ROCKEFELLER PREDICTS THE LOSS OF MILLIONS

Discusses Public Attitude Toward Corporations

LONG INTERVIEW

(Copyright, 1906, by Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—In an interview granted to M. E. Pew of the Newspaper Enterprise Association

John D. Rockefeller said:

"In making inventories for the year just past a great many business men of this country will find they have suffered a loss inmounting to millions of dollars thru the shrinkage in values of their holdings during the twelve months.

"This is in the face of our great better in my whole life than today. God's great blessings, pure air and sunshine, are all about us; certainly we have much to be thankful for, haven't we?"

Mr. Rockefeller advised young men to go ahead, do the best you can, make success for yourself, keep happy and comfortable those who depend upon you, be honest and if you fail you will have a clear conscience, which is greater than a fortune gained by dishonorable methods.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA

Negotiations for New Treaty Are Still in Progress

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 31.-The negotiations for the new treaty between Japan and Russia are progressing slowly. It is stated here that inadmissable conditions, prejudicial to Russian economic and political interests, such as free navigation on the Soungari, the creation of new consulates, facilities for obtaining passports and customs advantages for Japan products and complete freedom of fisheries, have been rejected by the Russian commissioners. The fact that the negotiations are still proceeding leads to the hope that a satisfactory settlement will be reached.

prosperity the greatest era of prosperity in the history of the country. Why should stock values be lower today then they were a year ago? I can only account for it by attacks that have been made upon corporate interests during the last year or two, unwarranted attacks that tear down the structure that has been reared by our people thru great effort, energy and

"The effect of these attacks was, of ourse, first felt by capitalists, and thru them by the debtor classes. The debtor classes are feeling the effect more than ever now. Who will be next eguffer? Why, the man with the nner pail, the workingman, whose ages are now higher than ever before history, 20 per cent higher. I beeve the statistics show, than five six years ago. When stock values depreciated as at present capitalnaturally begin to take in loans, spose of collateral, and then the debtor class feel the depression. When they feel depression they retrench, and then it is the working man's turn

"I eve the January inventories will surprise to many people. You sked me for an opinion of the business prospects for the forthcoming year. I never have done much lophesying. I never consider that profitable, and I guess I had refer begin now."

"I will say, tho, that I have great faith in the American people. I have great faith in the honesty and integrity of our business men. A great majority are good, honest, hard-working and enterprising. I have great faith in their judgment. It has always been pleasant to look forward to a new year in which prosperity, success and blessings may be continued. I sincerely hope this country will realize its full share next year and in the years to come."

These are the words of Mr. Rockefeller, coming at the opening of the new year, at a time when the entire world looks upon America for her teatest measure of success in commerce and trade; coming at a time when the whole strength of the administration at Washington is supbeed to be directed against Mr. Rockfeller's oil trust and when state govrnments seek to disrupt the mammoth monopoly.

moth monopoly.

Mr. Rockeff er just before giving the interview in which he predicted his million losses during the year past on account of the attacks on corporate interests had made the best round of the golf links in all his playing. After the game he invited the correspondent to lunch and after that described why and how the oil interests had been consolidated.

Continuing, he said:
"The prosperity we have been enjoying is due to the strict economy and wise judgment of business men. I think the financial district of New York contains some of the finest men in the world. The office boys of the old days are now running our business. They've grown up in it; they

Mr. Rockefeller said the shrinkage in value of his own stock holdings would be shown by the January inventory to amount to several millions of dollars. This he said without any show of feeling and in the tone of voice that the average business man might speak of a minor fallure or a temporary disappointment in his affairs.

THE CHURCH QUESTION

Comment of French Newspapers Continues to Be Conflicting

to extremities.

By Associated Press. PARIS, Dec. 31.—The ancient bishopric of Lucon, it is announced, has been transferred to La Roche-Suryonne thus closing one page of the religious history of France. Lucon was created a bishopric in 1318 and Cardinal Richelieu was one of the incumbents of the see until he became the dominating figure in the politics of France. Press comment on the new religious law which also passed the senate is as varied as it has been heretofore. The Aurore thinks that if the pope instructs the priests to abandon their churches it is a question whether the priests will obey, as they know that if they abandon them it will be a question if they ever re-enter them. Unique Entertainment Provided For Hotel Guests

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31—Elaborate arrangements for the entertainment of the thousands of persons who will bid farewell to the old year and welcome the advent of 1907 with feasting and drinking are being made by the proprietors of the various large hotels and restaurants. In practically every one of New York's many popular hotels and cafes all the tables have been reserved for many days and a large number of interesting dinner parties will take place within their walls this

At the Astor the advent of the New Year will be marked by a notable spectacle. By a system of electric lighting an effect ...ill be produced whereby 1906 will disappear in total darkness and 1907 will come on the scene in the guise of a beautiful maiden showering favors on the crowd from a cornucopia which she will hold in her hand. Trinity's chimes will ring in 1907 as they have done for so many other years and the streets of the lower city, deserted for 364 nights out of 365, will see the annual throng about the old church as midnight

In many churches the pious will await and greet with religious reverence the birth of another year, and in some there will be special service with music.

Munitions of War Removed From Hiding Place in Cuba

By Associated Press. HAVANA, Dec. 31.—The statement s made here that several thousand rifles and machine guns, reported to have been landed recently in Pinar del Rio province and hidden in the woods near Mariel, have been as secretly taken away. The recent movement of troops and police, which was considered mysterious in the light of Governor Magoon's statement that there was no fear of a rising in Cuba, is explained by this announcement as it is now known that the movement was in the nature of a search for these arms.

The possibility of a clash between the Cubans and the American troops is considered remote, as their relations are good. The natives, however, are plotting against one another.

Just who is responsible for the shipment of the arms into Cuba is not known. One theory is that the arms were purchased by the former liberal junta in New York and shipped too late to be used in the last movement. It is feared that the arms are now in the possession of the negroes in the province.

There are indications that it is going to be difficult to repress disorder by the growing bands of negroes who are burning corn fields and

Should Not Ask Nor Extend Unreasonable Credit

PARIS, Dec. 31 .- A case that is interesting husbands and dressmakers has been decided by the courts A fashionable dressmaker demanded several thousand dollars for a score of gowns furnished to a woman in two months and sued the husband and wife to recover. In its decision the court pointed out that even if the husband gives the wife authority to purchase toilettes, it must be presumed that he intends to be reasonable. It rules that it is the duty of the dressmaker to inquire whether orders given by the wife accord with the husband's financial and social status. Tradesmen are also cautioned to show prudence and reserve when apparently exaggerated orders are given. The court reduced the demand of the dressmaker almost one-half.

Mrs. Pullman Breslin Is Wife of Bricklayer in New York. Speaks Four Languages

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Mrs. Lillian Pullman Breslin, from the cold, cheerless squalor of a room in a cellar on Ninth avenue, where she was found, is prepared to prove with letters and documents that her eldest son, Edmond, who has been taken from her by the Gerry Society, is the grandson and heir of the palace car multi-millionaire.

In support of this claim she made public the following remarkable letter which she declared she had received from George Pullman, son of the millionaire, and her alleged hus-

I gave $150 to Ernie (Mrs. Breslin's brother) for you and I presume it was all right. Did you arrive in Rome safely? Are you with the cardinal? "It worries a man dreadfully when the dearest thing on earth to him is far away; he knows not where.

"I suppose you think I am a jealous old man, but I really would prefer that you would not go about much alone. It really is not a safe thing for a young woman to do.

"Let me know in your next where you are going to be. I am coming over with Clara Barton for the Red Cross conference in Vienna and shall expect to have you with me.

Rome, Italy." Ready to Fight

"I will fight to the last to see that my son is given what rightfully belongs to him," declared Mrs. Pullman-Breslin, "for myself, I don't care, but poor as I am, I will fight for my boy." The spectacle of this woman, mistress of four or five languages, possessed of the best education that Europe could give, once the protege of Cardinal Satolli and later well known in Washington as an assistant to Miss Clara Barton in the Red Cross, forced by circumstances into the bitterest and most grinding poverty, now the wife of a bricklayer, formed a strange and pathetic example of the curious quips

Here is her story, reading more like a romantic novel than a story of real life, as she told it to a reporter:

"I feel as surely as that I am alive that I can prove I am the wife of George Pullman and that my boy, Edmond, is his son. I have the documents that must convince any one in the world who is fair-minded.

