned from a trip down to San Antonio and the Atascosa country, looking into the cattle conditions. "I found all things good down that way," he said, "and the cattle interests especially so. You know that down in Atascosa county there is hardly any sign of frost as yet, and the grass is still green and in fine shape for the stock. There are some cattle to come out yet, but not such an awful sight. Things have been skimmed pretty closely down there for market purposes and winter coming on will certainly not increase to any extent the fat stuff for market purposes. The country otherwise in the agricultural line is fine and the people are feeling good over their financial and industrial condition and looking to the future with hopeful eyes." A successful trip on the sea of mat-

FEW ARRESTED IN NORTH FT. WORTH

City Marshal Files Report of All Arrests

City Marshal O. R. Montgomery Of North Fort Worth has completed a report to be submitted to the city council, covering all the cases docketed in the corporation court since his induction into office. The date of the first arrest was April 14, this year. and up to Saturday afternoon the total number appearing on the docket was only 154. This is a most remarkable record, when it is considered that North Fort Worth has a population of 10,000 persons, and covers an exceedingly large area, taking in the stock yards, packing houses and much of the railway yard trackage of the roads entering Fort Worth.

These cases were for various petty violations, including fights, gaming and such cases as come under the jurisdiction of the corporation court, the fines ranging from $1 to $10. Another remarkable feature is the fact that up to about the middle of October there was only one police officer except the city marshal, and now including the chief, there are but three. However, these three are entirely sufficient to keep peace in that quiet municipality. There were a very few cases, however, that were transferred to the county authorities, and which do not show on the North Fort Worth corporation court records. Up to about Aug. 1 the city did not even have a jail, but the new jail was completed about that time and it was dedicated the first night by locking up twentyone negroes on various charges, some for vagrancy, but mostly for that game called craps, so fascinating to the colored man. It may be stated that North Fort Worth is the most orderly town of its size in the state.

The general charter committee is requested by Mayor Harris to meet at the mayor's office Tuesday evening at 7:30 for the purpose of considering some new suggestions, which have been sent in by different parties relative to the proposed new charter for the city of Fort Worth.

The call for the meeting is made that several suggestions, which the makers think, will be for the general benefit of the citizens, may be considered and if approved, adopted. One is a provision for the regulation of the blowing of steam whistles, locomotive engines or stationary engines, within the city limits. Another is the suggestion of the Third Ward Club that the salaries be fixed at not more than $1,800 per year for the commissioners. These will give a fair idea of the scope of the new matter to be taken up at the meeting, which is called for Tuesday evening next.

Remains Found Near McLean After Severe Storm

Special to The Telegram. PLAINVIEW, Texas, Dec. 20.-A gentleman just in from the north says he was informed that after the late storm some people found part of the remains of a man near McLean, who had been devoured by wolves, all but the feet encased in boots. An unsuccessful-attempt was made along the same line several years ago and until recently the matter was laid aside, but during the past four weeks the proprietors feel that so many indignities have been thrust upon them that, if necessary, drastic litigation shall be indulged in.

The present idea is to form an organization among the leading local hotels not only for the purpose of personal and mutual protection, but also to later interest the state association in the matter of reviving old laws and arranging new ones. As the matter now stands, the local proprietor enjoys scarcely any protection from the hotel impostor or professional "beat" who may be ejected from one hostelry and an hour later be comfortably ensconced in another. Immediately following the perfection of the organization communication will be opened with the state body for the purpose of renewing laws long since obsolete and the drafting of new ones.

chairman of the board. It is urged by those who predict the elevation of Mr. McCrea that the Pennsylvania since its incorporation has always been an advocate of promotion from the ranks and that it has usually come to one intimately connected with the operating or engineering department. If that was followed out the presidency would fall to Colonel J. P. Green, first vice president, who is temporarily filling the place of Mr. Cassatt. But Colonel Green is a financier, not an engineer and it is argued that he would hardly accept the position of president, preferring to remain in his present position and work with the new chairman of the board. Charles F. Pugh, second vice president, is not an engineer, but a transportation expert.

templated an acting official such as

STREET CAR LINES BUILT THIS YEAR

Extension Work Done by the Traction Company

The street car companies of the city have done much work in the matter of improvements of their lines but, with the exception of the Northern Texas Traction Company, most of the expenditures have been for improvements rather than for new lines or extensions.

The Rosen Heights line has done ss work in the way of extension than any of the others and practically all of the new track work of that company is in the lengthening of some of the switches and the building of new ones, the purpose of that work being to enable the schedules to be shortened and the certainty of the running time of the cars insured. The new work of the Arlington Heights line consists of the building of the loop line around from the main line down Throckmorton to Fifteenth along that street to Jones and up Jones to Ninth and along that street, across Hyde Park, to a connection with the main line at Jackson and Throckmorton streets, some additional switch work out on the line was also done and a short piece of track added at Arlington Heights.

The Northern Texas Traction Company has built the Third ward line, which is in successful operation, and has about finished the construction work on the College and St. Louis avenue lines and some additional work on the Hemphill street line, a total of about three miles. Now the construction force will go to work on the Jones and Pecan street parts of the First ward lines and that will be followed by the construction of the Houston street line from Tenth street south to a connection with the Main street line at the Texas and Pacific passenger station. The construction of the Fairmount or Eighth avenue line of the Traction Company will soon connect the St. Louis and College avenue lines and all of that work will be done during the coming year and as soon in the year as possible. "When will the company operate the lines?" repeated General Manager Edgar when asked when the cars would run over the new trackage. "That we cannot say, tho we hope that it will be about Feb. 1, but it depends on the cars. We have not all of the accommodation in that respect that we could now use to advantage. We are promised some new cars about the first of the month, February, I mean, and if the cars get here we will get them on the lines at once. It all depends on the time when the cars already ordered do arrive, but I am not going to venture on anything that can be construed as a prophecy, but will repeat, as soon as we get the cars and as fast as the new track can be built, and placed in proper condition for use, we will begin that use of the

When the lines already built and the new parts of the lines are constructed, the Traction company will have about six miles more of track actually in use in the city. A considerable amount of betterment work has been done on the interurban line but that has been but little more than the work that is done on a well managed road where the design is to bring the roadbed to the highest physical condition possible.

Assessors and Collectors Accused of Neglecting Duty

AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 29.—County Tax Assessor Stuart Francis of this county announced this afternoon that a call has been issued for a meeting of county assessors of Texas at either Dallas or Fort Worth Jan. 15. The ournose is to perfect an organization and to make an organized effort regarding the assessing of property in Texas and to devise some uniform method of assessing property, and also to take some action relative to the complaint of the state revenue agent in his last report, in which he declares that assessors and collectors in many instances neglect their duties.

SENTER OUT IN 2ND STATEMENT

Says Bailey's Election Would Be Calamity

Special to The Telegram. Dallas, Tex., Dec. 29.—Senator-elect

E. G. Senter issued tonight another statement on the Bailey matter in which he said among other things: It should be understood, once for all, that from the standpoint of those who believe Mr. Bailey to be morally incilgible—and these certainly include a larger number of people than ever passed such judgment upon any man still an aspirant for public office in the United States-there is far more urgent reason for appeal for endorsement by the legislator who proposes to approve Mr. Bailey's conduct than for such an appeal by one who declines to do so. The people have never set the seal of their approval upon his tansactions with Pierce and his associates, nor has he ever given them an opportunity to voice their condemnation,. but waited until after the primaries and after the disclosure of the proofs in the possession of the attorney general to take the public into his confidence. Every natural presumption is against the public approval of the Pierce transaction, and only a positive declaration by the Democracy of the state could give credence to the contention that it favors such employment

as Mr. Bailey confesses to have ac-

No unbiased man can avoid the conclusion that the purpose of Pierce and his associates was to tie Senator Bailey to their chariot, and to secure his senatorial influence in behalf of the Waters-Pierce Oil company. If his legal services only had been desired, it is incomprehensible why he was not employed at a time whom his legal talents would have been more appropriately invoked and more effrectively applied-when the ouster suit against the company was pending. If he had then appeared openly in court as the attorney for the company, he would undoubtedly have incurred severe criticism, but no complaint could have been made of his want of candor or of the size of his fees.

A fact of overwhelming significance is the silence that Mr. Bailey has preserved thru all the years with respect to his connection with Pierce and his associates. If that connection was justifiable and his rewards from it were legitimate he should have been proud of the legal and financial eminence which it brought him, and the public long ago would have known him as the legal counselor and virtual manager, as admitted by himself, of one of the largest syndicates ever organized in this country. On the other hand, if he by his conduct indicated that he regarded the transactions as of such a nature as to call for secrecy, can he now complain if the public takes the same view of the matter?

When Mr. Bailey admitted his connection with transactions which, by the declarations of his warmest friends as well as of his critics, were gravely improper, he forfeited the right to assert democratic leadership, and it remains to him to restore the confidence which he himself has sac-

A Tragical Figure

Would not the democratic party cut a tragical figure before the nation with its leader in the United States senate the subject of a violent controversy among the members of his own party, in his own state-multiplied thousands of democrats believing and asserting that he holds thousands of dollars for establishing and maintaining a protectorate in Texas for a branch of Standard Oil, and he and his apologists admitting that he did come to the aid of the company, that he was transported as on eagles' wings from poverty to wealth by its president and his associates, but pleading in extenuation that he was deceived by an alias assumed by his own friends and clients, that he is above the ordinary passions, lusts and emotions of the human race and that his past services should square the account? If by our disposition of this matter we affirm the new gospel announced for the special benefit of Mr. Bailey, and proclaim that it spells out democratic morality, that it is in accord with a sound interpretation of our party's platforms and pledges, its requirements of public servants, its standards for official life-and what state has a better right than Texas to speak authoritatively for democracy? -we will as certainly go forward in 1908 thru an open slaughter house to an open grave as that grass will continue to grow and water to run. With open arms and gleeful applause the republicans of the doubtful states will welcome Mr. Bailey upon the stump as "Exhibit A" of the democratic national platform. Every signboard will emblazon his lineaments in distorted cartoon; in song and story his financial achievements will ring with mocking laughter thruout the country. Bailey will be the issue-not the party's candidate or its platform, and when the end comes the result of 1904 will read like a paen of triumph by comparison. No prophet's ken is needed to foresee this much. It is written in the book of common sense.

Senate and House Chambers Being Put in Shape

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 29-The senate chamber and the hall of the house of representatives is being placed in first class condition by Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds Gilbert for the convening of the Thirtieth legislature on Jan. 8. In fact things are being placed in shape in the different departments of the state government for the reception of the solons.

From present indications an ex tremely long session appears to be inevitable, and in fact it is expected that a second session is practically an assured fact. There are many measures which will be introduced and it is expected that the new members of both branches will more than likely want to make a record for themselves and in order to do so, it will be necessary to display their oratorical powers to their fullest extent. The majority of the members of the coming legislature seem to think that the taxation question will be the most important thing which the legislature will have to deal with, and this phase of state legislation will no doubt occupy considerable space in Governorelect Campbell's inaugural message to the legislature. Considerable speculation is being indulged in in political circles here as to the recommendations and suggestions which will be made by the new governor. According to his previous utterances on divers occasions, it is more than probable that he will recommend the enactment into laws of every one of the platform demands adopted at the Dallas convention. This includes the passage of an anti-free pass law, and this is expected to be one of the most interesting pieces of legislation which will come up for consideration during the next session. The general prediction now is that such a law will be passed at the coming session of the legislature, especially since the passage of the Hepburn bill.

speculation indulged in as to how strong the lobby will be this year. The hotels are making arrangements for a large number of the members of the "third house" this time, and it is expected that they will be here during the session in goodly numbers. As a whole, it is not believed that there will be many consolidation bills introduced during this session of the legislature, in view of the views entertained on this question by Governorelect Campbell.

TO CROSS TEXAS

New Line Is Projected by the Rock

Special to The Telegram. LAWTON, O. T., Dec. 29.—Assistant Secretary Ryan of the interior department has forwarded to the register and receiver of the United States land office at Lawton a set of approved plats and blueprints outlining a recent survey made by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company across the half million acres of Indian pasture lands in the southern part of this county.

The Rock Island proposes to extend its Lawton-Chattanooga branch into Texas and probably across that state and the republic of Mexico to the Pacific coast. Chattanooga is situated on the northern border of the Indian pasture and the plats call for a right of way twenty-one miles in length between that point and Red river. Provision is made for two stations in the reservation. One of these is to be situated near the townsite of Echite which the Indian bureau is having platted to be seld at public auction next year.