"In the first place, I secured a divorce from him ten years ago. The case was tried before Justice Cohamin the supreme court in New York and I was given a decree. There are records of that trial and I also have documents relating to it that show that Clara Elliott, a woman then well known in Washington, D. C., was named as the co-respondent.

"During the trial, and the records will prove it, I showed by the registers from the Waldorf, from the Holland House, from the Murray Hill hotel and from others in New York that George Pullman and I lived there and that I was registered as his wife. I proved that satisfactorily and my divorce was granted.

"And now that I have shown that I would take up the fight again for my son, I have been hounded. The Gerry Society has hounded me. They have taken the boy away from me when they have no right to take him. I am poor, but I am quite able to take care of my boy.

"It is a terrible state, this of mine, for a woman who has been used to as much as I have been, to fall to. I was educated chiefly in Italy. You have seen that I speak Italian fluently. And I speak French, Spanish and German as well as I do English.

"It was in Washington something over ten years ago that I first met Pullman. He was the secretary to Miss Barton in the Red Cross and I was also an assistant of hers. We were married March 26, 1897, in a house at Twelfth street and Fifth avenue in New York, and the wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Pierson.

GUARDED TOMB OF THOMAS PAINE

Captain Lloyd Retires After 50 Years' Loyal Service

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Fearing that he would die alone, Captain George W. Lloyd, for fifty years caretaker of Thomas Paine's monument in New Rochelle, took up nis residence at the county house at East View Sunday. He is not a pauper and will pay his board to the county of Westchester.

His wife died two years ago and snortly after his sister, who lived with him, became deranged and was committed to an institution. Fearing death might overtake him any day, he wanted some one near at hand, as he says, he has something important to reveal before he expires. Intimate friends have tried to extract his secret several times, but have failed.

For more than half a century Captain Lloyd guarded the tomb of Paine. There was no pay attached to the position, yet he visited the grave of the free-thinker regularly during all those years to see that it was not desecrated by religious fanatics. On July 4 last he formally turned over the keys to Mayor Clark and retired, the municipality of New Rochelle having agreed to assume the expense.

In the years in which Captain Lloyd spent in charge of the monument he became widely acquainted with the "free-thinking" element thruout the country and sent many of them inkstands and souvenirs which he carved from the wood of trees which grew near Paine's grave.

ADVANCE IN PRICE OF ALL GROCERIES

The Pure Food Law Goes Into Effect Tuesday

The national pure food law will go into effect Tuesday, Jan. 1, 1907, and its affect will be plainly felt by the consumer on account of the general advance in the price of all food products. This in the absence of an advance in income will be more plainly felt by the working classes and peoole who work for wages than it will by the wealthy. It is argued that the law is one of the best ever enacted, as it is a protection to health in so far as pure food is beneficial to health. But, some argue, that the most sensitive part of a man is his pocket book, it being more sacred than even good health. Anyhow, the law goes into effect Tuesday, and already there has been a material advance in food products.

A Telegram reporter investigated the effect of the law Monday. Calling on the Carter-Hunt Grocery Company to learn just how the pure food law affected their business, and the lines of goods carried, and was informed that there would be a general advance of at least 5 per cent, while in some instances the advance would be as much as 331-3 per cent. Some of the articles affected by the law follow:

Soap, tomato catsup, syrups, baking

Soap, tomato catsup, syrups, baking powder, extracts, spices, all potted or canned meats, cotton seed products, preserves and jellies, pickles, vinegar, lard, wines, brandy, whisky, beer and a long list of others.

Already there has been a material advance in the prices of some goods, notably soap, the price of which has been advanced from $2.50 to $3.40, about 40 per cent; compound lard has been advanced from 7½c to 8½c and Vienna sausage, which has heretofore been on the market at 70c per dozen, has been advanced to 80c. Cotton seed oil products have been advanced 12c per gallon, the price now being 50c against 38c formerly. Syrups have been advanced 20c per case. And thus it goes all along the line. A great many wholesale houses have been buying stock with reference to the new law, but even with the procaution taken are caught with considerable stocks of the affected goods. Carter-Hunt Grocery Company informed The Telegram that they would be permitted to dispose of this stock under the new law, in the state of Texas, there being no Texas pure food law, but the goods cannot be shipped out of the state unless labeled as the new law requires; and the label must indicate the character of the article shipped. It is believed that the advance of

as it is admitted that there is comparatively little pure tomato catsup on the market.

In the case of preserves and jellies and kindred goods, there will also be a big advance; and under the new law, when jelly or preserves are bought there will be a label on the vessel containing them indicating whether they are the pure article or just have the flavor of the pure article. The same will be the case with honey, which will be advanced in

FORTY PEOPLE KILLED AND FIFTY INJURED

Disastrous Wreck On Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Near Washington City, D. C.

ENGINE PLOWED THROUGH TRAIN

While the Crowded Frederick Express Was Standing at the Terra Cotta Station an Extra Train of "Dead" Cars Plunged Into it From the Rear.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 31.—The total number killed in the rear collision on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Terra Cotta, D. C., a block station three miles from Washington, last night is estimated this morning at about forty and the number of injured at fifty.

The wreck was caused by an engine drawing eight empty cars running into local No. 66, known as the Frederick express, just as the passenger train pulled out from the station bound for this city.

Engineer Hildebrand, who was in charge of the "dead" train, and who was arrested shortly after the disaster, declares that on account of a dense fog he was unable to distinguish the signal light at Takoma Park block station.

Tower Operator Phillips declares the danger signal was in its proper place and that Engineer Hildebrand's train passed the lower station going at a speed from fifty to sixty miles per hour.

Heart Sickening Scenes

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The scene after the accident was sickening. Bodies had been hurled on every side and it was after midnight before all the dead had been collected and placed on a special train to be brought to this city. It was only a few minutes after the collision until nearly all the residents of Terra Cotta, a sparsely settled village, had gathered at the scene of the disaster and begun the work of removing the dead and rescuing the injured from beneath the masses of debris. The workers labored under great difficulties for many hours. The injured were wedged beneath wreckage, and numbers of them died before they could be rescued. any acts of heroism and self sacrifice that were performed will never be known. A detachment of forty policemen was sent from Washington and nearly fifty physicians from this city and suburbs responded to a general call but fully three-quarters of an hour elapsed before a doctor was on hand to relieve the injured. For more than three hours after the fatal crash occurred the police and citizens were still taking bodies from under the great pile of wreckage, which was strewn for fully a quarter of a mile along the track. As the injured were taken from under the debris and while the physicians were giving them all the relief possible, Catholic priests were administering the last rites te many of the dying. Women and children joined in the work and everything possible was done to relieve the suffering of the injured.

Lying in a critical condition on a cot at a Providence hospital, Frederick E. Leigh, brakeman on the ill-fated passenger train, gasped out his story of the wreck.