Judge Witten, chief of the law de-partment of the general land office, who is conducting the sale of the Indian lands here, stated today that the granting of the railroad right of way will not interfere with the awarding of tracts to the highest bidders, but that the successful bidders must take the lands affected subject to the right of way.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

Cause of Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City Receivership Special to The Telegram. MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 29.-It was announced today by Messrs, G. E. and H. T. Smith, the legal representatives in Mobile of Ambrese Monell, Thomas Morrison and John McLeod, who filed a bill of complaint in the chancery court on Wednesday evening against the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City Railroad, its agents, officers and directors, upon which the road was placed in the hands of receivers, that the purpose of the men named and the interests they represent is to build up the Mobile, Jackson & Kansas City to a high state of efficiency and remove the differences which they claim now exists in the operation of the road. The New York attorneys of the complainants are Godkin & Chadbourne and Sullivan & Cromwell, two of the leading firms of that city. They havo a representative in Mobile at present in conference with the Mobile attorneys, Harry Smith of the local firm stated that it was the purpose of their clients to build up the road, not to tear it down, and the whole cause of the complaint on the part of the stockholders who had applied for a receivership, is that the road is not carrying out its part as a common carrier under the present management; that its affairs are in a confused condition and that the property is thereby depreciating. This the complainants propose to mend. It became public that the order for a receivership was made after affidavits had been filed in the chancery court along with the petition. One of these affidavits is from F. E. Dewey, now receiver and general manager of the road. It charges fraud and gross mismanagement on the part of the present officers, naming specific instances, and further charges that Mr. Dewey was deposed as general manager because he protested against the diversion of moneys into improper channels. The affidavit is sensational in its statements of mismanagement. Information has been obtained that Mr. Dewey was at a party to the first movement for throwing the road into the hands of receivers. What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and Disease COSTS NOTHING TO TRY

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall. It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cureall, and, mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit.

The idea was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and large quantity had to be taken to get any effect. Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur. In recent years research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium (Calcium Sulphide) and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur ir a highly concentrated, effective form.

of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material. Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sutphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity-and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most widely used. They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike. Dr. R. M. Wilkins, while experimenting with sulphur remedies, soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation or malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article and sold by druggists and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, yet I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles and especially in all forms of skin diseases as this remedy. At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood "purifiers" will find in Stuart's Calcium Wafers a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation. Send your name and address today for a free trial package and see for

Mr. Simmons is a farmer and stockman and has a fine ranch at the base of the range of hills which, up toward Abilene, have a noted break in the range that is well known as Buffalo Gap. Mr. Simmons has a fine lot of grade Herefords and they have done exceptionally well this year. But then Mr. Simmons is also a farmer and raises, as a money crop, much cotton. in the avreage year, for his cotton lands are at the base of the range of hills or mountains before named which run diagonally thru the counties of Taylor and Callaman, or in the valleys of that range. It is stated that he raises a good crop of cotton an average year, but the present year is not the average year and Mr. Simmons' cotton crop was cut off by the worms, for there was an excess of rain and that meant boll worms, even that far west. But his bane was his neighbors' salvation, for some of those who lived on the high grounds within a short distance of the Simmons place made as much as two bales to the acre for the first time in the history of cotton raising in Callahan county. On the Simmons place, and that is also true of other places near by, and silimarly located, the cotton plant grew to a height of 7 or 8 feet and some even higher, but there was practically no fruit on the plant and, as a money maker, the crop was a dire and dismal failure. But then the farmers have long since gone past the time when the one-idea style of farming prevailed and now as they raise much else the failure of the cotton crop was rather disappointing than ruinous and generally conditions are excellent. Among the many prominent visitors who have been the guests of Fort Worth during the past month, none is probably more interesting than the old familiar face of H. C. Newman, who is quite often and very appropriately spoken of as the 'F'ather of Comedy." To the oid time theatrical men the name of Newman is as familiar as is the name of P. T. When he opened my dressing room door and discovered me standing there with only part of my female garb on and minus the cork, he became quite indignant, stating that 'he wished to see the real Topsy, as she reminded him so much of his own little gal.' The specifications against Smith in the affidavit and the evidence at the examining trial Saturday afternoon show that while Gough was flat on his back in bed Smith broke into the room and appropriated a valise filled with clothing of value of over $50, the property of the sick man, and started to leave with it, when Gough awakened and asked Smith what he was doing.

"I am changing your things to another room, to which you will be moved," was the man's answer, and he left the room carrying the valise with him. Not liking the looks of things the man Smith included, Gough pressed a call bell to summons attendance. The attendant came, said there was no intention to move Gough to another room and then pursuit of Smith was begun. He was captured, the valise recovered and two charges, one of burglary and one of theft of over $50, were made against him,

PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR NORTH SIDE

Occupies Enviable Commercial Position

GOOD FIRE DEPARTMENT

Commerial Club a Model Organization -Has Brought Many Enterprises to North Fort Worth

As the close of the present year approaches and a review of the progress made within the last year, North Fort Worth has just cause to feel proud of the position it now occupies in a commercial way. Since its incorporation four years ago it has made steady progress along the lines of improvement, and while much has been expended in public enterprises, the taxpayers do not feel the burden.

During this time two bond issues have been made, one for the amount of $100,000 for the purpose of providing for a waterworks system, supplying all the needs of the city with an abundance of pure artesian water for all purposes. The cost of construction of this system was about $105,000, and the water supply is obtained from two artesian wells. The deepest well has been able to supply all demands for water so far, and notwithstanding the two packing plants have been using for the last three or fours months many hundreds of gallons from the city, the supply from this one well has been inexhaustible.

The next and only other bond issue made by the city was dated July 1, 1905. This bond issue was voted for the purpose of erecting a commodious public school building. That building exceeded in cost the amount of the bonds issued, which was for $23,000, but it is one of the most substantial and beautiful school buildings to its cost and size in the state, having two stories and a basement, and is hygienically constructed in every way.

The present enrollment is about eight hundred, exclusive of the kindergarten school, which is conducted at separate building. There are also two small school buildings for colored pupils, but the enrollment of colored oupils is less than one hundred. North Fort Worth claims to have one of the best paid fire departments of any city in the state of its size. It has been organized about two years, and during that time has done efficient service. The fire fighting apparatus consists of a hose reel, with ladder attachment, and a chemical engine. There are about two thousand feet of hose, and so far the equipment has been ample to meet every emergency, but the growth of the city will soon call for a more modern outfit. The department was organized mainly by the present chief, J. W. Buckland, and former chief, Arch Carp. At that time Mr. Buckland was assistant chief and he and Mr. Carp not only transed the three horses, but even constructed the present fire hall. During the time since the organization many fires have been handled and as yet there has # never been a serious accident.

City Is Prosperous The city is in splendid financial condition. Notwithstanding the two bond issues above mentioned, it cannot be considered that the city is involved. The revenue from the city waterworks indicates that that enterprise is more than self-sustaining. The city from receipts over and above the city's needs, and for fire purposes, is more than able to pay all accrued interest on the bonds and provide for a sinking fund sufficient to take up each coupon as it comes due. The tax rate voted to provide for the payment of the interest on the school bonds and provide a sinking fund is entirely sufficient to meet the payments and also to keep the school property in proper

The affairs of the city are economically administered, and every matter coming before the city council is thoroly discussed and fully understood before definite action is taken. The general expense of the city is cut to the minimum, and there is no probability of financial difficulties. Working in conjunction with the city council for the benefit of North Fort Worth, is the Commercial Club. This organization is composed of many of the business men of the city. Regular meetings of this club are held in the directors' room of the Exchange National Bank each Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The club is at this time actively interested in securing more manufacturing enterprices, and the individual members at all times are ready to show the prospector around. There are many very desirable factory sites in North Fort Worth, and inducements commensurate with the importance of the enterprise will be at all times extended. Thru the efforts of this organization a number of manufacturing enterprises have already been located there, and negotiations are now in progress, which, if present indications are not misleading, will locate other splendid industries, one of which will involve the investment of $300,000 and employ about three hundred people. A $50,000 sanitarium is also among the prospective enterprises. A sewerage system is one of the important matters that North Fort Worth is interested in and all efforts on the part of the city council and the Commercial Club that are proper and judicious will be put forward in bringing about this improvement.

There are now more than $100.009 worth of building improvements going on, and the building valuations for the last year exceed half a million dollars.

Miss Madelin Goddard Takes to Herself Titled Husband Special to The Telegram.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 29.-At noon today in the beautifully decorated music room of Hopeton House, the Goddard mansion on Hope street, Miss Madelin Ives Goddard, only daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Robert Hale Ives Goddard, was wedded to the Marquis des Adingne of Paris, France. The religious ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Clark, pastor of the Church of the Holy Name. Immediately afterward Associate Justice John T. Blodgett of the Rhode Island supreme court performed the civil ceremony in the library, where the marriage contract was signed. The combined production of all cereals was the largest ever known, chiefly because of the immense corn yield. The values of all cereals and of all farm products are alike the greatest ever reported. In the financial records, the frequency of increases, approximately 10 to 12 per cent, is probably a real guide to the increase of general business over 1905. In the statistics of industrial output, especially of the iron trade, the gains are not far below the above percentages. Another guide to the character of the year's business is to be had in the gain in stock sales and the loss in bond sales, indicating that, with prosperous trade, a greater disposition to be a partner rather than a creditor was manifected. Finally, the fact that the decreases shown in the second table failure liabilities is in a high degree indicative of the fact that the vastly enlarged outputs, the movement of products and the volume of sales, in 1906 were conducted with less friction than in 1905, thus constituting a tribute to the essential soundness of the year's business.

The Year in Detail. Mild winters have been proverbially infavorable to crops and trade, yet, right at its beginning, the year suffered this alleged drawback with little effect. Lack of snow covering for wheat, and autumn mildness in January, led to fears of crop damage, while congesting stocks of winter goods. Heavy apparel suffered in demand, coal was inactive, and rubber footwear neglected; but good effects of the mild season outweighed the bad. Building operations continued on an unprecedented scale during an ordinarily closed season, and railway operations experienced little interference. Manufacturing was active, and stock speculation made new high price levels. In February, retail trade and collections were interfered with early by mild weather, lumbering was restricted cotton holding at the south was an additional drawback, coal was weak, high summer prices for ice were indicated, and the egg market collapsed under weight of fresh supplies. Sacrifice sales of winter clothing and an earlier than usual opening of spring trade were features. The first hurtful winter storm in March damaged southern fruits and vegetables, but heavy snows and rains gave ample moisture to winter wheat as the growing season began. A larke spring trade was done the country over, heavy sales of fertilizers indicated an increased cotton

IT ISN'T THE SEGAR-IT'S THE STOMACH

Every smoker has experienced this peculiar condition of the stomach and liver the result usually of imperfect digestion of food. And the blame is usually put on the cigar and not where it belongs.

Such men are usually high livers hard workers mentally, living under it doesn't take a great deal to disorder the stomach or render the liver torpid They should make it a practice to use some tried and reliable remedy like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, that will aid Nature and not force it and will take care of the sudden attacks of acute indigestion.

The use of these tablets is not to be confounded with the patent medicine habit Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a patent medicine, but are composed of the very elements which nature provides the healthy stomach to do the work of digestion-pepsin, diastase, golden seal, etc. There is no secret in their preparation—they are absolutely pure and therefore all the world uses them, area, and industry was active with numerous wage advances. April opened with a coal strike involving 400,000 men, the anthracite and western bituminous fields shutting down, but first crop reports showed little damage to winter wheat, and the low death rate throughout the country disproved the "green Christmas and fat churchyard" proverb. Corn and cotton planting started late but made up lost time.

The Frisco Earthquake. Earthquake and fire ruined San Francisco—April 18-21—detroyed $360-000,000 in property and caused a break in stock prices. May saw the close of the coal strike, the ending of a wheat deal at Chicago, after the highest prees of the year were touched and heavy liquidation in stocks, while fire insurance troubles plagued San Francisco, and cold weather injured fruits and vegetables, causing much replanting of cotton. Trade, retail and jobbing, was active, plenty of moisture nelped wheat, San Francisco's banks opened May 23, after over a month's snut-down; purchases of supplies for inat city benefited trade in other places, and steel rails were freely bought for 1907 delivery. Corn planting was delayed, oats were hurt in the west and it was too cool and dry for cotton. In June wholesale trade was seasonably quiet, business for fall was good, building showed record activity, though lumber weakened for a while, and wages of New England cotton mill hands advanced. Early crop reports were poor but improved later. Cotton showed an increased acreage and good condition. Warnings came of tight and some good authorities were pessimistic as to its effect on trade.

money in the second half of the year July statistics showed a record half year in domestic business, and an unprecedented fiscal year's foreign trade, record clearings for six months, few failures and small liabilities. Cotton and wheat prices declined on good crop prospects, stocks were liquidated, trade and industry continued active midsummer shutdowns were fewer and shorter than usual with fall orders good. In August free marketing of winter wheat brought the lowest prices in four years, but iron and steel and cotton goods were active and advancing, while raw cotton declined. Rains helped corn and nurt wheat in shock, but the latter rallied on lighter movement and poor Russian reports. September showed more snap to trade, very high money rates, rapid advances in commodites, active trade and industry; a record corn crop gathered free from damage, with cotton goods advancing.

The Gulf Storm. At the end, a severe gulf storm destroyed property on the coast and hurt cotton inland. October saw an immense advance in cotton prices-140 points on spots and 166 points on futures-in ten days; copper reached the highest price in twenty-six years, cool weather helped trade, and a record months' business was done. Car congestion became acute, and reports came of damage to harvested grain and growing cotton-the latter by frost. Storms at harvest hurt tobacco south and west and nurt cotton badly in the South Atlantic states. November saw only a sight lull in trade before election day, iron and steel continued to advance despite record production, and large imports and car congestion hampered all lines, but business was active and a large area went into winter wheat. Preparations for a record holiday trade were made at wholesale, later justified by an early and heavy

In December, car shortages affected rade and caued suffering in the northwest. The increased wheat area entered the winter in a condition equal to 1905. An unprecedented trade in holiday goods at record prices closed the

BASEBALL GOSSIP The Temple Fans Are Agitating Their Brain Pans

Special to The Telegram. TEMPLE, Texas, Dec. 29.-Considerable excitement has been caused among local baseball fans by the circulation of a rumor that a plan was being perfected to include Temple as a member of the All-State Baseball League, regardless of the actions of certain local people. Considerable concern is expressed in consequence thereof, for while it is a fact that Temple is one of the best baseball towns in the state, yet it will not support two teams of rival leagues, and there are a great many people here who look with favor upon the all-state propo-sition provided that suitable amends be made for the injury inflicted last year. On the other hand there is a strong contingent that does not want to have anything to do with the new league. According to the story in circulation here it is the plan of several magnates in the new league to secure a franchise for themselves in Temple under some one else's name and back a team with their own funds.

TRUE SITUATION IN STOCK MARKET

Unfair Arguments on Basis of Dividend Returns

(BY THOMAS C. SHOTWELL.) Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The true situation in the stock market has been much confused of late by unfair arguments made against stocks on the basis of their dividend returns. The dividend is not a fair measure of a stock's The general public has been profited but little from the advance of prices that has taken place in the last three years. That there will be a further considerable advance seems almost inevitable, but there is little hope that the public will begin to buy stocks until the top is nearly reached. The attempt to measure values in dividends is the thing that is keeping the public out now on the eve of a great movement. Just as soon as prices are dangerously high, these same financial values will be proclaiming the fact that a dividend is not so important as when known assets are held by the corporation far in excess of the market value. Now is the time to remember these facts.

Special to The Telegram. QUANAH, Téxas, Dec. 29.—Ex-Senator Decker has sent the following letter to Senator-Elect J. W. Veal: John W. Veal, Amarillo, Texas-Sir: Some days ago in reply to your letter concerning what you should do with regard to your vote as to United States senator, I wrote you and said that if I were state senator I would not vote for Senator Joseph W. Bailey for re-election. I desire now to supplement that letter by requesting that as soon as you take the oath of office as senator from this district that you accept Bailey's challenge and resign you office and immediately announce for re-election. I also desire to assure you that in my opinion Texas does not want as its United States senator one who is pledged to represent public service corporations in Texas, and still "love her history, heroes and memories," and l pledge you that if you do this that I will meet any man at any place, who advocates Bailey for re-election at my own expense and advocate your reelection. I am at your service, and I believe Texas will always love the men who have the nerve to fight for her interest rather than for Standard Oil

SHAVED WITH A PEN NIB Prisoner Made Razor Out of Writing

Materials (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) Cable Special to The Telegram. LONDON, Dec. 29.—An amusing story is told by a convict just released from Parkhurst prison of how he managed to have a clean shave every day, to the astonishment of the governor and warders. Surprise visits were paid to the man in his cell, but the secret of the shave remained an impenetrable mystery until after his release. It appears that when employed in the tinsmith's shop of the jail he secreted an ordinary steel pen nib. By dint of weeks of work he flattened the nib out and put on a double edge equal to the best of razors. In the cell he secreted it on the wall by covering it with a flattened out piece of soap, which happened to be of the same curious drab color as the wall, and when his tin of water came round he reserved a portion for shaving purposes.

EARLY TO BED and early to rise, makes one healthy. happy and wise especially if you take Herbine before retiring. A positive cure for Constipation, Dyspepsia and all liver complaints. Mrs. S-, Columbia, Tenn., writes: "I always keep a supply of your Herbine on hand. Am so pleased with the relief it gives in constipation and all liver complaints that words can't express my appreciation." Sold by Covey & Martin.

Regularly Organized Trusts Control Business

Special to The Telegram.

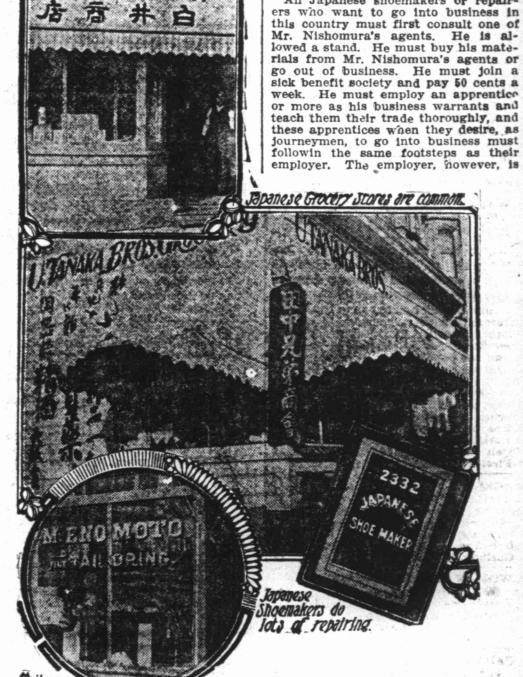

San Francisco, Dec. 29 .-- Prior to the calamity of April 18, hundreds of Japanese were actively engaged in business in this city. Since rehabilitation began the Japanese have made strenuous progress, and now their establishments flourish on almost every street in San Francisco.

Ordinarily this would be taken as a good sign, a "sign of progress," a sign of the assimilation of American methods, but one 'as to look under the surface to see the real wrong. There is a cardinal law among the Japanese that an American shall in no way profit from busness conducted by the Japanese. And they don't. Each line of trade is controlled by a Japanese trust and a Jap storekeeper can not exist unless he lives up to the rules laid down by the real controlers of the trade. This can be best exemplified by an inspection of the Japanese shoe trade. Over in Japan there is a capitalist named Nishomura. He owns and controls the snoemaking and repairing trade of that kingdom. Many years ago he looked around for an avenue to xtend his trade. He operated first in Hawaii, and now is mighty active in this country-so active that he controls every Japanese shoe store on the Pacific coasts. All Japanese shoemakers or repairers who want to go into business in this country must first consult one of Mr. Nishomura's agents. He is allowed a stand. He must buy his materials from Mr. Nishomura's agents or go out of business. He must join a sick benefit society and pay 50 cents a week. He must employ an apprentice or more as his business warrants and teach them their trade thoroughly, and these apprentices when they desire, as journeymen, to go into business must followin the same footsteps as their PARIS, Dec. 29.—The latest edition to my lady's equipment is, accordingto the Cri de Paris, the Maisette, a contrivance that can be made to serve the purposes of a fan, a lorgnette or a motor mask, as occasion may require. It is stated to be the invention of the young queen of Spain, who has introduced the ingenious plaything into the elegant world of Madrid, where it has quickly leaped into popularity. In appearance the maisette is not unlike a fan with a long handle and its manipulation gives ample opportunity for the display of a graceful, wellrounded arm and of glittering braceets and rings. A brilliant future is predicted for this royal invention, as it can be made in quite simple style or studded with precious stones, according to taste and means.

Ample Accommodations for Sick and Injured Provided by Improvements

The year 1906 may well be referred to as hospital and church year in Fort Worth, Greater progress in the direction of caring for sick, physicially as well as spiritually, has been made during 1906 than in probably any other year of the last ten.

In the matter of accommodations for the care of the sick the St. Joseph's

Infirmary heads the list for by the completion of the new addition, which will be ready for occupancy by March , 140 rooms, comprising in all a dozen wards, will then have been thrown open to the public, and the size of the nospital will have been doubled. Second in the list of hospital accomnodations is the department at the Fort Worth University, which is operated under the direct supervision of the medical students. The department onsists of eight wards and three private rooms and has ample accommodations for from fifty to sixty patients, which number does not take into consideration the various other necessary

All Saints' Opened

The All Saints' Hospital, an Episcopalian institution, which was formally dedicated last Thursday, begins its career with thirteen private rooms and three wards, which speaks exceedingly well for its infancy. The number will no doubt be increased in accordance with the demands made upon it due to the growth of the city. Dr. Thompson's sanitarium, which was originally intended more for the treatment of chronic cases than those of emergency, is provided with ample accommodations for twenty-five patients, also this number may be increased to thirty should an emergency

The Protestant sanitarium is also fitted out with room for from twentyfive to thirty patients, but finds the present quarters insufficiently commodious and plans are now under way for the building of an addition in the spring which will increase the present

In addition to the above may also be included the Fort Worth sanitarium which is in reality a branch of the tution are already cognizant of the necessity of a hospital of their own in this city and have announced their plans for the building of the same in the spring.

In her hands I would place a pair of balances. I have no doubt men who make much money and think only in terms of money will laugh at me for the enjoyment and pleasure I get out of the things other people give. A song, a book, a picture, a horse, a landscape, a house set amid a gay garden of flowers, a beautiful woman in a beautiful gown, a dog's friendly rubbing of his nose against my hand-why, every day of the year is full of the things people involuntarily give out, for those who want and enjoy.

That is why I think of Christmas time as a stopping to count up. I look on the New Year as a new starting place. What will I be able to give during these next months? Will I meet every duty cheerfully? Will my friends find me always responding to their moods, sympathizing with their disappointments, laughing with them in their pleasures, weeping with them in their sorrows. That is my idea of the obligation I owe society. How will I meet

In some parts of the south preparations are under way to make of the centenary of the birth of General Robert E. Lee an occasion of honor and celebration. Texas, especially Fort Worth, has been a little scared of speaking of General Lee above the breath, for fear somebody from "up north" might hear and not like it. think that such a queer estimate to hold of the excellent people who have taken up residence among us, to be social and neighborly, and above all to be reasonable. When I read of the youth and manhood of General Lee, feel that every boy in the world should know thru his example what self control means, what honor means, what duty means. What difference the uniform he wore when the fighting was going? He was a man, a gentleman, a chevalier, "sans peur et sans reproche." I wonder if enough southern folk can be found in Fort Worth to make a fitting day of the 19th of Jan-

A man who has not lived in Fort Worth long finds much to marvel at in our social arrangements. What he sees and hears does not correspond with what he has observed in older, wealthier and better known communities. After several months of this marveling, he now announces that he has diagnosed our social ailments. "What you need," he solemnly pronounces, "is a bunch of rich old maids." Just an old maid won't do, nor yet any rich person. The combination must be maiden lady of years with the income.

Of course I felt awfully sorry we could not furnish this young man the remedy for our social ailments. I eagerly furnished him with our system to marry them in the kindergarten and let the divorce courts do the rest. Anybody will see at once the advantages of the way we do things.

After this young man was kind enough to tell me things, I began looking around to see if I could not find somebody who might be qualified for the role. I do not believe there is an old maid in Fort Worth. A few I find who in some places might begin to accept the title, but not here. Every one of them has a beau. I hold that no woman with a beau

A young Fort Worth musician who is winning honors is Miss Marian A. Douglas, who while continuing her studies at St. Ignatius Academy, has acted as organist at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Miss Douglas was born in Denison, Texas, March 3, 1888, and entered school at St. Xavier's Academy there. She removed to Fort Worth in 1902 and at the time of her debut as organist at St. Patrick's three years ago was the youngest church organist in Texas, probably in the United States. She was graduated from St. Ignatius academy in the 1906 class last week.