"When we passed Kensington the danger signals were hoisted and we were told to move along cautiously," he said. "When we hit Tacoma the signals were still out and we left the station slowly and proceeded to Terra Cotta, our next stop. The signals were out at Terra Cotta and we took aboard a few passengers and started to pull out for Washington when a train following us hit the back coach

J. C. McLin of Washington, a jeweler, who was treated at the hospital declared when the train was leaving Tacoma he "was haunted by a presentment that something was going to happen. This fear only increased when signals were shown urging our

About Four or Five Hundred Acres

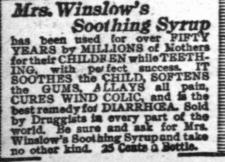

Were Burned Over Sunday Night One of the largest prairie fires that has occurred near Fort Worth for years took place west of town Sunday afternoon and night and was witnessed by a large number of people, who were driving on the Arlington Heights road. appeared so high in the air. The fire started in the afternoon in the ravine behind the Country Club and burned up over the brow of the hill to the Arlington Heights road near the old Williams dairy, where it turned northward and around the dairy to Highmount, where the road stopped it. Altogether about four of five hundred acres were burned over. No damage was done to any buildings by the fire, altho a number of fences were badly

Present officers of the association are S. L. Landrum of Round Rock, Texas, president; E. W. Moll of Lawon, Okla., vice president; G. W. New officers will be elected Monday

Among the most important matters will be the matter of railroad rates, which are considered to be very pressing by the broom corn dealers and nanufacturers. Rates on broom corn are declared to be higher than on other forms of like material. Commodity rates are granted only on the Rock Island and the Frisco roads and an effort will be made to have them granted on the other railroads. At present the minimum car rate on brooms is 15,000 pounds, which requires a tremendous amount of brooms to be shipped to any one point in order to get a single carload shipment A committee will probably be appointed to take this matter up with the railroads and endeavor to have the rate reduced to 12,000 pounds, which will enable the shippers to send out more carload lots. Brooms are very light and consequently the weight is considered as high by the manufac-

was done with great acclaim. Dr. A. A. Brown made the address of response to the address of welcome. The opening mrase of the president's address is the keynote to the whole matter of the Zionist movement and o the spirit of the Fort Worth meeting. It is as follows:

"As I regard the objects of the Zionst movement as the most sacred in which we Jews can be engaged, transcending in imoprtance anything of the kind undertaken by the Jewish people during the last 1800 years, and to be compared only with the work accomplished by Moses and Ezra, I deem it only meet at the opening of the convention to invoke the divine blessing on our deliberations. May the God of Israel speed the dawn of a brighter day when the sun of liberty will burst thru the darkness of the long night and give peace and enlargement to His people in the land of their ancient heritage. Soon and in our days may this ardent hope be realized, fervently we pray of Thee, Thou who reignes: in Thy high heavens. Amen!" The president's address then continued in detail the story of the work the year just ended, the first year of the movement in Texas. With the active co-operation of Dr. Burg of San Antonio the "Jewish Hope" was established at San Antonio, with Dr. Freidlander as editor. The paper was well received and has been a help in the work. The services of L. A. Freed were secured as organizer and his work has been a potent factor in the growth of the movement in Texas. There was much in the address which treated of general conditions of the movement. The speaker was reasonably well satisfied with the success of the movement and had large hopes for a future greater success. It is his hope that

MAN PAID OWN FUNERAL BILLS

Recovered After Being Given Up For Dead

Special to The Telegram. TULSA, I. T., Dec. 31.-When Pink Bond, formerly in the livery business at Kendrick, stepped from a train there the other day after a year's absence in New Mexico, great was his surprise to see a hearse drawn up and a large concourse of bereaved relatives and sorrowing friends awaiting the arrival of his corpse, which they expected to take to Stroud for burial, Last week Mrs. Bond received a telegram stating her husband was very ill and for her to come at once. Before she had arranged for her departure the second message came, advising of the death of Mr. Bond and stating that the body would be shipped to Kendrick that day. The wife made all preparations to receive the corpse the hearse making two trips, Bond failing to arrive on the first scheduled train. The grave was dug in the meantime and all that was necessary for the funeral was the corpse, which, to the great joy of all, failed to materialize. Mr. Bond explained the story of his death by saying he had experienced a very severe attack of heart trouble and apparently was in death's throes when the message announcing his demise had been sent to his wife. The following day after his arrival home he paid a funeral bill of $200.

The campaign will be short and sharp, as the vote will be taken Saturday week.

OPERATION OF THE CONVICT FARMS

Interesting Account Given of Work of Prisoners

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 31.-In his biennial report, which is now in the hands of the state printer, John L. Wortham, financial agent of the state penitentiaries, gives an interesting account of the state farms which are perated by the state under the supervision of the state penitentiary oard. There are four of these farms, and touching on them he says: "The Wynne Farm-This is a home or consumptives and is operated to give them employment in the open ir, and to avoid bringing them is ntimate daily contact with the well The tract of land consists of about 2.000 acres, 500 acres being in cultivation and on it are raised vegetables, fruits, melons and forage crops for the use of the Huntsville prison. A nerd of hogs is maintained on the refuse of fruit, vegetables and melons from the farm and slops from the Huntsville prison. "The Clemons Farm-The Clemons farm, we are pleased to state, shows improved results for the past two years and the indications strongly point to a good yield this year. In our former report the opinion is expressed that this farm could not be operated with a profit for any series of years, this conclusion having followed from the poor yield for several previous years, but the thoro ditching and grading to give it drainage accomolished by this administration and nentioned in our former report, have proved to be permanently effective and lead us to believe that the poor yields of previous years might have been largely due to lack of drainage and to improper cultivation. Whatever the final result may prove to be, it is not sufficiently favorable to make an expenditure to increase the facilities for handling the crops. To this end a line of railroad should be built o connect with the St, Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railroad if that road cannot be induced to extend a spur to the farm, a distance of six miles. "The Harlem Farm-This farm has shown a neat revenue to the state and is one of the best paying propositions of the system. It is located in a country where it is more seasonable than other sections, adapted to the planting of cane and is directly on the railroad, requiring less expense to handle the produce. The year 1903, the first year of our incumbency, was one of the smallest, if not the smallest crops this farm ever produced. The crops of 1904 and 1905 were excellent and the prospects for 1906 are good. The wisdom of the legislature in making an appropriation for a sugar mill on his farm is manifest, from the annual returns, and again we beg to express our commendation of the act. In addition to grinding out our own sugar ane we have made a departure and ought cane from adjoining neighbors, deriving from this source in 1904 and 1905 revenue amounting to $15,000, and we have the same crops bought for "The Women's Farm-This farm, which has been under the management of Captain J. C. Bowden for more than twenty years is moving along in the same smooth and satisfactory manner mentioned in our previous report. This farm is not a revenue producer and can never be so made.

Speaking of the contract forces, Financial Agent Wortham has this to 'As revenue producers our contract forces have been most satisfactory. An average of 1,700 men have been so employed during this biennial term. We hope and trust that the surplus revenues of the system will be such in the future as to permit the increase and extension of manufacturing industries and the purchase and opening of new lands that all convicts can be worked on state account at a very early date. We believe that the legislature would receive the support of the public if they would, out of the state treasury, without waiting for a sufficient accumulation of penitentiary revenues, appropriate a sufficient amount of money to provide profita-ble employment along the lines named and abandon the abominable convict-lease system. Under proper management of the industries and farms the appropriations could in a few years be returned to the state treasury. However, the contract system cannot be abandoned until something of this kind is done, for to place them within the walls without continuous profitable employment would be hurtful to the convict and disastrous to the finances of the state. Along this line, I beg to recommend that as soon as practicable a cotton and bagging factory be erected at Huntsville for the employment of the women and the decrepit white prisoners who are physically unable to produce a net revenue on the farms, in the machine shops or the iron industry."

The opening of coal mines thirty miles northwest of here and just opposite to the mines on the Texas side, as evidenced by the new railroad soon to be constructed from that point to La Jarita on the National, does not mean any reduction in the exports of the American mines to Mexico, for the reason that the demand has always been greater than the supply. THIRD TERM MOVEMENT

The friends and admirers of President Roosevelt in Chicago have proceeded to organize a Roosevelt Thirl Term National League, the object of which is clearly explained in the platform. The Telegram has been favored with the platform of the organization, from which we make the following ex-

We, the members of the Roosevelt Third Term National League, having at heart the great social and political problems now confronting the people, and in order that the rights of the masses be protected and that national harmony be preserved, deem it Imperative that Theodore Roosevelt be re-elected to the Presidency in 1908. We have come upon days in our social and political life, fermenting with distrust and requiring firm con-We view with alarm the evils already grown from the abuse of corporate power and see in these evils a fertile field for the demagogue, from which might readily spring a political and social revolution, and believe that nothing short of temperate and prayerful solicitude, on the part of the ple, will hold our political and social structure intact. To the people irrespective of party lines is due the credit that their President today is Theodore Roosevelt. A new era of real freedom and vitality in our institutions of government and politics was demanded, and they wisely saw in him a means to attain it. So valiantly and wholeheartedly has this man reflected the wishes of the people, that his personality has entered into and become a part of every department of our national life.