The Majestic orchestra played incomparably beautiful selections and the dancers received gay inspiration from such music. Beautiful figures were led by Charles Wynns with Miss Marguerite Adams and the favors were a continual succession of pleasant surprises. Footballs, fans, kodaks, carnations, phonographs, horns, pipes, steins and hats of green paper of intricate cutting were distributed to the delighted (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY PAUL LAMBETH LONDON, Dec. 29.-Keir Hard the labor leader in the house of co mons, is having a hard time dodgi the aristocracy. Altho he insists that is a "plain man" and averse to appea ing as a social lion he has been eage ly sought after by several well know society hostesses, who apparently i gard him as an amusing addition their list of "lions."

Lady Warwick and Mr. Hardie s great friends and the socialist counted has had frequent interviews with hi at the house. But Mr. Hardie fle from other titled women as from t plague. A few weeks ago one of the -the wife of a newly created peer drove to the labor leader's residence near Fetter Lane-or as near as si could get in a brougham, for the Kei Hardie mansion is located in an ol scure court back of the street-to tr to interest him in a scheme for trade union social clubs in north of Englan towns.

Mr. Hardie was not at home, how ever, and he afterward declared to friend that he was too busy to become a "popular" philanthropist. During th debates on the education bill in th house of commons the peeresses' gallery has been crowded with well known titled ladies who display great interes in the aggressive laborites and especially in Mr. Hardie.

The latter is not a "carpet knight" in any sense of the word. He began lif in a coal mine when seven years old and since then he has waged a fierce fight on capital. He is a spare little man, with a fondness for blazing red ties, and in his shabby fawn-colore tacket and baggy trousers he is an thing but a drawing room politician.

To Visit United States

A number of American relatives and friends of Miss Hermoine Schenley, who married Lord Ellenborough, came over for the wedding. The couple will go to the United States for a brief Miss Schenley has never visited

Pittsburg, where her mother's vast estates are, Lord Ellenborough, who is nearly sixty-six, is known chiefly for his strenuous advocacy of British naval efficiency. He created a mild sensation in the house of lords some time ago by declaring that England was in danger of a surprise attack such as the Russian Port Arthur fleet suffered at the hands of Admiral Togo. He is agitating for the maintenance of all forts at naval anchorages on a war footing, and the employment of none but British born pilots on the coast of Great Britain. Lord Ellenborough saw a good deal of service as a naval cadet in the Crimean war. He was attached to the Colossus, and afterward served on the Highflier during the Chinese trouble of 1857-1860. He commanded the Coquette in the Ashanti war of 1873, and retired as Commander Edward Downes Law, to take his seat in the house of lords upon the death of his cousin.

Lord Ellenborough misses higher honors thru the Earldom of Ellenborough and the viscounty of Southam having fallen into abeyance at the death of the second peer, when the barony only passed to his nephew. For many years the present Lord Ellenborough was a confirmed invalid, spending his winters at Pau. The first Lord Ellenborough was the famous lord chief justice, and his son the governor general of India, was raised to the Earldom in 1844.

No one will be really surprised to learn that Miss Elizabeth Wells and Clyde Maddox are married. The ceremony took place Saturday afternoon in the residence of Rev. C. W. Daniel, with Mr. and Mrs. W. B. King the only guests and Joe Hyman as best man for Mr. Maddox.

All the younger set has been looking for this marriage for some time, and tho the day was rumored a little later, the information that they are really married will be received without any excitement. The bride is not yet 18 and a stunning beauty and the only regret at her happiness is the loss to those who would have delighted in showering upon her the admiration, beauty and a charming personality al-

At this reunion were fourteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. A sumptuous dinner was spread, which all seemed to heartily enjoy. The day was spent in pleasant converse with music and games interspersed. Milton Moore is one of the old settlers of this county, having settled at Bedford in 1861.

Miss Kate Nelson Hill was the charming young hostess of one of the prettiest and merfiest little parties given during the holiday season last Friday evening at her home, 817 Travis avenue. The house was decorated in the Christmas colors of red and green, with mistletoe boughs and Christmas bells. Partners were matched by duplicate numbers on dainty round cards with holly sprays and holly ribbon bows. A number of merry games were played with the zest which always accompanies a gathering of school boys and girls. Among these was a guessing contest, entitled, "All About Kate." For the largest number of correct answers Miss Howard Foute received the prize, a silver jewel the game of forty-two Miss Virginia casket, and Charlton Buchanan an ink stand. The consolation prize, a statuette of a "Trained Nurse," in a cap and apron, went to Miss Ilma Gorman. After the games refreshments, consisting of cream, cakes, nuts, candy and fruit, were served. Mr. and Mrs. Hill were assisted in entertaining the young people by Mesdames Shropshire. Spencer and Misses Mayme McNeely and Adelaide Davis. Victoria Memoirs Delayed The publication of the sensational Hohenlohe memoirs and consequent > publication of Queen Victoria's correspondence indefinitely. The decision, which was communicated a few days ago to Lord Esher, his majesty's adviser and confidential agent, and John Murray, the publisher, caused consternation.

Preparations had been made for the publication of the correspondence in the near future and it is said that the American rights have been sold for a arge sum. Lord Esher, Mr. Murray and A. C. Benson have been hard at work for nearly two years preparing Queen Victoria's letters for the public. Mr. Murray announced nearly a year ago that the book would be ready "in the spring." Spring passed and summer came and the book did not appear. Then it was announced as an important feature of the autumn publications. Another postponement. These postponements were due to King Edward's supervision as editor-in-chief. His majesty announced that he would read the roofs personally and cut out passages which he thought indiscreet or illa He blue-penciled many passages which related to persons still living and which he thought might give offense. Great perturbation was caused in certain quarters by the first an-nouncement that the late queen's letters were to be made public and it is even said that the foreign office went so far as to make a quiet protest against the inclusion of certain documents bearing on political events which occurred in recent years, and which the government considered were still too "new" to be given to the The foreign office calmed down when it was known that the king had

"killed" a number of important let-ters which might have given offense at two European courts. Two months ago the edition was finally approved by King Edward, was ready for publication, and his majesty had initialed the last batch of proofs.

Then came the Hohenlohe revelations. King Edward determined that further revision was necessary. He informed Lord Esher that he intended informed Lord Esher that he intended

Queen Victoria's Letters Withheld By King Edward, Who Is Afraid of Sensations

Cable Special to The Telegram.

(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY PAUL LAMBETH LONDON, Dec. 29.-Keir Hardie, the labor leader in the house of commons, is having a hard time dodging the aristocracy. Altho he insists that he is a "plain man" and averse to appearing as a social lion he has been eager-. ly sought after by several well known society hostesses, who apparently regard him as an amusing addition to their list of "lions."

Lady Warwick and Mr. Hardie are great friends and the socialist countess has had frequent interviews with him at the house. But Mr. Hardie flees rom other titled women as from the plague. A few weeks ago one of them -the wife of a newly created peerdrove to the labor leader's residence, near Fetter Lane-or as near as she could get in a brougham, for the Keir Hardie mansion is located in an obscure court back of the street-to trg to interest him in a scheme for trades union social clubs in north of England

Mr. Hardle was not at home, however, and he afterward declared to a friend that he was too busy to become a "popular" philanthropist. During the debates on the education bill in the house of commons the peeresses' gallery has been crowded with well known titled ladies who display great interest in the aggressive laborites and especially in Mr. Hardie.

The latter is not a "carpet knight" in any sense of the word. He began life in a coal mine when seven years old, and since then he has waged a fierce fight on capital. He is a spare little man, with a fondness for blazing red ties, and in his shabby fawn jacket and baggy trousers, he is anything but a drawing room politician.

To Visit United States

A number of American relatives and friends of Miss Hermoine Schenley, who married Lord Ellenborough, came over for the wedding. The couple will go to the United States for a brief

Miss Schenley has never visited Pittsburg, where her mother's vast estates are, Lord Ellenborough, who is nearly sixty-six, is known chiefly for his strenuous advocacy of British naval efficiency. He created a mild sensation in the house of lords some time ago by declaring that England was in danger of a surprise attack such as the Russian Port Arthur fleet suffered at the hands of Admiral Togo. He is agitating for the maintenance of all forts at naval anchorages on a war footing, and the employment of none but British born pilots on the coast of Great Britain. Lord Ellenborough saw a good deal of service as a naval cadet in the Crimean war. He was attached to the Colossus, and afterward served on the Highflier during the Chinese trouble of 1857-1860. He commanded the Coquette In the Ashanti war of 1873, and retired as Commander Edward Downes Law, to take his seat in the house of lords upon the death of his cousin. Lord Ellenborough misses higher bonors thru the Earldom of Ellenborough and the viscounty of Southam having fallen into abeyance at the death of the second peer, when the barony only passed to his nephew. For many years the present Lord Ellenerough was a confirmed invalid, ending his winters at Pau. The first Lord Ellenborough was the famous lord chief justice, and his son the governor general of India, was raised the Earldom in 1844.

Victoria Memoirs Delayed

The publication of the sensational Hohenlohe memoirs and consequent turmoil at several European courts has resulted in King Edward delaying the publication of Queen Victoria's corre-The decision, which was communicated a few days ago to Lord Esher, his majesty's adviser and confidential agent, and John Murray, the publisher, caused consternation.

Preparations had been made for the publication of the correspondence in the near future and it is said that the American rights have been sold for a large sum. Lord Esher, Mr. Murray and A. C. Benson have been hard at work for nearly two years preparing Queen Victoria's letters for the public. Mr. Murray announced nearly a year ago that the book would be ready "in the Spring passed and summer came and the book did not appear. Then it was announced as an important feature of the autumn publications. Another postponement. These postponements were due to King Edward's supervision as editor-in-chief. His majesty announced that he would read the oofs personally and cut out passages which he thought indiscreet or ill-advised. He blue-penciled many passages which related to persons still living and which he thought might give offense. Great perturbation was caused in certain quarters by the first announcement that the late queen's letters were to be made public and it is even said that the foreign office went so far as to make a quiet protest against the inclusion of certain documents bearing on political events which occurred in recent years, and which the government considered were

"new" to be given to the The foreign office calmed down public. when it was known that the king had "killed" a number of important letters which might have given offense at two European courts. Two months ago the edition was finally approved by King Edward, was ready for publication, and his majesty had initialed the last batch of proofs. Then came the Hohenlohe revelations. King Edward determined that further revision was necessary. He informed Lord Esher that he intended going thru the entire correspondence again. It is not likely that the letters will be published before next summer at the earliest. The traditional hospitality of the servant. The announcement that John Creber, who was butler to Mr. J. H. Cheate during his ambassadorship, has opened a large hotel in Devonshire emphasizes this fact. Creber is said to have amassed more than fiftgen thousand dollars during his term of service with Mr. Choate.

When Mr. Whitelaw Reid succeeded Mr. Choate he brought his own head man, Bruce. He told Creber that he might stay on if he liked, but under Bruce. Creber indignantly refused. He said that he had been the principal servant in the ambassador's establishment and he intended to be "head man or nothing." "Very well," said Mr. Whitelaw Reid, "you can be

The ease with which Creber withdrew from service is now explained. He had more than ten thousand dolars in the Victoria street branch of the Westminster Bank in addition to other funds, and with this money he purchased the controlling interest in a seaside hotel on the Devonshire coast. He will probably have many American visitors in the summer.

He proposes employing an American cook to prepare "home' dishes for trans-Atlantic guests. Mr. Choate has written him wishing him success in his new venture. The American embassy servants make more money than the servants attached to other emtassies, chiefly because of the number of generous American millionaires who visit the ambassadors from time to time, and scatter tips with traditional generosity.

Speculators Stranded

The American consulate was asked the other day to assist two stranded Americans who speculated in steamship tickets during the trans-Atlantic rush and now find themselves high and dry without sufficient funds to either pay their boarding house bills or steamship fares home. They gave their names as Edward

Hope and F. C. Cassidy, both of New York. They arrived in London in August with first class return tickets via the Cunard Line. In consequence of the demand for berths to New York they transferred their tickets at a premium of nearly forty per cent. Then they purchased two other tickets by the White Star Line-at a premium-and sold them at a still higher figure. They claim to have made several "turnovers" in this way. but their money became exhausted a fortnight ago. They will have a chance of working their passage home

Marquis De Castellane Forecasts Settlement in France

Cable Special to The Telegram. (Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE. PARIS, Dec. 29.-My readers in America will give me credit for the fact that I have all the time reassured them with regard to the issue of the religious crisis in France, "The government of the republic." I said. sectarian as it may be, will not expose itself to the resistance which is sure to arise against it among Catholics by the application of the law of separation of church and state." I added: "M. Clemenceau, the premier, will get out of the difficulty by means of a somersault." Well, at the very moment that I am writing these lines the somersault is being performed; M. lemen eau, with his legs in the air, figuratively speaking, turns back on timself, and will doubtless fall on his feet again. "You refuse," he says to the Catholics, "to conform to the law passed by parliament last year? Very well, we will allow you to meet in your churches, which we shall maintain entirely at your disposal, as long as it suits you, and on the sole and enly condition that, once for all, you make the declaration that you intend to make use of them." The Catholic church, which above all things is naturally anxious not to have the exercise of public worship interrupted, knowing very well the moral loss it would sustain thru such an interruption, is hastening to take advantage of the tolerance accorded to it by the graceful somersault of M. Clemenceau. But this act of abnegation on the part of the pope and the bishops will not fail to cause considerable confusion, if not in the Catholic hierarchy and dogmas, at any rate, in the fortunes, and consequently the vital sources of the faith. The priests and the faithful will continue to exercise the rites of their religion without resistance of any sort, but gradually they will be deprived of the indispensable resources of life, and there will doubtless come a time when absolute necessity will lead to a revolt in the breasts of the faithful. If their complaints are answered with indifference, we shall see a formidable struggle, or at least, an explosion of discontent. If, on the other hand, they are listened to and done justice to, the wilder cohorts of radicalism will make them the chief butt of their attacks. So that altogether the somersault of M. Clemenceau has been a risky one, and is likely to lead him into no small difficulties. The dollar-the beautiful silver dollar-is represented in France by what we call the "piece de cent sous" (five franc piece). It is less beautiful and less heavy, but at the same time it enjoys no small prestige with us as abroad. But now a terrible discovery has been made. One of our republicans, the firebrand against priests and enemy of all religion, has suddenly discovered that on its edge are written these words "Dien protege la France" (God save France). At once a hullabaloo arises! Have the French any need of being protected by others than themselves? Do they know and ought they to know the name of God? Formerly, at the time of the great revolution of 1789, Robespierre would have speedily dispatched to the guillotine these blasphemers of the Supreme Being. Today they will suffer no penalty except the loss of the esteem of simple, honest people. Parliament has, however, associated itself with their notions and has laicized the five-franc, thus showing the depth and the stupidity of their irreligion. If it cost Hearst $80,000 to lose the mayoralty of New York city and $270,-374 to lose the governorship of that state, how much would it cost him to lose the presidency of the United

LONDON CLUBS NOT ON DECLINE

Waiting Lists Show Demand for Membership

(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.) Cable Special to The Telegram.

LONDON, Dec. 29.-A good deal of talk is going on just now about the supposed decline in the prosperity of the London clubs. Most of those who are talking about it are probably not members of any of the clubs in question, for they do not seem to speak with authority, but they generally imply, for example, that a club is a place where people who know one another decide the affairs of the nation. And in the other, non-political clubs, people are said to congregate for high play, for deep drinking and for other more or less harmful purposes.

The Clubs of Nowadays

This picture of club life appears to be drawn, or rather caricatured, from the eighteenth century days, when Brook's and White's were foundedfrom that golden age of conversation, when Englishmen argued more than they have time to nowadays. As a matter of fact, it would be truer to say, surely, that men join clubs nowadays, not because by so doing they "get to know people," because they do not nor because they want (except in very few cases) to talk politics, but simply because they feel it necessary to escape occasionally from their familles and to have a place where they may sit and sulk, heaped up in a huge leather chair, and smoke without being bothered.

Restaurants to Blame

Those clubs that allow visitors are useful, too, as places where you may entertain your guests at dinner, if you have not rooms or a house large enough to entertain, and if you do not want to go to the restaurants. It is the restaurants, however, which have diminished the popularity of clubs, if anything has. Twenty years ago you could get nothing to eat but chops steaks, and cuts from the joint in restaurants that we should now be disposed to call taverns. Now we can get anything we like in restaurants, which resemble palaces.

No Danger of Death'

But there is one pretty good reason o prevent all clubs from vanishing away. Second-rate clubs may possibly be doomed, but famous and so-called fashionable clubs, were they in a parlous state financially, would only have to invite a few of the thousands who are endeavoring to get put up for them to become members. So long as it is considered fashionable to join an institution, that institution will be prosperous. And it will be a long time before certain of the clubs cease to attract snobs, the great army of the "socially ambitious."

Take White's or Brook's, or, better still, the Turf, or Boodles', or the Marlborough-how many would be only too pleased to pay the entrance fee and the subscription to any one of those tomorrow? For most of them hundreds of names are waiting for admission and we know that in the case of the Athenaeum-to mention a very different kind of club-a man has to wait years before he has a chance of coming up for election. That is why there are so many bald-headed persons in such clubs, who sit and expose their bald heads to public observation in the windows, or, worse still, snore loudly in the reading rooms while other members are writing letters to the "Times" about the "Times"

Book Club. It must be admitted, however, that certain of the best clubs compromise their popularity by their antique and boring regulations. One or two of them-no names need be mentionedinsist, for instance, that members shall dress for dinner, and the rule is carried out in a silly, policeman-like manner. An important person arrived to dine at one of the clubs one day some months ago in a tweed suit. It was in the summer and he had come up for two days. The servant told him that he could not dine as he was. Of course he protested and made a scene. But the secretary, who was there, was appealed to and the important person had to withdraw and dine language, that he would be seen no more in the institution which had treated him so outrageously.

Former Affair of Lady Brook With King Recalled

(BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLAINE.)

PARIS, Dec. 29.—It is a strange spectacle, even nowadays, to see an aristocratic lady making herself a mouthpiece of the socialist party, known in England as the labor party. One asks by what curious aberration she has been induced to become its defender, and propagator of its doc-

The old French proverb says "cherchez la femme," but in this case the proverb needs to be changed about and made "cherchez l' homme." It is no secret that the man in question is King Edward himself. Lady Warwick, when she was still known as Lady Brook, was a very beautiful woman, whose elegance created a sensation in the high circles of London society. Edward, then Prince of Wales, was by no means insensible, but feil a victim to her charms, like many others. Queen Alexandra, whose austerity and correctness are well known, did not liness with such a woman, however highly born, and court circles became more and more closed to her. Lady Warwick felt a natural resentment, but what is less natural is the manner in which she showed it. She turned against everything connected with the aristocracy, of which she was herself one of the brightest ornaments, and in this way has become suddenly, as if by enchantment, the apostle and preacher of the social revolution of Great Britain.

Cable Special to The Telegram. LONDON, Dec. 29.-Hugh Watt, the ex-M. P. for the Calmachie division of Glasgow, whose sentence of five years was commuted to twelve months, was released the other day. Lady Violet was permitted to forward his clothing, and, according to arrangements, the release took place quietly. He and Lady Violet have gone to the continent, where Mr. Watt will undergo special treatment for his eyes, the state of which during his incarceration has given him, Lady Violet and elsewhere, which he did, swearing a their friends so much anxiety. After great oath and announcing, in racy his release Watt will have to report himself every month for four years, but a special concession has been allowed him in which he will be spared special visits to the police stations and will be allowed to report himself by letter. Then differences with his wife arose and he eventually left her. She had ample reasons for obtaining a divorce, but steadfastly refused for a long time to set him free. This led up to the case which was heard at the Old Bailey, Dec. 29, 1905, when he was charged with attempting to procure persons to compass her death "by chloroform or other means." The evidence was of the most conflicting nature, the charges of many of the witnesses against him being of the most dubious kind. He was, however, convicted and sentenced to five years penal servitude and is now to be released after serving less than a year of his sentence.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—The municipal authorities have been approached for rmission to erect a statue of Louise Michel the Red Virgin of the commune, in Paris. The monument which it is proposed to set up is a statue by Emile Derre which attracted considerable attention at the autumn salon last year. It represents Louise Michel, who was always very poor, in the simplest of dress, caressing a child, while a cat is affectionately rubbing against the hem of her skirt. The subject is treated with much simple dignity, and is an excellent portrait of the late anarchist leader. In view of the numerous disturbances which Louise Michel was the cause of, it is unlikely that the authorities will permit her glorification to the extent of a monument

GIRL PRIZE PLOWER Drives Almost Straight Furrow in English Competition

(Copyright, 1906, by Hearst News Service.)

Cable Special to The Telegram. LONDON, Dec. 29.—An incident has happened which certainly must have upset Miss Corelli's silken thread story. Every year among the farmers of England great ploughing matches take place, and awards are given to those who drive the straightest furrow, as they turn the ridges of the brown earth. At Brightlingsea, in Essex a novel feature in the ploughing match was a class for ladies. The first prize was by Mrs. Cracknell, and the second prize was awarded to a young lady who was only 17 years of age. The idea of this competition probably arose from the fact that a years ago used to plough for her husband, who was consumptive, in order that he might not lose his weekly wage of ten shillings.

The plough is a difficult instrument to handle, it needs a very firm grip, and it is hard to control the horses and yet keep the furrow perfectly straight.

The murders had remained a mystery until the dramatic confession was extorted from Mueller in this dramatic way. The first was committed eight years ago, when a widow was the victim; the second, the murder of a telephone girl, took place three years ago, and the third a month ago, when a schoolgirl, 11 years old, was killed. Suspicion fell upon Mueller after the hird murder, and he was arrested. After the German custom, the examining magistrate tried to make him confess by daily questionings, threats and persuasions, but the teacher remained stubbornly silent. At last the magistrate had the remains of the murdered widow exhumed and suddenly confronted Mueler with the skeleton. "These," he exlaimed, "are the remains of the poor voman you murdered eight years ago." Bursting into tears, Mueller conessed that he murdered the widow and then, questioned further by the nagistrate, he admitted having committed the two other crimes. The story he told supplied the police with evidence material to his conviction.

First Montenegro Parliament Montenegro's first parliament is a complete political success. It has now had a year of constitutional government, which was granted last December by Prince Nicholas, who up till then had been absolute monarch, ruling his mountainous little state with autocratic sway. Prince Nicholas gave his country a constitution and established a parliament quite of his own free will, and has always acted in accordance with its wishes. No parliament ever had a more docile monarch to deal with. The first thing the Montenegro parliament did was to vote "no conidence" in the government. Accordingly the cabinet had to resign. Prince Nicholas accepted its remission without demur and sent the following message to parliament: "You have sent away my government; please let me know whom you wish me to intrust with the formation of the new cabi-

Panic in Menagerie

A wild panic, caused by the revolt of a cageful of lions and tigers, marked the return to Busch's circus of Peters, the tamer, who was badly mauled by the beasts a month ago. The animals' behavior was so threatening that the audience of 5,000 madly stampeded from the building, believing that Peters and his assistants would be torn to pieces.

Peters entered the cage with his arm still in a sling, and was greeted by Leo, the biggest lion, with an angry movement of his paw. The beast was cowed for a while by two revolver shots and a prod with a pitchfork. He broke out again, however, while Peters was putting two tigers thru their stunts, and was joined by the other lions. When Peters and his assistant turned their attention to the lions the tigers began to threaten them from the other side of the cage, and immediately the whole cageful were in disorder, growling fiercely around the two trainers. Instantly the audience took alarm and fled from the circus in a wildstampede which might have been fatal to hundreds. Meanwhile Peters and his assistant quickly made their escape from the cage of maddened beasts. After that the lions and tigers became quiet, but Peters thought it necessary to give Leo a lesson. A thick rope was thrown over his head and eight circus men pulled on it, tightening the noose round his neck. Leo roared with anger and struggled frantically, while the other beasts fixed their teeth in his body. Finally he wrenched his head out of the rope. More revolver shots and jabs from pitchforks at last brought the whole

OUR LAY SERMON

This is the last Sabbath in the year 1906, and before The Telegram will have opportunity to deliver another lay sermon to its readers the glad New Year will have dawned and we will all have turned over a new leaf from a figurative standpoint at least. And it is on this subject of turning over a new leaf that The Telegram feels inclined to offer a few admonitions this morning. As the great Palmist said in the years that lie so far behind us that all men are Hars, and as men are so universally addicted to the lying habit about the beginning of the New Year, we will let the Brownwood Bulletin furnish us with the customary text this morning. The Bulletin says:

We are all liars unless newspaper men be excepted. A woman meets a neighbor at the door, whom she detests and overwhelms her with expressions of delight at her coming. She is lying. She paints her face and goes out on the street, as much as to say, "My face is rosy and healthy." She is lying. She pads her form to deceive the public eye. Her heart is sad and she puts on a counterfest smile, as much as to say: "I am as happy as a clam." She is lying. The merchant tells his customers his wagons are the best in town-He is a liar-there are dozens of other makes just as good. The farmer sticks his wood crisscross in the bottom of his wagon and lays it thick and close on top. He is lying. The preacher buries an old sinner, who is a servant of the devil, and says: "The Lord hath given and the Lord hath taken away." He is a liar. The editor writes'a flowery notice of a wedding, telling of the beauties of the hooked-nose bride. He is nonestly

As David said in his haste that all men are liars, the statement must be accepted as an established fact. And if all men are naturally and inherently liars, then by way of distinguishment it would doubtless be proper to say that those men who ordinarily make New Year resolutions are the daddies of 'em all. This broad predicate is not laid down for the purpose of discouraging New Year's resolutions, but only to remind us that flesh is weak and we should be careful in the matter of laying off the old until we feel we have manhood enough to take up with the new.