He has won the confidence of the people; and this fact alone, makes him the most potent factor in the solution of the present disturbing conditions. To eliminate this personality-which is to eliminate that confidence—at a time when the people, as a whole, are restive and trembling with apprehension, is to invite national disorder.

So closely woven is this bond between the President and the people, that he has become to them a public necessity, an essential part of things in the social and political fabric. Therefore, Theodore Roosevelt is not only the one logical candidate for nomination, but manifestly is the only logical President for the people. Already has it been demonstrated that the frightened and vengefui wealth controlling forces of the country, will resort to any means to defeat his nomination for a Presidential third term. We, therefore, must be on the alert and quick to action if we would save that which has already been accomplished by our illustrious President.

We are not unmindful of the fact that Theodore Roosevelt himself declared in 1904, that "under no circumstances would he be a candidate for. or, would he accept another nomina-

We challenge, however, his right to refuse to accept the Presidency of in the face of the people's demand, especially at a time when so many undertakings of the highest importance have been brought about and set in motion by him, and so subject them to the danger of an untried and unproved successor, to whom public confidence would be reluctantly extended, Manisfestly, the selection of its President rests with the people. The public, alone, is judge. No man may aay he will not accept. It is not the province of Theodore Roosevelt to say he will or will not be the Presisolely as a servant of the people, and when called by them, must come. We further hold, that in point of fact his re-election in 1908 would not constitute a third term. He has been elected to the Presidency but once. Inasmuch, however, as the issue has been so generally spoken of as a third term, the league has adopted the title. We, therefore, in the interest of public welfare, demand that Theodore Roosevelt be nominated for the Presidency and be re-elected in 1908, and to that end hereby pledge our sup-E. C. HAYKER, port. Secretary. EDWARD A. HORNER, President. The great central idea embodied in the platform of this league is that President Roosevelt has so stamped himself upon our nationality that he has become a national necessity, but this is untrue. This is not a oneman government and never will be. It is a common mistake made by individuals that their service is so essential in some particular line of business that it cannot be dispensed with. And when that period is reached in a man's career his days of usefulness are over. President Roosevelt has given the American people an honest administration of public affairs and has sought to institute many needed reforms, but it is foolish to urge that he is the only man who can properly serve the people. The people of these United States honor the President for his sturdy honesty and integrity, but they condemn him for the company he keeps. They concede the righteousness of the Presidential purpose, but they recognize the hampering influence of the party leaders that surround him. In order to reach the root of the evil, it is therefore necessary to strike down Theodore Roosevelt politically with the crowd that surrounds him and restore to the people the government that belongs to the people.

It is another case of Old Dog Tray. The people of the United States have tried President Roosevelt and the republican party, only to find disappointment thru his entire administration. They have learned that the only hope of this nation lies in the restoration of the democracy to power, and this will be done in the next national

FOR FEDERAL QUARANTINE

The members of the South Texas Medical Association have fallen in line with the recommendations of the American Medical Society and indorsed the plan by which it is sought to turn the matter of gulf port quarantine measures wholly over to federal supervision. The idea as it affects Texas provides for the use of such funds as have been appropriated for the maintenance of the port quarantine and incidentally the protection of the entire United States, to be diverted to a more direct and immediate use. In other words, these south Texas physicians have gone on record with the suggestion that the money spent by the state annually in maintaining quarantine service against yellow fever, should be used for the prevention and eradication of diseases indigenous to Texas and the matter of coping with Yellow Jack left wholly to the federal government. Following is the resolu-

Whereas, The national quarantine law provides for the immediate establishment of quarantine stations at all gulf ports, regardless of existing state

Whereas, The problem transcends a state duty, and being national, belongs to federal supervision; and, Whereas, One of the avowed policies of our American medical and the state medical associations, voicing the sentiment of the most intelligent men of our profession, was the confidence in the ability and experience of the United States public health and marine hospital service; and, Whereas, Were our state government to maintain an independent quarantine system side by side with these uniform quarantine stations, it would be a caamity in that it would work a double hardship on freight and passenger traffic. and which, in our opinion, is unwarranted and an unnecessary expense to our state when maintained simply as a check on one of the most efficient and thoroly equipped quarantine systems on the face of the globe; and, Whereas, Constant demands are being made by the profession, the press and the public for more consideration of internal health affairs, such as a state chemist, an inspection service for pure food and drugs, a prevention of pollution of water supply of our cities and proper care of our dependent consumptives, lepers, etc.; therefore be it Resolved, That the South Texas District Medical Association, believing that we, being most vitally interested by virtue of our being contiguous to the coast, and more emenable to yellow fever epidemics, heartily indorse the policies as outlined by the national quarantine law and urge our various committees on public health and legislation to take up this matter with their respective state senators and nembers of the legislature, and ad-monish them to use their vote and nfluence toward the consummation of the above ideas, i. e., a sale of state stations and equipment to the national government, whereby we will get the same, or better protection as at present afforded, without expense to our state government, and be it further Resolved, That our representatives e requested to provide for the establishment of a state board of health and allow the present annual appropriation for maintenance of the quarantine service to be used by the board for the purpose of safeguarding the public health by dealing intelligently with problems of more vital interest at this time than yellow fever epidemics. As the above resolution points out. state and federal quarantine stations will exist, side by side, if state stations are continued, and this is not deemed wise or necessary by physicians. The new state health officer. Dr. Brumby, arrived nome from Austin at noon, but his views in the matter could not be ascertained.

The intention of the south Texas physicians may be all right and there may be merit in the suggestion from a financial standpoint to turn gulf port quarantine matters over to the federal government, but the idea is extremely distasteful to all those who view with apprehension the disposition being manifested by the federal authorities to destroy state autonomy as nearly as possible and build up a republican oligarchy at Washington. As long as the people of the several states show a dent. He, who acts as President, acts | disposition to ignore their state governments and fly to the national government for relief from every real and fancied ill just so long will the advocates of a strong and centralized form of government feel encouraged to proceed with their designs.

Federal government and control should only begin where state government and control ends. And state government and control should apply to all things within the state.

In the great and glorious state of Texas we are not yet prepared to concede the inefficiency of state government and turn to the federal authorities to do the things we are amply able to do for ourselves.

It must be embarrassing to Senator Foraker to learn that the special agent sent to Brownsville by the President has succeeded in getting affidavits from more than twenty eye-ball witnesses who saw the negro soldiers scale the wall at Fort Brown and come to town and engage in their wanton dev-

Lauro Aguirre, editor of "La Reforma Social" of El Paso, is again a freeman. For thirty-eight days he was kept in jail without a hearing while Federal officials connected with the immigration department hunted high and low for evidence against him. Shea and Associates Claim Not Getting Square Deal

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Dec. 2) .- There is a remarkable trial going on in the criminal court before Judge Ball. So remarkable has it become that the defendants have called a meeting for tomorrow to decide whether they will put in any more evidence or go to the jury immediately after the argument of coun-

The case is that of the people against Cornelius P. Shea and twelve other teamsters who were indicted for conspiracy to injure the business of Montgomery, Ward & Company, and the trade of the entire city of Chicago. The reason given for refusing to put any more witnesses on the stand is that every question showing the innocence of the defendants is objected to by the state and sustained by the court. According to the defense the only testimony that has been admitted by the court is that showing the guilt of the men on trial. It is also contended that the defense has not been permitted to submit evidence showing that both the Garment Workers and Teamsters were locked out and did not bring on the costly strike. The rial since the beginning has been fruitful of many features that the defense charges are unusual. While the jury was being selected, it is stated the court ruled that a question asked of a juror by the state was proper. The same question asked by the defense was ruled out. When objection was made by the attorneys for the defense that the ruling was inconsistent the court said:

"I don't intend to be consistent in this case." The stenographer's notes of the trial show the remarkable number of objections made by the state and sustained by the court. On every page at least one and some times as high as three cases like this appear: "The state-I object." "The objection is sustained," to which ruling the court, defendants and each of them by their counsel duly excepted.