There is neither necessity or justification for these New Year lies, for there is nothing compulsory in the matter of a man turning over a new leaf. It is either a case of "I will" or "I will not," and every man knows just exactly how much real and genuine manhood there is in his makeup and realizes in the beginning whether or not at heart he is a liar. If a man is addicted to a number of bad habits and feels in his heart that he honestly desires to get rid of them and knows he has the manhood to resist temptation in the future the proper thing to do is to say "I will," and do it. But if a man feels his weakness and incapacity and knows he is going to fail, it is a positive injury for him to essay these New Year resolutions, for he comes out of his trial not only seared by the fire, but with the loss of a very considerable portion of his self-respect and self-confidence is almost an-

The Telegram believes that any real man can quit any bad habit he has acquired. But the great trouble with the situation is that the number of real men is so

There is no excuse for lying in any form or under any circumstances. While the truth may sometimes hurt, it never hurts like the discovery of a bald-faced lie, and it is best to speak the truth at all times and under all circumstances. Like the editor referred to by the Brownwood paper, we may sometimes be honestly mistaken, but even under such circumstances, it is best to rectify our error as soon as it is discovered. There is no reason why a lie should be perpetuated by simply being acted.

New Year's resolutions are a good thing where one has the ability to carry them out, and without the ability to carry them out they are best left unformed. Opportunity will be at hand in a few days, however, for genuine manhood to assert itself, and it will be successful in many instances. But alas, for human hopes, in the great majority of instances it

THE AMERICAN NATIONAL MEETING

The call for the tenth annual meeting of the American National Live Stock Association has been issued, and the convention is to be held in the city of Denver, Jan. 22-23, 1907. The official call is signed by Murdo MacKenzie, president, and T. W. Tomlinson, secretary, and is as follows:

"The executive committee and officers of this association congratulate the members on the results achieved during 1906, especially in the passage of the railway rate bill conferring on the interstate commerce commission adequate power over rates, and also in the amendment to the federal statutes extending the time limit in which live stock can be held on cars in transit from 28 to 36 hours. Our association is now recognized as a great power in live stock matters, and it has attained that position thru a policy of conservativeness and fairness. Many important questions will be considered at our next/annual meeting and all our members and others interested are urged to attend. Some of the subjects docketed for consideration are:

"Railroad service. Never in the history of the live stock industry have live stock shippers suffered so disastrously from inferior railroad service. Our association has already taken vigorous steps to relieve the situation and the matter will be further discussed at our annual meeting.

"Our surplus live stock and meat products. Another important question is to secure access to the markets of continental Europe for our surplus live stock products. Our committee on foreign and home markets worked earnestly on this question during the last session of congress, but owing largely to the pendency of other issues, nothing was done by congress. The time is now ripe for action and at our annual meeting a definite plan of action will be adopted.

"Forest reserves. Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, and Gifford Pinchot, forester, will be present at our meeting and there will be full discussion of the general situation as to forest reserves. Those who have any complaints about the administration of the forest reserves, should come to Denver and consult Mr. Pinchot and his assistant, Mr. Potter. A bill is now pending in the senate of the United States providing for the leasing of public lands, and President Roosevelt has just sent a message to congress favoring governmental control of the open range thru the department of agriculture. Our standing committee on forest reserves and grazing lands will submit its recommendation, and it is important that every one interested in this question from every section of the country should be on hand to express his views, in order that our action may be submitted to congress.

"Meat inspection and the cost thereof. An attempt is now being made to place the cost of the federal meat inspection upon the packers, which means that the live stock producers would pay that expense, and it will require vigorous action upon our part to prevent it.

"Questions of sanitation, better service from stock yards companies, the suits now pending before the interstate commerce commission relative to certain live stock rates, and many other subjects of interest will be discussed fully and the debate will be open to all members under the by-laws of the association.

"Reduced rates have been granted by all railroads. During the week of the convention the Western Live Stock Show will be held in Denver at the stock yards. All members are urged to come to this convention and by their presence, counsel and support, strengthen this association. An invitation is also extended to all live stock growers who are not now members, either individually or thru their association, to meet with us

Texas cattlemen have a deep and abiding interest in the success and welfare of the American National Live Stock Association, for it was thru the efforts of Texas cattlemen that the association was rescued from its former perilous position and placed upon its present very satisfactory basis. It is the successor of the old National Live Stock Association, which it was claimed had fallen into the hands of detrimental interests, and now that the Texas idea has prevailed and the new association has started out on a career that promises to be so successful, it is but proper that Texas cattlemen should attend the next annual meeting and continue to assist in the great work that has

THE MERRY, MERRY YULETIDE

Ah, yes, this is it, the yuletide when the cheerful giver hikes to the savings bank to yank out his roll to find that what he put in during the twelvemonth agone won't square half his little list. Ah, these are the days which are long on good will but mighty short

What will Santa Claus bring Fran-ces? A nice new doll that dan-ces? Well, I guess not, not for Frances. She wants a fifty-pound bear filled with excelsior, and it has to be several sizes larger than the girl's next door, or she won't play. Little Willie wants a $43 near-automobile, and the fact that his dad drives a team at $12.50 a week doesn't have any bearing upon ambition to make believe, and darn the expense. Sometimes they don't get it, and dear old Santa is fast earning the reputation of a four-flusher.

This is also the time of year when everybody amasses what in calmer moments one regards justly as junk. Anything that is useless, as long as it is decorated with holly berries, is eagerly bought up for a Christmas present, possibly upon the reasonable hunch that the recipient hasn't already got something like it if he can help it. Ask me, what has become of the mustache cup of yesteryear, and the slag vase? Huh? Silently and surreptitiously slipped into the ash barrel. In a few years from now you can buy up the Christmas gift of today at a Salvation Army rummage sale, unused and dust-flecked.

The average Christmas is always good for a January 1 trial balance showing presents receivable about 25 per cent of the presents payable.

A BAD BOY IN SUNDAY SCHOOL

Peter C. Miller, the Sunday school organizer of Detroit, discussed the other day the Rev. G. W. Bailey's striking idea for a Sunday school wherein the "saved" should be kept apart from the "unsaved" pupils.

"Mr. Bailey holds," said Mr. Miller, "that in the Sunday school of today one bad boy is capable of demoralizing a whole class of good ones. He'holds that his segregation idea, if it were put in operation, would shame the 'unsaved'-shame, that is, those who were not church members-causing them to work and strive diligently in order to become a part of the 'saved.'

Of course, it looks where you want or where you want. But after a while you begin to feel like the fellow who discovered the noo candidate for Governor. The thing that impresses you most while you're up in the air is the silence. Everythin's quiet, yet you can hear every sound. You're sailin' gaily through the clouds, yet you can hear the rumblin' of the wagons, the whistles of the factories an' the hum of the traf-fic in the cities. The hard part of the game is to know where you are. An' that's why sounds is so welcome. They give you a guide. I know we was worried a great deal after floatin' with the wind for seven or eight hours when we was up. There wasn't one of us knoo where we was at. # NEW YORK STOCKS DISPLAY WEAKNESS

Bank Statement Favorable to Financial Situation

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 .- The market displayed a weakness at the opening and some of the stocks, especially the high-priced issues, made considerable declines. Cables from London indicated an irregular market, with values fractionally higher, Reading being the feature, gaining 1 point. However, on the local exchange Reading had lost 31/2 points by noon and the tendency was very weak. Altogether the stock market was a very poor trading affair and operations were generally small. The money situation may be somewhat easier at an advance. The arrivals of gold from South Africa were over $4,000,000 and the Bank of France, it is claimed, is still willing to extend further aid. The bank returns today were hard to predict, but on the face of known movements it was considered favorable, and added some strength to stocks. As a result of the preparations that are being made by the banks to meet the enormous payments of the new year, call money advanced again. This resulted in bringing out an irregular market and much hesitancy in trading operations. The fact that the exchange rate was reduced to the lowest price in many years had very little effect on sentiment and it is not apparent that any immediate relief in the way of gold imports may be expected from London. It was, however, considered reassuring that the efforts of the bears to depress stocks made little impression, and that there was fairly good buying among the low-priced investment stocks which had recently been neglected. The Hill issues showed some inclination to rally, and it is generally believed that the attack on them has about spent its force. Pennsylvania and the securities intensified with that company are somewhat affected by the death of President Cassatt.

Total sales of shares were 428,100. Quotations

Trading Mainly Professional— Spots in Fair Demand

Special to The Telegram. NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29.-The opening was dull but the market held up remarkably well under the holiday duliness and other adverse features. Shorts seemed to be rather afraid of the holidays and when they entered the ring to buy they found few sellers. New York, while dull, showed more strength than was looked for, and this gave the New Orleans market unsteadiness. The New York market showed that it undoubtedly held a very large short interest and the next event on the program there is expected to be an effort on the part of the adepts at manipulation to run in this interest. Shorts already seem confident of a bearish census report on the amount of cotton ginned prior to Jan. 1, and this confidence, it is predicted by some, may yet cost deary. In the local markets there is obviously a large spot short interest and this feature may over shadow all others after the holidays. Shorts today bid 100 points on January for Liverpool good middling, but were unable to find many sellers. The same price was bid for January shipment but little or nothing is coming out from the interior. This is a remarkable and unheard of price and ought to prove to the most skeptical that there is little cotton left for sale in the country and that there is an enormous demand for the actual stuff. The lessening of the offerings from the country is taken as an indication of the falling off of the movement soon. Liverpool was disappointed and the visible supply statement was bearish, but little heed was given either by the

Provisions Open Lower, Make Further Declines

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Dec. 29 .- The weakness in the wheat market yesterday was reflected in Saturday's trading. The comparatively small clearances for the week up to the close of business today, and a more thoro report of good conditions of winter wheat, continued the weak feeling. The opening, however, was a little stronger than Friday's close, but very little animation could be instilled into the trading operations. Early in the day trading was held about steady, with commission houses moderate buyers. The close was weaker than it is thought the conditions warrant, Duluth and Minneapolis both report that heavier movements will soon begin, for the reason that since the rush of freight transportation immediately preceding the holidays is over, there will now soon be a relief to the car situation. # MISCELLANEOUS

The near approach of the holidays is having an effect on the local wholesale markets, in that it is difficult to supply the demand for a great many of the staple commodities. All lines of wholesale business are now crowding all previous records.

The produce and provision markets are, of course, the most active. Sugar is some higher, but in the provision line prices maintain a comparatively steady tone. Fruits are now in strong demand, and are plentful, with the exception of oranges, which are very scarce, and the wholesale houses claim they are very hard to procure from any source, and that Christmas oranges will be on the market in very imited quantities.