The attempt to prove that the Federation of Labor was responsible for the strike was ruled out. During the submission of testimony for the state It was shown that there was a meeting between the Teamsters' officials and representatives of the Employers' Association at the Wellington hotel April 9, 1905, and another at the Grand Pacific April 11. The defense sought to show that there was a meeting between the same parties April 12, but the court refused to let the evidence in. Evidence regarding the meeting of the Federation of Labor before and after the strike was ruled out. An attempt to deny the evidence given by Albert Young that Sheat attended certain meeting of the Federation of Labor met with the same reception. The conference to be held tomorrow is to decide whether the defense will

By ANNA KATH ARINE GREEN

His expression had altered. He looked now both anxious and absorbed particularly anxious and particularly aborbed; so much so that I was not surprised that no one ventured to approach him. Again I wondered and again I asked myself for whom or for what he was waiting. For Mr. Durand to leave this lady's presence? No, no, would not believe that. Mr. Durand could not be there still; yet some women make it difficult for a man o leave them and, realizing this, I could not forbear casting a parting glance behind me as, yielding to Mr. Fox's importunities, I turned toward the supposed Englishman in the act of lifting two cups of coffee from a small table standing near the reception room door. As his manner plainly betokened whither he was bound with this refreshment, I felt all my uneasiness vanish, and was able to take my seat at one of the small tables with which the supper-room was filled, and for a few minutes, at least, lend an ear to Mr. Fox's vapid compliments and trite opinions. Then my attention wandered. I had not moved nor had I shifted my gaze from the scene before me-the ordinary scene of a gay and wellfilled supper-room, yet I found myself looking, as if thru a mist I had not even seen develop, at something as strange, unusual and remote as any phantasm, yet distinct enough in its outlines for me to get a decided impression of a square of light surround. ing the figure of a man in a peculiar pose not easily imagined and not easily described. It all passed in an instant, and I sat staring at the window opposite me with the feeling of one who has just seen a vision. almost immediately I forgot the whole occurrence in my anxiety as to Mr. Durand's whereabouts. Certainly he was amusing himself very much elsewhere or he would have found an opportunity of joining me long before this. He was not even in sight, and I grew weary of the endless menu and the senseless chit-chat of my companion, and, finding him amenable to my whims, rose from my seat at table and made my way to a group of acquaintances standing just outside the supper-room door. As I listened to their greetings some impulse led me to cast another glance down the hall toward toward the alcove. A man-a waiter-was issuing from it in a rush Bad news was in his face, and as his eyes encountered those of Mr. Ramsdell, who was advancing hurriedly to meet him, he plunged down the steps with a cry which drew a crowd about the two in an instant.

What was it? What had happened? Mad with an anxiety I did not stop to define, I rushed toward this group now swaying from side to side in irrepressible excitement, when suddenly everything swam before me and I fell in a swoon to the floor.

Someone had shouted aloud: "Mrs. Fairbrother had been murdered and her diamonds stolen! Lock the doors!"

THE GLOVES

I must have remained insensible for many minutes, for when I returned to full consciousness the supper-room was empty and the two hundred guests I had left seated at table were gathered in agitated groups about the hall. This was what I first noted; not till afterward did I realize my own situation. I was lying on a couch in a remote corner of this same hall and beside me, but not looking at me, stood my lover, Mr. Durand. How he came to know my state and find me in the general disturbance I did not stop to inquire. It was enough for me at that moment to look up and see him so near. Indeed,, the relief was so great, the sense of his protection so comforting that I involuntarily stretched out by hand in gratitude toward him, but, failing to attract his attention, slipped to the floor and took my stand at his side. This roused him and he gave me a look which steadied me, in spite of the thrill of surprise with which I recognized his extreme pallor and a certain peculiar hesitation in his manner not at all

Meanwhile, some words uttered near us were slowly making their way into my benumbed brain. The waiter who had raised the first alarm was endeavoring to describe to an importunate group in advance of us what he had come upon in that murderous alcove "I was carrying a tray of ices," he was saying ,"and seeing the lady sitting there, went up. I had expected to find the place full of gentlemen but she was all alone, and did not move as I picked my way over her long train. The next moment I had dropped ices, tray and all. I had come face to face with her and seen that she was dead. She had been stabbed and robbed. There was no diamond on her breast, but there was blood."

natural to it.

A hubbub of disordered sentences with horrified cries followed this simple description. Then a general movement took place in the direction of the alcove, during which Mr. Durand stooped to my ear and whispered: "We must get out of this. You are not strong enough to stand such excitement. Don't you think we can escape by the window over there?" "What, without wraps and in such a snow-storm?" I protested.

uncle will be looking for me. He came with me, you know. "I must go," he began, but stopped at my glance of surprise and assumed a different air-one which became him very much better. "Pardon me, dear, will take you to your uncle. Thisthis dreadful tragedy, interrupting so gay a scene, has quite upset me. I was always sensitive to the sight, the smell, even to the very mention of the word blood." So was I, but not to the point of cowardice. But then I had not just come from an interview with the murdered woman. Her glances, her smiles, the lift of her eyebrows were not fresh memories to me. Some consideration was certainly due him for the shock he must be laboring under. Yet I did not know how to keep back the vital question

"Who did it? You must have heard some one say." "I have heard nothing," was his somewhat fierce rejoinder. Then, as made a move, "What! You do not wish to follow the crowd there?" "I wish to find my uncle, and he is in that crowd."

Mr. Durand said nothing further. and together we passed down the hall A strange mood pervaded my mind. Instead of wishing to fly a scene which under ordinary conditions would have filled me with utter repugnance. felt a desire to see and hear everything. Not from curiosity, such as moved most of the people about me, but because of some strong instinctive feeling I could not understand; as if it were my heart whih had been struck, and my fate which was trembling in the balance. We were consequently among the first to hear such further details as were allowed to circulate among the now well-nigh frenzied guests. No one knew the perpetrator of the deed nor did there appear to be any direct money back. That's fair. Tea or evidence calculated to fix his identity. Indeed, the sudden death of this beau- | tated. It was not for me to read that tiful woman in the midst of festivity mind, much as it interested me, and

So far, the casual search which had been instituted had failed to produce this weapon; but the police would be here soon and then something would be done. As to the means of entrance employed by the assassin, there seemed to be but one opinion. The alcove contained a window opening upon a small balcony By this he had doubtless entered and escaped. The long plush curtains which, during the early part of the evening, had remained looped back on either side of the asement, were found at the moment of the crime's discovery closely drawn together. Certainly a suspicious circumstance. However, the question was one easily settled. If anyone had approached by the balcony there would be marks in the snow to show it. Mr. Ramsdell had gone out to see. He would be coming back

"Do you think this a probable explanation of the crime?" I demanded of Mr. Durand at this juncture. "If remember rightly this window overlooks the carriage drive; it must, therefore, be within plain sight of the door through which some three hundred guests ave passed tonight. How could anyone climb to such a height. lift the window and step in without being seen?" "You forget the awning." He spoke quickly and with unexpected vivacity. "The awning runs up very near this window and quite shuts it off from the sight of arriving guests. The drivers of departing carriages could see it if they chanced to glance back. But their eyes are usually on their horses in such a crowd. The probabilities are against any of them having looked up." His brow had cleared; a weight seemed removed from his mind, "When I went into the alcove to see Mrs. Fairbrother, she was sitting in a chair near this window, looking out. I remember the effect of her splendor against the snow sifting down in a steady stream behind her. The pink velvet-the soft green of the curtains on either-her brilliants-and the snow for a background! Yes, the murderer came in that way. Her figure would be plain to anyone outside, and if she moved and the diamond shone-don't you see what a probable theory it is? There must be ways by which a desperate man might reach that balcony. believe--' How eager he was and with what

from Mr. Ramsdell for us all to go into the drawing-room. This led various cries from hysterical lips, such as "We are going to be searched! But quickly as I turned I could no guess from whom the comment came Possibly from a much-beflowered, be jeweled, elderly dame, whose eye were fixed on Mr. Durands averted If so, she received a defiant look from mine, which I do not believe she forgot in a hurry. Alas! it was not the only curious