The country produce market is at this time one of considerable importance. Eggs, chickens, butter and turkeys are in strong demand. In some lines of country produce the prices are soaring skyward, but are generally remarkably steady for this season of the

RECEIPTS AT END OF WEEK LIGHT

Steers and Hogs Active and Strong

Week's Market Review

The marketing of livestock at Fort Worth has shown a large decrease in all branches, steers, butcher stock and calves, hogs and sheep. The receipts for the week foot up about 6,000 cattle, 2,000 calves, 6,000 hogs, 100 sheep and 400 horses and mules. Beef Steers-Trade opened on Monday with a light supply, which continued all week. Offerings were mostly cattle out of feed lots and the trade from the start showed strength, closing fully 15c to 25c higher. The market was topped on Friday with a choice load of corn fed beeves, averaging 1,257 pounds, which sold at $5, which was the top for a carload since last July. Butcher Stock-There was a fair opening week run of cows and heifers, but from the first day the supply showed a decrease. The quality of cows has been fairly good and trading strong, sales showing an advance of fully 15c to 25c for the week. The top was reached on Thursday for a load of fed cows, which sold at $3.50. Calves—The supply of calves has been unusually light all week and fell far short of the demand. There were but few choice light vealers yarded, but the quality as a whole has been fair. Top light vealers were quoted up

Hogs—The market on hogs, while re-ceipts were light, fluctuated some during the week. The first three days showed a slight gain, but this was practically all lost on Thursday. The market on Friday and Saturday showed strength, regaining the lost, leaving the market on a level with a week ago. Tops for the week are quoted at

Abilene, Texas, has a reputation for many excellent institutions of which she has reason to be proud, but among them all there are none that can excel its energetic mayor, Morgan Weaver, and its city marshal, Captain John J. nton. The former is one of the leading merchants, is proud of his growing young city and gives his personal attention to every interest of a public character, believing that the citizens when they selected him for the most prominent position in their gift, expected therefore that he would be fair with them and give them a good city government. Colonel Weaver cordially welcomed the visitor and said "Glad to see you, will immediately inform the marshal, John Clinton, that you are in the confines of the city and let him keep a lookout upon you while you are with us, not for fear that the city will do you any harm, but on the contrary, that you might carry off the town after you

Abliene has increased in every respect, but what struck the visitor more than any other phase of visitor more than any other phaze of the town's advance in material prog-ress, was the extent and almost universal elegance and comfort of its private residences.

Nothing adds more to the attrac-

26 BANKS IN ONE COMPANY

Continental System Unique in Financial Methods

The Continental Bank and Trust Company has a charter both unique and valuable with few counterparts in the United States. At the time of its organization, April, 1903 its system of branch banking was not understood and appreciated. Many of the leading nations of the civilized world have for hundreds of years been engaged in branch banking; England France, Germany, Scotland, Canada and others are included in the list.

The Continental Bank and Trus Company now has twenty-six banks located in the state, combining with the advantages of its system that other important advantage derived from diversity of crops. Thus a failure of crops in one section would not seriously interfere with the bank's volume of business. All of these banks are under one management and differ widely from most chains of banks which are connected merely thru some community of interest which would be severed should disaster overtake any one of them.

The bank has been a success almost from the beginning. At the end of 1904, for satisfactory business reasons, all net profits were paid out by way of dividends. Since then, in addition to paying an 8 per cent dividend at the end of 1905, the bank shows net earnings $86,509.08 according to its recent published statement. It is worthy of note too that this bank and its many branches thruout the country centering in the head office at Fort Worth is attracting attention to the city and turning much business this

The management enploys only competent and high priced men who supervise its branches. In addition to this the central organization adds efficiency to each by way of counsel and general supervision by keeping in touch with them daily.

Its growth is shown by the deposits which their published statements showed on the following dates: Dec. 31, 1903, they amounted to $330,000; Dec. 31, 1904, they amounted to $860,-000; Nov. 30, 1905, they amounted to $1,210,000; Nov. 30, 1906, they amounted to $1,940,000.

Its officers and employes are all under bond; no active officer or employe can borrow any of its funds and the bank's vaults and burglar proof safes are of the most modern and approved If any one thing is more worthy of special mention than another in reference to this bank's history it is that its management has been so conservative that so far it has never been necessary for the bank to borrow a dollar or rediscount a note, showing not only the financial strength of the institution but that those at its helm are experienced bank men and are guiding it safely.

Its officers are Morgan Jones, chairnan of the board; J. G. Wilkinson, president; D. T. Bomar, D. B. Keeler, and C. A. Sanford, vice presidents; J. E. Willis, vice president and auditor; Ben W. Fouts, cashier.

The directors are: Morgan Jones, Edmond P. Bomar, Everett H. Carter, David B. Keeler, George Thompson, H. E. Anderson, R. W. Flournoy, W. C. Stripling, J. G. Wilkinson, D. T. Bo-mar, A. C. Walker, H. M. Parvin, A. T. Bryant.

San Angelo Standard. The John Abe March ranch in Upton county, consisting of 20,000 acres of land, has been sold to parties from Paris for a consideration of $5 per acre, aggregating a total of $100,000. The deal was engineered by W. W. Crow of the real estate firm of Mann & Crow, and is one of the largest yet consummated in the section of the state where the ranch is located. There are a number of minor transactions included in the deal and it is understood the property will be made to yield the investors a better price than the figures quoted but these have not yet been sufficiently developed to give out. There were seven of the original purchasers and their names were not obtained by the reporter.

After surveying the immense tract of land in Runnels county, purchased by C. & G. Hagelstein of San Angelo, and Cicero Smith of Mineral Wells, it has been found that there was more land than was estimated in the deal and the purchase price will amount to $651,000. No deal approaching this has ever been consummated in all Southwest Texas.

S. M. Ogiesby, the Schleicher county ranchman, was in the city Saturday. Mr. Oglesby has purchased 165 cows from Frank Roberts of Sherwood. J. P. Reynolds and brother have sold their seventeen-section ranch in Reagan county to the Mason-Perry syndicate of Abilene for $60,000, or

Abilene, Texas, has a reputation for of taste and architectural beauty. They and is finishing off a building for hotel will compare favorably with institutions of a like kind in cities of greater population and wealth. One is struck with the absolute cleanliness of the buildings and the care taken with the yards and surrounding grounds. One of these institutions is situated on the west and the other on the southern suburb of the city. The educational institutions of the city are on a scale ommensurate with the other institutions of Abilene. The high school ouilding and the two ward schools are built in a tasty style of architecture of red brick and red sandstone and while ample just at present for the city's wants, will soon have to have additions to keep pace with the rapid increase of the scholastic population of the city, for Abilene is not in the race suicide section, by any means. Abilene has for years had a fine system of waterworks supplied from an artificial lake established on Lytle creek, a tributary of the Clear Fork of the Brazos, which flows from the south to the north, as all streams in this immediate section do, and the water supply provided by "the Lake" is calculated to be somewhere near 800,000,000 gallons. The system of conducting the water to the homes of the people and for the public service is up to date and of a substantial character. An electric light system has long been in vogue and now an up-to-date gas plant is being installed, which will be carried to the doors of every householder. The new building that is about completed for the gas company's offices and other matters connected with a gas plant, is of a very substantial character, being built of concrete blocks, and will add much to the appearance of the eastern part of the southern front of the right of way. In addition to the private institutions of learning that are part and parcel of the city, Simmons college is well known in the state as an institution for higher education under the immediate influence and control of the Baptist church of Texas. Such a well known institution needs no extended description, so it is only necessary to observe that it has not fallen behind its best reputation. Recently the Christian church, after looking over locations in Texas, gave Abilene the prefarchitecturally handsome college in acter." In we went of course, for if R. A. Davis. These gentlemen are all the western suburbs of the town. There are other private and semi-public institutions of learning in the city and add to these the public library nad the many ladies' clubs, a very complete system has been obtained for the education of the young who will in the future have to guide the destinies of this state more or less. While the homes, scholastic and semi-public institutions have not been neglected, the business element have not fallen behind the procession, but have kept pace in the race for civic development and can now show material evidence to sustain their claim. The hotels that at one time were ample to comfortably entertain all guests have lately failed to provide enterprising citizen, Wiley Dodd by and as one individual beet in the pile name, to meet the call, has constructed weighed twelve or fourteen pounds it purposes, three stories high, the material used being concrete blocks, which, as the location occupied is on South Front street, two blocks from the depot, makes it accessible readily to strangers. The hotels now are rowded to overflowing at all times by business men and homeseekers. The building that has recently been finshed and occupied by the Radford Wholesale Grocery Company is a model for any city. It is built of red brick with trimmings, is one-story with asement. In the basement is located cold storage department and other matters for the convenience of the usiness. The office furniture of this usiness cost nearly $1,500. Traveling nen who have visited this model of a ousiness house say that it is the best and most convenient in every way they have ever met with in the state. The Wooten Wholesale Grocery Company is also finishing up a building of very much the same character as the last nentioned, but as it has not yet been entirely completed further description cannot be written this time. There are other buildings contemplated and under constructions which is evidence of the city's advancement.

Of course there are many other things that could be said of the city of Abilene as to its general progress along modern lines, but these have so often been touched upon in other papers and articles, that they are well known. I mean its county and city buildings and the federal court house and postoffice, etc. "Now," said Captain Clinton, "I do not wish you to take away any false impressions or notions about our town, so I will just say that we have a good system of sewerage, and this makes us the only city between Fort Worth and El Paso, please bear in mind. Now, before Thomas gets off to his dinner I wish you to go in with me and take a look at the products of our county that have been collected and arranged by him under the auspices of the 25,000 Club and then we will go in and take a look at the exhibit next door which is being given by the Abilene and Great Western Poultry and Pet Stock Association, and see what you think of it and if it compares with more pretentious institutions of a similar charan article like this it is impossible to do justice to such an exhibit as this one was. It is no wonder that people by the thousands are rushing from everywhere to get even a small piece of the soil that produces such corn; June corn from the shrinneries that is so tall that the ears of the corn are nine feet from the root of the stalk. and the product of which per acre was from 30 to 60 bushels. In addition there were other varieties, such

Captain Thomas, secretary of the club, did not tell me this, but Max Andrews did, and I am inclined to think it is so, for the reason that Max is an old-time newspaper man and from the further fact that the specimen under discussion measured about 3% to four inches across the top in diameter, and it would not take many of them to make a bushel. Ribbon cane and its product, syrup; millet, alfalfa, figs, butterbeans, Brazilian rice, plums, cherries, pears and strawberries canned; walnuts, okra, squash, the size of which I am afraid to mention; Colorado hay peppers of three varieties, and last, but not least, a cotton stalk with 250 bolls upon it Well, with all this before me I said to Captain Thomas that I could not stand any more of that sort of thing unless I was fed, so I started, but the captain said that he believed in finishing up any job he had in hand and I could not leave until I had looked at some of Abilene's yellow-legged chick-

The Abilene and Great Western Poultry and Pet Stock Association is an organization which is composed principally of Abilene business men, with a sprinkling of members in other places such as Midland, Capps, etc. These gentlemen are progressive and generally are to be found in the forefront of every worthy adventure that will tend to build up the industries of the state and their section. While an Abilene institution as to its membership and location, it is circumscribed by no narrow boundaries, but is open to the state in competition for the premiums for the best that is offered for exhibition. The president is W. L. Terrell of Abilene; C. F. Baugh, secretary-treasurer, of Abilene; one of the vice president is from Abilene and the other two from Midland and Capps respectively. The executive committee are all from Abilene with the exception of one who resides at Buffalo Gap, in Taylor county. It was held next door to the rooms of the 25,000 Club in a large hall. There were 200 individual members of exhibits composed of chickens, turkeys, white and bronzed ducks and there had been dogs in the pet stock division of the show. Every coop was well made, clean and tasty and the fowls were as good as any that the writer has ever seen at any show he ever attended. The white chickens were the cleanest, prettiest fowls that There were turkeys, white and bronze. One grand gobler weighed 35 pounds and was not over a year old. There were others that were great big fellows only seven months old. In size, coloring and healthfulness these birds could be shown anywhere and in contests for premiums which as the motto of this association says are open to the competition of the whole world." It is wonderful the excellence of everything in and about the show when one realizes that it was only organized on the 26th of last February, 1906, and is not yet a year old and is still in the infancy of its usefulness As the association says in its greeting announcing this its first meeting: Every breeder wants to be in on a good thing and all will want to become nembers after our first show. We ask all breeders of the great west, which includes all the states that belong to this section of the country known as the 'great west,' to help us make this show a grand success. Success for us means an increase in business for all breeders of poultry." So this association is launched and to judge from the show, the first they have given, it will win success for a certainty. The special premiums were just such as are generally offered at such shows and were liberal in amount. Among the visitors at the show who were exhibitors were N. A. Palmer of Comanche, Texas; H. F. J. Gille of Comanche, Texas; J. M. Athens, Dakota, greeted the coming of Silas P. Cornu. He brought with him what he called his "Dry Calculator." It was a curious piece of machinery, and if it isn't in use today, it isn't the fault of Si Cornu. Si, he claimed, that Homer and Virgil and Caaseus Julia, and a lot more of eminent ancients had done without figgers. Why shouldn't we?