I might say searching glance I surprised directed against him as we made our way to where I could see my uncle struggling to reach us from my short side hall. The whisper seemed to have gone about that Mr. Durand had been the last one to converse with Mrs. Fairbrother prior to the tragedy In time I had the satisfaction joining my uncle. He betrayed great relief at the sight of me, and, en couraged by his kindly smile, I introduced Mr. Durand. My conscious air must have produced its impression, for he turned a startled and inquiring look upon my companion, then took me resolutely on his own arm, saying: antness ahead for all of us. I do not think the police will allow any one go till that diamond has been looked for. This is a very serious matter, dear. So many think the murderer was one of the guests." "I think so, too," said I. But why I thought so or why I should say so

My uncle looked surprised "You had better not advance any opinions," he advised. "A lady like you should have none on a subject so grewsome. "I should prefer to have a peep at the people in the drawing-room first," was my perverse reply. "I don't know why I want to see them, but I do: and uncle, I might as well tell you now that I engaged myself to Mr. Durand this evening-the gentleman with me when you first came up."

"You have engaged yourself to-to this man-to marry him, do you mean? I nodded, with a sly look behind to see if Mr. Durand were near enough to hear. He was not, and I allowed my enthusiasm to escape in a few quick words.

"He has chosen me," I said, "the

"And I believe he loves me; at all events, I know that I love him." My uncle sighed, while giving me the most affectionate of glances. "It's a pity you should have come to this understanding tonight," said he. "He's an acquaintance of the murdered woman, and it is only right for you to know that we to leave him behind when you start for home. All who have been seen entering that alcove this evening will necessarily be detained here till the coroner arrives." "My uncle and I strolled toward the drawing-room and as we did so we passed the library. It held but one occupant, the Englishman. He was seated before a table, and his appearance was such as precluded any attempt at intrusion, even if one had been so disposed. There was a fixity in his gaze and a frown on his powerful forehead which bespoke a mind greatly agithe least desire to stop. I cannot say how much time elapsed "The police are here in full force.

I had nothing to do with the crime; not in the remotest way could I be said to be connected with it; why, then, had ! caught the attention of the police Looking about, I sought Mr. Durand He had left me on my uncle's coming up, but had remained, as I supposed within sight. But at this moment he was nowhere to be seen. Was I afraid on his account? Impossible; yet-Happily just then the word we passed about that the police had given orders that, with the exception of such as had been requested to remain answer questions, the guests generally should feel themselves at liberty stand and I informed my uncle, his evident chagrin, that I should not leave as long as any excuse could be found for staying. He said nothing at the time, but as the noise of departing carriages gradually lessened and the great hall and drawing-rooms began to wear a look desertion he at last ventured on this gentle protest:

"You have more pluck, Rita, than I supposed. Do you think it wise to stay here? Will not people imagine that you have been requested to do Look at those waiters hanging so? Look at those waiters hanging about in the different doorways. Run up and put on your wraps. Mr. Durand will come to the house fast enough as soon as he is released. I give you leave to sit up for him if you will; only let us leave this place-before that impertinent little man dares to come around again," he artfully added. But I stood firm, the somewhat moved by his final suggestion; and, being a small tyrant in my way, at least with him, I arried my point, Suddenly my anxiety became poignant. A party of men, among whom I saw Mr. Durand, appeared at the end of the hall, led by a very small but self-important personage whom my uncle immediately pointed out as the detective who had twice come to the door near which I stood. As this man looked up and saw me still there, a look of relief crossed his face, and, after a word or two with another stranger of seeming authority, he detached himself from the group he had ushered upon the scene, and, approaching me respectfully enough, said with whose frown he doubtless understood:

"Miss Van Arsdale, I believe?" I nodded, too choked to speak. "I am sorry, madam, if you were expecting to go. Inspector Dalzell has arrived and would like to speak to you. Will you step into one of these rooms? Not the library, but any other. He will come to you as quickly as he can." I tried to carry it off bravely and as I saw nothing in this summons which was unique or alarming. But I ucceeded only in dividing a wavering lance between him and the group of nen of which he had just formed a art. In the latter were several genlemen whom I had noticed in Mrs. airbrother's train early in the evenng and a few strangers, two of whom ere officials. Mr. Durand was with he former, and his expression did not courage me.

"The affair is very serious," comnented the detective on leaving me, "That's our excuse for any trouble we nay be putting you to. I clutched my uncle's arm "Where shall we go?" I asked. "The rawing room is too large. In this

WATCH PARTIES PLAN TO SEE THE OLD YEAR DIE

The old and time-honored custom of ringing out the old and ringing in the new year will be observed in Fort Worth Monday night. And in addition to this those who retire to their beds before the midnight hour may expect to be aroused by the firing of guns, the exploding of bombs and the shrill shriek of steam whistles that will be used in giving 1907 a welcome commensurate with what is ex-

Watch parties and watch meetings will also be held, the former to be of a social character and the latter of the religious order. Watch meeting is an institution of the Methodist church, as far back as the oldest living man can remember, and they will no doubt be held as long as the world stands. The services consist of short addresses, sacred song and prayer, the congregation kneeling just before the midnight hour and joining the preacher in prayer until the new year is lovers meet at the watch meetings in the past and have given their love affair a great deal more thought than they did the death of the old or the birth of the new year-in fact it was at a watch meeting on the last night some year that many of Fort Worth's old people fixed up their love affairs, and it was followed by a wedding; and sometimes the wedding took place before they went back to the Families also hold watch meetings and in Fort Worth tonight the custom will be observed. There will be old year parties of a social character too; and the old year will be danced out and the new year danced in. Old 1906 will be given a merry exit, and a kind dismissal (for he has been a good old fellow) and his successor 1907 will receive a cheerful "Howdy do." There will be a watch night observance under the auspires of the Cannon Avenue Presbyterian church, held at the residence of Rev. J. P. Wear, 405 West Magnolia avenue, tonight, and a good program has been arranged. At the Glenwood Methodist church there will be watch night service, commencing at 8 p. m., and a splendid ogram has been arranged, consisting of short talks, music, social features and refreshments.

The Christian Endeavorers will also observe the watch night custom, their program commencing at 8 p. m. These services will be at the First Congregational church, corner of Pennsylvania and College avenues. Following is the program: At 8 o'clock, reception of the members and friends of the church; open topic for the good of the cause: solos by Mrs. W. Z. Manchester, Misses Florence Drake and Carroll Rogers. 9:30 o'clock, sermon by Rev. William Caldwell of the First Presbyterian church. 10:15 b'clock, refreshments and good resolutions: solos by Miss Florence Wright, Mrs.

IN HONOR OF M'CABE

Memorial Service Held in St. Paul's

Church Sunday Morning A memorial service in which the speakers paid high tribute to the church work and personal worth of the late Bisnop C. C. McCabe, a former resident of this city, who lately died in New York City, was held at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning.

The principal speakers all of whom nad personal acquaintance with the bishop, were Rev. J. F. Boeye, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church; Dr. William Fielder, president of the Fort Worth University; George E. Nies and Frank Jensen. The latter two are laymen of the church and for years were warm personal and admiral friends of the late bishop. While praise came naturally in speaking of the work of that man the addresses were, in a way, biographical and tended to bring out succintly the vast amount of work Bishop Mc-Cabe had done for the advancement of the Methodist Episcopal church and especially of the phases of that work which had the southern field for its

FEDERAL SOLDIER DONATES TO FUND

Regular Meeting of Confederate Veterans

In the proceedings of the regular meeting of R. E. Lee Camp, United Confederate Veterans, Sunday there was one thing that touched a tender spot in the old soldiers, and that was the donation of a $5 bill from a man who fought on the other side during the great war between the states. The donor was Captain H. P. Shiel, and Sunday was not the first time he has been guilty of doing the same thingin fact, it is an annual failing of Captain Shiel to give this evidence that the war is over, so far as he is concerned, and that he honors men for their deeds, not for the color of their

The meeting of the camp was largely attended and interest was given to "Should a soldier who deserted his command during the war be admitted to membership in the camp?" The question was debated at some length by the camp members, some arguing against permitting deserters to become members while others took the opposite side, citing in support of their contention instances of soldiers deserting to go to the aid of their families who were in almost starving condition and had no one to appeal to for assistance. Desertion under such circumstances, it was urged, was no disgrace and should not bar a brave soldier from membership in a camp of soldiers. The matter was not finally passed on but action was deferred to

Following the routine opening the applications of J. M. Freeman, J. A. Richardson and E. Martin for membership were read and referred to the membership committee. R. L. Dean, whos application was reported on favorably by the membership committee, was elected to membership.

A letter from Mrs. Katie Cabel Currie of Dallas was read in which an invitation was extended to members of the camp to attend the birthday celebration of her father, General W. L. Cabel (Old Tige), at Dallas Jan. 1. Thanks were voted for the invitation and many members will attend. Rev. I. Z. T. Morris of the committee that is preparing a program and making arrangements for the General R. E. Lee celebration Jan. 19, reported that the committee was getting everything in shape. He said that all members of the camp would, under the arrangements, be expected to assemble at the court house at 11 a. m., Jan. 19, and march from there in a body the place where the exercises would be held, the place yet to be selected. On motion it was voted to extend to the Grand Army of the Republic camp an invitation to attend the R. E. Lee celebration. Historian C. C. Cummings moved that J. C. Scott be elected to membership in the camp. The matter was referred to the membership commit-A communication from Captain H. P. Shiel, a veteran of the Union army, the legislature, addressed the camp, voicing his thanks for support of the members in his political aspirations. and said he would further evidence his appreciation by standing up and contending for the old soldiers' rights in the state house at the state capitol. Little Miss Star Redford, the camp's mascot, recited a selection, after which the camp adjourned.

SHELTER FOR HORSES

Police Officers Want Sheds Built Near

the Station The recent bad weather has resulted in general discontent among the mounted officers of the police department who are now working in the hope that some provision will soon be made for the shelter of their horses. As the matter now stands there are no accommodations whatever and regardless of how inclement the weather may be, the mounted police while waiting at headquarters for calls are compelled to allow their horses to stand hitched near the station without snel-A suggestion has been made to utilize some of the room at the Central fire station, but to this the firemen seriously object, stating that there would not be room for more than two horses and that such an arrangement wherein the mounted police would be entering and leaving the building at all times of night would seriously interfere with the night's rest of the firemen. One suggestion is to use the space between the two departments on which sheds could be erected at small expense and as two of the horses now used by the mounted police are now ill from exposure, little time will be lost in bringing this matter to the attention of the city council.

Player Received Early Training Here

Lewis W. McAllister has been appointed as manager of the Buffalo Eastern League baseball team for the coming year and will have complete charge of the team during the season. McAllister is the oldest son of W. J. McAllister of this city and is well

His baseball career was first started in this city, playing on any available place in the city along with the other lads of his age. When the first Texas League was organized McAllister was one of the members of the Fort Worth team and his work early attracted attention and at the end of the first season was sold to the Cleveland National League team. He was a member of the Detroit team of the American League, the year that league was organized, playing thru the season as utility man, where he had no chance to show what he could do.

He then went to the Southern League and played with Shreveport for several seasons, later on he was transferred to Little Rock. On both these teams he was recognized as one of the principal men on the team. He went again into major league ranks as a utility man but preferred active work and was transferred to Buffalo, where he was immediately recognized as the premier catcher of

Mollie Straham Met Cowbov Lover Here

Mollie Straham of Ravia, I. T., has lisappeared. The theory of her friends who are familiar with the situation at home, and who were in Fort Worth Sunday, is that she left home Saturday in order to avoid matrimonial compli-

She is described as being 23 years f age, a blond, with hair unusually dark for one with a fair complexion, weighs 130 pounds and possesses many of the graces that make a woman She was to have been married Sunday to a man by the name of Powers who was especially selected to be her 'lord and master" by her solicitous parents. However, this selection no more suited Miss Straham than a hat the big brother might select for her. For the sake of peace in the family, Mollie promised to marry Powers, and the day was fixed for Sunday. Dec. 30, which was the day she would

But the man she really loved was one Luckett, who lived in the vicinity of Seymour, Texas. Luckett is a cowboy and it is said he saved very little of his small earnings. But this made little difference to his sweetheart. She preferred life in a dugout on the plains of Texas to the honor of presiding over a palatial home, as the wife of one she did not love, and when on Dec. 21 she received a letter from her cowboy lover, asking her to meet him in Fort Worth Saturday, she took advantage of the suggestion of her wenty-third birthday and skidooed. She arrived in Fort Worth Saturday afternoon and met Luckett at the Santa Fe station. When last seen they were together at a Chinese restaurant on Weatherford street, taking lunch. As no marriage license was issued in Fort Worth Saturday night or Sunday to such parties, the conclusion is that they went out on an evening train Saturday and procured the license at some other point. Special Police Officer Charley Howard who also runs the Texas and Pacific rooming house on West Front street stated to a Telegram reporter that Luckett had engaged a room from him late Saturday afternoon and stated that he was to meet his wife, who would arrive later in the day, but the room was never occupied. Luckett was seed by Howard about 7:30 at the union station, but said nothing of his intentions to leave town. Doubtless the benedict-to-be suspected that some of the bride-to-be's relatives would soon be on the scene, and decided that the safer plan would be to take her to some other place. MAY FORM POLO LEAGUE

Dallas Team Will Play Here Later in the Week The polo spirit is evidently on the increase, and the announcement that the Dallas team, headed by former Captain Stamper of Shreveport, will appear at the Fort Worth rink the atter part of the week, has placed the olo fans in a very expectant humor. Manager Laird announced Monday norning that return games will be played at Dallas by the local team, and it is quite probable that the project of forming a polo league will yet become a certainty. HOLD EXAMINATION

Will Increase List of Eligibles for the Railway Mail Service

List of eligible men for duty as substitute railway mail clerks in Texas is apparently recognized by the department as being large enough for needs at the present time. An examination for men desiring to be placed upon this list will be held in the states of Arkansas and Louisiana on Jan. 23 in order to fill up the eligible list for appointments as substitutes in those states. In case of a vacancy a man is usually selected from somewhere close to the district in which he lives.

Charley Grapewin

Greenwall's opera house tonight at 8:15 o'clock, is a character comedian who is said to shine particularly and his work in the name part of the new play, "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp," it is claimed, compares favorably with Mr. Mansfield's "Baron Chevrial," Jefferson's "Rip Van Winkle" or Denman Thompson's "Uncle Josh." A big feature of the production is said to be the specially selected society girls, all of whom will wear gowns of the latest fashions and of stunning patterns, a number of them imported. "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp" is in three acts and five scenes, all of which are carried by the company, and was written by George Totten Smith and Mr. Grapewin, and it is said to abound in numerous laugh-provoking situations and climaxes running thru a story of lively interest from beginning to end.

Harry Beresford Harry Beresford, the popular comedian, who is starring in "The Woman Hater," tells a story of a wealthy western merchant who sent his son to New York to study medicine at the Columbia School of Medicine. Harry Beresford at Greenwall's opera house

Tuesday matinee and night (New Year's), Jan. 1. "After the boy has been away from home for several months," said Mr. Beresford, "the old gentleman went to New York to see how the boy was getting along. Naturally the young man took a holiday and he and his father went out sight-seeing. Finally they came to a large colonnaded building and the father asked his son what

"He replied: 'Well, dad, I really don't know. You see I have so little time for sight-seeing.' "Just then a policeman came along and the old man asked him the same

"'That, sor, is the Columbia School of Medicine,' was the reply."