It was a seductive sort of reasonin'. and the students at the Athens university took to it amazin', an' the same notion filtered down thru all the schools in the place. ARINE GREEN

The Weman With the Diamond I was, perhaps, the plainest girl in the room that night. I was also the happiest-up to 1 o'clock. Then my whole world crumbled, or, at least, suffered an eclipse. Why and how, I am about to relate.

I was not made for love. This I had often said to myself; very often of late. In figure I am too diminutive, in face far too unbeautiful, for me to cherish expectations of this nature. Indeed, love had never entered into my plan of life, as was evinced by the nurse's diploma I had just gained after three years of hard study and severe training.

I was not made for love. But if had been: had I been gifted with height, regularity of feature, or even with that eloquence of expression which redeems all defects save those which savor of deformity. I knew well whose eye I should have chosen to please, whose heart I should have felt my heart-(did I say heart? I should have said understanding, which is something very different)-when, at the end of the first dance, I looked up from the midst of the bevy of girls by whom I was surrounded and saw Anson Durand's fine figure emerging from that quarter of the hall where our host and hostess stood to receive their guests. His eye was roaming hither and thither and his manner was both eager and expectant. Whom was he seeking? Some one of the many bright and vivacious girls about me, for he turned almost instantly our way. But which one?

I thought I knew. I remembered at whose house I had met him first, at whose house I had seen him many times since. She was a lovely girl, witty and vivacious, and she stood at this very moment at my elbow. In her beauty lay the lure, the natural lure for a man of his gifts and striking personality. If I continued to watch. I should soon see his countenance light up under the recognition she could not fail to give him. And I was right: in another instant it did, and with a brightness there was no mistaking. But one feeling common to the human heart lends such warmth, such expressiveness to the features. How handsome it made him look, how distinguished, how everything I was

But what does this mean? He has passed Miss Sperry—passed her with a smile and a friendly word—and is speaking to me, singling me out, offering me his arm! He is smiling, too, not as he smiled on Miss Sperry, but more warmly, with more that is personal in it. I took his arm in a daze. The lights were dimmer than I thought; nothing was really bright except his smile. It seemed to change the world for me. I forgot that I was plain, forgot that I was small, with nothing to recommend me to the eye or heart, and let myself be drawn away, asking nothing, anticipating nothing, till I found myself alone with him in the fragrant recesses of the conservatory, with only the throb of music in our ears to link us to the scene we had left. Why had he brought me here, into this fairyland of opalescent lights and ntoxicating perfumes? What could he have to say-to show? Ah! in another moment I knew. He had seized my hands, and love, ardent love, came ouring from his lips. Could it be real? Was I the object of all this feeling, I? If so, then life ad changed for me indeed. searched his face to see if this Paradise, whose gates I was thus passionately bidden to enter, was indeed a verity or only a dream born of the excitement of the dance and the charm of a scene exceptional in its splendor and picturesqueness even for so luxurious a city as New York. But it was no mere dream. Truth and earnestness were in his manner, and his words were neither feverish nor forced.

"I love you! I need you!" So I heard, and so he soon made me be-"You have charmed me from the first. Your tantalizing, trusting, loyal self, like no other, sweeter than any other, has drawn the heart from my breast. I have seen many women, admired many women, but you only have I loved. Will you be my wife? I was dazzled; moved beyond anything I could have conceived. I forgot all that I had hitherto said to myself-all that I had endeavored to impress upon my heart when I beheld im approaching, intent, as I believed. in his search for another woman; and, onfiding in his honesty, trusting entirely to his faith, I allowed the plans and purposes of years to vanish in the glamour of this new joy, and spoke the word which linked us together in a bond which half an hour before I had never dreamed would unite me to any man. His impassioned "Mine! mine! filled my cup to overflowing. Something of the ecstasy of living entered my soul; which, in spite of all I have suffered since, recreated the world for me and made all that went before but the prelude to the new life, the new

Oh, I was happy, happy, perhaps too happy! As the conservatory filled and we passed back into the adjoining room, the glimpse I caught of myself in one of the mirrors startled me into thinking so. For had it not been for the odd color of my dress and the unique way in which I wore my hair that night, I should not have recognized the beaming girl who faced me so naively from the depths of the responsive glass. Can one be too happy? I do not know. I know that one can be too perplexed, too burdened and too sad. Thus far I have spoken only of myself in connection with the evening's elaborate function. But the entitled by my old Dutch blood to a certain social consideration which I am happy to say never falled me. I even in this hour of supreme satisfaction, attracted very little attention and awoke small comment. There was another woman present better calculated to do this. A fair woman, large and of a bountiful presence, accustomed to conquest, and gifted with the power of carrying off her victories with a certain lazy grace irresistibly fascinating to the ordinary man; a gorgeously appareled woman, I inquiry in them, but it was an inquiry with a diamond on her breast too vivid for most wemen, almost too vivid for er. I noticed this diamond early in evening, and then I noticed her. She was not as fine as the diamond. but she was very fine, and, had I been in a less ecstatic frame of mind, I might have envied the homage she received from all the men, not excepting him upon whose arm I leaned.

Later, there was no one in the world

The ball was a private and very elegant one. There were some notable guests. One gentleman in particular was pointed out to me as an Englishman of great distinction and political importance. I thought him a very interesting man for his years, but odd and a trifle self-centered. The greatly courted, he seemed strangely restless under the fire of eyes to which he was constantly subjected, and only happy when free to use his own in contemplation of the scene about him. Had been less absorbed in my own hapoiness I might have noted sooner than did that this contemplation was confined to such groups as gathered about the lady with the diamond. But this I failed to observe at the time, and con-

Yet it was not admiration for her erson which he openly displayed. During the whole time he stood there his eyes seldom rose to her face; they lingered mainly-and this was what aroused my curiosity—on the great fan of ostrich plumes which this opulent beauty held against her breast Was he desirous of seeing the great diamond she thus unconsciously (or was it consciously) shielded from his gaze? It was possible, for, as I continued to note him, he suddenly bent toward her and as quickly raised himself again with a look which was quite raised himself again with a look which was quite inexplicable to me. The lady had shifted her fan a moment and his eyes had fallen on the alcove figures prominently in my story, will pause here to describe it. It was originally intended to contain a large group of statuary which our host, Mr. Ramsdell, had ordered from Italy to adorn his new house. He is a man of original ideas in regard to such matters, and in this instance ad gone so far as to have this end of the house constructed with a special view to an advantageous display of this promised work of art. Fearing ponderous effect of a pedestal large enough to hold such a consideragroup, he had planned to raise it the level of the eye by having the alcove floor built a few feet higher than the main one. A flight of low, wide steps connected the two, which, following the curve of the wall, added much to the beauty of this portion of

The group was a failure and was never shipped; but the alcove remained, and, possessing as it did all the advantages of a room in the way of heat and light, had been turned into a miniature retreat of exceptional

The seclusion it offered extended, or so we were happy to think, to the solitary divan at its base on which Mr. Durand and I were seated. With possibly an undue confidence in the advantage of our position, we were discussing a subject interesting only to ourselves, when Mr. Durand interrupted himself to declare: "You are the woman I want, you and you only. And I want you soon. When do you think you can marry me? Within a week—if—if—'

Did my look stop him? I was started. I had heard no incoherent phrase from him before "A week!" I remonstrated. "We take more time than that to fit our-

"Nor are you a nomad among clubs and restaurants." "No. I have a home."

"Nor do you love me as deeply as I This I thought open to argument. "The home you speak of is a luxurious one," he continued. "I can not offer you its equal. Do you expect me

I was indignant "You know that I do not. Shall I who deliberately chose a nurse's life when an indulgent uncle's heart and home were open to me, shrink from braving poverty with the man I love? We will begin as simply as you

"No," he peremptorily put in, yet with a certain hesitancy which seemed to speak of doubts he hardly acknowledged to himself. "I will not marry you if I must expose you to privation or to the genteel poverty hate. I love you more than you realize, and wish to make your life a happy I can not give you all you have been accustomed to in your rich uncle's house, but if matters prosper with me, if the chance I have built or succeeds—and it will fail or succeed tonight-you will have those comforts which love will heighten into luxuries and-and---' He was becoming incoherent again and this time with his eyes fixed elsewhere than on my face. Following his gaze, I discovered what had distracted his attention. The lady with the diamond was approaching us on her way the alcove. She was accompanied by two gentlemen, both strangers to me, and her head, sparkling with brilliants, was turning from one to the other with an indolent grace. I was not surprised that the man at my side quivered and made a start as if to rise. She was a gorgeous image. In comparison with her imposing figure in its trailing robe of rich pink velvet, my diminutive frame in its sea-green gown must have looked as faded and colorless as a half-obliterated pastel. "A striking woman," I remarked as saw he was not likely to resume the conversation which her presence had interrupted. "And what a diamond!" The glance he cast me was peculiar. "Did you notice it particularly?" he asked. Astonished, for there was something very uneasy in his manner so that I half expected to see him rise and join the group he was so eagerly watching without waiting for my lips to frame a response, I quickly replied: "It would be difficult not to notice what one would naturally expect to see only on the breast of a queen. But perhaps she is a queen. I should judge so from the homage which fol-His eyes sought mine. There was

I flushed with humiliation. He was dealer in gems-that was his business-and the check which he had put upon my enthusiasm certainly made me conscious of my own presumption. Yet I was not disposed to take back my words. I had had a better opportunity than himself for seeing this remarkable jewel, and, with the perversity of a somewhat ruffled mood, burst forth, as soon as the color had subsided from my cheeks: "No, no! It is glorious, magnificent never saw its like. I doubt if you ever have, for all your daily acquaintance with jewels. Its value must be enormous. Who is she? You seem to

It was a direct question, but I received no reply. Mr. Durand's eyes had followed the lady, who had lingered somewhat ostentatiously on the top step, and they did not return to me till she had vanished with her companions behind the long plush curains which partly veiled the entrance. By this time he had forgotten my vords, if he had ever heard them, and was with the forced animation of one whose thoughts are elsewhere that he finally returned to the old plea: When would I marry him? If he ould offer me a home in a monthand he would know by tommorow if he could do so-would I come to him then? He would not say in a week; that was perhaps too soon; but in a month? Would I not promise to be his in a month? What I answered I scarcely recall His eyes had stolen back to the alcove and mine had followed them. The gentlemen who had accompanied the lady inside were coming out again. but others were advancing to take their places, and soon she was engaged in holding a regular court in this favored retreat.

Why should this interest me? Why should I notice her or look that way at all? Because Mr. Durand did? Possibly. I remember that for all his ardent love making, I felt a little piqued that he should divide his attentions in this way. Perhaps I thought that for this evening, at least, he might have been blind to a mere coquette's fascinations.

I was thus doubly engaged in listening to my lover's words and in watching the various gentlemen who went up and down the steps, when a former partner advanced and reminded me that I had promised him a waltz. Loath to leave Mr. Durand, yet seeing no way of excusing myself to Mr. Fox, I cast an appealing glance at the former and was greatly chagrined to find him already on his feet.

"Enjoy your dance." have a word to say to Mrs. Fairbrother," and was gone before my new partner had taken me on his arm. Was Mrs Fairbrother the lady with the diamond? Yes; as I turned to enter the parlor with my partner, I caught a glimpse of Mr. Durand's tall figure just disappearing from the step behind the sage green curtains. "Who is Mrs. Fairbrother?" I inquired of Mr. Fox at the end of the

Mr. Fox, who is one of society's perennial beaux, knows everybody. "She is-well, she was Abner Fairbrother's wife. You know Fairbrother, the millionaire who built that curious structure on Eighty-sixth street. At present they are living apart-an amicable understanding. A believe. Her diamond makes her conspicuous. It is one of the most remarkable stones in New York, perhaps in the United States. Have you observed it?"

"Yes-that is, at a distance. Do you think her very handsome?" "Mrs. Fairbrother? She's called so, but she's not my style." Here he gave me a killing glance. "I admire women of mind and heart. They do not need to wear jewels worth an ordinary

I looked about for an excuse to leave this none too desirable partner. "Let us go back into the lorg hall," "The ceaseless whirl of these dancers is making me dizzy." With the ease of a gallant man he took me on his arm and soon we were promenading again in the direction of the alcove. A passing glimpse of its interior was afforded me as we turned to retrace our steps in front of the yellow divan. The lady with the diamond was still there. A fold of the superb pink velvet she wore protruded across the gap made by the half-drawn curtains just as it had done a half hour before. But it was impossible to see her face or who was with her What I could see, however, and did, was the figure of a man leaning against the wall at the foot of the steps. At first I thought this person unknown to me, then I perceived that he was no other than the chief guest of the evening, the Englishman of whom I have previously spoken.