Louis James Building solely on legendary tale and simple ballad (those sure fundations for him who seeks to interest the public heart) that mighty literary achitect, Shakespeare, has raised in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" a temple of mirth, surrounding the adventures of Falstaff that will forever remain as a lasting monument to one of his happiest creations and moods, for while presenting as perfect a set of character studies as can be found in dramatic literature, he has also created a comedy that is one of the master efforts of his prolific brain. Sir John Falstaff, with all his swagger, questionable means of sustenance and consistency as to morals, is such a delightfully jovial fellow that despite his shortcomings, one is sure to fall in love with him. As the loquacious witty Knight of Windsor, Louis James is said to be at his best, for he imbues the character with all the unction and finesse for which he is so justly noted. "Mistress Quickly" is intrusted to the competent hands of Nelle Mc-Henry, who has been especially engaged. Master Ford will be played by Norman Hackett, who will be remembered for his excellent work with Mr. James last season. Aphie James and Charlotte Lambert will be the "Werry Wives," Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Lillian Lancaster, Sweet Anne Page: J. Arthur Young, Pistol; Nathan Aronson Mr. Page: William Chrystie Miller, Justice Shallow, and the other characters are said to be in as equally capable hands.

Louis James in "Merry Wives of Windsor" at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday and Thursday nights, matinee Thursday, Jan. 2 and 3.

At the Majestic The three Adonises as Fanny Hatfield and her company style themselves, one of the features of an attractive and entertaining bill at the Majestic theater this week, are introducing for the first time some new subjects in the art of posing. The pieces of noted sculptors in such precise and steady manner as to lead many to believe that marble figures and not humans are confronting them on the stage. Their idea of introducing cleverly executed dances in connection with poses is a revelation in this sort of entertainment.

Others on the bill are Bert Levy, cartoonist of the New York Morning Telegraph; Johnstone and Cooke in a screaming farce, Lizzie Wilson, German comedienne; Bissonette and Newman, the West Point Cadets, and Mile. Esmathelde, saxaphone and violin

NEW YORK STOCKS NEW YORK COTTON REMAIN INACTIVE MARKET WAS QUIET

No Immediate Relief in Financial Conditions Expected

Special to The Telegram.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31 .- The weakness in the stock market for the last few days was again reflected in today's market, notwithstanding some of the securities made slight advances. Trading was exceptionally dull and no important features developed. There seems to be nothing in the present situation to induce the buying of stocks by the corservative investors except on the reactions more or less marked from the levels now obtaining. The present stringency in money matters is a great drawback to an advance in values, a fact which seems to be admitted abroad as well as in New York and other American markets. The determination of the Bank of England to insist that Americans shall array their securities on this side rather than in London has been evidenced in the interest charges which are being paid by American securities over the present London settlement which are from 12 to 14 per cent, or nearly double the highest rate heretofore demanded. For obvious reasons American banks do not seem to care to make an issue which might threaten the financial securities of the world. Consequently, it seems that this side must take care of itself for the time being, and with the immense | January ... 9.22 9.36 9.21 payments being made from time to time, beginning with $10,000,000 on account of the St. Paul issue and covering some $54,000,000, which must be returned to the sub-treasury unless congress makes some provision for the deposit of surplus government funds or the new secretary of the treasury is inclined to follow Mr. Shaw's policy, it does not seem possible that easy money rates will obtain for some time. Thus, no material outside support can reasonably be looked for. However, there may be some quiet investment on the part of those who profit largely from dividend and interest payments due next month.

displayed considerable weakness thruout the session. Provisions opened lower, but recovered toward the middle of the session and maintained a steady tone thruout the day. Hog products were in active demand, and the sentiment was bullish. There was little trading, however, in either market. Both the grain and provision markets will be closed tomorrow. There was no new developments, and the trading was allowed to drag over the day's session. The receipts were some neavier, and a neavier movement is expected. The usual characteristics peculiar to the holidays made themselves felt thru the dullness both here and abroad, operations being confined within narrow bounds, while the buying power was sufficient to create steadiness, altho sentiment could hardly be deemed as at all bullish, except amongst a few large traders. A good sized decrease took place in stocks abroad, but Chicago elevators hold about 15,000,000 bushels, including 9,-300,000 bushels contract that is a heavy load, but apparently resting in strong hands, with no deliveries ahead until May 1. There are hints of millers entering the market as buyers early next year in the event of the flour trade enlivening, but otherwise will prove a bearish argument. There is very little of import in foreign advices just at present, a waiting attitude being assumed, while it can be said that anything partaking of bearishness does not seem to be seriously considered abroad. Our market displays rather a firm undertone all things considered, but whether the end will be justified by the means lays in the hands of the powers that be and there is a suspicion that they will proceed to demonstrate in the near future whether possibilities exist for an upward whirl in

Seaboard clearances are fairly liberal, altho 10,-000,000 bushels under last year, the eastern demand is slack and southern buvers are out of the market. The Price Current estimate on this year's crop showing 100,000,000 bushels less than 1905 was thought to hit the mark correctly, as well as a discrepancy of 28,000,000 bushels barley compared with the government fig-

Provisions New high levels were made on product, numerous dips being encountered, however, thru profit taking sales, altho the packers as well as local and outside operators were instrumental in forcing advances. Hogs are still running short of last year, while a small gain was made on the week's packing that still shows 725,000 head less than 1905. Lard stocks are small, but the cash demand is spasmodic and only moderate for meats. The claim is made that the packers can manufacture at a profit. There are indications that hogs will be more plentiful at about $6.00 to feeders, while stocks here Jan. 1 may show up larger than anticipated. Carrying

CHIEFS OF POLICE WILL MEET HERE

Will Work For Juvenile Court

The Association of Chiefs of Police and Marshals of Texas, which will meet in Fort Worth during the latter part of April or the first of May, wiil bring up for discussion the juvenile court bill.

Texas is deficient in the matter of proper institutions for the care of delinquent children, the only institution of the kind being the reform school at Gatesville where children under the age of eighteen are admitted only after having committed crimes or felonies valued at $50 or

The result is the police are helpless in such matters and hundreds of arrests are made each year of children who have committed petty crimes, and as they cannot be sent to Gatesville, the only alternative is to grant them their release.

The one remedy seems to be a juvenile industrial school where the vagrant youth may escape the damaging influence of the hardened oriminal and at the same time the early instinct or taste for crime may be overcome by daily application in the mastering of a trade or profession. The recent conference held in Fort Worth among leaders in such a movement served to arouse public interest and it remains to be seen whether the action on the part of the State Association of Chiefs of Police and Marshals will result in timely and proper Owing to the fact that the legislative body convenes at Austin Jan. and the association will not meet until several weeks later, a committee will be appointed whose duty it will be to at once bring the matter before the legislature in the hope that some definite action will be taken toward establishing the desired institution. Another proposition to be taken up by the association is the annual election of the president, which office is now held by Chief Maddox. The present incumbent has already been approached in the hope that he would again accept the honor but believing hat the presidency should be held by the city next entertaining the association, does not favor the repetition of

I can't explain the accident in any way. I can hear the groans of the dving ringing in my ears now " United States District Attorney D W. "I was in the car next to the smoker talking with a gentleman and his wife from Detroit, Mich. We were also standing up, the car being crowded. Suddenly we heard an awful-noise and then a crash. Women began screaming and the next thing I knew I found myself rolling down an embankment, where someone picked me up, and I found I was not badly hurt. It was impossible to describe the scene. Women and children were shrieking and drowned the groans of the dying. Children were running about crying for their parents and mothers and fathers would rush around trying to find their children. The dead and injured were strewn along the track for a distance

Special to The Telegram. BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 31.-The following dispatch was received at Baltimore headquarters from the chief clerk at Terra Cotta:

"Engine 2,120, deadhead equipment train, ran into the rear of No. 66, Fredrick local, leaving Frederick at 4 p. m., at Terra Cotta station about 6:39 p. m. It appears that the deadhead equipment train got a double green at Silver Springs, which indicated caution, and when Takoma was reached the target showed white. Takoma being a day office only, the operator tied up the signals for the night. The deadhead equipment train, running at about forty miles an hour, struck No. 66, which was discharging passengers at Terra Cotta.' Superintendent Fitzgerald says that
